The first anniversary celebration of the Coca-Cola Bottling company will be observed on Wednesday, April 18, according to announcements made by Jack Lusher, manager of the company, and many attractions are being offered visitors at the plant in Perryton during the day.

The program for the day has been arranged as follows: 10:00 to 11:00 a. m. has been reserved for business men and their employees. NO BASEBALL GAME SUNDAY

PERRYTON TEAM KICKED OUT OF PANHANDLE LEAGUE TOO FAST TEAM TO SUIT OTHERS

The Perryton Ball club was kicked out of the Panhandle League at a meeting of the managers of the clubs held, the latter part of last week. From what we can learn, the one and only reason for our club being ousted was the fact that the class of baseball played by Perryton was just too fast for the other teams in the league. The other clubs represent the towns of Gage and Shattuck, Oklahoma; Higgins, Follett and Becker, Texas. Woodward and Canadian made application to join the league at last week's meeting, Canadian being awarded the place left vacant by Perryton's ouster.

Perryton ball fans have expressed themselves as being pleased now that we are out of the league. They felt that the class of ball played in the Panhandle League was far below what Perryton was accustomed to and would have resulted in a falling off of attendance and interest. The committee who attended the organization meeting at Shattuck several weeks ago were told in no uncertain terms Perryton was not wanted in the league. However, afterwards Perryton was called and invited to go into the league, which they did over the protests of many of the fans. Now after getting a team together and having everything set for the first game, we are told that we are too fast and will have to get out.

Well, all's well that ends well, and from present indications, our ouster is probably the best thing that could have happened. A movement is now under way for the organization of a four club league, composed of teams from Borger, Pampa, Woodward and Perryton. A meeting will be held in Perryton on Friday of this week of representatives from these towns to discuss the proposed circuit.

OFFER PRIZES ON DOLLAR DAY

MERCHANTS GIVING ADDED INDUCEMENTS IN ADDITION TO BARGAIN OFFERINGS

Indications point toward a day of great activity in Perryton on April 24, the date selected for the third semi-annual Dollar Day event. Plans are being formulated by the various merchants to not only offer Dollar Day bargains but to give special prizes as an added attraction to visitors.

Many of the Perryton firms are ordering new merchandise in sufficient quantities to care for the wants of all, to be offered at practically cost during this great bargain carnival.

Complete detail of the various prizes to be offered as well as the store news of the Dollar Day bargains will be contained in next week's issue of the Herald. Watch for it! It will pay you!

A. L. Carter and Son, A. L. Jr. returned Monday from a business trip to Tucumcari New Mexico.

Perryton Drug Company Refinishes Interior and Exterior Of Their Store

Probably one of the first business firms in Perryton to take an active part in clean-up week was the Perryton Drug company which has completely redecorated both the interior and exterior of their store building.

The walls and ceiling on the inside have been refinished in an ivory which gives the store a much brighter appearance. Quite a little rearranging has been done on the inside. The outside of the store has also been refinished and gives the street a much more attractive look.

J. F. Meade, a former Perryton young man, who is now attending the state university at Austin will receive his Master's degree from that institution this spring. He has already accepted a position on the staff of the West Texas Teachers College at Canyon for the summer and winter term.

Mrs. R. W. Davis and son, Clarence, left the latter part of last week for an Easter visit with relatives at Clinton Oklahoma.

FIDDLERS ARE GETTING READY

OLD TIMERS TO PLAY FOR LOCAL CHAMPIONSHIP; WINNER TO PLAY AT AMARILLO

The winner of the old fiddlers championship contest, to be held Tuesday night, April 24, at the American Theatre, is to represent Perryton at the Tri-State contest being held in Amarillo on April 27. The winner of the local contest will have all expenses paid on the trip to Amarillo as a prize offered by the Perryton Chamber of Commerce which organization is sponsoring the contest.

Cash prizes amounting to $200.00 are being offered the winners in the Tri-State contest in addition to various other awards being offered by the merchants of Amarillo.

Several old time fiddlers have already signified their intentions of entering the local tryout which will not doubt create considerable interest in Perryton. The contest will be staged on the night of Dollar Day, Tuesday, April 24, as an added attraction to come and spend the day in Perryton.

GARRISON WINS SAT. ELECTION

L. L. LANCE, MRS. DAVID D. SHANKS AND L. R. CONNER RETAINED AS MEMBERS

R. P. Garrison was the only new member elected to the board of trustees of the Perryton Independent School district in the election held over the district last Saturday. L. L. Lance, Mrs. David D. Shanks, and L. R. Conner were all re-elected on the ballot.

Only 140 votes were cast in the district on election day but the light vote was due more to the inclement weather than to the fact that voters were not taking any interest in the election. Rural voters were almost unable to get to the polls because of the condition of the roads.

The votes cast in the district for the six candidates whose names appeared on the ballot were as follows: L. L. Lance 109 Mrs. David D. Shanks 103 R. P. Garrison 110 Fred Butler 57 Tom Hogland 65 L. R. Conner 66

The election returns show an instance of where one vote was sufficient to elect one candidate over another, Hogland receiving 65 and Conner, 66.

J. L. Wright and Ray and Beula Wright returned last week from the Rio Grande valley where they have been spending the winter.

HUMOR IN ABUNDANCE REFLECTS MOOD OF MEN WHO FIGHT IN TRENCHES

"What Price Glory" said to be the greatest war comedy ever screened is to be presented at the American Theatre, Monday and Tuesday, under the auspices of Pierce Johnson Post Number 254 of the American Legion. Advance ticket sales are being made by the Legion Auxiliary.

Every soldier will tell you that he had a lot of fun out of a war. Ask any reminiscence veteran of the U. S. N. and they will smile and say, "betcha." But ask a leatherneck, a soldier of the seven seas, what he thinks about it and your answer will be "hot dog." That's why the Captain Flagg in the picture "What Price Glory" remarks after a leave of absence and a hilarious visit to Bar-le-Duc: "This is the best war I ever attended."

The comedy end of war was what impressed Winfield R. Sheehan, general manager of Fox films, when the job of making a screen story of the Stallings-Anderson play was undertaken at Hollywood—and Sheehan knew because he was a Sergeant in the U. S. A. and saw active service in Cuba in the Spanish-American war.

Then, Director Raoul Walsh took battle as a background, gave it plenty of clash and conflict, tragic touches and pathetic pulses but he let his soldier man overseas just have the time of his life—in which Director Walsh was right and followed form. So laughter of the uproarious, deep-down kind is promised in the picture, "What Price Glory."

Victor McLaglen, soldier of fortune, captain in the world war, and a capital actor, is the Captain Flagg of the story; Edmund Lowe is Sergeant Quirt, and lovely Dolores Del Rio will be seen as Charmaine. These head a great cast and a host of auxiliaries in the big scenes.

COUNTY WITH-DRAWS SUPPORT

PUBLIC MUST KEEP UP OCHILTREE CEMETERY SO COMMISSIONERS DECIDE LAST MONDAY

A meeting of the general public especially those who have loved ones buried in the Ochiltree cemetery will be held at the cemetery on Sunday, April 22, 1928 at 3:00 p. m. for the purpose of discussing plans and perfecting an organization to maintain and keep up the burial grounds.

The cemetery has been maintained by the county for a number of years but since there are other cemeteries in the county which are not kept up by the county funds, the commissioners have decided that they will withdraw their support from the Ochiltree cemetery. The commissioners are right in taking this step. There is no reason whatever for this cemetery to be maintained by public funds. We feel sure that a plan will be formulated whereby the cemetery can be maintained in much better shape in the future than has been done in the past.

The Commissioners notice to the public reads as follows: "The public is hereby notified that the Commissioners' Court of Ochiltree County will no longer maintain the cemetery known as the Ochiltree cemetery. No claim will be paid by this court for any character of work in or out of the cemetery, except such claims as may regard paupers and is mandatory on the court under the laws of the State of Texas. The public is respectfully requested to meet and provide such plan or method as it may deem best. The meeting will be at the cemetery at 3:30 p. m., Sunday, the 22nd day of April, 1928."

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Whippo were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Key Sunday.

Tragedy in the Circus

Even Death Does Not Interfere For "The Show Must Go On"; Actress Dies Here

Behind the smiling, painted mask, beneath the tinsel, gaudy clothes of many a circus performer may be hidden a broken heart. But what of the cares and troubles of one individual? The show must go on!

And so it was in Perryton. Going to his room in a local hotel following the performance of Zellmar's show here, Monday evening, Clifford Brooks, director of the circus band, found his wife lying on the floor. Brooks immediately called Dr. W. J. Brewer, but Mrs. Brooks was dead when he arrived.

The cause of death was probably acute indigestion. Mrs. Brooks having had a severe attack a week previous but seemed much improved and was expecting to resume her role in the circus when it showed at Spearman.

