Out of that number 128 will be divided into four flights for match play which begins Friday morning.

The championship title is open. Dennis Lavender, winner of the 1930 championship while playing for Abilene, will not be here to defend his throne. Neither had Dixon White, runner up for the past two years, registered yesterday. Nevertheless the competition promised to wax warm with the entries of several outstanding golfers of the area.

Leaders Are Here

Among the leading amateurs who had registered yesterday were Ed Johnson, M. T. Johnson and M. M. Merriman of Amarillo, any one of whom is conceded a chance to land in the upper bracket. C. R. Pope and Bill Yager of Abilene, Bob Peck of Wichita Falls, C. A. Qualls of Post, Lee Davis of Fort Worth and Gibson Payne of Lubbock were other early arrivals who loom as powerful contenders.

Match play will continue through Saturday and Sunday, with a 36-hole final match deciding the way of the winner on Sunday. Winners in all flights will be determined by 36-hole matches, with consolation matches consisting of 18 holes of play.

Sykes To Officiate

Walter Sykes of Amarillo, popular professional and official, has been named official starter and referee of the tournament. Sykes arrived late yesterday and will take charge this morning.

The official program for the tournament states that entries will be received up to 4 o'clock this afternoon. At that time the lists will be closed and tonight pairings will be made for matched play.

Aside from prizes offered to winners and runners up in all flights and to consolation winners and runners up special prizes will be awarded the medalist and the winner of a long driving contest. The latter is set for Saturday afternoon.

Police Search Is Ended With Surrender Man

"Jake The Barber" Accused Of Swindling In England, Says Reports About Him Are All False; Tells Story

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 20.—John "Jake The Barber" Factor quietly surrendered to federal authorities today to face the charge he swindled Britons of huge sums of money in a stock selling scheme. Factor appeared flanked by four attorneys, and won an immediate hearing. He denied all charges of fraud laid to him by English officials.

The international promoter, served notice he would resist any attempt to extradite him. His attorneys argued for hours attempting to obtain his freedom on bail, but the upshot was a continuance of the hearing until Monday and "Jake The Barber" was remanded to the custody of two deputy marshals.

"All I have read about myself in the past few days," he said in a statement, "is absolutely false. The statements about me and the members of my family which have been maliciously circulated are utterly without foundation. I have appeared voluntarily because I know the charges made against me are untrue."

Factor told newspapermen of playing Chemin De Fer with the Prince of Wales at Monte Carlo last August 16.

"I had won $650,000 the week before and the casino asked me to play with the prince," he said. "We sat next to each other in a small game and played for some time. I don't recall the other ten persons in the game It was not a steep game and the prince is a charming person. He isn't so smart but I wouldn't want you to print that."

Lubbock Man Is Elected Leader

(Special To The Avalanche)

CROSBYTON, May 20.—O. H. Cline of Lubbock was re-elected lay leader of the Lubbock district of the Methodist church today at the close of the two days' conference. More than 400 persons attended the meetings Tuesday and today.

Lubbock Citizens Urged To Return Convention Badges

Lubbock people responded splendidly to the request for the return of convention badges, chamber of commerce officials said yesterday. Many badges used during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention last week again will see service during the West Texas golf tournament, it was said.

In spite of the additional supply of tokens obtained from Lubbock people still more of the badges will be needed for the sectional meet which opens today, it was said. A second appeal was issued yesterday by the chamber of commerce for the return of badges, in order to meet today's registration needs.

Clubbing Rabbits Is Just A Little Dangerous; Take Aim And Fire Is Best Way

(By The Associated Press)

TEXHOMA, Okla., May 20.—Clubbing rabbits to death not only is not the most effective method of killing them, but it is not safe.

This discovery was made here by Amos Carl Bennet, who today was under medical care for a bullet wound in his leg. He is recovering.

Mr. Bennet endeavored to strike a rabbit with the butt of his gun, and the gun was discharged, the bullet just missing his shin bone.

He missed the rabbit.

State Highway Bill Meets Final Defeat

Author Not To Bring Measure To Vote Again

Proposal For $212,000,000 In Bonds For State Highway Is Voted Down By House Showing 97 To 46

Lacks Trio Votes

Three Proponents Of Measure Absent And Their Support Would Have Gained Votes To Have Bill Submitted

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, May 20.—The proposed constitutional amendment to issue $212,000,000 in bonds for state highway purposes failed of being submitted to popular vote by the house today by three votes. A total of 97 votes was registered for the resolution and 46 against it. One member voted present and not voting.

The resolution required 100 votes.

To Halt Efforts

Representative Hubbard of New Boston, joint author and house floor leader for the amendment, stated no further attempt would be made to bring the bond issue up again this session. The session will end Friday.

Three members who were for the issue were absent. Had they been present the issue would have gained sufficient votes to be submitted.

Four members who had consistently opposed the amendment voted for it on final passage. They were Representatives Hughes of Dallas, Engelhard of Eagle Lake, Moffett of Chillicothe and Burns of Brady.

Adopted By Senate

The amendment was adopted several weeks ago by the senate. Several agreed amendments were added in the house and would have required senate concurrence. Bond proponents in the senate, however, had agreed to the amendments.

Opponents attempted to prevent consideration of the amendment today by raising a point of order that it had been killed by previous action of the house. The point of order was overruled by Speaker Fred Minor.

Point Is Raised

Representative De Wolfe of Goldthwaite raised the point the resolution was killed when a motion to reconsider and spread on the journal was declared out of order the last time the vote was taken. He

Sheriff Wade Hardy Declares That No More Visitors Will Be Allowed After Attempts To Break Jail

As a precautionary measure following the attempted jail break here Sunday night, four prisoners were removed to Crosbyton late Tuesday, Sheriff Wade Hardy said yesterday. The men transferred from the city jail were Frank Cornell, Joe Miller, Bob Johnson and Jesse Wise.

Two window bars were cut early Sunday morning by some of the prisoners in the jail, officers said. None of the inmates of the men's tank attempted to escape through the window because the presence of a guard, armed with a shotgun, was discovered stationed outside. Two hacksaws were discovered in the men's cell Sunday.

Stringent rules regarding the care of the prisoners have been enacted to prevent further attempts to break jail, Sheriff Hardy said. No more visitors will be allowed to visit the county prisoners, he said.

Judge W. R. McGill Declares That He Is A Bit "Turned Around"; Gone 30 Years

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche Staff Writer

BACK TO the scene of his activities of 40 years ago, when he first presided over the first district court in Lubbock county, has come Judge W. R. McGill of Fort Sumner, N. M., to be a witness in the "Spikes case" now being heard in the 99th district court.

This is Judge McGill's first visit to Lubbock in many, many years. "The last time I was here, the old Nicolet hotel was somewhere around here," he said. "I am all turned around."

(The old Nicolet hotel he referred to is now the Broadway hotel and was formerly one of the best well known hostelries of this section). "I got in here Tuesday and have not become straightened out yet."

Had Ten Districts

"I had ten counties in my district and many unorganized districts" the judge said as he recalled early court days here. "Lubbock county was the farthest west of these counties. There was nothing west of here

Home, Once Resounding With Children's Laughter, Is Empty

(By Central Press)

ELYRIA, O., May 20.—Ignatius Pigon wanders through an empty home. Until a few days ago it reverberated with the laughter of his children and their mother.

With one swoop the mother, the children and the laughter have been bundled together by the United States government—and sent to Poland.

You see, there has been a "crime"—a crime so "terrible" that the innocent must suffer.

Mrs. Pigon, now 21, entered the United States at the age of 14 on her sister's passport.

Her sister decided not to come to America, the future Mrs. Pigon did desire to come—and thought there would be nothing wrong using the sister's passport.

Mrs. Pigon met her husband, a native-born American, in Elyria, and they were wed three years ago. Stanley, the eldest child, is two; Richard is five months old.

Mrs Pigon and the children, it has been decreed, may re-enter the United States from Poland provided the quota isn't filled and Pigon's money holds out. It is no easy matter to finance the trip both ways. His pay envelope at the factory isn't large.

Not the least of the sorrows of the Pigons is that the building of a home of their own must be foregone.

Impending War Brings Rumble

Two Armies Concentrating For Attacks To Be Staged Among Mountains Of New Mexico In Next Several Days

(By Associated Press)

EL PASO, May 20.—Ominous rumblings of impending "war" between New Mexico and Texas were heard here tonight as "armies" drawn from the First Cavalry division, concentrated at Fort Bliss.

Leaves and passes were cancelled, and the post presented a scene of grim activity with enlisted men burnished their equipment and officers poring over tactical plans.

Brown And White

A "brown" army will represent Texas and a "white" army New Mexico in the division's annual maneuvers in the Sacramento mountains of the latter state.

The whites will leave the fort tomorrow under command of Major General Ewing E. Booth, chief of the division, for a point in New Mexico unrevealed but believed to be in the vicinity of Alamogordo, 80 miles northeast of El Paso.

A state of war then will be declared, and the armies will move

Russian Delegation To World Wheat Conference Indicates Soviet Union Will Favor A Polish "Quota Plan"

LONDON, May 20.—The Russian delegation to the world wheat conference today indicated that the Soviet union would favor the "quota plan" of Poland and the Danube countries as a solution of the world wheat problem rather than the proposal of Samuel R McKelvie, of the American contingent, for restriction of acreage.

Exposition of the Russian position created a minor impasse in the conference which developed into an issue on which the meeting finds itself unable to agree.

Broadway Hotel Is Slightly Damaged By Fire Wednesday

The Broadway hotel, at Broadway and Avenue H, was slightly damaged by fire of undetermined origin last night at 9.30 o'clock.

