Suit filed against locals

The Farmer's Cooperative Association of Stanton, Texas and its employee, George Williams have filed suit in federal court in Abilene for amounts "in excess of" $40,000, naming highway patrolmen James Burson and Thomas Johnson, the J&R Dossy Wrecking Company and Mitchell County Sheriff Wendell Bryant.

The suit calls for four amounts "in excess of $10,000," plus reasonable attorney's fees and costs of court. So worded, the suit could involve much more than $40,000.

The suit alleges the affair began on January

2nd, when Williams working as a truck driver for the Farmer's Coop, was hauling cotton on a flatbed trailer to Colorado City. He had unloaded his cotton at Colorado City and was returning to Stanton, when he received word over his CB radio that something was causing sparks under his trailer. He pulled over to the side and found that a load chain had come loose and was dragging on the pavement. He secured the cable and was returning to the cab of the truck along the right side of the truck, when patrolmen Burson and Johnson approached him. They told him they were stopping him for running 75 MPH in a 55 mile zone.

Williams refused to sign the ticket, which the suit says "falsely accused him of speeding." It should be said here that signing a traffic ticket is customary and is not a confession of guilt. The suit does not say that Williams did or did not know this.

The truck was towed into town by the Dossy Wrecking Company and The Farmer's Coop alleges that while it was out of the possession of its employee damages to the truck and the loss

School enrollment up 5 percent over last year

Colorado City school enrollment is up five percent over last year, according to Superintendent of Schools Charles Useton. The figure for enrollment as of August 30th is 1,461.

"In fact," Useton says, "we have to go back to January 26th, 1979, to beat it. On that date, we had 1,489."

In a time of declining enrollment for Abilene and some other area schools, Useton says that he's happy that we're more than holding our own.

Useton says that the increase in enrollment may require hiring another teacher.

Useton said that another new feature of this year's school year is that the schools are giving the student a little more school time.

"This is a coming thing," he said. "In high school, we've gone to a seven period school day instead of a six period school day."

"This allows the student to pick up an additional elective," he said, "and is particularly valuable to the student taking band and athletics."

This student, he said, was left with only four periods in which to cram his electives and required subjects.

High School Principal Jerry Reynolds says that students with the extra period have sent computer classes surging from one to three and that typing, Spanish and business courses are filled up. Reynolds says the extra period allows most everybody to take something that he wants to take, but wouldn't ordinarily have room for.

"There's more flexibility in scheduling," Reynolds says.

He said that teachers do more work, but they have accepted it "real well."

He said that the state will probably require three maths instead of two for graduation next

Railhead Arts & Crafts expected to be better

Colorado City's annual Railhead Arts and Crafts Roundup this coming October 8 and 9 promises to be even better than previous years. Already many varied arts and crafts are represented in the reserations that have been received and, so far, 14 other towns will send their craftsmen to Colorado City.

The exhibitors coming the farthest distance will be from El Paso and Hillsboro, New Mexico, but many others come from towns closer by, including Slaton, Ranger, Gardendale, Haskell, Lubbock, San Angelo, Big Spring, Odessa, Midland, Wink, Crane, Abilene and Gustine.

There will be pastel, watercolor and oil paintings, pen and ink drawings, ceramics and porcelains, all sorts of wood crafts and painted jewelry. A new food booth this year will offer homemade candies.

Chairman J. O. Dockrey is especially happy with several unusual crafts: boutique eggs, metal and silk flowers, western clocks, and miniature houses custom made and to-scale replicas. The accessories to these miniature houses include such things as light bulbs as small as grains of rice. Every effort has been made to solicit interesting activities and there will be at least two demonstrations really worth the visitors' attention: Nan-

"The King and I" enjoyed by many

The Playhouse production of "The King and I" proved to be a hit with local theatre goers as seven out of the eight performances were sold out.

Approximately 1,242 people attended the eight performances an average of 155 per night according to Playhouse treasurer Elaine Kelly.

Director Carl Moore stated, "everything went extremely well. The actors and actresses were very consistent and the audience was highly enthusiastic. I feel we proved to the public that we can really do a lot with our theatre since we remodeled it."

Joy Piland attended one of the performances and commented that "the stage set and props were excellent. I think the addition to the playhouse was definitely for the best. The acting was superb and I enjoyed it tremendously."

Another local citizen who attended the production was Debbie Denson. "I liked it quite well. There was a lot of good talent and it's a

St. Ann's Festival slated Sept. 17

St. Ann's Annual Fall Festival will be held at the Mitchell County Ag Barn on West Highway 80 on September 17 and 18, with festivities beginning at 11 a.m. on Saturday and continuing through Sunday night.

