Public Business—

Millikin's Case—

Wichita Falls residents face busy times for the next few weeks in the activities of a half dozen or so organizations designed for the public welfare, and working not for private gain but for general good. The Community Chest, the Red Cross, the proposed tubercular association, to say nothing of organizations with programs of an educational or inspirational nature, have just demands upon the public purse and the public attention. These things are vital to the normal functioning of municipal life, to successful operation of a city as a unit. They constitute a business to be attended to once each year, and should be dispatched as efficiently as possible.

Former residents of Kansas City who now make their home in Wichita Falls or Northwest Texas, will greet Marion Talley at her arrival in Wichita Falls, according her a "home town" reception in this far southwestern city. Marion Talley's career, her remarkable success as a singer, can be attributed to the work of her home community. She was "discovered" in Kansas City, given her opportunity for study and preparation by Kansas City residents, and she is now one of the most popular and noted artists because of the faith and confidence of her home town.

Arthur C. Howard, county tax assessor, wins the praise and appreciation of the state comptroller for his perfect report on the Wichita county tax roll. The document covered 800 pages and needed not a single correction. Wichita Falls is familiar with the efficiency and service of the office conducted by Mr. Howard, but it is good to have his work singled out by a state official as an example of public service.

A. V. Millikin, convicted of the slaying of a San Antonio woman, finally goes to the electric chair. Efforts of able and distinguished lawyers, and Millikin's own graphic story of the horrors of the death house failed to save him from his fate. There was a wide interest in this man's fight for life, and many probably would have been glad to see Governor Moody commute his sentence. Millikin's case aroused some sympathy because it was presented to the people of the state, not because it was so different from any other. Every murderer sentenced to death knows the horrors of the death house, and practically all of them confide their innocence or justification to the last. Not so many of them win the publicity accorded Millikin in his fight.

A. L. Darnell, professor of dairy husbandry at Texas A. & M., was a judge at the Texas-Oklahoma fair, and is well known to the farmers and livestock breeders of Northwest Texas. Prof. Darnell is an expert in his line, and now he will give the farmers of this section the high-lights of successful dairying in a series of newspaper articles. The A. & M. expert knows the farmer and his problems, and he would like to see dairying and diversification supplant the one-crop system in Texas. If you are interested in dairying, if there is a possibility that you may become interested, clip and preserve Prof. Darnell's lectures. He is making the newspaper column his class room. He can't make a farmer successful in dairying, but he can show him how others have been successful.

Wichita Falls building permits climb up to the $3,000,000 mark, a figure far short of last year's remarkable total, but one that is far from discouraging. A review of building activities for the year will show few office buildings, but many homes and small business places. A decrease in building activities does not mean a "slump" in this city at least. In Wichita Falls it shows that the town has been provided for the time being at least with its major buildings, and its citizens and business men are turning to home building. Home owners are workers and producers. They are permanent prosperous residents, and their number indicates far more accurately a city's condition than any group of figures compiled by the statisticians.

The organized negro charities of Wichita Falls bought no groceries for the members of their race during the month of October, and report that practically all were at work and not in need of help. This is a fine record, and a record that speaks well for those negro citizens who labor for the prosperity and progress of their race. In the north, it would be taken as a matter of course; in the south we can be proud of it as an indication of the advancement of the negro in his natural home.

GOMEZ REVOLT LEADER SLAIN BY FEDERALS

General Arnulfo Gomez Executed By Order Of Pres. Calles

REBELS SCATTERED

Troops to Stamp Out Every Survival Of Revolution

By Universal Service

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 5.—Federal troops have captured and executed Gen. Arnulfo Gomez, former candidate for president and rebel leader, it was announced today. Four officers, including General Almada, who were with Gomez when he was taken, also faced the firing squad.

The campaign that resulted in the capture of Gomez was the most spectacular in the recent history of Mexico. It continued night and day and came to a close last night when Gomez and his four officers and a few soldiers, all that remained of a thousand soldiers who revolted and marched out of Mexico City October 2, were cornered at Teocejo, in the state of Vera Cruz.

Executions Are Rapid.

Gomez and the responsible officers were given immediate court martial trial and condemned to death. The executions were carried out without delay. Private soldiers were held as prisoners and will escape the firing squad.

The capture of Gomez definitely brings to an end the campaign that was opened by the government immediately after the revolt on October 2.

The revolt was plotted by Francisco Serrano and Gomez. They were both candidates for the presidency, to succeed President Calles, and opposing Gen. Alvaro Obregon. They planned to take President Calles prisoner, execute him and take over the government, Serrano to be provisional president. Their plan failed when only a few of the federal troops of the Mexico City garrison joined the uprising. The loyal troops pursued the rebels within six hours.

Serrano Died First.

Serrano was captured, tried and executed in the field two days later. Gomez with some 800 men, succeeded in reaching the mountains of Vera Cruz. His forces met the government troops and gave battle. The Gomistas were cut to pieces, although his friends in Mexico City reported the federals had been defeated and that Gomez was moving on the rich Tampico oil fields with 10,000 men.

After his defeat Gomez, in disguise, hid in the mountains. Many times the federals had him surrounded but he always succeeded in escaping with a handful of men until last night when he was again surrounded at Teocejo. There was a sharp fight and Gomez was taken. Gomez had hoped to escape to the United States.

Isolated Bands Sought

Government troops will continue to move against isolated bands of bandits, it was said today. Since the Serrano-Gomez revolt the federals have been active and many bandit leaders who have been in the field since the days of Villa have been captured and executed and their followers killed or captured. Only two small bands are known to be operating and federal troops are in close pursuit.

With Gomez captured the entire state of Vera Cruz is reported free from bandits for the first time in years.

Dairy Farming Ideal System Of Agriculture

The Record News presents today article of a series to be written by A. L. Darnell, professor of dairy husbandry at Texas A. & M. college, covering the problems of the dairy industry. The Record News offers these authoritative articles in the interest of the development of dairying in Northwest Texas, and for the benefit of farmers who plan to enter the business. Professor Darnell is a well known authority on his subject, and is personally known to many in this section as a judge at the Texas-Oklahoma fair. Seven other articles, each treating of a phase of the dairy industry, will be presented each Sunday for the next seven weeks in The Record News.

"Professor A. L. Darnell of Texas A. & M. college is an expert in the dairy industry, and I feel sure his series of articles will prove a fine thing for those interested in the business. I hope our people will read and profit by the advice which Prof. Darnell is to give in his articles," J. A. Kemp, leader in Northwest Texas' dairy program.

The cotton farmers of the South this year have demonstrated in a way that they have awakened from the old lethargy of a one crop system of farming. Regardless of what we may say concerning the matter of over-production of cotton in 1926 and the conditions brought about by over-production, we saw to it that in 1927 there were a greater variety of crops grown, certainly in sufficient quantities to supply the home or family needs. Thus, the production of our greatest money crop; cotton, has been a blessing instead of a curse, as it proved to be in 1926.

It will certainly be a blessing if we organize ourselves to merchandize this commodity instead of dumping it on to the market, as we have been doing in past years.

One of the best ways or means of each and every farmer to avoid being placed in the position of having to market this principal money crop as soon as it is harvested, regardless of whether the price is good or bad, is to produce; first, a living for himself and family on the farm; second, have some cash commodity each month, and then devote the balance of his time to cotton production. In every section of these United States where the farmer has devoted almost his entire time to a one-crop system of farming he has made a failure. On the other hand, I defy anyone to point out an intelligent farmer who has practiced a well organized diversified system of farming that has made a failure. Of course the one-crop system of farming requires less intelligence and less effort, but there is far less return in the final analysis. Furthermore, there is no farmer practicing grain or cotton farming who can turn over to his son as good a farm as he himself started with in the beginning. In other words, the type of farm is constantly robbing the soil of its fertility. One may find

Attorney For Millikin in Last Fight For His Life Will Run For Governor

AUSTIN, Nov. 5. (AP)—William E. Hawkins of Breckenridge, one of the defense counsel whose frantic efforts failed to save A. V. Millikin from the electric chair early today, tonight announced his candidacy for governor of Texas in 1928. Mr. Hawkins has been associate justice of the state supreme court, state commissioner of insurance and banking, first assistant attorney general, and assistant Dallas county attorney.

He has severely criticized Governor Moody and the Caldwell county district court where Millikin was tried for sanity last week, after conviction of slaying Mrs. Virginia Petty of San Antonio, in an effort to escape electrocution, to which he was sentenced.

Moody was taken to task for his failure to grant additional clemency to Millikin; the court for its alleged procedure "without due process of law."

Judge Hawkins' statement given exlusively to the Associated Press:

"I am a candidate for the office of governor of the state of Texas. Many existing conditions are insufferable." Then he added: "A frank and progressive platform will be formulated and presented to the public as early as pressing engagements in the courts will permit."

WINTER NAP SPOILED

Bears Rudely Awakened From Long Slumber By Floods

By Universal Service.

NORTH WOODSTOCK, N. H., Nov. 5.—Six black bears that had dug in for the winter at Indianhead, were rudely awakened today when flood waters of the Pemigewasset river swamped their quarters and drove them scrambling for safety. Three of them are big fellows, the others cubs, and all are known to summer tourists who stop by the roadside to watch their pranks. The bears this afternoon were "somewhere" up Cannon mountain, having dragged their stakes along with them in their flight to high ground.

Italian Plane Flies Over 300 Miles Hour

ROME, Nov. 5. (AP)—Major Marino de Barnardi, Italian flying ace, attained a speed of more than 300 miles an hour in his hydro-airplane test on the Venice-Lido course yesterday, smashing all existing records for speed in the test, the Royal Aero club of Italy stated today.

SECOND SNOW IN MONTANA

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 5. (AP)—Helena early today was in the grip of the second snow storm of the year with indications of a prolonged downfall. Snow storms of varying intensity are reported from the greater part of the state.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MILLIKIN AT HOUSTON

HOUSTON, Nov. 5. (AP) — The body of Avery V. Millikin was buried here Saturday afternoon in the consecrated ground of Holy Cross cemetery while two priests chanted prayers for the soul of the slayer of Mrs. Virginia Petty.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ginn, counsel and adviser to Millikin in his dramatic but fruitless battle to escape the electric hair, only a sattered group of persons attended.

Father Hugh Finnegan and Father J. A. Collins, who baptised Millikin in the death cell only 24 hours before he marched to his doom Saturday morning officiated. There were no eulogies.

His burial in Houston was Millikin's tribute to the only friends he has known in the last months of his life, Mr. and Mrs. Ginn and Father Finnegan and Father Collins. His last request was that he be buried here because these friends all came from Houston.

Millikin's body was brought from Huntsville early Saturday and was placed in a mortuary chapel. More than a hundred curious persons viewed the body.

Board of Control Members May Face Charges in Test of Labor Law Here

Attorney General Claude V. Pollard is expected to rule early this week that members of the state board of control must be made co-defendants in cases where superintendents of state institutions are charged with violation of the "9-54" hour labor law for women. This statement was made to The Record News by Dr. C. W. Castner, superintendent of the Wichita Falls State hospital after two complaints charging him with violation of the law had been filed, Saturday.

The ruling is expected to be based on the fact that the schedule of pay and labor of employes are fixed by the board and the superintendents are merely acting as agents. The law, passed in 1915, provides that no female shall be required to work more than nine hours in one day or more than 54 hours in one week. Infraction of the law is punishable by fine.

Dr. Castner pointed out that the board is placed in an embarrassing position by lack of funds. They must either violate the labor law or not give patients sufficient attention.

The two cases here were filed by George McKemy, labor commissioner, after an investigation by himself and C. H. Huffacre, deputy. One charges a female employe was forced to work more than nine hours in a day and the other that a female was worked 88 hours in one week.

Tomb of Pyramid's Builder Located

By Universal Service

CARIO, Nov. 5.—What is believed to be the funeral panoply of King Zoser, famous pharaoh of the Ferred dynasty, has been discovered by archaelogical excavators working under the direction of the Egyptian department of antiques at Sakkara.

Verification of the finding is being delayed owing to the caving in of a side of the tomb shaft where the excavators are working.

ANCIENT BONES FOUND IN BOG

Trace of Life 10,000 Years Ago Discovered

NEW YORK, Nov. 5. (AP)—Discovery of the bones of a large herd of mammoths that had "bogged down" in a salt creek in the desert wastes near the Carlsbad cavern of New Mexico more than 10,000 years ago was related today in a dispatch to the New York Times from Carl B. Livingston, assistant to Willis T. Lee of the National Geographic society.

The society's explorers, Livingston said, had suspected that mammoths had once lived in the desert waste 35 miles southeast of the Carlsbad cavern because ivory beads had been found among the relics of cavemen who buried their dead in cave tombs in the Guadalupe mountains overlooking the region.

Picking up a mammoth tooth at the mouth of a small creek the party proceeded along the windings of the stream and found fragments of a massive jawbone.

"Reaching some water holes which turned out to be briny," the dispatch said, "we saw tusks and many huge bones, exposed by torrents that had cut through the gravel bars and clay banks. Apparently a herd of 25 or 30 mammoths had died in this one spot."

Evidently all these animals during ages past had been lured there by the tempting appearance of good water, Mr. Livingston continued. "It is equally easy to surmise how they met their deaths. We were walking along over what seemed a dry crust in the stream bed—when suddenly down we went, hip deep in quicksand and soft clay.

Latimer Takes Command Philadelphia Navy Yard

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5. (AP)—Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, detached from the command of the fourth naval district and ordered to report to the secretary of the navy at Washington as a result of the recent controversy over his magazine articles concerning economy in the navy, turned over his command this afternoon to Rear Admiral Julian L. Latimer. Admiral Magruder left for Washington, but probably will not report to Secretary Wilbur before Monday or Tuesday.

President of Alabama Poly Quits His Desk

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 5. (AP) Dr. Spright Dowell, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, today tendered his resignation to the board of trustees in session at the state capitol. He requested that the resignation become effective at the pleasure of the board. Various charges resulting from dissatisfaction among students were under investigation by the board.

BURK IS SCENE OF FESTIVITIES OVER BRIDGE

Governor Henry Johnston Of Oklahoma Gives Chief Address

TEXANS SPEAK, TOO

County, State Officials Take Part In Gala Occasion

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Nov. 5. (Sp.)—Friendly handclasps of Oklahoma and Texas here today marked a new era in the crossing of the line between the states here Saturday. The exhibition came in the opening of the Burkburnett free bridge. No longer is there any charge for the citizen of Texas to visit his neighbor in Oklahoma for the old toll bridge is supplanted by a modern structure of concrete and steel and there is no charge to cross it.

While men high in the official life of both states were paying tribute to this progress evidence was on hand everywhere that like the old wooden toll bridge the west of an earlier period is not yet far removed from the modern west. Gathered in the crowd that fairly swelled this little city to bursting could be seen the modern dress of today and the long sweeping garments of yesterday, the cow pony trotting beside an eight cylinder piece of mechanical perfection.

A Parade of Old and New

The parade that opened the day's ceremonies also stressed that the two eras were intermingled. The very name of the town is that of one of the greatest of the old cattle barons. Automobiles and cowboys were in the parade. On the reviewing platform were men like J. A. Kemp of Wichita Falls, J. D. Hardin and S. P. Hawkins of Burkburnett who have seen this passing of time and O. H. Hooper of Randlett, Okla., who has been there ever since the country was opened.

All had their faces to the future and while speakers referred to the past they, like their hearers, were talking about the brightness of the future and how the new bridge would bring about closer relations.

Governor Johnston Speaks

Governor Henry S. Johnston extended the greeting and friendliness of Oklahoma while Cone Johnston, that veteran war horse of Texas politics, represented the youthful Dan Moody who was unable to attend. The state highway engineers of both states were on the platform as was A. R. Losh, federal engineer for the southwestern district.

The parade was led by color bearers of ex-service men. Old Glory was in the center and slightly to the front while to the right was the Lone Star of Texas and to the left the picturesque flag of Oklahoma. Behind came the interstate band composed of boys and girls of Grandfield and Walters, Okla., and Burkburnett. As the youths approached the reviewing stand Director E. L. Nichols gave his baton a flourish and they struck into "Hail, Hail, The Gang's All Here." Indeed they seemed to be for there were some 3,000 grouped about the stand.

No sooner had the parade passed than Charles I. Francis of Wichita Falls called the gathering to order. C. E. McCutchen, president of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, was unable to be present and Mr. Francis took his place.

Kincaid Welcomes Folk

Mayor G. R. Kincaid of Burkburnett, welcomed the visitors and also gave credit to Walters, Lawton, Grandfield, Randlett and other Oklahoma towns for the aid they had given in the celebration.

Mr. Francis then introduced Judge W. R. Ely of Abilene, chairman of the Texas highway commission and Texas Highway En-

FLIER DIES IN FREE BALLOON

Try For Altitude Record Costs Man's Life

SPARTA, Tenn., Nov. 5. (AP)—A severed tube, apparently cut accidentally by a knife in his own hands, stopping the flow of life-sustaining oxygen, was believed tonight to explain the death above the clouds yesterday of Captain Hawthorne C. Gray, army aeronaut, after he ascended to an unofficial world's altitude record for free balloons.

Gray's log, taken from the basket of his wrecked balloon after its recovery, together with the aeronaut's body, six miles from here today, related that at 3:15 Friday, the balloon ascended to 40,000 feet. That was the final entry. What happened afterward can only be constructed from mute evidence found in the wrecked basket.

With the goal of his flight from Scott field, at Belleville, Ill., attained, Gray apparently sought to go even higher. Examination of his body and the basket indicate that he took his sheathe knife, possibly to cut away superfluous equipment to rise higher. The severed oxygen tube, presumably cut by a knife, closes the story.

Local officials and aviators who examined the balloon's barograph and instruments, said they indicated that Gray finally reached an altitude of 43,000 feet, several thousand feet above the present official mark. The instruments will be forwarded to Washington for calibration.

SCORES KILLED AS DAMS FAIL UNDER STRESS

Stockbridge, Vt., Wiped Out by Surge Of Flood Water

COLD ADDS MISERY

Danger From Shortage Of Food and Fuel Cited In Reports

MONTPELIER, Vt. Nov. 5. (AP) A total of 61 dead in the Winooski river valley between Montpelier and Burlington as a result of flood was revealed in a checkup of the towns between the two cities tonight.

The greatest loss of life was reported in Waterbury where there are 26 bodies in the morgue. In Bolton, the next town, 25 are reported dead. In Richmond, six bodies have been recovered with four other dead reported. Middlesex and Jonesville reported no fatalities but a large property damage.

BOSTON, Nov. 5. (AP)—Cold and hunger stalked the hills of New England tonight in the wake of the most disastrous floods of this section's history.

Substantial reduction in the apparent loss of life furnished the one bright spot in late reports today. Apprehension over the fate of Montpelier, capital of Vermont, was removed with the establishment of direct communication.

Although 30 square miles in and near the city had been completely inundated, only one known death had resulted.

Many Dams Break

Crashing through power dams, reservoirs, and all other man-made obstacles, scores of ordinarily peaceful mountain streams now are raging toward the valley towns, bearing with them debris of mill and store and cottage.

The crest of the flood and the crisis in the cases of scores of towns will not be reached before tomorrow noon, but already there has been recorded a toll of two score and more known dead and a property loss which will run into millions.

Shortage of food and medical supplies to meet the grave conditions left by the rushing waters is the immediate problem of the most stricken districts.

The exact number was impossible to ascertain because of interrupted communications.

State Official Dies

That seven persons, including Lieut. Governor S. Hollister Jackson, had lost their lives in Barre, Vt., was definitely learned this afternoon through a radio message from the Barre Times to The Associated Press, which was picked

Former Kansas City Residents To Welcome Marion Talley Here

If "atmosphere" — particularly "homey" atmosphere—has a tendency to encourage art, science or just plain everyday labor, Marion Talley should rise to glorious heights when she faces an audience in the new city auditorium here the night of November 25, it was announced Saturday by Mrs. G. B. Smedley for the Womans Forum.

If encouragement of home town folk counts for anything, Miss Talley will be well reinforced, for numbered among the hearers of America's "Western Nightingale" will be a large group of former residents of Kansas City, residence of Miss Talley and where she first gained recognition.

It is also planned to have a majority of those from Kansas City who will attend the concert meet Miss Talley upon her arrival here and escort her from the depot to her hotel.

Former residents of Kansas City now residing in Wichita Falls and wishing to take part in the reception may call Mrs. H. L. Mathes at the Kemp hotel, telephone 4331, it was announced.

RED CROSS WORK GROWS

Great Record Made In Flood Relief

Peacetime work of the American Red Cross is becoming almost as heavy as that of times of strife, the annual report issued Saturday shows. Part of this work is caused from the war as there are 25,000 disabled veterans in the service hospitals that this organization is still looking after. Funds for this work are gathered through the roll call every year. This roll call will begin Armistice day and end Thanksgiving day. Other peacetime work of the organization is the handling of relief where great disasters occur.

The work for the soldiers ranges from entertainments to the more personal work of getting close to the veteran and obtaining his history. Trained medical social workers do a part of this task. Their work is said to be indispensable by the army and navy physicians. Often these workers turn to the local Red Cross chapters to assist them in this research work. Such history is absolutely needed for proper treatment of some of these cases.

Those who were in the service know something of the work done by the Red Cross along the line of entertainment. Last year some 26,000 programs were given to lighten the burdens of these war patients, some of whom will never leave the hospitals until death.

Work in great disasters was shown in the Mississippi valley flood. More than half a million people were cared for at this time. The work extended over eight states and ranged from providing food and shelter to refugees to the replanting of their lands after the water had receded. It will be remembered that the Red Cross was the first organization asked for aid by Secretary Herbert Hoover when President Coolidge put him in charge of relief work.

The Red Cross vaccinated against Yellow fever, used millions of grains of quinine to ward off malaria, in fact there was more preventative medicine practiced than anything else. The relief was of a practical nature throughout.

In addition to election of officers, the club will plan its program of activities for 1928, he said.

Plans Completed for Tuberculosis Clinic and Conference Nov. 10

"When residents of Wichita Falls and this county sit down to their Christmas dinners this year, they will include at least fifty people who would otherwise be dead from tuberculosis if the 1904 death rate from that disease had prevailed here today," according to a statement made Saturday by Dr. F. R. Collard of this city. This statement was made in connection with the arrangements for the clinic and organization meeting to be held Thursday, Nov. 10 in the court house.

The tuberculosis clinic will be conducted under the auspices of the Texas Public Health association and the Wichita county medical society and will be in charge of Dr. John Potts of Fort Worth and Mrs. Zula Powell, R. N., secretary of the Tarrant county Tuberculosis society. The clinic will be held in the basement of the court house between the hours of 9:30 a. m. and 5:30 p. m. and all patients are urged to attend and avail themselves of the opportunity of an examination at the hands of Dr. Potts, who is one of the most eminent diagnosticians in Texas and an authority on tuberculosis and pulmonary diseases. All doctors and others interested are cordially invited to attend the clinic.

In the evening Dr. Potts will deliver a lecture of particular interest to patients suffering from tuberculosis, social and public health workers, and the medical profession of Wichita county.

Following Dr. Potts' address, steps will be taken to organize the Wichita County Tuberculosis association in order to provide effective machinery for the waging of a vigorous and intensive campaign against tuberculosis.

Floods Deluge Vermont Towns

up by an amateur in New Bedford, Mass. Later word was received that 13 others were believed dead. The lieutenant governor fell into a pool in Potash brook while trying to reach his home yesterday and was drowned. His body was recovered yesterday afternoon. The message said the city of Barre had been damaged to the extent of $2,000,000.

A report reached Burlington late that a large dam at Pittsford, Vt., had gone out and the city of Rutland was "panic stricken" as a result.

The only message to get through the feeble wires from St. Albans, Vt., today to The Associated Press said that the St. Albans Messenger was trying to verify reports of "big loss of life" in the Missisquoi valley in northern Vermont.

Village Wiped Out

To the deaths previously reported there were added today two at Newport, Vt., and one each in Rutland, Vt., Westfield, Mass., Hadley, Mass., Pemaquid Point, Me., and Berlin, N. H.

It was learned that the village of Gaysville and the town of Stockbridge, Windsor county, Vermont, had been virtually wiped out by the flood waters of the White River. A messenger tramped over the mountains to Burlington to report that because of the floods the town of Waterbury was in need of food.

Snow and zero temperature is adding to the suffering of the homeless thousands who are huddled into temporary shelters on hilltops. Relief trains, organized and ready to hurry aid to the stricken sections of western Massachusetts and Vermont, are unable to make their way over the railroad tracks which are either waterlogged or washed out entirely.

Starvation Feared.

If relief is not rushed to the devastated areas, persons in the flooded districts will face starvation and exposure, it is feared.

The entire village of Becket, in western Massachusetts, was obliterated in the maw of the flood when a huge dam burst and poured millions of gallons of water over the village. Warned by a fellow townsman who drove five miles at a break-neck speed, the villagers escaped to the hills. Due to this automobilists' heroism only a minimum of lives are believed to have been lost in what was once the town of Becket.

Refugees Are Frantic

In Rutland, Vermont, hundreds of frantic men and women were seen from an airplane as they piled stones against the Chittenden dam above the city. This reservoir is so huge the waters behind it would engulf half of western Massachusetts. Up to a late hour today, no further news came from Rutland as the city found itself entirely cut off from the outside world.

Eastman Falls dam, which supplies the city of Concord and the Boston and Maine railroad car shops with power, was ready to crack today with the pressure of water against it.

In the north end of Springfield, Mass., thousands of residents took to their heels as the dike crashed and threatened the city.

From Manchester, N. H., word came of a Red Cross relief unit which was about to brave the flood and take food and clothing to the hundreds of refugees in the flood-stricken districts. The Red Cross was prepared to take boats to reach their destination. Rail and highway travel is impossible.

New tales of suffering and destruction of property come from the valleys bordering the Connecticut, Merrimac and Pemigwassett rivers.

River Rising Fast

Rising at the rate of four inches an hour, the Connecticut river near Middletown, Conn., reached a dangerously high level at noon. The New York and Hartford transportation company employed gangs of men to move equipment from the lower to upper landing levels. Water at that time was only five feet from the lower level, and gaining momentarily in force.

Enormous damage was done in towns outside the flooded areas by water backing up in the sewer drains.

COOLIDGE ORDERS FLEET OF PLANES TO VERMONT

By Universal Service

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—President Coolidge today ordered a fleet of airplanes sent to ascertain the extent of flood havoc wrought in the Vermont hills which he roamed as a boy and in the Massachusetts valleys where he lived in later life.

The president was visibly affected by the reports of life and property destruction in the valleys of the Connecticut and Merrimac rivers.

He sought throughout the morning to have direct telephone connection established between the White House and some of his old friends in his native Vermont, who could report exactly the scope of the floods. But the efforts were unsatisfactory. The northern wires had been torn down by the heavy storms.

Attorney-General Sargent was also attempting without success to receive information from his native town of Ludlow, where the people were reported to be abandoning their homes and taking to the hills as the flood swept through the valley.

Ludlow is about 12 miles down the mountainside from the president's old home in Plymouth, Vermont. Cilley's store, in which the president was born, and his home across the street, which the president acquired upon the death of his father, were believed to be situated so high among the mountains that they would be reasonably safe.

Credence was given at the White House to the reports that Ludlow was possibly inundated. The Black river, passing the Coolidge home, pours into Echo lake and there gains great volume for its western flow toward Ludlow.

Reports received at the White House told of loss of life in the president's home town of Northampton, Mass., where he maintains legal residence at the $32-a-month-tenement which he occupied when elected vice president. The home is presided overb by Mrs. Coolidge's mother.

Orders to dispatch the fleet of airplanes to ascertain the damage were given by President Coolidge to Secretary of War Davis.

Don't Ignore Acid Scalp!

We have all been too close to people whose hair had a noticeable odor. It is due to an acidity that soap and water are powerless to prevent. You may not have acid scalp. Or you may have it and not know it. But dandruff should make you suspicious, and hair that "strings" is a sure sign.

When hair has a dull, "dead" look after curling—and the wave is all out a few hours after use of the iron—it is time to use Danderine. Just a few drops of this highly scientific preparation will check acidity, and give your hair such lovely softness that dressing it will be a delight. It will arrange easily, and stay as you arrange it. Every particle of scale will be dissolved. It makes an amazing difference. And for only thirty-five cents, your druggist will give you a bottle of Danderine that will last for weeks!—Adv.

Little Sweethearts are the Rage now

All ideas of beauty, style and fitness call for slender figures now. All who seek to please, in movies or society, must banish excess fat.

Note how many do that. In every circle you can see that most folks now are slender. Fat is the exception.

One great reason is Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. They have told the results to others. The slender figures now seen everywhere are largely due to that.

No abnormal exercise or diet is required, though moderation helps. The results of Marmola come through supplying a substance which Nature employs in nutrition. Its purpose is to turn food into fuel and energy, rather than into fat. The use is based on wide research and experiment.

Every box of Marmola contains the formula, also the reasons for results. This to let you know just why it acts and avoid any fear of harm.

Marmola has for two decades held top place in this field. Go learn the reason. Watch what it does for beauty, health and vitality! Then tell your friends who need it. No one can afford to be abnormal when reduction is so easy. Order now—before you forget it.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

CLOUDS USED TO ADVERTISE

Giant Ray Casts Sign On Cumulus Banks

By Universal Service

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—A merry little row, with possible lawsuits, is developing in Times Square over the use of a gigantic electric advertisement flashed by the Capitol theater on neighboring buildings.

The principle is the same as an old-fashioned magic lantern but this device is of four billion candle power, more or less, and casts letters 150 feet high which can be read at a distance of two miles.

The main point of dispute is whether the Capitol theater is guilty of trespass when it throws its big sign "Go to the Capitol" on the broadsides of its 40-story rival, the Paramount building, and other tall edifices in the district.

This question will probably be thrashed out in the courts later on.

Clouds For Screen

In the meantime the Paramount management is waiting to see what effect the new advertisements will have. Some of the officials of the Paramount-Famous Players-Lasky corporation, which owns the building and the theater inside, think that their show might be benefitted. They are waiting to see.

This was the third night that the big light has played around the theatrical district. And it was the first night that it could be used as originally intended—to throw advertisements on the clouds of the sky.

Harry M. Atkins, general manager of the Star Projector company, which controls the device said today that no complaints had been received because the advertisement had been thrown on other buildings. He added that nobody knew whether the practice constitutes a trespass or not and said it would be continued until he learned that he had no right to do it. He admitted, however, that he thought advertising the Capitol on the Paramount buildings is "Getting a little gay."

