R.A. FUTRELL

Good Times Recalled

"There was not much crop at home (Williamson County) and we were out looking for a place to settle," says R.A. Futrell in recollection of his family's move to Olton in 1944. Two years later, the Futrells came to Hart.

Futrell recalls they made a visit to Olton to see old friends, retired Presbyterian minister, O.A. Mealer, his wife and their daughter, Beatrice, who was a teacher in Olton schools.

"It was around the last of July or the first of August and Carrie found out she could get a job teaching there," he says of their decision to move to Olton.

Rev. Mealer was pastor of a church at Bertram in 1917. Carrie, a young school teacher, lived with a family that attended Mealer's church. Roy still maintains a close friendship with a friend he met at that same church.

Carrie and Roy were married fifty years ago last December. They made their home in Williamson County until moving to Olton.

Members of First Baptist Church, the Futrells have taught Sunday School classes for almost all their married life.

They have two sons and a daughter. Weston, the eldest child, graduated from Olton High School. Ralph and Carol Mrs. Douglas Carruth, are graduates of Hart High School.

Born in a log cabin, Futrell's eyes sparkle as he describes his age, "I'm as old as the year is except for five days." His smile widens as an inquirer ponders the answer and then requires hints to determine that the riddle maker was born Dec. 26, 1899.

The summer he was eight years old, Roy wakened his parents one July morning, crying in pain. A doctor was summoned and the diagnosis was rheumatism.

"Now we know I had polio," Futrell says, remembering. "I went to skin and bones and had to be turned with a sheet. When I was able to move, my folks sent me to my granddad's thinking a change of water might help."

Able at last to walk with the help of a cane, he recalls his grandfather's announcement one day, "Roy, in one more week you've got to learn to walk by yourself."

Walk, he did, and Roy remembers walking to a one-teacher school a mile from home. "I had to walk by myself and I'd hide behind prickly pears to keep Texas Longhorns from coming after me." Again a smile lights his face when he adds, "When they'd quit noticing me, I'd go on."

Eyes twinkling, he describes being wakened one January morning in 1910 with instructions to saddle a horse and go get the doctor.

"We'd have to stop and pull the doctor's Model T out of snow banks by our hands." After a dramatic pause he continues, "But we got there too late." With a mischievous grin of a still-ten-year-old-boy, he adds, "My little sister was already born. I still tease her about not appreciating what I did enough to wait."

In 1918, Futrell went into the Navy and served two years. A coxswain, he recollects training

Contest Nears End, Dimmitt Man Leads

Despite upsets of "favored" pro teams listed in last week's Hart Beat football contest, the three top winners for the week took easy victories with just one loss each. Selecting the final outcome was determined by the tie-breaker prediction of the Longhorns-Steers and even then there was a tie between two of the three top pickers.

Patricia Elliott of Dimmitt missed the actual Horns' score by just nine points to claim first place money. Her prediction was 23-7. Phil Mosier and Edna Follis of Dimmitt were each off by 14 points with predictions of 28-7 and 14-7, respectively. They will divide second and third place monies equally.

Every contestant was given a point for the Nazareth-Happy game regardless of which team was picked since that game was played prior to the contest deadline.

Season leader, David "Bullet" Adams of Dimmitt inched still another point into the lead for the season and now holds a six-point margin over his closest competitor. Second place underwent an upheaval this week with Mosier now in complete possession. Marsha George and Bryan Irons are right in back.

At least two contests remain to be graded and no contestant should give up trying for the grand prize of two tickets to the Cotton Bowl classic and $25 "spending money." Runner-up contestant will receive a two tickets to the Sun Bowl.

Should a tie exist after the final contest is counted there will be a flip of a coin to determine the winners.

Contestants, if you've enjoyed the fun of the football guessing game, express your appreciation to those merchants who made it possible - the sponsors on the contest pages.

Hart Longhorns Tied For District

"Farwell was really fired up, they played scrappy ball the entire game and we were lucky to get the victory," said Lonnie Phillips of Friday night's 21-0 win over Farwell.

"Due to a few mistakes and our capitalizing, we walked off with the victory." Both clubs, he said, made numerous mistakes.

Offensively, Phillips said, Terry Hill played an outstanding game. Elizar Castillo and Freddie Mancias played good games defensively.

"Bovina is a better club than their record would indicate," he said of Friday night's season finale. "They've always played a good game against us -- last year they whipped us, 26-6."