Many activities are planned for the two-day affair, including food booths featuring Mexican favorites such as menudo, burritos and tamales, carnival booths, a cake walk and possibly a dunking booth.

The annual queen contest will also be held and the queen will be announced at 10 p.m., Saturday, September 17.

The two girls vying for the title of St. Ann's Queen are Amanda Ornelas and Gina Gilstrap.

Miss Ornelas is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Ornelas. She is 16 years old and a junior at Colorado High School. Some of her school activities include playing the flute in the band, FTA, Spanish Club, Wolverines and office machines.

She entered the contest to help raise money for St. Ann's and because it would be fun.

Car washes, raffles, softball tournaments and bake sales are just some of the activities she has sponsored to raise money for the contest.

Gina Gilstrap is the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gilstrap. She is an eighth grader at Colorado Middle School.

She has conducted car washes, bake sales and a dance in Snyder to help her raise money.

Large crowd is expected at park

Attendance is expected to be around 12,000-14,000 this Labor Day weekend at the Colorado City State Park, according to State Park Superintendent Bill Griffin.

"We are expecting a large turnout. This is one of our biggest holidays along with Easter, July 4th and Memorial Day," stated Griffin.

Griffin stated that on holidays, the park normally gets approximately 12,000 visitors. Last Labor Day weekend 13,000 visitors visited the State Park.

On a normal weekend the park usually has 7,000-8,000 visitors. This year park attendance is up 21.2 percent, according to Griffin. The park has 132 campsites, and all of them have been reserved for one week.

The water level at the State Park is 2061.20, down from its capacity of 2070.00. The temperature is 90 degrees, although the water is cooler at the upper end of the lake because the warm water does not spread that far, according to Texas Electric Power Plant officials. The water level at Lake Champion is 2077.70, down from its capacity of 2083.00. The water temperature is approximately 75-80 degrees.

Griffin cautioned park visitors that road construction is going on at the State Park and apologized for the inconvenience.

Rates at the State Park are $4 per night for a campsite with electricity and $3 per night for a campsite without electricity. There is a $2 entry fee to the park. Griffin also stated that no visitors are allowed into the park after 10 p.m. unless they have a campsite.

So the State Park and Lake Champion are both set for a big Labor Day weekend for water lovers all around.

of use of the truck totaled $15,000.

Williams was taken to the Mitchell County Jail and held for two days until a bond could be brought from Stanton to Colorado City.

Williams was released and the truck released ed to him. He found that the truck did not drive satisfactorily and was forced to drive back to Stanton at speeds of from 12 to 35 miles per hour.

Williams took a polygraph examination for his own firm, so that they could determine the truth or falsehood of the charges against Williams and the statements that he had made to them. The polygraph firm made a favorable report to the Farmer's Coop and charges were dismissed at Colorado City.

Sheriff Bryant said, in effect, that he was "just an innocent bystander," and that he had little to do with the whole thing, except "they were placed in my jail."

Tom Johnson said "The whole affair is being handled by the DPS in Austin." He would not comment further.

EXTINGUISHING THE BLAZE—Members of the Colorado City Volunteer Fire Department spray water on a 1969 Chevrolet Impala owned by Ms. Sandra Barker. The vehicle caught on fire at approximately 8 a.m. Friday at the Colorado High School parking lot.

Hill, Taylor united in candlelight ceremony

The First Baptist Church of Loraine was the setting for the wedding of Shelia Marie Hill and Stanley Allen Taylor. Rev. David McNary read the double ring vows at the 7 p.m. candlelight ceremony, Saturday, September 3.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Lester (Bud) Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Willis Taylor.

A 15 branch candlelabrum centered the altar with two heart shaped candlelabrum on each side. Each held white candles and were adorned with greenery, orchid blossoms and large bows. A brass pedestal held a memory candle in the center and was lit by the couple at the end of the ceremony. Two crystal vases held lavender arrangements along with small floating votive candles complementing the organ and piano areas. Completing the setting were two 9 branch votive candlelabrum and baskets of greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a white formal length gown of organza accented with silk lace and featuring a scooped neckline. Chantilly lace graced the long sheer sleeves. The skirt featured chantilly lace and organza ruffles flowing into an attached chapel train. She wore a headpiece of pouf chantilly lace with a veil of soft illusion falling into a cathedral length. She wore her great grandmother's ring and borrowed a pearl necklace from her mother. She tied blue bows on her slip. Her dress was new.

She also wore pennies in her shoe of she and the groom's birthdates.

She carried a bouquet of white silk roses and carnations accented with baby's breath, pale lavender blossoms and satin and lace streamers tied in love knots and lily-of-the valley.

