Tammany Hall To Soft Pedal Smith Boom For Present

New York Paper Declares Governor Has Demanded Temporary Suspension to Nomination Drive.

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The New York American will say tomorrow that Tammany Hall leaders, acting on express orders from Governor Alfred E. Smith, have temporarily abandoned negotiations with Democratic spokesmen from other states to promote the governor's nomination for the presidency on the Democratic ticket.

The Tammany representatives assert that prominent Democrats from many states have called to offer their support to Smith, the American will say, but the governor has failed to receive the visiting delegations. He has informed Tammany leaders, the article will assert, that he will not talk about the presidential nomination nor do anything to influence the next Democratic national convention.

The American will say that the delegation of Michigan Democrats came to see Governor Smith a few days ago seeking permission to place his name on the ticket in the Michigan primary.

"The governor courteously but firmly declined to see the visitors," the American quotes its Tammany informant as saying. "He sent word that he would not consent to have his name on the primary ballot in Michigan or elsewhere." The delegation replies that since their state laws did not require the consent of the candidate for use of his name they would "go back home and put Smith's name on the ballot."

Insanity Is Made Theme Remus Case

Witnesses Assert Bold Belief That Remus Was Insane at Time When He Ran Down and Shot His Wife

(By Associated Press) CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 26.—Insanity today became the theme of George Remus, murder trial when the state rested its case, and the defense plunged into the attempt to establish in the minds of the jury that the defendant was temporarily unbalanced mentally when he ran down and shot to death his estranged wife, his "beautiful Imogene," in Eden Park here seven weeks ago.

For a solid week the prosecution had emphasized a theme of cold-blooded murder, a slaying as the result of a four-cornered plot in which Remus acted out his part of executioner.

The defense had an hour and a half left on the court session, when it got its chance to strike the first blow in behalf of Remus. It immediately whirled into its major theme. It called two men who had been in intimate contact with Remus.

Cadets Stage Sensational Rally In 3rd Quarter To Defeat Midshipman Eleven By 14-9 Count; 76,000 See Tilt

"Lighthorse" Harry Wilson Is Star of Spectacular Fight; Army Line Holds On One Foot Line.

(BY ALLAN J. GOULD)
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
POLO GROUNDS, New York, Nov. 26.—Rallying from a poor start, Army conquered the Navy today, 14 to 9, under the indomitable leadership of the blond and battling cadet captain, "Lighthorse" Harry Wilson.

While a colorful, wildly yelling crowd of 76,000 looked on, Wilson pulled his wobbly team together between halves, came out to lead a charge that saw him twice cross the Navy goal line and then stand firm in the defense that checked the desperate "Red" dangerous closing sport of the sailors.

Navy Played Great Game
Army's victory over a gallant Navy team that played superior football in all but the third period was a personal triumph for the veteran Wilson, playing his last year for the Army and his seventh against the Navy in a varsity career that began in 1923 at Penn State. It was Wilson who plunged in and tackled with his forward as they put up a stone wall defensive barrier in the first half, beaten back and once yielding a safety on a blocked kick, but also twice stopping the Navy at the threshold of the goal line. Once the Middles were turned back with only five yards to go but even more disheartening in the second period was the Navy thrust that was stopped by the Cadets only a foot short of a touchdown.

Wilson Leads Thrust
It was Wilson who came trotting out in the second-half to lead the thrust that turned the tide and clinched the game. Wilson took a Navy punt on the latter's 46 yard line and dashed 28 yards, then carried the ball across the Midgate in five successive dashes. Side-stepping and straightarming, Wilson frequently dragged three or four tacklers along with him, as he reeled off 28 yards to the goal line. With the winning spark thus ignited, "Red" Cagle, field running mate of the Army captain, grabbed opportunity—in the form of an intercepted pass—and raced 36 yards to the Navy's 4 yard mark. It took only two backs by Wilson to put the ball over and Cagle's toe added the extra point for the second time. It was just as well, for the Army that they produced this third period scoring punch for they had been outplayed decisively by the Midshipmen in the first half and in the final quarter they were menaced by a Navy comeback that threatened one touchdown and threatened another before the last whistle blew.

Spectacular Forward Pass
This Navy touchdown, throwing the brigade of Midshipmen into hysterical excitement as the end of the game neared, was accomplished by a spectacular forward pass. Hurled by "Whiskey" Lloyd from near midfield, it was grabbed by Slone, former Drake end, as he slid across the goal line to complete the most thrilling play of the game. The Middles had the ball on Army's 25 yard line at the time but Lloyd's tremendous heave covered almost half the length of the field.

Although it was the means of their principal tally, the aerial game of the Middles was seldom a real threat. Contrary to expectations, it was the Navy's running game that caused the Cadets the most trouble, repeatedly upsetting the vaunted and veteran West Point forward wall.

