OFFICERS JAIL PICKETS AT BEAUMONT

TOTAL OF 236 THROWN IN LAST NIGHT IN INJUNCTION TEST

(By The Associated Press)

BEAUMONT, Nov. 26—With 236 striking seamen in the county jail as the result of a mass picketing demonstration at Port Arthur Wednesday night in defiance of a district court injunction, county officials watched Thursday for a threatened influx of pickets from Houston.

"There'll be 1500 more over from Houston today to take our places," one of the strikers is reported to have told a deputy sheriff as the prisoners were being transported by chartered buses from the picket lines near the Gulf and Texas refineries to the county jail early Thursday morning.

No Turkey For Dinner

In an unfinished floor of the county's jail building the 236 prisoners milled about after a hurriedly ordered prepared breakfast of bologna sausage, bread and syrup and they waited for the dinner which will consist of stew and bread.

The demonstration is believed to be in the nature of a test of the injunction granted by Judge George C. O'Brien in fifty eighth district court last Saturday, prohibiting among other things any picketing of the docks in the county in interferance with seamen going to work on the vessels docked in the county.

Judge Not Notified

Judge O'Brien had not been officially notified of the arrests and will probably be asked Friday to cite those under arrest with contempt of court.

Sixteen were arrested by city officials in Beaumont Wednesday night after an assistant engineer from the tanker Astral at the Magnolia refinery docks was beaten. None of the men were identified as the attackers.

"HITLER WILL NOT FIND US SO EASY"

STRONG LANGUAGE IS USED IN ADDRESS BEFORE CONGRESS

(By The Associated Press)

MOSCOW, Nov. 26—The most inglorious defeat in history awaits Germany if she attacks the Ukraine, M. Lubchenko, prime minister of the Ukrainian republic, told the All-Union Congress of soviets today.

"Hitler will not find us as easy to conquer as East Prussia and the Rhineland," he declared.

Using the strongest language of any of the authoritative Soviet retorts to the German chancellor's anti-bolshevist speech at Nurnberg, Lubchenko cried:

Answer In Famed Letted

"The Nazis dream of destroying the Soviet Union. Our answer to them is contained in the cossacks' famous letter to the Turkish sultan." (This letter, one of the most vulgar in history, is depicted in Repin's noted painting, "The Answer of the Cossacks to Sultan Mahmoud IV).

He continued:

"We Ukranians have a popular saying now for Hitler. It is: 'Just as a pig never sees the sky, so Hitler never will see our vegetable gardens'."

Chides Poland

He chided Poland, declaring "the Poles seem to forget that Rosenberg (Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, Nazi foreign affairs official) wrote that destruction for Poland is the first demand of German policy. When they talk of the Soviet Union they do not remember they are in danger of being strangled by Germany."

Referring directly to the German-Japanese anti-communism agreement, Lubchenko declared: "A crusade is being prepared against the Soviet Union by a holy alliance," and recalled Ukranian "suffering" under the Germans in 1918.

Man In Pajamas Pays Off Fine, Buys Jail Dinners

The red-haired man in the gray-striped pajamas went down town early this morning to "pinch the first policeman's head off he saw."

He didn't pinch off any heads, but he did pay a $25 fine for drunkenness and buy turkey dinners for 17 inmates of City jail.

The red-haired man, 34 years old, was arrested in his gray-striped pajamas in 1000-block Main street at 2:50 o'clock.

The vessel reported all passengers safe, and that it would remove them and their baggage to Juneau to lighten the plane's load so it could take off on an improvised runway as soon as the stormy weather permits. The Morris said it would stand by for the takeoff.

Long believed to be virtually extinct, sea otters produce the most valuable of all furs. Single pelts have sold for as much as $2,500.

Commander L. V. Kielhorn of the coast guard cutter Chelan said three thousand of the little streamlined animals were counted along the island's rocky shore.

MADISON STREET REMEMBERS IT'S DAY OF THANKS

CHICAGO, Nov. 26. (AP)—The "Street of Forgotten Men" remembered dimly that it was Thanksgiving day today.

Most of the human derelicts shuffling along Madison street were thankful for just a usual "two-bit flop and a cuppa coffee".

Take "Nova Scotia Slim," for example. He panhandled a dime and said:

"I wish I knew where to get a Thanksgiving dinner, Doc, but I'll eat. I can get a feed and coffee for 15 cents. I gotta two-bit flop in a joint for tonight."

Clerk Gives View

At the nearest sleeping place—like a score more along the street, but a little ritzier at 30 and 35 cents a night—the clerk, Ray Barker, said:

"Most of these guys'll eat today, all right, if they stay sober long enough. They worked the streets hard yesterday. They do pretty good the day before a holiday like this."

Up the street a couple of taverns charging 10 cents a drink for whisky boasted "three floor shows tonight." Another advertised "free turkey dinner with every 15-cent drink." Several flop-houses turned on radios in their "lobbies." Ten-sent movies opened early.

It was Thanksgiving day on Madison street.

HUNT GOES ON FOR TEXANS

CLUES IN MYSTERY OF MISSING MEN ARE SOUGHT TODAY

(By The Associated Press)

SAN PERLITA, Nov. 26.—Six mounted men headed into the million-acre King cattle empire today to search for clues in the disappearance a week ago of Luther and John Blanton, San Perlita farmers.

Expressing a belief the men were slain and their bodies removed from the ranch, Ranger Capt. Bill McMurray continued an investigation with the aid of residents of the community and relatives of the missing pair.

Heated Feelings Subside

Heated feelings subsided yesterday when McMurray gave aroused residents permission to conduct any orderly investigation.

Constable Ernest Oakes of Sebastian and A. J. Faulk, a neighbor of the missing men, headed the new searching party. McMurray let them enter the ranch last night to be ready to start the hunt at dawn.

The Blantons were last seen eight days ago heading for a lagoon on the ranch to hunt ducks. That was a week ago yesterday.

Search Wednesday Fruitless

Fifteen picked men headed by McMurray and Sheriff Howard Cragg made a fruitless search on the ranch yesterday. The Ranger captain arranged the search after residents at a mass meeting agreed to leave the investigation in his hands.

Incensed by the failure of officers to find a trace of the hunters, residents previously had threatened to invade the vast cattle domain in search of clues.

Meanwhile, McMurray held a game warden and a Mexican in an unannounced jail but did not disclose what connection, if any, he believed they had with the mystery.

NATION GIVES THANKS

FEASTING, MERRYMAKING AND CHURCH SERVICES MARKING OBSERVANCE OF HOLIDAY

EVIDENCES OF INCREASING PROSPERITY SPUR OBSERVANCE; TRADITIONAL DINNERS WITH TURKEYS BEING HELD IN NATION'S HOMES

(By The Associated Press)

A nation spurred by evidences of increasing prosperity observed today its annual Thanksgiving.

All over the country there was feasting and merrymaking as families gathered around holiday boards which, in most cases, held the traditional bird of the day—King Turkey.

It was also a day of religious observances. Churches everywhere held special services.

Recent increases in wages and bonuses announced by many industrial and business concerns, together with increased dividends to stockholders, gave many families added reason to be thankful.

The observance was not confined within the United States, it was also day of celebration for Uncle Sam's soldiers and sailors and diplomatic representatives around the world.

President On High Sea

President Roosevelt observed the day aboard the destroyer Indianapolis enroute to Buenos Aires for the Inter-American Peace conference. He invited the ship's officers to a turkey dinner.

For many families, today, like Christmas, was a day of reunion, and transportation systems all over the country were taxed far beyond capacity, carrying hundreds of thousands to their homes.

Offer Lavish Menus

Hotels, as usual, offered lavish menus, some in New York charging as high as $10. Thousands of poor made their meals from gift baskets, while other thousands ate all they could at Salvation Army halls and other such organizations.

The number of free meals in virtually every community was far below the peak of 1932 and 1933 when lines of people waited for food.

In glum disapproval of the turkey feasting, the Vegatrial society in New York had its annual meatless banquet. One year it had a live turkey guest of honor.

TEXAS GIVES THANKS FOR BETTER TIMES

(By The Associated Press)

Texas gave thanks today for a brighter relief outlook than a year ago while its citizens observed Thanksgiving day around gridirons, duck ponds and dinner tables.

Opening of the duck season attracted hundreds of nimrods. Ducks were reported almost as nmerous as hunting regulations.

Football has Spotlight

Much of the state's attention centered at Austin, where the University of Texas Longhorns and the Texas Aggies squared off for their annual Turkey Day game.

High school football came in for its share of the spotlight. Ten district championships were at stake and 20 other class A contests combined to crowd turkey and dressing for top billing on the day's menu.

Fewer Persons In Need

From all sections of the state came reports that fewer persons were in need than last year. Private and public agencies cooperated in seeing that few were neglected.