Mrs. Brooks, age 39, had been in the show business for twenty-two years formerly living at Cabool, Mo. The body was prepared for burial by the Wilson Funeral home and short funeral services were conducted at Ochiltree cemetery where the body was laid to rest, by Rev. Martin T. Pope.

"LIFE OF WOODROW WILSON" TO BE PRESENTED SUNDAY NIGHT, APRIL 15, AT 8:30

Presentation of the official American Legion picture, "The Life of Woodrow Wilson," will be made, Sunday night, April 15, starting at 8:30 o'clock at the American Theatre. The picture was produced under the supervision of the American Legion and is being presented in Perryton by Pierce Johnson Post Number 254 of that organization and through the courtesy of the American Theatre.

There will be no charge for the entertainment and everyone is cordially invited to attend. The various churches in Perryton are co-operating with the American Legion and are holding their evening services early in order that those attending may also see the picture.

The picture is well worth seeing and is based on the actual life of the great president who guided the nation through the strife of the world war conflict as Commander-in-Chief of the American fighting forces.

RAIN AND SNOW MEASURES 1.05

THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY FALL IS FINE ON GROWING CROPS IN WHEAT BELT

Rain and snow falling Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, supplied 1.05 inches of moisture in Perryton according to the official government gauge attended by Attorney Jack Allen, the fall being fairly general over this section of the Panhandle although it was reported as somewhat lighter in some localities.

This April moisture brings the total for the year up to 4.65 inches according to the records of Mr. Allen. The moisture received so far this year, by the months, is as follows:

January	00
February	 2.05
March	 1.55
April	 1.05

Total 4.65

The precipitation last week was exceptionally good on the growing wheat crop, the fall being light and steady. It was accompanied by a slight freeze but it is thought that very little damage to the fruit and early gardens was suffered.

Miss Gwendolyn McLain who is staying with Mrs. Frank F. Dodson was called to her home at Shattuck, Oklahoma Friday because of the illness of her mother.

LEAVES PERRYTON AT 8:18 WEDNESDAY MORNING ON LONG RACE

DELAY START FROM MONDAY TO YESTERDAY BECAUSE OF MUDDY ROADS; IS RACING AGAINST TIME FROM SOUTH TO NORTH

Facing a stiff north wind, Irving "Speedy" Wallace waved "goodbye" and sprinted out of Perryton, Wednesday morning at 8:18 o'clock, on the first lap of his 1,500 mile trek from Perryton, Texas, to Bismarck, N. D., leaving his manager, H. Clay Evans, Tampico, Mex., to follow in his car.

Delaying his start from Monday to Wednesday morning because of the muddy roads, Wallace was determined to be on his way regardless of the overcast sky and the chilling north wind that he was compelled to face. Wallace stated before he made his start that he did not expect to make more than twenty-five miles against the wind and would probably be compelled to spend Wednesday night somewhere in the Oklahoma Panhandle.

Much of the glamour of the start was lost because of the postponing of the leaving date, as several news reel cameramen had signified their

GREAT PLAINS HIGHWAY MEET

BIG DELEGATION FROM PERRYTON WILL ATTEND CONVENTION AT ABILENE IN MAY

ABILENE, April 8.—Widespread and enthusiastic interest in the third annual meeting of the Great Plains Highway association to be in this city May 15 and 16, is being manifested all the way up and down the road, which runs from Regina, Canada, through Perryton and Abilene, Texas, to Laredo, Texas, according to W. A. Minter of this city, a member of the board of directors of the association.

Heretofore the yearly meetings of this association have been one-day affairs, but due to the enlarged interest being shown in the road and the many things connected with it that will come up for attention, this year's convention will be a two-day one and the convention committee of the local Chamber of Commerce are planning a program of entertainment to supplement the business session of the conference so that the delegates from Canada, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and possibly from the republic of Mexico will be given a fair sample of West Texas hospitality.

Mr. Minter has recently been advised by Charles L. Hyde, Pierre, S. D., attorney, and one of the state's leading highway enthusiasts that a large delegation will come from that state for the convention.

Regina and several other cities of the province of Saskatchewan, Canada, will be represented and efforts are being made to have officials of the Calles government here to represent Mexico. The ultimate southern terminus of the Great Plains highway is Mexico City and it is the desire of the association officials to make the meeting this year an international one if possible.

FIELD MEET TO BE THIS WEEK

WAS POSTPONED LAST WEEK BECAUSE OF RAIN AND SNOW; TO BE FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

The track and literary meet scheduled for Friday and Saturday of last week was postponed to Friday and Saturday, April 13-14, because of the inclement weather.

This meet in which the rural schools of the county will compete to determine the county championship of the Interscholastic league is attracting much attention among the various contestants. Practically every school in the county will send representatives in the various events.

The home Economics department will serve lunch on the grounds conducting a stand where cold drinks and food can be obtained at all times. Tags are now being sold to help finance the meet.

A beautiful silver loving cup will be presented to the school winning the county championship and banners and individual ribbons will be presented to the winners in the various events.

intention of being present on Monday and had to be notified of the delay, but a large body of "Speedy's" Perryton friends were on hand to see him off and wish him luck.

The Herald has arranged for a special wire report on "Speedy's" progress each week during the long race against time from the southernmost state to the northern boundary of the nation. Radio fans may keep track of his progress by tuning in on station KWWG, Brownsville, Texas, broadcasting on 277 meters, every Wednesday at midnight.

Wallace is following the Great Plains highway on his trek from this city to the capitol of North Dakota. At the completion of the race he expects to issue a challenge to the winner of the C. C. Pyle coast-to-coast run for a race from the Canadian border to Mexico over the Great Plains highway. Wallace is also making the run to get into condition for the Olympic games which will be held in Amsterdam, Holland, in July, and also to try to establish new record for a cross country run.

COMMISSIONERS' COURT IN SESSION MONDAY-TUESDAY

The Commissioners' Court was in session on Monday and Tuesday of this week. The regular routine of business was all that came before the court. All of the commissioners were present. They are R. A. Puller, H. C. Brillhart, W. G. Yearly and Sam Handly. Judge J. M. Grigsby presided over the meetings of the court.

Fred Cook, Miami, Texas was a guest in the Thos. Thompson home, Wednesday.

Cecil Dodd has accepted a position with the Perryton Drug.

A REVIVAL OF HOPE.
PROSPERITY OF FARMERS.
IMPORTANT "CROP NEWS"
NATURE'S WISDOM.

There is revival of the hope that President Coolidge will consent to run for a second election this year. Everybody knows he meant it when he said, "I do not choose." Everybody knows he means it when he says now he does not want any of his friends to lift a finger to nominate him.

But the oil scandal makes a difference in the situation, and everybody of intelligence reserves the right to change his mind.

Cotton "pickers and strippers" replacing human fingers with machinery are now working in northwestern Texas.

This is good news. Prosperity for farmers depends on machinery, on using the earth's products what Ford first did with automobiles.

In the Gary rolling mill half a dozen men roll out steel rails that ten thousand could not have produced with old sledge hammer methods. No human hand touches the iron, until a tall young Scandinavian runs his keen blue eye along the finished rail and signals another man, who straightens it. Machines dig the ore, put it in ships, unload it, haul it, cold and hot.

She men, some day, will run a 1,000-acre farm, and multiply the crops by ten. Don't worry about over-population.

The infant death rate is down in Pennsylvania and New York. And that's the most important "crop news" this year.

If only civilization took as much interest in babies as it does in young calves, pigs, boll weevils and corn hoppers.

How Many Will You Save?

If your newly-arrived chicks could talk they would say: "Do not feed us until we are 72 hours old. We are supplied with food during this period by the remaining part of the egg yolk which we absorbed into our bodies just before we were hatched. When we are 72 hours old give us a feed which will provide life and growth vitamins." There are 1592 hatcheries which say, "Feed Purina." They know what it takes to keep chicks alive and growing. A new shipment of Starters is here. Tell us how many bags you want.

GEORGE HALDERMAN
(APPROXIMATE)

The world's airplane endurance record came back to America from Germany at Jacksonville Beach, Fla., when Edward Stinson and George Halderman set a new mark of 53 hours and 26 minutes 20 seconds. The new mark is 1 hour 13 minutes 20 seconds beyond the mark set last August by Johann Roder and Cornelius Edward, German flyers.

Canada has hanged George McDonald, forget, confidence man and murderer. His young wife saved from the rope by the public appeals, sent him word, "I shall never cease praying for you." She, poor woman, will have time to keep that promise in her life imprisonment. In Canada it MEANS life imprisonment.

Sparing the woman is a step toward civilization. Once thousands a year were hanged for petty crimes. Hence the expression, "as well be hanged for a sheep as a lamb." Children were hanged and quartered in Franklin's childhood.

"Civilization" has stopped hanging children, and gradually will stop hanging women, and finally will STOP HANGING. And men, associated, will see crime diminish.

