PLAINS ODD FELLOWS TO MEET AT SLATON IN AUG.

Arrangements are being perfected for the annual convention of the Plains Odd Fellows' Association, which will be held in Slaton on Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 14 and 15. The association comprises the counties of Dickens, Crosby, Lubbock, Lynn, Dawson, Yoakum and others. Something like four hundred Odd Fellows and Rebekahs are expected to attend the meeting, and they will be given a hearty welcome by the membership of Slaton.—Slaton Star.

FIRE STATION COMPLETED

The Tahoka fire station has recently been completed and the structure is in every particular and is something every citizen in the entire community should be proud of. The building is constructed of the stucco type, and the interior is fitted up with two separate apartments, including a shower bath equipment. It is not a town in west Texas that has a fire station that any way comes up with the local station. It is always just a little ahead of sister towns when it comes to improvements.

Birthday Party

Gwendolyn Turrentine, little daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Turrentine, celebrated her third birthday, entertaining twenty of her little friends Monday afternoon at her home.

Games were played and refreshments of cake and punch were served to the following children: Inez, Belle and Helen Anthony, Elizabeth Crie, Charles Allen Shook, Mack Weaver, R. C. and Mary Wells, Norman and Billie Swofford, Maidoline, L. E. Marion Bigham, Charles and Joe Townes, James and Wayne Dean, Bobbie Sharman and Mary Dean.

Bertie Cobb returned to her home Thursday, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. J. J. Hamilton and little daughter, of Henryetta, Okla., and Sue Cobb, of Dallas.

Mr. O. M. Shook has accepted a position as stenographer in the law office of Judge G. E. Lockhart.

Hal Douglas, Jr., city editor of the Lubbock Avalanche, accompanied by E. Slaughter, salesman for the Standard automobile, out of Dallas, Tuesday in Tahoka. Mr. Douglas is one among the best newspaper men in the western portion of the state, and it was a pleasure to have him pay the News force a visit. He stated that he wished to compliment our county commissioner's on the first class highways in Lynn County and that it was a real pleasure to travel over such good roads.

MRS. H. T. GOOCH UNDER- DERGOES OPERATION

Mrs. H. T. Gooch, of O'Donnell, for the past twenty-five years a citizen of that vicinity, and known as one of the most progressive pioneers in the early days on the Plains is in a local sanitarium, having undergone an operation recently. She is well known throughout the Lubbock section, and her sudden illness is the source of much bereavement among her many friends.—Lubbock Avalanche.

Lynn County citizens will be pleased to learn that Mrs. Gooch's condition is greatly improved. Mr. Gooch and son and daughter, Paul Gooch and Miss Faye, passed through Tahoka Sunday to visit the bedside of the wife and mother.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hunter, of Lubbock, were here on business, Thursday.

Mrs. W. G. Tarrance and children, of Ralls, are spending the week with her brother, Clifford Dickson and family.

K. F. Knight and sister, Miss Leota, are visiting their sister, Mrs. M. M. Boyd in Plainview this week.

Miss Murel Max, one of Jefferson's most popular young ladies, is the guest of her uncle, W. M. Harris, of the Tahoka Telephone Company.

Wallace Donaldson, of Dallas, came in Saturday for a ten days visit with home folks.

Attorney G. E. Lockhart and Paul Miller returned Saturday from San Angelo, where they went to dispose of a shipment of wool.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Haynes, of Lubbock, were visitors in the home of the editor, Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Mrs. Will Brunson has returned from a visit with her parents at Waco, Texas. Mrs. Brunson reported Lynn County crops looking better than those in other sections of the state.

Several of the railroad shop men were in Tahoka Monday from Slaton. They were out on strike, and distributed literature here to that effect. The strike is general over the United States and had not been settled up until the time the News goes to press.

20-MONTHS OLD BABY

SHOT NEAR SLATON

Slaton, Texas, July 17.—While visiting at the home of Ray Edwards, residing five miles in the country, this afternoon, J. S. Edwards, Jr., six son of J. S. Edwards of this city while at play, accidentally shot and killed the 20-months-old daughter of Ray Edwards.

The gun was a twenty-two calibre. The parents of both are distracted. Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning.

SANTA FE STATION IS BEING REPAINTED

The local Santa Fe Station is undergoing a fresh coat of paint this week, the painting gang arriving in Tahoka from Wilson the latter part of last week. The gang is under the supervision of D. W. Fortenberry, a former Tahokaite. They painted the company's buildings at Wilson and when the work is finished here they will go to Lamesa.