Reports indicated that more persons than for several years were able to buy their own Thanksgiving dinners.

Fort Worth Woman Is Given 25 Years

FORT WORTH, Nov. 26. (AP)—Mrs. Birdie Wilkins, 33, was under a 25-year sentence today for conspiracy to murder in the death of her husband, Arthur Lee Wilkins, at a railway crossing last month.

AREA JOINS IN THANKSGIVING

CITIZENS MINDFUL OF MANY THINGS TO BE GRATEFUL FOR

In brisk, but fair and pleasant, weather the South Plains today joined the nation in Thanksgiving observance.

Closing of stores, banks, and office buildings released hundreds of persons for a holiday. Employes in City, county, and federal buildings also were freed for the day, with the exception of police, sheriff's, and fire departments.

Church Services Held

The observance began Wednesday night at the First Methodist Episcopal church with a service sponsored by the Ministers association and at the First Baptist church in a regular Wednesday evening meeting.

Mindful of many things for which to be grateful, this section was observing the day in holiday style, with heavily-laden tables and a variety of entertainment.

Largest Crop Since '33

The largest cotton crop since 1933 virtually has been harvested, there's feed in the barn and in the stack-lot. In the barnyard are fat chickens, turkeys, and hogs.

Cash registers, a-jingle this autumn, continued playing the cheerful tune yesterday.

The county's last unsurfaced state highway soon will be paved.

This year has seen a wide-spread construction program. Residences have been built in urban and rural communities, and many new busi-

Can Opener Factor In Hawaii; Turkey Prices 70 Cents

HONOLULU, Nov. 26. (AP)—The can opener played an important role today in preparing Hawaii's Thanksgiving dinner.

And chicken, duck and pig shoved the customary turkey right off the table.

The cause of it all is the Pacific coast maritime strike which has isolated Hawaii, kept out turkeys, fresh fruits and vegetables and forced the islanders back on their supplies of canned goods.

Turkey skyrocketed to 70 cents a pound—too steep a price for most of the 400,000 residents. There are only 15,000 birds on the island.

A dinner and bridge party was given for the Triple Four club Wednesday night by Mrs. Sherrill Boyd at Tree Top Inn. Mrs. Allen Benton was a guest.

A Thanksgiving motif prevailed in appointments. The dinner table was centered with a large centerpiece of autumn fruits and vegetables, surrounded by colorful leaves.

Members drew names for gifts to be presented at a Christmas party December 18. Miss Myrtle Ewell will be hostess.

High score in the games was made by Miss Marguerite Whipp. Second high was made by Mrs. J. D. Jenkins. Prizes for high cuts went to Mesdames Jenkins and Vernice Ford and Miss Ruth Ford.

Others attending were Misses Myrtle Porter, Ewell, Mary Lois Thompson and Erma Dene Hefner and Mesdames J. B. Stevens and Lucile B. Smith.

Christmas Party Is Planned At Lunch

Eleven members of Colonial Needle club and a guest attended a Thanksgiving luncheon Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Ellis Martin, 1817 Avenue F. Embroidering and crocheting were enjoyed during the afternoon.

Plans were discussed for a Christmas party which the club members will give honoring their husbands in the home of Mrs. A. L. Syrfett who lives north of town. The next club meeting will be December 9 in the home of Mrs. Roy Parks, 2205 Eighth street.

Members present were Mesdames G. G. Sutton, J. D. Stoneham, W. D. Lewis, Mary Gardener, B. F. Foster, C. D. Puckett, C. C. Taylor, Parks, Syrfett, and H. E. Tibbett. Mrs. B. T. Thompson visited the club.

BRADLEY TO PLAY

Ned Bradley's orchestra will play for a dance at Sled Allen's auditorium tonight, beginning at 9 o'clock.

Thanksgiving: Yesterday And Today

* * *

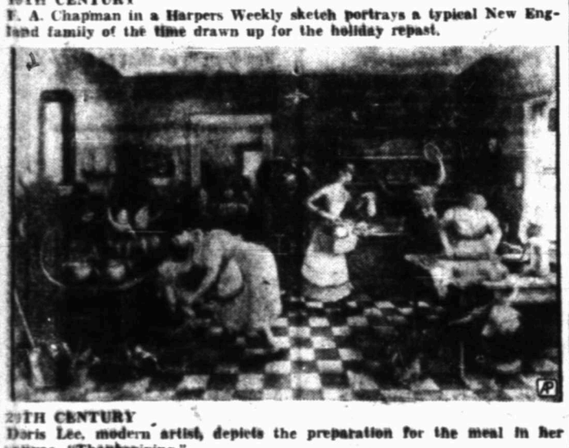

THANKSGIVING, as artists portray it, has remained essentially the same since the time of the Pilgrim Fathers—a day of feasting. New England colonies have become part of a mighty nation. . . . Indians do not play the prominent role they did in the first Thanksgiving. But these conceptions of how the day has been observed at three widely-separated periods have the same theme.

17TH CENTURY

18TH CENTURY
F. A. Chapman in a Harpers Weekly sketch portrays a typical New England family of the time drawn up for the holiday repast.

20TH CENTURY

FLASHES OF LIFE

The Modern Age

FULTON, Mo. — Mrs. Editha Kemp has smoked a clay pipe for many years, but she waited until her 100th birthday to try a cigarette.

It was "very pleasant," she told a friend who gave it to her at her birthday celebration. Mrs. Kemp hears well, reads newspapers and does her own sewing.

Calling Him Names

STAUNTON, Va. — Thanksgiving Turkey Cranberry Sauce Penhypacker Breckenridge, negro charged with stealing meat from a farmer, told the Augusta county circuit court the attending physician gave him the first two names because he was born on Thanksgiving day 30 years ago, and his mother added the trimmings. The judge contributed 18 months.

Down His Alley

PORTLAND, Ore. — With 30 passengers on his streetcar, motorman John F. King tried to brush aside a live wire dangling from the trolley line and was shocked to the floor.

The driverless car had moved nearly a block through heavy downtown traffic when a pedestrian hopped in and stopped it. Police said he was Edward Francis, who used to be a streetcar motorman at Cleveland, Ohio.

Caught Napping

LOS ANGELES — Ernest W. Solberg, a transient, was tired and sleepy. A parked car invited. He had hardly fallen asleep when he was awakened by two men who hauled him off to jail. The men were policemen who stopped for a cup of coffee. The automobile Solberg had chosen for his nap was a police radio car. In municipal court he was given five days to rest in jail.

GUILD STRIKE IS SETTLED

SEATTLE NEWSPAPER'S DIFFICULTIES WITH WRITERS AT END

(By The Associated Press)

SEATTLE, Nov. 26.—Charles B. Lindeman, associate publisher of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, and H. Richard Seller, president of the Seattle Chapter of the American Newspaper Guild announced at 10:22 p. m. last night. The guild strike against the newspaper "has been settled."

Lindeman's statement said:

"The newsroom strike on the Post-Intelligencer has been settled. The terms were upon the basis incorporated in the draft prepared by the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor."

Publication will be resumed Monday, November 30, Lindeman said.

Seller described the settlement as a "victory for the guild."

The agreement ending the strike which started August 13 was signed at 11:35 p. m. cst., Arthur French, striking Post-Intelligencer photographer said.

Full terms of the settlement were not announced immediately.

TRAFFIC SAFETY WILL BE SOUGHT

L. G. Phares, head of the state highway patrol, will speak to the Texas Tech student body December 3 to initiate a careful driving campaign which may lead to a required course in traffic safety.

The speech, for which students will be dismissed from 2 to 3 p. m., will precede a series of safety talks to be delivered to freshmen orientation classes by O. V. Adams, dean of engineering, and F. L. McRee, associate professor of civil engineering.

Officials have considered the question of how to teach college students the danger of careless driving since the beginning of this college year in September, said President Bradford Knapp. A required course, plans for which have not been worked out, would be taken by each student at some time during his four years' study.

"We think there is a primary responsibility resting on educated people to set a good example of obedience to the law and the care and consideration of others in the operation of automobiles", Doctor Knapp said.

HARLEY SADLER'S CIRCUS TO SHOW HERE THREE DAYS

Twenty-seven acts in Harley Sadler's newest and most unique undertaking—a winter circus—will be presented in Lubbock beginning next Sunday night at the Auditorium.

Well known to this vicinity, Harley Sadler declares that "this is the greatest amusement bargain ever offered."

The "best of circus talent" presented indoors for the comfort and safety of patrons is the current offering of the noted showman. A summer show has been disbanded and the circus attraction is an entirely new organization comprising performances by people of eleven nationalities, he declares.

Many Features Offered

Included are goat and dog acts, slack wire performance of Senor Marcias, "hootchy-cootchy" dance of Big Burma, trained elephant; bicycle and roller skating acts by the Reckless Recklaws, vocal numbers by Denver Crumley, radio star; rifle markmanship exhibition by Miss Mildred Chrisman, bar act of Valeros brothers, Tetu, the Japanese aerial artist, and a long list of others.

