High Coffee Prices Pose Problems

By Lily May Silcott

Some people like it dark brown and steaming hot, some add a little ice or water to 'thin it down' or make it 'lukewarm'; some add sugar for sweetening effect; some add whatever dairy product is available to tone it to an inviting creamy, tan.

In whatever state it is consumed . . . America likes her habitual cup of coffee, and spiraling prices of the little brown beans have caused more comment and concern than the national debt.

For many, that aromatic first cup of coffee each day is the only thing that makes waking-up tolerable. The same person may use the mid-morning coffee break to slow himself down to a complete stop. For some a cup of coffee is the only way to relieve a headache. Still others need it's caffeine to keep awake. Hot cups of coffee seem to add agreeability to any business conference or planning session; and in frigid football weather, hot coffee improves the situation, winning or losing. Americans have grown to depend upon coffee.

And, it's gotten very expensive.

That good "mountain grown" bean is not a national product, it's an import. The current problem (they tell us) began some two years ago with a freeze in the coffee belt of South American countries in which 75 percent of the producing coffee trees were damaged or lost. Television watchers are now offered proof of this condition as they are shown large pieces of dead wood alongside healthy looking young plants, much too small to bear fruit.

The broadcast continues, "We've been exporting from our stockpile reserves, and these are now critically low. Coffee re-planting is in progress but it will be two years before production is back to normal."

But confusion mounts in the mind of the viewer when he turns to another channel and hears of "plans being made for an advertising campaign to boycott the coffee market in order to force the abnormally high prices down to reality."

To determine what a realistic price for coffee might be, advertisements in The Olton Enterprise during the past ten years have been studied.

Using Feb. 1 as a check point, prices in 1967 were quoted at 59 cents per pound. In 1968 a raise was made to 66 cents, and by 1969 there was a hike to 69 cents.

In 1970 the quoted price had risen to 89 cents but one advertiser offered $5 worth of free stamps as an inducement to purchase one pound of a popular brand of coffee. The years of '71, '72, '73 and '74 found the price constant at 89 cents. In 1975 it was 99 cents.

One year ago the coffee advertisements read $1.29 but unprecedented rises have brought it this year to $2.59 and $2.99, and every promise is that it will go even higher.

Harried housewives and confused coffee consumers are not sure whether these extreme prices are natural or manipulated. To examine the local situation an Enterprise reporter contacted city grocers, cafe operators and others personally interested in the brown brew.

Kenneth Palmer, manager of Don's Super Market, states that his coffee $2.25 six or eight weeks ago is now $2.99 but even at that price it costs more to replace it. "I have no idea as to how high it will go. About like gasoline, it could go up a lot. Coffee merchants tell us they are selling all they can produce - they don't care whether we buy or not.

"I'm not selling as much as I was for a while," he continued. "Most people probably stocked up earlier. I'm a heavy coffee drinker and will probably continue to be as long as I can afford it."

A few blocks to the west on Highway 70, Larry Digby, manager of Pay-N-Save, says that he is selling coffee below the price he is paying for replacement. He says he has no idea how high it will go, that it may go to the predicted $4 or $5. He thinks the public will continue to buy, but will find ways to conserve it. Some may cut down on its use.

"Sales are already slowing down. I didn't sell much when we put it on special at $1.79 because the public didn't really believe it would jump so much. Now they do believe it. I am afraid we'll have these hiked prices for two or three years, according to the predictions," he added sadly. "I'm a heavy coffee drinker and may probably begin using instant coffee so there will be no waste."

At Leon's in the downtown area, he states that a few days ago he offered coffee at $1.79, but now the lowest priced number one brands are $2.59. He also points out that he does not even stock the three-pound can anymore, and handles very few two-pound cans.

He guesses, "It won't ever get to that $5 prediction. People will quit drinking it. I don't even think it will reach $4 per pound, I could be wrong. But when you reach a certain price you get consumer resistance. That's what happened to sugar. People quit buying it . . . and I do mean quit. People may not substitute, they just won't drink coffee."

