ELECTIVE ROAD BODY BILL AMENDED

WOULD DELAY NAMING OF MEMBERS

GOVERNOR'S ATTEMPT TO GAIN CONTROL GETS SETBACK

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, April 27. — Governor Miriam A. Ferguson's bill proposing an elective Texas highway commission, members to be appointed by her pending their election in 1934, was amended by the house today to provide that it should not be effective until after the election.

The bill originally provided that a five member commission should be created to replace the existing three-member group, the governor to name the commissioners to serve until those elected by districts in the general election of 1934 should qualify.

Administration Plan Loses

Action of the house in making it ineffective until after the election, thus continuing the incumbents in office, was considered as defeating plans of the administration to gain control of the highway department.

W. R. Ely of Abilene and D. K. Martin of San Antonio, members of the commission, had been appointed by former Governors Dan Moody and R. S. Sterling. The term of the late Cone Johnson of Tyler, also appointed by Moody, expired on February 15, a few weeks before his death. Governor Ferguson had attempted to name F. L. Denison of Temple to that vacancy but the senate had refused to confirm his selection.

Vote Is 75 to 66

The vote on the amendment to make the bill effective after the election of 1934 was 75 to 66.

JURY VERDICT IS RETURNED AT LAMESA

DEFENDANT GIVEN 30 YEARS LESS THAN IN FIRST TRIAL

(Special To The Journal)

LAMESA, April 27.— Punishment of J. A. Bond, charged with murdering J. C. White in Brownfield in 1931, was fixed at 20 years in the penitentiary — 30 years less than he received in his first trial—by a 106th district court jury here this morning. The jury returned its verdict to Judge Gordon B. McGuire at 9 a. m. Verdict in the first trial had been reversed.

After arguments lasting more than three hours last night, a 106th district court jury received the case at 11:40 o'clock. The state asked conviction of Bond; defense counsel pleaded for acquittal.

Cross-examination of the defendant by District Attorney G. H. Nelson occurred in the afternoon. Bond testified that when he entered the restaurant, in which he subsequently shot White, the other man was standing. Dr. W. M. Copeland of Brownfield and M. H. Stephens of Commerce, a cook in the cafe, who said they were eyewitnesses, testified White was seated, drinking a cup of coffee.

Bond said he fired after White moved a hand to his right hip. The defendant testified that Dr. Copeland was not in the cafe and that when the trouble began that Stephens ran to the back of the cafe.

The state offered only two rebuttal witnesses. Both sides closed their cases at about 3 o'clock.

County Attorney Dyrel Kirk opened arguments at a night session, speaking 23 minutes. Kirk aided Nelson in the prosecution. Vance Swaim, defense attorney, spoke 30 minutes. J. D. Brookreson closed for the defense, speaking an hour and ten minutes. Nelson, the closing speaker, also spoke 70 minutes.

Bond pleaded self-defense.

ANTI-SQUIRT SPOON FOUND AT LAST

Who has not sighed, at some time or another, for a device such as Dr. B. L. Hooper, of Nebraska, is demonstrating here? Eating grape fruit becomes a pleasure instead of a penance with the doctor's umbrella spoon. When the spoon comes in contact with the juicy fruit an umbrella-like shield protects the consumer and his table-companions from the resultant deluge. But when the spoon is conveyed to the mouth, the device closes and all is well.

VOTE NEAR ON INFLATION MEASURE

GOLD CONTENT TAKEN UP IN HOUSE AS BONUS DEBATED

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 27 —One bonus move was deferred in the house and another sprang up there today as the senate talked its way toward a vote on the gold content section of the inflation bill as a preliminary to action on the veterans payment proposal.

Representative Patman (D., Tex.), author of the bonus measure in the house, agreed to withhold a petition for a Democratic caucus pending a vote in the senate on the amendment of Senator Robinson (R., Ind.) calling for payment of the bonus out of the $3,000,000,000 of treasury notes the inflation bill would authorize the president to issue.

Tries To Force Vote

Almost immediately Representative Lundeen (F.-L., Minn.) announced that he was not concerned about whether the president would be embarrassed by the issue and filed a petition to force a vote in the house.

Debate on the section of the inflation measure which would bestow upon the president authority to lower the gold content of the dollar was resumed by Senator Reed (R., Pa.), an opponent.

Proposal Attacked

To the gold content section also has been attached a proposal which would give the chief executive authority to provide for free coinage of silver if he saw fit.

A limitation on debate was to go into efect on the measure in mid-afternoon and leaders expected to hold the senate in session until the farm bill, to which the inflation measure has been attached, is put out of the way.

MEASURE WILL BE RETURNED TO HOUSE

MINOR AMENDMENT TO BE CONSIDERED BY LOWER BRANCH

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, April 27.—The Texas senate today joined the house in voting to submit the question of legalization of 3.2 per cent beer to the people on next August 26. The proposed constitutional amendment to legalize beer now returns to the house for concurrence in a minor senate amendment.

The vote of the 30 senators present was unanimous.

No Discussion Held

No discussion preceded the roll call. Six house members had voted against submission.

Members of the senate hoped to make final disposition today of a house bill to regulate and tax the sale of beer when and if it becomes legal. That proposal also must return to the house for concurrence in amendments.

The constitutional amendment would provide that political subdivisions which were dry under local option before the advent of statewide prohibition would remain without legal beer until the citizens of those subdivisions voted for legalization in an election called for that purpose.

The regulatory bill was called up shortly after the proposed constitutional change was approved. Senator Walter C. Woodward of Coleman, co-author of the bill, made a detailed explanation of its provisions.

Better Business Sweeps Country

PRONOUNCED REBIRTH OF CONFIDENCE IS BEING REPORTED

(By The Associated Press)

From Wall Street, where stocks have picked up, to the Pacific northwest, where the lumberman's axe is swinging more busily, better business and re-employment are reported in many sections of the nation.

Chicago reports an encouraging showing in electrical consumption; Detroit in shopping; North Carolina in textile production; Miami in real estate deals; Buffalo in flour milling; Seattle in shipping, and so down the line.

Herewith the Associated Press presents some conservative high-lights of the situation.

NEW YORK, April 27—Commerce and industry in the past month have experienced one of the most striking revivals of recent years.

Sharp percentage gains reflect, of course, the rebound from the extremely low levels of the March banking crisis. Nevertheless, some lines are approaching, or have actually crossed, the levels of this period last year. Much of the improvement has been against normal seasonal trends.

New Confidence Looms

The false upturns experienced previously in the depression have taught business executives to examine such bulges as the current one critically. Reports from many parts of the country, however, indicate a pronounced rebirth of confidence, together with fattening order books.

Automobile production for April, according to present indications, may show a gain over April last year. After falling to some 90,000 cars and trucks in March, the swift quickening in output this month, according to trade authorities, should carry it above the 148,300 produced in April, 1932.

Steel Production Rises

Steel production has risen to the best levels in more than a year. Freight car loadings have gained steadily in April, contrary to the seasonal trend, which usually carries them to a peak in March.

Last week's production of electric power in the United States, as estimated by the Edison Electric institute, was only 2.6 per cent under the like week of last year, the smallest such divergence in 21 months.

Latest mercantile reviews report a sustained volume of retail trade. The usual pronounced slump after Easter seems to have failed to materialize.

THREE DIE IN WIND STORM

OVER DOZEN INJURED AND HEAVY DAMAGE CAUSED IN SOUTH

(By The Associated Press)

TEXARKANA, Ark., April 27.—A violent storm ripping across parts of Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas brought death to at least three persons, severely injured more than a dozen others and caused extensive damage to buildings and crops.

Sweeping out of the west, a tornado raged through a strip of plantation country northwest of Texarkana last night, leaving in its wake a trail of demolished homes, broken timber and flattened crops. John Moseley, 75, and Little Rosborough, negro farmers, were killed.

Dozen Or More Hurt

On the plantation where Moseley lost his life, a dozen or more persons were reported injured, three badly.

Along the Oklahoma-Arkansas boundary, hail beat furiously on crops, resulting in a heavy loss. Windows were smashed and roofs were torn. At Waldron, Ark., hail stones covered the ground to a depth of about six inches. The loss around Waldron amounted to thousands of dollars. Three persons were cut with flying glass and debris.

Wind unroofed a number of buildings at Bokoshe, Poteau and Panama, Okla. Heavy rain soaked the wheat belt of northwest Oklahoma. The high school gymnasium, a wooden structure, and part of the roof of the Methodist church were blown away at Bokoshe.

