JOE INMAN TAKEN TO OKLAHOMA

14 SAILORS ARE RESCUED IN MID-OCEAN

HAD DRIFTED IN HELPLESS CRAFT OVER ONE MONTH

FOURTEEN RESCUED BUT NINETEEN MISSING IN SMALL BOATS

(By The Associated Press.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19.—With food and water gone, and drifting more than a month after a storm has rendered their vessel helpless, 14 of the steamer Tashin Maru were rescued in mid-pacific yesterday by the Stand and oil tanker Java Arrow. The other 19 of the crew, who left the Tashin Maru in life boats, are believed to have perished.

When the Japanese ship with its fuel exhausted and its cargo jettisoned was sighted by the Java Arrow on its way from Yokohama to San Francisco yesterday afternoon, the 14 surviving members of the crew, including the captain, mates and engineers, had been without water for five days and without food except rats and the ship's cat for twenty days.

Word Relayed Today

Word of the rescue was relayed early today to the Associated Press by the Dollar Line's President Wilson, 2,500 miles from this port.

The Tashin Maru left Yokohama January 17 for Moscow, on the island of Hokkaido, in the Northern part of the Japanese archipelago, with 5 tons of coal as fuel.

Life Boats Lost

On January 29 one life boat with 11 men put away from the drifting steamer. Five days later eight men left in a second life boat.

Laconically the wireless message received at the federal telegraph's station here, addressed to the Associated Press, told of deprivations of the men.

"Men aboard, about least twenty days, no water last five," it related. "Caught rats made soup, later caught no more rats, crew ate cat."

HOTEL BIDS FAIL TO SATISFY

Bids on the hardware for the Lubbock hotel is now under construction here were received at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Hotel Company with interested parties Thursday night, but the award of the contract was held up until possibly the first of next week, it was announced here Friday by R. W. Blair, President of the Hotel Company.

Certain requirements laid down by the hotel directors in specifications on the hardware were not met by some of the bidders, Mr. Blair said, including detailed lists of the various parts of the contract, and pending receipts of these, the contract will not be awarded.

A meeting probably will be held some time early next week, when it is hoped that the contract may be awarded, Mr. Blair stated.

STORM WARNING GIVEN

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 19. (AP)—The following storm warning was issued by the weather bureau today.

"Advisory 03 a. m., small craft warnings ordered on the Louisiana coast, fresh to strong Northwest winds today."

A Tragedy of the Night Air Mail

Here is all that is left of the airplane in which Art Smith, veteran pilot, crashed as he was making a night flight on the air mail route between Chicago and Cleveland. His plane struck a tree, fell to the ground and burst into flames near Bryan, O., killing Smith and leaving only the charred wreckage, shown above, for the rescue party.

FIND BONES IN RUINS OF FIRE

San Antonio Officers Ponder Over Missing Girl and Skeleton Findings

(By The Associated Press.)
SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 19.—Possibility that a house, mysteriously burned in Alamo Heights several years ago, served as the funeral pyre for a young woman who disappeared and of whom no trace was ever found, confronted officers today. They sought to unravel the enigma presented by the finding of human bones yesterday.

Immediately after the fire, a young woman of the family occupying the house was reported missing, according to information given deputy sheriffs. When a perfunctory search was without result about Alamo Heights again.

These facts were brought to light when B. A. Fussell, contractor found a mass of human bones in excavation being made for a church to be erected in Alamo Heights.

They were found in a shallow grave about six inches below the surface of the ground, the contractor said.

Glass Sliver, Taken From Man's Head, Is Of Origin Of 1900

AUSTIN, Feb. 19. (AP)—Memories of a fight between Mexicans in a saloon 26 years ago were recalled Thursday by S. D. Burratt, when a sliver of glass about one-fourth inch in length was taken from his forehead.

"A couple of Mexicans had a fight in the saloon back in 1900," Mr. Burratt said. "When one of them hurled a glass it hit me on the head. Ever since then, there has been a twitching pain there and this morning when I happened to rub my hand over my forehead, I felt something sharp. My wife extracted the glass sliver with a pair of tweezers."

AUSTIN SHAKEN BY RUM BATTLE

Bootleggers in Hills Ready For Attack Of Officers in Travis County

(By The Associated Press.)
AUSTIN, Feb. 19. (AP)—Guerrilla warfare has broken out among bootleggers and moonshiners who taken refuge in the western hills of Travis County investigation by Prohibition Officer C. E. Brents and local officers revealed. Rifles are standing ready for use by practically every bootlegger and wolf guns, with a small steel trigger spring across trails near stills, have been set for prohibition officers, one man admitted. The wolf guns are so arranged that any person who trips the string will be instantly killed.

One man in the hill country who has been opposing activities of the bootleggers was fired on by a hidden assailant who used a high-powered rifle he told officers. Several other attempts had been made on his life he said. Names of many hill moonshiners are in the hands of federal officers following raids conducted in that section.

Bretz, with a posse of Austin officers, went into the hill country late Thursday. Lookouts spread the alarm all through the district.

GUNMAN DECIDES NOT TO FIGHT RETURN WHEN LUBBOCK SHERIFF PROMISES TO BE ONE OF PARTY

CHIEF OF POLICE T. E. MAY AND TWO OKLAHOMANS MAKE UP BALANCE OF RETURNING PARTY LEAVING LUBBOCK THIS MORNING

Joe Inman, notorious Oklahoma gunman and confessed murderer left here Friday shortly before noon, accompanied by Sheriff H. L. Johnston, Chief of Police T. E. May, and Luther Bishop and Lee Pollock, of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation of the state of Oklahoma, for the Sooner state penitentiary at McAlester, where he will be called upon to serve out a ten year sentence in connection with an attack made upon a deputy sheriff at Alex, Okla., in 1921.

Here's A Tip For 'Ma' NELLIE ROSS NOT EASY Concerning Pardoning

(By The Associated Press.)
CHEYENNE, Wyo., Feb. 19.—A Governor of a state should not permit appeals to sympathy to obscure his sense of responsibility to society and cause the unrestrained use of his powers in granting clemency to criminals, Governor Nellie Taylor Ross, Wyoming's executive said today in expressing an opinion in pardoning convicts.

"Continuous pleas which come from grief stricken children, wives, sons and daughters of prisoners, appeal strongly to the heart of a governor," Mrs. Ross said, "and are truly hard to resist. But I do not regard it the function of a governor to reverse the action of the courts except in cases where it can be established that the prisoner is a victim of circumstances."

"One of the basic principles upon all civilized government are founded is the protection of the rights of their citizens. Every man charged with crime has thrown about him utmost protection by the state. He is held innocent until proven guilty. He has the benefit of counsel and trial before an unbiased judge and jury and if convicted should pay the penalty."

Has Been Long Sought

Inman, who has been sought for the past three years in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico after he jumped a $10,000 appeal bond following conviction on an assault with intent to kill charge in Grady county, Okla. in 1921, was captured by Lubbock county officers last Saturday night in Reagan county, Texas, and has been held here since.

Action Preparatory to the return of Inman to Oklahoma by requisition had been started by Sooner state authorities who have been here the past three days, and legal action countering to this had been filed here by Inman through a local law firm petitioning Governor Ferguson to withhold approval of the requisition, which, as far as has been learned, has not yet reached the hands of the Texas Governor.