Visits to the town's coffee shops found many people contentedly sipping 25 cent coffee and talking about the 'good ole days' when it was a nickel.

The manager of Trail's Inn was unavailable for comment, but Johnny Jennings, owner of the Dairy Mart said that he has about the

We welcome into the ranks of new business women this week, Barbara Faver and Juanice LaDuke, who have purchased North Side Gift from two other business women, Jeanette Ray and Billie Dickenson.

We are very pleased to have these two join the rest of the businesses in Olton. We hope they will enjoy their work as much as we have enjoyed ours working here in Olton.

I suppose some of you out there have been watching "Roots" as I have. It's a very good film, in case you haven't seen any of it. You can still catch some of the episodes. Our country has undergone some major changes since the days described in the film. And we are thankful for that.

Alan Brown Appointed Head Of Department

Announcement was made this week of the creation of an Installment and Personal Loan department in Olton State Bank.

Alan Brown, vice-president and cashier, will head this new personal service.

Dale Cary in discussing the situation stated, "We feel that one person handling this phase of the work would have a better knowledge of the needs of the community. This is really an effort to anticipate those needs and will only be an improvement upon services already available."

While persons wanting small installment and personal loans will be referred to Brown, those wishing commercial and agricultural loans will continue to see Ken Burgess, Lauis Hair or Cary.

Dog Owners Beware

Dogs not on a leash, penned in a yard or on your own property will be picked up and put in the dog pound....the first time. The second time they are picked up, they will be destroyed.

This is the latest word from city hall. A dog catcher has been employed and will be on the lookout for dogs running loose, due to the fact that mad dogs have been killed inside the city limits.

The State Health Department warned city officials that some "action must be taken to control the dogs."

Dog owners are reminded that the city has an ordinance concerning dogs and that it WILL be enforced. Beginning Feb. 1, all dogs running loose will be picked up.

Bill Kelley Promoted To Vice President

Bill Kelley, manager of Frontier Savings Association Olton office, has been elevated to the office of vice-president of the corporation in charge of marketing and branch operations, according to Gerome M. Gutheinz, newly re-elected head of the corporation.

Other officers named at a recent board meeting include David Julian, vice-president in charge of mortgage loan department; Blane Smith, treasurer; Stephen Smith, corporate secretary; and Bonnie McClain assistant secretary. Mrs. McClain, who has been employed in the Plainview office for the past year, will perform all duties outside board meetings.

Gutheinz states that Kelley's promotion is well earned. Not only serving as manager of the Olton office, the new vice-president has functioned as co-ordinator for the three-office association, Olton, Plainview and Abernathy. He has handled all advertising and marketing to establish a record growth for the first year of combined operation.

"By his unrelenting efforts, Kelley has gotten us on television, and expanded our advertising in local papers," Gutheinz reported. "Handling all collections for the corporation, he has reduced the existing 2 percent delinquency to less than .3 percent. This has required much work on his part. He has contributed significantly to the growth of the company, and we feel that he will be an excellent board member."

Gutheinz was emphatic in stating that the three corporate offices are separate and distinct operations; none is branch office of another, all are equal in nature. He continued, "The Olton office stands at over a million dollars in deposits as of today, and it has lent over a million dollars in the Olton-Springlake-Earth Area. It has contributed a full one-third of the corporate growth."

A longtime resident of the city, Kelley had been living in Olton for 22 years before his association with the savings and loan company. For 20 years he was in the clothing business here.

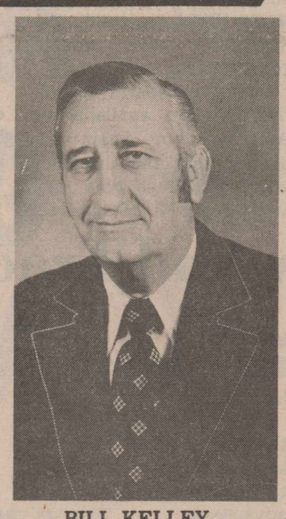

Always involved in civic endeavors, he is a member of Olton Lions Club and has been named Outstanding Lion of the Year. He is a member of Olton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture and belongs to Main Street Church of Christ.

