BRONC BUSTER CONFESSES TRAIN HOLDUP

Deep Oil Campaign Teams Formed After National Realty Head Talks

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

The first well in the Oklahoma City deep oil pool was brought in a year ago this week. There are now 44 producing wells in the pool with a potential production of 200,000 barrels daily. Two hundred and ten derricks were counted in the area last week.

Before the discovery well was brought in the prospects for deep oil in that area were less promising than the prospects for deep oil around Wichita Falls. It was then that a Tulsa newspaper jestingly observed that Oklahoma City's oil pool was one hole in the ground and no oil.

President Hoover has issued his proclamation for the 1930 census which is to be taken next April. He calls upon all people to cooperate in the census by giving the information asked for fully and promptly.

Wichita Falls made a tremendous gain in the period between 1910 and 1920. It cannot hope to show such a large percentage of gain between 1920 and 1930 but the new census should show a large gain. The 1920 census was taken at a time when Wichita Falls was overflowing with people. There is not likely to be such a condition when the 1930 census is taken. It is therefore all the more important that no citizen be omitted from the count. If we could get some of the public work that President Hoover and Governor Moody have been talking about started before April it might help in our showing.

Subscriptions to the deep oil project totaled $445,875 at noon Monday. It will be interesting to watch the figures climb from day to day.

Texas has been favored by the federal government in the allotment of highway aid receiving more than any other state. The total allotted to Texas is $4,545,830. New York is second with $3,605,985. The aggregate of the allottments for all the states is $78,125,000. In addition to this huge sum there is an unexpended balance in the federal fund of $28,000,000. Preparations will be made, it is announced, to make the federal appropriations immediately available to the states to speed up road building in the campaign for public improvements to maintain employment. It is estimated that 625,000 will be employed in highway improvements throughout the country next year.

This policy of expanding plans of public improvement in times of slack employment is not new and it is sensible and good. Al Smith, we remember, urged some definite government plan to this end in his campaign for the presidency. Of course he had no copyright on the plan and it did not originate with him. President Hoover has displayed leadership in getting this and other programs under way to prevent industrial depressions.

We are reminded that there are a lot of public improvements needed hereabouts such as a federal building, water supply and highways. A great deal could be done right here in Wichita Falls to provide employment to folks who need it.

We are glad to second what our evening contemporary had to say about the improved relations between the Wichita Falls High school under Barry Holton as coach and the other schools in this section. Without surrendering any rights of the Wichita Falls school or players Mr. Holton has brought about a better feeling on the part of other schools which Wichita Falls has met on the athletic field. It is not only important that our school be right and fair in its dealings with another school but that everybody be convinced that we are right and fair. Mr. Holton seems to have been right and to have made others see it.

Amelia Earhart, famous aviatrix, here overnight on a flight from Los Angeles to Omaha pleads for a more conservative handling of news of air accidents saying that the emphasis given by many newspapers to minor air accidents is hurting aviation. There is something in what she says. News values are not always fairly judged. The trouble is that newspapers are always in search of something new and something that will interest their readers. Automobile accidents, for instance, have become so common that they are more or less routine from a newspaper standpoint. Air accidents are rarer and something new. Therefore they get the bigger play.

The Waco News-Tribune and Times-Herald are sponsoring what ought to be a delightful entertainment for the people of Waco and Central Texas. They are training a chorus of 600 voices of negroes who will sing the spiritual songs of that race at a free entertainment in Waco on Dec. 6. There is hardly any city in Texas of considerable size that could not put on such an entertainment to the delight of its citizens. Negro singers at Waco are training for the program with great enthusiasm. The white folks are showing an interest that promises one of the largest crowds ever gathered in Waco. We expect to see the entertainment in Waco followed by similar entertainment in other cities.

CULVER GIVES CITY POINTERS ON PROGRESS

Nationally Noted Business Man Predicts Growth For Wichita

'WORK MAIN THING'

Fourteen Groups to Complete Oil Stock Immediately Named

Approximately 300 business and professional men and women of Wichita Falls, Olney, Archer City, Henrietta, Byers, Burkburnett, Vernon and Electra gathered at the Wichita club Monday night for a banquet which was followed by an address by Harry H. Culver, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and by an open forum on the tentative Deep Oil Development corporation of North Texas which resulted in definite organization of 14 teams to complete the indicated capitalization of $1,000,000 in as few days as possible.

Members of the local real estate board and of the finance committee of the deep oil development organization were hosts at Monday night's banquet, and all those present were grouped at 14 tables according to communities which they represented. At the conclusion of the evening's program from the speakers' table, Harry Hines, chairman of the finance committee, supervised the prompt organization of each group into a team for putting on an intensive campaign for deep oil drilling capital investments in its community. Work of the teams will begin Tuesday morning, it was stated. Each team member was supplied Monday night with the list of citizens in his section upon whom he will call.

Culver Tours State

The organization of local teams for furthering the deep oil drilling project followed a brief but unusually effective address by Mr. Culver on the subject of business conditions in this country, and the elements of business success. His appearance here is the first of several which comprise a tour of Texas, after which he will return to his home in Los Angeles. The tour of the United States began last January and has brought Mr. Culver before more than 600 real estate boards in this country and Canada during the year. The speaker was introduced by W. B. Hamilton, who acted as toastmaster throughout the evening.

"When coming into a city, I never ask 'How's business?'" said Mr. Culver. "It isn't necessary. You can read that from the faces of the reception committee members. But I want to say that in all this tour of the country I have found only two or three towns where those faces were of the memorial type. In those cases, we found that the realtors and other business men in those cities had contracted the disease of 'sitronitis' which springs from too close acquaintance with an office chair. Shiny trouser seats and making money are not even on speaking terms."

Five Held for Burning of Arkansas Youth

Five men are under indictment at Mountain View, Ark., for the mutilation and burning alive of Connie Franklin, 20, while he was en route to be married to Tiller Ruminer. Left to right: Mrs. Sam Johnson, wife of sheriff; Tiller Ruminer; Joe White and Herman Greenway, two of the five men indicted for the slaying.

WITNESSES TO TORTURE 'LOST'

Two Principals in Ozark Murder Missing

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark., Dec. 2. (UP)—Silence of the Hill country which for months hid the mutilation and burning alive of Connie Franklin, backwoods fanatic, now cloaks the whereabouts of two important witnesses needed in the trial of five clansmen held in Franklin's death.

The five men, including Alec Fulk, alleged leader of hill billy brigands, are expected to be tried here Dec. 16. With only two weeks left to prepare prosecution, the state has been unable to locate a youth and a man reported to know details of the crime.

They are Owen Ford, 16, and Ross Younger, one of the alleged members of the night riders, although not a participant when they seized Franklin last March 9 as he walked to his wedding with Tiller Ruminer, his 16-year-old fiancee of the Cabin country.

The Ford youth was reported to have overheard conversations between the gang members after Franklin's death. Both Ford and Charles Ruminer, father of the girl, were flogged into silence by the gang.

Later, the Ford youth led officers to a point near where the charred bones of Franklin were found. Since then he has not been seen by relatives.

Younger, allegedly a member of a band who flogged Mrs. Bertha Burns and her 80-year-old husband, Haywood Burns, was spirited away from the Stone jail here by a gang which forced its way into the building just before the recent investigation and resulted in the arrest of five men. He was held in an assault charge and was believed ready to tell about Franklin's death.

Warren's Successor May Be Chosen Next Month

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Dec. 2. (AP)—Gov. Frank C. Emerson announced today he would call a special election probably late in January for the purpose of selecting a United States senator to fill the seat occupied by the late Francis E. Warren. He indicated a temporary appointment might be made tomorrow.

Civil Employes' Wages To Be Unchanged in 1930

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. (AP)—Secretary Adams announced today civil employes' wages will remain throughout 1930 at the levels at which they stood in 1929, in navy yards and establishments and in the field service of the marine corps.

Tax Cut Gets Immediate Attention As Congress Eliminates Formality

Both Houses Open Session in Business-Like Manner And Quick Passage of Bill Is Expected

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. (AP)—Confronted with a $160,000,000 income tax reduction resolution in the early minutes, the first regular session of the 71st congress quickly dispensed with the formalities of opening today to make ready for legislation.

The booming voice of Chairman Hawley, of the house ways and means committee, gave notice shortly after the gavel fell the tax reduction resolution was on its way. He obtained unanimous consent for its consideration Thursday.

Otherwise the tariff worn senate and the restless house confined their first days activities to handclasping and the routine of convening. Accustomed to the routine by seven months extra session, the legislators uniformly went about their business. Tonight conferences were under way looking to an arrangement of the program which promises to carry well into next summer.

Only 64 senators reassembled after their week's rest from the extra session, while 392 members of the house answered the opening roll call.

The hazard of a sleet storm forced two members of the house—Representatives Hill of Washington and W. E. Hull of Illinois—to seek medical attention for injuries from falls and kept the gallery attendance in both the senate and house to a scattering few.

TAX CUT FIRST BILL IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. (AP)—Congress began a quick step march to the relief of the 1929 income taxpayer today as the simultaneous bang of gavels in the senate and house signalized opening of the regular session.

The resolution to slice $160,000,000 from the tax rolls, sponsored by the administration and already approved by the majority and minority leaders of congress, was dropped into the basket on Speaker Longworth's desk a minute or so before the house was called to order. Within an hour the house had agreed to take up the measure Thursday for passage.

The proposal would authorize a 1 per cent reduction in rates on corporation and normal individual incomes of 1929.

No difficulty is expected in obtaining quick passage in the house. Action on the measure in the senate probably will follow speedily, in view of agreement on the plan between party chiefs there.

Iowa Radio Stations Unite in Merger

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Dec. 2. (AP)—Announcement that radio stations WHO of Des Moines and WOC of Davenport are to be merged under the control of a new organization to be known as the Central Broadcasting company was made here today. Erection of a 50,000 watt transmitter in a place between the present 5,000 watt stations, to broadcast synchronized programs of the two units is planned.

Farmers Must Merge Expert Says in Talk

CHICAGO, Dec. 2. (AP)—Farmers must cease to operate on a few acres of land and merge their interests as the industrial world has done if they desire to take the first step toward profitable operations, John S. Bird, president of the wheat farming commission of Hays, Kan., told the American Society of Agricultural Engineers today.

TEXAN FREED

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Dec. 2. (AP)—Roy Dodge, of Abilene, Texas, held here for investigation in connection with the robbery of the Portland Limited, was released from jail today by the sheriff's office.

JURY INDICTS OLNEY SLAYER

John M. Reese Billed For Langford Death

In a special report to Judge Allan D. Montgomery at Graham Monday afternoon the 30th district grand jury for Young county returned a murder indictment against John M. Reese, charged with the fatal shooting of Ed Langford, constable, in Olney on Nov. 18. Reese, who was arrested shortly after the shooting in the office of the Olney justice of the peace, is held without bond in the Young county jail.

Judge Montgomery announced Monday afternoon that the prisoner will be arraigned on Thursday and his trial set for the week of Dec. 16, probably falling on the Thursday or Friday, Dec. 19 and 20. A special venire will be summoned for the trial as soon as the arraignment is completed, Judge Montgomery said.

The shooting grew out of a dispute in the Reese family in which Mrs. Reese sought the aid of the constable, according to accounts given investigating officers. Langford was fatally wounded by a pistol bullet, fired through a doorway leading into the office of the Olney justice of the peace, after a conference in which Reese, Mrs. Reese, and Langford all took part.

The indictment returned Monday afternoon was in the form of a special report, requested by Judge Montgomery in order to give time for an arraignment and the drawing of the special venire. The grand jury returned to its regular work and is expected to make a complete report on Wednesday afternoon.

APPEALS COURT PONDERS LAND RIGHTS BILL

600 Defendants and River Bed Lands Involved In Hearing

SMALL BILL TESTED

Validity of Measure Written By Wellington Senator One of Issues

AUSTIN, Dec. 2. (AP)—After listening to seven hours of arguments from attorneys, the third court of civil appeals tonight considered the state's appeal from a judgment favorable to more than 600 defendants, involving title to 75 miles of the stream bed of the north fork of the Red river. The holdings are in Gray and Wheeler counties.

It will probably require several months to decide the case.

Land Worth $50,000,000

Judge George Calhoun of the Travis county district court had held on trial of the case that the land owners were entitled to the river bed, the involved area having been estimated to be worth $50,000,000, some of it being underlaid with oil. The litigation is generally known as "the Bradford case," C. W. Bradford being one of the defendants.

Involved in the points of law to be interpreted is validity of the bill written by Senator C. C. Small of Wellington giving title to the land owners of stream beds where surveys cross streams that are not navigable, but which are more than 30 feet wide. The old law classed such streams as navigable and vested title to the beds in the state.

Passed Over Veto

After the attorney general held the Small bill unconstitutional, Governor Moody vetoed it. It was resubmitted, however, and enacted by both houses of the legislature over the governor's veto. This required a two-thirds vote of each house, but the affirmative vote was far in excess of the necessary margin.

A large delegation of land owners from West Texas were present in the galleries when the legislature passed the bill over the chief executive's head.

'Politics' of Temperance Board to Be Probed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. (AP)—Chairman Caraway said today an opportunity would be given Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, to appear before the senate lobby committee to testify in regard to his request that the committee investigate the board of temperance of the Methodist Episcopal church and the federal council of churches. Caraway expected to call Tinkham in the near future. The Massachusetts member in a letter to Caraway asked that the committee "unmask the indefensible political activities" of the two organizations.

Lester to Ask Second Postponement of Trial

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, Dec. 2.—Motion for a second postponement of the trial of Clay Lester, held without bail in the Lubbock county jail charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of his estranged wife, Mrs. Vergie Lester, Oct. 24, was prepared this afternoon and will be submitted in the 99th district court Tuesday. The courtroom was packed today as the case opened after being postponed in November.

Texas-Oklahoma Bridge Contract Let

AUSTIN, Dec. 2. (AP)—Gib Gilchrist, state highway engineer, announced today that the Texas highway commission had let the contract for the Denison-Durant bridge across the Red river subject to the confirmation of the Oklahoma commission.

The Texas group made the award to the low bidder, the L. E. Myers Construction company of Dallas at $230,291.59.

HOLIDAY MONEY

Christmas Dividends Begin to Appear On Wall Street

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. (AP)—"Christmas dividends" as Wall street terms increased and extra payments authorized in December for distribution around holiday time, began to make their appearance in large numbers today as corporation directors received fairly accurate compilations of the year's results, with December estimated. Among them was Humble Oil and Refining which placed the common stock on a regular $2 annual basis, after having paid a regular annual dividend of $1.20 with quarterly extras of 20 cents each.

CHARGE FILED IN SLAYING

Frederick Prisoner Faces Murder Complaint

Special to The Record News

FREDERICK, Okla., Dec. 2.—A charge of murder in the first degree was filed today against Bill Chance, arrested several weeks ago in connection with the fatal wounding of L. C. Adkisson at his filling station 18 miles from here on the night of Nov. 8.

The charge was filed by P. V. Ruch, county attorney, who has conducted an extensive investigation of the case with the assistance of city, county and state authorities. Chance is from Tishimingo, in the eastern part of the state, where state investigators spent several days looking into criminal records, it was said.

The trial will probably come up during the week of Jan. 7 when district court opens its next session.

The arrest of Chance came a few days after the shooting of Adkisson when officers, working on a clue presented at the time of the murder, found black coloring on the back of Chance's neck. It was thought at the time, according to evidence given by Mrs. Adkisson and others, that the slayer was a negro.

The black substance on Chance's neck, apparently having remained after the rest of his face and neck had been washed, led to his arrest, officers said. Weeks of grilling and questioning were spent with Chance and two other suspects before the charge was filed.

Adkisson was shot the night of Nov. 8 when he was called from his home near the filling station by a man who asked for gasoline for a stalled car. A watch and $91 in cash was taken at the time. No trace of the watch or the money has been found and officers are still conducting a search for the pistol. Adkisson died five days after the shooting without having given a definite clue as to the identity of his slayer. Chance was said to have been a friend of the Adkisson family and visited the station a few hours before the fatal wounding.

