INDEPENDENTS PLAN VAST PIPE LINE SYSTEM

Hopeless Of Finding Life, Rescuers Battle Fumes To Reach Entomed Miners

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Talker doesn't believe the Republican party is responsible for the business depression and he wouldn't give the depression any more free advertising than it has already had but he don't care how loudly the myth explodes that the Republican party is the sole custodian of prosperity. Maybe the hard times we have had to endure will be worth all they have cost us if that myth is completely discredited and we can consider political issues upon their merits. It would certainly help the Republicans and it might give the Democrats a chance occasionally.

Al Smith in a speech at Providence, Rhode Island, Monday night attacked this myth with great gusto to the evident enjoyment of the 15,000 persons who heard him. He charged that in the campaign of 1928 the Republican party knew it had nothing to do with prosperity and that "they knew they could not continue." He said that when there was hard times during a Democratic administration the Republicans called it a "Democratic panic" and that when there was hard times in a Republican administration they called it a depression or an adjustment." The latest name they have for it," Smith shouted, "is a cycle—a business cycle—that reminds me that somebody observed the other day that it must be a bicycle and that both Republicans and Democrats had been taken for a ride."

H. M. Victor, long time ago a resident of Wichita Falls and manager of the Victor Milling company, now a banker at Charlotte, N. C., sends his friend N. Henderson a paragraph about business conditions and the administration that seems to Talker to hit the bull's eye. Mr. Victor wrote:

"In addition to bad conditions there is a solid wall of pessimism everywhere. I don't think the Republicans are responsible for bad conditions but they are responsible for the pessimism—for failue to keep promises and inability to relieve conditions. Time only can do this. Harding's administration stole everything they could. Coolidge's administration did nothing absolutely (not bad for them). Hoover is doing his best, which is Trigonometry, Algebra, Arithmetic, pencil and rule applied through committees who return statistics and percentages very correctly, no doubt, but unavailing. If he don't establish some leadership, radiate some personality and inspire some enthusiasm, he had better quit and appoint a committee to sit up with the corpse. He is fine in his way and as accurate as an adding machine but no more inspiring."

Wouldn't it be refreshing to read one of these days that President Hoover had gone on a rampage and had kicked some sycophant down the White House steps, had gotten mad and discharged a commission or two and had otherwise displayed flesh and blood symptoms?

What the country needs is something to distract our attention from the depression and give us something else to talk about. Talker doesn't pose as a business expert but he believes that business is stationary, that is, that it isn't going to be any worse and with a little kick in the pants might improve a lot.

Talker believes that President Hoover's commissions will find facts that will aid in constructive legislation, that is, if the president can put enough personality into his efforts to impress the country.

Talker would like to see a commission appointed in Wichita county to study our local tax problems. He believes that such a commission might make findings that would aid in reducing the tax rate.

FIGHT BECOMES DEATH WATCH AS HOPE FADES

Squads Dare Deadly Gas in Struggle to Find Comrades

15TH LEVEL REACHED

Women and Children Cling To Slim Chance of 'Miracle'

M'ALESTER, Okla., Oct. 28. (UP)—No sound that would indicate life existed was heard late tonight as fresh rescue crews pushed near the chamber in the No. 4 Wheatley mine where 29 miners were entombed by a blast that wrecked the Slope mine.

Only 100 feet of debris strewn passageway separated the crew from the west entry of the 16th level, 2,500 feet under the residential section of McAlester, at 11:30 o'clock tonight.

Miller D. Hay, chief mine inspector for Oklahoma, sent word from the gas saturated depths that all had despaired of finding any of the men alive.

Rescue squads, equipped to walk through dreaded "black damp" gas which filled the mine, resumed a 24-hour battle to learn the fate of the miners entombed behind tons of debris in the lower slopes.

All members of the night crew were caught by the blast which rocked the workings shortly after they entered last night. It killed one man near the entrance, loosened a "fall" of earth and timbers at the 14th level, and entombed 29 others on the 16th, 17th and 18th passageways. It was feared all were dead.

At 9 p. m., the crews were within 265 feet of the west entry of the 16th level where a group of men were known to have been working. Progress was slow and large falls of rocks obstructed passage from the 15th to 16th levels.

C. E. Long, who had charge of identification work in the Old Town mine disaster, was placed in charge of identification. Each body will be tagged according to metal discs always worn on the cap and carried in the pocket, before it is removed from the mine.

Battle Fumes

In those levels rescuers expected to find only bodies of men tortured by gas or crushed. But on the 100 to 1 chance that a miracle would deliver the entombed crew to life and air again, fellow miners stumbled down the slopes to break through the fallen ceilings.

At 8 p. m., the main rescue crew reached the 15th level which is about 325 feet above the level where the miners were believed entombed. Six rescue crews were working tonight, each working in two-hour shifts.

Mrs. Cora V. Shuman, of St. Louis, Red Cross representative, arrived tonight from Wewoka to take charge of relief work. I. E. Guymon, chairman of the local Red Cross chapter, assisted her.

Capt. Herman Impsom was in charge of a national guard detachment that guarded the mine entrance.

Rescuers wore gas masks to protect them from "black damp," that heavier-than-air gas which previously drove back relief squads and in which it was feared the entombed men died. They carried axes and picks to chop through barriers.

At the tipple above women folk and officials established a relief camp. A hospital was set up. A field kitchen fed weary workers. Children of the men in the mine ran errands to speed the mission that might bring fathers back to their families.

But as the sun went down over nearby hills, hope faded for the finding of at least a spark of life in the tomb below. Miller D. Hay,

TEXAN DIES IN CAR ACCIDENT

Aged Man Struck Down Near Duncan

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., Oct. 28.—John Campbell, 54, of Fort Worth was fatally injured near here Tuesday evening when he was struck by an automobile driven by J. E. McGee, city marshall at Petrolia, Texas.

Campbell had parked his car at the side of the highway and stepped from behind it in front of the officer's approaching machine witnesses said. The driver was absolved of all blame.

The aged man came to Duncan from Fort Worth to work in the cotton fields a few weeks ago. He was the former husband of Pearl Voss, recently slain in Fort Worth. With him at the time of the accident was Wallace Campbell, a son of his marriage with Miss Voss.

A daughter, Elva Cambpell, lives in Ryan, Okla. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Chicago Banker Shot by Bandits

CHICAGO, Oct. 28. (UP)—Courtney R. Merrill, vice president of the Union State bank of South Chicago, was shot and possibly fatally wounded tonight when he failed to comply quickly enough with a bandit's order of "hands up!"

The banker was putting his car into the garage behind the bank when held up.

Before lapsing into unconsciousness, Merrill said his two assailants were about 20 years old.

How much loot they obtained was unknown. Merrill usually collects deposits from storekeepers and churchmen one night a week and he may have had several hundred dollars, friends said.

Record News Cotton Table

For Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma

Ginnings in Northwest Texas and southern Oklahoma showed a sharp increase Tuesday as the lint gathered Monday by pickers moved in to the gins. Memphis took its accustomed place at the head of the table for both Texas and Oklahoma, its gins turning out 213 bales Tuesday to bring the season's total up to 4,783 bales. Haskell, which had been leading in ginnings for some time, dropped to second place. Frederick led the Oklahoma section in ginnings, and Burkburnett was ahead in Wichita county. Haskell remains one of the few towns of the area to show an increase in ginnings over the same period last year. The following prices prevailed Tuesday in the principal markets, according to reports to The Record News from its correspondents:

	Range of Price Middling Basis	Cottonseed	Tuesday Ginnings	Season's Ginnings
MEMPHIS	8.50 to 11.00x	$25.00	213	4,783

RECEDING OIL TOTALS POSTED FOR OKLAHOMA

Corporation Commission Sets Daily Production At 550,000 Bbls.

Each Succeeding Month to See Lower 'Allowable' Under New Rule

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 28. (AP)—The state corporation commission late today issued a proration order covering all of the flush oil fields of Oklahoma and many of the older fields, which is to be in effect until Jan. 1, 1931.

The new order fixed the state allowable flow at 550,000 barrels daily during October, 545,000 barrels daily during November and 535,000 barrels daily during December. Fields were divided into eight groups, class A covering wells having a daily production of five barrels or more. Class A wells will be prorated 50 per cent for all over five barrels a day they flow on an average.

The order follows a hearing lasting nearly two weeks during which many protests were heard from oil and royalty companies which sought to have proration removed or greatly modified.

During the hearing, charges of price fixing by means of proration were aired, the method of prorating the Oklahoma City field was attacked, and operators of Stephens county asserted they would be forced into bankruptcy if small wells were prorated drastically. The fight centered on proration of class A wells.

The commission extended the order to make all transportation facilities a party thereto, an action which is interpreted by oil men as a curb on running crude through private lines and loading racks.

Another extension of the order was to "wildcat" wells, or wells opening "new pools, sands or zones." Each such well is to have one day of open flow test and thereafter to be pinched in to 50 barrels a day until further order of the commission. A wildcat well "shall be considered as one outside of a pre-existing drainage area."

HUMBLE AND MAGNOLIA MAKE CUT GENERAL

Crude oil price reductions made in North Texas two weeks ago were made general for Texas and Oklahoma fields in schedules posted Monday and Tuesday by major oil purchasers.

Humble Oil and Refining company announced a general reduction of 7 to 50 cents per barrel. Magnolia Petroleum company slashed its schedule 3 cents to 12 cents. Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing company and Prairie Oil and Gas company previously had announced similar reductions for Oklahoma fields.

Humble posted Nocona crude at 65 cents for below 28 gravity, with 40 gravity and above at $1.07. Gray county crude below 29 was shot to an even half dollar with 40 and above at 92 cents. Magnolia made similar slices in its prices.

Diamonds Recovered From Sewerage Drain

BEAUMONT, Texas, Oct. 28. (AP)—Lost six days in drain pipes leading to a sewer main, three diamond rings valued at $4,500 were recovered today.

The jewels, one a three-carat stone, were dropped in a basin in an apartment by Mrs. Sam Fertitta. They were tied in a handkerchief.

Hundreds of feet of pipes were taken up and sidewalks under which some of them were laid were torn away, the search for the rings entailing an expense estimated at $500.

Commission Authorizes Railroad Rate Reduction

AUSTIN, Oct. 28. (UP)—A two-cent reduction in railroad passenger rates between Big Spring and Fort Worth was authorized today by the state railroad commission. Railroads have asked for the reduction to attempt to entice travelers who ordinarily travel by automobile. Competing bus lines have charged that the cut was a move to combat bus traffic.

Former police commissioner of New York City—predecessor of Grover Whalen, Richard Enright, Joseph Mulrooney—thus he's used to a big job.

Has degrees from Harvard and University of Berlin.

Finds helping solve unemployment problems as interesting as a big piece of police work.

Former A. E. F. soldier.

Plays tennis, swims, sails a boat and rides.

Thinks golf an old man's game—he's 60.

Doesn't care for bridge or backgammon.

Reads good, solid books—and detective or mystery stories.

Not strong for movies—likes theater.

Been school teacher, reporter, manufacturer, lumberman.

Friends call him an "inspirational leader."

Was assistant to secretary of war after armistice finding jobs for veterans.

'Infamous' Oil Grab Charge Loosens Hoover's Tongue to Rake Newspaper

President Discards Usual Aloofness and Pointedly Assails Publication of Kelley's Stories

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28. (UP)—President Hoover emerged today from his attitude of aloofness in the congressional campaign to charge that "political agencies" supported "reckless, baseless and infamous" charges of scandal in the administration of government oil shale lands.

In one of the most scathing statements he has issued, the president termed the charges of Ralph S. Kelley, suspended land office field employe, "an attempt to charge odious oil scandals in this administration."

Paper Denounced

Mr. Hoover denounced without mentioning any name, the newspaper which syndicated the charges made by Kelley. Republican and Democratic papers printed the stories in various localities.

During six weeks which Kelley spent in Washington this summer, said the president's formal statement, read to newspapermen by Mr. Hoover at his regular press conference, the field man "was in negotiation for the sale of his fabrications to a journal identified with the opposition political party, and they were launched in the midst of a political campaign."

Despite opportunities for testing the truth, Mr. Hoover added, "these agencies have persisted in broadcasting them for the past six weeks by every device of publicity." Proper inquiry, he said, "would no doubt have destroyed the political or the sale value of these stories."

Shouse Non-Committal

Chairman Jouett Shouse of the Democratic executive committee, said he had no comment to make on the president's charges. Kelley himself is here, but could not be reached for a statement.

Kelley tonight declined to comment on the personal aspects of the president's charges, but said.

"In view of the president's attitude, a thorough investigation by the senate public lands committee is, in my opinion, imperatively necessary." Such an inquiry, he said, should be conducted by competent lawyers with ample time to investigate fully the records involved.

Chairman Gerald P. Nye of the public lands committee, now absent in the West, has said he thinks an investigation by the senate should be held.

Mr. Hoover reviewed the justice department findings as reported by Attorney General Mitchell and his assistant, Seth Richardson, that Kelley's charges were "baseless, without merit or substance."

Father Fights Extradition For Child-Stealing

AUSTIN, Oct. 28. (AP)—Protest against the issuance of any extradition papers for Stonewall Jackson McMurray, wanted in San Rafel, Calif., on a charge of child stealing, was filed today with Gov. Dan Moody. The governor had not acted on the protest.

McMurray, according to the extradition papers from California, took his three children on a pretext of getting their clothes, from his wife during divorce proceedings, and came to Texas with them. McMurray is in Waco.

ARRESTS MAY TEST BOUNDARY

Hunters Nabbed in 'Crook' Of Red River

TEXARKANA, Ark., Oct. 28. (AP)—Meandering of the Red river may result in the United States supreme court's being asked to decide a dispute between Texas and Arkansas over a strip of land near the river, brought about by the arrest of six prominent Texarkana men on charges of illegal hunting.

Both states claim the land and trouble over jurisdiction has arisen between Bowie county, Texas, and Little River county, Arkansas, on several occasions.

The six men arrested, including David Arnold, former Arkansas state senator, R. R. Creekmore, W. M. McClain, J. H. Young, Sam Milazzo Jr., and Bryant Holmes, are held under $110 bonds for hearings before Peace Justice J. T. Grounds at Ashdown, Ark., Saturday.

The men, members of a hunting club located on the land, declared they believed they were hunting in Texas and had Texas licenses. They said a test case would be taken to the supreme court, to determine which state owns the land.

Little River county, Arkansas, officials have been collecting taxes from the land for several years and declared there was no question of ownership. Hugh Ashford, Texas game warden, said he had been informed the land belonged to Arkansas. However, Judge George Johnson and many other pioneer Bowie county, Texas, officials asserted that the land belonged to Texas.

A department of agriculture map shows the land in question as in Bowie county, Texas, with the Red river on the north. The old bed of the river lies to the south, its meandrings having caused it to move north several hundred yards. The land lies between the old river bed and the present channel.

Residents of the vicinity recalled today that the Arkansas game warden attempted to arrest a district judge and deputy sheriff of Bowie county, Texas, several years ago, and the deputy retaliated with a threat to arrest the warden for impersonating an officer in Texas. On another occasion, they said, a Bowie county man was reported to have driven an Arkansas official away at the point of a gun, believing the Arkansas man was without jurisdiction on the territory disputed.

OIL MARKETING CO-OP URGED IN RESOLUTIONS

Association Endorses Plan To Install Refineries by 'Little Men'

CURTAILMENT ASKED

'Courtesy Card' Method of Price Cutting Rapped By Speaker

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 28. (UP)—Construction of a vast pipe line system which would do much toward solving the unemployment problem in Texas, was one of three proposals made to independent oil operators here today to solve their marketing problem.

The proposals were made in a paper read at the concluding session of the Independent Petroleum Association of Texas. They were given unanimous approval of the association. The paper was prepared by T. J. Mullen of Houston. The suggestions provided:

1. Creation of a crude petroleum marketing company or cooperative association.

2. Formation of an independent pipe line organization, with facilities for serving each of the seven oil-producing sections of Texas, to transport crude petroleum to the gulf coast for coast-wise or export shipment.

Independent Refinery

3. Installation by the independents of their own refinery facilities in the seven oil districts of Texas and possibly joining with some of the independent refineries already operating in the various districts. Besides the pipe line, Mullin suggested a gasoline line paralleling the crude petroleum line, to transport gasoline to the gulf for the Atlantic seaboard or export.

The pipe line system, Mullin said, would require an investment of between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000. As the independents produce approximately 350,000 barrels a day, they would have no trouble in financing the project, Mullin said. He predicted the project would be a means of reducing unemployment.

No Challenge Intended

Mullin said that his suggestions were not in the nature of challenge to major pipe line or crude oil purchasing compaines but were means whereby independents may help themselves and reduce obligations to major companies.

Directors of the association which met after the convention proper was adjourned, went on record as opposing all unnecessary drilling

HOUSTON, Oct. 28. (UP)—A sentence of death was pronounced on Will Jenkins, alias Will Williams, 40, negro, today, following his conviction on a charge of criminal assault on a 12-year-old girl. The negro previously had been sentenced to five years in prison on a similar charge.

Provision for College Tax Made In State Law, School Board Told

A school tax not exceeding $1.20 already has been authorized in Wichita Falls or any other city maintaining a junior college, according to information given to the Wichita Falls board of education by Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of city schools, at its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon.

According to the law, Doctor Cantwell said, 20 per cent of any tax levied may be used for the maintenance of a junior college, but the people of the independent school district must authorize the raising of the tax by vote.

The petition asking for a $300,000 bond election which has been circulating during the past two weeks is to be recalled and revised so as to include a clause requesting a tax of $1.15 on the $100, and will be presented to the board at its next regular meeting, according to information given at the meeting Tuesday by J. T. Harrell, chairman of the junior college committee in the chamber of commerce.

Members of the Junior chamber of commerce will circulate the new petition Mr. Harrell said.

RESCUE CREWS DESCEND MINE

Men Dare Deadly Fumes in Hunt for Victims

chief mine inspector of Oklahoma, announced he absolutely held no hope that the men would be brought out alive.

Women Pray

The rescue work went ahead while women prayed for renewed spirits. They had been there since a tongue of flame flared from the maw last night and rumbles of the explosion shook their homes in McAlester, more than a mile away.