Inventors in Row

The machine was invented by H. Grindell-Matthews, a British scientist and engineer, who is president of the corporation. Because of internal troubles the management is vested in Atkins, and the inventor says he is powerless to keep advertisements off rival buildings although he disapproves of it.

He called the practice a plain breach of property rights and added that it is also dangerous because it might injure the eyes of persons who look directly into the rays.

"I am afraid they are going to load the company up with damage suits," he said. "Of course they have no right to use the Paramount or any other building as a billboard without the permission of the owner.

"There is only one billboard for the projection of these advertisements and that is the sky."

Death Ray Inventor

Grindell-Matthews is the inventor of the "death ray" which has killed small life and may be developed, he says, until it can paralyze whole armies and make war bloodless.

The invention is an outgrowth of the war. The inventor first used his searchlight to blind the crews of zeppelins over London.

"It is my intention not only to use the sky for advertisements, but for news," he said. "If conditions are right you have the whole sky for your bulletin board on election night."

VALLEY FARM BUILDINGS UP

State Experiment Station Installs Improvements

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Nov. 5. — Three new buildings have just been completed at the Wichita Valley State Experiment Farm; a four room office building fitted with a sink for laboratory experiments, a large implement house that can also be used as a gathering place for farmer's meetings, and an immense barn to replace the one that was destroyed by fire. These with the modern equipment that is now available will enable the farm to carry on its work in a satisfactory way.

The farm is ideally situated in the valley of the Wichita river, two miles south of Iowa Park, with a gravel road leading from town to the farm. A handsome cottage for the family of the superintendent, E. J. Wilson, and several cottages for the employes, are grouped near the entrance to the grounds.

Water For Irrigation

Water is supplied for irrigation purposes from a large ground storage reservoir. The reservoir is necessary so that water may be available at any time for the use of the smaller plants. Trees have been set out around the reservoir, serving two purposes, to beautify the grounds, and also to test the different kinds of trees as to their resistance to the root rot, the bane of the farmer.

Another interesting experiment that is being tried out on the farm is the effort to raise tobacco with a high nicotine content, for the purpose of making tobacco dust and solutions to kill insects and fungus diseases. At present the refuse from tobacco factories is being used for such dust solutions, but it may be possible to produce a tobacco with a high nicotine content which may be used for such a purpose. Samples of the tobacco have recently been sent to Louisville, Ky., for a nicotine test. Eleven varieties of tobacco were grown on the farm this year. The common varieties of tobacco did make as good a yield as the Rustica, a wild strain.

Fight Root Rot

The experiment of most importance that is now being carried on at the farm is the fight against root rot. This disease, which is spread from Texas to California, skipping some valleys on its way, is known to attack 189 plants, trees, shrubs, and other ornamentals. Grasses, which include the varieties of canes, are immune. The cause of the disease is not known, and efforts are being made all over the state to find some way of combating the disease. P. J. Lusk is in charge of the root rot work, and he is using a variety of experiments to find a cure. Plants are flooded to find out if a surplus of water will have any effect. Other crops are being raised on the cotton land to try the effect of rotation of crops, and other tests are being made. The most painstaking efforts are being used in the tests. The ground is platted, and maps made showing the location of the diseased plants. It will be two or three years before the results of the experiments will be known.

Fertilizer For Cotton

A fertilizer test is being made on cotton to determine if various fertilizers have any effect on the length, and strength of the fiber and spinning value of various lints. Nitrogen grows the plants high, potash gives strength and firmness, and phosphoris acid gives plasticity. These three are the most important fertilizers used, though others are being tried out. The cotton will be sent away soon to be tested for the results of the various fertilizers.

The farm is not able to keep up with the horticultural and dairying needs of the valley because not enough help is available. Another man is needed to take care of this work.

The farm is getting lined up for fruit work however. A variety orchard, containing practically every fruit tree known in the north temperate zone of North America is being grown. The cherries have not done well, and some of the apple trees have been lost from root rot.

Visitors Invited

The superintendent, Mr. Wilson, is always glad to explain the work of the farm to his visitors, and he is very cordially co-operating with the public schools at every opportunity.

CROWELL HOST TO VERNONITES

Good Will Banquet Held At Foard Capital

By Universal Service

CROWELL, Nov. 5.—Over 100 citizens of Vernon made a trip of 36 miles to Crowell Thursday night where a good-will and get-acquainted banquet with 253 present was held. The meeting was one of the most interesting and unique ever held in this section and was chiefly an entertaining affair with Vernon furnishing half of the program and Crowell the other half. It was held in the basement of the Baptist church and was furnished by the Baptist ladies.

T. N. Bell, banker of Crowell, welcomed the visitors and Leon Brown responded. Both mentioned the mutual interests of the two sections and the accomplishments that would result through co-operation of the two cities. Enthusiasm was also expressed over the concrete road that will soon link Crowell and Vernon on the Lee highway.

Miss Mildred Nicholson of Crowell read a poem prepared by a Crowell citizen for event and was followed with numbers by a quartette composed of Duke Wallace, E. A. Dunnigan, T. T. Golightly and Rob Cooper, all of Crowell. Miss Madeline Mercer of Vernon gave two readings that were enthusiastically received. Rev. W. J. Mayhew, Methodist pastor of Crowell, was next on the program and gave a very interesting humorous address. The Vernon band played a number of selections and Mrs. I. T. Graves of Crowell gave two excellent readings and was followed by E. J. Jones of Vernon who gave a vocal solo and responded to an encore. Grady Halbert, youthful orator of Crowell, gave his speech, "My Home Town," and made a great hit with the crowd. Grady Shipp, secretary of the Vernon Chamber of Commerce, made a short talk thanking the Crowell people for their splendid turn-out and stated that Vernon was anxious to become better acquainted with its neighbors and expressed the friendship of that city for Crowell. George D. Self of Crowell presided as toastmaster and ran the meeting in a very interesting manner.

Mother!

Child Gets Sick, Cross, Feverish if Constipated

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Fig Syrup" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious, "fruity laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside cleansing." Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," then see that it is made by "The California Fig Syrup Company."—Adv.

Darkens Hair So Naturally No One Knows

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients for only 75 cents. This can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy. —Adv.

Music At The Churches

The musial programs at Wichita Falls churches for this Sunday promise an hour's genuine enjoyment at services of both the morning and evening. Quite a number of soloists are appearing on the programs, and especially are there more vocal soloists scheduled for appearance this week. In addition, the regular classical instrumental selections are to be given.

Miss Modena Howell will appear as vocal soloist at the morning service of the First Methodist church, singing the anthem, "Holy Art Thou," by Handel. She is to be assisted by the church choir under the direction of Joel H. MacGregor. "Sometime, Somewhere," by Tillman, is to be rendered by Miss Mildred Martin and Baldwin Montgomery. The anthem at the evening services, "Now the Day Is Over," by Baines, is to be sung by Mrs. F. M. Hansen, assisted by the choir. A soprano solo, "Come, Jesus, Redeemer," (Bartlett) will be sung by Mrs. C. A. Dotson. Several special organ numbers are to be given at both services by Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., organist.

The Rev. and Mrs. David Rees-Jones, of the Floral Heights Presbyterian church are to give a special request number, "Whispering Hope," by Hawthorne, at the morning services Sunday, it is announced. Mrs. B. B. Woodall, piano soloist, is also scheduled on the program for two piano solos, "Impromptu," by Schubert, and "A Hymn of the Homeland," by Sullivan.

The Floral Heights Methodist morning program Sunday will be opened with organ selections, "Prologue," (Bohm) and "Memory's Hour," (Silver) by Mrs. O. E. Nocholls, organist. Mrs. Wayne Holmes, soloist of the morning, will sing. Mrs. L. B. Thompson will sing, "Hold Thou My Hand," by Briggs, at the evening services following the presentation of more organ selections, "Offertoire," by Batiste, and "Where Dusk Gathers," (Stebbins) by Mrs. Nicholls.

Two soloists are to appear at the First Presbyterian church Sunday. At the morning services, Hallie Adams Hill is to sing, "The Voice in the Wilderness," and in the evening, Paul Von Allmen will sing, "I've Done My Work."

Three organ solos are to be given at the morning services at the Church of the Good Shepherd: "Adagio," by Schubert; "No Shadows Yonder," by Gaul; and the "Postlude in C," by Lewis. For the communion service, Read's "Communion Service in E. Flat," is to be rendered.

At the First Southern Presbyterian church, morning services, the offertory anthem, "If Ye Love Me," (Lansing) will be given as a violin solo by Mrs. J. E. Hall. In the evening a mixed quartet, composed of Mesdames Davis and Hall, and Messrs. Railey and Kitchell, will sing several selections.

Elaborate Celebration For Armistice Day Planned

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Nov. 5.—Preparations for a gala time are being made by the Claude C. McDannald Post 419 of Electra for Armistice Day, November 11. All business houses will close and together with the Lions and Rotary clubs are cooperating in plans for the huge parade for that day.

Several out of town speakers are expected and the local legion promises a good program. The program committee is composed of Messrs. W. L. Hill, Byron T. Johnson, Phillip Broadwell, E. P. Haltom, Persh Grisham, Steve Rhumor and Vandergriff. W. L. Hill, chairman of the committee, received a congratulatory telegram from State Commander Wood of the American Legion, commending the local post on its efforts and urging them to make this Armistice Day the greatest of all in the history of this national holiday.

The Claude C. McDannald post of Electra has a considerable membership which is steadily being augmented and much interest is being manifested in the semi-weekly drilling and target practice which is held in the ball park. The entertainment committee is bending every effort to make this Armistice Day program one to be remembered.

Wichita Falls Big Game Hunters Off For New Mexico

It's the kind of a big game hunt a fellow gets to take only once in a life time and there're many of us who don't get to take that!

The MFall brothers, H. H., J. A. and J. M., Sunday morning head a detachment of Wichita Falls nimrods for a 10-day hunt out in New Mexico in the Gila national forest around the Black canyon sector. This particular section of Uncle Sam's game preserves north of Deming and Silver City has been termed the hunter's paradise. However, hunters have not been allowed in the Black canyon for a number of years. The district has been thrown open by the game department from Nov. 10 to Nov. 20 for this year only, presumably.

The Wichita Falls detachment, led by Hilliard H. McFall, a veteran huntsman, plans an overland drive to Tom Perrine's ranch 60 miles north of Deming, getting away early this morning. The automobiles are to be left at the ranch from where the party is to go by car and trucks to the north of the Rocky canyon on the Sapillo. From there the Wichitans set out on a pack trip of 18 miles or so into the heart of the big game country, virgin as far as the present generation is concerned. The party will be gone two weeks or so.

Included in the brigade with Julian A. McFall, Hilliard H. McFall and J. M. McFall are F. E. Curtis, Stanley Bullock, W. U. McCutchen, W. A. Freear, C. J. Barnard, C. B. Daniels and another sportsman from Hugo, Okla.

Four Draw Lot to See Which Must Die for Assassination of President

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Nov. 5. (AP)—Alfredo Jauregui, chosen by lot from four men convicted of the murder 10 years ago of former President Jose Manuel Jando, was executed today by a firing squad.

The young Bolivian, who has spent 10 of the 28 years of his life in prison, was felled by eight bullets. He died instantly. His body was taken to a nearby cemetery for burial.

Protesting his innocence with almost his last breath, young Janregui claimed that neither he nor the three men convicted with him was guilty of the crime. His selection by lot to pay the penalty for the four was due to a Bolivian law which says that only one person may be executed in punishment for a crime.

The three convicted with Jauregia were his brother Juan, who studied law in prison and acted eventually as attorney for the quartet, Simon Choque and Nestos Villegas. The four drew slips of paper from an urn in the palace of justice October 25. Alfredo Jauregui, last to draw, got the fatal black slip. The daughters of the murdered president witnessed the drawing and a great crowd waited outside the palace for news of the lottery.

Cranberries Scarce and High As Holiday Season Nears

The market brings bad news on the eve of the holiday season—cranberries are scarce and high and getting scarcer and higher. It looks like most Wichita Falls folk will have to eat their turkey without the inevitable cranberry sauce this year. Local produce men have but small supplies on hand and declare that they are unable to get additional shipments.

Oranges and lemons are also scarce, and accordingly high. Grapes, apples and bananas, tomatoes and most vegetables are plentiful and cheap, however.

Poultry dealers report there will be an abundance of chickens and turkeys for the holidays, but eggs continue scarce.

Judge Gibbs Spoils Judge Gwinn's Joke

"Hold your breath, tight!" admonished Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwinn Friday after he had heard the appaling news that another Gimlet, probably some sort of relative of the noted Texas-Oklahoma fair Gimlet, had made his stealthy appearance within the portcullis of Wichita Falls.

The lad, dressed in spreading overalls, slightly timid, almost blushing, presented his "diploma" from some "famous correspondence school of detective work" to Justice Gwinn early in the afternoon, he said. Then, like a true detective, he waited until the full force of the document had penetrated the judges' judicial mind, and said:

"Now, judge, all you have to do is give me a letter of introduction to some of these big people in town and I'll get a job and be famous." Justice Gwinn said he gulped to keep from laughing in the boy's face, and encouraged his conversation, naming several people that might be of influence in the making of a "great career."

"Now there is so-and-so," the judge said, naming the president of one of the biggest banks in Wichita Falls, "he could do a lot towards helping you."

"That's the stuff," cried the boy, his eyes flashing, "one good letter to him, and I'll show these Wichita Falls cops something to get awell headed about"

The judge took pen in hand and wrote, addressing the letter to the bank president: To whom it may concern, it gives me great pleasure to present to you the world's future wizard in the matter of being a cop. He knows that sunshine is far different from milkweeds and he has proved that he knows the difference between a cobblestone and a court house. Signed, R. V. Gwinn.

Then came the joke. The future marvel of detectives couldn't read! Well, so much the better, the judge thought, telling him to rush right on to the bank president and show him the letter.

He started out the door, eyeing the judge sincerely, thinking of him as a benefactor.

Leaving the court house, however, the boy decided to get a letter from Judge O. L. Gibbs, who maintains offices across from Judge Gwinn's.

He engaged Justice Gibbs in the scheme, much to the detriment of the joke, for the latter, feeling sorry for the boy, read him Judge Gwinn's letter.

So informed, the boy left the court house, his first lesson experienced, if not learned.

Wichita Falls' 20-0 Victory Over Electra Gives Pack Good Chance at Sectional Title

Wichita Falls kept apace of the speeding Amarillo high school football team Saturday in the struggle for supremacy of the interscholastic league district one. While Amarillo trimmed the Plainview Bulldogs Friday at Plainview by an 18-6 score, Coach Bud McCallum's Coyotes came back yesterday and stopped the sturdy little Electra Tigers at Spudder park by a 20-to-20 score. Vernon defeated Quanah Saturday by the overwhelming score of 53 to 12. Thus the district leaders remained fighting at the top with Amarillo holding down a perfect percentage of three games won and no games lost against Wichita Falls' two victories and no defeats and Vernon's two victories against one defeat.

Amarillo invades Vernon the impending week-end and the odds are highly in favor of a Vernon triumph. Wichita Falls defeated Vernon in the Coyotes' conference opener by a 6-to-6 score. The Coyotes play Quanah here next Saturday.

Electra Starts Fast.

Heavier but just as fast as the midget Tigers, the Wichita Falls team was not forced to extend itself in turning back Electra. However, the Tigers launched a first-period attack that momentarily seemed to have the Pack nonplussed and on the verge of being forced back to its goal line. But with the first quarter assault weathered safely and no score, the Cardinal and Black machine pulled itself together and swung in action that tabulated two touchdowns before the half was up. Wichita Falls scored again late in the third period although Coach McCallum kept a steady stream of substitutes running into the game.

Once started, the Coyotes uncovered a brilliant running attack that in its brilliant co-operation of backfield men with their forwards placed no one athlete in the limelight. Each of McCallum's ball-carriers got away in sharp style with Mitchell flashing brighter than he has in previous games, with Allred, Mills and Black teaming along at the same pace. During the second quarter rush, Mitchell covered much ground. But in the long run, Black, Allred and Mills had picked up just about as much territory. The Wichita Falls backfield worked almost to perfection a swirling, twisting lateral pass that brought three men in contact with the ball after it left the center's hands. The passing from the mid-position by Turner, incidentally, was of top grade. Young Frankie Williams, a mite of a lad, got into the Wichita Falls backfield array for a time and this midget stepped off some sprightly advances. In fact, one of his runs produced the brightest feature of the game and a touchdown for Wichita Falls in the second quarter. Black kept the mob cheering with a number of flashy punt-returns.

Tigers Toss Score.

Now just any time you think the young proteges of Coaches Harvey Stanford and Lee Walker can't step it off in lively fashion, ladies and gentlemen, you have a couple more thinks coming.

You can tel lthe world the charging Coyote squad didn't get off to any fierce, smashing rush over these little fellows from Electra. That first quarter saw the thing go exactly the other way. For a time there it looked like the lightweight Electra lads were going to chase right off and leave Bud McCallum's boys far, far behind. They dickered around a bit right after Wichita Falls kicked off with neither gang doing much. But all of a sudden the Electrans grabbed the leather and started a darting, driving little attack that all but upset their huskier adversaries.

Swift dashes at the line, off the tackles and around the terminals scored a couple of first downs for the Electrans before anybody much knew what was coming off. The midget White, Crass, Culpepper and L. Smith apparently had the some crowd on their hips. But toward the fag end of the first quarter, Wichita Falls stiffened and then the argument swayed to the favor of the Coyotes. The Pack started from its own 39-yard line. Smashes at the forward wall by Mitchell and Mills ripped things up considerably. Black got in several ball-carrying spurts and Allred stepped out with a series of whirling, pivoting shots over the tackles that put Wichita Falls within scoring position. Mills plunged seven yards to a touchdown. Try for extra point failed. Mills recovered a fumble late in the second quarter deep in Tiger territory and a couple of drives followed by Frank Williams' sweeping end run tabbed touchdown number two. Black shot a spiral to Chewning for the extra point. A sprinkling of sprints mainly by Captain Mitchell led the way to the third touchdown in the third quarter. An aerial from Allred to Mitchell for eight yards scored. Allred slipped off end for the extra point.

HAGEN SHADES TURNESA, 1 UP

Italian Leads in P. G. A. Final 27 Holes

CEDAR CREST COUNTRY CLUB, Dallas, Nov. 5.—Walter Hagen is still the "king of the pros."

"The Haig's" margin of victory was one up.

Hagen has. He fought from behind day to keep his throne when all seemed lost.

It was Hagen's putter and the telling strain of the crucial match which sent Turnesa down the lane which 32 other star professionals have traveled since Tuesday when they launched the campaign for Walter's scalp.

One down at the 27th, Walter took a desperate chance at the 29th and won. He drove over the trees on the 332-yard dog-leg hole, pitched perfectly to the pin and sank a four-footer to square the match, with a birdie.

The king went one up for the first time since the 3rd hole of the morning round when Turnesa broke his heart against hindering trees in the rough at the 32nd hole. Joe took a six.

The 33rd was halved with par fours. On the short 34, Turnesa had a chance to win but his fagged nerves ruined his putting touch. Each three-putted.

Halve 34th

They halved the 34th with par fives. Joe took a desperate chance to win with a long putt. But it rimmed the cup.

Again on the 35th the youngster was on in two but again he failed to sink it.

Dormie, he made his last bid for fame and fortune at 36th.

Hagen led the way with a perfect drive. Turnesa was 15 yards behind. Joe pitched dead six feet fro mthe pin. Hagen was 10 feet away on his approach. Hagen putted a foot by the cup.

And then—there never was a more breathless moment or a more hopeful one as the gallery prayed for the beaten Turnesa.

Turnesa putted. Cameras clicked. The ball rolled a ninch by. It was over. The game Turnesa smiled, half cried as Hagen pushed his ball in for a half.

"Great fight son," said the Haig as he grasped the hand of his defeated foe. The smile was still there but Joe could not speak.

The gallery was for the conquered. It had been hoping to see the king booted for a row for four days but it had waited in vain, the king was still at the top.

Joe has the sympathy, Walter the admiration.

Immediately following the triumph, Hagen was again presented with the cup he has fathered for three years and will be kept under his roof for another season.

Keeps Joe Waiting

The day was perfect for the match. When the finalists teed off shortly after 2 p. m. the sun was burning down. Shirtsleeves became the style after the second hole.

Hagen kept Turnesa waiting for more than an hour in the morning which resulted in Turnesa getting off to an unsettled start. The Haig took a two up lead on the first three holes. Turnesa took three in a row on the 6th, 7th and 8th however and stayed ahead the rest of the way during the morning. He ended 2 up at lunch.

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 5.—Joe Turnesa turned from his own putter to the match with Walter Hagen here today and lost.

Bobby's club and Turnesa's ability clipped off a 72 in the morning round and this mixture had the old master 2 down.

Had Cruickshank's stick performed better service in the afternoon. Another story might have flashed over the wires Saturday night and another pro might have been champion.

Vanderbilt Battles Tech to Deadlock

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 5. (AP)—Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech, both undefeated this season in the Southern conference race, played to a scoreless tie here today before 20,000 spectators. Vanderbilt missed victory by a slight margin in the last few minutes when Billy Spears, backfield ace, missed a place kick from the Yellowjackets five-yard line. The Commodores had depended mainly on passes and the Yellowjackets chiefly on line smashes and end runs.

No Car Compares With

CHRYSLER

—in money value

"52" "62" "72" Imperial "80"

It is easy enough to understand the widespread public acceptance of Chrysler cars in the four great price fields.

Chrysler Standardized Quality, by pioneering and developing countless improvements and making them available to all Chrysler cars, has set up new standards of motor car value and has given an entirely new meaning to "price" and "price classes" in the industry.

Chrysler cars, priced from $725 to $3595, represent not only far more than money could buy in the past, but much more than the same money will buy today.

Thus Chrysler has set new conceptions of value and has revised values upwards in every one of the four great price classes.

New "52"—52 and more smooth miles an hour—full-sized long, low bodies of wood and steel for adult passengers—adjustable steering wheel—saddle spring seat cushions—fine mohair upholstering—indirectly-lighted instrument panel..
Five body styles.....$725 to $875

Great New "62"—62 and more exceptional miles an hour—6-cylinder engine—7-bearing crankshaft—invar strut pistons—ventilated crankcase—4-wheel hydraulic brakes—road levelizers front and rear—body features unequaled for hundreds of dollars more. Seven body styles .....$1095 to $1295

Illustrious New "72"—72 and more miles an hour—counter weighted 7-bearing crankshaft—spring ends anchored in blocks of live rubber, instead of metal shackles—longer, lower, roomier than the original "70," with beautiful bodies tastefully appointed. Seven body Styles .....$1495 to $1745

Imperial "80"—82 horsepower and speed ability of 80 miles and more an hour—a measure of performance comfort unequaled by any other fine car in America. Eleven body styles .....$2495 to $3595

New Chrysler "Red-Head" Engine—designed to take full advantage of high-compression gas, is regular equipment on the roadsters of the "52," "62," "72," and sport roadster of the Imperial "80." It is also available, at slight extra cost, for all other body types. For a reasonable charge it can be applied to earlier Chrysler cars now in use.

Texas Aggies Crush Way To Fore In Southwest Grid Race

Farmers' Sensational 39-13 Victory Over Mustangs Puts Crimp In Conference Dope

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 5. (AP)—Before a crowd estimated at 12,000 persons the Texas A. & M. Aggies administered a 39 to 13 licking to the Southern Methodist university Mustangs on Kyle field gridiron here today and jumped into the lead in the southwestern conference football race.

It was the first defeat for the Mustangs in the conference this season, although they lost a game to Centenary college of Shreveport a few weeks ago. By winning over the Ponies the Aggies retained their season's records of no losses and one tie with Texas Christian university.

It was a spectator's game from beginning to end with two great offensive machines rushing the ball from one end of the field to the other, but with the Aggies always maintaining a distinct advantage.

Overhead attacks directed by two brilliant quarterbacks, Hunt of A. & M. and Mann of S. M. U. featured the contests, although scintillating end runs and line plunges by all members of both back fields were sandwiched in between the passes for variety.

A. & M. met the Mustangs at their own game of forward passing and excelled them as they completed passes at critical moments of the contest and times seemed to have the Pony defensive backs completely at sea as to where the aerial drives might strike next.

Both sides suffered because of penalties although those assessed against the Aggies were the heaviest, one of the latter coming in the first period for 25 yards on account of an Aggie's illegal use of his hands.

Aggie Line Like Wall

The Aggie line after the first minutes of play was usually a stone wal against the thrusts of the Mustang backs while the off tackle rushes of the Farmers often found big holes in the Pony line. For the most part the Mustangs were consistently outrushed by the Aggie forwards.

Two long passes, Conover to Hunt to Sikes, paved the way for the Aggies first touchdown in the first period. With the ball on S. M. U.'s 12-yard line, Hunt ran around right end for a touchdown. Mann's weak punt to his own 37-yard line led to the second in the same period. Two passes from Hunt gained 19 yards for A. & M. and Hunt circled right end for the second touchdown. S. M. U. was on the defensive most of the first half.

It's Hunt Again

Early in the third quarter the Aggies gained the ball on an intercepted pass. Hunt's 25-yard end run and a long pass put the ball in scoring position whence Alsabrook plunged through guard for a touchdown. Late in the third quarter, a Farmer intercepted another pass and a 20-yard plunge by Dorsey gave the Aggies another counter.

Starting a drive on their own account, the Mustangs scored twice in the final period, the first touchdown coming when Johnson received a pass and ran 71 yards to the Aggie goal line and the second on a pass, Mann to Hume, after passes and end runs by the Ponies brought the ball down the field.

The Aggies' last two touchdowns were made late in the final quarter by Hunt and Varnell. In each case passes put the ball in scoring position whence Hunt went around end and Varnell through the line for the touchdowns.

AGGIE-MUSTANG PLAY BY PLAY

S. M. U. won the toss and elected to defend the south goal. Hunt kicked off to Mann who retured to his 25 yard. Love made four yards over right tackle. Mann made no gain around end. Hume lost two yards. Hume kicked to Hunt on the Aggies' 20 yard line. Hunt returning to his 37 yard line.

Hume intercepted a pass by Hunt and put the ball on the Aggies' 37 yard line. Hume made six yards over right tackle and Mann three more over left tackle. Hume no gain. Mann passed to Dawson for eight yards putting the ball on A. & M.'s nine yard line. Hume lost a yard at tackle. Two passes were incompleted and the Aggies got the ball on downs.

Conover made two yards at guard. S. M. U. was penalized five yards for being offside. Burgess made it first down over center, putting the ball on the Aggies' 30 yard line. He got three yards more at center. S. M. U. was penalized again for offside. Hunt passed to Alsabrook for three yards. Hunt kicked to S. M. U.'s nine yard line where the ball was downed.

A second incomplete pass drew a five yard penalty for A. & M. Craig replaced Knief and Bay replaced Saufley for S. M. U. Hunt punted over the Ponies' goal line.

When two attempted passes failed and a stab at the line failed to gain Hume kicked to midfield.

Drop Kick Fails

Hunt made nine yards around left end. Burgess three yards and first down at center, putting the ball on S. M. U.'s 36 yard line. Hunt tried a drop kick but the ball was wide.

Bulldogs Scrap Waurika to Tie

Burk Midget Backs Take It as Moral Win

The Burkburnett Bulldogs and the Waurika Eagles battled to a grim 0 to 0 deadlock Saturday afternoon in Burkburnett at the free bridge opening celebration as a battle between Texas and Oklahoma.

The Eagles held the advantage of first downs with 11 against six for Burkburnett. Fumbles played a large part in the game and many times it was this which kept the goal lines uncrossed.

The fighting little Burkburnett backs can be given credit for a moral victory in that they carried the ball through the Waurika 20-yard line more times during the game. Waurika made only one threat that looked more than passing bad and this was lost by a fumble.

This Waurika threat came late in the game when Monore "Boots" Hooper and Captain Spivey ripped through Burkburnett forwards to carry the ball to the Burkburnett 20-yard line. Another line plunge had gained ground but was lost in a fumble that Gebhart recovered. Jude Willingham then dropped back and booted the ball 55 yards to Hooper who made a nice 30-yard return, but was unable to threaten again.

Vickers Stars.

O. Vickers, Waurika right tackle carried the brunt of the defensive work in the Sooner line. This hefty tackle seemed to be in every play of the game and time after time he stopped hard Burkburnett rushes. Plumbee, right end, was another who played a great brand of ball in the line for Waurika. Hobson and Grossclose carried the brunt of the battle on the left side of the Waurika line.

Spivey and M. Hooper carried the brunt of the Sooner attack through the whole game. This pair gained almost at will while holding the ball in mid-field, but the hard-fighting Bulldogs stopped them when their goal was being threatened. Fumbles at critical times also handicapped them.

Captain Willie Griffin and Harvey Moore carried the brunt of the Bulldog attack. This pair of midget halves pierced the Waurika line time and again to carry the ball well into Waurika territory. They managed to keep the ball in Waurika grounds most of the game.

Babe Green, Chester Dilbeck and H. D. Hurd also carried the battle on in a neat manner for Burkburnett. Dilbeck and Green showed much promise on plunging into the line for nice gains.

Goodwin and Vance stood out in the Burkburnett line with Willingham, York, Gebhart and Jarrell giving them plenty of support. The whole game seemed to be a battle of lines all of the way.

Goodwin Steps Out.

Gerald Goodwin also ripped off several nice runs for Burkburnett on fake plays. Of the Burkburnett secondary defense Harvey Moore stood out. This fighting little halfback spilled play after play when he was all that stood in the way. He recovered several fumbles at dangerous places.

Early in the game Waurika started down the field in a grand march only to have a fumble fall into the hands of Goodwin. Later this same Goodwin recovered a fumble put while Willie Griffin and Harvey Moore broke loose for nice gains that carried the ball to the Waurika 10-yard line. Goodwin then broke loose with a sweeping end run that carried the ball to the Waurika one-yard line only to have the ball called back for an offside penalty. York later pulled them out of another hole when he stopped a Waurika advance by recovering a fumble ball just as the half came to a close.

Jarrell Grabs Fumble.

Burkburnett made one big drive for a touchdown a few minutes later when Jarrell drove on a fumbled ball to break a Waurika advance on the Burk 42-yard line. Green passed to Goodwin who carried the ball to the Waurika 35-yard line. They plunged the ball well into Waurika territory and lost it. A moment later Jude Willingham recovered a Waurika fumble on the Waurika 25-yard line.

