EPA issues final greenhouse permit to FGE

This week, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) issued a final greenhouse gas (GHG) Prevention of Significant Deterioration (PSD) construction permit to FGE Power for the FGE Texas project near Westbrook. The permit allows the company to build a new natural-gas fired combined-cycle electric generation plant.

"This facility will bring clean-burning electricity to the people of Texas," said EPA Regional Administrator Ron Curry. "The FGE plant is an example of how electricity providers can meet customer demand while reducing harmful greenhouse gas emissions."

"We look forward to putting people to work and helping to power Texas' economic future," said FGE Power's CEO, Emerson G. Farrell. "EPA's thorough review and thoughtful findings demonstrate that new technology, combined with a fresh approach to developing clean energy and sustainable infrastructure, can make a positive difference on our economy and the environment."

The facility, near Westbrook, will generate 1,620 megawatts of gross electric power. The facility will operate almost entirely on clean-burning natural gas, with some emergency equipment using diesel fuel.

In June 2010, EPA finalized national GHG regulations, which specify that beginning on January 2, 2011, projects that increase GHG emissions substantially will require an air permit.

EPA believes states are best equipped to run GHG air permitting programs. Texas is work-

Burn ban extended in county for 30 days

Mitchell County Commissioners extended the burn ban for another 30 days during Monday morning's county court meeting. Persisting dry, windy conditions made the decision to extend the ban an easy one for the court.

Colorado City Volunteer Fire Department Chief Rick Goodney attended the meeting, informing court members of a large wildfire that occurred Sunday near Ira. The need to extend the ban again will be revisited when expiration nears.

Goodney brought a request to commissioners. He said the department is in need of new wildland gear. The suits currently used are 12 years old and are single-layer garments that were purchased from the Texas Forest Service in 2003.

The City of Colorado City has budgeted $3,500 to help with the purchase of the gear, the department will be responsible for $4,500, and the request was for the county to pledge $3,500 toward the purchase.

Total cost for 27 sets of the firefighting garments is about $11,500. Department officials, who currently enlist 25 firemen, plan to purchase 27 sets of the gear.

LISD to upgrade Johnson Field

After deliberating for one and a half years and holding a community forum, the Loraine ISD Board of Trustees has decided to upgrade the bleachers, lights, and concession/restroom building at Johnson Field. There will be no additional burden or tax increase to local taxpayers as the Loraine Education Foundation will fund the improvements.

The foundation was formed through an agreement with two wind energy companies who operate wind turbines within the boundaries of Loraine's school district. The companies pay yearly proceeds into the foundation, and the LISD Board of Trustees have the duty of allocating those funds. In the past, the foundation funds have been used for scholarships and other projects.

Roughly 40 people attended a community forum on April 14th and viewed a presentation from Superintendent Travis W. Edwards regarding the possibility of renovating the stadium. Each person in attendance was encouraged to complete a survey indicating their views regarding the improvements.

A vast majority of Loraine citizens were in agreement that the upgrades were necessary and that the district should proceed accordingly. "Community input is invaluable," Edwards said Monday. "The board is very conscious of spending the foundation's funds, and they want to do what is best for the community with that money."

On April 21st, the LISD Board of Trustees approved the bids for the new lighting and new bleachers at the football field. The winning bids were awarded

Plans underway for 25th annual Run for the Wall

Run for the Wall, the popular event that honors men and women who have served and are serving in the U.S. Armed Forces, is just around the corner. Plans are being made to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the run with a luncheon Saturday, May 17th around noon at the Railhead Building in downtown Colorado City.

Run for the Wall is a cross-country motorcycle trip to the Vietnam Memorial Wall in Washington, D.C. A luncheon and entertainment are provided each year by Colorado Middle School personnel and students for the veterans and supporters making the trip. The riders will make a thunderous entrance into Colorado City that Saturday, May 17th around noon at the Railhead Building for lunch and entertainment.