Tom Wise is dead, Shepherd of the Lumber Club, and a good actor. Years ago William A. Brady asked the writer to see Tom Wise in a play called "A Gentleman from Mississippi" that Brady was producing. This writer told Brady, "You have a first class play, and there is in it a young actor playing a minor part, jumping over chairs, etc., that is going to make a success. You ought to make a contract with him." The young man's name was Douglas Fairbanks.

What Cooper wrote about the last noble red men will soon be written of the last wild horses. Not long afterward, thanks to the motor truck, will come the last of the tame horses.

THE BATTLE OF THE BUGS

By Dr. Frank Crane

In a pamphlet called "The Forest" issued by the American Tree Association are some interesting statistics about one of man's greatest enemies.

It appears that there are some two hundred thousand kinds of tree-attacking insects and that these little insects cause far greater losses to forests than do fires. If unnumbered these insects would destroy thousands of acres of valuable forests a year.

In one section of Oregon these pests have destroyed enough trees to build eight thousand homes at $10,000 each.

Birds are one of the best preventives of insects. In a way they are our best friends. Larks, thrushes, sparrows, and others, thus protecting the trees.

But man must be constantly vigilant. He must fight the pine beetle borers, timber worms, bark beetles, and the like. He must also fight the insects that attack the trees of the orchards.

The larch is the victim of the sawfly worm. The pine beetle is well at the top of the list of insect enemies. In addition to these trees have diseases, although their powers of resistance to disease are greater than their resistance to insects.

Dr. L. C. Howard says that if man does not succeed in combating insects they will destroy man.

One of the greatest insect enemies is the termite or white ant. It penetrates the wood of floors, walls and foundations. Hence we must not only fight to save the lumber, but to save the buildings.

There must be no let-up in the fight against insects.

We must either pay out more money to protect the forests or pay even more money to protect the lumber, and in the end see the forests disappear.

What has been done in forestry in the last five decades, but much remains to be done, and the care of the trees should be taught in every public school.

Who can fully describe the benefits of the forest? It is not only a

Charles Lathrop Pack, who has devoted his life to the trees, and spent much money at this work, deserves great credit.

Every town ought to have a municipal forest in its environment and ought to do something for the trees of the country.

END OF TALK

The United States census shows a great variety of articles manufactured in Texas from artificial limbs to structural iron. The total value is $1,273,824.48.

Texas is the second state in California in production of pecans. The mining is done in Brewster and Presidio counties.

The crops of the United States in 1927 were valued at $10,000,000,000 more than they were in 1926. Of this increase, Texas provided $100,000,000, or 1.25 per cent.

Texas produced in crop value in 1927 77.3 per cent of the total crop value of Iowa and California.

A REVIVAL OF HOPE. PROSPERITY OF FARMERS. IMPORTANT "CROP NEWS" NATURE'S WISDOM.

There is revival of the hope that President Coolidge will consent to run for a second election this year. Everybody knows he meant it when he said, "I do not choose." Everybody knows he means it when he says now he does not want any of his friends to lift a finger to nominate him.

But the oil scandal makes a difference in the situation, and everybody of intelligence reserves the right to change his mind.

Cotton "pickers and strippers," replacing human fingers with machinery, are now working in northwestern Texas.

This is good news. Prosperity for farmers depends on machinery, on doing with the earth's products what Ford, first, did with automobiles.

In the Gary rolling mill half a dozen men roll out steel rails that ten thousand could not have produced with old sledge hammer methods. No human hand touches the iron, until a tall young Scandinavian runs his keen blue eye along the finished rail and signals another man, who straightens it. Machines dig the ore, put it in ships, unload it, handle it, cold and hot.

Six men, some day, will run a 1,000-acre farm, and multiply its crops by ten. Don't worry about over-population.

The infant death rate is down in Pennsylvania and New York. And that's the most important "crop news" this year.

If only civilization took as much interest in babies as it does in young calves, pigs, boll weevil and corn borer.

How Many Will You Save?

IF your newly-arrived chicks could talk they would say: "Do not feed us until we are 72 hours old. We are supplied with food during this period by the remaining part of the egg yolks which we absorbed into our bodies just before we were hatched. When we are 72 hours old give us a feed which will provide life and growth vitamins." There are 1592 hatcheries which say, "Feed Purina." They know what it takes to keep chicks alive and growing. A new shipment of Startena is here. Tell us how many bags you want.

Set New Air Mark

EDWARD STINSON
GEORGE HALDEMAN
The world's airplane endurance record came back to America from Germany at Jacksonville Beach, Fla., when Edward Stinson and George Haldeinan set a new mark of 53 hours and 36 minutes 30 seconds. This new mark is 1 hour 13 minutes 59 seconds beyond the mark set last August by Johann Kistritz and Cornelius Edzard, German flyers.

chickens. The carcasses are worth $3 each.

A big candy factory is closed in New York called "a menace to health" by Commissioner Harris.

Buy pure candies from shops and manufacturers with established reputations. All sorts of trash is fed to children. A certain clay mixed and flavored and a little inferior chocolate is sold for pure chocolate. That crime should mean twenty years in jail.

EXTRA! MOUNTED POLICE TABOO IN NORTHERN FIRM

"Mantrap," which comes to the American Theatre Friday and Saturday, is a distinctly new kind of Canadian woods story. For one thing, it has no northwest mounted police. Secondly, it deals with the woods in mid-summer, when they are the paradise of campers and vacationers, and not, with three feet of snow.

In fact, the whole story, which is

THE BATTLE OF THE BUGS

By Dr. Frank Crane

In a pamphlet called The Forest Primer, issued by the American Tree Association, are some interesting statistics about one of man's greatest enemies.

It appears that there are some two hundred thousand kinds of tree-attacking insects and that these little insects cause far greater losses to forests than do fires.

If unhindered these insects would destroy thousands of acres of valuable forests a year.

In one section of Oregon these pests have destroyed enough trees to build eight thousand homes at $10,000 each.

Birds are one of the best preventives of insects. In a way they are our best friends. Some insects prey upon others, thus protecting the trees.

But man must be constantly vigilant. He must fight the pine beetles, borers, timber worms. Bark beetles attack the trees of the Adirondacks.

The larch is the victim of the sawfly worm. The pine beetle is well at the top of the list of insects enemies.

In addition to these trees have diseases, although their powers of resistance to disease are greater than their resistance to insects.

Dr. L. O. Howard says that if man does not succeed in combating insects they will destroy man.

One of the greatest insect enemies is the termite or white ant. It penetrates the wood of floors, walls and foundations. Hence we must not only fight to save the lumber, but to save the buildings.

There must be no let-up in the fight against insects.

We must either pay out more money to protect the forests or pay ever-increasing prices for lumber, and in the end see the forests disappear.

Much has been done in forestry in the last five decades, but much remains to be done, and the care of the trees should be taught in every public school.

Who can fully describe the benefits of the tree? It is not only a by Sinclair Lewis, the author of "Main Street," "Babbitt" and "Arrowsmith," is unusual throughout. A distinctly novel type of love story predominates, with Clara Bow as the girl, and Ernest Torrence and Percy Marmont the men. Paramount's latest production was directed by Victor Fleming.

thing of beauty that enhances the landscape, but it is useful. We get from it the material for our houses, for many of our utensils, and for many other useful things.

Charles Lathrop Pack, who has devoted his life to the trees, and spent much money at this work, deserves great credit.

Every town ought to have a municipal forest in its environments and ought to do something for the trees of the country.

KNOW TEXAS

The United States census shows a great variety of articles manufactured in Texas from artificial limbs to structural iron. The total value is $1,237,952,469.

Texas is the second only to California in production of mercury. The mining is done in Brewster and Presidio counties.

The crops of the United States in 1927 were valued at $676,388,000 more than they were in 1926. Of this increase, Texas provided $103,244,900, or 15.2 per cent.

Texas produced in crop values in 1927, 77.9 per cent of the total crop value of Iowa and California.

$31,500 IN ART LEAGUE PRIZES

LARGEST PRIZE MONEY EVER OFFERED BY SAN ANTONIO ART LEAGUE; OPEN TO ALL ARTISTS

What is believed to be the largest prize money ever offered for a competition in art has been announced by the San Antonio Art League.

Through the generosity of an anonymous member, of the League cash prizes totaling $31,500 have been posted for the best oils on Texas wildflowers, in two groups, and for oils on the themes of ranch life and cotton fields.

Prizes will be awarded in five classifications: first, for landscapes or still life in oils, based upon the theme of Texas wildflowers, for which cash prizes aggregating $13,000 are offered, with $3,000 as the first prize in this group.

Second: Oils based upon the theme of ranch life, for which five prizes, aggregating $7,500 are offered. The third group provides for oils on the theme of cotton fields, with an equal number of prizes, also totaling $7,500.

A first prize of $1,000 cash, with a second prize of $750, a third of $500, and a fourth of $250, are offered in the fourth classification, for oils based upon the theme of Texas wildflowers. Only artists resident Texas are eligible for prizes in the fourth group. All the foregoing are purchase prizes. In addition, $1,000 will be distributed in ten honorable mentions of $100 each. These are not purchase prizes.