Is Given "Cleanup"

The prisoner was taken from his cell in the Lubbock county jail Friday morning, carried to a barber shop where he underwent a cleansing process that apparently put new life and enthusiasm into him, for immediately following, he announced his readiness to return if the two local officers would accompany him.

The trip is being made in Sheriff Johnston's automobile, and no trouble whatever is anticipated, according to a statement of the Sheriff before he left.

May Confess

Inman, who admits the slaying of at least two white men in Oklahoma in recent years, had issued the statement to Lubbock county authorities that he would not consent to return to Oklahoma, and said that to emphasize this statement he would confess to law violations in Texas if such became necessary, that will keep him in the Lone Star state indefinitely.

"They may hang me in Texas following my confessions," the prisoner said, "but I would rather die on the gallows or in the electric chair in Texas than to take chances of being brutally murdered by my enemies in Oklahoma if I am returned there."

Charged at Childress

Inman has never given any intimation as to what possible charges may be pending against him in Texas, except a charge of swindling at Childress, but has assured officers that he could make his plea stand up if it became necessary.

Oklahoma authorities have been here for the past three days seeking to induce Inman to return with them, but by a strange turn of affairs in the negotiations here Thursday, the prisoner became fired to such an extent that his rather rash statement was issued. He has continually expressed a fear since his confinement in the jail here that he would never reach Oklahoma alive if turned over to Sooner state officers. These charges and fears of course have been branded as silly by the Oklahoma authorities, but Inman nevertheless was firm in his refusal to accompany them.

Postmaster Slashes Throat In Oklahoma

Will Rogers, Famous Humorist, Stops Off In Lubbock Today Enroute To Amarillo Where He Speaks Tonight

Will Rogers, the really famous Will Rogers, was in Lubbock Friday morning enroute to Amarillo and got off the train to look the town over from the depot and visit with his niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Dickinson. And typically Rogers, he discussed cattle and politics and Florida and California, all with the same drawl that has made him famous the world over.

In appearance he looked very much like any prosperous traveling rancher. He wore a dark business suit, a gray hat slouched over his eyes—a rather western-looking hat—and rolled a pipe.

turning from Florida. One thing that makes this country so prosperous now is that the people are living in the country instead of all moving to town, he said. The whole nation is trying to move into the cities and some of them used to remain in the country, he said.

Cattle Going Up

"I have good news for the people of this section," he exclaimed, "because cattle are selling higher now and what's more, they're going to sell still higher." He said that recently he had taken dinner with A. J. White of the Armour Company and that he had predicted that cattle prices will be much higher.

"Florida has passed the peak of her boom. Of course, the good things will continue to grow, but much of the selling of land will cease soon," he said.

Talks About Florida

"Everyone in Florida would ask me how I liked the country and, seeking information, you see," he said, "I would ask them something about the country. They would invariably reply, 'Well, I have been here only about two or three weeks and haven't become acquainted with the place yet."

I asked them if they had anyone there before the boom started," he exclaimed.

Mr. Rogers was enroute to Amarillo where he is to appear Friday evening. He had wired his niece, Mrs. Dickinson, that he was coming through and she and Mr. Dickinson accompanied him to Amarillo from here. Mrs. Rogers had been with him on this tour until they reached Austin where she left him and went on to their home in California.

He found W. K. Dickinson, a pioneer

Mrs. J. C. Granbery Makes P. T. A. Address

Mrs. J. C. Granbery made the principal talk at a meeting of the George M. Hunt Parent-Teacher Association at the school Thursday afternoon. Following this, a program of music and readings was given by the students and teachers of the school. Mrs. J. N. Nichols presided in the absence of the president.

Mrs. Granbery, who is vice-president of the Texas League of Women Voters, talked on that organization and of the necessity of women acquainting themselves with voting machines and with the qualifications of the various candidates in order that they may vote intelligently. The League of Women Voters is attempting to enlist the support of the women voters and to secure a vote from each woman who is eligible, she said. The program which was given follows: reading, "A Little Peach," Annette McC Daniels; reading, "Alb's He Cut?" Myrtle McArthur; piano solo, "The Answer," Arline Harris; reading, "The Pledge," Ferriline Tucker; reading, "The Radio," Gwendolyn Hooper; vocal solo, "My Task," Miss Louise Jennings; reading, "Brother's Faults," Eva Laura Hall; piano solo, "The Anvil Song," Elise Tucker; reading, "Dutch Philosophy," Miss Fern High; reading, "Doughnuts," Mary Caraway; reading, "Fair Warning," Marjorie Adamson; reading, "A Girl's Mother," Maxine Burrus. The picture was awarded Miss Elizabeth Koen's room for having the most mothers present. Sandwiches, tea and salted peanuts were served in the cafeteria following the program.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY

Breakfast—Stewed dried peaches, cereal, thin cream, tomato omelet, crisp whole wheat toast, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—Creamed shrimps in rice border, bran bread, apple and celery salad, orange cream pudding, milk, tea.
Dinner—Roast loin of lamb, mashed potatoes, creamed turnips, endive salad, canned strawberries, sponge cake, graham bread, milk, coffee.
Sometimes after opening a can of tomatoes there is not enough for a meal, but too much to waste. While any vegetable left-over can always be used in soup, sometimes we aren't making soup. This tomato omelet is a suggestion for using up left-over tomatoes. Tomato soup can be used, in which case omit the soda in the recipe.
Tomato Omelet
One cup tomato pulp, 1/2 cup milk, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 6 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, 4 eggs.
Canned tomatoes must be rubbed through a strainer. Beat puree and add soda. Melt, 1/2 tablespoons butter, in sauce pan, stir in flour and slowly add tomato mixture, stirring constantly. Add milk and cook until thick and smooth. Season with salt and pepper and add yolks of eggs beaten until thick and lemon colored. Fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Melt remaining butter in hot spider, or omelet pan. When hissing hot turn in egg mixture. Cook slowly on top of stove or bake 20 minutes in a hot oven. Fold and slide onto a hot platter and serve at once. (Copyright, 1925, NEA Service, Inc.)

Mrs. N. H. Barker Dies Here Friday Morning

Mrs. N. H. Barker died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Barker about 6:30 o'clock Friday morning following the birth of an eight and one-half pound daughter to her at 11:45 o'clock Thursday night. Funeral services will be held at 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the First Baptist Church with Rev. W. A. Bowen conducting the services. The Rix undertakers are in charge of arrangements.
Mrs. Barker is survived by her husband, her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Wain, who live South of Lubbock, a sister, Mrs. Phil Atkins,

Enslaved

The very newest thing in jewelry, just in on a steamer, is Babylonian, of the type worn by slaves. It is rich with gold and usually large and cumbersome. These three bracelets are copies of the original.

Here is a quaint "petticoat handbag." It is made of quilted, old-fashioned calico print, the sort our grandmothers used for their petticoats, whence the name. The darker materials used are accompanied by tortoiseshell; the lighter by amber.

MEXICAN REBELLION PLOT BARED AS THREE LEADERS GO TO PRISON IN SAN ANTONIO AND ONE IN K. C.

(By the Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 19.—The third of eight Mexican political refugees indicted yesterday by a federal grand jury was arrested today when General Lossado Nieto was taken into custody as he entered his insurance office. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of violating the neutrality laws by plotting an expedition into Mexico and was taken to the county jail in default of $2,500 bond.