The circus will be here three days. A special matinee will be presented Tuesday, with children admitted for 10 cents and adults for 25 cents.

Favorable press comment has been given the attraction by the San Angelo Standard, and the Amarillo News, where a four-day engagement has been completed.

Phillips Talks In Plane Conversation

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 26. (AP)—Frank Phillips, millionaire oil man of Bartlesville, Okla., talked to his wife late Wednesday in what he believed to be the world's first airplane-long distance conversation.

At the time of the conversation, Phillips was in his private plane about 8,000 feet above Joplin, Mo. Mrs. Phillips was in Chicago where a son, John, was ill in a hospital.

Several minutes later Phillips talked to his New York and St. Louis offices.

It requires the ovaries of 72,000,000 hogs to make one ounce of female sex hormone.

Beware The Cough

From a common cold

That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies; such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Wild Cherry and Menthol, but also has fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go get a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

What's All This About Thanksgiving and Tradition?

WHAT'S Thanksgiving anyway? Plymouth Rock and Priscilla Alden? Muskets and Indians? The Mayflower and the Pilgrims? Just a lot of dry history mixed up with some romantic nonsense?

OF COURSE not! And Thanksgiving, you say, is something more than just another excuse for eating too much of the kind of food that sometimes doesn't agree with you, something more than a reason for getting the family together, something intangible, something that we know as the American tradition.

LIKE the tradition of Thanksgiving, the tradition of service at these institutions has been built slowly, carefully maintained, pampered perhaps, at times. And like Thanksgiving, it has brought something finer into the lives of all who live in Lubbock and on the South Plains. We're proud of Thanksgiving, and we're proud of the same traditoins as you find them e day at these banking institutions of Lul

One of the oldest and most consistent football rivalries on the South Plains breaks out again this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when the Westerners of Lubbock and the Bulldogs of Plainview clash in a District 1 conference game that winds up the season for each team.

Plainview-Lubbock football rivalry dates back to 1909, and the teams have met each season since then.

The not-so-old-timers of both teams will recall that athletes of both schools "stayed out of the war" in 1918 until they had met in combat on the football team. And Plainview, who must have kept the largest percentage of eligible soldiers, scored a 54 to 0 victory!

That game followed a 54 to 0 victory scored by Lubbock in 1917. The following year's score was an exact reversal.

Before and after those high-kiting pre-war years, Lubbock's Westerners and Plainview's Bulldogs scratched each other all over the South Plains in yearly gridiron combat, and the rivalry has never ceased.

As Lubbock grew, its team became stronger, and in recent years the Westerners have prevailed — until last year.

And last year's score is one thing that should send the Westerners to war today. With the game apparently in the bag, the Lubbock team saw an inspired Bulldog band come forth with a variety of forward and lateral passes to come out ahead when the final gun sounded, 25 to 20.

Last Game For Seniors

There's another reason why today's game should be more than an average contest. While the dope leans Lubbock's way, District 1 history disproves most dope. Senior players of both teams will be putting out their last and best efforts today, and there are several seniors on each side.

For Lubbock, fifteen players will be doing their bow for the Gold and Black. They compose practically the entire team, making it necessary for Coaches Chapman and Keyes and Ayers to start building from the bottom again.

Westerners doing their last stints for Lubbock High today are Ralph Letsinger, H. L. Gantz, Orvil Lee Oden, and Bill Wood, ends; Virgle Simmons and C. H. Tubbs, tackles; Paul Kinard, Sterling Short and Wilburn Piercy, guards; Rafe Nabors, center; Haroid Ingley, C. L. Storrs, Firman Williamson, Max Rutledge and Isaac White, backs.

The game, beginning at 2:30 o'clock, is the final contest scheduled for the Lubbock field this season. Lubbock High plays out its schedule, and the Texas Tech college team ended its home schedule last week.

Second place in the District 1 race is Lubbock's reward for winning today; should Plainview win, Westerners will gain nothing better than a tie for second place, and Plainview will take third above Borger with two victories.

Spurred on by the turn of events which finally gave them official victory over Borger and lifted them out of the cellar, the Bulldogs from Plainview are expected to fight a bitter battle against Lubbock today. Several hundred Plainview fans have purchased tickets for the game and will be here to stage a pre-game celebration shortly after noon.

GREATEST CROWD SEEN FOR GAME

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26. (AP)—The nation's biggest football crowd of the year, nearly 103,000 people, is expected to jam Memorial coliseum today to see Southern California and the University of California at Los Angeles settle a cross-town grid grudge.

For two teams that have been pretty well bumped around this season, the U.C.L.A. Bruins with three defeats and the Trojans beaten twice and tied once, they should find a generous measure of consolation in their Thanksgiving day battle.

There's no title whatsoever involved, and the glory of a Rose bowl appearance faded several weeks ago, but the teams have a spirited, local issue to decide, and there'll be this tremendous throng sitting on the verdict.

And not to be overlooked, either, is the fact that both schools will draw down something like $100,000 apiece for their efforts.

TITLES ARE AT STAKE TODAY

TEN DISTRICT RACES TO BE DECIDED IN TEXAS GRID LOOP

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Nov. 26. (AP)—Ten district football championships hang in the balance today as half the Texas Interscholastic league's class A teams reach the end of the season.

A schedule of thirty games, most of them reeking with tradition, are on the Thanksgiving menu.

Barring upsets Amarillo, Childress, San Angelo, Gainesville, North Side (Fort Worth), Dallas Tech, Lufkin and Hillsboro will join McKinney, Kerrville, Port Arthur and Edinburg in the list of district champions.

There are, however, strong chances of upsets in several of these sectors, notably the Oil Belt where Abilene's Eagles have been coming on like a house afire to menace the undefeated San Angelo Bobcats; district eight where Dallas Tech faces a determined north Dallas Bulldog, heartened by a tie posted on the Tech record last week by the third-place Sunset Bisons, and district eleven where Cleburne's latent power made itself felt in blasting Corsicana in such manner the Hillsboro Eagles are looking with fearful eyes on their Turkey day struggle with the Yellow Jackets.

Results of two other district championship battles are mooted questions. Gladewater meets Longview in district nine and Corpus Christi clashes with Robstown in district fifteen. All four teams are unbeaten and untied in conference play.

Amarillo must beat Pampa to win in the Panhandle, Childress must take out Quanah, Gainesville must down Sherman, North Side must win over Paschal (Fort Worth) and Lufkin must defeat Athens, each facing a tie for the district champion unless victorious.

Friday John Reagan plays San Jacinto for survival in the Houston district race. Reagan must win to tie Jeff Davis for the top. Saturday El aPso High and Austin (El Paso), both unbeaten and untied in conference play, meet for the district four championship.

Longhorn-Aggie Clash Is Texas Grid Feature

A. & M. GIVEN BEST CHANCE FOR WIN

CROWD OF 35,000 IS EXPECTED TO SEE ANNUAL CLASSIC

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 26.—The capital city's population of 70,000 zoomed today to more than 100,000 as football enthusiasts poured in to attend the historic Thanksgiving day grid classic between the invading Texas A. & M. college farmers and the University of Texas Longhorns.

A memorial stadium crowd of 35,000 was expected to witness the Longhorns' final home stand and their desperate effort to achieve a victory over their ancient rivals, who have an outside chance at the Southwest conference title. The Steers have won but one game all season.

Aggies Favored

The famed "jinx" which has allowed the home team to lose but twice during the past 20 years apparently had no effect on betting odds, which remained at 5 to 2 favoring the Aggies.

Coach Homer Norton's brilliant exponents of the running-lateral type of play, winding up a tour which has seen them play five games in 20 days, were to arrive in the city shortly before the 2:30 o'clock starting whistle. They spent the night in Taylor.

The Longhorns, coached by Jack Chevigny, who recently said he would not be a candidate for reappointment in February, may be playing their final home game for the mentor. Both squads were in the pink of condition.

Yesterday, the freshman teams of the schools played a contest which the Longhorn Yearlings won, 21 to 6.

MCSHAIN WINNER OVER D. HADDOCK

In his sign-off match of the season here, Danny McShain pounced on Dale Haddock, hitherto the often-challenged but seldom defeated "champion" of the West Texas circuit, to win the main event in two quick maneuvers and take his departure under a salvo of cheers instead of the usual jeers.

So suddenly that he did not know what was happening, Haddock was shorn of his unofficial circuit championship and beaten for the first time in many moons here when McShain doubled back on him to throw on a piledriver and win the third and deciding fall in 4 minutes.