General Douglas MacArthur Is Author Of Proposal For Big Cut In Military Posts For Decreasing Deficit

Postoffice Department Officials Will Gather In Conference With Hoover To Discuss Reductions

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 20. — The entire or partial abandonment of 53 military posts was proposed today by General Douglas MacArthur, army chief of staff, in line with President Hoover's economy program.

Meanwhile, postoffice department officials were invited by President Hoover to confer with him at the Rapidan camp this week-end on possible savings in that department. Two other departments-war and interior—have been studied on previous weekends.

Fight Tax Increase

President Hoover hopes to cut government expenses to a point that will make a tax increase unnecessary. He expects a $125,000,000 to $150,000,000 saving next year with additional reductions later. All departments will come under scrutiny.

In a memorandum to Secretary Hurley, made public by the war department, General MacArthur proposed abandonment of 24 posts and partial abandonment of 29 others, the total value at $22,000,000.

Posts are Listed

Occupied posts cited by the general for elimination included Forts Brown and D. A. Russell, Texas; Camps Harry J. Jones and Stephen D. Little, Arizona; Fort Lincoln, North Dakota; Miller Field, New York; Fort Missoula, Montana, and Chanute Field, Illinois.

"Certain ones have long outlived their usefulness," the general continued: "In this connection, it must be remembered that strategic locations of garrisons against foreign aggression, under modern conditions of rapid transportation, have ceased to be of any special value."

Harbor Defense Cited

Harbor defense forts, camps and landing fields, now unoccupied except by caretakers proposed by the general for complete disposal included Fort Ward and Willapa Bay, Washington; Camp Union, New

Former Beauty Queen Favored In Nice Court

American Beauty Contest Winner Is Acquitted In Short Order By French Jury For Slaying Of Husband

(By Associated Press)

NICE, France, May 20.—A French jury required only ten minutes this evening to acquit Mrs. Charlotte Nash Nixon-Nirdlinger, beauty contest winner formerly of St. Louis, of the slaying of her husband.

The jury upheld her contention that she shot her husband, Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, wealthy Philadelphia theater operator, in self-defense after he had attacked her in a jealous frenzy last March.

Record Is Set

Her trial opened only this morning in Assizes court and the jury's speed in reaching a verdict set a record for Riviera tribunals of justice. Immediately after it was returned Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger, wan after the ordeal of the trial, was released from the stuffy jail where she had been confined since the slaying.

So hopeless was the prosecuting attorney of obtaining a conviction even on a charge of manslaughter, which he asked, that he decided at the last minute not to call any witnesses for the state.

Own Chief Witness

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger, who as Charlotte Nash won the prizes in the Atlantic City and St. Louis beauty contests, proved to be her own chief witness, telling a crowded courtroom in halting and sometimes tearful detail the story of the fatal encounter with her husband.

Police reserves had to be called to handle the crowds of men and women who stormed the courtroom in an effort to witness the proceedings. Only a few were able to find space in the small chamber as she told her story.

Bursting into tears at several points in her testimony Mrs. Nixon-

AUSTIN, May 20. (AP)—The house today concurred in all but one of the senate amendments to the peddler tax bill. Should the committee be unable to agree on the cement tax the entire bill would be killed.

Testimony Of Former Judge In Afternoon

Jury Excused From Courtroom For Quarter Of Hour While Attorneys Argue Questions Before Court

Conversation With John Spikes Is Related By Witness And Details Cause Dismissal Of Jury From Room

FEATURED by the testimony of Judge W. R. McGill, former district judge of the old 50th district, a state ranger, Jerome Wheatley and former sheriff of Potter county and also by J. Alex Street a special agent of the U. S. department of justice, the events of the afternoon session of the Spikes vs. Haley, et al, libel suit, moved in colorful array before a packed court room.

Legal questions and entanglements between counsel for both sides caused the jury to be excused from the room for a quarter of an hour or so. There were several clashes, one over the testimony of Judge McGill and the other over the admission of four indictments against John J. Spikes in Crosby county. In three of the cases only a misdemeanor was charged and fines paid. In the fourth the indictment was later dismissed. Strenuous objections by Lockhart, Garrard and Brown failed to block their admission as exhibits.

Audience Warned

Also during the questioning, when the crowd audibly laughed, Judge Mullican advised the audience that they must not repeat it under penalty of being ordered to leave the court room.

Deposition of A. T. Barquec, a deputy sheriff in New Mexico at the time the Spikes boys were living there, was read. He said he knew four of the boys personally, John, Dick, Ernest and Jeff and the others by reputation. He also had herded sheep about the time of the slaying of John and Dick. Cross examination questioning by attorneys for the plaintiff was also read.

Reach Compromise In Highway Suit

A compromise was effected yesterday in the suit of A. W. Blankenship against Lubbock county, filed after an acre of the plaintiff's land at College avenue and Fourth street had been condemned for highway purposes.

Blankenship's suit, an appeal from the decision of a jury of view setting $600 as the property owner's damage, asked damages of $5,600. Under the terms of the compromise, the plaintiff will be allowed $910.

The plaintiff pleaded that his property had been damaged in the excess of $600 because a protruding corner, designated as a filling station site, had been taken for the road right-of-way.

Another Veteran Reporter Falls As Vengeful Gangland Guns Bark Forth

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, May 20.—The newspaper career of Herbert Spencer once a veteran police reporter was ended today by gunmen's bullets as he followed the sinister trail of gangland in an attempt to expose activities of alleged criminals.

Sitting in the office of Charles Crawford, real estate executive and long a figure in city politics, Spencer was shot down and Crawford was wounded probably mortally.

A gunman who entered the office and fired point blank at his victims escaped in an automobile.

An hour before he died with a bullet in the heart, Spencer, editor of a local magazine on which he had worked since he resigned as city editor of the Los Angeles Evening Express some months ago, left his office and told an associate.

"I'm going out to get some more underworld stuff."

Ironical Caricaturist Leaves 500-Word "Obit" After Suicide Telling Of Failure To Appreciate His Wife

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 20—Ralph Barton, irionical caricaturist, shot himself to death in his penthouse apartment early today and left behind him a 500-word obituary telling of melancholia and remorse over failure to appreciate Carlotta Monterey, his former wife.

Barton called Miss Monterey, now the wife of Eugene O'Neill, the playwright, "The only woman I ever loved."

"No one thing is responsible for this and no one person except myself. If the gossips insist upon something more definite and thrilling as a reason let them choose my pending appointment with my dentist or the fact that I happen to be painfully short of cash at the moment. No other single reason is more important or less temporary. . . .

"I've done it because I am fed up with inventing devices for getting through 24 hours every day and with bridging over a few months periodically with some purely artificial interest, such as a new gal who annoys me to the point where I forget my own troubles."

In conclusion Barton said: "I present the remains with my compliments to any medical school that fancies them—or soap can be made of them. . . . I kiss by dear children and Carlotta."

The document was unsigned, but bore seven "X8" at the end.

Barton called the manuscript an "obit," so describing it in four letters typewritten in red.

Miss Mabel Magee And J. A. Dowdle Are Wed In Ceremony At Chu

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

THE OLD days when parents could justify Johnny's terrible temper by throwing up their hands and wondering where on earth he got it are long past. Today a lot of psychologists and teachers are expounding the theory that Johnny got his temper from his parents and other associates and that it isn't an inherited trait.

Everything, even food, is blamed for the behavior of children and parents come in for their quota of the responsibility, so that it isn't such an easy thing for them to wash their hands of responsibility for their children's actions by saying that they have done the best they could. Society today is demanding that people have some training in providing the proper environment for children in order that tempers and other such undesirable characteristics may occur less frequently.

Judge S. N. Starnes, Altus, Okla., told members of the North Texas and Southern Oklahoma peace officers association the other day in Amarillo that "every juvenile confined within the walls of a penal institution is paying the penalty for some adult's ignorance or misconduct." Delinquency is largely attributed to environment and proper parental training and associations will in most cases prevent delinquency, he stated.

The small boy who destroys flowers and other things in the neighborhood, the child who must be watched for petty thieving and the "bad boy" of the neighborhood are usually that way because their parents are neglectful of their training or have failed almost altogether in giving them any training, we are told by those who study behavior. Blame comes back to the parents more frequently now than it did before this new school of thought was so generally accepted.

And in many instances this environment is a negative instead of a positive thing: Johnny hasn't been taught the wrong thing, neither has he been taught the right thing.

So far, we haven't accepted any universal method of parental training, but the day is coming when this schooling will be considered as essential as the three R's. More and more men and women are recognizing that the responsibilities of rearing children have not been fulfilled when food and shelter have been provided, and that ignorance is no excuse for juvenile delinquency. Today's young mother has a book on psychology and child training ranged alongside her cook book because she considers it just as essential. Newspapers devote columns to authorities on parental and child training. Parent-teacher associations are broadening their scope of activity. Home economics departments of high schools and colleges are including practical care and training of children in their curriculums. Some day every boy training to fit them for the responsibilities of parenthood just as they receive training to fill places in the business and professional world today.

IF IT MUST BE GAY

SOMEONE is always thinking up a new fee to add to occasions. Over in Hatfield, England, you can get married for a very modest sum but if the wedding must be gay there is an additional ten shillings or about $2.50 for confetti.

THAT legislation is necessary to curb marathoning is indicative that as a civilized nation we have not yet approached perfection. Both branches of the Texas legislature have voted against marathon contests and provisions of the bill are drawn to cover marathon dances, extended bicycle races and other physical and mental endurance contests.