Imprisoned with him today were R. Barera Martinez, a former Secretary of the Mexican congress, and General Francisco Coss, prominent figure in several revolutions in the republic. Arrested yesterday and last night, they too were unable to make bond. The indictments charged the men with having held a meeting on or about September 1, 1925, to elect a committee to select and equip an expeditionary party for the purpose of overthrowing the present Mexican government.

Indictments also charge that Coss, Martinez, and the late Demetrio Torres met with others here on October 25, 1925, to send an advance party under direction of Torres to dynamite trains in Mexico as the initial step of the revolution. According to the indictment, the advance party was instructed to rob and kill all foreigners on the trains to arouse sympathy of foreign nations after showing that the present Mexican government was not capable of protecting foreign citizens.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 19. (AP)—Jorge Prieto Laurens, formerly governor of the state San Luis Potosi, Mexico here today on a federal indictment returned yesterday at San Antonio, charging violation of the neutrality laws.

Established Newspaper
Laurens came to Kansas City ten days ago and established a Mexican newspaper here, federal officers declared.

He was arraigned before a United States commissioner and his preliminary hearing set for February 25.

Girl, 16, Shoots At Robbers In Holdup

DENVER, Feb. 19. (AP)—Mrs. Irene Pearl Taylor, 16 years old, was wounded twice but routed three robbers intent on rifling the cash register in the Rainbow Cafe near here today after the robbers had lined up and robbed her in the place of $100. Though the men meekly submitted when confronted by a revolver and opened fire when they attempted to reach the cash register over which she stood.

Mrs. Taylor was wounded in the elbow and hip but is believed to have wounded one of the robbers as only two were seen to escape. A search is being conducted for the third member of the bandits.

Although George Bernard Shaw complains about having to stand in the glare of publicity, he seldom is seen to sidestep it.—Detroit Free Press.

Martinez, a former secretary of the Mexican congress, whose home was raided by Department of Justice agents last December, plead not guilty, when arraigned before K. L. Edwards, He could not meet bond of $2500, set by federal Judge Duval West, and was sent to jail.
Martinez has been employed as editorial writer on a Spanish language daily newspaper here. He has a wife and three children.
General Coss has a "tin again, out again" existence lately. He was arrested in January by immigration authorities, later released on bond and then freed last week when deportation proceedings against him were dropped in Washington. Saturday night, however, he was arrested by narcotic agents but was freed again Monday.

KIWANIS QUINTET ROMPS TO VICTORY OVER ROTARY FIVE IN BENEFIT GAME IN TECH COLLEGE GYM LAST NIGHT

The Lubbock Rotary club basketball crew went down to defeat at the hands of the Kiwanis in the Tech College Matador benefit exhibition here Thursday night 28 to 19 in a game that was bitterly contested throughout all stages. The rule of "no holds barred" that was adopted preceding the game was very much in evidence as the eager basketekers, ranging in weight from a little over 100 pounds to well past the 200 mark, evorated about the court in wild frenzy.

Occasional spurts of real form could be seen as several un-to-be basket toppers meandered into their second wind, and although an every so often time out was called to enable some over zealous and winded participant to catch his breath, the contest moved off at a good clip.

The quintet offered by the Kiwanis club was admittedly the best all-round combination of the two, for on this squad were several men who had seen active play in the not very distant past, and one or two who have been keeping somewhat in condition by working out with the college team. Here the art of conversing one's breath, an art known only to those who are habitually on the court, was shown to be a valuable asset.

Offering such men as D. H. Mansell, a brother of the Matador center, A. C. Jackson, Herbert Stubbs, and others yet young in years, all of whom have seen active play some time during recent years, the Kiwanians were able to overpower the brawn offered by Rotary, and by flexion of foot, managed to keep the ball in their possession, or on their end of the court the greater part of the time. The offensive work of Mansell and Jackson, and the defensive tactics of Stubbs stood out in Kiwanis performance.

Their opponents, older in point of years, heavier, whose wind was necessarily taxed to a greater extent in negotiating themselves over the court, and who naturally have not seen active service in recent years, were continually on the drive, however, and were constantly in the midst of the fight.

Coach Ewing Y. Frestland, of the Matadors, Skipper Sled Allen, of baseball fame, Dr. W. A. Jackson, who long since has laid aside his athletic aspirations, favoring a literary and teaching career, were among the offerings of the three, despite their handicap in age and weight, managed to appear in the bulk of play, and were successful in breaking up many passing attacks of Kiwanis. The work of coach Frestland especially stood out on defensive play. The skipper, who endeavors to keep in condition throughout the winter, found the pace a little too fast for him, and he would resort to the time-out whistle every so often to catch his breath.

Among the younger set offered by Rotary were such men as Charlie Guy, "Judge" Raley, Walter Myrick, and Ed Innon, who took turn about in offering their service, and although they showed rapid fire action while on the firing line, they could not measure up to the requirements in keeping with some of their older colleagues.

Almost every known rule of basketball was laid aside for the contest until the last few minutes of play as the enthusiastic rivals would break into a frensy hacking and charging. Occasional "take-away" tactics were resorted to and the best man in the tussle would emerge with the coveted oval, and break for his own territory. The exhibition drew cheers and laughter from the throats of some who possibly have not engaged in such for some time, and was characterized as the classic of the season.

BLOODED HORSES BURN IN FIRE IN KENTUCKY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 19. (AP)—Twenty-three blooded saddle horses perished in a fire of undetermined origin which destroyed the Howell Riding Academy here early today. The loss was estimated at $52,000.

One animal, a brood mare valued at $10,000, escaped. The other animals died amid streams of pain and terror as the flames enveloped the building. Hostlers made several attempts to free the horses but were driven back by the fire.

Track Tutor

Meet Mr. Donn Cromwell, famous track and field coach of the University of Southern California. A former star point-getter, Cromwell has enjoyed much success in training others. As head coach of the Trojans, he has developed such world-renowned stars as Charley Paddock, Howard Drew, Bud Houser, Fred Kelly and Earle Thomson.

SLATON HI TRACK MEN ENGAGED IN TRAINING

Special to the Journal:

SLATON, Feb. 19.—Training in track work has already started in Slaton high school, according to Coach Gus Miller. The track team has been spending the past week in training down to form; the boys have been doing long distance running and have attempted but very little fast work.

Next week, each group who intend to participate in the various events, will be segregated and each group will begin work upon their own particular line of endeavor. There is an excellent cinder track, just back of the high school building and this track will afford a workout place for those trying for the sprints and for those trying for the distance running. The school has adequate high jumping, pole vaulting, discus throwing and javelin throwing equipment and very suitable grounds upon which to practice. Miller expressed himself as well pleased with the progress his boys are making and says that he expects them to make a good showing in the county meet.

A group of Slaton boys and girls have been playing tennis since the weather became suitable and although they have played no interschool meets some of them have developed the "Lawther" and the "slices serve" to such a degree of perfection that they will be formidable contenders for the championship of any tournament that they should enter. Baseball practice is to start within the next month, but no definite date has been set.