Having studied in Texas Tech University's School of business administration, Kelley is now graduate of Intermediate Savings and Loan School.

When contacted about his promotion, and asked for his comment of future outlook for the area Kelley was swift to reply "I anticipate a continued growth. I look for more and more young people to return to this area to make their homes. And I look forward to working with them and encouraging them in their financial planning and home building.

"The additional paving coming up in the city of Olton will make many desirable locations for home building."

Kelley and his wife, Billie, are parents of three children. A son, Gary and his wife, Dona, with daughter Jennifer live here. A daughter, Vicki Roop, lives in Amarillo. Brad, the younger son, is a senior student in Olton High School.

United Way Meet Slated

A general membership meeting of Olton United Way has been called for Monday, Jan. 31, at 7 p.m. in Community Room of Olton State Bank building, according to Melvin Rape, president.

Rape points out that all who made contributions to the Fund are members and are invited to attend.

Purpose of the meeting will be to report activities of last year; the results of the campaign and how the monies will be distributed to organizations participating; and to review the program for this year.

All board members are urged to be present.

Drug Raid Made

Police Chief Don Hatley, assisted by county deputy sheriff Hall, Buster and Garcia and two under cover men, made a raid on a home in Olton Jan. 20 and found substances which they believed to be marijuana.

Following an analysis of the substances, it was determined to be a drug and a case has been filed in city court. A suspect will have to appear before the city judge.

Other action from the city police department the past week include investigation of a fight between two boys. After school, Jan. 25, two boys were engaged in a fight because of some things one said about the other's girlfriend.

The boys' fathers were contacted and no charges had been filed at press time.

Two runaway boys from Plainview were picked up Jan. 13 by Officer William Hammon. The boys were returned to the Plainview sheriff's department.

Jan. 23, a subject was reported drunk in a vehicle on Ave. M. The subject was taken to city jail and appeared before the city judge the next day. He was fined and released.

Continued investigation into the bread being taken from Don's Super Market revealed that two boys were guilty.

They stated they had fed the bread to some dogs. They agreed to pay for the bread and the incident is closed.

North Side Gift Changes Ownership

Two young matrons entered the business world Tuesday with the purchase of North Side Gift Shop.

Accepting the keys and the responsibility for the continuance of the distinctive store were Mrs. Burley Faver and Mrs. Roy LaDuke. Neither have had previous experience in such a venture, both have great ambition and much enthusiasm for the task ahead.

Leaving the field of their labors with mixed emotions are Mrs. Kenneth Ray and Mrs. W.B. Dickenson Jr., who have spent the past nine years planning the best possible service for their many patrons.

'North Side Gift' was so named when it was located at the northern end of Main Street. Under the ownership of Mrs. R.H. Thomas, the store was opened in 1953.

Acquired by Jeanette Ray and Billie Dickenson in November 1967, it was then moved to a more southerly location in 1968, and to its present location in 1970. The nine years have been a time of continual change and growth for the shop.

The new owners have some changes in mind and are excitedly looking forward to their first trip to the huge Dallas Market.

Barbara and Juanice plan to offer many sale items in the near future to clear out some phases and make room for new small appliances and other gift items they intend to add to the stock.

When asked what prompted the purchase of the shop, the young ladies agreed it had been a casual mentioning at first, but their enthusiasm grew as they discussed its possibilities. Both agreed they have always enjoyed pretty things, and have always wanted to do something like this.

"We feel fortunate to have such an outstanding shop already established and we anticipate its continuation, maintaining the same high standards upon which it was built. We hope we can make the pleasing selections area patrons have grown to expect to find here. We want to extend a cordial invitation to all shoppers to come in to see us ....browse and buy," they added.

When asked about their plans for the future, the departing owners stated that a long rest was first in order.

"But as we go we want to express publicly our appreciation to the people of Olton and surrounding area who have been so patient with us through the years and so good to us in our operation of North Side." And they added, "Our very best wishes go with the new proprietors. We want to be of any help we possibly can."