MARRIED

Rev. H. S. Hatchett, Baptist minister, performed the marriage ceremony Friday evening of last week that united Mr. W. J. Hagen and Miss Bethel Hart of this place in the holy bonds of matrimony.

The News joins in extending congratulations and wish for these young people a long and happy wedded life.

Mr. Hagen is at the present time employed on the farm of J. A. Caruth.

Messrs. J. G. Thompson and T. A. Johnson, of Crowell, Texas, are visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Johnson. Mr. Johnson is a brother of L. C.

Mrs. J. J. Wilson, departed Thursday for Spokane, Washington, where she will visit with her daughter, Mrs. Wannamaker. Mrs. Wilson will visit in the state of Kansas en route.

T. C. Richie, of Aspermont, an old time friend of G. G. Vaughn, is the guest of the family in their home near O'Donnell, this week.

Miss Viola McCormack went to Dallas Tuesday, where she will take a course in millinery and purchase the fall stock for the McCormack Store.

Charley Shook, of Waco, is here this week visiting relatives and greeting old acquaintances.

W. J. Burckhart left yesterday to accompany his mother to Cleburne.

Messrs. Rankin Dow, son of Editor James L. Dow, of the Lubbock Avalanche, and Walter Clark, of the Rix Furniture Co., were business callers in Tahoka, Wednesday.

J. W. Boswell, of Plainview, spent Tuesday in Tahoka.

BAPTIST-METHODIST SOCIETIES

One of the most enjoyable events of the season was enjoyed by about sixty guests Tuesday afternoon when the members of the Baptist Woman's Missionary Union entertained the ladies of the Methodist Missionary Society at the home of Mrs. W. L. Knight. An interesting program of instrumental and vocal music, reading and contests was rendered and greatly enjoyed. Delicious refreshments of iced cream and white angel food cake and brick ice cream was served.

J. C. Stewart, was in town from Slaton, Monday.

John Penny, of Lubbock, was in the city Monday.

J. R. Sikes, of Eddy, Texas, is the guest of his parents, of the Three Lakes community.

WOMAN COULD NOT WORK

Made Strong and Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Paul, Minn.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a tired, worn-out feeling and painful periods. I used to get up with a pain in my head and pains in my lower parts and back. Often I was not able to do my work. I read in your little book about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken it. I feel so well and strong and can do every bit of my work and not a pain in my back now. I recommend your medicine and you can use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. PHIL. MASER, 801 Winslow St., St. Paul, Minn.

Just another case where a woman found relief by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Many times these tired, worn-out feelings and pains about the body are from troubles only women have. The Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for just this condition. The good results are noted by the disagreeable symptoms passing away—one after another.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a Woman's Medicine for Women's Ailments. Always reliable.

ENCOURAGING WORDS

TO FORM a pleasant background or a pleasing accompaniment to the drudgery of every day life, pass around among the hordes of weary mortals whose backs are bent under heavy loads a few encouraging words and observe, while you are doing it, the happy change that comes over their stoical countenances.

It takes but little kindness and manifestation of interest to brighten dull eyes and move sad faces to a smile.

As the lips curl at the corners, you comprehend with a new understanding the value of cheering words spoken in a kindly voice whose ring is sincere.

Whatever opinion you may entertain as to the influence helpful acts and speech have upon others, you will find upon intimate observation that it is always acceptable, uplifting and productive of friendship.

Encouraging smiles and words are like bright lights on a dark highway, guiding the tired traveler to his destination, who but a little while ago had lost his way and fallen into the "slough of despond."

Reason as you may, the tongue plays the leading role in the great drama of life, permitting itself liberties that make for peace or war an enemy or love, often forgetting in an unguarded moment its great responsibility.

No man or woman who indulges in gross speech can expect to get anything in return except that which arouses resentment.

The Friendly Path

By Walter L. Robinson

READJUSTMENT

"MONEY grows or money goes." But it will neither grow nor leave one of its own accord.

Many persons have had these facts brought home to them with a jolt. Unfortunately, however, they did not recognize the value of what they obtained when it came in fast.

Harsh lessons are usually well learned. The man who foolishly trusts a rotten plank to carry him across a swirling stream and then pays for his folly by a stiff fight for life, always is more cautious when he must walk another plank to follow his pathway on the other side of a stream.

The same logic may justly be applied to every walk of life. If one spends all he earns, the money naturally goes; but, if he is wise and saves something, what he saves is certain to grow if properly invested. And it is surprising how fast it will grow and what an assistance it will become when the source of supply becomes weak or slow in producing.