Second Creager Libel Suit Hearing Today

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Dec. 2. (AP)—The second legal skirmish in the R. B. Creager million-dollar libel suit against Collier's magazine will be opened here tomorrow when a second motion to quash citation will be heard by Federal Judge J. C. Hutcheson.

No date for the hearing of testimony was set. Judge Hutcheson today disqualified himself to sit in the case on the grounds of friendship for the plaintiff.

A motion to quash was upheld by Judge Hutcheson in Houston recently, when he held an error had been made in filing the case in the Northern Texas district. Creager then filed the case in the Southern Texas district, and representatives of the magazine in turn filed another motion to quash it. Judge Hutcheson will hear the second motion.

Philippine Independence Asked in House Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. (AP)—A bill looking to the granting of Philippine independence was introduced today by Representative Dyer, Republican, Missouri, who proposed as a first step the setting up of an elected conference to draft a constitution.

RODEO RIDER WRITES STORY OF BANDITRY

Tom Vernon Admits Raid In California But Denies Other

PLAYED LONE HAND

Brief Account Tells of Daring Robbery Near Saugus, Calif.

PAWNEE, Okla., Dec. 2. (AP)—Tom Vernon, former rodeo rider, who was arrested here last night in connection with the robbery of a train in California, and another, later, in Wyoming, tonight confessed to the wrecking and robbing of the train in California, Allen N. Jones, Pawnee county sheriff, said.

Vernon, Sheriff Jones said, denied any part in the holdup a week ago today, near Cheyenne, Wyo., however, and said he would fight extradition to Wyoming on that charge. He told the sheriff he was willing to go to California to face a charge of robbing a train near Saugus, Calif., Nov. 10 and would not oppose extradition to that state.

Refused Job

In his confession, Vernon told the sheriff he robbed the train because he was out of work and needed money. He had been promised a job by the railroad company, he said, and "had been disappointed."

Playing a lone hand, Vernon said, he wrecked and robbed the train and made his escape without aid.

After prolonged questioning by Thomas J. Higgons, deputy sheriff of Los Angeles, Vernon signified that he was "willing to come clean."

Writes Confession

With Higgins, Sheriff Jones of Pawnee and Sheriff G. H. Romes, of Cheyenne, he sat down at a table in the sheriff's office, and taking a pencil, wrote and signed his brief confession to the California robbery.

Afterward, he was locked up again, by Sheriff Jones indicating that he probably would not be questioned further tonight regarding the Wyoming robbery. The sheriff said that Vernon probably would be interrogated in detail tomorrow morning.

Mercury Again Slides Downward

Sub-freezing temperatures, with clear skies and no indications of snow, prevailed over Southwestern Oklahoma and Northwest Texas Monday night. Probably colder weather Tuesday was in sight.

The temperature at Wichita Falls at 9 p. m. Monday was 30 degrees, according to the Texas Electric Service company thermometer, a drop of six degrees from the according at 5 p. m., which showed a temperature of 36 degrees.

The maximum temperature for the 24-hour period ending at 5 p. m. Monday was 43 degrees. The minimum for their period was 26 degrees.

The lowest temperatures in the region were reported by railroad dispatchers here to be in the vicinity of Fergan and Woodward, Okla., where temperatures from 24 to 34 degrees prevailed.

Princess Who Read Bible To Children Jailed

LONDON, Dec. 2. (UB)—Princess Sophia Lieven has been imprisoned in Moscow for reading out of the Bible to children, according to dispatches from Riga to this city today.

The princess is a daughter of the former grand master of ceremonies at the Russian imperial court and a sister-in-law of Sir Kynaston Studd, former lord mayor of London.

Husband Who Gives Wife Cash And Denies Her Credit Upheld by Court

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. (AP)—The husband who gives his wife money to pay cash instead of having her buy on his credit, won today in a decision by the District of Columbia court of appeals, which excused Representative George Huddleston of Alabama of liability for a $245 debt for furs bought by his wife, Bertha.

The Alabaman had said he gave Mrs. Huddleston $75 in cash each month for her personal expenses and had forbidden her to pledge his credit. She purchased the furs, on credit, nevertheless, paying $8 down on a coat and fox scarf costing $285.

Judgment in favor of the husband was rendered in the municipal court, and the fur merchant sued out a writ of error. Justice Charles H. Robb in today's decision said it would tend "to check extravagance (one of the most pronounced modern evils) and at the same time protect husbands, who, in good faith, have made such provisions for their wives as their means and station in life warranted, from debts thoughtlessly and needlessly contracted and often beyond the capacity of the husband to pay."

"Moreover," the decision continued, "it does not require the discernment of a Solomon to appreciate that the unauthorized purchase of goods by a wife, whose husband has adequately provided for her, inevitably will have a tendency to disturb and possibly disrupt their conjugal relations."

As for the merchant who makes such a sale as involved in the case, the appeals court held he must learn whether a wife has authority to pledge her husband's credit.

COUNCIL HEARS STREET PLAN

Name of Bridge Street May Be Changed

Prompted by the alteration and fixing of the names of several Wichita Falls streets at the last meeting of the city council, a group of property owners represented by E. E. Fischer Monday night asked that the street leading from the Wichita river bridge out toward Burkburnett, variously named Arkansas and Bridge street, be definitely named Burk road.

The aldermen signified their willingness to fix the name of the street in accordance with the wishes of the property owners, but instructed Mr. Fischer to prepare a petition signed by the majority of residents along the thoroughfare and present it at the meeting next Monday night. Alteration of the street signs ordered for the city would involve no difficulties, George D. Fairtrace, city manager, pointed out.

The council granted permits for the erection of filling stations to the Pioneer Refiners company for a station at 2514 Tenth street and to Dan Boone for a brick drive-in station at Seventh and Broad streets. A permit for establishment of a public domino parlor at 706 Ohio avenue was granted to F. H. Kelly and N. Douglas after Mr Fairtrace had signified his approval.

Thelbert Martin, city attorney, was granted a leave of absence to attend the city attorneys' convention to be held in Galveston next Friday and Saturday. The meeting will be attended by outstanding attorneys from cities in all parts of the Southwest and speakers will discuss the problems and duties arising in connection with the position of city attorney.

Contagious Diseases Increase in Month

Contagious diseases in Wichita Falls took a slight upward trend during the month of November when 20 cases were quarantined and 17 released, according to the monthly report of the city health department issued Monday. Diphtheria was the most prevalent disease, 11 cases having been confined and nine released, the report showed.

Dr. J. M. Farrell, chief inspector, made inspections of 180 cows, 193 calves, 310 hogs and 15 sheep and condemned 133 livers during the month. A total of 545 food inspections were made by members of the department, 39 notices were issued, 106 pounds of meat condemned and two arrests made, the report indicated.

Clean-up notices were issued to 259 persons and 385 sanitary inspections were made during the month. Four dairies were inspected, 30 investigations made and nine barns planned, according to the sanitary report.

November Tax Collections By City Show Decrease

Collections of city and school taxes during the month of November, with the exception of current school taxes, were considerably smaller than collections during the same month in 1928, according to the monthly report issued Monday by W. Ralph Hyer, city and school tax assessor and collector.

November, 1929, saw the collection of $6,125.91 in delinquent city taxes, $11,113.76 in current city taxes, $30 in occupation taxes, $4,-965.63 in delinquent school taxes and $19,083.90 in current school taxes, the report showed. November, 1928, saw larger amounts in each collection with the exception of current school taxes, which then amounted to $12,707.50, almost $7,-000 less than this year's November collections.

age, a tall ladder as the scale of ambition, a hand mirror to warn its owner of any shine on his trousers' seat, and the golden rule as a code of ethics, Mr. Culver declared.

"Success is not measured in terms of money," the speaker continued. "It is measured in effort. There is many a man who has a million dollars who isn't worth a thousand of it. The man who is worth lots of money is the man who makes things happen. Things don't happen of themselves. The applied energy of man makes them happen."

Eulogizing the influence of adversity upon individual success, Mr. Culver declared that necessity is a man's propeller, and as in aviation, as long as the propeller is running at normal speed, no trouble is apt to develop.

"I asked Harvey Firestone a personal question: had he ever had to struggle. His reply was: 'Struggle? I've struggled from the hour I crawled from my cradle. And in the greatest financial crisis I have faced, the solution was for me to take off my coat and get to work.'"

Predicts Growth Here

"This is a hard and gold world," continued the speaker, "and it doesn't give a rap for you. You will get out of it only what you put in through honest effort. The only other thing that will aid you in getting out what you want is this little thing—your head. Make your brain a little more effective through more practice in thinking and the grade won't be so steep."

Referring to the opportunities for future growth of this community, Mr. Culver declared that the agricultural, poultry raising, dairying, industrial, and marketing resources of this city are such that it should reach a population of 120,000 within a few years.

"I want to say this to you, too: I have seen this afternoon in Wichita Falls the finest, most beautiful subdivision that I have seen anywhere in the entire United States."

"The definition of 'realtor' implies a difference between him and the old time real estate man," Mr. Culver said. "The requirements used to be an office, a desk, a chair, the hometown paper and a pipe. The realtor of today is a regular fellow, a man who recognizes his duty and responsibility to the community, who recognizes that property is the greatest of all investments, and who respects the code of ethics drawn up by his national association."

Mr. Culver outlined some of the services rendered by the national organization in recent years through the 10 departments which it maintains at national headquarters. Standardization of practices, passage of much corrective legislation, elimination of many tax burdens on the business, and provision of systematic training courses in 68 universities in the country were among the achievements mentioned. Restoration of public confidence in the real estate business generally was called one of its foremost accomplishments.

Aviation Review

Mr. Culver opened his address with a brief resume of the development of aviation in recent years. All of his travel during the past 24 months has been by airplane, and during the past 18 months he and Capt. James B. Dickson, pilot, have flown about 90,000 miles, he said. He has never had any mishap in connection with a plane.

"Within three years this Stinson-Detroiter 6-place cabin plane in which we now travel, and which we consider luxurious, will be only a kite. Cross-country and round-the-world trips in a short time will be as common as Sunday school picnics. Two or three more years will see gigantic liners flying from the Atlantic to the Pacific with all Pullman and diner service provided. We shall leave Los Angeles after breakfast and take dinner in New York. Aviation is so in its infancy that we can not even imagine the extent of its future development."

Referring to the value of airports near a city, the speaker said: "We now have 58 landing fields within a few miles of Los Angeles. Ten years ago we had four, and wondered what we should do with them. The city of Oakland, Calif., had some difficulty in passing its bonds to provide adequate ports, but during the month of November, just closed, they had 7,500 takeoffs from their fields. Each takeoff meant $10 to $50 left there in gas and oil and other supplies. Chicago anticipates receipts of $10,900,000 annually from her airports."

Fifty-eight airlines are now in operation in this country, the speaker said, with 167 factories engaged in production of planes. The German plane which a few months ago rose from the water in 28 seconds with 169 passengers comprising a cargo of 51 tons is the forerunner of transcontinental planes which will soon be operating on regular schedule in every part of the world, Mr. Culver said.

"Captain Dickson and I have not had the slightest mishap," said the speaker, "and that is due, I think, to our following three rules: we never fly by night; we never fly in a fog; and we do no stunt flying."

The United States should make ready for a good year in 1930, according to the speaker, indicating that all signs point to an era of pronounced prosperity. "I look for an unprecedented demand for real estate during the coming year," he declared. "Be a booster. Boost for those who help the community. The booster becomes a leader, and the philosophy of boosting is contagious."

Mr. Hamilton, in expressing appreciation on behalf of those present for Mr. Culver's address, remarked that the speaker was among the men called into conference recently by President Hoover for the formulation of plans for revitalizing industry in this country.

Numerous speakers were called upon by Mr. Hamilton before asking Mr. Hines to take charge of the meeting. Discussing the deep oil drilling project they spoke in part as follows:

J. A. Kemp: "Mr. Culver's speech cured my cold. I have never heard a more inspiring address. As he said, we are just now on the threshold of an era of great development. There is no doubt in my mind but that this deep oil drilling campaign will prove the greatest economic movement ever completed in this community. I have not yet heard anyone knock it, and I believe I never shall."

C. H. Clark: "Sale of bonds by the city of Fort Worth and other recent transactions in the world of finance indicate that there is much more money available now for legitimate investment than before the recent Wall street development. When we talk about deep drilling here, we speak not of going out and spending $1,000,000 to sink 10 holes. That would just cost a million dollars. This fund we are making up will be wisely administered by men whose judgment I am more than willing to trust, and will prove the best investment we have ever made in this section of the state.

Logical Time

"When this oil company's formation is completed, these wells can be drilled for a very small part of the $1,000,000 which we are raising. This is a community affair. It is worth more to the average small investor as an avenue for profitable investment than to the oil operator. This is the best time we could have for launching such a campaign of drilling. The oil business has just passed its 'dead time.' Investments in oil property wisely made today should be worth twice their present valuation within a year, by natural improvement in the market. The world is driven today by crude oil. The only way the world's supply can be conserved is for the government to so influence the price of petroleum products that gasoline will be used only for those things for which it should be used."

J. T. Harrell: "We have long overlooked our greatest opportunity in this community. More than anything else, we have needed a strong oil company. Not more than 25 per cent of the production in this area is owned here; returns from the other 75 per cent go away from Wichita Falls. This new deep oil company will give us 100 per cent ownership of its production, and we should keep it that way."

James E. McKanna: "I believe oil is here. My geologist tells me it is, and tells me to invest. I should like to cooperate with this new company in drilling deep wells, and am sure I shall have no complaints about the results."

R. E. Huff: "I have a great deal of faith in the men here who know the oil business, and I have faith in the citizens of this community. They need only to come to life again and sell themselves thoroughly on Wichita Falls and the surrounding territory. There is nothing we can not do if we will but set ourselves to it. Don't say 'they' when referring to this deep oil drilling project. Say 'We.'"

Mr. Hines reviewed the development of oil producing areas near Wichita Falls, stating that oil first was found at 900 feet near Electra about 20 years ago, and that new levels have been developed successively until now a 2600-foot sand in the south Wilbarger field is producing regularly.

"Production from sands now known will be developed in any wells sunk in search of deep oil," said Mr. Hines, "and I am sure that returns from such production will assure dividends to investors, even before deep levels are reached.

"There is no reason why we can not expect the expenditure of from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 in this community by outside interests when we get our $1,000,000 assembled and ready to work," he continued. "And that influx of capital will directly benefit every citizen of this area."

It was announced that $473,000 worth of stock in the Deep Oil Development company had been subscribed up to Monday night, $27,000 of it having been placed during the day. More than $9,000 worth of subscriptions were received during the course of Monday night's banquet, it was stated.

Mrs. Eppie Trigg and daughter, Helen Louise, and H. L. Eckhardt, all of Fort Worth, and friends of Mr. Culver, were guests at the banquet. They will return to Fort Worth with Mr. Culver in his plane Tuesday morning at 10:20 o'clock.

SHOOK'S TRIAL SET FOR DEC. 16

Former Officer's Case to Be Heard at Graham

The trial of Tom Shook, former Electra police chief charged with robbery with firearms, was formally set Monday for the morning of Dec. 16 in the 30th district court at Graham. Judge Allan D. Montgomery, sitting in the Young county section of the court, Monday drew a venire of 75 men from which the jury will be chosen.

The trial of Shook was transferred from Wichita county late in October on a defense plea alleging prejudice growing out of widespread publicity and political feeling. Shook, a fugitive for more than a year after a spectacular jail break here in 1928, is under five indictments, one charging murder, in Wichita county, and under a second murder charge in Tennessee.

