SARTIN BREAKS TIE AND COURT ASKS ROAD BID

Construction of Paved Road Through Park Now Virtually Assured

ON TWO STRETCHES

Action Comes at End Of Long Discussion by The Commissioners

Steps which, it is believed, virtually assure construction of a paved road through the new south side city park and golf grounds were taken Monday afternoon when the county commissioners' court called for bids on two separate paving stretches—one for a roadway within the bounds of the park itself and the other for paving of connecting links between the park road and existing paving at either end.

After Long Debate.

Monday's action came at the end of a long period of discussion between members of the court and Wichita Falls men interested in the propect. J. T. Harrell, president of the chamber of commerce, A. H. Brittain, Hubert Harrison, general manager of the chamber of commerce, officials of the municipal golf club and others were before the court. Judge Brittain acted as spokesman for the delegation and presented a petition bearing over 1,000 names, requesting the court to order the paving in.

It was not without opposition that the matter was finally brought to a successful conclusion. Commissioner Kuntz of Iowa Park and Haynes of Electra voted "no" on the motion to call for bids, thus balancing the "yeas" cast by Commissioner Jackson of Wichita Falls and Commissioner Knauth of Burkburnett. Judge Sartin who earned a vote because of the tie, then cast his vote with Mr. Jackson and Mr. Knauth. County Attorney Walsh was then instructed to advertise for bids.

City Signed Contract.

When the park grounds, comprising some 260 acres was offered the city by W. F. and H. C. Weeks, the only stipulation was that within two years the city should construct or cause to be constructed a paved road through it, connecting the city proper with the lake road near Lake Wichita. Later, a supplemental agreement was reached whereby Messrs Weeks required only that a paved road be constructed within the confines of the park itself.

As it now stands, bids will be submitted first on the cost of a roadway within the park; while an other bid will present figures on the cost of "tying up" the ends of this. The southern end will connect with the lake road and the other will probably connect with the Holliday street project, work on which is soon to start.

Financing of the project will be handled through the road and bridge fund of precinct No. 1 and will be possible, Judge Sartin pointed out, without adding anything more to the tax burden of the county. By appropriating about $6,000 a year from this fund, he said, the cost can be met. It was also commented that this fund was well able to bear the burden since increasing amounts of state aid were eliminating much expense formerly borne by it; while at the same time increasing values throughout the city and county were giving it greater values.

Bail Denied Alleged Bandit At Waurika

WAURIKA, Okla., May 18.—The preliminary trial of Henry Cornett, implicated in the Addington bank robbery, was held today before County Judge Robert N. Dunn. Happy Bohannon, who is serving 25 years in Granite and Ernest Hensley, also of Granite, were the chief state witnesses.

RAIN STARTS OFF DAY

Downpour Soaks Already Oversoaked Ground Monday.

Another blinding downpour that soaked an already well-saturated section was Monday's climatic prelude to a day of clammy warmth.

Starting around 8 o'clock, the storm beat down with unusual fury for more than an hour. It desisted then, and by noon the sun was shining once more. The afternoon was warm and damp, with a humid, sticky atmosphere.

The weather bureau sticks to its contention that "fair and warmer" is the prevailing prediction for Tuesday.

BUILDING PERMITS START OF LOW FOR WEEK

Building permits started the week Monday at a woefully low figure, five operations authorized having a total valuation of only $9,500. The largest was a $2,500 residence and the others ranged down to repair jobs of a few hundred dollars.

WALL ST. EAR GETS RUMORS OF CRUDE HIKE

SMACKOVER UP

Rumors of Pennsy Increases Creat Flurry in Stock Exchange

"Fundamentally sound" is almost unanimous verdict of Wichita Falls oil men with reference to the light oil industry. Echoing their sentiment comes news yesterday of a ten cent raise for Smackover crude, and of a Wall stree flurry over a rumor of an advance in Pennsylvania crude. Indicative after a manner of the same idea is the condition of the refined market, firm, with a lot of small buying to stimulate what might have been a very dull season.

Smackover Puts Out.

In spite of the fact that daily average heavy oil production at Smackover this week averaged better than 333,000 barrels a day—that with the light oil produced in this pool the southern Arkansas single area produced more oil than one well ever produced before in the history of the world's petroleum industry, in spite of rainy weather all over the country that should hinder by every law of supply and demand the natural tendency of the market to remain steady, there is a general refusal among north Texas oil men to consider the position of the industry bad.

They are of one opinion—a flood of light oil from some new pool, another Wortham, or some cimilar producing episode would spell the end to $2.25 oil. As is, however, with light oil production decreasing, and premiums coming for the increasing heavy oil, the present prices are regarded as stable to say the least.

Pennsy Crude Up?

From Wall street comes the rumor of an advance in Pennsylvania crude. Pennsy crude was one ahead of the Mid-Continent in the series of winter and spring advances, getting one more increase than the Mid-Continent. This was offset a month or so ago however, by a cut which was handed the Pennsylvania grades and not given the Mid-Continent. Thus in two instances has the Mid-Continent failed to follow the Pennsy market. That state is not always a barometer but the north Texas oil men had rather see Pennsylvania crude rising than falling.

The consumptive period is at hand, with probably the greatest motoring season the nation has ever known to force gasoline usage to new high figures. Estimates show increased runs to the stills by the refiners, but it is doubted if this will take care of the expected increases in consumption.

Look For Better Things.

With these facts in view—the slow decreases in national light oil production, the good condition of the refined market, with its promise of still better things, the increases in heavy oil postings at Smackover, and the general knowledge that the world is facing its greatest crude petroleum consumptive period with nothing in sight to furnish it the needed oil, with those things in view the general idea "Fundamentally sound" seems more than justified.

New Extinguisher Puts Out Oil Fire In Eleven Minutes

According to statement by H. T. Scott, the inventor and patent holder, a device for extinguishing oil tank fires proved its capability in 11 minutes last night from the time ignition was made of 20 gallons of gasoline poured on 100 barrels of oil in a 100 barrel tank 1,500 feet south of the M and V Tank company plant on the Iowa Park road.

A group of oil men and refiners attended the demonstration as did the central station fire truck, which, however, found its services not needed.

Less than three barrels of oil were said to have been lost in the conflagration.

Explosion of the gasoline on ignition fired the oil which in a moment burned a rope suspending a heavy weight at the top of the tank. The falling weight in turn opened a cock at the bottom of the tank through which the oil drained to a pit several feet away. The surface of the oil continued to burn as it lowered with the drainage until the surface neared the cock and here the flames were completely smothered.

Druggist Has Pardon But Makes Bond To Wait Appeal Action

AUSTIN, May 18.—(AP)—The question of whether a pardon is of effect before final judgment in a case has been made will be submitted to the supreme court May 27 as a result of an order of the court today granting A. Green, Breckenridge druggist, a writ of habeas corpus. Bond in the case was set at $500.

Green, who was sentenced to jail for contempt of court for alleged violation of a liquor injunction, was ordered imprisoned on a mandate of the supreme court when the state's highest tribunal held for the judge of the district court. Green then produced a pardon from Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, but the sheriff of Stephens county refused to recognize it as it had been granted before the appeal had been disposed of by the supreme court.

Green then appealed to the court of criminal appeals, which a few days ago held it was without jurisdiction and instructed Green to file an original application for habeas corpus with the supreme court, as the mandate for his imprisonment had been issued there.

Hard Water, Lack Of Pressure Cuts Demand For City

A tangible illustration of the need for increased water service and for improvement in its quality was afforded the city council Monday night when Utilities Commissioner Curd told his colleagues industrial water consumption in North Wichita had dropped from 50,000,000 gallons to 23,500,000 gallons a month. A revenue loss of $3,000 a month was being sustained by the city as a result, he said.

Lack of mains to give the amounts needed and excessive hardness of the water were assigned by Mr. Curd as the causes of the sharp drop. He said he "just wanted the council to know" the situation.

His report stated that the hard water situation would soon be remedied, but the only relief for the supply question was installation of more mains.

CITY OFFICIALS TOLD EVILS OF MOVIE CENSOR

Picture Control Law And Chicken Ordinance Put In Same Class

STIR UP TROUBLE

Usually Instigated by Those Out of Anything Else To do, Claim

WACO, May 18.—More than fifty Texas cities were represented today for the annual meeting of the League of Texas Municipalities, which convened here to learn of movie censors, tourists and mosquitoes took up a large part of the league's time today.

J. J. Strickland of San Antonio, speaking on behalf of the motion picture industry, said that the movie censorship and chicken ordinance stir up more trouble for city governments than any other.

"The people who want to censor the movie are well meaning people who just haven't got anything else to do. If you can turn their minds into some other channel, they are just as happy. I can take three women from a woman's club and get them to put through a resolution against the branding of cattle and have a delegation sent to Austin to lobby for it," Strickland told the meeting.

Tracing the history of censorship down the ages, Mr. Strickland pointed out that the Philadelphia city council, about 75 years ago, passed a law making it illegal to use a bath tub from November 1 to March 1, as against public health, and used similar examples of legislation against things that are now taken for granted as being lawful and proper.

Bryan and Nero Two Of Kind and Commoner Will Fail Like Roman--Darrow

NEW YORK, May 18. — Clarence Darrow, Chicago lawyer, who is to oppose William Jennings Bryan in a Tennessee evolution trial, came out today with a few opinions about the Commoner. Nero and Bryan were linked by Darrow as men whose irrational opposition enhanced the spread of great doctrines.

Offers of Darrow and Dudley Field Malone of New York to assist in the defense of J. T. Scopes, Dayton, Tenn., public school teacher charged with violation of the law forbidding the teaching of evolution, have been accepted. Mr. Bryan is to assist in the prosecution. Mr. Darrow is in New York at present.

"Nero," he said, "tried to kill Christianity with persecution and law. Bryan would block enlightenment with law. Nero failed as will Bryan. More persons are studying evolution in Tennessee now than before the law was passed just as Nero's acts made Christians.

"Man may be sure of his ideas, but if he is intelligent he knows there is room for doubt and debate and he welcomes both. Mr. Bryan would block both because of his views. He was brought up on certain beliefs which he has never questioned or about which he sought to be enlightened to the end that he might be wrong. That is lack of intelligence.

"Had Mr. Bryan's ideas of what a man do towards free thing existed throughout history, he would still be hanging and burning witches and punishing persons who thought the earth round."