Blind Negro Drowns

A blind negro, Will Foye, was drowned in a swollen creek near Fort Gibson.

Property damage in Bowie county was estimated at $30,000. The path of the tornado covered an area of approximately half a mile wide and extended intermittently for five miles.

Mrs. J. H. Davis, 63, was the only white person injured. She was cut and bruised about the head when her home was demolished. The home of Jack Davis, white farmer, was swept away, but the family escaped injury.

All available Texarkana physicians, city firemen and Red Cross workers were in the devastated region throughout the night. The doctors treated the injured in the uncertain rays of flash lights.

AUSTIN, April 27. (AP)—A report containing findings of a legislative committee that investigated a fight in a hotel that caused Representative Gordon Burns of Huntsville to be hurt was considered by the inquiry group today. The whole committee went into executive session to discuss the report. Burns fought with Charles F. Roeser, Fort Worth oil man.

Roeser, president of the Texas Oil and Gas Conservation association, apologized all around for his part in the melee, which stirred the capitol because it took place after Burns opposed a bill to create an oil and gas commission to relieve the Texas railroad commission of its duties as administrator of oil and gas conservation in the state.

SHUTDOWN FOR FIELD SEEN

EAST TEXAS OIL MEN ASK STATE AID FOR UNSTABLE INDUSTRY

(By The Associated Press)

LONGVIEW, April 27—Pleas for state aid to the unstable oil industry mingled today with threats to shut down wells in the giant East Texas field unless prevailing low prices for crude are raised.

Spurred to action by posted offers of ten cents a barrel for their oil, nearly 1,000 East Texas landowners, lease and royalty owners and producers met here last night to talk the situation over and try to decide what could be done to better it.

Marginal Law Favored

They passed resolutions asking the governor to immediately sign the marginal well law and calling on the railroad commission and the legislature to "attend to their respective duties and quit making a political football of the East Texas oil field."

They called on all operators and producers to close down their wells and "not produce any more oil until the ten cent price is raised."

Some 200 independent operators met last night at Kilgore and they, too, threatened to shut down their wells, if necessary, to bring about a boost in crude oil prices.

This group organized as the East Texas independent oil operators association and called another meeting for tonight to decide what should be their line of procedure. M. W. McVey was appointed chairman and J. Ned Blaine, secretary.

NO AGREEMENT ON REVISION

ROOSEVELT READY TO CONSIDER DELAY OF DEBT PAYMENTS

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 27—President Roosevelt is willing to consider war debt revision after the world economic conference, but it was emphasized authoritatively today at the White House that he has entered into no agreement for postponement of the June 15 payments or laid down any plan of debt settlement.

Simultaneously, at the state department, Secretary Hull indicated to reporters that a world truce on tariffs pending convening of the London conference in June is under consideration and that the United States is favorably inclined toward it.

To Consider Revision

As for future war debt revision, hints were dropped at the White House that this subject might be gone into considerably at the conclusion of the world economic parley, which convenes June 12.

Meanwhile, it was said, the president still expects the June 15 payments to be made.

Of course, after further conversations with the debtor nations now in progress, some adjustment may be worked out for the June 15 dues but that stage has not been reached.

Man Is Critically Hurt In Explosion

Opposes Change In Work Week Measure

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—Matthew Woll, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, told the house labor committee today that proposed changes in the 30-hour work week bill advocated by Secretary Perkins "would make serfs of American industrial workers."

Analyzing the Perkins proposals, Woll approved the general idea of establishing a 30-hour week but strenuously opposed plans to fix minimum wages and permit importation of goods made by foreign workers not on the 30-hour schedule.

New Hopes Held By Chicago Teachers

CHICAGO, April 27 (AP)—Out of the whirlwind of their militant activities there came to Chicago's unpaid teachers today a new ray of hope that their financial privations may come to an end through legislative action.

It came from Mayor Edward J. Kelly after two days of near-riotous conditions.

"I have agreed with the bankers to act to cut expenses of the school board," the mayor told them. "When this is done and legislation is passed to force tax payments, the bankers will advance a substantial amount of money."

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 27 (AP)—Authorities today announced Pius Bammer, 55-year-old former shoe cobbler, had confessed an attempt to extort $1,000 from Mrs. Rolland Vandegrift on threat of blinding one of her three children. Mrs. Vandegrift is the wife of the state director of finance.

Officers quoted Bammer as saying he conceived the extortion plot in an effort to recoup money he had lost when victimized in a confidence game, but later regretted and attempted to see Mrs. Vandegrift to tell her to disregard the threat.

RAVENNA, O., April 27 (AP)—A terrific explosion wrecked the home of Edward Rock, a barber, last night, killed Mrs. Rock and a 70-year-old man, injured nine persons, and shattered windows for blocks around.

Wives Of The Cabinet Members Hold The Social Reins

By LILIAN CAMPBELL

Wives of the members of the president's cabinet play an important part in the social life of Washington. This year, for the first time, there is a cabinet husband, but Paul Wilson, husband of Miss Frances Perkins, the first feminine cabinet member, who is secretary of labor, has so far successfully dodged the limelight, and remains incognito in his New York home. It is known, however, that his friends consider him one of the best amateur bridge players in New York.

The sudden death of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, appointed attorney general, deprived the cabinet wives of a charming member. Washington society had looked forward to welcoming his bride, the former Senora Nieves Perez Chaumont de Truffin, member of a well-known Cuban family, and widow of a leading Havana sugar merchant.

Mrs. Cordell Hull, wife of the secretary of state, has the most arduous duties as hostess among the cabinet wives. She entertains the foreign diplomats. Mrs. Hull is a Virginian with a background of gracious southern hospitality. She knows her politics, too, and has been a hard working member of the Women's National Democratic club.

Treasury Wife Quiet

Mrs. William H. Woodin, as wife of the secretary of the treasury, also is socially important, and must frequently entertain. Mrs. Woodin is quiet, interested in her home and church work, in her husband's music and collecting Staffordshire china.

Paradoxical as it may seem, the wife of George H. Dern, secretary of war, is a strong advocate of peace. She is, however, cautious in her remarks. The Derns have seven children.

Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, whose husband is secretary of the navy, is another southern cabinet wife, with an impeccable social background. In 1925 Mrs. Swanson was presented to the king and queen of England at Buckingham palace.

Mrs. James A. Farley, wife of the postmaster general, like Mrs. Woodin, has made her home in New York. The Farleys have two little daughters, and Mrs. Farley is a boxing fan, knowing her sports as well as her politics.

Mrs. Harold C. Ickes, whose husband is secretary of the interior, is a political, as well as social, personage in her home state, Illinois. Mrs. Ickes is serving her third term as a member of the Illinois state legislature. She is a past president of the Chicago Women's club, was the first woman to serve as a trustee of the University of Illinois, and is interested in Indians, her adobe house in the desert of New Mexico being her summer refuge. Her hobby is snakes. Winnetka, Chicago suburb, is the Ickes home. Mrs. Ickes was elected as a progressive Republican. Her husband, of course, sits in a Democratic cabinet as a Democrat.

Knows Her Gardens

The wife of the secretary of agriculture, Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, runs true to form, and knows her gardens. The Wallaces have three children, and their home is in Des Moines, Ia.

Mrs. Daniel C. Roper, wife of the secretary of commerce, is a home body who comes from South Carolina. Her seven children and church work are her major interests.

From Stamford, Conn., comes Mrs. Homer S. Cummings, wife of the acting attorney general. Her husband long has been a national figure in politics. Mrs. Cummings smilingly admits that she is known as a "high brow".

Mrs. John Nance Garner, wife of the vice president of the United States, who takes precedence socially over the cabinet wives, is only one of them "by invitation". Mrs. Garner, as is well known, acts as her husband's secretary, and is not socially minded.

BILL TO BOOST OIL TAX UP

FAVORABLE REPORT IS GIVEN BY SENATE COMMITTEE

AUSTIN, April 27. (AP)—A bill to increase the tax on oil production from two per cent of value to two cents per barrel will be placed before the senate for its consideration. The senate state affairs committee voted last night to recommend that the bill be passed.

If and when oil reaches a value of $1 or more per barrel at the well, the present tax of two per cent would be reinstated. Proponents estimated that under the prevailing oil prices the increased tax would approximately double the revenues to the state. The present market price over the state ranges from ten cents to more than sixty cents per barrel.

Graduated Tax Favored

The house had passed the Daniel bill to provide for a graduated tax ranging from one to twenty cents per barrel, depending on per well production. The senate committee amended the proposal after a long hearing. Several members of the state affairs committee argued that a flat tax of three cents a barrel should be imposed. The two cent tax was substituted for the three cent amendment by a vote of nine to six.