For 25 years, riders from all across America have gathered in Southern California to begin a 10-day adventure that would take them to the memorial wall. The ride began as a way to bring awareness and to honor the prisoners of war and missing in action that served this nation but never returned home.

In the past, there have been two Run for the Wall routes, one northern and one southern. This year, a third route has been added. CMS Principal Mark Merrell said that he hopes to see many local citizens at the event to show the community's support.

Merrell said that many local veterans will be recognized at this year's luncheon, and the Sweetwater Community Band will provide some of the musical entertainment that day. Dave Vargo of Abilene will be back with his always-popular Vietnam display cabinets as well.

In a publication written and compiled by Steve Hill, a founder of RFFW, Colorado Middle School students are recognized for the work they do every year to design and complete displays honoring veterans in the area. "As we gather at the Railhead, one can't help but notice how after row of full-sized display boards honoring each and every veteran from Colorado City who answered their nation's call," the publication says.

Over the years, students have developed approximately 400 display boards, which go along with a CMS program "Real History, Real Heroes." The first year of Run for the Wall, 80 riders attended. Merrell said organizers plan to feed over 600 riders, local veterans and community members this year.

The air will be filled with exceptional patriotism, as those gathered will remember, honor and celebrate those who gave so much for freedom. There are 58,267 names now listed on the Vietnam Memorial Wall in the nation's capital. There are three sets of fathers and sons on the Wall and 31 sets of brothers. The people who gave it all for liberty are the reason the riders ride.

Stories of sacrifices made will humble those in attendance, and celebrations of freedom will ring in the Railhead Building on May 17th. The luncheon will provide an opportunity for all to learn about what has been given and what continues to be given for the freedom U.S. citizens enjoy. So, make plans to attend and, if you're able, contact the Colorado Middle School to volunteer at 325-728-2673.

DPS troopers arrest over 1,300 over 2014 Spring Break

Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) troopers made more than 1,300 DWI arrests during a Spring Break special enforcement period this year. The targeted DWI enforcement from March 7 – March 23 included additional patrol hours funded by a Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) grant.

"Every year Texas is a top destination for students and families during Spring Break, and the potential for increased incidents of drinking and driving during that time is a primary concern for DPS," said DPS Director Steven McCraw. "Our troopers work every day to keep Texas roadways safe for all travelers, and these DWI patrols are aimed at saving lives by taking dangerous drivers off the road."

DPS Highway Patrol troopers made 1,374 DWI arrests during the Spring Break enforcement effort. The TxDOT grant allowed increased patrols in high-risk locations during the times when alcohol-related crashes are most frequent, which directly resulted in 170 of the arrests.

These DPS enforcement efforts also resulted in 18,826 speeding citations, 3,266 seat belt/child safety seat tickets and more than 23,400 other citations. In addition, troopers made 848 fugitive arrests and 713 felony arrests during this time period.

REMEMBERING ROADS — Bankhead Hwy. expert Dan Smith joined Heart of West Texas Museum Curator Patty Pharis in cutting the ribbon to dedicate 2nd Street as part of the path of the first highway that stretched across the country in the south. The two are seen here with Roland Graham, who held the ribbon.

Bankhead Highway remembered

First road to connect east and west through the south

A group of about 40 citizens gathered at Kiwanis Park Sunday to unveil a new sign and commemorate the path of the Bankhead Highway. A ribbon-cutting was held, and those attending traveled up Chestnut Street to the Heritage House to hear a brief tale about the first road to connect the east and west coasts through the south.

Smith, who had talked to a group in Big Spring on Saturday, called the highway "the most historic highway that no one knows about." The path of the road extended from Washington, D.C., through the southern states, to San Diego, California.

The travel route ran through Texas from Texarkana to El Paso, and about 1/3 of the highway's length is in Texas. Smith said the road was built in pieces as counties came up with the funds to pay for its construction.

Another notable fact about the transcontinental highway is that it was built with federal funds. One of the provisions of the federal funding was that the money be managed through a highway department. Texas didn't have such a department, but one was established just to accept the funding and begin road construction.