"All summer you hunted fer a drink of cold water—now that you have it, you're gripin!"

My Baby Girl

By Rex Boyles

Happy birthday baby! Tomorrow you will be one year old, and your first year as "my little girl" has been a celebration.

We celebrated your first cry . . . which reported your arrival. We celebrated your first "coo" . . . which could properly be translated "daddy". We celebrated your first smile . .. which made all of us feel warm all over. We celebrated your first giggle . . . which must have been due to that big brother, David. We celebrated your first reach . . . which resulted in your mother dropping everything and grabbing you up. We celebrated your first tooth . . . which we found peeking through after 361 days of searching. We celebrated your first step . . . which was made clutching to a finger. We celebrated you baby!

I can remember when that celebration began. Your lovely mother was wheeled through the double doors into the delivery room some time after 7 p.m. on Jan. 30, 1976. I stood outside those double doors, waiting to hear your first celebrations of life. Those moments were filled with the pains that come from the labor of life and the prayers that come from the labor of love. Those moments were filled with the dreams of an eager daddy and the committments of an anxious father. And God crowned those moments and sparked our celebration with you, Cheri Jo . . . "my baby girl".

Cheri Jo, you will be 10 or 12 or 16 years old when you will be able to read and understand these scribblings. And I will want for you then what I want for you now, what I wanted for you as I prayed on the outside of those double doors. I want you to have Jesus.

I may not always be there to hear you cry . . .
I may not always be there to see your smile . . .
I may not always be there to take your reach . . .
I may not always be there to guide your step . . .
I may not always be there to celebrate your life . . .
BUT JESUS WILL.

As you read this Cheri Jo, know for certain that I love you and that your first year as "my baby girl" was only the being of my celebration . . . Rex

'Big A' Liquid Fertilizer Rig Unique Features Explained

The "Big A" has returned to Olton Farm Supply.

The special machine, which is designed to apply liquid fertilizer, was used by OFS some years back. It is possible to cover up to 60 acres each hour with the rig.

Steve Spain, operator, says, "It takes more time to mix the fertilizer and/or the herbicides than it does to put it out. And I spend more time on the turn row than I do running up and down the field."

The "Big A" is not suitable for applying fertilizer when the crop is up. It is primarily an "off season" rig.

Employees at OFS try to keep the rig ready to roll, doing maintenance work after dark or when it's too windy to apply fertilizer. The "Big A" that is now being used is not a '77 model, rather a used one which has been revamped. A unique feature on their "Big A" is that it has a spraying monitor, which allows them to have a field accuracy within two per cent.

"We feel like we have practically remanufactured the machine," Spain says. "If anything goes wrong, we know how to fix it...we're that familiar with its workings. It has a Ford motore and Allison transmission. Parts are available at any Ford dealership. So we don't have trouble getting parts."

Component parts to the "Big A" are available in Amarillo, but Spain explained that the machines are designed so that they are pretty well trouble free.

New machines would cost in the range of $45,000. Tires are five and a half feet tall and forty-three inches wide, leaving a solid track, ten feet wide. However, due to the design of the machine and tires, the ground is no more packed than it would be by a man's footprint.

"Tires for the machine cost $1500 each new, or you can have your old tires recapped for about $800," Spain related. "They have to be recapped in Kansas."

Spain stated that a good time to apply fertilizer and/or some herbicides is now.

"By putting down herbicides at the same time you apply fertilizer, you not only save time, but you can save the expense of a trip across the field. It's a time save as well as a money saver."

Three to four months of the year, the "Big A" puts in full days, but is idle the remainder of the year. Three men stay busy keeping the machine running 100 per cent of the time. Stepping off the field so that the fertilizer will be spread in a uniform pattern is done by two men, one at each end of the field. This extremely important when applying herbicides.

"People still stare at the 'Big A' when going down the road." Spain stated. "There aren't too many of them around, but they are getting more popular because liquid fertilizer is getting more popular. This is due to the fact that we can get better distribution and accuracy of liquid fertilizer with this rig than with the rig that applies dry fertilizer.