These folks steeled themselves tonight for a death watch. Rescue leaders expected to penetrate the wrecked levels before midnight. Then probably will begin the lifting of shattered forms from the slope, while women and children step up to identify a loved one. McAlester will renew its charity given in similar tragedies which touched it before.

The sole chance that life remains in the mine is slim. The miners may have escaped concussion of the blast and retreated quickly to some recess barred from the dread "black damp." Officials scouted the possibility, but moaning women stood about with that one solace.

"Black damp" is a gas much heavier than air which often settles in mines after explosions. It penetrates all levels below the point of the blast, or is forced to confines above.

Rescuers Saved

Hope of rescue disappeared today when four members of the relief squads fell in these poisonous fumes and had to be carried out by masked workers. They were revived, but presence of the gas caused directors to forecast death for the entombed crew.

The rescuers had penetrated to the "fall" or debris of the explosion at the 14th level and found gas sufficient to cause death there. Miners said it was certain the gas was worse at depths where the men were entombed. The "fall" was found 2,000 feet from the entrance of the sloping mine. The trapped crew was behind it, probably an additional 1,000 feet back.

Second Blast

The Wheatley mine explosion occurred less than a year after a blast claimed the lives of 62 McAlester miners in the old town mine last Christmas.

The Wheatley shaft is named after T. W. Wheatley, superintendent and part owner, who directed rescue work from a cot in the mine engine room after collapsing at the scene. He first worked the mine, toiling with a mule and a slip.

The one man killed outright in the explosion was Curley Conley, whose work was to drive the coal cars from the shaft. The blast caught him near the entrance.

The men entombed were for the most part family men who lived in McAlester.

Eager Couple Wants Divorce 'Issued'

Clerk Stumped by 'Willing' Pair's Plea

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Oct. 28.—Employes in the office of the Jackson county court clerk's office are asked to perform a variety of duties, but this week was the first time they were requested to issue a divorce.

The application was made to Mrs. Sudie Dean, deputy court clerk, by a man of approximately 55 years of age. He was accompanied by a woman also past middle life.

"I would like to get a divorce issued," he said, in a much calmer tone than is usually employed by young would-be-grooms asking for marriage license.

When he was told that divorces may be secured only by filing a petition for a divorce decree in district court, he declared that this case was "different," and explained that both parties are not only willing, but more than willing that the divorce be "issued."

A 10-minute argument ensued and he left the office defeated but not convinced.

"I still believe they could issue a divorce when both sides are willing," he told a prospective groom whom he passed in the doorway.

Co-ed's Death Brings Probe

Girl Burned to Death at Week-End Party

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 28. (INS)—An investigation into the death of Miss Marie McCarthy, University of Wisconsin co-ed, who was fatally burned at a Lakeside cottage party last week-end, was instituted today by District Attorney Fred Risser.

The body of the girl probably will be exhumed to determine if she was drugged before being burned, Risser indicated.

Lyman Schley, 24, Miss McCarthy's escort and owner of the cottage, gave sheriff's officers the names of two men he suspects of causing the fire. Schley was seriously burned.

Risser denied reports that he was holding Ingwald Saboe and Robert Bricknell of Madison.

Jackson County Files Seed Wheat Petitions

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Oct. 28.—Four hundred and thirty-nine applications for drouth relief loans have been forwarded to the federal seed wheat loan bureau at Washington, D. C., from this county, W. B. Forrester, county farm agent, announced.

The first group of applications were forwarded Sept. 16, and the final group this week.

operations in Texas. Both major and independent operators were called on to support the move to curtail drilling.

The directors also declared themselves in favor of the anti-discrimination law, known as the common purchaser law, to prohibit discrimination between operators and oil fields.

Cooperation Stressed

Independent producers were criticized for not maintaining a greater spirit of cooperation with the independent refiners, in addresses by A. B. Slimp and Grover C. Shaw, both of San Antonio.

Slimp said that the "courtesy card" method of major companies is an insult. "That is one of the means they have used to force the filling station operator to sign leases of from one to five years. The independent filling stations haven't 5 per cent of the business in Texas today." He said.

He charged that major companies have two prices for gasoline in Texas.

"When the market was taken away from them, the independents in North Texas were compelled to cut prices," he said.

Shaw, in his address, said that major companies were major concerns because they realized the possibilities of the industry years ago and perfected all departments, keeping each one within bounds.

President T. E. Cranfill announced that representatives of the attorney general's department had conferred with him on the alleged practice of major companies in securing agreements with filling station operators to handle major company products only. He said he had been authorized to appoint a committee to confer with the refiners following the action of the American Petroleum association in suggesting an emblem for the sale of independent products.

ELKS ANNOUNCE 'WOLF RODEO'

Champ Dogs to Battle in Arena Here

A series of "wolf rodeos" and coursing events will be staged by the Wichita Falls Elks lodge here beginning Sunday afternoon, Nov. 16, according to announcement of plans Tuesday by Turner E. Campe of Graham, who will be in charge of the performances.

200 Dogs Expected

Some of the finest wolf and grey hounds in America will compete against 40 full grown wolves for prize money, Mr. Campe said. More than 200 dogs are expected to be entered for the first event, it was said. All owners of greyhounds, wolfhounds and floppies have been invited to make entries, with indications pointing that dog men from several states will be present either to enter dogs or to view the contests.

Wolf coursing, it was explained, is similar to rabbit coursing, with judging being made on the same basis of speed with the additional requirements of grit and fighting ability. An arena is provided in which a wolf has been given a 40-yard start. Two dogs are then released and given three minutes in which to catch and fight the wolf. Although the wolf whips both dogs nine times out of 10, the dog putting up the best fight wins the combat.

The first event will be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at a place which will be decided later. Efforts are being made to secure from 60 to 180 acres on a highway which will allow easy access to the "rodeo" grounds and will allow spectators to view the contests from automobiles. The performances are being sponsored by the local Elks to obtain funds to pay for their new home recently built on Ninth street. Events will be held every Sunday afternoon for several weeks if patronage permits, it was announced.

Famous Dog on Exhibit

Entry fees have been set as follows: events for registered grey and wolf hounds, $10; free for all events, $10; cold blood dog events, $7.50; floppie events, $5.

Entry fees will be used as prize money, with an additional $450 being posted by the promoter as follows: $150 for registered grey and wolfhound events, $150 for free for all events, $100 for cold blood events and $50 for floppie events.

A feature of the first performance, it was announced, will be the showing of the famous Spotted Glory, $10,000 Los Angeles greyhound under the management of Turner E. Campe, the promoter.

Goldstone Trial In Jewel Robbery Set

FORT WORTH, Oct. 28. (AP)—Archie Goldstone's second trial in connection with the theft in February, 1928, of $35,000 worth of jewelry, has been reset for Nov. 17.

Sentenced to six years in the state penitentiary, Goldstone appealed after his first trial and the case was reversed and remanded by the court of criminal appeals. He is alleged to have switched checks on the trunk of a jewelry salesman, en route from Wichita Falls to Fort Worth.

Better Business Leaders to Draft Program at Meeting Tonight

Complete plans for the better business campaign soon to be inaugurated in Wichita Falls will be mapped out Wednesday night by the committee in a meeting to be held at the Wichita club. The committee, composed of J. C. Mytinger, Lester Jones, Roscoe Staton, Harry Gray and Burton Stayton, met Tuesday morning and J. C. Mytinger was chosen chairman; Lester Jones, vice chairman, and John Boswell, secretary.

At Tuesday morning's meeting a number of plans to conduct the campaign were studied but no decision was reached except to go over the ways and means of the campaign, and the adoption of the three following purposes:

1.—To create employment by encouraging repairing, remodeling and improvement work on property and homes in Wichita Falls.

2.—To plan an extensive campaign to stimulate retail sales in Wichita Falls.

3.—To ask the city and county governments to expedite all public improvements, especially those involving considerable amount of labor.

These three activities were chosen because the committee believes them fundamental in stimulating better business at once. With more active wholesale, manufacturing and retail business that will add greatly in giving additional employment.

The committee also agreed for the appointment of a research committee, whose duties will be to make a survey of business and employment conditions as they are locally.

At the meeting of the committee Wednesday night a number of interested citizens will be invited to appear and make suggestions. As soon as the plans are definitely decided upon announcement will be made.

HERE'S THE SIXTH PUZZLE IN THE TIMES-RECORD NEWS "SCRAMBLED LETTER CONTEST"

The Times-Record News is conducting one of the most absorbing contests ever designed for the entertainment of its readers. To stimulate interest in it, and to make it a profitable as well as an enjoyable pastime for the next few weeks, a grand total of 39 prizes aggregating $100 will be awarded for the winning solutions.

Every other day there will be printed a letter of the alphabet in scrambled form, similar to the "F" above. These scrambled sections, when cut apart and properly assembled, will form the accompanying letter indicated. Each letter will be printed once in The Times and Record News.

This new game is extremely fascinating. It requires a high degree of skill to arrange these apparently simple sections in such forms as to make a perfect capital letter. "Scrambled Letters" has swept the country like a storm. Big business executives have taken it up as a genuine test of their ingenuity. Parties are formed in hundreds of communities to work out the puzzle in interested groups.

Each letter will appear in both papers. Full details about entering the contest are published herewith. Remember, 39 prizes make it well worth your time in matching your wits against this brand new intelligence test.

PRIZES ARE AS FOLLOWS

First prize	$35.00
Second prize	15.00
Third prize	10.00
Fourth prize	5.00
Ten prizes at $2 each	20.00
Twenty-five prizes at $1 each	25.00
Grand total	$100.00

Read These Rules

The Times-Record News Nu-Way alphabet puzzles include the 26 letters of the alphabet. The publication of the various letters of the alphabet will cover a period of several weeks. These letters appearing in the paper are cut into pieces of varying shapes, the object being to place these parts together so they will form the respective letters as illustrated in outline accompanying the pieces.

An outline and its entire parts will be published in the Times and Record News every other day, a different letter of the alphabet being presented. The publication of all letters of the alphabet will cover a period of several weeks.

Anyone who is a resident of Wichita Falls or this section may participate in this profitable fun, except employes of the Times and Record News or their families. You pay nothing to enter. Each letter, as it appears in the Times and Record News may be traced or copied free of charge from the files at the office of this newspaper.

The Times and Record News will pay $100 in cash prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved complete set of puzzles in accordance with the rules. This does not necessarily mean that you have to solve all the puzzles to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank the highest. Neatness, accuracy and simplicity are the prime requisites. Accurate cutting and correct assembling of the pieces to form each respective letter. Entries that are elaborate will receive no more consideration than the simplest ones. Young and old thus have an equal chance to win.

Take the page of the Times or Record News wherein the puzzles are published. Cut the pieces carefully along the outside of the black border and paste these pieces neatly so that you completely cover the letter appearing opposite, and repeat this operation every week with the new letters in the Nu-Way alphabet puzzles published in the Times and Record News until you complete the full alphabet.

Puzzle solutions are to be submitted only in complete sets five days after all letters of the alphabet have been published in the Times and Record News. Do not send in each puzzle separately. When you have the complete set of 26 puzzles, or parts thereof, mail first class, postage prepaid, or bring them to the Times and Record News alphabet puzzle department. All entries must be in by midnight five days after the last puzzle has been published in the Times and Record News. The winners will be announced as soon thereafter as possible. Be sure that mailed entries have name and address of sender and sufficient postage is used.

In addition to your entry, you must send an advertisement of one of the advertisers shown on any of the letters clipped from the Times or Record News during this contest period, and a letter not exceeding 50 words in length telling why you can profitably deal with this concern.

The Times and Record News will appoint judges, and their decision will be final. In the event of a tie for any of the prizes offered, the full amount of the prize tied for will be awarded each tying contestant.

DRIVE MAPPED AT IOWA PARK

Lions Entertain Chest Workers

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Oct. 28.—The Iowa Park Lions club, the civic organization that suggested to the chamber of commerce the urgent need for cooperative work, which culminated in the community chest drive to be launched Nov. 3, was host to the 156 workers Tuesday night at a banquet served by the Baptist women in the basement of the Baptist church.

J. C. Murphree, director, explained the purpose of the drive in detail, and plans for completing the quota, $1,500, were launched. It is expected that the first day of soliciting, Tuesday, Nov. 4, will see the drive go over the top.

Women, who heretofore have taken little part in these contributions, will be chief among the workers, and it is planned to give every citizen in Iowa Park an opportunity to share in this community effort, especial effort being made to interest the entire household—where previously, the men only contributed.

AIRWAY ROUTE CONTRACTS LET

Work of Clearing Fields In West Texas Awarded

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28. (AP)—Contracts have been awarded by the aeronautical branch of the department of commerce covering nearly all the construction work on the El Paso-Fort Worth section of the southern airway route, via Abilene, it was announced today.

The largest single item will be undertaken by Clark & Estis of Monahans, to clear and arrange six fields between El Paso and Wink for $18,173.

C. W. Leverett of Cleburne was awarded contracts for constructing fields at Eastland for $2,477, and at Santo for $2,177.

S. D. Morris of El Paso received a contract to fence six fields from El Paso to Wink at $6,849.

H. G. Eastridge of Odessa will grade the Ector county field for $1,955 and fence it for $1,354.

The temporary field at Weatherford will be cleared by J. A. Stacks of Ranger for $949; Westbrook field will be cleared by J. R. Ogiesby of Westbrook for $975, and Underwood & Love of Ranger have contracts to clear the Baird field for $1,488.

This completes practically all of the emergency field construction undertaken by the federal government on the route.

Detectives Call Mrs. O'Loughlin Poker Face Pearl

DENVER, Oct. 28. (UP)—The smile of Pearl O'Loughlin, accused of the murder of her 10-year-old stepdaughter, Leona, was gone today and her two weeks of confinement in jail had drawn a pale shadow across her face.

But while her smile no longer flashed as it did when she was arrested, her nerve and defiance remained with her.

Detectives who originally gave her the sobriquet of "the woman with the cast iron nerve" now call her "Poker-face Pearl."

Detectives made a third arrest today in the baffling child murder, which occurred two weeks ago, but announced the man's alibi apparently was good, as he had proved he was in Wyoming during the disappearance of Leona O'Loughlin, and the later finding of her battered body in Berkeley lake.

The child's death was believed caused by ground glass found in her stomach when the body was recovered from the lake.

Revision of Airmail Contracts Planned

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28. (AP)—Earl B. Wadsworth, superintendent of air mails, said today that the new contracts going into effect Nov. 1 basing rates on space mileage instead of poundage would give a decreased return to the National and Boeing Air Transport companies and increase the rate pay of Colonial Western Airways, Western Air Express and Continental Air Line.

The Boeing company, covering the Chicago-San Francisco route, will be the biggest loser—about $75,000 a month—under the new Watres act calling for the new rate basis, Wadsworth said. Its rate pay, he added, would drop from $1.53 to $1.20 per mile, reducing its monthly pay income from about $344,000 to $269,755.

The National Air Transport, operating from New York to Chicago, he said, would lose about $6,000 a month, its contracts dropping from approximately $122,000 to $116,000 a month.

GRAIN EXPORT PLANT ORDERED

2,500,000 Bu. Elevator To Be Built

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 28. (AP)—A new grain elevator with 2½ million bushels capacity is to be constructed here immediately by the Continental Exporting company of New York and St. Louis. The announcement was made to by Sam S. Carlisle, in charge of the company's office and elevator in St. Louis. The site is in the northeast industrial district.

Carlisle, already a member of the Kansas City board of trade, plans to take charge here when the new elevator is ready for handling of grain, tentatively set for the wheat crop next summer. A downtown office is to be established here.

Carlisle said the imminence of the extension of Missouri river navigation between St. Louis and Kansas City was one of the factors that induced the company to extend its operations to Kansas City. The company deals almost exclusively in grain for export purposes.

The new elevator will increase Kansas City's grain storage capacity to more than 48 million bushels. With nearly 46 million bushels capacity, Kansas City now ranks third as an elevator center in the United States.

Deer Gets Rough And Wrecks Auto; Another Ditched

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 28. (AP)—The deer are getting rough. An eight-point buck wrecked one automobile and ditched another two miles from Bridgeport, Madison county, last night.

Blinded by headlights of the two cars, approaching from different directions, the animal ran full speed into E. Dean Damon's automobile. Damon's car was badly damaged. The other machine, whose driver was not identified, went into a ditch as the driver swerved to avoid striking the deer which had been knocked down in the road.

The buck, minus one antler, made off into the Cicero swamps.

Frederick C.-C. Awards Prizes in Rose Show

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 28.—Wilson Consolidated school No. 2, southwest of Frederick, was awarded $10 by the Frederick Junior Chamber of Commerce for having the best rural school campus.

Winners in the rose contest, which was conducted at the Hotel Frederick, were Mrs. J. A. Graham, first, consolidated district No. 2; Mrs. J. D. Moore, Frederick, second.

So many beautiful roses were on display that the Women's Chamber of Commerce decided to adopt the rose as Frederick's flower in place of the phlox.

Mrs. J. A. Graham exhibited 16 red radiance roses; Mrs. Moore exhibited several different kinds of roses, arranged in a crystal basket. Mrs. Graham gave her prize money to the Woman's Chamber of Commerce, who in turn gave it to No. 2 school for beautifying its campus.

Roses for the luncheon table, where 40 guests were entertained by the Woman's Chamber of Commerce, were furnished by Mrs. E. H. Brown of the Southside Florists, who did not compete in the rose contest.

Final Chapter In Jake Fleagle Case Written Tuesday

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 28. (INS)—The final chapter in the killing of "Jake" Fleagle, bank bandit, by officers here, was written today when J. B. Fleagle of Garden City, Kan., father of the notorious "Jake," called here to claim his son's possessions.

At the hospital he got a watch belonging to his son and insisted on paying expenses incidental to "Jake's" burial, although he was not legally liable.

He took possession of his son's effects in the White river cabin hideout and ordered them disposed of by auction.

The elder Jake then called on the surgeon who had performed an operation in an effort to save the bandit's life. He offered to pay a fee to the doctor and on the latter's refusal thanked him for his effort to save his son's life.