The idea for the highway was born in the brain of Asa Roundtree who wanted a road to connect some of the southern states. As the feasibility of the plans began to take shape, the idea expanded and became the Bankhead Highway.

Smith said that the highway wasn't what we think of when we think of a highway. Most of the route was graveled at best. Oil money was used to build the "Thurber Highway", the brick road that still runs through Ranger and Eastland made from Thurber bricks. The brick road is part of the Bankhead route.

Nell Holman was in attendance and said that her dad worked for the Thurber Brick Co., loading bricks from a wheelbarrow onto a railcar. Each brick weighs about 10 pounds, according to Smith.

Those attending learned that the Military Vehicle Preservation Association was responsible for building the first cross-country highway. However, the northern route of the path was made impassable in the winter. The MVPPA took the first trip from coast to coast on the Bankhead in 1920, and it took the group three and a half months to complete the journey.

The MVPPA is planning a second trip following the Bankhead in the summer of 2015. Smith said he expects the caravan of military vehicles to pass through downtown Colorado City. More information will be made available as plans are finalized.

Smith, a retired meteorologist, said he has been a part of placing 70 to 75 Bankhead Highway commemoration signs along the route in Texas. He has authored a book, The Bankhead Highway which is half historical information about the road and half a recreation of the original Bankhead guide.

Refreshments were served to guests who enjoyed time checking out the recently-renovated porch at the Heritage House. Several old, enlarged photos were also on display for viewing.

TRANSPORTATION TRANSFORMATION — A sign was put up in Kiwanis Park Sunday to mark the path of the Bankhead Highway which was the first transcontinental highway that could be traveled year-round. Heart of West Texas Museum Curator Patty Pharis and Roland Graham unveiled the sign commemorating the highway's path through Colorado City.

OPINION & COMMENTARY

TUMBLEWEED SMITH Big Spring's famous dance hall is 60 years old

"God blessed us with musical talent and we've used it," — Jody Nix. The most legendary dance hall in West Texas is the STAMPEDE in Big Spring. It opened in May of 1954. "Eleven hundred people were there for the opening," says Jody Nix, who owns the place now. "When it first opened there were no tables, just benches around the walls. There was a red line painted on the floor. You can still see part of it. If you weren't dancing, you had to stand behind the line. In 1958 tables were added. They've been there ever since."

Hoyle Nix, Jody's father and Ben Nix, Jody's uncle started the dance hall. They had been playing in various places and wanted a home base that they could call their own. It's an old fashioned dance hall with the original floor. "I have to knock a few nails down every once in a while. They try to come out and I get the hammer and kinda knock them back down. That floor has ripples in it. The walls are still bare, they're not finished."

Jody is not planning to have any guest artists for his 60th anniversary bash on May 10th. "I feel like I need to do the sixtieth, just me and my boys."

There have been graduation and birthday parties and weddings at the Stampede. And when people go dancing there on a Saturday night, they don't need a baby sitter. Just bring the youngster along. "Kids can come. I've seen little ones dance with grandparents. It's a family place. We don't sell any alcohol, but you can bring it in."

People from just about every state and dozens of foreign countries have been to the Stampede. When regular patrons have out of town visitors, they take them to the dance hall. It is a Big Spring landmark and tourist attraction. Prestigious publications have written about it.

Some famous musicians have played there. "Bob Wills made one of his last public appearances at the Stampede. That was in September of 1973. He was in a wheelchair and couldn't do much, but he wanted to be here."

Jody was two years old when the Stampede opened. He started playing drums there in 1960 when he was eight. He switched to fiddle when he was 11. "New Year's Eve, 1963, was the first time I played fiddle in public. I played Faded Love with daddy that night right here at the Stampede. The old place is so special to me and the family and to so many people who have come here through the years."

