10 Missing In Atlantic Ship Explosion

3 WOMEN ARE INCLUDED IN FATALITY LIST OF SHIPWRECK

Catastrophe Takes Place Off The Coast of Florida Saturday

TANKER RESCUES

Number of Passengers And Members of Crew Are Injured

MAYPORT, Fla., Oct. 17. (AP)—Ten persons, seven men and three women are missing from the passenger list of the Clyde liner, Comanche, which was destroyed by fire following an explosion off this port late today, according to information here as the tanker Reaper, and its pilot boat reached the port.

A number of the surviving passengers and members of the crew were said to have been seriously injured. The vessel was a total loss.

Physicians were hurried here from Jacksonville and neighboring sections to meet the Reaper, which rushed to the scene.

The Comanche was a ship of 3,856 gross tons and was 300 feet in length. She was in command of Captain E. E. Curry, with J. J. Gaudet as chief engineer.

It is the second vessel of the company to catch on fire in recent months. The freighter Mohican bound for Jacksonville to Miami, was beached with her afterhold in flames off Cape Canaveral, 130 miles down the coast from here. Her crew of 24 men was saved and taken by the tanker Tulsa into Tampa.

Three of the survivors, unidentified, but badly injured, are being brought to Jacksonville on board the motor ship Ajax. Several life boats were crushed between the Reaper and Comanche during the rescue work, survivors reported. One sailor declared he saw three persons drown.

An effort was made to have officials of the Florida East Coast railway order a special train here.

Aged Baby, Stone Cold from Day Of Birth, May Live and Become Normal Through Solar Treatment

London Doctors Believe Revolutionary Cure Is Possible For One of Nature's Freaks; Youngster Showing Improvements

LONDON, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Specialists at the London hospital are using solar rays to work the rejuveniation of a boy baby who upon birth two years ago had every appearance of advanced age and who until a few weeks ago had never aroused from a deep slumber.

"Baby Rip Van Winkle," as he was dubbed by the medical men, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cohen of High Gate. According to his mother, he never cried, but lay motionless for a year, life being sustained by artificial feeding.

"His body was stone cold, even in summer," she said. "He was just like an old, old man."

Doctors at first considered the case hopeless, but at a conference of 24 specialists several weeks ago it was determined to make a final effort to save the baby's life by the use of solar rays. His milk diet also was changed to one of fruit juices.

The other day to the astonishment of the hospital attendants the baby began to cry and then to fuss and squirm like an ordinary infant. Now he has progressed further and is growing teeth. The specialists believe that within two years he will be a normal child.

WICHITA FALLS SELECTED FOR 1926 METHODIST CONFERENCE; CHURCH UNIFICATION FAVORED

Sabbath Violation Rapped By Committee Report To Convention

GREENVILLE, Texas, Oct. 17.—(AP)—The North Texas conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, went on record Saturday as favoring unification with the northern church but without any definite plan in view.

The conference passed a resolution stating that the vote by which the pending plan of unification was rejected last Wednesday, 161 to 127, "is not to be construed as meaning that we are opposed to unification, as such, under some acceptable plan and that we firmly believe some such plan can yet be devised."

The resolution favored continuation of negotiations looking to unification. It was brought out by a committee composed of Rev. J. Sam Barcus, Georgetown; G. C. French, Sulphur Springs; C. A. Spraggins, Denton; Dr. C. C. Seleeman, Dallas, and Rev. J. A. Old, Commerce.

Reject Alderson Plan.

The conference rejected a plan presented by Rev. E. W. Alderson of Kauffman which provided for a federation of the northern and southern churches.

Wichita Falls was selected as a meeting place of the conference for next year. Pastor appointments will be announced tomorrow afternoon.

A report charging the Ferguson administration with hindering enforcement of prohibition by "appointment of hundreds not in sympathy with the state constitution" was adopted.

The report said the church must get behind liquor law enforcement as liquor was "an enemy to the church." It was considered an answer to the anti-saloon league's plea for a statewide campaign against law violation. The league and Rev. Atticus Webb, superintendent, were commended.

The same report denounced race prejudice and sectionalism and commended Mrs. Jessie Daniel Ames of

MOTOR BUBBLE BURSTS WHILE PRICES CRASH

Stock Market Sees Frenzied Buying and Then More Rapid Selling

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Wall Street's gigantic bubble in the motor shares burst suddenly today. Quoted values which had been marked up one to seven points in the frenzied initial outburst of buying, collapsed two to 10 points from their earlier high levels under the weight of a tremendous volume of profit taking sales. Forced liquidation and bear sales for the two-hour session were calculated at 1,482,000 by Associated Press tabulators as against the record Saturday high of 600,000 established March 11, 1904.

No official figures are available.

Natural Sequel.

The break, which came like lightning out of a clear sky was not associated with anything in the day's news, but was regarded by experienced stock market observers as a natural sequel to the speculative excesses of the past week. Yesterday's sensational advance in the motor issues had resulted in a vast flood of buying orders piling up in brokerage houses over night. Execution of these orders, many of them "at the market," ran prices up briskly at the opening.

Selling Starts.

Floor traders, usually quick to detect upturns in the market, discovered at the end of the first hour that prices were showing signs of weakening and there came such orders as "sell a thousand Hudson." "Sell two thousand General Motors." "Sell 2,500 Yellow Truck," at whatever prices were offered. Bids were quickly lowered but the flood of selling could not be stopped.

Motors were the hardest hit but sharp breaks also took place in the mercantile issues and specialties.

Auditor's Report Shows Shortage After Long Term of Work

BRYAN, Texas, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Charles A. Felker, former chief clerk of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station system was released on bond late Saturday afternoon following the filing of 11 complaints charging him with embezzlement of the system's funds. Bond was fixed at $1,000 in each complaint.

Judge Byrd E. White of Lancaster, acting chairman of the board of directors of the Agricultural and Mechanical college, and Walter G. Lacy, chairman of the auditing committee of the board, conferred here Friday night with auditors of the college. Immediately after the auditors reported a shortage in the system's funds, Felker was dismissed from the employ of the institution. Complaints were filed Saturday afternoon.

Felker has been chief clerk at the experiment station for 14 years and made his home here. He told members of the board, it is said, that no other employes of the college are involved with him. Representative W. S. Barron, Felker's attorney who appeared with him at the sheriff's office to make bond, arranged with Justice Hamilton for an examining trial next Tuesday.

60 INJURED AS STANDS TUMBLE AT GRID GAME

Washington - Jefferson And Carnegie Tech Crowd Drops Into Creek

FEW BADLY HURT

Too Much Pep and Stamping Causes Vibration That Weakens Seats

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 17.—(AP).—More than 60 spectators were injured, several seriously, when the east bleachers at College Field collapsed during the Washington and Jefferson-Carnegie Tech football game today. Fifteen hundred spectators, enthused by the scoreless tie at the half way mark in the gridiron struggle stamped their feet as the third period opened. The vibration was too much for the bleachers. With a rending crash it collapsed, precipitating men, women and children into Catfish creek over which the stands had been erected.

Immediately a panic ensued. Football was forgotten as frenzied spectators from the other stands rushed to the scene, intent upon rescuing some relative or friend. Several hundred of the bleacher occupants were thrown into the water under the mass of debris.

Rescue Starts.

State troopers, who were present at the time, took charge of the rescue work. Fashionably dressed men and women worked frantically with the officers, assisting in dragging the injured from the creek.

Marshall in Plea For a New Trial

A formal motion for a new trial for James L. Marshall, convicted last week of murdering J. E. Swayzee and sentenced to 25 years in the state penitentiary, has been filed by his attorneys. An appeal to the higher courts will be filed should the motion for a new trial here be overruled by the court, Marshall's attorneys said yesterday.

Lamar Hold-Up Suspect Is Held To Face Charge After Grill By County Officer

A complaint charging robbery with firearms was filed Saturday afternoon at the district attorney's office against a youth giving the name of W. H. Bruce and who has been under arrest the past two days as a suspect in the Lamar Avenue Pharmacy hold-up Thursday night. E. R. White, proprietor of the drug store, and a clerk were held-up at the point of a gun while a masked bandit rifled the cash register of about $50 in cash.

Bruce was arrested Friday at the corner of Eighth and Ohio by Deputy Sheriff R. T. Gay. At the time the suspect was wearing a revolver scabbard, although he had no gun. Before making the arrest the officer questioned the youth about the scabbard; what he was doing on the corner; where he lived. Bruce's description tallied closely with that of the bandit as given by Mr. White and the evasive answers given to his queries strengthened Gay's suspicions, he said.

When taken to the court house Bruce had, in addition to the revolver scabbard, a white handkerchief, marked with a fancy border corresponding with one noted by White while the robber held him at bay. White was brought to the court house Saturday afternoon to see the youth and said he was practically certain of his identification.

"I won't be certain," White said. "I didn't see his face, but he looks mighty like the one that held me up. I'm of the opinion they've got the right one."

Bruce has maintained a stoic silence since his arrest and through a long examination Saturday morning revealed nothing.

The complaint against him was signed by Deputy Sheriff Gay and taken by George Anderson, assistant district attorney, and Sam B. Spence, special investigator for the district attorney's office.

After Darrow's Legal Laurels

William Scott Stewart, (above), youthful Chicagoan, bids fair to eclipse the fame of Clarence Darrow as a criminal lawyer. He cleared William D. Shepherd, alleged germ murderer; saved Bernard Grant from the gallows; and was the father of the insanity plea that saved Gene Geary. Now he is defending Wesley Westbrook, accused in the alleged Druggan-Lake jail delivery plot.

Row At Dance Ends At Jail And Hospital

A young woman whose home is said to be in Ardmore, Okla., was in the general hospital Saturday night and her husband in the city jail as a result of a peculiar accident, too much booze and an ill-timed interference with police.

As told at the city hall, the couple was attending a dance with a man, not her husband, when trouble started. Someone tripped the pair and they fell heavily to the floor with the woman's partner landing on top.

She was knocked unconscious and carried from the ball room. An ambulance was called and she was taken to the hospital where physicians said she might be injured internally. It was not certain, however, that she was badly hurt.

Neither the woman nor her dancing companion had been drinking, officers said, but when Officers Parskey Kinsner and Bentley arrived at the hospital to investigate they found her husband decidedly excited—and it wasn't all caused by concern over his wife's mishap.

The husband and another man who had accompanied him to the hospital objected so vociferously when the police sought to learn details that both were taken to the city hall and locked up.

First Thing They'd Do, She Says, Is Violate Law By Voting Travel Costs

Elaborate Statement By Woman Governor Sets Reasons for Refusal to Call For a State Investigation at Austin.

Excerpt from Ma's communication refusing to call the legislature:—"And therefore if the legislature were to meet now, the first thing the members would do would be to pass a mileage and per diem bill to pay their traveling expenses and salaries out of the general revenue fund. As the limit in this fund is now exhausted, every member of the legislature would vote to appropriate money for his traveling expenses and salary would start off at the inception of the session violting his official oath. It would certainly be a fine crowd to meet to investigate somebody supposed to be violating the law when they themselves would be openly violating the law and their oath of office."

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Any appointee of her administration, whose wrong doing may be established by "Credible testimony," will be removed from office, Governor Miriam A. Ferguson said today, in declaring there is no good reason for calling a special session of the legislature. She said she had no one to protect in wrong doing and urged complainants to go before grand juries wih their "whisperings."

Blames It on Candidates.

In taking her first official cognizance of the agitation for a special session, the governor said nine tenths of the agitation is inspired by "some prospective candidates for governor or their intimate friends, or by some disappainted county official who wants to perform some duty now conferred upon other officials by law. They want to cail a 'they say' legislature and open it so that the gossipers may come down and air 10,000 rumors not based on one fact."

She said that should a special session be called, every member who should vote to appropriate money for his salary and traveling expenses would at the start of the session violate his oath, because appropriations of the 39th legislature exceeded by more than $740,000 the constitutional limit. "It would ajertainly be a fine crowd to meet to investigate somebody supposed to be violating the law, when they would be openly violating the law and their oath of office."

Text of Statement.

Text of the governor's statement follows:

"Beginning more than two months ago there has been going the rounds much talk about a special session of the legislature. I have read most of the interviews occurring in the daily papers, in order that I might be informed of any legal necessity that might exist that would make it my duty to call the legislature in special session.

"With all due deference to those who say that I should call the legislature into special session, and fully realizing that there are some people who honestly believe that I should call the legislature, I have not seen or heard any good reason advanced why I should put the taxpayers of the state to the expense of $100,0000 in calling a special session. And until some necessity arises I shall not permit myself to be intimidated into calling a special session to satisfy the personal political whims of those who are actuated more by personal desire than by patriotic motives.

Suggests Grand Judy

"Those who are going around privately and insidiously whispering that there is corruption and violation of the law being committed by appointees of mine in office, let me say to you frankly there is a court and a grand jury in any county in which you may reside, and if you know of anybody violating the law, then you ought to go and make complaint to the proper officers, instead of going around and spreading propaganda based upon no fact or truth to support it.

"I have no one to protect in wrongdoing and if any appointee un-

'ADVICE ISN'T NEEDED' SAYS HIGHWAY HEAD

Lanham Tells Moody To Keep His Orders To Himself

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Stating that Attorney General Dan Moody failed in his letter to the state highway commission to include his verbal legal opinion he gave to the commission during a conference, Frank V. Lanham, chairman of the commission, replied to the attorney general's letter which he branded as "a dictation of policy to the highway commission, which was not requested."

Wants It Written.

The chairman asked the attorney general to reduce to writing "the opinion you gave us verbally," if it would not prove embarrassing. The letter explained that the difference between the low bidders on highway maintenance contracts in 33 counties of $161,136.35 was mostly in five of the counties, and that the low bidders could not have done the work required to maintain and better the roads.

"Your letter asked cancellation of contracts where the difference between the bids was as low as $25 upon a contract of $54.000. We think that such a difference is too small to engage the very serious attention of this department or of the department of the attorney general," the letter reads.

Budget Prepared.

It is charged that the attorney general's letter was done evidently with the intention of creating in the public mind the thought that the highway commission was "simply dealing out contracts in the nature of plums and with no other basis to work upon. You knew, however, at the time your letter was written that a budget of proposed general maintenance expenditures had been prepared by our predecessors in offices, who had had more than a year's experience in maintaining the highways of the state, and this budget was prepared by Mr. Ellinger, the former state maintenance engineer."

Modern Merrimac and Monitor Engage Themselves In Battery and Assault at Tenth-Burnett

Leviathan Limousine and Boat of Lesser Quantity Under Two Feminine Pilots Amuse the Gentry

It might have been serious, but as it turned out it was only funny. A couple of expensive cars must undergo a session in the paint shop and three ladies are perhaps still somewhat ruffled, but what's all that between friends?

Here's how!

Late Saturday afternoon an expensive limousine—just about as expensive as they get, was running slowly west on Tenth street. A new touring car, not as big as the other but which wasn't any recently improved four-lunged outfit was running slowly north on Burnett about the same time. A woman was piloting each machine and the limousine carried a second lady along with the driver.

Just why they collided isn't a matter of record. However, they did, or rather the Burnett street machine poked its nose into the side of the Tenth street leviathan—and both stopped short while the two pilots looked at each other rather dazedly.

Then the touring car backed off a few feet, shifted gears and presto—leaped ahead again.

Burnett street north of Tenth was perfectly clear, but the big limousine hadn't budged and it effectually barred the way—right with the same fender that caught the original impact.

So far so good! The aggressive touring car seemed to be enjoying this hunt and peck system so it backed off again, shifted gears and played the battering ram once

SOCIAL WORKER HINDERED BY PARENT LAXITY

Welfare Workers Decry Lack of Co-Operation

The question that confronts all welfare workers, city, county and district officers is the lack of co-operation in enforcement of all laws on the part of parents and guardians, is the concensus of the opinions expressed by these officials and workers in a meeting of the Social Workers' club at the Y. W. C. A. Saturday in regular meeting, when a continuation of the discussion on delinquency was the theme of the talks.

It was brought out in the addresses that if fathers and mothers had the proper respect for the laws, the children would also be trained to respect them.

That persons reporting a case, whether parents, guardians, or an outside party, when brought to the stand would deliberately lie in order not to be mixed up in the affair was told to the club by several members, citing instances where such had happened. For that reason, the remedies to reduce juvenile delinquency are hard to be brought about, it was stated.

Those attending the meeting included: Frank B. Creighton, Mrs. W. O. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Cook, Mrs. T. B. Couch, Judge C. M. McFarland, Guy Raley, Prof. J. T. Rundell, Prof. H. A. Glass, Mrs. B. L. Fain, Miss Katherine Henricle, Mrs. Elva Casee, Mrs. Iva E. Austin, Mrs. T. B. Smith, Captain Wilkes, Miss Rosa Lee Harkins, Mrs. Sherrill, Dr. Nat F. "The future destiny of the world's civilization is in the hands of the teachers," Dr. Milo Atkinson, pastor of the First Christian church, declared in his address to the University club Saturday at noon at the Kemp hotel. "There is not much hope of changing us who have reached the top of the hill or who are just beyond it, but there is the hope of reaching the boys and girls, giving them a better outlook on life. Teachers and educators are able to give them into finer types of world citithem in to finer types of world citizens."

J. H. Allison conducted the current event lesson.

Music was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Underwood of Electra who sang a duet, with the accompaniment played by J. S. Pitman. Mr. Underwood sang a solo with accompaniment by his wife. Mrs. Underwood sang with accompaniment by Mr. Pitman.

Entertainment was also given by the orchestra directed by J. S. Pitman. Those playing were Misses Osventer, Paul Rutledge and Paul Pond, car Lilliam Bilbro, Dorothy Vandeviolins; Gerald Pond, clarinet; Joe Steinkoenig, flute; Pitman, piano.

Judge J. S. Dickey, president, presided at the meeting.

The Talk of the Town

A WOMAN living near Iowa Park and who owns a large tract of land in that vicinity is profiting by irrigation, although she has consistently opposed this artificial watering method; has refused to put her land in district No. 2 and has fought irrigation with all her might from start to finish.

Last summer when all Texas was gripped with heated drouth her cotton was having a hard time. Her neighbors were irrigating regularly and were assured of good crops; but her own land was not producing so prolifically.

One day an irrigation lateral near her place broke and water poured out over her land. The manager of her farm worked day and night for a time, carrying water, digging ghastily conceived ditches, "raking and shoveling" it over as wide an area as possible.

By dint of hard labor he succeeded in spreading at least some water over most of the farm—although his mistress does not as yet know that he did it.

Now, this farms boasts about as good a stand of cotton as any around Iowa Park and the dry land farmerette with many a superior sniff still depreceates irrigation.

"Just look at my cotton," she says "It's never been watered except by rains and it's as good as any around here."

The city council of Wichita Falls has suddenly found itself under the necessity of spending some $10,000 it had not figured on or, to speak plainly, assume the attitude of cheap skates.

That is what the proposal made last Monday night by W. F. Weeks amounts to, although Mr. Weeks can never be accused of seeking to embarrass the administration. The offers he has made the city are too liberal and require too great an expense on his own part to permit of any criticism.

Briefly, he asks the city to spend $10,000 for improvement of a proposed new road through the south side park he has given the public, while he himself offers to expend much more than that on the very same road—doing it all in order to secure an attractive and high class territory for a residential section he proposes to open up.

If it so sees fit, the city can say nothing doing. It has a contract with Mr. Weeks under which it is only required to build the 18-foot concrete road through the park. When it does that it has fulfilled the requirements demanded by Weeks when he originally offered the land. The city, too, has induced the county commissioners to build the park road as one unit of a longer roadway that will connect Holliday street with the present Lake road. The city is sitting pretty from a legal standpoint. It does not have a deed to the park land, but under the provisions of the contract with Weeks, it is fulfilling the demands made of it and will probably be in a position to call for the deed—and get it.

On the other hand, Weeks is certainly entitled to consideration on any reasonable proposition he may submit. In the first place, he has given outright 260 acres of land, which at a conservative estimate, is worth $200,000. He made it possible for the city to plan and develop what will in time be the finest park in its system and, at the same time, to provide a new municipal golf club that is the peer of any in the south. Now he proposes to enhance the value of this land still further by building a suitable road through it, one which he admits will increase property values of land he still owns bordering the park.

* * *

WEEKS would not be unreasonable if he asked the city to pay all the expense of the new roadway he wants. Its whole cost would be no more than the value of the land he has already given. But he does not ask that. He is willing to pay half the cost himself. His whole offer is a magnanimous one and is so adjudged in public opinion around town.

The city, as before stated, can turn him down. If it does it will probably have a fight on its hands, for Weeks, a lawyer whose shrewdness and talent are unquestioned, will not submit docilly to a sidetracking when he thinks at least he has a ligitimate moral defense.

The council may be entirely within its legal rights to say "no" to Weeks; but it will be a small, selfish thing to do.

With all this, though, it is not fair to condemn the city or even suggest it may be unreasonable until it has had time to give thoughtful consideration to the matter. There is a pronounced disposition on the part of Mayor Shepherd and the commissioners to look with favor on Mr. Weeks' proposals. And while they have taken no definite steps yet, there is reason to requests and join with him in making believe they will acquiese in Weeks' an even greater community asset where a few years ago was nothing but bald prairie.

Cotton further up the road always looks the best.

For some time now, but in the past week especially the Colorado-to-Gulf highway through Wichita Falls has carried its annual autumn load of cotton pickers from south, central and eastern Texas, bound for what they deem to be a cottony Utopia in the Panhandle.

And up they go, farmers around here say, clear on up almost to the line in their rickety and antiquated cars. Then a norther hits them on the cap rock and they turn and flee southward again to where Mother Nature is in less rigorous frame of mind.

Of course that is not true of all. Some industrious cotton pickers do come in each year, settle in a field, work hard, get out the fleecy bolls and depart when the crop is gathered with a comfortable roll of bills in their pockets.

With the majority of them, though, negroes and whites alike, it is simply a case of travel north to the end of the road, turn and travel south again. It is an annual promenade, something like the ducks and geese take in fall and spring.

They're going north now. In a few weeks they'll be returning south. It was the same last year and will be the same next.

Hallowe'en weather has brought out all the blacks and oranges, the cats and ghosts and broom-straddled witches that annually make their appearance in the book and decoration stores about this time of year.

Here are other signs of the syndicate idea—known in journalistic parlance as "boiler plate," wherein your material, fun or whatever you may wish, is furnished in sterotyped form.

Our forebearers when Hallowe'en eve came had their own pumpkin faces hollowed out with the candle set in ready to light; they had their pockets full of corn and vegetables, fit ammunition for laying down barrages on front porches; they had the front gates located beforehand so it was a simple matter to lift them off the hinges and hang them on the roof; they had their strings and notched spools ready to play unearthly rasps on darkened window panes. They used their own ingenuity.

Now we buy the paper doo-dads here in Wichita Falls just like they do in every other city of the country; we wear the same kind of masks and cuss the kids if they litter up the front porch with popcorn.

After getting the payroll the robbers were compelled to break a window to get out. They did not reply to a number of shots fired by John E. Krauser, the company's auditor, but sped away in an automobile.

KEEP KIDNEYS CLEAN, DRINK MORE WATER

If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers, Also Take a Little Salts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also so that they no longer irritates, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.—Adv.

"COOLIDGE MUST MOP UP."

William Allen White of Kansas is on the road again. Looking over the returns from Wisconsin and viewing other aspects, the sage of the Emporia Gazette throws out this life line to the administration, "Coolidge to succeed, must mop up. He must consolidate the victories of the past three decades, discarding some sops, abandoning certain advanced lines, strengthing others, and to do his work well, he must express himself through Senator Charles A. Curtis and must satisfy Senator Borah and the suspicious minority which generally follows Borah."

According to the Kansas sage there are three strong Americans in public life today—Curtis, Borah and Coolidge. "And the strongest of these is Curtis of Kansas." Furthermore, according to the sage, by reason of his high office, Coolidge should be the leader, "but to lead, the president must rely upon Curtis and conquer or eliminate Borah."

Borah has been in the senate many years. No president has ever conquered him; no president has ever eliminated him. And then the Kansas sage gives the readers of the Emporia Daily Gazette and the American public this biographery of the Idaho senator,

"Borah has never been with the White House nor with the senate. He has refused to take the White House program unless he made the program. The Idaho senator can do what the president and Senator Curtis never has done; he can appeal to the people of the country and he knows the weight of the people."

To a man in the tree top it would appear that the president, while at Omaha, did some mapping as well as mopping. William Allen White says that Senator Borah is ready to make trouble for the president, that Senator Watson of Indiana invited trouble by reading young LaFollette out of the republican party, but he believes that the half Indian senator from his own state can stem the tide and save the day for the president.

He admits that Senator Curtis by reason of his back ground, has no great enthusiasm for the president's program, but believes that Curtis will take it, push it, put it through the mill of senatorial routine, but all with little conviction that the program is important.

If Senator Curtis of Kansas, who is the leader of his part in the upper house, has a poor opinion of the importance of the president's program, how is he going to push it over. How is he going to aid the president in the work of conquering or eliminating the senator from Idaho.

But back to the new slogan invented for the administration by the Kansas sage, "Coolidge to succeed must mop up." There should be plenty of material for the Washington correspondent this winter when the Curtises and the Watsons go about the conquering or the eliminating of the rugged and resolute free lance senator from the mountains of Idaho.

MILITARISM GIVEN A JOLT.

Face to face with 10,000 heroes of the world war, President Coolidge, in his Omaha address made this savage thrust at militarism:

"Our people have had all the war, all the taxation and all the military service they want. They have therefore wished to emphasize their attachment to our policy of peace. They have insisted on economy. They have supported the principle of limitation of armaments. They have been able to do this because of their position and their strength in numbers and in resources. We have a tremendous natural power which supplements our arms. We are conscious that no other nation harbors any design to put us in jeopardy. It is our purpose in our intercourse with foreign powers to rely, not on the strength of our fleet and our armies, but on the justice of our cause. For these reasons our country has not wished to maintain huge military forces. It has been convinced that it could better serve itself and better serve humanity by using its resources for other purposes."

President Coolidge declared himself a thorough believer in a policy of adequate military preparation. And then he reminded his audience of men, who had faced the carnage of hell and slaughter under foreign skies, that "our country has a larger army and a more powerful navy, costing annually almost twice as much as it ever has before in time of peace."

If there are jingoes in America, if there are Americans who insist that this republic should maintain the greatest navy afloat and the largest army possible to mobilize then they are invited to read this excerpt from the Omaha address:

"No doubt this country could, if it wished to spend more money, make a better military force, but that is only part of the problem which confronts our government. The real question is whether spending more money to make a better military force would really make a better country. I would be the last to disparage the military art. It is an honorable and patriotic calling of the highest rank. But I can see no merit in any unnecessary expenditure of money to more men to build fleets and carry muskets when international relations and agreements permit the turning of such resources into the making of good roads, the building of better homes, the promotion of education and all the other arts of peace which minister to the advancement of human welfare."

