Congress To Hear Truman Plans Today

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5—Congress nailed up the "open for business sign" today but the shelves were bare.

Tomorrow will be different.

President Truman has a message—about a two-pounder—ready to be lugged up Capitol Hill. He won't read it in person. That would take a couple of hours.

But Congress expects him to say in detail what he expects of it in guiding the nation on to a solid peacetime footing.

Whether they give him all he wants is something else again. Today the President merely recommended that some $3,500,000,000 be lopped off the funds of civilian war agencies.

There's more of the same on tap.

With the catch-all message coming, the first day of the first peacetime session in nearly four years produced a few speeches, a few bills, and a fast look at what congressmen will argue about:

More economy, less taxes; more meat, less controls; more jobs and pay for the jobless, less government red tape.

House members tossed into the mill a bushel of bills that showed they were in a demanding mood. They demanded:

1. A congressional investigation of Pearl Harbor—and they may get it. Speaker Rayburn said so.

Control of Atomic

2. Control of the atomic bomb. That probably will come along, too.

3. An end to OPA. But many legislators and government officials think price controls will have to stick a while.

4. An end to the draft. But it looks as if the Selective Service act will stay on the books until it expires May 15. The House Military committee approved today a bill intended to encourage enlistments and cut the need of draft calls.

5. The turning of clocks ahead an hour from wartime to standard time. The outlook—obscure.

6. United Nations headquarters in the USA.

7. Half a billion dollars to find the cause and cure for cancer and infantile paralysis.

Broader Children's Aid

8. Broader federal-state help for mothers and children.

9. Exemption of soldier bonuses from income taxes.

10. An end to the War Labor board.

The Senate closed up shop in 17 minutes. That was long enough to receive a batch of nominations from the President, swear in Sen. William F. Knowland, California Republican, and adjourn out of respect to his predecessor, the late Hiram Johnson.

Fifty-six of the 96 Senate members turned up.

Slaughter Bans May Lift Soon

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The government is making plans to remove restrictions on the slaughter of cattle in anticipation of a heavy run of meat animals to market later this month.

The plans were disclosed today by Gayle G. Armstrong, special assistant to Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, before the Patman Small Business committee of the House.

The restrictions were imposed earlier this year under a meat control program designed to obtain more equitable distribution of short meat supplies among various areas of the country and to assure essential war needs.

Could Be Bottlenecks

Agriculture department officials said the restrictions—which set slaughter quotas for meat producers—are not yet affecting the production of meat. They explained, however, that the quotas might well become bottlenecks later, when cattle marketings increase seasonally.

Further, the quotas would no longer be needed if meat supplies increased considerably as a consequence of increased livestock marketings.

Armstrong said that should the fall run of cattle to market create a surplus of meats, red ration points probably would be removed.

Surplus War Goods Go At Fixed Prices

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Commerce department announced tonight that $300,000,000 of surplus war good ranging from bulldozers to photo film will be put up for sale within a week under a new fixed sale price basis.

William S. Bradley of Dallas, director of the Commerce department office of surplus property, disclosed that the sealed bid basis for disposing of durable goods was being scrapped. Instead, fixed prices will be established in accordance with OPA ceiling for all items placed on sale by the department.

Hite Speaks For Buddies As They Recall Atrocious Jap Treatment

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—Three of the airmen who made the historic raid on Tokyo in April, 1942, told today how they were beaten, half starved and tortured by their Japanese captors.

Their stories also accounted for the fate of all except three of the 8 who made the raid with Gen. James H. Doolittle from the Carrier Hornet.

Capt. Robert L. Hite, 25, of Earth, Texas, speaking for the three related at a news conference how their Japanese guards clubbed them with three-foot bamboo poles and slapped them while they were held in Tokyo for two months.

Last Night In Tokyo

On the last night in Tokyo, Hite said, a Japanese officer pounded him with the "gunto" stick for 15 minutes.

Capt. Chase J. Neilson, 28, of Hyrum, Utah, and Sgt. Jacob B. Deshazer, 32, of Madras, Ore., corroborated Hite's account.

The three, along with five other Doolittle fliers, were sentenced to death by a Japanese court in October, 1942, but at least five of the eight were spared execution and their sentences were reduced to life imprisonment.

The three whose fate is not known include 1st Lt. Dean E. Hallmark of (808 Wayne Ave.), Dallas, Texas.

Hite, Nielsen and DeShazer said that the last time they saw Hallmark was on October 14,

CAPT. ROBERT HITE

1942, the day before they were called into court and told they had been sentenced to death for killing innocent Japanese.

Won't Guess On Others

Hite and the two with him today declined to venture any guess as to what hapuened to the others.

For the first time, it was brought out that 1st Lt. Robert J. Meder of Lakewood, Ohio, had died in a prison camp at Nanking in December, 1943, after a 70-day illness. Meder was one

Burma Prisoners Recount Tragedy

(By The Associated Press)

"Their diet order was to 'feed the fit men and let the sick men die'," said Lt. Julius B. Heinen, Jr., of the 131st (Texas National Guard) Field Artillery regiment, liberated from a Japanese prison camp in Burma.

Heinen, of 4537 Munger Ave., Dallas, a cleaner and dyer in private life, was one of the members of the unit who, together with survivors of the sunken USS Houston, told horrifying stories in Calcutta of the death of 20,000 out of 56,000 Allied prisoners through starvation, disease, and fantastic cruelties in Japanese prison camps in Burma.

Took Charge of Sick

The Texan said he took charge of the sick at one camp.

"There was no medicine. So we only needed organization and common sense," said Heinen. "We had 96 gravely serious cases of tropical ulcers and 20 less serious. We treated them with hot water packs but the Japanese refused to allow any but sick men to cut wood to keep the fires going or to keep the water pots filled.

"Their diet order was to 'feed the fit men and let the sick men die'."

Officers Believed Closing In On Bank Robbers As Hunt Centers Near Bledsoe

MORTON, Sept. 6. (Special)—Heavily-armed South Plains and New Mexico peace officers were reported early today to be tracking afoot in the rough, sand-dune pocked ranch country southwest of Bledsoe the three thugs who robbed the Morton State bank of $17,692.46 shortly after noon Wednesday.

W. L. Hancock, son of Cochran County Sheriff Mac W. Hancock, said Texas Ranger Norwell Redwine of Lubbock had reported to the sheriff's office at Morton about 11 o'clock last night that the manhunters were "about an hour and a half" behind the fugitives. It was reported that the bandits had abandoned their automobile and fled by foot.

Coverage On Small Area

Officers converged on an area two miles west of Bledsoe after word was channeled through the Morton sheriff's office and Lubbock police radio station KGZW about 10:45 o'clock that all available men were needed there immediately with "plenty of flash and spot lights and flashlight batteries." Bledsoe is 25 miles southwest of Morton.

Sheriff Hancock, discounting an earlier report that the robbers had been seen in the Roswell area, said the fugitives had been definitely traced west through Bledsoe, about three miles east of the New Mexico line.

Two of the men appeared in the bank during the noon hour while a third stood guard beside a maroon automobile left running at the curb. The pair pulled guns, lined bank officials and customers against a wall, scooped up all cash in sight and locked five bankers, at least seven customers and a young girl in the vault. One bandit was masked.

Used Foul Language

The gunmen cursed and used foul language and flashed their guns bodaciously. They talked of "the Japs and Germans that they had killed,' a bank employe said.

W. W. Williamson, vice president, reported the robbery to George E. Benson, vice president of Citizens National bank at Lubbock, at 12:37 oclock and asked that he call all Lubbock enforcement agencies.

Williamson related this story to The Morning Avalanche:

"I was returning from lunch. One door away from the bank I saw a red car, maybe a Pontiac. It had the right headlight missing. The engine was running.

Had A Hunch

"Three men were standing there near it, in rough clothes. I had a hunch, but didnt think much more about it, for I got busy just as soon as I got into the bank and found it full of customers.

"I was waiting on J. R. Roddy when two of the men came in and said, 'this is a holdup. All of you get over there and turn toward the wall.'

"Roddy must have thought it was a joke. 'Go to hell!' he said. One of the men jammed a pistol into Roddy's stomach, and Roddy got his hands up quickly.

"They locked us all into the little vault. There were four other bank officials: Myrtle Ray, and Mozelle Hill, assistant cashiers; Geneva Famuliner and Mrs. Williamson, bookkeeper.

"And they herded into the vault with us all the customers in the bank. All in all, there must have been 16 of us in there. We stayed

Navy Backs Plan For Vast Ring Of Bases

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—The Navy recommended today that the United States retain a postwar ring of naval bases spanning the Pacific, including one base that was formerly British.

It also called for six permanent major bases in the Atlantic, including one on Bermuda and another at Argentia, Newfoundland.

Stretching from the Aleutians to the Admiralties, the proposed Pacific lines of bases would lie athwart that ocean to support far-ranging fleets.

Nine Major Points

Nine major bases were included in this list which assistant Secretary H. Struve Hensel described as "limited to those we should intend to maintain and which are susceptible to defense. They were:

Kodiak and Adak in the Aleutians; Hawaii; Guam, Saipan and Tinian in the Marianas, (considered as one base); Iwo Jima in the Bonins and Volcano island groups; Okinawa, in the Ryukyus; the Philippines; and Manus in Admiralties.

The latter, the southernmost of the group, was British before the war, and affords one of the finest fleet anchorages in the Pacific.

In naming Okinawa, close to the heart of Japan, the Navy apparently went counter to the ideas of Admiral Raymond A. Spruance, Fifth fleet commander. Speaking to newsmen at Manila recently, he questioned the political wisdom of retaining that hard-won island.

Many Others Involved

In addition to the nine major Pacific bases, Hensel said at a news conference, the Navy was recommending that many others be kept, not as essential to the Navy's needs, but primarily to prevent them from being used by any other nation.

While not identifying all in that category, he named as examples Wake, Midway, Eniwetok, Kwajalein, and Truk, the latter Japan's strongest outpost before the war.

On the Atlantic side, the naval leaders said, the Navy's recommendations call for maintenance of major bases at Argentia, Newfoundland; at Bermuda; Roosevelt Roads in Puerto Rico; San Juan, Puerto Rico; Guantanamo Bay, Cuba; and Coco Solo, Canal Zone.

Slaton Man Has First '45 Bale

Winning by a five-minute lead, the Campbell Gin Co. of Slaton yesterday claimed the distinction of ginning the first bale of Lubbock county cotton for the season at 4:10 p. m.

The West Texas Gin Co. of Lubbock reported that it had ginned its first bale at 4:15 p. m.

Both reports were made to the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, which will award a $50 prize to the grower of the first bale.

Judge C. Smith, who resides a mile and a half northwest of Slaton, is expected to receive the award. He grew the 1,840 pounds of cotton that was ginned at the Campbell company in Slaton to produce a 520-pound bale. The cotton, described as of strict, middling grade, was ginned in eighteen minutes. Smith won the first bale award two years ago.

The bale ginned at the West Texas company plant in Lubbock at 4:15 p. m., weighed 490 pounds and was grown by Ernest Exum, a tenant on the J. E. Vickers farm, Route No. 3, Lubbock.

Officials of the Campbell company telephoned the Lubbock chamber, as the ginning started and then called in to report the finish of the bale at 4:10. A few minutes later the West Texas company reported.

WILSON GETS BALE, LYNN COUNTY'S FIRST

WILSON, Sept. 5. (Special) — This community this afternoon claimed the honor of having ginned the first bale of 1945 cotton in Lynn county.

The cotton was brought to the Farmers Co-op gin by Oscar Wunche of five miles northwest of Wilson.

According to D. W. Newsom, manager of the gin, Wunche got 570 pounds of lint cotton out of 1,800 pounds of seed cotton. It was grown in an irrigated field.

The cotton was graded strict middling with a staple of fifteenth-sixteenths.

The load was five days later than Wilson's first bale last year, Newsom said.

Wunsche will receive a premium of probably $60 or $70 from Wilson merchants, it was ndicated.

Robinson Memorial Hall Inspected

Group At Little Rock

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles being written in connection with the current tour of Southern and Southwestern cities by Lubbock's Civic Center committee.)

By C. W. RATLIFF
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—This 120-year-old city of 120,000 souls in the heart of Arkansas waited until 1940 to erect a municipal auditorium, but when it did build, it provided a structure of impressive architecture and untility that will serve the capital city's needs for many years to come.

The building also provides a fitting memorial to the late U. S. Senator Joseph Taylor Robinson and the auditorium is called the Robinson Memorial.

Arriving here late Sunday night from Tulsa, Lubbock's civic center committee spent nearly three hours inspecting the imposing edifice which stands less than three blocks from the Arkansas river and three blocks from the heart of the downtown area, fronting on Markham street directly across from the beautifully-designed Pulaski county courthouse and just across the street east from the Little Rock City hall on South Broadway.

Is Imposing Structure

Constructed of light brick and trimmed in Bedford Limestone, the auditorium is neoclassic in design and fronted by six large Greek Doric columns extending almost the full height of the building and supporting the memorial inscription, five stories above the street level. The general design of the building blends harmoniously with the two public buildings nearby.

On each side of broad steps leading to the front entrance is a small flag court, beautifully

Cavalry Unit To Move Into Tokyo Friday

(By The Associated Press)

YOKOHAMA, Thursday, Sept. 6—Thirty-five to 40 square miles of Tokyo's more than 200 square miles will be taken under military control of First Cavalry division troops in the initial occupation Saturday, it was learned today.

As the honored units prepared for the entry from points just outside the city, Japan's growing discussions in the Diet, radio and press on what lay back of her defeat reached a new high with an open declaration of Tokyo's newspaper Asahi that the Army and Navy were in bitter dispute during the war.

Criticism Is Severe

Openly criticizing the military services as no Japanese paper had done in more than a decade, Asahi said the Army and Navy even patronized black markets as they vied to equip their forces.

With Tokyo occupation plans still in the formulation stage, there still was no definite report whether General MacArthur would make his formal entry at the same time.

The fast pace of liberating long-held Allied prisoners of war continued, with 1,707 more freed Wednesday and 600 more due in from the Hamamatsu-Niigata areas southwest and northwest of Tokyo. The total liberated through Wednesday was 3,996. The U. S. Eighth Army has released 27 per cent of all prisoner personnel in its area in northern Honshu.

Ninth Fleet Moves In

Moving down from the Aleutians, the U. S. Ninth Fleet commanded by Vice Adm. Frank Jack Fletcher waited to take over the Ominato naval base on Mutsu bay, on the north coast of the main Japanese island on Honshu. Negotiations with the Nipponese naval commander were set for Sunday.

Meanwhile, the American Sixth Army occupation of Kyushu, southernmost Japanese home island, proceeded smoothly with the help of elements of Adm. Raymond Spruance's Fifth Fleet.

Units of the 32nd division, of Gen. Walter C. Krueger's Sixth Army, took over kamikaze suicide plane airfields at Kanoya and an airdrome on Kagoshima bay at the southern end of Kyushu.