HELEN WILLS HAS EASY TIME AT TOURNEY

BEAULIEU, France, Feb. 19. (AP)—Two men decisive victories today marked the progress of Helen Wills, the American champion through the women's singles of the Beaulieu tennis tournament. She defeated Miss Emily Wright, 6-0, 6-0, and Mrs. Randolph Lyetti, 6-0, 6-1.

Good Progress Is Made On Swenson Well In Crosby

CROSBYTON, Feb. 19.—One of the last wells along the cap rock to be spudded in is the Swenson No. 1 about twenty-five miles Southeast of Crosbyton. This well is now below the 1300 foot level and progress seems to be good.

It is very strongly intimated that others wells will be begun in this territory in the near future and if good production of gas is secured, the South Plains will be relieved of the only handicap in industrial development. Varied resources are only awaiting cheap fuel for development.

French Champion Is Winner Over Yankee

NEW YORK, Feb. 19. (AP)—Rene Lacoste of France, Wimbledon champion, won a surprise today by conquering Vincent Richards, America's third ranking star, in the quarter finals of the national indoor tennis championships. His scores were 6-4, 6-2.

Billy Evans Says

"Second Guess Experts" Are Wrong in Panning Roger Peckinpaugh. Often there is but a very slight line of distinction in being the hero or "goat" of a world series.

Roger Peckinpaugh of the Washington club experienced that sensation last fall. Unfortunately he finished the "goat."

Just prior to the final of the series I dropped around to the Washington bench to have a chat with Peckinpaugh. The experts had already picked him as the "bust" of the series.

Knowing the uncertainty of baseball I had offered alibis for Peckinpaugh rather than censured him. Personal contact with him day after day made me realize he was in a desperate slump from which he might emerge at any moment.

"While I realize my playing already entitles me to that very unpleasant distinction, still I would prefer that final judgment be reserved for the finish."

"You can never tell, possibly I will do something tomorrow that will win the old ball game, then the folks will forget all about my previous poor play."

When Peckinpaugh made that home run in the eighth inning of the last game, it looked as if he had made baseball history in the form of real drama.

VALUABLE PLAYER

As he swatted the ball over the left-field barrier, I could see myself writing a story with Peckinpaugh playing the hero role. The one run margin his home run had given the Senators seemed enough, with darkness fast falling over the playing field.

But destiny had ordained that Peckinpaugh was to be the "goat" not the hero. In the very next time at bat of the Pittsburgh Pirates he tossed away the one run advantage and gave the National Leaguers the winning margin.

Since the close of the world series many experts have ridiculed the choice of the scribes in honoring Peckinpaugh as the most valuable player to his team in the American League.

If Peckinpaugh had played his usual classy game in the world series no one would have ever challenged the selection of the committee.

I'll venture if the question were put to the players and the umpires of the American League at least 80 per cent of them would say Peckinpaugh was deserving of the honor.

Peckinpaugh is not the flashy type and he really appreciates his great worth one must see him over the long route.

PECKINPAUGH'S CASE

No position on the diamond is more important than shortstop. Without a doubt he was by far the best defensive shortstop in the American League last season, regardless of what the figures say.

While he failed to hit .300 he ranked with Sam Rice and Goose Goslin for timely work at the bat.

Washington really won the American League pennant last season by taking the majority of games from Philadelphia. In many of those games, Peckinpaugh was the outstanding star.

I can recall three games that Peckinpaugh saved by remarkable stops, two that he won by his batting and another that he put on the ice by a steal of home. And by the way, it was the only successful theft of home I saw last year.

Peckinpaugh was the most valuable player to his team last year. Much of the panning he is now receiving is a result of the second guess.

Retailers Meet To Name Officers This Afternoon

The Board of Directors of the Lubbock retail merchants association was called into session here this afternoon when officers for the coming year were to have been elected.

The Board of Directors was elected at the annual meeting of the association held here February 9, but the election of officers was left up to action of the Board, which is composed of the following business men: J. W. Gamel, former President; W. W. Royalty, W. W. Nelson; P. L. Sherrod, J. C. Anderson, W. R. Pickett, J. A. Ellis, L. C. Ellis, Raleigh Martin, J. D. Hassell.

The association is looking forward to one of the best years in its history, reports issued at the office of the manager said Friday.

VITAL STATISTICS BY OCCUPATION GIVEN OUT

(Special to Daily Journal) WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The Department of Commerce announces that in 28 states there were 270,045 women aged 35 to 44 years who became mothers in 1924 and who had husbands engaged in gainful occupations. The total number of children ever born to these mothers, including the births of 1924, was 1,708,927, or an average of 6.7 per mother, and the total number living was 1,450,038, or an average of 5.3 per mother. Of these mothers 202,460 were aged 35 to 39 years, and for mothers of this age group the average number of children ever born was 5.9 and the average number living was 5, while for the 67,585 mothers aged 40 to 44 the average number of children ever born was 7.3, and the average number living was 6.2.

Considering only mothers aged 35 to 39 years, the highest average number of children ever born (7.4) appears for the wives of coal mine operatives and the lowest average (3.3 each) for the wives of chemists, assayers, and metallurgists, dentists, physicians and surgeons, and technical engineers; the highest average number of children living (7.5) appears for the wives of other mine operatives and the lowest average number of children living (3.5) for the wives of lawyers, judges, and justices.

living (6) appears for the wives of coal mine operatives and the lowest average number of children living (2.3 each) for the wives of dentists and technical engineers.

Considering only mothers aged 40 to 44 and only those occupations represented by at least 100 births, the highest number of children ever born (8.1) appears for the wives of other mine operatives and the lowest average (4) for the wives of lawyers, judges and justices; the highest average number of children living (7.5) appears for the wives of other mine operatives and the lowest average number of children living (3.5) for the wives of lawyers, judges, and justices.

RAILROADS PROSPEROUS

To the average American nothing is more encouraging or gives greater satisfaction than evidence of an increasing prosperity and stability on the part of the country's railroads.
 There are several reasons for this. For one thing, railroad profits are in accurate measure of general economic conditions. Then the railroads are one of the nation's few truly national industries, giving a livelihood directly, or indirectly to millions. In fact the entire industrial and commercial system is quite as dependent upon the rail roads as the railroads are dependent upon it. The hundreds of thousands of railroad stockholders afford still another explanation for the public concern for the welfare of the railroads.

So the public found gratifying to the extreme the statistics on the earnings of the principle railroads in 1925, showing an increase in net earnings of more than $150,000,000 over 1924 and of $1,125,000,000 over the 1920 earnings.
 The year the roads were returned to private management.
 The increase in net income was due not only to greater traffic but also to more efficient and economical operation. And this efficiency and economy are the result largely of enormous capital expenditures in the past four years. Best evidence in the efficiency in railroad management are the figures showing that while gross operating revenues in 1925 were approximately 2 per cent above those of the previous year and freight volume increased 6 per cent, the operating expenses were only 1 per cent higher.

The Florida boom and industrial awakening in other Southern states explain why the roads in the southern district earned 5.91 per cent on their capital last year as compared with the average of 4.83 per cent for the entire country.