The "Big A" sprays 18 rows at one time and a large field can be finished in just a matter of a few hours. And to the farmer, time is money.

Farm Show And Tractor Pull Opens March 11 In Fort Worth

With a thundering roar and gleaming exhibits of $6 million of farm machinery and equipment, the Southwest Farm Show and Championship Tractor Pull will open for a three-day run, March 11 in Fort Worth.

Housed in the Tarrant County Convention Center, the show doors will open at 10:30 a.m. and close at 5:30 p.m. each day, March 11-13, according to Harry Bryant, Farm Show manager.

"This will be the largest array of farm machinery we have ever had," Bryant said. He pointed out that the Convention Center exhibit hall, over 100,000 square feet, has been filled and additonal thousands of square feet of exhibits have moved to large tents across the street west of the Center.

Although the Farm Show is free and open to the public, Bryant urged spectators to go by their local implement dealer for free registration forms for hundreds of dollars worth of door prizes to be given away during the show.

The forms will also be available at the Farm Show entrance.

Climaxing each day's events will be a Championship Tractor Pull featuring some of the Southwest's most exciting modified and hot-rod tractors and drivers.

Tractor pulls will begin at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday and at 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Reserved tickets are available for the pulls and may be ordered: Tractor Pull, P.O. Box 938, Fort Worth, Texas 76101.

On Friday, March 11, the New World of Agriculture Forum and luncheon will feature state and national leaders.

Tickets are required for the forum and may be secured through local County Extension Agents in advance.

Other Farm Show features include a Texas State FFA Tractor Mechanics Contest at 6:30 p.m. and a Natural Fibers Fashion Review at 4 p.m., both scheduled for Saturday, March 12.

West Texas Farmers Eligible For Loans

Congressman George Mahon has announced that farmers in West Texas counties may apply for emergency loans through the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) as a result of hail and freeze which occured on Sept. 27 and Oct. 8th, 1976, respectively. This is an extension of the secretarial designation of Oct. 13, 1976 for Lamb County resulting from drought Jan. 1 to Aug. 12, 1976 and hail on July 29, and Aug. 2, 1976.

The counties now designated are Lamb, Bailey, Hockley and Yoakum. Applications for assistance in the disaster stricken counties will be accepted by FmHA until March 7, 1977 for physical losses and Oct. 6, 1977, for production losses.

Loans based on losses are repayable in their entirety at an interest rate of 5%. Other loans under the emergency program can be made for annual operating expenses or to make major adjustments in the operation at an interest rate of 8%. Loan applicants must be unable to get sufficient credit from local commercial sources, but still meet security requirements with crops, chattels or real estate. Robert M. Hicks, county supervisor for Lamb County, states that his office day is Wednesday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is located at 118 West 4th Street in Littlefield.

Hicks also advises that under present instructions, a preventive planting loss is considered a physical loss and applications should be completed early in order to comply with the March 7 deadline.

All applications will be given equal consideration without regard to race, color, creed, sex, age or national origin.

Some fertilizing problems we float right over.

One of our best ways of giving you better service is flotation application equipment—the rigs with the big balloon tires that spread out the surface weight.

Using flotation equipment, means getting into fields a lot earlier, even when they're wet. Because the equipment doesn't cause the compaction or field damage that regular tire-equipped applicators can cause.

Since our rigs apply fertilizer and herbicides in less than ideal conditions, they can work more days. Cover more acres, faster. And serve more customers when they want to be served.

Flotation equipment. It's another example of the better service we give you, year in and year out, as your ARCADIAN® dealer.

In The Mixing Bowl

Satisfaction In Sweets

"The rainy day is the time I like to 'get out the mixing bowl'. And when I do, I want to spend the time making desserts or cakes . . . they are my only specialty," Phyllis Payne laughingly admitted when invited to share in this week's column.

The attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Payne, Phyllis is a senior in Olton High School. She has already been accepted at Texas Tech, but holds in reserve the possibility of attending North Texas State University to seek a degree in accounting.

