Cotton Growers Elect Directors

T. B. Mason, Lynn county chairman for the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., announced this week that Wilmer Smith of New Home and Roy Edwards of Tahoka were re-elected to serve as county directors to the big 23 county cotton organization.

Farmers and businessmen in attendance at the meeting, held Thursday, July 27, also heard short reports from Donald Johnson, staff member of PCG, and Smith regarding the activities of the High Plains organization.

One of the highlights of the meeting was the showing of a pattern of bale covering material made from 100 percent cotton. The PCG is now working to produce and promote an all cotton bale cover to replace the jute cover which is presently used to wrap our cotton. The cotton cover, manufactured from gin motes and mill waste, has proven quite satisfactory in performance and is superior to jute in many ways. Smith noted that the project has attracted a good deal of attention in other areas as well as on the High Plains and further stated that he is quite optimistic about the possibilities of covering cotton with cotton. "If the entire U. S. crop were wrapped in cotton this would open the door for a new market in excess of 300,000 bales of our own product," he remarked.

Johnson said that additional information regarding plans for the distribution and use of the new cover and other PCG activities will be presented at the annual meeting which is to be held Saturday, August 26, at the Fair Park Coliseum in Lubbock. The annual meeting this year is to be a joint meeting with the Plains Ginners Association, and will feature outstanding speakers, free door prizes and a free barbecue lunch.

"We should all invite our friends and neighbors and make every effort to attend this important meeting in support of our own organization," Mason concluded.

City Studying Civil Defense Program

City of Tahoka is preparing to cooperate in a practical manner in the Civil Defense Program and is currently studying methods by which to promote the program, according to Mayor Mel Leslie.

The City has enlisted the help of the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce, E. L. Short, president, and he is also studying the program outlined by the Federal government for protection in case of a disaster.

The local program will be strictly on a volunteer basis, but is expected to be a continuous one to meet the requirements of the age of nuclear weapons. Committees will be set up soon to work on various phases and to set up plans for a course of any emergency.

First objective will be an educational program to promote consciousness of the need for civil defense and an adult education course in civil defense. Another objective may be securing of warning siren and radio equipment, obtainable through the national organization. Still another is building of fallout shelters which may also serve as storm cellars or utility rooms, which the Government will assist in building by paying up to sixty percent of the cost when certain specifications are met.

Mayor Leslie says the City, however, does not propose to spend any public tax monies on the program at this time.

Mr. Leslie, Mr. Short, and others attending the Preston Smith 'Governor for a Day" program in Austin Friday expected to confer with James H. Gardner, the Texas State Civil Defense Director.

Like everyone else, we would e to have the highest price for tton possible. But, we must also ep at least a part of our world rket to stay in the cotton busi- ss. Beginning August 1, the dif- rential between domestic and reign prices for American cot- n jumps another 2.5 cents per und, from 6 to 8.5 cents, or 2.50 per bale. We don't claim to ow it all, but it seems to us only mmon sense indicates this will courage the rest of the world raise more cotton. Our stores e already filled with foreign manufactured products, because the public demands the lowest prices. The new increase puts U. S. textile plants in a further bind, which ultimately works down to the farmer. More foreign made goods, produced with cheap labor, will be replacing American made goods and therefore, American-produced cotton.

• • •

We liked President Kennedy's get-tough talk in regard to Berlin. We hope he means it. We've been backing down ever since we backed out and let Russian soldiers take over most of that key city. We've allowed the Communists to take all east Europe. We fought a war in Korea we didn't intend to win. Just recently, our President made boasts about what we would do to support Laos, and it wasn't a month until we had virtually given up to the Communists. Then, there was the fiasco in Cuba. Our foreign aid program has proven a dismal failure in winning friends for Democracy, and it's popular around the world to hate America, but our administration wants to pour more billions down this "rat hole." A lot of this aid is completely justified, but a lot more is an extravagant waste. We hope the President is not just "bulling" again.

• • •

A friend of ours recently returned from a South American country, where he lived more than two years. He told us Russia is giving aid to this country, but wherever a Russian dollar is spent it is obvious to the man on the street that Russians are supervising the job and seeing that each penny is spent as intended. Not only that, but it is obvious even to a peon that Russia is giving the country something. But, what about our American aid to the same country, which dollar-wise is many times greater? The U. S. simply gives the money to the Government. Graft is widespread. Everyone knows contractors on projects built with U. S. dollars give "kick-backs" to local politicians, and the "kick-back" goes on down to sub-contractors, straw bosses. etc. Bids submitted are fantastically high, but who cares—they are American dollars coming to that country for free, and without any supervision by the U. S. to guarantee these dollars are spent wisely. When will we learn?