The handsome prizes offered are attracting artists of national reputation of Texas. Many are already busy transferring to canvases the glowing flood of color now spreading in an ever widening pool of beauty across the prairies of Texas.

The prize money for 1929 is more than double that offered by the same anonymous donor for the second Little Rock, Ark., as winner of the contest which ended in February of this year with Adrain Brewer of first prize with "In a Bluebonnet Year". The judges Ellsworth Woodward of New Orleans, Abbott Graves and Alpheus Sole of New York gave second place in the first group to William P. Silva's "Wild Poppies on the Creek Bank".

Jose Arpa of San Antonio won third place and $1,500 cash. There were nearly a dozen winners in the "four groups, in addition to the ten "honorable mentions" each carrying a cash prize of $100.

Details of the 1929 competition, which offers twenty-one cash purchase prizes, in addition to ten honorable mentions of $100 cash each, may be procured from the San Antonio Art League, Witte Memorial Museum, according to announcement form the League.

UNION SCHOOL NOTES

On Monday night Union will organize a P. T. A., and all are urged to be present.

Freshman Party

On March 13, the Freshman class was given a party at the home of

Tunney's Choice

Tom Heene, whom Gene Tunney prefers to meet rather than any other aspirant for the heavy-weight title. Having recently defeated Jack Delaney, Heene is probably the most logical opponent for Gene Tunney. He came from Australia some fourteen months ago, practically unknown. It is rumored he will fight Tunney next July.

Willie Sargent. The guests began arriving about seven o'clock, and the last ones came about seven-thirty. Some one immediately started the player piano, and there was plenty of music until some one suggested going outside and play games. Later we played rook and dominoes and listened to the music. Sandwiches, cake and lemonade were served about eleven, which enabled everyone to get home by twelve. A fine time was had by the following Freshmen: Alice Allen, Lorene Jamison, Retha Morgan, Ilene Williams, Opal Eads, Stella Lile, Willie Sargent, William Pattison, Bruce Johnson, Jesse Eads, Clyde Jamison and Emmet Pittman. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Sargent; Carl, Earl, Roy and Mary Sargent; Vita Stewart, Nellie Eads, Paul Williams, Dewitt Harris, and Mr. and Mrs. France.

High School Picnic

Friday, March 23, the high school went for a picnic on Clear Creek. We left the school house about 12:30 and arrived at our destination about 1:30. The first thing we did when we arrived was to eat five gallons of ice cream. After finding a suitable place for playing baseball, our team played the outsiders. Our team was victorious. After the ball game, we found a place to spread our supper. We soon found that some of the things had been left at the school house. Mr. France went to Beaver to get some more and it was about sundown when we ate. After eating our supper and about three gallons of ice cream we started home. About four miles from Blue Mound, Willie Sargent had an accident, but no one was hurt. Although the car was damaged very much. Every one says they had a fine time and wish to go again soon.

Surprise Party

On March 9, a birthday surprise party on Crawford Sims was held at the J. W. Sim's home. The boys were to bring some fruit and the girls cake or candy. The crowd was entertained by rook, forty-two and pitch. When refreshments were served the boys and girls were paired according to size. Those present were: Helen Pittman, Stella Lile, Ruby Kuyken, Jeanetta Brown, Glays Phelps, Rhoda Phelps, Clarice Griffith, Ilene Williams, Retha Morgan, Vita Stewart, Lewis Bryan, John Apple, Willie Sargent, Wendall Pittman, Emmet Pittman, Cecil Watson, Crawford Sims, Dwight Sims and Mr. and Mrs. John France. After supper, games were played out doors in the moonlight. At a late hour we decided we had better go home. Everyone reported a very good time and hoped Crawford would have many more such happy birthdays.

At school election, March 27, G. S. Sargent was re-elected to the office of Clerk.

At six o'clock, April 3, Union had the honor of serving lunch to the Woodward delegation of the new Highway under consideration.

Our tennis teams were at Beaver for the Beaver spring meet. V. Willson took Donald Hohn, Bill Pattison and William Gray to the meet.

Play

Our basket ball play, "Too Much Mother-in-Law," given April 3, was a great success. The proceeds amounted to $38.10, less $4.50 for expenses. Following is the cast of characters: Professor John B. Wise, Jesse Skeen; Mrs. Iona Ford, Jenetta Brown; Jupiter, Paul Williams; Dr. Mathew Graham, Bill Pattison; June Graham, Gladys Phelps; Zoie Ford, Arlean Pattison; Rosaland Wilson, Gladys Phelps and Billie Blake, Donald Hahn. Each part was a credit to the performers. Each was admirably suited to the part portrayed. We are very proud of the basket ball boys and girls. The play was under the direction of Mrs. John J. France. The proceeds of this play will be applied as a payment on the basket-ball suits.

Hints for the Home

by Nancy Hart

By Nancy Hart
Welcome the new tinted damasks, all ye housekeepers! The lesser crinkles and spots that afflict the family table pass almost unnoticed on these charming colored cloths—and this means a great saving of labor, especially where there are little folks.

The pastel tints of the new linens bring a delightful note of color into the dining room, where we appreciate cheerful appointments more than in any other room.

Picture a primrose yellow cloth, pale sea green or amethyst cloth as a background for your flowered china. Tempting—isn't it?

Preserving Brooms and Toothbrushes
Soak a new broom in hot salt water. The bristles become stronger and wear longer. New toothbrushes soaked in hot salt water will last twice as long.

For Burns and Insect Bites
Use damp salt to kill the pain of burns, bee stings, insect bites, rash and hives. Moisten the affected part immediately after a burn or sting and cover with a thick paste of salt. This will remove the pain and soreness.

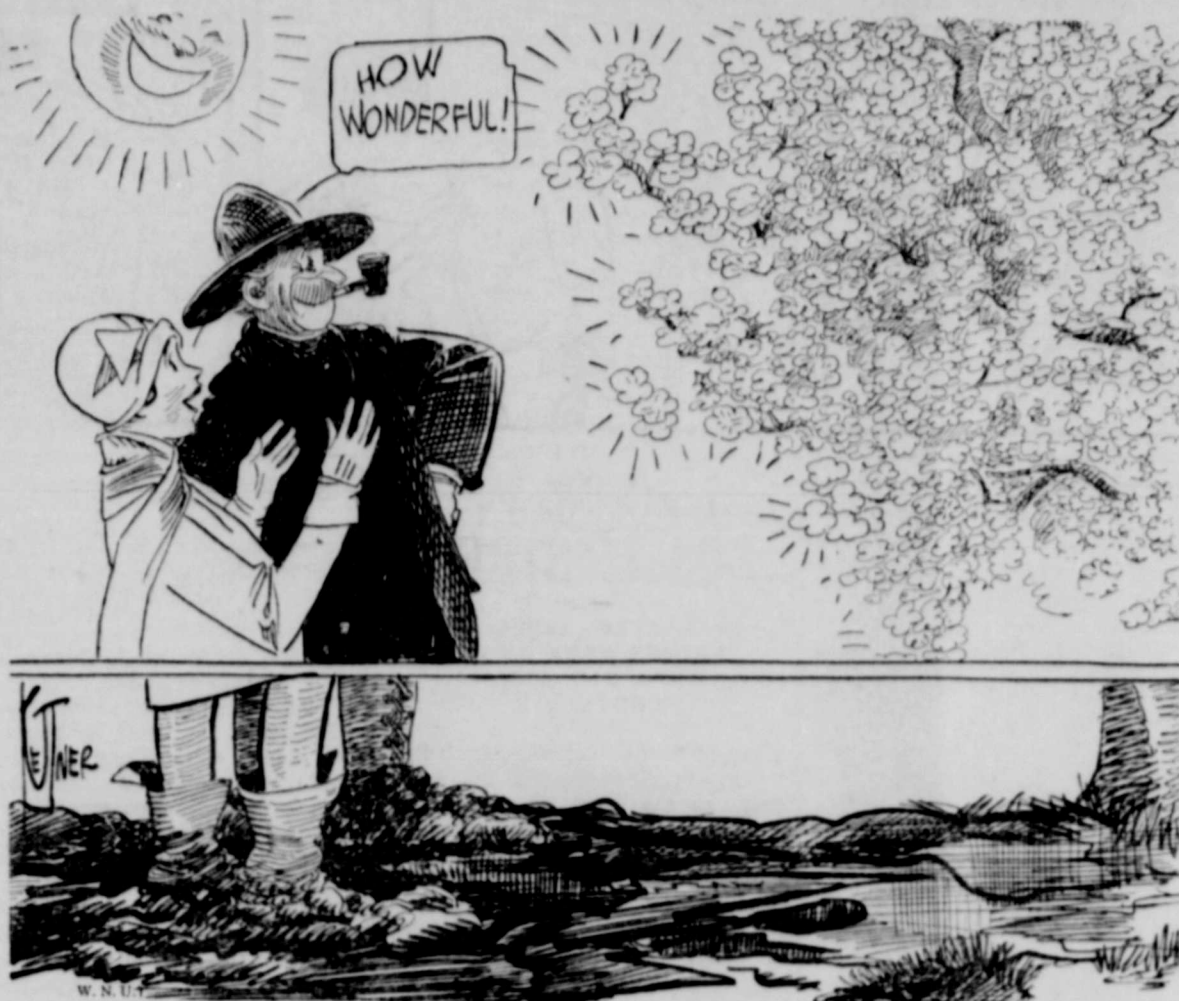

For Gardeners
A little salt added to the water in which they are kept will make cut flowers keep longer. Strong brine around quince trees will use them to grow and bear in a remarkable way. Salt strewn over paragon beds, generously, will kill weeds and serve as fertilizer.