The trial set Monday for Dec. 16 charges the former police chief with the robbery of J. B. Early in the Jefferson hotel in Electra in the spring of 1928, a few months after Shook's term of office had expired. He was jointly indicted with Ed Pryor, former Electra constable, and Henry Shumate in connection with a series of three hold-ups in Electra. In the course of the trials of Ed Pryor, now under an eight-year sentence, Shumate has admitted committing the actual robberies, claiming that he was encouraged and offered protection by the officers.

Rabbit Table Show Slated Thursday Night

Members of the American Rabbit & Cavy Breeders' association of Texas will sponsor a table show for rabbits of all classes and breeds to be held at the city hall annex on Ohio avenue Thursday night, Dec. 5, at 7:30 o'clock, according to William E. Smith, corresponding secretary.

Rabbit growers of all communities near this city are invited to enter their exhibits in the show, Mr. Smith said. Judging will be done by J. H. Stanfield of this city, with ribbons for winning entries.

Police Court Imposes Total Fines Of $2,301 During Month; 609 Arrests

The corporation court imposed 77 fines amounting to $2,301 and the police department made a total of 609 arrests during the month of November, according to the monthly report issued Monday by R. M. Hurst, clerk of the court.

The department recovered unassisted six stolen automobiles valued at $1,895 and assisted in the recovery of eight machines valued at $2,400. A total of 288 prisoners were lodged in the city jail and 28 of that number served out their time. Officers investigated and released 152 prisoners, released one to the state hospital, four to the juvenile officer, held four for other counties and one for another state. Five prisoners were transfered to federal authorities, nine to state authorities and four to the county.

Prisoners serving time relieved $271 in fines, two cases were appealed to higher courts and relieved $20 in fines, and one $5 fine was released. November collections in the court amounted to $2,005 and those from previous dates totaled $8, bringing the total collections for the month to $2,013. Nine persons were found not guilty, 36 cases were dismissed and 343 bonds were forfeited, making a total of 463 cases disposed of in November.

The arrests were distributed as follows: Traffic, 280; drunk, 81; disturbing the peace, 5; affray, 5; assault, 5; violating the vice ordinance, 10; vagrancy, 16; operating a service car without a chauffeur's license, 1; gaming, 15; abusive language, 2; theft under $5, 5; soliciting, 2; and violating the hog ordinance, 2.

Airport Notes

The administration building at the Municipal airport is at last a reality. Only the stucco exterior work and the finishing interior woodwork remain to be completed and work is fast nearing the last touches. The building will be ready for occupants within the month, it is thought. In addition, the graveling of the road from the Burk highway to the port has been started and about one-quarter of the stretch had been completed Monday. The gravel, hard packed, will extend from the highway to 50 feet beyond the hangar. Most of the improvements planned will be completed in time to allow planting of flowers, grass and shrubs in the spring for beautification of the grounds about the Spanish fort type building.

Monday's visitors at the Municipal port included Harry H. Culver of Culver City, Calif., president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, who landed about 4 p. m. in his Stinson J6 six-place cabin monoplane from Oklahoma City with Pilot J. B. Dickson at the controls. He will take off again about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, it was announced. James E. McKanna landed about 3:10 o'clock Monday afternoon from Fort Worth with a party of friends in his Travelair J6-9 cabin monoplane. He left Wichita Falls in the ship with Pilot Burton L. Walker at the controls last Friday. G. A. Manahan of Tulsa, with Pilot E. A. Fields at the stick, landed Sunday in his Ryan J6-9 monoplane en route to Bomarton, Texas, on business in the oil fields.

November Building Totals $48,652 Here

Building permits during the month of November totaled $48,652, more than doubling the total for the previous month, according to the monthly report issued Monday in the office of F. M. Rugely, city engineer.

The total for the year on Dec. 1 stood at $1,325,218, about $317,000 of that amount having been added by surburban permits for structures in the immediate vicinity of the city. November's permits amounted to less than those of any month in the year with the exception of September, the report showed.

WICHITA RIVER STILL SEIZED

Man Jailed by Iowa Park Officers

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Dec. 2.—One man was arrested and a still with a capacity of 150 gallons, 40 gallons of liquor and eight barrels of mash were seized by officers late Monday afternoon in a raid on the Wichita river about six miles south of here.

The raiding party was composed of Constable J. P. Williams of Iowa Park and two federal prohibition agents of this district. The still was to be brought into town and transferred to the county jail at Wichita Falls. The man arrested was taken by the federal officers to Wichita Falls Monday evening.

San Antonio Soldier Charged With Murder

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 12. (AP)—Grady Nichols, Fort Sam Houston soldier was in the Bexar county jail here today, charged with murder, following the finding of the body of R. W. Hall, sign painter of Lometa, in an alley Sunday night.

Hall's skull was crushed in four places. A piece of tiling with blood on it was found near the body. He had been in San Antonio only a few days.

No motive for the crime was known.

Wichita Kiddies to Have Frolic With Santa At Auditorium

More than 1,000 Wichita Falls children whose homes Santa Claus might fail to visit will be entertained and presented with gifts on Christmas eve at a program and Christmas tree at the Memorial auditorium when St. Nick will pause in his rounds long enough to distribute gifts and talk with the children.

Tentative plans for the affair were begun Monday by Miss Myrle Neely, executive secretary of the community chest, after she had received word that Santa Claus would be present. A large Christmas tree will be decorated and lighted in front of the auditorium and another inside, on which the gifts will be hung. Civic clubs and persons interested in community work will assist in arranging the program.

Erection of Street Markers to Start

Streets in Wichita Falls will begin to lose their air of mystery and at last become recognizable within the next 10 days when work on the erection of street signs at all intersections will start, according to the announcement Monday of Gebrge D. Fairtrace, city manager.

A shipment of 1,150 posts of two-inch pipe in 10-foot lengths has been received and work is now under way on cleaning and painting the pipe, Mr. Fairtrace said. A special crew of men has been detailed for the work. The pipe came coated with a thick layer of grease and blow torches are being used to clean them for painting. Erection will begin when the painting is completed.

Each post will be set up in a concrete base two and one-half feet deep and the signs, including the cross arms and the headers will be about nine feet high. In the downtown section, the signs will be mounted with brackets on lamp posts. All of the headers have been received and 2,700 of the signs are ready for erection, the other half not yet received.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

"WHEN TO BUY"

For some time the real estate market in Wichita Falls has been a buyers' market, which means that the owner could not very well place a price on his own property with any certainty of securing a purchaser. On the other hand, the prospective purchaser could set a figure at which he could reasonably call a bargain price and feel reasonably assured he would find what he desired and on terms suitable to his needs. This condition practically prevails today.

The majority of prospective buyers have made up their minds that they will take advantage of the local situation before an upward trend in values is started. However, most people do not buy on a downward trend of prices or when prices are stable, but always on a rising market. They wait for the point of recovery before they realize that the owner too is aware of an improved condition as soon as the purchaser is—the owner not wanting to sell on an upward market trend and the buyer wanting to buy before values increase. The owner takes advantage of the situation and the purchaser paying the added increase to avoid still higher prices. This same psychological effect brought about wild speculation in the stock market.

Speculation in stocks by those who have had a surplus of cash; the high rate of call money in New York luring banks all over the country to take the surplus money out of local channels and place it at a high interest rate in the East; insurance companies and other corporations usually buying real estate bonds and mortgages also taking advantage of the high interest rate on call money; building and loan associations being forced to limit loans on account of withdrawals for speculative purposes, has resulted in very little money being available for real estate development and for the refinancing of maturing paper. This has affected real estate values, not only here but everywhere.

The speculative stock market has collapsed; the interest rate on call money has declined and should decline further. The banks will now keep the surplus money at home where it belongs; individuals, instead of speculating in the rise of stocks will now begin to look for legitimate investments in the buying of notes, bonds and mortgages on real estate. Foresighted business men predict greater interest in the purchase of sound business investments instead of speculative stocks. Easier money will be available for legitimate purposes and a growing interest in real estate development will prevail because of increased money circulation which for the past 18 months has been flowing eastward. Real estate values increase as soon as money is available for financing construction.

Every sign points to an increase in real estate activity and that real estate values have reached bottom. All of which indicates that now is the best time to buy a home if it is to be secured at bottom prices, as values will rise on an easier money market.

In addition to the favorable prospects above mentioned, the organization of the Deep Oil Development Company, headed by Mr. Frank Kell and a Board of Directors successful in their respective lines of business, is possibly the best means of restoring old time vaules to real estate in this city.

Since this organization was announced, independent operators and major oil companies have begun to look with considerable favor on this project which stands a fair chance to open up new fields at new depths. With $1,000,000.00 behind it to begin with the possibilities are unlimited. No city in the United States has been advertised as has Wichita Falls because of tremendous profits made here in the oil business by people from every section of the country. Should new horizons be discovered, the news will spread and people will flock back here in greater numbers than ever before. There are great possibilities ahead of us. There is an opportunity now for profits in real estate if investors want to take advantage of it. Certainly there is nothing to lose at the prices prevailing at the present time. Real estate activity should improve within the next four months, and we believe Wichita Falls property is a safe and sound investment.

Daily Editorial

NEIGHBOR HOOVER and the folks have been figuring how agriculture can best meet local and federal responsibilities.

Sitting around a figurative store-stove, with conversational whittling knives, instead of trading arguments and votes with senate committees, seems the preferable way to iron out such differences of opinion as exist between economic and official groups.

The farmers think that a little help in state road building and easier credit terms will do much to improve the outlook, provided congress establishes their tariff parity with industry, and Doctor Legge's Golden Soothing Syrup continues to alleviate glue-ache and market indigestion.

But Mr. Hoover might well have taken the occasion to stress the necessity of further diversification on the range and grange.

Most of the troubles from which food raising has lately suffered originate in single cropping.

It prefers to bear wheat, which demands the slightest cultivation, engages the minimum of effort and enables one to sit in the porch rocking chair half the months of the year, swap grouches and sing songs of hate at Wall street, to the accompaniment of radio programs.

MEANWHILE Argentina and Saskatchewan and the Antipodes are also seeding grain and dolce far nienting.

So that we usually have more breadstuffs sprouting about the earth than consumption ordered.

Consequently, the law of supply and demand is able to fix prices to its own satisfaction, which leaves the staple specialist on the short end of the profit limb.

Until that situation mends, agriculture must pay the piper.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul was lately in the same fix. It over-produced mileage and didn't find a prompt enough outlet for it.

The system couldn't diversify traffic as fast as overhead required. There weren't sufficient towns along the route to sustain needed accommodation trains—not enough short hauls or contributing feeders.

The powers-that-were chose the wrong promotion hour. But development has since crowded its freight fleets with tonnage and the right-of-way with communities and plowed lands. So the project which was lately a failure, is now making the grade.

The department store splits its activities into as many sorts of stock as possible.

Merchants diversify sources of income to reduce the risk of misjudging seasonal selections and spending trends.

The tire manufacturer diversifies. Goodyear is building airships, household utilities, rubber shoes, belting and heaven knows what not, instead of pinning dividend faiths exclusively on automobile outlet.

When the manufacturer is over-inventoried, he's lucky to get 50 cents on the dollar for unabsorbed goods.

When the retailer mis-picks the fashions, he can't hope for a return of over half their cost.

Surplus is simply a penalty of miscalculation. And there's no method, except commonsense, individually applied, to correct errors of judgment in the factory or on the farm.

When a railroad over-estimates the shipping possibilities of territory, it lands in receivership. Its securities drop from par to fractional quotations.

Mismanagement exacts pounds of flesh from all balance sheets, and half the farmer's difficulties are the fruits of bad management.

Farming, and no other business, can be made to pay unless there are heads as well as hands working in the fields.

ROYAL WELCOME

LONDON, Dec. 2. (INS)—King Christian and Queen Alexandrine of Denmark were welcomed by the Prince of Wales upon their arrival here today from Harwich where they landed from the motorship Esbjerg.

At a recent livestock show in Kansas City, "the Ideal Hog" was exhibited. The dispatch didn't say where the animal was found, but it's safe to guess it was the man who sits in the Pullman smoking early in the morning while 12 are trying to shave.

The Tunneys have set sail for home, it is reported. Mr. Tunney, you know, is the man who was sued.

A Farmer to a Banker

IN A CERTAN SMALL TOWN in Iowa there lives a banker. Being a corn belt banker, he is, in spirit at least, a farmer; that is, he has the farmer's viewpoint instead of what we ordinarily consider the banker's viewpoint.

Well, this banker has a brother who is an official in a very large and important bank in Chicago. This man, quite naturally, has the banker's viewpoint right up to the hilt. To the marrow of his bones he is a member of the financial oligarchy.

A short time ago, when the great stock market collapse left this oligarchy gasping and blinking, the Iowa banker wrote to his brother, the Chicago banker.

"What you people need," he wrote, "is to reduce by half the number of loans you have outstanding, so that those you retain will be worth more. On top of that, you must all get down to work and get your own salvation by the sweat of your brows, for nobody can help you. Industry and frugality must be your watchwords now."

This is rather strange advice to be giving to a big city banker, but the giving of it gave the Iowa man intense pleasure. Because, you see, he was merely handing back precisely the advice that the big city bankers had given the farmers a few years ago when the whole agricultural region was seized by a depression.

That is exactly the sort of thing that big business—and big money—was unctuously telling the farmer recently. Government help? Special legislation to help the farmer? Tosh! Let the farmer work out his own salvation. Let him cut down his acreage, so that total crop production will be smaller and the price per bushel will be higher. Above all, let him work and work hard, trusting to his own industry for salvation and not to any help from the outside.

That is the sort of stuff on which the farmers, driven to the wall by the post-war depression, were fed for years.

Now, however, the shoe is on the other foot. But is anyone talking to big business as they talked to the farmers? Not at all. The highest government officials lose no time in rushing to help. The nation rings with the trumpet calls that summon the captains of industry and finance to the barricades.

All of this is perfectly natural, of course, and probably it's all perfectly proper. It is, however, rather illuminating. It helps one to understand the exact nature of the civilization in which we are living.

The dollar, if squeezed hard enough, talks louder than any group of men can possibly talk. The banker and the farmer are men from two different worlds.

"Until Death Do Us Part"

AN ENTERPRISING LIFE INSURANCE ACTUARY in Birmingham, Ala., has figured out how much longer husbands and wives may expect to be together—of course, barring divorce. He has compiled a table of various ages, showing the number of years married couples of various ages may expect to travel along life's road until separated by death.

These sample figures, taken from his table, show his estimates of the length of married life remaining:

Present Ages—	Married Life Expectation
Husband 20, wife 20	35.5 years
Husband 25, wife 20	33.6 years
Husband 30, wife 25	30.4 years
Husband 35, wife 30	27.3 years
Husband 40, wife 35	24.2 years
Husband 45, wife 40	20.9 years
Husband 50, wife 40	18.7 years
Husband 55, wife 45	15.5 years
Husband 60, wife 50	12.6 years

Consideration of these figures is bound to make the question of marriage, often decided lightly by young people in a moment of infatuation, seem more important. When a girl or a boy of 20, say, realizes that he or she is choosing a partner for the next 35 years (barring death or divorce, of course) the importance of the choice becomes apparent.

A little more consideration of this fact at the beginning might go far toward reducing the number of divorces in later years.

The World's Dictators

THE WAR "to make the world safe for democracy" was fought 11 years ago, but you'd never guess it was won if you looked over the list of nations that are governed by dictators at present:

The latest records show the following:

Monarchies—Hungary, Regent Horthy; Italy, Premier Mussolini; Jugoslavia, King Alexander; Persia, Shah Riza Kahn; Spain, Premier de Rivera.

Apparently, a lot of the world's population still desires to place governmental affairs in the hands of a certain man and give him full power. Or, maybe, these certain men have just been smart enough to grab the power.

Marriage for Two-- By Arthur Somers Roche

Shortly after an interview in which Helen Wilson tells Larry Tracy that she wishes to break their engagement so that she can marry the wealthy, middle-aged Frank Burton, and Larry swears, in pique, to marry the first girl who will have him, he rescues from a park bench a starved but beautiful girl, Joyce Carroll.