HOMELESS

War, revolution, economic chaos, pestilence and famine have made homeless orphans of 100,000 Russian children. They are roaming the streets and highways of their country, winning a precarious livelihood by theft and robbery, finding shelter where and when they can. Dirty, daring and depraved they are becoming highwaymen, murderers and dope fiends almost before their bones have developed.
 Thus far the soviet government has been unable to cope with this situation, which Americans cannot contemplate without shuddering. Vacancies caused in this army of waifs by deaths, adoptions or forced detention are quickly filled up by new victims of Russian chaos.
 Land grants and sums of money are being offered by the government to peasant farmers willing to adopt these homeless children and many have been taken care of in this manner, but the situation is plainly beyond the control of the government.

This picture is indeed harrowing and yet the thought of 100,000 homeless children is less fearful than Russia's plight if these wild children live to become men. Here is potential material, if there ever was, for war, revolution and a reign of terror. Left to work out her own destiny, soviet Russia is powerless in the face of this impending peril.

He's a Pretty Good Neighbor, but—

THE YELLOW STUB by Ernest Lynn

BEGIN HERE TODAY
HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in GRAFTON. Police find a woman's handkerchief and a yellow ticket stub from a theater in CLEVELAND.
JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Cleveland. The stub is traced to a THOMAS FOGARTY, who says
 he gave it to OLGA MAYNARD,
 a cabaret singer.
 Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he encounters Olga Maynard, and she faints when he tells her she is suspected of murder.
Mary, out with SAMUEL
CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi and misunderstands.
 Olga is arrested. She tells police the ticket stub and handkerchief might have got into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder. She doesn't know who he was, and police scoff at her. Jimmy believes her and goes back to Grafton to persuade the district attorney to release her. He receives several mysterious warnings to leave Cleveland and on his way home one evening discovers he is being followed.
 Olga tells police the ticket stub and handkerchief were hers but might have got in possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder.
 Jimmy receives several mysterous warnings to leave Cleveland.
 He is followed one evening and escapes from his two shadowers after wresting a blackjack from one of them. He tells POLICE LIEU- TENANT O'DAY that it was a blackjack or something similar that caused his father's death.
 With Jimmy and Mary estranged, Church presses his courtship for Mary through her mother.
 He is walking in the park one morning when he sees Mary Lowell sitting alone on a bench.
 (Now Go On With The Story)
 CHAPTER XXI

"Say it's not true," he said. "It's not true, Mary. I love you. I love you."

JIMMY quickened his step, galvanized into sudden action by the sight of her.
 "Mary," he said softly, looking down at her. He felt strangely stirred; the blood raced madly through his veins.
 She turned quickly, startled at the sound of his voice. The red mounted swiftly to her cheeks, almost as if he had surprised her in the act of thinking about him.
 "Good morning, Mr. Rand." She took his outstretched hand.
 "So I'm just Mr. Rand to you, am I?" he said. He laughed mirthlessly.
 "You forget quickly, don't you?"
 "She made a pretense of studying her gloves and didn't answer."
 "It was not so long ago," he went on, "that it was Jimmy. No, it was Jim. Everybody else calls me Jimmy, but you said you wanted to call me
 Jim. What was it you said—that Jimmy seemed so diminutive?"
 "Don't." She put up a protesting hand. "You have no right to remind me of that."
 He made as if to sit down on the bench and she moved over to give him room beside her.
 "It is you," he said, "that have no right to treat me as you have treated me. Mary," he went on, gazing earnestly at her, "you hurt me. You hurt me cruelly."
 "And what about me? It probably never occurred to you that I might have been hurt, too."
 He leaned toward her eagerly. "You mean," he asked, "you mean you care?"
 She fingered her glove nervously not daring to raise her eyes.
 "I didn't say that. You may put any interpretation on it you wish. I'll only tell you that you disappointed me. Wait a minute." She checked him with a wave of the hand as he was about to speak. "Let me just say what I want to say and then I'll go. I shouldn't say it, but I want to—I can't help it, even though I had made up my mind never to speak to you again.
 You—you destroyed, something beautiful for me, Mr. Rand." He winced at her mention of his name. "Perhaps I'm talking like a romantic young school girl, but I keep remembering the way we met. It was romantic—your saving me from being annoyed by those men, and fighting for me."
 "I remember," he murmured. "You called me Sir Lancelot, and you were blushing."
 "You seemed so clean and manly,"
 she went on, "and then you had to spoli
 it. You were not so different from other men, after all."
 "Spoil it? What do you mean?"
 "It's not necessary to ask, is it?"
 "Mary," he said, "you judged me without a trial. You didn't give me a chance to explain."
 "What was there to—"
 "I know what you're going to say,"
 he went on hurriedly. "That there was nothing to explain. Now hear me.
 You've got to hear me. You say you keep remembering the way we met.
 Don't you suppose I do? God help me,
 I've hardly thought of anything else.
 You were so fresh and beautiful—so different from any other girl I'd ever known. You seemed that way right from the start, from the time I first saw you sitting there in the church."
 "And then that night at the restaurant," he continued, the words tumbling from his lips, "and you said you were going to call me Jim. Mary, that seemed like the most wonderful thing in the world to me."
 "Don't she breathe, turning away from him. "You have no right to remind me of that after what has happened."
 "Then I'll take the right. You can't stop me now, I thought—I thought you cared a little and it was wonderful even to think it. That evening, while we were sitting there at the table, I heard some men mention a girl's name—a girl I had been looking for.
 Mary, you don't know how important,
 how necessary it was to find her."
 She surveyed him critically from beneath her long black eyelashes. "And it was so important and necessary," she asked coldly, "for you to be lifting her into a taxicab the next night—holding her in your arms on a public street?"
 He flushed hotly. "You speak," he said bitterly, "like a jealous woman."
 He tried to hurt her, and he did, and he was instantly sorry that he had.
 Two bright spots of color glowed in her cheeks. "You are entitled to your opinion," she said. "Perhaps I was jealous. At any rate, it was sufficient to kill whatever regard I may have had for you."
 "Mary, I'm sorry. I shouldn't have said that I've hurt you."
 "What does it matter?" she said wearily. "I'm getting used to it."
 "Mary, I've been a fool. It's this temper of mine. It makes me say things I don't want to say."
 "You said," she put in, "that you wanted a chance to explain. I've given it to you and you still haven't told me anything I don't already know.
 I saw you with this woman in your arms, lifting her into a taxicab. You cheapened me in front of the man I was with—Mr. Church. I had been telling him about you. You cheapened me in his eyes, and yet you wonder that I didn't want to speak to you the next day."
 "She had fainted," he said. "That's why I was lifting her into the cab.
 Mary, let me tell you the whole—"
 "Fainted?" There was an edge of sarcasm in her voice. "I was informed differently."
 "Informed?" he said bewilderedly.
 "Who could have informed you, and what?"
 "What you called a faint was described to me as intoxication."
 "And you believed that?" he asked,
 hot anger mounting into his voice.
 "Who told you that?"
 "She answered coldly. "Isn't it sufficient that I believed it?"
 He let his hands dangle limply over his knees and stared unseeingly at the ground. "Yes," he said. "I suppose it is." Listlessness was in his voice.
 "Something in his tone caught her.
 Her hand went to her throat and there was pain in her eyes. But he didn't see it.
 "He was not mistaken," he shot back savagely. "He lied—lied deliberately.
 Who was it?"
 "I—I prefer not to say. He didn't want to tell me, but thought he was doing so for my own good."
 He laughed. "How considerate of the gentleman! Could anything be more quotable than that? Listen, Mary, you needn't try to shield him. There's only one person that could have told you—the one person besides yourself who saw us. It was Church, wasn't it?"
 "She flushed at the question, but made no answer."
 "Of course it was. If I had the gentleman here I think I'd punch his head for the trouble he has taken in my behalf."
 "I—I don't believe you realize what you are saying." She was plucking nervously at her handkerchief.
 "Oh, don't! His anger was running away from him. "Has it occurred to you that I'm the one who has had all the explaining to do? It seems I got in wrong for being seen with another girl. How about yourself? Was I to take your presence in Mr. Church's company for granted?"
 "Oh, please stop, Jim. You're only making matters worse." She put her hand on his sleeve, pleading.
 "Who is this man Church, anyway?"
 he persisted.
 She turned to face him squarely,
 the look of pain again in her eyes.
 "He's the man I'm going to marry," she said softly.
 "It stunned him. "God no!" he said after a long silence. She had turned away, was crying. "You mean," he asked, "you mean you're promised—you're engaged?" She nodded.
 "Mary," he cried, a sob in his voice.
 "It's not true. Say it's not true. I love you, Mary, I love you."