Obnoxious weeds may be killed by covering the stalks with salt. It sprinkled over the ground will keep down weeds. Snails and earthworms can be killed by sprinkling it on the sidewalks and damp corners where they thrive.

How to Clean Silver at Once
Fill a big enameled ware kettle with water, adding to each quart teaspoon salt and 1 of baking soda. Boil water, placing in bottom of kettle a piece of new aluminum ware such as a pie tin or lid. Dip silver in water so each piece touches the aluminum or another piece of silver in contact with it. Boil 5 minutes, remove silver to a strainer, wash off tarnish and dry.

HARVEST OF FIFTY MILLION ACRES SHIPPED OUT
The output of approximately 50,000,000 acres of American farm land is represented in last year's export of cotton, wheat, wheat flour, rye and rye, according to an estimate by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the

Glorious Spring

Commerce Department, announced today by Dr. Julius Klein, director. Official figures give the combined value of these exports during 1927 as $1,226,266,945. It is estimated that from 112,000,000 to 120,000,000 acres were required to produce the entire crop of these commodities.

In announcing the estimate, prepared on request, Dr. Klein pointed out that the export acreage figures would be increased materially if consideration was given to other leading commodities, such as tobacco, corn, corn fed pork, and cotton textiles.

Nearly 9,500,000 bales of cotton, valued at $826,099,000, found their way into foreign countries during 1927. It is estimated that it required about 30,000,000 acres of land to produce just the raw cotton exports.

During the calendar year 1927 export trade in wheat, flour, barley and rye amounted to 8,337,000 short tons, representing the production of about 20,000,000 acres.

The largest share of the cotton was shipped to Germany, that country taking about 2,611,000 bales, valued at $230,695,000. The United Kingdom imported 1,694,000 bales valued at $140,167,000 while Japan, the third ranking country in our cotton export trade, took 1,437,000 bales. France followed with 945,000; Italy, 670,000; Russia, 475,000; Spain, 315,000; British India, 262,000; Belgium, 268,000; Canada, 264,000; China, 243,000; and the Netherlands, 135,000.

Flour exports during 1927 represented 12,826,000 barrels. In addition to the acreage and farm labor represented by this figure export shipments of flour also involve the labor of more than 3,000 men working in over 450 average sized mills every working day of the year. Export trade in the flour represents over ten per cent of the country's entire flour trade. Our largest flour markets are the United Kingdom, the Netherlands, Cuba, China, Brazil, Germany and the Philippines.

The bulk of the export of wheat grain during 1927 found its way to the principal European countries such as the United Kingdom, Netherlands, Italy, Germany, France, Belgium, Greece and the Irish Free State. Imported buyers out side of Europe were Japan and Brazil.

It is interesting to note, according to Dr. Klein, that from 200,000 to 250,000 freight cars were necessary to haul the flour and grain products to seaboard for shipment to foreign markets.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith and son and Mrs. Joe Smith of the McMillen community were trading in Perryton Monday.

Mrs. Jarvis Kershaw is slowly improving from a severe attack of tonsillitis.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kelly came in

INTO RACE FOR COMMISSIONER

WALTER KEIM WILL OPPOSE SAM HANDLY IN SOUTH-EAST PRECINCT FOR COMMISSIONER

We are this week authorized to announce Walter Keim as a candidate for Commissioner from Precinct 4, the southeast quarter of the county. Sam Handly, the present Commissioner from this precinct, is a candidate for re-election. Mr. Keim is announcing for this office subject to the action of the voters at the Democratic primary to be held on Saturday, July 28.

Mr. Keim is one of our most successful farmers and stock raisers. He has been a resident of the county since 1915, moving here from Missouri. He has been a land owner in the county since 1906. Up until about two years ago he resided in the west part of the county. Then he purchased the ranch where he now lives on Wolf Creek.

There is no question as to Mr. Keim's qualifications to the office for which his many friends have induced him to run. He is a man that has made a success of his business and men of his character and ability are the kind that are needed to administer the business affairs of the county. He is worthy of your support and consideration and will appreciate the vote of the people of his precinct.

Harry Lightcap, Borger, Texas, was here the latter part of last week looking after the interests of his company, The American Central Life Insurance Co. of Galveston, Texas. Mr. Lightcap is well known to many Perryton people. He was with the Citizens' National Bank at Liberal for about ten years, serving his connections with that institution about a year ago. Mr. Lightcap has a district agency for the American Central, his territory including the greater part of the north Panhandle. He will probably establish permanent headquarters in Perryton.

Joe B. Bockman, Roswell, N. M. came in Tuesday for a short visit with friends in Perryton.

GIRL FOUND IN BORGER STREET

E. C. CARVER FINDS HALF-FROZEN BODY OF 17-YEAR OLD GIRL SUNDAY EVE

(Borger Herald, Monday, April 9)
A young girl, 17 years of age, was found at the point of death two doors south of the Alamo Service Station last night at 10 o'clock by E. C. Carver, of the Wilson-Carver Funeral home who had been searching for a puppy that had wandered away.

Upon approaching the alley, Carver observed a bundle of what appeared to be a person, and after calling help from the service station, it was revealed that the girl was almost frozen to death. She was rushed to Malone's hospital and after she had been revived told officials that she had been struck by an automobile. Physicians could find no evidence of injuries.

EDUCATION IN THE HOME

By Mrs. W. I. Whitsel, Canadian. As chairman of the committee of education in the home, I expect to promote the following objectives: Information—to intelligently inform ourselves of the home's most vital needs.

Education—Organize children's book week, and follow it up by the year round recreational committee as an outgrowth of book week.

Book clubs—each child establish his or her own library by earning their own money, the first to be "A Book to My Mother," and autographed with a favorite quotation. Encourage summer book clubs.

The main objective for 1928-1929 is the promise of world friendliness through children's reading. Keep books from children that may in any way have a tendency to form thoughts of race prejudice or misunderstanding, hate, etc. Instead thereof let us plant the seed of love, respect and confidence. Emerson said, "Many times the reading of a book has made the future of a man."

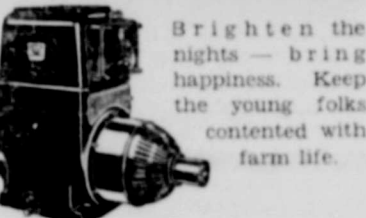

Amusement—to make the home the social center for our children and their companions. Give time to wholesome games, also the daily hour for reading and good music.

Parental love—the home is the solution for about everything that ails the United States today. Take the home seriously, make it first in everything, give time to it; read to the children; see that they read to you; make the home fine morally; know where the young people are at night, and with whom they are.

Sacredness—be mindful of the sacredness of the old family altar—where the dear father and mother held services at the beginning of each new day.

Slogan—everything done for the cause of education in the home reflects its own reward.

FAIRBANKS-MORSE Home Light Plant

Brighten the nights—bring happiness. Keep the young folks contented with farm life.

White House Lumber Co. Perryton, Texas

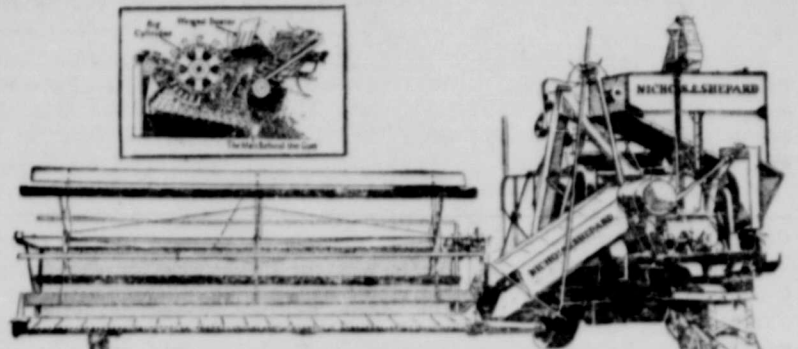

Mrs. G. B. Mears and daughters, Mrs. Arthur Morgan and Miss Lora Mae Mears, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Maulsby, Monday.

