LOAN OF $121,345 APPROVED FOR BOGATA HOUSING

Representative Wright Patman (D-Tex) today announced that the amount of $121,345 for the construction of 10 low-rent homes at Bogata. All of these homes, which will cost $8,460 each, will be for elderly citizens.

Dean Leake of Dallas, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Harris.

Austin. — In order to help Texans and tourists keep track of holidays and local celebrations and plan their travels accordingly, the State Highway Department has published a Texas Calendar of Events. It covers the period from April 7 through September.

For the first time, the Highway Department also has issued a Calendar in Spanish, to serve "a remarkable surge" of tourists from South of the border.

FEDERAL DOLLARS FLOW—Legislative budget writers, nearing the end of a long trail, are confronted with a new problem. Question is how to anticipate the effect on state finances of an unprecedented flood of federal dollars flowing into a variety of programs.

Some think a special session of the Legislature may be necessary, after final congressional action, in order to tie down overlooked matching-fund requirements.

Two proposed federal programs are perplexing the appropriations bill conferees:

1. Medicare — hospitalization and health care for the aged, blind, disabled and children — now on public assistance rolls.

2. The elementary and secondary education act which passed the House of Representatives in Congress. It would provide over $85,000,000 to Texas schools next year.

Conferees, wrestling with the problem of how to balance the books, or recommend new taxes, hope to figure some way that federal funds can be used to reduce pressure on state school money.

Medicare offers some complex questions as to how much money the state must provide in matching funds to meet federal program requirements.

With new federal programs springing up in all areas, veteran Texas lawmakers are looking toward annual sessions of the Texas Legislature. They say the state's antiquated system of biennial budgeting soon must yield to one-year financing and annual sessions if Texas is to keep in line with congressional operations.

SERVICE MERGER — Twenty Texas communities will lose their standby military service units under the state's plan for merger of Army National Guard and Reserve forces.

Plan, already approved with reservations by Gov. John Connally, will be sent to the Department of the Army this month. The Pentagon has ordered Texas forces trimmed by 4,600 men and 155 organized units.

Communities which would lose their Guard units under the state plan drawn to conform with overall U. S. directives are Belton, Breckenridge, Canyon, Carizo Springs, Cisco, Cooper, Colorado City, Crockett, Electra, Jacksboro, Monahans, Olney, Palestine, Pecos, Rusk, Santa Anna and Whitney.

Boerne, Uvalde and Pleasanton would lose reserve units. Major General Thomas S. Bishop, the Texas adjutant general, said Guard payrolls of the 17 towns losing their units totalled $368,499 last year.

A Guard brigade replacing the 90th Infantry Division will be located in South Texas and headquartered in San Antonio. The 49th Brigade, successor to the 49th Armored Division, will include troops located in North and East Texas. Its headquarters will be in Dallas. Austin will be headquarters for the 36th Brigade. It replaces the 36th Division, with units in Central and Southeast Texas. Houston likely will retain the 75th Maneuver Area Command. An artillery group headquarters would be located in Wichita Falls, with units from West Texas and Panhandle-Plains area.

ENLARGED SENATE RE-APPROACHED—Senators saw bugs in the plan they passed earlier to enlarge their membership from 31 to 39, guaranteeing all but five incumbents terms extended through next year's elections.

So, Sen. Louis Crump of San Saba introduced a new version which would require all Senators to run for re-election in 1966 if they want to keep their jobs. New measure quickly won committee approval.

Increasing terms from four to six years still is a feature of the "big senate" plan. If approved by the Legislature, it will go to voters July 24. Senators think it will be a relatively painless way out of re-districting for them.

A Senate bill to legalize variances of 15 per cent over and under the mathematical population average for House and Senate districts also received committee approval. This despite warnings that federal courts, which ordered districts of equal population, might disapprove.

GROCERS RIGHT LABELING

—Texas retail grocers raised strong objections at the public hearing for Rep. A. C. Atwood's bill to require labeling of imported citrus fruit, dating original packing of fruits or vegetables and marking "cold storage" any bin in which produce has been under refrigeration for as long as 60 days.

Atwood and Bob Lilly of the (Rio Grande) Valley Farm Bureau told the committee that the bill is intended to help build consumer acceptance of fresh Texas fruits and vegetables over cold-storage and imported products.

Grocers argued that the provisions of the bill would be a nuisance and would serve no useful purpose.

FUNDS ASKED FOR CHOLERA FIGHT — The Texas Animal Health Commission is asking for $85,476 in fiscal 1965 and $89,904 in fiscal 1966 for the hog cholera eradication program.

Decision on the appropriation will be made by the conference committee now working to resolve difference in appropriations bills passed by each house.

Dr. S. B. Walker, Commission executive director, said he does not know how much federal money will be available for the program.

SHORT SNORTS

A Senate jurisprudence subcommittee headed by Sen. Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells heard district attorneys from all major counties tell how they think the hot check law should be strengthened.