Led by Joe Clifton, of Paducah, Ky., who was well supported by Hansford and Lloyd, the Navy's rushing attack continually menaced the Army in the first half and regained its stride once more in the final quarter. Clifton darted, bullet-like, through big holes in the Soldier line but he found this barrier impregnable, when his back was to the wall.

Penalty Costly
A fifteen yard penalty as they had the ball on Army's five yard line, broke up the first big Navy attack, but in the second period, it was unable to cross the Cadet goal line in five thrusts from the 3 yard mark.

This was the most heroic defensive stand of the game. Twice Clifton ploughed into the massed forwards, barely making a yard each time. Lloyd took a turn at tackle with only a foot to show for his plunge. Then Clifton made the final thrust, only to be piked up in the swirling mass with the goal inches away.

The game, a brilliant, but not as spectacular a contest as it was needed, by the largest crowd it has seen in a year, in Chicago, was witnessed attracted in the east as great as assemble as ever saw a football battle in New York.

Secretaries Wilbur and Davis, Mayor Jimmy Walker, high officers of both branches of the service mingled with thousands of fans, forming back grounds that had their most colorful features in the grey-coated corps of Cadets and blue-eyed brigade of Midshipmen.

Chorus roared, echoed from one side of the field to the other as

113,000 Watch As Notre Dame Noses Out U. S. C., 7 to 6

New Attendance Record Is Set at Chicago; Drury and Flanagan State Fight for Individual Honors.

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—All California is "Sad and Drury" tonight. The Trojans from the University of Southern California, coming out of the West undefeated, lost a heart-breaking one point football game to Notre Dame on Soldier Field this afternoon, 7 to 6, before 113,000 spectators, the greatest throng that ever witnessed a gridiron scramble in America.

The victory was a repetition of the Notre Dame triumph of a year ago, when Rockne's Ramblers snatched a 12-12 victory over the trojans, at Los Angeles.

Pass Gives Score
The Trojans, in a smashing, irresistible attack scored early in the first period with Captain Merley Drury, their brilliant quarterback and leading candidate for All-American honors, tossing a forward pass to Russell Saunders that resulted in the touchdown. When Drury sent his toe crashing against the ball in an attempt to add the extra point, Chilly Walsh, Notre Dame right end, braked himself against the ball, blocking it, giving Notre Dame the break it needed.

A few minutes later, in the same period, Notre Dame found its chance to score, opened up with its aerial shots and tossed a pass across the field to Charlie Riley, the little quarterback heaving the ball to Ray Dahman. The latter, with the Notre Dame line holding like a stone wall, Dahman stepped back and successfully booted a drop kick for the added point, giving Notre Dame its edge and finally victory.

Mick's Great Defense
Thereafter for the remaining three periods the fighting Notre Dame team with frequent shifts in the lineup, set up a defense that held the Coast invaders in check, stopped the running attack of Drury and twice nipped surges that threatened their goal line.

Individually the game resulted in a thrilling offensive battle between Drury and Christy Flanagan, Notre Dame's great halfback.

Flanagan, playing his last game for Notre Dame, overshadowed all his previous sectional performances, playing the line with his powerful thrusts and shooting around the ends for long gains. In the first stages of the battle, Flanagan, faking a backward pass, smashed through the Trojans' forward wall repeatedly.

Drury, a combination of Red Grange, Herb Josteing and Bennie Friedman, a little bit of each, carried the brunt of the Southern California's attack, playing himself almost to the point of exhaustion.

The tremendous crowd witnessing today's game surpassed the record-breaking attendance of 111,000 that turned out for the Army-Navy classic a year ago.

Although no championship sections or trophies were involved, no football game ever played in Chicago attracted so much attention.

FOREST VS. CLEBURNE

Dallas School to Fight for Bi-District Next Week

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 26. (AP)—Forest High of Dallas, which Saturday won the District 2 interscholastic football championship by defeating Central High of Fort Worth 26 to 6 on a local field, will meet the Cleburne High Yellowjackets at Cleburne on December 26 for the district championship of this district and District 4, it was decided Saturday.

Cleburne clinches District 4 honors by defeating Corsicana 26 to 7.

The rival admirals and generals of the future vied for vocal honors. But the Cadets had the last cheer and turned loose their spirit of celebration in a snake dance that was interrupted only long enough to uproot the goal posts.

Nebraska Given Most Places On All-Valley Team

Four Cornhuskers Get on Mythical Eleven; Three From Missouri, Who Won Title, Chosen.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 26.—Nebraska drew the lion's share of the places on the All-Missouri Valley conference football team for 1927, selected today by the Associated Press after a tabulation of votes from conference coaches, athletic directors, officials and sports writers.

Nine of the ten valley coaches joined in the marathon and most of the athletic directors named their choices.

Selections:

While they have played mighty good football in Texas for years, several of the leading eleven are for the first time receiving the consideration due them.

My Texas operative for whom I have the greatest respect relative to the ability of players and teams, writes me thusly:

"There was ever an All-American football player, Joel Hunt of the Texas Aggies is that person. He is the greatest player the Lone Star state has ever turned out and don't forget Bo McMillan and Bennie Boynton, two All-American sections of other years, hailed from this state."