"The district race is still muddled with a three-way tie. All of us (Springlake-Earth and Vega hold identical district records with the Horns) catch our opponents on our home sites. If it's still tied up after Friday night's action, there'll be a coin flip, probably later that night, to determine who will represent the district."

Officials of the district representatives will meet Saturday with Petersburg to determine the sight for the play-offs.

Maintaining Strength For A Power-full Future

A power-full future means increased use of electricity at home and on the job. In November of 1971, we held open house at Jones Station where we were then capable of generating 256,000 kilowatts of electricity. This year we're doubling our capacity with our second unit at the largest electric generating station in West Texas, which brings our total system capability to 2,255,100 kilowatts. We're proud of our power plant and we want you to see it in operation.

MR. AND MRS. HARLEY JOE MALONE

Harley Malone, Jacqueline Mohler Exchange Weeding Vows Nov. 2

Jacqueline Ann Mohler and Harley Joe Malone recited wedding vows Saturday, Nov. 2 in the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Malone of Farmington, N.M., former Hart residents. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David N. Mohler of Bloomfield, N.M.

Marvin McSmith officiated the single ring ceremony before a nuptial setting of white carnations, yellow roses and greenery on either side of a large picture window.

Jeff Nowle, pianist, presented nuptial selections including special numbers, "We've Only Just Begun" and "For All We Know."

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white satin overlaid with Chantilly lace. Fashioned and made by the mother of the bride, the gown featured leg-o-mutton sleeves and high neckline edged with a ruffle of lace. A deep lace ruffle encircled the hemline of the skirt. Tiny pearl buttons accented the back. Her long, flowing train was designed of matching Chantilly lace.

Her lace edged veil of illusion was held by a pearl petaled headpiece. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses, stephanotis and white agapanthus florets with satin streamers cascading from a bride's Bible.

Keeping traditions, the bride "borrowed" a necklace belonging to her mother. An opal and ruby ring, gift of her grandmother, Mrs. John Giacomelli of Bloomfield, was "something old." Her gown was "new" and she wore a blue garter.

Rebecca Kay Moore of Durango, Colo., was the bride's honor attendant. She wore a formal gown of Nile green knit and carried a single long stemmed yellow rose.

Greg Millikin was best man.

A reception was held in the Malone home. The bride's table was laid with white net over lime green. Silver candelabras holding five candles each were placed at each end of the table. Made by the mothers of the newlyweds, the three-tiered wedding cake was accented with touches of light green. Grecian columns divided the tiers and a miniature bride and groom were placed atop the cake.

Presiding at the bride's table were Mary Kay Jones of Bloomfield and Renee Starkey of Farmington.

For a wedding trip to Durango, Colo., the bride chose a beige and brown pant suit with a corsage of yellow roses and green carnations.

The newlyweds are at home in Bloomfield. The bride is a junior at Bloomfield High School. Malone, a 1974 graduate of Bloomfield High School, is employed with Basin Industrial Sales.

CARROLL LANIER

Girlstown Superintendent Speaks At Lions Meet

Carroll LaNier, superintendent of the Whiteface campus of Girlstown, was guest speaker Monday at the luncheon meeting of Hart Lions Club.

Citing Girlstown's founding in 1949, LaNier said the three Girlstown campuses provide care for about 130 girls per year. Whiteface, he said, is licensed to care for 75 girls. Although welfare requirements place the acceptance age from five to 18, LaNier said that there are girls presently at Whiteface campus from three and a half to 18.

Money, always an important factor, is especially short this year due to the weather-plagued crops of the area that contributes so heavily towards the maintenance and support of the home. LaNier stated that the home normally operates "half the year in the red and half in the black" but that this year operation in the red would extend past the normal half-year period.

Organizations also make an important contribution when they "sponsor" a girl for the year (Beta Sigma Phi sororities of Hart have sponsored girls in the past years.)

Sponsoring a girl, he said, may mean only remembrances at birthday and holiday times or it may include other gestures of thoughtfulness and help.

Lions were extended an invitation to hold a future meeting on the campus, dine with the girls and tour the facilities.

Jim Werner, club secretary, announced that the club was ready to submit the school bus for sale with proceeds to go to the tennis court fund. Tennis courts will be built for the use of Hart's young people when sufficient funds are secured.

Approximately 20 members were present Monday. Five guests attended.

Good Ole Days

first as a shellman for three-inch anti-submarine battery.

"We didn't qualify though and had to stay over for second training." His last year was served aboard a mail boat.

