Texas' Fires Of Freedom Fading Before Mexicans

State Capitol is Burned While Houston's Army Retreats Along The Brazos

BY STAFF CORRESPONDENT
Special Courier Dispatch to the Wichita Falls Record News

NEAR HARRISBURG, April 15, 1836.—President Burnett is in flight, after a narrow escape from Mexican soldiers this afternoon, in which several shots from the Mexican pursuers were fired at him. Harrisburg is in flames and Santa Ana, usurper-dictator of Mexico, is gloating in the destruction tonight of capital city of the Texas republic.

The correspondent is with a little band of men who fled from the capital today as Santa Ana approached, and who stayed behind after President and three of his cabinet officers embarked in a small boat, under fire of the Mexicans and is hiding with them in the moss-hung oak forest two miles from Harrisburg.

In the last dull glow above the ashes tonight of the Texas capital seem to smolder the dying hopes for an Anglo Saxon republic west of Louisiana.

Houston, at the head of the dwindling army of 800 defenders of the republic, is stubbornly retreating somewhere near the Brazos before Mexican forces which greatly outnumber his.

The last hours of President Burnett's final cabinet meeting were plunged into deeper gloom than ever, as no news has come for three days of the army, but every courier from the north brings added details of the bloody outrages by the victory-maddened Mexicans—of the brutal shooting down of nearly 300 soldiers of Colonel Fannie and Colonel Ward at Goliad—soldiers who had been promised safety and release for laying down their arms—and of the killing of defenseless women and children

TRIO ARRESTED IN BOY'S DEATH

Members of Ill-Fated Fishing Party Held For Assault

MARLIN, April 15.—(AP)—Three young men, who had been at liberty on bond and charged with assault with attempt to kill following the disappearance of Claude Glenn, 18, from a fishing party on the river near here recently, were re-arrested late today and placed in the Falls county jail. It was at first thought that Glenn had fallen into the river accidentally, but officers now are working on the theory that he was victim of some sort of frame-up while on the fishing trip. Searching parties for days have been trying to find the body in the river but so far no trace of the missing youth has been found.

The men being held are Bill Hardy and Tice Hardy, brothers, and Fritz Litcher. They had been out under $2,500 bond each, until re-arrested today.

C. R. Glass, county attorney, early tonight said that he had come into possession of new information in connection with the disappearance of Glenn, but declined to divulge its nature.

Lee Sage, a fourth person arrested in the case, is still in jail, never having made bond. He was arrested with the other three men.

The river was dynamited today at the point where Glenn is believed to have disappeared, but no trace of the boy was found.

BANK ROBBER IS GIVEN 15 YEARS IN PEN

San Antonio Bandit Found Guilty of Raiding Institution

FIVE ACCOMPLICES

Early Trials Sought For Others Held For Same Offense

SAN ANTONIO, April 15.—(AP) Fifteen years in prison was the punishment assessed for Kenneth Smith by the jury in 37th district court which late today found him guilty of robbery of the San Antonio national bank 10 days ago.

Smith's counsel filed motion for a new trial soon after the verdict was returned at 4 o'clock. He has until April 30, to file an amended motion if he so desires.

The first of six men indicted for the robbery of 19,133 from the bank to go on trial, Smith attempted no alibi, nor did he take the witness stand for himself. The defense placed several character witnesses on the stand.

Consider Silence

The jurors came into court during the afternoon and asked if they could take into consideration the fact that the defendant had introduced no testimony as to his whereabouts when the robbery was committed. Judge O. M. Fitzhugh said they could, but he again warned them that they must not consider the fact that neither Smith nor any of his alleged associates had testified.

Attorney for the defendant contended that the answer of the court was reversable error but District Attorney Chambers said it not only followed the law but went further in favor of the defendant than the law required in instructing the jury again on the failure of the defendants to testify.

In case of an appeal it will be several months before the case can be reached by the court of criminal appeals, lawyers declared.

Meantime District Attorney Chambers will make every effort to have the cases against the other five defendants set and disposed of before the vacation season for Bexar county arrives in June.

Five Accomplices

The other defendants are Jack Smith, brother of Kenneth; Otis Yeager, Joe Holbrecht, Earl Collins and Elmer Williams.

Attorneys agreed that Smith is entitled to bail under the verdict. District Attorney Chambers said that the statutes provide that where the penalty is fixed at fifteen years or less he may be released under bond. Chambers said he would insist that a good bond be given and that he believed Smith could give an approximately heavy bail.

Smith took the verdict calmly. His mother sat beside him and wiped tears from her eyes when the word came that the jury was coming in, but she soon maintained composure when the verdict was held.

Hell Hath No Fury Like A Woman Chided

Laughing at Stricken Girl May Put Youth In Prison

HOUSTON, April 15.—A tall young man laughed at a woman as she stepped from a car and fell to the ground.

Perhaps it was not intended as ridiculous, but the person laughed at was sorely offended. She approached the tall man, eyed him closely, and vowed to herself never to forget his face.

Mrs. Anna L. Peterson of 1704 Sawyer Street, pointed a finger of scorn at Jack Cooper at the police station today and told officers investigating safe-cracking and burglary charges against Cooper that he was the man who laughed at her as she fell to the ground near a store recently burglarized.

The police contend that two of Cooper's pals were busy cracking a safe inside the store at the very moment Mrs. Peterson was being laughed at. Cooper says they are mistaken.

At any rate, Mrs. Peterson is regarded as an important witness in the prosecution of a "knob-knocking" charge against Cooper and two companions, whose names have not yet been revealed.

CHRISTIANS TO BUILD ANNEX

$75,000 May Be Spent On 3-Story Home For Church

The building of at least a three-story annex to the First Christian church at Tenth and Travis streets became an assured fact last night when the official board of that church unanimously voted to recommend improvements of that nature costing between $60,000 and $75,000.

"The rapid and yet steady growth of the Sunday school," said one of the board in discussing the matter last night, "the constantly increasing congregations under the leadership of our pastor, Dr. Bash, and development of the activities of the church, especially among the young people, demand that adequate building facilities be provided for our membership."

A committee was appointed by Harry Hines, chairman of the official board, to study plans and make recommendations to the board at the earliest possible date and actual work will commence during the summer.

Certain members of the board are understood to have had a disagreement with Dr. Blayney during the meeting today, the exact nature of which was not divulged.

Sheriff Gets Still; Makes Two Arrests

Two men are under arrest and their 100-gallon still and some 16 gallons of whiskey confiscated as the result of a raid by Sheriff Fred Smith and two deputies on dairy farm about six miles from urkburnett in north Wichita county at about 10 o'clock Thursday night. Charges of manufacturing intoxicating liquors will be filed against both of the men today, it was said Thursday night.

The still was found inside a large oil tank which was apparently in use for storage purposes. Sheriff Smith and his two deputies, after their discovery, lowered themselves into the tank at the end of a rope and laid there in wait for someone to appear. After about an hour's wait two men came down after them, and the arrests were made.

FIGURES SHOW FIRST 5 YEARS ARE THE WORST

One Out of Every Three Marriages Fail In Wichita County

1165 LICENSES ISSUED

Two Women Sue to One Man In Martial Break Ups

There were 402 divorce decrees granted in the courts of Wichita county during 1925, figures compiled for the United States census bureau by District Clerk O. F. Kerr and compiled Thursday, indicate. This, against 1,165 marriages issued in the same period, shows an average of more than one out of every three marriages ending in estrangement.

The figures show that out of the 402 divorces granted, 40 went to couples who had been married less than one year; 133 were granted to couples who had been married more than one year and less than five, 113 went to husbands and wives married more than five years and less than ten, while a total of 116 divorces were allowed where marriages had already lasted more than ten years.

Wives Get the Most.

Of the 402 divorces granted, 288 were given wives upon their complaints against erring husbands; 124 were granted husbands. There were no contested divorces granted, the Wichita Falls court holding an unspotted record of returning no divorces when there is a contest in this regard.

Cruelty leads in the list of causes for which the divorces were allowed, husbands getting 50 decrees due to inhumane treatment by their wives, and wives getting 204 divorce decrees in cases where the husband was at fault. Infidelity is second in the list, 87 divorces being granted with this as a basis, husbands being granted 41 decrees and wives 46 decrees in cases wherein adultery was made the fault of the defendant mate.

Abandonment Is Third.

Abandonment comes third in the list of causes, 83 divorces being granted for this reason. Of the 53, husbands received 21 for abandonment by their wives, and wives received 32 by reason of abandonment and non-support by their husbands.

Deceit prior to marriage is named as a cause in one divorce granted during the year, and five others were granted to wives because of felonies committed by the husbands which demanded their incarceration in state prisons.

Those are the cold figures of the report. It, however, is not without its human side and, perhaps, its comical, or tragic angles. Take the instance of the woman married in 1891 who was granted a divorce in 1925 because her husband would not support her; or the case of the wife who was granted a divorce after more than 20 years of married life because of "excessive and intolerable" jealousy on the part of her husband. Then there is the husband who married in 1899 and discovered in 1925 that he was enduring "cruel and inhumane" treatment at the hands of his spouse. His plea was heard in the divorce court and the decree granted. Infidelity in one instance is made the basis for a divorce decree granted a wife married to the defendant in the suit in 1899.

The figures indicate an increase in divorces granted over the figures of the two prior years, this increase, however, being apparently no larger than the proportionate increase in population. In 1923 there were 294 divorces granted and 1,123 marriages; in 1924 there were 308 divorces and 1,091 marriages.

WATCHFULLY WAIT

Dan and "Ma" Promise Something New in Politics

AUSTIN, April 15.—(AP)—The waiting game is being played by the major candidates in the Texas gubernatorial race this year. Something new in politics is promised by both Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, seeking re-election and Attorney General Dan Moody and former Governor James E. Ferguson, husband of the woman chief executive.

BULLET FINDS WRONG ANGLE

PEORIA, Ill., April 15.—Believed to be the unintentional target of an irate husband's automatic, Harold Hitchcock, 19-year-old "boy who liked parties," is dead, shot through the head, while the pal, Maxie Meyers, unscathed by the volley, is held for the coroner's jury. The husband, Andrew Headley, is held in connection with the murder, and his girl wife, Hildreth is sobbing in her cell, denouncing the roadhouse Charleston that had enabled "sweetie" to win her from "hubbie."

Meyers and Hitchcock drove to the door of a little suburban bungalow at midnight. Hildreth had laughingly called the place "home." A honk of the horn drew not only the girl but her husband from the door. Hildreth sprang into the car, waving "bye-bye" to Headley.

But as the car turned, Headley jumped on the running board, seizing his wife's hat and pleading with her to remain with their child. Hildreth refused.

"I'll come for my clothes in the morning. Have them ready," she said, while Meyers roughly pushed Headley from the machine. The car sped away. An automatic barked, sending three quick shots after the car. The first struck Hitchcock in the shoulder, the second tore into his brain, and the third spattered through the windshield between "sweetie" and his party-bound companion.

Hitchcock died an hour later in a local hospital.

Bring On Your Bathing Beauties, Is Cry Following First Decision To Select "Miss Wichita" Here

First announcements Thursday morning that Wichita Falls was to have a representative in the annual bathing girl revue and beauty contest at Galveston May 15-17 of this year evoked more than casual interest. Several inquiries were received yesterday for information concerning the contest it is proposed to stage here, and it is expected that when final details of this are worked out the city will provide an unusually large number of entrants.

As it now stands, an elimination contest will be arranged here in the near future, from which at least one and possibly two prize winners will be selected. These will be the official representatives of Wichita Falls at the Galveston revue to be held May 15-17. They will make the Galveston trip with all expenses paid and will be provided with suitable prizes as a reward for their laurels they have won.

At the Galveston revue they will compete with entrants from practically all the other important points in Texas, and winner in this will go to the Atlantic City pageant later in the summer where "Miss America" will ultimately be selected.

Detailed plans for the elimination contest here are now being worked out and will be announced in a few days.

The project has the endorsement of the chamber of commerce and of Mayor R. E. Shepherd.