Burkburnett then opened up her offensive guns and with her lightweight backs ripping through the Waurika line, gained a first down on the Waurika 5-yard line. Harvey Moore caved in the center of the Waurika line for 3 yards. Green attempted an end run, but with Waurika fighting with backs to the goal, he was stopped for a 2-yard loss. The Waurika line then swarmed Hurd for another yard loss. Green's pass then slipped off the fingers of Goodwin's hand and was incomplete over the goal line just as the third quarter ended.

Willingham later recovered a fumble o nthe Waurika 15-yard line. Green drove into the center of the Waurika line for two yards. Harvey Moore rolled through the Waurika line like a war tank for five yards more, but a pass over the goal line from the 9-yard line was incomplete and the last Burk chance was lost.

Texas Tech Nips Dan Baker, 19-7

LUBBOCK, Nov. 5. (AP)—Field Marshal Ewing Freeland with his big grid guns, silenced by injuries and ineligibility summoned the light artillery to action and Texas Tech's Matadors defeated Daniel Baker college 1 to 7 here today.

Tech's three touchdowns came as the result of two blocked kicks and a fumble and the Hill Billies counted their points as the result of a penalty, Dillards' pass to Montgomery and a two-yard line buck by Roddie.

Gilbert White, Tech left end, scored two of the Matadors' touchdowns, racing 60 yards for the first one and 33 for the second after Left Tackle Carpenter had blocked punts on each occasion. Brothers picked up Bakers' fumble and ran 30 yards for the other touchdown.

STEERS CRUSH OVER VICTORY IN LAST DASH

Bear Attempt at Goal From Field Nearly Wins Game

AUSTIN, Nov. 5. (AP)—Baylor university's Golden Bears from Waco had an amazing football victory almost cinched Saturday, only to fall, 13 to 12, before a desperate revival of Texas university's famed passing attack.

Leading the Longhorns 12 to 0 at the end of the first half, the Bears gave the Texas coaches and supporters a nerve wracking two and a half hours, during which the injured Longhorn regulars were rushed out in frantic efforts to save the day.

Baylor's touchdowns were scored by Sid Pruitt, former Itasca high school star.

Allen's spectacular 50-yard run, evading three Baylor tackles after receiving King's 22-yard pass pulled the fat from the fire for Texas in the final minutes of the game, and a great surge of yelling, hysteric relief shook the stadium. This gave the Longhorns their one point margin of victory which was started with a touchdown in the third quarter by "Big Bill" Rose, one of the injured regulars and Rhoads' successful goal kick.

A forty-yard pass, Noblo to Bullock put the ball within 15 yards of the Texas goal soon after the game opened. Line plunges put Pruitt over for a touchdown, but a goal attempt failed, leaving the score six to nothing, Baylor.

Noble intercepted a Texas pass after a brilliant mid-field play and was downed on the Texas 49-yard line from where Washam wiggled around right end for an eight yard gain. A pass, Noble to Griffin, put the ball on the Texas 30-yard line with Baylor holding the Texas line well, the quarter ended, the ball on the Texas 41-yard line.

Bears Score Again.

The Texas defense picked up in the second quarter. Gains by Allen and Estes advanced the ball to the Texas 25-yard line, but a punt by Boyles was returned 45 yards to the Texas 25-yard line. Pruitt got a 20-yard pass from Noble and was forced out of bounds at the Texas five yard line. Shortly after he scored, Baylor's second touchdown, goal failed.

Score: Baylor 13, Texas 0.

Threatened with a Baylor victory, Coach Littlefield rushed in his heavy artillery. Kept out of the opening on account of injuries, Sewell went in for Wray at guard, and Wray went to end to replace Ford. Eddie Beular replaced King at quarter and Big Un Rose went in for Estes, almost completing the regular backfield.

Beular Gets Busy.

Beular soon got into action, returning Nobles 50-yard punt to the Texas 32-yard line. Baylor took time out, Rhoads supplanted Wray at Texas end. Boyles ripped off a 36-yard run.

King went back in for Beular in the second half and passed 16 yards to Ford and then to Rhoads 12 yards. Another pass, King to Rhoades was incomplete at 25 yards. The Texas aerial attack was on in a desperate effort to snatch the fat from the fire.

After only indifferent success with passes, Ford got away with one from King for 25 yards but ran out of bounds at the Baylor 15 yard line. Line plunges put the ball on the 10-yard line. Estes hit center twice for six yards and a pass, King to Rose and Rhoades kicked goal.

Steers Save Game.

Both sides maneuvered cautiously in the fourth period and play was in the center of the field mostly, Beular back in the game for the second time replacing Estes gained through the line. Fumbles, substitutions and time out were frequent.

Backed up against his ten yard line, Boyles punted 30 yards. Washam was slightly hurt as he caught the ball and was downed in his tracks, but remained in the game. After Texas regained the ball a minute later a pass, King to Allen for 15 yards, let him away for a 40-yard run and a touchdown, saving the game for Texas. Texas failed to kick goal.

Commish Revokes Sande's License

BALTIMORE, Nov. 5. (AP)—Jockey Earl Sande's license to ride on Maryland race tracks was revoked Saturday by the Maryland racing commission. Not only upholding the action of the stewards of the Maryland Jockey club, which suspended Sande for the remainder of the Pimlico meeting for foul riding in Friday's $52,000 futurity, the commission went farther and took away the little rider's license. This means that Sande will be unable to ride on any track in this country until the ban is removed.

FROGS UNABLE TO CALL HOGS

Arkansas Grunts Way To 10-3 Victory

FORT WORTH, Nov. 5. (AP)—The Porkers from Arkansas plowed and passed their way to a 10 to 3 victory over the Frogs of Texas Christian university here Saturday before 5000 fans.

The count was tied, 3 to 3, when the final quarter started.

Arkansas, receiving a punt on its 20-yard line after half of the quarter had passed, started on its victorious march. Geis broke through center for 30 yards. Then Cole passed twice, first to Geis then to Rose, who went over for a touchdown.

Cole's toe added the extra point.

The two teams fought futily through the first half neither being able to produce the punch when inside the enemy 20-yard line.

In the third, Rags Matthews of the Frogs booted a field goal to give T. C. U. a temporary lead. It was tied a few moments later when Cole kicked one between the uprights. Arkansas missed another chance for a field goal.

Frogs Try Line.

Contrary to expectations the Frogs did not devote their entire time to aerial football but tried time after time to crash the heavy line of Arkansas and were successful many times. The Frogs played a hard game and threatened several times to put over a touchdown. However twice before the Porkers put the ball over for a touchdown the Arkansas Razorbacks were within a few yards of the T. C. U. goal. The opportune ending of the half saved T. C. U. from being scored upon. The ball was on T. C. U.'s five yard line as the half ended.

After Arkansas scored the touchdown Matty Bell's warriors tried valiantly to retaliate, but failed to threaten the visitors.

Aerial Attack Starts It.

Cole kicked off for Arkansas to Toler who returned the ball to the Frog's 25-yard line. Then began a series of aerial plays, the ball going back and forth between the two teams. After failure to take gains on either side, Cole of Arkansas punted to Toler who returned to the Frogs' 38-yard line. Toler then punted to Cole who was downed in his tracks. A lateral pass, Beavers to Cole, placed the ball on Arkansas' 29-yard line. Cole passed to Beavers for 15 yards. Cole passed to Williams for 15 yards making the first down on T. C. U. 45-yard line. Melton was substituted for Palmer of T. C. U. and Williams was substituted for Cowger for Arkansas.

After a series of aerial plays the ball was T. C. U.'s on their own 25-yard line. Toler smashed through left tackle for eight yards and Blackie Williams hit Arkansas' line for three more yards for a first down.

Harmon was substituted for Moore at right tackle for the Porkers. After Toler had punted over the goal line the ball was brought out to Arkansas' 20-yard line. Geis made two yards through center. Donathan made 10 yards through the line for a first down. Geis made two yards as the quarter ended. Score: T. C. U. 0, Arkansas 0.

Frogs Buck Dope.

T. C. U. appeared to be upsetting the dope when the Frogs in the second period began hitting the heavy Arkansas line for gains. With the ball on their own 39-yard line, Blackie Williams smashed the left side of the line for a gain of seven yards. Toler followed with two more yards through the center and a minute later went through the line again for another first down. Williams on a fake pass, went through the line for 12 yards and a first down, putting the ball on Arkansas' 36-yard line. Toler made a yard through center, Williams ripped off five yards on a fake pass and lost the ball on an incompleted pass. Arkansas substituted Vansickle for Harman.

After several more aerial plays the ball was T. C. U.'s on the Porker 49-yard line. Williams hit the line for four yards after which his pass to Acker was good for 15 yards and a first down on the Razorbacks 27-yard line. "Nasty" Clark was substituted for Williams. T. C. U. tried for and missed a field goal from the 23-yard line.

Razorbacks Threaten.

With the ball on the Frogs' 20-yard line, Clark intercepted a pass and gained five yards. T. C. U. lost the ball in a series of plays and Arkansas completed two passes putting the ball on the Frogs' 11-yard line. A few minutes later T. C. U. intercepted a Razorback attempted pass and recovered the ball on their own four-yard line. A punt gave the ball to Arkansas on T. C. U.'s 40-yard line. After a double pass by Arkansas the ball was on the Frogs five-yard line and the half was ended. Score: Arkansas 0, T. C. U. 0.

Third period:

Blackie Williams was substituted for Clark at quarter and Thompson replaced Parrish for T. C. U. Arkansas substituted Schoonover for Williams at end, Rose for Lambert, Donathan for Sadler and Moore for Wren. After a series of plays in which neither side was able to make material gains, Jake Williams blocked Cole's punt on Arkansas' 30-yard line and the ball went to T. C. U.

Two Field Goals.

Williams passed to Acker for a first down on the Porkers' 18-yard line. Toler made a first down for T. C. U. and the ball was on Arkansas' five yard line. Williams was thrown for a five yard loss and a minute later T. C. U. dropped back to the 21-yard line and Matthews kicked a field goal.

T. C. U.'s kickoff was returned 63 yards by Arkansas to the Porker's 27 yard line. Cole skirted around T. C. U. end and placed the ball on the Frog's nine-yard line. A pass was incompleted and Arkansas hit T. C. U. line for five yards. Blackie Williams was hurt in this play but stayed in the game. Cole dropped back to the 13-yard line and kicked a field goal as the quarter ended. T. C. U. 3, Arkansas 3.

Hogs Score Again.

At the beginning of the fourth quarter, Cole kicked off to Toler who returned the ball to the Frogs' 34-yard line. After failing to penetrate the heavy Porkers' line for any distance, Toler punted to Arkansas' 25-yard line. The ball later was punted to the Frogs' 16 yard line where the ball was downed by Arkansas. An intercepted pass gave the ball to Arkansas. With the ball on T. C. U.'s 20-yard line, Cole missed a field goal.

After a series of passes in which neither side gained materially, Arkansas broke through T. C. U.'s line for 30-yard gain after which a pass was completed for 16 yards. Cole then passed to Rose, who took the ball over T. C. U.'s goal line for a touchdown. Cole kicked goal. Score: T. C. U. 3, Arkansas 10.

T. C. U. tried hard to retaliate but failed to get within scoring distance of the Porkers goal thereafter. The game ended with the final score T. C. U. 3, Arkansas 10.

Cochran, Golding, Schaeffer, Sheldon and Company Complete For Marland Trophy Held By Cowtowners

There'll be a hot time in old Cowtown next Friday night, for on Friday afternoon golfing oil men from Wichita Falls, Dallas, Houston and other points will compete in Fort Worth along with the Cowtown "wildcat linksmen" in battle for the E. W. Marland team trophy now held by the Fort Worth Roustabouts.

Quite a galaxy of Wichita Falls links luminaries are booked for the jaunt to Cowtown, among them being the illustrious T. B. Cochran, Dudley Golding, H. A. Schaeffer and the well-known I. R. Sheldon.

Chairman Dudley S. Golding of the roustabout committee of the Wichita Falls Wildcats announces the team will be run on a strictly competitive basis, that is, any man on the regular team of 16 men may challenge another man that is higher up on the team for his position. The challenges will have to be made on or by five days before a regular Wildcat tournament and will be for 18 holes match play. Any player so challenged will have to accept the challenge or forfeit his place to the man challenging and take his place. All of the alternates have the same privilege of challenging the man on the regular team for their positions. Any other golf player or near golf player in Wichita Falls or any of the adjoining cities like Electra, Vernon, Seymour, Olney, who is in the oil business and thinks he can make the team, has the same privilege of challenging any of the alternates for theis positions.

Michigan Gets Rough With Stagg's Hopes

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.(AP)—Michigan walloped Chicago, 14 to 0, before 57,000 spectators today, knocking the Maroons right out of the Bib Ten championship situation.

The old passing combination of Louis Gilbert and Benny Oosterbaan caused the downfall of Chicago, together with the consistent line plunging of George Rich, the Wolverine fullback.

Pennsylvania's Attack Crushes Harvard 24-0

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.(AP)—Taking advantage of every break of the game, Pennsylvania crushed Harvard, 24 to 0, today in a resumption of football relations suspended 22 years ago. Penn scored a field goal in the second quarter from Paul Scullis' boot, two touchdowns in the third period and one in the fourth.

LIONS WALLOP QUANAH, 53-12

Taylor Wheel and Body Works Expands

VERNON, Nov. 5.—The Vernon Lions easily defeated the Quanah Indians 53-12 in a loose game here Saturday afternoon. The Lion aggregation was decidedly off form and hardly outclassed the visitors as much as the score indicates.

Both clubs resorted to the air quite often, but neither had much success. The Indians recorded good gains by the aerial route early in the game but were less successful in the later periods. Vernon attempted 24 passs, completing five for 113 yards. Two were intercepted. Quanah completed seven passes for a total of 47 yards five were incomplete and two were intercepted.

Coach Baggett's revampted forward wall failed to make an impressive show in spite of its increased weight. The light Quanah line held the Lions with consistancy, most of the Vernon gains being recorded around the ends.

Vernon made 15 first downs, while the Indians recorded 10.

Key Hurt.

The Vernon victory may be costly, as Clois Key, Lion backfield star was carried from the field in the final quarter, apparently seriously injured.

Coach Baggett tried out several new men and a variety of combinations, but none made impressive showings in spite of the weak opposition.

Vernon scored early in the game when Cox bucked the ball over after a series of-tackle thrusts had carried down the field. Castleberry skirted left end for the next touchdown aftr a Quanah punt had been blocked within the 10-yard line. Cox scored the next touchdown with a 13-yard plunge off tackle, and a count was recorded when Davis of Quanah was tackled behind his own goal line after recovering a punt, allowing a safety.

Parker Scores.

Parker blocked a Quanah punt and covered it behind the goal line for the next counter and Key raced 37 yards for the next touchdown after he received a pass. Hacker intercepted a Quanah pass and ran 30 yards for the next score. Key went over for the next touchdown after two long passes had carried the ball down the field to the 10-yard line. Cox carried the ball over the final time after a blocked punt.

Quanah scoredi ate in the first quarter a series of passes carried the ball down the field to the 15-yard line from where Davis plunged off tackle for the touchdown. Davis intercepted a Vernon pass and raced 55 yards for the other touchdown.

Playing 'em Over

With the Dixie Champions

The Spudders lost their series opener at San Antonio May 18 by a 6-5 score. Herbie Cobb had one bad inning. That was enough, the Bears shoving over four runs in the seventh to pass a Wichita Falls lead. White finished on the hurling dome for Wichita Falls.

The Bears got away to a two-run lead in the first couplet, but Wichita Falls tied her up in the second. A walk to Turgeon, a double by Swenson and LaFayette's single accounted for the Spudder pair.

The gang made it 3 and 2 on the Bears in the sixth on Jenkins' single, Turgeon's sacrifice and Swenson's single.

Santone blasted Cobb for a quartet in the seventh but Herbie stayed on deck until the eighth when he gave way to a pinch hitter who struck out. Sep Good had hurled seven innings for San Antonio. Newman went to the box at the start of the eighth. Turgeon said hello with a single. Swenson grounded out but Tobin ripped a triple to center, scoring Pete. Lapan, batting for Cobb, whiffed but got to third when Long dropped the third strike. Lafayette filed out to center. Mann grounded out to second.

We scored another in the ninth, Fitz opening with a single, getting around on a walk, an infield out and a sacrifice fly. Williams, batting for White, was called out on strikes.

Waco beat Shreveport the same day and pulled up four and a half games behind the league-leading Spudders.

Commission May Catch It in Coast "Title Fight Fraud"

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5. (AP)—The Dundee-Hudkins scandal today enmeshed the California Athletic commission when the city prosecutor announced he had notified the three commissioners to appear before him next Monday and give satisfactory answer to three questions or be made parties to "the gigantic fight fraud."

The three commissioners are Seth W. P. Streitenger, Fire Chief Louis Almgren of San Diego, chairman, and Charles Traung of San Francisco.

"If they can not answer three questions which I will put to them, I will hold them as parties to the gigantic fraud which left 15,000 persons unprotected at the supposed championship fight after they had paid some $80,000 for their seats," Dr. E. J. Lickley, the prosecutor, said.

Meanwhile Dr. Lickley's offensive against the principals in the fight fiasco bore fruit in municipal court when the welterweight champion, Joe Dundee, who walked out of the fight, and his manager, Max Waxman, were arraigned on a charge of false advertising.

Both succeeded in having their pleas delayed until Monday. Their bail was boosted from $1000 each to $2500 each.

Wisconsin Trims Grinnell, 20 to 2

Illinois Turns Back Iowans' Attack 14-0

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Nov. 5. (AP)—Illinois retained its perfect record in Western conference competition today by turning back a hard fighting but outclassed Iowa eleven, 14 to 0, in the annual homecoming gridiron contest. Illinois' victory was due in part to the plunging of its fullback, F. Humbert.

AGENTS HERE PLAN PROGRAM

Fresh Farm Produce Offered at Central Market

Opening of a public market in Wichita Falls where farmers may bring their products and dispose of it direct to the consumer is planned in the 1928 program of activities of O. K. Barnes, agricultural director of the chamber of commerce, and G. C. McGown Wichita county agent.

With the completion of the city auditorium quarters for the proposed city market will be provided in the basement of the new building, according to Mr. Barnes.

The market will probably be conducted along the lines of the municipal market at San Antonio, the famous French market at New Orleans, the city market at Muskogee, Okla., and others thorughout the southwest.

Fresh From Farms

Farmers will be allotted spaces in which they may display the vegetables and produce which they have for sale. When it becomes generally known over the city that vegetables fresh from the farms may be obtained at reasonable prices at the city market, it will become a Mecca for the housewives of the city, it is believed.

The location of the city auditorium is admirably fitted for a city market, it was pointed out. Paved streets surround the building, making it accessible in all kinds of weather. It is far enough removed from the congested downtown sections of the city so that neither farmers or customers will be bothered by heavy traffic, and it is also close enough to the business section that the patrons can go there and buy their vegetables and at the same time go downtown to shop.

"We have been studying the method of operation of public markets in other cities, and we see no reason why a similar market would not be successful here," Mr. Barnes said. "One of the biggest businesses in Muskogee is the community market, opened in 1924 in a very modest way as a curb market. Later a 50-foot shed was built, divided into stalls of convenient size, and this has become, during the fruit an dvegetable season, the busiest place in Muskogee between the hours of 6:30 and 9 a. m.

"The county agents and the chamber of commerce co-operated in setting up the plan. The women's clubs were interested in the project by showing them the advantage of purchasing fresh produce direct fro mthe growers, and soon the sedans and the limousines were parking beside the lowly flivver while women from both cottage and mansion filled their market baskets for the day's menu.

Quality Stressed.

"Farmers pay 25 cents a day for the use of the stalls they occupy. A neat sign bearing the name of the occupant hangs in front of the stall. The market master assigns the places and collects the rentals each day. With the growers he agrees on a fair price for the various products which are offered, and these prices are marked up on the bulletin board when the market opens at 6:30 o'clock in the morning. There is then no undercutting of prices and the customers waste no time haggling with the sellers. By this means quality comes into its own, for naturally the best quality produce is first sold out.

"All of the common vegetables are offered, as well as fruits in season. Butter, cottage cheese, live and dressed poultry, eggs, all come fresh from the farm to the consumer, to be used the same day. The market operates on Tuesdays and Saturdays. Some farmers have been using it every day since it opened, others only occasionally.""

Big Celebration At Burkburnett

gineer R. A. Thompson. Henry Leininger chairman of the Oklahoma highway commission and Maj. Clark R. Mandigo were also introduced at this time.

B. D. Sartin, former county judge, was the next speaker and told of some of the history of the building of the free bridge. He praised the structure as a monument to the teamwork on both sides of the river.

"The bridge came," he said, "from the natural growth of the country, by progressive citizenship and from the need of modern times. Aside from the Wichita Falls and Burkburnett chambers of commerce that did yeoman service I also want to give credit to a few individuals. C. R. Coles, secretary of the Burkburnett chamber was the man who tied up all of the loose ends and brought together those who might co-operate. Hubert Harrison of the Wichita Falls chamber, A. H. Britain, J. C. Mytinger, and J. T. Harrell. Citizens came to the rescue and signed notes for $20,000 to help compromise one of the lawsuits and hastened the project.

Legal Bars Broken

"The legal difficulties in this I think were the greatest that has ever been known just to build one simple bridge for there were the state governments of Texas and Oklahoma with the United States owning the land in the center. Fred Weeks, Dan Boone, Britain, Roy J. Daniels, J. D. Parnell and Charles McDonald all helped us to solve these legal difficulties. F. R. Knauth and J. P. Jackson, county commissioners, put up the money from their precincts to start the work. Then came M. A. Bundy and Judge E. W. Nicholson to carry on the work.

"We are here to celebrate the union of these two states by a concrete structure that stands eight feet in the rock, free of high water and tolls. We stand at an epochal point in the history of the two states that are no longer isolated, but enjoy the fraternal intercourse as neighbors and friends."

Cone Johnson Speaks

Cone Johnson took little time with preliminaries but soon plunged into his speech. While he was talking Governor Johnson of Oklahoma arrived. He had been detained at Frederick.

"The bridge that spans the Red river is but one of the links that binds the peoples of these two great states as neighbors and friends," he said. The river after all is but a conventional line. Move it 100 miles to the north or to the south and you could not tell the difference between the peoples.

"I am completely sold on bridges over the Red river for a reason that may not have appealed to you. While Oklahoma has a great domain it once took Greer county from Texas and carried it off. Later when the oil industry came along and took some more. When we get them to build bridges they admit the river is the line. They might try to claim the Colorado next. That also means red.

Two Common Needs

"There are two things which the common run of mankind receives from his governments, schools in which his children may receive educational advantages which he probably did not receive and roads is the other. They will put him in connection with the outside world.

"The relations of roads to the common man is that it is his means of travel. In some intangible way there seems to be springing up an idea that there is a conflict between highways and country or lateral roads. Suppose we were back under the old regime when all roads were under the county. Your highways would still be the most used roads in the county. The state and federal aid relieve you of the building and maintenance of the most important roads.

"Down in my part of the state there are hundreds of once prosperous communities that are occupied by only negro tenant farmers. Here the best people once resided and now they are gone. Why? It is because people in these remoter sections where they do not have the advantages have moved away. The boys in the late war saw much of the world. They and the girls left for the cities where they would have the advantages of communication and not be cut off from the world.

"Texas and Oklahoma are agricultural states. When the farmer prospers all business is good. It behooves us to conserve this agriculture. We should all aid in the making of roads, not for our own bailiwick, but so they will be tributaries to the country and do the greatest good to the greatest number.

Safety For Traffic

I have convinced myself that for the highway commission or the county commissioners to make a grade crossing where the physical conditions will permit and overhead or underpass is nothing short of criminal negligence. Your present highway commission and state engineer are going to do all in their power to remove those now in existence and permit no more.

"Texas I think has the crookedest system of roads of any state I have seen. Some of them look like they were made by a man following a calf and they just decided to amble from one side of a railroad to another. The federal government has figured out it costs an average of 5 cents a mile to operate an automobile. Suppose there is just one extra mile in the road between here and Bowie. That means almost $100,000 a year lost that could have been saved. We expect to take the highways and as we are constructing or reconstructing them to jerk these kinks out."

Governor Johnston was called to the fronti mmediately after the Texan was through. He introduced several Oklahomans among them Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Singleterry. James Carr of Frederick, Mayor Brown of Frederick and A. R. Losh who he admitted was not an Oklahoman but who spent much time there. Mr. Losh said a few words and then the Oklahoma governor started.

Border War Reviewed.

"When we came across the bridge," he said, "there was a long string of cars, like ants, while over on the old wooden toll bridge was a single horse and buggy and I imagine the toll keeper gave him his passage. I have for a few hours stepped out of Oklahoma to clasp hands with Texas and say how proud we are that we can now intermingle with freedom."

Governor Johnston then went into a review of the history of the No Man's Land strip and other historical matters between Texas and Oklahoma. The cosmopolitan make up of the population of Oklahoma was reviewed.

"The peoples of these two states," he said, "talk alike, look alike and think alike. For the most part we are democrats, Baptists, Methodists and Campbellites with a few other denominations thrown in. Texas people have settled all over the southern tier of Oklahoma counties.

"This is the age of transportation. I can remember when a spring wagon was almost a curiosity. They were borrowed for funerals. We did not know there was such a thing as a hearse. Those roads paid little attention to section lines and took the path of least resistance. Today we are straightening out our roads to follow regular lines. The railroad will inot have so much to do in the future as we will use truck trains.

Governor Johnston and his party accompanied by Highway Commissioners Cone Johnson and Ely of Texas went to the bridge, made a brief inspection and returned to Burkburnett where the ladies of the Methodist church served lunch.

Parade Prizes Given.

During the luncheon it was announced that the parade prizes had been decided as follows:

Best decorated car, Mrs. F. H. Hood tied for first with Mmes. Paul and Blake Browning.

Best individual truck, Randlett Alexander Lumber company.

Car to come longest distance, C. P. Bishop, 10 miles north of Lawton tied with F. R. Osborne from Corsicana.

Practically every resident of Burkburnett was a member of one committee or another that had to do with the day's festivities.

Receipts at Yards Here Total 7000 Bales

The cotton market again showed a slight increase Saturday, the closing quotations being three points higher than the close of Friday. This advance, however, did not affect noticeably the prices paid for the staple in Wichita Falls.

Receipts were light Saturday, as they have been throughout the week. Wichita Falls cotton yards reported 60 bales received. Thi brought the total for the season to approximately 7000 bales, according to the cotton yard reports.

There was no change in the cotton seed market. The price paid was $36 a ton.

Darnell Outlines Farm Progress Toward System of Diversification

innumerable examples of this throughout the south.

There are many farmers this year who have come to fully appreciate the folly of a one-crop system of farming and have decided to practice a more diversified system of farming in future years. Others have fully resolved never to produce another bale of cotton on their farms. This is going to the other extreme for any farmer in th esouth. The southern states are naturally adapted to cotton production, and cotton should remain our prinicpal money crop in this section for many years in the future. The first class of farmers mentionad above have made the wise decision.

Balanced Program.

Our farming program should be balanced. It should include feed crops, hogs, dairy cattle, sheep, goats, and poultry, or at least three of these with sufficient feed crops to take care of them. After this and a good garden is planned, then plans for the cotton crop should be made. Live at home and have some cash commodity each month before you plan for the cotton crop. A farmer may wisely devote the major part of his time to dairying, hogs, poultry, and the production of feeds. I include feed production very advisedly, for success in this type of farming depends to a large extent upon the success of crop production on the farms. Each farmer should have on his farm 100 hens, ten to 15 good dairy cows, and raise from 20 to 30 head of hogs each year. However the balance of this article and the seven others to follow will be devoted to the farmer who plans to make dairying his major farm interest.

In the first place we will take up the advantages and disadvantages of daryinig in a permanent system of agriculture.

We might say in the beginning that a study of agricultural development in the past, both in Europe and the older states of this country, removes any question as to the permanent character of dairy farming. Agricultural history in all civilized countries teaches us that the first type of farming is grain, or staple crop production, followed by a depleted soil fertility. This condition is generally followed by greater attention being given to livestock production, first to beef cattle followed by a gradual change to dairy production. It is shown this stage is reached that soil fertility is retained and improved, and a permanent system of agriculture reached.

The reasons for this permanency in agriculture is because dairy farming improves the soil, furnishes a quick return on money invested, distributes the labor uniformly throughout the year, furnishes a cheap source of human food, and the best market available for roughages grown on the farm. Each of these advantages are worthy of a detail explanation, but space will not permit such a discussion at this time.

Program of Work

In dairying there are problems to be solved that are often times perplexing. It is not all a bed of roses, and no one should engage in the dairy business with the idea that it is an easy job. I say job purposely, for any dairyman will bear me out in the fact that it is not a position. One of the greatest advantages of dairying, to some men, is the amount of work required to successfully operate a dairy farm. It requires your time 365 days each year. But any succesful business will require an equal amount of time. If a dairyman organizes his work properly he will have ample time for a vacation, and as much time throughout the year for play as any man should take from his business. The criticism we hear of having labor trouble on a dairy farm is largely due to the fact that the wrong kind of labor is hired in the first place, and second, we do not have our barns and other dairy buildings convenient and comfortable in which to work. The other chief criticism is the matter of price paid for dairy products. This is not a just criticism as the price of dairy products fluctuates less throughout the year than most any other farm commodity. Too, there are a number of farms in which dairy products may be sold. If the dairyman produces the right sort of feeds on his farm he certainly can keep the cost of milk production sufficiently low to realize a profit each year on cows producing 360 pounds of fat yearly.

The success of dairying in a permanent system of agriculture depends to a large extent upon certain well known factors and seven of these factors will be discussed separately in articles which are to follow.

The seven factors will be discussed in the folowing order:

1. Selection of good cows for the dairy herd.
2. Selection of a herd bull.
3. Properly housing the dairy herd.
4. Properly feeding the dairy herd.
5. Care and management of the dairy herd.
6. Raising dairy calves.
7. Marketing dairy products.