McShain won the second fall in 22 seconds, one of the shortest falls on record here. After losing the first after 22 minutes, McShain charged Haddock at the gong, grabbed a hammerlock, flung him to the mat and proceeded to indulge in one of his favorite pastimes—the "stomping hammerlock." Haddock gave up in a hurry.

The first fall of 22 minutes saw some rugged, fast grappling that did not get too rough. Haddock won with a body pin after two hard crotch and body slams.

Sailor Moran, rougher and meaner than ever, pulled the wool over Referee Big Train Clements' eyes for 20 minutes while he fought George Bennett, newcomer from Oklahoma, to a draw in the preliminary.

LOUGHRAN VS. BEAUPRE

DALLAS, Nov. 26. (AP)—Tommy Loughran, veteran heavyweight campaigner, will meet Tom Beaupre, Dallas butcherboy, in a ten round bout here December 3, Promoter Dick Griffin announced last night. The former light - heavyweight champion is now in San Francisco.

STORMY WEATHER

by COLLIER PARRIS

. . . . And another thing for which we're thankful today is that Texas Tech doesn't have to play Amarillo High school—or Hardin-Simmons university.

An expression of gratitude, too, for the opening of the duck season—because it'll all be over in a month and we can settle down again.

Do not get the idea that we do not like ducks or duck hunting. Ask Joe Potter, George Broome, Sam West, et al. But we're no fanatic; we can take our ducks or let them fly. We're goofy enough about the sport, however, to get a bang out of a story written for a special "Sportsmen's Edition" of the Amarillo Globe News, by Wes Izzard, former sports editor who was demoted to the managing editorship and who now is one of the brass collars around the KGNC radio plant there.

Izzard's story, definitely a take-off on duck hunting, nevertheless strikes home to a lot of us, regardless of our ostentations, our big talk and our he-mannish instincts.

So because the story is worthy of repetition and because we've had an overload of turkey (not duck) and can't seem to get hotted up over battering out a column of our own, we're reproducing parts of the Izzard yarn, wishing we had space to do the whole thing:

BY WES IZZARD

I guess I'm just a sissy.

November 26 is Thanksgiving Day, and that's all, as far as I'm concerned.

I've been told by several hairy-chested, red-blooded he-men that it also is the opening of duck-hunting season. But try as I may, I can't seem to get worked up over it.

For 12 years, now, I've listened to talk about duck hunting. I've known otherwise normal men abandon family and fireside to lie on their stomachs, or sit in holes in the ground, while the icy wind whistled through their clothes. I've seen men close up their stores and offices in order to don three coats, a pair of boots and a fanatical look, and start out in the middle of the night for some vaguely-located lake. I've seen friends of years standing turn into mortal enemies because of a quarrel over their shooting prowess.

All for what? . . . For a duck!

In the first place, who wants a duck? And if anybody does, why? Personally, I don't like duck. It doesn't taste good. Oh, I know! . . I've heard all about how to cook them . . . There's the apple school and there's the onion school. But apples or onions, duck still doesn't taste good, especially when you can buy all the filet mignon you can eat for the price of a box of shells.

If not for food, why go through all the uncomfortable, costly and inconvenient motions necessary just for a duck?

Why, for the sport of the thing, of course! Can't you just see them circling overhead, as the dawn breaks in a burst of color in the east? Can't you hear them honk—or maybe it's quack—as they see our decoys on the lake in front of us (only you can't use decoys this year)? Here they come! We level our guns and rise from our pits! They're zooming in! Bang Bang!

. . . . Ah, the thrill of it all!

That's the way it was described to me . . . and I tried it—once.

It was a man whom I shall call Charley, because that was his name. H told me all about the thrill of duck hunting. He was a good talker. He talked me into going with him one morning.

I have tried to forget the horrible details, but they remain vivid in my memory.

(We will skip a few of the protest paragraphs, which got Mr. Izzard nowhere.)

It was a fairly warm November evening, clear and moonlight, when I went to bed. When I got up at 3:30 a. m. the thermometer stood at 31, and it was sleeting. I started to crawl back in bed, but the door bell rang and there was Charley "Fine morning for ducks," he yodeled, with a wild look in his eyes. . . . . My protests were laughed off.

(Again we skip the gory details, the ride to the country in the dark, the sleet, the ice on the windshield, the miserable cold—because we do not have space for all of the Izzard yarn. With Charley, he huddled on the cold ground by a lake and they waited for daylight and the "swarm" of ducks. They were coming closer, settling on the lake, and . . .)

Suddenly I rose and pointed to the descending ducks.

"If you say I coudn't hit one of those ducks with a rifle, you're crazy," I remarked in a loud voice. "Look at them"

There was a rustling roar, and the ducks went into reverse and were gone for other parts. Charley blasted away at them, but it was too late. I'll never forget the injured look in his eyes as he turned to me.

"Why in the name of all that's holy, did you do that?"

I tried to explain I had lost my head, that I didn't know that ducks were so easily frightened. He mumbled half-hearted forgiveness, but he didn't mean it.

We sat down to wait for more ducks, but they didn't come. We sat and sat. It got lighter and lighter, and colder and colder, and sleetier and sleetier. I got so numb from cold that I didn't care much what happened.

I was practically unconscious when Charley decided we might as well go home, duckless. He didn't say much. Of course, he had me to blame it on.

That was seven years ago. I haven't been duck hunting since. I have listened to tall stories by the hairy-chested sportsmen, but I have stayed at home in front of the gas grate when the sleet began falling outside.

Besides, I don't like duck. And if I ever DO want a duck, I'll get in touch with a guy named Joe Penner, and not a guy named Charley.

Turkey Day Traditional Gridiron Battles Hold Invitations To Bowls

OLD RIVALS TO MEET IN THANKSGIVING DAY CLASHES

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Turkey day tradition has its annual renewal on gridirons all over the country today, with the added importance of Rose or Sugar bowl bids hanging in the balance for several teams.

Fordham meets its traditional local rival, New York university, in New York, in an effort to keep its undefeated slate clear; Alabama's powerful Crimson Tide, likely "bowl" candidate, tangles with Vanderbilt; Pennsylvania's powerhouse takes on Cornell's sophomores; Pittsburgh collides with Carnegie Tech in a local Pittsburgh rivalry, and on the West Coast, Washington's Huskies face their all-important tussle with Washington State.

To Decide Western Entry

The Washington-State clash likely will decide the western entry in the 1937 Rose Bowl battle. The Huskies, undefeated in the coast conference to date, must win or tie to gain clear honors to the title.

Pitt, upset by Duquesne and tied by Fordham, still is raised a chance for post-season consideration.

The Thanksgiving day state also offers such old-timers in various sections as Brown-Colgate and Temple Bucknell in the East, Kentucky-Tennessee and Duke-North Carolina state in the South, Tulsa-Arkansas and Texas-Texas Aggies in the Southwest, and Southern California-U. C. L. A. in a Los Angeles rivalry on the Pacific coast.

TAHOKA LOSES TO POST ANTELOPES

TAHOKA, Nov. 26 (Special)—The Post High school Antelopes spoiled Tahoka's homecoming program yesterday by taking a 19 to 0 victory in the final game of the season here. The contest counted in the District 5, Class B standings.

Post's scores came in the second period. Otherwise, Tahoka outplayed and outfought the heavier Antelopes, registering practically as many first downs and gaining virtually as much yardage. One Tahoka touchdown, result of a 28-yard gain, was called back.

As a feature of the game, Miss Doris Laverne Lawler was crowned football queen of Tahoka High for the season.

TO ORGANIZE CLUBS

AUSTIN, Nov. 26. (AP)—D. Harold Byrd, Dallas oil man and University of Texas alumnus, said here last night he intended to organize a group of Longhorn boosters clubs to assist athletic students attend the university.

Byrd said the organization would be founded in Dallas with similar groups in other Texas cities.

When Northwestern beat Minnesota 6-0 the game was the first Andy Uram, the Gophers' left halfback, had ever played on a losing eleven. When Uram played in high school his team was all-victorious.

Shallowater Men Return With Deer

Bona fide evidence of the best "deer story" told here this season was presented yesterday by a party of Shallowater sportsmen returning from a successful hunt in Texas' deer country.

Four handsome bucks—a pair of ten-pointers, one eight-pointer and a seven-pointer — were displayed proudly by the triumphant huntsmen, a large crowd of "fans" ganging around the trailer containing the specimens.

T. C. Calley, well known ginner; Bert Scott, farmer; A. W. McKee, grocer, and Lee Pierce, "the village blacksmith," all of Shallowater, left last Saturday for the Llano district, the home section of Mr. Calley. They were admitted to private hunting grounds, and they had luck!

Each of the quartet got his deer, and the party started home, passing through Lubbock at mid-afternoon yesterday.

FOURTEEN IN RACE

ARLINGTON DOWNS, Nov. 23. (AP) — The Thanksgiving handicap, an all-age event for a $1,500 added purse, attracted 14 sprinters for the six and a half furlong Waggoner course feature at Arlington Downs today.