Washington Police Forbid Children To Picket White House

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP) Children picketers who came to Washington to plead the cause of the textile strikers at Passaic, N. J., with President Coolidge failed to see him, and, in addition, they were forbidden by police to parade with placards around the White House grounds. Accepting events stoically they returned to Passaic late in the day.

Under the leadership of Carl Trocola, of the strikers' united front committee, the children, one boy and five girls ranging in age from four to 12 years, descended upon the executive offices with placards setting forth the hardships imposed upon them by the strike. The youngsters were from two families and their mothers were among the five adults accompanying them.

HELD AS FORGER.

Son of Dalworth Postmaster Placed in Fort Worth Jail.

FORT WORTH, April 15.—(AP)—R. D. C. Armstrong, son of the postmaster at Dalworth Park, midway between Dallas and Fort Worth, was charged before U. S. Commissioner Gibson with forging his father's name to seven drafts ranging from $75 to $250 following his arrest late yesterday by federal officers.

The officers recovered $500 in cash and two diamond rings which were being worn by a young woman with Armstrong at the time of his arrest.

In default of $1,000 bond, Armstrong was remanded to the Tarrant county jail to await action of the Dallas county grand jury.

She Understood Money and The Court Did Too

She couldn't speak English—that is, not much, but she was suing her husband for divorce nevertheless. And when the case was being heard before Judge H. R. Wilson in the thirtieth district court Thursday they had to use an interpreter for her.

She was French clear through and had been married about a year—a marriage that hadn't turned out happily. A few days after the marriage her husband had borrowed $1,500 from her, it seemed, and had never returned it. There were other difficulties, also.

Seriously, Judge Wilson questioned her through the interpreter.

"Just how soon after you were married did you husband start borrowing this money?"

Money, it is claimed, is "money" in every tongue. A sort of a la Esperanto term, so to speak.

The interpreter never had a chance to frame the question. She answered—

"Tout Suite."

The court understood and the divorce was granted.

ASK COOLIDGE TO KICK OUT GEN. ANDREWS

Suggestion That Beer Be Put On Sale, Is Reason

DRYS ARE ACTIVE

Head of Enforcement Division of Treasury Under Fire

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 15.—(AP)—The Anti-Saloon league of Kentucky "will demand the president" to remove Lincoln, Andrews' assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement Dr. A. C. Graham, superintendent of the state league notified national league officers today.

General Andrews' proposal that non-intoxicating beer be put on the market was given as the reason for the action, Dr. Graham said he had received numerous letters, telegrams and telephone messages demanding that the Kentucky league act at once in seeking the removal of General Andrews.

Dr. Graham's telegram sent to Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel and F. Scott McBride, national superintendent said:

"Kentucky drys will demand president remove Andrews. Wire your reaction."

ANDREWS SUGGESTS BEER BE PUT ON SALE.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP)—The wets wound up the presentation of their case today before the senate liquor committee by calling upon members of the Anti-Volstead bloc of the house, whose arguments were interspersed with another intimate discussion of distilling processes between Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, and prohibition enforcement officials.

The drys wil begin tomorrow their carefully planned reply to the assaults of their opponents. It is expected to go on late today, but Senator Reed blocked the effort for an afternoon session made by the only other member of the committee present—Senator Harreld, republican, Oklahoma.

Another development of the day was a formal statement by Assistant Secretary Andrews of the treasury, in charge of prohibition enforcement that he was advocating no change in the prohibition law.

He explained that his opinion given before the senate committee yesterday that the sale of non-intoxicating beer for consumption in the homes or hotels with meals might aid law enforcement was in response to a hypothetical question.

"It is my task to enforce the law as written," he said, "and to that end I am giving my sole attention."

"HER MAN"

--By Beatrice Burton--

READ THIS FIRST:

SYLVIA STARR has been engaged to RANDALL PHELPS for a year when he asks her to free him because he's fallen in love with her chum, FAY SHIRLEY.

Heartbroken, Sylvia gives him up, to the great satisfaction of her AUNT AGONY, the shrewd old maid who brought her up. Aunt Agony says Ranny is a good-for-nothing, and will never be true to any woman for very long. Her opinion of him seems to be correct, too. For Ranny and Fay break their engagement, and he marries Sylvia after all!

But after they are married he seems to fall under Fay's flirtatious spell a second time. And he gambles, and drinks, and finally Sylvia has to give music lessons to help keep a roof over their heads.

But when she breaks the news to Ranny that she's going to have a baby, he miraculously turns over a new leaf and behaves himself for a time. And Fay promptly announces her engagement to EDDIE CARTER a former sweetheart of hers!

Soon after the birth of JUNIOR, the baby, Ranny goes back to his old habits, and Sylvia hardly ever sees him except when he comes home to sleep or change his clothes and go out again. He has a love affair with a little flapper, and another one with JANE BRACKETT, a grass widow who works for FATHER PHELPS' real estate company. He says that he admires a woman who wants a career, and Sylvia decides that she may as well have a career, too. So she goes on with her singing lessons, and one afternoon sings at a tea given by MOTHER PHELPS. But Ranny is furious with her for singing in public. He hates the idea of her having a career. Shortly after that he tells Sylvia that Mrs. Brackett is trying to marry an elderly millionaire, and he decides to go away on a fishing trip with his card-playing cronies. Sylvia writes a song called "When Everything's Said" and a song publisher accepts it. The baby does not get along in the hot little flat, and SARAH WILK, a friend of Aunt Agony's, offers Sylvia her house while she's away at her farm. But Ranny, who is jealous of Sarah's bachelor brother, PETER, won't let her take the house.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER XXXVI

On the first Saturday of that sweltering August, Ranny and his cronies left for their fishing trip in the cool north woods.

They were going to rough it, so Ranny said, in Eddie Carter's camp on the bank of Lake Muskogee.

But as Sylvia watched him pack his poker chips and four bottles of Bourbon whiskey, in his kitbag, she very much doubted that there would be any fishing done by that crowd in the next ten days!

Still the rest would do Ranny good. He said he was dead tired and needed a change, but his looks belied his words, for he had never seemed so well and handsome as he did now, in his khaki clothes and hip boots.

"Dear me, Ranny, I hope there aren't any wood nymphs up where you're going," she said to him, half laughing and half wistful. "If there are they'll fall in love with you for sure! You're such a handsome critter!"

"I hope I won't see a woman all the time I'm gone," he answered grimly. Since the end of the Jane Brackett affair he had been most cynical about woman-kind.

At the last minute, while Eddie Carter was wildly tooting his automobile horn down in the street, Ranny took Sylvia in his arms.

"So long, Sylvy," he said, and kissed her. "Be a good girl while I'm gone."

He paused a moment, before he finished what he was going to say: "You couldn't let me take a hundred dollars, could you? We may play a little poker up in the woods and I'm a bit short."

Before the words were out of his mouth she was in the bedroom, stripping off one of the five hundred dollar bills she had taken out of the bank only that morning.

She was going to use part of that money to take Aunt Agony and the baby to the little brown inn, thirty

Home Coming Member Honoree At Party

Harvard Division 279 of the L. A. to O. R. C. honored a home coming member, Mrs. J. S. Perdew who is moving back to Wichita Falls from California, also her niece, Mrs. Amos Morris, with a lovely birthday party at the home of Mrs. W. M. Lankford on Collins, Thursday afternoon.

A few old friends assisted members of the division in making the event one long to be remembered as an unusually happy one.

The Lankford home was beautifully decorated for the occasion in potted plants, the dining room being especially pretty with streamers of pink and white crepe paper with the birthday cake with trimmings of lighted candles, forming the centerpiece on the dining table.

Tables were arranged for bridge and "42," and kodak pictures were taken.

Preceding the serving of refreshments, Mrs. A. H. Stewart, president of the order, presented Mrs. J. S. Perdew the honorees.

An ice course was served to Mr. and Mrs. Perdew, and Mesdames Amos Morris, A. E. Miller, G. W. Corkhill, D. L. Woodward, E. B. Ragland, R. E. L. Yates, O. C. Literature And Music Depts. In Forum Program

Members of the Woman's Forum enjoyed an instructive and delightful program in the Wesley Girls' class room of the First Methodist church Thursday afternoon when the literature and music departments held a combined session

A feature of the program was the presentation of Mrs. Charles William Wallace, well known Shakespegrean student and lecturer, in an interpretation of Henry VIII. Mrs. Wallace, whose talent and ability along this line is well known and appreciated by Wichita Falls club women, gave a most interesting interpretation of the pageant play beginning prologue and following the eventful life of one of the best known kings of history, with precision, through each chapter and scene.

Mrs. Wallace Reads

The construction, theme, plot and most famous scenes and lines of the play were brought out, as Mrs. Wallace read and interspersed her reading with explanations. The audience was made to feel the injustice meted out to the unfortunate Queen Catherine, whom Henry divorced as she portrayed the various characters and wonderful stage settings for the famous scenes. The entire interpretation proved especially interesting.

Misses Juel Ray accompanied by Mrs. F. R. Collard, gave two vocal numbers as did Miss Mae Baker, who was accompanied by Mrs. Alva Willgus.

Mrs. Langford Speaks

Mrs. P. P. Langford, chairman of the literary department, spoke a few words of appreciation to members of the forum for the splendid attention all lectures, readings and other forms of instruction and entertainment offered by the department has received while she has been head of the department, and bespoke the thought that the same courtesies will be extended at the program next year. Mrs. Willgus, chairman of the music department, spoke a few words in regard to regard to the work of her department the work of her department for next year and plans she has been thinking about for nevt year's programs.

The meeting Thursday is the last open meeting for the two departments, and a large number were in attendance.

A WOMAN'S VIEW OF LIFE

THERE is a superstition that women are not as capable in the roles of philosophers as are men. Yet women cannot be said to be more confused by the intricate machinery of life than men.

It was a woman who summed up the history of all of us by summing up her own:

"At the beginning, strength, ardour, ignorance.

"Midway, use of strength, realization of desire, science of life, disgust of action, fatigue, doubt, apathy.

"Then comes the tomb which offers itself as a couch to receive the pilgrim wearied of his day's work. Oh, Providence!"

The woman wrote under the mannish nom de plume of George Sand. Possibly these words were her credo: "We cannot tear a single page out of our life, but we can throw the whole book upon the fire."

George Sand believed that happiness lies in the consciousness we have of it, and by no means in the way the future keeps its promises.

"The more I think of it," she wrote, "the more I see it is too late to dare to be unhappy.

"We can no longer look at life seriously—at least the life which is before us; for the life we left behind us, we have believed in, it has existed.

"Have you recapitulated to yourself the anxious, painful journey which conducts us from the cradle to the grave? I know the journey differs according to the man, and there are no two human existences absolutely similar, any more than there are two leaves precisely alike in the forest. But one general view may be drawn from all which will embrace the thousand details of which the diversity may be composed.

"If we only regard the organic system of man, we may say he is always the same, for as to his physical development, he has always one head, two arms, etc., and his intellectual system is always composed of the same passions—pride, anger, licentiousness, the desire for good and evil in divers proportions—and still always dividing and disputing the domination of man, entering into him and making his moral life, like the nervous and arterial system composing his material life."

"When man is overwhelmed by suffering he knows not how to look forward to fresh misfortune though imminent and inevitable; he has no longer the strength to add by imagination future evil to represent ill," she opined.

When the evil happens he is crushed as by an unexpected catastrophe. Death itself, that fatal, that unavoidable denouncement of existence, takes nearly all men by surprise as an injustice of heaven, as a caprice of destiny."

BRACHFIELD IN THE RUNNING

AS PREDICTED by this newspaper, ex-Senator Charles L. Brachfield of Henderson, Rusk county, will be a candidate for attorney general of Texas, subject to the democratic primary. Senator Brachfield served four years as county judge, eight years in the state senate and six years on the district court bench and the record shows that he retired voluntary from all three positions.

He was born in Mississippi and came to Texas when he was a year old. He is a university product, was a member of the state council of defense during the war and has been prominent in Texas fraternal order circles. In his announcement this Texan from the piney woods failed to make connection with the coat tail of a gubernatorial candidate. According to political prophets, State Chairman Arthur C. Eidman and the Hon. Claude Pollard will jump into the political pond in the near future, as seekers for the office now held by Attorney General Dan Moody.