Lenin, the founder of the Communist movement, who died 38 years ago, said: "First we will take Eastern Europe; next the masses of Asia; then we shall encircle the last bastion of capitalism, The United States of America. We shall not have to attack it; it will fall like an over-ripe fruit into our hands." All this has already come to pass except for the last statement.

• • •

We think "Buddy" Bragg over at the ASC office deserves a little hand of applause. He (and his force) has just been through a trying time with the feed-grain acreage allotment and measuring program, which came in addition this year to the usual cotton program. From what we hear, he has done an excellent job.

• • •

What's wrong with being called "country folks?" asks "Buddy" Smith in his Lamesa Courier, and goes on to say he feels it an honor to be called "country folks." We agree 100 percent with Buddy, because "country folks" are the salt of the earth, usually have their feet on the ground in more ways than one, and, everything considered, are the backbone of this nation.

• • •

This reminds us of Bob Thornton of Dallas, a country boy who made good in the city and who is still a country boy. We first met Bob about 30 years ago when a group of Dallas boosters rode into Tahoka on a special train, marched from the Santa Fe depot down town to ballahoo Dallas. Old Bob spent most of the time he was here talking to "The Printer," then just a young fellow and fighting the wolf from the door during the depression. Bob wanted to know the history of the town and county, and we gave him some facts and some "windies."

• • •

Several times since then our paths have crossed, and each time Bob has remembered us. Not only that, but each time he has taken us aside to hear some more "West Texas windies," as he called them. Once in a crowd of notables, he took The Printer off to one side for a talk, and when Arch Underwood said to him, "Come here, Bob, I want you to meet Lyndon Johnson and —(some cotton mogul from Memphis, Tenn., whose name we have forgotten)," Bob replied, "Hell, I don't give a dang about those fellows, I'm talking to Hill."

• • •

Well, that really made The Printer feel good, but the truth is that Bob Thornton meant it, for he was just an "old country boy come to town" and made no bones about declaring he would rather talk to the little people any time to find out what was going on than to talk to the big people.

Beaumont Couple Tahoka Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. (Jack) Frost of Beaumont were here Sunday until Wednesday visiting their daughter, Mrs. Roscoe Treadaway, and family. They were en route to Colorado for a vacation.

Mr. Frost is vice president and business manager of the Beaumont Enterprise and Journal, and is very proud of the beautiful new newspaper plant just completed a few months ago. He visited The News to talk shop.

While here, Roscoe took them on a tour of parts of Lynn and Terry counties. Mr. Frost was amazed at this great farming area.

Mrs. O. H. Hoover of the Grassland community is making steady improvement at her home after suffering a heart attack several weeks ago. She is The News' correspondent for the Grassland News.

Bob once told us how he started out with nothing, finally got $3,000 together, rented a $30-per month 25-foot building in Dallas, and opened a bank. He built this bank to one of the biggest in the Southwest, became rich, and served several terms as mayor of Dallas, and has been called "the greatest mayor Dallas ever had." But, he never lost touch with the "country folks," and liked to be called a "country boy," and we know he meant it because he has insisted on The Printer from Tahoka visiting him. And, he made us feel like he meant it.

• • •

H. W. Pennington says he would rather wear out than rust out. Although he will be 81 in October, he still "gets with it." A while back he was driving a tractor, and now he is hoeing cotton right along with the rest of the hands on his farm southeast of town. In addition, he and his wife raise a garden at their home here in town. We hear he's a pretty fair hoe hand, too.

Johnny Raindl's family thinks he is sometimes a little frugal and doesn't waste too much money in furnishing food for the table. Wife Ima Lou says one day little June, age six, returned thanks. That day they had a dish that June liked very much. After cleaning the plate, June declared, "That's pretty good, I think I'll pray again."

There are 193,467 bartenders and only 167,471 clergymen in this great nation of ours, says Changing Times.

An oldtimer is one who remembers when a baby-sitter was called Mother.

• • •

At the side of the road a woman looked helplessly at a flat tire. A passerby stopped to help her. After he had changed the tire, the woman said, "Let the jack down easy. My husband is sleeping in the back seat."

• • •

Mama, may I hit the flick? the teenage daughter queried.

"Come again" quizzed Mama.