Realizing that she is penniless and ill, and respecting her desire to hide the poverty from the world, he takes her to his own home.

That same day a newspaper reporter arrives with Mrs. Wilson's announcement of the breaking of an engagement. Larry, incensed by the notoriety Helen is causing him, and thinking only of his desire to hurt her, asks Joyce to marry him.

She consents, and they are married, agreeing that their marriage will in reality be only a friendship.

Of his wife, Larry knows nothing more than her name, but at least one denizen of the underworld, Ratty Rogan, read the announcement of her wedding with a gleam of anticipation.

Bride and Groom

Then she turned her head away from him, and they arrived in silence at the house. Behind Hogan could be seen the smiling face of Nora, and Kinjo, the Jap cook, a chef's cap looking strangely out of place above his swarthy countenance.

But the welcome that had been planned for the bride and groom died a-borning. Even loyal old Hogan could not maintain the pretense of celebration. Not in the face of the set, stern countenances of these two young people. So the planned boisterousness became a courtesy on the part of Nora, a sickly grin on the part of Kinjo, and an abashed lowering of the eyelids on the part of Hogan.

"Then, in the library, the young couple were alone. Tracy was first to break the silence.

"It is usual," he said, "for a newly married couple to go on a wedding trip."

"Whatever you like," she replied, indifferently.

"It's what you like," he said.

"I?" She shrugged. "If my usefulness"—she stressed the word—"can be increased by a wedding journey, then I suppose it is my duty to become enthusiastic at the prospect."

He sat down deliberately, first placing a chair for her.

"Suppose," he said, "that we come to a reasonable understanding. Anger, recrimination, quarreling, will get us nowhere. We both very deliberately did a thing. We are both—well, not proud of it. But—we've done it. We must continue, so far as the rest of the world is concerned, to pretend we are happy. That will be difficult if—we quarrel when we are alone. I shall not inflict myself upon you forever. There is such a thing as divorce, and, after a reasonable length of time, I shall not interfere with your procuring a divorce. In the meantime, suppose we consult each other's inclination, show that courtesy to each which will make it possible for us not to be—too miserable."

Her face, that had been stern, softened slightly.

"Let's" she said, with a return of the impulsiveness that had seemed part of her. "At least, if we despise ourselves, let's not try to despise each other."

"Fair enough," said Tracy.

They found themselves shaking hands on the bargain, and Tracy was aware of the fact that her hand was both soft and firm at the same time. Then their fingers fell apart.

"I should like, if you don't mind not to go anywhere," she said. "I—I'm still tired."

"Of course," said Tracy.

He watched her go from the room and he was conscious of admiration for the dignity with which she moved. In the doorway she stopped and looked back.

"May I—dine in my room?" she asked.

He nodded assent. Then she was gone. He sank into a chair, to remain, absolutely still, until Hogan announced dinner. Then, white, strained, worrying about what Hogan was thinking even while he assured himself that it didn't matter what Hogan thought, he dined. That ordeal successfully undergone, he instructed Hogan to tell any newspapermen who, having learned of his marriage, would wish to revive the sensation of last week that he and Mrs. Tracy—how odd the title sounded were out of town. Then he went to that room which he had occupied since Joyce's arrival in his house.

How cheap a thing revenge was! And how futile, especially when one's revenge reacted—as all revenge must—upon one's self. What an ass! What a wicked fool! He, Laurence Tracy, to have married a woman about whom he knew nothing beyond the fact that her name had been Joyce Carroll.

Ratty Rogan

But there were, in this city, others who knew more of his wife than the man who had married her. And one of these, aptly though not euphoniously known as Ratty Rogan, looked up from the evening paper, with its glaring headline:

Laurence Tracy Marries
Joyce Carroll
Jilted Fiance of Helen Wilson Finds Solace With Another Girl

to smile beautifully.

"So," said Rogan, "that's where she went. That's what happened. How in hell did she cop herself a swell like that? And what do I get for keeping me mouth shut about—everything?"

For the Tracy-Carroll wedding was to stir more than the upper world. The underworld would ripple also.

A Sensation

The Bachelors' club buzzed. Over at the Mallet, tongues wagged as gayly and incessantly as ever a group of spinsters at a sewing circle condemned a wayward sister. For men are even greater gossips than women, and the fiction that they are not is but one of thousands whereby the masculine sex seeks to bolster up the false premise of its superiority.

Not that the women ignored the subject. After all, when something exciting happens in the business world, all interested in business discuss the matter. A big failure in Wall Street may not, at first thought, seem important to a country grocer, and one may wonder at his intense interest. But everything that disturbs business, or credit, may react unfavorably toward his collection of overdue accounts, so his interest has the solid foundation of selfishness.

Marriage is still the supreme business of women. The arts, the professions and commercial ventures may attract increasing thousands, but the millions still look forward to husbands as the climax of achievement. So that Larry Tracy's sudden marriage to an utterly unknown girl was the choicest bit of the morning menu offered by the daily press.

Here was what is generally known as an eligible bachelor. In other words, he came of what is commonly considered a good family, i. e., his more immediate ancestors had succeeded in amassing a comfortable fortune without going to jail. In addition to wealth, he belonged to the correct clubs, knew the so-called right people.

The young woman in Harlem, whose highest aspiration was a shipping clerk, nevertheless took the same interest in Larry Tracy, to whom she could never look forward, that Park avenue took Harlem, and the avenues—men, husbands, were the ultimate goal, and a slackening of the market at the top was a matter of importance to those less highly placed.

Public Property

Newspaper editors know what their readers want, and they knew that the marriage of Larry Tracy, following so closely upon his receiving his congé from Helen Wilson, was the biggest news feature of the day. The afternoon editions bulletined the news, but the press on the next morning spread it in immense headlines for the world to read.

The family history of Larry Tracy; his disinterest in what was generally known as society; his youth; his travels abroad; his engagement to Helen Wilson; her jilting of him; the rumors that she was to marry a much older man of many millions; the mystery as to the identity of the bride; all these things combined to make a good story.

It was all very well for Larry to tell his butler to get rid of inquisitive newspaper folk, but it was a different thing for Hogan to carry out his master's orders. When Larry looked up at the breakfast tray which Hogan brought in the next morning, the old man asked him to look out the window.

There gathered in laughing groups across the street, were groups of easily identifiable newspaper folk. Cameramen were there, also, and Tracy felt a sinking of the heart as he realized, for the first time in his life, what pitiless publicity could mean. It did not occur to him that he had invited this publicity, that he had wished to humiliate Helen, and that when we attempt injury to others we cannot always escape injury ourselves. The bomb-thrower is frequently blown to bits himself, and the reaction of injury against the one who inflicts it is one of the laws of nature.

He looked up at Hogan. That faithful servitor silently handed him the morning papers. Revived were the snapshots of a week ago. There were pictures of Helen, of her mother, of Frank Burton. He would not read the stories, but a glance at them told him that speculation was rife as to the identity of his wife. There was even, in one paper, a headline asking who was Joyce Carroll?

He smiled grimly. Beyond answering that she was now Mrs. Laurence Tracy, he could not answer that question himself.

"It looks as though they're going to hang around a long time," he said to Hogan.

The old man nodded. "If I might suggest, Mr. Laurence——"

"Go ahead," said Tracy.

"If you left town for a while—maybe went abroad—gave the newspapers time to find another sensation——"

"My marriage is a sensation, then," commented Tracy.

Hogan permitted himself the liberty of a shrug.

"There's fifty telegrams, sir," the butler said.

"Keep them—I'll read them some other time," said Tracy.

Hogan nodded. Tracy climbed out

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

PHILLIPS

If it isn't one thing it's another. Now some zealous prober into things that do not matter, has discovered that there are fewer bathtubs in the United States than there are automobiles.

There must be a reason. Perhaps it's the musical horns.

There is but one bathtub to every 20 Americans whereas there is one automobile to every seven, the figures show. You can't dismiss a discovery like that with a nonchalant, "What of it?" It's a serious matter. It must prove something. One of the things it means is that the American public has come definitely to the conclusion it can't see the country from a bathtub. That's elemental, Watson, elemental.

The disproportionate average may also be partly explained by the growing realization that the average young woman won't do any "necking" in a tub. And, even if she would, a fellow looks so darned silly dragging a bathtub around the country roads trying to find a good place to park!

It must also be admitted that the possession of an automobile carries with it a certain prestige that doesn't go with a tub. For example you never hear a girl raving about a boy friend because he has the loveliest streamline 1929 bathtub with nickel trimmings.

And then, too, nobody can ever feel the satisfaction of meeting on the road some fellow he doesn't like and passing him in a faster tub. It just can't be done.

Two fellows and two beautiful girls would look like the devil, everybody will concede, going to the big football game in a bathtub.

Maybe the manufacturers are to blame. If they want to sell as many bathtubs as there are automobiles, they should change the models twice a year, put in an electric cigaret lighter and turn them out in more brilliant colors.

And the bathtub men should take a lesson from the motor car magnates in advertising. A few billboard posters showing "Miss Gloria Prozzle, noted society belle, in her new 127-inch underslung big six bathtub—used by fastidious people everywhere" might help.

And some slogans such as "When Better Bathtubs Are Built Crane Will Build Them," "Ask the Man Who Bathes in One," "The Tub You'll Eventually Splash In," and "Built Up to a Standard Not Down to a Wash."

It's all pretty alarming. Who knows but what somebody may discover any day now that there are more monkey-wrenches in America than soap dishes? And more radiator ornaments than Turkish towels!

First Methodist W. M. S. Names New Officers

At an overflow meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the First Methodist church, Mrs. W. W. Cook was re-elected president for the coming year. Officers were named at the luncheon served in the basement of the old church by members of circle seven, Mrs. Dick Levy, chairman.

The morning meeting was opened with a lovely devotional by Mrs. Cook who read the always comforting Scripture passage beginning, "Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid"; and spoke of it always reminding her of her mother's voice as she read it to her children. Mrs. Cook's comments on the Scripture were of comforting assurance of rest.

Mesdames S. S. McKenney and W. C. Russell talked of the buildings on and the conferences held at Mount Sequoyah in the Ozarks where so many splendid lessons are given in the work of the church, and a pleasant and economical resting place is furnished for returned missionaries and superannuated ministers and their wives.

A splendid talk was made by Mrs. Glen Laskey, district superintendent of social service who told of attending a social service conference held recently in Dallas, and classified the work in its different phases. Mrs. Laskey said that in childhood, the dreams we have of helping are perfected in the fairy tales we read and the stories of knights who gave valiant service. But we still yearn to help in the hard places on earth as we grow older, and social service is a field where that yearning may be assuaged.

At luncheon, about 150 people were present. The tables were decorated with yellow chrysanthemums except for the officers' table which had beautiful bowls of the great feathery blossoms in various colors. A delicious turkey dinner was served to the large crowd and finishing the dinner, the report of the nominating committee was read by Mrs. Q. B. Lee, who had each retiring officer present, introduce the officer for the incoming year.

Officers who will serve are: President, Mrs. W. W. Cook; vice president, Mrs. Homer Lee; recording secretary, Mrs. W. W. Silk; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Wayne Somerville; conference treasurer, Mrs. J. J. Perkins; treasurer, Mrs. Bert Bean; "Voice" agent, Mrs. N. H. Martin; superintendent of mission study, Mrs. Q. B. Lee; superintendent of Bible study, Mrs. R. L. Underwood; superintendent of children, Mrs. W. A. Miller; leader of juniors, Miss Sallye Mae Arwood; leader of primaries, Mrs. A. L. Proctor; superintendent of babies, Mrs. G. C. Bullington; superintendent of social service, Mrs. W. H. Downing; superintendent of supplies, Mrs. A. B. Lipscomb; superintendent of publicity, Mrs. Horrace Robbins; representative to federated missions, Mrs. B. P. Williams; press representative, Mrs. A. W. Karrenbrock.

New circle leaders are: Circle one, Mrs. J. W. Akin Sr.; circle two, to be organized by Mrs. Phil Lesh; circle three, Mrs. M. B. Taylor; circle four, Mrs. L. C. Ulrich; circle five, Mrs. R. E. Fisher; circle six, Mrs. J. C. Hanks; circle seven, to be organized by Mrs. Dick Levy; circle eight, Mrs. S. S. McKenney.

Following luncheon, circle leaders gave reports and pledges of each circle were entirely collected or the amount went over.

Outstanding reports were given by the officers of the past year. The gathering was dismissed by prayer given by Mrs. E. B. Gorsline.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Grand days for sport, these cold, bright, early winter days. And the fishermen have been taking advantage of it. Out at Lake Wichita they bring home the limit—at least some of them do. We have had samples more than once. One day, we had six of the most gorgeous crappie (we meant that adjective), brought to our door and a young "senior" member of the family had the unmitigated nerve to ask for one for her biology class.

◆ ◆ ◆

When we ridiculed the idea, she said, "But it would give me so many credits!" as if that were sufficient reason to give up a good crappie. She did not get it—for biology.

◆ ◆ ◆

People are going hunting now in Kerr county—the Texas happy hunting ground for deer, it seems.

◆ ◆ ◆

We know of families who have gone and are not telling us about it; but if they kill deer, we will look for the news. When they don't catch fish, many never mention a trip.

◆ ◆ ◆

About the youngest hunter of whom we know is Carter McGregor, 12 years old. He went to Kerrville with his grandfather, W. M. McGregor, and he has killed his first buck.

◆ ◆ ◆

He could not manage the gun in his heavy coat, so stood out in the cold waiting for about 20 minutes. When he sighted the buck, he fired once and missed; undaunted, he fired again and the second shot brought down the game.

◆ ◆ ◆

That isn't all. Carter McGregor, aged 12, is bringing home a wild turkey he killed. We wish we had a 12-year-old in Kerr county hunting for us.

◆ ◆ ◆

Hunting and fishing are sports for both sexes these days. We wonder if the "new silhouette" will make any difference in women hunting.

◆ ◆ ◆

Straight lines and boyish figures are no longer the vogue. Little black and white silhouettes on the walls are also a quaint and pretty development of the past year, resurrected from the time of about George and Martha Washington.

Grace Methodist Aid Has Business Meeting

Members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Grace Methodist church met in the parlors of the church Monday afternoon for the regular monthly business session with the president, Mrs. G. W. Corkhill, in charge.

Devotionals were lead by Mrs. B. H. Davidson when the Bible lesson used concerned passages fortelling the coming of Christ and the Christmas story.

Definite plans were made for the chicken dinner open to the public to be given in the church basement Thursday noon, Dec. 12. Arrangements were also made for a rummage sale to be held Saturday.

Reports of the sale of Christmas cards and wrapping paper of the representatives on the Day Nursery board by Mrs. C. F. Watson, and reports of other committees were given.

The next meeting of the society will be a social one to be held in two weeks.

Those present were Mesdames B. H. Davidson, D. A. Allen, J. J. Simon, C. F. Watson, W. M. Huckabee, E. C. Baker, G. W. Corkhill, R. Ward Lowe, O. Stokes, Julia Holmes, T. G. Fletcher, L. E. Miller, N. Manoushagian, Lank Thornberry, J. E. Handy, A. Gillespie, M. E. Carey and D. C. Copelin.

Come to the store today and save on every purchase, and tell your friends about the quit-business sale.—Adv

Woman With Past Cannot Be Loved Like Other Kind

What Chance Has a Woman With a Past for Happiness in Marriage?—Who Is to Blame When a Daughter Is Selfish?—Deserter-Husband.

Dear Miss Dix—Do you think there are two loves and that a man can love one woman in one way and another woman in a different way? Do you think a man will love a woman and marry her if he knows that she has a past? And will his love for a woman who has done wrong be as strong as that for a woman who has always lived a clean life? Has a girl much chance for future happiness with a man if she has not been as moral as she should have been? Does a man respect a woman who has been what we call "bad" as much as he does one who has been good all of her life?