 a story, what? Well, there is one.

To begin with:
 There are three Mellon Banks in Pittsburgh. The Mellon National, the Union Savings and the Union Trust Company.

Some time ago they had occasion to the income tax returns. Instead of doing it separately—a return for each institution—they did it in one chunk.
 What's known as a "consolidated return."

Senator Norris criticized this. He didn't say it was crooked, but he did say it saved the three outfits $91,472-37. His point was that it was a big saving—worth investigation. But there's no way of investigating it, because of so much secrecy about the internal revenue bureau.

Up rose Senator Reed and made mincemeat of him.
 Reed's a director in all three of the Mellon Banks. He's a first class lawyer also.

He pointed out that the law called for a "consolidated return" from financial triplets hooked up like that trio. They did it the way they had to, legally.

But Reed committed the tactical error of saying Norris got his dope from D. P. Hickey, a discharged treasury employee.

According to Hickey, the three banks did make a "consolidated return," as Reed so clearly demonstrated the law demanded.

Later, however, their counsel, the firm of Reed, Shaw, Smith and Mc-Cray—of which Senator Reed's a member—discovered that they'd made their returns separately.

Consequently they raised heck at the internal revenue bureau until it allowed them to do it that way, and returned their $91,472-37.

MIDDLE WEST DIGGING SELF OUT OF SNOW TODAY, BLIZZARD TAKES TOLL OF THREE DEAD, IS REPORT

'IF SPRING COMES CAN WINTER BE FAR BEHIND' IS NEW QUOTATION IN SNOW RIDDEN PARTS OF UNITED STATES TODAY

By the Associated Press
CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—The middle West is wondering if the regular quotation should not be changed to read "if spring comes, can winter be far behind?"

For one of the winter's heaviest snowfalls covers sections where a few days ago baby breezes set small boys slaying marbles and inspired adult hopes that the worst was over. And the weather bureau says it will be colder, with near zero temperatures. The storm, which originated in Alaska and swept East of the Rockies, was moving Northeastward today, its fan-like spread covering the Ohio Valley, where snow was promised.

Three Are Dead

In its wake the gale-driven snow left three dead, blocked roads, delayed trains fighting through drifts, interrupted air mail service and interrupted communication and power service. Only in Kansas was it hailed with delight. Wheat farmers there, where the snow was 14 inches deep, said it was good for the wheat crop.

Many Workers Used

Chicago and Kansas City street car companies used hundreds of men and scores of plows to keep their tracks clear. Street department officials in Chicago estimated that more than $10,000 would be spent today in finishing the work, started yesterday of freeing the downtown streets from snow and ice.

The vortex of the storm was at the tri-corner of Missouri, Kansas and Iowa. Freakish behavior accompanied in some sections of Kansas and Iowa, where lightning flashes and thunder pealed as the huge whirling flakes fell.

Woman Is Dead

One of the victims of the storm was Mrs. Alex Pfeiffer, of Hays, Kansas, who fell into a snow drift and perished after she left a stalled automobile and tried to walk to a farmhouse. A man died in Kansas City of heart disease brought on by over exertion while shoveling snow. A Chicago man died of exposure.

Sections of the Northwest reported the lowest temperatures. St. Paul had nine above and Milwaukee ten with snow falls among the heaviest of the season.

C. OF C. MEETING AT LEVELLAND GOOD ONE

LEVELLAND, Feb. 19. (Special)—One of the largest and most interesting meetings of the Levelland Chamber of Commerce was held here Wednesday night, when the officers for the ensuing year were installed and a banquet served by the ladies of the O. E. S. an orchestra from Wilson furnished music for the occasion. The new officers are: W. D. Cope, president; Judge D. E. Magee, vice president; Dr. E. J. Cook, Fred Dues, G. R. Hartz, J. P. Cole, A. H. Cheek, Joe Hatcher, Judge Magee, W. O. Watt and W. D. Cope directors; secretary to be supplied later. Talks were made by the officers, also by secretary of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Whittaker of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Readings and vocal music by local talent. CHART OF COLORS USED ON AUTOS IS GIVEN

SLACKER'S CASE IS FAVORING RELEASE

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 19. (AP)—Presently thousands of automobiles from other states will be scooting across Texas, their drivers impelled by the American urge to get to some place quickly.

The State Highway Department has prepared a chart of the colors of license plates of each state in the union for the convenience of the citizens who may want to know at a glance the state from which some particular driver or automobile comes.

Pennsylvania cars bear license plates made up of blue letters on gold plates, while New York cars show white letters on a blue plate. The black and white combination is the favorite, however, and the curious must look quickly when these colors show on a license to discern from which state the car comes. Seven states have selected green and white and six blue and white.

Complete list follows, with the first color designating the number, and the second color for the background:
Alabama—white, green; Arizona—black, white; Arkansas—black, white; California—white, blue; Colorado—white, green; Connecticut—black, orange; Delaware—yellow, blue; District of Columbia—black, yellow; Florida—orange, black; Georgia—white, crimson; Idaho—black, orange; Illinois—white, blue; Indiana—white, green; Iowa—white, maroon; Kansas—white, blue; Louisiana—maroon, white; Maine—orange, blue; Maryland—white, black; Massachusetts—white, blue; Minnesota—white, black; Mississippi—white, green; Missouri—black, yellow; Michigan—white, black; Montana—black, white; Nebraska—white, green; Nevada—orange, black; New Hampshire—white, green; New Jersey—white, orange; New Mexico—vermillion, gray; North Dakota—red, gray; New York—white, blue; North Carolina—black, orange; Ohio—white, brown; Oklahoma—black, yellow; Oregon—white, black; Pennsylvania—blue, gold; Rhode Island—white, black; South Carolina—red, white; South Dakota—black, aluminum; Tennessee—white, black; Texas—black, gray; Utah—black, aluminum; Ver-

END OF GRUELLING SEARCH SEEN AS BODIES ARE REMOVED OUT OF SNOW AND ICE OF BIG DISASTER

ALL OF BODIES MAY NOT BE REMOVED UNTIL IN LATE SPRING WHEN SNOW Melts AWAY, IS ESTIMATE OF RESCUE CREWS

(By The Associated Press)
BINGHAM, Utah, Feb. 19.—The end of the long grueling season for living and dead in the Soap Gulch snowslide tragedy is in sight. It is the prediction of Superintendent F. A. Wardlaw of the Utah-Delaware Mining Company that six o'clock tonight will mark the conclusion of the first complete examination of the devastated area.