Whatever the difficulties one has faced during the period of depression incident to readjustment of economic conditions, he still has much for which to offer thanks. Long faces and grumbling are inclined to increase the world's pessimism and hamper the progress back toward normalcy. It is far better to be a good sport—if we be permitted to use gaming

If you should incline to prove this for yourself, scold your pet dog. If the opposite you would verify, fill your purse tomorrow morning with kind words of encouragement, crisp as new bills, and pass them around as you wind your way to business.

Give one to the old newsman on the corner, and see his face light up as the sun of happiness touches his heart and suddenly warms his whole being.

Hand them out all along the way until you are ready to assume your duties of the day.

You may marvel as you begin at the ease and gladness with which you take up your work.

The troublesome perplexities of yesterday have vanished, and there is a goodly spirit hovering over you, whose presence you have not felt for months, and all because you started the day by cheering others and thus unconsciously cheered yourself. (Copyright.)

language—then one is more likely to see the brighter side.

Out of the struggles and discouragements the country and world at large have been experiencing, common sense will eventually rise to a higher plane than it has occupied for several years. And, though many may have foolishly spent all they earned when prosperity was with them and since have been finding it difficult to make both ends meet, when the tide turns back to normal, greater value will be placed on incomes, more caution will be exercised in spending, more money will be saved, simple and healthful pleasures will be appreciated and there will be wider appreciation of the privilege of earning fair wages or making fair profits on business done. Painful though the lesson of readjustment is, it was necessary to assure honesty and nappiness in the years to come. (Copyright.)

THE DAY AFTER

"I LKED to a frazzle!" But, say, What is the use of repining? Home at the close of the day— Arms of our loved ones entwining. Out of the fret and the worry, Out of the din and the strife; Out of the battle and worry— Home and the joytime of life.

Downed in the battle! But, say, What is the profit in sorrow? Love is still lighting the way On to a glorious morrow. Out of the turmoil and fuming, Out of the worry and wiles, Love with its welcome is looming, Beckoning on with its smiles.

Whipped to a standstill! But, say, Still there is joy in the losing If love binds the wounds of the fray After the battle's confusing. Out of the smoke and the rattle, After the heat of the fray; After the din of the battle, Love lights the close of the day. (Copyright.)

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

"NERVES," A LUXURY

IF YOU have an inherited fortune, which some one else is taking care of for you, you can afford to have "nerves."

You can afford to be sensitive, to be easily irritated, to be extravagantly disturbed at small annoyances.

You will not enjoy this, but it may be some comfort to know that you can afford it.

But if you have your way to make, and are anxious to get as far as possible with your particular mental equipment, you will find that "nerves" are too big a load to carry.

As you no doubt have discovered by this time, the world in which we live is not altogether a pleasant one.

In it there are loud and raucous noises, offensive sights, and displeasing people.

There is also a thing called labor, which viewed from the standpoint of the busy man is a good deal of a burden.

But this happens to be the only world you are in, for the present at least.

And if you permit all its unpleasant features to get on your nerves, you are going to be so busy with your unhappiness and your self-pity that you will have very little time to improve your natural gifts.

If you are nervous and touchy and sensitive, and always looking for offense, you might as well go directly to the poor house and give yourself up. You will get there in the end, and it will only be a waste of time to delay your arrival.

A good many cases of "nerves" were cured by the great war, permanently. Young gentlemen who thought they could not eat, save from a nice mahogany table, spread with the best food, and who fancied they could not sleep if a trolley car was rattling by, discovered that they were mistaken.

After they had slept for a few days within the sound of exploding shells, they saw that they hadn't had much to worry about back in peace times.

Get rid of your nerves if you want to get along. Take the world as you find it, and put up with it. You may be able to improve it just the least bit later on, but you will have to become very able, and very great, before you can do so. (Copyright.)

The Chevrolet Roadster is a car that can be used purely for business, purely for personal service, or in an ideal combination of both.

It is intensely practical as a business car. For salesmen it will serve splendidly to multiply earning power, making possible the covering of a much larger territory and more calls in a given time.

It has the fine appearance that carries prestige, which is another point in its favor as a business car. And then it is the cheapest in price of any car in America, quality and equipment considered.

And because it is the car of lowest operating cost, it becomes the cheapest in cost per year of service of any car in the world.

Consider What Chevrolet Equipment Means:

Standard Rear Axle Construction—strong, quiet Spiral Bevel Gears.

Standard Transmission—three speeds forward and one reverse.

Standard Braking System—foot service brake, hand emergency brake.

Standard Electrical System—Starter, storage battery, Remy ignition.

Standard Cooling System—pump circulation, large, honey-comb radiator and fan.

