While the Courier is willing to admit that the song "Pistol Packing Mama" still holds a slight edge in popularity, it is believed by recognized authorities that Courier Classified Ads are running a close second.

Scrap Committee Will Visit Schools In Interest of Drive

Another nation-wide scrap metal drive begins today in Dawson County, with W. T. Meeks as county Captain Turner of the Big Spring Army Air Field, will conduct a tour for students who gather the most scrap for the Dawson County Victory Scrap Drive.

The county has been routed by county superintendent Humes and the scrap committee will visit schools throughout the county on November 16 and 17 to plan with the students and teachers. Captain Turner, of the Big Spring Field, will be among this group and will have several types of guns on exhibition to show the students what the scrap will be used for after it has been collected. Half of every type of firing equipment, tanks and jeeps are made from scrap. salvage chairman.

Plans are being made to see that all available scrap metal in Dawson county be gathered up and shipped to foundries as it is needed.

Those who have old metal which has not been marketed are urged to start now collecting it and getting it ready for the drive.

Scrap metal requirements for war production are more than four times the amount consumed normally. All-out participation in the "Victory Scrap Bank" drive is expected in this county.

No matter how much scrap we have collected in the past we will continue to need more and more. This year's steel requirements for war have been authoritatively estimated at one hundred million tons. With production of war equipment accelerating and our armed forces using increased quantities of military supplies in offensive action on all fronts, we must assure still greater steel production next year. This cannot be done without scrap metal. Scrap constitutes at least half of the total output.

Failure to route an old farm machine, a jalopy or other miscellaneous idle or worn-out iron and steel items into scrap channels may mean that American fighting men will lack proper equipment just when they need it most.

Residents of Dawson County are urged to round up all scrap iron and steel and get it ready for the "Victory Scrap Bank," to be sorted and delivered to the steel mills as it is needed. A large community scrap pile is a safeguard against any lag in war production.

WATER WELLS RISE AS GAS LEAKS ON COAST—Farmers and dairymen of Bammel gas field area near Houston are working feverishly to save their water supply after leaking gas backed up into 600-foot deep water sand has raised the levels of wells so much that some started flowing voluntarily and others cratered. At left, Tom Turner's water well, converted into a geyser, spurts water up to 75 feet. Pump and casing blew out. At right, this burning well on the F. M. Corzelius lease was seen as a possible source of the gas leakage. C. W. Markle, superintendent for Corzelius, said the firm was attempting to divert the burning gas by drilling a relief well.

Mrs. Land Writes Article In Memory Of Mrs. Mary King

Editor's Note: The following was written in memory of Mrs. Mary V. King, by her friend, Mrs. Alma Land:

On July 22, 1943 another dear old mother laid down the fight for life on this earth and went to join her loved ones on the other shore.

She was born February 11, 1859 and left to mourn her passing nine children: six boys and three girls.

They are, Mrs. L. L. Walser, Joe King, and Bill King of this city, A. V. King of Olton; Rev. Sam J. King, Hamlin; Mrs. E. M. Long, Aspermont.

Oh how sad it seems to her children and friends that we can no more visit her home and be welcomed by her sweet smiles and kind voice, but how beautiful it seems to think and look back on such a life of service for her people and her God. She had been a Christian and faithful member of her church since childhood.

She bore her suffering and tribulations in this world with such patience and truly it can be said that to know her was to love her, respect and admire her.

Weep not dear children and loved ones, for she has fought a good fight and won a victory. You have the assurance if you fight the good fight and keep the faith and live for others as she has you will one day be reunited where no tears will dim your eyes.

She loved birds and bright mornings,

Honeysuckle and sweet spring roses,

Childrens laughter, and pansy faces,

She was frail at last like the lilies,

But her smile was sunshine across the snows

Music she loved and friendly greetings,

Kind words spoken and ill forgot,

She never faltered at any grievance,

Though her heart was hurt and her eyes were hot.

There was nothing honest, wise and merry and brave and tender that she was not.

So now dear children and loved ones just remember as she watched in her home for you through all these years

She is now watching from Heavens window and gate,

She always leaned to watch for you in winter by the window,

In summer by the gate, and though you loved her tenderly you had some foolish care,

The long way home would seem more safe,

Because she waited there.

Her thoughts were all so full of you,

She never could forget and so I think that where she is,

She must be watching yet.

Waiting 'til you came home to her,

Anxious if you are late—

Watching from Heavens window,

Leaning from Heavens gate.

'Date' Becomes 'Ally' In College Lexicon

DELAWARE, O. (AP) — What once was a "date" henceforth will be known as an "ally" on the campus of Ohio Wesleyan University.

The term was suggested by President H. J. Burgstahler of Wesleyan, who explained to Navy men and civilians on the campus that it is just as important to make the proper "allies" in personal relationship as it is in international affairs.