Mr. Darrow said he and Mr. Malone were willing to pay all the expenses of the Tennessee trial "in order that day may triumph over night."

"Any man of ordinary intelligence could topple Bryan in such a fight," the lawyer continued. "The Tennessee lawyers are good. They will not need help."

BALE COVERING STANDARD FOR COTTON FIXED

Tare 21 Lbs; Bag 2 Lbs-Yd; Ties 45 Lbs. Per Bundle Adopted

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP)—Tare limited to twenty-one pounds, composed of bagging weighing two pounds a yard and ties weighing 45 pounds per bundle including buckles was adopted as standard covering for cotton bales at the gin by cotton shippers and manufacturers in conference today at the department of agriculture.

This action is regarded as a definite step toward dealing in cotton on net weight basis instead of the present gross weight and is the result of agitation for the improvement of the quality and appearance of the American cotton bale in international trade. As a result, an effort will be made by the department to have this type bale adopted as standard for all of the cotton exchanges of the world. At present the tare in this country ranges from 18 pounds in California to 30 pounds in Georgia and South Carolina and a score of different type materials are used for bale covering.

To assure the use of the standard material the manufacturers agreed not to manufacture any other kind of material for stock after 1926.

The question for patches for the bale was not settled.

FORD IN WALL STREET, BELIEF OF NY BANKERS

Guardian Company Established in Gotham as Investment Branch

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP) — The entrance of Henry Ford into Wall Street was seen by some bankers today in the announcement that Guardian Detroit company has been established as the New York investment branch of the Guardian Trust company of Detroit, of which Edsel Ford is a director.

Relationship of the Ford interests to the new banking enterprise in Wall Street was given a direct contact by the naming of Ernest Kanz Eler, vice-president of the Ford Motor company as a director of the Guardian Detroit company. The Guardian Trust company of Detroit, a recently organized institution which is believed to have the backing of the Ford millions, obtained its foothold in New York by the acquisition of Keane, Higbie and company, Inc., an investment firm which has specialized for many years in the underwriting and distribution of municipal bonds and other high grade securities.

The New York offices of the firm, it was announced today, had been reorganized as the nucleus of the Guardian Detroit company of which Jerome E. J. Keane will be made chairman and C. E. Grier, Jr., president.

Directors of the new company, in addition to Mr. Keanzeler, Mr. Keane and Mr. Grier, will include William R. Wilson, president of the Guardian Trust company and Henry E. Bodman, an attorney.

The Ford family's venture into the banking field was viewed with surprise by many bankers since Henry Ford has held aloof from Wall Street and openly attacked the methods of New York bankers from which he sought a large loan several years ago. Rebelling at the strenuous terms laid down by the bankers at that time, Ford abruptly terminated his negotiations and succeeded single handed in carrying the Ford Motor company over a temporary depression.

Davis had delivered a pardon to Fred Pollman, a forger, C. B. Griffith, attorney general pressed the defendant late today to admit that a "Peterson route" really was mentioned before the executive expressed a willingness to parole Walter Grundy, an embezzler. The former governor, however, held his ground.

Scars and Sore—Where Do You Vaccinate Dogs Anyhow? City Must Learn

Dogs, plain, fancy and otherwise must soon submit to the rigors of vaccination, the city council decided Monday night in instructing City Attorney W. E. George to draft an ordinance requiring such treatment for the hounds of the community. Mr. George indicated he would immediately procure copies of such rulings in effect elsewhere and draft a measure to meet the needs of Wichita Falls.

The council's action was taken at the suggestion of Health Commissioner Patton who said he deemed it a necessity as a safeguard against rabies. A large number of dogs have been infected with this disease here, he said, and the consequent danger of hydrophobia is such as to prompt the vaccination move.

In all probability the ordinance will provide that no dog shall be issued a license tag unless a veterinarian's vaccination certificate can be shown. Dogs which have not been so treated will be liable to capture and execution, it is believed.

TO SAVE WORLD BEAT MONKEY IDEAS--BRYAN

Commoner is Hissed And Cheered Defending The Tennessee Law

DEBATES MINISTER

Pastor of Congregational Church Takes Issue With W. J. B.

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP)—William Jennings Bryan's attack on modernism in religion and his spirited defense of the Tennessee law forbidding teaching of theory of evolution in public schools in a speech today in Brooklyn drew a vigorous protest from the Rev. J. S. Williamson, pastor of the King's Highway Congregational church, a member of the audience.

Mr. Bryan was alternately mildly hissed and cheered. He asserted that he had brought the fight against teaching evolution into the open and that "we are going out to win."

"We Must Win."

"We must win," he added, "if the world is to be saved."

Mr. Bryan had just said that the modernists cannot send missionaries abroad because they have no message to send.

"You are unfair to us—that is not true," declared Mr. Williamson from his seat. "I speak as a Congregationalist minister. We believe in majority rule, and each church is guided as it wishes in this matter. We believe in the freedom of the human spirit."

"Then I'm not talking to you," Mr. Bryan replied. "After this I'll exclude the Congregationalists. If they have no creeds and stand for nothing, I'll leave them out. I am more familiar with the modernists in the Presbyterian church."

Debates the Issue.

"Two-thirds of us are modernists and we believe in evolution," said Mr. Williamson. "But we believe also in the divinity of Christ and the immortality of the soul."

"The disgrace," said Mr. Bryan, "is not the Tennessee law, signed by the governor and passed by the legislature; the disgrace is that teachers paid in the taxes of a community which stamps its dollars 'In God We Trust' should betray the trust imposed in them by the tax payers.

"The president of the United States takes his oath of office on the Bible. Are the school children of this nation to be taught that this Bible is untrue? No! and they shall not be so taught, for the majority of the people of this nation believe in the Bible and the hand that writes the pay checks should control the schools."

Would Aid Trial.

Mr. Bryan said it would be ridiculous to entrust the education of children to an oligarchy of scientists," referring to the society for the advancement of science. The modernists, he asserted, "are making us brothers to the brute."

Mr. Bryan recently announced that he would assist in the prosecution of J. T. Scopes, science teacher of Dayton, Tenn., charged with violation of the Tennessee anti-evolution statute.

Veterans of Gray Bivouac On Dallas Fields of Peace

DALLAS, May 18.—(AP)—Bivouaced tonight on a field of peace, old men in gray reconstructed the swaying battle line of a great war. Campfires of the outposts of the Confederate veterans who poured into the city throughout the day were visible at the state fair grounds, where more than 2,500 of them again will "pitch their tents, for the 35th reunion opening tomorrow.

The attack came in unexpected force, but Dallas had thoroughly entrenched herself for the occasion and came off in triumph at the end of the day, for not a single old soldier was slighted in the general reception.

All records for first day reunion registrations were broken, according to Herbert B. Carpenter, executive secretary of the reunion committee, which worked all night receiving the straggling delegations and preparing for tomorrow.

"What's 1,200 Miles To A 42nd Cavalryman," Says Vet In a Covered Wagon

DALLAS, May 18.—While gaily decorated special trains were gliding into Dallas today bearing platoons of Confederate veterans to their reunion, a mud-caked covered wagon drawn by a horse and a mule, piloted by a solitary figure in faded gray, pulled up at the entrance of the encampment grounds.

The covered wagon brought to the reunion "Uncle Bob" Golden, and it has been on the way with him from Atlanta, Ga., since Washington's birthday, February 22.

"What's 1,200 miles to member of the forty-second Georgia cavalry," exclaimed the old warrior, as he hit the ground.

Uncle Bob is 87. He is a member of Evan P. Howell camp, U. C. V. of Atlanta. Seventeen years ago he said he made an overland trip from Atlanta to Oklahoma "to show the railroads they couldn't bulldoze a Confederate veteran."

Lippard Well in 53 Looks For Sand at 2,080 Feet

By A. H. HALLMAN.

Southern Wilbarger county, roughly that section from the Sigler pool west a mile or so to the Noble well on the east, came into the North Texas limelight Sunday for the second time in more than five years when the third and fourth pools were opened south of the South Vernon-Levy-Gulf group.

Outside of South Vernon and the old Sigler pool discovery there have been six so-called successful completions on the Waggoner pasture in southern and eastern Wilbarger county, the Noble well, the Levy well, the Consolidated well, the Gulf hole, and this past week's successes, the Beatty and Garrison and Eslick wells. Up until this last week the successful wells (with the exception of the Noble well) had everyone come on a line drawn roughly through South Vernon the west and the Gulf and Consolidated well on the east, on what geologists termed a major high. This trend had received all the play up until now.

This week's completions, the Beatty well and the Garrison-Eslick well, will have the effect, it is believed, of shunting more drilling to the south, both in the matter of offsets and the wildcat play that always accompanies such completions. This play has been noticeable absent since the days of the Sigler discovery and the boom which succeeded its completion. It is noted that the Noble well, a completion of recent date was started not so long after that.

Beatty et al swabbed about 90 barrels out of their No. 1, Waggoner, NW of SW of section 47, block 2, Sunday, sand at 1,952-60 feet. They were raising the casing to suspend it above the sand yesterday with the expectation of making about a hundred barrel well out of it. The well is located just off the road to Lake Kemp across from the Zacaquiesta ranch house. The closest production is found in the Sigler pool, two miles and one-half to the west.

A mile and one-half west of the Sigler pool and so far away that it cannot be considered an extension to the Sigler area Garrison and Eslick have a well at 2,092-96 feet. They are swabbing and cleaning out and are reported to have taken 60 barrels from the hole in a few hours on Sunday. The hole is located near the northeast corner of the northwest quarter of section 52, block 2, and is an old dry hole, worked over and drilled deeper.

Other holes on this same trend, due to bear watching are the Matty Lee Lippard Oil company No. 1, Waggoner, southeast quarter of section 53, block 2, looking for the sand below 1,080 feet; Atlantic's No. 1, Sigler-Waggoner, north offset to the old well section 52, has spudded and is drilling; M. L. V. Smith's No. 1, Waggoner, northeast corner of section 53, drilling past 1,300 feet, and others.

Texhoma, Montague

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company's No. 4, Howard, Finis Robertson survey, north Nocona, Montague county is making about 52 barrels a day on the pump after showing better than 100 the first tw odays on the pump, sand at 1,599-1,631 feet.