Standard Instrument Board, containing speedometer, ammeter, oil pressure gauge, lighting and starting switch, and choke pull.

Standard Type of Carburetor, with exhaust heater—one reason why you get most miles per gallon of gasoline with a Chevrolet.

Powerful, Valve-In-Head Motor. The same type as used in successful cars selling at much higher prices.

Demountable Rims—with extra rim.

Many Other Advantages which will be noticed on inspection, comparison and demonstration.

LESSON FOR JULY 16

THE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL

LESSON TEXT—Dan. 5:1-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—God will bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil.—Eccl. 12:14.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Gen. 19:1-28; Exod. 14:21-31; Ezek. 31:1-14; Acts 12:1-23.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Daniel Tells the King of His Wrong-Doing.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Belshazzar's Feast and Fate.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Judgment Against King Alcohol.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How to Enforce the Judgment Against Strong Drink.

I. Belshazzar's Impious Feast (vv. 1-4).

1. Who attended (vv. 1, 2). Belshazzar, his wife and concubines and a thousand of his lords.

2. Behavior thereof (vv. 3, 4). (1) They drank wine; they engaged in revelry. (2) They committed sacrilege. In their drunken revelry they drank wine out of the sacred vessels which had been taken out of the temple, of the house of God, which was at Jerusalem. When men are under the influence of intoxicating liquors they lose all regard for sacred things. (3) They worshiped idols. They prayed to gods of gold and of silver, of brass, of iron, wood and stone.

II. The Handwriting on the Wall (vv. 5-16).

1. The time of (v. 5). It occurred in the same hour in which they were engaged in their drunken revelry.

2. The effect upon the king (v. 6). He was greatly disturbed; he was seized with consternation. "The joints of his loins were loosed, and his knees smote one against another."

3. The king's behavior (vv. 7-16). (1) He called forth astrologers and soothsayers, offering rewards of gold and position (v. 7-9). Their utter inability to interpret the writing left the king even more perplexed. (2) Daniel brought to the suggestion of the queen (vv. 10-16). The queen here was perhaps the wife of Nebuchadnezzar who remembered Daniel's service in interpreting his dream. For that reason he was sent for and promised great reward.

III. Daniel Interprets the Writing (vv. 17-28).

1. Daniel's address to the king (vv. 17-24). He brushes aside his promised gifts (v. 17). He would not have his speech limited by the king's gifts.

2. The interpretation of the writing (vv. 25-28). (1) "Mene" means "numbered" (v. 25). "God hath numbered thy kingdom and finished it." (2) "Tekel" means "weighed" (v. 27). "Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting." (3) "Peres" means "divided" (v. 28). "Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians."

IV. The Judgment Executed (vv. 29-31).

In that night was Belshazzar slain and Darius the Mede took the kingdom.

The Chaldean dynasty ended with Belshazzar. So we may interpret this whole scene as pointing to the conditions at the close of the times of the Gentiles and as adumbrating the prevailing conditions. Let us note:

1. The stupidity of men. They, like people today, would not learn by example. Nebuchadnezzar's fate should have deterred Belshazzar from such frivolity.

2. The magnificent splendor. This great feast was characterized by pomp, display, parade. How characteristic of this age!

3. Luxury. The famous hanging gardens of Babylon were a noteworthy example. Signs of luxury today are on every hand.

4. Licentiousness. The king with his wives and concubines. This is notoriously prevalent today.

5. Blasphemous sacrilege. And may not the sacrilege of today be in excess of theirs, expressing itself in (1) a profession of religion for pecuniary gain, social and political preferment; (2) use of the pulpit and of the ministry for display and notoriety, even for the propagation of false doctrine; (3) uniting with the church, attending the communion, so as to cover up secret sins; (4) the use of the Word of God to give point to a joke; (5) denying that the Bible is God's Word, making it a book of errors, myths and legends; (6) sneering at the Virgin birth, repudiating Christ's deity and setting aside His vicarious atonement.

6. Drunken carousals. The handwriting is on the wall. God will not endure this forever; His judgment shall fall. Conditions in the world indicate that the time is drawing near. Are you ready?

Stories of GREAT INDIANS

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

CHIEF RAIN-IN-THE-FACE GOT UNDESERVED FAME

WITH the possible exception of Sitting Bull and Curley, Custer's Crow scout, more misinformation has been written about Rain-In-The-Face (Itomogai) chief of the Hunkpapas than any other Indian who ever lived. When he died September 12, 1905, the word was flashed all over the country that "the Indian who killed General Custer is dead."