—MISS A. L. M.

Answer—The mystery of a man's heart and how and why he loves a woman are past all finding out, and it differs as each man differs from his fellow man. But I think there is no disputing that a man can have an ideal love that will make him love a woman just because she is pure and represents all that he worships in womanhood, and that he can have a sensual love for another woman just because she appeals to all that is base in his nature.

This was very clearly brought out in a murder trial I once reported, in which it was shown that a man loved two women, his wife, who was a beautiful, noble, high-minded woman to whom he was devoted and who had great influence over him when he was at his best. But he also loved another woman who was everything that was degraded and low, and every now and then he would turn from the good wife and go to this depraved woman with whom he would go on drunken orgies.

Finally the evil woman murdered the man when he was trying to get out of her clutches and go back to the good wife, and whether this proved that the ideal love was stronger than the passionate love, I do not know.

Many men fall in love with women who have had sordid "pasts." Often they marry such women, and whether these marriages prove successful or not depends altogether upon how fair and just and broad-minded the man is. At the time the man is so carried away by his love for the woman that he feels he can forgive her and wipe the slate clean and forget what has gone before.

But the trouble is that few men have the strength of character to do this. They find that they cannot forget. The memory of the wife's sin rankles in their minds like a festering sore. Perhaps their family and friends refuse to receive their wives, and doors are shut in their faces. It takes a big man and one who is a great lover to overlook all of these things.

Besides, the man who has married a woman who has lived loosely never trusts her wholly. He is always suspicious of her because he thinks that if she had not the moral principles that would keep her straight and give her the strength to resist temptation, she may yield again if again tempted.

I do not think a man ever loves a woman who has been immoral as well as he does the one who has kept herself unspotted from the world, because reverence for womanhood is so big a part of a man's love for a woman.

A man always wants to look up to his wife as something better and higher and purer than he is. He wants to feel that she would hold her honor above her life. He wants to feel that she has principles that nothing could break down, that she has ideals that nothing could smirch. He wants to trust her absolutely, and he cannot do this if he knows her for a poor, weak sinner, who has trailed her womanhood in the dust.

I do not think there is much chance for happiness in marriage for the woman with a past. For if she conceals it she lives in fear of her secret being discovered, and if she tells her husband of it he is almost sure to flaunt it in her face every time he grows angry with her.

Of course, there are some exceptions to this rule. There are men who love well enough to forgive and forget, but I am afraid they are about as scarce as hen's teeth.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have a daughter 20 years old who works and makes a good salary which she spends upon herself, although we are very poor and the family needs everything. She never helps me with the housework and makes me do her washing, pressing, mending, etc. In fact, she makes me wait on her as if I were a servant and she never gives me a pleasant word. She is engaged to a young man and she bosses him out of his life as she does me. He has a car and she hardly lets him use it at all himself and gets mad and fusses at him about every little thing. Why is she so selfish to him and to me?

—A WORRIED MOTHER.

Answer: Because you raised her up to be that way. When your daughter shows you no consideration or appreciation, and when she is impudent and insulting to you, you are just reaping exactly what you sowed.

How can you cultivate selfishness in a girl for 20 years and then not expect her to be a monster of egotism and think that she has a right to the best of everything? How can you let a girl talk back to you from the time she was a baby and then expect her to be polite and deferential to you?

Impossible. Psychologists tell us, and our own observation and experience bears it out, that a child's character is fixed in the cradle. If you let a baby tyrannize over you it will make a doormat of you when it is grown up. If you let a 2-year-old talk back to you, your grown son and daughter will say the things to you that will break your heart.

It is too late now for you to correct the mistake you made 20 years ago, but you can help matters by staging a rebellion. Just refuse to be a slave any longer to your unappreciative daughter. Refuse to do her washing, pressing and mending for her. Perhaps that will wake her up and make her see that a mother is a useful beast of burden to have around the house, after all.

As for the young man who submits so meekly to being tyrannized over, his fate is on his own head. Any man who marries a bossy and selfish girl, after having had a sample of her disposition, deserves to be henpecked to death.

But I haven't any great sympathy with the family goat. If he or she had an inch of backbone or an ounce of courage, it would get upon its hind legs and make a fight for liberty and refuse to be sacrificed.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Pattern 1792

The young girl's wardrobe is incomplete without smart little sports dresses like the one pictured today. This model has no trims except the neat stitching around neck, cuffs and bottom of overblouse. Of course, binding may be used in place of the stitching if desired.

Design 1792 would make up well in tweed, jersey or wool crepe. As the skirt is made on a band, both skirt and blouse may be worn with other garments. The stitching should be done in wool.

May be obtained only in sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 8 requires 1¾ yards of 54-inch material.

Pattern will be delivered upon receipt of fifteen cents (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size wanted.

The new winter fashion book is ready for delivery. Price 15 cents, but only 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to The Record News Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

Baptist Society Has All Day Meet At Church Monday

Members of the Woman's Missionary society of the First Baptist church met at the church in all-day meeting Monday beginning the week of prayer with a mission subject, "Speeding the Message Through the Missionaries."

Mrs. W. E. Falker led the devotionals and Mrs. F. M. Tunis gave the opening prayer. Mrs. F. C. Barron, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. R. D. McIver, led the singing.

The feature of the program was an exceptionally good talk on "World Peace" by Mrs. Lillian Kerr. Luncheon was served to about 75 members.

Following the luncheon a business meeting was held in which Mrs. A. P. Kimmell, president, presided. Mrs. Kimmell gave the devotionals and Mrs. Barron offered a prayer. Reports were heard from the chairmen of standing committees and circle leaders, after which Mrs. Ada Moore dismissed the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Simpson Conducts Impressive Installation

Mrs. C. M. Simpson conducted an impressive installation service for members of the Floral Heights Methodist Woman's Missionary society when they met at the church at 11 o'clock Monday morning for an all-day meeting, taking for her theme, "Whatsoever Thy Hands Find to Do, Do It With All Thy Might." "He Took It Upon Himself," was the lesson for officer's duties.

Mrs. Paul Harding's circle served a delicious turkey dinner at the noon hour. The tables were decorated with foliage, flowers and lighted tapers. Visitors introduced were Mrs. B. M. Davis and daughters, Miss Dorothy from Louisiana, Mrs. J. E. Davitte and Mrs. E. A. Sterling.

President's Report

Mrs. M. T. Clements gave a resume of her two years work as president, emphasizing the cooperation of members after which Mrs. Charles Crowell gave a talk in appreciation of the work done by Mrs. Clements and presented her with a lovely blanket as a gift from members of the society.

Mrs. Simpson opened the afternoon business session with a song, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. B. M. Bullard. The devotional was given by Mrs. Austin Leach, after which Mrs. George Thorburn sang the devotional solo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. G. Wayne Barker. Miss Grace Doern played the violin obbligato.

Mrs. J. A. Curtis presented seven children as life members and Mrs. W. H. Roper said the dedication prayer. Mrs. T. R. Boone gave a report of the work done by Mrs. Curtis in the baby department and presented her with a lounging robe as a gift from the society. Mrs. W. H. Barton read the minutes for the previous meeting and the 12 various officers gave reports for their year's work.

Annual Reports

Seven circle leaders gave reports of the year's work in an impressive manner after which Mrs. Clements gave a prayer of thanks. Mrs. W. J. Stuckler, the secretary of the nominating committee, read the circle officers for the coming year which are as follows:

Circle One—Leader, Mrs. Lester Jones; treasurer, Mrs. Herbert Gray; secretary, Mrs. K. C. Spell; social service, Mrs. Earl Stuckey; voice, Mrs. P. A. Newell. FOUR BI-DISTRICT FOOTBALL STRUGGLES SLATED THIS WEEK

The Sportlight

By GRANTLAND RICE

Middle West Supremacy

The supremacy of the Middle West in football this season was clearly established both as to range, quality and quantity. Consider first the Middle West and the East. Wisconsin beat Colgate, one of the best of the Eastern teams. Notre Dame beat Navy and Carnegie Tech before tackling the Army. Chicago beat Princeton. Michigan beat Harvard. Illinois beat the Army. Detroit crushed West Virginia and Marquette crushed Boston college.

Against this showing Pittsburgh beat Ohio State and the Army beat Ohio Wesleyan. What about other intersectional games? Against the Far West Notre Dame beat Southern California, and Chicago, well out of the running in the Western conference, beat Washington, 26 to 6, after Washington had held Stanford and California to 6 points. Purdue beat the Kansas Aggies, one of the strongest of the Missouri Valley circuit.

Against this Oregon State beat Detroit. The South fared no better. Minnesota beat Vanderbilt, one of the strongest teams in the South. Notre Dame ran away from Georgia Tech. On the basis of results the Middle West won about 90 per cent of its game against the Far East, South and East. This doesn't allow much room for argument, although argument will break out in a number of spots. All the facts and final scores and actual results in the world won't stop them from arguing. There is nothing so biased and prejudiced and vehement as a football fan of any sort or any description.

Certainly of the three strongest teams in the United States the Middle West had two of them in Notre Dame and Purdue. The other was Pittsburgh.

Another Angle

Against this it can be stated that for the first time in many seasons the East played a more interesting type of football than the Middle West. The East was more daring, more versatile in its attack.

There are few big games in the conference that carried such action, variety and the same swirl of continued interest as one saw in the Yale-Dartmouth and the Yale-Army and Harvard-Yale games. At least this was the report of mid-Western rooters who know football and who happened to have seen these three games, or at least one of the three. Mid-West defense was stronger and mid-West attack was in a narrower, less chance taking groove.

The conference had no passers to match Wood, of Harvard, or Cagle, of the Army, and no broken field runners quite up to Marsters, Cagle, Booth and Uansa.

What the Middle West had was a conservative soundness that won games, plus its full share of man power. Pittsburgh also had this with exceptional material—possibly more star football players than any team in the country with a high class coach in Jock Sutherland.

It is doubtful if any other team had as many consistent stars as Uansa, Parkinson, Donches, Montgomery, Dimoleo and Fox.

Tough Year on Star Backs

This has been one of the toughest of all seasons on star backs. Marsters, one of the best the game has known, was injured before November. Booth, a sensation through October, was injured in early November to miss the Princeton game entirely and to fall below his standard against Harvard. Lom, of California, a brilliant back most of the way, lost his bearings against Stanford, where his team was badly outplayed. In the final rankings Banker, of Tulane, and McEver of Tennessee, two of the best that football can show from any section, must face the handicap of somewhat weaker schedules, as compared to those who had to tackle from five to seven hard opponents, week after week. And it makes a big difference either to an individual or to a team when he is called upon to face rugged, high class opposition week after week with little rest.

There was a day and time when the football season at this date could be considered over and washed up. But Georgia is still to play Georgia Tech, Oregon comes to Miami to meet Florida, Carnegie Tech travels West to face U. S. C., and later on the Army invades Palo Alto and Stanford. To say nothing of the big East-West game on the coast and the tournament of roses. Why not let the big parade swing on into the drift of April snow and the red deeps of May?

Dozen Grid Games Slated Saturday

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. (UP)—The 1929 football campaign will reach a virtual end Saturday in a group of a dozen games, most of which are scheduled for points south of these wintry climes.

The Maryland-Western Maryland game at Baltimore will be the farthest north this week-end. The games of Saturday are topped by the Georgia-Georgia Tech contest at Athens. Miami has a fine intersectional in the Florida vs. Oregon affair.

Davis and Elkins, unbeaten, will appear in Oklahoma City to play Oklahoma City, in a second intersectional.

Other games of the South include Tennessee vs. South Carolina, Duke vs. North Carolina, Louisiana Tech vs. Southwestern Louisiana Institute, Loyola of New Orleans vs. Centenary, Southern vs. Mercer, William and Mary vs. Hampden Sidney.

Tulsa will play Haskell at Tulsa.

BRECK-SANDY BOUT SATURDAY

Central High School And Waco Go

DALLAS, Dec. 2. (AP)—Only three of the eight high school elevens that won district titles last year will answer roll call in four bi-district struggles scheduled this week-end at Breckenridge, Denton, Waco and Houston.

The Amarillo Golden Sandstorm in district 1, Port Arthur Yellow-jackets in district 7 and Marshall Mavericks in district 6 have won sectional championships for the second straight year. Five other teams that lost out early last year find themselves in the quarter-finals of the state race.

Of the four bouts scheduled this week, that between Amarillo and the Breckenridge Buckaroos at Breckenridge promises the most fireworks. They clash Saturday, and 10,000 fans are expected to watch the two mighty undefeated teams battle it out for the championship of all West Texas and the Panhandle.

Breck's Impressive Record

Breckenridge has an impressive record of nine straight victories in district 2, the Oil Belt, generally regarded as the strongest section of the state. Amarillo has swept through everything in its district and crushed several strong non-conference rivals.

The central Texas crown will be at stake in the struggle Saturday at Waco between Central of Fort Worth and the Waco Tigers. Central nosed out in district 3 despite a defeat and tie against its record. Waco waded through district 4 without a loss and will be a favorite to progress to the semi-finals.

Broncos vs. Mavericks

The Denton Broncos and Marshall Mavericks, survivors in North and East Texas, will tangle Friday at Denton for the championship of districts 5 and 6. Each chalked up five straight victories in its section.

The championship of all South Texas and the gulf coast will be at stake in the bout at Houston between the mighty Brownsville Eagles of district 8 and the Port Arthur Yellowjackets of district 7. They play Saturday. A neutral field was decided upon after a lengthy conference between rival officials Sunday.

Although Brownsville is playing its first year in class A, the Eagles are favored to vanquish Port Arthur and meet the winner of the Marshall-Denton bout on the following week. Port Arthur had a tie against its record in district play, while the Eagles smashed through their section without being extended.

Olney Meets Jacksboro

Battle Will Be Title Affair For Teams

Special to The Record News

OLNEY, Texas, Dec. 2.—The first bi-district football game in this section of the state will be played when the Olney Cubs entertain on their home field the Jacksboro Jackrabbits next Friday, Dec. 6, at 3 o'clock. At a meeting held in Graham on Monday by Superintendent Schultey and Coach A. S. Acker of Olney with Principal Works Porter and Coach Ivan C. Oliver of Jacksboro it was settled that the two district football champions should play off the bi-district game at Olney.

Officials satisfactory to both schools were selected in the persons of John Roach, S. M. U., and Sully Montgomery, Centre college, Kentucky. These officials were on duty when the Olney Cubs and the Seymour Panthers met on Thanksgiving day for the championship of the district.

The Olney Cubs cinched the right to participate in this bi-district when they defeated the Seymour Panthers, 13 to 0, for the championship of district 3 class B on Thanksgiving day. The Jacksboro Jackrabbits captured the title of district 4 when they humbled the Nocona Indians over a month ago.