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Stocks advanced with added vigor in a fairly active half session, today. Individual issues such as Sterling Products, International Match and others experienced rather sensational advances as a result of special influences while General Motors, steel, and others of the standard leaders moved higher was week end short covering movement developed. There was no new fundamental development of importance in so far as the general market was concerned as the week end trade reviews remained, as meaningless as they have been for some time in so far as giving any indication of forward business conditions was concerned. Wheat options rallied strongly on crop damage reports from the Argentine while other commodities ruled firm in quiet trading. The foreign exchange market quieted with most currencies showing but unimportance price changes.

Sterling products and United Drug were two of the oustanding specialties. The ubying resulted from knowledge that the directors of both these companies have agreed to recommend to their stockholders that they deposit their holdings in agreement to consolidation plan. A new holding company is to be formed and the stock therein offered for sterling products and United Drug sharres. Pools in household products and others tried to give the impression their pets would take part in the deal but this was denied in the best quarters. The United Drug-Sterling products deal is along the lines of that which brought Remington Typewriter and Rand Kardey organizations together in the new Remington, Rand corporation.

International Match started to climb at the opening. It moved ahead with greatest vigor in the final hour after the bankers for the corporation announced the deal under which the corporation gets what is practically control of the French market in exchange for taking five per cent. Government securities to provide funds for the redemption of the French 8's. The transaction is regarded by bankers as one of the achievements o fthe Poincare administration. It, not alone, means big interest saving for the government but opens the way for similar negotiations in connection with the French tobacco monopoly.

Atchison, Central and other high grade rails were absorbed in goo dmanner with no special influence except the continued easy money to explain the demand. Texas Company moved higher but other oils remained a trifle soft as the talk of price advances which was so widespread a few days ago, died out as realization of exact conditions in the industry showed that higher charge for crude at this time would not be warranted.

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5. (AP)—The cotton market was quiet today with the price movement correspondingly narrow. January contracts ranged from 20.81 to 20.94, closing at 20.84. The general market closed steady, net 2 points lower to 5 points higher.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3 points to a decline of 3 points, and the market worked up a few points in early trading on week-end covering and a little buying promoted by steady cables and prospects for freezing weather in parts of Arkansas and Oklahoma.

The relatively steady showing of Liverpool appeared to offset the effects of unfavorable Manchester trade advices and there may have been a little buying early on reports that one of the statistical authorities estimated the world's consumption of American lint cotton for the first three months of this season at 3,900,000 bales compared with about 3,400,000 for the corresponding period last year.

The very moderate demand was supplied on net advances of 6 to 10 points, however, and after selling up to 20.90 for December and 21.08 for March the market eased under week-end realizing. This was supplemented by southern selling in late trading and last prices showed reactions of about 8 to 10 points from the best on the winter and spring months. Later positions were relatively steady, July closing 5 points net higher.

Owing to the holiday on Tuesday there will be only one more full trading day in the local market before the government crop report is published at 11 o'clock on Wednesday and the greater part of the day's business was attributed to further evening up of outstanding accounts.

Private cables said hedging and liquidation had been absorbed by trade calling, covering and continental buying in Liverpool, but complained that offers for cotton cloths from India were mostly unworkable with spinners and manufacturers losing ground.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 120,000 bales compared with 169,000 yast year.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5. (AP)—The cotton market was comparatively quiet today and entirely dominated by pre-bureau influence. Liquidation developed on advances while shorts covered on the dips. After easing off to 20.95 in the early trading, December rallied to 21.10, but the advance did not hold and the option was closed at 21.00, eight points net up. The general market closed steady, net 5 points up to 4 down, with near months showing the advance.

Liverpool was better than due at the start here and first trades showed gains of four to eight points. The market turned easy right after the star and December dropped to 20.95 and March 21.07. Expectations of bullish crop estimates during the day and prospects for colder weather over the week-end encouraged buying, and December advanced to 21.10 and March 21.19, 12 to 16 points above the previous close. Covering was responsible for a large part of the gain.

For the remainder of the session prices fluctuated narrowly and within the early range. Near the close the market eased off gradually on some belated liquidation and closed 8 to 14 points under the highs. Exports for the day totalod 31,035 bales.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 5. (AP)—The stock market gave an impressive demonstratioin of strength in today's brief session. Some irregularities developed at the opening as a result of the usual evening up of speculative accounts, but a sudden demand from investment shares soon turned the course of general prices upward. Trading was unusually heavy for a half holiday session, total sales running above 1,000,000 shares.

Except for the announcement after the market closed that the French government had contracted to sell $75,000,000 of 5 per cent 40-year bonds to the Swedish Match company and use the proceeds to retire the outstanding 8 per cent bonds in this country and that $36,000,000 in gold would be shipped to Brazil beginning today, there was little financial interest in the day's news. Directors of the Safety Cable company declared a special dividend of $9.58 preparatory to entering the new cable company merger.

Despite a further cut of 50 cents a ton in steel scrap prices steel shares displayed outstanding strength. United States Steel common advanced more than 2 points to 136½, widening the spread between that issue and General Motors common, which closed 1¼ points higher at 131, to more than 5 points as against 1½ a few days ago. Bethlehem and Gulf States Steels each advanced about 2 points and Crucible 1.

Expectations of heavy holiday trade brought fresh buying into the mercantile shares. R. H. Macy soared 13 points to 230, S. H. Kress jumped 7⅝. Abraham and Straus and Outlet company 5½ points each and Gimbel Brothers 2.

Strength of the rails was rather surprising in view of the poor earnings and traffic statement recently published, although winter prospects are reported to be fairly good, particularly for the northwestern carriers.

Foreign exchange rates were irregular. Demand sterling was slightly firmer around $4.86 11-16 and French francs were again quoted above 3.91½ cents. Dutch guilders held firm around the year's high and Polish zlotys advanaced 5 points to 11.25 cents. Japanese yen dropped 18 points to 46.22 cents.

COTTON GOODS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5. (AP)—Cotton goods trading was quiet today with gray goods factors awaiting results of the government cotton report next Wednesday. Additional lines of low count, wide sheetings have been advanced to a basis of 48 cents to 10-4 bleached goods. Raw silk was steady. Linen handkerchiefs and fancy linens sold well, but household staple lines were dull.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5. (AP)—Swift upturns in the price of wheat here today followed reports that rust had developed in northern Argentina. The fact that on the rate of the Argentine crop now nearing harvest appears to depend largely the size of breadstuff supplies from the southern hemisphere made the market unusually sensitive to developments indicating that the Argentine production might be seriously curtailed.

Closing quotations on wheat in Chicago were unsettled, 1⅝ to 2⅝c net higher, corn ½@⅝c to ⅝c up, oats showing ⅛ to ¼c gain, and provisions varying from 20c decline to a rise of 7@10c.

Corn and oats ranged higher owing to sympathy with wheat. Country offerings of corn to Chicago were small, and temperatures were expected to be under normal early in the coming week.

Lard was somewhat firmer, responsive to the action of grain and cotton. Ribs, however, were lower.

FOREIGN CROP NEWS BULLISH

Wheat Shows Good Gain In Pit Trading

By Universal Service

CHICAGO, Nov. 5—Argentine crop news figured as the bullish influence in the wheat trade today and sharp price advances were recorded in the local market. This news came at a time when the short interest was quite extended and sonsequently there was an urgent demand for the offerings. Best levels were not held but net gains were substantial.

Corn trade was sluggish and the advance in prices was in sympathy with the bulge in wheat. Interest continued to be local in character as the trade sees nothing at the moment to induce heavy operations. Oats and rye also reflected the strength of the wheat market.

Wheat showed a net advance of 1⅝@2⅝c for the day. Corn closed ⅝@⅝c higher, oats were ⅛@¼c higher and rye ⅝@⅝c higher. For the week, wheat shows a gain of ¼@1c, corn is ⅝@½c higher, oats ½@⅝c higher and rye ¼@1c higher. Export sales of 500,000 bushels of wheat were reported at the seaboard.

Not much interest was displayed in the corn market. Prices were higher in sympathy with wheat, much of the buying being in way of covering short corn. There was scattered local buying with commission houses selling moderate quantities on the advance. Buenos Aires corn advanced 1c. Country offerings of corn were light but the current receipts are ample for present requirements.

Oats were firmer with wheat.

Livestock

TEXAS LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 5. (AP)—Only 1400 cattle and 800 calves arrived for Saturday's selling. Prices held Friday's level which showed: Slaughter steers slightly higher on good demand; she stock quarter lower; heavy calves 25 cents down and light veals steady.

There were 400 hogs present and they found a steady to strong market. One car good to choice butchers found a buyer at $9.90 and truck butchers made $9.85. Averages of 162 pounds sold for $8.75 and some good small sows brought $8.60. Other grades unchanged.

But 200 sheep reached the yards and they were in demand at about Friday's values. Not enough sheep have arrived during the week to supply pressing needs and the market has been strong with choice fat lambs around $13.00; wethers $7.50 and yearlings $10.00.

WOOL MARKET.

BOSTON, Nov. 5. (AP)—Advances in wool quotations have been checked by slow forward buying of raw materials by the mills is considered by most observers a very important contributing factor to the present situation. Prices, however, remain very firm because of the strong world markets and the relatively high rate of consumption of this country.

Farm and Garden

"Cotton ginning in Wichita Falls is just about to become a thing of the past, so far as this season is concerned," B. J. Biskup, superintendent and bookkeeper for the Jamison Gin company, said Saturday. "We estimated that 98 per cent of the local crop had been picked on November 1. Now, I believe at least 99 per cent of the crop is in. We will probably gin 100 more bales here this season."

"This is the first time in my experience as a ginner that we have been through this early in the season," Mr. Biskup continued. "The crop was practically all in by December 1 in 1917—that, until this year, was the earliest the crop has ever been picked so far as I can remember. Ordinarily we are busy ginning well up into March.

"This year's crop is much smaller than the 1926 crop. Last year we ginned 3900 bales. This year to date we have ginned only 1800 bales and do not expect to gin over 100 more bales."

Frank Duncan, who lives between Wichita Falls and Iowa Park, brought some cotton to the local markets Saturday. He said he had about three bales more of cotton left in his fields.

Mrs. G. A. Dietz of the County Line community knows how to get the most out of things. Here's what she obtained from one 183-pound calf: 60 quarts of roast beef, steak, meat loaf, chili and soup, which she put up last week. She bought a steam pressure cooker last spring and has kept it busy canning practically every kind of field and garden product. She uses only glass jars with glass tops and has been very successful with her products.

J. W. Watren of the Charlie community, who brought some cotton to town Saturday, lingered at Seventh and Indiana long enough to meet some friends.

J. A. Pruitt of Iowa Park sold some cotton in Wichita Falls for 23 cents Saturday. Yes, it was long staple.

C. Perry, Thornberry farmer, helped make the crowd at Seventh and Indiana a bit bigger Saturday. He sold some cotton while in the city.

"Cotton is 99 per cent picked out our way," declared G. W. Hood, who has a farm 14 miles east of Wichita Falls, while in Wichita Falls Saturday. "I have about two more bales left in the field. Many of the farmers out our way have finished picking their crop, and the rest of them will end it up next week."

When it comes to raising sweet potatoes, Babe Threadgill of the Bellevue vicinity, is right there with the saccharine spuds. He specializes in the Paddishaw variety, a long potato. One of his 1927 crop has attained a length of 19 inches and is pretty well filled out, he reports. The length includes the small ends of the potato, but it is all bakable and eatable, he says.

J. P. Church, who has a farm east of Wichita Falls, will call it a cotton season within the week, he said Saturday. One more bale will be about all he can find in his fields, he said.

"It's all over," Walter McGrath said when in Wichita Falls Saturday afternoon. Pressed for more details, he continued: "I am through picking cotton this year. The bale I brought today is my last for the season." He has a farm near Wichita lake.

J. A. Feity of Byers was among the many from farm and ranch who stopped and chatted with acquaintances at Seventh and Indiana Saturday.

J. C. Hartline, who has a farm on the Burkburnett road, was mingling with the crowds at the farmers' favorite gathering place, Seventh and Indiana, Saturday.

Many farmers are bringing their cotton "remnants" to the gins these days, according to local ginners. One gin man said that from five to eight customers have brought in remnants every day during the last week, most of them failing to get a complete bale on their final picking.

J. C. Randall, who has a farm on the Iowa Park road, brought some cotton to the Wichita Falls markets Saturday.

Bellevue farmers are beginning to turn their attention to truck gardening, now that cotton is about out of the way. Joe Mikeworth, who has a farm near Bellevue, reports that he is having particularly good luck with sweet peppers. He said he has a bounteous crop and that they are tender, brittle and highly flavored.

Among the Thornberry representatives in Wichita Falls Saturday was D. O. Fancher, who brought some cotton to the local markets.

H. E. Holly of Dean was among the out-of-town visitors who passed down Seventh and Indiana way Saturday. He sold cotton while here.

W. E. Turner, who has a farm west of the city, brought his last bale of cotton of the season to the markets Saturday.

"We're through," J. M. Davis, Wichita valley farmer, reported Saturday. "I brought my last cotton of the season to town today. The staple is just about all picked out our way."

Ewell Reid, who was in the city Saturday, reports that practically all cotton is picked on the farms around Lake Wichita.

"Those who depend on cotton picking for a living will likely go hungry if they remain around Jolly much longer," H. C. Trulow, Jolly farmer, said when in town Saturday. "We are just about done picking cotton down our way, only the remnants being left in the fields."

GAIN OF 950 BARRELS HALTS STEADY DECLINE IN NORTH TEXAS FIELD

Iowa Park, Young and Wilbarger Fields Account for Most of Gain

The north Texas district's decline in oil production was stopped abruptly and effectively the past week.

After dropping steadily for many weeks, the district produced 93,695 barrels daily the past week as ompared to 92,745 barrels the previous week, a gain of 950 barrels.

Young county, where three wells have been completed in the Morrison field at Graham, gained 790 barrels, averaging 12,580 barrels the past week.

Wilbarger county, thanks to TheTexas company and Smith and Brady producers, gained 280 barrels and made 10,830.

South Wichita county, known as the Iowa Park district, gained 245 barrels daily from three new producers, Vergate Oil company's No. 1 Kemp and Kempner, Henry Hobbs' No. 1 Watkins and John O'Neill's No. 1 Kemp and Kempner. Wichita county's total was 28,370 barrels.

The other areas showed losses but with more and more new wells being started, many of which are offsets to production, the district's output is due to gain for the next few weeks and by 1928 may be again at the 100,000 barrel mark.

PAVED ROAD TO WINKLER FIELD

Wickett Has No Depot But Rail Business Heavy

By Universal Service

WICKETT, Texas, Nov. 5.—Construction work is expected to begin here next week on a 15-mile air-line paved road from Wickett into the famous Hendricks pool of Winkler county. The road will be caleche case and hard surfaced with asphalt, the same as the state highway that passes through Wickett.

The cost will be about $100,000, according to T. J. Wagner, of Amarillo, who will build the road. About four months will be required to complete it.

Building of the road from Wickett to the field, has been necessitated because of the large amount of development work that has been going on here, both in the field and here in this town.

Building Activity

Southern Crude, with a tank farm on the eastern edge of town, is now constructing two more 55,000-barrel and six 80,000-barrel tanks, in addition to the present large storage capacity. This was the first tank farm for Wickett, which place was named for an official of the company, a subsidiary of Standard Oil.

Sale of 108 lots and a strip 300 feet by 4540 feet long along the Texas and Pacific track for a refinery site, was also announced this week by S. B. Edwards, Fort Worth, townsite owner. This site was purchased by the Blue Bonnett Oil & Refining company, and a modern refinery will be built at once.

Other "Farms"

Two additional tank farms are now being provided for Wickett, one by the Pure Oil, and the other by the Atlantic. Those two tank farms adjoin the town section on the west side. When they are completed there will be three tank farms and one refinery here, in a town built less than a year, and Texas' newest postoffice.

Wickett was started this spring by Edwards and associates of Fort Worth on the famous O'Brien ranch in Ward county. It is the nearest railroad point to the oil field, and without even a depot, the Texas and Pacific does business now in excess of $100,000 a month, according to estimate given by the chamber of commerce.

Leidecker Attempts Extension to Field

An effort is to be made to extend the Leidecker pol or northwest Jack county two miles to the north and since the attention of so many oil-men has been carried to that area, it would not be surprising to see Aaron Leidecker uncover something new at his new test.

It is No. 1, W. N. Moore, located 150 feet south and 300 east of the northwest corner of the east half of the south 100 acres of the J. N. Williams survey. Standard rig is now being assembled on the site.

GRAY COUNTY

Operators Oil company No. 2 Bowers, in section 85, block 3, of I. & G. N. survey, in the Pampa pocl of Gray county, had a slight show of oil in hard granite wash at 2313 to 2317 feet.

Pure Oil company deepened No. 4, Davis, in section 86, from 3200 feet, where it averaged 50 barrels a day to 3260 feet and the production increased to 360 barrels a day. Its success caused the Humble Oil and Refining company to deepen No. 1, Binkley, in the southwest quarter of section 86, from 3124 to 3185 feet and its flow increased from 30 to 110 barrels.

MOORE COUNTY.

Skelly Oil company No. 1 Armstrong, in the Freeman-Brazemore survey, in the extreme eastern edge of Moore county, which came in late in July as a producer around 3200 feet, was deepened from 3213 feet its previous total depth to 3293 feet and then another foot in it picked up water. It is now plugging back and averaged 61 barrels the past week.

DEEPEN OLD WELL

KOLL-TEX HAS SAND

Koll-Tex Oil corporation is preparing to set casing and test out the usual sand in its No. 4 J. H. White, located in block 12, section 41, A. T. N. C. L. survey, north Archer county.

Supply Exceeds Demand for Oil

Sept. Production Totalled 75,000,000 Bbls.

The United States produced and imported 2,818,000 barrels of oil daily during September which was 38,000 barrels daily in excess of the total domestic export demand.

Daily average crude oil production in the United States declined 13,000 barrels during the month, according to figures just released by the United States bureau of mines. The nation produced 75,081,000 barrels during the month of a daily average of 2,503,000 barrels.

The decrease was due mainly to developments in the Seminole where a number of good producers in Little River failed to offset the decline in the other pools.

Both of the other leading producing states, Texas and California recorded production gains during the month. West Texas was responsible for practically all of the Lone Star state's gain.

Total demand of crude oil during the month was for 83,392,000 barrels as compared to a demand for 87,634,000 barrels during August and 77,099,000 barrels during September, 1926. Total stocks of domestic and foreign crude were 339,741,000 barrels.

Imports of crude oil amounted to 5,122,000 barrels and of refined oils, 863,000 barrels, which, when added to the domestic production, gives a total new supply of oils during the month of 84,526,000 barrels.

Thus the following vital figures are arrived at:

Daily average supply	2,818,000
Daily average demand	2,780,000
Daily excess	38,000

Exports during the month totalled 1,297,000 barrels of crude and 9,649,000 barrels of refined oils. Thus it is seen that the exports far outstrip imports, leaving domestic production and demand responsible for the difference.

20 Acre Tract Brings $22,500

Rhader and Carey purchased the 20 acre "B" lease of C. P. Burton and Stanley McGregor in the McGregor-Farmer pool of southwest Archer county for a consideration of $22,500 and have already begun development of the property, having made location for No. 2 Farmer.

The one well on the lease is making 20 barrels daily and there are a number of practically proven locations which the new owners will drill.

Two Wells Drill South of Iowa Park

The wells completed last week by Vergate Oil company and John O'Neill on the Kemp and Kempner lands southwest of Iowa Park are serving as impetus for two more tests there. John O'Neill has started his No. 2, 1320 feet north and 1170 west of No. 1 in block 58 K. W. V. L. and Vergate's No. 2 is located 500 feet southeast of No. 1 in block 55.

Trahan Puts Down Test in Oklahoma

Paul Trahan is letting the Archer county production become settled while he transfers his attentions temporarily to the field of Cotton county, Okla., having made location to drill No. 1 W. D. Smith in the southwest corner of the east half, southeast quarter of 34-1s-10w, and just northeast of the field.

Second Christian Test Started by P. F. Gwynn

P. F. Gwynn will try again to uncover production on his G. W. Christian lease in extreme south Archer county, having made location for No. 2 north of No. 1 and 750 feet from the south and 150 from the west lines of the west 90 acres of section 1593, T. E. & L. survey.

CASTLEBERRY DRY.

The Texas company is drilling at 1150 feet in its No. B-2 Castleberry, located in section 66, block 14, H. & T. C. survey of Wilbarger county. This test encountered a sand at 1116-18 feet but tested dry. It had previously tested salt water in a sand at 1110-12 feet.

GAS FOUND IN SHERMAN TEST

Gibson No. 1 Bivins Gets 5,000,000 Ft. Flow

Special to The Record News.

AMARILLO, Nov. 5.—Gibson Oil corporation's No. 1 Bivins, in section 35, block 3-B, Sherman county, Saturday found 5,000,000 cubic feet of gas at 3003 feet and is correlating with producing areas of the Panhandle.

Seven miles northwest of the Gibson test, Phillips Petroleum company No. 1 Fuqua in section 33, block 2-B, is drilling at 3000 feet, having encountered very favorable formations. These tests are the most important in the north Panhandle as they will either prove or disprove a northwest trend of production.

Panhandle field's production the past week was 85,985 barrels daily from 1387 wells, comparing with 88,750 barrels in the previous week from the same number of wells, a decrease of 2685 barrels.

In the field past week, only one well in the pay, two locations and the purchase of the Alamo Refinery by the Phillips Petroleum company were the only important developments for the oil industry. However, the gas industry gained considerable momentum owing to the announcement by the Prairie Oil and Gas company and its subsidiaries that final negotiations had been completed for the Amarillo-Denver gas line.

Camel Well.

Four miles due west of Pampa, the Camel Oil company No. 1 Harrah, located in the southwest of the southwest of the northeast quarter of section 163, block 3, Gray county, hit the top of the granite wash at 3127 feet and at 3190 feet the well was spraying 75 barrels of oil daily. This well is one and a half miles northeast of the Empire well in section 161, which is a 25-barrel well. The Camel well is likely to open up another gusher pool for Gray county and revive an area that has hitherto been regarded as light potential territory.

Two Locations.

Another location was made in the Bowers area by the Sun Oil company, in the northeast corner of the northeast corner of section 94, block B-2 Gray county, to be called No. 1 Jackson.

Holmes and Quinn announced a location about one mile northwest of the Nunn-Stubblefield No. 1 Cooper, in the northeast quarter of section 5, block 9, Carson county, which extended the Roxana-Bryan pool over a mile northeast. The Holmes and Quinn No. 1 Quinn will be drilled in the southwest corner of the southwest corner of section 9, block 3, southeast Hutchinson county.

Phillips Buys Refinery.

Announcement was made from the Bartleville office of the Phillips Petroleum company that it had purchased the holdings of the Alamo Refining company in the Borger pool of south Hutchinson county. Phillips also announced that it would increase the capacity of this refinery from 2000 barrels daily, present capacity, to 7500 barrels. It is expected that this purchase will keep the Phillips from building a refinery in this pool as they announced some time ago. This purchase it considered another proof of the faith which the Phillips Petroleum company has in the Panhandle field.

Amarillo-Denver Gas Line.

Prairie Oil and Gas company gave out the statement this week negotiations had been completed and actual work on this company's gas line from its holdings in Potter, Hutchinson, Moore and Carson county to Denver would begin at once. This line will cost around $22,700,000 and will be a little over 400 miles long. The coal strike in Colorado and New Mexico has done much toward clarifying the disputes that have held up the final completion of the contract for this line.

East Extension To Graham Area

While numerous new wells are starting up in the Morrison field adjacent to Graham in east central Young county, the most important news coming from that sector yesterday was the report of an eastern extension by Lindsey and Roller's No. 1, Craig, located in the E. H. Ross survey, which had the sand below 2000 feet and was estimated good for 40 barrels.

Among the new wells starting up in this area are Pitzer and West's No. 2, Hinson in the Paul Pier survey and located 370 feet west of their No. 1, which came in two weeks ago as an 800 barrel well. It is rigging up cable tools. Pitzer and West are also beginning their No. B-3, Morrison, 400 fete south of B-2 in the E. Sherell survey.

Coons and Hotchkiss have erected derrick for their No. 4, Morrison in the northeast corner of the west 20 acres of the Sherell survey and are spudding in their No. 3 Morrison in the southwest corner of their 40 acres tract in the Hamilton survey.

Atlantic Starts Two In North Young County

Atlantic Oil Producing company is active in two new tests being started in north Young county. Atlantic and F. P. Rose are rigging up to drill their No. 1 S. M. J. Benson, located 150 feet north and 450 feet east of the southwest corner of the east 60 of the south 160 acres of section 1829, T. E. & L. survey.

Atlantic Oil Producing company has the derrick up for its No. 3 Keene in north Young county, the location being 150 feet from the north and 1650 from the west lines of section 3401, T. E. & L. survey.

Electra Watches Tests Northeast, Northwest

Electra has its attention divided between two wildcats drilling northwest and northeast of the city. McLaughlin Brothers, after numerous adversities, will soon be making hole again in their No. 1 Guyer, located eight miles northwest of Electra and in Wilbarger county. Derrick has been rebuilt here for the second time.

Seminole Tears Loose Again! Seventh Pool Opened Saturday

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 5. (AP)—The Gypsy Oil ompany was believed to have opened the seventh pool in the greater Seminole area today with a 90-barrel an hour gusher located one and three-fourths miles northwest of the Bowlegs pool. The flow was coming from one foot in the Wilsox sand at 4454 feet.

The well is the second wild cat strike in the Seminole area in two days.

A well with an estimated potential daily production of more than 3000 barrels was brought in three miles south of the Little River pool yesterday, extending the north and south range of the Seminole area to 22 miles.

Fearing discovery of new flush production, operators of the Seminole area, meeting in Tulsa Thursday, decided not to life restrictions against the Little River pool and all new wells outside established pools. Under the agreement all new wells included in the restrictions are pinched in to produce not more than 100 barrels a day.

SAFER TO KEEP LID ON FIELD

Too Much Oil Produced, Say Operators

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 5.—There is too much oil being produced today for oil folks to become overly optimistic.

This is what Seminole field operators decided at their hearing here in ordering the 'lid' kept on that great field until January 1, 1928, because they felt that if the bars were lowered that too much drilling would set in and some of the isolated wildcat tests in the Seminole district might develop new pools and develop more production just when everyone wants production to decline.

Seminole's decline below 400,000 barrels a day caused considerable revival of interest and optimism among oil men, and this continued as the daily gauges put the production down to 390,000 barrels, but the committee feels that the threat of West Texas and the isolated Seminole wildcat producers is too great to sanction.

To Nov. 1 the Seminole field is estimated to have produced 117,500,000 barrels of high gravity oil, and even if it drops 300,000 barrels a day by the end of 1927, its ultimate total will be large.

Seminole City pool, in 9-6, where both the Hunton lime and Wilcox sand were first found is estimated to have produced 50,000,000 barrels to date, and it is now averaging 64,000 barrels a day. Its daily peak was 264,000 barrels.

Searight pool in 10-6, has produced 1,500,000 barrels to date and is now making 25,000 barrels daily.

Bowlegs in 8-6, has produced 25,000,000 barrels; Earlsboro 21,000,000 barrels, and Little River has made 1,500,000 barrels to date.

Watch the Burbank

While many other areas in Oklahoma have had a wonderful recovery it is said that had the government allowed the Burbank field in Western Osage county to have been developed as Seminole was, that it would have become one of the greatest oil fields of the country.

Burbank's peak in daily output was 126,000 barrels, and the development was only on lands sold, and every phase of new development there was used as a medium of helping another Osage lease sale. This causes one to recall that on Dec. 6, or soon thereabouts, the government is to hold another Osage sale.

Reason for the sale is that a 5,000 barrel well has just been brough in by A. G. Oliphant and others in 20-27-6, and it offsets directly or diagonally several unsold tracts of land and thus drains the reservoir under these leases.

194 Official Completions

There were 194 wells 'officially completed' in Oklahoma, Kansas and the Texas areas, excepting Gulf coast, the past fiscal week, an increase of 31 over the previous week. Of the total, 102 were oil wells for 44,337 barrels initial against 32,619 the week before from 163 wells. The 14 gassers had an initial flow of 178,000,000 feet, a gain of 27,000,000 feet and with three less wells in. Dry holes numbered 75, a gain of 11.

On the basis of actual initial production the past fiscal week the Oklahoma fields led, although Texas could have been first. Seminole kept the Sooner state in first place the 27 wells in Seminole county making 19,132 barrels and the four in Pottawatomie doing 3,175 barrels, or 22,267 barrels as whole. Otherwise Oklahoma was was just ordinary.

Kansas fields spruced up a bit and the 16 new wells made 4,303 barrels, compared to the 1,720 barrels from 11 the week before. Sumner county and the Oxford pool was largely responsible for this gain.

In Texas the largest potential well was in Pecos county, and two of the three completed in Pecos were good for 12,000 barrels or better. They did not actually produce that much oil. Therefore Gray county led with the best well, one making 6,100 barrels. The Panhandle, Central, West Central, East and West Texas all accounted for completions.

Oil Shipments Decline

Evidence of the changing conditions in the oil business today, with less demand for crude and more oil going into storage, is seen in the monthly figures of the Prairie Pipe Line company. It shipped 5,156,296.75 barrels in October, or 166,332 barrels a day, compared with 5,321,179.56 barrels is September and an average of 177,598 barrels a day.

Watch Muskogee Sector

The highest degree of certainty of success in drilling exists in the old Muskogee field of eastern Oklahoma, according to L. T. Haney, petroleum geologist, who has just moved from Tulsa to Muskogee.

Some of the conclusions in urging a new drilling campaign in that sector, include: All the oil produced there is high gravity, ranging from 40 to 44 gravity; of paraffin base, with exceedingly low sulphur content and makes an extra good bright lubricating oil, thus commanding a premium under all markets. The sands are shallow, ranging from 200 to 2,000 feet, with ideal drilling costs. The territory is accessible by railroads, highways and pipe lines and with local refineries. More than 500,000 acres of territory has never been drilled, and some of the oldest wells in the state are thereabouts.

Shaw and Rathke To Drill in Sand

Special to The Record News.

JACKSBORO, Nov. 5.—Drilling with a rotary rig, Shaw and Rathke have topped the sand at 2012 feet in their J. W. Cullers No. 3, J. R. Cullers survey, abstract 2188, and they are preparing to drill in.