Premier Prince Higashi-Kuni told the Japanese diet meeting at Tokyo the empire was forced to its knees by the atomic bomb, heavy military losses and exhaustion at home. He pictured a prostrate nation, with 2,200,000 homes destroyed by aerial attacks.

Must Supply Labor

But aside from rebuilding broken Japan, the Nipponese also must supply skilled and unskilled labor to the occupation forces, under MacArthur's directives, to contribute to the comfort and housing of the increasing Allied power.

Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, U. S. Eighth Army commander, estimated that the occupation of Japan's four home islands—Honshu, Hokkaido, Shikoku and Kyushu—will require between 300,000 and 400,000 troops. His own Army will occupy Honshu north of Yokohama and Hokkaido to the north. He said that all Nipponese troops would be disarmed by Oct. 10.

Meeting Of Aviation Board Set Sept. 10.

AUSTIN, Sept. 5. (AP)—The first meeting of the new State Aeronautics commission has been set tentatively for Sept. 10 in Austin, member Henry Ayres of Paris said today.

Ayres said he and member Al Buchanan of San Antonio agreed on the setting, subject to the approval of Parker F. Prouty of Lubbock, the third member.

Created at the last general session of the legislature, the commission will assist in statewide airport development. It has no regulatory authority over air transportation.

U. S. Recounts Jap Atrocities, Moves For Swift Punishment

Agencies Hurry Criminal Lists

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 — The United States moved swiftly today to punish Japanese war criminals after the State department told how the enemy burned, buried alive and beheaded American prisoners.

Two separate agencies are completing lists of alleged war criminals whom Americans and Allied forces are hunting down in Japan and throughout liberated Asia, it was learned.

The agencies are the National War Crimes council, strictly an American organization, composed of State, War and Navy department officials, and an Allied War Crimes commission in China on which Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley is U. S. representative.

New Atrocities List

In making public another list of Japanese atricities, in which criminals frequently were named, the State department said the cases would "be dealt with by the properly constituted authorities."

Secretary of State Byrnes was more blunt. The United States certainly must see to it that prosecution of Japanese war criminals is carried out just as in Europe, he said.

The atrocity report was not a pleasant story, Byrnes observed grimly. It was not published until the war was over for fear of additional Japanese reprisals against American captives, he explained.

Formal Protests

The report consisted of a series of formal State department protests on the atrocities, sent to Tokyo by way of neutral Switzerland. There were about 240 such protests filed during the war and frequently they resulted in improved conditions for American prisoners, the report said.

Examples of the atrocities:

About 750 Americans were crammed into the hold of a Japanese freighter and kept there virtually without air, water or food for nearly three weeks, until the the ship was torpedoed. Americans who managed to get off the ship were machine gunned in the water; those who did not get out were killed in the hold by Japanese grenades.

Four Civilians Arrested

Four American civilians — Carroll C. Grinnell, Alfred F. Dugleby, Ernest E. Johnson, and Clifford L. Larson — were arrested without explanation at the Santo Tomas internment camp near Manila. Their bodies were later found wired to 10 unidentified corpses in a field near Japanese military police headquarters.

The only other American victim named in the report was George J. Louis, who was shot and wounded while returning to the Los Banos camp in the Philippines after buying food.

An appeal by other internees to take Louis to the hospital for treatment of his wounds was denied. Finally, the Japanese guards carried Luis on a stretcher to a clump of bamboo outside the camp and shot him fatally through the head.

Navy Backs Down On Wearing Of Civvies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—The Navy backed down today on its recent order permitting gobs and Waves to wear civilian clothes during non-working hours.

The Navy said it directed that the civvy order be held in abeyance to prevent further drain on present limited clothing stocks, already being depleted by demobilization of the armed forces.

Four More Men From Lost Battallion Safe

PFC. GLENN SELF

Word of the release of four additional men from Japanese prison camps brought to 15 Wednesday the number of Lubbock county members of the "Lost Battalion" who have been liberated. Twenty Lubbock county members of the 131st field artillery were known to have been interned in Thailand.

Sending personal messages which were received by next of kin yesterday were: 2nd Lt. James P. Lattimore and Pfc. Glenn B. Self, of Lubbock, and Lt. Eldon W. Schmidt and T/Sgt. E. P. Schmidt, twin brothers of Slaton. Other liberated battalion members had been heard from through the War department.

STORIES ARE HORRIFYING

CALCUTTA, Sept. 6. (Delayed). (AP)—Survivors of the sunken U. S. S. Houston and members of the 131st (Texas National Guard) field artillery regiment liberated from Japanese prison camps in Burma told horrifying stories today of the death of 20,000 out of 56,000 Allied prisoners of starvation, disease and fantastic cruelties.

More than 3,500 were declared to have died on a "Death March" of nearly 140 miles in Thailand.

The survivors said the total number of prisoners included 133 Americans who were members of their groups.

Parents of the three boys reported safe today were the first to receive personal messages. Other parents and wives have been notified directly by the War department.

"Free, Well And Happy"

Lt. Lattimore, 28, informed his father, Dr. J. P. Lattimore of the Tahoka highway, that he was "free, well and happy. Your letter received. Home soon." Dr. Lattimore had four prisoner of war cards from his son since his capture over three years ago.

"I was feeling depressed last night when I went home because so many had heard and yet no word from my son," the doctor said. But the message came early this morning and "I am happy to be alive this day."

Dr. Lattimore has two other sons, S/Sgt. Owen Lattimore, who recently was discharged from service after many months in the European and Mediterranean theater with the 36th Division, and Lt. Glenn Lattimore, who is with the Air Transport Command flying from Okinawa to Japan.

Lt. Glenn Lattimore spent 16 months in India and made 81 missions over the "hump." He recently started piloting ships from Okinawa to Japan. Owen Lattimore is employed by an oil company in Wyoming.

U. S. Jobless-Aid Plan Is Stymied

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—Eight states advised the Senate Finance committee today that any federal supplement of their unemployment benefits would necessitate a corresponding reduction in the payments made to the jobless by those states.

Four other states replying to a telegraphic questionnaire from the committee said federal supplementary payments would make no difference to the operation of their state laws. Two of the first 14 states replying gave conditional answers.

Shed Different Light

Finance Chairman George (D-Ga) told reporters "these telegraph put a different light on things" concerning the pending, White House-endorsed bill to increase the varying standards of state benefits to a maximum of at least $25 a week for 26 weeks, at federal expense.

"I think it may fairly be said that these telegrams indicate that instead of bringing about greater uniformity, passage of this legislation would bring about confusion and discrimination," he said.

The question on which the committee questionnaire was based was raised by Calude A. Williams of the Texas State Unemployment Compensation commission at an open hearing on the bill. He contended that under their state laws, Texas and 39 other states would have to deduct the amount of the federal supplement from their state payments.

Texans Assured Of State Fair In 1946

DALLAS, Sept. 5. (U.P.)—Texas is going to have a 1946 state fair and it will be held in Dallas, it was announced today by the board of directors of the State Fair association.

Directors said they would authorize construction of a new exhibit building to replace the one that burned several years ago. The new building will be located on the site of the old one on the esplanade of state. While costs were not given it is known that the burned building was insured for approximately $200,000 and that sum will be available for new construction.

Single Defense Plan Is Favored

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 5 (AP) — American Army, Navy and Air force men want a single department of national defense.

This was the impression obtained by a majority of a special investigating committee which toured every war theater and interviewed all top commanders of all services.

A committee proposal for a new defense organization—in which some enthusiasts see Generals MacArthur and Eisenhower in top roles—has been shelved since February.

Airmen who initially sought an independent air force largely abandoned that proposal in favor of a single defense department.

Cited 18 Months Ago

Eighteen months ago the joint chiefs of staff, prodded by airmen and other Army progressives, appointed a special investigating committee drawn from each service.

The committee went first to the European theater in October and November of 1944, then to the Pacific in late November. It interviewed all commanders, returned to Washington and presented its report to the joint chiefs-of-staff last February.

Every senior commander in the European, Mediterranean and Pacific war areas, the committee reported, agreed there should be a single department of national defense. Only one man—not a theater commander—opposed the idea, the investigators said.

Auto Price Ceiling Formula May Be Extended To Other Industries

By SANDOR S. KLEIN
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 — The Office of Price administration is considering extending to other reconverting industries, such as electric refrigerators and sewing machines, the same general method of fixing ceilings price it applied to the automobile industry.

A responsible OPA official told the United Press today that formulas which will enable individual consumer durable goods producers to figure out the top prices they can charge are now being worked out. They will differ in some detail from the formula applied to auto-makers.

Figured From Formula

A refrigerator manufacturer would take the formula, which involves material and labor cost factors, figure out his own ceiling prices and file a price schedule with the OPA.

Because some durable goods producers did not take advantage of price rises in 1942, the formula method of computing new prices is considered to be the most equitable.

The likelihood is that 1941 prices will serve as the base for some firms but not for all. Because of wide variations in cost factors, OPA will not be able to apply a single formula to the entire durable goods industry.

Recent Developments

Overnight developments resulting from OPA actions were:

1. Shoe repair shops were authorized to charge 5 to 15 cents a pair over their regular prices for the soling of shoes with two types of soling materials now coming on the market—neolite and rubber or fiber brown composition.

2. Wholesalers and retailers will use the same method as last year in computing their ceiling prices for the 1945 pack of canned fruits and vegetables. Canners previously were authorized to do the same. This means that these canned goods will be approximately the same price as last year.

Rubber Footwear Released

3. Rationing of industrial rubber footwear—rubber boots of various kinds and rubber work shoes—was ended. Production schedules for such footwear for 1945 call for about 3,000,000 pairs, 1,250,000 more than last year.

4. The consumer durable goods regulation was amended to eliminate delay in granting necessary price increases on "hard goods" sold for industrial, commercial, professional and institutional uses. Beginning Sept. 9, a manufacturer of any item under the consumer durable goods regulations, if selling to those four categories of users, may apply for a price increase when existing ceilings are below cost of production.

The Gallup Poll: One Family Out Of Every Four Plans Building New Home

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—Nearly one out of every four families in America is planning to build a home in the post-war world.

In fact, if these present plans materialize in the next decade, the U. S. economy can count upon expenditures totaling about $40,000,000,000. A little more than half of all the families who say they plan to build say they want to build houses costing $5,000 or less. A little more than half planned to spend more than $5,000, according to their own estimates.

GALLUP

Even discounting liberally for those whose plans will never materialize, this is a tremendously encouraging note for the U. S. post-war economy.

The replies include a cross-section of families from all parts of the country, including those who now rent homes, those who already own their homes, families in all income brackets.

The question as asked by field reporters places no time limit, and replies thus cover intentions over a period of years. Here is a table giving replies of all families:

Yes, Plan to Build 23%
No, Do Not Plan to Build 77

Here is a note for building contractors on the West Coast — Whereas in other sections of the country between 20 and 25 per cent say they plan to build homes, in the region comprising the Mountain States and West Coast, more than one-third of those interviewed—35 per cent—say they plan to build homes.

Replies to a second question give a picture of how much people expect to spend (excluding the cost of the lot) when they get around to building their houses. The question:

"About how much do you think you will spend on building the house (not for the land)?"

The median average of all replies is $5,000. Here is a table giving the range of answers:

Expect To Spend

Wainwright To Be Full General

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (U.P.)—Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, recently liberated from the Japanese, was nominated by President Truman today to be a four-star general.

Wainwright's promotion was recommended to the President by Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, who cited his "gallant defense of Bataan and Corregidor against overwhelming odds" in the first dark months of the Pacific war."

Stimson's recommendation credited Wainwright with immobilizing a large Japanese army in the Philippines long enough to give the U. S. Army time to marshal the power which finally halted the Japanese advance.

The 62-year-old survivor of more than three years imprisonment under the Japanese is scheduled to arrive here Monday in the last leg of his journey home from the Pacific.

As the U. S. commander of Corregidor when it fell to the Japanese in May, 1942, Wainwright surrendered the heroic American defenders of Bataan and went with them into a Jap prison camp.

He was liberated last week in time to attend the formal Japanese surrender ceermonies Sunday aboard the USS Missouri in Tokyo bay.

Wainwright was expected by some military observers to retire soon, so his boost to four-star rank would permit him to doff his uniform as a full Army general.

Worn and thin from his long imprisonment, Wainwright will see his wife for the first time in more than three years when he gets here next week. She is traveling to Washington from her Skaneateles, N. Y. home to be here in time for the general's arrival.

Hines Nominated To Ambassador's Post

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—President Truman today sent to the Senate his formal nomination of Brig. Gen. Frank Hines, former Veterans administrator, to be ambassador to Panama.

The President also nominated Lt. Gen. Raymond Albert Wheeler to be chief of Army engineers, succeeding Lt. Gen. Eugene Reybold.

Other nominations included:

The appointment of Rear Admiral Louis E. Denfield to be chief of the bureau of naval personnel.

Leo T. Crowley of Wisconsin and Phillips Lee Goldsborough of Maryland reappointed as members of the board of directors of the Federal Deposits Insurance corporation.

NEW SOLON SWORN IN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP) — William F. Knowland, Republican, today was sworn in as United States senator from California, succeeding the late Hiram Johnson, also a Republican. Knowland was escorted to the dais by Senator Downey (D-Calif).

Mail May Be Sent To Freed Prisoners

The Lubbock chapter, American Red Cross, has received a directive from Midwestern headquarters in St. Louis that mail may be sent to liberated prisoners of the Japanese if the following instructions are followed:

First line, name of addressee; second line, rank and serial number; third line, liberated Personnel Section; fourth line, APO 501 c/o Postmaster; fifth line, San Francisco, Calif.

Mail will be dispatched from the United States to Manila by air, according to a War department dispatch, and delivery will be made either in Manila or at other points the prisoners may pass en route back to the United States. This system can be used for writing the liberated prisoners until they are return to the West Coast.

NOW...a *preferred quality tire built especially for war-weary cars

Every car in America today is a used car—a war-weary car, and some of its wheel parts are wearing out faster than others—causing spotty and uneven tread wear which shortens tire life by thousands of miles.

Your replacement tire must be a much more rugged tire than one built for new car "standard equipment". It will have to be better to give satisfactory service on a war-weary car. That's why Dayton has developed the *preferred quality tire—the Thorobred.

Into the Dayton Thorobred has gone the technical skill of over a quarter of a century of practical experience in mastering the use of synthetic rubber.

So, when you part with your precious new tire certificate, insist on the *preferred quality Dayton Thorobred built especially for war-weary cars by experts in synthetic rubber.

*Preferred
The preferred tire is the tire you personally select to replace the mass-production-built tire that originally came on your car.
The Dayton Thorobred is a preferred tire built to special high-quality standards to withstand the greater punishment given tires by war-weary cars.