During the Stanley expedition up the Yellowstone in 1873, Rain-In-The-Face murdered two civilians who had strayed from Custer's command, a crime for which he was arrested by Capt. Tom Custer a year later and imprisoned at Fort Abraham Lincoln, N. D. He escaped and after joining the hostiles under Sitting Bull he is said to have sent word back to the fort that he would have his revenge on the whole Custer family and on Captain Tom in particular.

Out of this threat grew the story that Rain-In-The-Face after the battle of Little Big Horn had cut out Tom Custer's heart and eaten a piece of it. Mrs. Custer in her book "Boots and Saddles" makes such an assertion, but Rain-In-The-Face in telling his life story to Dr. Charles A. Eastman, the noted Sioux writer, denied any such deed and it is reasonable to believe that the Hunkpapa warrior would tell a member of his own race the truth. More than that, Dr. Porter and General Bentzen, who found Tom Custer's body after the battle, have stated positively that he was not mutilated in this way.

In Longfellow's poem "The Revenge of Rain-In-The-Face," he repeats the story, although he makes Gen. George Custer the victim of the atrocity instead of Tom Custer. This may be the origin of the yarn that Rain-In-The-Face was the slayer of Custer.

The circumstances connected with his killing the two civilians from Custer's command showed that he was a ruthless, savage warrior. His bold attack on Fort Totten, N. D., in 1868 with two companions, an act of sheer bravado growing out of a dare, and his endurance of the worst tortures of the Sun Dance without a murmur proved that he was a man utterly indifferent to pain, danger or death.

After the Sioux wars were over Rain-In-The-Face settled on the Standing Rock reservation and in 1886 applied for admission to the Hampton school, an effort which inspired a second poem about him—this time from the pen of another great American poet, John G. Whittier. On the reservation Rain-In-The-Face became an Indian policeman.

CROW KING, CHIEF WHO DEFIED MEDICINE MEN

CRAZY HORSE was brave with a berserker recklessness; Sitting Bull's daring was tempered with prudence; but another Sioux chief showed a higher form of courage—the courage to defy superstition and scoff at the pretensions of the medicine men at the height of their power among his people. He was Crow King or The Crow (Kangi—"crow," Yatapi—"king" or "chief") of the Hunkpapas.

High Bear, Crow King's brother, had fallen ill of tuberculosis which the big medicine man of the Hunkpapas called the evil spirit, whereupon Crow King told him to cast it out and he would pay him well. Although the medicine man used all his charms and incantations, High Bear still coughed.

So the sorcerer changed his "medicine," frequently finding a new excuse for doing so and always charging Crow King a certain number of ponies for each new charm used. Other medicine men were called in and soon Crow King's herd was almost wiped out. Then High Bear died.

Crow King decided to put these quacks out of business. He summoned all of them to a feast, where he asked to be allowed to see the charm by which each worked his wonders. Each one proudly produced his fetish—a bear's claw, a rabbit's foot, a wolf's eye and a vessel's skin. Then Crow King calmly, dumped them into the fire.

The medicine men were horrified; they expected to see the devil drop dead. But Crow King defied them to prove the potency of their charms by bringing vengeance down upon him. From that day the power of the medicine men among the Sioux waned.

Crow King had been a great warrior of the Hunkpapas. He had fought at Fort Phil Kearney. At the Battle of Little Big Horn he had led the first charge which swept over the hill where Custer made his last stand, and the shock of this onset had so shattered the resistance of Custer's men that their annihilation a few minutes later was made certain. He had fled to Canada with Sitting Bull, but later he had denounced that leader as a coward and a fraud and had brought his band back to the United States to surrender.

When he settled on Standing Rock reservation he became a leader of the progressive element among the Hunkpapas. Because of his prowess in battle and his statesmanship they had honored him, but to the day of his death, in 1885, they held him in highest esteem because by one bold stroke he freed them from superstition.

The Young Mother.

THE ILLS OF INFANTS AND CHILDREN should be so well known to the youngest of mothers that a reminder or a repetition of the symptoms of illness seems unnecessary, yet there are some mothers who overlook a feverish condition, a little colic, or a disposition to be irritable. If not corrected they may lead to serious sickness. And to correct them, to bring Baby back to its happy self, is so easy by the use of Castoria—a medicine prepared just for infants and children. It will regulate the bowels (not force them), aid digestion and so bring quiet and rest.

Fletcher's Castoria has been doing this for over 30 years; regulating the stomach and bowels of infants and children. It has replaced the nauseating Castor Oil, so-called Soothing Syrups, poisonous Paregoric and other vicious concoctions in the homes of true and honest mothers—mothers who love their children.