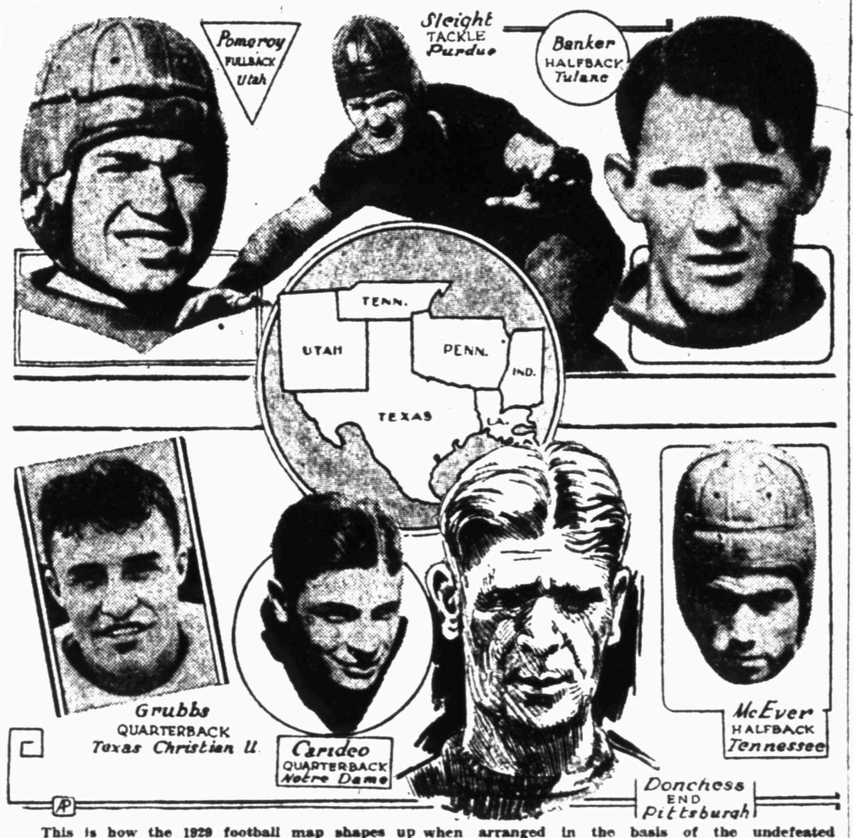

Both teams are now training strenuously for the coming struggle at Olney. From all reports both elevens will be in the best condition of the year and should put up a great scrap when they meet. The Jackrabbits are planning to bring a huge following of fans and supporters to witness the contest.

Attorney Is Awarded Bank Robbers' Auto

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 2. (UP)—Earl James, attorney, was awarded the auto in which the $75,000 American-First bank messenger robbery was staged last May by District Judge Clark today.

The court fight for possession of the auto began last July between Henry Stahl, St. Joseph, Mo., the original owner, Police Chief Becker and James, who claimed he had an order for its possession.

The New Football Map and Some of Its Makers

This is how the 1929 football map shapes up when arranged in the basis of the undefeated major elevens. Notre Dame and Pittsburgh stand out nationally. But they have no more pretentious records in their own sections than Utah., Texas Christian U, Tennessee, Tulane and Purdue. Utah is high in the Rocky Mountain, Texas Christian in the Southwest, Purdue in the Big Ten and Tennessee and Tulane in the Southern conference.

Big Winter Boxing Show at the Garden

English Heavyweight Will Feature Card

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Two knockouts are hereby predicted for the night of Dec. 9 in Madison Square garden.

Otto Von Porat will belt over Phil Scott, heavyweight champion of England, inside of nine rounds.

Yale Okun of New York's east side, will stop Smacksie Maxie Rosenbloom, of Harlem, inside of 10 rounds.

Both bouts are scheduled for 12 rounds.

Von Porat hits too hard to Scott to last the limit.

Okun ought to cut Rosenbloom to ribbons.

Von Porat arrives this morning on the Twentieth Century from Chicago to wind up his training at Stillman's gymnasium.

The sale of seats opened at Madison Square garden Saturday, with $12 as the top price for the biggest heavyweight show of the winter season, and the immediate rush on Joe Boyntons' stations.

Scott Developing

I make my prediction on the Von Porat-Scott fight in the face of some remarkable reports from the pioneer gymnasium in Forty-fourth street where the giant Scott has been working out for some days.

They tell me that the tall Englishman has been devastating his sparring partners, showing such form as to cause his manager, the ubiquitous James J. Johnston to whisper:

"I don't believe there is a man in the world today who can whip Scott in his present condition."

But the old boy bandit hasn't seen Von Porat lately. My Chicago operatives tell me that the long Norwegian is a vastly improved fighter since he returned from a vacation in his native land. They tell me he is 50 per cent better than when he stopped the old rubber worker, Knockout Christner, in the semi-windup to the Paulino-Schmeling fight.

Since that time, Von Porat has met Charley Smith of England, who looked like a mighty shifty big fellow in one appearance in Madison Square garden, and it wasn't a contest. Von Porat flattened Smith in a round, and Smith was unconscious for some minutes.

"I didn't know what hit me," he muttered afterwards.

Now in England they murmur that Scott has ducked meeting Charley Smith, because Smith is a right good puncher. He knocked out men Scott merely outpointed."

Scott Good Puncher

I think Scott is a fairly stiff puncher, but not the dynamiter that Von Porat is. I don't believe that Victorio Campelo, outpointed by Scott in 10 rounds, could go four rounds against Von Porat. There hasn't been a better right-hand hitter than Von Porat developed in years, and of late he has added to his right hand, a ripping left hook to the body. It was with this punch that he knocked Jack Demave bowlegged.

Von Porat is a slow beginner. He generally looks bad the first couple of rounds. He got a jolly good pasting from old Paolino in the early stages of their battle in Madison Square garden, but he had the bezark of the Basque punched silly in the final round.

You've got to pile on Otto and keep pelting him to beat him, and Scott isn't that type of fighter. Scott is more of a long range boxer, and at long range a man is always in danger from that dropping right hand of the Norwegian.

I predict that from this battle next Monday night, Von Porat will go on to a meeting with Herr Max Schmeiling in Atlantic City in February, and out of that engagement will come the logical successor to Gene Tunney as heavyweight champion of the world.

My prediction on the Okun-Rosenbloom affair may cause some surprise, because Rosenbloom is generally regarded at this time as the uncrowned light heavyweight champion. There is no denying that he is a remarkable fighter just at present, but Okun is vastly underrated hereabouts. The hairy-chested pride of Essex street is a great boxer, with a style that ought to make Rosenbloom easy for him.

Okun likes to wait on leads, and to bring a man to him. Rosenbloom certainly doesn't wait. He swarms at an opponent throwing punches so fast that a man is apt to forget all he knows about boxing. But Okun is a cool fellow, and it seems to me he ought to gradually pick Rosenbloom to bits.

S. W. Circuit Well Balanced

DALLAS, Dec. 2. (AP)—For the last six years the Southwest conference probably has been the most evenly balanced football circuit in the country. In that time five of the section's schools have battled their way to a championship. Only one of them, Texas A. & M., was able to win twice.

Rice institute and Arkansas university alone have failed to capture a title on the gridiron since the conference was organized in 1915. The Razorbacks finished second last year and third in the campaign just ended.

Although they won only two conference games this year and finished far down the line, the Aggies still have a sizeable lead in championships. They have won five, Baylor three, Texas university and Southern Methodist two each, and Texas Christian one.

No school has succeeded in winning two football flags in a row, and it is doubtful the champion Texas Christian Frogs will be able to turn the trick next year after seven of their regulars have departed, including the brilliant Grubbs.

Following is the list of winners since the conference was organized:

Baylor, 1915; 1916, no champion; 1917, Texas Aggies; 1918, no champion; 1919, Texas Aggies; 1920, Texas university; 1921, Texas Aggies; 1922, Baylor; 1923, S. M. U.; 1924, Baylor; 1925, Texas Aggies; 1926, S. M. U.; 1927, Texas Aggies; 1928, Texas university; 1929, T. C. U.

San Marcos Is Grid Champion

SAN MARCOS, Texas, Dec. 2. (AP)—Eight years of effort finally have been rewarded and the Southwest Texas Teachers Bobcats have brought a T. I. A. A. football title to San Marcos.

Although the Bobcats went through a strenuous schedule without a defeat, they owe a vote of thanks to the Stephen F. Austin Teachers for enabling them to win the crown. The Lumberjacks, previously beaten in six starts, sprang the biggest upset of the season to defeat the Sam Houston Teachers, 14 to 12, Thanksgiving day and plant the Bobcats at the top of the heap.

Sam Houston, previously undefeated, practically had been conceded the title after the Bobcats and North Texas Teachers had battled to a scoreless tie here the day before.

As a result of the Lumberjacks' surprising victory, the leaders finished like this:

	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Southwest Teachers	4	0	2	.833
North Texas	2	0	2	.750
Sam Houston	2	1	1	.625

Big Six Turns To Basket Ball Season

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 2. (AP)—The Big Six conference has turned to basket ball with prospects of as open a race in the cage sport as that on the gridiron in the season just ended.

Oklahoma, which ran its string of consecutive conference victories to 31 in winning the title last year, lost Drake and Shearer, all conference choices from its 1929 team. Drake, a guard, was graduated; Shearer, a center, did not return to school. From last year's team Coach Hugh McDermott has Capt. Tom Churchill, forward; Meyer, a forward and Noble a guard.

City National Is Winner in Bowling On Monday Night

The City National bank bowlers won three straight games from the Coca-Cola topplers Monday night at the Spudder alleys to break their tie for first place honors with the Guaranty State B. & L. association and take undisputed possession of the top rung of the city league. The Guaranty took two out of three games played with the Nafziger Baking company. W. B. McClurkan company also captured two out of three games played with the Fox Chevrolet company. Davis of the City National bank had high three games and also high single game with 584 and 213 points, respectively.

Waco Hi Will Engage The Central High on Friday

WACO, Texas, Dec. 2. (AP)—At a meeting attended by Waco High school and Central High school of Fort Worth officials at Itasca this afternoon, it was decided to play the Central-Waco bi-district game here Friday. Waco sent a team to play Central in Fort Worth in 1920 and the schools have not met since.

By W. G. CHAMBLESS

Three conference games on Thanksgiving day rung down the curtain on the 1929 gridiron stage in district 1 and closed one of the most satisfactory and eventful chapters in the history of the circuit. The season was a satisfactory one because it was productive of good high school football excellently well played. It was eventful in that the race of the "also rans" was close and exciting.

The dope ran true as far as the Amarillo Sandies was concerned. The Sandies started off the season and finished like a whirlwind with their 27 to 0 defeat of the Wichita Falls Coyotes. Only once did the powerful Amarillo outfit let up in their hot pursuit of the conference gonfalon. In the game with Lubbock they seemed to hesitate and falter but finally managed to nose out the Westerners by a 13-7 score. Fans and critics of the game who saw the great battle between these two foremost teams of the conference were a trifle surprised at the great strength of the Westerners and by the rather flagging spirit and power of the Sandstorm.

Beginning of Race.

At the beginning of the race, three teams—Lubbock, Vernon and Wichita Falls—were considered the outfits that would bear close watching as the runner-up to the Amarillo steam roller. Some followers were of the opinion that the Vernon Lions would furnish the hottest competition to the conceded favorite. Others could see nothing but Lubbock. Wichita Falls was more or less of an enigma, or rather an unknown quantity. The Coyotes were not as well equipped with veterans as were the Westerners and the Lions. And also they were starting the season under a new coaching system.

Conference Underdogs

Quanah, Plainview and Electra were rated as the teams to trail the circuit pack. Of these last three elevens, the Electra Tigers furnished the biggest upset in the entire conference, with Vernon running a close second. The two teams seemed to reverse the dope and exchange places with each other. Instead of occupying one of the first two or three rungs of the conference standing, the Vernon Lions found themselves just a knot above the cellar champions, the Quanah Indians. And instead of the Electra Tigers grovelling in the lower reaches of the conference, they captured the third rung of the ladder and nestled close behind the terrible Westerners. After losing their opening game to the Lubbock Westerners by 20 to 6, The Tigers took a big spurt to finish in third place over the Coyotes, the Vernon Lions.

Mystery of 10 Lions

The case of the Vernon Lions was somewhat of a mystery to many followers of the game. The Lions started off with a supposedly formidable eleven. They overwhelmed the Quanah Indians 51 to 0. Then they just petered out like a rat's tail and could not win another game during the season. The Lions had a heavy line with best enough to stop any set of backs in the conference, if they had lived up to what is usually expected of such a line. And their backfield was studded with players as stalwart and husky as nearly to rival the Sandies. Yet they could never get started. On the other hand, the Tigers had an average size and a backfield somewhat lighter than the usual, we believe. But this did not deter them from a most remarkable showing in the conference flag chase. The Tigers beat the Coyotes on sheer pluck and fighting ability. The Tigers were simply an indomitable team, never whipped until the final gun. Thus they probably earned the most enviable record in the circuit.

Coyotes In and Out

The Coyotes played a sort of in-and-out ball during the season. Against the Quanah Indians they played pretty fair ball and won by 27 to 0. In the next game with the Electra Tigers they looked bad and were plainly outplayed. Coming back in the next contest with the Vernon Indians, the Coyotes played superb football. Their tackling was sure and hard, and looked as good as the best in the conference. Followers of the Pack immediately began to proclaim them dangerous threats to the Sandstorm. But then in their game with the Plainview Bulldogs were slow to get off and it was not until the last period that they were able to overcome the Bulldog 6-point lead and finally won by the hardest, 25 to 6. Bucking the Lubbock Westerners in their next game, the Coyotes could never get started and were nosed out 6 to 0. With this defeat went aglimmering all their hopes for a runner up position in the loop.

Lubbock's Stand

After a mid-season 13-7 defeat at the hands of the Sandies could only hope to play safe and hold to their second place position and wait and see if the Coyotes stop the Sandies.

Plainview came fair. They gave Wichita Falls and Electra a hard scrap and defeated Vernon and tied Quanah.

The Quanah Indians plainly were playing above their heads. They could not win a single game and managed only to get a tie game with the Plainview Bulldogs. However, it was said, in fairness, that the Indians displayed a courageous fighting spirit under heavy odds. They did quaver under the heaviest assaults of the most powerful backs in the conference but carried on to the best of their ability. The Indians simply were hot in the class of the other teams. And there is some talk now that they should withdraw from Class A football and enter into Class B ball.

FROGS ARE DONE

T. C. U. Officials Rule Against Post-Season Game

FORT WORTH, Dec. 2. (AP)—Decision of the T. C. U. Athletic council against any post season football game for the Frogs was immediately followed by start of the basketball training season.

Coach Schmidt, nationally recognized as one of the best of cage coaches, took charge of the workouts of the basketeers Monday afternoon. In a short time the Christians will begin practice games in preparation for the Southwest conference season that will open next month.

Roy Eury, captain of the basketeers this season, is a member of the football squad that disbanded after winning the Southwest conference championship here Saturday. A number of other gridders, Roberson, Atkins, Walker, Brumbelow, McCullough and Woolwine, also changed their heavy football uniforms for the lighter clothes of basketball.

MINOR LEAGUE MEET, 'NOOGA

Annual Convention to Begin Wednesday

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

United Press Staff Correspondent

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 2. (UP)—The 28th annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, comprising all minor leagues in organized baseball, will begin here Wednesday at the Hotel Patten and continue through Friday.

Although it is essentially a minor league meeting, a majority of the major league magnates and managers will attend.

Several major league clubs, especially the New York Yankees and Cincinnati Reds, are expected to lay the foundation for trades which will be consummated at the major league meetings in New York Dec. 10, 11 and 12.

All of the guiding forces of the Yankees will attend the session, including Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the club, Secretary Ed Barrow, Manager Bob Shawkey, and the Yankee scouts, Paul Kritchell and Gene McCann.

Among the more important things to come before the convention proper is the draft question which was brought up at the meeting at Toronto a year ago but never settled.

The national board of arbitration also will meet here, and before it will come the appeal of Infielder George Torporcer and Manager Billy Southworth of the Rochester International league club. Torporcer was recently suspended for one year and Southworth fined $500, the outgrowth of a near-riot in Rochester during the final game of the 1929 little world series against Kansas City.

At its recent meeting in New York the International league passed a resolution expressing sympathy with the two players and promised to back them when the appeal came up.

Another matter which will come up for settlement here is the election of a president of the International league to succeed the late John Conway Toole. Jack Hendricks, former manager of the Cincinnati Reds, is a leading candidate. He failed to get the office by one vote at the recent meeting in New York.

Injuries From Dust

When a beam of sunlight falls from the window to the floor, one may see thousands of dust motes dancing in its golden light. We are surprised to realize that such dust is always present in the air, and that we are breathing it in with every breath we draw. Fortunately, the amount of ordinary dust in the air is taken care of by traps which nature has laid for it in the air passages. The most important of these traps for dust is the mucous membrane. The sticky mucous attracts the dust in much the same manner that fly paper does flies, but the dust is not allowed to accumulate because the entire mucous membrane is covered with small hair-like cilia lining the trachea and bronchia, and these cilia literally wave the dust particles up and out. They move in much the same manner as a field of grain waves when swep by the wind.