The No. 5 well was spudded yesterday, according to report.

Strong, Wright

A. T. Strong's shot in sand at 1,428-47 feet in his No. 1, Wright, in the northwest quarter of TE&LCO survey, 2453, just east of Megargel had the effect of filling the hole partially with water and a few rainbows. The contract depth of 1,600 feet will be finished and the well abandoned.

It is the second 1,800-foot well on the lease, the first being just north of the No. 1, and making about 70 barrels a day although the initial was nearer a hundred. The No. 5 is expected to show about 125 barrels initial on the pump.

Atlantic, Mitchell

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so tughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toenail, that it can not penentrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night. "Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.—Adv.

Smackover Raise Regarded Strange By Oil Men There

Production Increases 21,000 Barrels Over Last Week

By D. H. BANCROFT,

SHREVEPORT, La., May 18. — Activities of independent buyers who have been offering premiums of ten to fifteen cents above the posted price as an inducement to producers is offered as explanation of an advance of ten cents to 70 cents per barrel on Smackover heavy oil 24 gravity and below, posted by the Standard Oil company of Louisiana, effective as of 7 o'clock this morning.

Further complications of a situation regarded as economically unsound appear in postings of the Shreveport-El Dorado Pipe Line company and Atlantic Oil Producing company meeting the Standard's raise but making it retroactive to May 14. Gulf Refining company, Texas Pipeline company and Louisiana Oil Refining corporation also met the raise, posting 70 cents effective as of 7 o'clock this morning. The raise is somewhat difficult to understand in view of continued increase in Smackover heavy oil production, shipments from the field for the 24 hours ending this morning at 7 o'clock totaling 366,434 barrels of which 337,400 barrels was heavy oil. This total run is an increase of 21,612 barrels over the daily average for the week ending May 14.

The only explanation offered is that given; independent buyers, faced with necessity of getting crude from producers who don't want to cut loose from the pipe lines who have befriended them and whose friendship they may need again in the future, have been paying premiums as an inducement.

are having a national power plant built on their Carey district, Kunkel lease, south Archer county, to pull their wells there.

This lease is one of the real features of south Archer development. Purchased at a low initial cost, and regarded successively as not good at all, worth a little, worth more, and finally conceded to be a pretty fair 54 acres, has become one of the best properties in the county with eight big wells and two light fellows producing around 1,000 barrels a day.

Tom White is spending a short stay in New York city, but is expected back in north Texas within a week or so.

AFTER LEAVING THE HOSPITAL

Was Weak and Miserable. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Mrs. Auger's Strength

Lowell, Massachusetts. — "I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books that you send around and I felt very good after I had taken a couple of bottles of it. I had been in the hospital and felt pretty well at first but I went down to nothing. I was weak and had to lie in bed almost all day. I had dizzy and faint spells, pains in my back and lower parts and was so nervous I could not bear my children around. I hope the Vegetable Compound helps other women as it did me. I do all my own work now and feel so well. I have told my friends about it and my sister and my aunt." — Mrs. OLIVE AUGER, 19 Howard Street, Lowell, Massachusetts.

Over 200,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" 98 out of every 100 of the replies say "Yes," and because the Vegetable Compound has been helping other women it should help you.

Measure Your Advertising Dollar to fit your Prospects

80c out of each dollar invested in morning newspaper space buys contact with your major retail prospect: THE WOMAN

THIS is a short and simple study of percentages. Figures have been known to lie---but figures carefully tested and proved by common sense form the basis of all intelligent business conduct.

Some men buy advertising space by habit. Others by prejudice. But the vast majority of advertisers are seeking solid facts upon which to base their investment in newspaper units.

Let us consider two figures applicable to retail prospects.

A study of all available data shows that women far outweigh men as factors in the making or breaking of retail sales. One high authority states that the sale of 90% of the retail merchandise in this country is influenced directly or indirectly by women. We may reach the point quickly, therefore, that the newspaper that maintains the most consistent contact with the women of any trade-zone offers a preferred medium for retail advertising.

Now for the second figure. A careful, house-to-house study conducted by a group of merchandising men in representative American cities showed that 92% of the home-delivered circulation of morning newspapers remains in the home all day. Allowing for street sales and sales strictly to men, we may say that 80% of all morning newspaper circulation gives an effective contact with women in the home ten hours every day. Or that 80 cents out of every dollar invested in morning newspaper space provides units of selling-power before the eyes of the MAJOR prospect---the woman!

"It is my advice to all women to make a habit of giving a definite amount of time every day to the reading of morning newspapers. Morning newspaper advertising plays an important part in Home Economics."

LOANS TO STOCK GAMBLERS.

So much publicity has been given the operations of the New York Stock Exchange that popular surprise has been occasioned at the difference between the money rate for speculators and that paid by merchants and farmers who go to their local banks for credit accommodation. The rate charged stock exchange operators is generally 2 per cent while that on ordinary commercial borrowings is usually 8 per cent. A difference of 400 per cent in favor of the stock gambler naturally occasions some surprise, and questionings on this peculiar disparity have been so pressing of late that an unnamed metropolitan banker has undertaken to publish an explanation.

The explanation offered is based on the difference between "wholesale" and "retail" loaning. It is said that loans to stock speculators are fixed at a minimum of $100,000, which permits a lower rate. Also, that the expense entailed in looking up credit rating is eliminated, since the borrowing parties are well known to the lenders. It is urged that ample security is obtainable which can instantly be converted into cash, and that with a world market, instead of a local one, the probability of realizing on collateral is much enhanced.

But all this, it must be confessed, is not so convincing as it might be. There is a most significant intimation that the security taken is intangible in fact if not in name. For instance, in not going to the trouble to investigate credit rating, the rating is largely taken for granted. It is even said that there can be "less taking on faith" in ordinary loans, and the expense of looking up applicants adds to the overhead and boosts the interest. Now this "taking on faith" enters very largely into all speculative borrowing. The securities pledged have a variable worth which makes them poor guarantees when the stock market is sharply declining or suddenly rising. Payment on one unfortunate borrower's obligation may be secured by the forced sale of his securities, but nothing like wholesale liquidation can be attempted for this would ruin the banks' market.

Lending and borrowing for speculative purposes is, indeed, wholesale, and the risk taken by those participating is also wholesale. Surplus funds of the country's financial institutions are made available for stock operations by Wall street concerns when business is active; when industry slows to a quiet pace, these funds are withdrawn or carefully protected. Very often a wild riot of speculation is arbitrarily checked by refusals to loan, and again speculation is encouraged when there is a great deal of idle money for a quiet market to use.

The gamble extends beyond the stock exchange and is a gamble upon the country's prospects. It exerts both good and bad influences as it tends to stimulate or retard the activities of trade. Thus it is unquestionable that the Wall street bankers lend upon a basis of probability, and so long as they do this there will be serious objection from the average farmer, merchant and business man who are required to pay higher interest rates on better collateral.

A TEXAS BUILDER.

Mayor Richard M. Dudley of El Paso has passed on. He was one of the picturesque builders of El Paso and a man widely known on both sides of the upper Rio Grande. For that matter, he was widely known the state over, for he had been prominent in the political and legislative life of the state as well as the building life of the west.

His friends called him Dick. His enemies called him something else. He was fearless when it came to giving full vent to his honest conviction. There was none of the side stepper about this western builder whose eyes are closed in the sleep of death. He was a native of Kentucky. He was educated in Kentucky.

Before he was twenty he had migrated to Missouri where he taught school for several years and then came to the conclusion that while teaching was a noble profession it was not a lucrative calling and that the money went t othe builder in other fields. Then Texas called him.

He had abandoned teaching for railroad contracting and when Dudley was a young man the pioneers were building railroads in certain sections of the west. He picked El Paso as his home and as a railroad builder, he amassed considerable wealth. He had large contracts in Mexico and he put them over. He had contracts in Arizona and New Mexico and was a success in his chosen field.

He believed that El Paso would become a queenly city some day ,a great city of commerce and traffic and he invested his savings in real estate and other substantial properties. He was born a democrat but never active in politics until he saw the necessity for business men as lawmakers or municipal guides or guardians.

He was drafted for a seat in the Texas legislature. This a few years ago. Robert Ewing Thomason was one of his collegeaus. Dudley saw great future for Thomason as a lawmaker and then a higher up. These two served together as lawmakers in the lower house. Then Dudley announced that Thomason would make an ideal speaker of the lower house. They came back together and Thomason became speaker. Dudley managed the campaign.

Next he decided that Thomason would make an ideal governor. This was in 1919. In 1920 Pat Morris Neff, Ben F. Looney and Thomason were the contenders for the democratic nomination. Neff and Thomason were in the runoff. Neff won. Thomason's defeat was a greater blow to Dudley than it was to Thomason. He idealized his youthful friend.

Then the democrats of the El Paso district elected Dudley to the senate. He made a splendid record. He was elected president pro tem of that body. Two years ago he was nominated by the democrats as their candidate for mayor of El Paso, and elected by a large majority. Those close to him said that to be the mayor of El Paso was a greater honor in the eyes of Dudley than to be governor of Texas.

He would have been re-elected as his administration had been very successful, but the man with scythe stepped in and closed the career of one of the rarest and most rugged characters that West Texas has ever known.

SENTIMENT AS A DRUG.

Joseph Louis Vance calls sentiment a drug.

Men drug themselves with all sorts of things, some with food, some with drink, and some with medicine.

A life without sentiment would be a terrible thing, but sentiment can always be restrained by reason and governed by it.

Those who allow themselves to be swayed by sentiment against their reason are acting emotionally and not rationally.

There are some who get such pleasure out of sentiment, or such pain—in any way, such feeling—that before sentiment reason gives way, and thus they become sentimental addicts.

One of the most terrible things in life is to "emote" too much. Often a wife becomes dissatisfied, though her reason tells her that her lot is a happy one, when her sentiments are not satisfied.

A sentiment can be a prejudice when it sways us contrary to our reason and veils for us the facts of life.

Most of us are swayed by sentiment more than we think.

We should not let our feelings dominate us, although it is equally wrong to be without any feeling.

Feelings are given us to criticize and adjust and to place in their proper place. They are like horses that are very useful when broken and steadily driven, but are dangerous when they run wild.

Every movement has its wild men. There have been wild persons against temperance, wild persons against tobacco, and wild persons who have advocated every other good cause.