U. S. First Cavalry Division Has Remarkable Record Of "Firsts"

(By The Associated Press)

First into the Armiralties, where the axis of advance turned westward toward the Philippines.

First into Manila, symbolizing Japanese defeat in the Philippines and loss of the war.

First into Tokyo, to seal the victory over Nippon.

That is the fighting record of the hard hitting, dismounted U. S. First Cavalry division, Lt. General Jonathan Wainwright's own. It is all written in military history except the final chapter, the entry into Tokyo, which is scheduled for Friday.

The dismounted horsemen invaded Los Negros island, in the admiralty, on Feb. 29, 1944 on the road to Tokyo. Watching from the deck of a warship, General MacArthur said it marked "a final stage in the great swing move pivoting on New Guinea" and changed the axis of advance westward toward the Philippines.

Then and there the troopers vowed they would be the first into Manila to avenge the surrender of teh Philippines by their former senior officer, Wainwright of Corregidor renown.

They battled in the mud and rain of Leyte, first Philippine island liberated, a year ago in October.

Still dismounted, they fought with the U. S. Sixth army on Luzon, reinvaded last January 8. They struck down the east side of the great Luzon plain, heading for Manila.

Staging a race for the Philippine capital with the U. S. 37th Infantry division, the troopers got there first. Under cover of darkness on February 5 forward elements penetrated into the heart of the city and seized the concentration hell hole of Santo Tomas with its several thousand American and other internees.

Friday the First cavalry will climax its Pacific war record, scoring another first when it enters Tokyo as a part of Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger's Eighth army of the U. S. forces of occupation.

FIRST CAVALRY WELL KNOWN OVER AREA

EL PASO ,Sept. 5. (AP)—West Texans well remember the first U. S. Cavalry division, which will occupy Tokyo Saturday.

Headquarters for the First cavalry were located here from 1921 until 1941, with five regiments scattered over West Texas and Arizona during that period.

On the outbreak of war in 1941, the units were assembled at El Paso for merchandized training, ending a 'boot and saddle" era.

After brief training, they were sent to Australia, and early in 1943 saw their first action on Los Negros in the Admirality islands. Under the command of Maj. Gen. Innis Swift, the Firt (dismounted) cavalry then joined Gen. MacArthur's forces for the sweep up the New Guinea coast.

Leyte in the Philippines was the scene of the First cavalry's next campaign. Here Maj. Gen William C. Chase relieved General Swift as First Cavalry commander.

MacArthur picked the First Cavalry fo rthe invasion of Luzon, and units of the El Paso-trained cavalry liberated internees and war prisoners at Santa Tomas in Manila.

The First has been on Luzon until the fighting ended Sunday.

Preacher's Widow To Pass Out Live Snakes At Funeral

CHATTANOOGA, Sept. 5 (U.P.)—Mrs Rossie Ford planned today to pass live snakes around at the funeral of her husband, lay preacher of a religious sect who died Monday of a rattlesnake bite.

The death of Lewis E. Ford, 32, was the second blamed on rattlesnakes used for sect ceremonies over the Labor day weekend.

A doctor in Wise, Va., said Mrs. Anna Kirk, wife of rattler-handling preacher, died Monday of bites she received Saturday in a demonstration. Her death came a few minutes after she gave birth to a child. The child also died.

Police said Mrs. Kirk was bitsd three times on the wrist. She refused medical aid, and sang "Jesus is My Faith" as she died.

Ford died an hour after he was bitten Monday night by a four-foot rattler at Dolly Pond Church of God. His left arm was still swollen from a copperhead bite two weeks ago.

Ford, father of three children, joined the snake faith cult a month ago. Before the services Monday he told friends that if he were bitsn and killed "it will be because the Lord wants to show unbelievers the snakes are poisonous."

Pearl Harbor Probe Is Believed Certain

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—Speaker Rayburn indicated today that a congressional investigation of the Pearl Harbor disaster is virtually a certainty.

The members are demanding it, Rayburn implied.

He told reporters that the subject came up during a White House conference with President Truman.

Rayburn said he doesn't see any need for further inquiry into why the Japanese were so successful on Dec. 7, 1941.

"I wish we could forget Pearl Harbor," Rayburn said, "but we can't."

Fourteen legislators will put the accent on that tomorrow. Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) will introduce a resolution for himself and six other senators and seven members of the House to investigate jointly the circumstances of the American preparedness, or lack of it.

President Truman made known his attitude in commenting on the Army and Navy inquiries which were made public last week. He said that in the final analysis it was the people who were responsible for any lack of readiness.

Bronx And Brooklyn Farmers Operating Isle Chicken Ranch

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

KWAJALEIN, Marshall Islands —Some Bronx and Brooklyn farmers are operating the largest chicken ranch on Kwajalein atoll.

It is also the only chicken ranch on Kwajalein, dreary chunk of rock and sand between Hawaii and Guam which Uncle Sam converted into an airplane refueling and repair station after the Marines met and buried the former Japanese garrison.

So far the chicken ranch hasn't produced a single egg or drumstick dinner. But the boys here are willing to wait in patience and take their miracles one at a time.

To be painfully exact, Kwajalein's chicken ranch, renowned throughout the Marshall islands, consists of one coop with nine drowsy-eyed inhabitants which still haven't made up their minds whether to grow up or just lie down and give up the struggle.

About half of the soldiers on Kwajalein are spending their spare time trying to convince the ennui-ridden chickens that life is worth living—even on this furnace-like Pacific atoll.

No one knows in what vale faraway the nine chickens emerged from the egg to flap their tender wings. They landed in Kwajalein as part of the baggage of an Army general flying to another island, where he hoped to raise poultry to supplement the regular service diet. At Kwajalein he found that 16 of his cargo of baby chicks were droopy and apparently dying. He tossed them out.

Whether to prove that the general was wrong, or because they needed something to occupy their energies and affections, the soldiers decided to try to save the chicks.

When they begin laying Pfc. McNulty, the Bronx, says he is ready to lend them some highly specialized assistance.

"I am going to sit on the eggs for them," he said modestly.

Railroad Passenger Freeze Lifts Soon

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The "freeze" of railroad passenger train schedules, in effect since the fall of 1942, will be ended September 16.

Restrictions on the operation of special passenger trains, special cars and extra sections will end at the same time.

This action, announced today by the Office of Defence Transportation, will leave only two important restrictions on train travel in effect. One limits reservations to five days, the other prohibits sleeping car service between points 450 miles or less apart.

Japs Lose 51,109 Planes During War

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5 (AP) —Japan lost 51,109 airplanes during the war and has 15,886 left, a government spokesman told the imperial Diet today.

Another reported that 684 naval vessels had been sunk or damaged out of a total of 1,217 of all categories. Since the largest Japanese warship still in operational condition at the time of the surrender was a cruiser, the 1,217 total apparently included many insignificant craft.

The report was broadcast by the Domei news agency and recorded by the FCC.

CAUSE FOR ALARM

ONE of the "must" proposals facing Congress soon will be that concerning unemployment compensation. Senate and House committees are working on proposals to pay as much as $25 weekly for 26 weeks (that's half a year, isn't it?) to workers unable to find jobs. As we read that we couldn't help but wonder what many of the workers, especially those in industry's 40-hour week with high salaries, plus overtime and time-and-half have done with the money they made during the war years.

Did they bank it, buy bonds, save it for school needs or some definite purpose, or did they spend it lavishly on high living?

Thousands of youngsters in the defense factory areas, who stepped into adult jobs to help meet the manhood shortages and made money hand over fist, spend their earnings as fast as they earned them—sometimes before.

After viewing the wasteful expenditures of our government in many cases we think the time has come for a few lessons in thrift. Those former war workers and others who find themselves among the unemployed might have done well to save against the day they would be seeking employment. Or did they?

INCLUDED in the questions that have gone into the junk pile is that embarrassing one, asked around here by thoughtless persons and we suppose repeated in many a hamlet and city: "Why isn't that lug in the Army?"

UNUSUAL FRAMES

ONE of the most encouraging revolutions in eyeglasses has been the change of styles for girls and women who wanted to look nonchalant but found it difficult under the circumstances; the circumstances being that rimless or plain gold-rimmer glasses were practical but hardly alluring.

One of the cutest girls we know wears glasses with whopping brown shell frames which are so conspicuous that they stop being obvious. A young Lubbock matron, whose husband is an officer of LAAF, looks like a pixie in shell-framed glasses that zip up at the temples.

One Lubbock girl has specs in various colors to harmonize with different costumes.

DIFFERENT IDEAS

THE other day we were sitting in a comfortable chair watching lucky women parade in their new fall finery. Each one gazed at her reflection, conscious only of the dress, suit or coat she was wearing.

Our contemplation of the picture was interrupted by the woman in the next chair who asked if we had watched men as they parade in new suits. We admitted that was lacking in our education and she suggested we catch upon that.

They don't look at the suit first," she said. "They walk over to the mirror, look at their faces and hair, examine their faces minutely and then finally get around to looking at the suit."

BANNER LINES

ONE of the questions many newsmen were confronted with as soon as the Jap surrender was, "What are you going to headline now that the war is over? What on earth did reporters write about before the war?"

Well, the answer came in Wednesday's Lubbock Evening Journal when the bank robbery at Morton got a two-line banner. Of course we are not advocating stories that startling and law breaking are necessary to take the place of the war news, but that gives you an idea. There'll always be something to headline.

Building Plan Given By Highway Official

BONHAM, Tex., Sept. 5. (U.P.)—Construction of some 50,000 miles of trunk and feeder roads was the long range program outlined before Fannin county citizens here by John S. Redditt, chairman of the State Highway cimmission.

He said between 100 and 150 miles of feeder lines in this county would put every farm within a mile or less of an all-weather road. The proposed network would sreve 95 per cent of the state's population and handle 85 per cent of the traffic.

Redditt said he would like to see the postwar economy based on the soil with th ehighways playing an important part by giving the farmers "an opportunity to get their produce to the market."

Hitler Was A Piker On Gifts For Girl Friend, Nazi Says

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Sept. 5. (AP) — Arthur Kanneberg, chief buyer of Hitler's personal necessities from 1932 to 1945, said today the fuehrer liked to play Santa Claus to his bodyguard and household servants, but was a piker in his gifts to his girl-friend, Eva Braun.

"I did all of Hitler's buying—his many thousands of Christmas parcels as well as the household needs," Kanneberg said, "and I know he never gave his sweetheart, Eva Braun, more than a simple jewel."

Prison Farm System Shows Operating Loss

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Sept. 5. (AP)—Largely because of weather conditions adverse to growing crops on Texas prison system farms, it cost Texas taxpayers $732,083.37 more to operate the prison during 1944, than during the preceding year.

The annual report of the Texas prison board to Governor Coke R. Stevenson, just released, shows an operating loss for the system during the year of $1,500,675.00, compared with a loss of $768,591.63 during 1943.

Average daily population of the prison declined from 4,292 prisoners in 1943 to 3,461 in 1944, which resulted in a curtailment of construction, as well ash farming operations.

General Manager D. W. Stakes reported that during the year 1944, only 103 prisoners escaped, compared with 151 in 1943. Approximately 72 per cent of the inmaes released from ahe prison during 1944 went out by the "clemency route."

Four prison farms, Eastham, Ferguson, Blue Ridge and Darrington, were turned into livestock farms during the year, and total value of prison livestock increased to $667,000.

Texas Navy Officer Has Eighth 'D-Day'

YOKOSUKA NAVAL BASE, Tokyo area, Sept. 5. (AP) — Navy Lieutenant Clarence Y. Mills, 28, of Smithville, Tex., has participated in eight D-days on as many beachheads — the first at Casablaca, the last in Tokyo bay.

The lieutenant, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mills, of Smithville, is chief of staff for a transport division which carried the Sixth Marine division's Fourth regiment to the Japanese homeland.

Aboard other transports he helped land troops at Casablaca, Bougainville, Guam, Peleliu, Leyte, Lingayen Gulf and Okinawa.

"Putting Marines ashore in Tokyo bay was the realization of a dream all of us have had for years," he said.

Mills is a graduate of the University of Texas, and was commissioned in April, 1942.

WORLD SERVICE AIRED

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP)—A proposal to establish a world information service to operate under auspices of the international security organization was discussed today by a United Nations preparatory commission subcommittee.

Vets' Movement To Pacific Cancelled

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—The War department today cancelled orders for the movement of three veteran Army divisions to the Pacific, including the 95th Infantry whose members protested against duty in Japan.

The other two divisions are the 2nd and 8th Infantry divisions which like the 95th were brought back from Europe and earmarked for Pacific service.

The War department's action was based on a recommendation from Gen. Douglas MacArthur to send to the Pacific only three of the six divisions scheduled.

He specified that the three should be the 86th and 97th already at sea, and the 13th airborne division whose members are now on furlough.

Soldiers in both the 86th and 95th divisions had protested they were being "shanghaied" into Pacific service after combat duty in Europe. Some of the protests reached Congress and the White House.

Inductees School Is Set Up in Arkansas

FORT SMITH, Ark., Sept. 5. (AP) —Illiterate inductees throughout the Eighth Service command henceforth will be sent to special training units at Camp Chaffee, Col. Benjamin O. Murphy, commanding officer at the camp personnel center, announce dtoday.

Col. Murphy said similar special training units at Fort Sam Houston and Fort Bliss, Tex., will be closed as soon as present trainees are graduated.

Superfort Sets New Record On Long Hop

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP) — A B-29 Superfortress set a new record in a 5,490-mile flight from Iwo Jima to Spokane, Wash., in 23 hours, 33 minutes, the War department reported today.

The B-29, which carried photographs of the first occupation landings in Japan and letters from liberated prisoners of war, broke the non-stop record for distance and also for over-water flight on the trip, the department said.

The B-29 operated by two crews alternating at the controls, flew on from Spokane to Washington, D. C., a distance of 2,086 miles, in seven hours and arrived at 3 a. m. on Sunday. The total flying time for the trip from Iwo to Washington was 30 hours, 33 minutes.

The B-29, a veteran of 27 combat missions, was not stripped of any excess weight.

Take Off Ugly Fat With This Home Recipe

Steps Leading Up To Defeat Of Japan Are Outlined By Premier

By RUSSELL BRINES
Associated Press Staff Writer

TOKYO, Sept 5, (AP)—Japan surrendered because the atomic bomb raids on Hiroshima and Nagasaki climaxed mounting military losses and immense exhaustion of the home front, Premier Prince Higashi-Kuni told the Diet today.

In his report on the causes of defeat, the premier declared 10,000,000 Japanese were "war sufferers,' that "hundreds of thousands" had been killed or wounded, and 2,200,000 homes were burned.

Feared Obliteration

He added that the atomic bomb, hurled upon a nation whose war power already was "disastrously undermined," was believed "likely to result in obliteration of the Japanese people.'

The Russian declaration of war, the premier said, also forced Japan "into the worst international situation" and "the surrender instrument" was signed only after 'it seemed almost impossible to carry on."