Hoyle and his popular West Texas Cowboys played all over west Texas. He helped pay off a lot of VFW halls. He usually didn't play on Sundays or Mondays, but Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights he made regular scheduled appearances. He kept Saturday nights open for the Stampede and played there until he died in 1985. Jody and his Texas Cowboys have a much wider circle of appearances and are sometimes out of town on Saturday nights. But when he's in town Saturdays, the Stampede is open for business. Both Jody and Hoyle are nationally known in country music. Jody played for the inauguration of President George H.W. Bush.

Lessons from wallpapering

By Monte Wike

Before there were such things as scrubable latex paint, paint rollers and paint trays, there was just oil-based paint, shiny or dull, brushes large and small, and wallpaper. The houses were made with wooden lath and plaster, smooth where the paper would go, and rough or decorative for ceilings and emphasis. The reason wallpaper was so popular, is that it was much cheaper than paint, was dry and ready to inhabit overnight and available in a wide range of colors and designs.

In this big old house where I grew up, the folks had made six apartments, every room, and most of the ceilings, were papered. The exception was the kitchen and bathroom that usually had wanes-coating half-way up. Mother did all the work, including the ten-foot ceilings, and I was her helper. She was only five feet, two inches tall, so the plank had to be put on the top steps of the step ladder. I backed across it, holding the paper to the ceiling. She came along with the smoothing brush and made sure the seams properly overlapped. Since then I have hung hundreds of rolls of wallpaper and realized that there are some basic lessons for life in this activity.

Set a goal. Before you went to the Pittsburg Paint and Wallpaper store, you had to know how big the room was, for this would determine the number of rolls needed. Each type of room had a definite decor. The living room could be more luxurious, use a bolder pattern of flowers, leaves or scenes. The bedroom could be either subdued or buoyant, and the kitchen usually had flowers, fruit or stripes. You had to have a spending limit. They had a wall of in-stock paper and dozens of books of samples for special orders. Goal-setting is essential in any endeavor.

Preparation. The walls had to be made ready. The old paper removed or in good repair. The pasting board was set across the backs of two wooden chairs or short ladders, and the entire area covered with newspapers. Paste was mixed in a metal bucket and applied with a wide brush. The paper was not pre-trimmed, but had a strip of excess on each side of the roll. One edge was perforated and knocked off. The other edge was covered by an overlap of the next sheet. Preparation means think ahead and avoid emergencies.

Get a good start. The first strip was essential. It began in an obscure corner, was hung straight by plumbline or level, and avoided the seams of the previous paper job. All the woodwork had to be clean, and painted before hand, if need be. There was the danger of getting paint on the new paper if they were painted last. The right tools were essential. The smoothing brush, seam roller and trim wheel. A good start defines the outcome.

March the pattern. Each sheet was cut with a little extra so that it could be adjusted to match the pattern. Sometimes the pattern was not edge-to-edge, but in the middle of the next sheet. Those parts had to line up around the room. Many people do not "fit" or want to fit. Others are slaves to what other people think. But life is not random, as in here a strip, there a strip, but it is continuous, thoughtful and beautiful.

Clean up the mess. All the excess paste had to be sponged off the paper, and the seams wiped down. No paste could remain on the woodwork. All the leftover pieces had to be carried out to the trash, the pasting table washed down, everything immaculate. Slothfulness and ragged endings are a tragedy and waste. Laziness, indifference or lack of discipline to finish a job and clean up any mess, pick up your clothes, tidy the room, make the bed, or turn in work on time, lead to a lifetime of "almost."

Admire your work. Stand back and see that everything is done, straight, pretty and presentable. Look forward to and expect people to enter the room and compliment you on the good job you did. Taking pride in one's work is not arrogance, but display of ability and purpose. Why do a half-way job, sloppy work? "Any job worth doing is worth doing right" is still good advice.

Influence the next generation. I learned the art of wallpapering, having no idea that in my adult years this would be a source of needed extra income. I enjoy the challenge and the results of this craft. I was pleased the other day when someone said that the paper I put up for them years ago is still in good shape. And just as surprised to hear myself say recently, "No, I cannot do that anymore." Leaving a legacy and education for those coming after you is a prized endowment.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letter to the Editor:

As I awake this morning, it occurred to me that the beautiful golden "sunrise" was traveling westward several hundred MPH, with the same velocity, the dark sky above evolved into a beautiful sea blue.