RED HAIR AND BLUE SEA

by
STANLEY R. OSBORN
ILLUSTRATIONS BY HENRY JAY LEE
COPYRIGHT BY CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

The yacht was pushing on at her best pace, setting up such a lively stir at her prow as to achieve the small, private rainbow for which she had been named.

Burke and Palmyra were on deck—Burke was quizzically regarding the pensive Palmyra.

As though defining her very thoughts, he spoke.

"Excuse me, Miss, he said, "Those others—" a slightly contemptuous gesture. "They're tame. That's what—tame. But you? Why, you're different. You're wasn't intended for their little of birdcage kind of life. Nature meant you for something lively-like, something up and doing."

The girl laughed. "Nature," she said, "meant me for a pirate. It's in my blood," she affirmed. "First, a Norseman ravaging the coasts of England. Then, a British admiral ravaging everything else. And lastly, old Captain Ebenezer, with John Paul Jones, descending once more upon the coasts of England."

Burke grinned in admiration.

The girl turned to go; then paused, laughing back at him over her shoulder. "You Ponape Burke," she said; "you and I—I'm afraid we were born too late."

At the rate the Rainbow was sailing, it was evident the yacht must soon make a landfall. Indeed, already eyes were peering through powerful glasses seeking for the first shadowy silhouette of the peaks of Oahu.

On the Rainbow raised the panorama of dead craters that stands, rather barren, above the verdant town of Honolulu, none upon her decks was so expectant as Palmyra Tree. For from the chaff of Ponape Burke's narration she had winnowed the clean grain of beauty and romance that is the life of this island world of the palm tree. Her imagination was a glow.

Through the gateway of Honolulu she was to sail on into this world where happiness is queen.

She was to sail across the trackless sea as those brown mariners of old.

As the girl, thus deep in reverie stood watching the distant peaks, she became aware of a presence at her side. Turning, she started upon encountering the brown man Olive.

He gave tongue to a few syllables, paused perplexed, then fell back upon pantomime. The hour of departure had come. Soon Burke and he would go over the side and, forever into oblivion.

Palmyra smiled. She tried to overcome her aversion, to respond to his attempted farewell. As he had done, she moved to speak, found herself helpless, returned the smile.

The brown man, thus countenanced, laid the square finger upon her own breast. Having thus identified the girl as the being of the drama, he raised his hand, with extended arm, straight over his head. She thought he invoked the One above. But she gave this up when she saw that he wagged, fluttered the fingers.

When she shook her head, regretfully, he abandoned the upraised hand as futile. He brought out a ring. Palmyra Tree had never seen such a ring; tortoise shell inlaid with silver. There were letters on it; seemingly one word, thrice repeated and separated by discs—the word "N-I."

Olive pointed to the letters, then to the girl and, once more held aloft the hand with the moving fingers. But again she shook her head.

The brown man stood baffled. Then, grinning anew, he hurried away forward.

The savage, presently returning thrust into the girl's hand a lithograph, and advertisement of Egyptian cigarettes.

He pointed to the silver letters of the ring and pronounced the word "Ni" then to her with a second "Ni," and to the picture with a third. He dropped the ring into her fingers.

At last the girl who was named Palmtree understood. For there in the advertisement was a palmtree. The upraised hand had symbolized the palm—herself. Olive but sought to give her a ring with her name upon it.

When the hour of leaving came, however, he seemed to have re-entered the silence, and the farewells developed upon Ponape Burke. As this little stowaway reached her in his round he achieved a simple eloquence of feeling. "You've been kind time, miss," he said. "I ain't a-going t'forget it. Nor you."

She shook hands with an unassuming friendliness. "I'm sure," she said, "we shall see you again."

Sharply he glanced at her, as if eager to know whether she really had such a hope. Then he shrugged, island-wise. "It's a large ocean lady. With you and me it's just lights passing in the dark; a hail, and then—nothing."

A minute later Palmyra's pirates were swinging over the side into their boat.

Burke raised his hat jauntily. But it was rather at the savage the girl looked. Over the white man's shoulder he seemed to be watching her to the end with that strangely expressionless but intent stare.

Palmyra faced abruptly away and snatched the ring from her finger. "Yes," she whispered, "I'm certainly glad to have seen the last of him."

One short week ashore and the good ship Rainbow was at sea again. Bound she was now for the heart of Oceania, the Equatorial isles of Micronesia. As the yacht was to put John Thurston aboard a Philippine transport at Guam, only a little southing, said the hostess, would take them in among the Gilberts, the Marshalls, the Carolines, that Milky Way of atolls along the Line, of which Ponape Burke had talked so alluringly.

What Mrs. Crawford did not explain was that the real duty, as she saw it, lay in depriving Thurston's long legs of a chance, in this less cramped setting of Honolulu, to snap back to perspective.

By rejecting both her lovers—Van shortly after John—Palmyra had gained a reprieve from that question as to whether she were in love with one man or just dandy good pals with two.

The peaks of Oahu sank back into the moana, the deep, deep ocean, whence they had risen. One day, two days, four, six upon a temperamental sea; a whole week of heavy skies and rain and storm seemed to have carried the girl no further.

A second week came and went; a week of summer sea and lusty trades and flying yacht. But still no answer.

The third week came and neared its end. Intermittent now the breeze for they touched the equatorial zone of light and variable airs. A whole day through, perhaps, the Rainbow would scarcely move.

Slowly, unconsciously, Palmyra had been responding to the conditions created by the wily Mrs. Crawford. As the breeze, with each knot of westing, had been sinking more dangerously into the doldrums, the breath of her on feeling had stirred, risen fresh, fair, constant, until it reached the deep sweep of a maiden's first acknowledged love. Gladly she was confessing it now this belated recognition of love for the man of her parents' choice. Van Buren Rutger.

And she must have treated John Thurston abominably. With each moment that she gave herself more convincingly up to love, her pity for Thurston grew.

But when, on the twenty-second evening out from Honolulu—tomorrow they were to sight their first atoll—the hour came for the formal announcement of her betrothal, the girl was radiantly happy.

True, at the moment when Mrs. Crawford spoke, it was upon the face of John Thurston that Palmyra's eyes rested, and she could but wince at the flash of pain there revealed. But no girl in love can, on her betrothal night, long be unhappy over the face of a rejected suitor.

So it was, that night, as Palmyra lay asleep in her stateroom, her body gently moving with the lift and fall of the yacht in the mid-Pacific calm, there was a tender smile upon her lips.

And the tender smile was still lingering, in an alluring warmth and sweetness and beauty, when the lightning, caught all unaware by a sudden squall, came down with a crash upon the teeth of a reef—that should not have been there.

On the craft such as the Rainbow investigation naturally centers about the navigation.

What better then for Mrs. Crawford in her amiable intrigue than to set up Van Buren Rutger as a gentleman navigator? How more pleasantly important than, handsome, graceful, jaunty in his white uniform he poised with sextant to take the sun or bent over the charts with Constance and the Wampolds and Palmyra?

In so featuring Van as a yachtman—he was no more than a fairly competent amateur—the hostess had meant that Pedersen in the background should unostentatiously check up on his work at every point.

But the sailing master was a man vain, self-important, jealous of his prerogatives, touchy as to his dignity.

Not understanding Mrs. Crawford's motive, he chose to regard the arrangement as an imputation upon his seamanship, his fitness—which he himself doubted—longer to command.

Van soon discovered then that this sick and sulky old man was only making an outward show; in reality having nothing whatever to do with the navigation, leaving the fate of the yacht absolutely in Van's hands.

A certain inability to take a stand in anything unpleasant, difficult, to make up his mind and act in an emergency, kept Van at first from telling the hostess. Later he continued with an object. He knew she did not truly rely on him in this showy fraud of navigation; he suspected Palmyra was not deceived. Knowing his own weakness, he had the weak man's fear of seeing that knowledge reflecting in the faces of others. Therefore, he would without aid, sail the Rainbow to and through the Line islands groups. And then, when at last he told the girl, she could not but admire his performance.

On the night of the wreck, Van really heroic in persisting against a quaking unconfidence that kept him often awake—had stolen on deck in the mid-watch to reassure himself. His first glance told him the clouds were gathering for a squall.

Like most unadventurous persons, Van rebelled at being thought timid. Before rousing the watch he paused to make sure the clouds meant wind. As he studied the sky he gradually became aware of a low sound as of an express train far away. Startled, he swept the sea; then laughed in self-contempt.

More than once lately in dreams or waking he had sprung up at the fancied sound of surf. The yacht should not have land aboard until late the next day. To call out there was an island a-lee, if there were none, would be to make himself absurd.

Strating now up at the blackening sky, again off into the gloom of sea, he stood, balanced in suspense between his fear of storm and leishore, and his dread of ridicule. For this first time Van held life and death in his hands—and could not decide what to do.

The sound of surf being at its minimum after two days' calm, the first breath of the squall was upon the yacht before Van was galvanized into action by discovering, broad on the port bow a dim low-lying something against the sky—the silhouette of palms.