Before the hearing was started, Senator Walter Woodul moved that the committee lay aside the Daniel bill and take up the combination tax and new oil commission bill passed by the house. His motion failed, 7 to 5, and the new commission proposal was set for hearing tonight.

Several oil men and oil attorneys volunteered to accept the tax increase to two cents a barrel. They expressed the hope that oil would be selling at $1 a barrel by this time next year and that the tax therefore would not impose an unduly heavy burden.

Estimates of what the bill would raise in revenue ranged from $7,000,000 to $9,000,000 annually. The two per cent tax raised slightly more than $5,000,000 last year.

TOREADOR FAVORS "HORN FIELD" AS TECH GRID NAME

That there is agitation for a move whereby the Texas Tech athletic field would assume a definite field was indicated in the lead editorial of the Toreador, Texas Tech publication, this morning.

The name suggested for the grounds on which the Matadors engage their visiting opponents is Horn Field, in memory of Dr. Paul Horn, late president of the college.

The Toreador calls attention to the fact that through Dr. Horn's interest and enthusiasm was the Tech athletic department able to make such progressive strides during recent years. The editorial suggests that the Texas Tech athletic council cause the athletic field to be formally christened Horn Field.

The field is known as Matador Field, Texas Tech Field and Tech Athletic Field, but no official name has been adopted.

MARIONETTES ARE TO BE SEEN HERE

Marionettes, those lifelike little creatures who enliven fairy tales for children, and whose skilled manipulation and artistry interest adults, will be presented here this afternoon and tonight.

The Monro Hollywood marionettes, with miniatures of motion picture stars among the 50 figures, will appear at a 4 p. m. matinee for children and 8 o'clock tonight in Lubbock High school auditorium under auspices of the Texas Technological college speech department. Tickets are available at Bowen's Hilton pharmacy.

Sound amplifiers and music reproducers will insure satisfactory hearing throughout the auditorium, the company reports.

"Cinderella" will be the matinee presentation. "The Lost Adams' Diggin's" will be given at night.

Lubbock Man, 78, Predicts A Rain

"Stretch your wagon sheets tight and feed your mules plenty because it's going to rain!"

That was the advice passed out here this morning by S. H. Dysart, of Lubbock, who is 78 years young and who has been watching weather conditions hereabouts for 17 years.

Asked upon what he based his predictions, Mr. Dysart explained:

"It's been raining down in other parts of Texas and whenever it rains hard down there we generally get some here a little later".

Mr. Dysart predicts his rain in a" day or two".

SENATE PAGE IS RECOMMENDED TO CONGRESS POST

AUSTIN, April 27 (AP)—Jack Love, 14-year-old senate page from Fort Worth, has a recommendation from both houses of the Texas legislature for a similar position in the United States congress.

A resolution to recommend Jack was introduced in the senate by Senator Frank Rawlings of Fort Worth and others. It was approved unanimously.

When the resolution reached the house, Speaker Coke Stevenson called it up while Jack was in the chamber. The representatives jokingly howled it down and would not recant until the Fort Worth boy had yielded to their demand for a speech.

The resolution pointed out that young Love was interested in politics and a close student of public affairs. As page to Bob Barker of Fort Worth, senate secretary, Jack reads messages from the senate to the house. His stentorian voice rivals that of Rep. R. H. Holland of Houston, who has no need for a microphone.

Two years ago the legislature recommended Hewit Davis of Austin, a senate page, to a position in the national congress. He received the appointment and now is employed by the agricultural department in Washington.

Ask Children Not To Damage Trees

Parental discipline in keeping children from climbing trees in city parks and from otherwise damaging plantings in the recreation spots was asked Wednesday.

Virtually all trees in the parks are young, and climbing them damages limbs and foliage, J. B. Maxey, a member of the park board, pointed out. Numerous branches have been broken off trees.

C. D. McGeehee, parks superintendent, said that some shrubs and trees had been killed by mistreatment. Destruction of public property is an offense which comes under the jurisdiction of the police. In the past, police frequently have warned children about damaging the plantings.

Galveston Assumes Lead In Texas League Title Race

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY COLLIER PARRIS

Your tickets for tomorrow night's football game at Texas Tech Field are waiting for you at the Hilton Hotel drug store, the Lubbock Hotel drug store or the College Book store.

• • •

The pasteboards are on sale at the astonishingly low price of 40 cents per each. There are no reserved seats, so it's first come, first served, and indications point to a heavy night for the ushers.

• • •

We understand some of the boys who back their favorites with iron men are laying anywhere from 12 to 20 points on the line along with their shekels, and taking the Matadors. If you are doing that, you are acting against the advice offered by the coaching gentlemen of Tech and the writer of this colm.

• • •

It isn't because we believe the Matadors aren't capable of "taking" the Buffs by a few touchdowns that we're passing along this warning. In our opinion, it isn't overestimating the potentialities of the Matadors to suggest that they are at least two, maybe three, touchdowns stronger than the Buffs, but the strongest team doesn't always win.

• • •

Remember the Cowboys. . . . and last Thanksgiving.

• • •

From our observations, the Matadors are inclined to be somewhat lackadaisical about Friday night's game, as was the case before the last encounter with Simmons university. In other words, they're yawning and looking out the window when the coaches try to tell them that all's fair in love and football and that the Buffs are no pushovers.

• • •

We've even heard of persons who boldly state that Friday night's game won't be such of a much, that the Matadors will win too easily to make it interesting. It's a mistake, gents, all a mistake. There's enough bad blood, if you want to call heated rivalry that, between Tech and West Texas to make the Buffs do things not exactly in the books. Because Tech hasn't scheduled a regular fall game with the Buffs for two seasons there is the feeling up Canyon way that Tech is a bit high-hat. This feeling inspires the desire to knock away some of that alleged cockiness, and if you don't believe that type of psychology has anything to do with winning or losing a football game, you're as wrong as Prexy Anderson.

• • •

Speaking of Anderson, the Taylor county scribe, reminds us of his recent essay on "Running the 440," or "What Happened to Rufus Ryan?" After watching Ryan turn in some mighty nice work early this spring, we wrote a piece about him in which we suggested he was headed for somewhere if he maintained his pace. Now comes this:

• • •

"Having had the matter called to our attention by an ardent cinder enthusiast," remarks Anderson in his Abilene Morning Muse, "we feel it our painful duty to ask Collier Parris of Lubbock where Rufus Ryan, the high school flash of his town, lost his wings.

• • •

"The summary of the Lubbock district meet reveals that Ryan finished fourth in a 440 race, won in 52.5 seconds. Then it is noted that Ryan, although given a lead to start the last lap of the relay, was beaten to the finish by Wester of Plainview.

"Surely that can't be the Ryan Collier was telling us about—the one who jogged a 48 quarter in one of the early season practice scrimmages."

• • •

Yep, he's the same Ryan, even if he did do us wrong. We could put up the old alibi that Ryan was ill, or had been smoking too many black cheroots or had broken a leg. But none of these reasons would be right.

• • •

In defense of Ryan and ourself, we could call attention to his feat last Friday night when he whipped Wester to a frazzle in the last lap of the special relay at the Tech-West Texas dual meet. Wester, one of the fastest lads of this section and a veteran at that, had better than a 10-yard advantage at the start of the last lap. But Ryan broke the tape.

• • •

Ryan may never develop a bunion on his chest by breaking tapes in the 440, but for a youngster competing for the first time in track and field, he does mighty well. If we remember our earlier outburst correctly, we suggested that Ryan was one of the most promising youngsters we'd seen in quite a spell, and that, when fully developed, his style and ability might carry him to cinderpath heights. We still hope so.

• • •

The Westerner and Bulldog relay teams may meet again tomorrow night between halves of the Tech-West Texas football game. If they do, you will see a very close race, and particularly will the last lap between Ryan of Lubbock and Wester of Plainview be good to look at.

BUCS TROUNCE FORT WORTH WEDNESDAY

HOUSTON DROPS BACK TO SECOND PLACE AS TULSA WINS

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The pennant going Galveston Buccaneers hoisted sail and slipped off on a short voyage Wednesday night—a trip from second to first place in the Texas league championship chase.

The Houston Buffaloes relinquished their hold on the first place fort and dropped to second place. Dallas and Beaumont went into a tie for third place.