If Joel Hunt is a better player than Bo McMillan, I am willing to go on record as saying that no All-American would be complete without him.

"Stop Joel Hunt was the slogan of Southern Methodist university that had previously defeated the great Missouri team 32-9 and had also trimmed Texas 14-0, which team had previously defeated Vanderbilt," continues my Texas grid sleuth.

"Despite the various defenses for Hunt, all he did was gain a trifle over 400 yards. His punts averaged close to 50 yards and were placed not one of them was run back. He featured in an easy victory scored over S. M. U. in one of the biggest upsets of the year."

"I believe he is the best player in the game today. He is equally brilliant as a running back and unlike most stars in that respect he is great blocker when some one else is handling the ball."

"In his first six games this year, Hunt gained better than 1200 yards against the most formidable opposition in the southwest."

All of which leads me to believe that Joel Hunt is the ideal football player without a single weakness in his game.

"If you would like some proof other than mine, as to Hunt's remarkable ability," says my informant on the Texas situation, "I offer the names of Bennie Boynton, who was All-American star while at Williams and Derrill Pratt, famous big league ball player of other days, who started at Alabama and helped coach while at Michigan."

"In talking with Pratt, he said he thought Friedman was the greatest passer the game had ever produced until he saw Hunt in action. Pratt who now winters in Texas, has been watching Hunt all season."

"Bennie Boynton, who now officiates in the important Texas games, recently sized up Hunt as follows in a conversation I had with him: 'He's the greatest football player I have ever seen. Don't forget Boynton, starred in the east.'"

Westerners Face Post-Season Mix With Plainview

Frnka and Morgan Will Put Charges Through a Hard Week of Training Before Meeting Bulldogs.

Monday afternoon the Westerners and players will begin their last week of football training before the Plainview Bulldogs, which will be played in Plainview on Friday, December 2nd. This game was arranged between the coaches of the two teams last week and considerable interest is being shown in the event by both the students of the Lubbock and Plainview schools.

On a regular conference scheduled game, Armistead Day, the Bulldogs, invaded the Western territory and held the locals to a 6-6 tie game. This will never do, as the coaches say, for only once before in the history of the games between the two schools has a tie game concluded the issue of football between the two rivals—so this game has been arranged to decide the supremacy of the two teams. From the first game, which was back in 1910, until the present date the two high school machines have played a total of 20 games. Lubbock has won 12, lost 6, and tied two. The two tie games were in 1923 and this season.

Both Teams Strong
Both the Plainview and Lubbock teams have battled up grade throughout this season and have turned in fairly good records for 1927. However, the Westerners have slightly the better record; the Lubbock team has won two, lost two, and tied two, while Plainview has won two, lost two, and tied two.

The comparative scores of the two teams with the other conference teams: Plainview lost to Vernon 26 to 9; Lubbock lost to Vernon 7 to 0; Lubbock lost to Amarillo 13 to 0; and Plainview lost to Llanos 12 to 0; Quanah was defeated by Plainview by 28 to 0; while the Westerners defeated them 31 to 0; and Lubbock held the Wichita Falls Coyotes to a 12-12 tie game as the Bulldogs lost to the Coyotes, 25 to 9.

Increased Use of Card as Remembrance Means Extra Burden for Workmen at Local Office.

Increased use of the Christmas card as a Yule-tide remembrance has created such an increased burden on the postoffice department in late years that Postmaster John L. Burrows, with other postmasters of the department, is issuing an appeal to Christmas mailers for cooperation in the handling of Christmas mail.

During the holiday time the volume of mail increases approximately 200 per cent. It is a physical impossibility to handle this great mass of mail matter efficiently and promptly within a few days. Therefore, to insure delivery of Christmas cards and letters, the following information to mailers is given out by Postmaster Vaughan:

Patrons sending a quantity of cards, that is, more than ten, should prepare and mail them two or three weeks in advance, tied together in a bundle, and labeled to show that they are Christmas cards. They will then be segregated, stamped with the date on which to be delivered, and delivery effected on or two days before Christmas.

Christmas cards and gifts addressed to points within one days' travel from Lubbock should be mailed in no event later than December 20; within two days' travel not later than December 18; within three days' travel, not later than December 16; for more distant points, not later than December 14. Parcels and cards for local delivery should be mailed not later than December 12.

Parcels and envelopes may be endorsed, "Please do not open until Christmas."

Lubbock High School's Grid History Proclaims Many

Only One Member Of City's Initial Team Had Never Seen a Football; Old Elevens Made Wonderful Records

Team of 1917 Was Best One Ever Had Here; Look Over the Lists of Players of Years Gone by.