One does the most good when he acts according to his intelligence and is backed up by sentiment.

A sentimental addict is unhappy himself and is a cause of unhappiness in others. This is because sentiment cannot be argued with. It speaks with the intolerance of the instincts. The only person who can be argued with is one who governs himself by reason and keeps his sentiments subservient to reason.

Sentiment thus is like salt. A little of it is good, but too much of it spoils the meat.

A man without sentiment is cold and harsh and unlovable, but one with too much sentiment is about as bad.

As in everything else we must use our judgment, must never let ourselves get beyond control, never let any sentiment carry us beyond the barriers of intelligence.

AMERICAN MAN MAKES IDEAL HUSBAND.

Mrs. Thit Jensen, a noted Danish writer, after a tour of the United States, declared that the American man makes the ideal husband, and she is satisfied after investigation the increase in divorce in the United States is not the fault of the men. She believes America would indeed do a kindness to Europe if instead of sending professors and missionaries it would send over groups of American husbands to set an example to married men abroad. Thanks. There is a woman who is a close observer and has a regard for the eternal fitness for things.

EXCISE TAX HELD ILLEGAL.

Massachusetts lawmakers imposed an excise tax on foreign corporations engaged exclusively in conducting an interstate business. What happened? The foreign corporations refused to pay the tax. They carried their cause to the supreme court of the United States, and the court of last resort declared the Massachusetts law unconstitutional. There are some things a legislature cannot do. Imposition of an excise tax on foreign corporations engaged wholly in interstate business is one of the things.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

Creation.

Creation, as a subject to be discussed in two or three hundred words sounds rather formidable.

But in asmuch as we shall never fully understand it, having finite minds, it will do us no harm to consider one little corner of it this summer, when the weather permits us to get out of the section of it that has been constructed by man, and look at the work that nature is conducting successfully, and will be conducting long after the oldest man now living has been utterly forgotten.

We are prone to take creation as a matter of course, like the yokel in Wordsworth's poem, to whom a simple primrose was a simple primrose and nothing more.

To the casual observer an oak is an oak, which grows from an acorn, feeds on the soil, and by and by produces more acorns from which more trees will grow by and by.

Seldom do we think of how a tree is built, ring by ring of inner bark outward, and twig by twig up into the air.

How it carries the sap from the soil sometimes more than a hundred feet in the air we can only guess.

There is process known to man whereby the thing can be done without getting behind the sap and pushing it up—that is by using a force pump.

Suction will draw it upward only some twenty-seven or eight feet.

Absorption only a few inches.

Yet the tree finds a way to bring to its top branch the fluid its roots have drawn from the soil, and from that fluid to build wood, and green leaves, and grey rough bark, and the acorns that the sun will turn from green to brown, and which by and by will be spilled out of the cups into which they were loosely fitted by the miracle of nature.

Beneath the tree we may watch the worms eating last year's leaves and transforming them into food for next year's growth.

On its branches we may see a robin building a nest of mud and twigs, and an oriole weaving another kind of a nest of grass and fibres which it suspends to a branch, beyond the reach of cats and squirrels.

Perhaps in an old decayed limb still another kind of a bird, the yellow hammer, is drilling a round hole, just big enough to admit himself and his mate to the cavity within.

On the rotten floor of the cavity he will lay feathers by and by which will keep his children comfortable until they climb out of the nest and learn to fly.

All these things are wonders, yet we gaze on them unmoved.

The growth of cabbages and onions and cauliflowers and asparagus, side by side in the same bed, is another wonder.

And all these wonders and many million more constitute creation—the slow building of a world which will never be finished.

Here is evidence of a mind, and of a plan. We cannot believe that such things "just happen."

The more we study creation, whatever may be our "modernism," the more we are convinced that there is some Being behind it all, and the more we feel a spirit of awe and reverence infusing our souls.

Through A Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON

Ten-Year-Old George

Right before midnight the other day the lieutenant at the desk in a police station in New York City heard a faint voice. Seeing no one he looked over the desk top and there he saw a small boy, pale and undernourished, dressed in old shoes much too big for him, a coat that almost touched the floor, and trousers that had once belonged to some heavy man.

His name was George, age 10. He was looking for his 7-year-old brother, Dave, who was sick and who had left home with a note from his mother to the sisters of the parochial school asking that nourishment and medical attention be given the child until she was well and able to care for him. He had not arrived at the school, so his big brother George, aged 10, had to leave all his other responsibilities and go out to look for him.

And they were some responsibilities. For George was the sole support of his mother and father, both sick and bedridden, and three yunger children. He sold newspapers and carried on the job of janitor of the building in the basement of which the family lived, by which when he was well his father eked out an odd job living.

George scrubbed the floors of the building, tended the furnace and made repairs, sold his papers, and then prepared the food for the young children and gave his sick mother and father whatever attention he was able to. Therefore, he explained to the lieutenant at the desk, it was imperative that this little brother be found immediately because he could not afford to lose so much time. Besides, Dave was sick and should be put to bed.

This is not a fairy tale or a bedtime story. It is an accurate excerpt from the day's news. And extraordinary as it is, any of us who don't mind putting a strain on our tender sensibilities can find in the slums of any city, any day, comparable examples of heavy burdens borne by frail and tiny shoulders. We can learn there the potentialities for selflessness, for character, for responsibility, for heroism that exists in little children.

Extremists in the matter of child development might say that such necessity is good for the child's character. But mothers will pray that their children's character development may have better mediums than suffering and misery and premature burdening of the half grown. We want to see backs grow straight and tall and shoulders made strong with heads set firm and high upon them before the blasts begin to blow, before the fight with life begins.

However, in the 10-year-old "father" of a family of five, in the little mothers that almost every backstreet and alley might reveal, whom death or other misfortune has thrown prematurely into the maelstrom, pitted there against overwhelming odds, there is a lesson in the heroism and the majesty in the heart of the child.

When you call your 10-year-old "Bobby" "baby" and shield from the slightest wind that blows, think of 10-year-old George who needed help to find his little brother, because he couldn't afford to lose so much time.

Irrigation

The Relation Between Wichita Falls, District No. 1, and District No. 2.

Most people know that there is an irrigation project here and believe that in a general way it was built by the city of Wichita Falls, but the exact relation of the citizens of the city to the irrigated lands is more or less hazy.

There are two irrigation districts. Wichita county water improvement districts Nos. 1 and 2.

District No. 1 covers an area of about 13,000 acres and includes the city of Wichita Falls and a fringe of land surrounding the city limits.

District No. 2 is a body of land lying on both sides of the Wichita river and extending from one side of the county to the other. It is district No. 2 that is generally meant whenever the irrigation project is spoken of.

Lake Kemp and the diversion lake are located outside of Wichita county. Lake Kehp is wholly in Baylor county and the diversion lake practically so.

The two districts are separate legal entities. Just as much so as two counites in the state are separate legally. As a matter of fact district No. 1 is the governing body or rather the directors of this district govern both districts.

Both districts have boards of directors which are elected by the voters in the respective districts. Separate elections are held.

While district No. 1 is composed wholly of the city of Wichita Falls, yet the city and the district are entirely separate legally. The city has its council which is its governing body and the district has its board of directors which govern it.

The offices of the city are at the city hall and in the Morgan building while the offices of the district are in the Staley building.

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE.

TAURUS.

Today's planetary aspects are quite favorable, and, after dusk, the vibrations become very stimulating, and are bound to exercise a very potent effect on the emotions. The signs do not denote any great success for new enterprises, but very clearly indicate a clearness of mind and keenness of judgment which will materially help the solution of those problems that are already in hand, and that have "hung fire" because of some unexpected snag. The evening promises well for those who are in love, and there will be a strong urge, which should be heeded, to both deliberation and acceptation.

The signs apparently favor all children brought into the world today; they promise, from a physical standpoint, to enjoy excellent health, and the little ailments from which they may suffer will only be transitory in character. Temperamentally they will be nervous, energetic, and somewhat excitable, and will, possibly, lack singleness of purpose, so frequently identified with ultimate success. They will want to embark on some fresh task, before the one in mind is accomplished; they must be taught and influenced to "carry on" to the end. They will possess a keen sense of humor, and their personality will always prove attractive and pleasing.

Is May 19 your birthday? If so, the fates have indeed been kind, as you not only possess charm and intelligence, but have a personality all your own and which endears you to all those who know you well. You are fond of the real pleasures of life, rather more retiring than forward, and lacking a little in self-confidence, which, however, does not detract from your general attractiveness.

Your chief asset, however, is your loyalty to those you love, and the strength and duration of your affections. You were born to inspire a love, about which we often read but rarely see, and if it has not yet touched you, it surely will, sooner or later. Lucky is the one whom you love and to whom you have proven the inspiration!

You are patient and forbearing; a great comfort in time of trouble, and a cheery "pal" in times of prosperity.

Successful people born on this date are: Johns Hopkins, philanthropist; George W. Whistler, civil engineer; Felix K. Zollicoffer, journalist; Henry W. Ravenel, botanist; Richard I. Dodge, soldier and author.

POEMS THAT LIVE

EMPIRES.

How dear we deem that in this age
The end of all the ages lurks?
That God is printing the last page
Of the last volume of His Works?

Have we not canted of the mills
Of God, how very slow they grind?
Why should we fancy on our hills
Their sails are sped by earthly wind?

Persia and Egypt, Greece and Rome,
And waster dynasties before,
Now faded in Time's monochrome,
In what do we surpass their lore?

Some things they knew that we know not,
Some things we know by them, unknown,
But the axles of their wheels were hot
With the same frenzies as our own.

NATURE'S NOBLEMEN

"Baseball players are artists"—Miller Huggins, Manager of the New York Yanks

Don't fancy the ballplayer labors for fame;
He cares not a copper for that,
It isn't the love of the glorious game
Or the pay—though it's really fat.
It is something far higher that leads him to strive,
With all his ingenuous heart,
To keep the historic old pastime alive—
It's the soul stirring urge of the art.

He cares not a rap for the grand stand's applause
When he clouts one clear out of the yard,
For tumult and shouting and yells and hurrahs
He has not the slighest regard.
When he discards the willow and speeds to first base,—
When to second he shoots like a streak,
You can see by the studious look on his face
That he's thinking about his technique.