There are times when President Coolidge talks like a Jeffersonian democrat—Omaha was the place; the date of the American Legion convention, the time.

CANADIANS DIVIDE ON ISSUES.

Canadians will decide for or against a high protective tariff on October 29. They will decide whether the liberals are to remain in power or the conservatives are to take over the reins of government.

William Lyon MacKenzie King is the leader of the liberal party and Arthur Meighen of the conservative party. There is a third party in Canadian politics. It is known as the farmers party of which Robert Forke is the leader.

Tariff is the main issue. The liberals are for a tariff for revenue only, and co-operation between the publicly owned railways and the Canadian Pacific railway which is owned by private parties.

Canadian conservatives are for a high tariff. They insist that all the raw commodities of Canada, including pulpwood, should be manufactured in Canada and not shipped to the United States for manufacturing purposes. Furthermore, the conservatives demand laws that will make Canada "so attractive for its people that there would not be any duplication of the exodus of half a million of its people to become citizens of the United States as in the past three or four years."

If the farmers party make any showing in the provinces of Canada, they may hold the balance of power in the new parliament to be returned on October 29. It will be recalled that the conservatives appealed to the country on a protective tariff issue in 1921 and were soundly beaten. They may have better luck this time.

In recent years more than a million French Canadians have invaded the New England states and the manufacturing villages of upper New York state where they found ready employment in all the milling centers. Now the conservatives say the way to keep them at home is to turn all the raw materials of Canada into the finished products under Canadian skies.

French Canada is the gibraltar of the liberal party. It has 65 members of parliament, and in 1921, the liberal made a clean sweep of every district. Under Canadian skies French Canadians vote the liberal party ticket. Under New England skies the French Canadians who become naturalized citizens of the United States, vote the republican party ticket. This is the political record these recent comers have established under the protecting folds of Old Glory.

In Canada they are for a tariff for revenue only. In the United States they are for a tariff for the protection of manufactured goods. They are plastic and adapt themselves to American ways. New England is a citadel of protection and the workers as well as the manufacturers believe that protection is the thing.

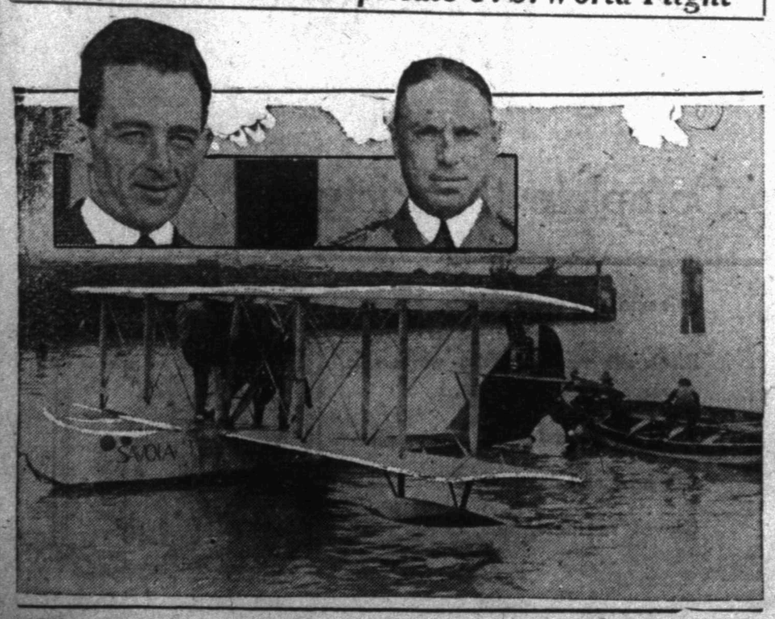

American capitalists have invested millions of dollars in Canada in organizing super-power plants, which carries with it control of Canadian water ways. Now the Canadian conservatives would prohibit the sale of super-power to industries or individuals in the United States.

This is another phase or condition of the Canadian mind at this time. "Canada for Canadians" is the war cry of the conservatives.

COOLIDGE STOOD PAT.

Minister of Finance Joseph Caillaux, known as the wizard of France, will return to report progress on the funding of the French debt to his own government. This wizard of finance came to America with a proposition. He had hoped that the American government would agree to the payment of the principal on the part of France with the interest cancelled. President stood pat.

Ring Covers Ladies' and Gent's Eye-sore Exposition, Moomaw—Lardner

To the editor:

Last wk. I wrote you in regards to the men's beauty contest at What Cheer, Ia., and the men's radio contest held in our basement in which the writer of this here was unanimously selected as Mr. Radio for the season of 1925. This wk. I will try and describe the Ladies and Gents Eye-sore Exposition to choose the ugliest man and the ugliest woman in the good old U. S. A. This event was held in Moomaw, Nebraska, which is generally believed to have the homeliest name of any American town.

One Wicked Eye.

The contest amongst the women was the closest in history and it was only after a bitter argument that the judges finally picked Miss Lucy Grootle of Bobo, Alabama. As the name of Miss America has been bestowed on Miss Lamphier of California in the female beauty event at Atlantic City last mo. it was thought suitable by some that the Indiana girl should be christened Miss Greece in honor of the general appearance of the people that comes here from that country. Other suggestions from those with a passion for plays on words was Mistake, Misshapen, Misfortune and Misprint, but these was all finally discarded in favor of Miss Deal.

Following is the official statistics on Miss Grootle as of Oct. 12:

Age—52 years.
Weight—186.
Height—5 feet 2.
Hair—Sparse.
Mouth—Normal, 5 inches; expanded, 12 inches.
Nose—Mythical.
Jaw—Reactionarr.
Neck—Normal, 16 1-2; in the wen season, 10.
Complexion—Plaid.

The judges was Mr. Simon H. Patton of Goose, Oregon, veteran inmate of the Jerk County Home for the Blind, and Mrs. Elliott Grewsome, a Pittsburgh epileptic. First prizes was an 8-piece bathing suit, while second prize was the handle of a broken looking glass. These prizes was awarded immediately after the parade of all the entrants up and down the alley behind Brewster's pool hall. This event was staged at 2:46 a. m. when it is usually quite dark in Moomaw. While she donned her prize, Miss Grootle was interviewed by a blindfolded reporter from the Ringhampton Bat.

"They call me a flapper," she said, "but that is on account of my ears. However, they can call me what they like as long as they don't call me late to supper," she added, with a laugh that showed her tooth.

"To what do you attribute your success?"

"To pre-natal influence," replied the Indiana hag. "During the year prior to my birth my father was superintendent of apes at the Omaha zoo."

"And what do you intend to do now?" she was asked.

"I am considering several (2) offers. One is a job as scarecrow on Max Groat's farm outside of Niles, Michigan, and the other is to hide behind trees all over the west."

Runner-up Objects.

Miss Grootle, or Miss Deal as she will be called from this time on, has a rather remarkable record of achievements since she really began to try. She got her first inkling of what lengths she might go to in August, 1904, when all the dogs that caught a glimpse of her began to whine and subsequently left town, returning only after her family had moved to Elyria. On the 4th day of October, 1913, she was shot by a Russian peasant who mistook her for a wolf. Exactly three years later a 37 year old dray horse in Millvale, Pa., saw her and became frightened and ran away, killing the inmates and destroying a box of blotters. When in 1924, her father took her back to Omaha to revisit the scenes of his former triumphs, she was seen by the animals approaching their cages and one warlus dropped dead while 2 zebras and a 5-toed sleuth became delirious.

"Lots of girls," said the Hoosier gargoyle, "brag because men wink their eyes at them on the street. When men see me they close their eyes and keep them closed till I've went past."

The winner of the second prize, Miss Ellen Hedge of Curve, Tennessee, was indignant at the decision of the judges.

"What beat me," said the Tennessee sight, "was the rule which forced us to wear a tailored suit over our house dress and an ulster over that and then wrap ourselves up in a blanket. I couldn't show half of my blemishes. I've got more defects on my 2 shoulder blades than the Indiana entry has all over what she hysterically calls her body."

Only one prize was given in the men's competition. This was awarded to Mr. Guthrie Ouch of Americus, Georgia, said to be the handsomest man in that city. Mr. Ouch once stayed 4 rounds with John L. Sullivan and at the end of the bout was obliged to remain in his corner till some of his prominent features was returned to him from different parts of the auditorium. One ear and one nostril fell into the laps of souvenir fiends and was taken home by same. These was all Ouch actually lost but many of the recovered parts was stuck in the wrong places and the results, why the lease said the better. The ensemble was perhaps best expressed by his mother's exclamation when he entered his home late that night:

"Well!" exclaimed the old lady.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

Libra.

By MARY BLAKE.

Today's planetary aspects are, although benign, not actively favorable. Stimulation is lacking, although there will be experienced a sense of complacency and contentment, very much in keeping with the spirit of the day. At times there will be sensed a desire to find fault, not with yourself, but with others. This should be curbed, and a philosophical calm established. There are in every home little incidents that rub one the wrong way. Meaningless words that jar. Actions that irritate. If these are dwelt upon, differences ensue and acrimony reigns supreme. Remember that none of us are perfect, and that happiness can only be secured by consideration, not of one's self, but of others.

Children born today will vary in health conditions according to their sex. Whereas a boy will be weak and ailing during his early years and, in spite of this, attain a normal majority, a girl will pass through the years of childhood with flying colors, but will, in after years, be anaemic and easily tired, until she marries and engages in the responsibilities and blessings of maternity. In disposition and character, they will be very similar. They will be studious and restrained in their actions. Introspective and deliberate. Painstaking and industrious. They will have great ambitions, and, even if they should not reach the goal they set out to conquer, they will achieve more than if they had been satisfied with a lesser perspective.

If today is your birthday, you are inclined to be moody, but more for personal, than for public, consumption. It is very difficult for you to look on the bright side of things, and your attention seems permanently fixed on a gloomy outlook. You do not wait until you come to a bridge, before attempting a crossing. You visualize bridges where none do, or can, exist.

You are determined, although, in your case, determination is often another word for stubborness. Your ever present desire is to act on impulse, but a mirage of coming disaster and failure always gets in the way, and you steer yourself around imaginary moats of despair and castles of dire happinings.

Capability and energy are your strongest assets, and being demonstrative and very affectionate, your nature demands love and attention.

Fable of the Charley-Horse —By George Ade

Once there was an Insurance Agent named Warburton J. Timmons who often boasted to his Wife and the Stenographer and his Business Partner and Strangers encountered in the Underwear Department of a Pullman Car that he didn't know he had a Stomach. Such gross ignorance would not seem to call for Bragging but Mr. Timmons attached tremendous Importance to the Fact that so far as Gastritis, Heart-Burn and Dyspepsia were concerned, he didn't have any more Interior Complications than a Bass Drum. So, when he saw some less Fortunate Mortal stirring up Bi-Carb or munching Pepsin Tablets, he would grin at the Sufferer in a perfectly unbearable Manner and pull the Favorite Speech: 'Well, Sir, take it Year in and Year out, I'll be switched if I know I've got a Stomach."

Warburton was one of those who could eat Anything and did. All kinds of rich and gummy Pastry were simply Vitamin A to him. He deliberately and in a Spirit of Bravado attacked all of the dangerous Combinations which might properly be engraved on so many Headstones, Meaning as for Instance:

Grabbing Credit for It.

Exhibit A—Broiled Lobster, followed by Cucumber Salad, Tutti Fruitti Ice Cream and Angel Food.

Exhibit B—Pork Chops, Hot Biscuits, Potatoes, Au Gratin and Apple Dumplings.

And so on. Then when the admiring Spectator would tell him what a Four-Time Wonder he was, that would be his Cue to explain that, as a Matter of Fact, he didn't know he had a Stomach.

Because he was First Cousin to an Ostrich and had all of the Alimentary Immunities of a Goat, Mr. Timmons assumed a Moral Grandeur which did not fit in with his Personal Appearance or his Social Rating. Naturally, he was hated by all Cripples, Hypochondracs and Neurasthenics, for the Reason that he tried to make them feel that he was a King on a Throne while they were a lot of Insects crawling in the Gravel.

Along with the virtues of the nonexistent Stomach he advertised to the World the startling News that his General Health was so robust that several Doctors had starved to Death on his Account. To quote his own original Way of putting it: "I haven't had an Ache or a Pain since I don't know when."

Warburton J. Timmons went on for Years and Years leading a benumbed and painless Existence, the same as a Crocodile, and then he got what is coming, under the Terms of the Contract, to every Person who makes Moral Attributes of certain Bovine Characteristics.

One Day he played Golf in the Rain and refused to change his Clothes or take a Hot Foot Bath because he said he was tougher than Whale-Bonje and a little old Water wouldn't hurt Him because he took it, every morning, just the way it came out of the Pipes. One of those Birds. What will they do when they eventually get to a Place where all the Water is hot

Joy in Clarksburg.

It all happened next Morning. Mr. Timmons started to roll out of his Couch, in his usual bounding and gymnastic Manner, when some one stuck a red-hot Corkscrew into his Hight Hip and turned it round twice. He let out a Yip and fell back in the Covers, a very surprised and grieved Person. He lay there moaning but still refusing to admit that the Laws of Nature, which penalized everyone else, could possibly take a Mean Advantage of Warburton J. Timmons.

It now becomes necessary to ask certain Questions regarding the Town of Clarksburg of which Mr. Timmons was one of the main Ornaments Why was it, that on a Certain Morning, all of the Birds in the Trees chirruped more gaily Why did the Tots on their way to School emit Peal after Peal of silvery Laughter? Why did the Trolley Conductors sound their Gongs with unusual Vigor and all of the Merchants in the Business District attack the Day with extraordinary Cheerfulness? The Answer to all of the Foregoing is that on this particular Morning the whole World was brightened by the Spectacle of Warburton J. Timmons limping to his office with the Assistance of a Cane.

It was the Good wife who told him to try a liniment which an Indian Doctor had given to old Mr. Keesler soon after the Civil War.

It was Mr. Bromley, the Business Partner, who told him to put a Porous Plaster over the Seat of Pain. Mr. Bromley may best be described as the Type of Man who would, in any Emergency, advise the use of a Porous Plaster.

It was Mr. McClatchey, the Barber in the Third Chair, who told him to carry a small dried-up Potato in case he could not find a Buckeye.

It was Miss Skinner, the steno, who asked him if had ever tried a Turkish Bath which was a nut Question, because he never had tried Anything. We forget to tell you that in addition to not knowing he had a Stomach, he never suspected that he had a Sciatic Nerve.

Plenty of Advice.

J. B. Cummings, the Postmaster, said that he had used, for Years, a Tablet which instantly killed any kind of Pain, but he hadn't been able to get the Preparation lately on account of the Government stopping the Sale of it because it was said to be full of Morphine. Mr. Cummings was quite a Help.

Not until Bud Harrington, the Grain Dealer, dropped in to see about his Premium, did Mr. Timmons learn that whenever any Part of the Works is causing Misery, it simply means that one of the Vertebrae has jiggled out of Place and all you have to do in order to get Relief is to go to a Practor and have him hit you in the Back with a Hammer. Mr. Harrington allowed that nearly all of the Suffering which has been experienced by the Human Race during the last 8,000 years might have been averted if more People had been hit in the Back with Hammers.

Mr. Cadwallader, who managed the Local Picture House, happened to be in the Office when the stricken Patient was getting all of the good Dope from the Grain Dealer. He waited until Mr. Harrington went out and then told Mr. Timmons to lay off of that Hammer Treatment. He said that one of those Lads nearly ruined his Sister-in-Law. He said that the real Guy was the Osty because he felt around all over you, to see if anything had shifted or turned over. All of which sounded reasonable.

"You'll try this and you'll try that, but in the End you'll pack up and go to French Lick. Such was the emphatic Opinion of Mart Carr, who ran the Soft Drink Emporium at which Mr. Timmons, the Invalid of whom we have been speaking, bought all of his Chewing Gum.

Ebbie Swisher, who carried the Mail on R. F. D. No. 3, took quite a different View of the Matter. He said the only Thing for Mr. Timmons to do was get right out and take a lot of Exercise.

Before 3 o'clock p. m., the Trouble had been diagnosed as a slight Sprain, Neuritis, Rheumatics, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago and Pneumonia. Also, Mr. Timmons learned from Otto Gunkel, the Harness-Maker, that he ought to take Sarsaparilla for his Blood.

In spite of all the co-operative Efforts of the Samaritans, there is no denying that the Charley-Horse continued to jump, as Mr. Timmons hobbled over to see Dr. Good News Bundy who said it was an Infection and therefore the Sinus had better be investigated, the Tonsils discarded and all of the Teeth pulled out and then, if Mr. Timmons didn't feel any better, something Else would be tried.

Upon hearing this, the Victim rang for a Yellow and was taken to his Home, where he continued to experience the most excruciating Agonies just east of the Pelvis. He retired early, accompanied by an Electric Pad.

There is no telling what might have happened if Mr. Timmons had not arisen next morning feeling O. K.

How to Win at Golf.—J. J. Montague

This article is merely a sincere and unpretentious effort to answer a question that is uppermost in the mind of every golfer. It is not based upon any special knowledge of the game, for the good reason that those who have a special knowledge of the game seem never able to impart it to others. The writer has in his time read advice about playing golf from the pens of Grantland Rice, Walter Hagen, Ring Lardner, Jim Barnes and Frank Craven, yet he cannot play any better than he could when an enemy of long standing presented him with a set of clubs and sat back malevolently to watch him grow old and haggard and a prey to despair in a futile effort to use them.

The suggestions that follow have never been employed by the author himself, for reasons which may appear as they are unfolded. But he has seen many of them used, and always with success. A somewhat intimate knowledge of the psychology of golfers makes him certain that the others will be equally effective.

But let us get on with our lessons.

Suppose you are playing with a golfer who is rather better than you are, able to give you a stroke to a hole perhaps. It is useless to talk to such a man. He will know immediately the motive behind your suggestion that he is looking nervous and haggard, and will turn a deaf ear to them. But the explosion of a toy pistol behind him just as he is beginning his back swing will make him either slice or hook, according to whether the noise comes from the left or right, and this will annoy him so that his second and perhaps his third shot will go bad. Be careful in discharging the pistol not to stand immediately behind him. I saw this done once, with the result that the player became frightened and in his panic propelled the club so violently forward that the ball was driven 270 yards, landed on the green, rolled up to the hole, and was easily pocketed in a second stroke. So delighted was the intended victim of the strategy by this result that nothing that was done afterward could put him off his game.

After the pistol is discharged it is well to slip it into your pocket quickly and complain in a bitter ton that the chauffeurs in the neighborhood of a golf course ought not to be permitted to cut out their exhausts. Some golf strategists have a theory that the firing of toy pistols will be taken as a harmless joke by the player, but most of these change their ideas after sojourns of varying length in emergency hospitals.

Use a Retriever.

Another method of winning a golf game from a better player is to take to the course with you a retriever dog and station him near the second or third green in charge of your master of hounds if you have one, or an ordinary kennel keeper if you are a man of moderate circumstances. If your opponent makes a good approach to the green signal the attendant to unleash the dog, which will immediately dash up, seize the ball and carry it to some secret place where he can chew it without fear of molestation.

An argument will immediately ensue as to the player's right to replace the ball where it lay when the dog removed it. The rule book will be referred to, and when nothing relating to dogs is found in it, you can insist that when you were playing at St. Andrews a player whose ball was taken by a dog, an eagle or any other animal, must either take a penalty of two strokes or go back and play the hole over again with a penalty of one stroke. His inability to disprove what you say will so enrage him that you will have little difficulty in winning the remaining holes from him.

A Cash Register Arrangement.

I know one player who did very well with superior players by concealing a large bell in his golf bag, which he rang at intervals on the greens, tees, and fairways, while his opponents were about to shoot. If they complained to him he said his memory was bad and it was impossible for him to fix his mind on the number of strokes he had had only by ringing them up, as a clerk insures his honesty by ringing up receipts on a cash register.

If the other player insisted that the bell must not be rung its owner calmly undercounted all his subsequent strokes, and insisted that it was because he could not count correctly without the bell. I have often thought that had he placed a dial on the outside of the bag, with a pointer on it which would advance to a higher number with every clang of the bell, the device would have been perfect. Still he did very well with it as it was.

Time was when the conversational caddy was a great aid to the man who was playing against his principal. For example, a caddy who says to a player, "You're sure to make this one in three," or "You're even five now, and with a two one the next hole, a four on the next and a three on the one after that you'll get the first nine in forty-four," will spoil the best game of the best man who ever golfed. But the old-time caddies have gone and the boys that work on the golf course now are so timid, and so afraid of losing their jobs that a single impatient look from a player will shut them up like traps. Therefore, it is quite hard to hire them to talk a player out of his game.

During the last few weeks working men have been blasting on a real estate development near our golf course, and some of the members have arranged with the blasting squad to watch them through field glasses and at a given signal blow the whistle which is the warning that a blast is about to take place.

The signal is always given when the opponent of the strategist is about to make a shot. Naturally he waits for the blast, and when it does not come off he gets so fussed that he cannot do more than dribble the ball off the tee. This is of course a device that will not be of much benefit to every golfer, as there are not many blasting operations going on near golf courses, and to buy property and start blasting on it merely for the sake of winning a few games would be hardly worthwhile.

Sidewalks of New York Are Still In Gotham, He Finds

By elastic, however, is not meant maneuvers of currency, but the volubility which usually results from a cup of coffee at the average Greesy Spoon. What is chronicled herewith then, by the same figures that the City National cashier figures interest, took exactly 15 cents worth of Java.

Back from the East.

Which is short for telling that Oral, just back from a trip through the east, has brought home a gist of interest that few, if anyone before, has ever obtained from a similar tour. It is brimful of Wichita Falls interest, and Oral's modesty to the contrary notwithstanding, ought to be told the rest of our little world back here at the entrance to west Texas.

In Oral's words, the coffee helping him along, this is the story of his trip brimful of interest to Wichita Falls:

To chronicle a complete resume of our itinerary, as covered on our recent eastward journey, would constitute rather a tiresome document I fear, but, a few of the high spots enjoyed are set out herewith.

About Sept. 23.

In company with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McCutchen, we left the "Old Home Town" on September 23rd, with Atlantic City—the convention location for the American Bankers' association—as our ultimative objective.

My wife and I stopped overnight at St. Louis, but "Mac" and his family went on to Chicago, where we found them the next day happily ensconced in the Blackstone hotel. From there, we all went to Philadelphia over the Pennsylvania railroad, then to Atlantic City, then back to New York and down to Washington, and thence, home.

In St. Louis, we almost paid for a big "rubber-neck" bus. We saw all the places of interest, while perched on the top of the billowy deck of such carriage. We rode all one afternoon for the enormous sum of 60 cents. As I remember it, the old Mississippi river looked about like it did when I crossed the monster coming westward from Tennessee, "the land of the fiddle and the bow." (About all I can say for it now is that it appears to be a gigantic channel for muddy water.) That was 35 years ago. Then there were three of us, but only one ever went back. The other two now sleep with the redeemed in Riverside. God bless their memory forever.

When in Chicago, it was quite thrilling to visit the Continental & Commercial National bank, in company with Mr. A. B. Booth, a former prominent Wichitan, and now occupying a high seat with the American Bank Note company. The aforesaid mentioned financial institution is the largest in North America, outside of New York, having over $500,000,000.00 in assets. The first official I met at the bank inquired of a well known Wichita Falls citizen, viz., Col. W. W. Silk, one of our own directors; also, Messrs. N. H. Martin, C. W. Snider and others of our people were inquired about. Judging from our looks, Mr. Booth suggested that we needed refreshment, so he very kindly allowed us to dine with him in the private dining room of Chicago's $80,000,000.00 union station. I had always wanted to ride a fast train, and, at one point out of Chicago, the conductor informed me that we were making a little better than 70 miles per hour.

Then To Philadelphia.

Our next stop was Philadelphia, which holds a unique place in American history; in fact, some think the most sacred shrine of early events is located there. We enjoyed Independence Hall, where the Declaration of Independence was signed. We saw the modest building where the first American flag came into existence, it having been made by Betsy Ross. We also viewed the spot where Benjamin Franklin flew his famous kite, and looked with eager eyes upon the ground where Thomas Jefferson wrote those marvelous passages in the constitution. Presume I put my hands on the Liberty Bell as many as 50 times. Some way or other, we just could hardly tear ourselves away from it.

Then, at Atlantic City, something over 37,000 delegates registered for the big convention, coming from all parts of the country. Several foreign nations were also represented. The big men of the country were there enmasse. Big bankers, congressmen and senators all made splendid addresses. The Lone Star State was ably represented in having Mr. F. M. Law, of Houston, appear on the first day's program. To my notion, he made one of the best talks heard. Ex-Governor Frank M. Lowden, of Illinois, probably drew the most enthusiastic audience. His subject was "Agriculture," on which he elaborated at length, but you have covered the gist of his remarks in an able editorial.

We celebrated the golden anniversary of the convention; the association having been organized in 1875. The interesting topic of "Fifty Years of American Banking," was ably covered by the head of a New York financial institution.

It might be well to note that the president of the association for 1924-1925, Mr. William E. Knox, was penniless when he came to the United States in the steerage when a mere child. Today he is president of an enormous bank in New York. The new president, as you know, is a southern man, and is Mr. Oscar Wells, formerly of Texas. His last connection in our state was one of authority with the Federal Reserve bank of Dallas. Now, he is president of the First National bank of Birmingham. A significant connection herewith is that, had it not been for the assistance of a Wichita Falls citizen in a situation several years ago, Mr. Wells would not now hold either of the great responsibilities with which he is now charged. Several years back, a crucial time arrived in the life of Mr. Wells, but the vote of his Wichita Falls friend started him on the ladder of fame and prominence which he now enjoys. I also pause here to state, this same local man was instrumental in placing one of our good attorneys in one of the most coveted positions that a lawyer can yearn for. He is now legal counsel in Texas for the biggest bank in the United States.

When one gets into Chicago's financial center from Wichita Falls the first thing he is asked about is such men as Silk, Martin and Snider of the old home town.

After you've touched the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia fifty times, you begin to realize something of American Independence.

And they elected a southerner for their next president.

In which Wichita Falls had a hand in more ways than one.

How would you like to have the best credit line in New York of any of the five million Texans?

You can still get skinned in New York city.

He asked 13,000 policemen in Gotham two questions a piece which makes 26,000 inquiries and answers.

A man whipped out a revolver and fired and his "victim," though hit twice, did not fall dead.