Legislation should not be necessary to prohibit these marathons, of course, because we should have enough power to decide against them. However, the state must sometimes step in to protect people from their own foolhardiness.

There are extended contests which have something to contribute. Sometimes physical endurance is tested in order that certain groups may determine what may be expected of our bodies. Some contests contribute to scientific knowledge and will later reflect to the benefit of mankind. But many of the marathons are simply spectacular and bring physical harm to the contestants. It is this sort of thing that the bill is expected to curb.

The only Tire Fact you need to know

When you read a tire advertisement that almost sweeps aside your judgment with its enthusiasm: SAY TO YOURSELF

"More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

When you face a sales argument that sounds good but you have no means of testing: SAY TO YOURSELF

"More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

When the high-pressure dealer works on you with hypnotic eye and coercive logic: SAY TO YOURSELF

"More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

When you are tempted to fall for bargain claims, a long trade-in, trick size comparisons, or anything else but intrinsic tire goodness: SAY TO YOURSELF

"More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

Then, just for variety, ask yourself "WHY?" Why is it true that

"More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

The answer lies in the fact that Goodyear has, year after year, given the public built-in quality and value which far out-weighs trick comparisons and clamorous claims.

History Of Catholic Church In Texas, With A Story Of Texas Missions, Are To Be Given At Centennial

DALLAS, May 20 (AP)—A history of the Catholic church in Texas, including the romantic story of Texas missions, older than those in California, will be partially completed in time for the opening of the Texas Centennial in 1936, it was revealed today at the annual Texas convention of the Knights of Columbus.

This announcement was made in the report by Rev. Father Paul J. Folk of Austin. He said an effort would be made to obtain canonization for the venerable Antonio Margil De Jesus, one of the early Spanish missionaries called "the Apostle To Texas."

It also was reported that Carlos E. Castaneda of the University of Texas, while on a trip to Mexico City and Guadalajara last year, discovered documents lost many years ago, including Morfi's history of Texas.

San Antonio, Laredo and Amarillo were seeking next year's convention. A selection was expected this afternoon. Officers were to be elected also and delegates to the national convention were to be chosen.

The Daliet trophy represented by State Deputy Joseph I. Driscoll of El Paso was awarded to Cheofas Calleros, grand Knight of Del Nótre council, El Paso, for greater activity in historical work in Texas than any other of the 70 Texas councils. Del Norte council has won the prize for the last three years.

COLLEGE COLUMN

By MARSHALL FORMBY, TECH CORRESPONDENT

SENIORS CELEBRATE TODAY

Following an annual college tradition, seniors in Texas Technological college will reign supreme today as they celebrate "Senior Day." Members of the class will not have to attend classes today and a theater party and a picnic is planned for the afternoon. During the morning the students will be at leasure. The tree will not be planted as has been the custom during the past years for "Senior Day," according to Floyd Wooldridge, Plainview, class president. The tree probably will be planted on June 6.

At 1 o'clock the seniors will meet at the Lindsey theater for a theater party. At 4 o'clock members of the class will gather at the administration building from where they will start on the picnic.

The 1931 class of Tech is composed of approximately 250 students. Many of these however, will not receive their degrees until August.

ENGINEERS INSPECT CONCRETE

To gain better ideas of the laying of concrete, students in a civil engineering class yesterday inspected the concrete job being done on the paving of the highway north of this city. Thirteen students are members of the class.

The students are mostly juniors and are under the direction of Professor O. V. Adams, member of the civil engineering faculty. The class is a four-hour course.

IS TECH VISITOR

Jewel Darr, until this term a student in Tech, is visiting on the Tech campus this week. Darr has been spending this term at his home at Melrose, New Mexico.

He was a letterman on the football squad last fall.

IN NATIONAL TOURNAMENT

Miss Ruth Pirtle, head of the Technological college speech department but who is spending this year at Columbia university in New York City, will enter a National Little Theater tournament to be held soon, according to word received here. Miss Pirtle is studying for a higher degree at that institution.

Miss Annah Jo Pendleton is acting head of the speech department during Miss Pirtle's leave of absence.

BOOK DEADLINE SET

All library books must be in the library not later than May 27, Miss Emma L. Main, acting librarian, said yesterday. Those due before then must be returned when due, but those marked due after May 27 must be returned by that date.

It is necessary that the books be in so that the librarian can check up to prepare for the distribution of the annuals sometime next week. Students who transferred their library deposits of $5 to the annual staff must have a clear library record before their book will be delivered.

SIXTEEN TO GRADUATE

About 16 seniors in the Tech school of agriculture will receive their B. S. degree, according to announcements from the office of Dean A. H. Leidigh, of that school. Part of these will get their degrees in August.

Although some of these graduats will begin work for themselves, others have located various positions.

SENIOR EDITION IS TODAY

With James A. Strange, Union Hill, as special editor, a senior edition of the student newspaper, The Toreador, will appear on the campus today. Strange was assisted by other members of the regular staff and also members of the senior class He is regular news editor.

Next week's Toreador will be the last one for this year, according to Frank Emison editor.

FACULTY PICNIC PLANNED

Members of the Tech Faculty club will be entertained with a chicken barbecue at the stock pavilion Monday evening, according to an announcement made yesterday. Those intending to attend should see Mrs. W. C Holden who works in the college library, sometime today.

Members of the Tech faculty are in the club.

ENGINEERS ENTERTAINED

About 150 members of the Engineering society were entertained Monday evening by the engineering faculty members at the county park, east of the city. Following a game of volley ball between the faculty members and engineers, the students were served with plenty of "good eats."

The Engineering society, made up of students in the school of engineering plans a picnic for tomorrow afternoon.

"DEAD WEEK" NEAR

Social activities for this school year will be brought to a close this week as "dead week" starts Monday. During this time, which is the week preceding final examinations, no social meetings are to be held.

The movement was started last year in order that fewer things would be happening during the week before exams to distract the student's mind from studies. No examinations are to be given by the professors during this time, however.

Representatives Are To Assemble

Plans for holding monthly meetings of Red and White store's South Plains representatives were perfected at a banquet attended by 73 employes of the system, held Tuesday night at the First Methodist church.

The dinner was provided by members of the women's missionary society, Rev. L. G. Haymes of Lubbock was toastmaster.

Several entertainment features, including vocal numbers by H. W. Moore, and a male quartet from Post and special music by the Lubbock High school orchestra preceded the main address by Judge W. M. Peticolas, Jr., A. A. Strickland, editor of the Terry County News, and Frank Hill, editor of the Lynn County News, addressed the group. Judge Peticolas' address dealt with the work of the Red and White system and the advisability of using that system, cooperating in every other form of business, applying it to other lines of business and professional life.

It is planned, according to Tom Pierce, member of the advisory board of the Red and White system, to hold similar programs each month.

"When I buy gas, oil or accessories from the independent dealer, I'm buying what I want—not what some distant manager says I must. The dealer is independent—and so am I!" C. H. Y.

Yes! The independent dealer is right on the ground—he knows what you want—and carries it. He gives you what you want—plus courteous service and fair dealing. Patronize him—and you'll be better satisfied.

And one sure way to recognize the independent is by the green-and-white Quaker State sign—the motor oil with the famous "Extra Quart." Use Quaker State. It lasts longer—costs less per mile of lubrication. And it lubricates better—makes your car last longer.

Keep this in mind. The independent isn't under obligation to anybody but you. Only one boss is going to tell him what gas, oil and accessories to carry—and that boss is you!

Is West Texas Immune?

THE EAST has crowded "the wild and woolly West" from the picture, an editorial writer observed recently. He referred to the alarming status of gang chieftians and their hired gunmen. He characterized the West as "about the calmest and most peaceable section in this country," excepting Nevada.

The Morning Avalanche agrees, presuming that he would except centers of population, in the West as elsewhere. The western metropolises are comparatively few and scattered. Large scale liquor traffic has been confined to cities and adjacent territory.

West Texas, however, is not secure from the threat of organized gangs. Texans in urban centers have learned that. Peace officers in West Texas and other outlying regions know it.

Attorney General Mitchell reported that illegal traffic in liquor accounted for an average of not more than 20 per cent of the revenue of gangsters prosecuted recently for income tax violations. Forty-eight kinds of rackets were found in one community, he added.

Liquor's contribution to gangland's income is diminishing, the attorney general said. There is a warning. Although wholesale liquor manufacture and distribution is controlled by fewer men, it is providing less of their revenue.

Gambling, prostitution, and narcotics sales controlled by the underworld are confined principally to metropolitan areas. Kidnaping and extortion, however, have made a marked advance into smaller communities.

Following the capture of the supposed remnants of Fred Burke's band in East St. Louis, authorities said solution of a string of midwestern bank holdups appeared certain. Credited with being the trigerman in the St. Valentine's day massacre in Chicago, Burke was captured by a country sheriff and several policemen on a Missouri farm.

"Killer" Burke was a city product, but his record bears a surprising number of town and small city jobs. He possibly was the man who introduced the machine-gun to bank robbing. It has become popular.

As Burke needed room, whether from greed or fear, so do other gunmen and extortionists.

A series of railway station safe robberies and filling station breaks-ins on the South Plains recently has been attributed to a single group. Investigators reported the safe jobs were by finished workmen, professional crackmen.

The East has jostled the old West from crime's pages with fast automobiles, machine-guns, and hush money, but the new West must defend itself. The responsibility falls upon peace officers and citizens generally.

NEGLECTED SHRINES

Celebration by the entire country next year of the bicentennial of the birth of George Washington will serve to draw attention to the many historical shrines which even this comparatively young nation possesses.