Experience Counts

CAMP MacKALL, N. C. (AP) — When Pvt. Robert L. Bishop of the 511th parachute infantry regiment entered the army from Winter Park, Fla., he wasted no time in getting into work for which he is eminently qualified. In civilian life Bishop is an exhibition diver.

Accidents Spur War Bond Sale

LIVINGSTON, Mont. (AP) — Take a tip from Mrs. A. Nesbit, war bond saleswoman, on how to capitalize (literally) upon misfortune.

She drove into a farm yard and the farmer's dog bit her but she sold the farmer a $500 war bond. A short distance away, driving toward another farm, her car stalled on a hill but five highway workers pulled her out of her troubles—and each bought a war bond.

The toes of the tree frog have adhesive pads which enable it to climb vertically.

APPLIES TORCH FOR NEW TEXAS INDUSTRY— Rep. Wright Patman of Texarkana holds a torch to the first of a battery of 78 coke ovens at the Lone Star Steel Company's iron ore blast furnace at Daingerfield, Texas. It requires at least two months for the ovens to heat properly for the manufacture of coke. Patman, who has charged that "fraternity boys" of the "big steel" industry have attempted to block WPB approval of a $35,000,000 steel mill at Daingerfield, declared "We are going to get the steel mill if we have to take the fight to the President."

ODT Has Hard Job In Regulating Transportation

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — If you are one of those harried vacationists or wartime travelers on official business who wants to know when the Office of Defense Transportation is going to do something about handling the jams on trains, planes and busses, the answer is: Never — well, maybe almost never.

What ODT has had in mind all the time, in controlling the common carriers and private transportation, is the conservation of rubber, gasoline and rolling stock, and preventing necessary wartime overland shipping from breaking down.

The transportation situation is nearing the crisis. Over in ODT, they estimate the peak will come sometime around the end of this year. If we can survive that (the western railroads are really the pulse of transportation's condition) ODT officials say we'll get by.

We'll get by in spite of the fact that only one new locomotive is being built this year for every 50 now wearing out; only one new freight car or every 90 now being shaken to pieces with overloads and minimum repairs between heretofore unheard-of runs; and no new passenger cars or buses of any type.

It may be news that ODT Director Joseph B. Eastman has tucked away in his desk a complete blue print for rationing transportation, but it's no secret here that ODT won't use it unless non-essential civilian travel begins to make a serious dent in essential movement of war supplies and men in the armed forces.

It's pretty generally agreed that travel rationing would be another major home-front headache and actually would have very little effect on clearing out jams in the train and bus stations.

Transportation officials estimate that non-essential travel has dropped to something like 20 to 25 per cent of the total. Privately they say that those one out of four or five travelers could easily chisel excuses which would get them ration travel privileges. That explains why there will be no rationing unless non-essential travel suddenly spurts. The discomforts of wartime travel probably will keep it from spurting. Hence, why try to alleviate the discomforts?

In Great Britain, the problem was solved by decreeing queues. There it's first come, first served; and a fine or a few days in the hoosegow for the folks who try to wedge their way up in the line.

Apparently ODT is convinced that method wouldn't be so effective here in discouraging non-essential travel as smashed toes and a few well-elbowed solar plexes.

The estimate that non-essential travel has dropped eight to ten per cent this year seems to bear them out.

A Social Security Card Is Valuable

"The amount of survivors' insurance that a widow and children, dependent parents, or other relatives of deceased employees may receive, and the monthly retirement insurance that elderly, retired wage earners and their wives may be paid under the social security program depends on the wages reported for them by their employers," said J. Hassler Strickland, manager of the Social Security Board office in Big Spring. "Wages must be reported quarterly, by employers, with sufficient identification that each item can be posted to the appropriate social security account," he said.

"When employees fail to make certain their employers have correct records of their social security account numbers and names," Strickland said, "they are failing to protect a very valuable insurance policy. When an employee gives the wrong social security account number and incorrect name to his employers he is jeopardizing his insurance protection. He may be depriving his widow and children or himself and wife of monthly insurance benefits already paid for. Employees should always show their social security account numbers to employers for whom they work, and they should assure themselves that each employer has made an accurate record of the number and name."

"When employers report the account numbers and names along with the wages of their employees, the posting of each employee's wages to his individual social security account is assured. If the employer fails to list the account number as it appears on the card, the worker's wages cannot be posted to his account. Employees, therefore, must show their account number cards to each employer for whom they work."

'Obey That Impulse' Pays Man Dividend

NEW YORK (AP)—Cosimo Masillo said he just obeyed a "strong impulse" and dropped into a news-reel theater.

As he sat down a scene from bomb-scarred Eboli, in the province of Salerno, Italy, flashed on the screen. In the center was his mother, Maria Adriana Masillo, 67, telling some American soldiers the Nazis had seized her home for use as headquarters.

Masillo had not seen his mother in ten years and had feared for her safety ever since the fighting had swirled about the home he left to come to America.

Ceiling Prices for Some Vegetables Are Announced

Ceiling prices, which will prevail for 13 fresh vegetables at country shipping points as announced recently at Washington, include three grown largely in Texas. They are cabbage, spinach and tomatoes.