Thirty nine known dead have been placed in the morgue. Twelve injured persons were reported resting easily in the local hospital. From fifteen to twenty are believed to be entombed in the tons of snow. Uncovering of the lower portion of the area visited by the slide, substantial progress made in the upper end, and underneath the dump, has led workmen to reduce the estimated total of missing men, thought to be buried in the wreckage.

Kidnaping Remembered

It is asserted that representatives of the Ministry of Justice are inclined to view the present episode of Bergdoll as suggesting renewed outside machinations against him, remembering the attempt to kidnap him and that the fact that detective Sook, who is alleged to be the chief investigator of the arrest of Bergdoll, had gone to Mayence, is inclining the examinations a little in favor of the prisoner.

BERGDOLL LODGED SAME CELL WHICH HELD KIDNAPPERS

(By The Associated Press)
JOSHUA, Germany, Feb. 19.—By what seems to be irony of fate Grover C. Bergdoll, American draft evader who is under arrest here charged with immorality, is confined in the same cell which harbored Lieutenant Griffin and Faust Gagarin, who attempted to kidnap him in Eberbach in the summer of 1923.

The authorities continue to make daily investigations into the charges against Bergdoll. The prisoner himself is being daily questioned. He was confronted yesterday by a girl from Hiedelberg, but the details of the investigation are being kept strictly secret.

Galveston Banker Dies In Paris, Fr.

GALVESTON, Feb. 19. (AP)—John Sealy, well known Galveston banker, capitalist and philanthropist, died this morning at Paris, France, according to advices received here today. Mr. Sealy had gone abroad some months ago in search of health, accompanied by his physician Dr. William Gammom. John Sealy was head of the banking house of Hutchings, Sealy and Co., founded by his father, the late George Sealy, more than half a century ago. He was president of the Magnolia Oil Company, the Galveston Wharf Company and was a director in a number of other large corporations. Mr. Sealy was born in Galveston, of a pioneer family which has played a prominent role in the history of the island. He was about 56 years old. After graduating from Princeton he joined his father in the banking business here. His principal benefaction to the city of Galveston was the John Sealy hospital, to which members of the Sealy family have been large contributors. Mr. Sealy became ill about a year ago, and after undergoing treatment here, went East and finally to Europe. He was recently reported on the Riviera.

Baseball Trophy Of Skipper Sled Is Used In Display

Emphasizing the fact that Spring is fast approaching, with an occasional feeling that it already has arrived, Sherrard Bros. Hardware Company, of this city has just completed a window display that brings out in striking detail the surging sports blood of the average American citizen, and to make the display even more impressive, the decorator has prevailed upon the good nature of Skipper Sled Allen, of baseball fame, to let him use the trophy earned by the Skipper at the Denver baseball tournament last year, for being the best all-round catcher in the tourney. Baseball is featured mainly in the display, with all manner of goods of this nature being shown in a most artistic manner, and toward the front sits the trophy of the Skipper that in the opinion of baseball followers, is a very good counterpart of the diamond veteran himself, despite the fact that it was not designed from a model, living or otherwise.

Last Witnesses Are Heard In ICC Case

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 19. (AP)—Representatives of coffee interest and the United States shipping board were the last witnesses in presentation of the New Orleans case before the I. C. Cotton Markets

NEW YORK COTTON NEW YORK, Feb. 19. (AP)—The cotton market opened barely steady at a decline of one to six points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables, but after selling off to 20.08 for March and 18.13 for October, steadied on continued covering by near month shorts and some trade buying of later deliveries. General business was quiet, the market holding fairly steady at the end of the first hour when active months were about not unchanged to three points lower. Later there was rumors that some cotton was coming to New York from the South for delivery next month, but covering by March shorts continued, sending the price up to 20.23 late in the morning. March was for sale at 56 to 57 points over May, but the steadiness of the near position helped the tone of the general market.

LIVERPOOL SPOTS

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 19. (AP)—Spots quiet. Strictly good middling 11.67; good middling 11.37; strictly middling 11.27; strictly low middling 9.77 low middling 8.87; strictly good ordinary 8.27; good ordinary 7.57. Sales 6,000; 3,800 American. Receipts 19,000 bales; American 16,500.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, Feb. 19. (AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady. March 20.10; May 19.35; July 18.90; October 18.14; December 17.80.

NEW ORLEANS FUTURES

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 19. (AP)—Cotton opened steady. March 19.45; May 18.10; July 18.55; October 17.55; December 17.53.

SPINNING FIGURES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19. (AP)—Active spindle hours in the cotton spinning industry during January totalled 8,338,813,292, or an average of 221 hours per spindle in place, the census bureau today announced. In December active spindle hours numbered 8,271,575,487, or 218 per spindle in place and in January a year ago they totalled 8,452,240,496 or an average of 229.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 19. (AP)—The cotton opened easier in sympathy with disappointing Liverpool cable. First trades showed losses of 5 to 7 points with March trading at 19.45; May 18.90 and July 1.35c. Prices soon rallied and recovered the initial losses. Trading was moderate and there was abundance of support. There was no selling pressure.

The market ruled steady all morning being sustained by the strength of the near months, particularly July owing to fears of further exporting from the certificated stock. The market gradually improved and near month had a further rally on Hester's pointer for mill taking proving better than expected, the figures being 301,000 to 311,000 bales. March traded up to 19.56; May to 19.05 and July to 15.50 or 9 to 15 points up from the early lows and 2 to 7 points above the previous close. At noon prices were at the highest with a firm undertone. The market ruled quite but steady during the afternoon with prices within the earlier range but nearer high. The visible supply of American decreased more than during the corresponding week last year, but that failed to influence prices.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Feb. 19. (AP)—Influenced by a fresh break in Liverpool quotations and in Argentine as well, the wheat market here gave way early today under a reversal of selling pressure. Chicago opening prices 3-4 to 1 3-4c lower, May new 16 1/2 to 16 3/4 and July 14 1/2 to 14 1/4 were followed by material upturns. Rapid absorption of speculative offerings in the corn markets led to higher prices both for corn and oats after an initial decline. Opening 1-4 to 5-8c lower, May 7 1/2 to 7 3/4. Corn advanced to well above yesterday's finish. Oats started quarter to 3-8c off, May 41 1-4 to 41 3-8. Later all months showed some gain. Higher quotations on hogs gave a

STOCKS AND MONEY

WALL STREET REPORT NEW YORK, Feb. 19. (AP)—Confused price movements, reflecting the cross currents of speculation, characterized the opening of today's stock market. Buying orders appeared to predominate, initial gains of a point or more being recorded by American Smelting, Jordan Motors, Tobacco Products, Devoe and Reynolds and Texas Gulf Sulphur, the last named moving to a new record high level in response to the raising of the annual dividend. Pressed Steel Car Common dropped 2 points and American Can and Mack Truck quickly yielded a point or so.