BY JAMES R. DOW
Lubbock-Journal Sports Editor.
Now that the 1927 football season is nearing a close for the high school of the Avalanche-Journal will find the fans of this city and nation of the days of yore—the back when the football game played on wild open prairies, to be an old and new team with the easy victor, as and passing team but little the first football team ever to the Lubbock name was organized in 1910 with J. E. Vickers, lawyer, and Dunlap Lester, coach, as the first coaches of the "Shorty" Galbraith, captain, and these two men would be the business offices of the school during that year to coach the first football team in Lubbock. In 1910 Mr. Lester and Mr. Vickers brought to Lubbock the first football for the members of the team to see and of the lads of this team had a football prior to that time, Mr. Vickers brought it out the first practice.

Boyd Was Captain.
Boyd, who was the one of the 1910 team that had seen football was named the first captain of the Lubbock high school. Boyd played center for the team and played very creditably. Five of the roster of the team are still residents of Lubbock, they are: John Jarrot, Ivan Sanders, Choc Chase, J. V. Vickers and Scott May.

The scene of games for the high school have been in every part of the city. Games have been played on the site where the Hotel Texas now stands, where the Methodist church is located, on the block between Sixteenth and seventeenth streets, at the Fair grounds, on the Merrill Park, and present on the Texas Tech grid.

Questionably the best high school team ever produced in Lubbock was in 1917, when the team went through the season undefeated and challenged any school team in the state for championship. This team was largest, averaging something like 200 pounds, the main reason for the greatest offensive record in the history of the team of the city. This record-making team was handled by "Shorty" Galbraith, later sent the Vernon Lions into the state race for the championship.

Here's the History.
The following years and names are the history of football in Lubbock high school.
1910.

They're Cheering Another Grange This Time It's Red's Brother—At Illinois U.

GARLAND GRANGE

There. However "Red" unknown for a time spoiled a potentially great football player.

An open roadster, a raccoon coat the wide open spaces of Illinois and a fat pocketbook, were not conducive to gridiron thoughts, strenuous training and going early to bed. There was no desire to return to Illinois and study.

Very often a year's experience in getting real contact with the world helps a lot. I am told that when "Pinky" Grange returned to Illinois in this fall he came with a seriousness about his work that was previously lacking and at once began to rise to the heights Brother "Red" had proscribed.

In the two games that I have seen "Pinky" Grange in action, he fails to do only one thing as well as "Red" carry the ball. As an end he hasn't the opportunities that his brother had. He is just, as fast, possibly faster, and defensively is far superior.

He recovered a fumble that made possible Illinois' first score against Michigan and helped put the Illini in position for the second touchdown by his spectacular work.

"The greatest satisfaction I ever got out of any football game was in "Pinky" showing against Michigan," is the way "Red" tells the story of his pride in the achievements of the younger Grange.

"Pinky's" hair is sure enough red. He is more entitled to the nickname given his brother, but must take the monicker of "Pinky" to distinguish between the two.

School Teachers End Convention

Amarillo Favored as Next Year's Meeting Site but Selection Is Left with Executive Committee.

(By Associated Press)
HOUSTON, Nov. 26.—Texas school teachers ended their forty-fifth annual convention here Saturday after a three-day meeting, two of which were filled with discussion of educational subjects, and after listening to addresses by widely known educators.

It went on record in favor of a state board of education which would be without political pressure. "We have been fortunate," one speaker said, at a general session, "during the administration of Governor Moody but not so fortunate in other ways."

South Texas delegates were elated over the selection of W. L. Huchas as Texas A. and M. president but regarded the contest with H. D. Fillers, Corsicana, the only other candidate, as unimportant from a sectional standpoint.

Amarillo was regarded as the outstanding candidate for the convention next year, but, according to custom, the executive committee will later make a selection.

Col. H. H. Hines, formerly of Houston, in a ringing address, invited the delegates to choose this fall he came with a seriousness about his work that was previously lacking and at once began to rise to the heights Brother "Red" had proscribed.

Tonight all but a few of the more than 8000 delegates were on their way home, apparently pleased with their reception in Houston and with the manner in which the program had been carried out.

Study Groups Are Planned For Today

Meetings Have Bearing on Student Conference to Be Held in Detroit Next January.

Beginning with this afternoon at the First Presbyterian church, at 3 o'clock, a series of study groups will be held regarding the student Volunteer Conference which will be held in Detroit, December 28 to January 1, student leaders of the Tech announced yesterday. It is the plan of students to have as large a representation as possible at the conference and committees are working toward that end.

The Tech delegates will be nominated by a delegate committee and then voted on by the entire student body, the committee chairman said. Each church in the city is planning to send delegates which will go as a unit from the Tech to the conference.

The conference, a report from the committee says, is held every four years in the interest of student church volunteer work in the various schools over the United States. Practically every college in the nation will be represented.

Southern Judge, In Silk Hat, Makes Reputation Of Solomon; He Tempers Court Decisions With Common Sense

Originality Marks Rulings Of Judge Martin, Who Is Known In Louisiana From Border To Border

LAFAYETTE, La., Nov. 26.—This quiet town, which drowns peacefully in the country of the old Acadians, has one claim to distinction and is proud of it—it possesses the most famous police judge, in the south.