According to information to the A. and M. College Extension Service from the Office of Price Administration, which made the announcement jointly with the War Food Administration, the other vegetables are lima beans, snap beans, carrots, cauliflower, celery, cucumbers, eggplant, lettuce, green peas and peppers. The ceilings are f.o.b. shipping point prices upon which the pricing pattern for each of the vegetables will be based.

For the season December to April the shipping point price for Texas cabbage, with Brownsville the basing point, will be $58 a ton. Spinach through June, 1944, basing point Crystal City, will be $1.15 a bushel; and tomatoes, May through June 15, and June 15 to July 15, will be $3 and $2.75 per standard lug, respectively. The basing point for the period ending June 15 will be Brownsville, and Jacksonville for the second period. These prices include no allowance for refrigeration and icing.

The basing point prices are the starting points from which OPA will develop its ceiling prices at retail through the addition of freight and refrigeration charges, and wholesalers' and retailer's mark-ups.

The announcement said that during the summer when most of the country is consuming locally produced vegetables, the OPA will base its prices for certain of the vegetables by broad pricing zones. This will mean that prices at retail for these commodities will be the same over large areas, possibly covering several states.

Small Jars Jellies, Jams Ration Free

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP) — It is now possible to purchase small-sized jars of jams, jellies and fruit spreads—those weighing five and one half ounces or less—ration-free. The new order went into effect on Friday, November 12.

The Office of Price Administration Thursday announced a zero point value for these items, explaining they are popular as gifts for servicemen and that stocks in the hands of retailers are relatively small.

Sizes larger than five and one half ounces in this category continue to be rationed.

OPA said the point-free purchases will be allowed only through the holiday season. Ration values will be re-established on the February processed food chart.

Responsibility To Next Generation

One important war-time responsibility of parents is to help young children have a tolerant and sympathetic feeling for children of other races, says Dosca Hale, specialist in parent education for the A. and M. College Extension Service. She believes by helping children develop this understanding, the post-war peace will be more secure.

In almost every Texas neighborhood there are people from other lands who have brought much of interest and value. So, the specialist says, if children learn now to appreciate these persons of other races and from other countries, in later life they will be more free from prejudice and discrimination.

'Quick Somebody, Find Me A Wife'

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Clerks were surprised when a soldier dashed into the drug store and started looking for a girl to marry him.

He explained he had obtained a six-day furlough on this pretense and must go through with it to avoid the guard-house.

The story went the rounds and the clerks were kept busy by girls telephoning to inquire about the soldier and leaving their telephone numbers. If the unidentified soldier found a bride he kept it to himself.

One-Boy Fire Dept.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Flames levelled a garage building and spread to three homes nearby. Residents started carting out their belongings. But 15-year-old fire-fighting Bobby Knott single-handedly extinguished the fire with a hose. Owner of the houses said the boy saved him about $8,000.

BEEF SANS RATIONING — Three hearties of the Texas rangeland, cowhands on the huge Matador ranch, fork up everything except the red coupons—and they have beef three times a day. They are among 16 cowpunchers who work shorthanded in rounding up cattle on the 466,000-acre ranch near Roaring Spring. This particular cow camp is the so-called Rustlers' Camp, on Wolf Creek.

TOOLS OF THE TRADE — A Texas cowhand's equipment—boots, spurs, chaps, lariat and bedroll, parked at the chuckwagon wheel. Over the wagon is a tent and under the tent the cow puncher unrolls his bedding, converting the erstwhile kitchen and dining room into a bedroom.

MATADOR RANCH IS "BEEF HEAVEN," BUT RATION POINTS ARE STILL NEEDED FOR ALL PERSONS, EXCEPT THE COWBOYS

By ERNEST G. FISCHER
ROARING SPRING, Texas (AP)
—This is beef eater's heaven—and no ration points.

Here, on the half-million acre ranch of the Matador Land and Cattle Company, there is sizzling steak in the skillet and bawling beef on the hoof.

But for a regular place around the chuckwagon board you have to be a buckaroo who can fill a man's boots at the roundup. That means a day's work "from sun to sun," rounding up cattle, branding, dehorning and performing other range chores.

Time was when almost anyone could alight from his horse or unhitch his rig near a chuckwagon and get an invitation to dinner. The tradition of hospitality demanded it.

But, says Justice of the Peace Henry Pipkin of Matador, who knows all the cowhands hereabouts by their first names, "it got to the point where the 'nesters' would bring their whole families and just eat off the company. They used all the plates and the hard-working cowboys had to grab a piece of beef and some bread and make the best of it. So the ranchmen began discouraging that kind of hospitality."

However, almost any wayfarer can drop into the so-called rustlers' Camp on Wolf Creek here, on the Matador properties, and Cook Nig Clary is likely to say: "Come and get it, stranger—there's only one grabbin' today!"