The first president's home during his years of public service is, perhaps, the most hallowed of these, and no other spot can ever hold quite the same appeal for young and old as Mount Vernon. But Washington's birthplace, Wakefield, so long a deserted ruin to the shame of the nation, is being restored and is destined to become a Washington shrine next in importance only to the monument in Washington and Mount Vernon.

Jamestown and Yorktown, which, respectively, witnessed the beginning and the end of the Colonian period, and Williamsburg have been spurred on by the approaching celebration to restore and preserve more of the sites and scenes of Washington's time. They, also, will be destinations of countless patriotic pilgrimages next year.

Such celebrations as the Washington bicentenial serve a dual purpose. They honor national figures most deserving of such honors and they freshen the memory of the people, who are so apt to forget the early achievements and the ideals of their country. When the millions who will visit the scenes of the first president's glory next year return to their homes in every state in the country, there will be a better understanding of what the United States of America stands for and of the duties of every American to his native land.

Silence is usually mistaken for sense.

Practical Health Problems

TALKIES ADD NEW HANDICAP

By Dr. Morris Fishbein Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia the Health Magazine

One of the most interesting improvements in behalf of the handicapped that has taken place in recent years is a gradual extension of permanent installations for hearing devices in churches and theaters.

When silent motion pictures represented the only type available, people who were hard of hearing found them particularly attractive as places of entertainment. Then came the talkies and most of the pleasure in attendance at motion pictures disappeared for these handicapped people.

In the meantime, it had been found that many people with certain types of deafness can hear well, provided they have the assistance of suitable hearing devices. Unfortunately such hearing devices demand special equipment which is not generally available.

When these facts were brought to the attention of owners of various places of public instruction and entertainment, particularly in Chicago, they decided to co-operate and to install the necessary equipment. There is in Chicago today one theater in which 30 seats have been provided for the hard of hearing. When the deafened people come to this theater they merely ask at the box office and they are provided with ear phones which are plugged into the electrical connection on the special seat. A half dozen theaters devoted to talking motion pictures are similarly equipped. Many churches have provided the necessary equipment in the form of electric connections and head phones.

Tests have been made of thousands of school children, and it has been found that many of them who are considered deaf have slight remains of the hearing apparatus. It is necessary to educate these remnants promptly, otherwise the portions of the brain devoted to the sense of hearing become quiescent from disuse and the longer the time of re-education is postponed the more difficult it becomes.

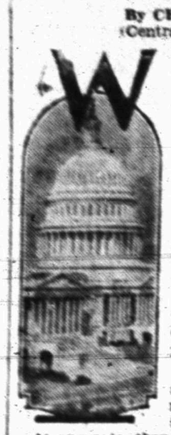

In an address on this subject, Mrs. L. Pelton, who has been actively concerned in securing installation of hearing equipment, emphasizing the fact that the normal child hears for more than a year before it begins to imitate the sounds that it hears in the form of speech.

Great progress has been made in the teaching of lip reading to the hard of hearing. The combination of education in hearing and speech education and lip reading and the provision of suitable devices for those who hear with such devices means a much happier world for these handicapped people in the future.

It has been estimated that there are at least three million children in the United States who have defective hearing. Early attention to their defects is important from the economic point of view, since the provision of suitable education will make them better able to earn a living for themselves and to live normal social lives in the future.

Promoters Hurt Railways

By CHARLES P. STEWART
(Central Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The land given to railroads built through the west during the period of their great development aggregated an area almost exactly equaling the Austrian empire's prior to the World war.

It was uniformly good land. The companies' experts made sure of that.

For example, Iowa, generally recognized as, acre for acre, one of the agriculturally richest spots on earth, was included among several states which voted between 20 and 25 per cent of their soil to encourage railroad building.

Besides gifts of land, cash subsidies were paid to stimulate railroad construction, in amounts it is impossible accurately to trace.

At any rate, they footed high into the hundreds of millions before the end of the first third of the nineteenth century and grew vastly larger in later years.

In fact, the roads really were built largely by public contributions rather than by the promoters who professed to be building them.

The promoters, however, were not satisfied with having their properties virtually presented to them.

They sold stock and floated bonds to raise money ostensibly for construction purposes. Then they organized companies to do the work, charged for it "ad lib" and of course o. k.'ed their own bills.

As years passed water was added from time to time to a total volume at which omnipotence alone can guess today—but oh! a lot of it.

These early builders cannot have foreseen that the fictitious capitalizations they were creating would serve their successors as a basis for demanding profits upon enormous investments which never actually were made in the roads.

Such has proved to be the case, but immediate plunder probably was all that the pioneers had in mind.

To a great extent they sold their gift lands and pocketed the proceeds. They realized on their padded construction accounts and put the cash into something else. They disposed of their watered shares and bought sounder securities. They took their swag and got out.

A difficult situation exists for the present managements of railroads originally thus "financed."

In large measure their stocks and bonds represent money which was looted from the roads a generation or two ago, and yet their managements must make it yield returns now, in order to pay dividends and meet their obligations.

The only way they can do it is by means of higher passenger and freight rates.

Accordingly we have a committee of railroad executives in session this month, trying to agree on a program, which presumably will be submitted to the Interstate Commerce commission in the near future.

That many a railroad is about at the end of its string is freely admitted.

According to first-class authority, there is just this alternative:

Relief or the government will have to take the distressed lines over.

Two things appear to have hastened the climax:

1. Hard times.
2. Auto-bus and auto-truck competition.

Doubtless hard times will pass.

Motor competition promises to grow keener. The railroads are clamoring for its restriction. They complain that they have to pay for their roadway, while the auto's is free. They seem to want the auto penalized accordingly, for their protection.

THE SLOW PACE KILLS

"The pace that kills is the crawl," Dr. A. L. Goldwater, of New York City, who made a survey among American leaders of industry, announces as a result of his investigation.

The inquiry disclosed that men who work hardest, with consideration for the laws of health, not only live the longest, but they get greater enjoyment out of their period of labor. The man who relaxes in middle life, is found to be most susceptible to the ailments of life. The conclusion, gathered from replies of several hundred business men, is that "constant activity is productive of longer life, better health and greater happiness than early retirement to passive indolence."

It is always gratifying to see a man or a woman who has passed the allotted years of life take an active interest in current events and in the affairs of the community. Such a person may be afflicted with physical infirmity, but he seems to have the knack of living in spite of efforts of Father Time to make him succumb. One of the biggest mistakes any person can make seems to be to quit work at 50. Some of the finest accomplishments of men and women have been given to the world after they had passed the age which so many regard as the limit of useful activity; the age at which leisure should be permitted to dominate the life.

John Burroughs was a fine example of a man who retained his interest in the active affairs of life until the last hour of his existence. Other men, like Thomas A. Edison, appreciate the benefits of work after they have passed the period when most men think about retiring and abandoning all pursuits that savor of labor. The man whose ambition is to "die in the harness" nearly always has the advantage of years of service over the one who relaxes at 50.

WILLIAM ELPHICH.—While Mr. Elphich was a resident of Chiddingly, East Sussex, England, he indulged his fancy for his curiously prolonged ringing of a bell at Hailsham, about four miles away. He had a church bell rung continuously over his head for 8,766 hours. The history of Mr. Elphich's curious record is contained in Thomas Haines' "Parrish of Sussex."

THE REPTILE BIRD.—The Australian Jungle Fowl, belonging to the class of Mound Builders (Megapodidae), builds a huge mound for a nest. Within this mound the eggs are left to be hatched by the heat which the decay of vegetable matter generates within. The young escape by digging through the side of the mound. They are well-developed, fully feathered, and able to fly the minute they leave the egg.

THE PHENOMENON OF EAST LAKE.—A peculiar condition, which is locally called "The Paradox," exists in the southwestern section of Lake Placid, New York, where a tide ebbs and flows during the day—though the lake has no direct connection with the sea. This phenomenon is so regular, and its force so great, that it is dangerous when covered with ice during the winter.

A THRILLING MYSTERY STORY • by MILES BURTON

CHAPTER 47

Dick was awakened by a touch on his shoulder, and started up, in full possession of his senses, to confront the matron. "I've good news for you," she said. "Miss Weatherleigh has regained consciousness, and her brain shows no ill effects from the blow. In fact, I think that, before very long, we shall be able to move her to her home. We have told her that you are here, and you may see her for a second or two."

She led him into Alison's room, tactfully remaining outside the door. Alison gave a little cry of delight as she saw him, and he bent down and kissed her tenderly." How do you feel, sweetheart?" he asked.

"All right," she replied bravely. "I've got a dreadful headache, though, as if I'd had a night out. Listen, Dick, I had an old pig of lead in the car when that tree hit me. It belongs to a friend of father's, and I was taking it to Lestridge Hall for father to see. I believe it's very valuable, but nobody was to know anything about it till father had examined it. You might find out what has become of it."

"I'll see to it for you," replied Dick cheerfully. "It's probably still in the car, which I saw being towed to a garage. But you needn't worry about it, darling. Dr. Weatherleigh has been told of your accident, and he is on his way here now."

The matron interrupted their conversation, and led Dick from the room. "The less she is allowed to talk the better," she said. "All she wants is perfect rest. Dr. Weatherleigh ought to be here very soon now, he telephoned from London three or four hours ago, asking for the latest news, and saying that he was continuing the journey by car, since there was no train for some hours."

Dick looked at his watch. To his amazement it was nearly eight o'clock in the morning; he had slept the clock round. There was no time to be lost. Alison's accident had driven everything else out of his mind, but now the events of the previous day returned to his memory with redoubled force. He must get in touch with Sir Edric, and tell him everything.