Thormahlen Holds Cats

With the Buccaneers, it was simply a situation that Hank Thormahlen dominated. His pitching beat Fort Worth, 4 to 2. Not only did it limit the Cats to five hits but gave the Buccaneers a half game lead over the field. Galveston made a clean sweep of the series. The Cats tallied twice in the sixth inning on consecutive home runs by McHenry and Washington.

Turned adrift by Fort Worth to find refuge with the Tulsa Oilers, Augustus "Lefty" Johns turned in a grand game to beat Houston, 3 to 0. Johns, who was an invincible southpaw in the golden days when Jake Atz was winning six straight pennants for Fort Worth, held Houston to four hits, all singles and two of them decidedly scratchy.

Missions Beat Steers

The Dallas Steers continued to experience pitching troubles. Manager Morse used Erickson, Hutchinson and Fuhr against San Antonio. They were so liberal they gave the Missions ten passes, hit one batsman, allowed eleven hits and lost the ball game, 8 to 2.

Ray Fritz, who once starred as a first baseman, later as an outfielder, and now is a pitcher, hurled impressive ball to give Beaumont a 9 to 4 victory over the Oklahoma City Indians.

Fritz, who is a southpaw, worked with exceptionally fine control and held the Indians to seven hits.

Cotton McAfee Joins Dodo Club

A hole-in-one, the ambition of all golfers, was registered at the Lubbock Country club this week by W. L. "Cotton" McAfee, who holds second place in the ladder tournament at the club and who is "seeded" No. 2 on the Country club team.

The ace was scored while McAfee was playing in a foresome with John Edmisson, Bays Bryant and Professor Paul Denson. Edmisson, Bryant and McAfee were playing a three-way match in the Country club's ladder tournament. McAfee had defeated Edmisson, two up, in the regular match, but Edmisson and Bryant had to go 23 holes before Bryant was beaten. McAfee played the extra holes and his eagle ace on the No. 3, 184-yard, par 3 hole did not count in his victory.

McAfee made his show with a six-iron, the ball sailing high and bounding onto the carpet for the ace.

As a result of the three-way match, Edmisson gave up second place on the ladder to McAfee and Bryant retained fourth place. Edgar Doherty, the high school star, retained his place at the top of the championship flight.

Hoppe Sets A New Billiards Record

Meeting Jake Schaefer, jr., of San Francisco in the third block of their special 1,500 carom billiard match last night, the veteran genius of the green cloths reeled off 53 billiards in the 20th inning for a new world's high run record. He won the block, 250 to 150 in 22 innings and took the lead in total points, 750 to 642 in 109 innings.

The record of 38, which stood for a half century, was exceeded by one by Schaefer Tuesday night.

Buffaloes Meet Tech On Friday

WEST TEXAS TEACHERS TANGLE WITH MATADOR GRIDSTERS UNDER LIGHTS TOMORROW NIGHT

The 1933 Texas Tech football team as it may appear this fall will be presented tomorrow night in official formation at the Texas Tech field. The gridiron forces of Coaches Cawthon, Smith and Morgan will indulge in their first regular game of the year.

Opposing the Matadors as they pass in review tomorrow night are the West Texas State Teachers college Buffaloes, who will make the most of their only opportunity this year to lay the Tech gridsters low in a regular, official contest.

First Spring Game Here

The bell rings at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow night. Thereupon will begin the first spring football game ever played in these parts by the Matadors, the first regular intercollegiate game offered on the South Plains.

Spring games are not new to the Matadors and Buffaloes, who learned last spring that a gridiron victory before summer was just as hard to get as one during the fall. The teams met in Canyon, Tech winning a hard-fought game by a single touchdown.

That was Tech's second spring game. A few weeks prior to the Buffalo tangle, Coach Cawthon had his men in El Paso jousting with the Texas School of Mines Muckers. A lineup comprised of star players, coaches, ex-big shots and other ineligibles representing the Mines football department won by a touchdown.

For the better part of a five-weeks period both the Matadors and Buffaloes have been doing serious football work in intensive spring training. The game tomorrow under the floodlights will climax this period and show to an anxious public an idea of what the 1933 Bullfighter team will wear and do next fall.

Tickets for the game, priced at 40 cents a throw, are on sale at the Lubbock and Hilton hotel drug stores and at the Tech college bookstore. There will be no reserved seats and no difference in prices.

As a preliminary to tomorrow night's football clash at Tech field, Floydada High school's distance and middle distance track stars will compete with Texas Tech freshmen cinder men in 880-yard and one-mile runs.

Representing Floydada in the mile event will be Gamblin, who took the District 2 championship in that event in 4 minutes, 49.7 seconds. Floyd Murray will run the half-mile. C. J. Brown of Tech will oppose Gamblin in the distance event, with L. Austin running against Murray.

Between halves of the football game, the Lubbock High school mile relay team will run against the Texas Tech freshman team. There is probability that Plainview High school will send its district championship team here tomorrow night to run in the relay.

BY C. ROBERT KAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 27 (AP)—Turf followers poring over form charts, histories and ancestries of nominees, and workout records in an attempt to predict the 1933 Kentucky Derby winner have experienced nothing but dizzy spells for their pains.

W. R. Coe's Ladysman, leading juvenile money-winner last year, retains his position as future book favorite by virtue of a victory in his first race of the year at Havre De Grace two weeks ago. This race, however, was over the six furlong route, a half-mile shorter tha nthe mile and a quarter Derby distance.

Repaid Loses Place

The Quincy stable's Repaid, among the also rans in two races at Havre, relinquished his position as secondary favorite to Swivel, fleet filly owned by Adolphe Pons. Swivel showed excellent form in winning a mile and seventy yard race last week, but many conservatives eliminate her from consideration because she is a filly, recalling that only one thoroughbred of that sex, Regret in 1915, ever won the Derby.

F. A. Griffith's Sarada, doped as a "horse to watch" since early in training season, entered the forefront of contention by handily defeating several highly-rated Derby hopes in a mile and seventy yard race at Havre yesterday. The also rans included Repaid, Lee Rosenberg's Kerry Patch, and C. V. Whitney's The Darb.

Sarada Among Leaders

But despite Ladysman's need of a distance race, Swivel's being a filly, and Repaid's disappointing spring trials, they must be included in the "big four" of eastern hopes, with Sarada completing the quartet. Against these the west can match winter racing performance, workouts at Churchill Downs, and races against only fair competition at Lexington this spring.

The R. M. Eastman estate's Charley O., winner of the Florida Derby; the Shandon farm's At Top, winner of the Jefferson derby; Mrs. William Crump's Head Play, and Col. E. R. Bradley's Broker's Tip comprise the "big four" of the western contenders, picked in advance of the Churchill Downs meeting which opens Saturday.

COLD WEATHER BLAMED FOR FEW HITS

SLAB ARTISTS DOING OUTSTANDING WORK IN BOTH LEAGUES

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Regardless of the explanation offered by Will Harridge, American league president, that the weather is to blame for remarkable pitching this spring, the fact remains that the slab departments of the two major leagues are doing outstanding work against the chilled batters.

The latest additions to the list of April heroes are Leroy Parmelee, of the New York Giants, and Oral Hildebrand, with the Cleveland Indians. They hurled one hit games yesterday.

Turns Back Phillies

Parmelee, who spent most of the 1932 season with Columbus in the American association, won his spurs in his first start of the campaign as he turned back the slugging Phillies 3 to 1. The only hit off Parmelee was a smash by Mickey Finn in the third inning.

Hildebrand came just about as close to a no hit feat but lost it when Art Scharein cracked out a snappy single. The Indians, however, had little trouble blanking the St. Louis Brown 2 to 0 although they got only five blows off Lloyd Brown and none off Wally Heber.

Chilly Weather Reigns

In support of the Harridge theory that cold, damp weather is responsible for such flinging feats, both these games, along with a four-hit job by Owen Carroll of Brooklyn, which led to a 5-1 triumph over the Boston Braves, and a five-hit game by Silas Johnson of Cincinnati in beating St. Louis 2-1, came on a day when chilly weather reigned over major league territory.

The Chicago-Pittsburgh National league game and the New York-Philadelphia contest in the American were postponed because of cold and Washington and the Boston Red Sox were rained out.

In the remaining game on the program, the Detroit Tigers went eleven innings to give the Chicago White Sox their fourth defeat of the season, 6 to 4. Detroit got to Sad Sam Jones in the seventh after being held to two hits in six frames, tied the count in the ninth and won when Fox, Webb and Gehringer nicked Joe Heving for singles and Walker connected for a long fly in the eleventh.

Austrian railways maintain regular dining car service in half the dining car and use the other half for a buffet where food and drinks are served at low prices.