Handled two million dollars in his right fist and was told to put it back where he got it.

If it wasn't for gymnastics at the Junior College he never would have climbed the Washington monument.

Strong for the Reserve.

One of the features of the convention appeared to be the determination of the body in becoming active for the preservation of the great federal reserve system, and also of saving the circulation privilege for national banks.

An interesting exhibit of counterfeit money was displayed to the visiting delegates by a high official of the government. In my day, I have handled quite a bit of money, currency and silver, (for the other fellow, however), and this exhibit was the most perfect counterfeiting work I had ever seen. In fact, I would have taken it all, at any time it had been offered me, and would never have known the difference.

The buoyant spirit of eager expectancy at prosperous times in the country was manifest in all quarters in the convention. We now seem to enjoy the soundest economic and financial position that has, as yet, obtained. For some sources, the information was gleaned that the lowering of the discount rate by the English was a surprise, but, leading American authorities seem to feel that it was all understood on both sides of the Atlantic.

One day, about noon, excitement reigned supreme when an army officer whipped out a big revolver from the holster at his side, and cracked away at a civilian. He fired one shot point blank at the man's chest. We were greatly relieved, however, to immediately learn that the man wore a "Bovite bullet-proof vest." What we had witnessed was merely a demonstration.

Out on the steel pier at Atlantic City, I witnessed a terrific battle between an old seaman and a huge "monster of the deep." The old captain had hooked a big fish, and had been struggling with him for two hours when the battle-royal came to my attention. I watched him for an hour longer. He would make a little headway with the fish by drawing up a few inches of the line with his reel, only to be compelled almost instantly to give ground. The big fish came to the surface once, and looked the boys over, then made a dive for the bottom, and finally got away.

Thrills in New York.

Of course, we had many thrills in New York City. It being our first visit to the metropolis, we were a little skeptical of everything and everybody. We hadn't been there thirty minutes until we were "flim-flamed," or "skinned," as it were. Friend wife, better known as Laura Bessie, noticed a wonderful stage line parlor car, advertising a trip to Chinatown, for the sum of $1.00 per head. The brother in charge of the wagon seated us comfortably in revolving chairs, under a sky-moonlight, as it were, with flashing electricity. About the time we had gotten seated, and thought we were going to get $10.00 worth of good riding in this luxurious car, the announcer stated that the "shay" we were to board for the trip was then at hand, and compelled us to take a dilapidated machine, of which we would have been ashamed in Wichita Falls. However, with the top back, we went through famous Chinatown. We saw more hoboes than we had ever imagined existed.

We went down in the old Bowery Mission; saw the big bread line; were let down into the bowels of the earth where Chinamen used to smoke opium; made obeisance to the high priest of the temple where all good Chinese worship, and were again "held up" to the tune of 50 cents.

Afterwards, we visited Fifth Avenue, Broadway, crossed the Broadway bridge, were lifted to the top of the Woolworth building in an elevator going 800 feet per minute. There is where my good right ear snapped. The terrific speed was too great for me. My hearing was not completely restored until late in the afternoon, after considerable doctoring and clawing at the same. We rode the elevated trains; were hurled through space at a mighty speed on the subway, and had the pleasure of being on the Leviathan, the greatest ship in the world. We saw New York by day, as well as night. The latest, or I might say, the earliest I got to bed, one morning, was 3 o'clock. Was in speaking distance of the Tiffany diamond. The attendant stated that its value is, conservatively placed at $100,000.00. We saw a lady buy a pair of ear screws and give a check for them as cool as a cucumber. The price was only $38,000.00. The best article in the house was a combination necklace, valued at a $1,000,000.00. (I couldn't get my hands on the necklace.) The best ladies watch was a $6,000.00 job, about big enough to put in your eye.

A Former Wichitan.

In his private office near the McAlpin hotel, I visited a former Wichitan, who left here 27 years ago. He is now resident buyer for a chain of mercantile establishments over the country. I met his son, born here years ago, and my good Hebrew friend called me back to his still more private office, and opened a large decanter, stating "I will now 'giff' you a little drink." I told him I couldn't use it, but would take a cigar with him, (only to be sociable, because I hardly ever use the weed). He seemed greatly astounded that a man from Texas wouldn't drink with him, and wanted to know what kind of a man I was, anyway.

Of course, being a Methodist, I enjoyed our visit with Dr. Christian F. Reisner, who is now building a $4,000,000.00 cathedral, the greatest in all the world. I believe he was the busiest man I have ever seen on the face of this globe. He deplored the fact that the busy New Yorker must live aloof, sometimes, from the rest of the world. I had a letter of introduction from his cousin, Mr. C. W. Snider and had no trouble whatere in getting an audience. His first remark was that nobody would have taken time, in New York, to look him up, but an intrepid southerner.

A fine time was had with Mr. S. E Robertson, (a brother of our own Mr. Wiley Robertson), who is now the head man in the cigar department of the United Cigar Stores company, and, for his company, he spent the paltry sum of twenty-five million dollars last year, in the purchase of perfectly good tobacco.

It is reported that there are over thirteen thousand policemen in New York. My wife accuses me of having asked each one at least two questions. Believe me, I didn't miss anything, and rather felt more at home than I had expected, when dining in the director's room of our bank's correspondent.

While in the Washington hotel, at Washington City, I saw a man whom I had never seen before, but recognized him from a picture. I introduced myself and told him how I located him. We thought it quite singlar that he should have been "spotted" out of thousands by my having seen a photo of him last year. He is president of the National Bank of Commerce in St. Louis. The first statement he uttered was that the local man I have heretofore mentioned was in Washington in connection with the great work now being pursued by the United States chamber of commerce. I am not at liberty to call this citizen's name, but he stands out as a national figure in all parts of the United States. He and his Texas enterprises have the biggest New York credit line, when desired, of any Texas man.

We saw everything of interest and everybody of note in Washington City, with the exception of Walter Johnson. It broke my heart that he didn't get to meet me. While in the treasury department, I held something over $2,000,000.00 in currency in my good right hand, but, in a fatherly way, the guide advised me to place it on the shelf from which it came. A little over a billion "simoleons" were safely guarded in that very room; in fact, I saw a third of Uncle Sam's money that is now stored in Washington, much of it being farmed out to federal reserve banks.

Big Business Cordial.

The comptroller of the currency, Colonel McIntosh, was very cordial, and he said fine things about the healthy condition of our immediate territory. With considerable hesitancy, I entered the portals of the supreme court, the most august body extant in the world today, presided over by the only living ex-president.

Dr. Harris, pastor of the Foundary Methodist church, with the most elite congregation in the city, is a wonderful preacher. We attended one night service there.

The greatest view, from a scenic standpoint, was obtained from the front porch of Gen. Robert E. Lee's old home in Arlington. Looking across the Potomac, it is a grand spectacle. Therefrom, the nation's capitol can be seen resting serenely in the trees. We paid our respects to the unknown soldier; went through Lincoln's monument, and on out to Mt. Vernon, where we viewed the tomb of George and Martha Washington, and were in the rooms where they died.

There is one event of which I must boast a little. In company with an old schoolmate, Wiley M. Fuller, the worthy son of Mrs. W. M. Fuller, now residing in our midst, I mounted the Washington monument on foot. The top-most floor is 500 feet from the ground. The elevator was out of commission. It took us 17 minutes climbing time to arrive at the top. We came down in nine minutes without a stop.

No bad results were experienced from the climb. Some feat, I claim, for a "200-pounder." But, this is because of my gymnastic work at the Junior college, which I have been pursuing for some time.

As a Scottish Rite Mason, I rather enjoyed sitting in the highest seat of Masonry in the world. I was in the grand commander's chair in the thirty-third degree room, and was in the council chamber of the "House of the Temple." My soul devoured the following passage engraved on a bronze tablet in this building:

"What we have done for ourselves alone die with us:
What we have done for others and the world remains and is immortal."

This is a great building, costing a million and a half dollars, and has only one door for ingress and egress, and is said to be one of the wonders of the world.

We visited George Washington's church at Alexandria, and had the pleasure of sitting in his pew, intact as it was a hundred years ago.

On our trip, we crossed the most famous rivers of the country, viz., the Mississippi, Delaware, Hudson, Potomac and Susquehenna.

But, this is becoming burdensome, I know. Please attribute the volubility, if any, to the madam. She is gifted with it when reprimanding your humble servant.

MELODRAMMER.

Matsuda won't wrestle Jim Brown again, it was announced early this week. But after yapping vociferously for several days, making funny faces, and calling each other unkind names the pair agreed to tangle to a finish Tuesday night in the Majestic theater at catchweights. There is to be no time limit. This announcement was carried Saturday morning, and Saturday afternoon, apparently to make it more impressive, they reiterated. Whether or not it was prearranged, the Greek shot into one door of The Record News editorial rooms, his map corrugated by a heavy scowl, just as the Jap breezed through from another direction, smiling benignly, if in truth one of the wrestling fraternity can smile that way. Politeness is a trait of the Nipponese, you know.

Nope, they didn't lock in a death grapple. Just stood and looked at each ohter like a couple of bashful school kids.

Matty clouded up in a moment: "I take him any time at catchweights! He weigh in at 7 o'clock, I put up my belt! He call me yellow! I show him!"

Brown: "I'll split him in two. We'll see if he's yellow Tuesday!"

Then each did an about face and departed through opposite doors as speedily as they had entered.

Comical way of acting, these wrestling have.

PRETTY SOFT.

Bud McCallum's Coyotes are fortunate in the manner their schedule has been arranged. Following the conflict with Electra Saturday, the Packs lay off this week, so to speak. Wichita Falls is billed with the none too strong Quanah eleven, but the game is liable to be called off unless the status of the Quanah club is fixed. Right now Coach Barnette is on the fence, wondering whether to enter class B or class A. The Indians have been allowed the alternative. It is likely class B will be the choice.

* * *

Meantime, Electra and Vernon clash next week-end at Electra. After this contest which may prove a tough one, the Lions play the Coyotes the following wek at Vernon. That's two hard ones in a row for Vernon and Electra while the Pack has a lay-off week.

* * *

COVELESKIE.

Whatever else may be said of Stanley Coveleskie, he will go down in history first, as one of the greatest pitchers in the game.

Second, as one of the greatest spitball artists.

Third, as one of the few immortals to win three games in a world series.

* * *

Failure of Coveleskie to turn in at least two victories for the Washington club in the world series is disappointing to those who have followed him through his major league career.

And yet they rather expected such discouraging results.

For the veteran's baseball life is replete with such "hard luck" games. But one period stands out in his career to cheer him up. That was the 1920 series when he went to the mound three times against the Brooklyn Dodgers and came away victorious after making the opposition look like bush leaguers against his baffling spitter.

But day after day when working the best part of his baseball life for Cleveland, Coveleskie bucked against a hoodoo. The team would go on hitting rampages for days. Would give any pitcher who worked a margin of from two to a half dozen runs to rest on. But when Covey's turn came for slab duty for some unknown reason the sluggers all would get paralysis or something similar and proceed to hit about the size of their hat numbers.

So it was in the second game of the world series. Ed Bang, Cleveley's staunchest admirers, remarked land sports authority and one of Covas the contest swung under way. "If this is one of his usual hard luck games you can figure on the Pirates to win. Covey will pitch good ball, but it won't mean anything."

True enough.

Then came his second start against the Buccos. He was hammered in that game, but had he come through the first with the victory he deserved he would have had a stauncher heart.

* * *

Walter Johnson was just the other way around. He had won two games, but had pitched himself out when he made his third start. The strain was too much for the old warrior, but at that, had he been given support afield he may have struggled through.

* * *

The memory of Hans Wagner introducing the greatest pair of legs ever signed to write world's series stories, with a squad of state police, and roll-

Babe Ruth, rolling up to the park ing out of the limelight with a stomach ache.

The courtesy of the Pittsburgh police—who get their training in politeness from a bulldog with the mange.

Photographers bidding loved ones goodbye before leaving for the roof of the Pittsburgh grandstands, the only available spot for snapping pictures after the games began. The roof was 200 feet high and seven miles and a half from second base.

Earnest efforts of President Coolidge to appear in the role of a baseball fan during the Washington games in weather that was cold and raw enough to chill the ardor of a thirty-third degree baseball bug.

Tigers Battle Coyotes On Even Terms In Furious Mill

Wichita Falls and Electra Fail To Settle Old Scores Game Ending Tied Up 0 to 0

Pack Makes 11 First Downs to Bengals' One, But Lack Punch to Cross Last White Line

Waging the furious defensive battle pre-game dopsters declared they would, the snarling Tigers of Electra high school, whipped into a corner time and again almost on their goal line, fought and tore back with vicious counter attacks against the thrusts of Wichita Falls' speedier and more versatile Coyotes through a bitter four quarters of moleskin warfare on the Spudder grid Saturday afternoon, but came away unscathed. Punished and pushed back, apparently defeated, baffled by punches through the Tiger forward wall, drives by Curtain, Moore, Francis and Powell off left tackle. Jim Reese's Electra warriors stiffened desperately, then as if life itself depended solely on halting the advance rallied and splintered the Wichita Falls offense, keeping that last white line inviolate.

The statistical boys, the wiseacres, had it all figured out long before hostilities were begun those sturdy Electra lads were slated for a fancy trimming, an overwhelming setback at the hands, feet et al. of Bud McCallum's snapping pack. But when the final blast of the timer's whistle had echoed above the scene of that gory strife, Electra's fighting Tigers were still undefeated, had not been smothered as cruelly as had been expected. There were no fruits of victory for the Crimson and Black eleven in this, its first conference game. Jim Reese's team had scrapped its vaunted Wichita Falls opponents to a scoreless tie.

Halted Cold.

On three occasions, did Wichita Falls' flashy pigskin packers plunge the oval to within what appeared to be easy scoring distance, but there they were balked by the furiously fighting Bengals.

The first Coyote menace came in the second quarter. Electra had the ball in Wichita Falls territory but a wild pass from center which was retrieved by Sisk, Coyote starboard wing, gave Wichita Falls possession in mid-field. Curtin bruised left tackle for two yards. Moore ploughed the center of the line for three. Then Powell slipped off left tackle again for a six-yard gain and first down. Moore followed with a four-yard plug at the same sector, and then hit the right side for two more. Steed skirted the right flank for 15 yards. Moore and Curtin hit the line, netting three yards. Powell went over left tackle for five. It was fourth down and two yards to go for first down. Placekick attempt was made. Electra blocked and recovered on her 22-yard line, following with a punt to mid-field.

Two Passes Good.

The half was nearly ober. Wichita Falls opened up an overhead game which possibly had it been tried more would have netted a touchdown. Curtin passed straight over the line of scrimmage 20 yards to Powell who ran seven more before being pulled. The Coyotes came right back with another. Curtin heaved to Powell for a 12-yard gain. The ball was 15 yards from the goal then. Another pass was tried, but incompleted. Wainscott came back from the line for a drop-kick, but the pay was blocked again. The half came to a close before another play could be run off.

The Pack threatened again midway in the fourth quarter. Taking a punt on Electra's 48-yard line, the Coyotes plunged on successive plays to the 20-yard line, and there were held for downs greatly through the fierce tackling of Gilger and Sanderlin.

Electra menaced once. This was during the third quarter when Gilger recovered a fumble on Wichita Falls' 30-yard line.

Bucks by Coolidge and More advanced the shoatskin to 19 yards from the goal. Two offside penalties thwarthed further advance.

Spectacular Tackles.

Despite the defense of the Tigers, the Coyotes made 11 first downs to the Electra's one, but the Tigers were great in the pinches, and when the scoring punch was needed the Jim Reese men held the hardest of the Coyote attacks.

Spectacular tackles were often needed to hold off plays, and many times men would break through the line and throw opposing runners for losses.

The Coyote backfield worked smoothly with Powell, Curtin and Moore the best ground gainers. Swede Wainscott and Wilkes Dobson, both Wichita Falls tackles, played great games in the line. They split the Tiger forward almost at will and many times broke open holes for their mates to plunge through.

Dell Coolidge, husky fullback of the Tigers, was the best ground gainer for the visitors. Coolidge hit the line hard and often. Moore, Electra halfback, was another big man in the Electra gainage, and rattled off several nice advances.

After both elevens saw they could do little with the line plays, they resorted to a punting battle between Tramill of the Tigers, with Curtin and Horton booting the ball for the Coyotes. Tramill led the battle on the average by one yard. The Electra booter averaged 35 yards and the Coyotes 34.

Centenary Wins By Lopsided Score, 83-0

SHREVEPORT, Oct. 17.—Scoring almost at will the Centenary Gentlemen ran up 83 points against the Rollins college crew of Florida here Saturday afternoon while their goal line was held intact. So far did the Gentlemen outclass the visitors that the Tars scored only two first downs and never was the ball inside the Gents' 25-yard line. Seven of the 12 touchdowns were made in the first used a mixed line-up of first and second half and in the second half Centenary ond string men and scored five more touch-downs.

Syracuse Downs Indianians, 14-0

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Taking advantage of a fumble and a bad pass and converting both into touchdowns, Syracuse university today defeated a rejuveniated Indiana university team 14 to 0. Both Orange touchdowns were scored in the second period.

Indiana, annihilated a week ago by Michigan, showed an entire reversal of form in its defense and its loss was due principally to its errors of fofense. The Hoosiers, however, showed little offensive strength.

DEMPSEY NOT TIGER OF OLD

The recent announcement that Jack Dempsey had signed articles to meet Harry Wills, colored challenger has renewed discussion ao to the champion's present condition and his chances of returning to the ring and retaining his title if he does return.

In Cleveland, O., the other night, the writer sat through a six-round exhibition given by Dempsey. It was my first glimpse of him in ring togs and ring action in many months.

Up to the time Dempsey peeled off his ping-lined bathrobe I had in mind that husky, hard-looking individual who carried murder in his eye, effervesced murder in his very action, and carried murder in both his lightly gloved hands.

But when that bathrob rolled off his shoulders the old Dempsey was gone—was as absent as the old, dirty red sweater that Dempsey wore into the ring when slamming his way to fame and the title.

The same husky shoulders and chest were there. His great forearms struck you as forcibly as ever. But the old Tiger attitude, the scuffle of a fighter, eager to walk in and fight it out with anyone in the world, was missing.

In its place was the mincing walk of the movies, the posed grace of the drawing room—and a blase, bored air about the whole proceedings.

And when the bell rang—

HE HIPPODROMED HIS STUFF.

Of course his punching was off color. He lacked the old speed and whip. We expected that in such a frolic.

But the thing that makes him different—and the thing that wrecks his future in the ring—is the fact that he has lost the love of the game—the love of sore—the love of mastery. He is Dempsey, the polished, luxury loving business man.

The Tiger is dead. The next man who meets him meets an ordinary fighter.

McInnis and Scott Bank Series Coin

Stuffy McInnis and Everett Scott will bank their sixth world's series check this fall

What's more to the point, both of them are wise old birds who know the value of a check. Both are pretty well fixed as a result of the kindness of Dame Fate in placing them on the "money teams" of the game.

However, the present classic will probably be their swan song. Scott is through as a regular and it is doubtful if, under the conditions existing on the Washington club and other teams, he will find a place as utility man with a big league club next year.

McInnis is old, too. He has filled an important role with the Pirates. He has been the right man at first with the youngsters McKechnie has had for the rest of his infield. However, Bill must fortify his team at first if he wishes to keep it a young and well organized club. He no doubt is awake to the value of finding a first sacker who can travel with the infield for the next six or eight years.

Has Smith Another Wonder Team? That's What Coast Critics Ponder

The early season successes of Coach Andy Smith's team at the University of California lead followers of that team to ponder as to whether or not Smith has another wonder team, such as he produced in 1921. Three of his big stars are "Scoop" Carlson, quarter; Robert Griffin, fullback, and Jimmy Dixon, halfback, and triple threat man.

Louisiana Bulldogs Lose to Millsap, 13-2

Wall of China Has Little On Hawkeye Star

But as far as defensive value in modern usage is concerned Griffen has it on the old engineering feat.

Griffen represents 235 pounds of football brain, brawn and muscle. This is the third year that he has trotted out to the center of the Iowa line and let the world swirl around him. He is ranked as one of the greatest defensive centers and one of the best all-around linemen in the west.

Griffen's value as a defensive center is probably increased by his ability to outguess the opposition and break up their plays. He is a detective by nature.

Griffen, during his career, has played a big part in making Iowa a powerful defensive organization. Last season Iowa won all its conference games except that against Illinois. The Grangemen swept through the Iowa team—not through Griffen, however—for 36 points. The Iowans held Ohio State to a 0 to 0 tie, beat Minnesota 13 to 0, defeated Wisconsin 21 to 7, and turned back Michigan 9 to 2.

Micks Journey Further This Year

This year the Notre Dame schedule calls for more extensive travel.

The first games were played at home. The first venture into the cruel and merciless world came on October 17, when the team journeyed to New York and tackled Army eleven in the Yankee Stadium. This week the team treks up to Minneapolis to play Minnesota.

Then, stopping at home long enough for a couple of intensive practice sessions and clean socks the team goes to Atlanta, Ga., to play Georgia Tech, October 31.

The following week Penn State takes on the South Bend team at State College, Pa. Then coms two games at home, one with Carnegie, November 14 and one with Northwestern, November 21.

Then the grand climax—the annual game with Nobraska, to be played Thanksgiving Day—this year at Lincoln, Neb., home of the husky Cornhuskers.

Houston Hi Too Fast for Santone

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 17.—Outplayed from whistle to whistle by the Houston Central high school, the Main Avenue high school Crimsons went down to defeat at Schwab field here today, 10 to 0. The entire Houston play centered around their "one man team," Kattman, captain and quarterback, who scored a place kick in the second quarter for the first score and added the extra point after the touchdown in the last quarter. His and Moody's passing was also largely responsible.

Aggies Rip Line To Beat Kansas

MEMORIAL STADIUM, LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 17.—(AP)—A fighting pack of Wild Cats from the Kansas Aggie camp tore through their traditional rivals before a crowd of 12,000 in Memorial Stadium here today and defeated the University of Kansas, 14 to 7.

Ability to score when the opportunity opened gae the victory to the invaders. Through three-quarters of the game the Aggies kept the ball in Kansas territory, their own goal being endangered only twice, an aerial attack by Kansas in the second session dazzled the Wild Cats.

Quanah Indians Crushed By Listless Vernon Team With Trick Plays Building Total

Defeated Team Threatens Visitors With Score But Once And That Early in First Quarter

VERNON, Oct. 17.—After playing a listless game in the first half, the Vernon Lions came back fighting and crushed the Quanah Indians 29 to 0 on the Quanah gridiron. Vernon resorted to passes and trick plays in the third quarter in an effort to build up the score, but found the going hard until the final period when they made twenty of their points.

Quanah threatened only one time. Early in the first quarter, Ryan fumbled Edward's punt, and Quanah recovered on Vernon's 36 yard line. A pass from Cox to Edwards placed the ball on Vernon's 11 yard line. Vernon was penalized five yards and Quanah lost ground in their bucks. Cox's pass was incomplete, the ball went over.

Vernon scored in the first three minutes of play on a series of line bucks netting from one to seven yards after recovering the fumbled kickoff on Quanah's 25 yard line. That ended the scoring until late in the third quarter when Ryan booted a field goal from the 15 yard line after a number of bucks carried the ball to the five yard line.

The Lions scored early in the fourth period when Ryan passed thirty-two yards to R. ey placing the ball on Quanah's four yard line, from where Gelhausen carried the ball over for a touchdown. A few minutes later another long pass placed the ball on Quanah's 15 yard line and Gelhausen circled leftend for a touchdown.

Gelhausen scored the final touchdown by circling leftend for seventy yards.

C. Key and Gelhausen stood out in the erno nbackfield. ernon's line was weak, allowing the ndians to break through often.

For the first time this year Baggetts club attempted an overhead attack. Ryan tossed thirteen passes six of which were completed for long gains. Quanah tried the aerial route four times completing one pass. Vernon made eleven first downs while Quanah made one on a long pass.

Notre Dame Smothered Under 27 to 0 Score By Army

Mick Team Powerless When Beset By Veterans; Record Crowd of 65,000 Sees Game

YANKEE STADIUM, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Army conquered Notre Dame today before a colorful crowd of 65,000.

The veteran Cadet eleven, with Harry Wilson and Tiny Hewitt leading a smashing attack, outplayed the green and inexperienced Hoosiers from start to finish, scoring two touchdowns in the second quarter and two more in the final period.

It was the first time the army had humbled Notre Dame since 1916, and was the most decisive triumph the Cadets ever have scored over the Indiana team.

Battered into submission by a powerufl army football machine the champion Hoosier team went down to its first defeat since the Nebraska game of 1923 before a fleet set of Cadet backs, which shattered the winning 16-game streak of the Indiana eleven and broke the spell of Rockne wizardry with four touchdowns, 27 to 0.

Never in Six Years

The last six years of football at Notre Dame fail to show a defeat as sweeping as that of the Cadets today and forecast a week ago by the South Bend coach.

Not since the Nebraska game of 1923 had a varsity gridiron product moulded by the magic hands of Rockne trailed in defeat, and came then only after a grelling game by a score of 14 to 7.

Todays' triumph was not only welcome to the gridiron gladiators of Captain McEwan because it marked a turning point in the record breaking march of a great coach and a great football university but because it balanced the scales in part for eight Notre Dame victories since the teams opened the series in 1813. Nebraska had been the only team to upset the Rockne machine in the last three seasons, the Cornhuskers spoiling a previously clean Notre Dame slate with a 14 to 6 trouuncing in 1922, while Iowa, the only team to stop the Hoosiers in 1921, squeezed through a victory by only three points 10 to 7.

Offense Versatile

The army team, stampeding the South Bend Cohorts with a versatile offensive that was successful at every point of attack swept over the chalklined baseball park with a relentless charge hardly less impressive than an almost impregnable defense which permitted the invading hosts only seven first downs.

Notre Dame went down fighting but it needed more than courage today against the driving power, the speed and the aggressiveness of a great army aggregation.

Rocknes' skillful hand tugged at the reins from the sidelines, but the steeds which answered a year ago under the spurs of the famous four horsemen—Miller, Crowley, Layden and Stuldreher—were riderless today. Gallantly they raced for the ends only to be cut down mercilessly by Baxter and Born.

Doggedly they then turned to the line, only to be buried under a swarm of soldier Jersey which seemed to be everywhere.

The Air Deserts

There was only one avenue left—the vaunted aerial attack which had so often saved Notre Dame at the crucial points in the past. Beetan back on the ground, the Hoosiers discarded all caution and entered upon a daring forward pass attack which found them willing to cut loose with long, bullets-like throws, even under the shadow of their own goal posts. But the Army defense was more than equal to the overhead thrust. Tosses were knocked down and intercepted right and left until the last quarter when the husky Army linemen began to break through so easily that passers were tackled and thrown frequently 10 to 15 yards behind the line of scrimmage.