Born seventeen years ago in Danville, Va., she has dual memories of her childhood since she has lived twice in Virginia and twice in Fort Worth. When asked about her fondest memories of the famous 'southern state' she was quick to reply "Oh, the beautiful nights of winter there. The skies are crystal clear, you can see every star, and there is always the fragrance of the smoke that curls up from every chimney." She explained that homes use wood that is plentiful in the area for heating purposes, and that because of the cold temperatures they keep the fires burning twenty-four hours per day.

She added that she spent her Christmas vacation in Virginia, where her grandparents continue to live, and that it was very cold this year in the rolling hills, she thought perhaps the temperature was not above 40 degrees during her stay, but there was no snow at that time, it has since fallen in abundance.

Phyllis has a sister, Eleanor, who still lives in Berryville, Va. She is a Home Economics teacher in the school system there. The rest of her family now resides in Texas. A second sister, Mrs. Margie Henson, lives in Arlington. Her brother, Wally, is a freshman at South Plains College, Levelland.

Her father is golf pro at Olton Recreation Center. Her mother is his "assistant" and Phyllis shares their enthusiasm for golfing. She also enjoys swimming and bicycling. She was this year introduced to trap shooting, and likes it so well, she plans to take riflery when she attends college.

She finished her favorite subjects, courses in business education as a junior and was a member of the Speech Club last year. This year she is a member of Future Homemakers of America, Olton Chapter, and participates in HERO (Home Economics Related Occupation). Through this program she works each afternoon at Sherman Agency, getting practical experience in the business world she expects to enter.

Using her family as 'guinea pigs' Phyllis has tried the following collection of sweet treats, and this week offers to share them with friends.

Obituaries

Walter Crandall

Funeral services for Walter Lewis Crandall, 84, were held Tuesday, Jan. 25, in First United Methodist Church. The Rev. Raymon Carson officiated.

Interment was in Olton Cemetery under direction of Parsons Funeral Home.

Born Oct. 2, 1892 in Wright County, Minn., he was a farmer. He never married. Veteran of World War I, he was the first enlistee from Lamb County. He died in Central Plains General Hospital, Plainview where he had been a patient for seven days.

Crandall came to Lamb County in 1909 on a Soash Immigrant train with his parents. For many years he has operated a farm here partially retiring from this post in 1970.

Survivors include one sister, Mrs. Amy Lucas of Buffalo, Minn.; four nieces, Mrs. Robert Jackson, Plainview, Mrs. Manford Weber, Overland Park, Kan., Mrs. Byron McDaniel, Leawood, Kan., and Mrs. William F. McGuire, Wichita, Kan.; and one nephew, Stuart Crandall, Freeport, Ill.

Pallbearers were Nicky Green, Robert Block, Duane Eby, Lowell McGill, Don C. Hayes and Andy Stroebel.

Marcus Breland

Funeral services were held Monday in Ninth and Columbia Street Church of Christ, Plainview, for Marcus Breland, 53, longtime area resident and former resident of this city.

Officiating were J.B. Lancaster of Port Arthur, former minister of Main Street Church of Christ, and Gene Polvado, minister of Ninth and Columbia Church.

Interment was in Olton Cemetery under direction of Wood-Dunning Funeral Home, Plainview.

Born June 3, 1923 in Seymour he came to the Olton vicinity in 1927 and moved to the Valley View community in 1939. He was graduate of Olton High School. Member of the Church of Christ, he had farmed and ranched in this area and in Abilene area.

Surviving are one son, Darrell Breland of Abilene; one daughter, Mrs. Steve Jividen of Abilene; his mother, Mrs. Jewel Breland of Plainview; three sisters, Mrs. Clint McCartie of Scottsdale, Ariz., Mrs. Bill Curry of Quitaque and Mrs. Charles Brothers of Clovis, N.M.; one brother, Wendell Breland of Irving; and one grandson.

Brent Burrow

Funeral services were held Tuesday, Jan. 25, in Paramount Baptist Church, Amarillo, for Brent Burrow, 62, of Harmony Lane, of that city, former resident of Olton.