When the dust and spurplus mucus have been moved up high enough, they are coughed out of the body. When the dust particles are unusually plentiful, they may succeed in penetrating the lung tissues, but they then fall into another trap set by the white cells which are capable of destroying a remarkable amount of dust. The measures are able to protect their air spaces of the lungs from an everyday dust menace.

However, the lungs of those who live in sooty cities or those who work in an atmosphere of dust never entirely escape. While the normal lung tolerates dust to an amazing degree, it may succumb after years of exposure.

The worst dust is silica which can bring on disability in from three to nine years. Workers exposed to the heavy coal dust may escape from 20 to 30 years before a fibrosis of the lungs is brought on.

The damage of silica is known as silicosis and seems to be caused mechanically by the abrasion of the sharp particles on the lung tissues, causing scarring. Silica is the main cause of industrial tuberculosis, as the scarring of the delicate lung lining allows the tubercular infection to gain a foothold. The first symptom of silicosis is a shortness of breath followed by a mild cough and then great difficulty in breathing.

The zinc mines of Missouri and the South African gold mines produce large quantities of silica dust as do also the flint, sandstone, granite and quartz quarries. There seems to be little danger of industrial tuberculosis among the coal miners if the coal dust is without silica. Dust from flour is also comparatively safe for breathing, although the vegetable dusts are thought to be more likely to cause bronchitis or pneumonia. Cotton dust and the dust that arises in the production of hardwood products from beech and boxwood are thought to contribute to tuberculosis of the lungs. Dust from thrashing is not usually serious beyond headaches and a small amount of bronchial infection.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Chiropractors)

Question—J. F. asks: "What is the difference between a chiropractor and an osteopath? Are both of these schools of healing permitted in all of the states, or are they prohibited in some? I note from the papers occasionally that a chiropractic physician is convicted for practicing his profession."

Answer—The osteopathic theory is that disease is often caused from some mechanical obstruction to the nerve forces in the body. A chiropractor believes that this blocking of the nerve supply occurs mostly in the spine. Of course, many osteopaths and chiropractors are now using diet and physiotherapy in addition to their original methods of treatment. Both of these professions are legalized in most of the states of the Union but there are a few that do not have laws regulating the practice of chiropractic and in these states a chiropractic physician is subject to arrest for what is called "practicing medicine without a license."

(Sugar, Starch and Energy)

Question—O. D. T. asks: "Why do sugars and starches increase weight if they merely supply energy and body heat?"

Answer—Sugars and starches are unnecessary as heat and energy producers as proteins will do as well, and without producing the accumulation of excessive weight.

(Powdered Rhubarb)

Question—A. S. writes: "Kindly tell me what powdered rhubarb is used for, and what affect one teaspoonful every evening would have on a person."

Answer—Powdered rhubarb is a medicine given as a laxative, and one teaspoonful every night would have a very strong laxative effect.

Flying Evangelist Performs Sky Wedding

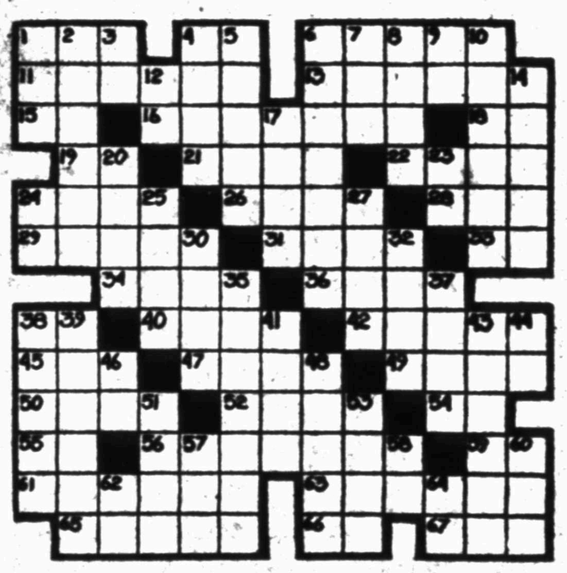

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 2. (UP)—Two thousand feet above the din and roar of city traffic and clanging street cars Miss Frances Smith and Hugh Kaiser were married at noon today.

TAG AGENTS APPOINTED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 2. (UP)—The state highway department today announced the appointment of two tag agents at Chickasha. The commission's vote was unanimous. Chickasha is the home of Commissioner L. C. Hutson. The new agents are Ed F. Johns, former member of the legislature, and J. B. Sparks, they succeed George A. White.

COUNTY NEARS 20,000 BALES

Cotton Fields Still Yield Heavy Returns

Cotton fields of Wichita county are still producing valuable bales, and promise to yield considerably beyond the 20,000 mark, according to activity of the county's gins for Saturday and Monday.

The Red river gin, located four miles north of Electra had a mid-season apportionment for the two days, and turned out a total of 84 bales between Friday evening and Monday night. The Mt. Carmel gin, located a mile north of the Red river, also had a heavy run, and reported 69 bales turned out in the two days. The Cross gin at Electra ginned 16 bales, to run that city's count to 169, and to 4,296 for the season.

With 81 bales ginned at Burkburnett, 49 at Iowa Park, and 31 at Wichita Falls during Saturday and Monday, the county's total rose to 19,862, without any report from Kemp City.

From midnight Tuesday until 2 a. m. (Wednesday), station KGKO of this city will present the second of its special distance test programs, with all studio talent being used in the presentation of varied entertainment.

Operating under its assigned power of 250 watts, the station is improving its broadcasting equipment in order to increase the degree of modulation for greater carrying power, it was said. The first distance test program was given on Saturday night, Nov. 23, with requests for acknowledgments from its hearers. Letters and cards have been received from scores of radio listeners throughout the northern and eastern sections of the country. Among the points from which clear reception was reported were New Jersey, New York, Saskatchewan and Ontario, Canada, Winona, Minn., and numerous cities in Pennsylvania.

The midnight distance programs have been assigned to Tuesday nights, it was said, because that time is practically unused by other stations in the country. They are not advertising programs, according to Director Jack Gross, but are being given merely to extend the city's radio acquaintance as far as possible, and will be continued indefinitely.

The complete program for Tuesday is as follows:

8:00 to 9:30 a. m.—Musical program.
9:30 to 10:00—Eleanor Thrift home hints.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. (AP)—Moderate advances from a slight opening decline in cotton today were accompanied by reports of probably lower crop estimates, but were checked by a renewal of liquidation and southern selling which sent prices off again the later trading. January after selling up from 17.27 to 17.38, declined to 17.24, and closed at 17.25. The general market closed steady at net declines of 3 to 7 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 1 to 4 points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables. Offerings were light and the market steadied on covering and trade buying.

December contracts sold up from 17.15 to 17.21 and March from 17.56 to 17.64, making net advances of about 4 to 7 points on the active positions, the demand tapered off at these figures, however, and prices reached the lowest levels of the day in the later trading under liquidation, or reselling, by recent buyers which appeared to be combined with a little more southern selling. December declined to 17.10 and March to 17.54 with active months showing net losses of 4 to 7 points. Closing prices were within a point of the lowest.

Liverpool cables said that hedging and continental liquidation had been absorbed by trade calling and covering.

Exports today 78,188, making 3,284,190 so far this season. Port receipts 73,985. U. S. port stocks 2,621,531.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 2. (AP)—Dullness characterized cotton here today with prices fluctuating within a range of 10 points. During the mid-session there were long intervals between sales.

The opening was slightly easier due to lower Liverpool cables. Prices then declined 4 points but this loss was recovered promptly on improving values due to the return of colder weather in the belt and to trade buying. The market gained 7 to 9 points from the opening lows. During the afternoon prices gradually eased off, making new lows on some months and closing at the lowest.

January opened 4 points down at 17.20, advanced to 17.27, up 7 points and closed at 17.17, or 7 points net down for the day. The general market closed steady at net declines of 3 to 7 points.

Liverpool came in about as due but eased off before the close there.

The first rally carried March to 17.55 and May to 17.81, or 7 to 9 points above the opening lows. During the afternoon the market continued quiet but gradually eased off 5 to 6 points on moderate realizing continuing however within the earlier range. Prices were easy at the end. March sold at 17.46 and May 17.72, or 5 to 7 points net lower.

Weather Accentuates Moodiness Of Stock Market in Most Dismal Day

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. (US)—A few specialties featured with sharp flurries in a generally dull, irregular stock market today. Lack of available stock for covering short commitments was the main influence to the advances that were recorded. General Electric gained 5¼, Columbia Carbon 25¼, Industrial Alcohol 4 and J. I. Case 12¾ points. The balance of the list held to rather narrow range with gains ranging from ⅞ of a point in Can to 3 in Carbide and losses from ⅝ in Steel to 2⅜ in Fox Film. There was an absence of real incentive to trading evidence throughout the session so that turnover fell off to 2,500,000 shares for the five hours. Call money remained in bountiful supply with the official rate held at 4½ per cent throughout.

The president's message comes through tomorrow. Some years ago a president's message had supreme market influence. Of late years they have not aroused sufficient interest to warrant the space devoted to them by the newspapers and tickers. Mr. Hoover's message undoubtedly will be constructive. Those who still have securities or an interest in security price fluctuations, however, wonder as to the attitude of congress. They do not worry that tax reduction will be held up. There is no congressman who would want to face his constituency if he delayed that measure at such a time. Very little real action, except tax reduction, is expected from the first month of the new congress. There is some fear of stock market or federal reserve investigation but Washington advices indicate that such a movement will be squelched while the Christmas trade ballyhoo is on at least.

"What do you hear?" That was the only thing heard in the street. It was one of the most dismal days on record with the weather accentuating the moodiness of brokers and the few clients in customers' rooms. Everyone wanted to do something and knew not what to do. Stimulus was lacking and in so far as the opinion of leading bankers was concerned it appeared that it would be missed for a while to come. There had been expectation that the flood of optimistic utterances, etc., resulting from the president's prosperity campaign, would result in an active and strong opening. Failure of any important buying to appear, therefore, left the market in the doldrums.

One or two pools tried to start something but failing to attract any following of importance gradually slackened their efforts. The laggardly character of the market encouraged some professional pressure but even that did not produce much result. Some liquidation in Fox was witnessed but that was due as much to rumors in circulation as to the early price drop. The uptown bear crowd smashed at Steel a few times but were given no chance to cover any of the stock they are short of. This group reputedly headed by one of the best known professionals and financed by a steel magnate, is said to be short 150,000 shares of steel common. Someone found that there was little or no Columbia Carbon offered on the book and it was given a whirl against a comparatively small sized short account. Borden was one of the most widely tipped stocks although selling to yield under 5 per cent and at 12 times earnings.

Confirming the statement made here, the National City bank, in its current monthly review, points out that the "bankers' pool" formed by Lamont and others in the big six of the banking world has not liquidated its stock. According to associates of the bankers there is no thought of passing on stock taken during the distress period for immediate future. Of course, if unexpected increase in public participation in dealings is experienced the policy may be changed. It is claimed further that the pool used considerably less than 50 per cent of its resources.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Dec. 2. (AP)—Wheat was a little lower as the week opened on the cash grain market, but good demand was reported for all offerings. Other grains showed little change. Oats were slow sale.

Wheat—Basis delivered carlots freight paid at Texas common points: No. 1 ordinary hard milling $1.38@1.39; No. 1 hard 13 per cent protein $1.40@1.41; 14 per cent $1.44@1.46; 15 per cent $1.48@1.49; 16 per cent $1.52@1.53.

Corn—No. 2 mixed corn $1.05@1.06; No. 2 white $1.09@1.10; No. 2 yellow $1.08@1.09.

Oats—No. 2 red oats, seed quality, 58@59c; No. 2 white delivered group one points 56@56½c.

Barley—No. 2 barley nominal at 77@78c.

Sorghums—No. 2 Milo per hundred pounds $1.53@1.55; No. 2 kaffir $1.53@1.56.

Sorghum heads reported in fair demand with the price varying according to receipts and offerings.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 2. (AP)—Bending under the weight of nearly 10,000,000 bushels of wheat delivered today on December contracts, Chicago wheat today temporarily showed considerable strain. Buying support developed on the setbacks, and rallies were in progress at the last. Today afforded the first opportunity, for a test of willingness of speculators to take actual custody of wheat bought for delivery this month, and the fact that the amount of wheat tendered was of a magnitude not often excelled had an evident tendency to depress values.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ⅛c to 1c per bushel lower than Saturday's finish. Corn closed 1c to 1⅜c net higher, oats unchanged to ⅜c up and provisions at 2c to 20c gain.

Wheat values here displayed their greatest weakness today in the early dealings after announcement that initial deliveries for the current month in Chicago were upward of 5,000,000 bushels.

Corn and oats advanced owing largely to comment that stocks of corn in commercial channels are at the vanishing point, and that the first big movement of the new crop will find a ready market.

Provisions were responsive to a rise in hog values, and also derived strength from lard buying for warehouse interests and packers.

Marriage for Two

By Arthur Somers Roche

"Well, no crime has been committed, Hogan," he laughed, "so I guess I can enjoy breakfast."

"The young lady enjoyed hers, Nora tells me," said Hogan softly.

Tracy's face hardened slightly. "Tell Mrs. Tracy that I'll be in to see her shortly," he said.

As Hogan left the room he could have struck himself. Why had he felt it necessary to say that to Hogan? And why had the stiffly uttered words rung so falsely? Good Lord, had he let himself in for months, possibly years of embarrassment? Was dear old Hogan, who would gladly die for his master looking at that master with pitying contempt?

Somehow he read in the butler's manner an appreciation of Joyce and a condemnation of himself. This was supersensitiveness; this was silly. Even if true, what did it matter? Was he so thin-skinned that it mattered to him what servants and strangers thought?

He bathed, ran a razor over his face, and re-entered the bedroom to find the bacon cold and the coffee slightly chilled. Nevertheless, because he was young and healthy, he ate greedily and at the conclusion of the meal felt better mentally as well as physically.

He lighted a cigaret and pondered the situation. No one could tell how long he would be of prime interest to the public and therefore to the press. But if he disappeared, left the country, the newspapers, unable to gather news about him, would drop him. Last night Joyce had said she didn't wish to go anywhere, but — women change their minds.

He dressed and knocked upon the door of that bedroom which had once been his but which had been hers since her strange entrance into his home.

Joyce's New Clothes

Nora opened the door. Her rosy-cheeked face was aglow with greeting. Women, Tracy mused, were not concerned with minor ethics. Results suited them. It might not be a nice thing for him to marry a strange girl as the result of a vengeful whim, and men might be condemnatory. But the average woman would only see the romance in the matter, and romance satisfied them.

"May I come in?" he asked.

From beyond the half-opened door a gay voice greeted him.

"Do," it called.

Nora, trying to keep meaning from her smile, made way for him. Although Tracy's back was to the maid, he felt her glance upon him, and was relieved when the door closed behind her.

He looked at his wife. He didn't know what he had expected, but he had certainly not anticipated gayety. She was lying in bed. Just when she had acquired the bright-colored negligee which covered her shoulders he did not know. He remembered, with resentment at himself, that during the days that had elapsed between proposal and marriage he had said nothing about money, had not ordered the stores to send selections of garments. Now he remembered that yesterday she had worn a dress and hat which were different from the poor garments she had worn when they had first met. And during the week of her residence here she had appeared in garments which had not been taken from her wardrobe, because she had had no wardrobe.

That $500 which he had given her.

She answered the question of his eyes. She touched the soft folds of the negligee.

"Yours," she said. Was there a touch of mockery in her voice?

"Mine?" He stared at her.

"The money you gave a starving girl for food has gone for clothing," she told him. "And you never thought about it?"