That my velocity around the earth's axis was that, that my velocity around the sun exceeded 66,600 MPH, that my velocity within the Milky Way and that of the galaxy within the universe is measured in miles per light year. I expect this expansion goes on and on. (Yes, I've heard about the "Big Bang" theory and have an equal or better explanation).

For about 80 of my 86 years I've wondered where and when it all ends — or if it does. As a youngster — coming to terms with this mystery and where "God" is drove me nearly insane.

Well, I'm no closer today. Nor was Albert Einstein with his curved space and time shrinking velocity or Hawking's with his "black-holes". The ultimate reference of relativity eluded Albert and may or may not exist.

Einstein nor Hawkins gave a direct answer about "God".

Perhaps if I were as intelligent as some folks, I'd understand the intelligence of the "creator" and these folks. But I see human intelligence being far short of infinity, and I see that the "universe" happens without intelligence.

Perhaps if I tried hard enough, I would believe what these folks believe. Belief takes one anywhere and nowhere, where I started. I quit smoking and drinking and never got to the really hard stuff like opium and the "opiate".

Guess I'm just stuck in "stupid". And honest?

There is more. Or have you heard enough?

Letter to the Editor:

People that are tired of dealing with ticks in their patios, garage, carports, etc. try an organic remedy. Sprinkle any kind of salt (don't be stingy with the salt, use liberal amounts) around the edges of your whatever, leave it there and don't wet it.

We have proven it. We don't know about fleas it might work.

Auditor Heidi Harris to look at the funds in the fire department's account and see if the money is available. Randy Anderson and Jesse Muñoz expressed an interest in providing funds for the purchase if the budget allows. The item was tabled and will be revisited when funding information is brought before the court.

County Judge Ray Mayo provided a copy of a letter regarding a TxDOT grant to commissioners. A copy of the letter has been sent to the county's law firm, Allison, Bass and McGee in Austin.

If county officials agree to the terms of the grant, Mitchell County will receive $1,519,927 in funding to be used for road repair. The grant money is being made available to counties experiencing road deterioration due to increased oilfield traffic volume. Matching funds in the amount of $168,881 have been set aside in the budget.

Several criteria must be met in order for the state to award the grant, including the designation of a county representative to be the contact person for the state. Mayo provided an option for commissioners to table the approval of the funding, so that an attorney could be present for the approval. The commissioners agreed and the item was tabled.

In other business, payroll in the amount of $75,535.26 was approved as presented by County Treasurer Jennifer Rivera. Bills totaling $110,703.25 were approved as presented by Auditor Harris.

Bids will be opened on May 13th. After that time period, bids will be tabulated, evaluated, and considered at a later board meet-

Edwards said that since bids have been accepted for the lighting and bleachers, demolition and reconstruction in those areas will begin before the end of school in May. The construction of a new restroom/concession building is a bigger project, but Edwards said he's hoping for completion before football season begins again.

Pietzsche honored for 40 years

One of the more familiar faces at the post office was recently recognized for his many years of service. Most folks who visit the Colorado City branch of the United States Postal Service know Ronnie Pietzsche, and they know he's a fixture there. However, some might be surprised to learn that he has been working for the USPS for over 40 years.

Though the 40th anniversary of his first employment date was November 19, 2013, Pietzsche was recognized by the postal service and his peers last week for his 40 years of "excellent service." As Postmistress Paula Kinsky described it, "To commemorate our anniversary, the post office staff brought in cake and the USPS sent him a plaque, pin and framed letter."

Pietzsche started working for the post office in Abilene in 1973 as a city carrier. Since then, he has served as a clerk in Sweetwater, a carrier in Alamogordo, New Mexico, and a SSA in Colorado City for about 28 years. When asked what SSA stood for, Pietzsche said Sales and Service Associate, but "most people would say window clerk."