A proposed constitutional amendment to lower the Texas voting age to 19 passed from House to Senate, where it is expected to face tough opposition.

A constitutional amendment to phase out state collection of property taxes by 1972 won Senate committee approval but faces a rocky path.

House passed the bill tightening penalties for driving while intoxicated.

Another House-passed bill would eliminate provisions for voters over 60 in towns of 10,000 or less voting without obtaining poll tax exemption certificates.

Our Growing Population

Somewhere in the United States, a baby is born every 7 1/2 seconds; every 17 seconds, someone dies. In effect, our total population is rising at the rate of one person every 12 seconds. The population has actually increased by nearly 50 per cent since the opening of the last New York World's Fair in 1939.

At the opening of the 1964-65 World's Fair last year, the Demograph showed our population at 191,510,359 compared with 131 million 25 years earlier. The Demograph, which bases all its information on data from the Bureau of Census, is a feature of the Equitable Life Assurance Society's Pavilion. Our population will have passed the 194 million mark by the reopening of the Fair on April 21.

World's Fair visitors are particularly attracted to the Demograph's 45-foot electronically-controlled map, on which they can see pulsating colored lights chart the births and deaths in their own home state. A huge counter looming over this lively map keeps tab on our ever-growing population total in illuminated figures six feet tall.

If you've been sitting tight waiting for just your kind of car, with just your kind of power, at just your kind of price—wait no longer!

Chevrolet. It's a bigger, more beautiful car this year. Which is why that handsome silhouette could be mistaken for cars costing a thousand—even two thousand—dollars more.

Chevy II. No car so trim has a right to be so thrifty. But thrifty it is, with moneysavers like brakes that adjust themselves and a long-lived exhaust system.

Chevelle. This one's got lively looks, spirited power, a softer ride—and remarkable room atop a highly maneuverable wheelbase. No wonder it's today's favorite mid-size car.

Corvair. Ask any '65 Corvair owner how it feels to drive a car with such easy steering, tenacious traction and responsive rear-engine power. And be ready to do lots of listening.

Mow Your Lawn... SAFELY - No. 1

Human error—carelessness—was the cause of 91 per cent of all power mower accidents last year. These could have been prevented by following simple safety rules. The first rule: read your instruction manual carefully.

The fuel used inside your lawn mower is just dandy for powering the engine but—handle with care. Fill the tank before starting the engine. Never add fuel while the engine is running, and don't smoke while fueling.

Look for this seal of safety on the power mower you buy. It means that the mower was built to American Standards Association specifications. This is your assurance that the manufacturer in designing this mower, has considered the safety of you and your family.

Alcorn Finds World Geography Has Gotten Out of Hand - Getting Worse

Editor's note: Achin Alcorn, philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sulphur, reports on his geographical ignorance this week.

Dear Editor: I was talking with a man in town who keeps up with such things as geography and the impending crisis in foreign countries, listening to him explain just what the situation in Viet Nam is, what North Viet Nam has done, what South Viet Nam has done, what our foreign policy there is and what it ought to be, etc., and to tell you the truth I was getting bored to death, so I broke in on the flow.

"Say," I said, "I see that Upper Volta is still on our side."

"What're you talking about?" he asked.

"Nothing, especially. It's just good to know that Upper Volta is still on our side."

"Upper Volta? What's that?"

I knew I had him, but I didn't press the point, and came on home and hunted up the newspaper I'd read the name in, to make sure I hadn't imagined it.

It's true. There is a country named Upper Volta, and its president, Naurice Yameogo, has just made a visit to Washington and been given the full red carpet treatment, with a 21-gun salute and a parade.

Now I haven't taken a survey, but I'll bet a subscription to your paper against a subscription to the New York Times that until Mr. Yameogo showed up in Washington and got his name in the papers and on television, there weren't 100 people in the United States, including teachers, professors, editors, politicians and owners of encyclopedias, who'd ever heard of Upper Volta.

What this proves is that regardless of how well posted a man is on world affairs, he can't know it all, there has to be a good part of the world he's ignorant of. In fact I doubt if there are a dozen people in the world who can sit down right now without any preparation and name all the countries on earth, and even among those who can it's about like memorizing the names of all the counties in the 50 states in the U. S. and knowing something about the internal politics of each.

Where geography got out of control was when we didn't stop with 13 colonies, and here we are about to take on outer space.

Yours faithfully, A. A.

Each year, Community Public Service Company mails to its more than 5,000 owners a report on the Company's business progress. These owners have voluntarily invested money in Community Public Service stock, money that is used to pay for the power facilities that are necessary to keep your electric service plentiful, dependable and reasonably priced.

Who are these owners? They are people from all walks of life and from every state in the Union, including many from Texas and New Mexico. Perhaps your neighbor is one, or a relative, or perhaps you.

Unlike money spent in government-supported power systems, money spent by investor-owned companies like Community Public Service Company, costs you nothing in taxes. It does, in fact, produce more taxable income and property. Investor-ownership is free enterprise at work. Investor-ownership means everybody benefits.