He shook his head. "A woman's ideal," she laughed. "A husband who doesn't question what his wife does with his money."

"That question will never be raised between us," he said.

"How do you know but that my extravagance will ruin you?" she asked.

There was color in her cheeks now, sparkle in her lustrous eyes; even her hair seemed to have caught a sheen. Perhaps those mysterious women whom he had encountered in the house recently, those hair-dressers and manicures, might account for part of all this, but he didn't think their administrations made for all the changes in her appearance.

Certainly, beautifying processes could not have brought her gayety, and gay she assuredly was.

"I'll chance it," he answered her.

"A man who takes the chances you've taken wouldn't mind one more," she said.

"I've taken no chance without considering it in advance," he replied.

She smiled at him, and he thought he caught a hint of tenderness in that smile. But he dismissed the thought.

"You were very cautious, were filled with practicality, when you brought a strange woman to your house, weren't you?" she laughed. "And you have shown yourself to be the kind that weighs every move by your marriage yesterday."

"I do not regret it," he said stiffly.

"The Wrong Angle"

She pointed at a pile of newspapers on the foot of the bed.

"Not even after reading those?" she asked.

"I haven't read them," he told her.

"Not read them?" Her eyes were incredulous. "Don't you look in the mirror even to see if your tie is properly knotted? And here is a mirror—you know those things at Coney Islands? Mirrors that make you thin or short, or tall, or fat, that distort you? But those caricatures, unflattering though they may be, nevertheless show you as you might look to others. And these newspapers, with their innuendo, their gossip, their speculation, their wonderment—they present the picture of you—and of me—that will be our real indentities to the public until—well, until the public decides we are different. I don't see how—haven't you natural curiosity?"

"I never want to hear bad report of myself," he answered.

Why couldn't he speak naturally to her? Why must he phrase his thoughts in clumsy words that sounded schoolboyish?

"But I do," she cried. "Bad or good—whatever people say or print—it's interesting. The most malicious lies about ourselves may contain an element of truth. And don't forget—we are never what we think we are—we're only what other people imagine we are."

He tried to laugh. "Philosophical reflection doesn't interest me this morning," he said.

"Then I shall try to be less dull," she told him.

"But you aren't dull," he protested. "I—was afraid that this morning—you'd be upset—"

"I, too," she interrupted dryly, "weigh an action in advance."

"Still," he said, "the publicity—"

"A few days ago," she said, "I was starving. I was as destitute as it is possible for a person to be—and still survive. You're looking at it from my angle. I think that yesterday—and before yesterday—I was looking at it from the wrong angle. We might as well be frank, mightn't we?"

"Please," he said.

"It—it seemed to me a rather contemptible thing that, in order to get even for a slight—oh, being jilted may be more than a slight, but you know what I mean! Well, it seemed to me that you were—rather petty. And I—who accepted charity that had been most generously offered, dared to think critically of you. And you, knowing how I felt—please—I owe you gratitude. I owe you everything. I could have refused to marry you, could have left your house. I didn't leave. I married you. I owe you—"

"Nothing," he said. "But—that you don't despise me——"

"You didn't despise me for being a failure, did you?"

He caught her implication.

"Then I'm a failure?"

"You haven't made a successful marriage," she said. "You—did something that you'll regret, but—I shall try——"

Her lips trembled, and he swiftly intervened against the threatened onrush of tears.

"I'm sure of that," he said.

Then his jaw dropped and his eyes widened. For the trembling lips parted and from her throat came gay laughter. For a moment he thought she was hysterical, but hysteria holds no note of amusement, and she was genuinely mirthful.

"I Want to Go Abroad"

"I don't understand—what are you laughing at?" he demanded.

She met his eyes.

"I think it's funny," she said.

"What's funny?"

"Our marriage—oh, everything. Isn't it? It's either a comedy or a tragedy, and I refuse to believe it's that. So, it must be funny. Two people, who don't know each other, who haven't fallen in love at first sight, deliberately get married—one to satisfy pique and the other for an even less exalted reason—well, isn't it funny?"

"It may be," he said slowly. "Perhaps it's better that we look at it that way."

"I'm sure it is," she said. "I wish," she suddenly added, "that I could see Miss Wilson now."

He stared at her. "Why?"

"Oh, you wouldn't understand," she evaded.

He frowned. This was the first touch of vulgarity she had shown. But—it was better that he didn't choose an interpretation that was not the sole possible construction of her words.

"I want to go abroad," he said abruptly.

"Very well," she agreed.

"But last night you didn't want——"

"Last night was last night and now we've arrived at this morning," she said.

"You have clothing enough?"

She smiled archly. "A woman can go to Paris with nothing. When she gets there——"

He shrugged at this. Her words again were capable of misconstruction. She might mean that she had had this thought in mind all along, that her marriage had been motivated solely by his money.

But this was radiculous. Of course it had been so motivated. Gratitude wouldn't have made her marry him. It was his money. Well, what of it? She was honest about it. And perhaps she was merely being light-spirited. Why, no matter why she was gay, he ought to be grateful that she was gay! Her mirth even if it were forced, was better than tears, better than an expressed regret for what they had done.

CONFISCATION RIGHTS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. (AP)—The supreme court today consented to decide whether the federal government has the right to confiscate under the internal revenue laws automobiles seized in connection with illegal transportation of intoxicating liquor, a question of great importance in the automobile industry.

ATWELL RAPS CRITICS OF U. S.

Federal Judge Addresses Kiwanis Club

"Critics" who apparently suffer from blindness to all factors in the life of United States except her supposed social and economic ailments were subjected to scorching denunciation by Judge William A. Atwell of the federal district court in a brief address before the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Kemp hotel Monday noon.

Refuting the preachments of what he termed a "cult of criticism that is as valueless as it is harmful," Judge Atwell assembled his arguments for an optimistic faith in this nation's present civilization largely in the form of questions which implied emphatic affirmative replies.

"We might ask, 'Is there anything right with America?' for we hear national customs and ideals criticised continually, but never hear of anything being right," the speaker declared.

Pointing to some of the features which he said deserve commendation, the speaker declared the schools in this country unequalled in any other nation, and praised the compulsory attendance laws. His interrogations also called attention to political freedom in this country, religious life, industrial progress, economic stability, dignified labor, and her contribution to the establishment of world peace.

Announcement was made of a Kiwanis party to be held Friday evening of this week at the Wichita Cotton Oil company at the east end of Pecan street, with James Gant as host. An inter-city Kiwanis meeting is to be held on Thursday night at Henrietta, it was announced.

Paul Hines, chairman of the Christmas work committee, announced the teams which have been appointed to work on the club's Christmas charity program.

A singsong led by William E. Young concluded the program, which was arranged by Jouette Bonner.

Abilene Man Suffers More Than 20 Years

A. E. Barber Says Orgatone Is Making Him a Well Man After Unusual Suffering

"I don't believe there was a week for the past 20 years that I didn't suffer with awful pains in my stomach that felt just like something was gnawing me in two, but since I started taking Orgatone a few weeks ago I haven't had a touch of my old trouble," said A. E. Barber, residing on rural route 1, Abilene, Texas.

"I can remember," continued Mr. Barber, "that when I was practically a young man my stomach and digestive organs were always giving me trouble. It was a dull heavy pain that seemed like a hard lump or knot right in the pit of my stomach. Many a day, especially after eating heavy foods of any kind, it would hurt me so badly that it just seem like I could hardly stand to do another lick of work.

"After eating, especially at night, I would suffer from a constant gnawing pain in my stomach and I could feel it throbbing and jarring down in my lower bowels. It was certainly a queer sensation and the best way I can give any idea of the pain is to say that it was just like a toothache and only people who have ever had it will know just what I suffered. I have taken nearly every kind of medicine but none did me a bit of good, and when I saw Orgatone so highly advertised I decided to try it. I have taken it just a few weeks now and for the first time since I can remember I don't have that throbbing sensation in my stomach. My stomach feels so much stronger that I can lift heavy things and don't notice any pain or trouble at all. I take pleasure in stating my experience with Orgatone, for I've found it to be a splendid medicine."

Further proof of the wide popularity of Owen Wister's "Virginian" is crowding itself to the foreground this week in the numerous expressions of interest in its coming to the Strand next Friday as a talking picture. Copies of this book, in most home libraries, will be found in a worn and dog-eared condition, the result of much handling. Ours, for instance, returned from its last pilgrimage to a borrower badly in need of rebinding; it seems that another member of borrower's family wanted to read of Trampas' end just at that moment, too—well, the book was in demand. Frequent eulogies still are heard of the silent picture version of the story which featured film entertainment several years ago. But despite much reading and former screening, many of the local folk are trimming their auditory sails for a realistic enactment of the beloved "Virginian" in the coming sound picture.

◇ ◇ ◇

Theodore Roosevelt paid Wister the compliment of having painted the most honest portrayal of our early West ever given to American literature. The particular element in "The Virginian" on which that tribute was based is its retention of natural human emotion and humor in characters whose lives are cast in the land of cattle-rustlers, six-shooters and few women. Many stories of America's cattle-punching frontier depend largely upon fictional elaboration of spectacular he-man qualities which are shown in barely connected series of dramatic high-lights. Wister accomplished an artistic degree of character delineation with a small group whose very human qualities constitute a natural picture of every day life in the cow country under the Northern Rockies. An exquisite humor pervades the story, of which the tragedy of Emily the hen and the bishop's visit may be taken as specimens.

◇ ◇ ◇

The rangy figure of Gary Cooper will be seen in the role of "The Virginian." His soft voice, sensitive mouth, and wavy black blocks will enhance the impersonation. Walter Huston, star of "The Lady Lies" and "Gentlemen of the Press" will portray the character of Trampas, dark-skinned nemesis of the reserved Virginian. Dick Arlen will play as the ill-fated friend, and Mary Brian as the schoolma'am from New England. The production is credited with having been made entirely in the open, without one stage set. Its sweeping panorama of cowboy life on the range will constitute one of its most appealing features.

◇ ◇ ◇

A visit to the projection room of a modern talking-picture theater will contain startling revelations for the average outsider. Particularly, if he retains a mental picture of the old booth of 20 years ago, where the operator had his one machine placed upon a tripod, and cranked noisely to draw the film jerkily through the pencil of carbon light. The interior of the modern projection room might easily be mistaken for the control room of a submarine or part of an elaborate electrical plant. Its $12,000 to $15,000 worth of highly technical equipment, manned by two expert projectionists, opens the eyes of a layman to the amazing development reached in the science of sight and sound photography.

◇ ◇ ◇

One of the most interesting phases of the projection process is that which produces sound from a track on the film. The sound track appears as a strip about one-eighth inch in width and marked only by alternate transverse lines of white and black—the white being clear. The sound record is about 18 inches ahead of its accompaying action record on the film, for the reason that its projection slot is that distance below the picture projection slot, the film traveling downwards. A needle of light thrown through the sound track centers upon an electro-sensitive bulb about the size of a pigeon's egg. That bulb is the miracle worker, for it converts light waves into sound waves, transmitting the latter to the amplifiers for projection as speech or music or what you will.

◇ ◇ ◇

"The Cock Eyed World" limits its arraignment of war to one spirited discourse by Sergeant Flagg—delivered through lather and over a safety razor blade at the ambitious Quirt. At that, many of its hearers will agree that the lines were pungent with truth.

GRAND JURY TO PROBE ATTACK

Young Louisiana Woman Assaulted by Negro

MONROE, La., Dec. 2. (AP)—A special session of the grand jury is to meet on Dec. 4 at Rayville to investigate the case of Henry Wilson, negro, 21, held here after alleged criminal assault on a young white woman Saturday in Richland parish.

The victim alighted from a train in Rayville, and when relatives were not at the station to meet her she looked about to find someone to carry her valise to the home of her parents four miles from Rayville. The negro offered his services.

The attack occurred in a wooded section half way to their destination as the pair walked along the road. The victim then made her way to the plantation of her parents. Her clothing was torn, and there was a wound on her arm caused by a knife held in Wilson's hand to threaten the girl.

The negro was arrested yesterday at his home in Rayville from a description furnished by the girl. He flatly denied his guilt.

Debate Tournament Plan Abandoned

The Wichita county championship in interscholastic league debating will be settled this year by a round-robin schedule and not by the tournament plan heretofore used, according to E. R. Stroud of Electra, director of debate for the county.

An explanation of how to conduct a round-robin in debate appears in the November issue of the Interscholastic Leaguer, Mr. Stroud said, and he expressed the hope that schools interested in this contest read the article carefully.

"Our county committee wants to give every school in the county a chance to enter this contest," he continued, "but we are afraid some will overlook giving us the proper notification. Before we can make out a schedule, it will be necessary to have all entries before us. Schools are therefore urged to indicate whether they are going to enter, and if so, whether they will have a boys' team, girls' team, or both.

"The great advantage of a round-robin plan over the tournament plan is that a defeat does not eliminate. No team need feel cast down or give up when defeated, for it is the percentage that determines entry in the county meet. The two teams in each division having the highest percentages in the round-robin will fight it out for championship at the county meet."

Participants in Negro Dice Game Give Testimony in Murder Trial

Defense claims that Henry Toles, negro, held a gun at the time he was stabbed to death by the knife of Raymond Lewis, another negro, last May, were introduced late Monday afternoon in the testimony of the first witness for Lewis, on trial for murder in the 89th district court. Trial of the case got under way about 3 o'clock Monday afternoon after Lewis had pleaded not guilty and entered an application for a suspended sentence.

The basis for the self-defense plea of the defendant was laid in the statement of Holland Tanner, one of the group of negroes who played craps all night in Toles' home on the night of the stabbing. The witness said Toles had gained possession of the gun and had mumbled threats before Lewis used his knife. The quarrel, the witness said, grew out of Lewis' claim that Toles was using crooked dice in the game.

Tanner was put on the stand by C. M. McFarland and John Martin defense attorneys, after the state had rested its case upon the testimony of three eye-witnesses. The case for the state was outlined by had the disputed gun in his hand at the disputed gun in his hand at the time Toles was attacked, and who testified that he was leading Toles peaceably from the room just before he was assaulted by the defendant.

George W. Anderson and Mike Anglin, assistant district attorneys, conducted the case for the state. Testimony is expected to be completed and the case in the hands of the jury before noon Tuesday.

High School and College Doings

Miss Leila Belle Jenkins was elected president of the Junior college Commercial club Monday morning at the regular meeting. Other officers selected are as follows: vice president, Miss Louada Stearns; second vice president, Oscar Thornton; treasurer, Miss Dolores Peavy; and secretary, Miss Sylvia Smith.

Members of the college Writers club will visit the various departments of the Times Publishing company Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, according to Miss Eva Weber, faculty sponsor.

Willmont Hunt gave a reading for members of the May graduating class Monday morning at their regular meeting in the Junior college cafeteria. Misses Evelyn and Elta Rose Franklin and Stella Evans presented a number of vocal selections, accompanied by Mrs. Hermione Vaughn, high school and college musical instructor.

Style shows and "dates" are the outstanding attractions in the "pay your dues" drive being sponsored by the Girl Reserves this week. Every girl who has paid her dues is entitled to bring a boy friend as her guest to the style show Friday morning.

Mrs. Hermione Vaughn will present the high school boys' glee club Tuesday morning at the regular high school and junior college assembly, according to Principal S. H. Rider.

JUNIOR C. OF C. DATE CHANGED

Banquet Set for Dec. 16 Instead of Dec. 10

Dec. 16 has been chosen as the date for the annual banquet of the Junior chamber of commerce instead of Dec. 10, as announced last week, according to Guy P'Pool, secretary of the organization.

Booking of "Padlocks of 1929," a musical revue, by the Publix theaters for presentation in the Memorial auditorium here on the night of Dec. 10 was given as the reason for relinquishing that date for a later one.

The banquet will be held at the Wichita club at 7 p. m., and will be featured by election of directors for the coming year and consideration of important committee reports.