He is often erratic, one fain must admit,
Especially if he's a star,
He sometimes appears to be tickled a bit
That he's not quite as other men are.
You notice him now and then strutting about,
And breaking the hearts of the gals,
But so, in the height of their hey-dey, no doubt
Did Van Dyck, Corot and Franz Hals.

He is not to be judged by the standards applied
To other and commoner men,
He may well be excused for the bearing of pride
That he shows to the world now and then.
He was fashioned by genius to come to this earth
And to play an illustrious part—
To be ranked with the great, who are granted at birth
The smile and the favor of Art!

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

THE TOO-SYMPATHETIC FRIEND WHO IS A SNAKE IN THE GRASS—THE WIFE WHO ENJOYS A FLIRTATION FOR THE THRILL OF IT—SHALL HE BOB HIS MUSTACHE AT HER REQUEST?

Dear Dorothy Dix—My husband and I have been married a little more than a year. He was a widower, and owing to his previous wife having been an invalid, he had gone out very little. Nor do we go out much now, but occasionally my husband takes me to a dance, or we go to a friend's house to play cards.

Now for a long time I have numbered among my friends a little widow, who it appears to me, is making a dead set at my husband. Whenever we go out, she begins to sympathize with him about being dragged around to parties, and telling him how tired he looks, and that he should be at home in bed, and she tactly suggests to him that I am an unfeeling wife. But it seems to me that a big healthy man who goes to bed at 9:30 on an average of six nights a week could stand to stay up until 12:30 on the seventh in order to give his wife pleasure.

I am not jealous of this woman, but I am beginning to be a bit suspicious of her influence on my husband. What do you think?

MRS. G. S.

Answer—I think you are quite right. Your little widow is a snake in the grass, and the sooner you shut her out of your Eden the better for you.

It is sad but true that intimate friends, both males and females so often abuse the trust that is reposed in them and break up homes, and nearly always their first approach is through the sympathy route.

The man begins by making a wife feel that her husband neglects her He insinuates that the poor husband, who is toiling night and day to support his family, is wrapped up in his business, and cares more for money-making than he does for his wife's love and happiness. So Intimate Friend shows the foolish wife the attentions she craves and makes love to her, and the first thing that the husband knows about it the man he loves has stolen the woman he loves away from him.

The woman Intimate Friend begins her nefarious work just as your widow is doing, by sympathizing with the husband and making him believe that his wife doesn't understand him or appreciate him, and that she is imposing upon him. She makes him feel that she alone pities him and values him at his true worth, and would know how to coddle and pet him if he were her husband.

It is an old game, but it always works. Nobody knows why it is, but we all fall for being pitied quicker than we do for anything else.

You are a wise woman, Mrs. G. S., to see your danger in time to avert it. It is a woman's business to protect her husband and her home, and if she is wise she never brings into her home to live any woman who is younger, or better looking, or more fascinating than herself. And she especially bars her door to one who is a good all-around sympathizer. Never lead even a good husband into temptation.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married for a few years. Recently I met an old sweetheart of mine. He calls me up, and we see each other, and I think of him all the time. I love my husband and home and am a good wife, but I enjoy having a little flirtation and some one to take me to shows and makes love to me.

My husband is a good, steady man, and I am always glad to go back to him. Do you think I am fickle? IN LOVE WITH LOVE.

Answer—If you want my honest opinion, I think you are just a plain fool. So is any woman who risks her good name, her good husband and her good home for a flirtaton.

For you cannot be so idiotic as not to know the risk you are running It is absolutely certain that your husband will find out about your faithlessness to him, and the chances are that he will divorce you. Then what would become of you and your fine love affair?

Believe me, it won't seem romantic to you to have to go out and hustle for a living, as you will doubtless have to do, because the men who carry on affairs with married women seldom mean to marry them. In fact, the reason that men so often prefer married women to girls is because they can hide behind the married woman's wedding ring. They do not have to marry her as they would a young girl, because the married woman cannot plead ignorance and innocence. She is sophisticated.

In your case you have not even the excuse for your disloyalty of being in love with the man. You are jeopardizing your whole future for the sake of a few thrills, the joy of a little adventure, a little sordid, tarnished romance. Believe me, it isn't worth the price.

And what about your self-respect? Don't you feel that you are playing it pretty low to take advantage of the trust of a man who believes in you so much that he leaves you free to come and go as you please? Don't your chiffons burn your flesh as you think how hard your husband has worked to make the finery in which you doll yourself up to go to meet another man? When you think of your good, kind husband, aren't your lover's kisses like a brand of shame on your lips?

Flirtations are not for married women, my friend. They invariably end in disaster. Take it from me that a good reliable husband is a mighty good thing to tie to. He is worth a million of the kind of men who go arund trying to steal other men's wives.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—This question, coming from a man, will seem perfectly asinine to you, but it involves an argument between my sweetheart and myself that we do not seem able to settle ourselves. I am 28, very blond, and I wear a mustache because without it I look leke a boy of 18.

Unfortunately, my lady friend insists that I remove it, claiming men of today do not have to wear a mustache to show that they are men.

Do you think that any girl should dictate to a man on such a matter?

ROBERT.

Answer—Certainly not. Not any more than a man has a right to dictate to a girl about bobbing her hair or using cosmetics. Alas and alack, however, each sex thinks that it should tell the other what it shall do about such matters?

And, perhaps, as men kiss women, it is their privilege to say what particular brand of grease paint they prefer in lipsticks. And as women kiss men, it is up to them to decide whether they want to run the risk of microbe-catching mustaches or not.

Mustaches aren't so bad, or so disfiguring as whiskers, although whether they are the long curled ones of the Germans, or the little waxed-end ones of the French, or the little dab under the nose of the English, heaven knows they add nothing to the beauty of the masculine countenance.

So why insist on landscaping your face? A good, nice, clean mouth needs no lambrequin to conceal it DOROTHY DIX.

SOCIETY

MOTHER-DAUGHTER PROGRAM IS HELD.

A pretty and impressive program was given Sunday afternoon by mmebers of the Junior Business Girls club at the Y. W. C. A. in the form of a mother-daughter program and every number was dedicated to mother.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with floor baskets of spring flowesr and vases of roses. Light colored lights glowed over the rooms. At the front of the room a pretty, white altar was placed. Two white candles in crystal candlesticks burned. A pretty white chair draped in white ribbon was placed near the altar.

Mrs. E. S. Goodner, who represented "Motherhood Eternal," occupied the chair. The spirit of love, fellowship and service, the parts taken by Misses Ruth Bruce, Elizabeth Langford and Virgie Mae Adams, entered and stood just behind Mrs. Goodner. Miss Alva Ruth Walker read "Ode to Duty" while Miss Rebecca Meadors played on the violin. Following this Misses Marguerite Goodner, Wilton Wade and Geraldine Monroe, who represented daughters, entered and laid their gifts, symbolic of duty, sacrifice and love, at the altar.

Mrs. J. B. Hopkins, soprano, sang "Mother Machree" and Miss Leota Tucker, contralto, sang "That Wonderful Mother of Mine."

At the beginning of the program Miss Ola Thorne, president of the club, made a short talk. At the end of the program, Miss Ivo Wilson closed the program with a prayer for the mothers and their daughters.

Credit is o be given to Miss Opal Bellew for the entertainment, according to announcement received.

MAKE GARMENTS FOR ORPHANS

One group of women in Wichita Falls did something worth the while in concert Monday. This group is Circle Four of the Lamar Baptist church missionary society.

Monday afternoon the met with Mrs. N. B. Rawls at her home, 204 Burnett.

All day they were with Mrs. Rawls and all day they sewed for the Bucknell's Orphan home. At noontime they hesitated for a few minutes. Took out their baskets of lunch and spread it all together, just as they used to do, long ago. Then they sewed some more and Monday afternoon about 5 o'clock they stopped, but before they did they had finished 29 nice new and fresh garments for the little orphans. Twenty-nine little hearts will beat an extra time when the bundle is opened and each of the number will have a pretty, new garment to wear.

The members of the circle who have never given up to have their locks sheared are Mesdames P. P. Cannon, A. P. Lindley, S. E. McMillan, C. T. Walters, N. E. Martin, H. M. Marshall, J. L. Beavers, A. B. Humphreys, P. H. Luckett, W. N. Rawls and N. B. Rawls.

CIRCLE TWO FLORAL HEIGHTS METHODIST.

Circle two of the Floral Heights Methodist church met Monday afternoon with Mrs. M. E. Crowell at her home on Ninth. Mesdames R. A. Nowell and R. E. Fleming were joint hostesses.

The meeting was opened with the singing "More Love to Thee", with Mrs. T. M. Lea of Corsicana leading the devotionals. Mrs. Merle Waggoner sang, in connection with the devotionals, "Somebody Cares."

Following the devotionals Miss Vivian Railey gave two violin selections, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen" and "Serenade." Miss Railey was accompanied by Mrs. Lucille Brooks Huff.

Mrs. W. A. McGee read two interesting papers "Messages from Fields in Brazil" and "Sisterhood in the Church." Miss Ella Mathis gave a group of readings and the entire group sang "Jesus Savior Pilot Me" and Miss Catherine Michaelias gave several readings.

In the business session which followed social service report was given. Thirty-six trays were reported, 168 visits, 15 flowers, $56 spent on clothing, $11 social service work, $13 cash spend and 11 magazines given. Reports were made that $19 had been made on the sale of cakes, $557 had been pledged by the members and $357.32 has been paid. Following the report Mrs. S. E. Trevathan told the members just what every cent of the money had been spent for in the circle.

Refreshments were served to E. B. Alexander, Adelle Preston, W. E. Burnhardt, S. E. Travathan, P. A. Sterling, H. B. Harmon, J. L. Franklin, R. A. Neal, R. E. Fleming, W. A. McGee, W. S. Child-birth

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

WEEKLY LETTER

Dear Girls!

Here's another tip for all of you—I picked this up only last evening—and I'm hastening to send it on to you:

When you are going to a party where there will be many people in one small room—and where you expect that room to be rather warm—DONT wear your fluffiest, airiest, most billowy frock, and don't curl your hair in a million tiny ringlets and expect it to stay that way.

Here's the sad case I beheld last night, which has made me issue this solemn warning to all whom it does concern:

Six of us had been to a show together and were going on to a new night club which has just been opened and which was reputed to have wonderful music but little floor space.