Soloist was Teresa Clifton accompanied on the piano by Sherry Hackfeld. Her selections were "If" and "The Rose." Mrs. Barry Pennell, sister of the groom presented "The Twelfth of Never" on the flute accompanied by Alta Miles on the organ as mothers of the couple were seated. Mrs. Miles played a medley of contemporary love songs as guests were seated and presented the traditional processional and recessional wedding marches. Ms. Pennell also registered guests.

Melanie Oliver, served as maid of honor. Attendants were Lee Ann Hill, sister of the bride; Lindy Wallace of Anson, Rachel Lujan of Colorado City. They wore identical lavender floor length gowns of lace over taffeta with scooped necklines and short puffed sleeves. The skirt flowed with rows of tiers. Each wore a lavender head piece accented with baby's breath and ribbon. They carried arrangements of lavender flowers, baby's breath and fern.

Flower girl was Melissa McKinney, niece of the bride. She carried a white lavender lined basket filled with flower petals. She was attired in an ankle length dress of candlelight accented with lavender ribbon. She wore a halo of lavender blossoms and baby's breath.

The bridegroom wore a solid gray tuxedo with white pleated shirt, gray tie and adorned with a boutonniere of white and lavender rosebuds.

Best man was Dwayne Smith. Groomsman were Rodney Taylor, brother of the groom, Pat Terry and Greg Bruce. They wore tuxedos with black pants, gray jackets and white pleated shirts. Boutonnieres were white carnations with a lavender rosebud.

B. J. McKinney, nephew of the bride served as ring bearer. Lighting candles were Justin Bradbury and Wendy Bradbury, nephew and niece of the bride. Ushers were Leslie Bruce and Barry Pennell, brother-in-law of the groom.

Mothers of the couple wore floor length gowns and corsages of lavender and white blossoms. Mrs. Hill chose a lavender gown featuring a V-neckline, sheer long sleeves and a softly gathered skirt. Mrs. Taylor wore a dark lavender taffeta gown with squared embroidery neckline, short puffed sleeves and a softly gathered skirt. Mrs. Annie

Mae Hill, grandmother of the bride from Lamesa wore a street length dress of gray paisley print adorned with a white rosebud corsage. The bride presented a rose to her mother as she entered and a rose to her new mother-in-law following the ceremony.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall following the ceremony.

The bride's table was laid in a lavender cloth with ruffled hem and adorned with an antique lace cloth. A two tiered wedding cake sat atop a flowing fountain. Four smaller cakes adorned the fountain with streamers reaching from them to the doves setting atop the tiers. Punch, mints and cake were served by Martina Vallejo, Margie Oliver and Kim Hartman of Bronte. The centerpiece was a large vase with a candle surrounded by lavender blossoms. The groom's table was laid in a brown gathered cloth overlaid in an antique lace cloth. A lavender floral arrangement centered the table accented by brass candlesticks. German chocolate cake, fresh fruit, nuts and mints were served by Sheila Martin and Mrs. Tim Taylor, sister-in-law of the groom.

The bride chose a long sleeve lilac dress trimmed in white lace and sash as her going away ensemble.

After a honeymoon trip to New Mexico, the couple will make their home in Colorado City.

Both are 1982 graduates of Loraine High School. The bride recently graduated from TSTI majoring in dental assistance. The groom operates Stan's "66" and "Stan's Detailing" in Colorado City.

Out of town guests were from Lamesa, San Antonio, Lubbock, Odessa, Midland, Arlington and Snyder.

Marian's Memos

By Marian Morris

The nutrient needs of athletes are basically the same as those of non-athletes. All high school students, including athletes, should eat a balanced diet. During intensive training and performance, athletes need more calories, water, sodium, potassium and calcium to maintain body weight. But excessive increases in protein, vitamins or minerals may be harmful.

The classifieds are a dream come true

Athletes don't need special or fad diets. The American Medical Association Committee on Medical Aspects of Sports recommends that an athlete's diet should have enough calories to satisfy his or her energy requirements. About 15 percent of those calories would come from protein, 35 percent from fat and 50 percent from carbohydrates. Athletes should not use dietary supplements such as salt tablets or high protein powders unless they are recommended by a physician.

The major dietary need of athletes is for increased calories. The more exercise done, the more calories required.

Usually an athlete's appetite will increase their servings of the basic food groups—especially fruits, vegetables and breads or cereals—to meet this need. They should avoid eating too many foods high in fats.

Athletes require more water during heavy exercise because sweating is the way the body rids itself of the extra heat. Water lost by sweat needs to be replaced so the body temperature will not go beyond normal limits. For every 1,000 calories of food eaten, the athlete should drink a minimum of one quart of water.

Meals should be eaten at least three hours before a game or athletic event to allow for proper digestion. Athletes should avoid heavy fat, protein or gas-forming foods such as cabbage, broccoli or dried beans, and increase fluid consumption.