"Oh, Mother," said the teenager in disgust. " 'Hit the flick' means 'go to a movie!' "

"So?" come back Mama. "In that case ask me again after you swish the dish, look the book, rub the tub, scour the shower, and spread the bed."

DON'T QUIT

When things go wrong as they sometimes will, when the road you're trudging seems all up hill, when the funds are low and the debts are high, and you want to smile, but you have to sigh, when care is pressing you down a bit, rest if you must, but don't you quit.

Life is queer with its twists and turns, as everyone of us sometimes learns, and many a failure turns about when he might have won he he stuck it out; don't give up though the pace seems slow—you may succeed with another blow.

Success is failure turned inside out— the silver tint of the clouds of doubt, and you never can tell just how close you are, it may be near when it seems so far; so stick to the fight when you're hardest hit— it's when things seem worst that you must not quit.—Selected.

Visitor Recalls Top Draw Team

Charles Florence of Edinburg, where he is principal of an elementary school, visiting here this week, recalled the great baseball team Draw had back in 1936, the year that Draw won the county championship. The team lost to Abernathy 7 or 8 points in the district meet, and Abernathy went on to the finals in the State meet at Austin.

In those years, all schools were in the same class.

The coach and three members of that team are now dead. F. C. Thorpe, the coach, later became owner of a chain of Piggly Wiggly sores in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, and was killed when his private airplane crashed about two years ago.

Also dead are Cecil White and R. L. Tyler, both killed in World War II, and Morrow Luttrell, who died of a heart ailment in 1939. Other members of the team were Willie Florence of Abernathy, Charles Florence, Clarence Williams of Draw, and Mark Willingham of Lubbock.

In addition to the team's playing ability, it attracted quite a bit of attention because of its big boys, especially Willie and Charles Florence, who were unusually large and active for high school boys in those days.

Charles and wife and two children, Mike and Sarah Lynn, are here this week visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Z. Florence, and have also been visiting her folks at Muleshoe. Charles took his B. A. and M. A. degrees at Texas Tech. He has been at Edingburg 13 years, first as a coach and the last seven years as principal of an elementary school.

Mr. and Mrs. Dee Green of Spur were here last week end visiting friends. Dee is former ASC office manager here and now is in a similar capacity in Dickens county. Incidentally, he and wife have taken up golf and are also doing a lot of fishing down at Lake Stamford, where they keep some trot-lines set.

Mrs. A. G. Reeves of Lubbock and Mrs. John Reagan of Floydada spent last week end here with their sisters, Mrs. Harley Henderson and Mrs. Frank Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Bray and daughter, Marla, left Sunday for Ennis and Dallas to visit her parents and other relatives and friends.

APPLIES TO PROPOGANDA

Carlsbad, N. M., Current-Argus: "A time-tested truism in the Psychology of advertising which says, 'Repeat a statement often and it will become a part of the thinking process of the masses.' "

This Week in AUSTIN by Senator Preston Smith

Hottest debate of this special session erupted in the Senate last week with discussion of the Sunday closing bill.

Exponents of the legislation to close businesses on Sunday, led by Author of the bill, Sen. William Moore of Bryan, say the bill is an economic bill.

"It is designed to close the discount houses that stay open on Sunday," Moore said.

Another supporter of the bill, Sen. George Parkhouse said, "It's not fair for a group of Northerners to come down here and take business away from old and established business—to take it away from people who have been here a long time, who pay taxes and who support their churches."

The bill, which would permit religious groups who observe religious days other than Sunday, to stay open, Sundays, was denounced as giving "an unfair economic advantage to groups which do not observe Sunday."

Sen. Crawford Martin of Hillsboro said he believed the bill would be unconstitutional under U. S. Supreme Court rulings if the bill were made to cover all religions and businesses.

Other provisions to control the Sunday opening law involved setting up lists of certain goods that could not be sold on Sunday. Such items, enumerated in the bill, included clothing, furniture, automobiles, kitchen utensils, home appliances, air conditioners, radios and television sets, cameras, hardware, jewelry, luggage and many other items.

Consular Work Told Rotarians

"What Our Consuls and Vice-Consuls Do Aboard," was the subject of a very interesting and informatative talk at Tahoka Rotary Club Thursday by Julius W. Walker Jr. of Plainview, who is in foreign service with the U. S. State Department.

The speaker was accompanied by his wife, the former Savannah Lou Tunnell, a native of Tahoka, and mother-in-law, Mrs. Lenore M. Tunnell, former Lynn county superintendent and presently an English teacher at Texas Tech.