Location for their Cullers No. 4 has been made 433 feet west of their Cullers No. 3 and 150 feet south of the north line of the lease. Leidecker-Holman No. 4, P. H. Rice survey, abstract 1442, is drilling at 227 feet. The Buttram-Jones No. 5, S. P. R. R. Co. survey, abstract 550, is drilling at 316 feet. The Watchorn-Williams No. 1, B. S. & F. Co. survey, abstract 88, is drilling at 5030 feet in a hard grey lime.

U. S. REACHES GASOLINE PEAK

But Consumption Stayed At High Mark

Daily average gasoline production in the Unoted States established a new high mark during the month of September of 942,000 barrels, an increase of 20,000 barrels over the previous month. The indicated daily average demand, according to G. R. Hopkins, bureau of mines statistician, was 947,000 barrels which was slightly below the record figure of the previous month.

This continued high consumption of gasoline again caused a material drop in refinery stocks, which fell from 33,455,000 to 29,738,000 barrels on hand September 30 which is the lowest point attained by gasoline stocks since December, 1923.

At the current rate of total demand, the September gasoline stocks represent 28 days' supply compared with 31 days' supply on hand one month before and 37 days' supply on hand one year ago.

Domestic demand for other refined products such as kerosene, lubricants and was continued above the average for 1927 and stocks of these commodities were again reduced. Stocks of gas, oil and fuel oil at refineries continued to increase, though at a reduced rate as compared to previous months.

Refinery data was compiled from 329 refineries, operated during September at 79 per cent of their capacity as compared with 332 refineries operating at the same per cent of capacity in August. The 329 plants have an aggregate daily crude oil capacity of 2,897,000 barrels.

Total oil runs to stills, including domestic and foreign crude, unfinished oils, natural-gas gasoline, were as follows: East coast 13,590,000; Appalachian, 2,613,000; Indiana, Illinois, etc., 6,770,000; Oklahoma, Kansas, etc., 9,819,000; Texas, 14,517,000; Louisiana and Arkansas, 6,348,000; Rocky mountain, 2,151,000; California, 19,124,000 for a total of 74,932,000 barrels.

PECOS OUTLETS ON INCREASE

New Pipelines in Operation, Others Start

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 5. — The spotlight on West Texas oildom shared almost equally last week by Howard, Winkler and Pecos counties focused this week largely on the Trans-Pecos.

The third hourly open gauges for the revising upward of pipe line runs, completed Tuesday, indicated total daily potential production by 39 wells in eastern Pecos and western Crockett county at 313,371 barrels. This represented a gain of seve nwells and 82,069 barrels over the previous gauges the middle of October, showing how rapidly is being developed the area in which it has been predicted 1,000 tests will be drilled within the next ten months.

While the Illinois Pipe Line company ran the first crude Sunday through its new 137-mile, 8-inch line, from the Pecos-Crockett pool to the Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas company's mammoth tank farm on the Southern Pacific railroad two miles east of Del Rio, sites for ten pumping stations were arranged and engineers began surveying between the tank farm and San Antonio for the 10-inch line to be laid by Illinois to deep water. The eastern terminus of the line, it is understood, will be the ship channel near Houston instead of a Gulf port.

The Transcontinental Oil company is expected soon to announce plans for a 10-inch line to be built by its transportation division, the United Producers Pipe Line company, from the Trans-Pecos to the Houston ship channel. With terminal storage, it will cost an estimated twelve and a half million dollars.

Gulf Pipe Line company the middle of the week had ditched over five miles of its line from the Yates-Smith field to loading racks on the Orient railroad near Hurdle.

Runs Increased

Completion of the Illinois line southward made possible the increasing of pipe line runs from 30,000 to 43,000 barrels daily.

Marland Oil company brought in two of the week's producers in eastern Pecos county on the east half of section 60, block 1, I. G. N. Railway company survey. Its No. 3A initially flowed 720 barrels of fluid, 65 per cent oil and 35 per cent water, in 18 hours, wide open at 1,148 feet. Earlier in the week Marland No. 2A Yates came in at 1,045 feet, flowing 590 barrels the first 24 hours through a three-eighth inch choke and four-inch gate, making only 1 1-10 per cent water and basic sediment. No. 4A Yates late in the week was drilling out a cement plug.

Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental No. 6B Yates resumed drilling after shutting down at 960 feet to move back the boiler after striking some oil and considerable gas at that depth.

Girls Trekking Through Country Fine Lot Generally, Says Y. W. Secretary

"Well, maybe that's the last of the 'cross country' girls," Mrs. Austin of the Y. W. C. A. told a Record News reporter Saturday.

The girl, a business-like, interested young person of anywhere from 18 to 22, walked into the Y in her dusty—but smart—hiking clothes, inquiring after a room for the night.

"I always go to the Y's," she explained, "because I want to be sure its a nice room. Don't want to waste time getting into the wrong place."

She was on her way to Washington state from New York and had been on the road several weeks. The long trek was to include stops in El Paso and California and correspondence with an eastern paper was paying expenses of the trip. "Get a check in Fort Worth," she explained to the Y workers, who made tactful inquiry as to the state of her finances. Whatever may be the reason for it, the Y. W. doesn't take chances on a girl getting in a jam if it can be helped, especially when its obvious that she's not the kind of girl who's looking for "jams."

"We've had the 'cross country' girls all summer," Mrs. Austin explained. "You'd be surprised to know what a splendid lot of young women they are—all really going somewhere and getting so much out of it. And all of them getting by with so little trouble—just being as normal and happy and adventurous as boys, and no complexes at out 'not being treated right.' They're learning to see to it that they are treated right, themselves.

"It's getting so cool now, we don't expect many more. But it's a pleasure to have them come swinging in, so light-hearted and happy and so purposeful in their adventuring.

"All the girls seem to make it for the Y headquarters in each town as soon as they get in, or get something to eat. They say they run the risk of unpleasant experiences when they go to rooms not recommended by the Y and they've learned not to take chances."

Business Women To Have Program Tuesday

An interesting program of music and readings will be offered members and prospective members of the Business and Professional Women's club Tuesday night at the regular weekly meeting at the Y. W. C. A.

Miss Trixie Lockhart and Miss Elizabeth Weldon, junior college students, will offer a number of clever selections. Miss Lockhart is a graduate of the school of expression at San Marcos and will give several readings. Miss Weldon will sing with ukelele accompaniment.

Any business or professional woman or teacher interested in joining the club may attend the meetings and all members have been urged to bring friends and visitors. Those desiring dinner may secure their meal in the cafeteria, the old custom of plate reservations have been discarded.

Miss Grace Sanderford, president, is reported improving slowly after an operation two weeks ago. Miss Ethel Andree, vice president, will preside at the meeting.

STOLEN CAR RECOVERED.

A Buick coach, stolen from Burkburnett late Friday night, was located Saturday morning on a lane leading off the Henrietta road about three miles from Wichita Falls, by Constable Frank Morgan. The car was turned over in a ditch, and two wreckers were required to move it from its position. The name of the owner has not been learned by officers.

SHIP CARRIES CARGO OF GOLD

$11,000,000 in Specie Sent To Brazil Port

NEW YORK, Nov. 5. (AP)—A treasure trove of $11,000,000 in $20 gold pieces—a cargo to raise a Kidd or a Morgan from his mouldy grave—was aboard a Munson line steamer today destined for Brazil where it will fill an unromantic economic destiny in helping that country attain the gold standard.

The gold, first of a total movement of $36,000,000 between the United States and Brazil, represents a portion of the proceeds of a recent issue of $41,500,000 of Brazilian 6 1-2 per cent external sinking fund bonds sold in New York. Before the first of the new year it is expected that the entire $36,000,000 or 67 tons of gold, will have been removed to the South American country to help further a reorganization of its monetary system.

The first shipment—comprising 550,000 $20 pieces stored in 220 kegs—with the utmost secrecy was put aboard the liner Pan-American yesterday for departure today. Huge armored cars conveyed the gold-laden casksk from a federal reserve branch in the congested financial district to the ship's pier. Stalwart guards with heavy caliber automatics swung from their belts, kept watch over husky truckmen as they transferred the yellow cargo to the vans and thence to the vessel's hold.

Public Exhibit on "Art Appreciation"

W. B. Hamilton will talk on "Art Appreciation" at 4:30 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, at the Womans Forum when a gallery tour of the Ben Foster Memorial Art exhibit will be sponsored by the forum and talks made by Mr. Hamilton and S. McClelland Yunt, who has charge of the exhibit.

The Womans Forum has opened to the general public the exhibit of the Ben Foster collection of paintings now being shown under the direct supervision of Mr. Yunt of the Yunt art galleries of Kansas City. The paintings may be viewed by any one who wishes to see them, from 3 to 6 o'clock at the Forum building Sunday afternoon. Mr. Yunt will give several talks on the painter and the different paintings, during the afternoon.

Members of the art department of the Reagan and Zundelowitz, junior high and the senior high schools will be given an opportunity to see and study the paintings, under the direction of Mr. Yunt and their sponsors, Misses Ima Pendergrass, Lois McGauhey, Mabel Cole and Miss Juanita Robertson, general art supervisor of the city shools, at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Yunt has just received several new paintings which will be shown in addition to the Ben Foster collection: "Domes of the Yosemite," by Thomas Moran; "New England Landscape," by Henry W. Ranger; "Two Dogs," by Rosseau; and "Firelight Reflections."

It has been said the Grand Canyon made Thomas Moran famous. Many other artists have tried to put it on canvas, but none have caught the grandeur and majesty and transferred it to canvas as he has. "Domes of the Yosemite" is on a canvas 35 by 50 and will be arranged on the stage of the auditorium, where its gorgeous coloring may be viewed from a pleasing distance. This one picture reveals the marvelous vision of Thomas Moran and places him as the greatest colorist of the old school of painting. Walter Cline and possibly a few other Wichita Falls citizens possess Moran paintings.

Henry Ranger's "New England Landscape" and Rosseau's picture of the dogs brings one to more familiar things but they, too, have their message of beauty and one understands after hearing Mr. Yunt's talk.

"Firelight Reflections," by another artist is one of the outstanding pictures just received.

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1927

Wichita Girls Appear In Lovely Costumes At Waco Cotton Palace

Wichita Falls was represented at the 1927 Cotton Palace at Waco this week by four attractive young ladies whose beautiful gowns added a great deal to the splendor of the occasion. These young ladies were Misses Ruth Moore, daughter of Mrs. Charles Tucker; Retta Barnard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Barnard; Miss Elizabeth Couper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Couper, and Miss Frances Ann Saunders, niece of Mrs. W. C. Witcher.

Miss Moore as Duchess of Wichita Falls, wore an imported model of silver cloth, with touches of green. Her train made to simulate the scales of a mermaid, by glistening iridescent sequins. Her headdress was made of the same glistening sequins with green predominating. Her slippers were of green gold.

Miss Barnard, her maid of honor, wore an exquisite dress of chiffon in pink and orchid with slippers to match. Her train carried out the two tones in iridescent sequins to represent scales and her headdress of iridescents completed a pleasing whole.

Miss Couper represented the University of Texas and was one of four princesses at the coronation. The princess of Texas was from San Antonio, and the other two were: Princess of New York City and Princess of the State of North Carolina.

Miss Couper wore a striking white beaded costume with a heavily jeweled train. The train was of white chiffon embroidered in gold and silver jewels. Her headdress and slippers were silver and hand made silver flowers held her train in place.

Miss Frances Ann Saunders was her maid of honor. Her costume was shaded pink chiffon heavily beaded in iridescents of gold. The train was of pink chiffon with hand-made gold scales. Her slippers were gold and her headdress of the same completed the pink and gold ensemble.

The coronation was staged in a gorgeous setting, to represent a turquoise cavern, the throne room of the ocean depths where King Neptune and his queen, reigned. It was propounced the most elaborate affair ever staged by the Cotton Palace.

Miss Bonnibel Glasgow of Waco as queen wore an imported costume typifying the pearl, in harmony with the idea of an ocean fete, and was a robe of solid pearls and iridescent sequins which in the light took on rainbow tints. The idea of fish scales or a mermaid's pearl armor was effected by the pearls massed in ovals, with strings of pearls from which dewdrops of pearls were pendant, as of the water dripping. The train was several yards in length and was tasselled and festooned with ropes of pearls.

A Juliet cap of pearls and the long hair worn like pictures of mermaids, was held by a pearl bandeau. Necklace and bracelets were of pearls and diamonds.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Couper, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tucker and Miss Faye Fisher attended from Wichita Falls.

On their return from Waco, where they attended the Cotton Palace, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Couper stopped over in Dallas where Mr. Couper attended the golf tournament. Mrs. Couper attended the D. A. R. Conference in Fort Worth and was a guest at the banquet given at the Texas hotel.

CANTWELL TELLS PURPOSE OF EDUCATION WEEK

Coming Week Will Be Given Over To School Problems

By J. W. CANTWELL
Superintendent of Schools

The governor of Texas and the state superintendent of public education have requested school authorities to observe American education week, November 7-13. The American Legion and the National Education association have joined hands to make the most of this time to create in the minds of the people more interest in the work and success of the American public schools.

The primary purpose of the observance is to bring the home and school a little closer together to the end that the home may be more fully acquainted with modern aims of public education and with the degree of success that is being achieved. To achieve the accepted aims of modern education requires better trained teachers than were formerly required, and the school plants and equipment must be better.

In short, progress requires that the home and school keep close enough together to have a common understanding.

There are seven fundamental objectives which have been accepted for the American public schools and the teachers are in one accord to attain these ends to a greater degreer.

They are: (1) south health; (2) worthy home membership; (3) mastery of the tools, technics, and spirit of learning; (4) faithful citizenship; (5) vocational effectiveness; (6) wise use of leisure; (7) ethical character.

Each school day of next week, parents and friends of education are invited to visit the public schools of Wichita Falls and inspect for themselves the work that the children are doing, and learn at first hand just what atmosphere and what environment are maintained in our schools. A welcome will await all who come. A sense of duty and a feeling of interest should fill the schools with parents and friends during the coming week.

We think the various clubs of our city should call attention of their members to this most important week and urge co-operation of all to make it full of good to our public schools. If we shall have the support and sympathetic interest of the public, it will be a great stimulus to higher achievement in the future.

Wichita Falls Women Aid In Forming New P.-T. A. Group At City-View

Coming under the extension work of the P.-T. A. city council Mrs. John Kay and Mrs. I. R. Sheldon attended the organization of the City-View school P.-T. A. Friday afternoon, over which meeting Mrs. Kay presided. The new school which had its formal opening this fall, is located on the Iowa Park road at Zang boulevard. Thirteen enthusiastic parents and teachers make up the new associations' membership, which promises to accomplish many things worthwhile under the capable leadership of its staff of officers. The purchasing of play ground equipment and the beautifying of the school ground will be among the first work it will sponsor.

Among the notables who will speak at the state P.-T. A. convention to be held in Houston, November 14-17, are Governor Dan Moody, Supt. S. M. N. Marrs, Bishop Quinn, Mrs. A. H. Reeve, national P.-T. A. president. Mrs. Maggie W. Barry, Mrs. A. W. Birdwell, and T. W. Davidson. Mrs. Ira L. Cain, state juvenile chairman, will also appear on the program.

Observing national education week, the Junior college high school has set itself a daily program on which to focus the interest of the student body from day to day, so that the ever fascinating game of life may be better played by each individual. The council would recommend that such concerted study be made a part of every school's celebration.

Austin School To Apply Principles Of Education Week

The week beginning November 7 to 13, is American education week. Its purpose is to acquaint the public with the work of the schools and their needs and is nation-wide in scope.

In keeping with the spirit of American education week, Austin School Parent-Teacher association, through its teacher members, is doing all in its power to aid in helping the school to observe and give publicity to this movement. Each day in the week has a central theme for thought, and Wednesday, Nov. 9, is called, "Know Your School" day, therefore on Wednesday parents are asked to make that day a special visiting occasion. They are to be welcomed at the school by hostesses of the P.-T. A. and by the teachers, are urged to visit their children in the different rooms, so that they can see the actual work being performed with the children as it is done each day.

There will be teachers and hostesses on each floor to register the parents, show them where to go and extend them every courtesy of the school, so that there will be no phase of school work which will be a closed book to them.

"Let the week be a time of deeper understanding on the part of the people of the role education has played, is playing and must play in the life of our great democracy. That nation is greatest that puts the child first in its thinking."

(Extract from American Education week pamphlet.)

Austin Reorganizes Boys' Council

An organization of boys which has proved highly successful and helpful is the boys' council of Austin school which has been reorganized for the school year 1927-1928. This is the council's third consecutive year. At their last meeting Dr. J. W. Cantwell addressed the boys on the physical fitness of the Swiss boys as observed by him during the past summer, and urged the American boy to have as his goal a strong and perfect body.

The council is made up of boys from the fifth and sixth grades and its object is threefold—to establish ideals of good citizenship; to carry out the measures of safety education; to develop higher physical fitness. Special entertainment in the way of local speakers, plays and contests will supplement the program for the year. The members have attractive buttons as an insignia.

The president of the boys' council is Truett Oakes, vice president, J. Z. Powell, secretary and treasurer, J. C. Man. Miss Sara Sue Denny and Miss King are sponsoring the council.

It has been a cherished dream of those interested in Austin school that one day a much neded auditorium would be added to its efficiency. The spectacle of 225 members of Austin school Parent-Teacher association crowded into two small class rooms, thrown together, and overflowing into the corridors, at their monthly meeting on November 2 may prove that Austin school is in need of an assembly room.

Care of Babies

This baby has never had a day's sickness and never a cross or fretful spell that lasted an hour. And what do you suppose is responsible for this healthy, happy condition? Not diet, for he has eaten just about anything and everything a child could eat. Not drugs, for he has not been dosed with opiates; he has never had a drop of paregoric. Nor has his sensible mother ever made him taste castor oil. Yet his nerves are sound and his little bowels are strong, and when he does seem the least restless or wakeful, or out of sorts—or likely to be—his mother has him all serene again in ten or fifteen minutes!

The secret of this complete freedom from the many ills and upsets so common to infants? Plain old-fashioned Castoria. A million and more mothers swear by Castoria, and no wonder! A few drops and an approaching fever, colic, diarrhea or constipation seems to vanish in thin air. Castoria is purely vegetable; that is why physicians tell parents they may use it freely with children of any age—the youngest infant. And how they love the taste!

One word of warning; get the pure, real Castoria. Fletcher's Castoria is the original. It is the kind doctors specify. And with every bottle comes a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" that is worth its weight in gold to any mother or prospective mother. So, remember; tell your druggist you wish Fletcher's Castoria.

The Strongest Step
YOUR CREDIT

The standard of a man's worth is—Credit! Therefore, the strongest step he can take is to protect that standard at all costs.

You've heard this said about someone you know: "He may be all right, but he doesn't pay his bills."

A collector at the door oftener than usual . . . and account closed against further retail credit . . . a name brought up in the meeting of bank's loan committee . . . notice in the "Court Review" . . . here are dozens of ways in which the credit record of a person could become clouded.

A man is judged in the business world as well as socially by the way he pays his bills. Whereas a record once clouded may be cleared up . . . it can only be done with difficulty. It is much wiser and easier to maintain a good record for prompt pay than to rebuild one that was permitted to become unsatisfactory.

For the sake of your good name . . . for the sake of the credit standing that may mean so much to you in the future, pay your bills promptly.

Local Club Woman Submits Motto For State Federation

Editor's Note—The following article written by Mrs. W. A. McGee on a fitting motto for the Federation of Women's clubs of the state of Texas, is particularly interesting just at present, in view of the state convention to be held this week in El Paso.

By MAY MARSHALL McGEE.

In making the application of our State Federation "motto" to the individual club—it seems fitting that we should consider first the definition of a motto. According to Mr. Webster, a motto is a sentence suggesting or embodying some guiding principle; a club ideal in other words.

Indeed then we find our Texas federation motto—to be a real literary gem—beautifully mounted in the gold or right principle. It is the embodiment of that finer club spirit—which liberalizes, broadens and justifies, as it bespeaks for every member a true democracy through club study and fellowship. It guides toward constructive thinking and concerted effort—which when welded together, form the strong chain of cooperation.

Co-operation then is the keynote from which we sense the harmonic tones—from the hurtful, destructive discord! But congeniality must also figure in, if members are to council together on matters of common interest to all.

So, in a great club federation such as has Texas—a state motto comes to serve as a sort of lubricating oil poured over the cogwheels of organization in order to keep down potential friction.

With such a motto guiding our better efforts—our hopes and aims shall ever be one of high and holy purpose—that of a beautiful, idealistic club spirit.

Truly this has been hailed as the club age—or the day of clubs!

Therefore, the goal of every member should be to further the cause of education through health, civic, economic and literary programs. For 29 years now women have been working together in Texas in organized groups—seeking to place themselves on a mental equality with men. To what extent they have succeeded or made good in this—the men have thus far failed to shout or proclaim it from the house-tops!

But seriously speaking—women have pushed forward and accomplished much for themselves and their families—since the coming of the federation in Texas. They are fast doing away with illiteracy—while trying to build up a stronger race physically and mentally through the cultural development of all the different cycles of man's nature.

Furthermore, they have found club work to be far more interesting and entertaining—and far more intellectul than all the pink-teas and high-scores played by societies four-hundred, throughout the past.

Again it might be said, that in the days of long ago—where two or three women gathered themselves together in the name of idleness—there gushed forth neighborhood gossip! Now, it can be truly said, I think, that where two or three women are gathered together in the name of the federation—there is a nucleus for a club. A constructive club.

So we see women pull together through co-operation—as well as do the men. They league together through special courses of unified study in which they grow broader mentally, and spiritually. Women now think independeutly and clearly. And they have created in them a new spirit of fellowship which makes for progress and growth. They have linked their lives together in the reaching of certain goals or ideals! They are doing constructive thinking and putting much of it into practice. Women now have a wider liberty—a certain independence and unity, centering about one ideal into which there is woven all the graces of charity.

"In unity there is strength," so we're told. But in division there is weakness and that patriot who said "United we stand; divided we fall," must have had the 20th century sweep of vision, together with its social progress, political victories and its steady advancement of its women's federated clubs.

"In small things liberty—in large things unity—in all things charity," for the greatest of these is charity and charity is the gospel of love. Surely a motto such as this would appeal to our club, or any other.

If Back Or Kidneys Ache Drink Water

DrinkFreely and Often to Flush the Kidneys, Also Take Salts.

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Letters From a Wichitan On Broadway

By Frank Ernest Nicholson

BROADWAY is all agog. The current theatrical season has blossomed forth with all its glamour and tinsel. New bulbs have been put into the electric signs, the theaters swept out, last year's chewing gum scraped off the chair bottom, and twilight finds a seething mob of theater-goers milling about Times Square.

To date there are 53 new stage productions being shown along the Rialto, and seven more are to have their opening night next week. A few will endure—though it is improbable that any will approach the long run record of "Abie's Irish Rose," now in its sixth year at the Republic theater. In the assortment of comedies, dramas, reviews, musical shows and what not, are to be found the world famous stars, a small number of new-made stars, numerous near-stars, many would-be stars, and a few stars of yesterday who, as the tradition goes, can never quite shake off the call of the theater after once they have tasted success. Edna Wallace Hopper—the 63-year-old flapper—is coming back and will see her name blazed along the Great White Way as it was when she was a Broadway star some 40 years ago. Hope Hampton and Raymond Hitchcock have both returned to the stage. Likewise Eddie Cantor is back in the Ziegfeld Follies after leaping into the movies and then leaping right out again.

AND amid all of this Wichita Falls' contribution to the New York stage is rising rapidly to fame. She is appearing at the National theater in a Sam H. Harris production, "The Trial of Mary Dugan"—one of the outstanding dramatic hits of the season. This young lady plays the part of an ex-Follies girl upon whose testimony in the courtroom scene hinges what is perhaps the most dramatic turn in the entire play.

This Wichita Falls girl—in case you have not already guessed it—is Miss Leona Maricle, and well known in the city's younger social circles. No doubt many will recall Leona's appearance in numerous plays and expression recitals during her school days. It was the beginning of a career that will, from all present indications, carry her far up the ladder of success.

Leona began her study of dramatic art under Miss Arvilla Jacobie, one of the first teachers in the old Wichita Falls conservatory of music and art. The other night I witnessed a reunion of these two at the stage door of the National. It was the first time her teacher had seen Leona since "pig-tail" days, and one could hardly fail to sense a bit of the feeling that Miss Jacobie must have had; a sort of pride in that perhaps it was she who had first instilled into Leona's mind the art that is causing her to become a famous actress. And by the way, Miss Jacobie is Miss Jacobie no more—having married Professor D. E. Gardner, one of the head masters of the Rivervale School for Boys.

'THE TRIAL OF MARY DUGAN' was one of the first dramatic plays to open this season, and the prospects are that it will enjoy a long life. Each night since the première the company has played to a full house, which proves that the public likes it. The lordly critics have nodded their approval of the show in general and have not held back in their praise of Leona's ability.

It is astonishing to find the number of Wichita Falls people, who are rapidly achieving success in New York circles of the higher arts. Next Sunday I shall tell you of Wichita's contribution to the concert field.

Business Conditions in Texas

TEXAS predicts a large crop of cotton this year. Texas' farmers did not confine themselves to the production of cotton alone. They went in strong for poultry. They went in strong for berries and vegetables.

Now the Federal Reserve bank of Dallas in its review lets the world know that reports from many sections of the district say that farmers are paying off as rapidly as possible, both old and current indebtedness, and that banks are seeking an investment outlook for their funds.

Another feature of the report deserves mention. "Such a development greatly strengthens the district's banking situation and places the individual banks in a position to meet the legitimate demands of their customers out of their own resources," is the very gratifying announcement made.

Furthermore, it is said that heavy liquidations at both banks and mercantile establishments, the rising tide of banking deposits, the increasing volume of public standing and the large volume of funds seeking an investment outlet were outstanding developments during the month of October.

Producers of beef are in excellent shape. Producers of mutton and lamb and sellers of wool and mohair look upon the future with a vision of prosperity assured for years to come. A cotton crop that may touch the 4,300,000 bale mark at prevailing price draws to Texas a huge sum of new money.

And this is one of the reasons why banks are seeking an investment outlook for their funds. Holiday trade should be very heavy from the gulf to the mountains, and the mercantile classes should not view the future with alarm. This Texas brand of prosperity does not benefit any one class or calling alone.

Relief From Tax Burdens

"PROSPECT of relief from tax burdens at two points, appearing simultaneously, will be greatly welcomed to Texans," editorializes the San Antonio Express. "On the day Secretary Mellon presented his new program calling for a reduction of $225,000,000 in the federal levies, Governor Moody proposed a 20 per cent cut in the state advalorem rate, which would save property owners additional millions."

Our Alamo city contemporary reminds its readers that both Washington and Austin developments are significant as revealing sustained good times, "which Texas shares with the country as a whole."

Why should millions be piled up in the Texas treasury beyond the income necessary for the support of government? Why should millions be taken from the pockets of the taxpayers of Texas merely to create a treasury surplus?

Why should hundreds of millions be taken from the pockets of the people of the United States in order to create a yearly surplus ranging from $350,000,000 to $500,000,000?

Secretary Mellon admits that there will be a huge surplus in the federal treasury. Then why continue heavy corporation tax; heavy nuisance tax; heavy automobile tax or other war time taxes which are not needed for the maintenance of the federal government or to meet the obligations of the federal government?

Why pile up a surplus of from five to seven million dollars in Texas? In July it was impossible for the members of the automatic tax board to peer into the future and speculate as to the conditions of prosperity or non prosperity in fall time.

All the crops have been gathered. All classes and conditions of wealth makers find themselves, financially speaking, in shape to meet their obligations. They are paying back taxes. They are paying their loans to the farm land banks. They are buying automobiles. They are buying luxuries of life as well as the necessities of life. Bank deposits are larger than they have been for years. As for the farmers, they had two or three lean years. Their last has been a reasonably fat year.

There is no reason why a high tax rate should be imposed where a high tax rate is unnecessary.

Speaking of federal taxes, this is peace time and federal lawmakers should cut to the bone without crippling the departments of government or the administration of governmental business or affairs. In Texas property owners should not be taxed to create a surplus. They should not be taxed except to provide revenue sufficient to sustain the departments of state government and to meet the obligations of the state.

Donaghey of Arkansas

FORMER Governor George W. Donaghey of Arkansas is classified as a Democrat. He is prominent in the ranks of the farm organizations calling for the enactment of relief laws for the farmers. He attended the St. Louis conference. He made a speech and he made a hit. He said yellow dog partisanship should be forgotten, and reminded his fellow farmers, "You can't explain away this situation by saying that prosperity is just around the corner. Not a dollar of the $20,000,000,000 lost in 1920 has been regained."

This former governor of Arkansas contends that the deflation policy the government inaugurated in 1920 cost the farmers and livestock producers of America $20,000,000,000. Now he demands the same degree of tariff protection should be extended to agriculture as to other interests and the government must establish an agency to fix or regulate prices of farm products.

Governor Adam McMullen of Nebraska attended the St. Louis conference. He advised the farmers of both parties to strive for the nomination of men who are right on the agricultural question. McMullen is a republican. His denunciation of President Coolidge for the McNary-Haugen bill veto was blistering. He paid his respects to Senator William A. Borah, declaring that the program of Borah had no other purpose than to divide western farmers in the interests of eastern reactionaries.

Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas was a speaker. He demanded that the farmer be put on a basis of equality with other industries. He declared for the McNary-Haugen bill in its original form and insisted that it should be put over next winter and sent to a republican president who vetoed it when it ran the gauntlet of both houses and stands ready to veto it again.

Senator Arthur Robinson, said to be a klan leader from Indiana, likened the St. Louis meeting to the assemblage for the signing of the Declaration of Independence. He said crop surplus control was economically sound, and declared the same principle had been used in the federal reserve system. The war is on between the growers of things and the makers of things. There is no telling how far it will carry next year. Makers of things control the government. Makers of things control the machinery of the republican party. Makers of things have the backing of the financial kings of America.

Simmons of North Carolina

SENATOR F. M. SIMMONS of North Carolina is the ranking Democrat on the senate finance committee. Representative John M. Garner of Texas is the ranking Democrat on the house ways and means committee. Simmons of North Carolina believes that a slash of $400,000,000 could be made in tax reduction.

He is for the repeal of the excise or nuisance taxes, including the automobile sales tax, all of which levies Secretary Mellon wishes to retain.