"Nevertheless, vanquished as we are, the will power—spiritual energy—of a hundred million Japanese who willingly had borne every kind of want and tribulation attests eloquently to the intrinsic vitality of our race," he said.

Bitter Cup of Defeat

"We are now tasting the bitter cup of defeat. But in case we show our fidelity and faithfulness in fulfilling what we pledged, and behave ourselves according to reason by performing what we believe to be right, and rectifying what is wrong with a humbleness and broadness of mind, it is my firm belief that the integrity of our nation will appeal to the world, leading to the restoration of friendly relations between our country and the other powers, and making it possible to bring about permanent peace and common prosperity for all mankind.'

Allied air power had formed a blockade so tight that even communications with the China continent were extremely hazardous, he said.

General Factors Cited

"There is little use of going back to the past, trying to put the blame on one person or another," he remarked, pointing instead to general factors which had brought signs of "impoverishment and exhaustion" to once-mighty Japan.

"Especially after the loss of the Mariana islands the advance of the Allied forces become progressively rapid," the premier said, "while air raids on Japan proper were intensified, causing disastrous damage that mounted as the days went by

"Production of military supplies, which had been seriously affected by curtailment of our Marine transportation facilities, was dealt a severe blow . . and almost insuperable difficulties began to multiply."

Shortage of Salt

Finally he reported, "the country's production dwindled to such a point that any swift restoration came to be considered beyond hope." Among other problems, he said, was the shortage of salt, customarily imported, which left Japan without sodium for explosives.

"By May of this year, our carrying capacity by steamships had dwindled to about one-fourth of what we had at the beginning of the war, owing to exer-increasing loss of ships and diversion to the South Seas area.

'Moreover, scarcity of liquid fuel and interference by the enemy caused marked curtailment in the efficiency of shipping operations. Especially with the loss of the Okinawa islands, the consequent increase in the striking power of the enemy's air forces, even communications with the China continent were rendered extremely hazardous."

War Resources Undermined

The nation's war resources by May and June, this year, had been "disastrously undermined," he concluded, and "our losses in both naval and aerial strength were so enormous as to obstruct seriously the prosecution of the war."

On the other hand, he pointed out, Allied power "was ever on the increase," and all the while, air raids on Japan "gradually destroyed" medium and small cities, let alone great cities."

Dumped upon a nation whose war-making power already had been "disastrously undermined," the atomic bomb—the last straw was deemed "likely to result in obliteration of the Japanese people," Higashi-Kuni added.

"Moreover, the Soviet Union suddenly declared war . . . forcing us into the worst international situation . . . Japan had to stand at the crossroads, (uncertain) whether to hope against hope in the desperate struggle . . . or to stop fighting."

It was Emperor Hirohito who decided, he said, "to save millions of his subjects."

The prince pictured the emperor as reluctant to begin the war in the first place, and "deeply distressed with the thought that should a world's major power like Japan cross swords with America and Britain it would bring on incalculable destruction."

The premier urged strict obedience to the imperial surrender command, "admitting frankly the fact of our defeat of today, and fulfilling manfully and faithfully the term of the Potsdam declaration to prove to all the world the true worth of our pledged word."

There will be no going back quickly "to the easy life of prewar days," he warned; "laying the foundation for a new and peaceful Japan," will be grindingly hard.

German Factory Is Making Window Glass

HEREFORD, Germany, Sept. 5. (AP)—The Witten works in the Ruhr, one of the largest window glass manufacturers in Germany, has turned out enough glass in the last few months to furnish panes for 30,000 bomb-shattered homes in the British zone of occupation.

Last week the plant sent through glass to Berlin to put windows in 8,000 houses.

Phony Ambulance Calls Investigated

Police investigation into several anonymous telephone calls that recently sent ambulances to fictitious addresses, or to places where the ambulances were not needed is "making progress," officials reported Wednesday.

Capt. Lewis Kittrell, spreading on his desk a letter from one ambulance company protesting two such calls, received a representative of another company who also had two complaints to make.

He told newsmen that complaints were similar; Charging a young girl as the culprit.

On the basis of information furnished by the letter and the caller, the head of the police traffic department said he believed that "another instance of these false tips can be run down so as to establish identity of the caller. We've already determined the approximate place where she lives."

It was emphasized by police and ambulance companies that ambulances, despite all precautions, present a certain amount of hazard when they make emergency runs. One ambulance driver, siren howling, has difficulty in hearing the siren of another ambulance that may be converging on the same address.

In at least two instances reported recently, more than one ambulance company got fake calls and sent drivers to answer. Three ambulances appeared at 2300-block Washington Ave., two last Saturday at 3100-block Twenty-second.

Capt. Kittrell said he would "pool information supplied by the ambulance companies here" and promised that police would make an "intensive check into the possibilities."

GUARD SCHOOL OPENS HERE TODAY — Demonstrations of riot control will be staged during the 39th Battalion Texas State Guard training school which begin tonight and runs through Sunday. Pictured is one of the techniques used to control crowds. Lectures will be held tonight and Friday at 8 p. m. in the American Legion hall. The guard will move into its bivouac area on the Panhandle-South Plains fair ground Saturday afternoon for demonstrations and more training. The school is sponsored by the Eighth Service command and is under the direction of Col. Donald Henly, commanding officer of the school.

Jap Buck-Passing Attitude Shows Big Need For Firmness By Allies

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press Staff Writer

The need for American political firmness in Japan becomes daily more apparent as the Japanese proceed with the organization of their internal affairs with little interference by the occupying authorities.

Unless the United States gets tough and realistic, there is grave danger that the oligarchy, or rule by the few, will be continued under the same military-business clique, and without the necessity of going underground.

Admit No Wrong Yet

The Japanese have yet to admit they were in the wrong or were crushed to the ground. Premier Prince Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni told the imperial Diet today that the war has been brought to an end "solely through the benevolence of our sovereign," and appealed for strict obedience to the emperor's will.

It is a fact that the military and the Zaibatsu—the commercial, industrial and financial magnates—are still running things. That, of course, is unavoidable under the decision to retain the emperor in a great deal more than nominal control of the state. He is subject to the orders of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, but the orders go to the people through him and not directly from the Allied commander in chief. The effect as far as the people are concerned is that there has been no change at all.

Can Be Changed

Fortunately, the condition is not necessarily permanent. The Allies have given no guaranty that the political setup will not be altered radically if conditions warrant. MacArthur is showing forbearance and giving the Japanese every chance to prove that they can achieve the required democratic reforms by themselves.

Meanwhile, however, the military caste has not been discredited. Higashi-Kuni is a swaggering militarist, with a finger in the Saibatsu pie to boot. Hirohito addressed the joint opening session of the Diet in his grand marshal's uniform, with boots, spurs and medals.

Nowhere in his speech did the emperor refer to surrender or defeat, but merely to the "cessation of hostilities." His keynote was that Japan had to save face among the nations. The concurrent resolution of the House of Peers noted that the emperor had "graciously decided to end the war," although the peers conceded their readiness to "acknowledge the reality of our defeat."

They Pass The Buck

The military, having kept the people in complete ignorance of the disastrous course of the war until the end, have cushioned the blow by making it appear that the surrender was not caused by Allied superiority in the martial art, but by other causes not Japan's fault.

The militarists have been able to point out that the Army, after all, was undefeated in the field. They have made a great point of the atomic bomb and the Russian declaration of war. Almost no Japanese realizes that he was irretrievably lost long before the atomic bomb or the Russian declaration. The military, using the same line of thought as the House of Peers, emphasize that the emperor "graciously decided" to spare his people from further suffering.

Other voluble protestations by the Japanese of their sincere desire to achieve real democracy, to abandon military thoughts and live at peace with all nations, can be written off as meaningless.

Deeds Now Must Count

It will be deeds, not words, that count. It will be obviously impossible for the Allies to achieve political reform in Japan from the bottom, or to undertake the hopeless task of educating the Japanese masses and expect them to achieve an overnight revolution.

The start of the reform must come from the top. The people might well respond to their own leadership, and there are enlightened groups which would leaven the entire body politic if given encouragement.

If the present leadership does not show sincere signs of doing this, it is apparent that the Allies will have to apply cold-blooded pressure at the top, and start reform the only place it can start successfully, even if it involves making the emperor a puppet or putting in a new emperor.

Yank Atomic Bomb Experts In Japan

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5. (U.P.)—American atomic bomb experts have arrived in Japan to check the effect of the bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki, American Broadcasting Co., correspondent Larry Tighe reported today from Japan.

Tighe quoted one of the experts, whom he did not identify, as "admitting" that "effects of the bomb could well disintegrate the white corpuscles in the human blood stream."

The radio correspondent declared, however, that his informant said that Japanese reports that emanations from the bombed area damaged the health of visitors three weeks later might be exaggerated.

Red Cross Moves In With First Forces

Red Cross workers will accompany General Douglas MacArthur's initial occupation forces to Japan to render first aid to liberated war prisoners and civilian internees, Mrs. Marguerite B. Stiles, secretary of the Lubbock chapter of the American Red Cross, explained yesterday.

"Recovered personnel will be evacuated as quickly as possible via air and water by our Army," Mrs. Stiles said. "Special Army units are taking in food, medicine and clothing. At Philippine airstrips American Red Cross canteens will maintain around-the-clock service for evacuees, who will be distributed to special reception depots and hospitals as required.

"As evacuees are registered at depots and hospitals, American Red Cross workers will deliver messages collected by home chapters and rushed to Manila by special air transport.

"Until all of the liberated men and women are repatriated to the United States, Red Cross workers will continue to maintain a 24-hour vigil, establishing central registration files, providing message center service, staffing recreation centers, canteens and information counters, distributing comfort articles, and running a nursery for children of evacuess."

Chancey's Trial Set At Tahoka

TAHOKA, Sept. 5. (Special) — Woodrow Chancey, about 30, will go on trial the week of Sept. 21 on an indictment charging he mixed a noxious drug with a drink and attempted to have Howard Waddington, 30, take it, District Attorney Calloway Huffaker announced.

The indictment was returned Monday afternoon to Judge Louis B. Reed by a grand jury of which Tom Hale was foreman. Chancey was held in lieu of $1,500 bail.

Also to be tried that week are three Lubbock young men: Weldon Webb, Doyle James and Dale Hall, Huffaker said. All are charged with burglary in connection with the breaking and entering in June of three O'Donnell bulk oil stations. Webb is at liberty under bail, James is held here and Hall is in the penitentiary, the district attorney's records show.

Three Other Indictments

Three other indictments were returned here Monday, accusing Ted Alton Davis, of Floydada, of forgery, Julius Mathes with burglary Aug. 18 of the W. B. Phillips cafe at O'Donnell, and a man not reported arrested on a felony swindling accusation.

Court officials of the 106th district said work continued to pile up, so that only the provisions of a "continuous" term admit of "catching up with it."

The district attorney left this morning for Lubbock to interview Willard Perkins, charged with forgery. His case will be investigated by a Sept. 14 grand jury at Seminole, where felony indictments will be tried the week of Sept. 17. grand jury will report on Judge Reed's special call Friday at Lamesa. A grand jury will be impaneled Sept. 24 at Post, where the formal charge accusing V. N. Stewart of assault with intent to murder his former wife, Mrs. Ida Stewart, 49, and a negro-Mexican murder charge are expected to take precedence in investigations

Pete Flippo Charged

One of the most watched cases to be tried at Seminole involves several indictments charging Pete Flippo, about 35, with paying poll taxes of others without legal authority, Huffaker said. The state is expected to link with the charges the March 10 beer election in Gaines county. Trial of one of the indictments ended recently in a mistrial, when a jury could not agree.

Lynn county and district officers said Chancey twice had been convicted of car theft; that he had been allowed suspension of sentence at Anson and had served a term in the Arizona state prison.

They said the state laboratory at Austin had found strychnine in a cola drink Chancey allegedly had sent to Waddington by a boy. Waddington did not drink it.

Federal System Severely Rapped

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—Comptroller General Lindsay C. Warren today described the present governmental setup as a hodge-podge of duplications, overlappings, inefficiencies and inconsistencies."

The official often referred to as "the watchdog of the treasury" told Congress it "connot be expected" to remedy the situation and asked instead that President Truman be given broad powers to clean house.

Testifying before the House expenditures committee, which is considering proposals to streamline the government, Warren gave this picture of the federal establishment:

Divided In 75 Bureaus

1. The transportation field is divided up among 75 bureaus, divisions and agencies. The government's travel and freight bill last year was as much as it cost to run the whole federal establishment 30 years ago.

2. Public housing is financed by 15 agencies.

3. Labor relations are spread over eight departments and agencies.

4. A dozen bureaus and departments are involved in administration of government land.

5. There is "an obvious conflict" between the functions of various agencies concerning aid to the states in care of dependent children.

12 Retirement Systems

6. Two government corporations "are doing a thriving customs business," in addition to the bureau of customs.

7. There are at least 12 federal retirement systems, each with its own rules.

Warren said the instances cited "are merely a drop in the bucket of things which the President should be empowered to look into and remedy."

He made one new suggestion regarding the proposed grant of power. He recommended that it be given to President Truman only for the length of his term.

OILS, RUBBERS, METALS GAIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP)—Oils, rubbers and metals advanced fractions to around a point in today's stock market but the trend as a whole was irregular with rails, motors and some aircrafts showing the greatest losses.

Volume totaled 980,000 shares against 1,970,000 Tuesday.

The Associated Press composite of 60 stocks stood unchanged at 67.6. Of 929 issues dealt in, 328 advanced, 376 declined and 225 were unchanged.

Gar Wood industries and Coca-Cola hit new peaks. Other risers included Bethlehem, Goodrich, International Harvester, Curtiss-Wright "A," American Telephone, American Smelting, Dow Chemical, Du Pont, Eastman Korak and Texas Co.

Below water were Youngstown Sheet, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, J. I. Case, Douglas Aircrft, Western Union "A," Santa Fe, Southern Railway and Westinghouse.

Bonds ended irregularly.

Cotton..

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP)—The cotton futures market closed strong today with quotations showing gains of 30 to 40 cents a bale. Final prices were at today's best levels and while the market encountered hedge selling and profit taking from time to time, the market displayed relative strength throughout the session. Mills were buying futures with scattered outside demand attributed to unfavorable private crop reports from the main belt.

The government's weekly crop and weather bulletin, however, indicated that slight improvement had taken place in the crop last week. Some of the trade buying which came into the ring was associated with possible sales of cotton to Spain. Demand for spot cotton in the South, according to merchants, has improved and prices were reported firm.

Private advices from the South stated that cotton in many sections was averaging from two to three weeks late and that prospects were backward. North Carolina growers stated that boll weevil in sections of the state were damaging new blooms with heavy rains also detrimental.

Administration Changes Seen

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (U.P.) — With world hostilities over, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was being mentioned here today as a likely replacement for Gen. George C. Marshall as Army chief of staff.