Thus even as the doomed Rainbow thus lay between hammer and anvil, she could have been extricated had not Captain Pedersen himself gone to pieces.

In the precious remaining moments a bewildered crew tried to execute incoherent orders, while the yacht was beaten down upon the waiting coral.

Following the crash upon the reef, Thurston picked himself up and scrambled to the deck just as a sea came roaring aboard. Saved by a spring into the rigging he waited a chance to reach Pedersen, whose condition he had sensed. Seizing the sailing master he whirled him round.

"You're drunk," he cried. "Or, or crazy."

The other quailed under the steely light in Thurston's eye.

"Get below."

"I'll take charge," Thurston announced.

The pumps showed that the wreck was taking water badly. Such boats as could be launched were got ready. The men obeyed unquestioningly. They liked, respected Thurston. He knew little of ships but they recognized in his voice the quality of command.

During the hours which followed it might have seemed to Palmyra that the wreck had been arranged for the sole purpose of bringing out the difference between John Thurston and Van Buren Rutger.

Where Van was sunk in self-accusing misery, Thurston's spirits were buoyant. The man was serene, methodical, busy. And he had action at last; intense, vital. In fighting to save the woman he loved he could forget, for the moment, that he had lost her forever.

Where Van was soon sicken with fatigue, John seemed fresher with every hour.

It had been decided to leave the women in the cabin where they had been penned, rather than risk the ugly surf that broke about the after companion.

But Van, in his self-accusing frenzy, was conscious only that he had placed, his betrothed in the hands of death, that he must save her.

He rushed toward the cabin companionway. Before anyone noticed, he had thrown open the face of another sea. A second later he was swept down its steps by the flooding water.

Catching up Palmyra he struggled back out again on the deck. Only then, at a warning cry did he seem consciously to perceive what force it was that delivered these blows. Stopping short, he looked back. A crest reared above the wreck, gathering itself like some animate beast for the spring. Van, horror-stricken, started one way; another, stood, frozen in his tracks.

In an instant the sea would have been upon him. From the slippery listing deck both man and girl would in all chance, have been carried overboard to death.

In the blinding roar, all she knew was that Van's arms were round her, that he held her safe. Never did she suspect it was another pair of arms she owed her life.

Of all these revelations, these manifestations of the weakness of Van Buren Rutger, the strength of John Thurston, the girl noted none. On the night of her betrothal she would scarcely have been like, under any circumstances, to draw comparisons. And here darkness and groping confusion and the voice of waters conspired with Thurston himself to hide the truth.

Palmyra's love weathered the storm, unquestioning, serene.

FIFTY-EIGHT PRIZE TRIPS

SANTA FE AGAIN OFFERS 58 TRIPS TO HIGH RANKING 4-H CLUB BOYS AND GIRLS IN 1928

Seven states will profit by the offer of the Santa Fe railroad company to provide 58 prize education trips to 4-H club girls and boys to make the best records this year crop, livestock, and poultry projects in counties traversed by the Santa Fe railroad.

These trips will take the winners state champions in their projects to the seventh National Boys' and Girls' Club Congress to be held in Chicago in December.

Texas receives nineteen trips. Eligible contestants must come from counties having a full time agricultural extension agent operating under the direction of the agricultural college.

This offer not only makes it possible for 58 outstanding 4-H club girls and boys to visit Chicago and world-famed business and educational institutions at the time of the Club Congress, but also to become acquainted with 1,200 other girls and boys from all parts of the United States who are endeavoring through 4-H club work to develop their heads, their hearts, their hands, and their health in their quest for better farming and conditions.

For six years the Santa Fe railroad officials, realizing the worth of the 4-H clubs to agricultural progress along their lines, and throughout the entire country and wishing to encourage the 4-fold spirit which makes for leadership and citizenship, have offered such prize trips to club boys and girls, realizing that it is the time to begin prize winning projects, are carefully studying by beef, chicken and pig diets, and are learning from literature furnished through the state colleges the best authorities of the country to care for their livestock and poultry. And club members are entering carefully selected seed for prize winning crops of corn, cotton, barley, rye, oats, and other grains.

Nineteen club members from this state will be chosen. Will you be one?

Transfiguration and Service
Text: Mark 9:2-29
Difficulties will be settled as we see the divine purpose in the transfiguration. Jesus had just confessed as "the Son of the God." The scene in the confirms His newly revealed deity. Peter had just suggested that Jesus should not go to cross. The Transfiguration that all heaven was behind the program and that His death would be the result of weakness. His part, but a divine vision fulfilling of all Scripture. Earn also from this scene the relation between His present and the prior dispensations, side by side in perfect unity. Moses, the representative law, Elijah, representing the prophets, and the Son of God, representing the kingdom of grace, kingdom, though revealed in phases, is but one. We see solemnity and instructive history by dissecting things into many compartments, and that they stand unrelated. Earn also from this scene that some of those stand with Him would presently see the kingdom of God in power. This filled in what was witnessed on mount. He takes with Him James and John and lead them up into a high mountain. The world's profoundest have often been put in the of a few men. So in this there was an inner circle of up of those most capable standing. The same three returned with Him in Gethsemane and should have been forewarned by what they beheld on the mount. How few there be who can stand in the inner circle, and apprehend the deep things of probable location of this as Mt. Hermon, 10,000 feet the highest point in Palestine. The scene is covered with snow the year, and our text says: "The snow." Nature's own whiteness of art. "Transfiguration" means a change and remarkable change, not merely an outward such as might have been by a spot-light thrown on three, but a substantial change. The word "metamorphosis" comes from the same root, and "shining" signifies "glorified" (used only here), a term to the gleaming of highly metals. It was an illumination, not a mere reflection inherent deity shining could not have chosen the appropriate companions as Moses and Elijah. They were two most admired by the other had been admitted to the presence of Jehovah at Mt. Sinai. Both are said to have fasted, as did Christ also, and were messengers to kings. A took Elijah away. Michael strove with the devil body of Moses. He talked with Jesus about His sacrifice on Calvary, the to which Peter had pre-jected. As envoys of the Father, they audibly affirmed that the for which He had come in-into the world was to shed His blood. The Transfiguration should have shown them that they had prophecy. There must first be a dying Messiah, and then a resurrection. The great truth taught by the Transfiguration. It puts the cross at the very center of the Savior's in His first advent. For He came into the world. It added with the radiant firm-ness of God's promises and Old Testament prophecies. The very God emerges from heaven to the cross, as much as "You're all wrong in looking at the Davidic throne now," says "I came to take a ransom."

An idea struck Peter—as usual. "Let us make three tabernacles" (v. 5). We find ourselves in some enjoyable situation and we say: "Let's make this permanent—let's have our tomorrow like our today." It cannot be. Be glad for these mountain experiences, but never mind about building tabernacles for them. Down in the valley, the cries of the helpless are ringing out. We must go down and deal with the world as it is. You'll not lose your joy by going into the valley of service. It will become "sweeter as the days go by."

The issue is settled by a voice from heaven: "This is my beloved Son, hear Him" (literally: "My Son—the beloved"). Immediately when the Son is pointed out as the Supreme One, the others vanish. They saw no man any more save Jesus (v. 8). How hard it is for us to learn to listen. The world is full of other voices. Let Jesus settle every question.

As the disciples came down the mountain, they asked: "Why say the scribes that Elias must first come?" (v. 11). "Elias verily cometh first," replied Jesus, "and restoreth all things ('sets all things in order'). Elias is indeed come." They had just seen him on the mount in person, and furthermore had failed to see in the person and ministry of John the Baptist, the one coming in "the Spirit and power of Elijah" (cf. Jn. 1:19-23; Lk. 1:17).

Verses 14-29 tell us of the important disciples who had remained in the valley while these things were taking place on the mount. Here they were surrounded by a crowd of scoffing people, and "scribes questioning with them" (v. 14). A had possessed of an evil spirit had been brought for deliverance and these disciples had failed to help him. Note Jesus' words: "O faithless generation." It was not a public rebuke for His disciples, for He spoke with them later in private (vs. 28-29). The greatest hindrance was the unbelief of the crowd (v. 23). They had too many "ifs" (v. 22). Jesus put the "if" where it belonged (v. 23).

"Lord, I believe; help Thou mine unbelief." The lad's father saw the point. He was wrong in challenging Christ's power or His willingness. When he comes face to face with Jesus he discovers the depths of unbelief in his own heart. The answer to his prayer came at once.

Let us not miss the Savior's words of caution to His own disciples in secret. "This kind cometh forth by nothing but by prayer and fasting" (v. 29). There will be lack of spiritual power where there is imperfect spiritual communion and where the body is allowed too much license. Too many Christian workers pamper and serve the body. They do not want to curb their appetites. It means a fettered spirit. They may try to make up by loud preaching and wild gestures, but their efforts mock them all the time.