GIRL DECOY IN EXTORTION PLOT

Man and Woman Held In Blackmail Scheme

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 28. (UP)—An alleged plot in which an 18-year-old Fort Worth, Texas, high school girl was used as a decoy to blackmail wealthy Oklahoma City and Tulsa oil men was revealed here today by Roy St. Lewis, United States district attorney.

Lewis refused to disclose the names of a man and woman held in jail here awaiting federal grand jury investigation of the scheme believed to have taken thousands of dollars from wealthy men. They denied the charges.

"This couple inserted ads in a Fort Worth paper asking for a secretary. They posed as interior decorators for a large Chicago firm. The girl was informed she must travel with them. The girl accepted the position, Lewis said.

"They came here and made dates for her with wealthy men. Posing as her mother, the woman would call the man and threaten the man for goin gwith her daughter and demand payments," Lewis said.

Music Study Club Presents Beautiful Morning Program

Mesdames Walter Robbins, W. M. Olmsted and Philip Oviatt were hostesses Tuesday morning when the Music Study club met in the first guest day of the autumn season at Mrs. Robbins' home on Lucile. An audience that would encourage any musician to give her best was present. With the beginning of the program, the compliment of utter silence was paid the musicians.

To a mere lover of music, not a student, a long walk would be small pay for the thrill of hearing such delightful things as the Reger "Lullaby" given by Mrs. Flora Greenwood and the exquisite "Ships of Arcady" with which Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey enraptured her audience. There is music that gives a thrill beyond description and those two numbers were of that variety.

But members of the Music Study club confine their numbers to real artists. There were comments on all sides on Mrs. Allred's interpretation of Chopin and real music critics spoke of the splended manner in which Mrs. Fred Sharpe gave the two violin numbers next on the program, with the perfect accompaniment of Mrs. Philip Oviatt.

Mesdames Kenneth Bebb, W. M. Olmsted and A. H. Mahaffey had a group of three charming songs in which their lovely voices blended perfectly and Mrs. Philip Oviatt was also accompanist for them. Mrs. W. C. Hamilton played the "Valse Caprice," by Cyril Scott with perfect interpretation and lovely touch and Mrs. Greenwood had two violin numbers that were melody itself. An audience that expected everything of "Ave Maria," came away with the "Lullaby" deep in their hearts. Mrs. Greenwood was also accompanied by Mrs. Oviatt.

Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey's numbers with Mrs. W. M. Olmsted as accompanist, closed the delightful program. The "Wood Song" and "The Ships of Arcady," were especially lovely but it is safe to say that the song with which Mrs. Mahaffey touched the greater number of her audience was "The Ships of Arcady."

Mrs. Kenneth Bebb introduced Mrs. O. E. Nicholls, vice president, who announced the numbers on the program, which were in full as follows:

D-b Scherzo ..... Chopin
Mrs. James V. Allred
Serenade du Tsigane ..... Valdes
Serenade ..... Herbert
Mrs. Fred Sharpe with Mrs. Philip Oviatt accompanist
The Cuckoo ..... Hahn
At the Tea House ..... Harker
Beneath Thy Lattice ..... Hopkins
Mesdames Kenneth Bebb, W. M. Olmsted and A. H. Mahaffey with Mrs. Philip Oviatt, accompanist
Valse Caprice ..... Cyril Scott
Mrs. W. C. Hamilton
Ave Maria ..... Schubert-Wilhelmj
Lullaby ..... Reger
Mrs. Flora Greenwood with Mrs. W. M. Olmsted, accompanist
Wood Song ..... Buchanan
Au clair de la Lune ..... Lully-Brandt
The Ships of Arcady ..... Head
Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, accompanied by Mrs. W. M. Olmsted

A delightful refreshment plate was served by the hostesses to Mesdames Stanley M. Raub, Victor B. Lowrey, James V. Allred, Fred Sharpe, Wm. Olmsted, Philip Oviatt, Flora Greenwood, A. H. Mahaffey, W. D. Grant, John A. Kay, J. B. Nail, Howard Renfro, George Dwyer, J. E. H. Railey, M. M. Garrett, Pearl Calhoun Davis, C. Y. Tully, Lucille B. Huff, Miss Florence Sammons, Mesdames C. W. Boller, Ada Neeley, W. H. Roper, Wayne J. Holmes, Clara S. Baber, J. W. Akin Jr., Frank Van Wormer, Ethel Allen Nelson, Ernest Kirksey, G. D. Bowie, Edwin Bebb, Perry Hancock, J. V. C. T. Christensen, W. M. Cason, H. W. Roberts, J. E. Hall, Walter Robbins, O. E. Nichols.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We made our first real visit to Henrietta, Texas last week. It taught us that just driving through a little town tells you nothing of it.

◆ ◆ ◆

We had a host and hostess who had brought their old Virginia hospitality to Texas with them. And anyone who knows Virginians, knows what the word "hospitality" means. The lovely heirlooms that came from the old state were not more precious nor priceless than the spirit of the gracious woman whose every thought was for the comfort of her guests. No wonder her neighbors love her.

◆ ◆ ◆

The day left pictures in our mind. The last one was as we looked just before we parted, out a small window looking on the wide space of lawn in the back and the curving beds and hedges that made a garden of friendliness—where every friend had given from her treasures.

◆ ◆ ◆

We went to the home of the pioneers of the town—and brought away memories of tall pier glasses, of rosewood music cabinets, of prism'd candle sticks and of many portraits—most impressive of which was a great picture of the mother of the home, leaning in fresh and colorful beauty against a tree on a lovely lawn.

◆ ◆ ◆

And then we met her; though years had gone by, she has still the exquisite dignity of the young girl. She is a genuine "lady of the old school" and no one, seeing her or hearing her talk, could question her breeding. But Mrs. W. S. Ikard still "mothers" the town of Henrietta. If she hears of illness or need, she starts out instantly on an errand of mercy. They speak with wonder of the distances she walks, not waiting for the many cars at her disposal.

◆ ◆ ◆

She has a treasure that she shows to guests—the discharge of her son from the French army. He went into the battle line before America had entered the war. His death later was a crushing blow to the mother who adored him, but she glories in his valor.

◆ ◆ ◆

There's another picture that is beautiful in our memory. A gentle slope to where masses of golden cosmos, deep hued zinnias and budding chrysanthemums make a mass of rich autumn color against an iron fence. Great drooping arborvitaes that have grown into grandfather and grandmother trees still have vanity to peer at themselves in the great round pool where grandfather and grandmother goldfish live in content.

◆ ◆ ◆

The simple beauty of that spot was lovelier to us than the lovely gardens cultivated on the other side of the house and the vision we had of the flag stones leading down to a vine-clad pergola.

◆ ◆ ◆

Then the women of Henrietta! What an odd idea people of cities conceive concerning the people of little towns. Henrietta women talk of books and universities and music and of all the things that interest the minds of intellectual women. They are workers and home makers fit to compete with any New Yorker.

◆ ◆ ◆

We wish to know so much more of little towns.

Business Women's Party at Camp Noble

A Halloween party will be given at Camp Noble Wednesday, evening it is announced.

Members of the Business and Professional Women's club are sponsoring it and expect a delightful evening.

Romance Vanishes With Matrimony, Says Dorothy Dix

Dear Miss Dix—Please tell me: Can romance survive matrimony? And how?—BILL.

Answer—If by romance you mean illusion and delusion, and that a husband and wife are to continue to see each other through the pink haze of sentiment, as they did in their courting days, and to regard each other as pin-feathered angels and beings of impossible perfections, then romance does not survive marriage.

For it is impossible for any two people to be brought together in the close intimacy of married life without finding out each other's blemish. In the fierce light that beats upon the hearthstone every camouflage is penetrated, every artifice swept away and the man and woman stand forth as what they really are.

Gone is the impossible she of the man's imagining, a beauteous creature who never grew old nor ill nor tired; who never had nerves or temper or irritating little ways, and who was always exquisitely dressed and waiting to welcome him home with a glad, sweet smile. In her place is a very human woman who looks like heck after being up all night with a teething baby; who has a will and ideas of her own and who is often peevish and naggy.

Gone is the Fairy Prince whom the girl had concocted out of her dreams; who was always slim and handsome and a gallant lover, and who never wearied of holding her hand and telling her how beautiful and wonderful she was. In his place is the man who gets paunchy and loses his hair, and who is fussy about his meals and worried over business and who expects his wife to take his affection for granted.

So if you think that romance consists in billing and cooing and palpitations and thrills and high-pressure love making, then certainly marriage kills it. For no intelligent adult human beings can keep on believing in Santa Claus after they have once seen him with his white wig and whiskers and his red coat off. Once the myth is dispelled, it is gone forever. Nor is there any way to make thrills a continuous performance. Nor can any one go on deluding himself and pretending to things that he does not feel for years upon years. After a time the make-believe wears out from too much strain having been put upon it.

So the romance of courtship vanishes into thin air when John discovers how Mary looks before she puts on her complexion in the morning and that she is a dub of a cook and doesn't know the value of money and that she is a repeater who says the same thing over a thousand times. And when Mary finds out that it isn't safe to speak to John before he has his morning coffee and that he is a bit of a tightwad and that he has to be jollied into doing the things that he ought to do and that he laps up flattery as a cat does cream.

But the romance of illusion is the cheapest form of romance and when that has been burned up in the fires of matrimony out of its ashes there often springs another romance that lasts as long as life does. This is a romance of a man and woman who start out to build a home together, a home that will endure, and in which children will be born and reared, a home in which there will be love and loyalty and peace and harmony.

And there is the romance of the poor young couple who marry on a shoestring and who work and strive and sacrifice, who hope and plan and dream together until at last their ambitions are realized and the man becomes the merchant prince or the great banker or the inventor or the famous writer or whatever it was that they had set their hearts upon attaining.

You never see a happy home with gay young people coming and going in it that you do not see one of the romances of marriage that has lasted. You never see a fat old woman riding in a luxurious limousine, bedecked in jewels and Paris clothes, that you do not see another of the romances of marriage. Some elderly husband is lavishing the diamond broaches and rings and ropes of pearls on his Sally that he dreamed of giving her her when they were young and she was sitting up at night to wash his shirt and patch his breeches so that he could go to work the next day.

A milliner told me that once an elderly, plainly dressed husband and wife, evidently from the country, came into her place to buy a hat. The woman selected a cheap little one suited to her need, but the husband happened to spy a gorgeous creation, covered with flowers and feathers and gewgaws intended for a bridesmaid at a picture wedding, and he insisted on buying that for his wife.

She protested that it was years too young for her, that she would never have any place to wear it, that it cost too much, but the husband was adamant.

"No, Mary," he said, "you worked hard and did without everything when we were poor, and now that we have got plenty, the best isn't good enough for you. And as for it not becoming you, why, there are none of the girls half so pretty as you are."

And that is what I mean by the romance that survives marriage. The miracle of love is not when two young people fall in love with each other, but when just ordinary people stay in love with each other through poverty and sickness and hard work and the vicissitudes of living.

There are many ways in which romance can be preserved. First by both the husband and wife cultivating its spirit, by their trying to make themselves as attractive to each other as they can. Then by their securing to themselves some privacy and by maintaining a certain reserve toward each other. There is no reason why husbands and wives should tell each other everything they think and everything they do. It is the lack of mystery about each other that makes so many married couples get on each other's nerves. It is because husbands and wives have told each other everything that they know that they bore each other.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Mrs. Smock Named Head Of Civic League For New Year

Mrs. T. B. Smock was named president of Pioneer Civic league and Mrs. R. J. Goodale was elected vice president of the organization at the annual luncheon given the group by the Zundelowitz school in the cafeteria of the building Tuesday at 1 o'clock.

Mrs. J. M. Isbell was re-elected secretary and Mrs. M. H. Glover was named to serve the organization as treasurer for another year. Mrs. E. B. Gorsline was elected historian.

The tables were attractively decorated with baskets of golden cosmos and autumn leaves. Crystal candle holders with yellow tapers were placed at intervals and favors were Halloween nut cups. Mrs. Charles Pogenpohl and her committee had charge of the decorations.

The invocation was given by Mrs. C. W. Beavers, after which Mrs. J. E. H. Railey had charge of the program. H. A. Glass, principal of Zundelowitz school discussed the library which the club is sponsoring and announced that 300 children use it every day. He also stated that 1,800 new reference and supplementary books have been added to the stacks this year making a total of 4,500 books in the library.

J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of city schools, expressed his appreciation to the club for what it has done for the school and also told about the library at the Junior college, which he said had grown to be one of the most vital features of the college.

The meeting was closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Covers were laid for Mesdames J. E. H. Railey, J. M. Isbell, L. E. Stone, M. J. Gardner, R. G. Scheurer, Harry O. Cravens, Charles H. Dent, J. W. Cantwell, Charles Pogenpohl, T. B. Smock, M. Junior Forum To Sponsor Parade On Carnival Eve

Members of the Junior Forum, under the direction of Mrs. T. A. Hicks, will parade the downtown streets Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock as a colorful prelude to the flower carnival which opens Friday. A prize of $5 is offered for the best decorated car in the parade.

Miss Margaret Peery is chairman of the parade and Misses Dolores Peavey, Mary Tancred, Marjorie Bright and Marietta Hunt are on her committee.

Attention is called by members of the arrangement committee to the fact that all cakes and pies submitted to the carnival to compete in the prize offering must be in the building at 1012 Scott by Thursday at noon. Donations will be received either Thursday or Friday, but articles for competition have the Thursday noon limit.

The electric range presented to the forum by the Texas Electric Service company and the chest donated by E. F. Riley and filled with linens presented by members of the forum are on exhibit in the windows of "The Palms," the new indoor golf room located on Scott in the building formerly ocupied by the Scott Hardware company. These windows have been loaned for exhibition purposes until the carnival is opened.

Culture Club Discusses Interesting Stories

Mrs. J. Emold was leader in the program when the Culture club met at her home Tuesday afternoon with the subject "Short Stories." Rudyard Kipling's "Phantom Rickshaw" was the first story given by Mrs. Emold and an interested discussion resulted among the members.

O. Henry's "A Retrieved Reformation" was of almost as great interest and led to further discussion.

Those present were Mrs. J. Emold, Louis Franklin, Milton Katz, Sam Kruger, H. Vonderau, Max Shain and J. W. Ginsberg.

Junior Business Girls' Program Is Novel Party

A Halloween party was combined with a formal tea in the third of a series of lessons in food service Monday evening at a meeting of the Junior Business Girls at the Y. W. C. A. Miss Pearl Rorabough, Red Cross nutritionist, was in charge of planning menu and recipes for the tea.

The parlors of the Y. W. C. A. were decorated in Halloween colors of orange and black. The tea table cover was of orange tarleton with a centerpiece of yellow flowers in a black bowl and black tapers in black holders. Sandwiches, candy and cakes carried out the color scheme.

Faye McBride was hostess for the occasion and Ola Fickland and Margaret Brand poured tea.

Following the tea, games were played and prizes were won by Evelyn Kelly and Margaret Brand. Before the meeting several of the girls belonging to the Junior Business Girls club and Business and Professional Women's club began the first of a series of lessons in tap dancing under the instruction of Miss Bulah Gardiner of San Antonio.

The following were present: Dora Blank, Ivy Belle Taylor, Clara Boust, Mary Faubion, Lennis Bentz, Berneise Taylor, Essie Hughs, Lucyle Whitman, Lottie B. Reynolds, Catherine Walker, Margaret Kennedy, Carrie Koenig, Minnie Louise Pidsley, Faye McBride, Nell Green, Hazel Hill, Evelyn Kelly, Gene Strickland, Marie Thorne, Margaret Brand, Ola Fickland, Bulah Gilbreath, Odell Swoope, Ruth Lammers, Lucy Long, Maurine Leach, Fay Beveridge, Pearl Rorabaugh, Thelma Wisdom and Nettye McKain.

Mrs. McCormick Files Report of Expenses

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28. (INS)—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican candidate for the senate in Illinois today filed a pre-election report of campaign expenses with the secretary of the senate, and added a statement that she would not include the cost of detectives hired by her during her controversy with the Nye committee.

She reported contributions to Oct. 24 of $12,052, and expenditures of $10,842.

In addition, she said, she has spent not to exceed $6,000 for filing fees, postage and similar items not required to be reported under the corrupt practices act.

Campaign expense statements of her Democratic opponent, James Hamilton Lewis, filed yesterday, showed contributions of $14,050 and expenditures of $14,617.

Mrs. Lottie O'Neil, the third candidate in the Illinois race, has not reported.

James J. Davis, Republican senatorial candidate from Pennsylvania, reported no contributions and expenditures of $3,876.

Thomas P. Gore, Democratic candidate in Oklahoma, reported contributions of $2,505 and expenditures of $1,141.

Mangum Civic Clubs To Compete in Drives

Special to The Record News

MANGUM, Okla., Oct. 28.—Mangum's Rotary and Kiwanis clubs will again tangle in friendly rivalry when on Nov. 10 the two civic organizations compete for the second time of a membership contest in connection with the annual roll call of the American Red Cross.

Due to the efforts of these organizations a year ago the Greer county chapter of the Red Cross was first in Oklahoma and third in the United States to report the quota raised. The county's quota this year is 800, and Ralph Helper, county chairman, is confident that it will be exceeded.

RAINS INCREASE SUFFERING

MAZATLAN, SINAOLA, Mexico, Oct. 28. (UP)—Suffering and damage in recent storms on the West coast were increased today after 48 hours of steady rain. The Southern Pacific railroad of Mexico, was blocked north of La Cruz, Sinaola, and south of Rosario. All streams were over their banks.

Fine Arts Department Has Original Program Tuesday

One of the most original programs that has ever been given by departments at the Woman's Forum was offered when the fine arts department, embracing drama, music and art gave phases of each of the arts Tuesday afternoon at the Forum clubhouse. The setting was one of the most attractive shown as paintings from George Chapeller's collection gave life and beauty to the walls.

Original paintings from 1530 down to the present date were on exhibition. Almost every country was represented with notable artists. George Romney's painting of Lady Hamilton as St. Cecelia held a place of honor against the velvet curtains on the stage and the portrait of Charles James Fox by Stuart hung at the entrance. Only one picture of each period was shown and in a short gallery talk, the collector pointed out his favorites.

It was announced that open house will be held at the forum Wednesday evening for a real exhibit of the paintings when the owner will explain their values.