The handicap was the next to the last stake event at the Texas Jockey club's fall meet, which ends Saturday with the running of the $2,500 Au Revoir handicap.

ROSS IS FAVORED

NEW YORK, Nov. 23. (AP) — Despite Promoter Jimmy Johnston's prediction that the welterweight title will change hands tomorrow night, the general impression along Broadway's fight row today was that Champion Barney Ross would take Challenger Izzy Jannazzo handily.

RAIDERS FACE LOYOLA AT ORLEANS

CROWD OF 5,000 WILL WATCH LOCALS GO IN GAME TODAY

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 26. (Special)—Ready to battle Loyola of New Orleans, the Red Raiders of Texas Technological college arrived last night.

More than 5,000 fans were expected to see the two teams meet at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Fair weather beamed on the contest.

First Tech Invasion

It is the first trip in their history to the deep South for the invaders.

After working out on the field of Louisiana State university at Baton Rouge Wednesday afternoon, the Matadors moved into New Orleans.

Coach Pete Cawthon informed newspapers that it was doubtful that Jim Neill, triple threat ace, would play more than a quarter or two in the New Orleans game, due to leg injuries. Six other members of the regular lineup are handicapped by injuries, and the lineup which starts against Loyola probably will be the same as that which faced DePaul, with the possible exception of another star back, George Winters, fullback and line backer who was injured in the DePaul game.

Navy Hopes To Ring Bell Against Army

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 26. (AP)—Ten of the Midshipmen who played last year when Army defeated Navy 28 to 6 will be "out there in Philadelphia Saturday attempting to "ring the bell" against Army.

The old Japanese bell at the academy here is rung only when Navy defeats Army in football. The bell rang last in 1934 when Navy won 3-0.

Navy ended its rough work yesterday and the middies packed up for departure today for Philadelphia. The entire regiment leaves Saturday morning for the game.

Bill Ingram, ground-gaining fullback, is the only Navy player in the tentative starting lineup who has not seen action against an Army football team. The others either started or got into the game last year.

All of Notre Dame's seven radio booths were in use during the Irish-Ohio State grid game.

RELIEF BILLS ARE RUSHED

SOONER SOLONS PUSH LEGISLATION FOR DROUTH AREAS

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 26. — Senate and house speeded forward Wednesday with relief legislation, paved the way for a $1,000,000 state courts building and adjourned over Thanksgiving.

While the senate advanced to third reading without a roll call a bill to appropriate $1,500,000 for general relief for the remainder of this fiscal year, bills designed introduced to provide drouth-stricken farmers with federal jobs were introduced in the house.

Also advanced were bills providing $150,000 for textbooks for children of drouth sufferers and one providing $350,000 for expenses of a state and house.

Senator Ritzhaupt introduced a bill for appropriation of $700,000 for a courts building near the capitol. He said WPA aid would increase the total to $1,000,000.

INCREASE IN GAS PRODUCTION OK'D

AUSTIN, Nov. 26. (AP)—The Railroad commission has authorized an increase of about 500,000,000 cubic feet daily in Texas' natural gas production in December to care for seasonal demand.

Panhandle east sweet zone, 178,229,000; Panhandle west sweet, 898,462,000; Panhandle sour, 397,188,000; Outside Panhandle sweet, 452,113,000; outside Panhandle sour, 16,155,000.

The allowable for November was 1,695,649,000 cubic feet.

ATTACKS HAIG IN MEMOIRS

DAVID LLOYD GEORGE PUBLISHES LAST OF WAR MEMOIRS

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 26.—David Lloyd George, Britain's wartime prime minister, in the sixth and last volume of his memoirs published today assailed field Marshal Earl Haig for "ordering many bloody battles while only taking part in two."

"Field Marshal Sir William Robertson, Haig's chief advisor, Lloyd George wrote, "never even saw a battle.

"The solicitude with which generals in high places avoid personal jeopardy is one of the debatable novelties of modern warfare. . . . It has gone too far.

"It is a new thing for generals who have never set eyes on a position to command their soldiers to attack it without the slightest intention of placing themselves in any peril."

ANNUAL DRIVE IS STARTED

POSTMASTER IS URGING "SHOP EARLY-MAIL EARLY" ACTION

Annual "shop early—mail early" campaign for the Christmas business of the postoffice is being started by Postmaster Amos Howard in an effort to get the rush more evenly distributed.

Now is the time for those who want to mail packages to foreign lands to start. Schedule of steamship sailings may be had at the post office.

Should Pack Carefully

Care should be taken in preparing packages for shipment, either in the states or to other lands. Glassware, crockery or fragile toys should be packed carefully so as to avoid broken pieces falling out if the articles are broken in transit.

Fragile articles should be so marked; likewise perishable items such as fruits, candies, etc. Sharp pointed articles should be protected. Special delivery stamps should be used to forward perishable articles or those likely to become damaged soon after mailing.

There will be plenty of clerks on hand at the local office for handling additional business.

THANKSGIVING

Marking A Continued Plenty

Three hundred and fifteen years ago, a solemn company filled a few rough tables to break bread with friendly savages. Their feast was a simple one of wild meat and vegetables grown at home. But there was plenty, and that in itself was sufficient cause for Thanksgiving.

The years since then have passed quickly, faster than at any other times in the history of the world. Great changes have taken place, in government, in industry, in trade, but through it all we have continued, once each year, to give thanks for the plenty that is always ours.

This year can be no different. We are a wealthy nation, rich in all that man has need of, and we have cause to be a thankful country. We may look forward to brighter things, from the least individual to the nation as a whole . . . and we can still give thanks for the plenty that is the envy of all the world.

BECAUSE this is Thanksgiving Day, and the attention of all of us should be called toward the things for which we, as a nation, should express gratitude, The Plainsman departs from the usual form of this column to present, in a true spirit of Thanksgiving, one of the greatest inspirational poems of all time.

It is, as all lovers of literature know, "Recessional", by the late Rudyard Kipling, without a peer as a modern day poet and man of letters.

"Recessional" was written in 1897, at the time of a great jubilee staged throughout the British empire in honor of Queen Victoria. It's theme, 'Lord God of Hosts be with us yet, lest we forget, lest we forget", is particularly applicable, we think, to our own nation as it emerges from the slough of depression, bound again for better times and bigger things.

May this nation of ours not forget, today, to be thankful for the merciful Providence which is guiding us on and which has, almost miraculously, seen us through an era which would have wrecked a lesser people.

* * *

"God of our fathers, known of old,
Lord of our far-flung battle line,
Beneath whose awful hand we hold
Dominion over palm and pine:
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget!

"The tumult and the shouting dies:
The captains and the kings depart:
Still stands thine ancient sacrifice,
An humble and a contrite heart:
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget!

"Far-called our navies melt away,
On dune and headland sinks the fire;
Lo, all our pomp of yesterday
Is one with Nineveh and Tyre!
Judge of the nations, spare us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget!

"If, drunk with sight of power, we loose
Wild tongues that have not Thee in awe,
Such boasting as the Gentiles use
Or lesser breeds without the law:
Lord God of Hosts be with us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget!

"For heathen heart that puts her trust
In reeking tube and iron shard;
All valiant dust that builds on dust,
And guarding calls not Thee to guard;
For frantic boast and foolish word,
Thy mercy on Thy people, Lord!"

HALF-ACRE in EDEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MARCIA CANFIELD, daughter of wealthy PHILIP CANFIELD, knows that the neighborhood is buzzing with gossip over the sudden disappearance of FRANK KENDRICK, whose engagement to Macia has been announced. Since his disappearance, a shortage in Kendrick's funds has been discovered.

Refusing to let others know how deeply she has been hurt, Marcia goes to the dramatic club try-outs and is given the leading part in a new play. Afterward, with others, she stops at a restaurant. There is a holdup and Marcia loses a ring that was her mother's.

From her friend, HELEN WADDELL, Marcia earns that Frank is in Chicago, decides to go there to persuade him to return and face his financial obligations. She takes the first plane.

In Chicago Marcia telephones Helen's cousin, JOHN WADDELL, and arranges to meet him next morning. In the hotel restaurant a stranger offers a slight service. Later she hears him addressed as "BRUCE McDOUGALL." As Marcia is leaving he gives her a pencil sketch of herself, labeled "Portrait of an Unknown Lady."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

At 5 o'clock in the morning, while Marcia, a few hours after her return to the hotel, was sleeping, Frank Kendrick, a dozen blocks away, packed a suitcase in a dingy room. His meeting with John Waddell, on the day before yesterday, had signaled imperatively for further flight. He had considered it ever since, remaining away from the restaurant. John, of course, had recognized him, had not been fooled by his denial. Whether he knew the reason for Frank's absence from Bobbs Neck, he would, as a casual friend and as a relative of closer friends of Frank, most certainly inquire. The replies to his inquiries could hardly fail to bring him again, or to bring someone else, to the restaurant. On the heels of his inquiries, indeed, might come the law.