An artist once wanted to paint a picture of the triumphal entry. He got a friend, who was a skillful animal painter, to paint in the ass. Alas, when the picture was done many commented upon the beautiful ass but saw not Jesus. Is not the animal the outstanding thing in the lives of some Christians? What does the world see? Would they take you for one who was intimate with Jesus and filled with His power?

Fifth and Point
All saints are near to Christ, but some hear His heart-beats (v. 2). If the thought of the cross worried Peter, it didn't offend the champions of the old dispensations, the messengers of heaven (v. 4). He came to die as "Lamb of God," not to reign as "Lion of Judah." 'Tis easy to mistake a transitory state of mind for a thought of God (v. 5). God Himself may put an end to some of our highest spiritual enjoyments (vs. 6-7) to send us into the power of a transformed life into the valley of service.

Someone is sure to judge Christ by what we do (v. 14). A jarring crowd is good for us—when it drives us back to Jesus to find out what is the matter with us.

Suggestive Questions
What is remarkable about Peter being one of those chosen to go to the mount (8:33)?
What was the subject of conversation between Jesus and the heavenly witnesses? (V. 4; cf. Lk. 9:31.)
Did Jesus come into the world with any thought of having a temporal kingdom? (Heb. 2:14.)

What did Peter come to see as to the proper order of prophecy? (1 Pet. 1:11.)
What later instruction did he get from Jesus on this point? (Lk. 24:26-27.)
How does the information about Christ from heaven compare with what Peter had already stated? (V. 7; cf. 8:29.)
What did Peter write about this scene almost a generation later? (2 Pet. 1:17-18.)
What did Peter learn about the erection of temples? (1 Pet. 2:5.)

Golden Text Illustration.
He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same beareth much fruit for apart from me ye can do nothing (Jn. 15:5).
An old Greek story says that Achilles, the great hero of the Trojan war, was dipped, while he was yet a child, in the waters of the Styx by his mother, Thetis. It was thought that this would make him invulnerable and successful. The result of the plunge was, according to tradition, that every part Achilles' body was proof against wounds with the exception of the heel by which his mother held him and which had not been submerged in the water. The poisoned arrow at last found the weak spot and inflicted the fatal wound. That which makes the Christian invulnerable and successful in God's sight, is his entire yieldedness to Jesus Christ. Apart from Him we can do nothing. To the extent in which we fail to abide in Him and let Him abide in us, we open the way to defeat; we become fruitless.

Millions of Model T Fords are still in active service

FOR nearly twenty years, the Model T Ford led the motor industry and it still is used by more people than any other automobile. More than eight million Model T Fords are in active service today—an indication of their sturdy worth, reliability and economy.

Because of the tremendous investment which people have in these cars and because so many of them will be driven for two, three, and even five more years, the Ford Motor Company will continue to make replacement parts until, as Henry Ford himself says, "the last Model T is off the road."

For the Ford Motor Company has always believed that its full duty consists not only in making a good automobile at a low price, but also in keeping it running efficiently for you as long as possible at a minimum of expense.

No matter where you live, therefore, you can still buy Model T Ford parts with the same assurance as formerly, knowing that they will give you the kind of service you have a right to expect, and at the same time protect the money you have invested in your car.

All Ford replacement parts, as you may know, are made of the same materials and in the same way as those from which your car was originally assembled, and are low in price because of the established Ford policy.

So that you may get the greatest use from your Model T Ford over the longest period of time, we suggest that you take the car to the nearest Ford dealer and have him estimate on the cost of any replacement parts which may be necessary. You may find that a very small expenditure will maintain the value of your car and will be the means of giving you thousands of miles of additional service.

ANNOUNCE FOR COMMISSIONERS

BRILLHART, HANDLY AND FULLER IN RACE FOR RE-ELECTION AS COMMISSIONERS

H. C. Brillhart, Sam Handly and R. A. Fuller, all now serving on the Commissioners' Court of Ochiltree County, are in the race for re-election subject to the action of the voters of their respective precincts at the polls in the Democratic primary to be held on Saturday, July 28. With this announcement, all of the present members of the court are out for another term, Commissioner W. G. Yeary of the northeast precinct already having announced. The only opposition that any of them have to date is in Precinct 1, where Harve Holdeman is running against Mr. Brillhart, and in Precinct 4 where Walter Keim is opposing Sam Handly.

H. C. Brillhart, representing Precinct 1, the northeast quarter of the county; and Sam Handly from Precinct 4, the southeast part, are now serving their first term in the office. Mr. Fuller, who is from Precinct 3, the southwest quarter of the county, has been elected to the office twice. He served only seven months of his first term, being compelled to resign on account of ill health.

These three men, who are seeking re-election, have served their constituents faithfully and well. They are all successful business men, farmers and stock raisers, and leaders in the affairs of their communities. The administration of the business of the county by the present commissioners has been satisfactory to the great majority of the voters. They have been extremely careful in seeing that the county has received full value for every dollar expended. One of their outstanding accomplishments is the starting of a new $100,000 courthouse which is being built on the warrant plan. For the benefit of the skeptics who think that the taxes will be raised, we wish to state that the commissioners have decided to make a reduction in the levy instead of an increase.

Yeary, Handly, Fuller and Brillhart, by their past records have proven that they are qualified to fill these important offices. They have shown a willingness to give freely their own time to look after the business of the county. They are worthy of your support and will appreciate your vote and consideration at the polls.

FARM POULTRY

COSTS A QUARTER TO SECURE EGGS

Those economists and farmers who say that eggs can be produced in North Carolina as low as 13 to 15 cents a dozen, don't know what they are talking about, according to Dr. R. F. Kaupp, head of the poultry department of the North Carolina State college.

Dr. Kaupp states that it will cost nearly 25 cents a dozen if all feed costs and overhead costs are added to the totals. He bases his statement on some experiments that he had been conducting with a flock of 750 White Leghorn hens at one of the branch station farms of the North Carolina experiment station.

"Some of the data that I have seen says that it costs the southern farmer only about 13 to 15 cents a dozen to produce eggs," says Dr. Kaupp. "We know that when hens have been bred for high egg production, the cost per egg is lower, and for that reason it will certainly cost the average farmer more to produce eggs than it will the commercial poultry farmer, where the hens are bred for higher production. This commercial man also gives closer attention to his management and feeding than will the average farmer. We have many farmers who are making money with poultry, but they are not considering their eggs to cost only 15 cents a dozen to produce."

Dr. Kaupp used the regular North Carolina ration in feeding his test flock of 750 hens. He kept a careful and accurate record of each cent spent for feed, the cost of litter, grit, depreciation of the flock, interest on the investment, the labor, taxes and other charges. Then there were some miscellaneous charges such as for medicines, egg cases, leg bands and the like. He credited the hens for all eggs, for all manure, and for the poultry sold. Each hen returned a net profit above all costs of $2.40 for the year, and the eggs were produced at a cost of just a fraction under 25 cents. He found, too, that it took six pounds of feed to produce each dozen eggs.

Early-Hatched Pullets Are Most Profitable

The early hatched pullets that start to lay in October or November are the ones to keep for profitable egg production. The fall and winter months are the season of high egg prices, and birds that do not come into production until the season has passed will not pay as well as they ought to. It is the early-hatcher and well-matured pullet, with plenty of body weight to give her endurance, that will produce the eggs during this high-priced period.

The early-hatched pullets should be distinguished from the early-maturing pullets. One was hatched early, grew normally, obtaining normal body weight and coming into production at a time when her system was ready for sustained production. The rapidly maturing bird probably was hatched later, but made such rapid sexual development that she is ready to start laying before her body is equipped for sustained production.

Such birds, in direct contrast with the former, are light in weight, are very often poor feeders, and will very likely go into a partial or complete molt before they have produced very many eggs.

Late Molting Hens Take Short Time to Idle

Some hens take fully four times as long a vacation as others to regrow their feathers and prepare for another season of egg-laying. A recent study at the Missouri agricultural experiment station showed that hens ceasing to lay in July took 182 days' vacation and laid 109 eggs during the year. Those quitting in August took 151 days to grow new feathers, laying 134 eggs. September quitters lost 143 days and laid 137 eggs. October molters were idle 94 days and laid 153 eggs. Birds laying up to November lost 69 days for molting and laid 171 eggs, while December molters lost only 45 days and laid 174 eggs during the year.

POULTRY FACTS

Delays in making repairs on the poultry houses usually prove expensive.

Damp floors should not be tolerated. Poorly ventilated poultry houses are damp.

Ground oyster shell and bone meal may be fed in the mash, or it may be fed in separate hoppers.

Feeding space for all hens at all times is the rule that should be kept in mind in building a poultry feed hopper.

Legume hay carrying a large proportion of leaves and cured without getting wet, makes a good winter substitute for green feed for poultry.

Keep the pullets and early molters by themselves and give them the tonics, the green food and shells, starch, charcoal, etc., to stimulate egg production.

One should feed comparatively little grain feed in the morning. Probably 3 pounds for 100 hens will be sufficient. There should be kept before the hens all the time a dry mash.