Though he celebrated 40 years, Pietzsche said he has no plans to retire anytime soon. "I enjoy the people," he said. "They may not enjoy me, but I enjoy them."

The window at the post office has afforded Pietzsche the opportunity to visit with all types of people through the years. He said that he's heard some funny tales, shared some touching moments, laughed and cried with customers in his years on the job.

Pietzsche and his wife, Wanda, have four grown children, three girls and one boy. They also have four grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

When he isn't at work, he and Wanda enjoy serving the American Legion. A veteran, Pietzsche has been part of the American Legion for 44 years and is currently a 4th Division Commander. The district that he oversees extends from Weatherford to El Paso and Del Rio to Denver and covers 52% of Texas.

Wanda also serves in the American Legion. She is currently serving as the 17th District President. "It's something we've always enjoyed doing as a family," Pietzsche said.

Though the American Legion doesn't have a post in Colorado City, the organization has helped many citizens from Mitchell County, Pietzsche said that the group has sponsored a few young men, sending them to Boys State, a summer leadership and citizenship program for high school juniors.

He said that the non-profit group is always looking to help veterans and their families, as well as sponsoring youth activities. He and his wife will be attending an American Legion Convention in McAllen later this year.

Customers of the Colorado City Post Office should stop in and see Pietzsche, who will probably give them a hard time and a smile. After all, that's what he's known for... that, and his excellent service.

Board approves new gym

Participation in the Wellness Program is increasing at Mitchell County Hospital, and members of the board of directors approved the purchase of some necessary equipment to provide participants with a state-of-the-art workout.

The board gave its approval for the purchase of equipment called Body Solid Pro-Dual Multi Gym. The equipment will be placed in the physical therapy department of the hospital where it will be used by citizens who take part in the hospital's wellness program.

During the course of the meeting, Hospital Administrator Robbie Dewberry presented plans for the rural health clinic, informing board members of a couple of small changes. The plans have been sent to the architect for the final changes. They will soon be sent to the state for approval.

During the financial report, Hospital Financial Officer Joe Wright presented reports for both the hospital and the hospital's long-term care facility, Valley Fair Lodge. He said that a new computer system has been installed at the nursing home.

In the administrator's report, board members learned that Dewberry has been accepted into the Texas Hospitals Association Leadership Fellows Program. THA received a grant allowing the group to offer the fellowship program to its members.

Dewberry applied for the program and was accepted, a prestigious honor. He will have to attend class four times during the year to take part in the program.

POSTAL PIETZSCHE – Ronnie Pietzsche was honored last week for 40 years of employment with the United States Post Office. He said he has no plans to leave the job he has enjoyed for four decades.

Lions add member, hear about camp

Members of the Colorado City Lions Club installed a new member and heard about the Texas Lions Camp from camp board member and Past District Governor Jim Wilkes of Sweetwater during the weekly meeting Friday. Niki Curry was officially inducted as a Lion.

The history of the Texas Lion Camp was the subject of Wilkes' presentation to the club, and members heard how the camp was built on an idea to serve families with children who are disabled or have chronic diseases. Back in 1947, polio was rampant, leaving children disabled by its paralysis.

Jack Rowe, a Texas Lion, saw a need among the children. He thought it was unfair that they were unable to attend summer camp like other kids their ages. Thus, the idea of the Texas Lions Camp began.

At the time, Kerrville was much smaller than it is now, and the General Service Administration owned 504 acres of wooded land that no other entities wanted. Rowe promoted his idea for the camp and gained support from Congressman O.C. Fisher and, eventually, Lyndon B. Johnson.

With the politicians' help, the GSA agreed to give the land to the Lions Club if the organization could come up with $100,000 and a plan to construct the first structures of the camp. The buildings are still being used today.

When military men returning from World War II, jobs were scarce and the economy was making up for lost revenue from the war. Times were tough, and with six months and four days left before deadline, the civic group was a full $20,000 short of the goal.