Along with the beefsteak and brown beans there are, of course, sourdough biscuits. Here is the recipe for the latter. Take flour and water with enough sugar to sweeten so that it will ferment within 12 to 24 hours. Mix into a batter and put into a crock and keep covered in a warm place. When fermented, add flour and water until a stiff dough is made. Knead and make into biscuits, smear with grease, set aside for a time, and bake in a hot oven.

That recipe is somewhat vague, but there is only one definite admonition the camp cook has and that is "don't be too darn clean."

When the Matador's 16 cowhands descend on Clary's chuckwagon, each man grabs his tin cup, plate and knife and fork. He takes his food cafeteria-style with Nig, armed with a long fork, presiding over the steak skillet.

He is a $100-a-month cook feeding $60-a-month cowboys who hustle beef for the nation. There is the ubiquitous manpower shortage and older men are back in the saddle. Approximately 10,000 calves have to be handled out of a herd of some 50,000 cattle on the Matador company's 466,000-acre ranch. Incidentally, the company has another ranch, 394,000 acres, 200 miles northwest of here.

But this tract, 42 miles wide and 56 miles long, is a fairly good appetizer for a working horseman. The job has been systematized to an extent that would flabbergast a Hollywood cowboy. After all, explains Judge Pipkin, who got his start on the range here, "these people are raising cattle, not running a dude ranch."

The roundup is not a movie publicist's idea of a "colossal spectacle of the range." The cattle gradually are collected in pens. Then two crews of men go to work, headed by two ropers on horseback. These ropers cut out two calves from the milling herd, rope the animals by the hind legs and drag them to the two crews, who pounce on the calves and brand and dehorn them and medicate the wounds. In about a minute the calves are on their feet again and the ropers are bringing a couple more to the disassembly lines.

Several hours of this, and the hands are ready to get on their mounts, which have been tethered to nearby mesquite bushes, and strike out for Clary's chuckwagon. There, too, a movie fan would be disillusioned. The chuckwagon does not stand out on the bald prairie. Above the wagon is spread a tent, which shelters Clary and his boarders as well as the stove and the bedrolls. The old dutch oven of pioneer cattlemen has given way to a wood-burning cook stove.

Another unstoried and unsung individual around the cow camp is the "hoodlum." He is the hewer of wood and the drawer of water. He cuts the mesquite wood that goes into the cook stove. He washes the dishes. He is called the "hoodlum" because he handles the hoodlum wagon, a sort of general utility conveyance. The cowhands, although most of them have at some time or other taken a turn at cooking, are not expected to lend a hand. When they have sopped up the gravy and dumped their tableware, the hoodlum takes over.

These men of the range are aristocrats of sorts. Their chaps are togs of honor in peace and war. Judge Pipkin, who runs a barbershop in Matador, where the cowhands frequently come for their Saturday night baths, tells this story. One of the top hands was inducted into military service. Overage, he was given a discharge. When he got back to Matador he headed for the barbershop bath. He emerged in his range clothes. Hours later barbers found the man's entire army outfit, including his identification disc, abandoned in the bathroom.

Among the individualists of these board acres is Douglas Meador, editor of the weekly Tribune at Matador, the county seat. John McCarty, editor of the Amarillo Globe-News described Meador as "country editor, ex-cowboy, printer, poet and philosopher."

Meador's column, "Trail Dust," is written in this style:

"The herd has moved to another range and the traditions of the cattle country have followed across the hills of time. The old camp custom of returning tin cup, plate and silverware to the chuck-box after a meal comes back like the wind across the up-plowed prairies of yesterday when a man quietly rises from the table and delivers the articles to the kitchen. His step is slower now and silver has laced his hair, but the small gesture is as sincere as a faithful veteran saluting a defeated flag."

The Kingfisher, formerly called the halycon, is the origin of the expression "halycon days."

Purple martins migrate in huge flocks numbering tens of thousands.

Snookie Burleson Enjoys His Work With the Seabees

Editor's Note: The following was written by Snookie Burleson S 2-c and one of his pals Thomas P. Burke S 2-c, from Newark, New Jersey. Snookie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elzie Burleson, and his wife and small son reside in this city. He has been in the Seabees' 4 months:

Dear Sir:
As we have been in the Seabees for some time, we have really learned a lot of things that will help us in the future.

We took our basic training in Camp Peary, Virginia, and are now at Port Hueneme, California where we are waiting for our assignment.

The Seabees have made a great name for themselves in the short time they have been organized. There are about 300,000 Seabees today. They are mostly men of experienced work, and have given up their jobs and homes to fight for their country. We think they deserve a lot of credit, but as we are not allowed to say anything about the training, we can only say that the Seabees are really a swell bunch of fellows and we believe they can proudly march side by side with the Marines. Often is the time that the Marines have landed and found that the Seabees had already landed and had every thing well in hand.