Dallas has four and the other 249 counties will have four candidates if the prophets are correct readers of the political heavens.

HEROES OF OLD

AFTER May 1 in Texas, Confederate pensioners will be paid at the rate of $45.00 each for the quarter, being the highest amount ever paid to Confederate soldiers and sailors under the Texas Pension act. These veterans fought for their flag and their convictions in the long ago. They were the heroes of the hour under southern skies. They risked all and lost all. A hero is not a hero when he is very old and his pocketbook is lean.

WALSH OF MONTANA

SENATOR THOMAS J. WALSH of Montana is said to be one of the great lawyers of America and ever a stickler for the constitution and the law. He is a democrat, life long, but he always bows to the law and the facts. He is for Senator Brookhart of Iowa in his election contest with Daniel E. Steck, democrat.

Senator Walsh insists that under the Iowa law 1,34 more votes should be allowed to Brookhart than the majority of the senate election committee had credited him with. It requires a high order of courage or independence in American politics for a leader of the Walsh type to cut loose from his own party for a republican when a committee on elections has awarded the seat involved in the contest to a democrat.

Senator Wheeler of Montana, the colleague of Senator Walsh, followed the flag of his chief. Walsh is the leader of the democrats of Montana. He has been the leader of the party for more than 20 years. He is serving his third term as United States senator.

He is a dry dry, a leading layman of the Catholic church and in the battle for the ratification for the League of Nations, he stood with Woodrow Wilson from start to finish and since the passing of the war president, he has been the consistent champion of the League and its principles.

He may never go higher than the senate, but next to Borah of Idaho, he ranks as the most powerful leader in the upper house of the American congress. There was a time when the giants came from the east and the old south. Now the mountain states of the west send men to the senate who win leading places in the public picture gallery.

"WE WANT BEER"

LEADERS of organized labor descended on the senate prohibition committee one day last week for a demand for legalized beer. These officials of the American Federation of Labor and affiliated organizations declared the four million men for whom they spoke wanted the Volstead act declared amended so as to end present intolerable conditions under statutory prohibition.

Speaking for William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, William Roberts challenged the drys to join in a movement for a referendum on the subject. He expressed a belief that those who opposed light wines and beers realized that a referendum would declare in favor of the modification of the Volstead act.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, is a leading citizen of Ohio. He was born a republican, he calls himself a republican, but when it comes to the demands of labor, he votes for the friends of labor and advises his followers to vote for the friends of labor.

Moreover, he is a strict church man, he is said to be a leading Baptist layman, and he is a power in the labor circles of America. If the officials of the big labor organizations know whereof they speak, organized labor is moist, and longs for the return of beer "but not the saloon."

BUCKNER AND HIS FIGURES

UNITED STATES DISTRICT ATTORNEY EMORY C. BUCKNER of New York, startled the members of the senate committee investigating prohibition, when he submitted his estimate of costs for adequantly enforcing prohibition laws in the state of New York. He told the committee in Washington that it would require $75,000,000 and 150 federal judges to properly enforce the existing prohibition law in the southern district of New York alone.

He declared it is highly speculative as to whether there is any probability of the repeal of the existing law known as the Volstead act in view of the Americans reluctant to admit having made an error. Is the district attorney of the belief that the Volstead act is an error?

HUDSPETH AS A PROPHET

CONGRESSMAN CLAUDE B. HUDSPETH is in Texas. He predicts the democrats will win sufficient seats in the next election to have a majority in the senate and that they stand an excellent chance to obtain a slight majority in the house. Congressman Hudspeth was a cow boy before he became a federal lawmaker. But why count the chickens before they are hatched.

EARTH

A Fascinating New Story of Romance

By ARTHUR B. REEVE

The third day was much like the other two. We plowed all morning, ate our lunch, and started the afternoon's plowing. I was tired looking at dirt. I hated red shale with a bitter hatred. I saw red at the very idea of the growth of the soil.

But things went a little faster. For that I was thankful. The furrows were quite a bit shorter in length and I had the satisfaction of seeing a new one started much more often.

That day we had no visit from Jasper Saxton. I thought perhaps he was tired watching us make such industrious fools of ourselves.

I was reaching the end of my patience. To show how I felt about this plowing, I kicked the old plowshare maliciously as I went by it. I was childish, I knew, but it gave me some satisfaction.

The end of the fourth day of plowing found us with many of the acres of the meadow ready for planting.

"Are you going to rest any before you start to plant, Craig?" I asked desperately.

I looked at my blistered palms and felt the tired, sore spots over my shoulders, all over my back. The furrows were going quickly, now compared to the start. Every oblong was decreasing in size fast. Each day Craig was getting nearer and nearer to completing the task he had set himself to do.

Craig was just as zealous just as painstaking and serene.

It was somewhat after lunch time when plowing was in order for the afternoon performance that we saw old Jasper Saxton stop again. He had driven by nearly every day.

Jasper sidled over toward us. "By golly! I'd like to have had men working for me the way the two of ye work!" He turned to Craig at length and asked sort of casually, "Be ye going ter finish the whole durned meadows?"

Craig nodded. "Yes, I guess so."

"Then what will ye do? What will yer next exercise be? Will yer tear down the old house yourself, maybe?"

"Maybe." Kennedy shrugged.

I smiled, but to me the old man's inquisitiveness and interest were only natural. Probably he was thinking if he had showed the same ambition as we were exhibiting the last few days he would have had money enough to keep his old home and go to Florida, too.

Kennedy looked at the old man's face sharply. "I thought you were going away, Mr. Saxton."

Jasper Saxton seemed ill at ease. His manner diverted me for the moment from the plowing. "It 'akes longer to get things settled up than I thought. I'll be goin' in a few days, now." As I regarded him now more closely, I noticed he was even whiter, thinner than when we had first seen him hanging over the fence the day Craig started negotiations for the old Meadowbrook Farm.

Then, too, I noticed he was constantly expectorating. That was a new habit I hadn't seen before. What was the matter with the old codger? Was he getting homesick? There was no evidence of banter in his tone today. It was grieved, peevish.

Looking over he remarked slowly, "I calc'late another day an' ye'll be finished with this meadow." He was looking away, his eyes squinted up shrewdly, deep crows' feet about them.

"Just about—one more day." Craig said it slowly to the haggard-faced old man.

Jasper Saxton turned to go away, without even a goodby. He plodded over to his flivver.

"Durned fool! Durned fool! Durned fool!" I heard him muttering under his breath. I wondered was it Kennedy he meant or himself?

I was tired that night, tired and hopeful. Only one more day and that would be over, anyhow. I wanted to go to bed early and be fresh for the morrow's work.

But Craig was alert, active, full of nervous energy. He could not even sit still in any chair for long. By this time we had all the rooms on the first floor cleaned. He roamed the length of the house and back again.

It was getting late. "I'm going to bed, Craig."

"Not yet, Walter, please. I feel like talking, having company. Stay up with me."

I marveled at his stamina. There must be some good in plowing for him. I sat back and resting in the one big comfortable rocking chair, silent. Craig was pacing quietly back and forth in the room. It was getting late, near midnight.

Suddenly I was aware in my half drowse that there was a noise outside.

"What's that?" I startled. "Did you hear it?"

Bedlam had broken loose with the dogs. They were barking furiously, deep, low, long barks. Now they were sharp, snappy barks that indicated the sight of their quarry.

Craig had thrust a gun in my hand. We dashed out of the house, never stopping for hats or coats. Ahead we plunged in the blackness over to where the sounds of the dogs indicated trouble. In the darkness I could make out someone running desperately, stumbling over the furrows. Who was it?

"Go back—go back—I tell ye!" We were still too far away to recognize either the voice or the form. We ran. Now I could see it was a man, that he was getting winded. Blindly stumbling, he had used up all his strength.

Out of the darkness, out of the plowed meadow came a voice, imploring, "call off them dogs, Kennedy!"

Craig called. "Down, Raffles! Here Sherlock!" the dogs obeyed, crouched. As we came up to the man, he sank to the ground exhausted. There, before us, was Saxton, haggard, winded, all in.

"What's the matter old man?" asked Kennedy. "Did you leave anything here?"

Saxton's head dropped low on his breast. He was silent. Then with an effort he raised his eyes to Craig's face. The whiteness, the pallor stood out in the circle of light from my flash.

Kennedy leaned over and raised the tottering old man to his feet, still weak, quivering with fear. His face wore a hunted, haunted look. Kennedy half dragged, half led him toward the barnyard and house.

"Kennedy!" old Jasper Saxton peered forward, wringing the words from his chattering teeth. "Every day you are getting closer and closer to the middle of that meadow!"

Then there was a silence in the darkness, a silence charged with tragedy, with crime.

"You know—and you know I know!"

Another pause.

"Kennedy—it's in the earth!"

In the shadow of the shed he turned trembling, shuddering, away from the meadow. I kept the dogs quiet. A train, the midnight "Owl" whistled shrilly. The old man jumped as if he had been on the track, chattering.

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

Are You Tired of Living With Uncongenial Relations?—Are You Faced With the Dread Mother-in-Law Problem?—Are You Discontented With Housework and Baby-Tending?—Try the Simple Remedy of Separation.

Did you ever consider how little intelligence we display in dealing with the spiritual side of life, and how much unnecessary fret and worry we endure just because we are too stupid to apply the perfectly obvious remedy to the ills from which we suffer and which rob us of all peace and happiness?

We are clever enough about material things. We can find a way out when things are wrong there. We don't torture our bodies. When we get a pebble in our shoe we don't go limping along in agony, mile after mile. We sit down and take it out, and pursue our journey in comfort. When we have a door that creaks, we don't let it rasp our nerves until we are ready to scream. We get out the oil can and apply a little lubricant where it is most needed.

But when it comes to the spiritual side of our daily lives, the things that make us far more wretched than any physical discomfort could do, we don't even attempt to remedy the situation. We just submit and suffer. We don't even try to save ourselves. Take family life as a vived example of this.

Undoubtedly, the greatest source of misery in the world is the enforced living together of uncongenial persons. There are children who have not one thought or taste or desire in common with their parents. There are brothers and sisters who are born antagonistic to each other.

But because these people belong to the same family, they often go on living together for thirty or forty or fifty years, destroying each other's happiness, bringing out all that is worst in each other ,hating each other more day by day.

It seems incredible, but there are thousands of men and women who are thus unnecessarily martyrized just because they have not enough intelligence to perceive that the thing for them to do is to part and go as far as possible from those who make their lives a torment to them.

At close range, mother's nagging drives Mary frantic. Fifty miles away she can see it in its true light as a perverted expression of love. Sharing the same room, Jenny and Mary have their backs up perpetually and spit and claw at each other like two cats. But when they marry and go their different ways they feel an affection for each other that grows deeper the more they are parted. And John and Tom, who fought all through their boyhood, never realy appreciate each other until one settles in California and the other in New York, and they meet once a year on Mother's Day or Old-Home Week.

Separation! What a simple remedy for a terrible evil!

What folly for us to have all the peace and happiness of our lives destroyed by living with those who rub our fur the wrong way and keep us irritated and ill-tempered, when all that is needed is for us just to have enough sense to part!

And there is the terrible mother-in-law problem that wrecks more homes than drink or gambling or immorality. Why can't we solve that by the simple expedient of never letting it exist? Experience has shown that not once in a hundred thousand times can a mother-in-law and a daughter-in-law live in peace and harmony under the same roof. Almost invariably they make each other perfectly miserable with their jealousies and suspicions, and they tear to pieces the poor men over whom they fight like snarling dogs over a bone.

Everybody knows this. Everybody has seen it happen over and over again. Everybody is perfectly aware that there is not other bitterness equal to that engendered by a family feud. Yet otherwise sane people deliberately precipitate a catastrophe which they might perfectly well avoid by not attempting to live together.

SETTING DOLLARS

See that old fellow? Once he had
A half a million, so they say!
And yet it somehow slipped away.
It wasn't that the times were bad,
But that's the way it is with money—
It's rather funny.