Officiating last rites were the Rev. C.N. Rue, pastor and the Rev. John E. Lewis, First Baptist Church, Olton. Burial was in Memory Gardens under direction of Boxwell Brothers Funeral Directors.

Burrow died Saturday in Zapata where he and his wife had gone to fish.

Born in Rocky, Okla., he had come to Olton in 1936. He worked some ten years at Farmers Gin, in which his father was one of four owners.

In 1949 he bought an interest in Straw Gin and remained in the partnership for 12 years. Retiring from the gin business, Burrow farmed a few years before moving to Amarillo in 1967.

During thirty years in this city he was involved in civic affairs and served four years on the board of trustees for Olton Schools. He was a Baptist.

Survivors include his wife, Mildred; one daughter, Mrs. Max Kennedy, Canyon; two sons, John Lynn Burrow of Denver and Neal Burrow of Portales, N.M.; two sisters, and seven grandchildren.

Charles W. Reynolds

Graveside memorial services were conducted Tuesday morning in Roscoe for an Olton pioneer, Charles W. Reynolds of Brownwood.

Officiating was the Rev. Dallas D. Denison of Brownfield, former pastor of the local Methodist Church. Interment was in the Roscoe cemetery.

Born Oct. 24, 1879 in Linn County, Iowa, Reynolds worked on his father's farm, and as an apprentice carpenter, until 1908 when he came to Texas with the Soash Land Company excursion. He purchased farm land one mile east of Olton and operated the farm until his retirement in 1950.

Reynolds married his childhood sweetheart from Iowa in 1913. She lived only a few years and is buried in Iowa. Their only child died in infancy.

In 1933, Reynolds married Nora Elsie Osborne of Pilot Point, a teacher in the Olton schools. She died in 1952. They had no children.

Reynolds witnessed, during his childhood and early adult life, the tremendous efforts which were required to provide the necessities of life in his family home. He developed a determination to break from this patter of life and seek an opportunity which would permit a greater return for his efforts. He was convinced he had found this opportunity when he came with one of the Soash excursions which brought settlers here when the Slaughter Ranch was broken up and sold as farm land.

Reynolds bought a quarter section of land, built a two-room house on it which still stands on the land, and began breaking the grassland. Working most of the time during the first two years as a carpenter since his farming efforts could produce no income, he helped with the construction of the new town's first hotel, hardware store, school and courthouse.

A member of the Evangelical Church in Iowa, he joined the Methodist congregation which met in the Union Church which was built on land donated by the Soash Land Company. It served all denominations in the area until the mid-1920s.

Reynolds helped build the first Methodist Church, a basement building, in 1926. He was chairman of the building committee when an upstairs addition was added in 1933-34. That building is was sold to the Church of the Nazarene in 1958.

He was a member of the First Methodist Church of Brownwood at the time of his death Sunday in a Waco hospital.

He is survived by several nieces and nephews.

you can BANK on it!

By Kenneth Burgess
Olton State Bank

Although it will undoubtedly be a long time before we throw away our check books, the first steps in that direction have already been firmly taken — primarily through development of EFTS, Electronic Funds Transfer Systems, which, most simply stated, is a process for transferring money electronically from one place to another, whether from one bank to another or from one account to another.

Developers of the systems are moving slowly but surely to increase the use of EFTS. They are moving slowly because of the insistence on absolute security in the electronic transfer process . . . a plateau not yet achieved. They are moving surely because of the possibilities of substantial savings for all of us.

One of the nation's top banking executives has estimated that by 1983 some 700 million dollars will be saved by the use of EFTS. His estimates are based on the idea that the number of electronic transfer terminals now used in many of the retail stores in larger cities will be increased by more than 400 percent during the next seven years. With that rate of increase, it's something we'll be hearing a whole lot more about.

"The more you know about our business, the more we can help you!"

Girl Scout Cookies Sales Begun Here

Posters are up over town with the announcements, and perky little girl scouts wearing their uniforms or pins, are making door-to-door calls in the interest of their annual Cookie Sale, which began Friday, Jan. 28, according to Mrs. Geneva Smith, local unit chairman.