He found that the landlord of the Anchor and Hope, learning that he had remained at the hospital for the night, had brought over his suit-case. He therefore changed his torn and mud-begrimed clothes and left the hospital, with the intention of telephoning Sir Edric. But, on the way, he decided to wait till he had seen Dr. Weatherleigh, whose arrival could not be much longer delayed. His evidence as to the source from which he heard of the existence of the leaden pig was essential.

Dick, therefore, went instead to the garage to which Alison's car had been towed. He was allowed to inspect it, and found that the pig was still in the dickey. This, Dick reflected, was probably the safest place for it at present. It bore no clue as to its real value, and nobody was likely to tamper with it, owing to its weight. Having satisfied himself on this point, he returned to the hospital.

As he approached it, a car drove up, and a passenger alighted from it. He recognized Dr. Weatherleigh and hastened to meet him. The doctor turned at the sound of his footsteps.

"Dick! You here? What does it mean?" he exclaimed.

Dick put his hand on Dr. Weatherleigh's arm. "It's all right, Doctor," he replied reassuringly. "Alison's going on splendidly. Come along in, they'll let you see her."

"Thank God!" said Dr. Weatherleigh, "I was afraid—afraid—" and he did not finish the sentence.

Dick waited impatiently for Dr. Weatherleigh's reappearance. Now that he was assured of Alison's recovery, he was desperately anxious to put the police on the track of the gang, before its members had time to disperse. In that Dr. Weatherleigh could assist him. Indeed, it was quite possible that his evidence might put Scotland Yard on the path that would lead eventually to the Funny Toff.

Alison's accident must have thrown the whole plan out of gear, so much was evident. The men detailed to waylay her could not have heard of the mishap, and they must be in complete ignorance as to the whereabouts of the leaden pig. Dick determined, should he deposited at the local police station, as soon as Dr. Weatherleigh's permission was obtained. On the whole, as things had turned out, the accident was the best thing that could have happened. Alison, at least was in perfect safety.

At last Dr. Weatherleigh appeared, looking far less anxious than he had on his arrival. "Alison has had a most merciful escape," he said. "I

Slaughter's Ranch In Garza County Is Game Preserve; Fifteen Deer Now Running Range; Many Visit Ranch

By Staff Correspondent

PORT, May 20.—One of the few herds of deer in Texas is found on the 53,000 acre state game preserve on the John B. Slaughter estate ranch a few miles south and west of Post, county seat of Garza county.

There are some 1 animals in the herd at present, seven does, seven fawns, two young bucks and an old buck.

Additions to the family are expected some time in late May or early June, more than likely the latter month. However, the public is not expected to see the new arrivals until some weeks later.

Began 8 Years Ago

The herd was begun five years ago with three does and a buck. Space for the animals was fenced off when the entire ranch was made into a state game preserve. O. D. Cardwell, state game warden for this area, is giving the work his personal attention.

"We are increasing our park for the deer this year to 300 acres or more," J. B. Slaughter, Jr. manager of the ranch, explained." The old buck is getting pretty wild and frisky and he needs more room.

"There has been an increase in the herd every year since the first. But first one thing and then another has cost us a few animals each year.

Has Wild Turkeys

"Besides the deer, we have had two placings of wild turkeys, 24 and six; some 300 Mexican quail and we hope to get more birds. R. M. Claunch, our state representative at Snyder, has promised to help secure more quail and turkeys and also some prairie chickens and several pairs of Golden Pheasants.

"We have fish in the lakes and streams. We also have some buffalo."

DALLAS, May 20. (AP)—Mrs. Wil...liam E. Darden of Waco today was re-elected president of the Texas chapter of the Colonial Dames of America at the annual one-day state session here. The meeting was attended by approximately 100 members from over the state.

Other state officers elected included: Mrs. J. M. Winterbotham of Galveston, a vice-president; Mrs. D. K. Woodward, Mrs. N. A. Stedman and Mrs. Paul Cruseman, all of Austin, new members of the board of managers, their terms to expire in 1934.

The ill-fated camel at the lower left is wearing an elk's head and antlers, and the monkey at the upper right has such a woeful expression because of its kangaroo body. You'll have to blame a trick cameraman for the wierd phenomena. He was just trying his hand to see what he could do.

Trial Of Five Being Delayed

Cases Of Kidnaping And Conspiracy Are Postponed After Motion For Action Made By County Attorney

CORSICANA, May 20. (AP)—Kidnaping and conspiracy cases pending against Charley Hassell, Currie W. Caldwell, Doyle and Jimmie Nash for the abduction and $15,000 ransoming of Robert Cerf, Corsicana banker's son, last December, today were indefinitely postponed by District Judge Hawkins Scarborough upon a motion by County Attorney Cleo G. Miller.

Miller asked the postponement because he said the Navarro county grand jury was making a further investigation of the cases.

Judge Scarborough indicated he might set bond amounts this afternoon for Doyle and Jimmie Nash and Currie W. Caldwell.

The four men were indicted in connection with the kidnaping of young Cerf from a Corsicana street December 10 and his being held prisoner in a Dallas house until $15,000 ransom was paid there by a representative of Isaac N. Cerf, the youth's father. A fifth man indicted in the case, Oliver Clapp, still had not been arrested. The Nash brothers and Clapp also were charged at Dallas with robbery with firearms.

Same Rates On Cotton Will Be Asked By Texas Railways

AUSTIN, May 20. (AP)—Representatives of railroads said today they would ask for virtually the same rates on cotton to Houston, Galveston, Beaumont and Texas City for another year as apply at present.

The railroad commission yesterday approved an extension of present rates from May 27 to June 15. That will give the rail carriers time to prepare their proposed schedule until June 15, 1932, which will be virtually the same as at present railroad representatives said.

Lockhart Will Not Return For Legislature's Closing

With the close of the state legislature scheduled for Friday, G. E. Lockhart, member from this district, does not expect to attend. He is here to attend a civil law suit and will be here for some time.

Mr. Lockhart admitted that he did not expect to attend the closing sessions of the state legislature, "Not unless they send a sergeant-at-arms up here after me," he admitted.

"The greater part of the work of the legislature has been accomplished and there is very little that is expected to be accomplished aside from cleaning up the odds and ends of legislative matters."

Wage Cuts Are Meet Subjects

Speakers At Texas Federation Of Labor Convention Express Determination To Resist All Reduction Efforts

EL PASO, May 20. (AP)— Determination to resist wage reductions was expressed today by speakers at the annual convention of the Texas State Federation of Labor.

A. Gordon of Baltimore, Md., general organizer for the United Garment Workers of America, told delegates his organization was opposing wage cuts to the end. He denounced a Texas clothing manufacturer for what he termed a recent unwarranted action in reducing salaries of employes, while extending their working hours.

Wage cuts, reduction in manpower and mass production were said by Peter Beisel, Webster Grove, Mo., representative of the bakery and confectionery workers' international union, to be the chief problems of labor.

Discussing labor disputes in Fort Worth, Dallas and Amarillo, Beisel said the cry everywhere seemed to be to cut wages, regardless of whether business was losing money. He described bakers' wages in San Antonio as among the lowest in the country.

A resolution which would have the federation indorse "sane and sensible" modification of the Volstead act and manufacture and sale of "wholesome" beer was introduced with others and referred to a committee for recommendation.

Another resolution referred to a committee asserted that many oil industries in Texas worked men twelve hours daily, seven days in the week, and suggested a conference with oil operators of the midwest to discuss an eight-hour and a six-day week.

A Texas manufacturing company was condemned in still another resolution, referred to committee, for what was asserted as its declaration for open shop, reduction of workers' wages and increased working hours. The resolutions will be reported back to the convention and acted upon later in the week.

Marked Cut In Infant Death Rate Is Recorded In Period

WASHINGTON, May 20. (AP)—A trend toward the back-to-nature method of feeding babies was given credit by the children's bureau today for a marked cut in the infant death rate.

Bureau experts, compiling statistics, discovered that gastro-intestinal deaths decreased as scientific instruction in infant feeding was spread throughout the states.

All but one of the United States they said, had reported activities to promote the natural method of infant feeding while the maternity and infancy act was in operation from 1921 to 1929.

At one time in Holland and France so great was the mania for speculating in tulip bulbs that the craze became known as Tulipomania.

LADIES FROM MISSOURI

FOUND in the back of any old cook-book, in the "Useful Compendium of Household Hints."

"To test muslin for 'filling' — rub a small section vigorously between the forefingers, and note any starchy substance that breaks out of the fibers.

"To test for color-fastness — before buying wash goods of any kind it is safest to obtain small samples of all patterns and soak in clear water.

"To detect cotton in an 'all-wool' fabric — pull the threads apart and apply a lighted match," etc., etc.

How funny they were — these old suspicious-of-everything shopping tests! Grandmother knew them all by heart, and descended on Mr. Biggs, the linen draper, with defiance in her eye. Her little, moistened forefinger shot suspiciously under every proffered length of sheeting or dish-toweling. She took nobody's word for anything!

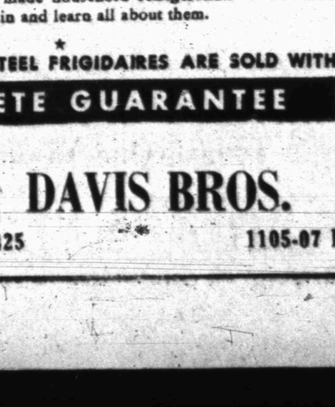

But how differently you approach a yard-goods purchase in any store today. A name on the selvage . . . a label on the end of the bolt . . . a guarantee-tag that also suggests a method of washing. These are your safety-signals in buying. To the questions "Will it wash?", "Is this pure wool?" or "pure silk?", the saleswoman has only to remind you of the trade name of the fabric. When she mentions a name familiar to you through advertising, your doubts are dispelled.