He has been vice-consul on the Island of Malta, in the Mediterranian, the past two and a half years, and in September will go to Ruanda-Urundi, in east central Africa.

The office of the consul in a foreign country handles many affairs of interest to the U. S. Government, our citizens in the country, our shipping and business interest, immigration, etc.

It helps settle problems arising among our citizens in those countries, even to settling domestic troubles, and in general looks after interests of American citizens abroad, issues visas for foreigners to visit the U. S., helps repatriate American citizens, pays American government bills for services.

The Consular Service furnishes information to the various branches of our government on the political, economic, labor, and social aspects of the country in which the consulate is located.

In gathering such information, the consul and vice consul must meet as many of the natives in high positions and low as possible, and therefore a lot of entertaining is a necessity.

There are 190 to 200 consulates and 300 American officers around the world.

The Walkers are looking forward to their stay in Africa. The new country of Ruanda-Urundi, which expects to become an independent nation in 1962, has about 3,000 white citizens. This is the big game country, offers much fine scenery, and among the tribes are one group seven feet tall and another group of pigmys. It borders the Belgian Congo, the Sudan, Kenya and Lake Victoria, and Tanganyika.

Granvel Ayer introduced the speaker.

Among the out-of-town guests were E. E. Hancock, former superintendent of schools here; Miss Bergitta Hedberg of Sweden, spending the summer with Dr. and Mrs. Emil Prohl; Hank Arendse, the student guest from The Netherlands. Other guests included John and Fred Hegi, David Bray, Mrs. Skiles Thomas and Susan, and Carol Smith.

Dr. Skiles Thomas, president, requested that all written committee reports be handed in by August 15.

Costs least when you buy . . . saves more when you drive

Here's the Classic Ford Look at the lowest Ford price. Ford Fairlane equipped the way most people like is the lowest-priced,* full-sized 6-passenger car of all . . . though you'd never guess it by looking.

But more important still, is the engineering inside. Here are new achievement, new precision, new standards of quality. Here's a car that is built to be more service-free, and the savings mount up as you drive (the box at right shows you how).

Altogether, the '61 Ford is so good that its dealers tripled the duration of the regular warranty.† Other cars followed. But Ford began the trend with the car built to back up its longer-term warranty! See why we say, this is the Ford in your future!

HERE'S HOW THE '61 FORD SAVES BECAUSE IT'S BEAUTIFULLY BUILT TO BE MORE SERVICE-FREE!

Saves on Lubrication—You'll normally go 30,000 miles between chassis lubrications, which saves you time and money, because Ford has replaced conventional grease fittings with a sealed-in lubrication system.

Saves on Oil Changes—You'll go 4,000 miles between oil changes because Ford's Full-Flow oil filter gives you filtration through fibers, and filters all the oil all the time.

Saves on Brake Adjustments—New Truck Size brakes adjust themselves automatically.

Saves with Extended Muffler Life—Ford mufflers are double-wrapped and aluminized to last three times as long as ordinary mufflers.

Saves with Protective Body Coating—All vital underbody parts are specially processed to resist rust and corrosion, even to galvanizing body panels beneath the doors.

Saves with Special Body Finish—Ford's new Diamond Lustre Finish never needs waxing.

†Saves with Extended Warranty—Each part of '61 Ford, except tires, is dealer warranted against defects in materials or workmanship for 12 months or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first. Owners remain responsible for normal maintenance service and routine replacement of maintenance items such as filters and ignition parts.

QUESTIONS, PLEASE

QUESTION: Does Every Person Have A Right To His Own Belief?

ANSWER: It is often asserted that every person has a right to his own belief. If the Bible teaches this, everyone ought to teach it. If the Bible does not so teach, then no one should teach it. Being a religious question, it must be answered by the Bible. No religious question is settled unless it is properly answered in the light of the Scriptures.

One of the most important things in religion is to be self-surrendered and submissive to God's will. We should not be trying to please ourselves, but God. Jesus said: "And he that sent me is with me: the Father hath not left me alone; for I do always those things that pleases him." (Jno. 8:29). It is not a question of commending ourselves—as so many do, insisting that they are satisfied. The vital question should be: "Is God pleased and satisfied with our life, belief and religious practice?" "For not he that commendeth himself is approved, but whom the Lord commendeth." (II Cor. 10:18).