So Close the Judges Couldn't Pick One

For the first time in the history of racing at the Louisiana Jockey Club track, New Orleans, two horses ran a dead heat—and Photographer "Doc" Asby was lucky enough to get the picture. It was at first thought that four horses had run a dead heat, but after a conference the judges decided only two were tied. The photograph of the finish shows Georgia next to the rail; Harlan second to the rail; Hilary next, and Spandor on the outside. From the angle at which the picture was snapped it does not look as though the four are abreast, but the judges declare there was not a whisker's breadth between any of the four.

COLONEL CLARENCE OWSLEY TELLS BANKERS THAT HE IS STILL BACK OF COTTON REDUCTION IN SOUTH

(By The Associated Press)
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 10.—An hallucination concerning cotton acreage reduction exists in the mind of the agricultural South, Colonel Clarence Owsley, of Dallas, declared here today at a meeting of bankers. Designated to lead a south-wide movement for acreage reduction, Colonel Owsley, called the meeting, he said, to get the bankers right on the proposition.

Little can be accomplished at this time in obtaining a general adherence to a reduction program and the only hope for this season is to plant feed stuff, "then whether we will have a large or small cotton yield we will be insured against suffering and material loss," Colonel Owsley said.

Warns Cotton States
"I must warn the business men and farmers of each cotton state that they need not depend upon me to reduce the cotton acreage this year," he declared. "Nor need they depend upon other states to reduce their acreage in order that the farmers of a particular section or locality may plant to the limit and enjoy good prices by reason of the cotton acreage elsewhere."

Appeal is Necessary
"All that I can do or any human can do is to appeal to the business organizations of the South, especially the bankers, to use their influence at this planting time to induce farmers to raise their food and feed."

Colonel Owsley regretted that his appeal to Southern bankers had not borne satisfactory results. He said they were not as alert as some other agencies interested in the farmer's welfare.

"In Texas, however," he continued, "I am pleased to report that 546 banks are on record as endorsing and sustaining the Texas Safe Farming Association's slogan of 'Better Cotton on Fewer Acres and More Feed on More Acres.'"

"I have no way of knowing, nor have any of the men or institutions I mentioned any way of knowing what the total crop will be in 1937 or what the price will be next October, but we all know that if we have our food and feed, whatever we get for our cotton can be used to pay debts and buy comforts, but if we do not have our food and feed, no price for cotton that is remotely possible will yield a profit on the year's operations, and in Texas we mean to feed ourselves. We hope the other cotton states will do the same thing but whether they do or not we shall not suffer."

Neither 'Ma' or 'Pa' Will Run, Lynch Says
AUSTIN, Feb. 10.—Neither Governor Miriam A. Ferguson nor her husband, James E. Ferguson, will enter the 1936 gubernatorial race, is the prediction made today by Lynch Davidson of Houston, who has already announced for governor.

The prediction was uttered just before Davidson made his semiannual report to the governor on the condition of the Texas state railroad, of which he is chairman of the board of managers.

Davidson stated he would announce the opening of his campaign March 5 in East Texas, "with an issue that will overshadow the highway controversy."

If some men were in Heaven they would complain that their harp was out of tune and their wings didn't fit.

Fire Department Has Daily Dozen At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 10.—Every member of the San Antonio fire department does his "daily dozen" and participates in daily fire drill. That is why this city has a low fire record and enjoys one of the lowest key rates of any large city in the country, Chief J. G. Sarrazin said.

At 8 o'clock every morning, the day shifts assemble at their respective stations and have calisthenics drill. The night forces exercise at 6 a. m. Under direction of a captain, the men move their arms and bodies like a well-drilled small army, shouting the count in unison.

To Chief Sarrazin's knowledge, no other fire department in the United States conducts these daily drills.

Once a day each man takes part in fire rescue work. The whistle blows and the men rush to the wall of the station in relays, put the ladders up four stories. Then they reverse, taking down the ladders.

Another phase of this drill consists of sitting down a rope from the top of the building, some men alone and some in pairs, demonstrating how an unconscious person is rescued. The stretcher is ready on the ground and first-aid treatment is administered as fast as the fire "victims" are brought from the supposedly burning building.

The department's rescue school, which includes instruction in treating rescued persons, is the only one in the state, and one of the few in the country. A fire prevention bureau also is maintained, and when dangerous conditions are found to exist anywhere in the city, the owner or tenant of the premises is notified to remedy them.

San Antonio's key rate is 14 cents, and the fire insurance companies allow a 15 per cent discount on the premiums. This discount is given despite the increase of frame work construction. Last year this increase amounted to $9,428,943.

The department last year responded to 1,671 fires, the total loss from which was $445,980, and travelled 8,094 miles on these runs.

There are 236 men on the force, divided into 21 companies at 18 stations.

Will Rogers is very much like many ranchers seen on the streets of Lubbock any day. He is well-built, his hair is beginning to grey around the edges, he walks with an easy swing and wears his hat slouched way down over his eyes.

Jim Ferguson liked Mr. Rogers so well on his recent visit to Austin that he came with him as far as Belton on the trip to north Texas. "He wouldn't give me an opportunity to see the Governor alone at all," Mr. Rogers laughed.

Mr. Rogers is being accompanied on this tour by a nephew from Missouri, a lad twenty years of age. The young man has the opportunity of basking in the light of his uncle's fame and looking after the baggage and doing other odd jobs—an enviable position!

BOARD TO DECIDE ON LABOR URGED AT ROBSTOWN

ROBSTOWN, Tex., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Heavy endorsement of the proposal to create a board with power to decide when agricultural laborers from Mexico and Canada may enter this country has been given by St. Coston Nixon of Robstown. Mr. Nixon, president of the Blacklanders and vice-president of the American Border Chamber of Commerce, recently returned from Washington where he was one of a large number of persons to appear before the immigration committee of Congress.

Representatives of the Blacklanders, the American Border Chamber of Commerce, Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association, Development Board of California, Fresno Valley Farm Bureau, Arizona Cotton Growers Association, Sugar Beet Growers of 11 different states, National Livestock Association, National Wool Growers Association and numerous chambers of commerce appeared before the congressional committee.

"We asked that the board to govern importation of agricultural laborers be composed of the secretary of the Interior, secretary of Agriculture, Secretary of Commerce and Secretary of Labor," Mr. Nixon said. This board would be allowed to determine from time to time the necessity of importing a sufficient number of agricultural laborers to meet existing or pending needs.

"If, after a full hearing and an investigation, it is shown to satisfaction of the board that agricultural laborers unemployment cannot be found in the United States for a particular agricultural project, a method of taking care of the situation would be available."

"The secretary of Labor, upon application of any person or persons interested, would waive the so-called head tax and consular visa fees of the new existing immigration laws and authorize the importation of the specific number required of otherwise admissible aliens who are citizens of Mexico or Canada."

President Nixon declared citizens of the eastern portion of the country did not understand the capabilities and potentialities of the Mexican laborers of whom he became worthy citizens of this country. "Too many persons draw their conclusions of a stagnant country by reading of their robberies and revolutions in Mexico, in the main, the Mexicans are excellent workmen and make desirable citizens."

NEW YORK—Channing Pollock, American dramatist, thinks no nation with a sense of humor would have excluded Contess Cartwright, also that outside of the office, ninety percent of our population are morose. He said so at a church banquet at which Sir Henry Lunn, British editor, praised American efforts for international peace.