Marshall has long since served out the normal term of any Army chief of staff, and President Truman, following his policy of selecting World War II veterans for government positions affecting military policy, is expected to pick Eisenhower as Marshall's successor.

Other top brackets of the armed forces and the cabinet which probably will see changes by the President in coming months:

Nimitz May Take Over

Commander of the U. S. Fleet and chief of Naval operations—now held by Adm. Ernest J. King. This post will probably go to Adm. Chester W. Nimitz though possibly to Adm. William F. Halsey.

Commander of the Army Air forces—now held by Gen. H. H. Arnold who has been in ill health during recent war months. Two logical successors: Gen. Carl A. Spaatz or Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker.

Secretary of War—the present secretary, Henry L. Stimson is 78 years old and is known to desire retirement. His possible successors are many, including John J. McCloy, present assistant secretary of war. Some sources are agitating for the appointment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur to this post, but MacArthur's elevation to cabinet rank is not held likely.

Secretary of Navy — recurrent reports say that James V. Forrestal will resign. There has been no indication as to when, or who his successor will be.

Ickes Has Firm Hold

Secretary of Interior — Harold L. Ickes has a firm hold on the job, although nothing permanent. Ickes is 71 years old. The President is known to be willing to have Ickes remain as long as he wants to. Ickes, however, is expected to leave the government within a matter of months.

Illness Knocks Out Ben Hogan

DALLAS, Sept. 5. (AP)—Little Ben Hogan, who returned to the golfing wars with a bang heard in Nashville this week as he pushed aside Lord Byron Nelson to win the $10,000 open, was ill with influenza tonight and may not be able to play in the Dallas Open starting tomorrow.

Hogan said he never had quite recovered from an nifluenza attack that came just before the Nashville tournament and that the drive from the Tennessee city to Dallas yesterday in the intense heat had caused a set-back.

Should the little giant of the fairways not be able to play it will rob the Dallas $10,000 war bond open of much of its interest. Texans had set themselves for an all-Texas battle for the $2,000 first money between Hogan and Nelson.

The remainder of the touring professionals were on the course today with Harold (Jug) McSpaden ripping par with a 32-33—65. That was seven strokes under regulation figures. Slammin' Sammy Snead also shaded par in a practice round with a 69.

Chicago Players Set Pace In Both Leagues

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. (AP) — Chicago held the lead in both major league batting races today as Phil Cavarretta of the Cubs passed Tommy Holmes of Boston in the National and Tony Cuccinello of the White Sox clung to the American pinnacle.

Cavarretta is out of the lineup with a shoulder injury that sent him back to the bench after one game last week end Cuccinello's aging legs prevent hinf from playing every day.

Holmes dropped six degrees to .359, two points behind Cavarretta's leading .361.

George Case of Washington remains Cuccinello's cloest competitor althought his .308 is 10 points behind Cooch's .318.

Tigers Split With Yankees Before Huge Stadium Crowd

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers broke out their fence-busting bats just enough today to chill the Yankees' challenge to their American League lead by splitting a doubleheader with the New Yorkers before the season's biggest week-day crowd in Yankee Stadium.

They pulled the opener out of the hat 10-7 with a five-run ninth-inning flare-up for the entertainment of 51,511 customers. But in the night cap their bats were full of holes and they bowed 5-1 before the stylish southpawing of Joe Page who served up a fancy three-hitter in his first route-going performance this year.

All of this five-hour fuss left the recently red-hot Yanks thoroughly chilled, 5½ games off the pace after dropping two of the three starts so far played in their current seven-game series.

In the ninth of the opener a pair of tremendous homers by Eddie Mayo and Hank Greenberg—the former with two on—a two-bagger by Roy Cullenbine that slapped up against the 367-foot marker in right and a 450-foot tripple powered by Rudy York enabled the Detroiters to make up a two-run deficit and go out in front for keeps.

Cubs Take Pair To Insure Lead

CHICAGO, Sept. 5 (AP)—Effective pitching by Ray Prim and Claude Passeau backed up by a 20-hit attack enabled the Chicago Cubs to tighten their hold on the National League lead today with a double victory over the New York Giants, 5-2 and 10-2 before 25,769 fans.

Prim, a 39-year-old lefthander, allowed only five hits in the 5-2 opener, in recording his 11th triumph. All of the hits were singles except Ernie Lombardi's 19th homer with one man on in the fifth frame.

Adrian Zabala, the first of four Giants tossers, was charged with the loss and knocked out by a two-run double off the bat of Reggie Otero, a fellow Cuban who was playing first base for the Cubs.

The Bruins chased Jack Brewer in the fifth inning of the nightcap when they scored four runs on Roy Hughers' double, singles by Peanuts Lowrey and Mickey Livingston and two Giants errors. Five boots by New York in the second fray helped Chicago roll up 10 runs on 10 hits off four pitchers, including a homer by Andy Pafko in the eighth.

Westerners Add More Heavies

More heavyweight linemen were added to the Lubbock Westerner grid squad when five more adlitional men reported Wednesday afternoon to Coaches Dixie White and George Philbrick at Chapman field.

Included in the five men were two heavyweight linemen, both tipping the scales at better than 200 pounds. John Burns, 205, is out for tackle and Jimmy Fewell, 201, signed as a gaurd. They give the Westerners three 200-pounders in the forward wall, along with Orlando Moyers, 240 pound tackle candidate.

More strength was addel to the ends, with Roy Earl Jackson, 160, and Bobby Hutto, 163, being listed as wingmen. The fifth new comer was Billy Joe Meyers.

The Westerners spent the day running plays, and shaping up an offense to be used Sept. 14 in the season's opener at Odessa.

To offer a better balance to the Westerner running attack, Coach White shifted Stoney Wall, letterman guard, into the backfield Wednesday, where Wall was running from a blocking back position. His guard post was taken over by the Ike Modewell, who has been listed as a tackle.

NOTHE WHIFFS 25

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 5 (AP) — Walt Nothe, big left hander, struck out 25 men in shutting out San Marcos AAF and hurling Randolph Field to a 10-0 victory here last night.

Red Raiders Start Cutting Down Squad

"Vacation" ended Wednesday afternoon for surviving candidates for positions on the Texas Tech Red Raider football squad as Coaches Dell Morgan and Polk Robison gave the order for "full dress" and heavy pads went into play for the first time.

Headgears were in evidence and blocking and tackling form was the theme of the day as the Raiders ended their tenth drill of the year.

Morgan has been giving the Techsans several plays daily and the group is beginning to shape into semblance of a grid machine. First heavy scrimmage will probably be called Friday afternoon or Saturday morning. Freshmen will get a breather Monday and Tuesday of next week when registration is held for them.

After five days of double workouts these men, by positions, continue as the most promising in practice:

Ends — George Daniel, 170 pounds; Henry Fischer, 165; Lester Hahn, 175; Billy Bob Harris, 196; Weldon Meers, 173; Athol Craver, 200; Malcolmn Mitchell, 180; Frank Ottmers, 185; and John Thompson, 155. There are no lettermen ends.

Tackles — Clyde Black, 196 pounds, letterman; Oran Gann, 186; James Gimmell, 215; Harold Kiger, 228; Walter Maples, 150; John Martin, 197; R. W. Moyers, 197; Embry Privitt, 190; Stanley Shaffer, 170; Joe Snodgrass, 176, (letterman).

Guards — Joseph Davenport, 235 pounds; Russell Birdwell, 190; Mack Elston, 170; Raymond Hayden, 175; Jack Hinson, 165; Reeves Moren, 182; Ronald Pruet, 176; Johnny Statewen, 170; and Mac Weaver, 185. There are no lettermen guards returning.

Centers — James Cleckler, 170 pound; Garland Durham, 170; Robert Haley, 190; Floyd Lawhorn, 194; Otis Turner, 180; and Charles Walsh, 198. Turner and Lawhorn are lettermen of 1944.

Backs — Milton Butler, 140 pounds; John Carter, 195; John Collins, 150; T. M. Cox, 168 pound letterman; Don Davis, 165; Jack Dillon, 178, (1944 letterman end); Tom Dutton, 170; Kenneth Fowler, 160; Gene Hardey, 175 pound letterman; Brodie Hutchinson, 150; Chester Jackson, 160; W. C. Johnson, 170; Bill McWilliams, 150; Howard Mitchell, 136; Cecil Norris, 180 pound letterman; Roger Pinson, 165; A. L. Pugh, 170; William Rhoades, 165; Clayton Roberts, 175; Arthur Shahan, 175 pound letterman: Dean Shoemaker, 160; Frank Smith, 160; Bennie Tidwell, 140; Ray Whitehead, 193; Dick Wiggins, 170; Billy Womack, 140; and Walter Schlinkman, letterman of 1942 and 1944, 196pounds.

CONDITION IS SERIOUS

SYRACUSE, N. Y. Sept. 5. (AP) —Mike Skaff, outfilder for Baltimore's International League club, is in a "dangerous" condition in a Syracuse hospital as a result of skull fracture suffered when he was hit in the head by a pitched ball during the second game of a Baltimore-Syracuse doubleheader last night.

One barrel of flour is considered sufficient to make an average of 270 one-pound loaves of bread.

Garagemen Win Two In Lamesa Tourney

LAMESA, Sept. 5. (Special)—O. K. Garage of Lubbock was a double winner here tonight in the Lamesa invitation softball tournament, and moved into the semi - final battle scheduled for tomorrow night with the winner of tonight's Osborn Drive Inn of Lamesa and Sparenberg.

The Garagemen and Seminole were awarded forfeit victories over Levelland and Seagraves, respectively, then played each other, with the Lubbock club nosing out a 2 to 1 victory.

Osborn Drive Inn was leading Sparenberg, 2 to 1, in the fourth inning of the nightcap. The winner of this game will play O. K. Garage Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock. The survivor will play unbeaten Blue Bonnet Laundry of Lubbock in the finals Friday night.

Levelland Lobos Play At Lamesa Sept. 14

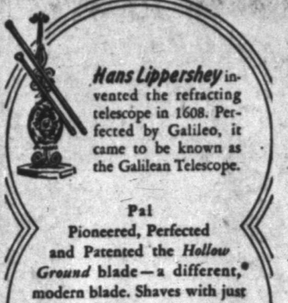

LAMESA, Sept. 5. (Special)—Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes of District 3-AA will open the 1945 football season here on the night of Sept. 14 with the Levelland Lobos of District 5-A, it was announced here tonight.

Lamesa was left without an opening game when Tahoka signed to play Big Spring on this opening date, and Levelland had reported wanting a game for Sept. 14. Officials of the two schools got together today, and booked the game for Lamesa.

The great industry-ordnance team has manufactured, packaged and shipped 6,000,000 tons of ammunition to American combat armies in Africa, Italy and Western Europe in World War II.

Morton Bank Is Robbed By Trio

about five minutes and the ventilation was bad. We couldn't have stayed too long. But the vault door was only pushed to and, hearing a noise out in the lobby and deciding to take a chance—the men had told us they'd 'kill every damn one' of us if we got out before 30 minutes—we went out and found that the robbers had gone.

"The sheriff (Mac W. Hancock) was after them in five minutes after we'd been locked up.

"The red car went east, then was reported right after that as going south toward Bledsoe."

Gunmen Are Tough

Williamson said the gunmen were "the toughest I've ever seen."

He had background for the statement.

Once before, about 1931, he was locked in a vault by bank robbers. He was cashier of the Lakeview bank. He was not injured, and the robbers were caught and convicted. Taken was $1,700. The robbers got 25 years in the penitentiary.

"These fellows today, though, cussed and raised the devil every time any of us even acted like we'd turn our heads around from the wall where they had us lined up," he said.

"Their language at times was foul. The one who had the gun on Roddy told him: 'I'll blow you in two!'

Forced To Open Vault

They forced Mrs. Ray to open the vault, Williamson said.

The loss is insured, Williamson said.

Williamson said that the time lock on the vault was not "on" and that the safe was opened by the combination.

Stokes Reported Holdup

Clayton Stokes, of Morton, was the first person to report the holdup to officers. "Stokes came rushing into my office at 12:50 and said the bank had been robbed and that the hijackers had headed east," Hancock said. "We got in my car and took off after them."

Stokes had seen two men rush out of the bank carrying money sacks and join a third man in piling into a car with the motor running.

Douglas Meador, editor of the Morton Tribune, whose office is next door east of the bank, was one of the first persons to enter the bank after the robbery. He ran into the bank to find employes locked in the vault.

Car Stolen In Lubbock

In the meantime, police radio was describing the escape car as one stolen here Tuesday night from Ray Carpenter of Lubbock Army Air Field and 1106-B Seventeenth. It had been described Wednesday morning as a 1941 maroon or red Pontiac convertible coupe, Louisiana license 336-386. It further was said to have not paint on the right front fender, the right headlight was missing, the right rear fender was off, and it had two amber foglights on the front.

Lubbock police subsequently authorized information that those who stole the car might have placed on it a 1945 Texas motorcycle license ZM-4475.

Two planes from Lubbock Army Air field and a private plane flown by Gordon Tolliver of Morton were searching the wilds along the Texas-New Mexico border during the afternoon.

Radio exchanges with Roswell, Clovis, N .M., and Big Spring and other points kept up a lively exchange of information, and an assistant radio operator was placed in the KGZW control room.

Williamson, talking Wednesday night to the Morning Avalanche, said he remembered "only some of those who were in the vault, except the bank officials. We were all pretty excited, you can imagine."

He said Clyde Gilbreth, Mrs. N. J. Russell, Roddy, Mrs. Otis D. Chesshir, Otho Denny, Winford Patton, George P. Smith, Roy Jackson and Billye Lee Williamson, 14, daughter of the bankers ,were among them.

Williamson said one of the gunmen told Mrs. Ray to go to the phone in the vault "and tell the sheriff to come get us." Mrs. Ray apparently thought she had misunderstood, and asked what he said.

"You know Mac Hancock, don't you?" the bandit asked.

But the bandit, not waiting longer for his money, poked his gun into Mrs. Ray's side" two or three times" and forced her to open the safe. The gunplay continued when he demanded "the rest of the money" and when Mrs. Ray continued to tell him, "That's all the money we have."

Late Arrival Put In Valut

Mozelle Hill came in last, and one of the gunmen stuck his gun in her side and forced her to join the others in the vault.

The Williamsons' son, 22-year-old Tyrus, came into the bank about the time Meador did, before the exit from the vault. The former border patrolman borrowed a Muleshoe airplane and joined the aerial search.

All those who figured in the robbery probably can be identified, Williamson said. Two of those inside the bank got close looks at the man who remained outside.

The masked man appeared to be around 40, about 5 feet 8 inches tall weighed possibly 185 pounds. He was dressed in khaki and brandished a .32 or .38 caliber automatic. The other gunman was described as 35, 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighing 170 pounds. He had dark hair and complexion. His gun was either a .38 or .45 revolver. The man who stood guard was reported "dark" and having "appearance of a soldier."