The ball was in Notre Dame's territory from the start, the western team never once getting inside the Army's 25-yard line.

First Quarter.

Army had a fine chance to score early in the first period when Trapnell intercepted a forward pass, thrown by O'Boyle, from behind Notre Dame's goal line, placing the ball on the Hoosiers' 22-yard line, but on three successive plays the cadets were thrown for an aggregate loss of 22 yards and Yeomans, Army quarterback, was forced to kick from midfield.

Edwards, Notre Dame quarterback, was injured in an early scrimmage and was replaced by Scharer.

An exchange of kicks benefitted Notre Dame which gained the ball on Army's 46-yard line, but the cadet forward wall held firm and a poor punt by O'Boyle put the ball in Army's possession on her own 20-yard line from where Buell and Yeomans gained 18 yards on two plays.

Notre Dame's defense steadied, however, and checked further thrusts at the line. Yeomans was forced to kick and the first period ended with the ball in Notre Dame's possession on her own 43-yard line, where Harry Wilson had thrown Hearnedon for an eight-yard loss.

It was a defensive battle between two strong lines for the most part thus far.

Both Notre Dame and Army rushed in replacements at the start of the second quarter with Harding taking the place of Yeomans at quarterback for the cadets and Tiny Hewitt substituting for Trapnell, while Hanousek replaced Heardon as Hoosier backfield.

Neither team made much headway until the Army got the ball on Notre Dame's 37-yard line through a bad kick. Hewitt made first down in three plunges off tackle, breaking through the line on the third play for a gain of 16 yards that put the ball on Notre Dame's nine-yard line. Hewitt gained four more yards in two plays; then Wilson planted the ball on the three-yard mark. On the next play fourth down, Wilson found a hole through right tackle and scored a touchdown.

Wilson also kicked a placement goal for the extra point and the score was Army 7, Notre Dame 0.

Second Quarter.

Notre Dame opened up its famed aerial attack after obtaining the ball at midfield on a partly blocked Army kick by Hewitt. A pass from Scharer to Vaedisch, substituting at end for Captain Crowe, put the ball on Army's 36-yard line. Another heave to White, right end, miscarried a trifle with a clear field in front of the intended receiver and a good scoring chance was lost.

Two more passes went astray and Army recovered the ball on downs on her own 36-yard line from where Buell, on the first play raced around Notre Dame's right end for 23 yards, putting the ball on the Hoosier 40-yard line.

A forward pass flung by Scheiffler, substitute for Wilson, to Baxter, netted 20 yards more. Then Scheiffler broke through center for a 13-yard gain. Two line bucks by Hewitt and Scheiffler netted five yards and put the ball on Notre Dame's five-yard line. On the fourth down the Army completely fooled Notre Dame, Harding hurling a short pass over the line to Baxter for the second cadet touchdown.

Harding tried to add the extra point with a goal, but failed and the score was, Army 13, Notre Dame 0.

Toward the close of the second period, Notre Dame's attack finally got in motion. A 23-yard end run by Roach, substitute back, helped put the ball on Notre Dame's 46-yard line after the kickoff, then Roach threw a long forward pass from well behind the Hoosier line to Vaedisch, end, who was downed on Army's 26-yard line by Harding after a 28-yard gain. The whistle for the end of the half ended this spurt.

Third Quarter.

Both Army and Notre Dame kicked frequently at the start of the third quarter with the rival lines holding firmly. The cadets got into motion with Hewitt and Wilson making short gains, but an off side penalty, the first of the game, was costly and Army kicked to Notre Dame's 30-yard line mark.

A fumble by Hanousek, Notre Dame back, was recovered by Daly, Army center on Hoosier 29-yard line and the Cadets launched a new drive.

A forward pass, Harding to Wilson, netted 11 yards and firstd own on Notre Dame's 18-yard mark. Another Army pass was completed but failed to gain and Rockne's men recovered the ball on downs on their own 15-yard line.

A 25-yard pass, Scharer to O'Boyle put the ball on Notre Dame's 40-yard mark just as the whistle blew for the end of the third period.

Fourth Quarter.

Army got in position for, another score soon after the start of the final quarter when Saunders, Army tackle blocked a kick by Roach, Notre Dame back, on the latter's 40-yard line. Saunders then kicked up the ball and raced to Notre Dame's two-yard line before he was downed. Hewitt went over on the first play, a plunge through tackle, for Army's third touchdown and Wilson kicked the extra point making the score, Army 20, Notre Dame 0.

Army got a fourth touchdown toward the close of the quarter after a see-saw battle around midfield, Sprague, Giant tackle, intercepted a forward pass on Notre Dame's 35-yard line thrown by Roach and raced over the goal line without any danger of being tackled. Scheiffler drop-kicked a goal for the extra point and the score was, Army 27, Notre Dame 0.

TRINITY TIGER BESTS BAYLOR BEAR, 10 TO 3

Waxahachie Eleven Takes Second Game From Conference Team

WACO, Oct. 17.—(AP)—The Trinity University Tigers, who in the past few weeks have been seriously assaulting the dignity of the position held by the Southwestern Athletic conference by holding a lead over the Aggies at College Station until the last few minutes of play and on another occasion defeating the Rice Owls decisively in an encounter at Houston, further extended their empire of prestige over the domain of the Baylor Bears this afternoon at Carroll field—a feat which has become a choice morsel of gridiron glory for members of the junior athletic conference.

Rally Falls.

Coach Bridges in a desperate effort to accomplish his purpose of victory, hurled his golden clad warriors against the sturdy defense of the Holton machine with all the intensity possible during the latter stages of the game. But it was all to no avail. The victorious Tigers from Waxahachie returned to their native lair with scalps of the Southwestern conference champions dangling from their belts. The final count was Trinity 10, Baylor 3.

The fighting Tigers in their form of play and general behavior closely resembled that of Knute Rockne's powerful aggregation at Notre Dame. On the offense they were probably a bit over-zealous in their shift plays, drawing several penalties for off-side and benig in motion before the snap of the ball. In this manner they seemed to get the jump on the Bruins on many occasions. They at least presented the wearers of the green and gold with one of the most formidable attacks which they hae encountered in the Southwest in many moons.

Ideal Weather.

The Baylor mentor revealed a team, although beaten, which was well versed in strategic football, a team that will not become panicky, throwing discretoin and safe and sane methods to the four winds, when facing reverses, a quality which they demonstrated in the rain and mud at Dallas against the Frogs. Neither would they abandon their conservative but firm plans to win from the Tigers, until late in the last period when it became apparent that they were beaten unless they could be successful with their aerial gamble. The Bruins passed from under the shadow of their own goal; they passed in midfield; they spread to wide open formations—making every effort possible to salvage the game from the realm of things lost.

Old Sol smiled down from a clearing sky through an atmosphere which was slightly chilled by the recent norther, making it an ideal football afternoon. A weather condition that would exhilerate the athlete to greater strides and at the same time not so cold as to discomfort the spectator.

Giant Football Lines of Past Have Been Superseded by Players With Nimble Legs and Agile Brains

COACH ROCKNE SAYS THE FIRST REQUIREMENT FOR FOOTBALL IS A GOOD BIG PAIR OF HANDS -- -- THIS IS WHAT EVOLUTION MAY PRODUCE UNDER PASSING GAME RULES

By ROBERT EDGREN

Modern football has shifted the weight from the line to the backfield. Many of the best backfield men in the country today would have been playing in the line a few years ago, and some of the star centers and guards and tackles of today would have stayed on the sidelines 20 years ago. The forward passing game and open play have made speed and brains the chief qualities of men in the line as well as behind it. Nobody ever heard of a "roving center" in the days of Heffelfinger, Hickok, Bucky Hall, Glass Chadwick, Cross Warner of Michigan, and the rest of the old time giants. In those days the coaches combed the college for big men for the line, and it didn't make much difference whether they were lean or fat, fast or slow, as long as thy were too heavy to push over and had feet like anchors. Their job was to push forward like a steam roller, and to stand like a row of hitching posts when the other fellows had the ball and were trying to march down the field.

I remember visiting Yale one early season to see the football material line up, and in uniform on the practice field were two of the heaviest and fattest men outside Barnum's circus. They were pointed out with awe as the most promising center rush men discovered in years. As it happened neither made the team, as it developed in the practice that if either happened to sit down it took four or five men to holer him to his fest again, which delayed the game.

But for this single failing they would have been very useful and some of the coaches even argued that they could be used sitting down when the enemy was bucking the center. In a sitting position they would present an unsurmountable obstacle and stop any smash on center over dead. Even if they rolled over they'd still pile up anything from a flying wedge to a straight buck.

Heffelfinger — A Giant in Size and Strength.

Some of the gains of other days are still famous and their names are brought up whenever old timers get together. The greatest of these was Heffelfinger of Yale, six and a half feet tall, weighing 230 pounds, and without an ounce of soft flesh on his gigantic body. Heffelfinger was a real athlete and his strength was tremendous. It's said that "Heff" never was thrown back by a charging line. He stood like a rock above the pack of smaller men milling around him. On the offense he was like a charging buffalo. After Heff left college he went to work for a while at railroad building in the west. Here he bossed a gang of men laying rails. Hearing something of his football reputation they decided that he was a "dude," and one day a dozen men jumped him at once to beat him up. Heff cleaned up the whole bunch and drove them back to work.

Hickok was another great Yale giant. He was an intercollegiate hammer and shot champion as well as a football star, and one of the fastest big men in football. Hickok could run a hundred yards very close to ten seconds in his football togs.

Not all of the big linemen of ancient days were slow.

John R. DeWitt of Princeton was the giant of the old time back field men, famous for his running and goal kicking. He drop kicked a 48-yard field goal against Yale. He was a greater shot putter and hammer thrower than Hickok, but of course weight throwing form had improved by the time DeWitt came along. One of the western huskies was Jack Munroe, afterward a fighter for a few years, until knocked out by Jeffries. Munroe once made 65 yards against the California team in successive five-yard plunges straight through the line. Ed Glass of Yale was another football giant and all around athlete, and a very fast and wiry big man.

In the old days the quarterback was usually a skinny little fellow who could crouch down behind the center, call the plays and pass the ball back. He didn't have much else to do. The half backs were picked entirely for their speed and their ability to dodge through holes opened in the opposing line by the big beefy guards.

Rough Tactics of the Past.

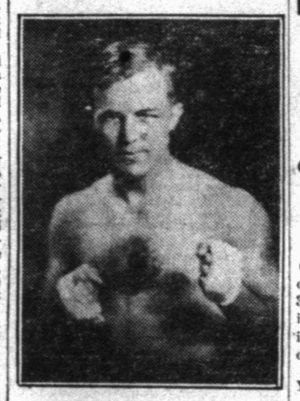

Football was a crushing, slugging game under the old rules and before the forward passing open field style of play came in. It was possible to pull off almost any kind of roughing when a whole team piled up on the runner the instant he was down. I remember one western championship game in which eight men from each team were carried off the field and two from each team were taken to the city hospital with broken bones. Before the game the players of one team were told to cripple two of the fastest backs on the opposing side as quickly as possible, and the captain of the other team gave his dressing room instructions, concisely, like this: "We don't want any roughing, boys, but the moment it starts you know what to do."

This was done, to some extent, in the more polite eastern football circles. One of the greatest eastern colleges some years ago had a Back who was the Red Grange of his time—a tall, wiry fellow who could run like a streak, a threat from the time the game started. A rival great college, famous as a center of learning and culture, had a negro player who could also run like a streak, and who had a very hard head shaped something like an armor piercing shell. The two colleges met in the game that was regarded, in those days, as the one game that could be considered an American championship affair. When the first whistle blew and the ball was kicked off the dusky player broke away from the rest of the team and went down the field through the opposing team like a sprinter, straight toward the other team's Red Grange. Just as every one was wondering what on earth he was doing he reached his objective, and without slackening pace leaped head first into his man and butted him squarely in the stomach. The old time Red Grange was knocked so cold that he was carried off the field on a blanket, and he didn't come back. The hard headed dusky player went back into his line-up, but he didn't last long. A whole enraged team jumped on him in the next play, and he was carried out too.

The old game was a fighting game, but as most of the fighting was done under cover of two piling up masses of men it wasn't extremely interesting to the spectators, who saw only the results when time was taken out for cold water and smelling salts.

There is no doubt that the game has improved immensely from standpoints of both players and spectators. Brain and speed have discounted beef. As Coach Rockne of Notre Dame says, that what football requires now is a nimble brain, fast legs and a pair of big hands to grab the ball with. The bird with a 52-inch chest and wearing a number 6 hat is no longer useful in college.

They say, these lads do, that Trammel will put Ercanbrack down for the count.

GRANGE RACES 80-YARDS BUT ILLINI LOSES

Iowa Takes 12 to 10 Count In Brilliant Battle

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Iowa defeated Illinois 12 to 10 in a dramatic finish before a record breaking home coming crowd of 30,000 spectators in the Iowa stadium today. The game started and finished with two remarkable plays.

Captain Harold Grange of Illinois scooped up the opening kick-off and raced eighty yards for a touchdown in the first ten seconds of play.

Then with the score 10 to 6 against them, the Hawkeyes took advantage of a break of the game and began a steady march to the Illinois goal. "Cowboy" Nick Kutsch, counted as a rival to Grange, suddenly broke away on a 32-yard run, dashing to the Illinois one-yard line where Grange brought him to earth. Krutsch crashed over on the next play for a touchdown, giving Iowa a victory that set the crowd wild with excitement. Krutsch also booted two field goals and Britton scored one by the air route for Illinois.

Grandfield Meets Hawks; Childress Scraps Memphis

Two football games of the north Texas section which were scheduled for this week-end were posponed to Monday afternoon.

The Childress-Memphis game was rained out. In fact, Coach Walter Knox's eleven has been able to get in but little practice the past several days because of daily downpours.

Curley's Toe Too Much for Purple

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Chicago defeated Northwestern, six to nothing today before a crowd of 35,000, that saw Robert Curley, diminutive Maroon quarterback boot two field goals from the 22 and 37 yard lines in the third period. Chicago barely missed a touchdown in the final period when McCarty took the ball to the one-foot line as the contest ended. "Moon" Baker, Northwestern ace, was injured in the first period and assisted from the field. The purple could not penetrate the Chicago line and most of their passes were incomplete.

INDIANS SEEK FRIDAY GAME

Wichita Falls Junior college Indians may be forced into idleness again this week. The tribe has no game billed, but efforts are being made by Coach Mosley to match one for the week-end.

Wires are out to Cisco, Nocona, Burkburnett and Henrietta. All these clubs are scheduled for the week, but it is possible one of the games may be called off. If none of these elevens will play, Dutch Meyer, coach of the Texas University Frosh club, will be queried for a contest to be staged at Spudder park Friday.

The team Mosley sent onto the field against the Cameron Aggies here Friday had been together only a week, and the -6 tie game registered proved satisfactory to the Tribe mentor, he said. The squad was shifted about at the start of the week, but with a few more days practice together may develop into formidable machine.

NOCONA BEATS HENRIETTA 14-0

NOCONA, Oct. 17.—A march up the field for 70 yards on line plays, and a long end run by E. Crites around the Henrietta right flanks for 52 yards enabled the Nocona high school to defeat the Henrietta eleven by the score of 14 to 0 at Nocona Saturday afternoon.

Nocona made 14 first downs and Henrietta made only one. The visitors were never in the Nocona territory. Nocona made use of her substitutes in half of the game.

Covington was the biggest ground gainer through the line for the visitors. Davis, Henrietta fullback, played a great defensive game.

DULUTH PLAYERS MISS GAME TO GIVE INJURED MATE BLOOD

DULUTH, Minn., Oct. 17.—(AP) Five members of the Cathedral High school foot ball team may not play in a game here today, for they answered the call of a widowed mother for blood with which to save the life of her 10-year-old son.

Raymond Maxim injured his leg in a fall and doctors said he might die unless sufficient blood was obtained for transfusion. His mother appealed to the school principal who agreed with the volunteers that possibility of saving a human life is more valuable than the outcome of a football game. Thef ive ranging from 16 to 18 years of age, will be in uniform today, waiting summons from the hospital.

The Sooners kept Drake on the defense throughout most of the game and the Bulldogs at no time were actually threatening.

AERIAL GAME GIVES OWLS 13 TO 9 WIN

Rice Takes Spectacular Game From Arkansas Saturday

HOUSTON, Oct. 17. — (AP)—Flashing its much vaunted aerial attack in the third and fourth periods of today's football game, Rice Institute emerged victorious over the Arkansas university Razorbacks with the long end of a 13 to 9 score.

Rice was forced to fight uphill until the last three minutes of play, when the forward passing game brought them their second touchdown of the half.

Arkansas scored a field goal within a few minutes of the starting whistle. A series of line bucks and short end runs were worked, the ball going to the Rice 25-yard line. Shaw booted the place kick for the 35-yard line. A long forward pass was responsible for the Razorback touchdown. Shaw tossed to Parker, who raced 45 yards for the counter. The try for goal failed.

Rice four times was within striking distance of the Arkansas goal in the second half but failed to count when they resorted to straight football.

Murray, giant fullback of the Owls was on the receiving end of both touchdowns that resulted in Rice scores, Underwood doing the tossing.

Varsity Finds Auburn An Easy Victim, Winning By 33 to 0 Score

Fair Park Scene of New Triumph For Stewarites; Goal Never Threatened

Alabama's Defense Appeared Asleep at Times; Broken Field Run of 75 Yards a Feature of The Game

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 17.—(AP—Texas university Longhorns administered a 33 to 0 defeat to Alabama Polytechnic's Tigers from Auburn at Fair Park stadium this afternoon by flashing .. line and end running attack, coupled with an aerial work that the Alabamans were unable to smother. Saxon starred for Texas with two touchdowns and assisted with a pass that was good for a third. Wright, Newell and King put the ball over for other scores. Auburn uncovered some good passes and once carried the ball to the Texas one yard line, but the Longhorns held and kicked out of danger.

Wright scored the first touchdown near the end of the first quarter, when he skirted left end for 35 yards after going back for a pass. Wright kicked goal.

Runs 75 Yards.

The second touchdown produced the greatest play of the entire game when Saxon intercepted a pass from Tuxworth on Texas' 25-yard line and raced through a broken field for a thrilling 75-yard run and a touchdown. Wright kicked goal and the score was Texas 14, Auburn 0. Saxon was good for another touchdown in the second quarter when he received a pass from Wright. The Auburn defense seemed asleep and the Texans worked simple plays in easy fashion making big gains. Texas' count was run up to 27 before the half was over when King plunged a final yard for a touchdown after three attempts.

The last touchdown was made in the third quarter on a short pass over the line, Saxon to Newell. Baldwin failed to kick goal.

During the short time he was in the game, Captain Stewart Wright of the Longhorns played a brilliant game. He made the first touchdown, kicked three goals for extra point and was a power, both on offense and defense. However, he was in poor physical condition, and was withdrawn. The passing of Pfannkucke, Texas cente, was sure and he was everywhere on the defense.

Center Holds.

Auburn made many gains through the line but seldom through the center. The Tigers proved anything but a weak opponent. The team completed many passes fro good gains, but the Longhorn defense stiffened in their face.

FROGS HOP ON COWBOYS FOR 28 TO 16 WIN

T. C. U. Downs Simmons Bunch in Game at Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Texas Christian university defeated Simmons college Cowboys here today 28-16 before a crowd of four thousand people. Scoring a touchdown in the opening period when Williams rammed the line for repeated bucks, the Horned Frogs took the lead, never to be headed.

Harold Carson, flashy halfback, dashed 37 yards through a broken field in the second period to score the second touchdown for T. C. U. As in the first case, Williams missed the try for point. Kimbrough passed to Dillingham for 18 yards for the first Simmons score. Kimbrough missed his try for point.

The second half saw the Frogs with practically their first team on the field, and also saw them tear up the Cowboys. Taylor and Clark scoring touchdowns, the latter by the captain on a 27-yard run through a field thick with Cowboys. In these cases Wolfe kicked goal both times. The Frogs' passing game was working fairly well.

The last quarter was when the Cowboys, preying on the Frogs with a team composed mainly of substitutes scored ten points. After a dash down the field, following a bad pass back by Stuart, substitute center, Kimbrough kicked a field goal from the 20-yard line. Following this, the Cowboys marched down the field and after three tries on the one-yard line, following Estes' sensational run, Kimbrough bucked the ball over. He also kicked goal.

SERIES TOO LATE?

We doubt extremely whether the baseball powers gain anything by running the world's series as late as they do, writes Walter Trumbull in the Richmond Times. In the first place, there is the risk of cold or unpleasant weather. In the second place, when the pennant winners have been established—usually at least two weeks before the end of the season—interest in baseball becomes very dormant, indeed, and has to be revived for the series.

Of course, the interest in the two cities where the games are to be held remains active, but in the remaining cities the clubs play mainly to empty stands.

In the third place, by October 10, football is in full swing and the baseball must divide newspaper space with the pigskin.

And if a world's series always was started not later than October 1, we believe there would be money for the other fourteen clubs in arranging a week of interleague games. About all of which we may be wrong.

The PASSING HOUR
~ by Wm. B. Ruggles ~

Abou, the halfback, woke from dreams of fame
And saw an angel writing words of flame:
"Wotcher scribbling, cull?" young Abou, sleepily, said.
Whereat the writing angel raised his head:
"To names," he replied, and went on taking stock.
"Of players who can tackle, charge, and block—
Who run off interference as they should—
In fact, the players who are really good,"
"And is mine there?" asked Abou. "No! 'Tis not!"
Whereat the halfback answered like a shot—
"That grubbing game I do not like at all—
Write me as one that totes the blooming ball!"
The angel smiled and wrote, and the next night
Appeared again upon the halfback's sight—
Showed him the names of those the stands knew best—
And lo! Young Abou's name led all the rest!

The Week in Retrospect.

NOT in several seasons has the southwest fared as disastrously as in the current campaign when, after the close of last Saturday's games, only three conference elevens remained undefeated, Texas A. and M., T. C. U. and S. M. U., and these, the first had drawn one game in which it was extremely lucky to fare so well.

Texas and Rice followed Baylor and Arkansas to defeat, the former in an intersectional contest and the latter at the hands of Barry Holton's fast Trinity team, a squad which this column has remarked before is a good one ably coached.

Barring the unexpected chance of ties, the section was certain to lose two more unbeaten teams within seven days more since T. C. U. was conceded little chance in advance of Tuesday's game of weathering through against Baylor and the other undefeated squads meet Friday at College Station.

The week had an important bearing on the dope outlook.

S. M. U. 20, Washington 6.

SMU DEFEATED the first of its Missouri Valley rivals, Washington U., a team that has had little luck for the past decade and that under Bob Higgins is hopeful of better things. The Mustangs won easily on a muddy field and here again neither the fact of victory nor the manner of it counts for much, but conference scouts who have looked over Morrison's heavy squad and remodeled backfield are of the opinion that the team will be hard to beat.

Morrison, however, does not seem to have decided on a regular lineup. He had two full teams in the field this time and George Watters and Vaughn were moved back to their real positions at guards. The condition of the field left little chance for open work and S. M. U. played Cortmeglia carrying the ball—the thing he can do. The Mustangs seem to have one of the heaviest teams in the conference.

Vanderbilt 14, Texas 6.

THE LONGHORNS lost an important intersectional contest, making three losses to one victory in four starts against the Commodores. But they came out convinced that they could beat Vandy on the same field any day.

They slashed one touchdown through Vandy's line on straight football, a tribute to improved line offense as well as the driving power of Rufus King, and their own fine defense was again above par. The breaks beat them.

Whether the game had been won or lost, the thing that would have stood out was the steady improvement in three contests. Stewart's men should strike the conference schedule in great form.

Aggies 6, Sewanee 6.

SPECTATOR at the remarkable game at Fair park stadium in Dallas are still wondering at Aggie luck that stood off a team able to sweep from one end of the field to the other, a team with a dazzling tricky offense that smashed the line, ran the ends, and passed with an amazingly queer conception and accurate execution of the lateral pass. That was the Sewanee attack that dazed the Aggie eleven but could not break through the dogged goal line fighting of Bible's men, who, out-offensed 20 yards to one, and outplayed 50 minutes out of 60, still made their one lucky touchdown count for a tie and that they did it owned to Berry, Hunt and Dansby.

It is hard to figure the Aggies from that contest. They were penetrated by every kind of offense—and especially weak against overhead—but only one touchdown was scored gainst them. Their offense was disappointing as fairly fast backs were not functioning well. Yet the porbability is that the Farmers simply have not come around. But they have no time to wait, as the S. M. U. game is on them.

Trinity 13, Rice 0.

JOHN HEISMAN has never claimed a chance for this year's conference championship but doubtless derived little humor from the final score Saturday in which Trinity was playing the TIAA role sometimes acted for Rice by Same Houston. If there was any laughter thereabouts it must have been from the ghost of Phil Arbuckle's coaching days.

Trinity earned one touchdown and lucked another, but the Tigers were conceded the stellar role of the afternoon as the Owls were badly off form. Trinity stopped Herting.

Don't underestimate Trinity. It is a good eleven. But what the Tigers did, the chances are that conference teams can do, too, and the Owls may have finally supplied the answer to the question mark.

Hudkins Champ Lightweight In Own Estimation

Coast Battler Can't Fight But He Draws Crowd

By ROBERT EDGREN.

On the Pacific coast is a lightweight boxer who is making a fortune through his overwhelming conceit. He is Ace Hudkins, a second rater with only two good qualities, and he "packs 'em in" every time he fights. Half the crowd goes to see Hudkins' antics in the ring, and the other half goes hoping to see him whipped. Hudkins has the self confidence of a Los Angeles real estate agent and the wiry toughness of a 50 per cent Bat Nelson—and nothing else in the world except a pair of squash colored plush trunks and a rapidly fattering bank account. Being absolutely certain that he's the cleverest boxer in the world, Hudkins never suspects that he's being whipped, consequently he goes along with an assurance that impresses the referees and gets him many unearned draws and even wins. He bobs up and down and in and out like Johnny Dundee, smiling at his own cleverness and talking constantly with clownish gestures and wide grins, inviting the other fellow to hit him.

Ignores Punches.

The other fellow usually does. Ace ignores punches. He goes on jumping around, clowning, talking and swinging wildly blows that land with loud resounding slaps. Instead of hitting with his knuckles Hudkins usually manages to hit with the wrists or flat forearm, or the open glove. Occasionally he slips in a foul punch, and then fights furiously until the crowd forgets it. He's so wild that he's called the "Nebraska Wildcat." Wildness is his stock in trade.