The judge is G. A. Martin, who has been variously saluted as "Judge," "doctor" and "bedon," which is Cajun French for "high hat." For the jurist never appears in public without a high silk hat and a long alpaca coat.

Judge Martin conducts his court according to his own rules, and has won a wide reputation as a Solomon. A single story will illustrate his methods.

Two negroes were squabbling about the ownership of a certain black hen. Judge Martin, from the judicial heights heard in both arguments and was deeply bored. "Baltha," he ordered, "produce the said hen."

The bailiff brought the hen from the jail where it had been confined, along with three colored men who were arrested for drunkenness, and a white hobo who was in for vagrancy.

The judge carried the protesting hen to the middle of the street on which the rival claimants lived. There he turned it loose. It clucked indignantly for a moment, then walked straight to one of the two negroes.

"That hen knows her own home," quoth the judge. "Case dismissed."

The eternal silk hat and alpaca coat of Judge Martin have a story. Long ago, when Judge Martin was a young medical student in Baltimore, he fell from grace and went out on a rare party. In the morning he found himself wearing an alpaca coat and a silk hat. The layout tickled his fancy so much that he has worn that costume ever since.

CLINIC MOVED

Lubbock Clinic Now in New Myrick Building

Offices of the Lubbock clinic, formerly in the Temple Ellis building, have been moved to the Myrick building, according to announcement made today by Dr. V. V. Clark. The clinic occupies suite 600-611 in the Myrick building.

Following the discussion of the Achievement Day plans, W. P. Knox, scout executive of the South Plains, talked to the group on "Pep" emphasizing the importance of using the element in their work.

Mrs. M. S. Hudson, of the Stoneback community, of Hale county, spoke to the group of her trip to California this summer. About 30 boys and girls were present at the meeting presided over by the president of the group.

They're cheering another Grange at Illinois, and the cheers are music to the ears of the famous "Red" Grange. It's his brother "Pinky" Grange, cheering now, his younger brother who was the star in Illinois' victory over Michigan this year. After failing to make the grade of greatness as predicted for him by "Red" many seasons ago, the younger red-head seems to have become a star on his own right this season.

BY BILLY EVANS
"Red" Grange, the "Galloping Ghost" of other days in Big Ten circles, has finally been vindicated.

When Illinois beat Michigan recently by the score of 14-0, in which the play of "Pinky" Grange, younger brother of "Red" featured a prediction made three years ago came true.

"I have a younger brother Garland, who is as good if not a better player than I am." That was "Red's" modest college yell any time the critics raved over any of his many superlative performances.

For two seasons "Pinky" Grange was a complete "hust" in his attempt to live up to the famed deeds of his illustrious brother. A serious injury, suffered early in his sophomore year, put him out of the running before the season had gotten under way and eventually caused his retirement from college for the year.

The following season "Red" Grange himself unconsciously was the cause of Brother "Pinky" making the grade and all because good-hearted "Red" wanted Brother "Pinky" to have some of the many luxuries the two had often cherished but probably never expected to have.

Quitting Illinois to enter professional football, because no sane person could refuse the fancy sum that was guaranteed him, "Red" Grange, a poor boy, almost overnight became wealthy. On top of this came more money as the result of a highly successful college movie in which he starred.

Very often a year's experience in getting real contact with the world helps a lot. I am told that when "Pinky" Grange returned to Illinois in this fall he came with a seriousness about his work that was previously lacking and at once began to rise to the heights Brother "Red" had proscribed.

I am told by a very close friend of "Red's" that one of the very first things he did after purchasing a home for the family, was to buy a snappy red roadster and a "spiffy" raccoon coat for Brother "Pinky."

Justified to a certain extent because of natural cause regarding events on her frontier.

In Rumania where the death of Premier Bratianu has created an uneasiness over the domestic situation as well as foreign relations, the political parties are marking time until the late premier's funeral on Monday after which new liberal leaders will be chosen.

Bucharest dispatches indicate that Minister of the Interior Duca who is one of the leading members of the cabinet will respect the wishes of his late leader and stand aside in favor of Bratianu's brother, Vintila. Neither official nor press dispatches from Rumania report any disturbances in the country.

Even in the Balkans proper, the view of British official circles is that the new defensive pact between Italy and Albania which was suddenly announced to an unsuspecting diplomatic world on Thursday, has not caused the uneasiness that might have been expected.

The British view is that both the French and Jugoslav press as well as official seem to view the situation calmly with no serious fears for the future.

Reports received in Bucharest yesterday of an outbreak in the Ukraine in the town of Kamenets-Podolski, were denied today at Moscow by the soviet foreign office.

Cotton Yield

possible to receive actual count Saturday, are estimated to have given a total of 4000 bales, the only estimate in the county. This is based on a figure somewhat smaller than the average number given at the seven gauges here, and is believed to be conservative.