The books are full of good advice
About the way to gather gold,
But mighty seldom we are told
To put it safely on the ice.
The way to do, if you can do it,
Is hanging to it.

The more we get the more we spend
And yet the more we ought to save;
But men are in a pauper's grave
Who were too quick to lose or lend.
Yes, lots of men are good at reaping,
But few at keeping.

Whatever profit you may take,
Whatever wages you may get,
The thing that keeps you out of debt
Is not the money that you make,
But dollars that you set, my brothers,
To hatch out others.

What Do You Know About It?

Daily Science Six

1. What causes an eclipse of the sun?
2. What causes an eclipse of the moon?
3. Are the intervals of time between total eclipses of the sun always of the same lengths?
4. When the sun passes between us and another star or body is that an eclipse?
5. Does any heavenly body beside the moon ever eclipse the sun?
6. Does the earth cast a shadow?

Answers to these question in tomorrow's Record News.

Hi, Ho!

Until very recently an eclipse of the sun caused such superstitious awe that men feared the sun would be extinguished forever or that it meant the gods were angry. Battles have been postponed and armies have deserted on account of eclipses. The first eclipse ever recorded in history was one twenty-two hundred years before Christ that took place in China. Two court astronomers, Hi and Ho by name, were supposed, by firing off arrows and beating drums, and the like, to frighten away the mighty dragon which threatened to swallow the Lord of Day. As it happened the astronomers got drunk and consequently failed to prevent the eclipse. Or at least they pleaded intoxication as an excuse. But their heads were cut off all the same.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions:

1. Baltimore was the first city to adopt a system of tunnels for its railroads.
2. The longest tunnel in the world is the Simplon tunnel, 12 and a half miles long.
3. The Canadian Pacific's tunnel between Hector and Fields, British Columbia, spirals upwards for 3,000 feet in order to reduce the steep grade on Kicking Horse pass.
4. The tunnel at the highest altitude is the trans-Andine tunnel, 10,486 feet above sea level on the Valparaiso-Buenos Aires railroad.
5. New York has the longest system of tunnels beneath it.

The longest under water tunnel in this country is the Pennsylvania railroad tunnel between Manhattan and New Jersey, under the Hudson, 6,118 feet long.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE

ARIES

Today's planetary aspects do not reveal much of an encouraging nature or furnish much material on which to build up hopes. They are more adverse than favorable and counsel abstention from all work involving new enterprise or change. It will be found to be an occasion when it is wise to let well enough alone and be content to report progress, rather than strive to force progress, or betterment of conditions. The influences that prevail are liable to affect the disposition in a rather unfavorable way and efforts will have to be exerted to counteract an atmosphere of pessimism and misgivings not only for yourself, but of others. It is an inauspicious occasion for travel.

Children born today will enjoy, in their early years, exuberant health and great strength. The free exercise of the latter must be regulated in order to avoid abuse. Indications point to exceptional physical conditions. At the same time they presage accident, unless all due precautions are taken. In disposition, these children will not be very generous in their treatment of others, and will always look down on those of their associates who do not happen to be so physically well endowed as themselves. As they grow up, they will realize that strength, by itself, is not a great asset and they will then seek and acquire that mental and moral equipment which is so necessary to enduring success.

If today is your birthday, you are rather ponderous, unalert and slow to grasp a problem. On the other hand, you are plodding and painstaking. Figuratively speaking, you are a human tortoise as compared with many of your rivals, who are human hares. There is nothing spectacular in your method but given your "make-up," you are destined to out-distance many who are brilliant and showy. You, at all times are dependable, slow to make friends but once you become a friend, you remain one for all time. Your characteristics may not fit you to fill any commanding position but you are without an equal in a subordinate capacity, where thoroughness, conscientiousness, and a painstaking mastery of detail are required.

Your home life, especially if mated with one born in June or October, should be ideally happy, as such a combination will furnish 100 per cent effectiveness.

Her Husband: Cigaret paper would be nice, I think, and while you're thinking it over, I'll just run out and—

Mrs. Bustle: You'll stay right here. There's a lot of work for you to do. I want you to hang that picture of mother over the fireplace.

Her Husband: I'll hang your mother anywhere you say. But really, I must go—

Mrs. Bustle: You're going to scrub! Pick up that mop!

Her Husband: But I don't know anything about scrubbing! I might make a mistake—a terrible mistake—I might scrub the wrong thing, or something!

Mrs. Bustle: Nonsense! You've often told me that you made the scrub team at college. Pick up that mop! Now wring it!

Her Husband: I don't see any bell on it.

Mrs. Bustle: Squeeze it, dummy!

Her Husband: I've already squeezed it until there's no more juice in it.

Her Husband: Yes, dear. (To himself) And I'm going to beat it for the club, just as soon as I get the chance!

ELECTRA URGES CROP OF FEED

Curtailment of Cotton Planting And More Hogs Suggested

ELECTRA, April 15.—Directors of the Electra chamber of commerce and agriculture at the Tuesday luncheon meeting went on record as favoring an aggressive campaign throughout Electra's trade area to limit acreage in cotton and to increase feed crop acreage. This action was in line with the general policy of the chamber in promoting diversified farming. The agricultural committee was instructed to work out, in co-operation with the county agent and representative farmers of this district, a practical program of diversified crop system with the view of increasing the amount of livestock on our farms.

The fact that the nation's carryover of cotton from 1925 is approximately 40 per cent of the 1925 crop has led local business men to feel that another cotton crop as large as that of last year would man extremely low prices for cotton and result in business congestion in all lines. At present there is a scarcity in this section of hogs, dairy and poultry products. It is planned to emphasize the necessity of increasing products in those lines in which a scarcity exists and to decrease the production of cotton of which there is at present a surplus.

OLYMPIC BILL HAS THE GOODS

Surprises Follow Fast And Furious on Stage This Week

When they promised that this week's vaudeville bill at the Olympic would be a surprise from first to last, and as enjoyable as it was surprising, they didn't overstep the bounds of sane prediction.

The bill opening Thursday and which continues today and Saturday was a melange of music, comedy and beauty from first to last—one that kept the crowd on edge throughout the entire performance.

"A Vaudeville Surprise," was the starting number in which some big skates, bigger shoes and other comedy accessories were used to good advantage. It was a riot from the start and the crowd was reluctant to allow Almond and Hazel, the two stars, to quit the stage.

Good Ventriloquism.

Jerry Codle had some of the best ventriloquism at his command that this city has ever seen. His was a fiddling act as well as ventriloqual presentation and through it all he had the audience wondering what was coming next.

"Productionette" was a laugh producer all the way through. Moore and Hazelton have built a comedy skit that is built for laughs and nothing more. It is a rapid fire assortment of all kinds of foolishness that is typically vaudeville.

Baxter and Frank showed they knew how to dance as well as play the piano, sing and do various other comic turns. The Charleston as it ought to be Charlestoned was one feature of their offering that nearly stopped the show.

Plenty of Power.

To begin with, the bill presents the Machedon Brothers, two athletes of ability whose stunts on the parallel bars and in the tumbling line have seldom been equaled here. Theirs is the type of act that must b eseen to be appreciated.

An unusually good feature picture starring Tom Mix is also offered as a part of the regular bill this week.

Snake Head Bites Youth; to Recover

TUCSON, Ariz., April 15.—(AP)—Walter Fenton, 14, a Michigan boy visiting here, is recovering from the effects of a bite from the severed head of a dead rattlesnake.

He was hurried to a doctor and received first aid treatment and was then removed to a hospital where he was reported in no danger today.

OSTRICH DEATH TOLD BY VICTOR

Inebriated Man Slays Huge Bird With His Bare Hands

BOSTON, April 15.—(AP)—The victor in a midnight battle with a bad ostrich told his story in court today. William McIntyre, who last week killed Governor, a Franklin Park ortrich, with his bare hands, described the struggle when arraigned in Roxbury court on a cruelty charge. In view of the unusual circumstances of the case Judge Perran reserved judgment. Officials of the zoo told the court that in such a fight the man's chances were one to twenty-five.

McIntyre said that early last Friday morning he was on his way home somewhat intoxicated. Recalling that his mother was ill, he decided to sleep off his liquor before confronting her and sought the camel house at Franklin zoo as his bed chamber. He had just removed his coat, preparatory to lying down, when something struck him a terrific blow on the chest, knocking him down. As he struggled to his feet another blow laid him flat once more.

"I didn't know what it was all about," McIntyre told the court. "I was dazed and frightened. I reached out to find who was hitting me and clutched something long, thin and alive. I held on."

The long, thin thing was the neck of a bird that stood eight feet high and weighed 200 pounds, by McIntyre held on. How long the punishment lasted, the prisoner could not recall, but at last just as his strength was failing, he felt the member to which he had clung so desperately grow limp.

"As soon as that thing quit, I went right away from there," McIntyre said. "I never stopped to find out what it was or to get my coat and things. I had enough."

Daniel Hawkins, curator of the zoo, said the ostrich was a bad tempered and dangerous bird.

San Antonio Legion Establishes Record In Member Drive

SAN ANTONIO, April 15.—(AP)—Alamo Post No. 2, American legion San Antonio, has set a record unequaled by any other post of the American legion in the United States. Launching an intensive drive for membership it increased its membership 150 per cent from 400 to more than 1,000 in 48 hours, not only making it the largest post in the department of Texas but the largest in the South.

A challenge to every other Texas post to duplicate this feat was transmitted to state headquarters by Lewis Lanterstein, post commander.

Deposed Engineer To Open Research Offices in Austin

AUSTIN, April 15.—(AP)—R. J. Hank, former state highway engineer, is opening offices in Austin as research engineer and manager of the Southwestern division of the National Crushed Stone association, organized here last night. The association was formed by representatives of crushed stone concerns operating in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana. A permanent organization will be formed at a meeting in Dallas in June and its object is to increase service to the consumer, standardize material and increase the use of crushed stone.

Temporary officers elected were E. G. Dodson of Dallas, president; E. E. Eikel of New Braunfels, vice president; W. F. Wise of San Antonio, secretary-treasurer.

Dallas Goodwillers Must be Vaccinated On Entering Mexico

SAN ANTONIO, April 15.—(AP)—Nearly 150 Dallas business men and members of the chamber of commerce of that city en route to Monterey on a pleasure and business trip will be forced to endure the pains of vaccination upon their arrival at the Mexican border, or otherwise their admittance into Mexico will be refused, it was learned here today from an authoritative source.

A request to the Mexican government to dispense with the vaccination provisions of the immigration laws of Mexico was denied, despite the endorsement of a Mexican consulate in Texas.

Unusual Disease Of Blood Is Fatal To Lubbock Girl

LUBBOCK, April 15.—(AP)—Recurrence of an unusual blood disease whose victims bleed from their skin pores, proved fatal last night for Loren Waldrop, 16, after she had seemed to be recovering.

The girl's illness, a veritable "sweating" of blood, attracted nationwide attention several weeks ago when it was thought a blood transfusion would be necessary to save her. Offers of blood came from various parts of the country after appearance of a news dispatch by the Associated Press.

Miss Waldrop had been able to sit up during the last few weeks, but purpura hemorrhagica, as the disease is known technically, has a tendency to recur, and when a relapse came two days ago, she collapsed.

"How Can We Afford Not to Build," Mrs. Barron Asks in Bespeaking A Full Support for Forum Club House

Such a Building Is a Thing We Have Long Needed And Now Must Have, Prominent Social Worker Here Declares In Favoring Project

That the erection of a Woman's Forum building will enable the women of the city to have a greater part in the building of the city, in that it will afford an ideal place for them to assemble and discuss the problems of life and every day affairs, is the belief of Mrs. Fred C. Barron, prominent for a number of years in the club life of the city. Mrs. Barron, as are many members of the Woman's Forum, is now busy in the campaign for funds for the erection of a magnificent club building in the Country club estates, on the site recently given by the Hamilton-Martin Investment company. Great interest is being manifested in the campaign, which is to begin on Monday, April 26, and to continue for three days.

Relative to the proposed building and what it means to the woman's club life of the city, Mrs. Barron says:

An Idea Forming.