YOU CAN'T RUB SMILE OFF OF VEECK'S FACE

His Chicago Cubs, probably still a little shell shocked by the booming of the Yankee world series guns, are waddling about the National league cellar like permanent tennants and the surprising White Sox rivals from the south side are getting all the bouquets but the Cub president keeps on grinning.

"Sure, we're off to a poor start," he replied to the usual questions, "but don't sell us short yet. We've lost six games. Last year we won the pennant by losing 64 of 'em. I haven't started worrying yet. The boys will hit their stride before long. Remember, the weather has been cold and some of the Cub players aren't polar bears.

"Looking for a new outfielder? Don't know anything about that. Naturally, we're interested all the time in getting any good players. The poor start of the team isn't caused by one player, however. Except for Hartnett none of the boys is in stride yet."

Tech Tennis Stars Will Meet Simmons

As another step in the "branching out" of the Texas Tech athletic program, Matador tennis players will oppose the Simmons university racquet wielders in a dual meet on May 5, it was announced yesterday.

Homer Roberts is director of tennis affairs at Tech this season.

Twenty-five Tech athletes are participating in a "ladder" tournament in order to establish rankings and handicaps. Cecil Bickley, veteran net star at Tech, recently was dethroned from No. 1 position by Gordon May, former Austin college star.

EASTERN RING STARS WIN

CAPTURE FIVE OF THE EIGHT NATIONAL AAU CHAMPIONSHIPS

BOSTON, April 27 (AP)—Eastern amateur boxing talent, which has not fared so well in recent national competition, today gloated over the capture of five of the eight National A. A. U. championships from one of the strongest mid-western delegations that has ever participated in this 33-year-old competition.

Although the 1933 performances were up to standard, the tournament sank to its lowest financial level in 33 years, for its three nights' total attendance was less than 7500 and the gross gate receipts were far short of $10,000.

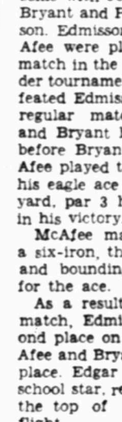

The 1933 championship list:

112-pounds—Tony Valore, Cleveland.
118-pounds — Angelo Tardugno, Washington.
126-pounds—Louis Barisano, Boston.
135-pounds—Frank Eagan, Buffalo.
147-pounds — William Celebron, Chicago.
160-pounds — Tom Chester, New York.
175-pounds—Max Marek, Chicago.
Heavyweight—Izzy Richter, Philadelphia.

CHURCH DRIVE IS PLANNED

"DEVIL SLAYING" OF CHILD INSPIRATION FOR CAMPAIGN

TEXARKANA, April 27 (AP)—A concerted program of religious education has been planned for the rural sections of Bowie and Cass counties by the Paris Presbytery of the Southern Presbyterian church. The "devil murder" of an invalid child and tales of religious horrors that have come from the backwoods sections of Cass and Bowie counties were responsible for centering the program in that locality.

Religious workers will go into the rural sections, organizing Bible schools, Sunday schools and conducting evangelical services preliminary to the organization of churches in the district.

Plans for the home mission work were laid at a Presbyterial session recently at Paris in which a number of Texarkana women took a leading part. Elders of the various independent churches of the Presbytery will do evangelical work and the Bible and Sunday schools will be organized under the leadership of Miss Myrtle Williamson, religious education worker of the Presbytery.

Texarkana and Marshall will serve as the two principal cities from which the home mission work will be conducted. The congregation of the First Presbyterian church here will take an active part in the work. Mission work also will be done at Kilgore.

HUGE "SKY RIDE" AT WORLD'S FAIR TO PROVIDE VIEW OF FOUR STATES; 628-FOOT STRUCTURE TO COST $1,200,000

How the aerial ferry of the 1933 world's fair will appear when completed is shown above. The towers—628 feet high—are connected by 1,850-foot cables on which the rocket cars, bearing 36 passengers, will travel in the course of the fair's "sky ride."

BY F. A. RESCH

CHICAGO, (AP)—A gigantic aerial ferry, spectacular of design and futuristic of conception, is under construction along Chicago's lakefront.

It is the "Sky Ride" of the 1933 world's fair—a $1,200,000 structure whose towers will be the highest west of New York—and whose engineers say presage a new era of bridge building.

For "A Century of Progress" it will serve as a sight-seeing vehicle with four states visible from its 628-foot towers, but its builders declare it represents an engineering feat destined to be a model for bridges of the future.

To Support Ten Rocket Cars

When completed, cables strung across the 1,850 feet between its two towers will support ten rocket cars to shuttle back and forth under double "tracks" with world's fair visitors—from Chicago's mainland to Northerly island in Lake Michigan, where the second tower stands.

Far above the 200-foot level, at which the rocket cars will travel, will be platforms atop each tower—where 1,800 sight-seers, lifted by elevators rising at the rate of 700 feet a minute, can be accommodated. Flooring in these "penthouses" will be of solid glass.

Built by five engineering concerns and dessigned by suspension bridge experts, the "Sky Ride" will be the second longest span in the United States. The George Washington bridge, across the Hudson, is the longest. They believe such an aerial ferry could be built with a span as long as 18,500 feet—more than three miles.

May Replace Bridges

In the future, say "Sky Ride" engineers, similar structures will replace standard bridges of today—using a guarded platform to transport light traffic by cable, and rocket cars for heavier traffic.

Into the "Sky Ride's" towers are going 7,200,000 pounds of steel, and more than 100 miles of cable—from one-half inch in diameter to more than 1.9 inches—will be used in its construction.

All this structure's cables, its engineers declare, will be four times as strong as necessary to carry their loads—36 persons seated in double-deck fashion in each rocket car.

THE CAPITOL WHIRLIGIG

INTERESTING NEWS, COMMENT FROM AUSTIN

AUSTIN, April 27 (AP)—The probable adjournment date of the legislature has become one of the chief topics of conversation about the capitol with predictions ranging from May 9 to June 15.

The 120-day period suggested by the constitution will end on May 9. Two years ago the lawmakers remained in session eleven days beyond the expiration of that period.

No Limit Fixed

The constitution fixes no limit on the biennial session. After the 120 days however, the lawmakers' salaries are reduced from $10 to $5 each per day.

Some observers believe the legislature will decide to quit on Saturday, May 13. Others expect the lawmakers to remain another week. A few think it possible the session will be extended to June 1, and perhaps to June 15.

Little Progress Made

The legislature is in fair shape on the apprpriation bills. However, lieele progress has been made on revenue-raising proposals and on many other important bills.

The scheduled end of a session always finds members striving to prolong it a few days, believing an extension will permit the passage of one or more bills in which they are interested. Others seek immediate adjournment in order to kill one or more proposals to which they object. The houses must agree on an adjournment date.

Dr. Gustav Egloff, of Chicago, recently predicted that airplanes will soon fly at the rate of 800 miles an hour.

Maternity Deaths

As the time draws near for the annual observance of Mother's Day, the Maternity Center Association of New York points out that the best way to celebrate the day would be to crystallize public opinion on the vital need of improving maternity care.

Every year some 16,000 American women die in childbirth—a record that is disgracefully worse than the records of many other countries which some of us like to feel are not as far advanced as our own. Experts assert that at least half of the 16,000 deaths could and should be prevented.

"There is a biting irony," says a statement from the association, "in the fact that in several countries where Mother's Day is unknown, motherhood is twice as safe as in America."

There is, indeed. Our Mother's Day celebration ought to include a new drive to reduce the maternity death rate.

HERE'S a brand new depression solution picked up by The Plainsman yesterday in conversation with Ernest Baum, the Hollywood beautician who has been here attending the Russell Morrison company's beauty school and trade show.

"I absolutely believe", said Mr. Baum, "that prosperity depends entirely upon the resumption of buying by the American woman. My close contact with an industry serving women in all parts of the country and my knowledge of the habits of the 'purchasing agents for American homes' has formed my belief.

"When the American woman starts to fill the wants of herself and her family, there will be so many things to buy she will automatically put into circulation sufficient money to make the business machine hum with pent-up energy."

* * *

To a certain extent, at least, Mr. Baum is eminently correct.

The Mrs.'s of this country are, as he says, "the purchasing agents of the homes" and when they start to cut loose and buy, buy, buy, hard times will, in direct ratio, go bye-bye.

But what worries The Plainsman most is where the money's coming from to start the ladies buying again.

Boy, that's a problem!

* * *

WE often hear it said by speakers and writers, eminent and otherwise, that fear is at the roots of the depression; fear, they aver, has prolonged the economic era and not until fear is dispelled will normal times be reached.