Although the Seabees are not a fighting unit, they have and will do plenty more when necessary. We believe that the boys who were in Dutch Harbor, Alaska, deserve most of the praise as they really did a good job while they were there. Great Britian has a saying that the "sun never sets on all of Great Britain." Well the sun never sets on the Seabees, as we never know what day and night is. In our days there are 24 hours, and in our weeks 7 days.

Yours truly,
Snookie and Tommy.

Early Christmas Mailing Urged

A statement from Frank C. Walter, post master general advises citizens that all Christmas parcels must be mailed by November 30, instead of December 10.

The post office department is expecting the greatest mailing rush in history. Many people are making more money than ever before and are going to buy freely, provided they can find the merchandise.

More than 30,000 postal employees are in war service and have been replaced in most cases by inexperienced workers. Too, there are less railroad cars and airplanes available for carrying mail than at any time in history.

This is why early mailing is asked. Christmas mail must not be allowed to impede movement of war materials and personnel and military mail.

The War Department advises that Christmas greeting cards for soldiers overseas must be sent in sealed envelopes and prepaid at the first-class rate. The War Department further urges that such cards be mailed at once stating that cards mailed now will, according to the Army Postal Service, reach even the most remote APO's by December 25.

Nation Faces Possibility of Shorter Civilian Gas Stocks

CHICAGO, Nov. 11 (AP) — The nation faces a shortage of crude oil in the year ahead—barring unforeseen developments — and the civilian gasoline supply may be shorter, Ralph K. Davis, deputy petroleum administrator for war, told oil men Wednesday.

He discussed the outlook before an uninterrupted drive for a greater output.

Davis summarized his views:

"1. We face a definite shortage of crude oil in this country in the coming year, unless the unforeseen happens in new discovery or the estimates of military requirements do not prove out.

"2. The manpower situation in general will become progressively worse as men heretofore deferred for dependency are called.

"3. The materials position will improve somewhat with sufficient materials for essential operations, some relaxing as in the matter of well spacing, but no prospect of unrestricted activity.

"4. The oil transportation problem — at least domestically — is pretty well solved.

"5. Refining capacities will be taxed to their efficient limits in 1944 if forecasts of military demands materialize.

"6. Refining operations will have to be conducted under the additional handicap of the unavailability of the desired qualities in crudes.

"7. The quality of finished products will have to be debased, though they should remain sufficiently high to meet all practical necessities.

"8. The gasoline supply for the motorist in 1944, on the basis of present military estimates of demand, cannot be greater and may well be less.

"9. The full war order for oil, plus the industrial and the curtailed civilian demand, can only be met this year through greater reliance upon foreign resources, both British and American.

"10. The present rate of new tanker construction, and the improved control of the submarine menace, assures an improved transportation capacity and greater flexibility, making possible a better-balanced world-wide program of oil supply."

The new five-gallon coupons will be issued with the designation B-2 and C-2 on their face. As the present B and C and B-1 and C-1 coupons run out they will be replaced by the new higher-unit-value coupons. In the meantime outstanding coupons issued before Dec. 1 will continue to be valid for only two gallons in the East and Midwest and three gallons in the far West.

OPA said that while the change does not mean additional gasoline for holders of supplemental ration books, many car owners will buy in five-gallon units as they customarily did before rationing, and savings in manpower for the trade and local rationing boards will result, since they will be required to handle fewer books and coupons.

Mrs. H. Boyd Goes To Tennis Tournament

Mrs. Houston Boyd, winner of the Labor Day tennis tournament at Big Spring, went to Tuscon, Arizona, to participate in the Southwestern Tennis Tournament, which began Friday, November 12. The tournament was held on the University of Arizona Courts. Mrs. Boyd is the former Lessie Fancher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bynum Fancher, pioneer Lamesa residents.

On her way to the tournament, Mrs. Boyd visited with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fancher of El Paso. From El Paso to Tuscon she accompanied a group of friends from El Paso who also participated in the tournament. In Tuscon, Mrs. Boyd was the guest of Captain and Mrs. Joseph L. Dickson, Army Air Forces.

Mrs. Elwood Wright left during the past week to join her husband who is stationed in Jackson, Mississippi.

the initial quarter and Spires added the point. Spires spearheaded the Abilene offensive as he chalked up runs of 62, 50 and 32 yards in different goalward jaunts for the Eagles. He scored four touchdowns and added three points for a total of 27.

Billingsley scored Lamesa's touchdown in the second when he recovered a team mate's fumble over the goal line. In the fourth, the Tornado line charged in and blocked an Abilene punt that was recovered by the Eagles behind the goal for a safety.

Abilene made six first downs to Lamesa's five, piled up 316 yards to 77, completed two of six passes for 26 yards as against Lamesa's five completions of 14 attempts for 49 yards.

Demonstration Is Held at Mrs. O. H. Morris' Nov. 10

The kraut demonstration given by the H. D. A., Mrs. Myrtle Negy, in the home of Mrs. O. H. Morris, on last Wednesday afternoon, was a great success; a success in more ways than one.