In the darkness of the winter morning, in the chill of the cheap room, Frank Kendrick felt the coward's comfort of a wash of self pity over the sores of his self respect. A few weeks ago he had been popular, successful. Popular because of his success; successful through his popularity. Success had been so easy, he had always thought it must be because he was of stuff superior to other men. Only recently had the thought occurred to him that his marketing of conservative investments in a town of moneyed people had not been a difficult task. The Kendricks have been favorably known in that neighborhood for generations; the last of their line had been borne smoothly on an accumulation of esteem. And popularity had been so easy; only recently had it occurred to him that his prestige and reputation might not have survived an earlier test. "Weighed and found wanting." Well, he had never been weighed before. The mature weight of a Kendrick, in Bobbs Neck, was chalked up at birth, and was hardly ever questioned again.

He had brought his own weight into question. But if it had not been for others—

* * *

There, of course, was the real fault. He had been led into strange, deep waters, and abandoned to struggle alone. He would never have foundered had he followed his own course. How, Frank Kendrick demanded of himself, could he be blamed for the actions of other people?

He had always sold safe investments—the best municipals and other bonds of the same character. One might say that it had involved hardly more than sitting at a desk and accepting funds of friends and acquaintances, and sending the orders to New York for the stuff they wanted. But he had always given good investment advice—"Four per cent without a gamble, instead of 6 per cent with a chance."

Unfortunately, his New York connections had introduced him to the possibility of profits above his own recommendations. Before converting a considerable sum of money into the 4 per cents ordered by his customers, he had been attracted by a scheduled pool operation in a certain industrial share. Appalled when his customers' money disappeared in violation of the schedule, he had thrown his own conservative investments into the operation, in an effort to rebuild, and had witnessed their quick demise. Wall Street was not aware of the ripple it made, but for Frank Kendrick, a tidal wave had wiped out all that made up his life.

He missed Marcia; they had been friends for so long. Strange, he thought of her as his old friend, not as the girl he had been going to marry. Funny how they had sort of slid into that engagement! He wondered—briefly—whether this whole affair meant more to Marcia than it did to him; after all, she was a girl and—he had to acknowledge it—he had left her to face alone the friends who would be raising eyebrows over the punctured romance.

He strapped the suitcase—an expensive bag, left over from those recent, prosperous days; put on hat and coat—expensive clothes, foreign to the shabby room. Softly he walked down the stairs, softly closed the street door behind him, fugitive from a landlady.

There was a heavy fog—wet, cold fog; and Frank Kendrick walked away in it, and was lost again.

* * *

"What's the program?" he wanted to know.

"I wish I could figure one out," said Marcia soberly. "The direct method is the only one that occurs to me. Let's just walk in over there and try to see him; he can't refuse to talk to me. I'll tell you all about this later, John. Right now let's go over."

Seated in the quiet restaurant where at midnight a gay crowd had danced, where at noon hurrying business people would lunch, they ordered breakfast and looked about them. Among all the employes, Frank was not in evidence. Marcia was conscious of a sinking heart. She thought she could guess the truth. After all her brave planning and hoping—!

"So he wasn't here yesterday?" she said dully.

"No, but, as I said, he may have had a day off, or may have been ill."

"On the other hand, John, having seen you and suspecting that he would be looked for, he may not come back at all, don't you agree? Oh, why didn't I telephone you before I left New York, to hold him, somehow, until I could get here? I might have known he would be expecting something to happen, after seeing you and denying that he was Frank Kendrick, when he knew that you knew him!"

"Hold him?" said John. "Remember, I'm in the dark about this. But look here, whatever it's all about, if you're afraid he is running away, let's call the manager over and get Frank's address. Perhaps we can go after him before it's too late."

And while their waiter went in search of the manager:

"Besides, Marcia, you can't blame yourself. Even if you had telephoned yesterday from New York, remember Frank wasn't here yesterday."

No, the manager said, he could not help them. Yes, he recognized the young man in question from their description. He had worked the day before yesterday, but had not returned yesterday, nor this morning; they'd had to hire a new man. It was not unusual for busboys to go without notice. A very unstable class of help, really. The name he had given? Parker, the manager thought, or Baker. No, they had no record of a house address. The cashier would have the name, but not the address. Just a moment—

"Never mind," said Marcia. "Thank you."

* * *

John Waddell, at her insistence, took reluctant leave of Marcia and went late to his office. Drearily Marcia returned to her hotel room and prepared to go home.

Mixed with her pity for Frank Kendrick was a new feeling, rather of bitterness. She had spoken truthfully to Helen—she did not feel the loss of a lover; it was the loss of a friend who had committed a wrong and run from its consequences. Now she felt, more than ever, the influence of innate cowardice behind that flight. She was bitter toward a betrayer of trust, the trust he had had not alone from her, but from many friends. She would always feel sorry for Frank Kendrick, would always feel the loss of him as a friend. But she would always despise the fault which he had exhibited under his life's first real test.

She had steeled herself for this pursuit, for a meeting with Frank at which she had hoped to prevail upon him to return and make restitution. The failure of her quest, and the error in her evaluation of his character during all the years of their friendship, combined to cut her more deeply than Bobbs Neck would ever know.

She felt adrift, without purpose or objective. Marriage had, so short a space ago, filled the picture of the future. What does one do with unclaimed time?

TODAY'S JOURNAL EDITORIAL

LABOR'S WEAKNESS CROPS UP AGAIN

One of the biggest weaknesses and handicaps to progress of the American labor movement has been the habit of too many labor leaders to demand too much, too quickly.

The condition has bobbed up again in the matter of the Social Security law, about which American newspaper readers have been seeing so much lately.

In the convention of the American Federation of Labor, certain powerful leaders have begun a campaign to place all the financial responsibilities of the act upon the shoulders of employers. Before the act has gotten under way, they are seeking to get the law changed so the worker, himself, will contribute nothing toward his own security in old age.

We can think of no better way to bring about an early demise of the whole shebang.

Most employers, The Journal believes, are favorably inclined toward social security. Those who can see further than the ends of their noses must admit that the theory of a sustained old age for all is a good one and should be allowed to work out in practice. Most of them are willing to pay their proportionate share toward the plan, realizing that the burden of social security is a public rather than an individual burden.

But when it comes down to the employers of the nation entirely taking care of the employes after the latter reach the end of economic usefulness, that's something else. If anything in the world will set up a class system in this country, that's it. If labor leaders sponsoring the law's change have their way, it cannot be but a few years until the nation will be divided into two classes—those who take care of themselves and the others, and those who do not accept even a share of the responsibility of their own well being.

We hope the wiser federation leaders will be in the majority and that the avaricious ones will be squelched in short order.

A THOUGHT

And I will punish the world for their evil, and the wicked for their iniquity; and I will cause the arrogancy of the proud to cease, and will lay low the haughtiness of the terrible.—Isaiah 13:11.

From Hollywood MOVIE SIDELIGHTS

Behind The Scenes With The Stars Of Talkietown

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 26 — Any tracing of the romance of Mary Pickford and Buddy Rogers must begin away back in 1927, when they made their first and last picture together, "My Best Girl." Without this film appearance, there wouldn't have been any romance.

"But not," said America's erstwhile boy friend, "for the reason that many people think."

Spare their blushes. No affection was involved in that brief association, which was scarcely more than acquaintanceship. America's Sweetheart had just passed the zenith of nearly 13 years of "ideal marriage" to Douglas Fairbanks.

Rogers had scarcely begun his career as a perennial juvenile, and his name was still to be linked in gossip with many a young actress.

But that picture marked two important things: The beginning of a strong friendship between Charles Rogers' mother and Miss Pickford, and the beginning of the actress' interest in Rogers as an actor. From these came romance.

* * *

Mary Was Buddy's Boss

Buddy was at first merely an actor, and Miss Pickford was his boss. As both a star and an independent producer, she found herself in something of a plight. She needed talent desperately—young talent.

She particularly required a leading man. Looking over the field, she selected a few candidates; Johnny Mack Brown was one, Rogers another.

The latter won the lead in "My Best Girl", which was a trifle based on the usual Cinderella-Pickford formula—a girl working in a dime store meets and marries the son of the owner. America's Boy Friend was the son.

He was a protege of the First Lady of Hollywood, and the screen colony heard that she regretted that she could not further advance his career. But she made no more independent productions, and thereafter was cast with other leading men.

* * *

"Greatest Of Friends"

Nevertheless, you can get an idea of what Rogers had in mind when he said in London, "Mary has done more for me than any other person in the whole wide world. Mary and I are the greatest of friends, and have been for six years. But marriage!—ah, how can I talk of that?"