Those mothers will give their babies foods and medicines especially prepared for infants and children.

Exact Copy of Wrapper.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

A Word About Truth.

"Great is Truth, and mighty above all things." So says the Old Testament, yet it is equally true to-day. Truth shows no favors, fears no enemies.

From the inception of Fletcher's Castoria, Truth has been the watchword, and to the conscientious adherence to this motto in the preparation of Fletcher's Castoria as well as in its advertising is due the secret of its popular demand.

All imitations, all substitutes, all just-as-good preparations lack the element of Truth, lack the righteousness of being, lack all semblance even in the words of those who would deceive.

And you! Mothers, mothers with the fate of the World in your hands, can you be deceived? Certainly not.

Fletcher's Castoria is prepared for Infants and Children. It is distinctly a remedy for the little ones. The BABY'S need for a medicine to take the place of Castor Oil, Paregoric and Soothing Syrups was the sole thought that led to its discovery. Never try to correct BABY'S troubles with a medicine that you would use for yourself.

NOTICE VOTERS

To the qualified voters, patrons and citizens of the Tahoka Independent School District:

An election will be held at the Court House in Tahoka on the 22nd day of July for the purpose of increasing the maintenance School tax from 30 cents to one dollar on the $100.00 valuation on all the taxable property in said district for two reasons, to-wit:

First, the valuation of the property in said district may be lowered so that said valuation may not be excessive under the provisions of the law thereby avoiding any probable contest with regard to excessive valuations that may arise in the future.

Secondly, that the School Board may be enabled by virtue of the authority vested in it by law to make such levy as will provide sufficient funds for the maintenance of the schools in said district for a period of nine months in each year.

All qualified voters in said district are earnestly requested to vote in said election.

E. S. Davis, Presiding Judge, H. E. Baldridge, assistant judge, M. H. Edwards and B. J. Leedy, Clerks, having been appointed to hold said election are requested to be present at the hour provided by law, at the Court House, to conduct said election.

CITY ORDINANCE

An ordinance providing for the Taxing of Dogs within the incorporated City of Tahoka.

Art. 1. Be it ordained by the City of Tahoka that every person owning or having in possession, running at large within the limits of Tahoka, shall pay to the city secretary of Tahoka an annual tax for every dog or bitch and shall be required to put upon the neck of said dog or bitch a collar bearing the number of the license received from said secretary.

Art. 2. It is hereby made the duty of the City Secretary to collect the tax provided for in article 1, and pay same into the City Treasury, and to keep a stub book showing owner of dog or bitch and number of license.

Art. 3. It is further ordained that the City Marshall is required by this ordinance to catch and impound all dogs and bitches found without said tags and license and to hold not to exceed three days and then if said dog or bitch is not redeemed by payment of said tax and one dollar pound fee, than said City Marshall shall have the power to kill.

Passed and approved June 23, 1922.

I trust my town and I boost my town,
In all the world-to me!
Or if it's not, I want to get out
And try to make it be!
I talk my town and I preach my town,
As I think a fellow should
Who has more at stake than to win or lose
For the love of the common good!
I bet on my town, and I bank on my town,
And I think it fine to feel—
When you know your town and you love your town—
That it's part of your honest zeal.
I'm proud of my town, I love my town,
And I want to help it rise—
And that's the way to help a town—
Not curse it and despise.

REAL BACKBONE OF NATION

Small Town of Infinitely More Importance
Than the Crowded and Frequently Thoughtless Cities.

More and more the importance of the small town in the great systems of government and civilization is being realized. President Harding merely gave fitting voice to this realization when he referred to the small town as the "one everlasting anchorage." It is this, and more—a great balance wheel that is forever in motion to keep the social and other pendulums of national life from swinging too far in extreme directions.

National salvation sometimes is to be found in "small-town ideas," which are not always progressive, but which are conceived in second thoughts—and blessed, indeed, is that nation whose people are moved to action only after second thoughts have established themselves!—The small town thinks before it acts. Sometimes this is not true of the city, where contributing factors to serious consideration are more complicated, more bound up in the hurrying movement of life. No nation is greater than its average small town.—Florida Metropolis.

Utilities Injure Trees.

The tree growth on the streets of the average American town or city is ragged and unkempt in appearance, while that of the suburb or small village often is not much better unless the planting has been done under municipal control, and the plantings on a street have been confined to a single kind of tree. The telegraph, the telephone, the electric light and the trolley car have added their share toward the mutilation or destruction of the good trees that were in existence at the time of their coming.