Despite the suggestion that Mrs. Ray call Sheriff Hancock, Williamson said, one of them warned that "if anybody sounds the alarm in 30 minutes we'll kill every damn one of you!"

Williamson, referring to the men as "cool, detached and plenty rough," said that he asked one of them to "divide us up and put some of us in the other vault."

The gunman answered, "By God, we're giving the orders here"

Burma Liberations

was made up mostly of Texans from the northwestern part of the state. It became known as the "Lost Battalion" after its diversion to Java where it was overwhelmed by the Japs.

More than 3,500 Allied prisoners were declared to have died on a "Death March" of nearly 140 miles in Thailand, Associated Press Correspondent Milton G. Kelly wrote in a dispatch from Calcutta dated Sept. 4.

In cluded 133 Americans

The survivors at Calcutta said the total number of prisoners included 133 Americans who were members of their groups. The men were restricted in telling their stories to what they themselves experienced and saw.

They said they were given "stinking, rotten food most of the time." Some of them ate cats, dogs and snakes. They said they were beaten with gun butts, sticks, and fists if their failing strength slowed their pace at the heavy labor they were forced to perform, or they failed to speed up when guards wanted to get through early.

"Our morale never got low," said Lt. Roy E. Stensland of Salinas, Calif. "We griped a lot, but we kept our sense of humor.

Dutch Doctor Big Help

"The Japs gave us no medical supplies but there was a Dutch doctor who saved a lot of our boys.

"He had a scapel, a stethoscope and a little mallet to test reflexes.

"Many of the men developed tropical ulcers, especially on the legs from malnutrition. It was necessary to hold down the patient while the doctor cut away the infected flesh, sometimes to the bone.

"It was tough, but it saved lives. In the rainy season the men died like flies of malnutrition, dysentery, and other diseases, but there were not many Americans among them."

Guards Ignorant Koreans

He said the guards were Koreans, "ignorant, cruel men."

The 131st was mobilized in November, 1940. In the latter part of 1941 it was separated from the 36th when the division was reorganized from a square to a triangular division.

A few months later it was ordered to the Philippines and was enroute there when the Japanese struck Pearl Harbor . It then was diverted to Java.

Little information came through about the fate of the unit after the Japanese overwhelmed it.

Commanded by Lt. Col. Blucher S. Tharp of Amarillo, the unit trained at Camp Bowie, Brownwood.

Fine Account of Selves

"All reports indicate the battalion gave an extremely fine account of itself on Java. We have word that the battalion even used its .75's to shoot down Jap aircraft," says Brig. Gen. P. A. Weatherred of Dallas, formerly with the 36th division.

The liberated prisoners at Calcutta told of continuously outwitting the Japanese and of keeping radio sets secretely to get news of the outside world.

One group was being transferred to Bangkok when it learned of the end of the war. They said they had a radio hidden in the baggage of the Japanese commander.

After learning of the surrender they asked the Japanese commander for new batteries for the set.

The Dallas News' Washington correspondent reported that the War department had disclosed to Senator Connally (D-Tex) that 99 members of the "Lost Battalion" had been freed from a prison camp in Thailand and flown to Calcutta.

The report said names of only two of the released men had been given Connally, Pfc. James R. Morris and Pfc. Ray King, both of Lubbock.

mother o fthe Schmidt boys, received a cablegram from T/Sgt. Schmidt which read, "With Eldon here. Well and happy. Love to all. Tell Jerry." The girl referred to in the cable is Jerry Kay of Roswell, N. M., a friend of the sergeant's.

Mrs. Bailey said the boys were captured together and had been in the same prison camp throughout their internment. They attended Texas Tech three years and were employed by the Baker Printing company, Lubbock, for six years. "It is too wonderful for words," the mother said. "I followed them to the coast to tell them goodbye over three years ago and you can bet I'll be there to welcome them home."

Plan To Meet Him

Sgt. Self is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Self, who plan to go to San Francisco to welcome him home. He has undergone routine hospitalization, his parents were informed. He was attending high school here when his national guard unit was mobilized. A brother, Pvt. Lloyd Self, is in basic training at Camp Roberts, Calif. The message that Sgt. Self was safe came late Wednesday afternoon.

As parents and sweethearts of other internees rejoice in the news that their loved ones are safe, Lubbock relatives of the only local baftalion member unheard from since Java was taken in early 1942 are in a period of prayerful waiting. He is Corp. Charles Bruce Bray, listed by the War department as missing in action. He is the son of Mrs. W. H. Bray, of 805 Ave. S, and the brother of Miss Marian Bray, teacher at Dupre school.

Two Missing Reports

Corp. Bray was first reported missing in June, 1942, and again in April, 1943. He never has been listed as a prisoner nor has his family ever received any word concerning him.

He was graduated from Lubbock High school and was a sophomore student at Texas Technological college when mobilized.

Corp. Bray has a brother, Sgt. Joel Bray, stationed at Frederick, Okla., and another brother, Dick Bray, of the home address, a former army man, and another sister, Hermanell Bray, local high school student.

Max Schmeling Held By British Military

HERFORD, Germany, Sept. 5. (AP) — Former heaveyweight boxing champion Max Schmeling was arrested by Brtish military government authorities tonight and charged with "breach of military government orders."

It was expected that his trial would be scheduled for some time next week. The charge is the first of its kind to come before military courts in the British zone.

Schmeling's arrest followed his efforts to obtain a license to enter the publishing business to "reeducate the youth of Germany." The license was denied by the control commission. A senior officer said the denial was issued because, "Schmeling was a symbol of Nazism during the war for the youth of Germany."

Little Rock Hall

landscaped.

Three pairs of double aluminum doors shins behind the columns and open into the grand foyer, a beautiful hall with a terrazzo floor with the city's seal in the center. Levanto marble and Silverdale stone walls with fluted columns add to the dignity of the hall. Glass blocks which extend from the top of the doors to the ceiling are backed by grill work, forming graceful silhouttes in the sunlight.

We were greeted at the building by W. A. Harville, manager, who escorted us about and pointed out mistakes and outstanding features. Entering the Music hall of the building, which represents the most modern type of theater constructions in the nation. It contains 2,988 seats and here, as in the Tulsa Convention hall, the acoustics are nearly perfect, a person on the stage speaking in conversational tones can be heard easily in the expansive balcony.

We went down to the expansive stage from where we could get an excellent view of the harmonious appointments of beauty and majesty which makes the house one of the most beautiful of its kind.

Going backstage, we descended steps leading to the Exhibition hall in the basement where a pecan block floor of 12,000 square feet which provides space for dancing, basketball, wrestling and commercial exhibits such as automobile, household appliances and other trade shows. Approximately 2,300 persons may be seated here, on the ground floor and in the balcony above the lower floor.

Smaller Hall In Rear

To the rear of the Exhibition hall is a smaller hall with asphalt tile floor and stage where smaller gatherings, lectures, recitals, concerts and plays may be presented to approximately 400 persons in chairs. Smaller club and organization dances may also be conducted here.

Constructed in 1940 at a total cost of $860,000, of which the city of Little Rock issued bonds for $473,000 and the balance of $387,000 was by grant from the Public Works administration, the building is located on land which cost $104,000.

The three halls of the building combined were used 412 times in 1943, total attendance 361,178; and 359 times in 1944, attendance 330,093. Income from performances in 1944 was $36,898.66 and expenses $27,314.29, making the building self-sustaining from rentals of the building. The Little Rock water department, municipally owner, has offices in a portion of the basement of the building on street level and pays a rental.

Many times, Harville told us, all three halls of the building have been in use at the same time, three separate entrances having been provided. "Of course, we've had some people who bought $2.50 tickets for a wrestling match to find themselves listening to the symphony, but we soon got things straightened out," he jokingly remarked.

The auditorium is controlled by a board of commissioners, of which E. E. Beaumont, vice president of the Commercial National bank, is chairman; and who took time out on his Labor day holiday, to come down and meet us and offer beneficial advice on operation of a civic project of the type his city maintains.

Board Controls Building

The board of commissioners is composed of five members, with five-year staggered terms.

Construction of the building has made Little Rock the entertainment center of Arkansas, Harville informed us. Of the 359 times used last year, there were staged 29 large road shows, nine concerts, ice shows, Shrine circus, and numrous other events which draw large attendance from as far away as 150 miles, and that about takes in Arkansas from any direction.

Wrestling matches are conducted there weekly and the Exhibition hall is practically filled at each performance. High school, college and professional basketball games have a large following and big name dance bands draw from every school in the state.

As the auditorium was in operation only a little more than a year before the start of the war, it has not been used extensively for conventions but from now on it will be the meeting place for practically every large state convention, Harville says.

Weather Cools Off

Our drive from Tulsa Sunday afternoon found us passing through lush fields of cotton, even in eastern Oklahoma and the verdant grandeur of the Ozarks offered relief from the heat we had suffered earlier in the day.

Jas. L. Quicksall had to leave us at Oklahoma City, which now makes but six of us making the remainder of the trip. As this is being written in the Albert Pike hotel, we are making preparations for the 160-mile drive to Memphis, where we will view the 12,000-seat dual-purpose auditorium constructed there in 1924.

There we will confer with W. A. McElravy, manager, and secretary of the International Association of Auditoriums, who is considered one of the outstanding outhorities on auditoriums in the U. S. and Canada.

Maybe Mr. McElravy will give us enough data that we'll be ready to start plans for the Lubbock project by the time we get back home next Monday.

Scheduled Arrivals Home From Europe

Five Lubbock veterans of overseas service were due to arrive at New York Wednesday, the Associated Press reported.

On the La Grande Victory were S-Sgt. William A. Miller, 1st Sgt. Henry C. Maxoy, 1st Sgt. James A. Mitchell, Sgt. Lawrence F. Avent and Cpl. Arthur M. Nobles, all of Lubbock.

Slated to hit home shores today at New York are 1st Sgt. Garland G. Kerr and Capt. John C. Peterson, both of Lubbock.

Due at New York Monday on the SS Marine Raven were Cpl. John H. Patterson of Lubbock route 2 and Pfc. Clifford Pierce, of Lubbock. On the same day Milford Mason, of Plainview, Olton route, and Pfc. Rubie Blakemore, of 2111 Broadway, Lubbock, were to come home on the James Parker.

Siamese Twins Are Visited By Mother

PHEONIX, Ariz., Sept. 5. (AP)—The mother of Arizona's siamese twins saw them for the first time since their birth when she visited St. Monica's hospital last night.

The twins, Louise and Micaila Miranda, had gained five ounces within a short time before the visit of their mother, Mrs. Rita Miranda.

Tears filled her eyes as she viewed the conjoined bodies of the infant girls. Then she said in Spanish:

"They look very pretty."

of the eight who were sentenced to death but spared execution.

Before Meder died, Hite said, he had "wasted away to a mere skeleton." Even then his spirits were still high. Only a few hours before he died Meder remarked:

"'Weak as I am, I can still lick the Japanese guards at the gate'."

Two other of the Doolittle fliers who had been carried as missing in action were killed, Neilsen reported, when their B-25 bomber crashed into the ocean off China.

Kept In Solitary

The three told the news conference that they were kept in solitary confinement during all but 70 days of the 40 months of their captivity.

"I could stand the physical punishment I got in Tokyo, the worst was the solitary confinement," Hite said.

Throughout that time, they were kept in cells four by 12 feet, equipped with only one barred window and a door with a slit in it. The only furnishings were three blankets and a small grass matt. An opening in a corner of a cell served as a toilet.

The three, all tired and thin, could not recall much of what occurred at the time they were rescued on August 20 by a parachute team in Peiping.

Was World's Happiest

"I think I was the happiest man in the world, though," Neilsen said.

Hite and Neilsen were first lieutenants until an hour before the news conference. Then Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, deputy commander of the air forces, presented them with captain's bars and added a stripe to Sgt. DeHhazer's chevrons.

They said they expected to go home in three days, travelling by plane on a "number one priority."

Hite said that he hoped to stay in the Army if he could.

Famed "Tokyo Rose" Captured By Yanks

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 5 (AP)—United States Eighth Army headquarters announced today that Iva Toguri, Los Angeles-born radio announcer who was famed among American troops in the Pacific as "Tokyo Rose," is under detention.

An officer of the counter-intelligence corps apprehended the 29-year-old woman and turned her over to general headquarters for questioning and investigation.

The woman was picked up as an American citizen and no charge has been lodged against her. Headquarters said it wasn't known whether she was under guard.

Miss Toguri was at a hotel, which was Allied correspondents' headquarters, and had just given an interview in which she denied she had called American troops South Pacific "forgotten men."

She also said she did not broadcast to the Americans statements that their wives were being unfaithful to them while the Yanks were in combat.

News Briefs

Funeral services for T. J. Rollins, 61, a resident of this area for 13 years, who died early Wednesday in St. Mary's hospital, will be conducted at 4 o'clock this afternoon at Whitharral. Burial will be under the direction of Hammond Funeral home of Littlefield.

Navy Lt. Sidney W. Brown, former Lubbock resident and ex-student of Texas Tech, is visiting his mother, Mrs. M. M. Brown, of 2224 Sixteenth, after serving six months in the Mediterranean theater and prior to that about 16 months in the southwest and central Pacific. He will be here about 30 days before reporting to Norfolk, Va., for re-assignment.

If the ears of a two or three day old Karakul lamb are long, chances are the fur will be of higher quality and the curls tighter than if the ears are short.

Congratulations To:

Mr. and Mrs. Downing of Lubbock on birth of a son weighing 7 pounds 6 ounces at 5:38 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in West Texas hospital.

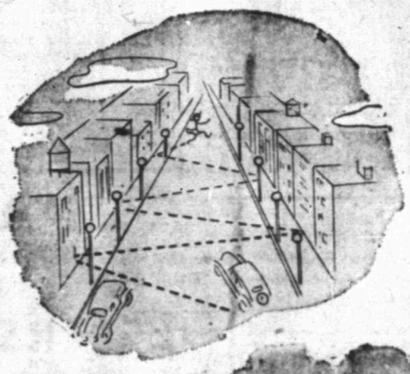

Texans Freed From Japs Reach Okinawa

MANILA, Sept. 5. (AP) — Cpl. Bernie B. Pits, jr., of Dallas and Pfc. Lyndal B. Preslar, San Angelo, who for three years were war prisoners in the Philippines, Formosa and Japan, have reached Okinawa free men.

They survived two years of hard labor in the Philippines, and were among 1,400 prisoners jammed into a coal barge and transported to Formosa. The Texans were the first leathernecks evacuated by air from Nippon prisons.

A-hunting we won't go...

furniture is one thing young Mrs. Jones declines to hunt. Instead, this afternoon she will go to Wards, and see if today's shipments have brought in anything of interest. She may find what she's looking for. Or, she may have to come back. Or she may tell us her needs, and we'll notify her when her selection comes in.