As early as 1931 rumblings were heard about Hollywood that all was not well at Pickfair. Fairbanks began to wander about the world.

Miss Pickford, tight-lipped, worked harder than ever in the colony. And in no time at all gossips in the night spots began to wonder whether the star and the perpetual collegian really were close friends.

In 1933 Miss Pickford confirmed the fact of her separation from Fairbanks. In that year, also, interested observers noted a considerable display of affection between Rogers and Mary Brian.

"Well, we were wrong," said the loose tongues. "They must be merely pals."

* * *

"Met Casually"

And they were wrong, if you'll give credence to the somewhat hazy recollections of Miss Pickford and the one-time It-Boy of celluloid.

"We just met casually," said he. "There were months and months when we never saw each other at all," said she.

"Well, really now," Rogers continued, "there wasn't any talk of marriage until just a few months ago. I think maybe it was the rumors going around that gave me courage to say something to Mary."

And so it's quite clear that the announcement of their engagement was merely the result of a whirlwind courtship, beginning a few months ago, when they first were seen together openly.

Multitude Of Reasons Back Of Tugwell's Resignation As "Brain Truster"; Professor Still A White House Power

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 — Rexford G. Tugwell resigned from the New Deal for several reasons, most of which had been pushing him in that direction for some time.

The final push was administered when high officials of the AAA and the department of agriculture began a backstage campaign to keep Tugwell from returning to the department with his big resettlement administration — and when Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace seemed to be cool toward that proposal.

Dutcher

Tugwell had not been happy in his contacts with Wallace and that group of officials in his previous service with AAA and the department. Although he could have returned on his own terms and continued to boss the RA, he decided not to press the issue and thus enter a period of internal hostilities.

Behind that recent development is the fact that Tugwell is an abnormally sensitive, thin-skinned person. Subjected to a more bitter barrage of abuse than any other New Deal official, he has often wanted to get away from it all.

A few months ago he offered his resignation to Roosevelt with the suggestion that he was a liability to the administration. Roosevelt refused to accept the resignation, pointing out that Tugwell's departure would be taken by many liberals as a sign that the New Deal had gone conservative.

Tugwell was elated by the election results, however, and his friends insisted that the outcome was a vindication of him as well as of the president.

* * *

Wife Disliked Capital

Another factor was Mrs. Tugwell's dislike of Washington and her desire to be with the children, who were scheduled for schools in New York.

The Tugwells also found living in Washington expensive, as everyone does, and one of the minor factors influencing the resettlement administrator was the opportunity to make more money—perhaps plus the very human feeling that he would like to become a business man for awhile if only to "show" those of his critics who had sneered at his academic background and the fact that he had "never met a payroll."

* * *

Showed His Courage

An able and brilliant man, Tugwell stepped into positions which more cautious New Dealers avoided. Some of his admirers in Washington will tell you that "Rex was 10 years ahead of his time."

Tugwell appeared to feel that caution would be a reflection on his own courage and sometimes pushed so far ahead that he became a scapegoat for the New Deal.

Originally, Tugwell incurred enmity of business men and the more conservative AAA officials and farm organization leaders by certain efforts toward reform in the profit system. He openly favored narrowing the spread between prices the farmer receives and prices the consumer pays for food.

His views on relief for tenant farmers and sharecroppers are equally "radical" and various AAA officials feared his administration of farm tenancy programs would antagonize farm groups to whose desires they are responsible and whose support they seek—especially in the South.

* * *

Faced Foe Faction

Wallace usually heeds the anti-Tugwell group in AAA and the Agriculture Department, which is headed up by followers of Chester Davis, former AAA administrator, now with the Federal Reserve Board.

Hence Tugwell faced at least a certain amount of grief if he went back to agriculture with RA.

President Charles Taussig of the American Molasses Co. offered him a vice presidency of that corporation shortly before election. Tugwell didn't decide to take the job until the AAA campaign against him began.

Roosevelt believes his own worst enemies are in general the ones who have attacked Tugwell most vigorously. Although Tugwell may not be called back to take an administration post, it is not unlikely that he may be more important as a White House adviser in the future than he has been in recent months.

WHAT IS PUPIL DILATION AND HOW IS IT PRODUCED? Nature provided muscles to regulate the size of the pupil to control the amount of light entering the eye in proportion to the intensity of the light. Excessive light is very injurious. Reaction of the pupil is to contract, reducing the amount of light entering the eye. Light of less than normal intensity necessitates more light entering the eyes to maintain normal or near normal vision. These muscles act involuntarily.

Fixed abnormal pupil dilation is produced by a drug instilled into the eyes which paralizes the muscles hence Nature is interferred with, preventing the regulation of the size of the pupil as required by light stimulation. In this condition, eyes cannot be used for near work. Remember this no drug can refract light or the human eye.

GALLI-CURCI'S VOICE WEAK

ONCE GREAT STAR OF OPERA FAILS IN HER COMEBACK

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—A voice once hailed as the greatest of the coloraturas sounded Tuesday night in Chicago's pink and gold opera house. A packed house listened in agonized suspense. Then the critics gave their verdict:

Galli-Curci, the magnificent, had faltered in her comeback—but there still was hope.

Made Courageous Attempt

They had only words of praise for her courageous attempt to make "second debut" against tremendous odds.

Remembering the glowing voice that made Amelita Galli-Curci's art the wonder of a decade, 3,400 persons turned out to witness a second triumph.

Listeners remembered Mme. Galli-Curci was making her first professional appearance since an operation for goiter 15 months ago.

Critic Gives View

Glenn Dillard Gunn, music critic the Herald Examiner, wrote:

"They (her well-wishers) came to witness a second triumph. What they heard was a faint and faltering echo of the vocal magic this great artist once practiced. Mme. Galli-Curci has not renewed her voice because it then was the voice of youth and 20 years have taken toll no surgeon's knife can recover."

Bountiful Crops In '37 Indicated

And the fertile soil from which this area's tremendous development has sprung holds a sub-soil season indicating bountiful crops next year.

An estimated gathering of 250 persons attended interdenominational services at the First Methodist Episcopal church at 7:30 o'clock last night. A song service and Thanksgiving address were presented.

Pictures First Thanksgiving

Picturing the first Thanksgiving, held in New England by the colonists 315 years ago, Rev. J. Hodge Alves, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church and principal speaker, named blessings for which the Pilgrims were thankful. The colonists had gathered their first harvest; they had freedom to worship as they pleased and the knowledge that they were pioneering a new country; they had their homes and seed to sow their next year's crops. Yet they were beset by many handicaps, lurking Indians, wild beasts, severe weather and inadequate implements for fighting those hindrances. Still they were thankful for their blessings, he said.

"Civilization builds by layers of those who have gone before," Alves said. "Thanksgiving offers us a chance to show our gratitude for our predecessors, from before the time of Abraham, who have paved the way for us by pioneering our present country, government and modern conveniences."

Opening invocation was by Dr. W. F. Fry, head professor of the Baptist Bible chair at Texas Technological college.

Dr. J. M. Lewis, pastor of First Presbyterian church, read from the Psalms.

Another service was conducted at 11 o'clock this morning, at the Lubbock Church of Christ, Scientist, at 1411 Fourteenth stree.

Game Feature Here

The featured event for many today will be the Westerner-Plainview football game, starting at 2:30 o'clock in the Matador stadium.

Several Lubbock men and women followed Texas Tech's Red Raiders to New Orleans, where the home team will meet the gridmen of Loyola of the South.

Hundreds of Texas Technological college students began leaving yesterday for their homes. Others who remained in the Hub city will attend informal dances in the men's dormitory and seek other entertainment.

Planning Board To Study Water Bill

AUSTIN, Nov. 26. (AP)—The state planning board's water resources committee will meet here next Wednesday to go over a draft of a bill to conserve Texas' underground water supply.

E. A. Wood, director of the board, said certain sections already had experienced a shortage in their underground supply.

"A large storage reservoir actually has been proposed," he said, "not for the usual purpose of surface supply but to recharge an underground stratum of water."

Another committee of the planning board, the government and social aspects group, will meet December 12 to make a final draft of a bill to create a state board of public welfare.

Grandmother Hits Mark With Pistol

HACKENSACK, N. J., Nov. 25. (AP)—A 71-year-old grandmother dressed in black stood on the Bergen county police pistol range Wednesday. Five times she raised a heavy .38 caliber police revolver and fired. Twice she hit the target fifteen yards away.

Mrs. Agnes Murphy Mulligan was proving to Judge A. Demorset Del Mar she was capable of handling a pistol. She had applied for a pistol permit and the judge told her to demonstrate whether she could use a gun.

Mrs. Mulligan, a resident of Fort Lee, said she needed a gun for protection against robbers.