70 Percent Gathered. On the basis of reports from correspondents, the total county crop is approximately 70 per cent ginned in a general average, although one or two places, notably Shawwater, was a little beyond this figure. Some, however, reported less than 70 per cent in, and the average is believed to be about at this mark.

This, indeed, as accurate as possible to secure, would place the ultimate yield in the county at between 28,000 and 40,000 bales, with the possibility that it may go a little beyond. Early season estimates ranged from 20,000 to 35,000 bales.

The staple, now practically all open, is falling in the county, and heavy frost of two weeks ago, is ready for complete harvest and with plenty of pickers available, it is anticipated that the crop will be practically all in by December 15, in plenty of time for Santa Claus to adorn all homes in the county with the best Christmas seen in three years.

First came Leo A. Burke, lawyer. For six months he had advised Remus as legal counsel. Remus went off on a wild tangent repeatedly at the mention of the names of Mrs. Remus and Franklyn I. Dodge Jr., of Lansing, Mich., former department of justice agent they asserted. Then appeared A. Lee Beatty, former assistant federal district attorney and ex-legislator of Ohio. Remus appeared to him as an insane man, at the mention of the Jack Daniels distillery case and more than once when it became necessary to remove him from one to another of the nine prisons, he has inhabited in the last five years.

Calvin Coolidge has been photographed on very many occasions as he presented medals to various celebrities. Here is the president, immaculately garbed, on the receiving end of such a ceremony. Former Governor William C. Sprout of Pennsylvania is pinning on his breast the gold honor medal of the Union League famous Philadelphia Republican club for "distinguished public services." Afterward, Coolidge addressed the club on American progress and prosperity.

Early in his address he told of the value of building proper houses, chicken houses, he said, should never be less than 20 feet deep regardless of their length. They must be up from the ground or have a concrete floor in order to protect birds from moisture. He demonstrated some economical water fountains, feed hoppers and nests.

Plans For Advertising South Plains Open This Week

Publicity Expert Will Come Here To Meet With Lubbock Men and Lay Campaign To Boost Entire Section

V. M. Wallace, Director of Community Advertising, Will Meet with Lubbock Civic Leaders.

V. M. Wallace, director of community advertising of the Southwestern Advertising company, of Dallas, will be in Lubbock during the coming week for a series of meetings and conferences regarding the proposed South Plains advertising campaign which has been planned by the Lubbock Board of City Development and Chamber of Commerce. He will address the Rotary club at noon on Wednesday and the Kiwanis club on Thursday. A general mass meeting of all interested citizens in the project will be held Wednesday night at 8:15 in the Chamber of Commerce office when Mr. Wallace will outline the work and its good to the community.

The plan, as proposed by the local organization, upon conference with the advertising company, contemplates the organization of a separate corporation to be known as "South Plains Inc." which will handle all work in connection with the advertising, but which will be organized with the Board of City Development in the handling of details, such as answering inquiries.

To Appeal To Settlers. Following the recommendation of the advertising company, the South Plains will be advertised with a copy appeal for farmers, settlers or colonists, stressing the fact that there are 2,500,000 acres of land under cultivation on the South Plains and approximately 6,000,000 acres of just as fine, tillable, fertile land yet to be put under the plow. The rural population of the section, the production of agricultural products and livestock, and the consumption of goods—dry goods, groceries, building materials, etc.—will be quadrupled. The fact that the number of farms and the number of acres under cultivation were approximately doubled from 1920 until the present time and the population of Lubbock quadrupled in that length of time, according to the U. S. Census Bureau will be stressed in the copy also.

Should the same ratio prevail, and it should, many point out, Lubbock will be a city of 125,000 people when all the lands of the South Plains are under cultivation. Judging by what other sections of the United States have accomplished by spending a million of dollars for the community advertising and realizing a profit thereon and by the unlimited possibilities of the section's development, it is the belief of the directors that the proposed advertising campaign, if carried out, will bring about the development of Lubbock and the South Plains in five years that it will take from 15 to 20 years to see without such a campaign.

Publications Chosen. The advertisements of the South Plains will appear in the Country Gentleman, Wallace Farmer, Farm and Ranch, Heard's Dairyman and the Dairy Farmer, which includes the trading farm and agricultural journals of the nation. These journals are selected, the recommendations of the advertising company say, because they reach the intelligent class of farmers, whom those who have made a study of the local situation believe to be the most desirable to obtain as settlers and home owners in this section. These periodicals have widest circulation of any group in the United States and will carry the message of the South Plains development to more homes.

The realtors organization and those attending the Program of Work meetings of the Chamber of Commerce last summer made the first recommendations that the South Plains should be advertised rationally, and it was because of these suggestions that the best advertising agency in the southwest was employed to make recommendations, officials say.

The plan is not altogether a Lubbock affair and will be carried on for the development of the entire section. The meeting Wednesday night will be open to the citizens and any one is invited. Everyone interested in any details in connection with the plan, the reason for selecting the various media, or other matters are invited by the officials to call at the Chamber of Commerce offices and study the report.