While fear undoubtedly has played and is playing a major role in our every-day life, it cannot be blamed for the whole business.

A world trade out of kilter, inane tariff walls, pyramided values baseless in their computation and overproduction caused by the machine age are the basic causes of the depression, albeit, fear has played a beautiful (if you can call it that) supporting role.

* * *

The gentleman in question has several men on his small payroll.

He has met numerous personal losses in the recent 18 months or so, has seen values of his property decline tremendously and, of course, has seen the patronage of his small business shrink in ratio to business everywhere.

He still does a fair amount of business, sufficient to keep him 'in the black', but on top of wage slashes necessitated by falling patronage he has quit 'paying off in full' to his employes, although his cash intake is sufficient to permit him to do so.

In other words, he is afraid of what the future holds and because he is afraid his workers are made to suffer even more than they should be expected to suffer even in depressed times.

* * *

Fear, instead of being the cause of the economic slump, is a direct product of it.

How to stop fear is a problem with which great minds have tussled, but to no avail.

Its elimination, were it possible, would not end the trouble but it would at least decrease the pain.

A lecturer was speaking on divorce and its effects.

"Love", he thundered, "is a quest; a proposal a request; the giving of a daughter in marriage a bequest; and marriage, itself, a conquest. But what is divorce?"

"That", called a voice from the balcony, "must be the inquest!"

* * *

"I dunno", was the answer. "She's one of those getting a beauty treatment over at the Hilton, now!"

* * *

THERE has been a lot said lately about the financial side of the Lubbock school system. Friday and Saturday of this week, however, there will be much said and much to be seen of the work of the schools.

For tomorrow and the day after the annual school exhibition will be opened to the public for all to see. It will be held in the gymnasium of the Senior high school and will hold forth from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. on Friday, and from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. on Saturday.

* * *

The Plainsman has for years made it a practice to visit the school exposition.

And he's been surprised, over and over again and year after year at the things he has seen.

Lubbock people seeking an 'eye-opener' and a pleasant hour or two of inspection won't miss the exposition this year, simply because it is distinctly worthwhile.

There is not a taxpayer in Lubbock who will fail to take pride in the exhibits; there's not one but to himself will say:

"Modern education certainly has it all over the little red school house of my day"—and the chances are he'll be glad he's contributing to the system via the school tax route.

Reports Of Administration's Proposals For Wage Hour Production Control Legislation Thought Misinterpreted

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, April 27—Reports of the administration's proposals for wage hour-"production control" legislation, as recommended to a congressional committee by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, seem to have been misinterpreted.

Dutcher

1. A working week of not more than 30 hours with a working day of not more than six hours, plus a flexible provision permitting employment of a worker for not more than 40 hours a week or more than eight hours a day during a period not to exceed ten weeks in a year in cases of "extraordinary need."

2. Power for the secretary of labor to appoint minimum wage boards for specific industries whose recommendations could be made mandatory in cases of non-compliance.

3. Power for the secretary to limit the total hours of a plant's operation when it operates on "excessively long" hours and causes "extraordinary hardships" to other plants.

Planned Production?

The last provision has caused plenty of excitement, but it may be said with authority that the Roosevelt administration had no thought of using it to control production or attempt to balance factory output and consumption.

Following, almost verbatim, are the words which Miss Perkins proposed for the labor bill in her memorandum to the House labor committee.

"If it be found by the secretary of labor after due investigation that the operation of any plant or enterprise under this act disturbs and prevents a fair balance of production in the industry involved and is bringing about overproduction or unfair competition in interstate commerce by excessively long periods of operation and thus causing extraordinary hardships to other plants or enterprises in said industry with consequent substantial injury to the general welfare, then and in that event, the secretary shall be authorized to specify a limitation that shall be imposed on the total hours of said plants so as to bring about a more equitable adjustment of production within said industry."

Unfair Competition

The proposal obviously would give the Labor Department a whole lot of new power and has aroused much support and much opposition on that score.

But the idea, according to Miss Perkins, was to provide some control over manufacturers who work women and children on all-night shifts, to enable the department to co-operate in improvement of working conditions when large majorities of favorable manufacturers are balked by non-co-operative minorities, and to exert supervision when competitors seek unfair advantages under the rest of the law.

Reports that Miss Perkins had recommended a maximum 40-hour week instead of the Black bill's 30-hour week for industry were misleading. Her memorandum specified that exceptions to the 30-hour law under the 40-hour ten-week provision should be invoked only in cases where the extraordinary need in any plant could only be met by utilizing a day of more than six hours or a week of more than 30 hours.

Flexibility Necessary

Only an "Hours of Work" board could grant such permission. Such boards would be appointed by the secretary of labor for designated enterprises or industries rather than by states or sections. It was proposed that the law be flexible to that extent of seasonal demands in some industries and other variable conditions.

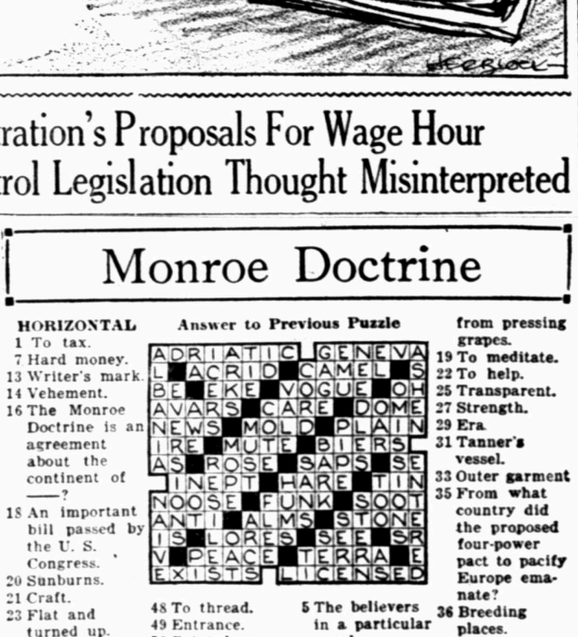

The wage boards would have the power of subpoena and would have to report on alleged bad wage conditions in 30 days. The secretary would then publish a directory order for the recommended rates and after 30 more days publish names of employers not complying. Opportunity would be given for public hearing at whch employers might present their case, and after that the secretary could make the order mandatory.

Two other gasoline dealers told the same story.

Granddaughter Left Pitcher Collection

BROWNWOOD, April 27.(AP)—Mrs. A. P. Jones, pioneer Brownwood citizen who died recently, left to her granddaughter, Miss Elinor Spratt of Brownwood, a collection of 1,600 pitchers. During the last fifteen years Mrs. Jones had collected pitchers as a hobby from all parts of the world. The collection included pitchers of every imaginable shape and design and of almost every of material.

The collection was started by accident. A friend who traveled extensively gave Mrs. Jones a few pitchers some fifteen years ago. Other friends swelled the original collection with gifts of pitchers of odd and interesting design from different parts of the world.

Many people from Texas and other states came to Brownwood every year and viewed the unusual collection. Mrs. Jones could tell something interesting about every pitcher and also the name of the person who gave each piece.

Congressman punched in the eye a neighbor whose radio annoyed him. Now all we need is a supreme court decision that such an action is entirely constitutional.

STARTING SUNDAY

DARLING FOOL

by MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MONICA O'DARE, 20 and beautiful, is in love with DAN CARDIGAN, one of the town's rich young men. At a local dancing place where she has gone with Dan she meets her friend, SANDRA LAWRENCE, with a handsome and mysterious newcomer, CHARLES EUSTACE.

SANDRA immediately takes charge of Dan. Monnie, hurt, allows Charles to escort her home. When Monnie's older brother, BILL, is arrested at the garage where he works she rushes to his aid.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

Something in the policeman's tone stiffened Monica's trembling backbone. She actually managed a laugh. "Bill arrested?" she echoed. "But that's absurd."

Bill's dark frown relaxed the merest trifle and Monnie had the satisfaction of seeing her mother straighten, look about her bravely. Absurd—of course it was absurd. Bill O'Dare under arrest! Why, he'd lived in Belvedere all his 22 years. He was honest as the day was long! Everybody knew that.

The big man who dominated the little scene found speech. He glowed at Monnie.

"Absurd, is it?" he bellowed. "And who, may I ask, are you?"

"I'm his sister," Monica said, bringing the full battery of her flashing amber eyes to rest upon him. "Would you mind telling me what this is all about?"

Several people began to talk at once. The big man silenced them.