Through the years of the wonderful growth of Wichita Falls a big idea and a great ideal has been forming in the minds of the women. That our efforts may count in the building of our great city, that we, as a vital organization may become a part of its great progress, that we may create a channel through which a stream of cultural influence, touching each and every citizen may pour with increasing purpose and result, and that we may grow through co-operative effort, is the why of the Woman's Forum.

Every great idea should have a material form of expression. The Woman's Forum with its broad scope of work, its democratic organization, its vital cultural-giving growth—we can not manufacture culture—is asking for a home that will be an expression of a steady, healthful influence, in the city's growth.

During sixteen years of club life here I have seen efforts to organize, fail for the lack of a suitable place to meet. We have known families move from us without having had an opportunity to touch the life of our town or be touched by us. We have known capable women coming from other towns where they were leaders, live here unhappily on account of a lack of cultural and social activities. The small clubs have, of necessity, had to limit their memberships so we have long felt the need of a suitable club home where these conditions could be met. We feel that the time has come when we can ask the co-operative effort of our citizens to help us put a home on our beautiful lot that will in every way be an expression of the great organization for which it will stand. The site donated by the Hamilton-Martin Investment company is in every way ideal.

To Aid the Rural Women.

As extension chairman, although I see what this will mean to the women within the city limits, my mind naturally goes out to the rural friend, to the women in the nearby towns, and to the women who though not living here thinks of Wichita Falls as her home city. It is here she comes each season to do her shopping, it is here she plans to school her children, it is to Wichita Falls she looks for her own religous and cultural life, for her contacts with life, thus getting a richness and variety of experiences so much needed.

These women seem anxious for such an opportunity, for the fullness of life the Forum offers them, even anxious enough to offer to put their money in it, and help us build this home.

In thinking of "Why should we build," the counter question comes "How can we afford not to build!"

Martin Hurls Spuds To 6-1 Victory Over Shrevep't In Second

Bodie Wallops Agate At Vociferous Clip

SHREVEPORT, La., April 15.—The hitting of Ping Bodie and pitching and hitting of Paddy Martin proved a winning combination for the Wichita Falls Spudders in the second game of the series with the Sports here today. While Martin had the locals in check Bodie paved the way for his club to run up a lead by opening the first, third and eighth innings with base hits. The score was 6 to 1.

The weather was rather cool out a big crowd was out to see the battle. Williamson, a fight-hander, was on the hill and the Spudders hit safe off him in every inning but the seventh.

In the first inning the Spudders put two runners on bases by scratching hits to the infield, but no tally resulted. After Distel rolled out Fitzgerald beat out a hit to third. He was caught stealing. Turgeon made a single to deep short and Washburn flied to right field.

The first run of the game was made in the second after two were out. Bodie opened the session with a single to right. He was caught at second on Brainard's roller to short. Lamb hit to third and Brainard was forced at second. Lamb stole second and Query walked. Martin singled to center and Lamb scored. Distel forced Martin on a roller to short.

Too Much Ping

The side went out in order for the Spuds in the third but in the fourth it was Ping Bodie who again paved the way for the run making. He doubled to left field and scored on Brainard's single to center. Lamb hit a sacrifice fly to Brown and when Query singled to right Brainard scored. Martin bunted a fly to Williamson and Query was caught in a double play.

In the sixth it was Martin who again furnished the blow to score a run. Brainard opened with a slow hit to second and moved up on Lamb's sacrifice. Query flied to center and Martin singled to center and Bodie scored. Distel lined to Benton.

It was not until the sixth that the Sports put across a run. Kirke opened with a single to left and Hoffman duplicated the hit. Kirke went to third on Brown's fly to right. Bonowitz hit to Brainard and Hoffman was out at second, Kirke scoring on the play. Wilder hit to Distel and Bonowitz was out at second.

Ping Again

Bodie's third hit of the game was a Texas league double along the right field foul line. Brainard sacrificed him to third where he remained until Query sent him home with a single to left. Martin then rolled out to Hoffman to retire the side.

In the ninth Bodie came to bat with men on bases and the big crowd let out a moan. Before Bodie could hit the Spudders started a double steal and Turgeon was caught in a chase between third and home but scored when Benton made a peg to Wilder. Bodie rolled to the pitcher.

In the last three innings the Sports were out in order.

Herd Abetted by Drake In Bases on Balls Orgy

BEAUMONT, April 15.—(AP)—Bases on balls, untimely errors and base hits in profusion coupled with an uncomfortable chill in the air made today's ball game quite uncomfortable for fans. Houston won, 9 to 8, when Beaumont failed to produce a run in the ninth after filling the bases. Drake started, walking four batters in succession after an error had put the first batter on base. Diviney was greeted with a single which had a two-base error on it in center and five runs came home on in the first inning. That uprising was a fair sample of what was to happen later. The Exporters kept shouting lustily, climbing within one run of a tie when Connolly hit a long homer with one on base in the eighth. Seven of Houston's runs were assisted by bases on balls. The teams move to Houston to open the season there Friday.

WACO SLAMS BACK AT BEAR

Brazos Village Crew Hit Three Heavers At Mean Clip

WACO, April 15.—(AP)—(AP)—Waco made it an even break with San Antonio today the Cubs taking the second game of the season by a score of 7 to 6. Features of the game were home runs by Segrist and Wirts for the Bears and a homer in the seventh with two on by Pratt. Errors got Freamuth in trouble in the first inning but he was fairly steady until the ninth when two walks caused Crumpler to go to the mound for Waco. And this ended the game, the left hander mowing down the last three men to face him. The score:

American Eagles Defeat Gulf Team

Behind great pitching by Snipe Conley the American Refinery Eagles defeated the Burkburnett Gulf Production company team Thursday afternoon, 10 to 8.

Pete Martindale led the hitters for the Americans and played a great game in the field. Both clubs played steadily in the field but with no spectacular plays being pulled off.

LENINGRAD.—Ten men accused of plotting a revolt against the soviet government were tried and executed within three hours after their arrest.

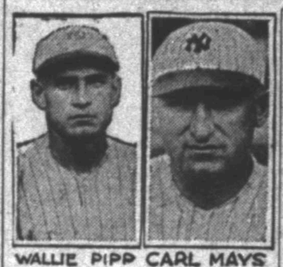

Having sold my harness shop to the Wichita Hardware Co., at 714-16 Ohio Avenue, I wish to thank my old friends and customers for the past patronage that I appreciated so greatly. Knowing my successors to be an old established and reliable firm, I do not hesitate to recommend them as being capable to conduct a first class harness shop and wish them success in the new undertaking.

Respectfully,

How Do They Do It? — By Ed Hughes

Reds And Giants In Money

WALLIE PIPP CARL MAYS

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Central Press Sports Editor.

The Reds have had a good pitching staff for many years—good on paper in the spring and at times—for instance in 1919—good enough to win a pennant. But of recent campaigns that hurling staff has been unable to check the Giants, Pirates et al.

Jack Hendricks leads his team into another National League race with this same situation—a hurling squad good enough to win the flag. But, on past performances, it cannot be counted on to turn the trick.

Two men will play an important part in the Reds' fight and may govern the success of the team. They are Wallie Pipp and Carl Mays, Yankee castoffs.

Mays was the sensation of the Cinci staff two years ago, his first with the Reds. Last year he was a fizzle. This year, due to the removal of some bum teeth, he hopes to elude the rheumatism in his arm and pitch good ball. He looked good in camp and reported no trace of lameness in his arm.

Pipp Brings Much Strength.

Wallie Pipp was obtained over the winter. He will add batting strength, give the infield steadiness, and add considerable baseball brains to the team. He will be especially valuable, working with young Emmer, Coast league newcomes, at short.

As for the rest of the team, the only other addition of accepted worth has been that of Walter Christensen, St. Paul outfielder.

Left field has given Hendricks trouble each year. Last year he used Zitzman, Bressler and Walker in that garden with but fair results. This year, if Christensen continues to hit big league pitching, the young man will alternate with Zitzman in left, going in against righthanders and letting Zitzman take care of the lefties. Eddie Roush is ready as usual for his work in center and Curtis Walker will play right.

In the infield, along with Pipp at first and Emmer at short, will be Babe Pinelli at third (as sweet a third sacker as you'd want) and Hughie Crits at second.

Behind the plate he has Gene Hargrave and Val Picinich, former Red Sox receiver, which means he is well protected there.

As for the pitching staff, in addition to Mays, Hendricks has Adolph Luque, who hopes to lead the league in efectiveness again if he finds himself fully recovered from the appendicitis operation, Jake May, Eppa Rixey and Pete Donohue for his big five. Whether Charley Lucas, Clyde Day and one or two other newcomers will help out a bit is problematical, of course.

The Reds will be in there, giving the Pirates, Giants and Cardinals a trot for their money all season. I feel though, that they won't be able to topple the Pirates.

As For the Giants.

The New York Giants are primed to oust the Pittsburg Pirates from their pinnacle and regain the National league flag.

McGraw always has a powerful team. The main reason is that he builds his clubs for "today." That's why he got Jimmy Ring to bolster his pitching staff. He asks only one good year from Ring. Next year's another campaign.

His pitching staff may have been strengthened further by Hugh McQuillan's "reformation," McQuillan, who wasted last season and was disciplined for so wasting it, has turned over a new leaf, he and club officials insist. He did look good in the south.

Two youngsters, Kent, Greenfield and Fitzsimmons, are due to break into the regular squad and unless Art Nehf and Virgil Barnes come through early the chances are they will be worked regularly.

McGraw's infield should be stronger than lats season in that Freddy Lindstrom is ready to play third in big league style. Whether or not McGraw will start him at third depends upon Heinie Groh's trick knee. The assignment of second to Frankie Frisch as his permanent residence will further cement the infield combination. Frisch has been shunted from second to short to third in previous years.

The outfield will be strengthened by the presence of Al Tyson, Louisville slugger, who will play center, between Emil Meusel and Ross Young. Tyson can hit and field.

TRAVIS JACKSON JIMMY RING

The catching staff is wobbling. Old Frank Snyder and the resurrected Grover Hartley may find the going rough before the end of what promises to be a torrid summer. Hugh McMullen, Wichita youngster, ought to get a chance if one of the vets does slip.

How much the Giant team will miss the energetic and crafty Hughie Jennings on the coaching line cannot be estimated, of course. Hughie was laboring with the team as though it were his own and was much closer to the general personnel of the team than McGraw.

The Giants should land two-three, but I don't believe they can beat back the young and plunging Pirates.

Although he had a week to do something about his back income taxes in this state, Ruth this morning turned in a check covering the claims of the state for the years 1923 and 1924.

If You're Willing to Believe Austin, Billy Disch Has Cinch For No. 13 Conference Flag

Every Player at Texas University is Class Of Loop (?) If You Don't Believe It Read This Story

AUSTIN, April 15.—(AP)—After considerable jockeying of the large number of stars at his command, Billy Disch, Texas university diamond mentor, has hit on a line-up that is the odds-on favorite to win the 1926 Championship of the Southwest conference. Winning of the title would make the thirteenth for Coach Disch in the 14 years he has coached orange and white baseball cohorts.

The Dischmen got away to a flying start by beating the Rice Owls last Saturday 13 to 2. "Grandpa" Woods, Owl right-hander who in 1925 was considered about the best hurler in the conference, had nothing deceptive on his shoots, as far as Longhorn batsmen were concerned.

Heading the batting order is the speedy Clyde Pratt of Bradshaw, captain and the best centerfielder in the conference. Last season Pratt was acclaimed the outstanding "ball hawk" in the loop, and this season he is hitting harder than ever before. He has a splendid whip, and is a clever and daring pilferer. He swings from the left side of the hitting station and is a better than .300 swatter.

Following the Longhorn leader is Howard Williamson of Texarkana, right fielder, an even more dangerous hitter than Pratt. He is a southpaw both in throwing and in hitting. Williamson came to Texas University with a big reputation as a twirler, but Coach Disch decided he had even more brilliant prospects as a hitter than as a pitcher. Last season, Williamson hit around .400. He is large, powerful and speedy, and has already awakened the interest of at least one big league manager—Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals. Williamson is playing his second season with the Steers.