Faulty methods of pruning have caused disfigurement and ruin. "Success follows the careful planting of good trees which are given adequate protection and timely attention," says Farmers' Bulletin 1209, "Planting and Care of Street Trees," just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. "Every tree should be trained to its proper form while young,
so that severe pruning will not be necessary later.

"To the mutilation of severe pruning has been added the destruction of many trees in centers of business because they excluded a little light, or made the store less prominent, or were somewhat in the way of using the sidewalk for merchandise."

Service Is Thing That Counts.

A merchant should not be a leech on his community. The way to prosper is to realize that what helps the trade territory helps you. Mere gain on the part of a member or business institution is not an asset—it is the service that each one renders to his fellow-men, business associates and the community that counts.

If you are going to practice neighborliness try and help your neighbor—be a good neighbor. It is good business. I always figure that if the productiveness of my community is increased my business will pick up.

I don't care if my competitor gets a bigger share—all I want is my share.—Kansas City Star.

Boasts of Dancing Cat.

A little boy in New Brunswick had an old cat that he trained to dance when the boy would whistle. The lad would choose the time when the cat was sleeping at the back of the stove for the performance. Then he would commence to whistle. When the cat heard the whistling she would commence to move as though something frightening was drawing her and then she would jump on his knee and step, keeping time to the whistling. She would dance until she grew weary if the boy kept on whistling.

PRAYING MANTIS

"Of course," said Mrs. Praying Mantis, "I'm a dreadful little insect. I certainly am and I do not deny it. But still I think there are other creatures just as bad as I am, just as bad, every bit as bad.

"Now people think I am so dreadful because I eat Mr. Mantis after I have married him.

"Well, it is just my way. Perhaps you will say that it is not a very charming thing to do.

"I can quite understand your point of view, it isn't the sweetest thing to do in the world, I know. In fact, I don't suppose it is a sweet thing to do at all.

"We got the name of Praying Mantis
because we stand as though in prayer.
We look so good, but we're not. It's just our positions that are so nice and well-behaved and sweet looking.

"Yes, I can see how people would say that it wasn't a wisely thing to do to eat one's little mate. I don't suppose it is like a sweet bride, but then the Praying Mantis is a different creature.

"But as I was saying in the first place of all, I think there are lots and lots of creatures who aren't so perfect, too. There are grown-up people who aren't perfect and birds who aren't perfect.

"And so it goes.

"But I was thinking of people. Take,
for example, grownups who buy food already cooked and don't care if it is indigestible so long as they are saved the bother of cooking it. I think they are as bad as I am, for they will let their mates eat and suffer because they're too lazy to do too much, and I don't let my mate suffer. I eat him right away!

"I hear that in cities ladies buy food
at shops where they have it all cooked, and salads all made and croquettes
all ready to heat.

"These things are very, very apt to give people indigestion, but gracious, some would rather be lazy than keep the family from suffering of indigestion.

"And I think such creatures are just about as bad as I am."

"Do you?" asked Fairy Bright Thoughts.

"Yes, I really, really do. Of course, perhaps I should not say that such creatures are as bad as I am, but they are almost as bad as I am. Almost, almost, almost."

"Ah," said Fairy Bright Thoughts,
"that is not what I am thinking about.
No, I am not thinking whether the others are as bad as you are or not.

"That is not what I am thinking.

"And I am not thinking whether you are much worse than the ones of whom

"It Is Wrong."

you speak. I'm not thinking of that, either. I'm thinking of something else."

"And that is?" inquired Mrs. Praying Mantis.

"That is," said Fairy Bright Thoughts, "the thought I've now to give you.

"In the first place, what you say
may be very true. I'm not denying it.
Laziness is bad. Laziness that will cause sickness is bad, too.

"It is wrong for people to pretend they do things that they don't, too.
And it is wrong for people to pretend that they don't do things that they do.

"It is wrong to do many things. And there are many other things that are not wrong to do. Let us not discuss all the rights and the wrongs in the world.

"It would take too long, much, much too long. Let us discuss just this thought.

"I think that the insect or creature who will say that they are not so bad because they know others who're just as bad is about the weakest kind of a creature living.

"You cannot even bear the punishment of thinking you've done wrong but you want to share that with a lot of others.

"Bah, Mrs. Praying Mantis! Do not talk of others who're just about as bad as you are. Think of others that are so much better. Then you will improve and amount to something."

"What you say has truth," said Mrs.
Praying Mantis, "and it has sense, for it is not right to excuse one's self by showing up the wrong in others. But I cannot change my ways, ah no, ah
no!"

Of Great Profit.