"Maybe you don't know," he began truculently, "that there's been a robbery down at the gas station—an' a big one. Maybe you don't know this young feller let them get away. Maybe you don't know we have positive evidence he connived with them payroll thieves—"

The veins in Bill's forehead were swollen painfully. His scornful blue eyes flashed defiance. Was it fear that lurked behind those blue eyes? No. Monnie would not entertain that thought for a single minute!

"What evidence?" she demanded staunchly.

"He was seen at Black Tree Inn with the lot of them last night," said the big man, enjoying the drama of this announcement. "He knew them. He was in on it. He left there early and he won't say where he went and who he was with. Guess that sounds guilty, don't it?"

Bill said thickly, fiercely, "That's a lie!"

"It's not a lie you were drinkin' with the lot of them at the Inn?"

"No." The monosyllable was wrenched from Bill. "No. But —"

The big man cut him off abruptly. "None of your buts, young feller."

"I didn't know them. They just sat down at my table," Bill flung across at him. "I swear I didn't know—"

His eyes found his mother's haggard face, implored her to believe him.

"Then when they drove up, brave as you please, at 11 o'clock didn't you fill up their gas tanks and pass the time o' day with them as happy as you please?" went on the big man. "When they says 'hands up,' didn't you let them get away with it? Don't tell me you aren't part and parcel of the gang!"

Monnie said in a low clear voice, "Don't worry, Bill. We believe you. We'll get a lawyer."

But Bill had been at Black Tree Inn. That alone counted against him. Her heart was pounding painfully. No matter what he had done the O'Dares would stand by him. But how dreadful it all was. The tag end of a verse she had always loved came into her mind just then. "The men of my own stock,

Bitter bad they may be,
But at least they hear the things I hear,
They see the things I see—"

Bill looked oddly like their dead father at this moment. Daddy, the most honest man who'd ever lived. No. Bill O'Dare wasn't—couldn't be a thief. There must be a way out of this nightmare and Monnie would have to find it.

* * *

Of all the townsfolk she could think of only one friend to appeal to. Judge Cory. Miss Anstice's father. He had been her grandfather's partner in the law firm of Kerrigan and Cory.

She found the judge in his dusty office above the First National Bank. Trembling, she told him her story. The old man looked at her shrewdly out of rheumy blue eyes.

"I'll go down to see him. Don't you worry. Did they say anything about furnishing bail?"

Monnie threw out her hands. "We haven't any money, judge. I didn't dare ask about it even."

"No. No. I s'pose not." He contemplated the problem, stoking his white beard. "There isn't anyone, I suppose—"

Monnie flushed. She knew what he must be thinking. Everyone in town supposed her to be engaged to Dan Cardigan. Wouldn't the Cardigans help her out—that was what Judge Cory meant.

"No one," she said with decision. What the proud Cardigans would think when they heard that Bill O'Dare was injail she did not dare to condiser. It was Bill she had to fight for now.

"I'll go right down and see the boy." The old man stood up, reaching for his battered Panama. "I'll do the best I can."

She had to be content with that.

* * *

Somehow she managed a smile for her mother, waiting downstairs. "He's going right over. Don't worry. I'm sure everything's going to be all right."

"Monnie, I'm sorry," the older woman said in a low voice, "but I'm not feeling very well—"

She swayed against the girl, her face lighted with a deadly pallor. Monnie felt the world swimming around her for one dreadful moment. Then she heard a friendly voice. Charles Eustace's.

"Let me carry her to the car, Miss O'Dare."

She saw him swing the slight figure of her mother over the running board. As in a dream, she followed him.

"That's right. You hold her head against your shoulder. She's just a bit faint. We'll stop by my uncle's office and get her something."

The car flew along. Monnie was conscious of curious faces along the way. How he had found her—how he had known where she was to be found or what the trouble was she didn't even bother to consider. She was grateful from the bottom of her heart. She felt, in a very passion of gratitude, that nothing she might ever do would repay the man for his kindness.

At last they were at home. Mrs. O'Dare, declaring herself able to walk now, had been assisted into the house, had willingly accepted the medicine Dr. Waterman had prescribed for her and agreed to lie down for a short time.

Monnie went back into the living room where she found Charles Eustace, very big and masculine, among the ferns and looped curtains of her mother's domain.

"I don't know how to thank you. I suppose you've heard what fearful difficulties we're in."

If she said any more, she was certain to cry. And she must not do that. She must keep her head at any cost.

"I did. I'm frightfully sorry. Can I help?"

"You have already. Judge Cory is going down there." She ran her fingers nervously through her bronze curls. "You must believe my brother's innocent, Mr. Eustace. He couldn't have done this thing. It's not in him — I mean he simply couldn't!"

Her eyes challenged him.

"I'm sure of it. Look here, I'll run down to see him—I haven't another thing to do. I'll stop by and let you know what I've found out. Ma'am?"

How kind he was! And she had only known him a few days. There was Dan who was supposed to be in love with her and Dan hadn't telephoned — hadn't rushed to her side.

She gave him her hand. "I will thank you all my days."

He smiled at her. "It's nothing."

* * *

Alone she paced the floor. What would this mean to all of them. They had been poor, they had been shabby, but no one ever had been able to point a finger of scorn at them. What would Kay say, who was so lovely and so proud? She glanced fearfully at the clock. Kay was due home from school at any moment. Someone might call to her on the street, might terrify her.

"Ya-aah, your brother's in jail."

And Mark, mischievous, friendly and loyal. Poor Mark! Of herself Monnie would not think. Of what it meant to her and her hopes.

She never knew, later, how she got through that dreadful afternoon. She had telephoned the store to say she wouldn't be able to come back that day. She made her mother drink some strong, hot tea. She kept up her pose of unflawed cheerfulness. When Kay and Mark came in she drew them aside and told them the story as kindly as she could. Kay's reaction was typical.

"But, Monnie, that's rotten for us." Her pale face blazed. "I'm going to get out of this town. I'm sick of it anyway. This — this'll finish us."

Sternly the older sister reminded her, "Don't you care at all what happens to Bill?"

"Oh, Bill!" There was a world of contempt in the girl's voice. "You know something like this'd happen with that crowd he's been running with."

Kay shrugged. "Oh, if you didn't keep yourself buried like an ostrich, you'd know. That cheap crowd from the Center—that candy-shop girl—married, too—"

Monnie's heart gave a great leap. This was worse and worse.

"Of course, he has. Everybody knows it."

"Don't let Mother hear you," warned Monnie with a glance at the stairs. "You stay here. I've got an important errand to do—"

She snatched her hat from the hall stand and ran out. She must find Charles Eustace. This woman, whoever she was, must be the clue to Bill's innocence. Bill must be shielding her. That was why he wouldn't tell more about the night at Black Tree Inn. But maybe this woman would talk—and save Bill from disgrace!

DAILY MARKETS

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, April 27 (AP) — Cotton opened steady in moderate trading today. Cables were about as due but first trades here showed losses of 2 to 3 points, due to some overnight hedge-selling orders.

As stocks opened somewhat firmer and weather reports were generally unfavorable the market rallied after the start on fair trade buying and short covering. July advanced to 7.65 and October to 7.86, up 7 to 8 points from the opening and 5 to 6 points above yesterday's close.

Near the end of the first hour the market was steady, holding near the highs. Trades, however, appeared disposed to await further Washington developments.

The market ruled rather quiet most of the morning. After advancing slightly at the beginning of the second hour on some trade buying, July trading up to 7.66 and October to 7.87, or 6 points above yesterday's close, prices eased.

The decline was due mainly to selling by ring traders in response to easier stocks and grain and in the absence of buying because of delays in Washington on inflation. By the time the offerings were absorbed, July had dropped to 7.52 and October to 7.72, or 14 to 15 points down from the highs to levels 8 to 9 points under yesterday's close.

Around noon the market was a trifle steadier on covering, regaining two points of the reaction.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP)—Cotton opened steady, 3 lower to 1 higher with liquidation and a fairly active commission house demand. May 7.45; July 7.59; Oct. 7.81; Dec. 7.95; Jan. 8.03; March 8.19.

Orders appeared evenly divided at the start with liquidation, southern and foreign selling absorbed by covering, trade and commission house buying.

July advanced from 7.59 to 7.68, while December sold up from 7.95 to 8.03, making net gains of 5 to 8 points, but realizing became a little heavier above the 8 cents level for October and the market was 3 or 4 points off from the best at the end of the first half hour.