Thompson Cleans Up.

Edwin Olle of Flatonia hits third and plays the hot corner. Olle, a former Texas Military college star, will make letters in three sports his first year on Longborn teams. He lettered in football and basketball, and is certain to win his "T" in baseball. He is a heavy hitter, and a capable fielder.

Hitting fourth is Fred Thompson, the flaxen-haired athlete from Rusk, the most dangerous hitter in the conference. Last season, Thompson played left field; but he is holding down second base this year, partly because there was no outstanding candidate for the bag, but primarily because of a weak throwing arm, caused by a football injury. Coach Disch is hopeful the short peg the second-sacher ordinarily has to make will not harm the wing. If Thompson's arm recovers from the effects of the injury, this natura lhitter is certain to be given a big league tryout. He's a right-hand slugger, who stands up to the plate and takes a full swing—as promising a natural hitter as was "Bib" Falk of the Chicago White Sox, when he was with the Longhorns. Thompson is playing his second year.

Henry Baumgartner, powerful athlete from Schulenburg, follows Thompson. He is a splendid lefthand slugger, who has won a regular's job his first season. Baumgartner weighs around 195 pounds, but is fleet in the field and on the sacks. He plays left field.

Collie Falk, who is playing his third and last season for the Steers, hold down first base and hits sixth. The elongated Falk is easily the best fielding first-sacker in the conference. He stands well over six feet, and knows how to stretch his long legs and arms. The first-sacker is giving every promise of batting above the .300 mark this season. He throws and bats right hand. Collie is a brother of "Bib" and "Spot" both of whom are in the big show. He lives in Austin.

James (Jackie) Radford of Nocona weighs only 125 pounds, but he is a great little short fielder. Predictions were rife at the start of the spring training season that Radford would be ousted from his job by one of a number of brilliant prospects; but the little fellow is more firmly entrenched than ever just now. He hats from the left side, and is a capable hitter.

"Hustling Charlie" Ramsey of San Augustine is the first string receiver. Ramsey is just about the size of Radford; but he doesn't allow his lack of bulk to handicap him. Ramsey has a splendid whip, and is a heady receiver. He is only a fair hitter. The San Augustine lad is playing his third and last season.

The ace of the hurling corps is Lalie Cox, tall righthander from Stephenville. Cox is known as the "speedball king." He also has a nice curve, good control, and above all mound courage. Cox is pitching his second years.

Neal Baker of Harlingen, powerful righthander, is the other hillock dependable. Baker, a former Texas Military college mound ace, is pitching his first season for the Dischmen. He has a nice assortment of stuff.

Among the most capable substitutes are: "Cy" Williams of Austin, hard-hitting outer gardener, and Joseph (Pottsy) Allen of Luling, maskman.

DALLAS OUTFIT SQUEEZES OUT ON JACOB, 6-4

Ma Ferguson Must Have Jinxed One-Time Champs

DALLAS, April 15.—(AP)—The Dallas Steers opened the season at home defeating their ancient enemy, the Fort Worth Panthers, by the score of 6-4. Manager Snipe Conley, who was not counted on to hurl regularly this year, went the entire route for Dallas, keeping Fort Worth's hits scattered. He handled eleven chances in the field, ten assists and one putout without an error. An error by Ezzell paved the way for five Dallas runs in the third. The hitting of O'Brien and Riley were features. A crowd of more than 12,000 attended the game. Governor Miriam A. Ferguson threw the first ball, with Lieutenant Governor Barry Miller doing the receiving.

SAND LOT SLANTS

The Security Bank is all set to get off at the first bell. It has a good outfield, better pitching, fine catching and the best infield in the league, according to Bob Mathis.

The greatest boast is in the infield. It is fast, composed mostly of tried veterans. Virgil Brown will be at first base, while Graves and Hale are battling for second base. Hale comes from San Antonio where he played last year. Graves was with the Bankers last season.

They also have Montgomery and Kizziar for shortstop and third base. Both men are well known in the Twilight league. Montgomery was with the Bank last year and Kizziar was with Texhoma.

Vernis Ross, last year first string catcher with the Texhoma club, is with the Security Bank this year along with Tank Horton. This pair forms one of the best catching staffs in the league.

Both of these men were rated among the best and which one Coach Mosley will select for the Security first string catcher is a puzzle to the Twilight fans. It is also a battle that they will watch with great interest.

The City Water Department team lined up with a new catcher and outfielder Wednesday afternoon in the way of Ray Hirschi, who was with the Floral Heights Methodist team last year in the Sunday School league. He is also a product of the Wichita Falls Junior college team.

Raymond Windham, American Refinery shortstop, had had very little practice this season, but with a little more training will be hard to stop. Windham played a great brand of ball at short last year with the Americans.

Curley Christian, American Refinery outfielder, is one of the best outfield prospects in the league this year. Christian is also a hard hitter as well as a great fielder, and bids fair to make some one hustle for an all star berth.

Last year Christian played third base with the Eagles and this year he was shifted to the outfield. Long, hard drives are his specialty.

Pete Martindale, burly catcher with the Eagles, has one great feature about his playing, and that is being at the right place at the right time. Martindale has been playing a great game so far with the Americans.

Martindale is a big 205 pounder and a hard hitter. His hits are of the usual line drive kind, and with "ducks on the pond" when a hit counts the most. It was Martindale that broke up a thirteen inning game at Duncan recently. He hails from Memphis, Texas, where he has been playing ball for some time.

Last year the workers at the American Refinery were back of the baseball team to a man, and always turned out heavy when they played. This year the Eagles will be given the same kind of support.

Electra Track Stars Working Hard After Rains Halt Practice

ELECTRA, April 15.—Mentor Reese's Tiger track men are all set for the county track meet to be staged Saturday in Iowa Park. Muddy grounds and cool weather cut the workouts short the early part of this week but all have been working hard the past few days. Failure to have the track meet last Saturday as scheduled, the Electra cinder followers will have to work hard next week in order to be in good condition for the district meet the week-end, which is also to be held on the athletic grounds of the Iowa Park high school.

Up and Over.

Sylvan Cloniger is clearing the bar in the vaulting event at 10 feet 6 inches, which should easily take first at the county meet. He is also showing to advantage in the high jump, but is closely rivaled by Hardy Hall and Dewey Byrd, all three of whom clearing the rod at a good height. Hackney appears to be the outstanding broad jumper. Grisham, who was Reese's most dependable man for the high and broad jumps and the vaulting, will not be permitted to participate in the coming meet as he has been ruled ineligible by state officials. He was easily clearing the bar in vaulting at a mark above 11 feet.

The time recorded on the shorter dashes as stepped off by Gillum is being closely watched and this trackster will in all probability make some one step for the 100, 200 and 440 yard dashes at both the county and district meets.

Gillum has been forced to his best several times to beat out Henry Culpepper and Cecil Grant.

Working Hard On Hurdles.

Willis Carnahan and Tracy Bell are still working hard on the high hurdles and are counted to make a much better showing at the county meet than they managed to do at the invitation met held on the Junior college grounds. Gilger is the lone shot heaver this season and is putting the weight for a good distance. Louis Kent has been mastering the javelin very well and is making a much better showing than either Carnahan and Sanderlin.

Louis Kent, Harry Preston and Trever Bell are competing to represent Electra high in the low sticks this year, the three exhibiting real form.

Electra high school boasts good relay team which will probably consist of the following: Bob More, Gerald Gillum, Louis Kent, Cecil Grant. Henry Culpepper is likely to figure for a place on this relay team.

Phils Make Three In Row From Sox

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—(AP)—The Phillies made it three straight from Boston today by winning, 8 to 4. Cy Williams, pinch hitting for Nixon in ninth, hit a home run with the bases full that broke a tie. Harry Riconda broke his left leg trying to score from third in the eighth inning on a tap to the pitcher's box. He slid into catch Jimmy Wilson and his spikes caught in the receiver's shin guards. George Mogridge, Boston, pitching his first game in the National League weakened in the final innings. Leach solved him for a home run with one on in the eighth, presaging Williams' clean up. Favorites Come Through in Tourney

ROEHAMPTON, England, April 15.—(AP)—Playing under most unfavorabl econditions, with sheets of rain and strong winds and many of the bunkers and greens flooded, Abe Mitchell, George Duncan, W. B. Smith and W. Robertson came through today's rounds of the Roehampton Golf club's annual invitation tournament and tomorrow will fight for the season's first professional prize. Mitchell will contend against Smith and Duncan will oppose Robertson in the semi-finals.

It was a great day for Abe Mitchell. He eliminated James Ockenden of Sangerhill, 2 up and 1 to play and then took the measure of Archibald Compston 4 and 3. The last match that Compston played before his American tour was against Mitchell; he got a drubbing then, but returned home this week and rushed from the liner to Roehampton anxious to revenge. But he fell once more before the great golfing master, whose long distance driving and splendid control and putting, except for one brief interval, far surpassed Compston's game.

Mitchell and Compston took virtually the spectators with them, and despite the pouring rain, they stayed to watch Mitchell beat his man.

EWING SHADES AGUILAR HERE

Houston Welter Wins 10-Round Mill With Mexican

Wildcat Ewing, Houston welterweight, slapped it on Vincent Aguilar through the ten round mill Thursday night at the open air arena. The two battled at a merry clip through the third, fourth, and tenth round and it seemed that every blow might deliver a knockout in those three frames.

The rest of the battle was an even scrap with both men clinching. Ewing scored a pair of knockdowns, but could never make the big Mexican stay on the mat for ten counts.

Ewing used every trick of the ring he could muster, but Aguilar weathered the storm all the way.

Pug Humphries, Fort Sill, Okla., and Johnnie Sherrod, Fort Worth welter, battled through six fast rounds to a referee's decision, but Sherrod seemed to have a little of the best of the go. Sherrod landed more clean blows than his Oklahoma opponent.

Both men fought a hard battle.

Cossey Comes Back.

Battling Cossey made a blazing return to the ring here with a first round knockout over Major Beasley of Wichita Falls. Cossey has been out of the ring for some time and this was his first fight in several weeks.

The end came fast, when a right followed a left to the jaw and put a fast end to the battle.

Sam Riley, Altus, Oklahoma welter, took a four round decision over Sailor Murphy of Wichita Falls. It was a fast fight and a good draw.

Two fleaweights fought the curtain raiser.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP)—Excellent relief pitching by Pate while his mates were pounding Washington pitchers gave Philadelphia the third game of the series here today, 9 to 3. Pate allowed two hits in six and two-thirds innings while three Washington hurlers were giving up 14. Five errors by the Senators helped the visitors at critical times. The score:

Chisox Knocks Out Zachary, Win 11-4

CHICAGO, April 15.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox drove Tom Zachary off the mound in the first inning today and took a commanding lead which enabled them to make it two straight from the Browns, by a score of 11 to 4. Wildness of the former Senator flinger and erratic support on the part of the Browns, gave the Sox the game. Blankenship pitched handily throughout but eased up toward the finish. The score:

Walker to Meet Tiger Flowers in June Embroglio

Champ Billed In 15-Round Battle, Commish Gets Call Today

SCRANTON, Pa., April 15.—(AP) Tiger Flowers, middleweight champion, and Mikey Walker, king of the welterweights, have been signed by Tex Rickard to box in New York June 10, according to an announcement made by Jack Kearns, manager of Walker, here today.

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—Completion of negotiations for a 15-round bout here between Tiger Flowers and Mickey Walker, announced in Scranton, Pa., by the latter's manager, Jack Kearns, was confirmed today by Jess McMahon, matchmaker for Tex Rickard.

McMahon said that no date for the match had been selected, but that the contest probably woulld be staged late in June at the Yankee Stadium. Flowers' middleweight title will be at stake.

McMahon said that the date announced by Kearns, June 10, has already been set aside for the Paul Berlenbach-Jack Delaney light heavyweight championship fight in Yankee Stadium. McMahon and Rickard will appear before the New York state athletic commission tomorrow in a renewed effort to obtain the aid of the board in signing Delaney. At the same time Rickard will present the Flowers-Walker match for the commission's approval.