Quality Makes Up For Lack Of Quantity In Early Arrivals Yesterday; Expect 300 For Qualifying Play

Dunlop, who holds the same position on the Canadian team, chose Dr. Jack A. Wright, Toronto, and Marcel Rainville, Montreal. Grove allowed three scattered hits, one more than the Tigers got off Earnshaw, but Detroit never seriously threatened.

George Voight Loses To Syd Rope In Fifth Round Of British Tourn

American Plays Up To Final Rounds At West Ho!

BY FRANK H. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

WESTWARD HO, Devon, Eng., May 20.—Syd Roper, a shy young man who learned his golf between shifts in a coal mine, today defeated George Voight on the home green of Westward Ho! in the fifth round of the British Amateur golf championship. Roper thus removed the last American hope to keep in the United States the cup Bobby Jones won last year.

The British amateur crown which Jones wears will rest on some British brow Friday night, for all of the last eight are natives of these islands.

There is nothing heroic either in the appearance or in the play of the young midlander, who wore an old cap, a worn sweater, flannel trousers and hob-nailed street shoes. He plays his game on the public course at Woolaton Park, Nottingham, much as he played it today, grimly and steadily, giving nothing away, not even six inch putts, and asking for nothing.

Nothing Dramatic

He did nothing dramatic, today, for the delicate chip shots he specializes in are not dramatic, but he was pulling them off monotonously and that coupled with Voight's three fatal lapses at the tenth, eleventh and eighteenth holes, was good enough to win.

Seven other Britons, none better known than Roper, are in the quarter-finals with him. There is John Morrison, the former all-around athlete of Cambridge; John De Forest, son of a baron, who took lessons in the United States last winter from Horton Smith and others; Peter Millers, son of a famous polo player; Capt. H. C. C. Tippet, William Tulloch, a Glasgow business man, Eric Smith, of Cambridge university and Dr John MacCormack, a Dublin physician.

By a new law chambers of commerce in Colombia must be organized under government supervision and must consist of not less than nine or more than 15 members.

Nine records for girls' event broken as feminine athletes intermountain region met in day track and field contest a vo, Utah.

Cotton Cotton Rallies Late Tradings — Livestock Low Tendency Seen In Trade — Grain Active Selling In With Upturns

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
NEW ORLEANS, May 20. (AP)—Cotton was again fairly active here today. Prices fluctuated broadly and mostly in sympathy with stocks but developed no special trend. With cables better than due and the weather rather unsettled overnight, prices opened higher and continued to advance during the first half of the morning in sympathy with an early improvement in stocks and a rather bullish weekly weather, gaining 19 points over the previous close. Later in the morning prices reacted owing to a break in stocks and declined 18 to 19 points wiping out all of the earlier gain. The market turned active and firm in the late trading on buying and covering based on unfortunate weather in the western belt and prices advanced some months making new highs 30 points above the earlier lows. The close was steady and near the highs showing net gains for the day of 17-22 points.

NEW YORK COTTON
NEW YORK, May 20. (AP) — Cotton rallied sharply in the late trading today and closed steady at net advances of 17-21 points after a reaction that followed the opening advance.
The opening was very steady 14-21 points higher on covering which seemed to be combined with some trade and commission house buying promoted by steadiness in Liverpool, the firmer opening in the stock market, and a feeling that the weather in the south was rather too cool and wet in some sections. The advance met considerable liquidation. It looked as though some long cotton which had been carried over the previous decline was coming on the market, while there also appeared to be some foreign selling.

Reds And Giants May Make Trade For Better Players

NEW YORK, May 20 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds, seeking infield strength, and the New York Giants, in quest of another righthand pitcher, may get together in a baseball deal.
Dan Howley, manager of the Reds, said he planned a conference with John McGraw today in the hope of completing a trade.
Howley denied reports that Red Lucas, star right hander of the Reds, might be involved in a deal with the Giants or any other club. Ray Kolp, another right hander, also has been mentioned as being sought by the Giants.

Lott And Van Ryn Set Pace In French Tennis Rounds

AUTEUIL, France, May 20. (AP)—Paced by George Lott and Johnny Van Ryn, doubles favorites, all except two of the Americans mustered for the French hard courts tennis championship advanced today, some of them as far as the quarter final rounds.
The American Davis Cup doubles team ran into unforseen trouble in defeating Georges Glasser and Antoine Geritie, two of the younger Frenchmen, but managed to survive a third set uprising and win, 6-1, 6-3, 11-13, 6-3. Van Ryn was off his game an dthe Frenchman broke through his service to keep the

Stock Market Is Spotted With Weak Issues But Sombre Touches Lifted

BY JOHN I. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer
NEW YORK, May 20. (AP)—The stock market was spotted with weak issues today, but firmness of the rail and steel shares put some less sombre touches into the picture commodities were firm and second grade bonds seemed a little less discouraged.
Shares opened with a rally that gave promise of an impressive technical recovery, but weakened when signs of special weakness began to appear. Rails march up 1-4 points in the morning advance and although they sagged later the group closed higher in contrast to the utilities and industrials. The market's average loss, according to the composite, was less than a point in 2,300,000 share turnover.

Walker, Merchant Clash Today For Greenbelt Crown

CLARENDON, Tex., May 20.(AP)—L. S. "City" Walker of Quanah, who won the first Greenbelt Golf Tournament at his home town in 1926, will battle Ira Merchant of Clarendon here Thursday for the sixth championship of the association.
Walker won his way to the final match by beating Bill Rogers, Vernon, 4 and 2 in the semifinals of the championship flight this afternoon, after defeating Frank Foxhall, Memphis, defending champion, this morning 2 up.
Merchant went blazing into the final match by a spectacular win over Jack Parr, Electra, 2 and 1. Merchant's knowledge of the tricky course served him well, as he placed his iron shots with deadly accuracy Parr sank an 11-foot putt on the ninth hole at the turn to make the match even before teeing off for the second lap. Merchant shot a birdie and a flock of ars to gain a lead on the last journey the Electra ace could not overcome.
A. N. Wood, Clarendon, defeated J. T. Pattman, Clarendon, 2 and 1, to win the championship of the senior division, for golfers over 50 years of age.
U. J. Boston of Clarendon defeated F. P. Fry of Frederick, Okla., one up to win the fourth flight consolation prize.

Lafayette Franks In Lead At Dallas Invitation Meet

DALLAS, May 20. (AP)—Lafayette Franks, Cedar Crest Country Club of Dallas, shooting one over par, led the qualifying field today in the first annual Lakewood Country club invitation golf tournament with a card of 35-36—71. Franks went out in 35 to go one over par but he finished the back nine with a par 36. Gus Moreland, also of Cedar Crest, finished second to Franks with 37-35—72.
An entry field of 107 qualified today, but it was composed mostly of Dallas golfers. It required an 83 to make the championship flight in which match play competition starts tomorrow and continues through to Saturday. Dennis Lavender, Dallas, and 1931 state champion, had trouble with his tee shots, finishing with an 83.

Local Specialist Is Heard In Talk

An address by Dr. Marshall Harvey, local foot specialist and surgical chiropodist, on the proper style and fit of shoes and the benefits of organization of shoe salesmen, featured a meeting at the Hotel Lubbock Tuesday night which local salesmen attended. The meeting was well attended by representative men of that line in Lubbock.
Officers were named and plans made to meet regularly to discuss problems. The officers chosen were: Dewey McClellan, Carter-Houston store, president; William "Bill" Collins, Hemphill-Wells, secretary and treasurer.
Tonight the members will meet to adopt a constitution and by-laws. At the next regular meeting store managers and owners will be invited to attend and also every clerk in the city not now a member.

Livestock

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK
KANSAS CITY, May 20. (AP)—Some early action was reported in lightweight killing steers around the circuit with generally steady prices and at spots stronger. Sharply lower dressed trade, however, was a depressing influence later in the day and with few exceptions there was a general downturn in the late trade, especially with kinds with weight.
Combined arrivals numbered 33,700 as compared with 39,593 a week ago.
Lamb prices had a downward tendency today, liberal offerings at most centers influencing the decline. Both spring and wooled lambs ranged steady to 25 lower, while clippers showed a general loss of 25. Mature sheep were unchanged. Receipts totalled 63,300, against 63,400 a week ago.

at all."
"I lived in Seymour then and all this territory was in my district. I served two terms, six years. The governor named me district judge and I served two years and then was elected for a four-year term."
About 30 years ago Judge McGill left Texas and moved over into New Mexico where he has been engaged in the stock business ever since, gradually dropping his law practice. Now he seldom ever goes into court except when an old timer wants him to handle a case.