Simmons of North Carolina insists that a reduction in the corporation tax, now at 13 1-2 per cent, should be greater than the 1 1-2 per cent proposed by the administration. In addition Simmons of North Carolina contends that tobacco growers are entitled to some reduction in the tax imposed upon their products.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

Discovered; a Chinese who is an ardent Irish patriot! Lemon Lee Sing, a laundryman living in Jersey City. Not long ago he aroused some comment by adopting an eight-yer-old negro orphan who had been beating his way about the city. The two are now inseparable friends. And the other day, Judge Meaney, who had presided over the adoption, received a letter from Lemon Lee in which was enclosed one of the ten dollar Irish free state bonds, issued in 1920. Lemon explained that as Ireland was getting along pretty well now, he would like to dispose of his bonds. Would the honorable judge please dispose of them? He would and did.

The new vehicular tunnel, about to be opened, leading from downtown New York to Jersey, under the North river, is no doubt a great institution, but if ever I need to travel Jerseyward, the ferry-boat will carry me. The tunnel may be quicker and more efficient, and certainly it is a triumph of engineering, but I am all for the blowing breezes and the vicarious scents of shipping.

Governors I Have Known

—By—

Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald

WRITTEN EXCLUSIVELY FOR THE WICHITA FALLS RECORD NEWS

TEXAS HAS a marvelous political history as well as a pioneer history of intense romanticism and coloring. Rickard Coke was the first Democratic governor to come after the Civil War. He was heart and soul for the Confederacy that had died. General Lawrence Sullivan Ross, a knightly warrior and a statesman of the old school, closed the period dedicated to reconstruction and partial replacement of the fortune that had perished in war time. Then came the Hogg period which lapped over to the coming of Dan Moody as governor of Texas.

Hogg and Culberson did not wear uniforms of gray. Sayers and Lanham were gallant soldiers of a lost cause. Lanham was the successor of Sayers. Since the passing of Lanham veterans of the lost cause have disappeared from the picture.

* * *

THOMAS M. CAMPBELL was a native son of Texas. When Lanham retired, Campbell stepped in.

There are many high spots in the public career of the man who became known to the politicians and people o fTexas as the "Sage of Palestine."

He received his education in the public schools and finished at a denominational college. He was the operating chief of the International and Great Northern railroad in 1896 when Bryan and his "crown of thorns and cross of gold" fantasy threatened to sweep the country. He was the only rail operating chief who declared for the election of Bryan and the coming of free silver at a ratio of 16 to 1. He had been a follower of Hogg in all the political battles of that remarkable leader.

George Gould was the voice of American railways. He administered a call-down to Campbell for his temerity in taking sides with the free silverites which the gold-standard men were convinced would bring disaster and perhaps destruction upon the business interests, private and corporate, of all America. Campbell did not show the white flag. Neither did he run up the yellow badge of servitude. He stuck to his colors. He had won the friendship of the labor organizations of Texas, including the powerful railway unions. He was close to the tenant farmer and the small landowner of Texas.

They believed in free silver and they did not forget the operating chief of an important railway who was a champion of their side of the controversy.

WHEN THE time came for Lanham to return to private life Campbell announced as a candidate for governor. There were powerful contenders. Oscar B. Colquitt was an entrant. Charles K. Bell, who had been an attorney general and a congressman, was an entrant. Judge M. M. Brooks had thrown his hat into the ring. And Brooks had the friendly support of United States Senators Charles A. Culberson and Joseph Weldon Bailey. In those days they had what they called a Texas county nominating system. That is, all the names of contenders were placed on the official ballot. Then the delegation was divided according to the strength each had developed in the county primary. There was a bitter fight. After all the counties had recorded their preferences Campbell was the leader.

A great convention was held in the city of Dallas. Conquitt was second in voting strength. Bell and Brooks ran third and fourth. Brooks' backers recognized the inevitable. Brooks was out of it. Colquitt and Brooks were at the sword's point. Bell remained in. He wanted to be given the acid test. Bailey made one of the most remarkable speeches of his career. This following the organization of the convention. Bailey's lieutenants did not look for him to go to Campbell. He gave them a surprise. In his speech he told the story of the seige of Lucknow, that tragedy of the Sepoy rebellion and if there had been pipers in the convention they would have responded with their shrill music when one of the most eloquent orators of the age had an idol of his party announced, at the conclusion of his oration "The Campbells are coming."

THAT SPEECH is said to have given the nomination to Thomas M. Campbell. Col. R. M. Johnston of Harris county was the leader of the Colquitt forces. After the nomination had been made he mounted the rostrum and roared at the top of his voice, "We will meet you at Phillippi—four years hence." He was as good as his word. Four years later Conquitt was the winner.

As governor of Texas Campbell made many important recommendations to the lawmakers. His administration was responsible for the banking and insurance departments of the state government. His administration smashed the convict lease system in Texas. For many years the convicts had been leased or sold to the highest bidder or bidders. They were worked in lignite mines, on plantations, on farms, in clearing away timber from lands or on public works. It was a system that became a stench in the nostrils of the civilized people of the commonwealth.

As governor he believed in trust-busting and making life interesting for the violators of anti-trust laws—federal or state. He was chief executive when the Waters-Pierce Oil company was convicted of violation of the anti-trust law and compelled to pay into the treasury of the state a fine amounting to a third of a million dollars. This made it possible for him to give property owners for a year at least the lowest tax rate in the annals of state government.

HE WAS the champion of labor legislation, and many of the labor statutes of the day were enacted by Campbell lawmakers, and Campbell approved the bills.

He believed that taxation should be equal and uniform. Of course he had the constitution for his guide. He forced through the famous full-rendition act. This caused the farmers of the blackland counties of Texas to rebel against his cause and his candidacy when he asked for a second term. He favored drastic legislation regulating the liquor traffic. Indeed, he believed in state-wide prohibition or at least his political enemies said that that was his real attitude on the liquor question. He was for closing gambling houses wherever found. He was not made by Warwicks of the period unless Joseph Weldon Bailey paved the way for his nomination when he declared at Dallas "the Campbells are coming."

There was a story told of him that one day shortly after he had been inaugurated a gentleman called at his office and won an audience. Campbell accepted the congratulations of the visitor and then, with his Scotch smile, remarked, "I have been told that you are the maker of governors. Let me remind you that you did not make me. The people made me governor of Texas." This closed the interview.

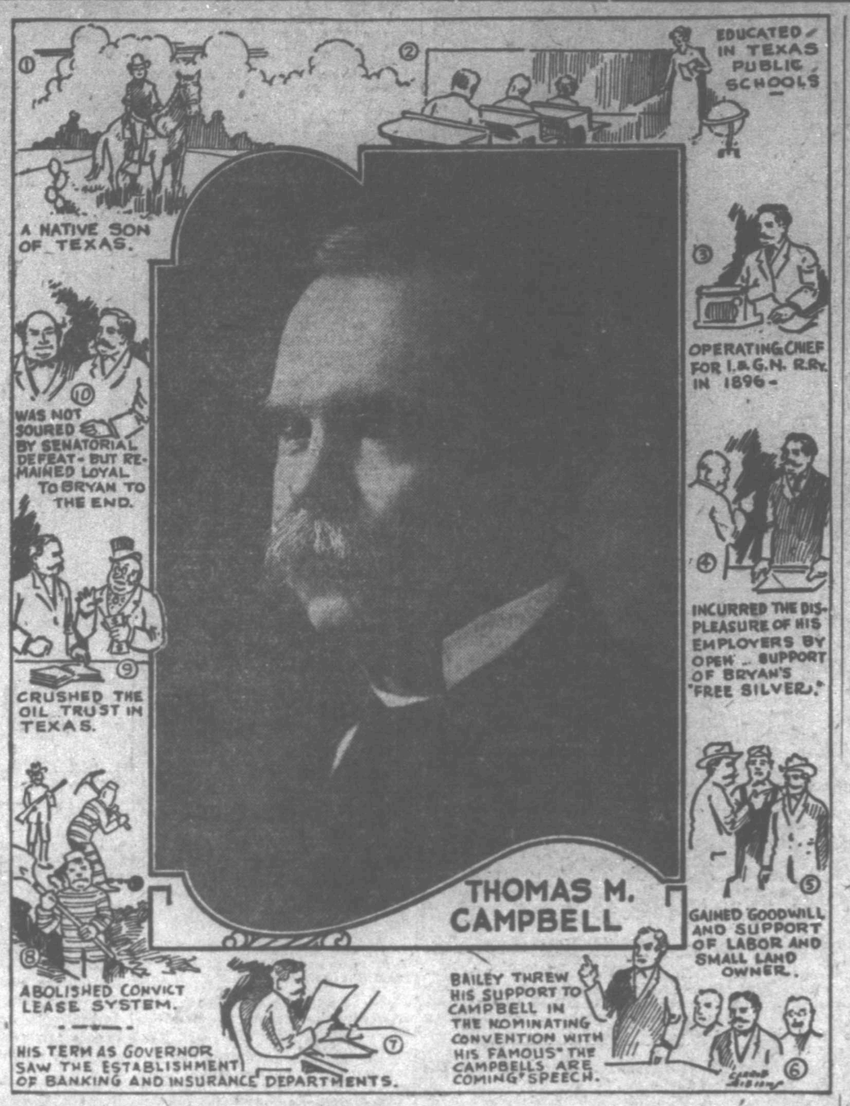

Campbell announced for a second term. Thousands of blacklanders in the rich counties of Texas were in open rebellion.

AT CUMBY in the county of Hopkins, they found "Blacksmith Bob" Williams. He was a unique character. He had been shot many times by foemen in the battles of the Confederacy. He had served a term in the legislature. He had great weight in Hopkins county on account of his quaint sayings and anvil philosophy. His campaign was managed by able Democratic leaders of north and central Texas. It was an ugly revolt on the part of land-owners in many sections.

N. W. Finley, a lawyer and leader of the state democracy, was in the land of the living. He slipped over to Cumby from Dallas and he made kodak pictures of "Blacksmith Bob." Copies were made and they were given a wide distribution as living pictures of a man who asked to be made governor of Texas because Thomas M. Campbell had forced through his full rendition law.

Jacob F. Wolters, then as now, was a power in the politics of Texas. He was an anti; Campbell was a pro. Wolters and his followers declared against the candidacy of "Blacksmith Bob," threw their influence of Campbell and he was renominated.

"Blacksmith Bob" received a total vote in the primary that touched the 120,000 mark, and this in the days when a primary vote of 300,000 astounded the natives. Campbell held fast to his program, but the full rendition law became obsolete and taxation did not become equal and uniform in Texas.

AS GOVERNOR he had many fierce battles with lobbists. As governor he lashed the lobby and its kings. He was a progressive Democrat of the Bryan type. He was a prohibitionist of the evolutionary type, but he knew how and when to compromise. There were times when he did not dig up more snakes than he knew how to kill.

He was genial and companionable, and newspaper correspondents or magazine writers from abroad always knew the way to his private sanctum under the big dome.

Hogg said of him, "Tom Campbell always walks around a stump. He never walks into the stump. There are men who know how to walk around and there are others who come in violent contact with the stump."

It was said of Culberson that he always knew where to find his hat. It was said of Campbell that he always knew where to find his stump. He said to the writer many times, "I am for the under dog, if the under dog happens to be right and it has been my experience and observation that the under dog is usually a creature of adverse circumstance and special privilege legislation."

* * *

HE WAS ambitious for the people to elect him to a seat in the American senate. It was a noble ambition, but it was not realized. As has been said he was for Bryan through and through. He had attended many national conventions as a delegate and had ever championed the Bryan policies and the Bryan policies and the Bryan conventional programs.

He made many speaking campaigns before he retired from the office of governor. He built a state machine. As a bridge builder, he easily handled the weapons of a skilled craftsman.

There were thousands of white farm renters in Texas. He listed these humble toilers as the under dogs of society and state. His political enemies classed him as a demagog; his loyal followers as a humanitarium and champions of the rights of the common people.

When the time came he declared himself a candidate for the office of United States senator. There was a large list of contenders.

Campbell made a very active campaign. It carried him from the gui to the borders of the Rocky mountains. When the balloting was over and the count had taken place he had lost the prize. He had fallen 100,000 votes short of his expectation.

He engaged in the banking business for years. Defeat did not sour him. He continued as one of the rank and file to champion the cause of Bryan and the Bryan ideals and governmental economics. These were classified as "vagaries or fallacies" by Democrats who did not recognize Bryan as the titular leader of the democracy.

He was a delegate-at-large in 1920 and battled for the cause of McAdoo in the national convention of that year. Bryan submitted to the convention a minority report for the prohibition plank of the majority report and Campbell insisted that the Texas delegates should accept the Bryan substitute and repudiate the majority report signed by Gen. M. M. Crane, member of the platform committee for Texas. There came a showdown. A poll of the delegation was taken. Thirty-two voted to throw the Bryan substitute into the wastebasket and eight voted to repudiate their own committeeman and the work of the foremost Democrats of America who had assisted in the making of the platform.

THIS FORMER governor of Texas shed tears when the result was announced. Bryan was his idol. This action of the delegates infuriated the Prince of Peace. He declared the offending delegates would be compelled on their return to Texas to alight from the train at water tanks to avoid the wrath of the people in the centers of population. Not a delegate lit at a water tank.

This row over the platform drew from Joseph Weldon Bailey the caustic criticism "these Texas delegates were drys on the journey to San Francisco. While there and on their return they were wets."

The Prince of Peace lived to play a star part at the Madison Square Garden convention four years later. His devoted Texas follower and lieutenant had then paid the debt that he owed nature. His son, Thomas Mitchell Campbell was a district delegate and held a seat under the dome of the great garden building where the Democratic party paved the way for a suicide for the second time in four years. Young Campbell holds an important office in the Moody administration.

Then came Oscar B. Colquitt, a Georgian by birth, a nephew of Former Governor and Former Senator Alfred H. Colquitt of that state. Some of the high spots in his career will be given in the fifth of the series of sketches prepared for the readers of this newspaper.

THE NIGHT WATCH AND THE WOULD BE SOMETHING AWFUL

BY GEORGE ADE.

Once there was a full-sized Girl named Florine whose Folks kept close Tab on her. Any night-blooming Harold who presumed to keep the Parlor open after Midnight heard low Voices on the Hallway and then a Rap on the Door. If Florine put on her Other Dress and went to a Hop then Mother would sit up and wait for for her, and 1 o'clock was the Outside Limit. Consequently Florine would have to duck on the Festivities just when everything was getting Good. Furthermore she would have to warn Mr. Escort to be-have himself when they drew near the House.

"Nothing doing at the Gate," she would say, warningly. "It's Dollars to Dumplings that the Girl Detective is peeking out to get a Line on my Conduct. She has her Ear to the Ground about four-thirds of the Time and if any one Moves, then Mother is Next. If Father takes a Drink from his Stock in the Locker at the Club and then starts Homeward on a fast Trolley, Mother knows all about it when he is still three Blocks from the House. What's more she is a knowing Bird and can't be fooled by Cloves or these little Peppermint Choo-Choos. The only time when Mother kisses Father is when she wants to catch him with the Goods. Look Out! This is our Corner."

As soon as they had londed at the Gate, little Florine would say in loud, clear Tones that would carry as far as the Sitting Room Window, "Oh, Mr. Giblitz, I have had a most charming Evening, and I want to thank you most heartily."

FANCY LINEAGE

Whereupon the Escort, standing eight feet away, with his Concertina Hat in his Hand and the Face in the Moonlight beaming with Child-like Innocence, would come back thusly:

After which, Mother was supposed to believe that they had been eight feet ajart all Evening. But Mother was Canny and up to Snuff, with a Memory that reached back at least 25 years. These little One-Act Plays under the Window did not throw her off for any part of a Minute. Before Florine turned in she was Cross-Examined and required to tell with whom she had danced, and why and how often and what he said.

Occasionally the Daughter worked the Mental Reservation. In other Words, she held out on Mother. She said that she had sat out most of the Numbers, but she admitted going through a Square Dance with the Young Man who passed the Plate at the Episcopal Church.

At which Mother would wink the Off Eye and Murmur, "Is that so?" with the Loud Pedal on the "That." Also something about being more than Seven.

One of Flarine's Ancestors on Mother's Side happened to be on Earth at the time of the Revolution, and Father often spoke of a Second Cousin who had been in Congress until the District had tumbled to him. Because of this current of Blue Blood racing in her veins, Florine was supposed to be a trifle Classy and Mother was always afraid that she might get Thumb-Marks on the Family Escutcheon. Therefore Florine was forbidden to work up a calling Acquaintance with any of the Hoi Polloi, which is Greek for Selling-Platters. According to Mother, there were only about eight Families in Town that really belonged and some of them didn't Belong enough to hurt. Florine found herself out of many a Good Time because the Chaperon for the Occasion chanced to be related to some one who had been in the Liquor Business.

SHE TOOK HIM UP

Florine was up against it ever so Hard. She had to go out in the Grape Arbor when she wanted to chew gum, and she kept her Reading Matter under the Mattress. Nearly every high-speed Batchelor in Town had been forbidden the Premises because of the Stories that were going around. The kind that Mother approved were of the Lilac Division with White Puff Ties and their Hair glued down. They talked about Choir Practice and sometimes, when they were sufficiently wrought up, they played Charades.

The only Chance that Florine had to mingle with the Popular Boy, was to go own Town in the Afternoon and just happen to meet one of them at an Ice-Cream Parlor. Florine learned to be quite a Happener. But on the way home she would have to fix up a few Jules Vernes for the Old Lady in the Watch Tower. Mother knew that it didn'ttake four hours to be measured to a Shirt Waist.

"Wait until I get Married," Florine would say. "I'll make that Stutz racer look like a Steam-Roller. If Mother doesn't let up on me, I'll learn to smoke Cigarettes."

At times she was so desperate that she was ready to join a Troupe or elope with a Drummer. She wanted to get out among the Bright Lights and hear the Band Play. And she knew that she couldn't turn Flip-Flop and break the Furniture and play Rag-Time along after Midnight until she had become a Respectable Married Woman. So she had her Distress Signal out and used to drop very Broad Hints, when she was chatting, with the Lads who happened to be in the Soda-Water Resort when she dropped in. They liked Florine for Keeps, but when one of them thought of clinching with old Eagle-Eye, the Family Sluethe, he weakened.

Florine would have remained a Dead Card if she had not gone on a Visit to a neighboring City where she bumped into the Town Trifler. He had a Way of proposing to every Girl the first time he met her. It always seemed to him such a cordial Send-Off for a budding Friendship. Usually the Girl asked for Time and then the Two of them would Fiddle around and Fuss and Make Up and finally send back all the Letters and that would be the Finish. Florine fooled the foxy Philanderer. The moment he came to her with the Marriage Talk She took a firm Hold and said:

"You're on! Get your license tomorrow morning. Then cut all the Telegraph Wires and burn all Railroad Bridges."

They were Married, and strange, as ti may appear, Mother immediately resigned her Job as Policeman and said:

"Thank Goodness, I've got you Married Off!" Now you cman do as you please.

When Florine found that she could do as she pleased she discovered that there wasn't very much of anything to do except Settle Down. After about seven Chafing Disc Parties she expectedyi fetaoin Dish Parties she expended her whole Stock of pent-up Ginger and now she is just as Quiet as the rest of us.

Another Cabaret—Up In The Air

A Samaritan in the Receiving Line

By MARIE THERESA

THIS column would have to cease functioning if the young ladies of Wichita Falls would come out in the open about their engagements and weddings. Just look at the whispering Marie Theresa might have done last Sunday in this space if a certain three young ladies I could name—now—had just been frank and candid about their plans. Three snap weddings last week—and I didn't get a word in about any of them until after the parties most concerned were good and ready to have the facts known.

But one lady is now being slipped up upon and I could almost reveal her identity for she hasn't refused me permission to tell the rumor, for the mere fact that she doesn't suspect that I know anything at all about it. But how could Marie Theresa help but know when the lady is known by a circle of friends that just won't reveal enough for a news story but persistently tell little rumors that are flying about.

She has just returned from Dallas where she has been—but if I tell that, I may have to account for my source of information, and that wouldn't be fair, would it?

* * *

NOW for something somewhat different—the very charming little sister of Chester Wynne who is here from Dallas for an extended visit is about the prettiest little thing you ever saw—blonde and quite petite. She is already being well entertained, and if the number of parties already planned for her are any indication of the feast of fetes she will bring about—Marie Theresa foresees another season of extreme high pressure.

* * *

I DID believe that I'd have some rest between weddings—there isn't a wedding in sight—only those two I've tried so hard to tell you about and I'm afraid they won't be much more than rumors for sometime to come.

But if it isn't weddings it's something else and getting a hurried peep at the beautiful dresses of the brides and the bridal party is somewhat a change from the general everyday run of things.

Speaking of the lull in social events that we who type them out are always hoping for but which never comes—there will be a short in-between season and then, another cabaret dance—sponsored by the same personnel who "put over" the last one, but this time out in the open air—way up high, oh, no, I can't tell just how that is going to be managed just now, but maybe I may tell you all about it next Sunday. I can say this right now—it will out cabaret the last affair, which is somewhat an inducement for those who had the pleasure of attending the last cabaret event at the Forum.

REFERRING again to work which seems about the most ponderous subject possible—just now that the clock is nearing midnight and Marie Theresa has been pretty busy all day—an unusual thing happened to the editor of the woman's page last week. She had gone out to the Forum to cover a story in the happening and as she was being "taken down" the receiving line, one of the ladies stopped her and offered to come down to the office each day and work as a staff member just for the pleasure of doing the work! A little unusual, don't you think?

And the most unusual thing of all is that she came. She has been helping Marie Theresa now for the past four days and does an entire day's work and asks for more—and there always is more, too!

So if when you call down at the news office and hear a familiar voice saying, "This is Mrs. Wade" you will know the Samaritan who has come to my rescue just when all other assistance was lacking, is Mrs. E. W. Wade.

Are there other ladies who would like a little practical experience in reporting the regular weekly meetings of clubs, run out and "cover" an art exhibit, chase back and do a little re-write and run down all the ladies who expect to be doing any entertaining for the next three weeks, etc., etc., and scare away rumor that newspaper work is so-o-o interesting? If so, call my number and I will arrange a daily schedule quite rapidly.

BURKBURNETT SOCIETY

BURKBURNETT, Nov. 5.—One of the prettiest parties of the whole Halloween season was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Marshand on the Sinclair lease. Upon the arrival, each of the guests was presented with a cap and mask which was worn while the games were played.

The house was decorated with lighted jack-o-lanterns, witches, bats and black cats. Navajo blankets were used as tapestries to curtain off a place to dance. A witch found fortunes in a caldron for each of the guests.

Mrs. Marshand, the hostess, was assisted by her mother, Mrs. F. H. Hood.

Betty Jane Hill's Party

Betty Jane Hill, three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hill, entertained a number o fher small friends with a Halloween party at her home on Vans avenue, Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. When the guests arrived each in costume they were given a dance hat and rattler or horn.

Games were played and a prize offered for the one who could put the eyes nearest the right place on the pumpkin face when blindfolded. Jackie Kelly won first and Frankie Barrow won booby prize. Both children were presented with Halloween toys.

Miss Ella Billingsley and Mrs. F. H. Hood assisted the young hostess' mother in serving the guests who were: Reba and Harriet Chambers, J. C. Adams Jr., Betty Joe Gilchrist, E. L. Blum Jr., Mary Margaret Browning, Shirley Jean Anderson, of Grandfield, Luther Lee Grace, Stephen and Hellen Ann Marchand, Betty Joe and Irma Tackwell, Billie and Frankie Barrow, Jackie and Louise Kelly, Janie Louise Barrow.

Matrons Entertain

The Matrons' class of the Central Christian church entertained their husbands at a Halloween party in the annex Monday night. The husbands were left outside until everything was in readiness, then made to pass through a dark labyrinth where the first thing they saw was an old witch stirring snakes on the floor, who informed them that "A cat his nine lives but you have only one." At every successive step in the labyrinth it seemed that an attempt was made on that one life. After the victim had shaken hands with a clammy ghost, stumbled over bed springs, ran into a stove that was connected with a live wire, and been slapped in the face with a wet towel, he found himself back in "civilization" where games were played until a late hour.

Junior-Senior Party

Miss Pauline Patterson entertained the Juniors and Seniors of the High School with a delightful Halloween party at her home at 124 West First Street, Friday, Oct. 28. The lawn was beautifully decorated with jack-o-lanterns and showed other signs of holiday festivities. Prizes were awarded for the cleverest costumes and Marvin Mickle won first among the Senior boys and was presented with a China dog. Mildred Whitton's short trousered pirate suit and dagger caused her to get unanimous vote for best costome among the Senior girls.

After many interesting games had been played refreshments of cocoa, olives, pickles and cake were served. Favors were "all-day-suckers" dressed up as black and yellow witches.

Missionary Program

R. Jeiter, Mrs. Wayne Somerville, Mrs. R. G. Goodale, Mrs. Harry Hines and Mrs. L. E. Cowling.

And Now Medium's Victim Wants Money Back

WICHITA, Kan., Nov. 5.—With the John Seybold "spirit bride" trial recessed until Monday, Wichita recalled today the expose of Houdini ,the master magician, regarding spiritualistic mediums.

Houdini spent the latter part of his life revealing to the public how seances were conducted, and it was recalled today that he told much the same story as Paul McLaren and B. C. McCartney told on the witness stand yesterday.

They testified in the trial in which Seybold seeks to recover from Nellie C. Moore, Wichita medium, $7500, which he says he gave her when she called up spirits which told him to do so. She also furnished him with a "spirit bride," who had the very common name of Sarah.

Another man, Clarence George of Wichita, had a nearer real life bride in Althea Narcissus. She was real enough that he got a picture of her pretty face, her red, kissable lips. She also wore the latest in millinery, he said.

Medium's Fraud Bared

McLaren and McCartney are two young Scotchmen, who went to the medium, and talked with a man from the spirit world. It was the same man with whom they had worked during the day, they told the court. The following day, they said, the man also was at work.

This intrigued them so they went to the medium and telling her, it was their "line" too, they asked that she give them some pointers, which she did.

She showed them, they testified, the rubber hose and the trumpet horn, through which the spirits talked. She also showed them, they said, how the writing on the wall was manipulated with unseen hands.

In fact they told much the same thing Houdini during his life told the public—how the mediums are fakes and that he, although not a medium, could do anything they did.

Mrs. Mary Johnson, mother of Mrs. Moore's maid, received messages from the spirit land from her father, her husband and friends, she said yesterday. She was a confirmed believer in spiritualism, she testified until spooks advised her to sell her farm and use the money in order to "develop."

Woman Keeps Farm

"I recalled I had a family to take care of, so I ignored the spook message and kept the farm," she testified.

Harry S. Kemptner attended the wedding feat given in honor of Seybold's "marriage" to Sarah. He being a tailor, even went to a clothing store with Seybold to help him pick a wedding suit.

At that time, Kemptner testified, he thought there was a Sarah.

"And there still might be," he added. "It has got me all worked up."

Mrs. Moore on the stand yesterday, when court recessed, told of Seybold coming to Wichita in poor health. She testified he wanted to promote spiritualism and leave something good behind him to perpetuate his memory. The arrangement they had, she said, was that he was to furnish the money, because he knew she had none, and she was to furnish the spiritualistic work.

Medium Denies Charge

On cross-examination Mrs. Moore was unable to dispute any of the testimony of Seybold about the advice he received from the spirits that prompted him to spend his money so liberally. For, Mrs. Moore explained, she knows nothing of what transpires in the room when she goes into a trance. The medium denied having had any conversations or exposition with McLaren or McCartney.

DAN TO PUSH TAX CUT FIGHT

Governor Not Discouraged By Legal Bars

By Universal Service

AUSTIN, Nov. 5.—Although the attorney general has ruled against him, Gov. Dan Moody will continue t ofight for a reduction in the present ad valorem tax rate of 25 cents.

The governor's attitude became known today when he said that he did not regard the tax reduction question as finally closed even though the ttorney general said another meeting of the automatic tax board would be illegal under the law.

"I have several things in mind which I wish to discuss with the stae comptroller," the governor declared in parrying a question regarding the line of action he will take to secure a lower tax rate.

By implications, the governor showed he was considlering the advisability of having the meeting of the tax board in July declared illegal, because the board, in fixing the present rate, used too much leeway in considering anticipated improvements in general conditions.

"The attorney general says there is nothing left to the discretion of the board in determining the rate," the governor declared. "Therefore, when the board met in July, under the opinion of teh attorney general, it had no authority toconsider the anticipaed improvements in general conditions, and take advantage of the same to reduce the tax rate."

Univ. Begins Collection Of Texas Postal Cards

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 5.— Postcard collections of scenes in Texas towns are being started for the University of Texas library. Under the direction of Mrs. Pearl C. Jackson, supervisor of the reading room in the library, a number of placards have been made to advertise the project to University students since the collection will be made through the co-operation of the students.

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

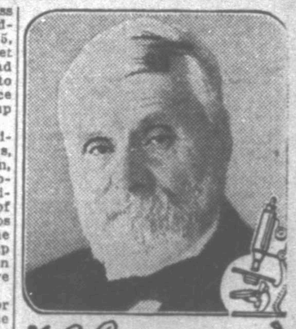

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medicine College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better off for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean, to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.—Adv.

AN OLD FRIEND WAS VISITING IN OUR HOME

She Told Me About

CARDUI

And Persuaded Me To Try It

"MY STRENGTH was gone, and I was not able to stand on my feet. I grew worse daily — nothing helped me. At times I suffered greatly with pains across my back and in my sides. The lower part of my body ached almost constantly. I did not see a well day. A change in climate was recommended, but still I did not improve. I wasted away till I looked like a shadow of my former self. I was pale. My family was in despair about me.

"An old friend was visiting in our home and she told me about Cardui. She persuaded me to try it, so I did. I had given up hope for myself, but I would try anything. I was astonished to find myself improving. In a short time I could see that I was beginning to pick up. I began to eat and felt stronger. The aches and pains left and I was better than I had been since before I married.

"I kept up taking Cardui for some time, as I was growing stronger daily. Cardui is a wonderful medicine, and I am glad to recommend it to other sufferers. I have told many of my friends about it."—Delia Elizabeth Jefferson (Mrs. Earle Jefferson), Fries, Va.

The big show offers a galaxy of displays and will for the first time here introduce no end of brilliant features, presenting a gorgeous and colorful two-hour program, resplendent with myriads of all star novelties.