FATHER STEALS HIS WIFE

CRANFORD, Eng. — Sidney A. Cherry was granted a divorce on evidence that his father had won his wife's love.

miles away, where she and Ranny had spent their honeymoon.

"You're the most wonderful woman in the world!" Ranny said solemnly as he took the money.

Then he just brushed her cheek with his lips once more and he was gone.

"Wave to Daddy," she said to the baby, and held him close to the window so that Ranny could see them both if he looked back. But he did not look back.

Eddie's big white car, bristling with shining wild shield and dust shields, tore down the street, leaving it empty and desolate under the scorching August sun.

The next morning, just as Sylvia was leaving the house, bag and baggage and baby, Fay telephoned.

"Hello! How do you like being a war widow?" she asked cheerfully. "Isn't it wonderful? Honestly, I'm so glad to see Eddie Carter out of the house that I feel like a new woman!"

Sylvia frowned in a bewildered sort of way. "Don't you mind if Eddie takes his vacation all by himself?" she asked.

"Mind?" Fay laughed. "Mind?" My dear, I've lied and teased and pouted for weeks to make him go somewhere without me! He wanted to spend two weeks with me in Atlantic City—sort of second honeymoon, but I couldn't see it—I have other fish to fry, dearie!"

Sylvia pondered over that phrase, "other fish to fry," as she and Aunt Agony and Junior rolled along the read to the inn in their hired automobile.

"I suppose that what she means is that she has some new man on her string," she made up her mind, finally, for Fay was interested in only two things in life—clothes and men. And "fish to fry" couldn't possibly mean clothes!

She found herself thinking about Fay again and again during the afternoon. She and Aunt Agony had found a shady lawn swing, where they had brought their sewing. Nearby, Junior lay on a steamer rug, taking his nap.

"It will do him all the good in the world to be up here, out of the dirt and the smoke," Aunt Agony remarked in an undertone. "The quiet here alone would do anybody a sight of good."

But at that moment the quiet was shattered by the loud honking of a car, and a long blue racer, shaped like a torpedo boat, shot into the courtyard of the little brown inn.

Two men in sport clothes and a girl all in white, with white veils swathing her head and shoulders jumped out.

"Well, that wasn't so bad. All we killed was two chickens!" Sylvia heard one of the men say, "and we were going fifty-two miles an hour part of the time!"

Aunt Agony gave Sylvia a look of high disgust.

"Jazz hounds!" she remarked. Every now and then Aunt Agony picked up a slang word if it happened to appeal to her. "Jazz hounds! I hope they aren't going to stop here at the inn! Why don't such people stick to the city instead of coming out to a place like this, to spoil it for everyone!"

She had turned completely around in the swing and was staring at the new arrivals with wide, interested eyes. Jazz hounds or not, she was not going to miss a thing that they said or did, not if she knew it.

"My word!" she said suddenly, throwing her hands up, "if it isn't Fay Shirley—without her husband! My, oh my, what is the world coming to, when a married woman will run around in broad daylight with two strange men!"

The two men were strangers to Sylvia, too. She had never laid eyes on either of them before, she was sure, as she watched them coming slowly toward her, with Fay between them, clinging to their arms.

"Hello, Sylvia!" she sang out when she was a few feet away, "I hope you haven't had lunch yet at your rustic inn! We're just starved—I guess my stomach thinks my throat's cut, or something!"

Sylvia heard Aunt Agony say "Disgusting!" as she gathered together her wools and her sewing bag and disappeared around a clump of bushes.

She rose and held out her hands in greeting.

"Sylvia, I want you to know my very good friends, Bill and Jim," Fay went on, after she had kissed Sylvia on both of her flushed cheeks. "I'm not going to tell you their other names because I want you to be good friends and call each other Bill and Jim, and Sylvia. See?"

Bill and Jim were a good looking pair, whatever else could be said of them.

Bill was very blond—in a sunburned, out-doorsy sort of way, and Jim was dark and florid and very handsome when he smiled with glistening white teeth.

It was perfectly plain to Sylvia that Fay was very, very much in love with the man she called Jim. At any rate, she was infatuated with him, as she had been infatuated with dozens of other men during her life.

"Soon hot, soon cold," was the way Aunt Agony always spoke of Fay's love affairs. This one with Jim was the first one Sylvia had known her to have since her marriage to fat, plodding Eddie Carter.

"Who is Jim?" Sylvia asked her when they had ordered lunch and had carried Junior up to Aunt Agony's room. Aunt Agony had let them in, but she had refused to speak to Fay.

"Jim is the riding master at Cabbot's school," Fay answered, leaning close to the mirror of Sylvia's dresser. "Don't you remember, I told you ages ago that I was taking riding lessons?"

Sylvia remembered then that she had said something about it.

"Any woman who was married to Eddie Carter would lose her mind if she didn't have somebody else in her life," Fay added, as she took out a gold eyebrow pencil. She had no visible eyebrows, but she painted on a pair of black straight ones that did very well. "The somebody else in my life just now happens to be Jim—where do you keep your perfume?"

Sylvia looked thoughtful as she went into the bathroom for the dollar bottle of "Lilac Vegetal" that she used after her bath.

"I hope you are not in love with him," she said slowly.

She knew Eddie Carter wasn't the sort of husband who would stand for much "foolishness" from his wife. He might be fat and sleepy-looking, but he had a sense of his own importance in the world.

Fay's green eyes lighted with a tigerish little gleam.

"I have the dickens of a good time with Jim—that's all I know!" she said recklessly, as she smeared a last coating of powder over her countless freckles. "I'm not going to be buried alive just because I got married, you know, and what Eddie doesn't know won't hurt him!"

A sharp tapping sounded on the door.

"That's probably Agony knocking," Fay added. "Better go and see what she wants or she'll bang the door down. I'll bet a hat she's going to forbid you to have lunch with us!"

She won her bet, for that was exactly what Aunt Agony did forbid Sylvia to do.

"Misery loves company—and so does wickedness!" she said to her when she had shut the door on the giggling Fay. "Fay just wants to drag you into her own nasty love affair, and don't you be dragged! You just go and tell her you're not going to have lunch with her! Now do as I tell you!"

But Sylvia was obstinate.

"How can I, Aunt Agony?" she asked, "I've already asked the girl in the dining room to fix up some food for them, and the men are waiting for us. I've got to go on with it now!"

The two men were not wasting their time as they waited for Fay and Sylvia in the green shadows of the dining room. Each of them had a high-ball before him, and there were two more glasses on the table for the girls.

Sylvia had ordered iced soup and club sandwiches, and frosted chocolate, but very little of the luncheon was touched, for her guests drank and smoked and talked so much that they had little time to eat.

Bill was flushed with the heat and the drinks, and he kept asking Sylvia if Fay wasn't "the funniest white woman in the world." Sylvia agreed with him that she was.

He leaned back in his chair presently, and with his eyes on her, began to hum the words of her own song:

"When everything's said and everything's done,
"There's just one that I love, and you're that one!"

Her own eyes were brilliant with excitement as she seized him by the arm and began to shake him. "Why, where DID you hear that song?" she gasped.

The man named Bill looked back at her with astonishment written all over his face. "What are you talking about? Where do you suppose I heard it? Everybody's singing it every place you go," he answered thickly.

"Why, of course," Fay backed him up, "everybody's singing it." She began to hum the drowsy, haunting melody along with him.

Sylvia was trembling from head to foot. So this was what had happened while she had been shut up within the four hot walls of The Nest all summer—her song had become a hit! But why hadn't Miss Sharp told her about it? Then she remembered that Miss Sharp was in Europe.

"It's the song I wrote!" she said to Fay when she and Bill had finished the chorus for the last line. She could hardly stammer out the words.

Fay stared.

She knew that Sylvia had written a song, but she had never thought of this song as belonging to her.

"Well, I'm crashed!" she exploded. Then she clicked into another idea as she always did, with lightning swiftness.

"We'll go somewhere and celebrate won't we boys?" she cried, jumping up. "Think of our little nitwit writing a popular song! Every girl her own Irving Berlin, eh wot? Why, Sylvy, I'm so doggoned proud of you!"

Laughing and talking at the top of her husky voice she dragged Sylvia out to the torpedo-like car in the circle of gravel before the inn.

"Jim and I'll sit in the rumble seat!" she cried, "and Sylvy, you can help Bill drive the car, up in front! He's a one-armed driver, and believe me, one arm is all he needs!"

But Sylvy hung back, shaking her head and flushing. She was painfully aware of a group of shocked old ladies watching the whole performance from the porch of the inn.

"No—no—I can't go! I'm not dressed to go anywhere!" she protested.

She certainly was not going to do any more celebrating with this half-drunk group—with these men whose very names she didn't know! Why, suppose Ranny should hear of it? She gasped at the thought.

"Goodby," she said, holding out her hand to the man Fay called Bill. "It was nice of you to come in and see me—all of you."

He took her hand, and then with a sudden wild laugh he picked her up like a doll and dropped her down into his low-slung car. With a swift, cat-like movement, he was beside her and the car was under way.

"Kidnaped!" she heard him say, above the noise of the motor in low gear. And as they swung between the gateposts of the little brown inn he bent his head and kissed her full on her half-opened mouth!

Peter Wilk makes a hurried call to the inn. Ranny and Eddie Carter return hurriedly from their fishing trip. Who was the woman who saw Sylvia leave Peter Wilk's house?

More Truth Than Poetry

RENUNCIATION

I shall not go abroad this year
For, through the foreign cables glancing,
I find the cost of wine and beer
And rooms and victuals are advancing.
While verything the tourist buys
Is being boosted in proportion;
And now I'm growing old, and wise—
I'll not submit to such extortion.

Time was, when I went over there
I lived, for very little money,
Upon a daily bill of fare
Superior to milk and honey.
But board and rooms have both gone up,
According to the best advices
To sleep, to breakfast, dine or sup—
They charge one quite enormous prices.

I shall not sip my eau de vie
Beside the dimpling Seine this season,
I'll stay on this side of the sea
And for a good, sufficient reason.
I shall not see Montmartre at night,
Or sniff its many scented breezes,
I'll give no foreigner the right
To charge me what he doggone pleases.

This also goes for all the lands
Of which, in Europe, there are many,
Where hotel men form robber bands
To grab the tourist's utmost penny.
To visit Brussels, Berne or Rome
No more awakens my desire,
This summer I shall stay at home
Where prices are a whole lot higher!

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, April 15.—(AP)—The cotton market developed moderate activity in today's trading although the general trend of prices was downward. Selling pressure was not great, however, and the range of fluctuations was comparatively small, following an easier opening on unfavorable Liverpool cables and prospects for improved weather in the belt, the market rallied a point or two but soon started to ease off again. There was a slight rally right at the end which cut the net loss for the day down to eight to ten points.

At the start Liverpool cables were lower than due and first trades here showed losses of four to seven points. Prices rallied slightly right after the call and at one time in the morning May traded up to 18.20, July to 17.76 and October to 16.82, or within one to two points of yesterday's close mainly on predictions of frost overnight for the northern half of the eastern belt. These prices proved the highs of the day.

The market gradually eased off during the afternoon on prospects for better weather in the belt and made the lows of the day in the late trading with May at 18.09, July at 17.66, October at 16.76 and December at 16.75, or nine to 12 points below the close of yesterday. The market finally closed a couple of points above the lowest.

Exports for the day totaled 14,035 bales.

NEW YORK FUTURES.

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—Cotton futures closed steady at net decline of 8 to 13 points.

	High	Low	Close	Prev. Close
Jan.	17.06	16.98	16.98	17.09

Opening: January 17.06; May 18.97; July 18.41; October 17.45; December 17.14.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—The cotton market was easier today owing to prospects for more favorable weather for the start of the new crop in the south. May contracts sold off from 18.98 to 18.80 and October from 17.46 to 17.38, the market closing steady at net decline of 9 to 13 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of one point to a decline of three points. Near months were a shade higher on further covering and overnight buying inspired by yesterday's report on domestic mill consumption and rumors that British spinners were beginning to run short of supplies. The initial demand was soon supplied and the market turned easier on the official forecast for fair and warmer weather in the southwest.