Held In a Saloon

"The first district court ever held in this county was in a saloon," the veteran said as he chatted over old times with friends and newspapermen Wednesday. "I don't remember the location of the saloon. I do remember that you could see the skies through the roof, almost anywhere.
Judge McGill recalled the first jury to hear a case in the Lubbock county district court. "Gus Carlisle was the only man on the jury who had ever served on one before," he explained, adding that they all wore guns while in the jury box.
"George Wolffarth was my district clerk," the judge added. "When I came back again, he called the members of the jury into his office, there were about 25 or 30 of them, and explained that the law was now here and that it was not the custom in court rooms for the jury to wear guns."
Judge McGill appeared in the court room and was recognized by several of the old timers. He was introduced to Judge Clark M. Mullican.
"I always like to meet the men on the bench," the aged jurist remarked.
"I want to meet the men who are doing the work I used to do. It is a pleasure to me."
Just about that time Rolle C. Burns came up. "Here's somebody you ought to know," a bystander said.
"Why, Rolle you old rascal," said Judge McGill as he grasped the hand of the present dean of old timers here. There was a softness in his voice as he silently held the hand of his early day friend.
Another old timer to come up and shake the hands of the jurist was J. D. Caldwell. "You remember me—I had the first case in this county you ever tried" said Mr. Caldwell. "I had a case against John O'Herin and you gave me the decision."
"Yes," replied the judge, "this man and George Wolffarth could kill more ducks than any three men could put in a wagon."
Fred Denham who formerly lived in Floyd county, was another of the early day residents here who greeted the New Mexico cattle man. "It is 30 years since you saw me," said Denham. "Yes, yes, I remember you, now."
Judge McGill plans to sit through a large part of the case. He is to be a witness and will visit a number of old timers here. Judge McGill is stopping at the Hilton Hotel.

Former Beauty

Nirdlinger detailed how on March 11 her husband, after accusing her bitterly of having love affairs with younger men, seized her by the throat and choked her. She said she seized a revolver from under the pillow on her bed, where she kept it because she said she was afraid of her husband, and shot him twice.
Defense counsel wound up an eloquent address which emphasized the self-defense plea by exclaiming:
"She is too beautiful to be bad."
When the jury filed in with its verdict the spectators, most of them friends of the defendant, cheered. Outside thousands applauded so vigorously the police had to mobilize reserves on five streets adjacent to the court's building to quiet them.
"I am vindicated," she said. "And I want everybody to understand that my treatment by the French has been wonderful."

A detachment of planes will work with each army, seeking out the enemy and maneuvering against opposing forces. Long lines of communications will be maintained with bases.
The country over which the soldiers will maneuver in attempts to prove the cavalry is indispensable to modern armies is perhaps the most difficult of ingress and egress in New Mexico. Peaks rise to 10,000 feet altitude, and special mule pack trains will be called on to carry in supplies to the soldiers.

negro maid $35—all the cash he had with him, he explained — and thanked her for having been a good servant.
Barton was widely known for his drawings pillorying America and Americans. He illustrated several books, including "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," wrote a few books himself, and sketched for Puck, Life, Liberty and recently the New Yorker.
The suicide took place exactly a month after Barton's divorce from his fourth wife, Germaine Mary Tailleperre. His other marriages including that with Miss Monterey, who was the third Mrs. Barton, all ended in divorce.
Barton was born in Kansas City, Mo., August 14, 1891. In 1927, he went abroad announcing he would never live in America because he wanted to take a drink and smoke without interruption, but he returned in a few years saying then:
"America is a mad house, that's why I came back. I feel I belong here."

Highway Bill

was supported by Representative Young of Wellington who declared that if the point of order was overruled it would set a precedent by which proceedings of the legislature could be blocked completely since it would permit constant discussion on matter that previously had been acted upon.
Representative Petsch of Fredericksburg cited an opinion by Attorney General Claude Pollard when the bond issue was pending in the 41st legislature. Pollard held the amendment could be brought up as many times as proponents moved to consider it.
The opinion was scoffed at by De Wolfe, who charged it was written for political purposes.
The bond resolution would have permitted the electorate to ballot issuance of $112,000,000 to reimburse counties for expenditures on state highways and take up outstanding county bonds and $100,000,000 to accellerate construction.
An amendment to provide that no reimbursement be made unless a certified audit showed the county entitled to the money was adopted. Another amendment to prohibit any county or sub-division from voting bonds to construct the state highway system was defeated. The amendments were offered by Engelhard, Moffett and Hughes. A third amendment, by Representative Finn of Sunset, listed the amounts declared due each of the counties. This also was defeated.

had asked Ray J. Radke, secretary, to see Crawford. Radke said Crawford Spencer and the man talked together for some minutes and Crawford then came out to inquire about some "minor matter." He joined the two men and Radke said a moment later two shots rang out. The door burst open and the gunman raced through the office leaped in the automobile and disappeared. A good description of him was given to police.
Radke leaped to his feet and ran to the door of Crawford's office as his employer staggered toward it and collapsed. He was shot through the abdomen.
A series of articles recently had been written by Spencer for the magazine in which he named a former police officer as "the Al Capone of Los Angeles." In one article Spencer said his life had been threatened and wrote that if anything happened there would be found in a safety deposit box "in a certain bank" the names of those whom he had warred against.

In addition, the memorandum listed 29 harbor defense posts, all but three of which are unoccupied or on a caretaking status, for partial disposal. It was necessary, he said, to retain the portions of these posts on which are located fortifications, guns and other equipment which would be utilized in time of necessity. These posts included:
Forts San Jacinto and Travis, Texas.
Next week-end President Hoover, Postmaster General Brown and other postoffice officials will seek ways of reducing a $140,000,000 deficit which faces the department.
The postmaster general has repeatedly insisted he had no hope for coping with the mounting deficit unless revenues are increased by postal rate adjustment.
He has advocated an increase in first class postage rate from 2 to 2 1-2 cents per onuce and parcels post zoning and package-size adjustments which would raise the revenue about $12,500,000 annually.

Legal Clashes

the Spikes boys in 1901, and "saw Henry Hawkins once."
Witness related a story about Hawkins and another man coming into a saloon, at Tucumcari after the fight in which the Spikes boys were killed. Hawkins and his unknown companion, armed with rifles and pistols, ate in the saloon and then waited for the Rock Island freight which was expected to bring Eugene Logan, a cattle inspector and Jim Johnson, a ranch manager, to town he related. The visitors waited for the train and when the expected passengers did not appear, they left.

Mirth Is Caused

It was under cross examination that his, replies to questions put by G. E. Lockhart caused the court to admonish the audience.
Sergeant Jerome Wheatley, of Austin, a state ranger and veteran Panhandle sheriff and peace officer, testified as to his knowledge of the situation in eastern New Mexico. He said he was sheriff of Potter county from 1894 to 1898 and then went to Moore county, in 1899 living there until in 1902. He was sheriff and tax assessor of that county.

Was Told of Boys

"I heard Bob Kennedy and John Brogan talk about the Spikes boys," he testified. W. M. Lay, first sheriff of Lubbock county, told him also, he said, about the Spikes boys and Henry Hawkins.
Under cross examination he mentioned Sam Gholson and others as telling him of the reputation of the brothers. "Mr. Lay and Sam Gholson came to me in Amarillo and asked me to get some one to go to New Mexico and protect them from cattle rustlers," the former sheriff testified. "I suggested John L. Sullivan," This was in September of 1901, he said.

Tells Of Knowledge

Judge W. R. McGill of Lalando, eight miles from Fort Sumner on the east, testified as to his knowledge of the Spikes brothers as he knew of them in Crosby county. Born in Alabama, he came to Texas as a youth about 1872 and then went to Seymour, where he became judge of the old 50th district by appointment of Governor Hogg in the late 80's. He was elected for a four year term, leaving the bench in 1896. He went to New Mexico about 1899.
"I knew Captain John Spikes," he testified. I knew the boys as his sons, knew John Spikes. I think there was another Sam Spikes a brother of the captain." The witness testified that he "knew what people talked" in Crosby county and also in New Mexico. He knew of the "Spikes-Hawkins gangs" he said.

Tells Of Talk

Judge McGill related a conversation he had with John Spikes, the only time he ever talked to him, after he had dismissed a case in district court against the youth. He testified that John Spikes had told him he was "going to New Mexico" and that he wanted to thank the judge "for your kindness." The youth also said he was "going to turn over a new leaf" out there.
It was when he attempted to enlarge on the conversation that the jury was sent from the room and attorneys argued the legal questions. Judge McGill then was told to relate the rest of the conversation. E. L. Klett for the defendant and G. E. Lockhart discussed the legal complications at length.

Severe Grilling

Cross examination of Judge McGill by G. E. Lockhart was severe and he underwent a severe grilling, both as to his knowledge of the indictments against young Spikes and of his activities since he was asked to enter the present case as a witness between opposing counsel ness. So heated did the arguments that Judge Mullican ruled he would not hear any more of the statements of the witness in sustaining plaintiff's contentions and objections.
While J. A. "Alex" Street was on the stand, introduction of the purported indictments as shown by certified copies, was made.

Special Agent Testifies

Street, special agent of the bureau of investigation of the U. S. department of justice at El Paso for the past nine years, said he went to New Mexico in 1897 and went to work for the Red River Cattle company, on the Bell ranch near Tucumcari.
Moving to Liberty, a settlement older than Tucumcari, he started a saloon in the spring of 1900 and later moved his business to Tucumcari when that town attached other hamlets after it was started late in 1901, he said. He operated a saloon there and was elected sheriff in 1904 after having been named first sheriff of the county by Governor Otero in 1903. Reelected, he joined the New Mexico Mounted Police in 1910 after closing his terms. From 1913 when the police ceased to function, he was a cattle inspector until 1915 when he was elected for a third time. He then was re-elected in 1917 and served until the first of 1920. Meantime he had been in the cattle business all the time.