In talking with the leaders in the Lions' San Antonio district, Rowe discussed how the camp would probably never be built. District leaders told him to contact the GSA and tell them that he had the money.

Rowe didn't want to mislead anyone, so he told the San Antonio group that he needed the money before he could contact the GSA. They gave him a check and he contacted the agency about the land.

According to Wilkes, after the GSA had been contacted, the San Antonio Lions called and told Rowe, "We're glad it worked out, but don't you dare cash that check."

With money issues aside, construction began on the first two dormitories which are still used at the camp today. Along with the dorms, an arts and craft center, kitchen, infirmary and pool were built very conservatively. Wilkes said the buildings were constructed on three-inch foundations to save money.

The camp opened its doors in 1949 and hosted the first campers in 1953. Eight counselors and 50 campers attended Texas Lions Camp that first summer. Last year, 1,480 kids attended the camp, all at no cost to the campers' families.

Cost to send one child to camp is $1,700, and all funds come in through fundraising and donations. Besides serving crippled children, the camp also hosts children with various diseases and conditions. During the weeks that diabetic children attend, there are 19 doctors, along with numerous nurses and dietitians overseeing the needs of the campers.

Texas Lions Camp license plates are available through the tax assessor/collector's office, and $22.50 of each $30 plate sold goes directly to the camp. Through the 60 years of the camp's operation, $63 million has been spent to give sick and disabled children something to look forward to. The camp's budget is $2.4 million this year.

Lady Wolves clinch bi-district championship
Sutton hurls perfect game in 16-0 rout of Roosevelt

By Tommy Wells
SNYDER - Not even Mother Nature was as dominant as Cassie Sutton and the Colorado High School Lady Wolves on Monday evening. In fact, she may have been a distant third in any race.

With the wind blowing the flags at Cates Field unmercifully, Sutton and the Lady Wolves etched themselves deep into the Colorado High School record books by blowing out the Lubbock Roosevelt Lady Eagles in the bi-district round of the Class 2A state softball playoffs. Backed by a perfect game from Sutton, the Colorado High School girls' raced to an easy 16-0 victory and a trip to the area round.

"They did a really good job of coming out and being selective with the pitches and making contact," said Lady Wolves' head coach Ami Martinez. "You couldn't have asked for any more from them."

No one could ask any more from Sutton. The junior right-hander fanned 14 of the 15 batters she faced during the contest. Her effort makes her one of only a handful of West Texas softball pitchers to toss a perfect game in the postseason. The lone time Roosevelt managed to put the ball into play in the third inning, Ramsey Alvarez scooped the ball easily and made a routine throw to Alicia Redwine at first.

Sutton said she felt she would have a solid outing going into the game. She said she worked hard throughout the week preparing for the game, and felt comfortable going in.

"I kind of had a feeling I would be on," she said.

Coach (Martinez) told me I needed to be ready and had me throw a lot more than I normally do this week," she said. "I was a little tired (at the end of the week) but the hard work paid off. I think I focused a little better before the game and that helped my control."

Roosevelt never had a prayer. Colorado City put the Lady Eagles on their heels early, staking Sutton to an early lead with a three-run barrage in their first at-bat.

After the first two batters had been retired, Lady Wolves' shortstop Makaylah Rivera ignited the C-City run by lining a double to the gap. Moments later, Sutton helped herself out by smashing a run-scoring double to left. Madie Gutierrez and Taegen Harris followed with RBI singles from there and ballooned the Lady Wolves' lead to 3-0.

After being held scoreless in the second, Colorado City found its stroke at the plate again in the third. The Lady Wolves picked up runs from Brittany Munoz and Rivera in the frame and carried a 5-0 lead into the top of the fourth.

Colorado City blew the game wide open in the fourth. The C-City girls pushed across four runs in the frame and stretched their lead to 9-0.