Mrs. Strief Talks

Mrs. William Young introduced Mrs. H. J. Strief who made a talk on music in its connection with the church. Mrs. Strief named the great composers of each country and told of the time when harmony was first used. Masters were beautifully spoken of with their music as a medium between spiritual and physical life. The talk, made without notes, was clearly and gracefully given and Mrs. Strief had a notably attentive audience.

Mrs. William Mitchell was introduced to talk on drama and told of the ambition of the department to be a live, working department. The suggestion was made that a drama should be taken, studied, and finally played with nothing commercial in its production, only the mental achievement and the cultural contact.

Miss Mary Hamilton was presented by this department in a dramatic reading, "Mamzelle," splendidly given. In the absence of Mrs. H. F. Weldon, chairman of the department, who had been suddenly called out of town, Mrs. W. P. Killingsworth made announcements for the department.

One-Act Play

Mrs. William Young introduced for the music department an original one-act play arranged by herself, called "Trees." Kitty Ruth Jackson and Sammie Jane Seay were announced as elves; drawings were announced made by Miss Ethel Chamberlin, Elizabeth Tribble, Mrs. William Ward and Mrs. Floyd L. Randel. Singers were Mesdames C. Y. Tully, Walter Priddy, C. H. Evans, F. L. Randel and Miss Lucy Huggins with Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., accompanist.

The curtain rose on a pretty woodland scene with the two elves dancing on the green. At the back of the stage was a curtained recess and as they drew it showing an apple tree, the voices gave "The Old Apple Tree." A pine tree next brought the chorus of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," "The Lilac Tree" was sung for a lilac tree and the bamboo tree had for its song "Under the Bamboo Tree."

Mrs. Walter Priddy gave as a concluding solo number the lovely "Tree" song by Joyce Kilmer.

Approximately 100 members were present at the meeting.

Eleven Persons Claim To Be Heir to Huge Bequest

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 28. (UP) A fortune of $325,000 is awaiting the person who can prove himself the missing grandchild of the late William E. Emery of Flemington, and each of 11 persons have set out individually to establish a right to the money.

Emery willed half his estate to the heir of his daughter, Florence, who married Francis F. Georges, divorced him and married again.

But whether the child was a boy or a girl is not definitely known and one former associate of Emery expressed doubt that Mrs. Georges ever had a child.

Sponsors Honored For Ben Franklin Membership Drive

Bowls of beautiful roses and vases of brilliant autumn flowers in many colors added beauty to the handsome home of Mrs. Marvin Smith when the executive board of the Benjamin Franklin school entertained the sponsors, assistant sponsors and teachers there Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Skeen Staley, presided as the reports of the membership committee were given by the sponsors. Approximately 335 members were added in the drive and although several rooms reported 100 per cent paid up membership, Mrs. L. O. Shudde, sponsor for Miss Latimer's room of high third grade pupils was winner of the prize offered because she collected the largest amount of money.

Following the business, Mrs. M. T. Clements, president of the Benjamin Franklin P.-T. A., made an inspirational talk to those present.

A delicious refreshment plate was served to Mesdames D. L. Hill, C. F. O'Hara, Paul P. Steed, Marshall E. Perry, J. L. Fooshee, G. R. Burch M. T. Clements, G. D. To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

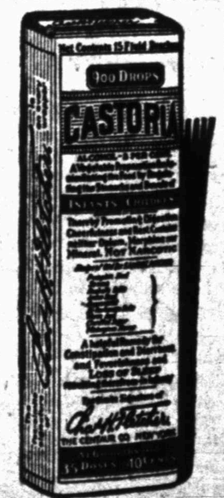

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Castoria... for CHILDREN'S ailments

ARE you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. For a sudden attack of colic, or for the gentle relief of constipation; to allay a feverish spell, or to soothe a fretful baby that can't sleep. This pure vegetable preparation is always ready to ease an ailing youngster. It is just as harmless as the recipe on the wrapper reads. If you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature, it is genuine Castoria. It is harmless to the smallest infant; doctors will tell you so.

You can tell from the formula on the wrapper how mild it is, and how good for little systems. But continue with Castoria until a child is grown.

Such a help for dishes

—makes pots and pans shine too

WASHING dishes is no work at all with Rinso! It's a joy to see the way they soak spotless in creamy Rinso suds. All you need to do is rinse them in hot water; they dry clear and sparkling by themselves. No wiping needed!

Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps—because it's granulated and compact. Rich, soapy, lasting suds, even in the hardest water. No grit. Marvelous suds for washing out bathtubs, basins, sinks. Makes all cleaning easier.

And for the weekly wash . . . Rinso is the choice of millions. It soaks clothes whiter than they can be scrubbed. Get the BIG package.

LIONS HOLD ANNUAL DINNER

'Notables' of Music Provide Entertainment

Members of the Lions club and their wives to the number of about 100 persons assembled at the Highland Heights Christian church Tuesday night for the annual banquet, and to honor Erwin F. Bohmfalk, religious educational director of the First Methodist church, who will vacate that post on Dec. 1.

G. A. Rogers, local royalty and production dealer, was the principal speaker of the occasion, and devoted much of his talk to philosophic humor. He also commended the part which the fellowship afforded by service clubs is playing in the construction of a new type of patriotism which is international rather than national.

Eulogies to Mr. Bohmfalk were pronounced by Dr. A. H. Graham, district governor of Lions clubs, who expressed appreciation of his work with the local club during the past several years.

Entertainment provided for the evening by Mrs. J. W. Bradley and Paul Woodward consisted of a musical program given by visiting artists of international fame. Mary Garden, colorful dramatic soprano of Chicago, en route to Amarillo for a concert there next Monday, was impersonated by Williard L. Underwood, tenor, in a stop-over visit here. Miss Garden was accompanied by Gene Howe of Amarillo, as represented by Miss Margaret Fleming in gentleman's evening dress, who reputedly met the prima donna in Wichita Falls for the purpose of smoothing over their nationally known squabble before Miss Garden appears in Amarillo next Monday. At the insistence of his auburn-haired companion, Mr. Howe admitted a growing interest in things musical, and was persuaded to sing a McCormack song, "I Feel You Near Me," the study of which he is now pursuing. Miss Garden sang two numbers, the first "The Little Damozel," a favorite Galli-Curci program song, and her second being "Because" with words written by the singer for use at her next wedding, if she ever goes crazy again." Floral tokens which accompanied prolific applause proved to be a well known vegetable, rich in native greenery.

The second visiting artist was Madame Erikle Marini, famed Italian virtuoso of the violin, who played "Believe Me, if All Those Endearing Young Charms," with startlingly modern improvisations on the theme. Revolutionary harmonic effects thrilled her audience noticeably. Incidentally, Madame Marini was revealed at the conclusion of a notable performance to be Patrick Henry Jr.

The musical program opened with two violin selections by Mrs. Fred Sharp, contrasting in their exquisite expression the burlesqued performances of the trio of visiting artists. Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey played accompaniments for all of the solo numbers.

Alva R. Wilgus, formerly of this city, and now a field secretary of Lions International, was present at the banquet, and conducted a sing-song. Mrs. J. S. Pitman, soprano, sang a version of "Till We Meet Again" dedicated to Mr. Bohmfalk. Paul Woodward acted as toastmaster.

New York World Answers Hoover

made against the department of the interior by Ralph S. Kelley and published in a 'journal identified with the opposition party.' The journal which Mr. Hoover thus describes is, of course, the World.

"To the best of our knowledge the facts with respect to the Kelley articles are these:

"The articles were prepared by a government servant who has an honorable record of more than a quarter of a century behind him in the department of the interior. The articles were written, Mr. Kelley informed the World, and the readers of the World, because Mr. Kelley believed only a public protest on his part could put an end to methods which he regarded as scandalous betrayal of the public interest.

"The articles themselves were replete with specific facts, names, dates and figures. They raised questions which seemed to the World at the time and still seem to the World to call for exhaustive investigation. The only investigation which they have had is a brief survey into Secretary Wilbur's department conducted by an agent of one of Secretary Wilbur's colleagues in Mr. Hoover's cabinet. This agent has denied the accuracy of Mr. Kelley's charges. Mr. Kelley, speaking as the former expert of the government and speaking on the basis of his 25 years of honest service to the government, has repeated his charges.

"It seems to us that these charges call for a more thorough investigation than they have yet received, by an agency whose motives are perhaps less partisan. Such an agency is the public lands committee of the senate. It is quite apparent that the public lands committee will initiate an investigation as soon as congress meets. It will be time then, we suggest to Mr. Hoover, to determine how 'reckless, baseless and infamous' Mr. Kelley's charges are."

Shaw Lists Einstein Among Eight Makers of Universe in Human History

Famous Satirist and Scientist Exchange Compliments Over London Banquet Table

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. (US)—Euclid, Ptolemy, Kepler, Copernicus, Aristotle, Galileo, Newton and Einstein were described by Geore Bernard Shaw as "makers of the universe" in a radio address delivered tonight in London and broadcast throughout the United States over the Columbia chain.

It was the first time Mr. Shaw had ever appeared before the microphone. He spoke at a dinner given by the joint committee for the promotion of Eastern Jewry, Prof. Albert Einstein and Mr. Shaw were the guests of honor at the dinner.

Mr. Shaw talked for half an hour covering a variety of subjects and finally claiming kin to Einstein on the ground that Einstein's mind was that of an artist rather than of a mathematician. Parts of Mr. Shaw's speech were not heard well here because of atmospheric conditions. He said in part:

"We have a string of great financiers, great diplomats, great scientists, and even occasionally an author, and we make pictures as we talk. I know that great men are a mixed lot but if you take a typical great man and suppose right here tonight I propose a toast to Napoleon.

Napoleon Toasted

"Well, undoubtedly, I could say many flattering things about Napoleon, but the one thing which I shall not be able to say about him would be perhaps the most important thing and it is that it would perhaps have been better for the human race if he had never been born.

"There are eight men who are great above great men and it is a lot of great men whom you have amongst you here tonight.

"Napoleon and other great men were makers of empire but these eight men whom I am about to mention were makers of universes and their hands were not stained with the blood of their fellowmen.

"I go back 2,500 years and how many can I count in that time? I can count them on the fingers of my two hands. Euclid, Ptolemy, Kepler, Copernicus, Aristotle, Galileo, Newton and Einstein, and I still have two fingers left vacant."

Einstein Speaks

Professor Einstein spoke briefly in German. He reviewed the history of the persecution of the Jews for 2,000 years and remarked that in England they had been allowed more freedom than in any other country. He said there must be something in the spirit of the community of Jews worth preserving, otherwise it would not have existed for so long and added that every effort should be made to keep that spirit intact.

Referring to Mr. Shaw's speech, Professor Einstein said that although Shaw had not created a universe, he had added much to the happiness of the world with his creation of character.

PUBLIC HEALTH HEADS NAMED

San Francisco Official Is President-Elect

FORT WORTH, Oct. 28. (UP)—Dr. William C. Hassler, health officer of San Francisco, was named president-elect of the American public health association at a meeting of the governing council tonight. Montreal, Canada, was picked for next year's convention.

Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, U. S. surgeon general, Washington, was installed as president for next year to succeed A. J. Chesley, of St. Paul, Minn. Dr. Hassler will take office next year.

The three vice presidents elected were, in order, Dr. Rafael Silva, chief of the national department of health of Mexico, Mexico City; Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, department of health, Toronto, Canada, and Dr. A. H. Flickwir, director of public health and welfare, Fort Worth.

Louis I. Dublin, chief statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, New York City, was elected treasurer. Dr. W. S. Rankin, of the Duke Endowment, Charlotte, N. C., was named chairman of the executive board and Homer N. Calver, New York City, was reappointed executive secretary.

The convention will close Thursday night.

FAIR EXHIBIT PROVES WORTH

Remington Urges Showing In Northern States

Proposals that the exhibit from the Wichita valley irrigated farm lands which attracted widespread attention at the Dallas state fair be enlarged and taken to the fairs in Oklahoma City, Springfield, Ohio, and other northern states next year were made here Tuesday by G. A. Remington, manager of the irrigation district, who had charge of the exhibition.

Mr. Remington declared that the display appeals to farmers from Oklahoma and Ohio and to northern agricultural men who are interested in moving to the milder climate of the South.

Fifty thousand visitors studied the exhibit during the Dallas fair and 22,000, including an interested investor from South America, received booklets explaining the advantages of the land.

Cold weather is motor-punishing weather ... Now, more than ever, you need the extra protection of this DE-WAXED, EASY-STARTING OIL

CONOCO

In cold weather motors usually are hard to start, but Conoco Germ-Processed oil actually makes starting easier!

There are two good reasons for this. First: Germ-Processed oil is thoroughly dewaxed and does not congeal at low temperatures. Second: Germ-Processed oil does not drain away during periods of motor idleness. The initial "turning over" process is made easier by the protective lubricating film which is on duty before you touch the starter. The usual 40% to 60% of motor wear occurring during the starting period is greatly reduced. Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil gives you safe starting—and quick starting, even at zero temperatures.

Change now to this new oil. Use it all winter for motor safety and economy. You always will find Germ-Processed Motor Oil at stations bearing the Conoco Red Triangle.

A Roosevelt Hesitates
Mind Over Matter
Dean Clute's Case
Britain's Promises

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Governor Roosevelt has elevated to the bench a number of ambitious and obscure lawyers. There is a strong suspicion that some of them got their posts by paying for them—of course, without the governor's knowledge. A second plea from the extraordinary grand jury to widen its judicial inquiry so as to include these lawyers is rejected by Roosevelt. As a consequence, Special Prosecutor Todd finds himself forced to continue his investigations with money contributed by the citizen's union, a private organization, rather than out of the funds of New York county.

This places, as Mr. Todd says, the grand jury in an "undignified position." But Roosevelt is not concerned these days with that. He is determined to use all his executive prerogatives to save the remnants of honor to which his party still clings. The effort, hardly a noble one, will do the governor no good among thinking voters.

The miracle of Helen Keller is almost duplicated in the case of Dean Clute. Clute is blind and crippled, an inmate of city hospital on Welfare island, yet he contributes articles to the American Mercury, and has helped others to read and write.

Arthritis kept Clute on his back for 15 years. Yet he never said "die." Denied sight, he used the eyes of fellow inmates. Unable to get around, he traveled farther than Pinedo, and with the speed of Hawks, to the ends of the world and time—through reading and thought.

Clute's mind conquered matter so definitely that today he is moving out of city hospital into an apartment in Greenwich Village, which will adjoin a bookshop that he will own and operate!

The mandate of Great Britain, which virtually favored the establishment of a Jewish national homeland in Palestine, is now interpreted by Britain as a mandate that must be "equally just, fair and considerate of all the inhabitants of that country, regardless of race or religion." It happens that the Arabs outnumber the Jews by about 7 to 1, so that being "equally fair, just and considerate of all the inhabitants" amounts to saying that England does not, and cannot, favor the eventual setting up of a Jewish government in Jerusalem—a pledge practically vouchsafed at the time of the war and now withdrawn.

War promises by governments are evidently as unreliable as some love promises in courtship. Both are given pro tempore to secure an advantage which otherwise might be lost. The resignation of Dr. Weizmann, president of the Zionist organization, throws down the gauntlet to British vacillation.

Palestine belongs to the Jews by historic right, by tradition, by virtue of the millions, in men and money, they have contributed towards transforming the arid soil back again into a land of milk and honey. The 700,000 Moslem Arabs are undeservedly reaping the benefit of that harvest.

Big merchants watch with interest a growing campaign to make people buy extensively. Citizens are urged to spend their money freely but wisely. Philadelphia leads the way with a "Buy Now" movement. Meanwhile President Hoover asks Arthur Woods, former police commissioner of New York, and a good one, to start an organization to find jobs for millions of idle. If that works out there will be more buying. A man out of work can't buy much.

A Move to the Country

THE outskirts of American cities are generally curious places. There are usually two or three suburban neighborhoods with large houses, well-kept lawns and great shade trees, where the well-to-do live. There are other, larger neighborhoods, with smaller houses, lawns and trees, where the lesser folk live. Then, succeeding these, and straggling out into the country, are more or less haphazard, undesigned regions where houses of no particular style of architecture lie tossed in one and two-acre plats of ground, surrounded by vegetable gardens and set off by rickety garages.

These are the places that lie between the suburbs and the open country. They are occupied by city folk, generally by working men, but they partake of the rural; their vegetable gardens are usually flourishing, and there is ordinarily a swarm of children about each one, generally a dog and often a rather commodious chicken coop.

Here is the way one of these homes comes into existence:

A workingman buys the land—an acre of low-priced ground, probably—on a land contract. First of all, he builds a garage on it. Usually it is a two-car garage, although he has but one car; and he and his family move in and set up housekeeping beside the family car.

There follows a year or two or three of this. Then, the land paid for, a house is built. Sometimes the occupant is a carpenter or a mason by trade, in which case he builds the house himself. Otherwise, he has it done in the usual way. Eventually—say five years after he first took over the land—he has his place all fixed, with a house, a garage, an acre of ground, and a neat garden. He drives to and from work in the city, his family lives in the open country and all hands are well satisfied.

This is something that the automobile has made possible. It couldn't be done in the old days. The workingman had to stick within street car distance of his job, and dismal were the city slums into which he cramped himself. Now, however, if he has energy and courage, he can get away and work out his own salvation.

Now in diagnosing the future we usually assume that it will follow the recent past—that cities will grow larger and larger as the years go by. But is it not quite as reasonable to suppose that this new trend outward will take the place of the old trend inward? And isn't that, on the whole, a better prospect?

Cities are not, after all, very good places for people to live. This dawning movement to the open country is a good sign. It means a better life, and a measure of real independence, for the people who take part in it. Let us hope that it continues; and if the homes that it produces are not very pleasing to the eye, just remember that the average block of low-priced houses in a big city is not, either.

A Warning for Hunters

THE Izaak Walton league points out that the nation's stock of wild ducks is apt to be badly depleted this fall unless sportsmen voluntarily put themselves under sharp restrictions.