Remember, there are no miracle foods or supplements that will insure that an athlete will win a competition. But just plain, good nutrition can make every athlete a "winner."

WATCH YOUR DIET

Four-year-old Alison Hann complained to her parents one day that he stomach hurt. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Hann of Hornchurch, England, took Alison to a doctor for examination. The doctor came back from making an X-ray of Alison's stomach and explained to Mr. and Mrs. Hann why her stomach hurt. The doctor told the girl's parents that she had swallowed 28 beads, a dog's bone, three plastic toy bricks, a deflated balloon, a toy dog, eight coins, some bird seed, sand, and leaves. No wonder her stomach hurt!

We have learned that we are created so that we put food in our stomach we can expect our bodies to turn that food into energy that will enable us to perform our work, run our brain, and build our body. But fill that same stomach with beads, bones, toy bricks, deflated balloons, toy dogs, coins, bird seeds, sand, and leaves...and the result will be disastrous.

We may not realize, however, that there is another dimension to man. Some call that dimension the spirit of man. If one nurtures that spirit with love and devotion and dedication it will grow and give us motivation to perform positive acts for ourselves, our fellowman, and our Creator. But full that spiritual dimension of man with filthy reading, selfish greed, hatred, jealousy, impure thoughts, indifference and other junk...and you will come up with a spiritual tummy ache, which is not properly cared for will kill the soul.

Your church may not be all it could be, but it can offer you some nourishing food for the soul!

Cook's Corner

Walker likes cooking for company

Melvalene Walker

Melvalene Walker, wife of Lance Walker, is a busy woman when it comes to cooking. She has four children, Brenda Sparks, Barbara Oden, Junior Walker and Carla Sanders and eight grandchildren.

Mrs. Walker began cooking while in Home Economics in high school and from her mother.

She stated that she loved cooking and she said "I always cook a lot because I never know just how many will be here. Sometimes people just drop by so I want to be sure I have enough to eat."

Canning things such as apricots is one of her favorites in the kitchen.

"I don't really have a favorite dish to make. I usually fix whatever my family wants." She also mentioned that she liked cooking for special occasions such as Thanksgiving and Christmas. "My grandchildren love my cookies that I bake for Christmas because I take extra time to decorate them. I usually start baking several weeks ahead to be sure everything is set and ready when I need it."

Her husband's favorite is her hot rolls recipes. "He could make a meal out of them." She stated that he also helped out in the kitchen and his specialty was chili.

Today she is sharing three of favorite recipes with RECORD readers.

Add flour and mix well. Grease the top of the dough with shortening and cover with a clean dry cloth. Let dough rise double its size.

Pour out on a floured board and knead well. Make out in shape of rolls. Put in a greased pan. (Make sure the tops are greased good). Let rise double its size.

Cook in moderate oven until golden brown. Take out and brush the tops with butter.

BROWNIES

2 c. sugar
1 stick oleo
3 eggs (beaten)
1 c. flour (sifted)

FRUIT COCKTAIL CAKE

1½ c. sugar
1½ t. soda
Sift well together in bowl. Beat 2 eggs well and add to mixture. Add can of Fruit Cocktail (17 oz.) including juice. Mix well and pour in greased floured pan. Bake 45 minutes at 325.

FRUIT COCKTAIL ICING

1 stick oleo

94th Bomb Group to hold reunion in Oct.

Airmen who served with a bomber group of the Eighth Air Force in England some 40 years ago will relive World War II experiences at a reunion of wartime friends October 14-16 in Dallas.

Hundreds will attend the fifth biennial reunion of the 94th Bomb Group Memorial Association at the North Park Inn, Dallas.

When World War II ended, thousands who had served with the 94th returned to homes throughout the U.S. Their memories of wartime service dimmed with the passing years. Then about 8½ years ago some of the 94th "exes" decided to revive those memories and rekindle the flame of comradeship that had helped to win the Allied victory in Europe.

From a handful of organizers, the 94th Bomb Group Memorial Association has grown to almost 2,300 members with known current addresses. They published a detailed history of the group and started a quarterly newspaper titled "Nostalgic Notes." They are constantly on the lookout for "lost souls"—those former comrades who are alive but missing from the membership directory.

Detailed information on the Dallas reunion and sample copies of the newspaper are available from: 94th BGMA, 433 N.W. 33rd Street, Corvallis, Oregon 97330.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Five specific areas in social studies are covered on the GED test. These are U.S. history, political science, economics, geography, and behavioral science. It would take many years of study to become an expert in each area; however, you can pass the GED social studies test if you have some basic knowledge in social studies, and the ability to read carefully. The same basic skills for reading comprehension that were discussed in the Reading Skills and Science sections, also apply to Social Studies. Note: There may be some questions that require prior knowledge of the social studies area.