Ace believes in claiming everything. When he was disciplined by the boxing authorities in Nebraska, for fouling, he went to California and began to clean up the local lightweights, winning the coast championship. Immediately Ace announced that he had proved himself the best lightweight in the world and claimed the world's championship. He traveled as far east as Chicago and boxed Sid Terris of New York, who made a monkey of him. Returning to California, Ace explained that there has been no decision and some of the Chicago papers said it was a fairly good draw. A little later Ace improved that story by discovering that most of the Chicago papers said he won. In another week or two Ace was quoted to the effect that he chased Terris all over the ring, ran him ragged and outclassed him completely.

Little Lou Paluso of Salt Lake and New York was taken west by Leo Flynn, and Lou gave Hudkins a first class whipping, beating him in ten rounds and doing everything but knock him out. The referee gave Hudkins a draw. When given a draw Hudkins throws his hands over his head and makes faces to show the crowd he thinks he's been robbed. Then he stands in the middle of the ring and puts himself on the chest, shakes hands with himself, congratulates himself for winning; grips his hands together over his head and goes through the motions of shaking hands with the crowd, after which he turns from side and bows smilingly in all directions. It makes the referee and the boxing commission look foolish, but it's great stuff for Hudkins. He can't box and he can't fight, but he can go through all the motions and look like a fighter, and his conceit carries him along and into the money. He's one of the best drawing cards in the west.

In a way Hudkins has taken the old place of Jimmy Britt, except that he doesn't compare with Britt for a moment as a fighter. When Britt was at his best he drew great crowds of people who paid their good money in hope of seeing him whipped. Britt's cocky self-conceit, backed by his reputation as a "dude fighter" because he wore exceptionally good clothes in an age when fighters were supposed to be tough guys, earned him a bunch of enemies early in his career. They shifted and became admirers after Britt defeated Young Corbett in a desperate battle. But Britt had the goods to deliver. Hudkins has only the agent's selling tricks.

NEW TYPE OF BACKS PICKED FOR HARVARD

Daly Selects Hefty Fellows Instead of Light But Fast Ones

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 17.—Harvard's career in football this fall is being closely watched because an effort is being made to bring back the old winning days with new blood on the coaching staff. Major Charles D. Daly, former Harvard and West Point quarterback and later coach of the Army, is arranging the Harvard backfield offense and much is expected of him. Robert T. Fisher is serving as head coach for the seventh consecutive year.

Coach Daly prefers a heavy backfield, one where the quarterback can share the carrying of the ball wit hthe other backs. For this reason Capt. Dolph Cheek is piloting the varsity. With Cheek in action accompanied by Al Miller, the 204 pound sprinter, Clem Coady, 190 pounds, a revamped tackle, and Joe Crosby, the backfield average is about 187 pounds.

Stafford, brilliant quarter of last year, has been serving as understudy to Cheek, but the Crimson leader is not his master at playing the game. Stafford lacks weight and is light, fast, a quick thinker, but not expected to carry the ball overmuch.

Jack Adie, letter man for two years, is at center. The best looking guards are Leo Daley and Bydie Kilgour, a Cincinnati boy. Daly standing more than 6 feet and weighing close to 200 pounds, is considered the best prospect in the Harvard line.

Linder, regular tackle last season, and Eddie Nash, great in the early part of last season, are the foremost tackles, while Saltonstall, freshman wing last autumn, and Sarles, are leading candidates for end. Both ends are green, but Leo Leary, the end coach, has a reputation of turning out very good extremities.

THE LINKS REFEREE

By BILL STRACHAN

Wichita Falls Country Club Gol Professional.

CUT SHORT VALUABLE ONE.

When the ribbed clubs went out golfers were forced to manufacture their own back spin or go without it. The shot that has been almost universally adopted to take its place, and to bring the ball to a stop on the green, is the cut shot. This is made by hitting the ball on the downward stroke and cutting it across from the outside of the line of flight to the inside. When the ball reaches the green it takes a bounce, curls to the right and stops.

If one uses a hooked shot for approach or even the ascending pitch and run there is difficulty in controlling it. The hooked ball is always a better roller than the slice and does not break as quickly. This is because it is much easier to slice than hook. Experts can throw the ball far out to the left with this cut shot and make it swerve into the green.

Sens Make $1,000 Gifts to Marberry And Veteran Covey

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—(AP) A gift of $1,000 each to Pitchers Coveleskie and Marberry for their work during the past season was awarded today by the Washington baseball club.

This was in addition to their world series earnings.

Coveleskie finished the year as the leading pitcher of the American League. As a relief pitcher Marberry was a powerful factor in the team's showing.

President Griffith denied rumors of trades involving "Goose" Goslin, slugging outfielder, lthough he intimated that he would not stand in the way of Peckinpaugh, veteran shortstop, if he was ofered a managerial position.

Harvard Beaten By Holy Cross

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 17.—Harvard's plunging backfield was ineffective against a stone wall Purple line today, and Holy Cross defeated the Crimson, 7 to 6. Each team scored in the second period and the winning kick was for the extra point.

Ohio State Beats Columbia Gridders

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 17.—(AP).—Behind a stolid wall of outweighed linesmen, Ohio State's backfield launched a mixed attack of short forward passes, darts around ends and plunges through the line and marched to a 9 to 0 victory over Columbia, one of the east's strongest teams.

The Buckeye line out-fought and out-witted the opposing easterners, breaking through and smearing runners, kickers' and passers, Hess, Buckeye guard, starred as a defensive player.

FOOTBALL INSIDE OUT
THE WHY AND HOW OF THE RULES

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

There is one member of the team carrying the ball who does not have to remain on the line of scrimmage or take his position five yards behind that line. He is the man who receives the ball from the center, the quarterback. He is permitted to take his position behind the center.

Under the old style of game this man who received the pass, always the quarterback kin those days, was picked for his speed, his tackling ability and his generalship. Of late years, with the development of the open field play, the forward pass, etc., the entire backfield must be versatile, fast and good defensive players as well as offensive.

The spectacle of the tiny quarter standing alone down the field to check an opposing runner is recalled by all old fans.

For many years teams held religiously to the system of having the quarterback "call" the signals. Spectators and opposing players were mystified by some such signals as "4-22-11-9."

This signal, however, with its numbers including the "key" number, told the quarter's men very plainly that the coming play was to be a run around the end, a cross buck or something else by a certain player.

The last two seasons have seen the broadening use of the "huddle" system of giving signals. Under this system the members of the team in possession of the ball gather in a "huddle" and the next play is whispered by the quarter or captain.

The system is still under discussion. Its chief asset is that the signal can be given under adverse conditions of, cheering stands, etc. The original criticism, that it was a waste of time, has been proved a fallacy. It does, however, take away one thrill of the game for the spectators—the spectacle of the quarer, like a general in the battle line, bravely calling out the signal for the next charge.

PERMITS MANY BUT TOTAL IS ONLY $7,956

New Low Average For Building Set in This City

Wichita Falls established a unique record in building permits last week when a total of 43 authorized projects reached an aggregate valuation of only $70,956.

Ordinarily this many permits would run the week's building figure to far over the $100,000 mark. As it was, $70,956 is about a fair average of valuation but this was frequently been attained by as few as 25 or 30 permits.

Repairs for winter seem to be in full swing. Sixteen repair jobs on business houses and residences were authorized by Building Inspector Fred A. Smith, these average around $350 and $400.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

"No girl or woman should 'purge' and 'physic' herself every few days. This is very injurious. Besides, it isn't necessary."

—DR. CALDWELL

Tells Girls and Women to Avoid "Physics"

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many women had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

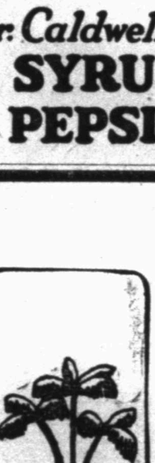

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all headaches, biliousness, sallow skin, indigestion and stomach misery, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" every day or two was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which regulates the bowels. A single dose will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even for those chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

THE PROBLEM:

The problem is to find the sum total of the figures shown on the Elephant in the picture. There are no marks, lines or characters on the body of the Elephant except figures. These figures range from 2 to 9, each one standing alone. There are no "ones" or "ciphers" in the animal. There are no groups of figures—that is, the figure "9" is the highest figure shown; there are no "23's" "42's," "89's," or like groups. If you find a "2" and "3" are written so slosely together that they look like "23," it means that the "2" and "3" are to be added just as you would if they were an inch apart. The tops of the SIXES are distinctly curved, and the bottoms of the NINES are straight, or nearly so. There is no trick or illusion in the chart.

WHAT IS THE WEIGHT OF THE ELEPHANT

The Sum Total of Figures Is Not Known to Anyone

The drawer and maker of the cut knew the total as he drew it, and no one else. When the cut was received by The Record News several figures were clipped out. No Record News employe knows the drawer's solution and the drawer does not know what numbers were cut out by The Record News, and will not know until after the closing date, November 14th, 1925. No one knows any more about what the correct answer is than the contestant themselves

General Rules of the Contest

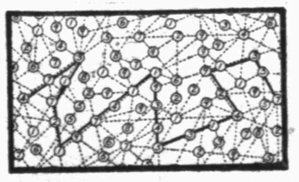

This competition is open to all residents of the states of Texas and Oklahoma, except employes of The Record News and members of their families.

Contestants may submit as many different solutions as they desire provided a payment of one of the amounts designated in the prize list shall accompany each solution. NO SOLUTION UNACCOMPANIED BY A SUBSCRIPTION PAYMENT WILL BE REGISTERED.

The Record News offers these prizes for individual effort. While it is proper for members of one household to work together or several friends, it is not permissible for more than one of those working in unison to send a solution of the puzzle. When in the judgment of the contest manager more than one member of the same family, or more than one of any number of persons he believes have worked together send in a solution of the puzzle, he reserves the right to refund subscriptions and return the solutions he believes have been submitted contrary to the foregoing rule. The Record News reserves the right to reject any solutions it believes have not been submitted under proper conditions. The Record News also reserves the right to finally decide any other questions or points which may arise and those entering the contest agree to abide by such decisions.

In the event of ties on this puzzle, as many prizes will be reserved as there are contestants tied, before any prizes are awarded for a less correct solution. For instance, if five people were tied on the best solution, the first five prizes will be reserved for them, and they would be awarded the prizes in accordance with the standing of their solutions of the second puzzle. That is, the one submitting the best solution of the second puzzle would receive the first prize; the one submitting the next best, the second, and so on.

Subscriptions may be NEW or RENEWALS. Both count the same.

In case of ties those tired for any prize will be presented with a second puzzle, which will consist of drawing a line across the face of a chart of figures, like the accompanying chart, only larger, so that the figures thus connected when added together will total the greatest sum. If necessary this chart will be used four times, after which, should any ties remain, each contestant will receive full value of any prize tied for.

In case there are no ties on counting the Eelphant no other puzzle, of course, will be presented.

The opening was steady at an advance of five to ten points and the market sold about 13 to 20 points net higher in early trading on relatively steady Liverpool cables. Better trade advices wrom Manchester, forecasts for frost tonight in Oklahoma, Arkansas and the Texas Panhandle and at a few points in the northwestern part of the belt. A good deal of recovering and some trade buying was supplied on the upturn to 20.95 for January and the market later eased off.

Local traders appeared to feel that the temperatures were not likely to reach the killing point over any important section of the belt tonight and that warmer weather was in prospect after the cold snap.

This view of the weather outlook probably promoted some of the selling on the early advance but offerings were not particularly heavy and after reaching to 20.78 for January and 21.05 for March the market rallied several points from the lowest on renewed covering.

There were rumors that about 2,000 bales of cotton were en route here from the south for delivery on October and that some cotton soon would be starting in this direction for December trades. These rumors were accompanied by further switching from near to later months but there was very little change in differences with December closing 69 points over January compared with 70 points at the close of the previous day.

Private cables said trade buying and covering had absorbed hedge selling in Liverpool and there was a better tone in Manchester with prospects for increased business.

A telegram from Memphis said spot buyers were holding off, but with both northern and southern mills interests were credited buying some cotton here during the early trading.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Trading was moderately active for a short Saturday session today in the cotton market but price fluctuations were comparatively narrow. The start was characterized by a fair upturn due to continued rain in the belt and to predictions of frost in portions of North Texas, Oklahom and Arkansas.

Prices advanced 13 to 14 points over yesterday's close.

Later in the session all the early gain was lost owing to week-end profit taking, but just before the end a s light rally enabled the c lose to show net gains for the day of five to seven points.

Although Liverpool came in slightly lower than due, the market opened steady and first trades showed gains of seven-to 12 points. Although there was a slight recession right after the opening cpll prices again firmed up when the official forecast promised f rost for the northwest portion of the belt and generally colder weather. This bulge c arried December up to 20.98 and March to 20.94, or 13 to 14 points above the close of yesterday.

The gradual decline carried December down to 20.83, or 11 to 13 pointts down from the highs practically wiping out all of the earlier gain in the last few minutes of trading, however, prices rallied moderately, permitting the market to show small net gains fo rthe day.

Exports for the day were heavy, totaling 107,040 bales, of which Galveston contributed 72,736 bales and Houston 29,131 bales.

LIVESTOCK REVIEW.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 17.—The Saturday livestock market in Fort Worth drew small receipts. Around 600 head of cattle and 300 calves arrived for the day's trade, but a run of 500 hogs came on direct packer billing, and a blank was drawn in the sheep house.

Sales of cattle were negotiated without difficulty at values that were in line with Friday's closing. Mixed shipments were in the majority, and only a few drafts of really good cattle were available. Some yearlings brought $ 8.25. Calf buying was on a steady basis, also, most sales being around $4.50 to $6.25.

Purchases of hogs were limited to 13 head, picked up in the truck division, the market being called nominally steady. The best here went at $11.50 but c hoice consignments were worth around $12.25.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(AP)—A sudden outburst of bear selling and profit taking swept over today's stock market after an initial display of strength, carrying p rices down 2 to 10 points from their early highs.

Total sales approximated one and one-half million shares, making it the most active half holiday market in nearly 20 years.

The wildest speculation again took place in the motor stocks. Hudson, which opened two points higher at 106 ,a new top, broke to 96 and then rallied feebly. General Motors attained a new maximum price at 137 and then collapsed to 126¾. Yellow Truck broke from 40⅝ to 35⅛. Net declines of two to nearly eight points also took place in Chrysler, Dodge Brothers "A," Fisher Body and Studebaker.

U. S. Steel common was bid up to 128½ or within about a point of theyear's high and then broke below 125. American Can closed three points lower at 237½. Dupont showed anet loss of over seven pointst at 198½ after selling 10 points above that figure.

There was nothing in the day's news to account for the reaction which was generally accepted as a natural correction of the speculative excess of the past week. Trade reports continued favorable and there was no u neasiness over the credit situation.

Sustained strength of New York Central which closed two points higher at 124 , or withoin a fraction of the year's high, was one of the outstanding features. Mercantile shares were hard hit by the wave of selling. McCrory "B" dropped from 118 to 110¼ but rallied to 11⅝ at the close for a net loss of 6¼ points. Kinney and company broke 5⅝ points to 87½ az against the high of 103 established a few days ago. Net declines of two to nearly five p oints were recorded by R. H. Macy, Manhattan Shirt National Cloak and Suit, Sears Roebuck and Woolworth.

Trading in the foreign exchanges was rather quiet with fluctuations narrow and irregular. Demand sterling held firm at $4.85⅜@⅝, but French rates ruled slightly lower around 4.46 cents. Italian lire ruled strong abunt 4.00 cents, but moderate recessions took place in the Scandinavian rates.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—(AP)—More and more delay to threshing in Canada with snow storms reported from the prairie provinces, brought about a sharp upturn in wheat values today after an early decline.

Wheat closed strong 1⅞ to 2¾ cents net higher, new style. December $1.47⅝ to $1.47⅞ and May $1.44⅞ to $1.45½. Corn finished at ⅝ to ⅞ gain, oats unchanged to ⅛ up and provisions varying from 25c off to 15c advance.

A forecast of unsettled weather for sections of the corn belt was something of a stimulus to the buying side ofthe corn market. In oats, larger receipts made prices rather easy. Provisions averaged higher, sympathizing with firmness of hog values.

Society Events and Club Activities of the Week In Wichita

Peggy Piedmont

Dear Kitty:

SOMEBODY who said, "and after this, the deluge," must have had Wichita Falls in their mind's eye, Kitty, before uttering such words, because that strictly applies to our city when contemplating fall and winter events. I don't mean that we have as yet begun in full swing to have all of our activities, but plans and preparatory meetings are filling the minds and hours of all of us every day. As for bridge parties, club meetings, teas, and weddings and luncheons, there is such a deluge of them that we are quite overflowed at the prospect of what's ahead even before the gates open and the flood sweeps them in after November 1.

* * * *

ONE of the most important social items I have heard anything about, centers about a series of delightful parties given by Mrs. W. W. Fraser at her home on Hayes street, the past week. Beginning with a lovely bridge party Wednesday afternoon, these events include a charming little neighborhood affair for Thursday when the guests spent several pleasant hours sewing and in conversation. Saturday afternoon the series included another affair which will also be a bridge party.

And then the Elk's Revue which will be a forthcoming attraction now soon. Local talent is drawn from the sub-debs, the children and from the maids and matrons, and almost every afternoon several hours are devoted to practice for the many specialties and choruses.

But among the clubs, not a program offered so far this year, among the local organizations can compare with that of the Unity Juniors for interest and uniqueness. When I heard about it, the first question that arose in my mind, was, who on earth was clever enough to study out such an interesting sounding, and different study course. One that you can not possibly connect up with boredom, but is filled with something new each week. I was told that it is all the work of Mrs. Jim Bernard. Mrs. Raymond Myers and Miss Sibyl Kell.

* * * *

A MEMBERSHIP around the the world is the subject of it and the club members are supposedly sailing on the good ship Unity Each week they have a program on some interesting place, and the trip also includes stop-over privileges, when there will be delightful social affairs aboard ship. One of these stop-overs is scheduled for December 15 when a party aboard ship will be held while sailing through the Mediterranean sea. At the meeting of the club held the past week with Mrs. Charles I. Francis on Crestway, the party were stopping in New Orleans and Mrs. L. H. Cullum read an interesting paper on "Historical New Orleans." Mrs. C. H. McCutcheon read a paper on well-known southern poetry, and Mrs. Walter Abbott told a typical creole story. Roll call was answered with the relation of historical events in connection with New Orleans.

After leaving the Crescent city the party will go by way of the Panama canal to the West Indies and Central America, after which they will explore Mexico. In all these lessons, not only are the most interesting geographical points brought out, but the literature and historical connections of the place are given as well. Havana and the Philippine Islands will be studied next after which the party will go to Japan and China then through the Bay of Bengal to Calcutta, India and the Red Sea. They will take up Egypt, the Holy Land and Turkey after which will come the social affair which the program book terms the stop-over in the Mediterranean sea.

* * * *

AFTER this party, the club will next study Russia and on January 13 they will stop again, as the year book explains' "to take on a new crew." This social affair will be in the form of a contest. They will go down the Rhine river and relate all the points of historical interest and into Czecho-Slovakia. In reality they will spend two weeks, (have two lessons on that country) and then cross to Spain. They will give France 10 days and will devote two days to Belgium and the Netherlands from where they will fly over to England and go across Lock Lomond and Lock Katherine to Scotland thence to Ireland and the Fiords to Norway, Sweden and Denmark. Upon their return to America they will stop at Boston and go from there to Canada and Alaska where they will spend the summer.

The program is cleverly concluded with the following rhyme, "And where we love is home,
Home that our feet may leave but not our hearts
The chain may lengthen, but it never parts."

* * *

BUT I can't write my entire letter to you about the doings of our set, 'cause I know there are other things you want to know. For instance.

Grafton Depicts Egypt in Lecture To Travel Club

Minister Gives Vivid Impression of Far Famed Land

The glories of Egypt were interestingly pointed out to members of the Travel club Friday afternoon by Dr. N. F. Grafton who lectured on that subject at the meeting held at the library. The Nile river is the first glory of Egypt, Dr. Grafton said, as with it are connected the social, legal and political life of the people, which all grew out of the environment brought about by the flow of the Nile. Egypt's antiquity, especially the pyramids which are twice as old as the ten commandments, and the art which all grew out of the ancient religion, mathematics and astronomy are all glories of Egypt, according to Dr. Grafton.

Expert Embalmers.

Speaking of the Egyptian people being the first to discover the theory of immortality, which they thought applied to the body as well as the soul, Dr. Grafton said that they were the experts of the world in the profession of embalming. There are 731 million embalmed people in Egypt, he said.

Among the interesting points visited by Dr. and Mrs. Grafton while in the Holy Land was the palace of Pharoah's daughter where was pointed out to them the place where the infant Moses was supposed to have been hidden in the bullrushes.

Mrs. Fraser Reads.

Mrs. W. W. Fraser read a paper on "The Ancient Egyptians" and Mrs. J. B. Hatchitt read one on "Tut-Ankh-Amen's Tomb." Mrs. Hatchitt was leader for the afternoon.

tional Woman's party, has been appointed civil service commissioner, by President Coolidge. The appointment was announced on September 17, to fill the vacancy created by the death of Helen H. Gardner, the first woman to hold this post, the highest both in authority and salars, $,000 to $7,000 ernment service. She took the oath of office the following day.

It is eminently fitting that Miss Dell should be selected to perform the duties of this office, for she has given her life to the service of the United States; and has been a member of the National Woman's party since its organization. While she did not take part in the demonstrations at the White House during the world war, she was an active supporter of the Woman's —ever held by a woman in the gov- party fight for a federal suffrage amendment, and is now ardently working for equal rights. She is a life member of the Woman's party, and has for a year been chairman of the Government Workers' council, which she helped to organize.

* * * *

MISS DELL, who is from Sylvania, Ga, says her father always taught her that women should have equal opportunity and equal rights in the professions, as well as elsewhere, and accordingly took her into his law office after her graduation from the Sylvania Screven county institute. An aptitude for figures soon placed her in the position of auditor of the Sylvania railroad, and she held this position till she entered the services of the government. Miss Dell is a democrat, and when the vacancy occurred President Coolidge announced that he would appoint a woman to fill it. It was necessary to appoint a democrat, since the law prohibits the appointment of more than two members belonging to one political party, and the two men members of the commission are both republicans. The appointment requires confirmation by the senate. As she took the oath of office, she was handed the following telegram from Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee;

* * * *

"HEARTY congratulations on your appointment as civil service commissioner. I am sure the senate will take pleasure in confirming you." Senator McKellar is ranking member of the senate civil service committee.

I am going to do like story-writers and say "continued in my next", for I want to tell you more about our affairs and my! I have just begun. Can you hardly wait for the is much to tell ——— ———.

VOLLEY BALL MEET

The coaches of volley ball from Wichita county met in Iowa Park on Thursday night and outlined the years' work in volley ball for girls in this county. It was voted that instead of making volley ball a whole year sport, to make it a season game and to hold the county tournament the second week in February. It was brought out that the girls who play volley ball would have more time for tinnis, indoor baseball and other sports. The coaches present decided to let all girls that are now over 15 years of age by September 1 of this year play as junior, however, this does not confine a girl to the junior team if she is good enough to make the first team. Also voted that the county directors allow the final volley ball count towards all around count championship, which has been the custom of this county heretofore. Also basket ball for junior boys becounted. It carried that the rules by which all match games of the county be played by the interscholastic league rules as outlined in bulletin number 2222 of June, 1922. This bulletin may be secured from Roy Bedecher of Austin. The coaches also decided all girls playing in any of the match games must wear cotton or cotton and wool hose. The following schedule was arranged and the above games with a few additional before the county tournament. Low-Spirited

MRS. W. C. ROBERTS, 921 Ninth St., Columbia, S. C., tells below how she found relief from many distressing symptoms, from which women so often suffer.

"I have used Cardui several times because I have found it so good for womanly weakness," says Mrs. Roberts. "I can tell the biggest difference in my health just after taking one bottle.

"About two years ago I was badly run-down. My back hurt and I would just simply give out across my back and through my hips. I had no strength and I could not do my work. I was bothered with nervous spells. My nerves would give completely away. I would cry and get so low-spirited. I had so much to do and no strength at all to do it with.

"My mother told me to take Cardui, as she had often used it herself when suffering from womanly weakness. Since she first told me about it I have used it several times and always with splendid results. It has made the greatest difference in the world in my general health."

Many, many young women have told how, when they were suffering from womanly troubles, their mothers or other older lady friends or relatives advised them to take Cardui, with good results.

Remember, there is only one Cardui. Ask for it and be sure that you get it. In the 40 years that Cardui has been on the market, many medicines, for women's ailments, have come and gone; but Cardui is still the standardized preparation that it has always been.

It will pay you to stick to Cardui.

BANK SAVINGS IN SCHOOLS ON BIG INCREASE

Jump of $5,500,000 Shown During Last Year, Report Reveals

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—School savings in the United States for the year 1924-1925 increased in aggregate bank balances by five and a half million dollars, with a growth of 630,000 in the total number of pupils participating, it is shown in reports made to the American Bankers Association.

"The reports contain many factors to encourage belief in the permanence of school savings as a part of the educational program in the public schools," says W. Espey Albig, deputy manager of the association in charge of the savings bank division. "During the year closing June 30, 1925, the number of reporting school savings systems has increased from 683 which embraced 752 districts to 760 which embraces 1,557 districts; the number of schools from 9,080 to 10,163; the number of pupils enrolled in schools having savings systems from 3,095,912 to 3,848,632; the particlepants from 2,236,326 to 2,869,497; the deposits from $14,991,535.40 to $16,961,560.72; and the bank balances from $20,435,144.64 to $25,913,531.15.

"The number of schools having school savings systems increased 11.9 per cent; the enrollment of pupils in districts having school savings increased 24.3 per cent; pupil particlpafion increased 28.3 per cent; deposits increased 13.1 per cent, and school balances 26.8 per cent.

"The present report is significant when compared with that for the year 1919-20, the first year comprehensive statistics were available. The ings banking has increased 271.4 per number of schools having school savcent; the enrollment in school savings districts has increased 278.9 per cent; participants 520.2 per cent; deposits 506.1 per cent, and bank balances 516.8 per cent.

"Possibly the best basis from which to judge the increased fav . secured by school savings banking is found in the results obtained in a group of about four hundred districts where school savings banking has been established for two or more years. In this group during the year the enrollment has increased 6.5 per cent; participation by pupils, 15 per cent; deposits, 108.1 per cent; bank balances, 48.3 per cent. The gain during the year in this group was even more marked than the gain in the same group during the preceding year, 1923-24, when the enrollment gained 4 per cent; pupil particlpation, 8 per cent; deposits 23 per cent, and bank balances, 44 per cent."