Due to the drouth and the constant encroachment on breeding areas, only about half the usual number of ducks will be flying south to their accustomed wintering grounds. Furthermore, the construction of water areas due to drouth will cause them to concentrate in unusually large numbers and may lead sportsmen to believe that they are more plentiful this year than ever—with the result that there will be excessive killing.

The U. S. biological survey, however, has definitely established that the number of ducks is greatly reduced, and the league fears that the enthusiasm of the hunters may have disastrous effects. The intelligent sportsman will bear the league's warning in mind. By exercising moderation this fall, he will help keep his chosen sport alive for future seasons.

Group Insurance

THE value of the group plan of industrial life insurance in times of depression is strikingly shown in figures just issued by Vice President B. A. Page of the Travelers Insurance company, who points out that the families of more than 61,000 American workmen will receive this year more than $90,000,000 as benefits under that form of insurance.

Payments of benefits come through the death by disease and accident of more than 51,000 workers and the permanent total disabilities suffered by 10,000 more.

By the end of the year, Mr. Page points out, group insurance plans will be in force in more than 30,000 business concerns, with fully 7,000,000 workers protected.

These figures speak for themselves. They represent a remarkable step forward in American industrial procedure.

The Price of an "Open Town"

A DISPATCH to the Chicago Tribune remarks that a certain Illinois city is "putting on the lid" because of the furor following the murder by gunmen of a gambler's wife. This city, it develops, has been an "open town" for two decades; but this murder indicated the development of formidable, lawless underworld gangs, and city officials found a shut-down in order.

Thus, once more, is illustrated the curious dilemma of American city officials. If they govern a city where popular sentiment favors an "open town"—and there are many such cities—they court the growth of a dangerous underworld organization, which fattens on the revenues from gambling and booze joints. If they close the town up to choke off the gangsters the voters, deprived of their amusements, are apt to rebel and put in a new regime. All in all, it is a peculiar, and somewhat discouraging, sign of the times.

Sidney Howard, the playwright, and Polly Damrosch did not return from Yurrup together. . . . Polly solo'd it back, confusing many of us who thought they'd middle-aisle it over there. . . . Harry Richman leaves any moment for Texas to join "Sons o' Guns" and bat for his late pal, Jack Donahue. . . . Richman is standing his own night club, recently reopened, to keep the large cast from being dumped into the unemployment market.

It may be news to dramatic editors that George S. Kaufman, coauthor of "Once in a Lifetime," who also appears in the show, will strand that cast in Dec. . . . The role has been offered to his play partner, Moss Hart. . . . Perhaps Kaufman decided to return to the Times dramatic bureau after reading George Jean Nathan's review about his histrionics in Judge. . . . It might comfort Kaufman to read Pare Lorentz, the movie critic in the same mag, who, as an honest movie critic, scolded the Warner outfit for swindling the public movies of columnists.

The Mayfair in the Ritz re-opened for the season Satdee night and as usual it was choked to capacity with a crowd in which any autograph maniac might have gone gaga over Mary Brian, who danced with Rudy; Alice Joyce and her husband, who made an attractive portrait; Blanche Ring and Herbert Rawlinson; Evelyn Herbert, Jeon Aubert, who appeared bored with her admirers (what! Already?), and two Princesses, oodles of ingenues, some fading ladies, theatrical managers, and good and adequate actors. Alex Aarons, the producer, was there, too. . . . He's a grand person, but he carries an umbrella, I hear.

Most interesting to me, however, was the wife who was accompanied by a private detective (an immaculate shoofly, at that), which spoiled her husband's evening. . . . The various snobs who only come to snub each other got in your hair, and John Rumsey, who originated these exclusive (in a way) gatherings, kept stifling his titters all night, proving that he does pack a sense of humor and good manners.

You probably read about Al Siegel, whose torried rhytms and accompaniments to Ethel ("Girl Crazy") Merman's songs are a delight. Al was stricken on the eve of the show's premiere and he was taken to a hosp, where he became unruly until the attaches agreed to permit him to play for Miss Merman at the premiere. Then he collapsed and is again in the sick room. . . . It is good news to know that Miss Merman will keep giving Al 25 per cent of her wages while he is ill. . . . Not all of us, you see, on Broadway are as black as we are tainted.

James J. Montague, the verse-fashioner for the Tribune, is a pawn-law. . . . It happened Satdee when his son on the N. Y. World became a groom. . . . Dick Simmons, one of the Canyon's handsomest playboys, lost a decision to John Perona at the latter's place Satdee night. . . . An ugly crack, a quickly-rising temper, and bang—one broken nose. . . . The Stork club perhaps is New York's New Yorkiest place on W. 58th. . . . But what I started out to report was this unsual line on its menus:

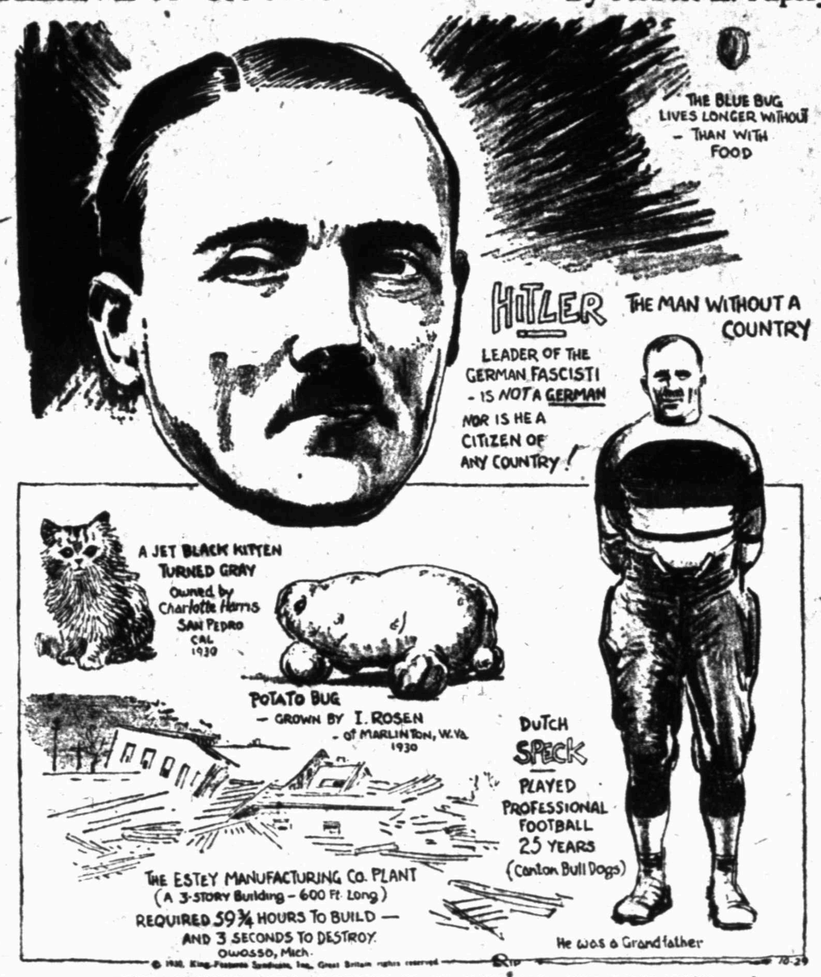

"No ladies permitted after 6 p. m., unless accompanied by male escorts." . . . For which the management rates at least one lusty cheer. . . . It keeps wives from suddenly startling husbands.

If you were listening last Chewsday night you probably heard me announce that the stork was about to drop a new baby down the Whitney Bolton's chimlee. . . . Imagine my embarrassment when after the broadcast Mr. Bolton phoned me that the baby had arrived an hour before. "I knew you were slipping," he heckled. . . . The Sigmund Drapers, she was Marcel Printemps, have phffft in Paree. . . . Misha, the Sadko restaurant dancer, who throws knives into the air and then catches them with his teeth (never suffering one scratch) cut himself badly the other night with a pair of manicure scissors.

Harry Hershfield, whose tome, "Super City," is clicking, helped to roast Jans & Whalen at the recent Friars' Jest of Honor dinner. . . . Hershfield said that although he had known the team for many years he had never seen them on the stage because he was the kind of newspaperman who always was given "second-night" tickets.

One of the outstanding news stories of the season may "break" in the newspapers of both continents shortly after a liner now on the seas delivers two of its illustrious passengers in France. The chap, recently feted here for an achievement, met, wooed and won a beautiful Park Ave. debutante, who returned with him. From some of the local rags we were led to believe that he was already sealed. . . . It appears his "French pride" is a Russian "heart," who probably will go into a lather when she discovers she has been shelved—and sue for breach of proposition. . . . The High Costs of Something or Other.

HEARTBREAK GIRL

By ROB EDEN

Billboards of Carla all over the city. Carla's yellow head, her smiling lips, her big blue eyes.

Gail Stuart is befriended by Nick Walther who arranges a screen test for her at a big studio. She fails and becomes secretary to Carla Cross, the star. By a "white lie" she gets Ross Hardy, her fiance, a chance as Carla's leading man. Ross goes riding with Carla and the star, driving recklessly, runs down a woman. She and Ross persuade Gail to assume the blame to save Carla's career. Tod Janson promises to get her out on bail, but fails. Ross visits Gail late in the day, and acts rather peculiar, taking it as a matter of course that she should protect Carla. Walther, by his political influence, finally arranges bail for Gail. She keeps her promise and doesn't tell him Carla is to blame for the accident.

CHAPTER XIX

For a week Gail went about her duties at Carla's mechanically. Dreading to answer the phone, jumping nervously every time it rang in Carla's yellow and heliotrope boudoir.

Any minute there might be a call from the hospital telling her Mrs. Mendenhall was—dead.

But the week passed, and Mrs. Mendenhall was not dead. She was about the same, and the doctors were puzzled.

At night the girl dreamed about the sick woman until she hated to go to sleep, hated to go to her room at the end of the corridor. One night she dreamed that Mrs. Mendenhall had died, and the police came for her, put her in a horrible cell where she beat the walls frantically until her knuckles were raw, protesting that she hadn't done anything—that she shouldn't be in prison. She wasn't believed. That made the dream all the more real.

Carla seemed unconcerned about the whole thing. She was very busy on her picture, which Max Brackett was rushing through as fast as he could. It was booked for a world premiere at the Chinese in a few weeks. The company was working day and night, and Brackett, when Gail saw him on the set, was hollow eyed, nervous and irritable.

Because she thought the opportunity good, Gail asked Carla again about a small part in the picture. Anything. Carla promised to consult the director. Indeed she seemed eager to help her secretary. She had been kinder than usual, not quite so exacting.

Gail Has to Wait

Yet when Gail inquired the result of the interview with Max, Carla had to admit she hadn't had any luck.

"No chance in this picture, Max said. He's afraid of the publicity you got. Afraid the papers would take it up. I guess he's right. Perhaps another picture."

Gail was disappointed but still hopeful. The next picture of Carla's for surely the actress could refuse her nothing now.

The second week Mrs. Mendenhall was reported better, improving in fact. Gail was overjoyed.

Nick Walther arranged somehow to have the charges dropped, but Judge Latham before he dropped them called Gail into court, and lectured her sternly for a half hour. She could never expect to drive a car in the state of California again. Never. She could never have a license to drive a car. Did she understand? She did. On and on he went, describing the peril she had wrought. Gail was weeping before he finished.

"Well, that's over," Carla said when she heard about it. "It wasn't hard was it, Gail?"

Gail didn't answer. She was feeling more bitter than usual, and Carla's words stung.

"You didn't mind doing it for me?" Carla persisted. "Think of all you saved me. I couldn't have stood it. My nerves would have gone all to pieces. And right in the middle of my picture, too! God knows what Mr. Werber would have said. He's a devil about scandal."

She gave Gail her prettiest smile and a dress. True it was one which the actress had worn several times, but it was lovely, none the less. Gail thanked her for it, and the other incident was closed as far as Carla was concerned.

To Gail it remained an aching memory. Every time she saw a policeman, it was recalled to her mind. The night in jail. The worry she had had. Nick's disapproval. He seldom came to Carla's now, and when he did, nodded to her but did not engage in conversation.

Billboards of Carla all over the city. Carla's yellow head, her smiling red lips, her big blue eyes. "Carla Cross in 'Crossroads.'" Below her name was Ross' in smaller, almost invisible lettering. "With Ross Hardy, Sarah Morton, and Milton Rey." The papers were full of it. "Carla's best picture." Tod Janson's work. He and Carla had long consultations nearly every day.

Nick Stays Away

There was a party for newspaper people when the picture was finished. Carla, a perfect hostess, introducing her new leading men and women, Gail thought were rather cold to Ross, although they were charming to Carla. She didn't know they thought that Ross was just the usual leading man, a little young and much too good-looking. They didn't expect much from him. In fact they expected nothing at all.

Nick Walther didn't come to the party, although he was invited. Carla was a little put out about it.

That evening he phoned, and Gail answered the call. She recognized his voice. "I'll call Carla, Mr. Walther—"

"But, Gail, I don't want to talk to Carla. I want to talk to you."

The girl glanced nervously at the bedroom door. It was closed, and Carla was dressing. She knew instinctively that Carla wouldn't want her to be talking to Nick, and yet she couldn't help herself.

"Yes?" she managed to say.

"You're going to the opening with me, aren't you?"

"Opening?"

"Yes. Carla's picture. I have tickets."

"I'm sorry, but—I'm going with someone else." Wasn't she going with Ross? Hadn't he asked her that night—long ago—months ago it seemed, when he had signed his contract with Werber's? "We'll go to the opening together," he had said. "You and I. My first opening—Gail."

Of course she was going with Ross.

"I didn't know," Nick was saying. "I'm sorry." He hung up, and Carla came into the boudoir in her negligee.

"Who was that?"

"No one for you, Carla," Gail replied. She had to lie. She couldn't tell Carla that it was Nick, and that he wouldn't talk to her. Carla would be furious.

Well, she hadn't exactly lied, after all. She had told Carla it was no one for her . . .

Lucky Escape

"I've been expecting a call from Nick. I thought it might have been he."

Gail went into her room. She had been lucky that Carla hadn't taken down the phone extension in her dressing room and listened. Lucky . . .

She had planned to wear the evening dress Carla had given her to the opening. Then to borrow a wrap from the actress, as she had none of her own. After all, going with Ross, she must look her best. She hadn't seen much of him lately. Hadn't spoken to him for days, except for a few words at the studio when Carla was near. Ross was working very hard. He seldom got home from the set until midnight.

Max Brackett had said time and time again that Ross didn't seem to mind how hard he worked him.

This night, however, she felt she had to speak to him, so she called him at his apartment.

"I called about the opening," she said hurriedly. For any minute Carla's bell might ring, and she would be summoned away from the phone.

"Yes."

"We're going together, aren't we, Ross?"

"Why—no—"

"But, Ross, you're going to your own opening! You must go!"

"Of course I'm going, but I can't take you, Gail . . ."

"I thought—" she was so confused she did not know what to do. He had asked her, and now he was saying he couldn't take her. The hand that was holding the receiver shook.

"I promised Carla, Gail. You see how it is. Besides she wanted me to take her. Asked me this afternoon, and I couldn't refuse. So we're going together. After all, she gave me my big chance, and I've got to repay her. Is that all right?"

"You're taking Carla?" She couldn't believe it.

"Yes. You don't mind, do you?"

"Oh, no. Not at all." That was the end of their conversation. Ross' short goodby, and he was gone. He was taking Carla.

Then what he had said about Carla giving him his big chance. That was wrong. She, Gail, had given him his chance, but he seemed to have forgotten that, too . . .

Tomorrow—Another blow to Gail.

Q.—What does Pagliacci mean?—E. M.

A.—It is an Italian word and means "the players."

Q.—What countries are called the Bolivian nations?—H. B.

A.—Simon Bolivar founded six nations—Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia and Panama.

Q.—What is the round boat which looks like a floating basket called? It is used by natives in Bagdad.—L. D.

A.—It is called a koofah.

Q.—Who wrote the Communist song, The International?—L. Z.

A.—The Communist hymn was written by Eugene Pottier, a Frenchman.

Q.—What was a griffin supposed to be?—C. E. I.

A.—It was a mysterious monster, half lion and half eagle, believed by the Greeks to keep watch over the gold of Scythia.

Q.—What is meant by voicing and tuning a pipe organ?—C. E. H.

A.—Voicing is tuning or regulating the pitch or tone of an organ. Pipe tuning is regulating the entire instrument.

Q.—Who was the Princess Anne after whom counties and hotels in this country have been named?—M. C.

A.—It is that of Anne who became queen of England.

Q.—When a photograph has begun to fade, can anything be done about it?—W. W.

A.—The fading is usually caused by improper fixing and washing. To prevent further change fix in a hypo bath of usual strength for 10 to 20 minutes and wash in running water for one hour.

Q.—Is the all-American canal a part of the Boulder canyon project?—M. W.

A.—It is. There are three features included in this project—the Hoover dam, a power plant, and the All-American canal. This canal, built entirely within the United States will carry water from the Colorado river to the Imperial and Coachella valleys in the southeastern part of California.

Q.—Where is coral taken which is considered precious?—E. J. Y.

A.—The precious coral is found widespread on the borders and around the islands of the Mediterranean sea. The most important coral fisheries extend along the coasts of Tunisia, Algeria, and Morocco, but real coral is also obtained in the vicinity of Naples and on the coasts of Sardinia, Corsica, Catalina and Provence. It occurs also in the North Atlantic off the northwest coast of Africa. Black coral which grows to a considerable height and thickness is found in the tropical water off Australia.

Q.—Please give a good method for freshening a black silk dress and removing the shine.—E. S.

A.—The silk must be thoroughly brushed and wiped with a cloth, then laid flat on a board or table, and well sponged with hot coffee, thoroughly freed from sediment by being strained through muslin. The silk is sponged on the side intended to show; it is allowed to become partially dry, and then ironed on the wrong side. The coffee removes any grease, and restores the brilliancy of silk, without imparting to it either the shiny appearance or crackly and papery stiffness obtained by other liquids. The silk appears thickened by the process, and this good effect is usually permanent.

OCTOBER NEEDS

Are Varied!

Fill Them Economically By Coming to Wichita Falls

SUBURBAN DAY

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30

Life assumes new aspects in October. Falling leaves, comfy fires and the cry of wild geese are symbols of change.