Several years after the church was established, Paul thought that he had the right to be a Pharisee, oppose Christ and fight Christianity. Concerning this period of his life, he later said: "I verily thought with myself that I ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jesus of Nazareth. Which thing I also did in Jerusalem: and many of the saints did I shut up in prison, having received authority from the chief priests: and when they were put to death, I gave my voice against them." (Acts 26:-9, 10). He did this with a good conscience (Acts 23:1); but this did not make it right. No, Paul did not have a right to his own belief. He had to learn and obey the truth to be saved (Acts 22:16).

Christ has the right to our belief. He now has all authority (Matt. 28:18). We must believe and obey Him in order to be saved (Heb. 5:9). If every person has a right to his own belief, then the will of God is ruled out, and the terms of pardon as laid down by Christ can be ignored. If this were possible, it would make man his own savior.

There is only one gospel that is true: "But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you that that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed." (Gal. 1:8) Timothy charged certain men NOT to teach a DIFFERENT doctrine. All had to teach exactly the same doctrine. Every man did not have a right to his own belief.

Are we any different now that they were in New Testament times? Have we the right to ignore the sacred word of God?

You are invited to send your questions to: Don Browning Box 812, Tahoka, Texas. You are also inveted to attend the services of the Church of Christ.

By RUDY EVINS

Weed beds and rock piles are sometimes very likely places you'll catch those lunkers but many a time you'll have trouble with weeds and snags if you're not using a weedless rig.

It sometimes happens that your favorite deep-running lure doesn't come equipped with a weedless rig. If this is the case take your eyes away from the television set for a minute and do a bit of rigging yourself.

Actually, there isn't much to do to make a weedless lure from your favorite artificial bait. Just connect a rubber band to the eye of the hook and slip the other end over the barb. If you have a double hook just slip the rubber band through the eye and slip the ends of the rubber band to the barb of their respective hooks. It won't keep the fish from being hooked because when they strike the rubber band slips from the barb.

One thing you have to remember about hooks, says the Evinrude Boating Foundation. There is no single hook that suits all situations. Hooks come in different sizes and shapes. Hooks with long shanks are usually used for tying streamers and other artificial bait or for live bait when fishing walleye or northern. Short-shanked hooks are used for panfish and certain short-bodied flies.

What type of hook a fisherman uses is a matter of preference. Some anglers feel that an offset hook—one with the point bent out of a flat plane, hooks fish best. Others contend that the flat bend—one with the whole hook in one plane, is the best.

The shape of the hook, the size of the wire, and the type of barb to use is a matter for debate among all fishermen. Whatever hook you prefer be sure that it will hold up under the stress and strain of the fish for which it is intended and that it is secured to your line properly.

Happy boating . . . and fishing, too.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

The unfairness of expecting tax-paying business enterprises to compete against non-tax paying operations is becoming more and more apparent to the people of the nation.

* * *

Appearing before the House Ways and Means Committee, in deliberations on tax reforms, George Burger, vice president in charge of the Washington office of the National Federation of Independent Business, presented the constantly rising tide of feeling on permitting cooperatives to escape payment of income taxes required from independent enterprises with which they compete.

C. W. Harder

* * *

He pointed out that in September of 1960 in a nationwide poll of independent businessmen, 79% requested that this favoritism be ended. In a poll on the same question taken in March of this year, the vote for this relief had grown to 86%.

* * *

Mr. Burger then further testified as an adjunct to the widespread nationwide polls, the Federation's field staffs this year also made spot check polls throughout the country on which problems of small business loomed largest.

* * *

Next to the need for an overhaul of tax laws, the problem of unfair competition from cooperatives ranked as the major problem, even outranking unfair labor practices.

* * *

And while ruinous price competition from imports ranked high as a major problem, only in North and South Carolina, and Connecticut, out of all the 50 states and the District of Columbia, did this problem outweigh in gravity the problem of independent business paying taxes and seeking to compete with cooperatives enjoying a most favorable tax status.

* * *

Spontaneous comments volunteered by businessmen were most interesting. In Kansas it was said "Put the co-ops on an equal tax basis with private enterprise. The taxes that they dodge is becoming an almost unbearable burden on our private enterprise sector."

* * *

A businessman in the state of Washington said "Unfair competition by co-ops is our big gripe. We have two of them in our town. It will be a bright day for independent stores when our Congress has the courage to change this law." From Wisconsin "If co-ops were taxed like any other private business they would not be able to undersell." From West Virginia "Let's get the co-op taxed as everyone else is taxed. They deserve no more than I deserve. Thousands of small businesses are going to be forced out unless we tax everyone the same."

* * *

And as Mr. Burger pointed out, it is not only independent businessmen who are protesting this injustice.