In the honor roll of school savings prepared by the savings bank division of the association, comprising districts in which official records show that at least 75 per cent of the registerel pupils are participating in the movement, the following cities appear as the first ten in each class:

When Young Folks Are Sincere In Intentions to Gain An Education Loans Are Usually Forthcoming

Welfare Worker Tells of Occasions in Which Young Women Have Been Aided in Wichita Falls Recently

"HOW can I get an education?" is the question which welfare workers often hear, and especially from girls who come to them for help, Mrs. E. B. Gorsline, Jr., secretary of the Municipal welfare board said in speaking of the number of girls who have recently come to her office asking how they might go about getting training along commercial lines.

"No financial aid is given to those who seek help, but a loan is usually obtained from other sources," the secretary stated.

A number of young women have been helped through the efforts of the welfare organization. One of the cases was a young mother, only 20, with two small children. She was deserted by her husband, and she wanted to fit herself to earn a living for herself and little ones. Arrangements were made for her to study, and to build on her education. She is now a first class stenographer, and is able to make her own way.

Another case was that of a 16 year-old girl who was compelled to quit school to help the family. She was desirous of a practical education. The welfare secretary interested a business man in the girl's future, and he advanced the funds for her tuition, and she finished school in record time. She is now a successful bookkeeper and stenographer and a substantial aid to her mother and little sisters.

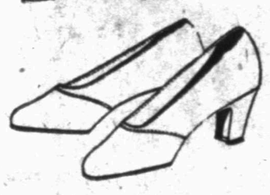

Other cases have been to the welfare secretary, and others besides those listed above have proved satisfactory after having secured training through the efforts of the welfare organization.

Burkburnett

Miss Katharine Henrickel, superintendent of the Children's Home Aid society, and Miss Nell McMillan, her field secretary, were here this week in the interest of several of the children of the society in this city; and also soliciting funds for the upkeep of this district.

Dr. George W. Truett closed a series of splendid services here Wednesday night at the First Baptist church where he has spoken to full houses since his arrival Sunday.

HIS EIGHTH BIRTHDAY.

Mrs. J. W. Allen was hostess to a lovely party Tuesday afternoon in her home on the Charles F. Noble Lease in honor of her son's, Texas Williams, eighth birthday, entertaining thirty-odd young friends.

A number of children's games and contests were played out of doors. Miss Mabel Duke charmed the guests with a jolly reading and little Miss Oleta Deevers with a song and solo dance. Others adding to the fun were Master ack Foster and immy Brooks who gave original readings.

The kind mother hostess, Mrs. Allen, served all the little friends with a treat of cream, candy and a birthday cake.

BABY DIES.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Fitzsimmons, formerly of Bradley's Corner, but now of Clara community, lost their little year-old baby boy, Willard Marion, Tuesday, its death following a brief illness.

The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon at the Clara cemetery, conducted by Dr. Henry O. Moore, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, and followed by the burial.

The family recently returned from Olney, where they lost their home and business in a late fire that swept the new oil town; and their local friends here and in Clara deeply regret to learn of their misfortune and late bereavement.

FATHER DIES.

The many friends of Mrs. Jack Brumley and Lee Copeland and families deeply sympathize with her in the sad loss of her father, W. L. Copeland, who died at Hollis, Okla., following an unusual accident while visiting his son, Jim Copeland, in that city.

The old gentleman, 76 years of age, left his son's home to spend the day and night with a grandson across the city, and he had evidently stopped en route to visit the new court house where he fell on the basement stairs and was not found until the next day, as his grandson was not expecting him and the son's family thinking him safely there.

He sustained an injured skull and other bruises, was unconscious when found and died the following Saturday.

The body was brought to this city overland by Owens undertakers and later shipped to Alvord by Wichita Falls, where the family joined Mrs. Brumley and Mr. Copeland and accompanied the remains to Alvord for funeral and burial.

He is survived by ten adult children.

BOY SCOUT RALLY.

The Boy Scout rally Friday night to determine the furthest organization of the scout work in Burkburnett was attended by nearly fifty boys.

The meeting was a success and after assemblying in their respective church centers, Methodist, Baptist and Central Christian, each group marched in body to the latter church.

Under the direction of the scout commissioner of the Burkburnett district, A. L. Gregg, a business session opened during which the following masters were elected: Brooks Robertson from the Baptist church; Mr. McNeil of the public school faculty and from the Methodist group; and Mr. Price, also a teacher of the school, of the Central Christian church.

The meetings will be held on Friday evening of each week at 7:30, holding usually until 9 o'clock.

A "council fire" will be held in a few weeks when a number of out of town officers will be present and a great occasion expected.

Owing to the fact that a large number of eligibles have been listed for the work, it is thought that completed unit will soon qualify.

CHURCH AUXILIARY.

The Sunday newspaper was denounced along with other forms of "Sabbath breaking" by adoption of the report of the Sabbath observance committee. The committee asked for the suspension of secular business on Sunday except the most necessary, declaring that the operation of mail trains and handling of mail on Sunday were breaches of the Sabbath which should be stopped. Newspapermen were urged to discontinue Sunday work and the public was asked not to patronize the Sunday newspaper. Attention was called to a national meeting in Washington to consider legislation to preserve the Sabbath.

Fighting Leakage By Measuring Gas

All natural gas flowing into the mains of this company is measured by meters at the point of reception, again at the compressor stations, and finally when it enters the local distributing pipes.

In this way a constant check is kept upon the most serious foe of good gas service—the leakage. Natural gas is peculiarly difficult to control because it is so dry. In the leakage of oil or even manufactured gas the tendency is to seal the leak with mud, thus in many cases actually stopping it.

With natural gas the tendency is all the other way. The gas absorbs moisture when it escapes from the pipes, and often the earth around a pipeline is reduced to a fine powder, through which gas can flow unchecked.

Although every line is systematically patrolled, the discovery of leakage is not always easy. Whenever the line meters show that an undue amount is escaping, systematic hunt is made for the leak. Almost every foot of a sixty-mile line, for instance, may be examined for evidence of this waste.

Once found, the pipe must be taken up, new sections put down, and tight lines assured. Nearly always this can be done without interruption to the supply.

Many thousands of dollars are spent by this company each year in detecting and remedying leaks, so that even with our high pressure lines, sometimes up to 300 pounds to the square inch, the leakage on our system is lower than the average leakage in household lines.

Oklahoma Files Red River Reply

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Attorney General Short of Oklahoma filed in supreme court today a reply of that state in the boundary dispute with Texas over the proper location of the 100th meridian running north from Red river.

The brief presented an historical review of treaties and laws under which boundaries of Texas are fixed and asserted that having acquiesced in the present line, Texas had abandoned all right to the 25,000 acres of land east of the present line which it now claims. Oklahoma declared that as a territory and since becoming a state it had exercised jurisdiction over the land in dispute and that most of it had been disposed of by the federal government as public lands not belonging to Texas.

It was too late now, Oklahoma insisted, for Texas to question the accuracy of a survey under which the present line was located or to insist that it was entitled to have the line moved eastward to the line surveyed by Kidder, acting under a congressional resolution.

Modern Gypsies, Aged Italian Beating Napoleon —By Ed. W. Howe

A word much used now is bootlegging. We refer to violations of the prohibitory law, but bootlegging is practiced in everything. How people bootleg in their love affairs! How they bootleg on the witness stand. In city ordinances, bootlegging is frightfully common; no man runs an automobile 10 miles without a violation of law. Look at the bootlegging in tax matters! No one returns from abroad without trying to bootleg in something that should pay a tax.

A short time ago a writer in Atlantic monthly asserted that all history has failed to show a woman philosopher: that there is no such thing If this is true, how about the decisions of women as to husbands, sons and fathers in the past centuries? If they have not judged them with philosophy—which is only reason and justice—how have they judged them?

About half the population seems to be moving about in automobiles during the day, and dancing jazz in tourist camps at night. Americans are becoming Gypsies, and trading automobiles instead of horses.

There was civilization long ago, and many people tired of it.

When the nomad Mongols rose to power, they found conquering easy, because of the disgust of peoples with the extravagance and dishonesty of civilized rulers.

When Jenghis Kahn first invaded China, we are told that there was serious discussion among the Mongol chiefs whether all the towns and settled populations should not be destroyed they seemed so eurpt, crowded, effeminate, dangerous.

The Mongols, under Hulago, in Mesopotamia, actually destroyed the irrigation system that had endured at least eight thousand years.

And the mother of civilization of all the Western world came to an end as did the city life in splendid Nippur, Babylon, Nineveh; as recent as the early sixteenth century, a man of foresight surveying the world might have concluded that it was only a matter of a few generations before the world became Mongolian, and probably Moslem.

There are still a good many wild and dissatisfied men in the world. In Cromwell's time, the people defied a civilized king and fought, whipped and publicly executed him.

Th Russians did the same thing within a decade, and it is being threatened now in more than half the countries of the globe.

We all engage in extravagance, public and private and try to make up for it by clamoring for another reduction in railroad rates.

I believe particularly well-behaved persons were born with that disposition: that they do not accomplish good behavoir with high resolve.

There is a story in history of an Italian who made a specialty of "taking care of himself." He selected his food with such care that he finally became tired of living, and died at a hundred and thirteen; some think he committed suicide by eating a heavy meal of pork sausages, buckwheat cakes swimming in butter and gravy and fruit juice and milk.

There may be a good deal of exaggeration in the story, as in all history. Still, probably the man lived an unusually long time by taking care of himself.

And certainly that old Italian was born with a disposition to temperance, and, after he reached a great age, certainly he liked to sip a glass of water and nibble a cracker in the presence of heavy feeders.

If the old time man who mistreated women and children could come back now, how he would be astonished!

I rarely read doctor books, they so regularly insult me because I use tobacco

Probably everyone has observed the growing sentiment against the Uplifters. In many towns and cities commercial clubs are lately openly opposing them. And now comes Charles Fiske, not only a church man, but a bishop. He says "the proper work of the churches is being neglected because its ministers, spurred on by paid uplifters, try to forward every organized social movement. And the churches are not the only victims of the passion for commercialized service. The paid uplifter has made movements for social reform such a joke that all good causes are handicapped. The present passion for social service organized, as it is, on a thoroughly professional and commercialized basis, has become one of the chief sins—and one of the worst pests—in America today. No one could possibly estimate the harm that has been done to all movements for social betterment by the paid uplifter. He is a general nuisance and many a good cause has been ruined by his pernicious activity." Remember I quote the exact language of a bishop. Still, the wailing of the bishop will have no effect; the Uplifters will laugh at him as they have laughed at the rest of us, and proceed with their collections.

I have observed that a good many women, denouncing a husband who rules his household, say: "He is a Prussian!"

"Napoleon, a great genius, did not know whether his policies were the right ones: he didn't know beforehand, he didn't know afterward, he didn't knew at the time of his death, and historians do not know yet." says C. L Edson.

Historians are able to tell of the policies of nations, but they can not tell whether these policies were right or wrong.

This has always been true of big things: leaders have followed policies many years, at great trouble and expense, without knowing they were right.

We entered the late war at staggering expense, but it may be that every worthy principle would have been better served had we kept out of it; no one will ever know whether we were patriots or fools.

But whil this is true in big things, we may always know when we are right in smaller things: no one may justly criticise a man's policy when he is industrious, thrifty, temperate and just in his dealings with others.

A king, president, congress, may be wrong in their big affairs, but an individual may be right in his.

Out in the woods I found a wild pinm tree. And there was a certain exquisite taste to the fruit not found in the cultivated. In an abandoned house yard I found a seedling peach tree There was a delicious quality in the fruit I did not believe possible in any fruit.

"The ordinary [illegible]," says a bishop, "makes up for not be very smart by be[illegible] well-meaning."

"Fair Warning"

The general public is hereby notified that all well located lots in Scotland addition will be raised in value $200 each on March 1, 1926.

The lots we have left on the market at this time are by far the cheapest and best lots in the city for the money. While they last you have picking choice of inside lots for $400, corners $500 on terms of 1-3 cash or 5 per cent discount for all cash.

Owing to the fact that Scotland addition has all the modern conveniences, you absolutely know that when you own one of these lots clear, that you can get a modern home built on same on terms that you can meet. When you buy lots out in the country or in any district where there is no water, gas, electric lights, sewerage, etc., you may have to wait for years before you get them. It costs money and lots of money to put these conveniences in any addition. For instance; it cost over $300,000 to put the conveniences in Scotland addition including the street railway and paved highway. This is more than $400 per lot for every lot in the entire addition. You can readily see that you are getting your money's worth when you acquire one of our lots. These modern conveniences are what makes lots come so high in restricted additions. We have all these conveniences except paved streets and in this addition you can't be located far from street car line and paved highway. We will soon have a modern brick school. It has taken years of hard work as well as lots of money to acquire all these conveniences and you can readily see that we are justified in raising our values.

If you purchase one of these cheap lots now you do so with the assurance that your lot will be worth $200 more on the first day of March. This is a 50 per cent advance in four months, what better could you ask. Should you not have the money to buy one of these lots you should go borrow it, for there will never be another closein industrial addition with all these conveniences placed on the market.

Scotland addition is in the city limits. If you are proud of our city you will want to live in the city limits where you can assert your American right to vote and take part in its development by paying taxes rather than trying to shirk them.

First come, first served, and remember our best lots will soon all be sold. I mean every word of this advertisement.

FIRST THING

der my administration is guilty of any wrong or the violation of any law, just report the fact to me by any credible testimony and it will not be necessary to call the legislature or anybody else to remove such appointee from office. It is a matter known to anybody who seeks to inform himself that nine-tenths of this talk about a special session is either inspired by some prospective candidates for governor or their intimate friends, or by some disappointed county official who wants to perform some duty now conferred upon other officials by law. They want me to call a 'they say' legislature and open it so that the gossipers may come down and air ten thousand rumors not based on one fact.

Condemns Last Session

"To the member of the legislature who wants a special session let me call attention to the fact that the last legislature, while doing a wonderful work and reducing appropriations by the millions, yet its appropriations exceeded the constitutional limit by more than $740,000 as shown by the findings of the Automatic Tax board.

"And therefore if the legislature were to meet now, the first thing the members would do would be to pass a mileage and per diem bill to pay their traveling expenses and salaries out of the general revenue fund. As the limit in this fund is now exceeded, every member of the legislature who would vote to appropriate money for his traveling expenses and salary would start off at the inception of the session violating his official oath. It would certainly be a fine crowd to meet to investigate somebody supposed to be violating the law when they themselves would be openly violating the law and their oath of office.

Trying to Do Duty

"I am trying to do my duty as governor of this state. I am trying to redeem my pledges to the people to give them an economical administration of their affairs. I think this administration has in a great measure kept every promise to the people and that the peopel are getting along all right, as far as the state government is concerned. I ask of our friends everywhere to demand of this crowd that is howling about a special session of the legislature to show good reason and bring some specific charge showing why a special term of the legislature should be called.

"I cannot close this statement until I again extend my heartfelt thanks to the many friends throughout all Texas whose continues loyalty and good will is a source of inspiration to me to do my full duty to the people of the greatest state of the nation."

more. And once more the adamant limousine stood there stolidly and took a slaming.

Even that wasn't enough. The same process was duplicated exactly a third time, which meant a full quartet of punches absorbed by the sleek palace on wheels.

It all took place in les stime than is required to tell it and by the time the fourth assault materialized bystanders had started hunting for anchor chains. And then—glory be, the fifth time proved a success. For some reason or other the active pilotess pulled the steering wheel and her car shot around in front of the muchly-abused limousine. It rolled on down Burnett and disappeared with a fender and bumper somewhat bent.

The other car after caughing uncertainly a time or two edged gingerly ahead with one running board somewhat the worse for wear and a good paint job in need of renovation.

Otherwise everything was lovely.

South Sea Film Begins Showing Here Tomorrow

"Never the Twain Shall Meet," will be presented on the screen at the Strand beginning tomorrow. The new film, presented by the Cosmopolitan Corporation, and released by Metro-Goldwyn, is a picturization of Peter B. Kyne's South Sea tale of the same name, and proved to be one of the most exceptional and enchanting pictures of the year. It combines an excellent cast, pictorial backgrounds of charm and beauty and a fast-moving story with drama, pathos and comedy mixed in exactly the correct proportion for perfect screen entertainment.

In the making of this picture Maurice Tourneur, the director, took a notable company to Tahiti and Morocco for the filming of the scenes on the actual locale described by the author.

Anita Stewart, in the leading femland princess, has never been lovelier in the role of Tamea, a half caste isle or more bewitching than in the native costume of the South Seas.

Bert Lytell, as the young American scion of wealth and social position, who gives up his ambitions, his mode of living and his wealth for the half-caste girl, has an unusual opportunity for displaying his powers of character delineation.

The other members of the cast are equally excellent in their respective roles. Justine Johnstone, as a beautiful young woman of society, is extraordinarily interesting, as is Huntly Gordon. Others who appear to excellent advantage include Lionel Belmore, George Siegmann, Emily Fitzroy, William Norris, Florence Turner and Princess Marie de Bourbon.

In addition to the wealth of scenic beauty, there are numerous lavish interior settings, all of which were designed by Joseph Urban. The story was adapted to the screen by Eugene Mullin.

"Sex Stuff Out, Back to Romance," Schenck Declares

The screen is going back to romance, realism and thrilling action. "Sex stuff" is out of style.

In the next two years the American theatergoer will witness a gradual reversion to the old-time melodrama, tempered and refined to meet modern customs.

This trend of motion picture production was predicted recently by Joseph M. Schenck, producer of pictures starring Norma and Constance Talmadge and Buster Keaton, following a number of conferences with other producers and with Will H. Hays, counselor and advisor on picture problems.

Costume dramas have had their day and will appear no more in this motion picture era, Mr. Schenck added, although many romantic stories written in costume periods will be modernized and brought down to date. The romance will be retained; the costumes discarded. He cited George Barr McCutcheon's colorful "Graustark," as an example. This story has been filmed with Norma Talmadge as star, but all the costumes have been eliminated and the story will be presented in a modern garb.

"I look for a resurrection of many of the melodramas of the late stage era. They will, of course, be modernized to meet present-day conditions, but the inevitable conflict of right and wrong will be strongly to the fore," he added.

There is also a bright future for writers of original screen stories, Mr. Schenck said, citing that Constance Talmadge is now meeting with big success in "Her Sister From Paris," an original from the pen of Hans Kraly.

No Tragedy For Reginald Denny, Prefers Comedy

He is Reginald Denny, whose latest Universal-Jewel starring production, "California Straight Ahead," which comes to the Strand next Friday, Saturday, and Sunday.

Denny declares he doesn't feel the yearn so oft expressed in print at least, by other actors who play screen comedy, to do Hamlet and Ibsen tragedies.

"I'm perfectly satisfied with the type of pictures I'm doing right now," Denny declares. "I've done straight leading parts on the screen and on the stage, but I don't like them as well as I do light comedy.

"Every actor likes to be popular, I suppose, and I think light comedies—when they are good—are the most popular pictures on the screen. Look at the success of 'Charley's Aunt,' 'The Galloping Fish' and other pictures of the same type."

Denny's opinion is a unique one at least, for every comedian from Chaplin down declares that he yearns to do heavy tragedies. Chaplin wanted to play Hamlet. John Barrymore was a highly successful light comedian on the stage, and finally managed to switch over. Almost all of the old two-reel comedians of a few years ago have deserted pie comedies for features.

But Denny declares if he can keep on being funny he will be satisfied.

The star began his career with Universal as the star of the original "Leather Pushers" series. He made such a tremendous hit wherever the pictures were shown that the company decided to star him in feature length light comedies. Since the change he has enhanced his tremendous popularity with such pictures as "Sporting Youth," "The Reckless Age," "I'll Show You the Town," "The Abysmal Brute" and other pictures.

In "California Straight Ahead," as in his other productions, Denny plays the type of role in which he is so popular—that of the typical American young man.

In "California Straight Ahead," Denny is supported by a big cast, including Gertrude Olmsted, Lucille Ward, Charles Gerrard, Tom Wilson, John Steppling, Fred Esmelton, Leon Nomas and others.

The story was written by Harry Pollard and Byron Morgan, and directed, as were Denny's other recent pictures, by Pollard.

Chickens Scarce

FUR GARTER FAD CATCHES.

London Succumbs to Newest Wearing Apparel "Creation."

LONDON, Oct.10.—The latest London fad in fur fashions is the "fur garter," designed by fur experts and made up into a variety of designs but the prices demanded for the new "creations" seem likely to preclude a widespread popular demand. One pair of sea otter garters, made for a "fur ball" which has been planned to take place at Covent Garden in aid of Middlesex Hospital, is priced at £15 (about $75) while other designs, in beaver fur and in real ermine, trimmed with small black tails, are expected to bring similarly high prices.

The increasing demand for rabbit fur trimming has induced several society women to breed rabbits for the fur trade. Lady Rachael Byng, Lady Helena Forbes, Lady Victoria Percy and Lady Layland Barratt are the lates to take up rabbit growing which is said to be a profitable enterprise.

Majestic's Bill This Week Has Abundant Music

Four of Five Acts Feature Tuneful Melodies And Real Comedy

Music will run rampant on this week's Majestic vaudeville bill, it seems, with four of the five acts billed offering something in the line of melody and harmony. The fifth, or first as the case may be, is a fast-traveling skating skit in which Ernest Mack and Margie La Rue appear in a series of speedy and spectacular steps, glides, twists and turns with a background of rich tapestries.

Heading the musical programs is Vaughn Comfort, assisted by Harriet Lois in "The Millionaire Beggar." A fine tenor voice and a warm Irish smile are sufficient to endear any man to the public, and Comfort makes use of both of these to a remarkable degree. The play, for such it is, has a plot which combines a wealth of comedy with a wel-balanced program of vocal selections ranging from classics to jazz. As a wel-dressed beggar he gets involved with a well meaning but skeptical welfare worker and the ensuing complications offer plenty in the way of wholesome fun and real musical talent.

The crossword puzzle idea is involved in "Cross Words," a musical number featuring Irving Newhoff and Dode Phelps who have long been popular favorites on the vaudeville stage. Their act, in addition to being lively, tuneful and humorous, has the added zest imparted by a mystery angle that is not solved until the final curtain.

Nothing seems to have been overlooked by Sim Moore and Frank Mitchell in assembling "A Little Bit of Everything." These two dance, sing, are gymnasts and comedians and their turn is so arranged as to almost defy classification. An abundance of all these ingredients is included.

Piccaddily is not so far from Broadway; at least not so far that Mary Eaves, "The Piccaddily Girl," can not travel back and forth without losing her identity and popularity. She therefore, has more to do with these than the convenience of travel and has a sort of personality inducive to theatrical favor regardless of geography. She is an eccentric singing comedian, which means a song program of individuality rendered humorously.

The usual news reel, fables and feature pictures will be offered in connection with the vaudeville acts.

"Bobbed Hair" Is Olympic's Feature To Begin Thursday

Romance for motion picture actors is not confined to the screen—and fortunate are the few who can combine their personal romances with their business romances.

Such is the happy lot of Marie Prevost and Kenneth Harlan, appearing in "Bobbed Hair" at the Olympic Theater Thursday. This production marks the first picture in which they have both appeared since they first met.

When Marie was playing an attractive young wife and Kenneth an attentive young husband in "Married Flappers" it marked their first meeting and later resulted in their own marriage. They probably reasoned that since it was so pleasant a task on the screen, they might even improve it off the screen. And, in the happy vein of the fair tales . . . "so they were married and lived happily after."

Now in "Bobbed Hair" they are together again. Miss Prevost plays the leading role of Connemara Moore, a charming and headstrong girl who makes her decision between two suitors by the question of "to bob or not to bob." She finally decides she will not marry either, and thereupon Kenneth Harlan becomes an important figure. He is an adventurous young man who becomes involved in a merry chase with a crooked "gang," and takes Miss Connemara along with him. His courage and good looks fascinate the susceptible young lady, and she decides to marry him and get her aunt's fortune—which she would lose if she remained unwed.

Jetta Goudal Is Featured in Play Of Tenement Life

"Salome of the Tenements," Sidney Olcott's newest production for Paramount from the novel of New York life by Anzia Yezierska, brings to the screen a wide range and variety of players new to motion pictures, in addition to Jetta Goudal and Jose Ruben, who have featured roles. It will play at the Palace, Wednesday, and Thursday.

Godfrey Tearle, an actor prominent in British theatrical circles (yes, he's Conway's brother), makes his American debut in this picture, featured with Miss Goudal and Ruben in the leading roles. Tearle came to this country from London where he scored a big hit in the stage play, "The Fake," a Frederick Lonsdale play which he brought to New York for a prolonged run.

Laxar Freed, Elihu Tenenholtz, Irma Lerner, Sonya Nodell and others, all prominent with the vest audiences of the Yiddish theaters in New York and other cities, have prominent parts in this latest Olcott production made at Paramount's Long Island studio.

"Salome of the Tenements" marks the initial flight of these players from the footlights to the screen. As the story concerns the denizens of New York's lower East Side, their choice for the interpretation of these characters was peculiarly apt.

Besides the players in the chief roles, Olcott has utilized seven-hundred inhabitants of the district pictured in the films to provide a realistic background for the picture which was adapted fo rthe screen by Sonya Levien.

Rates and Capital

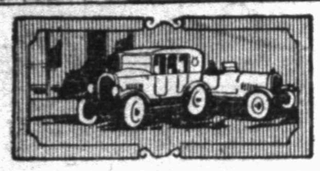

WHERE does the Wichita Falls Electric Company get the money with which to do business? Here in the United States we expect to get what we pay for, and we expect to pay in return for the work we do in the service we render. The Wichita Falls Electric Company, and every other public utility, is entitled to be paid for the service it renders. Its pay is called "rates," and its work is called "service." It, in turn, has to pay the costs of operation and maintenance, and a return to its stockholders for the use of their money that should be sufficiently liberal to attract new capital. All this has to be paid out of the rates it receives for its services. Rates provide the money for running expenses, while capital provides the means for extension and growth.

It is this fresh capital that builds the extensions and improvements. Every thrifty man or woman who succeeds in saving something from his or her earnings, wants to invest this money to the best possible advantage. They want to invest it safely and where they may expect a good rate of interest in exchange for the use of it. If they don't get it they won't invest. That is common sense, for no one should be expected to lend his savings for nothing. It is the rates that pay the interest on capital invested for public utilities.