Indoor living becomes highly enjoyable. There is a call for new furniture and new furnishings. It didn't make much difference about the threadbare davenport and frayed draperies in the summer time. Nobody noticed them. Now they must be replaced if the house is to be attractive and inviting during and fall and winter months.

Whatever your needs in the home, or whatever your requirements in clothing, it will pay you in money saved and in satisfaction to avail yourself of the ample stocks of the Wichita Falls merchants.

Come to Wichita Falls Suburban Day, next Thursday, October 30. On that day Wichita Falls merchants will feature articles that are especially appropriate to the season.

Prices will be attractively low. The volume-business of the Wichita Falls stores permits small margins of profit and price advantages to the customers who trade with them.

Variety in color, styles and patterns is another factor. The wholesome competition of many stores insures the shopper the opportunity of finding exactly what she wants.

In chinaware, luggage, furniture, radios, pianos, lamps and art objects the same advantages await the critical buyer.

The Suburban Day advertisements will appear in the Wichita Daily Times and Record News. Read these issues carefully. Make a list of the things that interest you and where they may be had. It will be a great help to you when you do your Suburban Day shopping.

Celery—Cleanser and Tonic

Celery is one of the very best non-starchy vegetables for cooking and salads, and there is no disorder where it cannot be freely used if any fibrous food is allowable.

During the fall and winter months when other vegetables are scarce, celery is plentiful and when used abundantly will be found to be a valuable blood cleaner and tonic. Those who are ill usually have a lowered blood alkalinity and celery helps to overcome this condition because of its richness in the alkaline-forming elements, especially sodium. The cellulose which it contains yields a non-irritating bulk and is therefore helpful in preventing constipation.

The celery which we now use is a great improvement over the wild plant. It is now longer stemmed, better flavored, less stringy and whiter than the original celery. The Greeks valued the plant, but since it was partially wild, it had too strong a flavor to use for food, but was used as a garnish as we now use parsley. It began to be used as a food as early as 1873 when the monastery of St. Gall used it as such.

The practice of bleaching celery began in England. A nephew of John Milton describes it, "Sellerie, it is an herb which is usually whited for an excellent winter salad."

Contrary to popular opinion, the best celery is that which has been bleached out white, as the bleaching removes certain volatile oils which are slightly irritating to the body.

If you are puzzled over a good health food for your family's dinner today, go right now and get a pencil and write "Celery" on your market list. Here are some methods of preparing celery:

Stewed Celery

First wash each stalk well, scrubbing with a brush to remove the poisonous spray which may have been used on it to kill insects. Then cut each stalk into short pieces and boil for two hours. This long cooking develops a new and delicious flavor unlike the flavor of any other vegetable. This stew can be made into an appetizing soup if cream or milk is added with butter after the soup has boiled.

Celery and Green Pea Soup

Cook the celery until tender and combine with a can of green pea soup or cooked green peas which have been pressed through a colander.

Celery Stew

Boil together equal parts of chopped celery, green peas and potatoes.

Stuffed Celery

The hollow of the stalks may be filled with soft cheese, or a mixture of tomato pulp and peanut butter blended together.

Celery Toast

Clean the celery well, cut in short pieces and cook until soft. Add milk or cream and serve over Melba toast with a lump of butter on top.

Celery and Chicken Salad

This is a good way to use scraps of leftover chicken. Chop the chicken fine and combine with equal amounts of chopped celery. Serve in tomato shells on lettuce.

Neuritis

Question—A. H. G. writes: "Kindly advise if there is a cure for neuritis of about five years' standing, where patient's limbs are disabled on account of cartilage having hardened in the joints. If there is no absolute cure, would a strict fast and diet relieve the awful suffering? Would a warm climate be of benefit in preference to cold winters in Minnesota?

Answer—The patient you ask about is probably suffering from arthritis. I have never seen a case that cannot be cured as far as relieving the pain is concerned, even though the extra deposit of calcium in the joints cannot be entirely removed. Warm climate encourages a greater amount of skin elimination, but there is no reason why arthritis or any other type of rheumatism cannot be cured in a cold climate, providing the patient uses the proper amount of skin washing and encourages elimination through certain hydrotherapy treatments.

Cigaret Smoking

Question—Puzzled asks: "When the impurities from cigaret smoke are deposited in the lungs by inhaling, do they remain there, or are they eventually carried away by the blood?"

Answer—The tarry deposits from the inhaling of cigaret smoke are gradually carried away through the lymphatic circulation but, of course, may have remained for a long enough time to have done harm.

Causes of Gas

Question—E. R. asks: "What causes gas on an empty stomach?"

Answer—The large amount of gas which forms in the stomach and intestines comes from the mixture of the acid digestive juices with those which are alkaline. For instance, the gastric juice has an acid reaction and the bile of the intestines an alkaline one. If the bile overflows back into the stomach, the mixture of the bile and gastric juice will produce gas just the same as when baking soda is put into vinegar.

Hardeman Wheat Fields In Use for Pasture

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Oct. 28.—Wheat fields in various sections of Hardeman county are already being pastured for short periods of time daily, according to farmers reporting to Quanah business men. The fields which were sowed "in the dust" are all up to splendid stand, and several inches high.

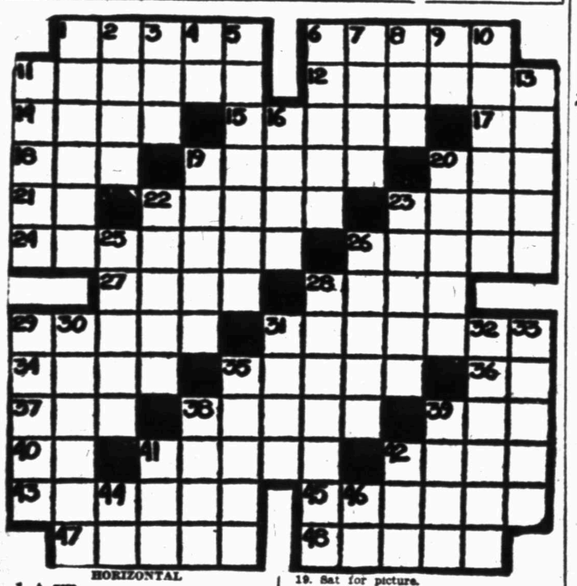

Thousands of acres have been sowed in wheat since the rains started the latter part of September; and farmers are still sowing as rapidly as fields get in condition following the two-inch rain of Oct. 23, which brought the total precipitation for October to 7.29 inches, the heaviest in October since 1923.

Baseball at Night

"Sporting Editor, Record News:

"I see by the papers that the Texas league will play night ball in 1931. This is dismal news indeed to many fans, who do not live in the league cities but who attend many games from the country and surrounding towns especially on Sundays.

"Take my case; last year my family and myself attended all Sunday games at Spudder park. I have business friends here who also attended the Sunday games. A bleak outlook for the fans who live away from town.

"For it means no baseball for us in 1931. Why not play the Sunday games in daytime, Mr. Editor, so we can contribute our financial tribute and enjoy the games. There would be greater crowds on Sunday in daytime than at night.

"Very truly yours,
"T. J. Meade.
"Megargel, Texas, Oct. 25, 1930."

I don't believe you will have to worry much about the Sunday games, Mr. Meade. From all indications, they will be played in daytime. Such was the case last season with but one exception, the case at Shreveport. The Sports played a few Sunday games under the arcs, but profited little thereby. The crowd preferred its Sunday games in the daytime, and did not respond to the Sunday night game idea.

But the outlook for the rest of the week during the baseball season, is, as you say, dismal indeed. For it appears that with the exception of Sunday, all games will be played while the owls are hooting and the crickets nestle down to sleep and quit their chirping.

Incidentally, the Texas league will decide this week, at the meeting in Fort Worth, whether night baseball will be universal in the loop next season. Whichever way the league votes there will be dissension among the members. President Huff is unalterably opposed to night baseball, as is well known, and he will combat it at the meeting. However, he will have to do what the league orders, and if the vote says all clubs must install night plants, then Prexy Huff will start scooting around buying electric light bulbs.

If the league takes the trouble to look at the financial records of night baseball last season they will see, in the opinion of President Huff, that only one club came out of it with anything approaching profit, and that club was not the Waco outfit. Houston made a satisfactory amount of money, but the others participating in the moonlight orgy did not, according to baseball officials here.

While Waco was on top of the league and playing grand baseball, the crowds went wild and flocked to the illuminated park. Then the club crashed, and so did the gate receipts. The San Antonio Indians made not one nickel out of their plant because their club was such an inferior one.

Houston, on the other hand, had a peach of a club, and made money under the lights.

If Wichita Falls had played night baseball the second half, doubtless the Spudder club would have cleaned up, because it had a bunch of performers worth watching.

All of which goes to prove that it is not night baseball that attracts the crowds, but a winning ball team.

With the lights or without, Waco would have drawn immense crowds if it had kept up its winning streak. The Indians would have drawn thousands if they had topped the loop. If Houston had won the second half under the arcs, the club officials couldn't have accommodated the crowds. The same applies to Shreveport.

So it's time to forget all this hokum about the public crying for night baseball. The public doesn't give a dern when it sees its games, as long as the club can turn out a bunch of players who devote their energies to winning baseball games. And in case it does voice a preference, it is most always in favor of the good old day game, when the sun is broiling hot and the perspiration flows in rivulets from the calm forehead of a hustling pitcher trying to strike out the last batter in the ninth inning with 15 men on third base.

Another thing—you see I loathe this night life—the league will learn sooner or later, if it forces every club to the night pastime, that the thing is no longer a novelty, and cannot be capitalized upon as such. It will be a novelty the first time it is attempted here, yes. But it will last about two nights. People have read for months about night baseball, arguments pro and con, and they have a general idea what it is all about. They will shell out to see the first game here, yes. But that first game will serve only to confirm their preconceived notions about the night game.

The public, in short, knows too much about night baseball. And what the public already knows a lot about does not offer any attraction. If the league wants to capitalize on novelty, let them try to play the derned game with each player carrying a burning torch, and put an electric flashlight in the ball. That would be a novelty. Or, say, have the players go through a game walking and running on their hands, with the pitcher twirling the ball from a niche between his big toe and the one next to it. Or, say, have all the players come out on the playing field attired in pajamas, or in their B. V. D.'s. These things would pack any lot in the league. But the hoot owl pastime is worn of its newness, and it alone will not bring fountains of gold to the treasuries of the clubs. The clubs will find that "unregardless," as a brakeman said to me once, "unregardless" of whether they play at day or night, what the public pays for is to see a hustling ball club win its games.

HICKS DESERTS GOLF

DEL MONTE, Calif., Oct. 28. (AP)—Helen Hicks, New York, generally rated second best woman golfer in the country, will move to Pebble Beach, Calif., to sell real estate.

This was announced today by the realty firm which will employ Miss Hicks.

EAGLES RULE AS FAVORITES

Interest Grows in Class B Title Contest

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, Oct. 28.—Coach Ackers' Cubs are not the only ones priming for the battle next Friday between the Olney Cubs and the Chillicothe Eagles. Anxious groups are to be heard on every street corner discussing the powerful attack of the Chillicotheans, particularly the aerial phase, and more than 300 loyal boosters of the Cub machine have already organized into an automobile caravan that will make the pilgrimage to Chillicothe Friday in order to see for themselves if their solution of the Chillicothe problem is right.

Title at Stake

Interest in the clash has been heightened in view of the fact that the championship in class B, district No. 3 will be at stake, and both teams are expected to shoot the works.

The last vestiges of over-confidence, known to have existed in the Cub camp before previous battles, are believed to be washing gradually away as the crucial contest nears, for the Eagles, so far as past records are concerned, will enter the joust favorites. The Eagles boast five conference victories to the Cubs' three, although one Eagle victory came as the result of Fairview's forfeit. Olney has run up impressive scores over Archer City, Fairview and Burkburnett, while the Eagles have met on the field and conquered Megargel, Burkburnett, Henrietta and Seymour.

Thriller Promised

The Cubs are bearing down in their practice sessions, and a thrilling battle between the two well-coached and well-equipped teams may be expected when the two outfits meet on the Chillicothe gridiron next Friday.

Former King Of Jockeys Succumbs

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. (AP)—The American turf lost a picturesque figure today in the death of Edward H. (Snapper) Garrison, king of the jockeys when he was at the height of his career in the 90's.

He died this morning in Brooklyn after a heart attack. He was 62 years old, and his connection with racing, which dates back to the early 80's, as an apprentice rider, was maintained up to the time of his death.

The man who made the "Garrison finish" a byword on the turf everywhere was the highest salaried jockey in the business in his prime, receiving as much as $23,500 for a season's contract work in 1894. He became famous against great competition, rival riders of his day including McLoughlin, Fitzpatrick, Isaac Murphy, Andy Hamilton and Isaac Lewis.

He rode the winners of nearly all the big stake events, East and West. In the $60,000 American Derby at the world's fair in 1893 at Chicago Garrison rode Boundless, an outsider at 15 to 1, to victory after a delay of nearly two hours at the post.

The "Garrison finish" became a slogan in 1886, when Garrison came from nowhere with an outsider, Dutch Roller, owned by James H. Keene to win the great eastern handicap at the old Sheepshead Bay track in Brooklyn. It stuck with him along with his nickname "Snapper."

After Garrison quit the saddle on the flat he took up steeplechasing and tried his hand at that end of the game for a while, but after a few bad falls decided to retire from the saddle for good. In recent years Garrison had been connected with racing as an official at Keeney, Park, Florida.

Employes of Chicago Get Belated Payday

CHICAGO, Oct. 28. (AP)—Chicago's vast army of policemen, firemen and other city employes were happy today. It was payday for them.

Their pay had been held up for some time while city officials awaited a decision by the supreme court on a $12,000,000 bond issue. The court's decision that the issue is valid made possible the good news of today.

Panthers Get Infielder From Pittsburgh Pirates

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 28. (AP)—Charles Engle, infielder, was released outright today by the Pittsburgh Pirates to the Fort Worth club of the Texas league. Engle was secured from Memphis in the 1929 draft and has played second base, third base, and shortstop.

Reagan Meets Vernon Thursday In First Home Tilt of New Conference

Revamped Lineup and Fresh Plays Are Hopes of Local Eleven for Victory Over Rivals

The Reagan Junior High school football team will fare forth Thursday and make valiant efforts to equal Zundelowitz's record of being the first local grid team to bring into the corridors of its school a song of victory.

Their opponents will be the Vernon Junior High school, and the game will be the third in the new Junior High school conference and the first on home territory. The contest will be played on Wilson field starting at 3 o'clock.

Team Is Ready

Coach A. D. Beck sent his team through the final heavy scrimmage in preparation for the game Tuesday. A light workout today will put the team in first class shape for the engagement.

Vernon will enter the battle heavy favorites to win. The Zundelowitz team conquered Vernon in the initial battle of the conference, but Reagan journeyed to Denton a week later and suffered an overwhelming defeat, 44 to 0. In view of which, Vernon's 6 to 0 loss to Zundelowitz means almost nothing.

Coach Beck knowing the odds are against him, has been pushing his team all the harder both in defensive and offensive tactics. Several changes have been made in the lineup, new material has been found available, and many new plays have been worked up for the very purpose of making a victory over the visitors Thursday a probability.

Starting Lineup

The team Tuesday scrimmaged against the reserves on water-soaked Wilson field, and several of the new plays were put into operation with telling effect.

Reagan's starting lineup Thursday has been tentatively decided upon as follows: Robertson and J. L. Creecy at ends, Walter Ruby and Cecil Decker at tackles, Ray West and R. D. Foster at guards, Powell at center, Stengel at quarterback, Cleo Creecy and A. G. Fletcher at halves, and Howard Hill at fullback. It is planned to let Powell call signals from his post at center, while Ruby and Stengel do the kicking.

Strib to Meet Gob, Atlanta Paper Says

ATLANTA, Oct. 28. (AP)—The Constitution says that W. L. "Young" Stribling, heavyweight contender, has agreed to meet Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, here in January and that a guaranteed offer of $50,000 has been made to Sharkey for the fight by the Atlanta Baseball and Amusement company.

Stribling, the Constitution says, has agreed to a percentage cut.

CHURCH CAGE LOOP COMPLETE

Ray Presbyterians Taken In As Eighth Team

The Church basket ball league, sponsored by the First Methodist church, took within its folds the eighth and final team at a league meeting Tuesday night, which was attended by scores of youths anxious to be included in the newly organized loop. Seven teams previously had been chosen to participate. Church officials said that owing to the enthusiasm over the league, and the number of teams demanding entrance, a second church league might be organized.

The team taken into the league as the eighth member was the Ray Community Presbyterian church team. The original seven members of the league are teams from the First Southern Presbyterian, First Presbyterian, Floral Heights Presbyterian, First Methodist, Highland Heights Christian, and First Christian churches and the Jewish temple.

Temporary officers were elected. Ross Edgemon, athletic director of the First Methodist church, who put the league plan in motion, and who will coach the First Methodist team, was named temporary president. J. C. Cook was named treasurer.

It is doubtful if Edgemon will retain the president's job in view of the fact that he will be coaching one of the league teams and hence likely to be in an embarrassing position in deciding questions relative to league or interleague competition. The league will meet in the near future to elect permanent officers.

It was voted to assess each team a fee of $10 on entrance, the money accumulating in the fund to be used to defray expenses that will be incurred in fostering league competition.

The meeting was held in the First Methodist church annex.

THIS GAME OF FOOTBALL

A Series of Articles by

BARRY HOLTON, COACH OF THE WICHITA FALLS HIGH SCHOOL COYOTES

This is one of a series of explanatory articles written for The Record News by Barry Holton, coach of the Coyotes. They will appear daily. Students of the game may clip the articles as they appear, and by preserving them in a notebook have a ready guide to fine points of the game. Mr. Holton will be glad to answer any questions in regard to the game coming to the mind of the reader. These should be addressed to this newspaper.—Editor.