But she is not going to traipse all over town wearing out her shoes and her nerves. She knows that furniture is being made. She knows that Wards is getting its share.

Above all, she knows what she buys at Wards will be style-right, dependable, and priced to save her money. Doesn't Mrs. Jones' idea sound sensible? You too should . . .

Searching For Freedom

The Fight Is Not Over Yet

THE United States has just fought and won a great war. We were told we were fighting for freedom.

But are we free?

Perhaps, you think that you are. But there are millions of Americans who, slavelike, have to pay dues and assessments to support political candidates and theories, in which they do not believe.

They must pay the assessments levied upon them by their bosses, or their labor unions, or lose their jobs. They have no more freedom of action in choosing what candidate or political cause their money will support than a French peasant had under Nazi rule.

This un-American condition, which is a new thing in America, came to light last year when the head men of the CIO ordered its members to contribute to the union organization's political war chest.

Independent, freedom-loving Americans who refused were kicked out of their unions and deprived of the right to work.

Yes, ironically this happened in this country—"the home of the free and the brave"—while we were talking loudly of guaranteeing "The Four Freedoms" to the entire world.

It could not have happened in the days of the Boston Tea party. Then Americans resented "taxation without representation" and threw a shipload of good British tea in the Boston harbor to demonstrate that they did.

Today millions of Americans are complacently accepting this invasion of their rights as free men. That is the sad thing—the alarming thing. For it was through such complacency on the part of citizens in Germany that Adolf Hitler rose to power. When citizens cease to value their rights, they soon lose them.

Therefore the United States owes a debt of gratitude today to Cecil B. deMille, the motion picture and radio producer, who has taken up the cudgel in behalf of human rights. DeMille challenged the authority of union bosses to collect a political assessment from him. He refused to pay and was ousted from the union. Consequently, he was forced to resign as producer of a popular radio show, but he has not dropped his fight against this type of political tyranny.

He has incorporated the "DeMille Foundation of Political Freedom" and is conducting a nation-wide campaign to make all workers free of this form of coercion, either by unions or employers. His fight to aroused the nation to the need of restoring political freedom is gaining ground throughout the country.

Until the average voter is free from this kind of "boss domination," America is not free.

The Market In China

THERE are 400,000,000 Chinese. They all wear shirts in some form or other. If they would only increase the length of these shirts by one inch, a wonderful new market for cotton would be opened up—and that would help Texas.

While it is doubtful that the Chinese, who are slow to change, can ever be persuaded to wear longer shirts, the idea does suggest the wonderful market that China may provide for American merchandise.

Now that the danger of civil war in China has abated with the signing of the Sino-Russian pact, China appears to be on the threshhold of the greatest economic expansion in history. She has plenty of waterpower and is planning TVA's to harness it. Modern farming methods will enable China to produce food in sufficient quantities to prevent starvation, which has been the fate of untold millions of Chinese in the past. China also has some mineral resources and the Chinese have shown themselves to be adaptable to the discipline of modern factory methods.

The land that was once the center of wealth in the days of Marco Polo, therefore, does hold promise of becoming a vast market for American goods. Certainly the Chinese have nothing, according to American ideas of what people ought to have.

The rub is: How can China pay for American goods? Of course, we will want Chinese tea, herbs, bamboo chairs, and silk. But can China make trade worthwhile?

This question belongs to the economics of the future. Upon its solution depends the future of China.

A Masterful Oration

AMERICA—in fact, all of the United Nations can be proud of that masterly speech made by Gen. Douglas MacArthur in formally accepting Japan's surrender.

It was a fitting speech for a great occasion. As a master-piece of oratory it will rank along with Lincoln's Gettysburg address and some of those heart-moving speeches made by Winston Churchill during the recent war.

Recognized as one of the world's best generals, MacArthur has demonstrated his ability as a statesman.

Speaking reverently in the name of the uncounted dead, as well as the living, who helped to make the victory possible, he said:

"We have known the bitterness of defeat and the exhultation of triumph, and from both we have learned there can be no turning back. We must go forward to preserve in peace what we have won in war."

His eloquent words point the way.

Hearts Bleed Longest

Brock got his artificial leg in the late summer. He still used two canes but Dr. Pelham had assured Corrine Kittridge that in time he would learn to do without them.

His face was thin, fine-drawn. There was about him a tension, the same sort of tension she sensed in Thayer. Only when Moya was present did that tension lessen in Brock. And for a long time there had been growing in Mrs. Kittridge confirmation of her first conviction that Brock's marriage was a bitter mistake, bearing now the fruit of its folly.

Mrs. Kittridge pictured him as trapped. That he was not making a more speedy recovery was due solely to his dilemma. Which made young Dr. Lacey's opinion most unwelcome when he paid a call on a day the older doctor was indisposed.

"There's more to this business than legs," he had said brusquely when Mrs. Kittridge had mentioned Brock's improvement. "They're making wonderful restorations in this war, but the real steps still have to be taken with the mind, never forget that."

"Meaning?"

"Physical injury can maim mind as well as body. More so, because we can see physical injury; the other can so successfully be hidden. Disastrously, of course. This deeper side is the job of you at home; tough job, too."

"My son has every assurance of love and understanding," said Mrs. Kittridge. "He knows his mother has never failed him—and will not fail him now."

"The thing is not to let him fail himself." Dr. Lacey said sharply. "See that he meets all the demands life has the right to make upon him."

"First we must get him well," Mrs. iKttridge said with dignity.

"Then you will get him well," said Dr. Lacey as he took abrupt leave.

The whole thing kept running through her mind today as she watched Brock's unrest. It was with relief she saw Moya's car drive in and she went at once to greet her visitor.

"Hello," Moya said, at ease in her knowledge of welcome. "Where's Brock? I'm running out to Corning—some Auxiliary stuff. I thought he might like the ride."

"Just what he needs," Mrs. Kittridge said. Her eyes and Moya's met, agreement in them and understanding.

"It certaining appeals to me more than sitting around," Brock said, overhearing as he came in.

Once in the open, some of the tension that bound the man escaped in speech. "Lord, but I'm glad you came along, Moya. I was abo.. to. . ."

Her glance slanted toward him as she drove. "I didn't drop by on impulse: I planned all day that you'd go with me."

"Cool about it, aren't you?" But somehow their hands found each other's and he felt the strong curling of her fingers around his own. Shey had often driven this way in the past, the dear crazy past so without complexities.

They were out of town now and the road ran by a tree-covered hill. Something stabbed through Brock. Not since his return had he come out the Corning road past Drumhead Hill. Under a distant tree someone was standing. He only glimpsed the figure but it was a switch thrown to set things in motion. Instantly upon the screen of his mind flashed pictures. Some emotion in him writhed and twisted, wanting to be free. There was upon him the need of more than this damned passivity that sucked at him like quicksand.

His words were a command. "Stop the car, Moya."

She obeyed with alacrity, turning to him in quick concern. "Is anything wrong?"

"Let me drive."

For an instant there was the stillness preceding movement, then wordlessly she stepped out and walked around the car to reappear at his side. He had already slid over into the driver's seat.

His heart banged in his chest. For days he had wanted to drive a car; now he had to, so that in activity he could forget what that figure standing there on Drumhead Hill had reminded him of.

Of Thayer, whom he had sent from him that morning weeks ago with the cold fury of his words.

He could stil remember—maybe some day he'd forget—how her face had crimsoned, then paled until her eyes were enormous. She had turned and walked away, pride in every line of her.

Two days later he had left for the hospital where he was to have further treatment and receive his leg, be instructed in its use.

He had stayed away longer than he need have, much longer, but at last he had come home secure in the knowledge that he appeared whole again. It seemed he could never grow tired of looking at the toes of his two shoes projecting from beneath his trouser cuffs. Two shoes—two feet. . . .

He had wanted to swagger just a little that first night of his homecoming. Thayer was overdue from the office and he stood up for 15 minutes before she arrived so that her first sight of him might be that way. He began to grow tired with standing.

He was momentarily shocked to see how pale and tired she looked when she came. She said, "Brock—you're back . . ." and came toward him as if nothing had been wrong between them. He had been cautioned against too-swift movement; now he forgot. He never knew how it happened, how he slipped, blundered, caught himself and crashed foolishly into a sitting position in a nearby chair. Thayer cried, "Oh, Brock, are you hurt?" and he was right back where he had been on the night of his homecoming from Guadalcanal, imprisoned in a chair, looking up at her. Nothing was changed. Nothing.

Baptist Convention To Be Held At Waco

Annual session of the Baptist General Convention of Texas is to be held in Waco, Nov. 13 through 15 on the Baylor university campus, according to an announcement Wednesday by Dr. C. E. Hereford, pastor of the First Baptist church, after returning from Dallas.

Dr. Hereford represented this district at th econvention's executime board meeting in Dallas Rev. L. E. Hemphill of Littlefield, Rev. A. A. Bryan of Brownfield, and Rev. A. T. Swanner of Levelland also participated in the executive meeting, at which plans for the convention were made. The Women's Missionary Union and the Baptist Church Brotherhood will also meet at Waco during the week of the church convention.

Reporting at the Dallas meeting, R. A. Springer, state treasurer for the church, reported that $2,531,000 had been raised in Texas during the first ten months of this year by voluntary contributions from Baptist churches. He estimated that the church would be able to raise $3,300,000 next year.

Six Prize Horses Destroyed In Fire

FORT WORTH, Sept. 5. (U.P.)—Six prize winning horses were destroyed in a fire of unknown origin last night at Kennedy stables.

John Kennedy, owner of the horses estimated their value at $7,000. Damage to the building amounted to $3,500.

Kennedy, president of the Globe Aircraft corporation, was visiting a friend in a hosptial when notified of the fire.

"Buy A War Bond TODAY"

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

THE Japanese military attache in Stockholm, Sweden, suggested that now, with the war over, we should shake hands with Japan just as you do "after a tennis match."

Laughingly he defined war as "a sporting event mingled with heroism."

And, when the head of the Japanese delegation to Manila alighted from his plane, he attempted to shake hands with an American colonel. Another one of the Nipponese delegates carried a bouquet of flowers for General MacArthur as a gesture of peace and

BRANDEIS

What are you to do with a people like that?

War, a sporting event, indeed!

I suppose to the Japanese all the unspeakable cruelties they committed on our men are just little incidents in a pleasant sporting event.

I suppose the degradation and insults they heaped upon us when they had the upperhand should now be forgotten and, as the Japanese attache declared, hereafter the United States and Japan should "fight only on the golf course."

To us here in America a sporting event is a match between honest people. We don't cheat, we don't lie, we have no aces up our sleeves.

To the Japanese lying is honorable and cheating is part of their nature.

I wish I could understand the policy of our government of soft-soaping and cuddling the unspeakable Japanese.

What a foll, it was to invite them to an International baseball tournament in 1946!

What a folly it is to trust any one of them or to place the slightest confidence in any one of them or to place the slightest confidence in any of their promises or assurances.

There is only one thing those Japanese understand — the iron fist, but without the velvet glove.

Perhaps it is smart to let them have their way for awhile, until the surrender agreement is actually signed.

Perhaps — but I doubt it.

I DON'T like the atomic bomb, and I shudder to think what may happen to the world in the next war.

But the atomic bomb speaks a language which even the Japs understand. I venture to say that if we had dropped one of them on Emperor Hirohito's palace — while he was in it — it would have speeded up the surrender procedure considerably and convinced the Nips that there are other powers greater than that which they so stupidly worship.

As I write this, people are joyriding and celebrating and glorying in peace But the Japs are still hedging and wriggling and crawling just like the rattlesnake I saw up the road this morning.

I, too, want peace.

But peace is only for men of good will.

Just examine the records and decide whether that applies to the Japs!

MacArthur Home Soon?

Richardson Seen As Successor

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR will retire as Supreme Allied commander of conquered Japan, probably within six months or so, and will return to the United States for the hero's welcome he deserves. "Mac" is in his middle sixties, although he doesn't look his age, and the strain of the years since Bataan and Corregidor have told on him.

His successor will be an Army man, and the officer generally regarded as slated for the post is Lt. Gen. Robert C. "Nellie" Richardson, jr., of South Carolina. Besides possessing an excellent military record, General Richardson has served in the Far East off and on for many years, and he knows the people and traditions of that section of the world.

There is talk that Joseph C. Grew, jr., former Undersecretary of State and our ambassador to Tokyo for a decade, may be selected as a diplomatic adviser, first to General MacArthur and eventually to General Richardson.

TUCKER

When General MacArthur comes home, he will probably be named to a new Joint Chief of Staff command which President Truman intends to organize as a permanent body. It was this unit which planned and coordinated the American offensive in North Africa, Europe and the Pacific.

Sitting, when necessary, with their British opposites on duty here, they ran the war for the democracies except for Russian operations. And, although there was bungling on the home front on many occasions, this group set a record for ability and efficiency.

Other prospective members are Gen. "Ike" Eisenhower, who will be the next Chief of Staff; retiring Gen. George Marshall; Air Force Chieftain Henry H. Arnold or his successor; Admiral Nimitz; Admiral William D. Leahy, who has served as Chief of Staff to Presidents Roosevelt and Truman.

From now on the White House intends to mobilize our best war brains on a permanent basis.

LABOR: A six-hour day and a five-day week will eventually emerge as the key clause of the Full Employment bill that is designed to provide work for 60,000,000 people in the postwar period. No witness, including spokesmen for labor and management, has advocated a 30-hour week in his public testimony, but they have passed on this idea in private talks with members of the Senate Banking committee.

Many segments of labor, including such an important body as the United Mine Workers, enjoyed that minimum working period before Pearl Harbor, although the official time was fixed in their contract at 35 hours at $1 an hour and time and a half for extra work.

Naturally, William A. Green of the AFL and Philip Murray of the CIO will seek the same benefits for their rival clientele. When they negotiate new agreements next Winter and Spring, a shorter work week with no major cut in pay will be their principal demand. It will have the support of the Truman administration.

Two full days of leisure—Saturday and Sunday—are relied on by labor and federal economists to provide tremendous employment in the service and amusements trades.

Catering to weekend motorists, picnickers, tourists and pleasure seekers is expected to require at least double the number of men and women who found work in this field in the vanished pre-Pearl Harbor days.

DOMESTICS: Washington—the nation's capital—has become a testing ground for the wages, hours and conditions of work which domestic help will demand in the postwar era . And the problem of getting and keeping a maid or an all-round man promises to be a headache.

The District of Columbia, together with its Maryland and Virginia bedroom counties, naturally became the first laboratory for this kind of worker. With V-E and V-J days, the government began to lay off people hired for the emergency, and they sought employment in the old field.

It was almost impossible to find a maid or a man in the capital during the war. Their minimum government pay for eight hours a day, with time and a half for extra hours, was $1440 a year. Quite naturally, they quit the kitchens for desks.