The Wichita Falls Electric Company has to pay as much as any other for the materials it needs to carry on its business—oil, steel, iron, copper, wood, and the many other products needed in the production and distribution of electricity. Its employes must be efficient and satisfied, and it must pay them the "market" price in wages; otherwise they will go into other industries. Unlike other businesses, however, the utility company cannot fix its own selling prices. It has to pay the "market" price for what it gets, but its own selling prices, or rates, are fixed by some outside authority.

It is from these two sources, Capital and Rates, that the Wichita Falls Electric Company gets the money to carry on its business.

SEELEY WILL USE AUBURN IN SIX DAY TEST

Famous Cowboy Plans Endurance Run in Stock Straight Eight

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 17.—Shackled to the wheel of an Auburn Straight Eight at his own request by police officials of this city, "Wild Bill" (Cowboy) Seeley, giant Oklahoma cowpuncher who has a picturesque record as a steer bulldogger and broncho buster in many southwestern states rodeo's—left Indianapolis on Friday, October 16, to drive for six days, six nights and six hours over a huge route embracing fourteen eastern and southern states. Making no stops for sleep, rest or gas—taking on all his food and fuel supplies "on the run"—Seeley plans to smash all existing records for this sort of a stunt. That he has the physical capabilities to withstand the gruelling punishment of such a drive was partially demonstrated in two drives of five days and nights staged by him in California the early part of this year. On one drive his route took him over the back mountain trails near Auburn, Placerville and up into the American River canyon over almost impassable roads and on another drive staged in the San Joachim valley he drove pell mell into the snow bound confines of Yosemite reaching the Big Trees Grove over snow and mud blocked roads without even chains on his car. This time, under the auspices of the Miami Daily News of Miami, Fla., "Wild Bill" hopes to set a mark for endurance driving never before equalled by any one. Running on a minute to minute schedule, manacled securely to the steering wheel and with official newspaper observers accompanying him in relays, Seeley plans to tour through the following cities:

Indianapolis, Dayton, Ohio; Springfield, Ohio; Columbus, Ohio; Wheeling, W. Va.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Butler, Pa.; Newcastle, Pa.; Youngstown, Ohio; Cleveland, Ohio; Erie, Pa.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Rochester, N. Y.; Syracuse, N. Y.; Albany, N. Y.; New York City, Newark, N. J.; Trenton, N. J.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Baltimore, Md.; Richmond, Va.; Durham, N. C.; Greensboro, N. C.; Charlotte, N. C.; Spartansburg, S. C.; Greenville, S. C.; Athens, Ga.; Atlanta, Ga.; Macon, Ga., Jacksonville, Fla.; Miami, Fla. A stock Auburn Straight Eight sedan has been made ready for him by E. L. Cord, vice president of the Auburn Automobile Co. of Auburn, Ind., equipped with everything necessary to insure his physical comfort on the punishing drive. A newspaper reporter and motion picture cameraman will make the trip with him. With the exception of momentary stops to comply with stop signals and signs in the various cities along his route—Seeley plans to keep the motor and wheels of his car in constant motion until he reaches Miami, Fla. No attempt will be made to establish any speed record—in fact his average running time will probably not be over twenty miles per hour. Gas and oil will be dispensed while e rocks the car back and forth at filling stations. He will undoubtedly encounter some bad roads in the south and whether the big 268-pound Herculean cowpuncher will be able to fight his way through, not only combating the grip of fatigue and going without a wink of sleep, can only be conjectured. His drive marks the first national non-stop run of this kind and it is certain that the amazing feat will be followed by unusual interest. A large trophy cup will be presented to him by the Miami Daily News if he succeeds in marking up a world's record.

FINANCE CHARGES LOWERED INSURANCE RATES REDUCED

Excessive finance charges and too high insurance rates have made it difficult for many people to buy automobiles. The Chrysler Plan, inaugurated by the Chrysler Corporation, will save purchasers of Chrysler cars $5,000,000 during the first year of the operation of the Plan, in reduced finance charges and lowered insurance rates.

The Chrysler Plan was inaugurated July 1 and is resulting in a saving to date of about $400,000 a month to Chrysler car buyers. It is a plan which marks a new day in the history of motor car merchandising.

RISK PLAN OF CHRYSLER ONE BEST FEATURE

However, it Is But an Incident of Car's Sales Service

"So much has been printed about the insurance feature of the Chrysler plan that there are those who lose sight of the fact that the plan is one to reduce finance charges on motor cars sold on the deferred payment basis," explained the local agent here today.

"The insurance feature of the plan is an important one but it is incidental. Obviously no company is going to finance the sale of motor cars sold on a deferred payment basis unless those cars are insured against loss from fire or theft. The finance plan would have been impossible without the insurance features.

"To be sure the Chrysler plan assures purchasers of Chrysler cars lower insurance rates. The saving from lowered finance charges and reduced rates totals from $35 to $75 per car, depending upon its price. In July $400,000 was saved to Chrysler buyers and in August a slightly larger sum was saved.

"The Chrysler plan was evolved to reduce finance charges on Chrysler cars. It is a plan to save money for the public because saving money for the public means selling more cars.

"In some states, insurance commissioners have held that when an automobile dealer sells an insured car he becomes an insurance agent and hence subject to local insurance laws. The Chrysler corporation holds that the contract which it entered into with the Palmetto Fire Insurance company of South Carolina is a Michigan contract is valid and binding in that state and hence valid and binding in all states. The Chrysler corporation itself entered into the contract for insurance. The local dealer has nothing to do with it. The Chrysler corporation consequently disagrees with those state insurance commissioners who hold that selling insured cars is selling insurance.

"Reducing finance charges is equivalent to a price reduction. The public benefits and the manufacturing company sells more cars. The Chrysler plan in a word is a practical method of reducing finance charges and lowering insurance rates, and is in line with the nation wide movement to reduce marketing costs.

DOUBLE AUTO PRODUCTION IS OLDS' PROMISE

Orders Placed for Additional Equipment To Meet the Demand

Orders have been placed by Olds Motor Works for additional equipment which will enable it to double its production of Oldsmobile. These added facilities are required to meet the growing demand, and to fill the scheduled production ofr 1926, which, it is expected, will be the largest in the 28 years of automobile building by this pioneer company.

Besides new equipment in the Oldsmobile factory, additional ovens will be installed in the plant of the Fisher Body corporation, which adjoins the Olds Motor Works and which builds closed bodies for Oldsmobile exclusively. At the present time all ovens available are being worked continuously 24 hours a day, and even with this peak production the Fisher plant is hard pressed to keep pace with orders. Other additional equipment will be installed in certain departments of the Oldsmobile plant that are now being worked at capacity and in many cases operated over time.

During September there were 5,541 Oldsmobile manufactured and sold by the factory. These cars were sold by dealers to consumers as quickly as received, due to the fact that dealers have not been able to build up any reserve stock on account of the great demand manifested for the series "D" cars introduced early in August. This is an average production of approximately 250 cars a day, and, with the present big demand for closed cars, about the limit of existing facilities.

"Not later than January we will be able to produce from 400 to 500 Oldsmobiles a day," reports L. J. Reuter, president and general manager of Olds Motor Works. "If it is possible we will increase our production before then, but it requires time to have special machinery made and installed.

"Every indication points to the need of a minimum production of at least 400 cars every working day to take care of our 1926 business. Our dealer organization has grown steadily in size during the past year and the public reception of the latest Oldsmobile has been phenomenal. Heavy closed body commitments have been placed with Fisher which call for 11,000 closed jobs for January and February alone.

"Oldsmobile sales have shown a marked gain during the past six months even despite the necessary curtailing of production in July and the first few days in August, due to the introduction of the new series "D" cars. Our export business has also increased by leaps and bounds, being more than double what it was last year at this time.

"Olds Motor Works has had many prosperous years in its long history in the automotive industry, but never has it had a more promising outlook than at present. At the present rate of progress, it will continue to play an even more prominent role in motor car history for years to come."

GROWING APPRECIATION

Dodge Brothers Dealers sold 61,248 used cars during the first six months of 1924. During the same period this year they sold 84,195. Proving that public appreciation of honest values is steadily growing—and that good used cars can be bought if vou know where to get them.

DODGE BROTHERS DEALERS SELL GOOD USED CARS

BACK OF A GOOD NAME

Rarely in manufacturing history has a name entrenched itself so firmly in the confidence of the entire world as the name Dodge Brothers.

Everywhere and to everyone this name means but one thing: a product built honestly of the best available materials and sold at a just price.

Behind this product, this price and this enviable reputation lie certain impressive and fundamental facts.

So important is a knowledge of these facts to the motor car buyer that Dodge Brothers, Inc., have determined to publish them, from time to time, until every newspaper reader in America may be presumed to have read them:

Dodge Brothers, during the past eleven years, have built and sold more than one million four hundred thousand motor cars—and more than 90% of these cars are still in service. This record requires no comment. It stands impressively alone in motor car history.

It has never been Dodge Brothers policy to build yearly models. When an improvement, that is really an improvement, is discovered, it is made at once. Their slogan, "Constantly Improved But No Yearly Models" is familiar the world over.

Dodge Brothers build one chassis and only one. This policy materially lowers manufacturing cost. It also enables Dodge Brothers engineers to concentrate their entire time and thought on the betterment of this one type.

Dodge Brothers have never had an "off year" or an "off car." This is because they have never used the public as a testing ground for "new models" or lowered the quality of their product in the slightest degree. Every change has been an improvement on the original design.

Dodge Brothers pioneered in building the first all-steel open car and the first all-steel closed car. These epochal developments have saved Dodge Brothers owners many millions of dollars by materially prolonging motor car life and by effecting marked economies in manufacture. This construction has also reduced incalculably the danger from accident and fire.

Dodge Brothers sell directly through their dealers to the purchaser. There are no sectional distributing agencies to increase the cost of distribution and the cost of the car.

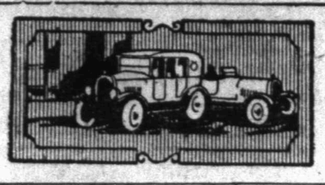

Dodge Brothers have never given so-called "free service." The car is sold at a fair and honest price. Nothing is added to this original purchase price to pay for service that the owner may never need.

Dodge Brothers Dealers were pioneers in unanimously adopting the flat rate service system. By this system, the owner knows in advance what any service job will cost. There are no unpleasant surprises in his bills.

The sturdiness and long life of Dodge Brothers Motor Car is reflected in its resale value. Comparatively few Dodge Brothers Motor Cars are advertised in the resale columns of the newspapers. The values they bring testify unanswerably to their goodness—and the public's belief in their goodness.

The time has passed when transient novelties can lead a thoughtful buyer to overlook the great essentials of motor car worth. A few of these essentials, outlined above, go far to explain why Dodge Brothers name is accepted, the world over, as the hall mark of dollar-for-dollar value.

55,865 NEW CHEVROLETS IN SINGLE MONTH

Motor Company Sets a New Record and Almost Beats History

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 17.—The Chevrolet Motor company built 55,865 motor cars and trucks during September, a new record for that month and only 378 fewer than the highest production month in the history of the company.

Ordinarily sales and consequently production are expected to decrease during the latter part of the year. However, the demand for Chevrolet cars which has held production at high figures throughout the year continues undiminished. As a result the schedule for the present month contemplates the building of more than 54,500 cars and trucks.

August deliveries to dealers in the United States alone were 41,500, an August record. This figure is exclusive of the thousands of cars shipped to foreign countries. During September, deliveries in the United States increased to approximately 44,500 placing September second only to April and May of this year and exceeding the domestic deliveries for June, July and August respectively.

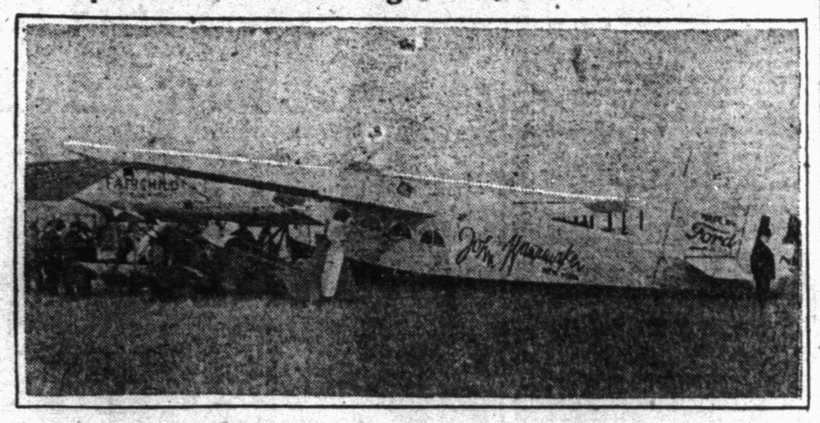

"I am proud of these records for two reasons," said Charles F. Barth, vice-president in charge of production.

"My first reason is that since March the Chevrolet production has remained consistently at 50,000 or more without the usual seasonable fluctuations. This indicates that the automobile industry is becoming stabilized upon a regular year-round demand.

"My second reason is that the September production proved conclusively the loyalty and capacity of the Chevrolet manufacturing organization. Unceasing demand for cars from the Chevrolet dealers made it necessary early in September to increase the September production schedule nearly 7,000, the new schedule calling for 53,165 cars and trucks. A production increase of that magnitude is a severe test of any manufacturing organization. The sales department would have desired us to increase the production schedule even more sharply. The results exceeded our highest expectations. The loyal workers in the Chevrolet factories, most of them veterans who are proud of their jobs and proud of their product, responded to a man. They came through with the record September production of 55,865 which was 2,700 more cars than we had asked for even under the revised schedule."

NASH INCOME TRIPLED FOR THREE MONTHS

Remarkable Gain in Sales Shown in Period Ending Aug. 31

At a meeting of the directors of The Nash Motors company held today, President C. W. Nash reported that for the three months ending August 31st, 1925, after deducting expenses of manufacturing, (including depreciation) selling and administrative and providing for local taxes, and state and federal income taxes, the net income amounted to $3,840,268.25 as compared with $1,205,766.09 for the same period a year ago.

A quarterly dividend on preferred stock of $1.75 was declared payable Nov. 1st to stockholders of record of Oct. 20.

The value of sales for the above three months showed an increase of 124 per cent over the same period a year ago.

Commenting on the condition of the company and the business outlook, President Nash said "our company has experienced a greatly oversold condition since July, 1924. In order to place ourselves in a position whereby we might more nearly give our dealers the goods they require, when they require them, we have built additions to our plant and have purchased a large quantity of new machinery so that output may be increased to conform with demand.

"The outlook for the future is very broght for the Nash Motors company. General conditions look to me to be very sound and stable. I see no reason with conditions as they are and with the public sentiment so highly in favor of our poruduct why we should not expect continued good business, and even more business in the future than has come to us in the past."

TRUCKS COME INTO OWN BY LEAPS, BOUNDS

Official Figures Show Output Now Exceeding Year 1924

Official figures disclose the fact that production of trucks by the entire industry during the first eight months of 1925 exceeded the figures for the corresponding period of 1924 by 23 per cent, according to McFall Bros., local Dodge Brothers dealer.

"Compared with this sound, healthy gain made by the industry as a whole," explained Mr. McFall, "Graham Brothers sales increase of 105 per cent for the first eight months of this year over sales for the same months last year is convincing evidence of public recognition of the merit of their product.

"An annual increase in sales of over 100 per cent is not unusual with Graham Brothers," Mr. McFall continued. "Their sales in 1922 exceeded their 1921 sales by 154 per cent, 1923 exceeded 1922 by 105 per cent, and 1924 exceeded 1923 by 54 per cent. The 1925 growth would logically be expected by anyone who is familiar with their policy of giving the greatest possible truck value at the lowest possible cost.

"To produce sufficient trucks to supply the constantly growing demand has necessitated repeated and extensive enlargements in manufacturing facilities. When Graham Brothers moved into their new Detroit factory, July first this year, their 250,000 square feet represented a 19-fold increase in floor space in Detroit in a little over four years. In addition to this modern steel and concrete building, ideally laid out for economical manufacture of high-grade trucks, and to their immense plant in Evansville, Ind., Graham Brothers have a plant, opened this summer, in Stockton, Calif. to manufacture trucks required by their dealers in the Pacific coast and the Rocky mountain states.

"Within the few months since the Stockton plant was opened the rapidly increasing demand in the far western states has far exceeded expectation and it is understond that plans are already being made to increase its size.

"Graham Brothers have also a large factory in Toronto, Ontario, to supply the constantly growing Canadian market for their trucks.

"As improved facilities and increased production have reduced manufacturing costs the savings have been shared with the buyer in the form of price reductions. But at the same time the truck has been constantly improved—never has any change been made except to give the buyer a better truck.

"The rise of Graham Brothers in the short period of five years to the position they now occupy—first in the production of 1 1-2 ton trucks is certain evidence that the public recognizes the merit of their product.

CAR PICKS UP FASTER THAN SPRINTER CAN

Fast Track Man Fails To Best Chevrolet In 100-Yard Dash

The fleetness of a "human greyhound," recently failed to beat an automobile in a 100-yard dash from a standing start at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

A half-dozen four-cylinder cars of different makes had been given acceleration tests in 100-yard dashes. The best time was made by a Chevrolet. Each car ran eight sprints over the distance and the results were averaged. The average time made by the Chevrolet was 10.73 seconds.

The other averages were: 11.13 seconds; 11.19 seconds; 11.28 seconds; 11.58 seconds and 12.54 seconds. The cars which ran second and third were considerably higher in price than the Chevrolet.

After the tests, the question arose as to the relative "pick-up" of the automobile and the human sprinter. A contest was arranged in the Coliseum between a Chevrolet and Keith Lloyd, cousin of Harold Lloyd. Keith Lloyd is the champion sprinter of the University of Southern California. The Chevrolet was driven by Dick Champion, former Bucknell university track star. The stop watch was held by Dean Cromwell, Lloyd's coach.

At the starting gun, Lloyd leaped ahead of the car. He was in full stride before Champion had changed to second gear. The rapidly accelerating car roared after him, however, and caught him at the tape. Coach Cromwell clocked car and sprinter in a dead heat of 0.3 seconds. On comparative figures, had Lloyd sprinted against any of the other five cars he would have won without extending himself. The speed of the Chevrolet car at the finish was 32 miles per hour.

Weight Too Much For Strong Man

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Selig (Ajax) Whitman, former strong man of the New York police department, is seriously ill at his home as a result of lifting a comparatively small bag of gold bullion. Whitman once lifted a 1,000-pound dumbbell and pushed a freight car up a hill in St. John's Park. Last July he became paralyzed on his left side from assisting in the transfer of gold in the Woolworth building. He was known as a physical marvel and often posed for artists of the National Academy of Designs. He retired from the police department five years ago.

OAKLAND TOPS LAST MONTH'S OUTPUT MARK

At Least Eighty Per Cent Increase Is Mark Forecasted

PONTIAC, Mich., Oct. 10.—Announcement has just been made by A. R. Glancy, general manager of the Oakland Motor Car company, that the October output of the Oakland factory is being increased more than 80 per cent over the preceding month.

"This increase is doubly significant," said Mr. Glancy, "because our September production was the highest of any month this year, exceeding the best previous month by 33 1-3 per cent. However, in spite of our volume of production in September, orders have continued to flood our home office since the announcement of our new cars and the accompanying price reductions, making it necessary to provide a still greater increase in October. Before the end of the present month our daily average production will have exceeded 350 cars and we have already shaped our plant towards that end.

"Since the first week in October, the local unit of the Fisher Body Corporation has been devoted exclusively to the production of Oakland bodies. For some time Oakland production has been taxing the Fisher plant to capacity with its steadily increasing volume.

"Work of rearranging the Oakland plant to make possible this big increase has been under way for some time and we are confident that the middle of October will find everything adjusted and the new schedule in full operation.

"The combination of incorporating many refinements in the car and materially improving the motor by means of the new Harmonic Balancer, coupled with the reduction of $70 to $350 in prices, has pushed business to a record level, and we are anticipating a heavy demand for some time to come."

DIXIE BOOSTER TOUR STOPS AT DETROIT'S CLUB

Chrysler Six Pilated Expedition Over Long Northern Trip

DAYTON, Oct. 17.—Dayton, the hub of numerous good roads stretching up and down the Ohio valley, was host today to some fifty, automobiles full of Dixie highway boosters, en route from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to Jacksonville, Fla., under the pilotship of Capt. W. S. Gilbreath, manager of the Detroit Automobile club and charter member of the Dixie Highway association.

"It is a far cry," Capt. Gilbreath told those who gathered to welcome him and wish him well on the balance of the tour, "from the day I first traversed the Dixie highway ten years ago, and I do not think there is one among you but that appreciates what this splendid highway means to the industrial and commercial development of the country through which it passes."

"Road conditions," he continued, "are just as far ahead of those ten years ago as this Chrysler Six pilot car is ahead of the cars of ten years ago. Everybody is healthier, happier and more prosperous because of better roads and better cars."

The motorcade's next stop will be made in Cincinnati, at which point it will be joined by Nicholas Longsworth, United States senator, and good roads enthusiast. It is expected by the time the motorcade reaches Jacksonville that at least 150 cars will be in line. Additional entries are being picked up at each point. Large centers of population yet to be passed through before reaching Jacksonville are Cincinnati, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Atlanta and Macon.

Only 19, Bob Cogdill Is Pastor Of a Thriving Frederick, Okla., Church, and Is Doing Big Work

Sermons of "Boy Wonder" Attracts Visitors From Many Sections and His Administration Of Pastoral Duties Interest Whole City

FREDERICK, Oct. 17.—Frederick boasts of the youngest minister in the state, and probably the United States, not just a boy who preaches an occasional sermon, but a regularly employed preacher, who has full charge of all church work, and who is making good at the novel position despite his youth.

Rev. Roy E. Cogdill, pastor of the Church of Christ in Frederick, is starting on his fall work in his church here, and thus far his organizations have succeeded well and excellent success is predicted for this years work. Cogdill is barely 19 years of age, he having accepted the ministry here when but 18, and conducted the work of the church at that age.

Cogdill was born in 1907 near the city of Hobart, north of Frederick. He was reared in Hobart, moving with his parents at the age of two. When he was eight years of age his father was killed accidentally. He ahs four sisters and Mrs. Cogdill has educated the five children with very little outside help.

After finishing high school and graduating with excellent grades, Cogdill entered the Cordell Christian college and took a year's work there. He preached his first sermon on November 22 in Hobart, which was very successful. The youthful minister chose as his subject, "Prayer." Since that time the "Boy wonder," as he is sometimes termed, has missed very few Sunday's occupying the pulpit somewhere.

During the summer after his year in Cordell Christian college, Cogdill engaged in some protracted work, holding revival meetings in various cities and assisting in others. In the fall he enrolled in Abilene Christian college and spent the year there, and after leaving there was again engaged in revival work when he received the call to the Frederick church.

Wed During Summer.

Cogdill came to the church in Frederick in February of this year, and since that time has carried on the affairs of the church of Christ here. During his tnure in the pulpit there have been 60 additions to the church.

During the summer just passed, when Cogdill was accorded a short vacation, he engaged in three important maneuvers. Two of them were revival meetings, which resulted in a total of 72 additions and the other was matrimony, the youthful minister having recently taken unto himself a helper to assist in the church work.

The Church of Christ is one of the largest churches in Frederick, with excellent attendance at all services. Their new building is a modern and complete church structure and sufficient to conduct all services of church worship.

Cogdill's sermons have attracted a great deal of interest, and their human appeal, with which the lad seems imbued, has interested many in church work. Cogdill is a forceful talker, with excellent delivery and front. He is able to almost grasp his audience in the palm of his hand, raise them high and then with a few well worded phrases dash them down, to the realization of a point which he is endeavoring to put over.

The "Boy Wonder" attends to all departments of the church much the same as an older minister would, and at times with more pepe and vitality than is customary for one who has been longer in the service. Prominent business men, who are members of the lad's congregations, confer with him relative to church business and advise him. His place in the life of Frederick is truly unique.

Sport Enthusiast.

Cogdill is a great sport enthusiast and in any athletic game which Frederick is interested, he may be seen on the sideline, rooting with all the enthusiasm of a college student. He makes most of the trips with the boys and always has a word of encouragement for all.

The youthful minister is an excellent pastor, versatile in many lines of activity. He is an interesting conversationalist, well-spoken and well-met. His conduct bespeaks the highest character. His personality is magnetizing. All in all, he is everything that a minister should be and his sermons are worth driving miles to hear, to say nothing of seeing Cogdill in action.

Potash & Perlmutter Discuss Oxford Bags. —By Montague Glass

"Well, Mawruss, we may have a few hot days yet, but for all practical purposes such as leaving the office early so as to get in a couple of holes golluf or something, it is already mid-winter." Abe Potash remarked the other day. "Which I noticed only this morning that the stenographer ain't got out them monthly statements yet for the winter reason that she was reading a moving picture fan magazine and not for the summer reason that she was looking up railroad and steamboat folders, Mawruss. And there is other signs that winter is here, like I found yesterday in the back of my tuxedo coat a moth hole the size of a silver half dollar.

"I'm surprised a moth would eat a coat as stale as that one is," Morris Perlmutter remarked, "To my certain knowledge, Abe, that tuxedo suit of yours has come back into style three times, and when you consider that men's clothing don't show no radical changes except once in four years or so, Abe, this here tuxedo suit of yours ain't so much evening dress as fancy dress for a masquerade ball."

"You don't tell me," Abe retorted. "Well, if a business man has got for a partner such a Douglas Valentino like you are, Mawruss, he don't have to take it so particular to be an up-to-date dresser, which when you and me are schencking a couple of out-of-town buyers to a Follies of 1925-26 for ten dollars an orchestra seat, y'understand and a credit man catches us at it, understand me, then it don't do no harm that anyone one of us has got on a ten-year-old tuxedo suit. And anyway, Mawruss, the crazy fashion in which tailors are cutting wide pants nowadays makes men's clothing look like masquerade costumes when they are already brand new."

"But something has got to be done to keep the mills running, Abe," Morris said, "and you should be the last one to begrudge the woolen mill operators a couple more yards of piece goods in your pants. Ain't you making ten per cent more profit this year than you did last year, on account of the small amount of piece goods we are using for ladies' dresses?"

"Say!" exclaimed Abe. "If we would be making ten per cent more profit next year than we did this, Mawruss, we'll run ourselves out of business, because if ladies wear ten per cent less piece goods in their dresses than they are wearing at present, they wouldn't be wearing no dresses at all. Which I see by the papers that an up-to-date flopper's clothing, exclusive of her shoes and fur coat ain't going to weigh no more than three quarters of a pound net this winter. Furthermore, the way things are going, Mawruss, I wouldn't be a bit surprised if by next winter ladies' garments would be weighed by the carat and grain instead of the pound and ounce, y'understand, so that a 1926 flopper would be wearing a five carat diamond as opposed to only a three carat eight grain one piece evening dress, with a half carat of step-in underwear and a pair of quarter carat sheer silk stockings."