* * *

Last year, the National Farmers Union testified before Congress that cooperatives should bear their fair share of the income tax burden. There is no attack on cooperatives as such. But the overwhelming sentiments seems to be there is no more reason for exempting business enterprises from taxes merely because they operate under the form of co-ops than there is to exempt from personal income taxes all blue-eyed blondes. This latter, of course, would do wonders for the sales volume of the peroxide industry.

A basic conservation plan is being prepared for the M. M. Hall farm located south of New Lynn. The plan will consist of a conservation cropping system, crop residue management and contour farming. The cropping system will consist of cotton rotated with grain sorghum. The residues of grain sorghum will be worked into the soil surface to reduce the effects of blowing during the wind erosion period.

A 5,000 cu. yd. pond has been constructed on Hubert Aldridge's farm located two miles north of Redwine. The pond, which is to be used for livestock water, was cost-shared through the Great Plains Conservation Program.

* * *

A pond is under construction on the Carl Jones farm, which is located southeast of Grassland. It will be used to provide livestock water and is also being cost-shared through the Great Plains Conservation Program.

* * *

A diversion for the purpose of diverting run-off water into a live stock pond is being planned on the ranch owned by Dr. K. R. Rurham.

Now is the time to begin planning for terraces that need to be built this winter after crops are out. The heavy rains received during July have reminded us that it really can rain in West Texas and also that terraces are the foundation of a conservation program. Anyone needing land terraced is urged to contact the S. C. S. office in Tahoka. We will buy the lines, and costshare can be received through the A. C. P. office or through the Great Plains Conservation Program.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
THE STATE OF TEXAS

To Bessie Brandon, Defendant, Greeting:

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to appear before the Honorable 106th District Court of Lynn County at the Courthouse thereof, in Tahoka, Lynn County, Texas, by filing a written answer at or before 10 o'clock A. M. of the first Monday next after the expiration of forty-two days from the date of the issuance of this citation, same being the 18th day of September A. D. 1961, to Plaintiff's Petition filed in said court, on the 2nd day of August A. D. 1961, in this cause, numbered 2564 on the docket of said court and styled Curtis L. Brandon, Plaintiff, vs. Bessie Brandon, Defendant.

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to-wit:

The same being a suit for divorce, the Petition alleging that the Defendant disregarded the solemnity of her marriage vows, and her obligation to treat the Plaintiff with kindness, attention and forebearance, and the Defendant commenced a course of unkind, harsh and tyrannical conduct towards the Plaintiff over a period of time until about the 19th day of February, 1960, when the Defendant without cause or justification abandoned the Plaintiff and fled to parts unknown, and that the Defendant was guilty of such excesses, cruel treatment, misconduct and outrages toward the Plaintiff of such a nature and degree as to render their future living together impossible and insupportable. The Petition also alleges that no child or children were born to or adopted by the parties during said marriage, and that no community property was accumulated by the parties during said marriage, as is more fully shown by Plaintiff's Petition on file in this suit.

If this citation is not served within ninety days after the date of the issuance, it shall be returned unserved.

The officer executing this writ shall promptly serve the same according to requirements of law, and the mandates hereof, and make due return as the law directs.

Issued and given under my hand and seal of said court at Tahoka, Lynn County, Texas, this the 2nd day of August A. D. 1961.

Attest: W. S. TAYLOR, Clerk 106th Judicial District Court of Lynn County, Texas.

Verily I say unto you, Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. (Matthew (18:3.)

Three incidents involving children came to my mind.

Little Paul accidently pushed Mary to the floor. She was frightened and cried. Paul came to her and said, "Me sorry." Still she cried. He came to her the second time saying, "Me sorry." Finally, he said "Me so, so sorry." She wiped her eyes, stopped crying, and soon both were playing again.

My friend was baby sitting with two little sisters. They had quarreled all morning. At lunch time the four-year-old said her regular table grace. She hesitated, then added, "Help us to forgive the one who sits next to us."

I was walking from the church to the parsonage next door with our pastor's little daughter. Just to make conversation, I said. "Where do you live, Jane?" She said, "Oh I live next door to God."

If we truly want to make our homes Christian, we too, must be willing to say I am sorry, and forgive those who sit next to us if we would live next door to God.

PRAYER—Dear God, forgive us when we are unkind and hurt others. Help us to be understanding toward those who sit next to us that we may be instruments of Thy will. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY—The best place to live is next door to God. Elsie Pearl Williams (Iowa).

Slow down at sundown unless you want a showdown.