Grace and I were both in white beaded dresses, very straight and simple, and we were both wearing our bobs very straight and flat. Angela was also in a straight-line dress of the loveliest shade of blue, imaginable, and her hair was coiled into a flat knot at the nape of her neck. She looked enviably lovely.

We were to meet Tom and his girl from out of town, at the club, so when we sailed in, we found them seated at a table—Tom's girl looking like a picture out of a fairy-story book. Her name was Dimples and she looked the part. She wasn't exactly smart, but she certainly was delicious looking — arrayed in the palest flesh-colored chiffon, her skirt simply billowing with hundreds of the tiniest baby ruffles. Also her hair billowed with a thousand beautiful golden ringlets. A crisp perky butterfly bow rested on her shoulder and on her pale flesh colored satin slippers were two gauzy rosettes. She was exactly like the heroine in the musical comedy, who changes overnight from a cocoon to a butterfly. And she knew it, too.

Well, we decided we all looked old and blase beside her—the boys called her Baby Dimples—and the evening proceeded merrily on its way. The place got hotter and hotter. The boy's collars began to wilt, and as the dancing grew faster and more furious, we all became conscious of increasing discomfort from the heat.

"Good Heavens!" whispered Angela to me, suddenly, "look at little Miss Moffett. She's taking a beating all right." I looked —and, oh, what a sight was Baby Dimples. The lovely hair had straightened out horribly looking flat and straight in front, while the back still kept up a brave pretense at curliness. The butterfly had subsided with a groan. Each of the thousand billowy ruffles lay flat and lifeless. And the gauzy rosettes were no more. It was a dreadful destruction and Baby Dimples ceased to make a hit. So you understand my solemn exhortation to be sure about the temperature of the room, and the number of people it holds before you go in for the airy-fairy Lillian type of costume.

With love, MIMI.

She Was Weak, Thin and Nervous

The greatest strength-giver and producer of good healthy flesh is Cod Liver Oil, it's full of vitamines.

But it's nasty stuff—ill-smelling and hard to take, and usually upsets the stomach.

Thank goodness! we don't have to take it from the bottle any more, for now Smith Drug Co., Renfro Drug Co., and all druggists are selling McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, sugar-coated, and as easy to take as candy, so that you can get the real Cod Liver Oil in condensed form and get just the same results as with the horrible smelling liquid.

Men and women, weak, thin and nervous, are urged to put on weight and get back their health and strength with these wonderful tablets.

One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks and that's going fast enough for anyone.

Only 60 cents for 60 tablets, and if they don't put five pounds of flesh on any thin person in 30 days—why, money back and no quibbling about it, either.

"But be sure and get McCoy's the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablet."—Adv.

WHEELER BACK TO OLD TIME WINNING FORM

Tanner Crew Bunches Its Base Bingles For Win In Sixth

DALLAS, May 18.—Rip Wheeler, veteran right-hander who couldn't lose a game against Dallas in 1922 and 1923 while with Wichita Falls, came back today to continue jinxing the Steers, and won his first 1925 victory, 3 to 1.

It was not until after the Spudders had amassed a three-run lead that Wheeler let down. He hurled seven scoreless innings. The Dallas run came in the eighth. Double by Kahdot, a long fly to right by Miller, followed by another double poled by Williams gave the Dallas team its lone score.

The Spudders led off in the first inning for one run. Callaghan grounded to Bauman who threw poorly to first. Distel rolled out to the box, and Callaghan advanced to second. Fitzgerald grounded out to third, Callaghan advancing to the hot corner. Bodie knocked in the score with a timely single to right. Tanner flied out.

The winning margin was punched over in the sixth, the Spudders scoring two runs after there were two down. Distel opened the inning with a single to left. Fitzgerald flied out to left. Bodie popped out to first. Tanner singled to left, and Distel went to third. Tanner stloe second, and Golvin followed with a single to right to send in both men. Lou North held the Spudders to seven hits in all, but three of them had come in the sixth. The score:

Another title holder, Miss Doris Chambers, who took the 1923 championship

Another title holder, Miss Doris Chambers, who took the 1923 championship away from Miss Wethered, administered the most crushing defeat of the day to Miss May O'Gorman of Providence, R. I., who came to England with her friend, Miss Glenna Collett, and entered the championship for the fun of the play. Miss Chambers was victorious by the score of 8 up and 7 to play.

Wood and Owls Blank Frogs, 4-0

FORT WORTH, May 18. — Grappa Wood, sophomore star of the Rice Institute Owls, scattered plenty of gloom over the T. C. U. Horned Frogs here this afternoon when he relegated them to second place in the Southwestern conference baseball race by turning in a 4 to 0 victory while the University of Texas was beating S. M. U. in Austin for the deciding game of the year. To further add to the misery of T. C. U. Wood cracked out a home run in the ninth was a man on base. Carson, who opposed Wood, hurled a neat game, allowing but six blows, yet they were bunched with runners on base, while Wood was unhittable in the pinches.

HAVEN PARK

The GILDED ROSE

by May Christie

Who's Who in the Story.

Rosilyn Ridgeway learns on her wedding day from idle gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an overworked little drudge in her father's inn.

Landis Ridgeway, her husband, is a brillian, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother,

Florence Ridgeway, an aristocratic old lady, who saw poverty staring her in the face, and choose the easiest way out. Rosilyn loving her husband, knows that he is still in love with

Lydia Harbrook, a beautiful, cold society girl who is bent on marrying Stevie Van Vorst, a wealthy old roue, although she is really fond of Landis in her selfish way. She is in Paris when she hears of Landis' marriage, and immediately returns to the United States. With her goes

Rupert Briscoe, a dissipated man of the world, who has seen Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and when the two reach New York, she suggests that they ask the young Ridgeways to join them for dinner. She and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby through an apparent misunderstanding Rosilyn and Briscoe will be left alone together all evening, while she will be with her beloved Landis. Thus happens that Landis is amazed to find her waiting for him in the lobby of Claridge's.

Landis phones to find out why his wife has not joined them, and learns that she left the hotel with Briscoe—leaving word that they will join Lydia and Landis in a few minutes. Left alone with Lydia, Landis finds himself swept off his feet by her beauty.

Meanwhile Rosilyn is being escorted to the Clarendon by Briscoe, who tells her that he is doing his best to get in touch with Landis and Lydia.

Had he caught at tonight's opportunity to slip away from her?

In Paris Stephen Van Vorst is lonely for Lydia. He is on the way to see Marietta, a dancer, a one-time sweetheart of Briscoe's, who, he hopes will be able to help him.

Van Vorst finds Marietta weeping over Briscoe's desertion. He tells her to buck up and come along for a ride with him—he wants to talk over a plan for him.

* * * * *

In Neptune's basin played the fountain. On the green young grass and round Apollo, children played. The lake glittered in the sunshine, and the great trees, dipped in tender foliage, rose like sentinels against a pale, blue sky.

Something stirred in Marietta's bosom.

"Makes you feel kind of small and—and puny," she remarked, gazing at the beauty all about her. "Makes you feel that life needen't be so rotten and so—sort of mean! D'you get me, Steve?"

Her companion gave his throaty chuckle.

"The folks who lived here in the old days weren't such angels of purity!"

"I suppose not." The wistful look was still on the foreign girl's face. "But they loved—splendidly—didn't they?"

The entered the Petit Trianon, where Marie Antoinette and her ladies played at dairy farming.

"And to think they're all dead and gone! Sort of spooky, isn't it?" Marietta shivered. Passion—love—romance—such a brief span their reign.

They passed beech-circled water. Marietta lingered.

"Life's queer. We all seem to think that money matters such a lot. And yet—the sun shines the same for everybody—and the trees are green—and there's sunshine on the water, and drifting shadow—and it doesn't take such an awful lot to make a woman happy—if she gets a decent chance in life. I never had a start."

"Oh, drop it, girl! Now we've fixed things up, you're no reason for moping. Tomorrow we'll go to Southampton, and from there back to New York, you'll have your precious Briscoe at your heels again. You've only got to play your cards right, and the world's yours. Ridgeway's falling for you will make the other all the keener—but Ridgeway must fall for you, remember, or your little job isn't done."

"I know," said Marietta quietly.

Later, with a gourmand's interest, he ordered for her delectation an astonishingly good dinner, with the very best of wines.

She did full justice to the meal.

"What'd you say we fly across the channel to England tomorrow?" Van Vorst suggested, sipping his liquor of hours, and makes a mighty easy trip. I louthe the channel crossing."

"Flying? I'd be afraid!"

"Aw, don't be foolish! You're over in a couple of shakes!"

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Near Death

But nervous tremors assailed Marietta next morning when Van Vorst's car deposited them at the aerodrome, and a uniformed official led them to the big biplane that was waiting, like some giant insect, to carry them across the channel.

Behind the triplex-glass wind-screen sat the two pilots, leather helmeted. Mechanics ran about. One fellow was working at the stiff propeller.

"All aboard," announced the uniformed official.

There was a roaring sound of engines as Van Vorst took the reluctant Marietta by the elbow and conducted her to the narrow doorway leading to the machine's interior.

"I'm terrified," she whimpered.

He almost pushed her up the steel gangway, and so inside.

The gangway was withdrawn, the door slid shut, and the mechanic drew the block from one of the wheels, and the machine veered to port, just like a drunken taxi-cab.

"Gosh! This is awful!" Marietta flung herself into a wicker chair and stared desperately through the long windows, while the roar of the engine grew louder, and still louder.

"Bumpety! Bumpety! Bump!"

"Oh, heavens! We're rising!" She closed her eyes, a-shudder.

"You're all right." Van Vorst sat down near her. "Look at the speed indicator! We're doing fifty!"

The girl opened her eyes to see the grass fall away beneath them.

"The earth's dropping! It's frightful! I can't bear it!" She pressed a hand to her throat, as though suffocating.

"Don't be silly!"

But the loud roar of the propeller, and the still louder noise of the engine, almost drowned their voices.

The neat cabin seemed to turn, to sway.

"We're banking from the wind now," bellowed her companion.

The machine levelled itself. She breathed again.

"Look over the side!" commanded Van Vorst.

Then: "Heavens! What's that? We're sinking!" cried she, terrified again.

"An air pocket," shouted her companion, close to her ear.