"Well, my dear, I hope you learned something during the sermon this morning."

"I wouldn't have missed it for the world. I learned the pattern of the smartest hat you ever saw."—Life.

White in Separate Skirts; Hats Now Have Wider Brims

IN SEPARATE skirts for sports and semi-dress, the demand has swung round to white or patterns in which white dominates. Whatever the material, whether silk, wool, linen or cotton, the skirts of the hour emphasize all-white or white with fine crossbars or half-line stripes that make little impression of color. There are very good reasons for the popularity of these white skirts; they make a fine background for sweaters in any color,

ling in the direction of the palest tints, to be followed by all-white. These last fair ghosts of colorful hats float away and disappear with the first breath of autumn.

Shapes bear testimony to midsummer by their wider brims and picturesque contours. Many of them seem to have been inspired by the memory of the poke bonnet, which appears to have made an undying impression. Midsummer hats are about

HANDSOME SKIRT IN WHITE AND BLACK

they launder easily and nothing looks quite so cool and crisp, unless it be a well-balanced combination of black and white.

The active sportswoman likes white linen or white flannel when she plays tennis, sails or otherwise enjoys the open. White chevrot, with crossbar of orange (or blue or green) is apt to be included in her outfit to be worn with a sweater in matching color, and for a dressier model she might well select white crepe or a combination of white and black like the handsome skirt pictured. These silk skirts, including silk crash, are often plaited, while the wrap-around and plain,
straight styles are liked for sports wear. The wrapped skirt fastens down one side and may be laid out in a flat piece when it is ironed. A few buttons at the waist and midway between that and the hem provide the fastening equally divided between straws and fabrics, with French crepe, canton crepe and georgette the mediums in which painstaking designers delight to reveal superb workmanship. Crowns are usually round in both fabric and straw hats, brims beautifully proportioned, having subtle and becoming lines. Orchid, pearl gray, almond green, vieux rose and a new, live warm brown called "amadou" are made much of in hats for midsummer, dividing honors with the newly arrived

all-white hats.

Two straw hats, one fabric model and one combining both straw and fabric, compose the group pictured here. A very wide-brimmed hat of white tagal, at the top, has its brim swathed with a twisted roll of orchid velvet and a huge chon of velvet and georgette mounted at the front of the crown. The lovely and intricate leg

MIDSUMMER HATS HAVE WIDER BRIMS

with the help of an elastic band near the hem, which permits necessary freedom for walking.

Nothing makes a lovelier or more useful semi-dress skirt for midsummer than white crepe de chine. Canton crepe, silk kasha and white pongee are rivals.

"With what a glory comes and goes the year!" Women contrive to herald each of its seasons, and almost each month, by their millinery.
Flower-laden hats met the spring with a burst of color; advancing summer finds tones becoming fainter and movhorn hat below it has a secondary brim of georgette in pale yellow, supporting a few blossoms and a wreath of them about the crown. The hat of white French crepe at the left one can imagine as beautiful in any of the season's light colors, and an all-white, with wreath of fine feathers and blossoms, is as airy as a blow-away thistle.

LYNN COUNTY FARMERS ELECT HENDERSON TO SELL THEIR COTTON

Joe Henderson, of the Lakeview Community in Lynn County, left Monday for A. & M. College, where he will take a six weeks course in cotton grading.

Mr. Henderson is a brother of J. E. Henderson, of the Avalanche, and we are sure he will make good in the cotton grading work.

He has been in the cotton business from growing to marketing, and we are indeed glad to know that he is going deeper into the work.

He is a typical plainsman, a broad-shouldered, broadminded farmer of the pioneer type, who is after the cotton raising on the plains with the determination to make more of it than a matter of scratching the soil and cussing the weeds because they outgrow the cotton.

We are glad to know he is taking advantage of the opportunity to know more about cotton, and is elected to represent an organization of Lynn county farmers in all their cotton selling, and we heartily congratulate them for being able to secure his services.—Lubbock Avalanche

The City Council met in session June 23, 1922, and the following ordinance was passed:

Forbidding any person or persons to dig a ditch, hole or to fill in the ditches on either side of the street made for drainage purposes without a permit from the City Council, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not less than Five Dollars, ($5.00) nor more than Ten Dollars, ($10.00).

Whereas the public demands the immediate passage of this ordinance, therefore an emergency exists demanding a suspension of the rules requiring the ordinance to be read on three several dates. Said rule is hereby suspended and this ordinance is placed on its first reading and final passage, and shall be effective and in full force from and after its passage and approved.

Approved this 23 day of June, 1922.