There was only a moderate volume of business but a scattering demand for small lots through wire and commission houses combined with some local and Wall Street or western buying held prices fairly steady during the middle of the morning. Offerings increased slightly toward midday, however, on the easier tone in wheat. July cotton sold off to 7.61, or about 7 points from the high level of the morning. The general market at midday was quiet with prices about net unchanged to 1 point higher.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP)—Fresh strength in the American dollar and the nearing of the inflation vote in the senate gave the stock market pause today.

Wall Street was encouraged by the scattered but distinct signs of business pickup, but many traders were inclined to question the current high level of share prices in relation to earnings, pending a clearer outlook for business and inflation.

Prices advanced a little at the opening, met concentrated selling in the middle of the morning, then recovered a little by early afternoon. Allied Chemical dropped 5 points, reflecting the stock exchange action on its reports, and reactions of around a point occurred in U. S. Steel, National Steel, National Steel, American Can, Continental Can, Goodyear, American Tobacco, and Liggett and Myers class B stocks. Public Service of N. J., American Sugar, Union Pacific, Aviation Corp., Goodyear, and others. Coppers and oils lost fractions.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, April 27 (AP)—Wheat prices advanced early today after downturns at the outset. Initial weakness reflected a sharp setback in British exchange, but buying increased owing largely to assertions by trade leaders that inflation was not only talked of but an assured fact.

BOYS' WEEK WILL BE MAPPED HERE

Plans for observance in Lubbock of National Boys' week are being formulated. ROAD BODY BILL to provide that Ely and Martin should continue as members of the commission. Under that arrangement Mrs. Ferguson would have had the appointment of three members, a majority, pending the election.

Representative T. H. McGregor of Austin, speaking against the amendment, said that James E. Ferguson, the governor's husband and advisor, "would veto the bill or cause his wife to veto it as soon as it hits the governor's office if passed with this amendment."

The vote was taken after strong talks for and against the amendment had been made by Representatives Robert Calvert of Hillsboro and McGregor.

"The question is whether you are afraid that Ferguson will suggest and the governor will appoint the members of the commission," McGregor stated. "We might as well meet the issue frankly and fairly."

McGregor has long been a close friend of the Fergusons.

"Measured by courage, statesmanship and intellect he is from the knees up greater than any former occupant of the governor's office to my certain knowledge," McGregor continued. "He has been the subject of assaults of those who have oppressed the people for ages. He has elected his wife twice when every one knew they were voting for him."

The question of the administration of the affairs of the highway department during Mrs. Ferguson's first term seven years ago was brought strongly into arguments on the amendment.

NEWSPAPER, PALACE THEATER AND SIAMESE TWINS TO STAGE BIG TWIN PARTY IN MATINEE NEXT WEDNESDAY

Parties may come and go, but who ever heard of a twin party—or a party of twins?

The Avalanche-Journal through the cooperation of the Palace theater and the Godino Siamese twins has arranged a party for those who are fortunate enough to see it at the Palace theater next Wednesday afternoon. First, the Godino Siamese twins, those two brothers whom nature joined together since birth, are to be hosts and not less than one hundred sets of twins from over this section are expected to obtain admission to the party. All they have to do is to come to the Avalanche-Journal, register their names and address and receive free tickets. If the twins are too small to attend alone, an extra ticket will be given to whoever is in charge of them.

Simplicio and Lucio, for those are the names of the Siamese twins, are anxious to meet all the twins on the South Plains, and after the party a big flashlight picture will be taken of the entire group with the Siamese twins right in the middle. In addition, Simplicio and Lucio will present each twin present with an autographed picture of themselves.

Although suggestions have been made from time to time that perhaps the Siamese Twins could be separated, scientists say such an operation or surgical experiment would be hazardous in the extreme. And why should they be separated anyhow? They're as happy as can be and get a great enjoyment out of their work in vaudeville as musicians, dancers and singers. They are mighty talented, too, according to advance reports.

But to get back to the party, tickets are ready for distribution, and the party will be held Wednesday afternoon at the Palace theatre. So come on, twins, all ages and sizes are welcome to this party.

King Kong Clip-Out

"King Kong" Klip Out Puzzle Unit J

This is something more than a puzzle! Its a puzzle about a puzzle, for those scientific chaps who make a life study of prehistoric animals find it far more puzzling to identify those great creatures of a lost world than you will.

There will be 12 units of the "King Kong Klip Out" Puzzle. This is the 10th to appear, and there will be 2 more of them.

Watch each day for a new UNIT, and when the entire series has appeared, and you have completed your puzzle, bring it to the Avalanche-Journal. The 5 persons who submit the best complete "King Kong" Puzzle will each receive one pair of guest tickets to see "King Kong" at the Lindsey Theater, Preview Saturday night, April 29th, 11:30. LOCAL BEAUTY SCHOOL ENDS

PROGRAM, DANCE HERE WEDNESDAY NIGHT CLOSE AFFAIR

A program and dance Wednesday night marked the close of a Russell Morrison Spring Beauty school and Trade show. Attendance of out-of-town persons had ranged from 250 to 500 each of the three days.

In addition to those from other towns, there was an attendance of most of the beauty shop operators and owners in Lubbock and a number of visitors. Models and visitors to the school swelled the attendance. This was the second annual beauty school conducted by the company.

Management Talks

In addition to instruction that was given in cutting and waving hair, in facials, manicuring and in the application of various cosmetics and permanent waves, there were talks on managing beauty schools and on the ethics of the business.

Walter Wilson of Dallas, Paul Compan of Hollywood and R. C. Dunlap of Dallas were the principal speakers. Their talks dealt with the artistic and the practical phases of beauty shop management.

Representatives of 23 cosmetic and equipment companies displayed their products and gave demonstrations during the three-day school, which was at the Hilton hotel.

Unit Is Formed To Oppose New Taxes

ABILENE, April 27. (AP)—An organization sponsoring a movement for "no new taxes for anything" has been formed by a group of citizens here. Initial membership is 20, and J. E. McKinzie is chairman.

Members voiced the opinion that the government should be able to operate on its income from present tax sources, and that the general cry of the people is for tax reduction instead of increase. They also explained their belief that "better results in preventing tax raises would be obtained if groups fighting various tax proposals would unite in demanding no new taxes of any kind."

"Sistie" Poses Prettily for White House Portrait

COMMITTEES PLAN COTTON CARNIVAL

Committees to aid in arrangements for a Cotton Carnival at Texas Technological college May 14-20, in connection with National Cotton week, have been announced by M. E. Heard, instructor in textile engineering.

Miss Ruth Pirtle is chairman of the program committee, and Miss Annah Jo Pendleton will have charge of stage arrangements. Miss Ruth Horn is chairman of the invitation committee.

The carnival is sponsored by Phi Psi, national honorary textile fraternity, and The Forum, Tech girls' organization. Don Maddox is Phi Psi president and Voncile Gilkerson Forum president.

Invitations printed on paper containing 75 per cent cotton are being sent to campus organizations, civic and commercial clubs, and business firms asking them to select representatives for the cotton style show.

The dresses may be sports, street, house, afternoon, evening, and of any design, but they must be made of cotton.

Physics Show Will Be Given At Tech

Plans are nearing completion for a physics show at Texas Technological college May 5 and 6. Experiments which have never been presented at Tech before will be offered.

The show will be in the chemistry building, from 7 to 10 p. m. May 5 and from 1 to 11 p. m. May 6. Willard Nott, physics student assistant, is show manager.

A miniature refrigeration plant, a model of a geyser, and demonstrations showing how water will run uphill, how a piece of cotton can be lighted by a stream of water, and how a cigaret may be lighted by touching it with a finger will be shown.

CURTAILMENT OF SERVICES RENDERED BY TECH OPPOSED BY WTCC PRESIDENT

Wilbur C. Hawk, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, here Wednesday said curtailment of services rendered West Texas and the Southwest by Texas Technological college would be a mistake, and "West Texans must not permit that to occur."

"Although the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is opposed to any added methods of taxation and is supporting economy in government, our organization is not in favor of the proposed 'wrecking' of Tech college", Mr. Hawk, general manager of Amarillo Globe-News, declared.

"The people of West Texas and the membership of West realize the need of Texas Tech and applaud its great growth and expansion", he continued. "Its increase in enrollment, year by year, proves that the people of this great section, as well as those in other parts of Texas want a college offering the service being offered by the college in Lubbock".

Mr. Hawk commented upon plans for the forthcoming annual convention of the regional chamber of commerce at Big Spring and said that the fifteenth meeting of the organization would be outstanding in its programs.

West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention dates this year are May 11, 12 and 13. Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Tech college, will be one of the convention's outstanding speakers.