The very floor seemed to be dropping out of the machine!

Then steadiness again. She could see the blue struts of the wings, the bright blue petrol tank on either side.

"Curious how one doesn't realize a sense of speed!" The only thing that seemed to move was the little indicator needle. "We must be over five thousand up by now!"

Van Vorst felt a sense of power, of patronage. How nervous and how ignorant were all women!

"Feel all right? Mustn't touch champagne in the air, m'dear! It's fatal!"

She turned nervously to him.

"There's a storm somewhere. My head aches!"

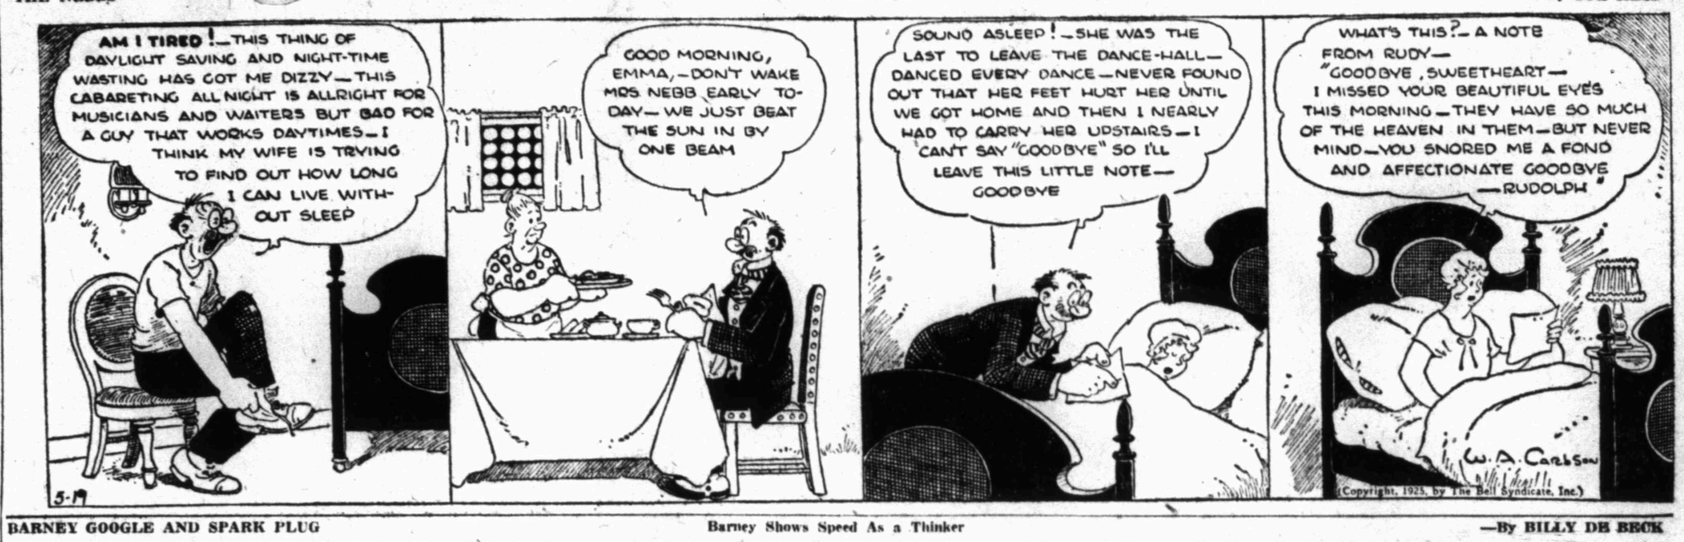

The minutes passed—

The machine was rising, rising, higher and higher.

Then suddenly it staggered drunkenly. Marietta screamed—

"The indicator! We're doing over a hundred miles an hour! What's happened?" (Continued tomorrow)

Mail Robber Builds Church With Loot Obtained in Raids

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jeff Duree, convicted mail robber, whose name has been linked with the looting of a number of banks, was the teacher of a Bible class in a church he had helped to found when he was arrested near Phoenix, Ariz., recently.

Alva McDonald, United States marshal for the western district of Oklahoma, who returned yesterday with Duree, said that the man who flouted the law in Oklahoma apparently pulled the curtain on his misdeeds when he retired to the little ten-acre chicken farm in Arizona where he and his family were living with the respect of their neighbors.

McDonald said Duree was pouring out the alleged loot of many Oklahoma bank robberies in charitable and religious undertakings and that the little church where he taught his Sunday school class was built largely from stolen funds.

Austin Ad Man Sues For Alleged Beating

AUSTIN, May 18.—Taking of testimony in the $11,000 damage suit brought by J. W. Ebner, local sign painter, against H. C. Edgar, Austin business man, was started in the criminal district court today. The case grew out of an alleged flogging which Ebner claims took place at Barton Springs on July 17, 1924.

Veniremen were examined during the morning by attorneys for service on the jury. Indications that the ku klux klan question will figure in the hearing were seen as Dickens, attorney for Ebner, questioned prospective jurors as to whether they were members of the K. K. K. Three veniremen admitted membership in the klan at one time.

Ebner alleges the flogging took place at a tent in Barton Springs park, Austin, to which he had been called to prepare estimates for some advertising.

Arthur Covell, Oregon astrologer and mystic, will walk to his death on crutches May 22. Covell, a helpless cripple, confessed influencing his nephew, Anton Covell, then 16, to murder his step-mother, and will be hanged. Arthur Covell and his nephew are shown.

"Little Flower of Jesus" Sanctified When Vatican Blases Forth With Light

NEW YORK, May 18. — (AP)—Blessed Sister Therese, a Carmelite nun of Lisieux, France, known as "the little flower of Jesus," now is among the saints. She was sanctified yesterday at a picturesque ceremony in St. Peters, Rome.

One feature of the ceremonies, the lighting of the dome of the Cathedral with 8000 tallow torch lanterns, a spectacle not witnessed for 55 years, is taken by many as an indication of the possible resumption of political relations between the vatican and the government of Italy, Rome, dispatches say.

The popes became "prisoners of the vatican" when, in 1870, the soldiers of Garibaldi made their historic breach in the walls of Rome. In the same year the magnificent dome last blazed forth at night, a custom started in 1644.

Died in 1897.

Saint Therese entered a Carmelite convent at 16 and died in 1897 at the age of 24 after a life virtually devoted to prayer. She died almost unknown. Two incidents and acts of her brief life spread her renown that led to her beautification in 1923 and to her sanctification yesterday.

One book she wrote, a simple and brief biography, devoted chiefly to her mental and spiritual life, has been translated into almost every language and is read by millions each year. Thousands invoke her aid in prayer and many miracles of health are ascribed to her intercession with God in their behalf.

The name "little flower of Jesus" was given to her by those who fed days before she died, heard her say:

"After my death I shall send down from heaven a rain of flowers."

Known As "Poilus".

During the world war she was known as the "poilus" saint and thousandse of French soldiers carried her picture with them into battle.

Roses, artificial and real, decorated St. Peters at the ceremonies. Sixty thousand persons crowded the edifice, among them members of several royal families statesmen; Holy Year pilgrims and laymen from all parts of the world, including 12,000 Americans.

At sundown 300 men climbed the dome, 500 feet above the street, and lighted the lanterns. As the lights flared up, gradually covering the edifice with a silvery blanket of brilliance, an audible wave of emotion swept the great throngs in the square below and there were cries in many languages of "Long Live the Church," "Long Live the Pope!" and "Long Live Saint Therese!"

Paris Press Berates U. S. For Debt Duns

PARIS, May 18.—(AP)—America's request for settlement of the war debts is ignored with striking unanimity by the principal morning newspapers, but Excelsior leads a few of the small political organs in criticism of the Washington government for presenting its bill "when France is floundering in a grave financial crisis."

L'Homme Libre, once the organ of Clemenceau, exclaims bitterly:

"It is from us that the country of billionaires is going to ask more billions," and this it terms "the very essence of human egotism."

L'Action Francaise says:

"France is being pushed into Germany's arms," which "will give England a disagreeable surprise."

Alleged Bandits Are Held in Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, May 18.—Three Fort Worth men, charged with burglary of the Peacock bank in Stonewall county three weeks ago, were arrested Sunday in this city.

The men are Arthur Hill, Claude Belton and Claude Action, according to telegraphic warrants received from Aspermont. The charges are filed before Justice of Peace Loury of Aspermont.

The Peacock robbery parallels in many details the bank robberies committed at Crawley, Britton and other North Texas towns during recent months. However, the only charge filed is that at Aspermont.

Girl Injured When She Escapes Boys

SAN ANTONIO, May 18.—One pretty young girl sustained a broken shoulder, with her body a mass of scratches, cuts and bruises, and her companion collapsed and is now in a grave condition and hysterical as the result of the desperate fight they made early Monday in resisting an attempted attack by two youths who had taken them automobile riding.

The girl whose shoulder was broken suffered that injury when she leaped from the car swiftly moving to escape the boys' attack and was hurled to the pavement and knocked unconscious. The other girl was overpowered by the boys and held captive by them until she was dumped unceremoniously out of the car after midnight within a block of her home.

CHICAGO, May 18.—Eugene V. Debs, veteran chieftain of the socialists, will edit a new weekly publication to be known as the "American Appeal," which will be financed by what is called a "revolving fund." Socialists were asked in circulars from party headquarters to invest from $1 to $100 in subscription cards, then sell their cards, reinvest the proceeds in more second cards and continue to sell and buy. Thus, if a member requires the money for other purposes, he may sell the second cards, the announcement stated.

DENISON, Texas, May 18.—Durand Miller, 23, of Dallas, is in the city hospital today in a critical condition as a result of a pistol wound said to have been accidentally inflicted in a residence section here at 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

According to members of the automobile party of which Miller was a member, the young man accidentally discharged a pistol when he was attempting either to load or unload the weapon. The bullet entered his breast beneath the heart and ranged upward. His recovery is doubted.

MARKETS

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, May 18.—The bull movement in stock prices today entered upon its third consecutive week. Continuance of easy money rates, hardening of commodity prices and increasing indications of trade expansion furnished the ground work for the advance.

Two score issues were lifted to new peak prices for the year with the pubici utilities and motors giving the best demonstration of group strength. High priced specialties again recorded the most spectacular gains. Nash Motors soared 21 points to 397, a new record price and more than 200 points above the year's low. Mack Trucks soared nearly 9 points to a new top figure at 173¾.