The work to be done will be disclosed and considered in the meeting Wednesday night.

"MAIN STREET" GROWS UP. SAUK CENTER Minn.—Sauk Center, where Sinclair Lewis laid "Main Street," is becoming entitled. The post office department has notified town officials that free mail delivery shortly will be inaugurated within the city limits.

California adopted a constitution elected state officers and congressmen and convened its legislature nearly a year before being admitted to the United States.

INSPECT RAILROAD

Orient Officials Make Tour of Road Through Alpine

ALPINE, Nov. 26.—W. H. Kemper, president of the Orient Railroad, E. H. Shaffler, general manager for the Orient, and R. L. Davis were in Presidio this week, making an inspection tour of the Orient in both the United States and Mexico. They were on their way to Chihuahua City and will return to Kansas City from Chihuahua by way of El Paso. Mr. Kemper, though he did not make any definite statement as to when work on the completion of the gap between Alpine would begin, said that the Orient officials hoped to be free of all court litigation in the near future and that a definite announcement would be made then. He said that he was well pleased with the growth and change that has taken place in Presidio and that soon there would be real city there.

INQUIRIES ARE MANY

Function and Activities of West Texas C. C. Asked

STAMFORD, Nov. 26.—From Florida to Wisconsin, and old Mexico to Pennsylvania, from many places come requests for information about West Texas and about function and activities of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. A flood of inquiries are received weekly at the headquarters office of the regional organization of the West, many of them coming from schools and colleges, requesting descriptive literature on certain regions, and explanation of the duties and operations of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Numerous letters are already coming in in regard to plans for the 1928 West Army from division offices of the Texas Chamber of Commerce in the southwestern division, headquarters at Dallas.

Mr. Whiddon made the announcement.

Extension Work Of Parent-Teacher Associations Most Important State Work, According to New President

Mrs. Darling-Smith Urges That Membership Learn of Aims and Purposes of Texas Organization.

AUSTIN, Nov. 27.—Mrs. Noyes Darling Smith, newly elected president of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers associations has already begun to take over the many duties that will be hers during the next two years, and has prepared her first message as president to 1500 parent-teacher associations in membership with the State organization. In this message Mrs. Smith states that she considers the extension of the work of the Congress into the rural communities the most urgent need and that this need can be met only by having a well informed membership. Therefore, she urges parent-teacher association members to take every means of informing themselves of the aims, purposes, and plan of organization of the National, State and local groups. She states that the correspondence courses given by the Educational Secretary, Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs, are of great value and should be taken by groups in every county.

The first request that each local president make is that each local president appoint a legislative chairman, who in turn shall select five or seven men and women from the local parent-teacher association whose duty it shall be to first secure and study the resolutions passed at the State convention in Houston last week, and then prepare to co-operate in having such legislation secured as will help reach the objectives stated in the resolution.

Known For Activities Mrs. Smith, though now in the office of president of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations, is well known to Texans at large. Born in Lockhart, Texas, moving to Austin at an early age, receiving her education in the Austin Public Schools and in the University of Texas, she has many friends that have known her many years.

WEDDINGS Feature Interest of South Plains' Society During Week; Parties Carry Thanksgiving Decorative Motif

Two Dinner Parties Please Snyder Society; Season Is Favored in Turkey Dinners During Week-end.

With more than a usual number of weddings during the week, South Plains society has been particularly interesting in brides and affairs in their honor.

Two of Snyder's parties during the week just past were a dinner served at the Wilford Tea room Thursday evening with Misses Marilee and Elaine Rosser as hostesses and another dinner on Wednesday evening at the same place with Miss Bessie Carr as hostess.

Guests at the former party were Misses Abbie Mae Cozler, Davida Curry, Ila Martin, Mary Stroyhorn, Mattie Ross Cunningham, Gertrude Herm, Maurine Cunningham, Hattie Herm and Mrs. James W. Dougherty. The guests attended a picture show after the dinner.

Miss Carr's guests were Misses Cecile Stryhorn and Bill Swann, Messrs. and Mesdames Sam Hamlett and Forest Swans, Messrs. C. C. Willis, Ivan P. Oliver and F. Malcolm Crook. Bridge was played at the home of Mrs. R. H. Curritto after the dinner.

One of Plainview's delightful Thanksgiving parties was given Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. F. W. Hendrix. During the afternoon guests played games of forty-two and were later served a delicious refreshment course. Those attending were Mesdames L. M. Fröge, John Mathes, J. M. Welch, Harold Erashear, Howard Parsley, Jim Williamson, Homer Looper, R. D. Looper, George Saigling, C. D. Wofford, M. P. Garner, J. E. Hall, E. T. Coleman, R. O. Silverthorn, Oscar Mitchell, Willard Harp and R. S. Stuart.