Twelve ladies were present and decided to organize a H. D. Club. Mrs. Claude Gowen was elected president; Mrs. C. L. Sharp, Federation Councilor; Mrs. Jack Walls, treasurer; Mrs. O. L. McIlroy, secretary; Miss Vida Adkins, reporter.

The group voted to have a Christmas party for December 17. Women on the committee to plan for the party were Mrs. Jack Womack, Mrs. P. V. Ryon, and Mrs. Sharp. Besides the social hour at this meeting, Mrs. Negy will give a short lesson on Business Planning in the Home.

During the afternoon the women were schooled in the putting up of kraut, and then the ladies were shown through Mrs. Morris' lovely rose garden.

Visitors for the afternoon were Mrs. Arthur Hull and Mrs. Keen of Phore, and her little daughter. Mrs. Keene gave a most interesting outline of the work their H. D. Club is doing in her home town in the magic valley.

Several town ladies are joining this Central Club to learn better how to save and preserve and conserve. Others are cordially welcome as each housewife and mother has some contribution for her fellow member in this, the most vital moment in our country's history.

At 5 o'clock the club adjourned to meet at 2:30 p. m. on Friday December 17th in the home of Mrs. W. K. Crawley.

REASONS FOR HEAVY DRAINS ON THE NATIONAL GASOLINE SUPPLIES ARE RELEASED

Editor's Note: This is the second article to appear in this paper on the general civilian gasoline supply. The report was prepared by the Office of War Information:

Because of the exigencies of war, it has been necessary for the U. S. to supply large amounts of gasoline for our Allies in addition to that used by our own fighting forces.

Now that Axis naval and air power has been shattered in the Mediterranean, it will be possible to alleviate the disproportionate drain on the resource of the U. S. in the Western Hemisphere and at the same time to effect a distribution of the supply of oil between American and British controlled sources that will require of the British a larger and more equitable share of its oil resources in the prosecution of the war.

The President on October 5 pointed out that the War Mobilization Committee had previously taken definite steps to relieve the demands of our own crude oil reserves and refining capacity by a greater use of oil primarily in the Middle East and secondly from the Caribbean.

But even with this increased supply of oil from the reserves of our Allies, our own military demands are such that gasoline for civilian use in the United States will of necessity continue to be greatly curtailed but not to the extent it has been in Great Britain.

Heaviest war drains on national gasoline stocks to date have been in the regions east of the Rocky Mountains because of their accessibility to Gulf and Atlantic ports.

In 1942, 12.5 per cent of all gasoline produced in the East, Midwest, and Southwest went to the armed forces and Lend-Lease. The amount had risen to 21.4 per cent in the first quarter of 1943 and to 23.1 per cent in the second quarter. Estimated need for the last half of the year is 30.16, with requirements for 1944 and 1945 predicted as 36.6 per cent and 39.6 per cent respectively.

It is virtually impossible to arrive at more than a rough estimate of the quantities of military gasoline that future developments may require. This is certain: War demands will swell with every shipment of tanks, jeeps, and planes sent abroad.

Less automobile gasoline is being processed from each barrel of crude oil as increasing amounts of oil go into high-octane aviation fuel, toluene for explosives, butadiene for synthetic rubber, and into scores of other petroleum war products. Only about 25 per cent of each 42-gallon barrel of crude oil now goes into gasoline for civilian use. In 1940 and 1941, approximately 37 per cent of every barrel was processed into automotive gasoline.

Need for 80-octane all-purpose gasoline is increasing rapidly, but tetra-ethyl of lead for stepping up this fuel to its high level is not plentiful. Lead content of automobile gasoline has already been reduced. Government agencies predict further curtailment of this component in civilian gasoline, with a consequent decline in motor and mileage performance.

Mechanized warfare feeds insatiably on petroleum products. Tanks of one armored division will burn some 25,000 gallons in travelling 100 miles. On a single six-hour mission, a thousand Flying Fortresses use at least 1,500,000 gallons of high-octane fuel. During the North African campaign, tankers made up to 60 per cent of the tonnage required for supplying the Allied forces.

Where other armies use a variety of fuels, ours has based its operations largely on one product, thus immensely simplifying problems of supply. Gasoline is used in field hospitals to heat sterilizers for surgical instruments, to burn the lamps in tent operating rooms, to power refrigerators in which plasma is kept. It furnishes the fuel for transport planes flying the wounded from field to base hospitals, and, in many cases, overseas to hospitals in this country. In the Arctic, the Aleutians and Greenland, gasoline heats soldier's quarters and cooks their meals. Even mechanical dough-kneaders in field kitchens are run with gasoline. This all-purpose fuel is put to literally hundreds of other vital uses. The list will grow as the war goes on.

The war is "global" for the United Nations only. Germany and Japan are, in effect logistical islands, organized to fight on tight interior lines. Axis supply routes are much shorter than ours. The need for gasoline products is proportionately less.