DAY DAWNS ON TRAGIC SCENE IN OKLAHOMA

FREDERICK, Okla., Nov. 26. (AP)—Thanksgiving Day dawned on the charred ruins of a farm house where death struck last night in the midst of preparations for a community Sunday school party to celebrate the holiday. A stove explosion and fire killed a child injured four other persons and destroyed the home.

The child was Kenneth Wayne Calloway, 3, at whose home 16 miles northeast of here the tragedy occurred.

Others Are Burned

Less severe injuries were suffered by the father, Roy Calloway, 38, Mrs. Calloway, 36, and Miss Vivian Chapman, 19, of Hollister, teacher at North Deep Red school.

Calloway frantically plunged his little boy into a tub of water when he couldn't smother the flames enveloping the child after he snatched the boy from the blazing kitchen of the four-room frame house.

"I didn't know what else to do," the father said in despair.

LEADERSHIP IS GOP'S NEED

TWO REPUBLICANS SAY PARTY MUST HAVE NEW LEADERS

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Demands for new and liberal Republican leadership arose from two sources today, with warnings that otherwise "the party would go the way of the whigs."

Senator Nye (R-ND) predicted to newspapermen the formation of a new party, enrolling such former Republicans as Senators LaFollette (Prog-Wis) and Norris (Ind-Neb), "unless the Republican organization is rebuilt from the ground up."

Representative Fish (R-NY) said John D. M. Hamilton has made a similar "dismal failure" of the Landon campaign "by attacking the social security act and charging Roosevelt with being a communist." He called the national chairman a representative of "the reactionary wing" and said continuation of his leadership was a political impossibility."

First Trailer Town To Be Doomed By Court

National interest was drawn to this trailer colony in Orchard Lake, Mich., when it became the first in the country to be doomed by court decision. Justice of the Peace Arthur R. Green held that the trailer at the left violated an ordinance prohibiting construction of dwellings with less than 500 cubic feet of space per occupant. The owner, Hildred Gumarsol, factory worker, is pictured before his trailer, from which he had removed wheels while building an addition. Six other families facing similar suits will be allowed to move without being brought to trial. In Orchard Lake this new mode of living thus was banned completely, since another ordinance levies a prohibitive license fee of $100 an acre on persons renting property for use as trailer camps.

CALIFORNIA LAW UPHELD BY COURT

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26. (AP)—The California Supreme court upheld validity of the state unemployment reserves act Wednesday in the case of Claude C. Gillum and the Hotel Claremont of Oakland.

The opinion stated 1,200,000 employes and 18,000 employers in California are affected by the decision. Their contributions to unemployment insurance funds for this year will total an estimated $15,000,000.

The court granted Gillum a writ of mandate compelling State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson, Controller Ray L. Riley and the unemployment reserve commission to comply fully with terms of the state act and with the federal social security act.

The decision followed close on the heels of the one by the United States Supreme court Monday upholding validity of the New York State unemployment insurance legislation.

CCC OFFICES TO CHANGE

DISTRICT UNIT HERE TO BE MOVED TO FORT WORTH

Removal of the Lubbock district Civilian Conservation corps headquarters to Fort Worth was definitely announced yesterday.

Officials of the Fort Worth CCC district headquarters reported to the Associated Press that the Lubbock administration office would be closed effective December 31, when a consolidation of this district with the Fort Worth district would be completed. The transfer of workers is now nderway.

Capt. Martin In Charge

To be maintained here after the change are a subsistence supply division (food, clothing and quarters), a motor mechanics organizations, and a supply warehouse. Approximately 15 persons, including officers, clerks, and mechanics will be needed. Capt. Tom B. Martin of the infantry reserve is to be in charge.

That staff will serve state parks camps here, at Canyon and Sweetwater, and soil conservation camps at Littlefield, Lamesa, Amarillo, Perryton and Memphis. A ninth camp, at Tucumcari, N. M., was transferred to the Albuquerque district Nov. 1.

The district administration office, established at 812 Avenue G Aug. 1, 1935, had at one time employed 55 persons or more to serve almost twice as many camps as are now operated in the area formerly included under its supervision.

Who Socked Man In Eye Big Question

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (AP)—The question of who socked Lieut. Cameron Winslow in the eye was far from settled today.

Johnny Weissmuller said he didn't do it and he announced he was planning to file a libel suit against Winslow's wife, who had named the swimmer and film actor as the man who fought with her husband in a night club early yesterday.

"I was not the guy who hit him," Weissmuller said. "When I fight I certainly know who I hit. I never saw this guy in my life before and I don't want to be known as a night club fighter."

Eight-year-old Virginia Weidler's modesty almost nipped her movie career in the bud. When Virginia was three, she refused to play a part because she had to remove her stockings in front of the camera.

SCOUT CIRCUS IS TOMORROW

FLYING TRAPEZE ACT IS TO BE FEATURE OF PROGRAM

A 17-act circus to be presented Friday and Saturday nights at Texas Tech gym will not only be distinctive as the first annual event of its kind in the South Plains Area Boy Scout council but it will also have the distinction of being the first scout circus to present a flying trapeze act.

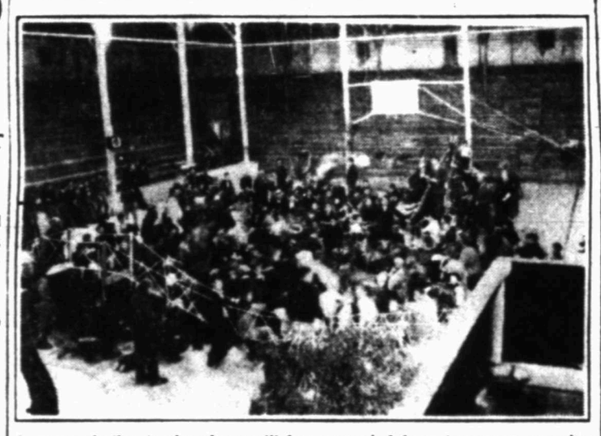

Three Levelland youths, brothers—R. B. Young, 14, J. P. Young, 13, and Kendall Young, jr., 12, will walk the tight wire, perform double and triple turns on the trapeze, stunt on horizontal bars, and turn hand springs from the floor. Members of troop 24 at Levelland, the youths are directed by their father, Kendall Young, assistant scoutmaster of the troop.

1,200 To Take Part

Approximately 1,200 scouts and cubs will participate in the circus performances, beginning both nights at 8 o'clock.

Tomorrow morning, a final rehearsal will be conducted beginning at 10 o'clock in the gymnasium. A parade in which scouts, cubs, and scout leaders will march is to be conducted through the business district at 4 o'clock. Lubbock and Slaton High school bands will play.

Scouts Rehearse For Circus At Tech

A scene similar to the above will be re-enacted here tomorrow morning at Texas Tech gym when hundreds of scouts rehearse their circus acts the last time before giving a Friday night performance at 8 p. m. Leaders are instructing scouts gathered for a semi-final rehearsal Nov. 17.

Was Fortunate In Finding One Real Medicine--Gly-Cas

Mrs. Bush Given Lasting Relief By New Herbal Remedy After All Else Failed; Stomach And Bowels Regulated; Entire System Toned

"Never before have I ever experienced such a feeling of complete and permanent relief through the use of any one medicine as I have after only a short trial of this new Gly-Cas, said Mrs. L. L. Bush, 606 E. Monroe St., Harlingen, Tex. "A stubborn case of constipation had seemingly always been a source of distress for me. My system was so clogged with the poisons that had accumulated from improper bowel elimination that soon I was affected with a number of other ailments. My stomach became disordered until gas and bloating bothered me to the extent that I was always in discomfort. I lost my appetite, foods lost all their appeal to me for to eat meant only suffering. Then too, severe headaches seemed to be constantly with me and the suffering I endured from them at times became almost unbearable. Try as I might I could find nothing to give me any relief and I became terribly discouraged as I was steadily growing worse. Then I began to hear so much praise for this new Gly-Cas that I decided it must be at least worthy of a trial—it was wonderful."

"Gly-Cas has made a 100 per cent change in my condition and I now feel like an altogether different person," she continued. "My bowels have been so regulated that all those poisons which had been causing so many ailments have been eliminated entirely from my system. I now have a normal, healthy appetite, able to eat the foods which had formerly been denied me, my stomach disorder has been so corrected that I never am bothered with that awful gas and bloating anymore. Headaches have disappeared entirely and I feel my entire system has been thoroughly "gone-over" and the least disorder corrected. I would not take anything for the great benefit I have derived from the use of this new Gly-Cas which I am sure is unequaled in merit."

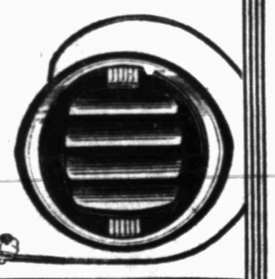

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Store, 1217 Broadway, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.