Girls from 18 area counties, affiliated with Caprock Girl Scout Council, are joining in the effort. Around five thousand girls will be selling five flavors of cookies. For $1.25 per package cookies may be had in the following flavors: Lemon Creme, Chocolate and Vanilla Creme, Scot-tea, Mint, Savannah and a new "Cheddarette" cracker.

The sale will be ending Feb. 13, and profits will be used to support troop activities and council program activities including maintenance and improvement of Camp Rio Blanco, a year around camp site east of Crosbyton.

Gifts such as posters, patches, T-shirts and camp scholarships will be given to each Girl Scout who sells specified numbers of cookies.

Adult leaders directing the cookie sales in the city aside from Mrs. Smith, will be Mrs. Debra Smith, Mrs. Jolene Burgess and Mrs. Bud Scribner.

FROM STINNETT

Coffee . . .

same number of coffee drinkers he's always had. Presently charging 20 cents, he feels that he may soon have to increase his price, because it's not more than a 'break even deal' without the addition of cream and sugar.

"Each place has it's own group of people that come every day at about the same time to meet over a cup of coffee. I like to see the coffee people come in," but he added "It is my opinion that if EVERYONE would not drink coffee, prices would come down. The consumers will allow it to go higher."

Johnny Adams, at the Dairy Queen, says that he has as many coffee drinkers at his new price of 20 cents as he had before. His is a self-service bar, with refills included.

"People like coffee, and we want to keep serving it," he said. "Our business starts at 10 a.m. and we sell coffee right on through lunch time. We usually have another run about 3 p.m. Our coffee drinkers are mostly local people. Travelers usually eat or order malts or something. But the local people visit and drink coffee. They sometimes sit for an hour or so over their cups." He added that he liked to see customers come in singly or in groups for the coffee break.

Pat Key, at the Circle K, says she has about the same number of coffee drinkers as before the price increases. She pours the beverage at 25 cents per cup (with as many refills as wanted).

"If coffee does go up to $5, I'll have to increase the serving price. It is now sort of a break-even deal, done mostly for courtesy. Most farmers that come in 'grow their crops' around those coffee cups. I'd miss them if they didn't come in. I enjoy having them here," she commented.

Pat concluded that she has at least one coffee drinker that helps her open up every morning. One morning when he failed to appear she was worried, until she learned that he had been ill in the night and had just overslept.

Stories are being circulated about recipes for making your own 'hard times coffee' from barley, but that might be much like drinking tea made from strawberry leaves.

Individuals interviewed said "We make coffee every morning then in the afternoon we add a tablespoon or two of fresh coffee over the used grounds . . . it's pretty good and serves the purpose." And, "I used to make a full pot of coffee every morning and think nothing of pouring out three or four cups leftover. Now I make only what we actually drink." And, "I drink about five cups of coffee per day. I plan to cut down if prices do go up like some say they will."

In speaking with businessmen who "keep the pot on" they agreed that they plan to continue the practice, because of good customer relations. They seem to feel that no price can be placed on the soothing, relaxing and congenial sharing of a cup of coffee.

Without Wex — With Wex

This entire field received a uniform pre-emerge application of Lasso-Lorox. Half of the field received Wex with the herbicide.

WEX:
- Makes water wetter
- Reduces foaming of ag-chemicals
- Helps suspend wettable powders
- Causes greater saturation
- Improves coverage and penetration
- Aids compatibility of specific ag-chemical combinations

Proven on millions of acres during five growing seasons

These photos were taken in the same field less than ten feet apart. The side with Wex has lush green foliage as a result of more efficient use of the available nitrogen. The side of the field without Wex has brown foliage indicating a nitrogen deficiency. Wex enhances fertilizer activity.

Wex helps your crop achieve its genetic potential by:
- Releasing more soil nutrients
- Increasing trace nutrient uptake
- Enhancing fertilizer activity
- Distributing nutrients throughout the root zone.

Thereby increasing your real yield at harvest.