THE PLAYERS

Yesterday I wrote on the Field. Today I shall mention the Players. The game is played by two teams of eleven men each. That is, there can be only eleven men on each side. The game, as I will tell later, is divided into two halves of 30 minutes each. Any player of either side who starts or enters the game during the first half may be removed from the game and may return at any time during the last half. Any player taking part during the last half who is removed may not return to the game. In other words, if he is taken out during the first half, he may return during the last half; if he is withdrawn during the last half, he is through. Any number of substitutions may be made during a game. Often the original 22 remain in the game till it is over, again some teams make as many as 50 substitutions. Notre Dame at Atlanta against Georgia Tech, made, I am told, 33 substitutions during one half. Southern Methodist university of Dallas made nearly 50 replacemtns during the game. Stories are told of a great Brown team which played almost the entire year without help. The purpose of substitutions is obvious. Injury or weariness are the common reasons. A coach will often keep his strong men out at first and inject them when needed. New men are often given a chance and the beneficial change of players is that raw material is given experience for the following year.

HOLTON

Generally one man of each team is captain. He is generally a senior. Captains are elected by teammates or are chosen by the coach. Some teams have two co-captains when voting is even and some teams operate without a captain. He is designated at beginning of game by coach. He is not necessarily the same chap.

The 11 players on each team are divided into two groups, backfield men and linemen. The former are the four fellows who stay behind the linemen and either clear the way for another member of their team or carry the ball themselves. Each backfield generally has a pronounced forward passer, a man extra good at kicking, one good at running with ball, and another good at moving the others out of the way. Cagle of West Point was a good runner as was Grange of Illinois. Leland of Texas Christian and Elder of Notre Dame were also great men with the ball. Mann of Southern Methodist was a great passer as was Hunt of Texas Aggies. Hopper of Southern Methodist and Fields of Howard Payne were great blockers. The ideal combination of runner, passer, kicker, and blocker is not unusual yet coaches have difficulty in finding them. Great kickers like Sanders of Simmons, Wilson of Baylor and a kid Crass who played last year at Electra High school, and Magness, Breckenridge high, are born and not developed.

The seven linemen of a team are the fellows who get down and "open the hole" through which the man with ball may pass. Good linemen are numerous, yet the work of linemen is the work of a martyr since the spectators do not see them in their past powerful efforts. The men who line up on the ends of this line are called ends. Turner and Edmonds of years ago in Texas university, Sikes of Texas Aggies and Oosterbaan of Michigan were great. The center on a team is the chap passing the ball back to the backfield. McEwen of Army, Walsh of Notre Dame and Ditmar of Texas were great men in their time. The other four linemen, tackles and guards, carry out the heavy work on a team. We have had many great linemen and today we have such men as Koch of Baylor, and Atkins, a fellow at T. C. U.

I should have said that we speak of the backfield men as two halfbacks, a quarterback and a fullback. The quarter in most case calls the plays for his team yet this is not always the case. Underwood of Rice, a center, and certain ends have called signals. Many times a fellow plays different places but not generally in the same game. He may play end today and center or halfback next week.

The one rule concerning a substitute is that he must remain quiet and not communicate with anyone on the field till after one play. Should he talk or signal, his team is penalized 15 yards.

Tomorrow—Time of game.

NOCONA BESTS PACK'S B TEAM

First String Coyotes Take Day of Rest

The boys who make up the Coyote first team loiled at leisure about the city Tuesday, practice having been called off while Coach Barry Holton took a mixture of B squad and first string men to Nocona for a practice game with a similar mixture dished up by the Nocona High school.

The coach and his younger charges returned from Nocona early Tuesday night with a tale of having been defeated by the Indians, 14 to 6.

It was an interesting battle, the mentor said, and gave the younger members of the squad a good workout. Both the Coyotes and the Indians started the game with fresh and untrained material in the lineup, and were apparently about equally matched, neither side scoring in the first half. In the third quarter Nocona ran in some more experienced players and scored two touchdowns on off tackle plays. In the last quarter Holton sent in some stronger players, and before the whistle had sounded they put over a touchdown on a pass, Rugeley to Jenkins.

Every player Holton took to Nocona saw action in the game with the exception of Leroy McBride, who was held on the sidelines as available in case of injuries. Nocona likewise made voluminous substitutions, Holton said.

The Coyotes started the game with Gentry at center, Hudgins and Harbes at guard, Decker and Huff at tackle, Hanks and Anderson at end, Reesby at quarterback, Janeway at fullback and Doerr and Jenkins at halfback.

Regular scrimmage will be resumed by the first string Coyotes today.

The following players accompanied Coach Holton to Nocona:

Ferguson, Gentry, Wilkins, Byrd, Keys, Hudgens, Souther, Huff, Harbes, J. McBride, Decker, Brandon, Anderson, Hanks, Holton, Rugeley, Reesby, L. McBride, Janeway, Doerr, Jenkins, Seitz, Mauldin, Dougherty, Billy Jenkins, manager.

Ens Returns As Pittsburgh Pilot

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 28. (AP)—Jewel Ens, beset with injuries among his players during his first full year as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, fifth place finishers in the National standings of 1930, will pilot the team again in 1931.

Uncertainty which had existed among the club's followers as to whether Ens would be tendered another contract was dispelled today when the management announced he had signed for another year. Terms of the new contract were not given.

Ens, whose playing days were given largely to the minor leagues, has been with the Pirates since 1921, as player, coach and manager. He was secured from Syracuse of the International league and served as a utility player until he was made a coach. He succeeded Donie Bush as manager late in the 1929 season.

GENOA, Oct. 28. (AP)—Primo Carnera's mother, a woman well over 6 feet, was the first to greet the giant Italian heavyweight when he arrived today on his return from an American boxing tour.

"He is such a good son," she said. "Why, he sent me a million lire (about $50,000) and wrote me to spend it buying a big enough bed for him."

Scribes Who Glorify Albie Booth Requested to Shun Yale's Stadium

So Mr. Runyon Refuses to Mention the Gent's Name, 'Because I Like Albie Booth,' Says He

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Rumor hath it, as we used to say in the Trinidad Advertiser, that one gentleman of the press who devoted most of a recent story to the exploits of Albie Booth, largely to the exclusion of the rest of the Yale football club, has been requested to remain absent from Yale's football games, hereafter, and forevermore.

I do not know whether this request was intended as a penalty, or as a reward of merit. I know a lot of citizens who wouldn't deem banishment from Yale's football games any great punishment, though I make haste to add that I am not one of these.

To me it is a privilege and a pleasure to squat up there in the press coop of Yale's picturesque bowl, and listen to the lads below bellow "Bulldog, Bulldog; Bow-wow-wow," and one thing and another. The football playing itself does not intrigue me so much, but I love the Yale singing. The boys up there sing very loudly, indeed, and sometimes all in the same key, which is quite rare in college singing.

However, lest I, too, may be deprived of my good old uncomfortable perch after all these years, I will refrain from mentioning Albie Booth as much as possible. What is Albie Booth to me, anyway. A quarterback. That's all. Just a quarterback. True, he is quite a lot of quarterback, but none the less a quarterback.

I have often thought that quarterbacks and baseball right fielders should be required to pay admission to our football links, and our baseball course, though I am in favor of the centers, and guards, and some of the ends being admitted on Annie Oakleys, and each receiving a big red apple and a sack of hard candy as souvenirs. They do all the work don't they?

As compared to their labors, the quarterback has a cinch. Of course an unusual quarterback like Albie Booth—but there I go breaking my pledge. Let us endeavor to forget Albie Booth. Let us, in short, adopt the attitude toward him of a certain New York sports editor recently when he instructed a football writer assigned to the Yale-Brown game not to mention Albie Booth in his story at all, save as it might be absolutely necessary in the play-by-play detail of the game.

The sports editor was fed up on Albie Booth, and he wanted a yarn that had a little something of the Yale team in it, and not so much of Albie Booth. This sports editor figured that all the other stories of the game would be loaded with Albie Booth, and if he got a practically Boothless story, he would have something quite different for the omniverous readers of his worthy publication.

Well, as history now records, Albie Booth broke out all over the pastime like a case of smallpox, playing a game that removed any doubt as to his claim to greatness as a footballist, and that night the New Haven police picked up a disheveled looking young man who was wandering about the streets talking to yourself. It was the loyal football reporter.

"What is the trouble with you, son?" inquired the kindly desk sergeant.

"I'm trying to think of how to write the story of that game without mentioning Albie Booth," replied the discouraged scribe.

In refraining from mention of Albie Booth at this writing, I am at the same time moved to wonderment at the Yale prejudice against the publication of the young—that is, if any such prejudice exists, which I am inclined to doubt.

If the Yalensians, as Bill Hanna called 'em, do not care to have Albie Booth spoken of so freely in the public prints, I wonder what they would have done about Tad Jones, in the days when Tad was quarterbacking all over the sport pages. Tad got plenty of publicity in his day—and since. Then there was Maurice "Lefty" Flynn, not a real great football player, perhaps, but picturesque, and good copy. And the mighty Ted Coy, one of the all-time greats. Compared to the three-sheetings of Coy, Albie Booth is just a couple of paragraphs.

I have not learned who made the request of the Albie Booth-minded gentleman of the press, but I doubt that it could have been any person in real authority. Boy and man, I have been trudging in and out of the sacred precincts of Yale for many a semester, and I never heard of the folks up that-away instructing the football scribes how to write their stories, even with reference to Albie Booth.

At least they never instructed me, though I could stand for plenty of instruction in the matter of writing football. But of course times are changing, and I note in the public prints that one college has gone so far as to announce a ban on play-by-play accounts of a game, and broadcasting. This is the University of South Carolina. Later the ban was rescinded, which was perhaps a tough break for the newspaper scribes and the radio Pharisees sentenced to watch the game.

I particularly like Yale when that little Jack-in-the-Box, what's-his-name is playing. I will not again break my pledge by mentioning his monicker right out, but he is a short, sprightly chap, with a tee-totum moticant when running with the pumpkin, and his home address is New Haven, Conn.

His last name has five letters, and is something you telephone from at a public phone station. They are not going to have any cause to request me to remain away from Yale games if I can help it. I like to see Albie Booth play too well.

Auto Races Carded At Fair Oval Sunday

Automobile races featuring Matt Ward of Oklahoma City and Jack Crouch of Clovis, N. M., will be held at the Texas-Oklahoma fair grounds track Sunday afternoon beginning at 2:30 o'clock, sponsors of the affair announced Tuesday. Cash prizes amounting to $1,000 will be awarded, it was announced.

Ward and Crouch will meet in the feature race of the afternoon, which will be followed by a modified stock car race in which all may enter. Persons desiring to enter should consult with Mr. Bowen, at the William-Mary hotel.

Soggy Course Delays Start of Women's Tourney

The scheduled qualifying round in the women's city golf championship at the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club was postponed Tuesday when it was found the course was too wet to permit play, Bill Strachan, club professional, announced.

Club officials hoped to start the round today. A field of about 30 women golfers is expected to enter the tournament in quest of the city women's title now held by Mrs. R. R. Fisk.

TEXAS LEAGUE AUDIT STARTS

Houston Prexy Assembles Yearly Report Here

Fred Ankenman, president of the Houston Baseball club and auditor of the Texas league, arrived here Tuesday and began work on the yearly audit of the league's books, report on which will be made in detail at the league meeting Saturday and Sunday at Fort Worth.

Mr. Ankenman said he expected to have the audit completed by Friday.

The Houston club president got off to a good start in his work Tuesday despite frequent intermissions during which he shook hands with friends and chatted with visitors in the Texas league headquarters, and despite, also, his sudden recollection that Tuesday was his birthday.

"I didn't think of that until just now," he said, glancing up from a finger-smeared ledger on which he was checking the financial vagaries of a fiscal year in the Texas league.

Meanwhile President William E. Huff, Secretary Guy Airey and League President J. Alvin Gardner were making plans to attend the league session, at which many problems relating to Texas baseball in 1931 will be worked out.

Among the problems to come up at the meeting, it was said, is the question of whether night baseball will be declared universal throughout the league.

Undefeated Tornadoes Clash With Brownfield

Special to The Record News.

LAMESA, Texas, Oct. 28.—The Lamesa High School Golden Tornadoes are in hard training this week, looking forward to the game with Brownfield Friday at Brownfield. The Tornadoes, district champions last season, have a perfect record on conference games so far this season, but the game Friday with Brownfield is expected to be the hardest fought contest on their schedule for this year. Brownfield is touted to have championship material, having recently held the powerful Slaton Tigers to a tie game, and Coach McCollum of the Tornadoes is pointing his team for the Friday's contest, as the outcome of this game will reflect the Tornadoes' chances of another championship this season.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. (AP)—An opening advance in cotton attracted considerable realizing and southern selling today, but offerings were absorbed on reactions of 6 to 7 points and the market firmed up again on continued trade and commission house buying. This became more active in the last hour when prices made new highs for the day and movement with March selling up from 11.63 the low point of the morning, to 11.94 and closed at 11.91. The general market closed firm at net advances of 36 to 51 points.

Aside from the steadiness of Liverpool and apprehensions of delays in picking or damage to grades of cotton remaining in the field, there appeared to be no special news factor connected with today's advance. The reactionary sentiment which developed after the advances of last week and have been reflected by considerable selling, seemed to have improved the technical position of the market, however, and the continuance of trade buying for both domestic and foreign account, evidently led to covering or the replacing of long contracts.

Liverpool cables reported covering and trade calling with contracts scarce in that market. Exports today 40,579 making 2,687,177 so far this season. Port receipts 117,977. U. S. port stocks 3,567,629.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 28. (AP)—Cotton was very active all day, and the price trend was decidedly upward with only occasional small reactions on profit taking. Higher cables, good trade and speculative buying and firmness in stocks and wheat were stimulating influences.

Prices opened 12 to 16 points up on good cables and by the end of the first hour showed gains of 15 to 17 points. Prices continued to advance all morning and during the entire afternoon with only small and short lived reactions on profit taking. New highs for the day and movement were made at the end, 32 to 33 points above the lows of the morning. The market closed strong at net gains for day of 38 to 40 points.

Receipts 112,016, for week 241,814, for season 4,265,345, last season 3,952,193; exports 36,208, for week 82,194, for season 2,045,620, last season 1,873,735. Stock Market Keeps Within Narrow Limits Pending Steel Developments

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. (US)—The stock market hesitated today as interest converged on the meeting of the Steel corporation directors late in the afternoon. Fluctuations in the majority of issues were confined to rather narrow range during the session, although the railroad section enjoyed further recovery averaging about a point in the highest-grade issues. Among the most prominent industrials, net changes for the day were rather unimportant with perhaps a slight tendency toward lower levels. Transactions were on a modest scale, just above two million shares. Commodities generally were firm, especially the grains.

Failure of the Steel directors to vote an extra dividend probably will prove disheartening principally because of the encouraging remarks recently uttered by its chief executives. Suspicion naturally arises whether their inner thoughts are as optimistic on the prospects as their public remarks indicated. It is an open question whether sentiment will be severely affected by omission of the extra, although it is faintly suggested that perhaps a surprise may still be in store through declaration of a "Christmas extra." Earnings of $2.06 per common share for the September quarter, making $8.44 for the nine months, were fully up to expectations. The September period's net, however, with due allowance for the 27 cents per share furnished by the tax refund credited to that quarter, actually equalled $1.79 a share, or just 4 cents above the period's common dividend requirement. For the nine months tax refunds accounted for 83 cents per share. In the September quarter and nine months of 1929, net per share was $5.19 and $15.94, respectively, on present capital basis.

Steel common attained a new high on the present recovery but failed to hold its improvement as speculators lost faith in the possibility of an extra. It closed off ⅛. The final changes were highly irregular, emphasizing again the extreme discrimination being exercised. American Telephone was favored with additional demand which carried it above 200. General Electric, on the other hand, appeared in supply and failed to participate even during the periods of strength. Case Threshing rebounded several points on denial of new financing but failed to maintain its full gain.

Copper stocks enjoyed recoveries which represented chiefly a reaction from the extreme pessimism which had been evident toward this group. The efforts now under way to curtail production, if successful, undoubtedly will bring about stabilization within a reasonable time, and considerable speculative buying of the Copper shares is based on expectation of successful outcome of these efforts. The market's disposition to regard each issue individually was evident in the extreme weakness of Eastman Kodak. The stock has been a laggard during the recent betterment in the general market, and selling is attributed to the twenty-for-one ratio at which the issue is selling. Always regarded as one of the highest type of stocks in the market Eastman Kodak nevertheless is being measured entirely by known results, with the statement being made its report for 1930 will be favorable if per-share income equals last year's showing of $9.56 a share.

Railroad stocks showed firm resistance to pressure, with buying attributed to investment demand attracted by the recent low prices for the standard issues, such as New York Central, which gained two points, Pennsylvania, up ¾, Atchison, up over 4 points, and others in proportion. The September earnings reports of the various roads are making more favorable comparable showing than preceding months, reflecting more than anything else increased economies of operations.

A factor of utmost importance will shortly be disclosed in the announcement that the New York banking situation has been materially improved.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Oct. 28. (AP)—Cash grain trading here today was on a slow basis despite limited offerings. Wheat was drawing bids of 87½@88½c from some mills, but they appeared not to want large quantities and the prices along with others were listed as "nominal." Sorghums were especially slow with most receipts showing demand from moisture and poor quality generally most of the cars grading three and fours and drawing heavy penalties from buyers. Corn was largely in the same boat.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged nominally as follows: Basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 89@90c; No. 2 yellow 91½@92½c; No. 2 white 92@93c.

Oats—No. 2 red according to seed quality, 50@52c; No. 3 white delivered Texas group one points 45¾@46¼c, to which add 1 cent for delivery Texas group three.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds $1.60@1.65; No. 2 kaffir $1.38@1.40.

CHICAGO CASH GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 28. (AP)—Scoring a brisk rally in the late dealings, price for wheat and corn today finished at a substantial net advance. Assertions of rust damage to the Argentine wheat crop had considerable market influence, and so likewise did enlargement of wheat export business from North America. There was also a renewal of talk that the Wickersham committee which meets on Nov. 5 would recommend legalizing 4.40 per cent beer.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm at virtually the day's top level, 1⅛@1¼c a bushel higher than yesterday. Corn closed ⅝@1¼c up, oats unchanged to ⅛c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 25c.

Corn acted throughout the day as a twin of wheat. Weather conditions were favorable for corn husking, but country offerings of corn remained small. Oats price changes were narrow and showed sympathy with wheat strength.