Munoz scored seconds later when Rivera notched her third hit of the contest, a run-scoring double to left that upped the Colorado City lead to 7-0.

C-City, the District 4-2A champion, tacked on two more runs later in the frame and then turned the game over to Sutton.

Roosevelt was no match for Sutton. She fanned the side in order in the bottom of the fourth and sent the game into the fifth with the Lady Wolves needing just one run to enforce the 10-run mercy rule.

Colorado City got way more than one in its final at-bat. The team sent 13 players to the plate in the frame and pounded out a total of seven runs.

"They did a great job at the plate," said Martinez. "We were more patient at the plate and hit the ball really well."

Alexis Munoz led off the CHS

fifth with a single to left. Then, after back-to-back bunt singles by Redwine and Lindsey had loaded the bases, Roosevelt allowed two runs to race home on a throwing error and a passed ball. From there, Brittany Munoz slapped a single over the shortstop's head that pushed the CHS lead to 12-0.

Sutton added to the Lady Wolves' lead one out later by lifting a fly ball into center that allowed Lindsey to tag up and score from third.

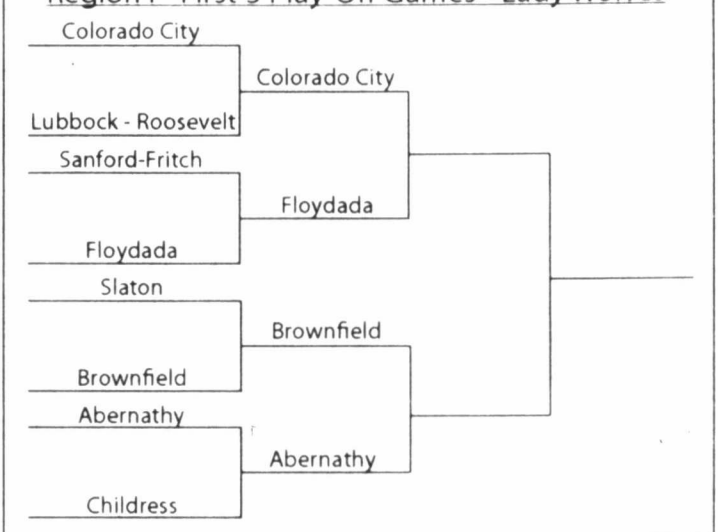

Alvarez delivered the final blow to the Lady Eagles minutes later by pounding out a two-run double.

Sutton closed out the victory in style by striking out the final three batters she faced in order.

"She's not a quitter," said Martinez. "She always goes out there and wants more."

With the victory, Colorado City advances to face Floydada in the area round of the state playoffs. The Lady Wolves will play on Friday at 6:30 p.m. in Snyder.

Wolves to face Idalou Wildcats in play-off game

The Colorado City Wolves baseball team will play Idalou Wildcat baseball team Friday in Seminole to kick off the boys play-offs.

Colorado City enters the game as the fourth seed from district 4-2A, and Idalou is the district champion from district 3-2A.

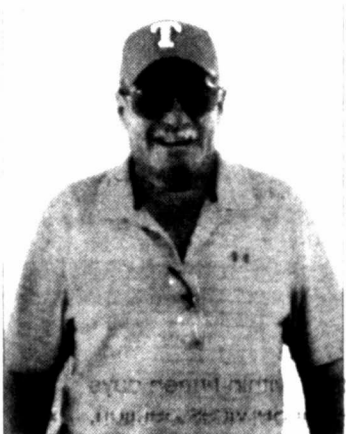

Idalou is 12-0 in district (23-4) and the Wolves bring a 2-5 district record (2-14 season) to the playoffs.

The Wildcats are from District 3 which includes Childress, Post, Slaton, Roosevelt and Floydada. Game time in Seminole is 5:30 p.m. Friday with game 2 to follow 30 minutes after game 1.

The third and deciding game, if necessary, will be Saturday in Big Spring.

In April, Idalou has racked up 78 runs while allowing only 7 in 7 district games.