Custer at Gem In 'Galloping Thunder'

The theme concerns the robbery of a shipment bearing a fortune in gold, and its ultimate recovery by a daring cowboy after numerous disheartening reversals. One of the most thrilling scenes in screen history is introduced in "Galloping Thunder," depicting the leap of Custer and his heroine from the roof of a runaway express car to the swirling waters of a rocky stream far below.

Custer appears to exceptionally good advantage in the production. His riding is sensational, and he is effective as well in sustaining the sweet love theme intertwined with the fast-moving action.

Beautiful Anne Sheridan appears in the leading feminine role, her most important part since her "discovery" in Hollywood some months ago. Decided impetus in her climb to stardom is expected to be given by her sterling performance in "Galloping Thunder."

Direct Scott Pembroke selected a most capable supporting case for the production. Among the well known players are J. P. Lockney, Richard R. Neil and Fernando Galvez.

"Men of Daring" brings to the screen one of the greatest Indian fights filmed. Several hundred real Indians participate in this great sequence, the attack on the wagon train being most realistic. The episode showing the many other thrilling scenes are a battle with the bandits, the appearance of several troops of U. S. Cavalry, and a spirited race between two stage coaches. Through it all runs a gripping romance, pathos and excellent comedy. Albert Rogell, who directed "Men of Daring" has given motion picture audiences a great picture. The continuity is excellent, the photography is beautiful and the picture never lags. It is an inspiring story of the hardships and perils endured by the West's early settlers.

London now has 500,000 telephones, and 1,750,000 calls are made a day.

Imperial Hawaiians Play at Mission

The Imperial Hawaiians playing at the Mission theater this week lend to the varied program offered by Al Russell's musical comedy company the precise amount of lilting music and lulling melody that is necessary for a well-balanced and entertaining stage production.

The Hawaiians are talented string musicians and bring the very atmosphere of romance from Hawaii with their rythm, their harmony and enchanting melodies.

The Baby Vampires, so warmly applauded during the one week of their appearance here, are drawing more enthusiasts than ever with their Bon Ton ballet and clever dance and song acts. Three new girls have been added to the chorus during the past week and everyone will agree that their added charm and grace enhance the program greatly.

A variety of short and snappy interlude presentations have been enjoyed as diversion from the stock company offering.

Doesn't Follow His Own Advice

The scene was the editorial rooms of a morning paper, and the dramatic editor, who comes in after the day shift has gone, met a new face. "Can you fix me with two bucks until payday?" he asked. The request was granted. "Who is that bird?" asked the dramatic man of the night city editor. "He's the financial editor," was the amazing answer.

FILM DRAMA AT OLYMPIC

Belle Bennet Plays Lead In Picture

At last a film drama with a story that might have been true, Emory Johnson who directed "The Fourth Commandment" should be praised for his perception and sense of the true to life.

Second only to the exquisite Belle Bennett is Mary Carr, the little screen mother, whose sympathy and gift of understanding was first recognized in "Over the Hill." Someone has referred to her as having the "face of an angel."

A comparatively new face, that of June Marlowe, deserves particular mention. Miss Marlowe has a striking grace and personality that presages future stardom. Her most notable previous work was in "The Old Soak," also a Universal production.

Harold Lloyd To Play At Garden

Harold Lloyd celebrates his fifth year as a producer of feature length comedies, by giving his legion of followers "The Kid Brother" which ranks high among his finest contributions. In this work, as in all past productions, Lloyd again demonstrates his complete grasp on the answer to that eternal problem, "What does the public want?" If past successes count for aught, the bespectacled comedian knows exactly what his public demands because in the five years that have elapsed since that immortal classic, "Grandma's Boy," he has made on continuous string of successes.

In "The Kid Brother," Harold's latest Paramount release, which arrives at the Garden on Thursday he is said to have another of those sure-fire laugh getters, reminiscent in theme of "Grandma's Boy" with its inferiority complex theme. If it were only half as good as that production it would still be a knockout.

Lloyd's five year record is one which defies comparison from any source. Starting with "Grandma's Boy," he produced "Dr. Jack," "Safety Last," "Why Worry?" "Girl Shy," "Hot Water," "The Freshman" and "For Heaven's Sake." For the last three years, beginning with "Girl Shy," he has been producing independently.

Basically, Lloyd's success in the feature comedy field may be summed up in his own few words: "Make them funny, but keep them human." He led the way out of the rut of old comedy hokum, by giving the screen stories that had logic and reason, not just hodgepodge of slapstick.

Canada will produce more than 3,000,000 bushels of apples this year.

PICTURE OF WICHITA FALLS SCENES AT OLYMPIC THIS WEEK

BEAUTY SPOTS OF CITY SHOWN

'Miss America's' Visit Here Is Depicted

To be seen as others see us is the desire of all prosperous citizens who may be rightfully proud of their city as the result of their own efforts. And Wichita Falls is indeed a gratifying scene to look upon.

The Olympic theater is presenting this week "The American Girl" production taken in and around our "City That Faith Built" showing many scenes in downtown and residential districts that bespeak the spirit of progressiveness. Woven into these scenes is an artistically produced theme of the visit of "Miss America" to "Miss Wichita Falls."

Miss Peggy Eastwood, well-known in the city's circle of charming young women, takes the part of Miss America and Miss Lela Fields, attractive member of many circles in the city, is Miss Wichita Falls. The two young women were chosen from a group of popular and attractive girls and have proved their ability for screen production in a most promising manner.

The opening scene in the picture gives an impressive sky-line and birds-eye view of Wichita Falls, showing the residential sections stretching away from the heart of the city and picturing the refineries and industrial buildings. Miss Wichita Falls drives to the station in a Lincoln car to meet Miss America and a tour of the city is planned. A short shopping errand is made to Perkins Timberlake and from there they proceed to the Country club estates to view the beauty and spaciousness of this palatial addition. Miss America is then driven through the business section to Zales Jewelry company, Texas Electric Service company, Modern Appliance company, McFall Brothers, Phonograph Shop, Wichita Hudson-Essex company, Fox Brown Chevrolet company, Draughon's Business college, Wichita Falls Building and Loan and the Wichita Falls Brick and Tile company.

ALL-STAR BILL AT MAJESTIC

Even the Manager Admits They're Good

Harry Carroll's revue will occupy the stage at the Majestic this week and if it half lives up to advance notices of press agents and fellow troopers will afford plenty of eye and ear entertainment for th vaudeville fans. Even Manager Hans Smith brightened up whn speaking of the show. The unit show holds all five acts and there are seven good looking girls in the show, a snappy jazz orchestra, a real comedian and a one of the seven girls is Ann Greenway with the golden voice.

Tak it from Walter Ward, the daddy of Jay who played the local house last week, that the show is a knockout. When troupers get excited over a bill it can generally be set down there is something to th show.

Quit College.

The opening act is called "In the Gym." Here the six girls go through all kinds of stunts and they are indeed pleasing to the eye. The costumes are neat and snappy while some of the feats these young women go through are said to cause much excitement out front.

The California Collegians are the jazz orchestra and in fact they sing a little, execute a few dance steps and also get the girls to aid them a bit. These boys tired of mathmatics and such and formed themselves into an orchestra. They succeeded so well they earned a trip to London and appeared on the stage there. They came back on the Leviathan with Queen Marie, Princess Ileana and the rest of the Rumanian entourage. It was her majesty's first introduction to American jazz and both she and the princess are said to have liked it. They slip quite a bit of comedy into their work.

"Real Nut" Booked.

Ken Murray follows Miss Greenway and his bit is called "Fooling around." He has a nonchalant manner that brings roars from the audience. He does a bit of singing but does not hurt the songs to get his comical antics over. He is also said to be able to make a clarinet give forth real music. Murray is the man Walter Ward especially praised and in the terms of the profession called him a "real nut." Eugene Conrad and Jack Dancourt wrote some of the special material for this portion of the program and they have long been known for their good lines.

The whole revue comes on for the closing number. The costumes follow those of the shieks and shebas of the desert. Much good dancing real group singing with plenty of pleasing eye entertainment are said to feature the finale. The scenic effects are also praised by the advance notices.

Leatrice Joy will be featured on th screen in "The Little adventuress." The picture is said to be replete with interesting situations. The usual comedy and Paramount News reel will also be shown.

Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn Head Cast of 100 For Follies Show Here

On Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 8 and 9 with matinee Wednesday the Ziegfeld Follies will make their first appearance in Wichita Falls at the Palace theater.

It would seem that Mr. Ziegfeld has eclipsed all his past accomplishments in the 20th edition of the Follies, if one can believe the reports from other cities, because he has provided an entertainment of such extravagance as to amaze the public.

The feather pageant alone is unquestionably one of the most extravagant things ever set upon the stage, enlisting, as it does, the great host of glorified girls who promenade through a veritable forest of lavish plumage. The settings by Urban and the tableaux by Ben Ali Haggin are said to overshadow, by their sheer loveliness, any of the previous creations by these famous artists. Then, too, the Follies this year are brim full of laughter, for many of the scenes have been created by J. P. McEvoy whose sly sense of humor first became widely known through "The Potters." His numbers, devised for the principal comedians of the Follies, are said to be the funniest of his career.

Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn, exotic and vastly expensive international dance stars, who but lately created a veritable furor in the Orient, are at the head of a cast of one hundred, and verything pertaining to thp rsnt tour, which is under the direction of George E. Wintz, is said to be in keeping with the finest traditions of the famous Ziegfeld comedy revue.

Good Comedy At Majestic

"Adam and Evil" Stars Cody and Pringle

Lew Cody and Alleen Pringle have set a new standard for film comedy teams to live up to.

The decision of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to co-star these two players as comedians must have come as an inspiration since Miss Pringle had never been known for light work in film drama.

Inspiration or not, it was a success, as was proved yesterday at the Majestic theater when their first co-starring picture, "Adam and Evil," was shown.

Regardless of the fact that this was the first co-appearance of this team they worked together as though they had known naught else since each began a picture career.

That Lew Cody is a great comedian is not surprising, although he was a "heavy" for many years. Lew's work, even as a heartbreaker and home wrecker, always showed its flashes of comedy.

But Alleen Pringle has always played sophisticated roles in a decided society atmosphere. Her work has never leaned towards comedy but I suppose that those who decided she could do comedy were well enough acquainted with her around the lot to know that she is, off screen, a comedienne at times.

If this new co-starring team keeps on making pictures as funny as "Adam and Evil," they will soon claim the honor of being the best co-starring team of comedians on the screen.

"What Price Glory" Proves Better As Picture Than As Stage Play

For two years we have waited for the film version of "What Price Glory"—and it was worth waiting for. Strand theater audiences, where it is now showing, have expressed their approval heartily.

With the limitations of the stage play cast aside, with Raoul Walsh setting his camera to visualize the hates, passions, and loves of the war, there is a necessity that we place this screen entertainment at the top of the list of best motion pictures of the year.

None of the vitality of the original stage production was lost in the screen translation. In fact, we have to agree with all the other critics in the opinion that here is a picture that surpasses the original in every way. The picture conducts itself in the same red corpuscled, tensely dramatic fashion which made the stage presentation such a highly successful entertainment. The film truly adheres to the stage pattern in all its essential details and improves upon it in its scope of the war scenes, its atmosphere, its ever increasing interest, its thrills and its hilarious laughter.

"What Price Glory," is marked by one of the greatest performances ever flashed upon the screen, that of Victor McLaglen, the hard boiled captain of the marines, who gives a portrayal which is astounding. In fact, you cannot imagine anyone else in this marvelous role after seeing McLaglen's performance. Edmund Lowe, as the shifty Sergeant Quirt, also gives a striking portrayal of a most difficult part, and Dolores Del Rio, as the charming, seductive Charmaine, could not, in our opinion, have given a stronger impersonation. The comedy sequences in this remarkable drama contain more laughs than any picture of the past five years, and due credit should be given the performances of Ted McNamara and Sammy Cohen for their contributions to the funny side of this picture.

CHRYSLER TO OPEN SCHOOL

Second Year of Service Course For Dealers

A bulletin of unusual interest just sent out by the Chrysler Sales corporation to its dealer organization announces that the Chrysler service school is about to re-open its sessions at the factory in Detroit.

This school, now beginning its second year, proved to be remarkably successful last winter in point of attendance and of enthusiastic approval by those who went to Detroit to take advantage of its offerings.

The course is arranged for Chrysler service managers, shop superintendents and service field men, and is designed to put at the command of all the company's distributors and dealers the opportunity of providing in their home communities expert attention to every detail of practical and successful automobile service.

Course Complete.

The course offered in the school covers every branch of service station operation. It includes among other subjects accounting, stock keeping, shop equipment, trouble diagnosis and correction, standardized maintenance and all technical and mechanical phases of Chrysler products.

Class lectures by selected experts in the famous Chrysler engineering and service staff are supplemented by actual demonstrations, illustrations and screen pictures. Many who attended the school last winter have reported to the company that not only has the training received proved invaluable but that the direct contact with others having the same problems and duties as themselves was found to be almost as profitable in their work after returning home.

One Week Needed.

The course prescribed requires a week's attendance. Sessions are held daily from 8:30 a. m. to 6 p. m. with an evening class Friday.

"From the very beginning of the company that bears his name Walter P. Chrysler has laid especial emphasis on the imperative necessity for providing continuously improving service to owners," said J. L. Kenyon, director of Chrysler service, in explaining the purpose and plans of the service school.

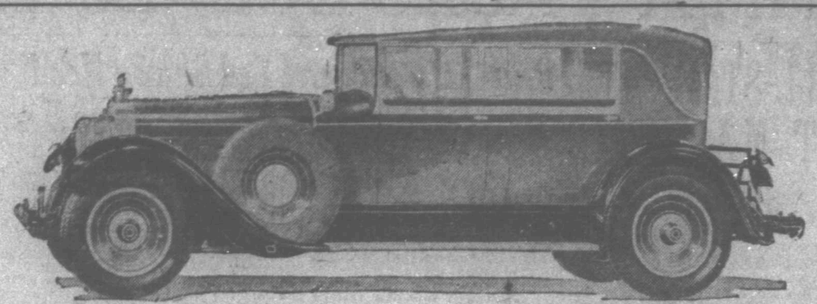

"The development of the service school was a logical extension of this unbroken policy. It trains Chrysler service managers and their important key men everywhere to use with the utmost efficiency the equipment evolved for them by the company and helps fulfil Mr. Chrsyler's desire that every Chrysler owner have at his immediate command the assured ability to maintain his car at the highest point of satisfactory performance."

Andy Jackson Claimed South Carolina Native

Convertible Packard Has Many Novel Features

With 19 different standard body types on three different chassis the Packard Motor Car company now also has 21 diferent custom body types available, with a limitless selection of color and interior trim. Custom bodies are from the shops of the best known custom body builders of the United States.

The accompanying picture showes a new type of convertible sedan which has a number of novel features. The top can be lowered readily, making a touring car. Glass panels can be left standing with the top down, making a complete glass enclosure along both sides of the car. There is a glass partition between the driving and rear compartments which can be raised or lowered to provide a chauffeur or owner-driven car. With the glass raised the small glass panels set in the side, which are hinged at their forward edges, can be swung out to give ventilation to the driver's compartment. Several other combinations are possible and with the top raised and the glass panels in place the car becomes a sedan or sedan limousine.

La Salle Engineer Stresses Steering Mechanism Of Car

Comments upon recent improvements in motor car design and performance have stressed the increase in speed. It is the most spectacular and the most easily measured of all improvements. Equally important in the eyes of automobile executives are the many safety factors which have been developed at the same time. These include greater dependability and greater ease of control.

The automobile industry as a whole is behind every constructive movement for greater safety of automobile traffic. It makes a direct contribution to safety in the perfection of dependability and control in the units produced.

William R. Strickland, assistant chief engineer of the Cadillac Motor Car company, points out that in keeping with the high speed developed in the LaSalle car, there has been an equal advance in the driving mechanisms.

Large Diameter Wheel.

"In fact," Mr. Strickland states, "the development of high speed in the LaSalle was really incidental to many improvements which we were developing in the design of the car generally. Particular effort was given to producing the best possible steering mechanism and braking system.

"On the steering wheel the diameter is very large. The grip is small and easily held, the combination imparting a particularly graceful appearance. The steering gear is of the worm and sector type, with a reduction of 17 1-2 to 1, providing practically an irreversible gear, eliminating a "kick back" from the road. The result is also an ease of parking and ease of steering which has impressed owners of LaSalle cars.

"As a safety factor brakes are of even greater importance than the engine. The complete braking system of the LaSalle consists of three pairs of brakes—external contracting brakes on the rear wheels, internal expanding brakes on the front wheels, and a third independent pair of internal, expanding brakes on the rear wheels.

Reserve Braking System.

"A complete reserve braking system is provided in the hand brakes, which operate on the rear wheels and are independent of the four-wheel foot-controlled brake system in every detail of their mechanism. This hand brake operates internal expanding bands in the rear drums. It has full wrapping action in both directions and requires no adjustment during the life of the lining.

"The first factor is a type of construction which provides for the release of braking effort on the outer front wheel during a turn. No matter how hard or how suddenly the brakes are applied, it is impossible to lock both front wheels when turning. The outer wheels will always rotate to steer the car.

Heating Neutralized.

"Provision for safety is further made to counter-balance the effect of heat in expanding the brake drums. Internal foot brakes on the front wheels are combined with external foot brakes on the rear wheels. Through the division bar, to which the brake pedal is connected, the effect of expansion of the front wheel brake drums is neutralized by the opposite effect of expansion of the drums on the rear wheels.

"The applied position of the brake pedal, therefore, hardly changes as the drums expand, minimizing the possibility, on long steep grades, either of the brakes seizing, or of loss of brakes due to pedal striking the floor boards because of expansion of the brake drums.

"Finally, safety is enchanced by the provision of a hand brake, operating an entirely separate and independent system."

Erskine Battles Heavy Head Wind

After fighting a 55-mile gale that swept in off the ocean for most of the night and traveling at mile-a-minute speeds over slippery water-soaked boards through a fourteen hour downpour of rain, a fully equipped stock Erskine sedan completed a 24-hour run on the Atlantic City speedway, Oct. 13, after turning in the amazing average of 54.1 miles per hour for a total distance of 1298.4 miles.

Such a performance has never been equalled by any car listing under $1000.

Close behind the sedan followed another Erskine—a coupe—also fighting the wind and rain to complete the 24-hour run at an average speed of 53.2 miles per hour.

At the end of the run, the Erskine sedan went an additional five miles at an average speed of better than 61 miles per hour to prove past all doubt the fine mechanical condition of the car at the finish.

These remarkable performances were made under the sanction and observation of the American Automobile association and upon their completion the American Automobile association technical committee examined both of the cars and pronounced them strictly stock models in all respects.

YANKEE CARS LEAD EUROPE

Dodge President Predicts Big Year For Trade

DETROIT, Nov. 5.—E. G. Wilmer, president of Dodge Brothers, Inc., returned on the Aquitania last week from Europe convinced that the American automotive industry will continue to dominate the world for many years to come.

"Through the use of electric power, automatic machinery and mass sales methods," said Mr. Wilmer, "American motor car manufacturers have placed their products far ahead of the Europeans both in quality and price. As a result, American workmen receive high wages, while the American manufacturers give the greatest dollar value to their customers. Our own company's export business is steadily increasing and Dodge Brothers' export business this fall has run 30 per cent ahead of last autumn.

Mr. Wilmer believes that 1928 will be a big year for the automotive industry and for general business.

"Due largely to the transition at the Ford plant," he said, "automobile production for the entire industry in the United States has fallen off more than 630,000 cars for the first nine months of 1927 as compared with the same period last year. This represents a very substantial accumulation of orders. Perhaps 1,000,000 persons who normally would have purchased new and used cars this year have been deferring their purchases. These people will soon be ready to buy. Every automobile dealer in the country should receive a share of the business which has been dammed up for months."

It was intimated by Mr. Wilmer that preparations have long been under way at the Dodge plant to meet whatever standards are set up by the automotive industry for the coming year.

Dodge Changing Over.

"Dodge Brothers, which last year was third in the production of cars and truck," said Mr. Wilmer, "has, like the Ford company, been undergoing an extensive transition. We have been getting our dealers in position to offer their customers a complete line of fours and sixes in passenger cars and trucks. It has been our endeavor to effect this transition without shutting down the factory and we soon will be ready to go full speed ahead on production of a wide range of cars and trucks that are designed and built to maintain the highest modern standards of the automobile industry.

"Dodge Brothers will be prepared to enjoy in 1928 the biggest business in its history. For a period of 18 months we have been engaged almost exclusively in this readjustment of manufacturing facilities which will permit us to give the public the greatest dollar value ever offered in motor cars. During this period of readjustment of facilities passenger car output and sales have necessarily been curtailed.

Oldsmobile Treated Roughly By Testers

A rough road faces every Oldsmobile that comes off the assembly lines at Olds Motor works. Before it is finnally inspected each Oldsmobile is driven onto a set of eccentric rollers and locked in place. These rollers alternately pitch one corner of the car after the other upward while another corner is being depressed. The action is far more strenuous than is driving over the roughest road. Any point of weakness is revealed by this ocean-wave motion to which the car is subjected. Every Oldsmobile must successfully pass this test before it is finally approved by the inspectors.

Fighting Under Five Flags

As Told by Tracy Richardson to Douglas De Younge Silver

PART TWO.

THE STORY SO FAR:

In the first chapter Tracy Richardson told how he and Sam Dreben went to Mexico in 1912 and joined the rebel army fighting against the Madero forces. Both Richardson and Dreben were expert machine gunners and highly valued officers in the army headed by Generals Emiliano Campa and Salazar. The first important engagement was fought at Rellano where the rebels overwhelmingly defeated the Federals in a brief but bloody combat—of which the introductory feature was the wrecking of a Federal troop train by sending a wild engine loaded with dynamite shooting down the track toward the strategic objective. After the battle the rebels retired to Jiminez but they soon started after another wing of the Federals reported to be advancing towards the town. A new engagement started when the rebels met the enemy's vanguard near a ranch house.

DESPERATE DESERT FIGHTING SECURES TRACY A WOUND AND TROUBLE.

We took up our positions behind an irrigation ditch and started to bang away at the Federals, most whom were protected by an adobe wall. I couldn't seem to work an effective fire here so I grabbed my gun, told one man to follow me and sneaked over to the center of an alfalfa fild from where I could get a better range on the enemy and also spot the small mountain gun they were firing at us with. From here I could also see a band of their mounted troops waiting the command to attack us.

I had fired about ten clips of twenty bullets each an dcould see that the gun was starting to raise havoc among the Federal cavalry when some assorted ironware began to land all around me with a crash and I knew the Federal artillery had spotted the machine gun. There was a lull for a few minutes and I was beginning to think they were trying to blow up some other part of our line when suddenly a message of love dropped down out of the sky and ploughed up a hole about ten yards from where my man and I crouched in the field. I knew they were after me then.

Right at this strained moment our Hotchkiss jammed and I began to yearn for quieter pastures. Discretion being the better part of valor right at that time, I picked up the gun and made one wild dash for the sheltered irrigation ditch where struggles to clear the breach were vain. The breach had jammed because of the heat and being pretty disgusted with it anyway, I yielded to temptation and threw it in the canal to cool off.

Tree Sniper Wings Tracy.

When the Federals saw me chuck the gun in the water they thought they had a clear path and began to charge over the field towards our forces. Sam Dreben had been silent right up to this moment and for a good reason. He waited until the enemy had gotten about half way across the field and then started to cut loose at them with his own machine gun. Belt after belt he poured in on them and effectively stemmed the surging enemy tide. Their line wavered a couple of times and then broke—but there were very few of that bunch of Federals left to run back to the protection of their wall.

The Federals started to retire en masse soon after we had broken their attack and they decidd not to risk their cavalry against Sam's machine gun so we had a clear way to the ranch buildings. There we found a couple of hundred enemy dead scattered all over the place.

On entering the living quarters we came upon a scene that filled even the hardest boiled of the Mexicans with revulsion. There, piled in a grotesque heap, were the bodies of four men and a woman. We learned later they were the ranch owner, his daughter, and three employes. The ranch owner was a man about sixty and his daughter must have been a very beautiful girl—a decided blonde. They had all been horribly mutilated—so badly that a couple of our soldiers fainted on the spot.

I never found anything squeamish about the general run of Mexicans, in fact they have a very low regard for life—especially the other fellow's, but this ghastly sight spurred our forces on with ambitious ideas of revenge. The rebels went wild with eagerness to be on and to prevent Fedrals from escaping, so it wasn't very long before the enemy was brought to stand in the village of Villa Lopez and surrounded.

By the time we arrived with the machine guns both sides were engaged in a hot exchange of rifle fire with the Federals getting the best of it. Sam and I set our guns up behind one of the irrigation ditches just outside of the town. Upon coming close to Villa Lopez I had found the triple breed Chino who had my old Colt gup. He was sitting with it on a hill about three thousand yards from the town and not getting any startling results. I commandeered this pronto.

Sam and I were about six hundred yards from the walls of the village and because the enemy had fine cover, the shooting wasn't so good. Added heat was lent the situation by snipers putting at us with automatic rifles using soft nose bullets. We finally got the range of most of these birds though and things were going fine until a man I had knocked out of a tree rolled around like a possum and took a shot back at me.

From where I was sitting I was in plain sight and an easy shot. I was squatting on the saddle of the gun, felt a slight shock and then a big, burning sensation in my right brest. I tore open the shirt and saw just what I expected—a nice bullet hole. Ever see one? Well—they always look prettier on the right side than the left.

Walking Target Escapes Unscathed.

One of my helpers an ex-bartender from El Paso named Nicho Guiteras ran over to me so I had him inspect my back—I was afraid to feel myself to see if the darn thing had kept right on going like a good bullet and gone out the back way. Nicho reassured me that such was the case and that there was a nice hole there, a very small one, but that the blood was squirting out. It was a relief to know I hadn't been nailed with a soft nose bullet and that it hadn't lingered.

I had some first aid stuff with me and we fixed up some bandages when the Federals started to charge us.

There was nothing for me to do but go back to my gun and open up again on the rushing Federals. There wasn't any time to waste either, as Sam's gun suddenly jammed and none of his frantic efforts to bring it back to life could make it function. So I hopped on the gun saddle again and fired that old Colt about as fast as I eyer fired anything in my life before.

After about twenty minutes of swinging it up, down and sideways across the Federal's path of advance we had the satisfaction of seeing their line waver and finally turn tail back from whence they had come. They eased themselves back much faster than they had come but left at least half of their defunct companies-in-arms strewn about the countryside. Next, our own men rushed on ahead and occupied strategic places along the next irrigation ditch, much closer to the town than we had been before.

By this time I was beginning to get disinterested in the combat and felt an overwhelming desire to retire to the sidelines for a while so I walked back to an adobe wall where I found Sam Dreben still toiling over his disabled gun. I made it plain to him that I was going to be out of the fighting for awhile and told him to take my Colt and let me try and free his jam. He did so and after about 15 minutes of labor it was in condition to work again. A shell had burst in the chamber and it took force to extract it. To make the job more ticklish, the whole piece was terribly hot, hard to handle—and we needed the gun any minute to repulse another attack we had a hunch the Federals were planning.

When it was ready I began to be tortured by thirst. Although I was lying within 15 feet of a ditch full of fine, cool water none of my gallant comrades in the immediate vicinity had nerve enough to get any for me. That is, no one but a typical young cowboy in the uniform of the old Rurale who came up, realized my predicament, calmly took off his broad brimmed hat, walked over to the crick and fetched me a hatful of water. Although bullets sprayed all around and he was the target for at least twenty snipers, he made the trip safely. This phenomally brave chap, Tomaso by name, made the same trip a couple of times during the next hour and wasn't touched once.

Every time he came back he rolled smokes for me and made himself generally useful. It is an interesting commentary that during the remainder of my time in Mexico this hitherto mysterious hero attached himself to me and never once left my immediate command. He was more than an orderly—and came to be almost indispensible. In addition to being a crack shot, he was an excellent comrade, knew the country like a book, and more than once proved he had a flair for military manoeuvering.

Mopping Up a Town—Mexican Style.

The fighting was still going hot and heavy but in spite of the water, which refreshed me a lot, I knew I had had enough for one day and decided to leave for the rear, where I would be sure to be able to get away in case things broke badly against us. I asked Nicho Guiteras if he would assist me out. He said he would.

We had a space of about two hundred yards in full view of the Federals to cross. They were about eight hundred yards away and itching to pop off any retreating party such as ours. Tomase rushed up when he heard what was planned and offered to support my other side.

The Federals then let loose with about everything they had, including a field piece mounted on a big tomb in a graveyard and fired point blank at us—but we managed to come through all right. I never heard the whistling of so many different bullets in my life. We emerged from the danger zone and didn't have far to go when along came a rickety carriage driving like mad.

General Cesar E. Canales, revolutionist who survived two years imprisonment by President Madero in a fortress in Vera Cruz harbor where, at every tide, his cell was filled shoulder high with water. He was killed in action as he fought beside Tracy Richardson on May 14, 1912. Before turning revolutionist he was a distinguished scholar.

It pulled up near us and out jumped Jack Zimmerman and ex-news butch from El Paso who was now with the Red Cross outfit. He had heard I was badly wounded and that we were being licked, so was coming up to help me away from the danger zone. We drove into an aroya and Jack dressed my wound up in fine shape.

Jack was more than an interesting character—he was a living saga of adventure and excitement—and a wonderful fellow besides. At the first news of the war he had deserted the news butcher business and had tried to join up with Dreben and myself, but knowing nothing about machine guns Salazar refused to consider him. Resolved to see the war at any price he volunteered to go with the Red Cross unit in charge of Doctors Wilson and Ruffo. After I had been hit Jack joined Sam Dreben anyway and did some great work with the machine gun.

Our little party stayed in the shelter until word came that our men had captured Villa Lopez, seized a lot of prisoners, but that part of the Federal force had fought their way clear and were on their way back to Torreon. We had once started for Villa Lopez in Zimmerman's carriage and arrived just in time to see the Federal's last stand—about twenty enemy officers cooped up in a building where they refused to surrender.

Some of the rebels sneaked up on the roof and left a case of dynamite there. A few minutes later they exploded it, the whole house was blown in and naturally everybody inside was killed. Our men, bearing in mind the frightful events in the ranch house when the battle had started, were especially vicious and went around mopping up the town—taking good care not to take any prisoners.

By this time Dr. Wilson had come up and established a dressing station in one of the public buildings where I was taken to have my bullet hole fixed up with new gauze and iodine. While I was resting there on a pallet a badly wounded Federal lying next to me told me he was the one who shot me. I didn't realize how badly he must have been hit when I knocked him out of the tree until they told me the next morning that he had died during the night.