Jewelry for Warmth, Clothing for Display.

"In that case, Abe," Morris suggested, "a fashionable husband with approximately half a barrel of imported woolens in his pants, will advise his wife to take off her pearl necklace and put on her biggest diamond valliere instead, as it looks like snow. When I was a young feller, Abe, I used to read in the papers where at the opera on subscription nigths, practically all the society ladies in the grand tier boxes wore diamond stomachers. No doubt they wore the diamonds for display only and relied on their clothing to keep them warm, but nowadays if the clothing is for warmth and jewelry for display, Abe, then there will not only be diamond stomachers next season, but also diamonds to protect the liver, the kidneys and even the vermiform appendix."

"Maybe you're right, Mawruss," Abe said, "but the difference in women wearing diamonds for display and clothing for display is that when they wear nowadays clothing for display, the last thing they aim to display is their clothing, Mawruss, what women display nowadays in addition to clothing, y'understand, ten years ago they could have been arrested for."

"And yet, Abe, I see in the Health Hints department of this morning's paper where it says that since women have been wearing so little clothing," Morris remarked, "they ain't so anaemic like they once used to was."

"That's because they don't work their red blood so hard on account of not blushing no longer," Abe said. "Which in the old days when a fashionable lady had as much piece goods in her skirt as one of these here cake eaters now has in his pants, Mawruss, she used to blush if on a muddy day she had to hold up her dress and showed just a little more than her ankles, y'understand. But nowadays, Mawruss, the up-to-date flopper figures that she is all ankle from head to foot, and why should a lady blush if she shows only her ankle."

"Well, at any rate, Abe," Morris said, "these here baggy pants are better than the narrow pants they wore only a few years ago when for a fat man like you to sit down for a few minutes practically stopped the circulation of his blood from the waist down. With these here Oxford bags, Abe, men nowadays have anyhow got leg room."

Prohibition Officers, Attention.

"And flask room too," Abe retorted, "which you don't suppose them Oxford bags was invented to hold legs, only, do you? Why, I'll bet there is accommodation for not only two legs but six imitation English gin bottles, three full sized Vermouth bottles and a couple of fake pinch bottles with non-refillable stoppers."

"In fact, Mawruss," Abe continued, "when the prohibition enforcement bureau gets wise to th ecapacity of these here Oxford bags, they would put through an amendmentto the Volstead law so that automobiles wouldn't be the only vehicle which could be confiscated for transporting liquor. You will soon read in the papers where road houses have been raided and them patorns which was wearing Oxford bags subjected to search and seizure."

"Them officers may have a hard time finding a few bottles in as big a quantity of woolen goods as one pair of them Oxford bags is made of" Morris suggested.

"Prohibition officers won't have to search them pants," Abe said. "All they'll have to do is to listen to them, and if the suspect gurgles when he walks, he'll go to jail in a barrel and they'll sell the violator's pants at auction along with his automobile."

"Well, all I could say is that anyone who picks up a bargain in the way of a pair of Oxford bags sold at auction for a liquor law violation, Abe, is going to solve the problem of clothing his entire family for the winter," Morris said. "Even if a man who wears Oxford bags is a law abiding citizen, y'understand, and has a family to clothe, understand me, it won't be no little case of cutting down father's pants to fit Willie. Father's pants will be cut up, not down and they'll fit Willie, Johnny, Sam and Henry and there'll even be enough left over to do the necessary patching for all our boys."

"I suppose nowadays when so much piece goods goes into one pair of pants, Mawruss," Abe suggested, "retail clothiers will no longer advertise a suit of clothes with an extra pair of pants without extra cost."

"They won't have to," Morris concluded. "Any pair of pants nowadays has at lerst one extra pair in it, and in the case of Oxford bags, two and sometimes three."

WILLYS-KNIGHT PILOTS TOUR TO SUNNY CLIME

Latest word received from Frank Kroulik, in charge of the pathfinding Willys-Knight Six who with companions is chartering the route to be followed by Illinois Automobile club members to Florida in October, indicate the party's arrival in Mobile, Ala.

"National Motorcade pilot car arrived in Mobile tonight, (August 21)" reads the telegram from Kroulik. "We have covered 3,560 miles with no adjustments necessary and car is running in the same fine shape as when we received it. Several sales have resulted from demonstrations of this pilot car."

C. will travel in the largest and most pretentious automobile convoy ever attempted. Club members will leave Chicago early in October, going south through Illinois, Tennessee and to Florida. On their return they will drive to New Orleans and then north, picking up their original trail at Memphis. The same Willys-Knight Six which Kroulik used in charting the tour will make the entire trip as pilot car, during which moving pictures will be made with stops at historic points of interest.

Arthur City, One-Time Famous As A Red River Port Town, Revived By Hugo-Paris Motor Bus Lines

Trip Which Once Required Hard Day's Travel in a Buggy With Fast Horses, Now Is Made In Only 45 Minutes

ARTHUR CITY, Texas, Oct. 17. Since the motor bus lines have been operating nearly every half hour between Hugo, Okla., ten miles north of here, and Paris, Tex., fifteen miles south, Arthur City, once a port for river steamers that plied Red river, is coming back into its own. Back in the days when Oklahoma was still Indian territory, Arthur City was an important trading post for Indians who lied in the Red river bottoms across Red river. In those days the 25 mile trip from Paris to Hugo was a good day's travel in a buggy with two fast trotting horses. Now the motor buses make the trip in 45 minutes.

The business section of Arthur City in the days before Oklahoma statehood was not extensive, but thriving. Before good roads were built, the last general merchandise store was closed, but now that the highways are excellent, and Arthur City is one of the important gateways to Texas, it has become a lry land port for motorists. It is the first stop in Texas from the north and the last stop in the Lone Star state into Oklahoma.

AJAX WILL BE INTRODUCED TO WICHITA SOON

Interesting Announcement Is Made by Racine, Wis., Company

Announcement was made today by officials of the Ajax Motor company of Racine, Wis., Nash Motors subsidiary, that the new Ajax will be formally introduced to the Wichita Falls public in the near future. "Seldom in the history of the industry has the arrival of a new motor car been awaited with the eagerness that characterizes local interest in the coming of the Ajax. And if the record-breaking enthusiasm manifested in the cities near the home factory where it is now on exhibition is any criterion then the Ajax unveiling here will draw the greatest crowds that ever flocked to see a new car," states the Nash King Motor company, Wichita Falls Ajax dealer.

"Opinion throughout the industry and among those who have had opportunity to view the car in those towns adjacent to the factory where it is on display, unhesitatingly pronounce the new Ajax the crowning achievement of C. W. Nash. It is said to be a car of such highly developed character in respect to both body and design and engineering features that it will take rank at once as a contribution to motor car progress of distinct and vital importance.

"In order to give the Ajax every advantage of the finest production facilities the entire Ajax plant was completely remodeled to conform with the latest accepted ideas for fine motor car manufacture and all the equipment, tools and mechanical devices were bought new and they are of the most modern character available. Everything considered, probably no car has ever made its bow to buyers under more auspicious circumstances nor with brighter outlook for achieving a tremendous popular success."

FLORIDA TRIP ILLINOIS CLUB LAVISH PLAN

Automobile Club and Families Leave Chicago For The South

Members of the Illinois Automobile club and their families will revive memories of frontier days when they leave Chicago in October bound for Florida in one of the most pretentious tours ever planned by organized motorists.

This unusual expedition into the sunny southland was arranged by officials of the Illinois Automobile club to provide a change of scenery and an ideal outing for its members on their annual tour. More than 100 Chicagoans will partake of this modern expedition, led by a Willys-Knight Six pilot car which previously surveyed every foot of the way on the round trip before the Motorcade leaves Chicago.

This modern calvacade is scheduled to leave the Illinois metropolis in October, and will include on its itinerary the following Illinois cities: Danville, Marshall, Mt. Carmel, Mt. Vernon and Hayti. Osceola and Marion, Ark., will be visited as well as Memphis, Tenn., where the huge party will make an overnight stop. The tour will cross Alabama and through the lower southwest corner of Georgia and through Florida to Gainesville, with the Florida terminal as Cedar Keys.

Returning, the Motorcade will leave Gainesville, following improved roads to New Orleans from whence they will start north through Louisiana to Memphis where they will strike their original trail back to Chicago. The roads for this unusual trip are reported to be in excellent shape for the Motorcade.

Supposing that instead of an expensive piece of machinery called an automobile, you owned a piano—or an extra fine watch—and suppose that piano or watch represented a lot of money— say about the price of your car.

You'd never in the world try to play that piano with three strings broken—you never would take pride in showing your watch if one hand were missing—you'd have your piano or your watch fixed right now.

Apply that same principle to your automobile. It represents a considerable investment to you. Do you have it gone over by a real mechanic? Do you heed the warning of a slight knock? Do you read "Trouble" on your gasoline gauge when you fail to get the mileage you should?

In short—we want you to realize the danger of neglect—we want you to see the advantage of getting better acquainted with YOUR garage or repair man.

This is the best time of the year to have your car gone over. The repair shops are not rushed—mechanics have ample time to give you the best they've got—in fact, this is the real season of the year to have your car thoroughly overhauled—have it receive the attention you know it needs—at the hands of responsible men who stand firmly behind the work they do.

Make it a point to drive by and see your garage or rapair man—you'll be repaid a thousand-fold by the improved performance of your car, and you'll save by it, too. What may be a harmless knock today will be a serious trouble tomorrow.

Have your car put in shape by responsible men whose sole desire is to render a sincere, helpful service to you!

STATION WOK GETS RETURNS ON LATE TEST

Replies Come in From All Over U. S. And Canada

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Returns from every state in the United States and from every province in Canada where received in the "engineering test" conducted by radio station WOK, Chicago last week. The test was held for the purpose of determining as nearly as possible the power of the station's low wave length of 217.3 meters, while broadcasting on its authorized power of 5,000 watts. Radio fans were asked to co-operate in the test, and in order to stimulate interest, a prize was offered to the fans of each state and each Canadian province.

The farthest south from which a report came is Balboa in the Panama Canal zone. Writing from the city J. Jorgensen, P. O. Box 884, Balboa, declared that he and his family greatly enjoyed WOK's programs, which, he said, are "coming in fine." The farthest northwest from which a letter was received was from James H. H. Lacey, at Fort Fraser, North British Columbia, not far from the southern boundary of Alaska. A wireless from a private yacht in the Pacific ocean, 1,000 miles off San Francisco, also contained valuable data. In additions to letters and telegrams from all parts of the United States, hundreds of communications came from various points throughout Canada.

When the "high" and "low" pressure map, which is to be plotted from the information received from the fans who co-operated in the test, is completed, it will show exactly how radio station WOK is coming in all parts of the North American continent.

Parade Gets Its Marching Music Over the Radio

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—This parade had no band, yet marched along to band music.

The 1925 National Radio exposition at Chicago, introduced itself to the city by an open air parade starting from the Drake hotel and marching to the Furniture Mart on the Lake front, without the customary band. The band music was furnished by KYW, from its Hearst Square studio, at the request of Milo E. Westbrooke, manager of the exposition, who had previously conducted a number of tests to determine upon the station best able to make this broadcast. The parade carried with it a number of powerful radio receivers, all tuned in on Westinghouse station KYW.

The band played from 12:10 p. m. up to approximately 12:40 p. m. the time required for the procession to reach its home grounds.

This is the first time in radio history that an open air parade marched to the cadance of radio music, and gives KYW another credit for pioneering a new feature for the radio.

AUTOISTS ON TOUR

Wiley and Sheehan, Popular Chicago Entertainers, Visit the West

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Russ Wiley and Billy Sheehan, two of Chicago's most popular radio artists and formerly well known in vaudeville, who have been on the air from radio station WOK, Chicago, left this week for a six months' radio tour of western states. They have engagements to sing at numerous radio stations throughout the west, beginning at station WCCO, Minenapolis. They will interrupt their tour to return to Chicago for a brief visit in November to broadcast from WOK during the radio exposition at the Coleseum. While the Ohama radio show was being held Wiley and Sheehan were a leading feature of the radio show programs and their work was very favorably commented upon. For six years they were popular attractions on Keith's vaudeville circuit.

TRINITY SERVICE TODAY

Boston Church Program Goes Out on Ether This Morning.

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—The first of the Trinity church services will be sent out on the wave of Westinghouse station WBZ Sunday morning, October 18. Previous to this broadcast the weekly church services have been transmitted from Springfield, but arrangements are now under way to broadcast the Sunday morning church services from the Trinity church every fourth Sunday during the fall and winter seasons.

Broadcasting stations have recently been faced with the possibility of having to pay an annual fee to the society of composers, authors and publishers for the rights to broadcast certain copyright music. This lead to the statement which is quoted in the new Radio Broadcast magazine for November, that the income derived from selling time over the air did not even cover a station's expenses. "Very few broadcasting stations are operating with any direct profit," says Powell Crosley, Jr., who has often been described as the Henry Ford of the radio industry. "No broadcasting station in the country is making money today. Some handle direct advertising with some source of revenue; so far, I believe, no stations have been able

Life of Musicians Being Broadcast

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17.—"Half hours with famous composers," a weekly program taking up the life story of noted musicians and giving some of the best loved music, is being given out over Westinghouse station KDKA on Thursday evenings.

Richard Kountz, a Pittsburgh composer, is telling the radio audience about the life of the different composers taken up in this series, while the KDKA Little Symphony orchestra and vocal soloists are presenting the music.

Mr. Kountz started the series by presenting the life of one of the American composers whose songs have reached the hearts of Americans of all ages and conditions, Stephen C. Foster. Mr. Kountz's story of Foster was made doubly interesting by the fact Foster was a native of the city from which the program was being broadcast, Pittsburgh.

The life of Schubert will be taken up by Mr. Kountz in one of the early programs, which are being given at 8:30 o'clock on Thursday evenings.

Saint Gaudens Son of Sculptor, To Talk on Radio

NEVER CAN BE TOO MUCH, HE SAYS OF RADIO

Business Writer Says U. S. Can Use 6,000,000 Sets

Earl C. Reeves, writing on the "Growing pains of an Infant Industry," in the current issue of Nation's Business, estimates that the country last year did a radio business worth $350,000,000 and said it was the consensus of opinion that the saturation point would never be reached.

"Experts estimate there are now more than 4,000,000 sets in operation in the country—four million homes," he writes, "But there are nearly 12,000,000 phonographs in the country, more than 15,000,000 automobiles, 14,000000 telephones and around 25,000,000 homes. These figures answer questions regarding saturation. It is reasonable to expect that 6,000,000 more sets will be sold without much effort.

"Will 'saturation' ever arrive? In a sense, no. That is the consensus just now; for the infant has had a look over commercial history to see what happened to other youngsters. In every case, it is discovered, the newcomer found himself cluttered up with Wallingfords, patent infringers and enthusiastic incompetents until old man 'Economic Pressure' plucked them off one by one: and an organized business emerged, which, in the case of bicycles, sewing machines, pianos, etc., turns over more goods each year now than in the heyday of newness."

Improving Cone Type Speaker

The veriest of fans may successfully "re-vamp" the now popular cone type loud speaker so that the quality of the reproduction may be noticeably improved. According to an illustrated article in the new radio broadcast magazine for November, it is only necessary to remove a few screws to make the necessary alterations.

"Cone type loud speakers, particularly the Western Electric loud speaking telephone No. 540AW, when used with a receiver not designed especially for use with them, may be greatly improved by a few simple adjustments. If these are made with care, a greatly improved signal will result, and the speaker itself will not be harmed. It is no especial secret that many Western Electric engineers make these adjustments on speakers used on their own radio sets. This is the first time that information for doing the trick has been made public. The operation, in the parlance of the engineers, is called loading.

"The first operation is to loosen the small thumb screw at the apex of the cone. It is well to wind a rubber band around it, after loosening, to prevent its becoming lost.

"The second operation is the removal of the five screws nearest the center, at the rear of the speaker. Removing these screws permits the metal ring, the composition ring and the metal screw which they hold in place to be removed and leaves the mechanism open to view. The third operation is the removal of the three screws which hold the mechanism in place on the main frame.

"The next step in the procedure is to remove the small screw which holds the driving armature to the support at the open end of the horseshoe magnet, and to place a small piece of friction tape between the two metal parts the screw holds together. Of course, a small hole must be cut in the tape to permit the screw to pass through. Then the piston of the driving mechanism is wound with rubber tape which is tightly stretched. In applying the tape to the piston, great care must be used to avoid bending the rod.

"After the driving pin has been wound with rubber tape, it (the tape) should be vulcanized by burning a match under it. After this treatment it is not apt to loosen in operation. With this step, the alterations to the cone are complete and reassembly is begun. First, place the driving mechanism back in place and hold it there temporarily by bringing up the three supporting screws with their lock washers. This mechanism must be centered, this being accomplished by shifting it one way and another before the supporting screws are brought up tightly. Following this, it is but necessary to replace the parts removed and tighten the thumb screws to complete the job. The sound produced by the remodeled cone is greatly improved."

Radio Music Aids Film Producing, Director States

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Radio music as an incentive to motion picture production was the inovation recently made by the producers of Christie comedies.

According to Gordon De Witt, an assistant director with the company and now visiting in Chicago, his organization held KYW, the Westinghouse station at Chicago, on the loud speaker in their Hollywood studios, 2,300 miles away, while the final scenes of a film were "shot." The regular orchestra, he explained, used to play while the pictures are being "shot," had been dismissed for the night when orders came through to rush the film at hand to completion.

Radio was called upon and it was soon discovered that all West coast stations were off the air. Then the "KYW Parade" came in, featuring Lee Sims at the piano and Bobby Brown on the "overseas" ukelele. The actors took their places, the lights were lifted and work went on.

AUBURN EIGHTY EIGHT

An experience, the like of which you have never enjoyed, awaits your first drive in the new Auburn Eight.

Comparison will prove it is the greatest value on the market, and if after teasts and comparisons, the car does not sell itself we will not ask you to buy.

Two Promises—Both Kept

There seemed to be too much exaggeration in the claims made for different makes of cars; too much emphasis put upon prices.

I know you cannot get something for nothing when buying a car any more than when building a house. Pride, comfort, refinement and lasting value are essentials in both cases.

The appearance of the new Auburn 8 spoke eloquently for itself—by far the newest, most advanced and distinctive on the market.

Would performance; stamina; ease of driving; and all-around durability speak for themselves with equal eloquence?

My experience is typical of other Auburn 8 owners who accepted the challenge of the two promises above. It was the most comfortable car I had ever sat in, and I have owned the most expensive.

If I had not seen the instrument board I could not have told the engine was running.

Such things as pushing the clutch, and working the transmission lever, that had always been "work" before, were so simple and easy that you are not conscious of them at all.

I soon got a surprise and learned my lesson. The accelerator is so sensitive and the engine so fluently responsive, I was doing 50 miles an hour before I realized it. It seemed like 15.

I put it to every test possible; 60 miles an hour off smooth cement into gravel; suddenly braking; rough roads; steep hills; sharp turns; snail's pace in traffic; and parking.

I never dreamed a car was built that does all the things it does the way it does them. It is a revelation to one who has driven cars all his life. There is nothing equal to it in comfort, effortless performance; smoothness; ease and safety in handling.

Then I interviewed owners. Everyone verified my own experience. Each seemed to vie with the other in praise. All agreed they had never hoped to own a car so completely satisfactory in every way.

I am an Auburn 8 owner.

Auburn First Car to Make Big Bear Lake In High

The State of California is still talking about the Auburn's epochal trip to Big Bear Lake in "High Gear." For years this feat has balked every other car's attempt to negotiate the grades and turns, which Auburn conquered with ease.

You might be interested to know that a majority of all new Auburn sales now coming to us originates directly or indirectly from personal recommendations of owners.

Of course, it meant little Bruno's future. Lois knew all that. But—there was the rightness of the days ahead of them, back with the Baxter Sextette. When Lois was four years old she was being passed from one to the other of the five Baxters, like an adorable little rubber ball. When Bruno was four years old, HE was being passed from one to the other of the five Baxters, like another adorable little rubber ball.

What else was there to do—alone in the blue suite of that solemn Howard mansion on Howard Boulevard, Howard City?

CAN you imagine the calamity of it when Bruno Howard married Lois Baxter of the Baxter Sextette?

The Howards lived on the principal boulevard of Howard City, the suburb of a metropolis, in a house that had sheltered four generations of Howards, and Bruno Howard, just home from Harvard, was about ready to step into his rightful heritage of high position in the Howard Paper Mills, when the Baxter Sextette happened to be playing in Boston vaudeville the night before young Howard's graduation.

Lois Baxter had a face the shape and the texture of a lovely heart-shaped, fresh-water pearl, and one of those boneless bodies of lithesome sinuosity, and a feline grace simply indescribable.

The night that Bruno Howard arrived from Harvard with a brand-new degree and a brand-new wife, it would have required something more than even the combined Howard sense of outrage to have combatted the pearly prettiness of Lois.

Poor little Lois and her handsome young husband walking in upon the frigidity, the incredible austerity of the outraged Howards. Not that there was much of anything to do about it. The best way to hush up the scandal of such a marriage was either to accept it or annul it, and here was where young Bruno showed his Howard heritage.

"Either you accept us or you oust us. There is no middle ground. Lois and I are willing to come home and I'll go into the mills, or we're willing to go off and start by ourselves out on the ranch in Idaho that my grandfather Clarkson left me. And if you want to know the truth of it, we'd just a little bit prefer the latter."

And so there was nothing to do but take in the young Bruno Howards and give them the blue suite on the second floor front and try to make the best of Lois, who had the face like the fresh water pearl.

Curious destiny for Lois who had been literally born in a vaudeville dressing room, and reared on the circuit.

When Lois was four years old she was being passed from one to the other of the five Baxters, consisting of mother and father, two brothers and a sister, like an adorable rubber ball.

When Lois was seven, her father, lying on his back and with his feet in the air, could spin her on his toes until she was little more than a whirr and blur of blondness.

When Lois was eleven her brother Hector could fasten her by an iron hook to his teeth, and, from the top of a human ladder, composed of four Baxters, make a human pinwheel of her.

The night that Bruno Howard fell in love with her, she did three back somersaults in the air and landed in the perfect gesture of the split, in a fashion that kept the house in applause for five minutes. She was as boneless as rubber and as lithe.

And yet, even in the solemnity of the great family house in Howard City, there were compensations for the horridness of sisters-in-law. For the patronage of a mother-in-law who wore a black velvet band about her neck. For the rudeness of Howard grandchildren and for the austere aridity of long days alone in the blue suite.

The compensation was Bruno, who was so in love with her. He was such a boy, when he came home evenings, whistling her his greetings long before his racy low speedster turned into the driveway. Their gay, happy evenings up in that horrific blue suite. Sundays when they stole away from the solemnity of family, the long, low, even whizzings out along shell roads, with the blue lapping of sea almost hissing against the tires.

It was hard to be sad with Bruno for a husband. Not even the cathedral solemnity of the house and the householders could accomplish that.

The first ten months of little Lois's married life, sealed months in the gloom of the Howard homestead, were actually happy months. And if Lois missed the gay irresponsibility of her sextette of family, and if sometimes, during the long, idle days of waiting for Bruno to come home, her heart failed her a little of homesickness, or there in the seclusion of their suite she sometimes turned secret little somersaults or wound herself into a kind of ball that could be lightly passed from toe-kick to toe-kick of the Baxter family, in the main Lois managed to be happy.

And then of course there was the secret little plan of Lois and Bruno.

That house of their own on a mountainside, that had a glimpse of sea. There were already blue prints of it, of which the solemn, austere family knew nothing Blue prints of a house on a mountainside with enough rooms for the visiting quintette of Baxters, and across the top of the house, a nursery.

Lois was about to be a mother. Two months before that event, Bruno, speeding home in his low roadster, broke his steering gear in such a manner that before he could even throw the brake, his machine had crashed on to a sidewalk, through a plate glass window, and against a brick wall. At nineteen, and with her child yet unborn, Lois Baxter, alone in the blue suite of that solemn house on Howard Boulevard, was a widow.

Those next were the years of the carking, the consuming unhappiness. It was as if the solemn household, day by day, month by month, year by year, were only gathering momentum to crush her. And in that atmosphere, with the amusing persistence of childhood, Bruno Howard Jr. persisted into a brilliant kind of blonde beauty through those early years of his life. There was no suppressing him. There was no repressing him. Bruno Jr., from the first day he was able to stand and hold it erect, had the body of a marble little god. Had a body as smooth and as lithe and as boneless as any of the smooth and the lithe and the boneless Baxters.

When little Bruno Jr. was three, he could tie himself in a knot and roll about on the floor, for all the world like an animated muff.

Secretly, there in the thralldom of the blue suite, his mother, lying on her back with her feet in the air, used to spin him on her toes until he crowed, until he shouted, until he beat his baby hands.

But surrounded by family, Lois Baxter Howard went out like a light, expired like a flame in a vacuum. Became lusterless. Became one of the heavy, stodgy Howard family in the Howard mansion on Howard Boulevard in Howard City.

It was so hard to rebel. There they were around her, the Howards, like a dynasty. Like a Gibraltar. Like a Chinese wall. Like an eternity. It was hard to let little Bruno run around in his scarlet little athletic trunks when the Howard family decreed he should wear woolen knickers. It was hard to hold out against the decree that little Bruno could not slide down the great curving bannisters when Mother-in-Law Howard came out so patly, forbidding. And then one day Mother-in-Law and Sister-in-Law and Brother-in-Law Howard walked in to the blue suite without knocking, upon the spectacle of lovely Lois, there in pink silk little knickers, on the flat of her back, spinning her young son in his little athletic trunks, on the balls of her feet.

That evening, after solemn dinner-table conference, it was decided that Bruno Jr. should go away to school. A boys' academy in an eastern state, where all the Howards had had their education.

That was the evening that Lois's heart lay within her like a bird that had been fluttering and fighting and beating and then had died. Of course it was best for little Bruno. Of course it meant little Bruno's future. Lois knew all that. Knew it with her heart and her mind and the fibre of her being, and, knowing it, that night as she packed up their little belongings, she felt, transcending her knowledge, a sense of the rightness of her taking little Bruno Jr. The rightness of the days ahead of them, back with the Baxter Sextette.

When Bruno was four years old he was being passed from one to the other of the six Baxters, like an adorable little rubber ball.

When Bruno was seven, his uncle, lying on his back, and with his feet in the air, could spin him on his toes until he was little more than a whirr and blur of blondne