DISCRETE ITEMS

Major cities tend to develop near which of the following geographic features?

- (A) mountain ranges
- (B) bodies of water
- (C) deserts
- (D) tropical rain forests
- (E) tundra

PROBLEM 2

In disagreements with management, labor can use all of the following except

- (A) picketing
- (B) boycotting the goods sold by a particular company
- (C) striking for higher wages
- (D) lockout of the plant
- (E) calling in sick for many days

PROBLEM 3

Which of the following would be a common reason for a drop in the prime interest rate to businessmen?

- (A) in order to boost demand for loans
- (B) to decrease the national debt
- (C) to slow down the demand for money
- (D) a cold war tactic against Russia
- (E) to improve the balance of payments

SHORT PASSAGES

Some of the Social Studies Test consists of short passages of less than 100 words. You will be asked to read a passage and draw conclusions based on statements and implications used in the passage. The questions on the short passages will most likely require you to do one of the following:

- (A) make inferences—covered in lesson on Reading Skills
- (B) choose the main idea of the passage—covered in "Reading Skills"
- (C) choose the best title for the passage
- (D) select the identity of the person who might have spoken or written the passage
- (E) apply your knowledge (recall) in social studies by selecting the correct cause of an event
- (F) prior knowledge

EXAMPLE

Wife: Every time I go shopping, the prices are higher. I wonder if this inflation will ever end.

Husband: Prices go up and my salary is buying less and less. If this continues, we'll have to start cutting back on our food and clothing.

Wife: I don't know how much more I can cut out of our weekly food shopping. Let's face it. I've got to go out and get a job. Maybe with two salaries we can finally start to pay off some of our bills.

Husband: I don't like the idea at all, but what else can we do? The statement that best expresses the idea of the passage is

- (A) The husband feels that his wife should not work.
- (B) Complaining may not help, but it makes you feel better.
- (C) Inflation means that more money may be the only solution.
- (D) You can't win over inflation.
- (E) Careful budgeting is the only way to fight inflation.

The best answer is (C) inflation means that more money may be the only solution. It's the best answer because the husband and wife believe that earning more money may be the only answer. Choice (A) is a possible answer; however, although the husband is unhappy that his wife must find a job, he realized there is no other choice. Choice (E) is also a possible answer, but as the wife says, she already has been budgeting and it hasn't helped.

EXERCISE 1

Education, then, beyond other devices of human origin, is a great equalizer of the conditions of men—the balance wheel of the social machinery. It gives each man the independence and the means by which he can resist the selfishness of other men.

Horace Mann, 1848

PROBLEM 1

Which of the following is the most accurate statement regarding the quotation?

- (A) Education will solve all of an individual's problems.
- (B) Without education, a man means little in our society.
- (C) Education gives a person an opportunity to rise above his condition.
- (D) A wealthy man must receive an education in order to remain ahead of a poor man.
- (E) The man that wrote the quotation is a dangerous individual and should not be permitted to say such things.

EXERCISE 2

Africa's political heritage indicates that a one-party democracy is a possible, even attractive, choice. Even though it does not imitate the multi-party systems of most western nations, it does satisfy the African's need for a voice in the control of their country. It gives people a chance to be heard at the lowest levels of political organization, the village council. Then their needs and views are brought up through an ever-narrowing structure or administration until they can be reviewed and implemented on a national scale.

This is not to suggest that multi-party democracy does not also exist in Africa.

GIANT STEP 12

Some nations, such as the Gambia, Upper Volta, Nigeria, and Mauritius, have two or more parties that represent different viewpoints on national development and political philosophy. Nevertheless, in countries that have a more or less unified sense of where they are going, and have only a limited amount of resources to call upon, support for one-party rule is very strong.

PROBLEM 1

An appropriate title for the passage would be:

- (A) How People Live in Africa
- (B) One-party Government in Africa
- (C) Democracy Comes to Africa
- (D) African Unity
- (E) Operation of Democracy in Africa

PROBLEM 2

According to the passage, all of the following are logical conclusions about governments except:

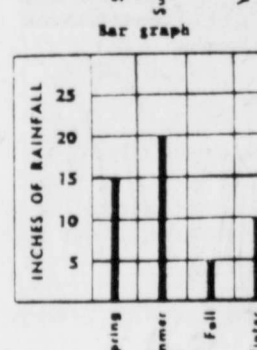

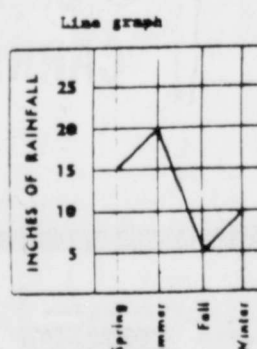

- (A) African democracies are not based on the same model as the United States democracy
- (B) Having only one political party does not mean that the opinions of minority groups are not heard
- (C) Nations that have more than one political party don't have a sense of where they are going
- (D) Many African nations have no need for a two-party system
- (E) Africans have developed governments tailored to the unique characteristics of Africa

GRAPHIC SELECTIONS

The Social Studies Test includes charts and graphs since they are an important device in social studies research.