Net gains of 3 to nearly 7 points were recorded by Bush Terminal, Famous Players, Havana Electric Railway, National Lead, United Fruit, United States Cast Iron Pipe, Utah Securities and West Fenn Power.

With the public imagination fired by rumors of new super-power projects and reports of high current eranings by the principal power and light companies, public utilities were in brisk demand. American Water Works continued its remarkable advance by moving up 3 points to a new high record at 62½, closing near the top. eDtroit Edison, Electric Power and Light certificates, Brooklyn Edison and All-American Cables also betteered their previous 1925 high prices. Virginia Railway and Power was one of the new outstanding weak spots, breaking nearly 17 points to 103 and closing near the bottom.

Activity in the rails was confined to a relatively small number of issues, Frisco common and preferred and Chesapeake and Ohio were bid up to new peak prices for the year while Erie common, Missouri Pacific preferred, Canadian Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line and a few others sold 1 to 2 points higher.

Call money held steady at 3¾ per cent. The time money market was slightly easier, 60 to 90 day funds being quoted on a flat 3¾ per cent basis and the larger dates at 4 per cent.

Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

The foreign exchanges moved within narrow and irregular limits. Demand sterling held firm above $4.85, but French francs were slightly easier around 5.18½ cents. Argentina exchaneg touched a new high on the current movement at 39.90 cents.

Opening: January, 21.55 bid; May, 22.15; July, 22.32; October, 21.47; December, 21.54.

NEW ORLEANS, May 18.—The cotton market was a comparatively narrow affair today until near the close when a burst of activity developed on covering by shorts. The general trend was upward after a moderate recession in the early trading when July eased off to 22.14 and October to 21.38, or 19 to 21 points below Saturday's closing levels. The market strated to improve at the beginning of the second hour and continued on the upgrade with occasional small reactions until in the last quarter hour of trading when the spurt carried July up to 22.60 and October to 21.89 or 46 to 51 points up the lows. The close was practically at the top showing net gains for the day of 25 to 26 points.

The early dip of practically a dollar a bale was due to disappointing cables and to generally favorable weather and crop news. The weather map confirmed this, favorable character of the weather showing dry in the west and fairly wet in the east. The forecast was also favorable, predicting fair and warmer for the west and thunder showers for the east.

Despite the favorable crop advices a fair trade demand developed at the lower levels and this led eventually to covering by shorts which caused a gradual advance in prices. This advance gathered momentum near the end on more general covering by shorts.

Exports today, 21,949 bales.

Governor C. C. Moore of Idaho offers the state of Idaho as a refuge for every homeless child in the United States and for every destitute baby in the crowded east.

Paroled Prisoner Hopes to Become Student of Bible

FORT WORTH, May 19.—From grim prison walls to student life within the sequestered sanctuary of a theological seminary is the dream of Frederick L. Hume, 25. It has already been partially realized for Hulme has been given a parole from the state penitentiary at Auburn, N. Y., and has begun taking a theological course through the extension department of the Baptist seminary in Fort Worth. Later he expects to come to Fort Worth to attend the seminary.

Hulme is the son of a Rochester, N. Y. doctor. He was convicted of second degree manslaughter in 1923, and sentenced to serve an intermediate sentence from five to ten years. Influential friends presented to Governor Al Smith a summary of Hulme's conduct before and after trial and secured a parole. Christian Church Began Vacation School Yesterday

The daily vacation church school of the First Christian church opened Monday morning in a highly successful session, when 110 young people between the ages of 5 and 14 years enrolled in various classes. The school, which meets in the church building at Tenth and Travis, opened Monday morning with a processional played by Miss Iva Willis, after which Wm. Spreen, director of religious education, who is supervising the school, made the opening address to students. Rev. Milo Atkinson then gave the invocation and made an address of welcome to the students.

T. Newton Hill, returned missionary from India, talked to the assembly on "Boys and Girls of India," after which students were assigned to groups and went to their classes. Enrollment was there completed, classes organized, lesson material procured, courses explained, and the lessons for Tuesday assigned. The school is conducted like the public school summer session, with classes in the morning which begin and close promptly, regular lessons which must be brought up on good fashion for credit, with written work and class recitations. There are two sessions each morning of two and one-half hours each separated by a fifteen-minute intermission. For the younger students the intermission serves as a lunch period, and for the older ones, a recess period for directed play and physical education.

Church worship, Bible study, story telling, expression, dramatics, music, are taught the children, and a course of special value is the one on Americanization, or "A Good American Citizen's Law." A course in art, handcraft and basketry has been added to the curriculum and will be taught by Mrs. Luther Hoffman. Misses Fern Sides and Alice Downing. The faculty for the school has been chosen with great care by Mr. Spreen, and represents trained and able leadership. Classes will continue through the month of June.

U. S. Has Greatest Monetary System, Harrell Tells Club

"The United States today has the best monetary system the world has ever known through the federal reserve system of banking," J. T. Harrell told Kiwanians at their noon meeting Monday at the Kemp hotel. Mr. Harrell, who is president of the chamber of commerce and vice-president of the City National bank, addressed the club on the principles of banking traced through the ages and down to modern times.

Banking Is Old.

The establishment of the first banking principles and methods began with the early Babylonians, the Greeks, Romans and the Chinese, Mr. Harrell declared. In Amsterdam in the fourteenth century the first trust vault was opened, where metals were deposited and receipts issued for them which were then circulated similar to our bank notes. Tracing banking beginnings through England to America, the speaker stated that the first bank in the United States was the Bank of North America founded in the eighteenth century for which the government subscribed a third of the stock.

"The greatest problem in all banking is the stabilizing of the circulating medium. The national bank act which took the abused power to issue currency from the reckless state banks and put it safely in the hands of the national banks was most successful, but has been bettered by the federal reserve system whose purpose and principles are correct. These banks can issue currency when necessary, and more important still can retire circulation when needed. After the war the federal reserve banks went to the extreme in encouraging re-discounting, thus making credit too easy, but this has been remedied.

City Banks Good.

"The banks in Wichita Falls are in splendid shape. There is enough money here to satisfy every legitimate use.

"A banker's relation to his clientele is of the most intimate sort, and thus a banker's relation is different to the community than other professional men. Bankers give as much free service, and more than men of other professions."

Dr. F. R. Collard, vice-president, presided at the meeting and at his request, Frank Quiesser, secretary, announced that ex. Fred T. Dateon had been appointed "director general" to finish up the drive for day nursery funds.

Mrs. Jouette Bonner played two highly enjoyable violin solos, a negro spiritual, "Nobody Knows De Trouble I've Seen," and an Italian number, "The Jest." Her sister, Mrs. Ben Bell, played the piano accompaniments.

He found her in a back room, her throat cut, the door locked, a bloody razor beside her, Graff added.

New School Bond Election Called Here As First Is Rejected

As a result of a technical flaw in the original order, resulting in the issue being refused approval by the attorney general, Wichita Falls voters must again ratify a $500,000 bond issue to be used in expanding public school facilities here. The new election was called for June 20 at a meeting of the board of education held Monday afternoon.

The original issue, submitted for a vote and carried on April 25, was thrown out by the attorney general's department because the order calling the election said "improving grounds and streets." The ruling held that such a stipulation should not be included in the order, although it admitted the necessity of a part of the funds used in school expansion would necessarily go toward paving streets and improving grounds.

W. B. Chauncey, president of the board, and W. W. Brown, secretary, stated last night that the new election would in no way delay plans of the board for its big improvement program here. No difficulty is anticipated in securing another ratification of the issue.

In Span of Life, Depew, 91, Sees Great Changes In The Relations Between Nations

NEW YORK, May 18.—Although asserting that he could "distinctly remember eighty years of life," Chauncey M. Depew spoke at a luncheon of the Pilgrim's Society of the United States today with a vigor and a sparkling with of which any man half his age might well be proud. The luncheon was in honor of the British delegates to the international police conference.

Throughout Mr. Depew's address which he delivered in a resonant voice giving little evidence of his 91 years and with firm features which forcibly pointed his remarks, the tenor of his thought was the increasing bond between America and Great Britain during the period of his life.

As an example of this growth in friendship, Mr. Depew told the story of a Des Moines glove manufacturer who went up to King George at the Wembley exposition and said:

"King, how are you, I want you to meet my son."

"Now, suppose," said Mr. Depew, "when we were closer officially, but not so close in spirit, some colonial had tried to approach George III and shake his hand. He would have gone to the tower and never got out. George V, is a democrat and he said: 'glad to see you. Is your family well?' that's kin across the sea." Speaking again of changes for the better that have occurred during his life time, Mr. Depew said that international relationship used largely to be made up of "royalty, pageants and victories and war but now the world is on a different basis. The people who have a solid interest are running it. We are trying to get away from war and to maintain peace and to promote industry, production, prosperity and happiness."

Mr. Depew said that the greatest missions ever sent to the United States across the sea was that headed by Stanley Baldwin which announced that Great Britain intended to pay every penny of her debts.

New Clues Tighten Net of Evidence on Dallas Negro Pair

DALLAS, May 18.—A pistol, "billy club," two skull caps and blood smeared underwear were found here late today by detectives investigating Frank Noel and his brother, Lorenzo Noel, negroes, held in connection with the slaying of W. L. Milstead and Ryan Adkins and attacks on their women companions, Mrs. Mabel Berry and Mrs. Steer, respectively. The articles were found in servant houses formerly occupied by the negroes wives.

Officers said bullets in the pistol are identical of the bullet taken from Milstead's body and that they believe the billy club was the instrument used in beating Adkins to death on the night of April 12. Milstead was killed April 18.

Authorities announced today that they recovered a watch taken by negro robbers from Vernon Wood and a purse owned by J. P. Mahon. Both men identified Frank Noel as the robber, while Mrs. Mabel Berry identified him as her assailant. Mrs. Mary Steer was not positive that Frank Noel was the one who attacked her.

District Attorney Shelby Cox and detectives presented evidence to the Dallas county grand jury, but no indictment was returned today.

Although the authorities expressed confidence that sufficient evidence has been collected to obtain indictment of the negroes, they said they expected more conclusive evidence within 48 hours. The negroes are being held incommunicado in the city jail.