The United Nations face an immeasurably greater problem. We must operate from distant bases to encircle Axis strongholds. We must provide our equipment with more fuel than the Germans and Japanese can muster on the fighting lines. Moreover, we must consume enormous quantities of petroleum products in order to transport the fuel to the fronts. Undoubtedly the Axis planned on our inability to accomplish so vast and complex a task. But the task has been accomplished. When our forces clash with those of Japan and Germany, almost invariably ours have the deciding edge in equipment and fuel.

The name of Portugal, Lisbon, derives through many changes from Ulysses, the Greek navigator, reputed in myths to have founded it.

RELIGION IN ENGLAND

LONDON (AP) — Ten per cent of the people of England are sincerely attached to Christianity, 30 per cent kindly disposed, 50 per cent totally indifferent, and the remaining 10 per cent opposed to it, stated the Rt. Rev. Henry Wilson, Bishop of Chelmsford, at an Anglican Assembly in London recently.

How much does it cost to bomb Berlin ?

SUPPOSE, in the dusk of an English evening, 1,000 huge bombers soar over the Channel and head for Berlin.

By the time those planes return to England, their motors will have consumed 2,400,000 gallons of gasoline!

The cost . . . of the gasoline ALONE . . . will be more than $380,000.

To pay for the gasoline used on ONE such raid, 96,000 Americans would have to invest at least 10 percent of their next pay check in War Bonds!

You get a big kick out of reading about those 1,000-plane raids. You know that such raids, if repeated often enough, will soften up the Axis. But . . .

What are YOU doing to help pay the cost of those raids? (In addition to the gasoline they use, it costs Uncle Sam TWO HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS to build 1,000 4-motored bombers . . . plus the cost of training the 10,000 men who make up their crews!)

Modern war is expensive business . . . its cost runs into fantastic figures. 30,000,000 American wage earners are now putting an average of 10 percent of each pay check into War Bonds every pay day . . . but still it isn't enough!

Our air raids on the Axis are increasing in frequency and intensity. When land operations really get going, the cost will be staggering.

More and more Americans must join the Pay-Roll Savings Plan . . . more than those already in the Pay-Roll Savings Plan must begin to jack up their War Bond purchases . . . must start to invest more than 10 percent!

Remember . . . War Bonds are the finest investment in the world today. You get back $4 for every $3 you invest. And . . . the more War Bonds you buy now, the quicker the Axis will be licked . . . and the less the war will cost in the long run.

Think it over. And every time you're tempted to put a nickel in something you don't absolutely need—put it in War Bonds instead!

Committeemen To Help Farmers In Production

The 7500 county and community AAA committeemen in Texas, who were elected by other farmers, form one of the important groups of agricultural workers who will help farmers to obtain maximum wartime production in 1944, says Fred Rennels, assistant administrative officer of the AAA in Texas.

"There are many things that the AAA committeemen can and will do now and in 1944 to help win the war," Rennels said. "They can increase production of vitally needed war crops and livestock on their own farms by carrying out practices that conserve and improve soil fertility and increase yields.

"They can help to inform their neighbors of the 1944 farm goals and the provisions of the 1944 agricultural conservation program. This will enable every farm family to use the program more effectively.

"The committeemen can also help other agricultural workers to determine neighborhood and community needs for planting seed, farming equipment, needed supplies and labor requirements.

"The committeemen in some communities," Rennels said, "have taken the lead in organizing farmers to do more terracing, obtain phosphate, secure seed, and in other ways to carry out needed practices on their farms."

Dr. Cox Says:-

"It has been well said that procrastination not only is the thief of time, but frequently the thief of health and life," Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, said today. "Indeed, medical records in doctor's offices and hospitals prove that many persons die not because they are victims of disease, but because they do not receive early diagnosis and prompt treatment for their condition. An outstanding example of this fact is the great number of deaths from tuberculosis that could have been prevented.

"Tuberculosis is a powerful enemy, no matter what its stage, but the fact remains that early discovery and adequate treatment offer the best opportunity for cure. If the patient upon being told that he has tuberculosis cooperates fully with the strict regimen and discipline outlined for him, the disease can usually be overcome."

As soon as the provisions of the 1944 Agricultural Conservation Program are approved, this information will need to be carried to the farmers in their home communities. Rennels said the committeemen will attend county training meetings for local leaders, help work out schedules for community meetings, and encourage farmers to attend these meetings.

Soldier Poem Has A Moral

CAMP LIVINGSTON, La. (AP)—Private William Porter penned this poem with a moral for the camp newspaper:

"Private Dodd lies 'neath this sod,
"For what he though a trifle.
"For many days the lad refused
"To clean his M-1 rifle."

Dr. Cox said that in line with some of the other major killers, tuberculosis is insidious in its approach. Acute pain and discomfort are absent usually, and the symptoms are so comparatively mild that the patient is thrown off guard and considers them of little importance. Herein lies the real slaying ability of tuberculosis.

"The symptoms which, singly or in combination, demand an immediate checkup by the doctors are easy tiring, a persistent cough, and continued loss of weight.