Much information can be gained from graphs. Graphs are simple if you remember that a graph always compares two kinds of information. Interpreting the graph requires that you identify the subject of the graph by reading the title and then note how one kind of information is compared to the other. On the line graph below, note that the quantity is compared to time. The line shows inches of rainfall in relation to the season of the year.

Bar graphs are similar to line graphs. The only difference is that bars rather than lines are used to show the information. Compare the bar graph to the line graph. It is clear that the information is the same. A line connecting the top of the bars would appear the same as the line in the graph.

Refer to the graphs above and answer the following questions.

PROBLEMS

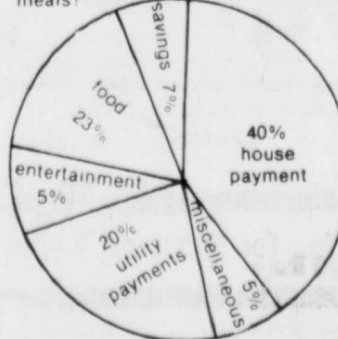

1. The greatest amount of rainfall fell during the
2. The total rainfall for the year was
3. The driest season of the year was
4. How much more rain fell in winter than in fall?
5. Which two seasons combined produced most of the annual rainfall?
6. Judging from the information presented by these graphs, which season is probably the poorest for outdoor sports?

EXERCISE 2

Pie or circle graphs show in what proportions something is divided. The pie graph below shows a graph of a family budget and each of the monthly expenditures. Keep in mind that all the percentages must add up to 100%.

PROBLEMS

1. The second most expensive item in this budget is
2. An equal amount is spent for entertainment as is spent for
3. Under which category of spending would you put expenditures for restaurant meals?

JV puts the bite to Slaton

The Wolves junior varsity football team captured a 12-7 win in their season opener versus the Slaton Tigers here Thursday night at Wolf Stadium.

The running of Sammy Rivera and some hard nosed defensive play helped pave the way to victory. Rivera rushed for over 130 yards and the stingy Wolf defense kept Slaton from scoring two times inside their 15-yard-line in the final 12 minutes.

With the Pack leading 12-7 with 1:47 remaining in the third quarter, the home team foiled the first Slaton scoring attempt. The Tigers started a drive from their own 30 and moved the ball to the Wolves 12.

But on the next play, a Slaton back was hit hard, fumbled and line-backer Rivera recovered.

Slaton's second scoring attempt was stopped late in the fourth quarter following another Wolf fumble at the 20. Facing a fourth and five situation from the Wolves' 15, Slaton tried a dive up the middle, but the play was topped by the entire middle of the Wolf defense, preserving the victory for the Pack.

The Pack got in trouble early in the contest as they fumbled the ball on their own 5. The Tigers quickly moved in for the touchdown. After the extra point, Slaton had a 7-0 lead with 9:05 remaining in the second quarter.

On their next possession, the Pack marched 65 yards for their first touchdown of the season. Rivera got the last 30 for the score. The try for two was no good.

With 5:26 left before the half, the Wolves mounted their winning scoring drive from their own 45. Rivera gained 30 yards in two carries including a 20 yard run that carried down to the Slaton 1. Rivera later went in for the score, which ended the scoring for the night.

Leading the Wolves' defensive charge was Rivera, defensive tackle Albert Rivera and line-backer Raymond Martinez.

GOING UP—Wolf freshmen defensive back Marty Clecker goes up high with a Slaton receiver to thwart a pass attempt in Thursday night football action. Slaton defeated the Pack 28-14.

Freshmen Wolves fall to Slaton Tigers

The Wolves freshmen football team faltered late in the contest as they fell to a tough Slaton team by a score of 28-14 in the season opener Thursday night at Wolf Stadium.

The Tigers scored two touchdowns in the fourth quarter to seal the Wolves' doom. The first fourth quarter touchdown came after a Tiger interception at the Wolf 30. It took the visitors three plays before they could put the ball in the end zone. The scoring play coming on a 20 yard run, the try for two was foiled.

Following a good run back by the Wolves Larry Mayes to the 40, the Pack fumbled and Slaton recovered at the Wolves 35. The Tigers went on to score on a 22 yard scoring pass to reassure them of the victory.