Despite setbacks in hog values, provisions reflected the upturns of cereals.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—December 78¼@78⅝c, 80½c; March 82¼c, 84½@84⅝c; May 83⅞@84c, 86¼@86½c. Corn—December 77⅞@77⅝c, 79⅝@79¼c; March, offers, 81⅝c; May 82⅝c, 84c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Oct. 28. (US)—The strength in the cotton market is attracting more and more attention in grain circles. Financial writers have been viewing the strengthening tone in cotton as a possible forerunner to similar developments in other commodities and with many in the grain trade feeling that the statistical position of grains is firmer than cotton, continued strength in the latter might induce buying of the cereals.

Others who feel that there is strength in the situation behind grains are advocating caution in trading for the present, recommending a trading attitude. Possibilities of December liquidation are causing some apprehension.

With December wheat at cash price to a considerable discount under the spot stuff, it hardly appears likely that December liquidation will be drastic. To some the situation suggests possibility of spreaders being forced to protect themselves rather than longs.

The close relationship between corn and wheat prices remains a deterrent to bullish enthusiasm in the yellow cereal trade.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 28. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Moderate activity developed around the 11-market circuit on fed steers and yearlings at firm to slightly higher prices. Demand was mostly broad for lightweight steers and yearlings. Western grass steers were little changed. Chicago scored $13.60 on choice 1,046-pound long yearling steers and secured $12.50 for fed matured steers. Common to medium grass steers at the river markets cleared from $5.75@8.00 with short fed grassers upwards to $10.00.

Stocker and feeder classes moved readily at fully steady rates. Yearling stockers and stock calves are being marketed rather freely, aggregate receipts were estimated at 44,900 against 51,600 a week ago and 50,069 the corresponding day last year.

Fat lamb trade was stimulated by light receipts and prices were steady to 25c higher. Mature killing classes of sheep were unchanged. Choice native lambs in Chicago cashed up to $8.25 while at Kansas City several loads of choice range lambs realized $7.75. The supply numbering around 61,800 was 34,500 short of last Tuesday and 6,500 less than a year ago.

Although hogs were on a steady to 15c lower price basis trade was moderately active at the decline. Top of $9.60 was paid at Chicago. Total offerings were around 81,800 as compared with 86,326 a week ago and 70,138 a year ago.

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Oct. 28. (AP)—Except for fat cows that were strong to 15@25c higher all classes of slaughter cattle were steady on the market here today. Trading was a little slow in spots. Common steers were the kind to sell $5.00@5.75. Weighty bulls cleared $4.50 down and the common light ones $3.50 down. Slaughter yearlings and heifers, common lots, sold $3.50@4.50 with a few fairly good ones $6.50@7.50.

Two loads of good fat cows sold at $5.25. Canner cows $2.50@2.75 and butcher cows around $3.75.

A few weight calves sold at $8.00. Bulk were the kind to sell $5.50@6.00.

A load of good steer calves sold at $8.00; other loads from $7.50 to $7.75 and a load of light calves, mixed heifers and steers at $7.75.

Most hogs sold steady. A load of rail hogs sold at $9.50 with the best truck butchers at the same price.

Not so many sheep offered. Fat lambs $6.00@7.25, or 25c lower. Other classes sheep steady.

Oil Wells 'Defined' For Oklahoma Operators

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 28. (AP)—All wells in the Oklahoma City field making hydro-carbon fluids will be classified as oil wells, it was decided today by the corporation commission following a hearing.

Wirt Franklin, a representative of independent oil producers, filed an application asking the commission to establish the status of oil or gas wells to prevent waste in the city pool. The commission adopted a resolution, prepared by the operators' committee, providing that companies desiring to have wells reclassified may apply to the commission and an investigation will be made.

Silver Fox Farms Sue Air Line for Damages

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 28. (UP)—Federal Judge J. W. Woodrough refused today to dismiss a $40,000 suit brought by the Nebraska Silver Fox farms against the Boeing Air Transport company in which the latter charged ships of the airplane flew too low, frightening mother foxes and causing them to destroy their new-born litters.

Judge Woodrough ruled that department of commerce flight rules applied to the fox family as well as to human beings.

Paragon Refining Head Buys Valvoline Stock

CINCINNATI, Oct. 28. (AP)—Edward W. Edwards, former president of the Paragon Refining company, today purchased all the stock of the Valvoline Oil company for $5,500,000.

Stockholders of the Paragon concern recently voted to dissolve the refining company after its assets, with the exception of cash, notes receivable and stock had been sold on Sept. 1 to the Mellon interests, Pittsburgh, representing the Gulf Refining company for $10,000,000.

Suit was filed in federal court at Cleveland last Saturday by certain Paragon stockholders to compel Edwards to purchase the Valvoline stock so the Paragon concern could be liquidated and thereby complete the Paragon sale to the Gulf Refining company.

Aged Woman's Throat Slashed by Assailant

ATCHISON, Kan., Oct. 28. (UP)—An unidentified assailant early today attacked Mrs. Ella Jensen, 52, while she was asleep, slashed her throat and escaped.

Mrs. Jensen who lives alone, will recover. Blood hounds were brought here from Kansas City, Kan., and put on the trail of the attacker, whose motive was not assigned.

Darst Allowed 30,000 Barrels

AUSTIN, Oct. 28. (AP)—Production of the Darst Creek oil field in Guadalupe county was fixed at 30,000 barrels by the state railroad commission today, the equivalent of 17.5 per cent of the field's present potential. The field had been running approximately 59,000 barrels daily.

The order was entered after a hearing here Saturday at which it was testified the Louisiana Oil and Refining company was exceeding the commission's proration order.

The former order was for a daily production of approximately 3,000 barrels.

No action was taken by the commission on alleged waste of gas in the Big Lake field, pending confirmation of reports that Big Lake operators were planning to tube all their deep wells, when control of the gas-oil ratio would be accomplished.

The commission set for hearing in Fort Worth Nov. 5, the matter of continuing the proration of the Winkler field, which expires on that date. Production of the field probably will be held to a maximum of 80,000 barrels, on a 50-50 basis—50 per cent of the potential, and 50 per cent on a unit basis. Under that plan production in the field sometimes falls as low as 65,000 barrels, but the margin was allowed in order to take care of any new production. The order would include all of Winkler county.

Argentina is the principal South American market for United States goods. Brazil is the second largest user of our exports.

ATLANTA LOSES CENSUS FIGHT

Court Upholds Publishing Of Smaller Figure

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28. (AP)—Atlanta failed today in the District of Columbmia supreme court in its effort to have the census bureau publish its population as 360,692.

Director Steyart of the bureau had given the population of the borough of Atlanta as 270,367. The city brought an action to have included several small communities and municipalities which were included in greater Atlanta by an act of the Georgia legislature in 1929. In his opinion, Justice Siddons said that in view of the facts "we did not think the court had the authority to compel Director Steyart to fix the higher figure. He said the city and those who brought suit with it "may have misconceived their remedy, but with that the court has no concern in deciding this case."

"For the reasons thus stated," he added, "the rule issued herein must be dschargied and the petition of the relators dismissed.

Indians Refuse To Occupy New Houses

AUSTIN, Oct. 28. (UP)—Alabama and Coushatta Indians on the state reservation in Polk county, Texas, are refusing to occupy modern cottages built for them by the state. They prefer their teepees. One brave has accepted the cottage but uses it as a support for a lean-to which he has erected against it.

102. LEGAL NOTICES

IN THE district court of the United States for the northern district of Texas, Wichita Falls division. In the matter of William Enoch Latham, bankrupt, No. 511, in bankruptcy. To the creditors of William Enoch Latham, shoe repair business, Electra, Wichita county, Texas. Notice is hereby given that on the 23rd day of October, A. D., 1930, the said William Enoch Latham, was duly adjudicated bankrupt and that the first meeting of the creditors of the said bankrupt will be held at my office, 714 Staley building, in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, on the 10th day of November, A. D., 1930, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at which time and place the said creditors may attend, prove up their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting. Dated this the 28th day of October, A. D., 1930.—Walter Nelson, referee in bankruptcy.

Wichita Urged as Section's Amusement Center

A survey to determine the kind of attractions that Wichita Falls people prefer will possibly be made during the next few months, it was announced following a meeting of the chamber of commerce amusement and theater committee Tuesday afternoon when amusement conditions here and methods of encouraging better entertainment for Wichita Falls were discussed at length.

An attempt, it was announced, will be made to secure attractions of sufficient merit to cause Wichita Falls to be the amusement and entertainment center of Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma.

The committee conferred with Victor Lowrey, manager of the Publix theaters here, who discussed Publix entertainment actions and contemplated actions. A report on the entertainment situation here by H. C. Cheshire was also heard.

The committee is composed of Jack Barnard, chairman, H. S. Ford, Julian Montgomery, J. L. Jackson Jr., George Gutzman and J. M. Spoonts, who contemplate a later meeting at which time the situation will be gone into in greater detail, it was announced.

School and College Notes

By MARGARET FLEMING

Dr. Harry S. Allen, who is conducting a revival at the Floral Heights Presbyterian church, addressed the students of the high school and Junior college at their regular assembly Tuesday on "Success." Dr. Nat F. Grafton, pastor of the Floral Heights church, introduced the speaker.

Members of the high school orchestra played several numbers, under the direction of Mrs. Hermione Stewart Vaughn, music instructor in the high school and college.

"Fascism" was the principal topic of discussion at the regular meeting of the Junior college Senate Tuesday evening, when S. C. Anthony was in charge of the program. A round table discussion of several topics of world interest featured the remainder of the entertainment.

Art Club

Meeting time for the high school Art club has been changed from the second and fifth Wednesdays of the six weeks' period to the third and sixth, according to information received Tuesday. There will be no meeting of the club Wednesday, it was announced.

Bullet Wound Fatal To Tillman Pioneer

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 28.—Tillman county was shocked Sunday to learn of the death of Lee W. Hayward, former pioneer resident of near Manitou, who died from pistol wounds at his home one mile from Amherst, Texas, at 4 p. m. Saturday. The body was forwarded to his boyhood home at Elk City, Kan., where funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon.

For the past several years he has been in failing health. In spite of this he was actively engaged in hanking and stock raising as long as he could get around.

A year or so ago he had a special body built on an auto forming a small bedroom and kitchenette, in which a chauffeur drove Hayward and Mrs. Hayward to West Texas, hoping the change would benefit his health.

Hayward came to this country at the opening in 1901 and settled on a homestead six miles east of Davidson. In 1906 he sold this place and moved to Manitou where he bought an interest in the Bank of Manitou. He paid so close attention to this business that it is believed to have affected his health. At the time of his death he was vice president of that institution.

MAJESTIC: "Doughboys" with Buster Keaton. Short subjects and news.

GEM: Clara Bow in "True to the Navy." Comedy.

It takes the Tiffany chimps, newest theatrical organization, to show just how much monkey business is in the movies. In their first production, now showing at the Strand, all the hokum ever shoved down the public's collective throat is embodied in the clever little 20-minute wild western farce which they present.

◇ ◇ ◇

The perfection with which human voices have been synchronized to monkey gyrations is amazing—or maybe Darwin put it mildly. When Nell's father says "Thar's gold in them thar hills" and when the hero admonishes the villain, "When you say that, smile!" it begins to be rather uncomfortably similar to human conduct.

◇ ◇ ◇

It all goes to show how little of real genius is in the great majority of human acting and how much of talent must have been expended in teaching the chimpanzees.

◇ ◇ ◇

The chimps, incidentally, present one of these short subjects which may be placed in the category of something at which theater managers may aim in booking well-balanced programs.

◇ ◇ ◇

The last five minutes of "Check and Double Check" was worth seeing twice (discovered on second trip to Strand, which was timed a little early). The wild taxi ride which Amos 'n Andy make to the Pennsylvania station ranks with Harold Lloyd's hair-raising suspension in "Safety Last," several years ago.

Valley View Students Tour Newspaper Plant

Fifteen members of Miss Helen VanDeventer's third year English class, Valley View high school, were visitors in The Record News and Times plant Tuesday afternoon. The class was brought to Wichita Falls so it would be able to inspect the plant and see the newspaper press in operation.

The party inspected every department of the plant. Notes were taken by the students and soon they will be writing their experience on how a city daily is made and printed.

Valley View is located 20 miles southwest of Wichita Falls. Members of the party accompanying Miss VanDeventer were Dorothy Harmon, Maggie Russell, Pauline Holliman, Bertha Knipe, Ruby Lyles, Gertrude Nelson, Della Jeter and Patsy Munday; Ralph Cook, Lester Jones, Delbert Phillips, Jimmie Joines, Jimmie Ferguson, Alfred Harmon and Inman Allison.

Adrian Pool Withdraws As Legislature Nominee

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 28. (AP)—Adrian Pool, member of the Texas house of representatives from this district, today withdrew as the Democratic nominee for reelection to his place.

He refused to give any reasons for his action. He said he had not received any intimation from Governor Moody that he would be appointed to a state position. It had been reported in Austin Pool would be named a member of the board of control to succeed R. B. Walthall, whose term has expired.

The county election board will leave Pool's name off the official ballots and a movement was started to have voters write in the name of Joseph McGill, former state representative, for the place.

Tree in Wichita Falls Yard Wears Spring Coat in Fall

Mrs. J. M. Cloud, 1603 Austin street, brought to The Times building Tuesday afternoon a cluster of pear blossoms plucked from a tree in her yard. This tree has already produced one full crop of pears this year, and is now as white with blossoms as it was in the spring.

POSTAL FORCE TO BE RAISED

Extra Workers for Holiday Rush Ordered

Between 20 and 30 extra workers will be employed by Postmaster O. P. Maricle during the Christmas rush, it was announced Tuesday.

A number of the extras will be used in the downtown office and several will be placed in the station on Monroe street, Mr. Maricle said. Others will be used in the special parcel post office and on delivery routes. The extra help will be employed from about Dec. 12 until Christmas day.

ORDER CALLS FOR 224,000 WORKERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28. (UP)—Special instructions covering employment of 224,000 extra workers during the Christmas holiday rush were issued today by Postmaster General Brown.

To aid the unemployment situation, postmasters throughout the country were instructed to employ to the fullest extent possible competent men who have families to support and who are now without work.

REALTORS URGE HOME PAINTING

Work Would Increase Value Of Property

Continued and increased improvement of residence property in this city as a means of stimulating returning prosperity was urged by Roscoe Staton, president of the real estate board, before members of that organization in its bi-weekly meeting at the Kemp hotel Tuesday noon.

"Smearing of about $10,000 worth of paint on this city would go a long way toward relieving unemployment among our own residents," Mr. Staton said, "and at the same time would in most instances increase the value of property more than the cost of the improvement."

Adherence of realtors to established principles of making appraisals was indicated when W. S. Curlee and J. M. Baber turned in appraisals of a downtown piece of property between which there was a variance of but $687. The property has on it a one-story building and a three-story structure. The appraisals were made separately, Mr. Curlee valuing the property at $124,361, and Mr. Baber at $125,048.

Discussion of appraisals by all those present concluded Tuesday's program.

Iowa Park Man Accepts Five-Year Sentence

Henry Hood, Iowa Park, who was convicted on a charge of hijacking by a jury in the 30th district court last week and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary, accepted that sentence Tuesday, according to Sam B. Spence.

Hood is being held in jail here, with eight other men, Mr. Spence said, awaiting arrival of officers from the state penitentiary to transfer them to Huntsville.

Body Found in Ditch With Bullet in Head

MILLBURN, N. J., Oct. 28. (AP)—Joe Hamley, who police said, "talked too much" about the shooting of Jack ("Legs") Diamond in New York three weeks ago, was found dead in a ditch in South Orange avenue today with a bullet in his head.

70 DAYS IN JAIL

Two young men who pleaded guilty before Judge Irvin J. Vogel in the county court at law Tuesday afternoon on charges of stealing about $25 worth of tools were assessed court costs and 70 days each in jail, according to L. V. Abernathy, assistant county attorney.

Advertising to Lead America's Return to Prosperity, Club Told

"Advertising will bring prosperity to America before any other nation on the globe gets back on its feet," declared Fred L. Haskett before members of the Ad club at the Kemp hotel Tuesday noon. "Remember that our present condition is not Wichita-wide, nor nation-wide, but world-wide, and America at her worst is better than the rest of the world at its best."

The adventurous nature of American business men has carried American products into all ports of the world by advertising, the speaker said. American soft drinks, cigars, and other commodities are more popular with European peoples than similar products coming from their own colonies, according to Mr. Haskett, because of the intensive advertising with which they are supported.

"Advertising is not a panacea for all business ills," Mr. Haskett said, "for it will not bring trade or profit to a merchant or factory that operates upon an unwise business principle. Advertising will not cure a storefront that looks like a wreck, not will it remove cobwebs from the ceilings. Advertising will bring people to a store, but the store must be able to give the trade an inviting place and good merchandise at a fair price.

"The merchant who fights hardest keeps on top. The time to fight hardest is when the fight is hardest."

For the purpose of selecting the city's two most valuable citizens for this year for award of the Ad club's cups, the following committee was appointed by C. A. Spragins Jr., president:

A. E. Kelly, chairman; W. S. Abbott, E. A. Webb, J. H. Allison, Lester Jones and R. E. Shepherd.

Mr. Haskett was introduced by Mr. Allison.

Akers on Trial For Sanity Today

A second hearing on the sanity of Otis Akers, sentenced to the penitentiary for life several months ago under the habitual criminal act, will open at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning before Judge Allan D. Montgomery in the 30th district court, according to Sam B. Spence, district attorney.

Tried before a jury here several weeks ago, Akers was adjudged insane, and was committed to the Wichita Falls State hospital. Dr. C. W. Castner, head of that institution, recently declared his belief that Akers is sane.

One of the witnesses to be heard Wednesday, it was indicated, will be the state penitentiary physician from Huntsville.

REPAIR PERMITS

Repair permits totaling $1,150 were issued Tuesday by City Engineer F. M. Rugeley. The largest was a $1,000 permit granted G. W. Swanson for the purpose of repairing his residence at 1704 Kemp boulevard. The other permit was for $150 and was taken out by A. F. Smart who will make repairs on his garage at 608 Austin street.