Enduring "Hard times," Futrell recalls getting seven cents a pound for cotton and "paying every penny I had to get it picked. We hauled it 18 miles in a wagon to the gin and gave the seed for the ginning."

"I sold maize for 35 cents and paid 15 cents for a sack to put it in. We separated milk and hauled cream 18 miles to the depot and got 16 cents a gallon to ship it to Kansas City."

He recalls groceries were purchased with the money they received from selling eggs for 30 cents a dozen.

Fishing and hunting have been favorite pastimes through the years for Futrell and he points with loving pride to a gun rack where there rests "a Long Tom shotgun I started with."

"I've had a lot of good times with that," he says as he gives a caressing pat to a 30-30 Winchester he's had for 40 years.

Carrie shares his enthusiasm for fishing and proudly he boasts of her ability to untie their board at dock and leap into the boat at the last minute as they take off. "That's pretty good for a great-grandmother," he beams.

Last spring Futrell purchased some baby chicks "for a hobby." The White Leghorns have become pets with the exception of one rooster who "insists on being mean." When it did not help to cut off the rooster's bill, Roy counteracted by attaching a short length of chain to one of the rooster's legs. The chicken moves about in defiance of the chain and can still jump about "kangaroo fashion."

The Futrells enjoy reading and Roy is an ardent believer in the writing of Adelle Davis, believing that proper eating can be vitally important to one's health.

Filled with a zest for living, Futrell maintains an enthusiasm that leaves no room in life for boredom. He can also find something to talk about with friends and neighbors and chuckles as he tells a new acquaintance, "Three things I want to find out about a person - Their religion, occupation and politics. That way I can be sure to stay off their toes."

Hart Horns Blast Steers

By Pat Steiert

Hart Longhorns scored a 21-0 shutout Friday night over the Farwell Steers in a game played in less than desirable weather.

The Horns remain in a tie with Vega and Springlake in the District 3-A title race.

The Maroon Gang defense provided the margin of victory as it capitalized on Steer miscues and stopped offensive drives.

An apparent Steer score was called back when they were charged with clipping following the runback of an interception.

The Maroon Machine bogged down on the wet field but managed over 200 yards offensively. Jimmy Smith tallied two touchdowns for the Horns while Barry George carried for another.

The Horns jarred a Farwell ball carrier loose from the ball at the Farwell 12 on the first play from scrimmage following the opening kickoff. Jimmy Kennedy recovered and the Horns had their first big break.

Longhorn fullback Terry Hill carried to the 5 on first down and Smith smashed in for the TD. Danny George hit the extra point.

Recovering a Steer fumble, George attempted a rollout pass on third down and picked off by Farwell's Mike Goettsch, who raced to the endzone for an apparent touchdown. A clipping penalty pushed them back to their own 38.

The Steers drove to the Hart 40 before the Maroon Gang forced a punt.

After an exchange of punts Hart took over and in 13 plays drove to paydirt behind fine running by Smith, Barry George and Gilbert Rodriguez. The offensive line opened good holes and Barry George capped the drive with a one yard plunge. Danny George's kick was true and Hart led 14-0.

Farwell drove to the Hart 30 where the Horns held until time ran out in the half.

In the third quarter, Kerry George blocked a Farwell punt and the Horns took over at the Steer 17. Hill, Lester Aven, Rodriguez and Smith shared ball carrying duties and Smith smashed in from three yards out for the score. Danny George tacked on the extra point.

Hart recovered another Farwell fumble on the kickoff but could not capitalize on the possession.

On a later possession, the Horn's drove to the Farwell 14 with the aid of a personal foul but fumbled with the Steers recovering on the 16.

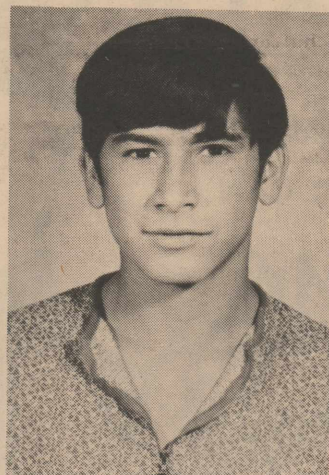

Farwell drove to the 34 where Irons recovered a fumble to end the drive.

The Longhorns had trouble too holding onto the slick football and fumbled on the Farwell 10. The Horns defense pushed the Steers back to te 3 to force a punt. The Longhorns took over at the 27 to run the clock out and clinch their seventh victory. The Horns are 7-2 for the season and 3-1 in district play.