Slaton reached paydirt first with 1:38 remaining in the first quarter. A Slaton running back broke several tackles to ramble 43 yards for a score. The try for two was good and the score stood 8-0.

Defense helped the Pack tie the count later on in the second stanza when linebacker Reggie Gardner picked off a Tiger pass at the Slaton 12. Three plays later Gardner got the scoring honors from nine yards out. The try for two was good as quarterback Michael Swann rolled left and found Terry Jackson to knot the game.

In the third quarter following a Slaton touchdown, the Wolves got into scoring position when Jackson returned a punt 45 yards to the Tiger three. Swann "bootlegged" in for the score. The try for two failed.

Volleyballers lose season opener

The Colorado City Wolves varsity volleyball girls found the going rough here Tuesday night at Wolf Gym as they met up with a tough group of Lady Mustangs from Andrews and fell in two straight matches 15-6, 15-1.

The highly regarded Mustangs came into the contest with a 9-3 record, including a victory over state ranked 5A Abilene Cooper, the Wolves' next opponent Tuesday.

It was not one of the Pack's better performances as they could never get anything started as indicated by Andrews jumping out to a 9-0 lead in the first match and a 7-1 lead in the second match. The Pack had a hard time serving, passing the ball and setting. "We had a bad workout Monday and I guess it carried over to Tuesday's game," said Wolf coach George Martin. "I was displeased with the way we handled ourselves. We didn't relay the ball and we weren't moving."

The Andrews front line simply overpowered the Pack as they killed shot after shot against the home team. To make matters worse, the Wolves' serving was not up to par, as they had six serves that went into the net or fell out of bounds as compared to only two for the Lady Mustangs.

Things started out slow for the Wolves as Andrews grabbed a 2-0 lead. The Pack's first two servers Carla Calaway and Lynn Scott both failed to get the ball into play. That's when an Andrews player served seven consecutive points and the Lady Mustangs had a 9-0 bulge.

The Wolves finally picked up their first point of the game as setter Traci Blackwell served a hard shot into the middle of the Andrews defense for a point. After side-out, Sheri Morris scored a point, but could not score on the next serve despite two powerful blocks by Robyn Turner.

With the count standing 13-2, Blackwell served three points, including two aces to cut the lead to 13-5. The Pack got their last point on Turner's serve aided by a nice down the line shot by Scott. But it was not enough as Andrews went on to the victory.

The second match was all Andrews after the Pack scored the first point of the contest on a serve by Denise Jackson. From then on, it was all Andrews as they scored 15 unanswered points.

"The effort was there, but mechanically we had problems. Andrews is one of the best teams we will play all year," concluded Martin.

In the junior varsity contest, the Lady Mustangs ran away with two consecutive matches 15-3, 15-4.

"We had an off night. We didn't move as well as we should have, but the girls showed a lot of effort," stated coach Linda Mathis.

Scoring for the Wolves were Yvonne Lujan three, Yolanda Lee, two and Cheryl Bentley and Diane Gregory with one point each.

The freshmen contest was Andrews in two matches 15-1, 15-7 to make a clean sweep for the Lady Mustangs.

The freshmen put on a gallant comeback in the second match as they were down 14-1, but battled back to cut the deficit to 14-7 before Andrews finally won the contest.

Scoring for the Pack were Carmen Reyes and Robin Edwards, two points each and Hollie Tarter and Sally Mendoza one point each.

"I was pleased with the effort in the beginning of the match," stated Mathis. "We looked good for the first seven points. We passed, set and spiked the ball. But then the girls got behind, missed some serves and got excited."

All of the Wolves teams record stand at 1-1 for the year. The next scheduled game is Tuesday at Wolf Gym starting at 5 p.m. with the freshmen versus Sweetwater. The junior varsity and varsity will follow versus Abilene Cooper.

UP AND OVER—Wolves senior spiker Robyn Turner (11) returns a spike attempt against Andrews Tuesday night at Wolf Gym. Also pictured are Sheri Morris (2) and Sherry Fite (8). The Lady Mustangs went on to defeat Colorado City 15-6, 15-1.

Rowe looking for bigger things

Gary Rowe with his saddle and belt buckle won for being a World Champion

So during the summer after he graduated from CHS in 1982, he competed in rodeos because without football he had all the time he needed for rodeos. Gary did so well, he impressed the rodeo coach at Western Texas College in Snyder so much that he offered him a scholarship. He turned down a scholarship to another good rodeo school, Tarleton State University to attend Western Texas.

At WTC he competed in the steer wrestling and calf roping events and he and his teammates finished second in their National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association region. He placed high in rodeos hosted by Tarleton State University and Texas Tech and a few others.