"While it is true that any of these symptoms can be present without the patient having tuberculosis, this is no reason to imagine that such is the case. Therefore, if one is suffering from any of these manifestations, the only sensible and safe thing to do is seek the advice of the family physician at once," Dr. Cox warned. "If such a course is pursued, and the condition turns out to be not serious, nothing has been lost. On the other hand, if tuberculosis is discovered, the patient by doing the wisest possible thing has probably saved his life."

Parts For Home Appliances To Be Released By WPB

Families whose washing machines are idle because they lack parts were offered a ray of hope last week by a representative of the War Production Board's Office of Civilian Requirements who is traveling in Texas to learn where war-time shortages pinch civilians the hardest.

With persistence, families or dealers can get parts for washers made by standard manufacturers, the WPB representative said. She was Mrs. Janet Dublon of Washington, D. C. who spoke recently before the home demonstration staff of the A. and M. College Extension Service at College Station.

Mrs. Dublon also visited in Orange, Gregg, and Midland counties where she talked with rural and urban families of all income levels about the household merchandise they need most when civilian production can be increased or resumed.

There is little hope at the present for families whose electric irons lack parts or repairs, but families whose electric refrigerators lack parts stand a pretty good chance of relief. No new family-size electric refrigerators are in sight, Mrs. Dublon said. She believes more wash tubs will be available for families now doing their own laundry for the first time. The new war-time glass wash board is proving quite satisfactory, the WPB has been informed.

Home demonstration staff members told Mrs. Dublon how rural homemakers have had difficulty in obtaining boys overalls, baby clothes, scissors, safety-pins, and many other items. Asked about the prospects of getting elastic for repairing underwear, Mrs. Dublon said none could be expected before the latter part of 1944, and that would be synthetic. Homemakers might have to choose between elastic and tires, she commented jokingly.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Scott of Pecos spent the week end here visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Womack.

Mrs. C. E. Sumner and grandson Rex Don McKinnon who spent the past week in Sweetwater visiting with relatives and friends returned home Sunday.

Fall And Winter Styles Forecast

Key words to describe new clothes for the fall and winter are "sleek, wearable, durable, and versatile," in the opinion of those who have been studying clothing styles for a long time.

For the duration, women can still be well dressed in simple clothing, but they needn't expect any extra frills, says Mrs. Dora R. Barnes, clothing specialist for the A. and M. College Extension Service. There are other changes to be expected besides reducing the amount of material in a dress.

Fabrics will be lighter in weight and less tightly woven. For instances, percale and other cottons which weigh four ounces to the yard with a thread count of 80 in the warp and 80 in the filling no longer are available for civilian use. These materials which are especially suitable for children's play clothes and house dresses now are being used by the armed forces. Culottes are gone for the duration, and so are reversible, lined, and quilted skirts.

New clothes also are showing military trends as well as the influence of the United Nations in their design and decoration. Straight cut jackets and pencil-slim shirts come from China, while trim, well-tailored suits show a British influence.

Coat dresses or button-down-the-front styles are favorites again this season, and "boat necks" are back again. So are high round necks, which provide a good background for costume jewelry. Because they save quantities of materials, short length evening dresses will be worn a great deal, Mrs. Barnes says.

MORAL: SAVE OLD TIRES AND PROTECT THE FISH

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Haskins and party went fishing in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. They fished and fished. Didn't catch a thing. They went swimming in the afternoon in the mountain stream. Haskins spied an automobile tire on the stream's bed. He came up with it, thinking it might be better than his own. From the tire came two nice bass—the only catch of the day!

Wild hevea seeds were taken from Braziel to London in 1876 and germinated in Kew Gardens to produce rubber seedlings.

How many boys from LAMESA won't come back?

NOBODY knows the exact number. Nobody. But— The number who do come back—on their own two feet instead of in a flag-draped box—will be in exact proportion to the job we do here at home.

For every minute that we can help shorten the war will mean more lives saved. (213 Americans were killed in the final day of the last war, and 1,114 were wounded before the 11:00 o'clock Armistice took effect.)

Now one way all of us can help shorten the war is to tighten our belts and buy more War Bonds. Yes, still more. And . . .

If you think you're buying all the War Bonds you are able to, imagine—for a minute—that it's after the war . . .

. . . you're standing at the station . . . a bunch of home-town boys, still in uniform, climb off the train . . . one of them kisses his wife and grabs his kid in his arms . . .

. . . and then he turns to a young woman beside them, a girl who looks like his wife's sister, and you overhear him say . . .

"Catherine, I don't know how to tell you how sorry I am . . . it's such a shame about Joe . . . it makes me sick all over when I think how he'd be here today if the war had only ended a week sooner."

Think it over. Can't you buy a few more War Bonds to help end the war that week or month sooner? Sure, it may mean giving up something, but what's that compared to what they're giving up? And remember, always—The money you "can't spare" may spare a soldier's life!