DEMANDS: Now, thanks to Eleanor Roosevelt's propaganda on their behalf and their high government pay, they demand 60 cents an hour for a four-or six-hour day and they will work only five days—no Saturdays or Sundays.

They agree to arrive at 10 or 11 in the morning and stay for four or six hours, depending on the housewife's program. For a four-hour day they ask $12, and 15 simoleons for a six-hour day, take it or leave it.

The taste of freedom they have had during the war has changed their ways of life. They do not want to 'live in," preferring to spend their evenings at home with their families and friends.

Living costs in other sections of the country—they are extremely high in Washington—may force a modofication of this wage-hour scale in some respects. But that is the program in this bellwether town, and these provisions for more generous treatment of domestic help may be incorporated into law eventually.

TEXAS

By Gordon Shearer

AUSTIN.—Reconversion problems that confront returning soldiers of the present war are far different from a problam that now confronts veterans of the Spanish-American war.

They have a fund of $4,985.15 awarded to them by the last state legislature and have yet to determine what to do with it. There are approximately 2,200 of the Spanish-American War veterans enrolled in the Texas department.

Judge G. W. Barcus of the Attorney Generals department, who was active in having the fund transferred from the Texas treasury where it had been for years, suggests that the veterans use it for a banquet at their annual reunions. He estimates that it will last that way just about as long as most of the veterans and will give them the most enjoyment.

The fund is a peculiar one. It is remnant of a federal grant to Texas to pay veterans of the Spanish-American war for time they were in service in the state before getting on the federal Army payrolls. Quite a number of the veterans failed to claim their payments; others had died and no relatives made claim. The federal government issued a quit-claim to the balance of the fund so finally the last legislature turned it over to the Department of Texas, United Spanish War Veterans.

Disposition of the fund will have to await the next annual encampment of that organization. The $4,985.15 is a balance from a $48,000 fund sent to Texas in 1898

"It's all so simple: Life is merely a form of electricity," asserts a scientist. Uh, huh. Now tell us what electricity is.

Women are impetuous creatures. The other day a bride of a week got mad and hauled off and quit her husband when he told her he had two other current wives.

Here's a new worry for pessimists: A leading psychaitrist says it's impossible for a person to worry himself to death.

"The dignity of wrestling is being lowered by those who wrestle in mud, molasses, etc., for the newsreels," says a sports writer. "The dignity of wrestling?"—ye gods!

Why is it that almost everyone is positive he prefers life to death, although he has never tried the latter?

"The use of profanity in drilling trainees has been forbidden." Gosh!—there goes 95 per cent of the top kick's vocabulary.

Cunningham Has Ideas About Germany

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Thomas L. Stokes, one of The Morning Avalanche's top correspondents in Washington, is enjoying a brief vacation. During his absence, his space will be filled by Bill Cunningham, former Texan and lately a nationally known sports writer, commentator, war correspondent and magazine author; ad by other outstanding writers).

By BILL CUNNINGHAM
Special Correspondent

NEW YORK.—One of the first steps in cutting the German people down to size should be the elimination of the heavy, the somber, the sheer weight and the devotion to the massive, the powerful, that seems to be resident in their consciousness.

They seem to go for things that bear down; not for those that lift up. Their architecture, their art, their very homes are depressing with the weight of heavy things Maybe that explains Hitler. He massed more men. He moulded bigger guns. He worked out heavier uniforms with more medals for the devoted. He let go with a heavier voice on the radio. Goebbels socked the scripture to them in heavier type.

Homes Are Interesting

It's interesting to go into the German homes, and I lived in quite a few. It stands to reason that you can pretty well read the character of a man from the place in which he lives. As our Army has moved in for its occupation, it has requisitioned, usually, public buildings or former German barracks for the troops, and hotels, if still standing, or apartment houses, if ditto, for the officers, correspondents et al. If there weren't enough hotels and apartment houses, they have taken private residences. The Germans thus dispossessed merely have time to lock up their valuables, or take what they can carry, and go over to live with relatives.

Then we move into their homes, which are just as they used them. It's an opportunity for the intimate observation a peacetime tourist never would have. I lived in 'em in all sections, and class for class they're practically the same.

THE Germains are supposed to love music and yet I never played on lousier pianos, even in college. They're big and solid and the cases are beautiful, but they're as phony as Hitler. All the show is in the case. The action is always muddy, the tone thin, the net appraisal, junk.

They're supposed to love art, and some of the homes I was in evidently belong to people who've spent some money on art. I mean there were oil paintings and water colors hanging around.

The German's idea of a picture is a heavy, somber affair showing for instance, the heavy trunks of trees in a forest. Just the trounks, not the tops. You might as well be looking at a lot of bloated telephone poles. The predominant color will be brown. Or it will be a corner of a lake with black clouds coming over a mountain.

This will be dark blue, deep green, the rest gray and black and brooding.

Mattresses Are Screwy

Occasionally, they run to cattle. Whoever hung the art in the hotel now housing the Third Army Press camp at Bad Weiss had a bug on sheep. He had two sheep pictures on prominent display. They couldn't be much worse. The sheep have been wrought with loving care. But following the characteristic penchant for overdoing everything on the side of heft, the disciple of Rembrandt who brushed in these bleaters got them so out of proportion to everything else, including the shepherds, that, in life they'd be the approximate size of bull elephants.

The furniture in the average home is as heavy as that of some lodge room in the United States, and just about as comfortable. Any of the beds would hold the late William Howard Taft, and the entire race must sleep half sitting up because they have an extra wedgeshaped quarter-mattress they jam underneath the real mattress at the pillow end. This hikes the top half of you up in the air, unless you pull it out, which most of us did.

AND then, they need a national educational course in the subject of bedclothes. They put a sheet over the mattress, but for top cover, they have a bed-sized sack made of sheeting and into this is stuffed and buttoned in, a heavy silk comforter in the better class homes, a sort of super blanket, as thick as a carpet, in the less pretentious. On top of this, if you need it, is a huge, downy light feater—well, what?—pillow, one supposes. It's half as big as the bed Maybe you're supposed to sleep on it. I wouldn't know. If it sleeps on you, it's hard to see how it stays aboard, for it's not anchored to anything, and it's about as heavy and as stable as a half-filled balloon.

This combination is no good by any measurement of common sense. There's no peeling back a blanket if you get too hot. With apologies to Mr Sinatra, it's strictly all, or nothing at all.

* * *

Everything Is Heavy

There's nothing light, or delicate, or amusing, or truly artistic. All is heavy and somber and serious and brooding.

If I had charge of remaking Germany, I'd first start with, "Let's All Take a Pill Week." Then I'd decree a public bonfire of all this junk, using most of the home-hung art as kindling. Then I'd put 'em on finger talk, while we worked out a language that sounded more like people and less like asthma, and after that—well, I could think of some more.

MacArthur To Be Flanked By U. S. Advisors Who Know Screwy Japs

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5 — General MacArthur got a political advisor yesterday whose assignment is interesting news just as Tokyo officials begin turning on their well-known charm and

WHITE

Japanese militarists start beating their breasts and talking about "repentance."

The advisor is a quiet career diplomat, George Atcheson, jr., who wears a twinkle in his eye and knows the Japanese well.

Most of his 25 years in the Far East he has spent in China, and a good part of that was devoted to reporting and protesting the actions of Japanese militarists.

Japs Know Him Well

The Japanese got to know him as a suave but firm negotiator, one who understood their own attitude to an uncomfortable extent and who had his arguments set and ready when they started making excuses.

Atcheson therefore can deal with the Japanese on the basis of personal experience. To pleas for leniency—and there will be many—he can recall firsthand th abuse and heartless exploitation of the Chinese people under Japanese "justice."

Atcheson is not the only American of this type—the kind who learned about the Japanese the hard way—who will be on hand to advise MacArthur, whose own Japanese "education" has been no bed of roses.

Eichelberger Also Knows Nips

Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, commander of the 8th Army which is occupying Tokyo, also knows the Japanese from away back—from their actions outside their own country, where cherry blossoms and the tea ceremony do not seem very important when stacked up against Japanese cruelty, greed and cunning.

Eichelberger was head of the operations and intelligence sections of the American expeditionary force in Siberia in 1918-20.

Eichelberger also served in China, where even then Japanese aggression was manifest. Still later he became an intelligence expeert on the Far East, and that meant being a specialist in Japanese aggression.

Also Gen. Stilwell

Another American under MacArthur who knows the Japanese better for the keen edge of their sword than for the superficial gentleness of their home life is Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell, commander of the 10th Army which is occupying southern Korea. He probably knows the Japanese military better—from first hand experience in China from 1920 through his great retreat in Burma in 1942—than any other American.

In Korea he will find the wreckage of a race, a people trampled upon for half a century by a ruthless conqueror.

With such choices as these to help spark American policy in Japan, one can feel sure at least that Japan's past deeds are being kept well in mind.

Japs Charge Yanks With Looting And 'Unlawful Conduct'

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5. (AP)—The Japanese Domei agency in a broadcast today acknowledged "comparatively strict military discipline among occupation forces, but charged the Americans with "six cases of brutality, 38 cases of looting, and other unlawful conduct."

The Domei report, entirely lacking on confirmation in any quarter, also carried this suggestive series of rules which it said the home ministry had asked the people to observe in an effort to minimize such "incidents:"

1. Lock doors.
2. Women, wear clothing conservatively.
3. Avoid traveling at night—women especially.
4. If someone is breaking into your home, scream.
5. As to resisting attackers, one should bite, scratch—and tear off insignia for evidence.
6. Neighborhood associations should cooperate to guard against such incidents.
7. If you have become a victim, prove it to proper authorities.
8. Don't display watches, fountain pens or other valuables.

Soldier Convicted, Sentenced To Die

WIESBADEN, Germany, Sept. 5 (AP)—The judge advocate's office said today Pfc. Robert A. Colby of Geetingsville, Ind., a soldier in the 49th engineers combat battalion, was convicted by a court martial last June 23 of murdering two American officers and was sentenced to be shot.

The victims were Colby's captain and a first lieutenant. (They were not named for publication.)

POWER HIKE GRANTED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP) — The Federal Communications commission today authorized an increase of power for radio station KBST, Big Spring, from 100 to 250 watts.

There is enough ice in Antarctica today to cover the entire globe with a layer 120 thick.

Specialists Aid Council Clinic

In a one-day clinic sponsored by the Lubbock Crippled Children's council held Wednesday at the Boys' club, 107 children were examined and treatment for their cases was recommended by two orthopedic specialists. Cases were one-third poliomyelitis, one-third bone infection, and one-third birth and other injuries.

Dr. Chas. F. Clayton of Fort Worth and Dr. Walter G. Stuck of San Antonio donated their time to make the clinic possible. Both are well-known specialists in their field of orthapedics. During the morning the two doctors were assisted by Dr. M. H. Benson and in the afternoon by Dr. Pauline Miller, Lubbock pediatricians.

Assistants At Clinic

Assisting in the clinic were Miss Ruth Skemp, field nurse for the state crippled children's division; Miss Imogene Smith, a consultant nurse with the state department; and nurses Mrs. Ivy Bushyhead of Hockley county, Mrs. Irene Griffith of Terry county, and Mrs. D. Bradly of the Junior Welfare league.

Junior Welfare league members working with the clinic included Mrs. Marshall Harvey, Mrs. J. Henry, Mrs. Arch King, Mrs. Cliff Widner, Mrs. Weston A. Petty and Mrs. H. Parks. Miss Esther Sorenson, Mrs. Gladys Holden and Dr. Mina Lamb, all of Texas Technological college, held a nutrition conference during the clinic.

Mrs. J. E. Mason acted as clerk for the meeting, and Mrs. J. Ray Dickey was in charge of transportation.

Light Lunch Served

At noon a light lunch of sandwiches, milk and bottled drinks was served to mothers and children who were waiting their turn to see the doctors. Refreshments were furnished by the Lubbock council.

Patients who required X-rays were driven to Plains clinic or West Texas hospital during the morning, and in the afternoon, to Lubbock General hospital.

All services of the clinic were free to the patients, with the Council, which acquires its funds from an annual Easter stamp sale, paying for refreshments, supplies and X-rays.

Welfare League Assists

Assisting in all sections of the clinic were members of the Junior Welfare league, who prepared children for examination, drove automobiles for the transportation committee, assisted in serving refreshments, and in registering patients.

Publishers' Views On Dropping Cases Asked

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP) — The War Labor board has asked newspaper publishers in 18 cities whether they desire to drop their dispute cases, as requested by Woodruff Randolph, president of the AFL Typographical union.

Randolph asked the newspaper commission in Chicago to withdraw the union's cases involving those papers and the commission submitted the question to the board.

The board, by resolution in which the AFL members dissented, decided to contact the companies to learn what their position is with respect to withdrawing before making a final board decision.

The board also ruled that if a company makes a request to withdraw a case from the board that the union should be consulted.

The companies involved include: Beaumont (Tex.) Enterprise; Beaumont (Tex.) Journal; Shreveport (La.) Times and Shreveport (La.) Journal and San Antonio (Tex.) newspaper publishers.

The board in 10 other cases involving the CIO newspaper guild directed the parties to resume collective bargaining.

Motorists Are In For Treat-Anti-Knock Gas

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (UP) — Motorists are in for a treat in anti-knock gasoline, contrasted with an almost sure knock in their war gas tanks.

According to oil company executives, the major companies are prepared to sell 78 to 80 octane gas as regular, compared with the 71 octane sold during the war. The so-caled special or high test gas will be 85 octane. Octane number represents the anti-knock quality and the higher the octane number the less the knock.

There probably will be a third grade of gasoline for sale—72 octane.

Present gasoline consumption is running at around 1,600,000 barrels of 42 gallons each daily. This compares with 2,200,000 barrels in wartime and with the 1941 average daily of 1,828,000 barrels.

DDT Being Sprayed In Hurricane Area

ROCKPORT, Sept. 5. (AP)—Rockport residents are using DDT against mosquitoes breeding in stagnant water caused by the recent Gulf hurricane.

The state Health department distributed 1,500 packages of the chemical formula to home owners yesterday.

Navy planes from Corpus Christo, will spray 6,000 pounds of DDT, in the Port Aransas-Rockport area as a part of a Health department experiment.

FOREST FIRES RAGE

MISSOULA, Mont., Sept. 5 (AP) Extensive wind-swept forest fires in northwestern Montana and eastern Idaho early today continued out of control as hundreds of soldiers and local crews battled to halt the rapid destruction of valuable, scenic timberland areas.

Poor Digestion? Yes ☐ No ☐
Headachy? ☐
Sour or Upset? ☐
Tired-Listless? ☐

Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? To feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly.

Each day, Nature must produce about two pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested—leaving you headachy and irritable.

Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice. Carter's Little Liver Pills increase this flow quickly—often in as little as 30 minutes. And, you're on the road to feeling better.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills as directed. Get them at any drugstore. Only 25¢.