Pictures Offered

Pictures of Mesa Redona were offered as exhibits and identified by the witness, who also located the towns on a map in the court room. He was on the stand when the close of the session came.
At the morning session Fred McFarland, a banker of Logan, N. M., testified that John Spikes had once threatened him with a pistol and also said if the banker, then a cowboy, ever tried to go near the Spikes home he would "never come back alive."
McFarland said that he was searching for straying cattle on the Mesa and that going down off the Mesa they found a calf and a cow. Soon one of the Spikes boys passed them going up the canyon and later returned with a brother, he said. One of them pulled his pistol from his belt, "cussed" McFarland who was unarmed and made his threats, he continued. "They asked me when I was going to get through working their cattle." The Spikes boys were armed with Winchesters and pistols. McFarland had a companion named M. W. Bates who was armed.

Banker At Logan

McFarland was led through the direct examination by C. C. Crenshaw. He said he had gone into New Mexico in 1897 and had been there ever since. He quit the cattle business in 1907 to become a banker at Logan, N. M., and had worked for the Howry Cattle company from about 1898 to the spring of 1902.
McFarland said he met the Spikes boys near the Mesa Redonda about 1898 or 1899, but was not certain which. "I knew them two or three years before the boys were killed," he testified. John and Dick were the boys he knew, but he added he did not recall meeting Fred or any of the others.
During his testimony G. E. Lockhart, who cross examined later, objected to testimony of the witness and it was necessary for Judge Clark Mullican to announce his position on objection of the plaintiffs to certain forms of questions. Judge Mullican called the attention of Mr. Lockhart to the fact that while the latter was in Austin, an agreement covering these matters had been agreed among attorneys.

Still Pioneering

"I have made up my mind on these rulings," the court said. Later he added, "we are pioneering in a new field much as they did back in those days we are hearing about."
Before the oral testimony, cross examinations by deposition, was read into the record on the depositions of plaintiffs introduced at Tuesday's afternoon session.
Two new depositions, one by J. Phelps White, of Roswell, nephew of the late Major George W. Littlefield, and the other by E. F. Turner, of Crabtree, Ark., a former deputy cattle inspector, were read.
Mr. White, now 73 years old, gave a brief history of his connection with the cattle industry on the Plains since the days of Old Tascosa in 1877 down to the present time. He has lived at Roswell since 1881, was living on the Yellowhouse ranch at the time the Spikes boys were killed and knew the general reputation of the Spikes boys although he did not know them personally. Questions were read by C. C. Crenshaw and answered by E. L. Klett.
Another clash between opposing counsel over forms of questions marked this reading.
George Dupree read the questions put to Turner and Mr. Klett made the replies. He mentioned a long list of persons whom he said lived in the Mesa Redonda community while he punched cattle for the XIT in 1901-02.

Investigation Of Fire Being Made

Fire department officials yesterday were investigating the origin of fire in a vacant house at 1010 Nineteenth street early Wednesday morning. Several cans containing kerosene were found in the house, firemen said.
Witnesses told investigators that an explosion preceded the outbreak of flames shortly after midnight yesterday. Part of the seven-room structure was saved because an alarm was turned in as soon as the blaze was discovered, fire department officials said.
Fire damaged the interior of the building considerably, centering in one room, and ruined part of the roof.
Two boys who were across the street from the vacant residence, said they heard an explosion as loud as a shotgun report, and then saw flames appear in virtually all of the house. They turned in an alarm.

American Plan

sound marketing policies. Observers do not believe this attitude will be changed.
In addition to Russia's approval of the "quota plan" there was an indication she might expect someone to finance her grain held off the market, at present estimated at approximately 190,000,000 bushels.

Postpone Decision

A decision was postponed pending further study.
After reception of the Russian views the conference was adjourned until Friday morning but the committees will continue their work tomorrow.
Neither the Russian delegation nor the Americans would discuss the trend of the conference tonight, but it was understood the United States group did not welcome the quota proposals.
Meanwhile the official Russian statement was withheld.

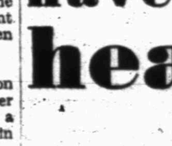

Mention Exports

During the discussions the Russians mentioned the 1909-1914 average exports as a basis for any future plan to fix export quotas. This is expected to bring considerable opposition from Argentina, Canada and Australia.
For 1926 to 1930 the five-year average of Canada's export was 304,000,000 bushels against 94,000,000 for the pre-war period of 1909-1914; Argentina exported 174,000,000 against 85,000,000 and Australia exported 86,000,000 against 50,000,000.
Thus it is pointed out that any realignment of export markets for these countries is bound to meet with considerable resistance.
The United States pre-war export averaged 108,000,000 bushels against an average of 172,000,000 for the past five years.
McKelvie is understood to have said that the Russian plan proposed to give their workers bread at a cheaper price than would be paid by workers in importing countries.
The American view is that had other countries taken reduction measures 18 months ago, there would be no need for the London conference, inasmuch as the United States was out of the export market for four months and on reentering it stated what amount of wheat would be exportable.
It is contended that regardless of its operations the quota plan means restriction of exports with a consequent reduction of acreage or flooding of the domestic market.
Among the reasons for Russia's disapproval of the restriction program was believed to be the country's annual increase of population, estimated at 3,500,000. It was understood the Soviet delegation declined to enter any restriction scheme calculated to endanger the population's foodstuffs.

New Trial Asked For Conatser On Charge; Father Sends Wire

C. J. Conatser Declares Son Is Innocent Of Cotton Theft Charges; Grand Jury Opposes Movements

A new trial was asked in connection with the cotton theft charges against Lloyd Conatser, who is serving a life term in the state penitentiary as a result of the murder of two Fisher county officers, C. J. Conatser of Levelland, Lloyd's father, said yesterday. The elder Conatser said he was wiring Governor Ross Sterling and District Judge W. R. Chapman of Abilene to that effect.

The grand jury of the 104th district court of Fisher county yesterday sent word to Governor Sterling of its opposition to a clemency campaign under way in behalf of Lloyd Conatser. The youth's father is directly behind the clemency campaign. The grand jury yesterday reindicted Lloyd Conatser for cotton theft, the old bill having been dismissed when he went to prison.

Move To Weaken Son's Plea

It is the belief of C. J. Conatser that the grand jury's action in reindicting his son is for the purpose of weakening the clemency campaign and to exert an influence over state and district officials. The elder Conatser is making a plea for full pardon and restoration of citizenship. He told this newspaper this morning that a petition containing the names of 1,377 prominent men of West Texas had been drawn up and would be presented to Governor Sterling soon.

"We invite and urge that the court call for a new trial, for we are convinced that we can prove my son's innocence in the matter of cotton thieving," Conatser said this morning. "The action of the grand jury, we feel, is to throw Governor Sterling off the idea of granting a full pardon, and we do not hesitate to invite the trial."

Tried For Slaying

Lloyd Conatser and Joyce Sheppard, also known as Bill Smith, an escaped life termer from the Arizona state prison, were tried for killing Bob Smith, sheriff of Fisher county, and Jake Owens, his deputy, August 27, 1927, after the officers had arrested them on charges of stealing cotton.

Sheppard was executed and Conatser drew a life term. Efforts to secure a pardon for Conatser were launched after Sheppard, in a statement made just before his death, said he had fired the shots and that Conatser was innocent.

Accused Slayer Of Two Returns

NEWKIRK, Okla., May 20. (AP)—Earl Quinn, accused slayer of two Oklahoma sisters, was brought to the Kay county jail from Kansas City today. The trip was made by train.

The journey was surrounded with secrecy and no one but a newspaper reporter met the train. Quinn, in custody of Sheriff Joe Cooper and Deputy Sheriff McFadden of Kay county, vigorously denied he killed Jessie and Zexia Griffith, Blackwell school teachers, last December 28 on a highway near Tonkawa. He said he would establish an alibi.

Meanwhile, County Attorney Bruce Potter went ahead with plans to arraign Quinn during the day. No trouble was anticipated.

Quinn told the Ponca City News reporter who met the train that he wanted to waive extradition to Oklahoma from the first but had to overcome the objections of his wife and friends.

THE CUSTOM SEDAN, $940.50 *

THE 2-DOOR SEDAN, $830.50 *

THE CONVERTIBLE COUPE, $900.50 *

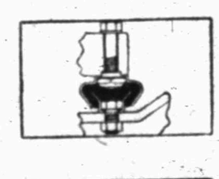

Things to note when you drive the new Pontiac

The moment you step into this car you will begin discovering pleasant things. First, how easily Pontiac handles—answering your lightest touch. The slender steel-and-rubber wheel invites a "finger grip"—and that's quite sufficient. You use little effort in braking or clutching.

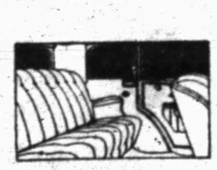

You'll remark the quick getaway . . . the rapid acceleration . . . the smoothly sustained speed. Pontiac has a 60-horsepower engine so ample in size that it need never be overworked. Hence it stays smooth.

You'll experience a new riding ease. Springs are deep; seat-cushions agreeably form-fitting, of course. But more important, Pontiac's chassis is cushioned with live rubber at more than 40 points.

You'll sense extra security in Pontiac. The famous Fisher Body wood-and-steel construction is snugly insulated against outside cold, heat, and dampness. Cowl and windshield pillars are built in one piece—a leak-proof, rattle-free construction. The first touch on the big brakes tells the story of unusual stopping power.

You'll find the Pontiac interior tastefully fitted, appointed, finished. Rich long-wearing mohair or whipcord in the closed cars—select leathers in the open models. In all, an atmosphere of fine craftsmanship pleasing to your pride.

Summing up, you'll agree that Pontiac Six is indeed a happy medium—the kind of car you want at the price you want to pay.