What does it take to be a good calf roper? "Well, it takes a lot of work and hard practice," stated Gary. Rowe works out at least two hours each day practicing his roping. "You have to have a lot of determination and athletic ability, and sometimes luck of the draw plays a big part in it. If you draw a bad calf, one that kicks or runs too hard then it can be a lot of trouble."

Isn't wrestling down an 800 pound steer a pretty risky event for a fellow that weighs 160 pounds? "You don't have to be big, you have to have timing. It has to be like clockwork. You just grab his horns and twist his neck," he said as a smile crept across his face. His only serious injury came when he got a horn stuck in his kidney and stayed in the hospital one day.

Although Gary credits his dad for teaching him the tricks of the trade, he credits local resident Joe Anderson for teaching him the finer points on roping. "I learned a lot from Joe Anderson. I practice with him and he has shown me a lot." Anderson is a former professional cowboy.

You here a lot about how much money Cowboys win in rodeos. But the truth is they put a lot into the field in order to get something out of it. Sometimes a good roping horse, truck and trailer may run a cowboy as much as $30,000.

Since this is his last year of eligibility on the Mitchell County has a world champion of its own a young man that lives right here in Colorado City.

His name is Gary Rowe and recently after the American Junior Rodeo Association standings had been tallied up, he was proclaimed Reserve World Champion in steer wrestling and finished fifth in calf roping. The amazing thing about this feat is that Gary has been an active rodeoer for only three years.

Rowe, the 19-year-old son of Nubbin and Mary Rowe has been on the AJRA tour that has taken him such places as El Paso, Carlsbad, New Mexico and Waxahatchie, just to name a few of the 20 such rodeos he has participated in.

Two weeks ago at the National AJRA Rodeo in Snyder, Gary won the average competition in steer wrestling and calf roping, thus earning All Around Cowboy honors at the rodeo.

Standing 5-10 and weighing 160 pounds, he fits the perfect description of a cowboy, powerfully built and raw-boned, which goes back to his high school days when he played for the Wolves, starting on the varsity for two years at defensive tackle and offensive guard.

"My dad put a rope in my hand when I was little, but I just messed around with it," stated Gary. "I used to ride a few bulls when I was in the sixth grade, but I didn't start getting really interested until rodeoing until after my junior year." Why the sudden interest? "Well, I was too small to play college ball and I wanted to do something," he simply

B&PW to start membership campaign

"Four in 84" is the new slogan for B&PW Clubs across the nation. It represents that each member should recruit four members for 1984. "Speak-up" is the new campaign to encourage people to enter the club. It will last from September 15 through October 22.

This club is open to all working women. It is not meant to show off women but to promote them in their professions, to help them get along with others and to give them confidence to speak up.

B&PW gives women new ideas, new opportunities and chances for personal growth. For more than 60 years, this organization has been the voice of the working women all across the country for women in all kinds of work. It allows women to speak-up on issues that affect them and it helps to develop the leadership and management skills. All members share a common bond in support of various projects such as donating to the M. D. Anderson Hospital in Houston. Last year the state-wide B&PW Clubs gave $53,000 to the hospital.

Colorado City and Lorraine B&PW Clubs are members of the District Seven along with Abilene, Baird, Ballinger, San Angelo, Stamford and Sweetwater. They will be holding their conference in Ballinger on October 15.

The B&PW foundation offers scholarships for the career advancement of women twenty-five years or older who are citizens of the United States and who demonstrate financial need. Applicants should be enrolled in an accredited program of study and be graduating within twenty-four months of the award date. For details, contact Shirley Delaney, foundation chairman. Scholarships are available for business courses at the Wallace Center. Applicants must go to the business office at the center. These scholarships are available to Mitchell County women who are training for better job positions and are in financial need.

Helen Webb who is a recent member and treasurer of the club stated "B&PW helps an individual to grow, build character and confidence in yourself and allows you to help others in different walks of life."

helps you to work with others and better yourself in your job. It gives me confidence to speak up." Mrs. Dearen is now the District Seven legislative chairman.

Mildred Free is the chairman of the M. D. Anderson Hospital for the District Seven. Colorado City B&PW officers are Juanita Schaefer, president; Christine Cooley, 1st vice-president; Judy Winkle, 2nd vice-president; Anna Staats, secretary; Helen Webb, treasurer and Erdine Morgan, corresponding secretary.

Lorraine officers are Margaret Brame, president; Billie Ruth Tartt, vice-president; Ruby Lee Small, secretary and Doris Henderson, treasurer.

All interested women in the community who would like to join the B&PW Club should contact Virginia Dearen at 728-3704, Juanita Schaefer at 728-2403 and Margaret Brame at 737-2626.