The Patient Protects Himself.

On the morning after having the wound dressed again I felt so much better that I tried to walk around and found I wasn't in such bad shape. The bullet had gone cleanly through the right lung and I was really surprised I didn't feel more pain or inconvenience. Later that day I rode back to Jiminez and went to the hospital. I was told to wait the arrival of Dr. Wilson for a more complete inspection of my wound but an officious Mexican doctor spotted me and selected me as his own private cold meat.

I wasn't feeling very peppy after the 15 mile ride so I let him poke around a while. It didn't hurt me and it seemed to please him but when he began to lay out a lot of tools I got nervous and asked him what the idea was. He blandly answered he was going to probe the wound. I demurred violently but he insisted. Finally I reached around for a gun and told him to go 'way back and take a seat until my official doctor arrived. When Wilson finally showed up he said I did right, that the Mexican medico was only a student and was itching for some one to practice on.

Wilson fixed me up in a splendid shape and helped me get in the New York hotel—a strange little desert place run by one Charlie Gee, a Chinaman with a flair for conversation and a bill of fare consisting almost entirely of oranges. Where he got the fruit from nobody knew but it aided my convalescence a lot. In ten days the wound had healed, on the outside anyway, and I felt well enough to hit the trail again.

In the meantime Pancho Villa who was fighting with the Federals had circled, reached our rear, and was in Parral. Salazar went up against him and was whipped to a standstill. Dreben and Zimmerman were handling a machine gun and had to retire—Zim crawling on his stomach for a mile and dragging the gun with him to prevent its capture. The gun was in bad shape naturally and was brought to me to fix just before I started out once more.

By this time Salazar was all set to attack Villa again so I went along. We made most of the trip by rail and after a two hour fight took full possession of Parral. The rebels were sore from their recent beating and proceeded to give an example of high, wide and fancy looting. All in all, about two hundrd thousand dollars worth of assorted junk was seized by our troops as legitimate loot. Sam Dreben suddenly appeared out of nowhere in a fancy ice cream suit and razz-m-tazz shoes, the entire extent of his loot.

From Parral we all went back to Jiminez where Dreben and I were given charge of a special body of troops to be under our direct command all the time and to support our machine gun fire as we directed. Heretofore we had to depend on chance for protection during a battle and if some commander felt like withdrawing our support we were simply out of luck. In Jiminez, though, we were given a body of 800 men most of whom had been old Rurales, and the rest of them were rough and ready cowboys, Mexican style.

Campa's Cruelty Complex Works Overtime.

They were under the command of two ex-Rurale officers and altogether formed the finest body of fighters I had ever seen in any of the Latin Americas. From now on things were much easier, we had plenty of well mounted men, lots of spare mounts and servants to wait on us and take care of our supplies. It began to look like a revolution de luxe.

In Jiminez we planned to make an advance on Torreon which was still strongly held by the Federals. The plan was to divide and attack from three sides. Orozco was to proceed down the line of the railroad. Salazar was to make a move around the left flank and General Cesar E. Canales planned to go around the right flank. We were transferred to a column under Canales and started south across the desert.

Canales, once imprisoned by Madero, was one of a very few men able to survive two years in a prison cell at San Juan de Ulloa. In this ghastly coop, amid rats and vermin the tide washed in the lower cells every day an dforced the prisoners to stand until it ebbed. Strangely enough his horrible prison term didn't turn him sour. A milder man I never knew or one more courageous in battle.

Two days later we beat the Federals at Pedricena but had heavy losses of our own. During the fighting, General Canales was shot through the abdomen and died. That was just what Campa had been waiting for and he took command of our column. That night, in a speech to the soldiers he announced the presidency as his goal and promised each man a rifle, five thousand rounds of ammunition, and all the loot he could pack on a horse.

At Pedricena Campa evidenced some of his gruesome imagination when a bunch of enemy snipers were brought in and sentenced to death for firing after hostilities were supposed to have been formally over—in that town, anyway. There were about seventy men to be executed—rather a pointless procedure and quite unwarranted because the prisoners had no idea they had violated Campa's personal rules of war.

A rough looking Indian who had been designated as official executioner made fifteen of the prisoners line up against a wall. They were tied, but not blindfolded. The Indian was armed with a .30-.30 Winchester and a six shooter. Beginning at the head of the line he shot the men one by one until he had emptied his rifle, nine shots in all, then he finished up the remaining six with his pistol. Standing nearby all the time was a blindfolded old man over whom two young assistant executioners were quarreling as to whom should be given the honor of killing him.

They tried a couple of gambling ways to fix the honor but reached no decision, so they compromised by firing at him at once. The old man was twisting and squirming and both shots missed. At the next volley the prisoner received two wounds, one in the arm and another through the hip. Disgusted then at their lack of success the two boys placed their rifles to his head and fired. These atrocious episodes were the direct result of Campa's cowardice. He was much more efficient at this closeup cut and dried work than he was at killing men in an actual battle.

Time Out for Water.

Word was soon brought in that several trainloads of Federals were speeding out of Torreon and Durango to attack us, while we intended to go north and attack Torreon from the south. We made a quick dash across country, blew up the tracks, cut all the wires at Velardena, and then clashed with three trainloads of Federals at Hacienda de la Refugio.

Here we had the advantage of hills while the enemy was operating from the railroad. Our high hopes were considerably dampened by the immediate effectiveness of the Fedral artillery fire which began to smash all around us with remarkable accuracy. For the first time we were really up against expert artillery fire.

If we had been searching the whole world over for a fancier field gun shot to shot we couldn't have found one. We didn't know it at the time, but opposing us as artillery chief was General Felipe Angeles, one of the really great soldiers of the world. A strange place to find such an accomplished soldier perhaps but there he was and before the day was over every one left alive heartily wished he was somewhere els.

I have always wanted to meet him but we never came face to face. We always fought on opposite sides. Some time afterwards, General Angeles, sick and a fugitive in the mountains was traced through aids who had brought him medicine, was taken prisoner and ruthlessly butchered.

Just when things were breaking the worst for us we saw an enemy truce falg. It seemed the Federals wanted to quit for a while and suggested that we all go to an irrigation ditch about half way between the two lines and freshen up a bit. We were agreeable, naturally, and for four hours we met the Federals in friendly terms at the ditch. The enemy seemed to consist of a fine bunch of men and they certainly played the game. This, incidentally, is the ideal way to conduct a battle—it breaks up the hot afternoon and gives zest to the firing afterwards.

Following the water truce we retired to our positions and started all over again. The rail line was already cut at one end of the troop train so Dreben and I volunteered to make a dash with our men and smash the line at the other end—this isolating the Federals from reinforcements or supplies. We started out on the dash and had almost reached our objective when the enemy spotted us.

They started to clear out and one train got away, but we nabbed the other two and quite a number of men. The remaining Federals retired to Torreon so we decided to take a much needed rest. We examined the two captured trains and found nothing but beer on each one which we were told by prisoners had been brought for fear all the water holes had been poisoned. I don't know which is worse though, poisoned water or hot beer—after tasting the stuff on those trains we thought the enemy could better have taken a chance on the water.

The next thing on the program was a general retirement to the Rancho Refugio to plan our next move. Food was getting very scarce. There was plenty of beans and rice but that was about all. At the ranch house though, while the chiefs of staff were doping out tactics I snooped around the cellar and finally came upon a storeroom chock full of assorted wines—and still another cache jammed with imported Spanish foods.

Needless to relate, we all hung on a marvelous feed bag that night. Hopes were high, the wine was warming us all and everybody agreed that it wasn't such a bad war after all.

Next Week—"Jumping From the Laws of a Firing Squad Death." Richardson tells how a wise crack from Sam Dreben arouses Campa's ire and results in a decision to execute all the Americans in the party. After the hated gringoes effect a marvelous escape, they force their way north where a surprise attack robs Pancho Villa of a good dinner.

Health and Diet Advice

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy, who can be addressed in care of this paper.

MEASLES.

Until the seventeenth century, physicians believed that measles was a mild form of smallpox and, although the germ of the disease has never been discovered, it is quite certain that measles is produced by a definite form of toxemia which comes to a crisis period mostly during the cold months, but sometimes during the summer, when it seems to occur in its most vicious form.

The first symptoms are usually those of a catarrhal nature, with sneezing and running at the nose, redness of the eyes and lids and, finally, a slight cough. There is not much fever for the first few days but usually at about the fourth day the fever suddenly rises, reaching around 104. This extreme fever makes the rash break out on the skin, and as soon as the body is entirely covered with a rash the fever begins to subside. The rash appears first on the forehead and behind the ears, but spreads rapidly over the entire body. As soon as there is a good eruption of poisons, the red rash disappears and becomes more pink.

At the very start of this disease the patient should be given warm sponge baths at least every two hours during the day, and as soons as the fever subsides and the rash begins to disappear, the skin should also be treated by applications of milk of magnesia applied after the sponge baths. This counteracts the acids and irritants which are being thrown out through the skin, and is very soothing to the patient. After the itching has disappeared, the frequent skin bathing may be discontinued and only used once or twice daily, after which the skin should be rubbed with almond oil.

In measles, as with every other fever or eruptive disease, no regular food of any kind should be given to the patient. A plain water fast may be used, but the rash will appear more quickly if the juice of several oranges is taken daily. The orange juice seems to have a stimulating effect in producing a quicker elimination through the skin and, consequently, the fever goes down more rapidly.

Food should not be given to the patient until all signs of the fever have disappeared for at least 24 hours. The first meals should consist wholly of non-starchy vegetables, gradually adding eggs, meat (preferably chicken), and other good protelds, after a few days of the non-starchy diet.

When patients are convalescing from measles there is very little appetite, so if the patient is urged to eat more food than is desired, the results will be even worse than would be ordinarily produced by over-feeding at other times. If the intake of food is kept to the minimum for a few weeks there will be less chance of developing chronic catarrhal disorders that so often follow measles. Tuberculosis comes on as a common aftermath of measles, but will always be avoided if the patient is kept to a strict diet and gradually replaces his strength through systematic exercises.

QUESTION: Mrs. R. W. writes: "I have had the itch now for six months. All the baths, soaps and ointments do not cure or help me, and I am most anxious to have relief from this trouble."

ANSWER: Every kind of itch which does not come from an outside infection can be cured by dieting. The main change is to regulate your food combinations so as to overcome excess stomach acidity which is the principal cause of any acidosic which produces skin irritation.

QUESTION: Sylvia writes: "In England I have eaten a vegetable called 'John - go - to-bed-at-noon.' Is this vegetable grown in this country?"

QUESTION: Mrs. C. F. S. writes: "I have been troubled for a number of years with my back hurting. My trouble is just to the right of my backbone at the hip. I am enclosing a diagram and have marked just where the pain is."

ANSWER: The cross on your diagram marks the place in your back where pain often develops from kidney stones, gallstones, or gas pockets in the colon. Only a careful diagnosis would tell just what is causing your particular trouble.

It's coming to the Majestic Theater Thursday and Friday of this week! To give you an idea of the worth of this revue, here's a little "dope" on the second unit which is called "California Collegians". Seven California college boys preferred music to mathematics; the stage to a degree, and their success as a singing orchestra led to engagements in England. On the return trip, on the Leviathan, they had the honor of introducing Her Majesty the Queen of Roumania to American jazz, and played several times for the royal party. Here's "Entertainment to a Queen's Taste" — don't miss what we prophesy to be the best vaudeville as yet seen this season in Wichita Falls.

WHIPPET SETS CLIMB RECORD

Stock Car Cuts Time On Mt. Diablo Twister

Roaring up the steep, twisting road to the top of Mt. Diablo, 35 miles from Oakland, Cal., a strictly stock Whippet touring car has just established a new record of 24 minutes, 5 3-5 seconds for the 11.6 mile climb. The new mark clips 14 1-5 seconds off the former record established a year ago, winning the Oakland-Post-Inquirer perpetual trophy offered for this event.

The record breaking Whippet was driven by Ed Hughes of Los Angeles, who declares that the car had been driven several thousand miles before being put to the severe test up the rugged mountain. According to Hughes no special preparations were made before the climb started except to grind the valves.

Hughes said that the test was staged to demonstrate the power and stamina of the Whippet under the most severe conditions.

The road up Mr. Diablo is a toll highway. It has a dirt surface and in many places, especially on the sharp, dangerous curves there are quantities of loose gravel. In several places the road is very narrow, several "switchback" curves adding to the severity of the test.

The start was made from the toll gate and as the Whippet climbed, it gained speed. At places it reached the 50-mile an hour mark on short straight stretches between the curves. This was accomplished because of the unusual alert power and quick acceleration of the Whippet. Practically the entire route was covered in high gear, Hughes and his official observer said.

Hughes was accompanied by "Pen" Johnson, an Oakland newspaperman who acted as official observer and timer. Other newspapermen acted as starters and were present at the finish of the record breaking performance of the Whippet.

Paul Putty Elected President of Tire Men

Paul Putty was elected president of the Wichita Falls Tire Dealers association Wednesday at a meeting held in the Panhandle Tire company offices. E. V. Leslie was elected vice president; "Chick" Nolan, secretary, and E. G. Bynum, Jr., treasurer.

This association is comprised of tire dealers in the city and was organized about two months ago. Through the efforts of its members, all of whom are prominent in the tire business, it is rapidly becoming known as a leading association in Wichita Falls.

Chevrolet Growth From Small Factory To Present Size Told

Willys Shows Its Economy on Drive

Ability of the Willys-Knight great six to maintain a high rate of speed, hour after hour, with an unusually low gasoline consumption was demonstrated a few days ago on the Pacific coast in a test run from Los Angeles to Portland, Ore. The test was staged to determine the ability of the Willys-Knight great six for official use in the police and fire departments at San Fernando, Cal.

Emmit B. Rice, chief of the San Fernando police and fire department, was at the wheel of the Willys-Knight in its epochal run to Portland, the test being made through special arrangement with the traffic officials in the states through which the run was made.

Despite adverse conditions Chief Rice drove the Willys-Knight over the 1065-mile route in 25 hours driving time. The average speed was 42.6 miles an hour while the gasoline consumption was nearly 21 miles to the gallon. According to well informed automobile men on the Pacific coast the low fuel consumption and the high speed average set a new record for cars in the Willys-Knight classification over the Los Angeles-Portland route.

Chief Rice drove the entire distance to Portland via the interior Sacramento route, the total time, including all stops being 37 hours, 35 minutes. This included a nine hour stop overnight in Dunsmuir as well as stops at Bakersfield, Fresno, Sacramento, Red Bluffs and Grant's Pass. He also included in the running time a side trip in Rosenburg when he got lost and drove five miles before he discovered it.

Auburn Sales Head Optimistic of South

"I am a 'bull' on business conditions and particularly on Auburn prospects in the southern states," says N. E. McDarby, sales manager of the Auburn Automobile company.

"Cotton, corn, hogs and cattle are on the uptrend. Good crops and good prices are evident. The condition of the soil tiller being the most certain business barometer, leads me to the conclusion, about business generally, in southern states.

"Auburn has established 40 new distributors in different sections of the south. Particularly strong distributing connections have been established at Memphis, Dallas, Birmingham, New Orleans, Shreveport, San Antonio, Wichita Falls, Tulsa and Little Rock.

"For the first time in a great many years, range cattle will show a profit on the endeavor and Texas cattlemen are particularly optimistic.

Nearing the close of the most successful year in its history, and with its position outstanding as the world's largest builder of gear shift cars and trucks, the Chevrolet Motor company this week rounded out its sixteenth year of existence.

Named for Louis Chevrolet, well known race driver of an earlier decade and active figure during the infancy of the automotive industry, the Chevrolet Motor company of Michigan was organized on November 3, 1911.

That year five cars were built. This year one million cars will be built—more than the combined output for the first eleven years of the company's existence.

That first year a handful of men worked in an obscure factory at West Grand boulevard and the viaduct, Detroit, to turn out mostly by hand methods those first five cars. Today more than 100,000 people are directly employed in producing, selling and servicing Chevrolet cars.

Today eleven great factories—exclusive of export operations—are running to capacity to meet the demand of Chevrolets infinitely superior to and listing at one-fourth the cost of those first cars.

The "Royal Mail" models brought Chevrolet wide popularity in the early days, but the "490" model, so named because it listed at $490, placed the company definitely in the field as a volume producer of motor cars. That was in 1915. That year 70,701 cars were built.

Assembly Plants Open.

Shortly afterward the first assembly plant began production at Oakland, Cal., to supply the West Coast. Seven more such plants have since been erected, and one is now in process of construction at Atlanta, Ga. These are located at strategic points throughout the country to render the greatest possible service to the car purchaser.

General Motors took over Chevrolet in 1918, with wide expansion following. In 1925 for the first time volume exceeded the half million mark. The 1926 production was 732,147 cars and trucks. That record was equalled this year on August 12, and company officials look forward confidently to one million units in 1927.

On Chevrolet's birthday, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager, commented upon the extraordinary production and sales records the company has enjoyed in its comparatively short life. These records, he said, reveal the confidence placed in Chevrolet and its cars by the public.

This attitude, Mr. Knudsen pointed out, is a deep source of gratification to Chevrolet and in turn places the company under obligation to adhere rigidly to the exacting standards which the public has learned to expect of all Chevrolet products. The same policy that marked Chevrolet's 16 years of past achievement—that policy of turning back into the car the manufacturing economies resulting from volume production—will be continued, Mr. Knudsen stated.

FALCON LIGHT ON GASOLINE

All Around Record Good For New Knight Car

With the Falcon-Knight six in its eighth month of production and already thousands of these Knight engined sixes in the hands of owners, numerous reports have been received by officials of the Falcon Motors corporation at Detroit expressing unusual enthusiasm over the fuel economy of the Falcon-Knight six as well as the general high standard of all-around performance shown by this new car.

Many owners have reported that their Falcon-Knight sixes show averages of from 19 to 22 miles to the gallon of fuel. In some instances this average has run even higher.

Fast in City Traffic.

In power, speed, stamina and economy tests the Falcon-Knight six has established an unsual reputation for a car in its first year of production, company officials point out. In heavy city traffic as well as driving on the country highways the Falcon-Knight six shows a degree of acceleration that has been outstanding in the six-cylinder field, they declare.

It is notable that with the Falcon-Knight six winning various important stock car races during the past summer, numerous inquiries have been made to company officials by race car pilots regarding the purchase of Falcon-Knight chassis with a view to building them into racing cars. This is taken as a tribute to the speed, power and stamina of the Falcon-Knight six.

Jumped Into Lead.

In this connection it is pointed out that in many of the races contested in by the Falcon-Knight, this car got away in front and held that position to the end of the race, the driver never being required to slacken the pace.

Falcon-Knight officials declare that the sales volume of the Falcon-Knight six, the first car powered by a Knight sleeve-valve engine to sell in America in the $1000 price class, is being maintained in a highly satisfactory volume, with indications that the closing months of 1927 will find even a greater demand for this car.

Rule makers have removed the dribble from basketball, but no one has been able to eliminate the quibble.

BUICK PLANS FALL DISPLAY

Public Invited to Show Nov. 12-19

The Dixon Motor company, Buick dealers, is completing arrangements for the Buick Autumn display, which will be held in its showrooms, Lamar at Sixth street, November 12 to 19. The public is invited to attend the display, inspect the Buick models with their attractive colors and upholsteries and enjoy the entertainment program.

The Buick autumn display will be held simultaneously in hundreds of dealer showrooms throughout the country, Charlie Nolen, sales-manager, explained. An important feature of the display is the formal introduction of the new Buick deluxe models, which will compare in interest with Buick's 1928 announcement which attracted more than 1,500,000 persons to Buick showrooms during late July.

"Our DeLuxe Buicks," said Mr. Nolen, "embody all the features for which Buick is famous, plus a captivating array or special equipment. This equipment includes handsome wire wheels, front fender wells and spare wheel locks, trunk rack, full rear bumpers to replace fender guards, and other optional items.

"In combination with Buick's conceded mechanical superiorities, its unsurpassed reliability, new low body lines, and resplendent duco colors, these special accessories result in a line of motor cars rivaling in performance, beauty, captivating style and extreme driving ease anything ever offered, regardless of price.

"Persons who have not yet had an opportunity to examine Buick for 1928 closely will find attendants ready to point out its many improvements.

"These models were a sensation from coast to coast, literally taking the country by storm. Built on the famous Buick sealed chassis and powered with the Buick six-cylinder valve-in-head engine whose vibrationless performance startled the industry last year, the new Buicks offer such additional features as an entirely new interior treatment, greater getaway and power, enhanced beauty, and a degree of riding and driving ease unapproached elsewhere.

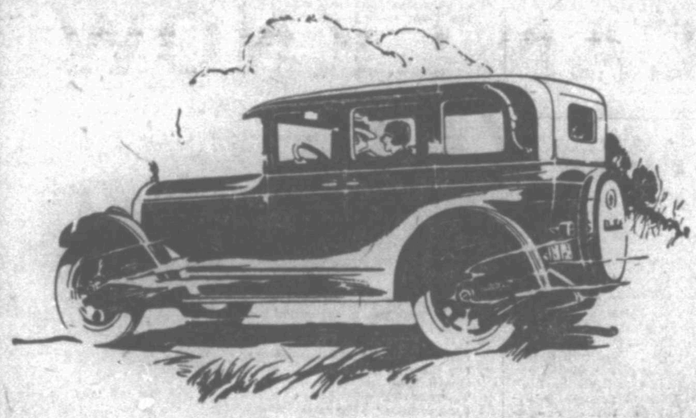

"Buick's new double-drop frame, which achieved low body lines without sacrifice of head room or road clearance, and its re-designed cantilever springs, coordinated with shock absorbers front and rear on all models, are two outstanding means by which Buick's advance in value was accomplished. They are, however, but two of a score of important improvements and refinements which our display will enable visitors to see for themselves."

Graham Truck Demand Showing Good Increase

Greater business activity throughout the country is indicated by the present record demand for motor trucks shown in the reports of Graham Brothers, the truck division of Dodge Brothers, Inc. For the two weeks ended October 22, 2969 Graham Brothers trucks were shipped to dealers on customers' orders. This is the largest two-week period for Graham Brothers this year.

While production at Graham Brothers plants in Detroit, Evansville, Stockton and Toronto has been stepped up several times in the last two months, orders have kept pace and those now on hand total more than 2500.

Advance schedules indicate that the number of Graham Brothers trucks shipped during October will exceed even the big total reached in September when 5107 vehicles went to dealers on customers' orders. September in turn showed an increase in shipments of 17.2 per cent over August.

Now Falcon-Knight Six Leads in Performance

Through traffic, on the open highway, over the hills or in heavy roads, the Falcon-Knight engine demonstrates a smooth, quiet flow of power and a flash of speed that is a distinctive characteristic of the Knight sleeve-valve engine.

ALONG AUTO ROW

News and Views With Wichita Dealers

These may be dull times in some lines of commercial endeavor, but not in the automobile business, if Wichita Falls auto dealers gauge the market correctly. Read what Bob Cornelison, general manager of McFall Brothers, distributors of Dodge Brothers cars, has to say:

"Our business has been better during the last week or ten days than it has at any other time this year. We have averaged three new car sales a day this week. Our used cars have been moving accordingly. In fact, we have disposed of most of our used cars. October was our best month this year. Results were very gratifying. November has started off with a rush. It's going to be a good month."

R. B. McKanna of McKanna Motor company, Packard dealers, is another who declares business is on the up and up.

"November business started off with a bang, so it looks like it will be a banner month with us," Mr. McKanna said. "There may be weeping and wailing and the gnashing of teeth in some business circles, but it has not been so with us. Our only trouble has been to get the cars to supply the demand. We have had to go to Dallas several times to get cars for our customers. It looks like November is going to be another good month, for she has started off with a zip."

To Briggs these simple people had had beauty which flowed around him with a quality that was benign. A great simplicity had come into his heart. Briggs wanted Valerie. Valerie wanted Briggs, but Valerie herself lost him. How?

THE Overland Limited did a rather unprecedented thing. Shooting out of the desert and into the golden glow of California, it jumped a track, landing a mail car and a freight car into a ditch and miraculously avoiding so much as the casualty of a broken arm for any member of the crew or passenger list.

It was the sort of accident that causes every one, a little white and shaken, to sit by afterwards and remark, "Well, we have something to be grateful for. Think of what might have happened."

That was true enough. The overland Limited, more by a prank of circumstance than anything else, escaped being heralded in the daily press with one of those gruesome lists of "among the dead and missing."

In Drawing Room A of the foremost sleeping car, Mr. Ogden Briggs, en route from a winter in Cannes, France, to his colossal home in Beverly Hills, California, held what was for him a most unusual introspective sort of survey.

If Ogden Briggs, instead of escaping with a slight bump on the forehead when the engine left the rails, had found himself in "among the dead" lists of casualties, the four-million-dollar estate, not including the chateau at Cannes, the Beverly Hills home and a Renaissance stone front in New York's East Sixties, would have been promiscuously divided among the next of kin.

Too Much Alive to Think of Death

Incredible as it may seem, Ogden Briggs had no will. For the reason that so many men fail to draw up that significant document.

In the midst of life, he was too full of vitality to contemplate death. Besides, although Ogden Briggs would not have admitted it to himself, he feared death. Detested the idea. Did not believe in the immortality of the soul.

Except now, something had happened to disturb his equilibrium. It had been a hair-breadth escape. He felt a sort of reverence for he did not know what.

In the four hours that it took the Overland Limited to resume its journey, Ogden Briggs was beset with a nervousness and strange exhilaration as he wandered over the country side.

At sunset, as he was passing a fuschia-covered Spanish bungalow, nestled into the heart of a grove of eucalyptus trees, he fell into conversation with a blond boy hanging over its wicker gate. Briggs asked for a drink of water. He was given it at the side entrance to a little dining-room where the family was just about to draw up to summer evening supper.

The spectacle of that little group, with fuschia climbing about the doors and windows, sitting down to the simplicity of a cool summer supper of iced tea, cottage cheese, thin slabs of pink ham and strawberries, was like a glimpse into some incredible, simple arcadia.

Here Was Beauty Simple Beauty

There were a blond mother of the blond boy, a middle-aged father with a pinkish goatee, and a girl with a head the color of the sunset that flared across the horizon. After the sophistication of the Riviera, the regalia of travel on the world's largest ocean liner, days of the New York blare, the beauty of this simplicity smote Briggs, as it were, across his very heart.

Probably the reverential mood, induced by his narrow escape, had something to do with it. When these simple folk, tucked away in the fragrant beauty of this quiet woodland retreat, asked him to share the simplicity of their supper with them, it seemed to Briggs one of the memorable happenings of a life time crowded with pretentious pomp.

Valerie was the girl's lovely name. The rightness of that name! She wore a cotton dress, the precise blue of her eyes and an organdy sash that tied around into a big bow in the back, like a little girl's.

To Briggs, who sent one woman alone, a slender beauty who wore jade earrings and had slitted eyes with heavy eyelids, as many as ten dozen hothouse camelias a week, this slip of a Valerie was suddenly, to his chastened eyes, the perfection of perfection. These simple people had beauty which flowed around him with a quality that was benign. And suddenly Valerie was more desirable than anything in life.

They dined off a red-and-white checked table cloth in a room where a mother Maltese cat and her four suckling kittens slept in an old rocking-chair and where a half-completed little cotton slip, the adorable size of Valerie, lay across a sewing machine and where the sole ornaments were two brown China pug dogs gracing the ends of the mantel piece.

These good people said grace when they sat down and the head of the house, who looked like an artist, but was actually a dirt farmer, stacked the plates up before him as he emptied each one of them and carried them over himself to the sink after the meal was finished.

There was a honey-suckle-scented half-hour on the side veranda before Ogden Briggs had to rush for his train, which was whistling in the distance. The group saw him off from the lower edge of the garden. The blond mother wrapped him up a jar of the fresh fig marmalade he had asked a third helping of, and the violet eyes of Valerie smiled him a good-bye that he carried away in his heart like a dear bruise.

Plainly, from the attitude of these simple people, a great man had come into their midst. To Ogden Briggs, a great simplicity had come into his heart. For the three weeks that followed, no camelias arrived at the threshold of the lady with the slitted eyes and the heavy, waxed lids.

Then one day, he sent a wire to the little house on the edge of the desert in a grove of eucalyptus and invited himself to dinner the following Sunday.

He was like a boy. His Hispano-Suiza whizzed him all too slowly through the garden stretches of lower California. Briggs had found something too precious to risk losing.

There was something a little changed about him. Nothing much, but instead of overalls, he wore a stiff suit of store tweeds and a collar that bit into his neck. It made of him a gawk, where he had been a bare-footed youngster of the soil.

The blond mother greeted him, this time at the door to the front parlor, and somehow, something about her was gone, too. Actually, it was a trifling change, but it seemed to matter. She was shrouded in something stiff and black like bombazine that seemed to upholster her. The old maternal lines that the plain blue cotton stuffs had given her, were gone. She was just a stiff-figured country woman on a holiday. The father, too, who had worn a shirt that fell away and revealed his tan throat and breast, was in store tweeds, pretty horrible ones.

And Valerie. She was in some kind of white cotton lace dress that hung in hanks about her figure, making it seem lanky. There were imitation pearl blobs in her ears and a string of them around her throat, and Valerie's sunset-colored hair was caught up and frizzed in tight-looking screws that danced about as she walked.

What a Mistake Valerie Made!

Dinner was served on a white crocheted tablecloth, with a hired girl in for the occasion. There was chicken done in a heavy glue of gravy and doughy dumplings and the company paraphernalia of viscid pastries. All the family looked to Valerie for pointers. She superintended the hired girl. She was obviously the motivating spirit of all the pretense. Valerie was determined that the guest-of-honor, who to her might have ridden into the scene out of one of her dreams, should not find her family "simple simons".

The first time a knight in armor had walked in on them unawares. The second time, in her frizzed bangs, her cotton lace hank of a frock and her pearl blobs, Valerie was determined to prove worthy of the miracle that had befallen her.

Poor Valerie!

Poor Ogden Briggs!

When Ogden Briggs tore himself away from the agony of that pretentious, gluey, third-rate meal with which the simple folk had tried to impress him, his Hispano-Suiza whizzed back to town like a streak across country.

When he reached town, his first step was to send a hamper of twelve dozen camelias to a certain young lady with jade earrings and slitted eyes.