Local traders thought the spell of low temperatures and unsettled conditions was passing eastward, and that cool weather in the eastern belt tonight would probably be followed by more favorable conditions generally.

The detailed weather reports for the day confirmed the talk of low temperatures in the belt last night, but showed comparatively little precipitation and while prices held fairly steady around mid-day they weakened again in later trading. The close was within a point or two of the lows. Much of the day's business was in switching from near to late months with exchanges reported of both May and July for new crop positions up to next December. The May premium over July was well maintained, but the difference between May and new crop positions narrowed during the day.

The relatively easy ruling of near months in late trading was attributed partly to reports that cotton was offering a little more freely in some eastern belt markets, at the lowest basis of the season.

Exports for the day 14,085 bales, making 6,760,515 so far this season. Port receipts 15,881. U. S. port stocks 1,113,-992 bales.

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—The stock market today displayed a complete reversal of form, selling sharply during the morning and early afternoon when selling pressure was renewed against the motors, chemicals, steels and speculative industrial specialties, then rallying briskly towards the close on what appeared to be an unusually heavy volume of week-end short covering. Final quotations were irregularly higher. A long list of net gains ranging from fractions to 15 points being offset by a smaller number of declines running from fraction to 4½ points.

Except for a small amount of investment buying on the scale down, trading was almost entirely professional in character. Commission houses reported little activity on the part of small traders or "bull" pools who appeared to be awaiting further light on the business situation before extending their commitments. Total sales fell below 1,400,000 shares.

Outside the stock market chief financial interest centered in the weakness of French francs which dropped five points to a new low level for all time at 3.37 cents in the New York market, following a sharp decline in foreign financial centers. Foreign speculation is believed to have played a large part in the reaction. Wheat rallied 1¼ to 4 cents a bushel, but rubber futures broke about 4 points and then recovered part of their loss.

Recent selling of stocks by professional traders, and the absence of a public demand is generally attributed to recurrent reports of a slowing up in several lines of industry and in retail business some of which may be due to the unseasonably cold weather. Relatively stiff call money rates, which were blamed for some of the selling earlier in the week were no longer an influence as call money held steady at 4¼ per cent all day, despite state income tax and April 5 dividend and interest payments, and the usual week-end readjustment of bank reserve. The New York reserve bank rate was unchanged. Forty issues crashed to new low levels for the year during the day's trading. The list included such representative shares as U. S. Steel common, Hudson Motors, General Electric, Studebaker and Tidewater Oil. Several of these issues actually showed net gains on the day, however, General Electric rallying from 285 to 293¼ and then easing to 292½; up 4½ net. U. S. Steel common sold down to 117 and then crossed 118 for a small fractional gain. Hudson closed a point higher at 63¼ after fluctuating between 61 and 65½. Rails were rather sluggish gains of a point or so in Atchison and Rock Island being counteracted by heaviness and New York Central, Norfolk and Western, Lackawanna, "Nickel Plate," common. Jersey Central jumped 15 points to 260 on two sales.

Call money held steady at 4¼ per cent all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

The foreign exchanges were irregular, demand sterling held steady around $4.85-9-16. Belgian francs broke below 3.70 cents presumably in sympathy with weakness of French francs. A sharp upturn of 36 points to 21.78 cents took place in Norwegian kroner. Other European rates moved within narrow and irregular limits.

TO ENLARGE CHURCH.

FREDERICK, April 15.—Appointing a committee with the power to act, the congregation of the First Methodist church here will soon begin the construction of a basement annex to their present church edifice at the corner of Twelfth street and Grand avenue.

The basement is to be built so that a two-story addition may be added over it in the near future.

Growth in the church has increased the need for enlarged quarters.

STOCK-A-DAY

The Placer Center mining district of Idaho is the locality of the chief activities of the Callahan Zinc-Lead company which as its name applies is engaged in production, milling and marketing of lead, zinc and silver ores. The company, originally incorporated in 1912, took its present name in 1920. Since then it has acquired the properties of a number of other mining companies.

The property of the company consists of patented and unpatented claims aggregating 1,250 acres in extent. It has a saw mill, an oil flotation plant and concentrator in addition to the usual tramways and mining machinery. Under a contract signed in 1922 the American Smelting and Refining company purchases the entire output of Callahan lead-silver concentrates.

In the last five or six years operation of the properties has not been continuous. Nothing was earned on the stock in 1921, 1922, 1923 and 1924. Capital stock consists of $7,-074,420 in common shares of $10 par value. There is no funded debt.

As of Jan. 1, 1925, the company had current assets of $847,712 and current liabilities of only $12,411 with no bank loans. Over the period of 10½ years ended with 1924, net profits were at an annual average of $1.40 a share. Dividend payments have been irregular, rising high between 1915 and 1918. There have been no payments since 1920 when $2 a share was distributed.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, April 15.—(AP)—Soaring prices were recorded in the wheat market today as the result of big export sales and from unfavorable conditions for the new crop of spring wheat northwest. Closing quotations of wheat were strong, 1⅜ to 4c net higher. May (new) $1.67½ to $1.68 and July $1.41⅝ to $1.41¾. Corn finished 1⅜ to 1¾c up, oats at ⅛c to ¼c gain and provisions varying from 10c decline to a rise of 22c.

Corn and oats ascended with wheat. Buying on the part of previous sellers was a notable feature of the corn market.

Provisions developed firmness, responding to the upward trend both of hog values and of grain.

who are in flight from San Antonio and Gonzales and the early settlements at San Felippe and along the Brazos.

Brigands Trail Hapless Survivors

Pitiful lines of these run-away stragglers are moving tonight through the pathless, moss-fringed prairies here, only a few hours ahead of the vengeful and merciless band of brigands who are with Santa Ana. Women and children, barefoot, nearly without food, are struggling eastward as fast as they can go, hurrying to the Louisiana border and to safety. Indians with the Mexican bands, or prowling alone, have been robbing these whites on every occasion; and the correspondent today witnessed the indescribable savagry of their clubbing to death five or six children, snatched from the defenseless mothers who had just left Harrisburg ahead of the invading soldiers.

Santa Ana is camped tonight along the banks of the Buffalo Bayou, his tents pitched contemptuously upon the little square where in front of the capitol building he burned, had been raised each day for the past month the starred flag of the republic.

In the nadir of its despair, as the last hope seems to be going out of saving the republic, as ruthless, bloody extermination of every American this side the Sabine seems to be the unholy purpose of the Mexican tyrant, there was left but one faint hope; and President Burnett told the Record News in almost the last words he uttered before he hurriedly left the capitol for the last time—the fate of the entire western republic rests now on the answer of President Jackson to the feverish appeal of Stephen F. Austin, father of Texas colony, for American intervention.

Yesterday, President Burnett dispatched Secretary of State Sam F. Carson to Natchitoches, La., a few miles across the border, to meet Colonel Gaines of the United States army, who has been sent to the border to prevent the Mexican and Indian raiders from crossing into Louisiana in pursuit of the runaways. Carson will plead with Colonel Gaines to come across into Texas, and will urge, it was officially said, that the Neches river, 40 miles westward, is the stream which the American-Mexican treaty intended to form the boundary. That although the treaty names the Sabine river, the Neches was meant instead of the Sabine.

Attempt to Push Santa Ana Back

Thomas J. Rusk, secretary of war, has started to Groce's Ferry where Houston's forces were last reported, to convey President Burnett's urgent demand that General Houston retreat no further, but in the extremity of desperation, turn against the enemy and try to push Santa Ana back before the reinforcements of General Cotazar's new army, recruited in Saltillo, can reach him. There was little hope held of this, in view of the straits of the army, the lack of food and ammunition, the dwindling force of untrained men with Houston.

American intervention, President Burnett said, is the only hope. He has just received a copy of a letter written by Stephen F. Austin in New York to President Jackson, demanding that America "come out in the open and join Texas." President Burnett said Austin had made it plain the sympathy of the nation is with the Texas.

If General Gaines is ordered to join Houston, then there is hope, the tide of retreat will be stopped, President Burnett said. Another two weeks, and the case will be hopeless, and there will be no Americans left in Texas, he declared.

One note of encouragement lightened the black despair. Two cannon, the gift of the people of Cincinnati, have arrived at Velasco, and Adjutant General John A. Wharton of the army was sent several days ago to get them and to hasten with them to General Houston. These cannon are known as the "Twin Sisters" and were sent to the Texans by public subscription from friends of the patriots in Cincinnati.

(Further details of the gallant fight of the Texas republic in behalf of freedom will appear in tomorrow's Record News.)

County Rolls Record a Good Gain In Past 12 Years

An increase of 1,525 in the scholastic population of Wichita county over the 1925 figure was announced Thursday afternoon by County Superintendent Burl Bryant following completion of returns from Wichita Falls and Burkburnett independent school districts. While official returns from Electra and Fairview have not yet been returned, Mr. Bryant explained they have been calculated to a nicety that permits a fair estimate being made as to what they will be. The increase of 1,525 will not vary more than ten either way, he says, when final and official returns from all districts are in. The total for the county this year is given as 17,050 as against 15,531 last year.

W. F. Shows Gain.

Wichita Falls independent school district showed an increase of 1,131 over the figure of the year before, this year's scholastic census showing 9,374 against 8,243 in 1925. Figures for Burkburnett, also announced Thursday, show a decrease of 76 over the 1925 figure, the population this year being 1,773 as against 1,849 last year.

Fairview to Drop.

While official reports have not been received from Fairview it is understood that there will be a decrease of approximately 57 there, that district to show 550 this year against 607 last year. A similar situation exists at Electra where an increase of 150 is noted, the total being 2,506 this year as against 2,356 last year.

The common school districts of the county show a total of 2,110 against 1,774 last year, an increase of 336. Iowa Park shows a gain of 42 from 701 to 743.

He Remembers The Big Snow And the Like

Uncle Albert, However, Fails to Recall Certain Days In Trial

BEAUMONT, April 15.—(AP)—"Uncle" Albert Burrell, 73, who once lived in the middle of the Liberty county field, before oil was found, is one of the principal witnesses in a $300,000 suit being tried in federal court. Burrell was one of the first witnesses introduced by the plaintiffs in the case of Fleunony Wayman and Belle Daniels of Chicago against the Gulf Production company and others. The suit is for title to approximately 75 acres of land in Liberty county touching the Trinity river and cutting deep into the field.

Burrell had great difficulty in remembering dates, but if an event came about the time "the negro was freed" or around the date of the "big snow" he was in no doubt at all. A judge listened to him attentatively and 12 jurors listened to all he had to say, while able attorneys asked him questions. His testimony is expected to have a lot to do with the true ownership of the land.

W. D. Rowland, Superior Oil Producing company, is going back to Brownwood today after a short visit with his family on Tenth street. Superior is interested in the drilling of several wells in that portion of the state.

Mrs. Alex Hursh of Los Angeles, who has been visiting with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Kerr, at 1512 Kemp boulevard, left Thursday afternoon for home in California.

Fair Ballyhoo Is Wrecked Beneath A Corner Light

"Take that thing home, and don't come back!"

This forceful bit of advice was given five Junior college youths Thursday afternoon by Chief of Police George Hodgins when they were arraigned before him charged with a violation of the entire traffic code on the city's downtown streets.

The "thing" referred to was what might have been and probably once was a self-respecting automobile, but which Thursday was a dilapidated wreck minus tires, part of the engine, and apparently in imminent danger of collapsing altogether. In fact, that was what did happen—not in some alley, out of the way, but just beneath the traffic light at Eighth and Indiana.

It was here the patience ofthe jolly-like "cops" failed. The five boys went to the police station. The chief heard their side of it. "We were just trying to advertise our 'County Fair' to be held at the Junior college tonight," one of them chimed.

Plane Takes Tires To Stranded Truck

SAN ANTONIO, April 15.—(AP)—A Brooks field truck's return from Corpus Christi was halted yesterday at Skidmore when two tires went flat.

So today Major Ralph Royce, commander of Brooks, and Lieutenant John D. Corkille left the field in a Douglass transport with two spare tires. The "spares" will be dropped to the stalled truck by parachute.