Mr. and Mrs. Stokes Rosser, who live near Plainview, were hosts last Sunday at a dinner honoring Mrs. Rosser's parents. Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Visor. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Visor, Mr. and Mrs. John Lucas and daughter, Marion, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McClure and daughters, Zelma, Faye, and Jean, of Lockney, Cannon Visor and Mr. and Mrs. Rosser and family.

Mrs. Sam G. Dunn, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Rufus Moore, in Matador, is to return to her home here today.

Paris Reveals Winter Style Secrets At Mid-Season When Fashions Are Displayed And Show New Set Of Novelties met any day in all the better-known restaurants and theaters. The long skirt, for evening wear at any rate, has definitely been approved and has already made its appearance. Every woman will yearn for one of these new frocks which dips at the side or the back, which ever pleases her and expresses her individuality. The dreary uniformity of all dresses is happily a thing of the past, and there will be unlimited opportunities for everyone to look their best this winter.

Black has resumed its old supremacy and promises to be more fashionable than ever. Somehow, though, this season it manages to look new. It is true that it is always enlivened with some touch of color, either in the form of fur trimmings or a contrasting material.

The Maison Worth's demi-season collection was full of interesting features when it was shown to a numerous gathering which crowded the salons.

Fur on Street Suits The novel use of fur on street ensembles was a point of great interest. In some cases the fur which extended the entire length of one side of the front was left loose at the other and made to pass through a loop in a scarf effect. Tailored suits with short jackets were nearly all trimmed with some fur with variations of this scarf effect or were distinctly Russian in style with a fur collar buttoning tight to the neck and extending down the front, a band of fur and fur fitting snugly over the hips.

The addition of a short sleeveless coat of embroidered georgette over a perfectly plain georgette dancing frock is a novelty, and still another is the addition of a wide velvet sash finishing off in an upstanding loop at the back, the ends reaching right down to the floor in a train. Many of Worth's evening gowns are composed of three-trimmed skirts which are left open at the back, where a train effect is gained by the addition of some drapery which starts from the end of the V decollete. Black lace is used a lot by this house and a certain shade of brown for dinner and evening gowns also.

Jewels Match Frocks Just as Chanel, Patou, Jenny and Lanvin use some of the same place ornament on their creations, Worth features a kind of tassel of colored beads on many of the afternoon frocks; it is used to finish off a decollete or placed on a shoulder in lieu of a flower. These bead tassels are themselves finished off by a tassel in a bright colored silk and prove most effective on a plain gown.

The use of jeweled ornaments is another of Fashion's dictates and most of these are made of semi-precious stones of the same shade as the frock itself. These usually take the form of buckles, pendants, bracelets and brooches, and each couturier has had one or several pieces of jewelry made to accompany his models. Another novelty which can be found in some of the more exclusive jewelry stores is a platinum ring composed of a square framing of brilliants, with which is set four semi-precious stones of various shades which are made to fit in this square thus enabling one to match any frock.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Martin have received word from their son, Fernand, saying that he expects to spend Christmas with them here. He is at present in Omaha, Neb., doing some sketching for an oil convention but expects to return to his home in Kansas City before coming to Lubbock.

Mrs. Sam G. Dunn, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Rufus Moore, in Matador, is to return to her home here today.

George Bennett, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bennett, of Plainview, and Miss Gertrude Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Palfis, of Vernon, were married November 19, in Wichita Falls and have returned to Plainview to make their home.

To Build Club House Big Spring club women are planning to build a club house in the near future, a committee from the club federation being engaged now in selecting a site. Plans for the building have not been definitely decided upon.

Miss Eva Ward and Boyd Willis, both of Morton, were married last Sunday morning at 9 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Ward. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Willis, Cochran county farmer. On Sunday evening, young people of Morton were invited to the home of the groom's parents for a supper. Forty-three attended.

Of interest in Abernathy during this week was the marriage of Miss Esther Green and J. A. Addington at the Methodist church on Sunday afternoon with the Rev. J. P. Michael officiating. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Green, who live two miles east of Abernathy, and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Addington, of Abernathy.

Hosts to Pastor Tubok Methodist were hosts at a reception in the basement of the church Friday evening honoring the pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. R. T. Broedlove. Mrs. W. E. Suddarth was mistress of ceremonies and representatives of each department in the church were given opportunities to speak during the evening. There were songs, readings and other diversions.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Allan White in Amherst was the scene of a party Friday evening honoring Miss Ethel Robinson, of Vernon, house guest of Miss Geneva Friday. Games were played and hot chocolate and cake served to Joe Bailey McCord, Alton Nicholson, Jack Knox, Harry Bennett, Theo Lide, Leon Cantrell, Spurgeon Webb, Elvie Jarman, Fernand Friday, Lloyd Crosby, Misses Gertrude Lide, Pete Duggan, Cletius Pon-

University Place

EVER bear this in mind; like cause produces like effect. Therefore; that which has created, built up and held intact, sound estates (either large or small) for others will do the same for you and your family if you will permit it.

THERE are three classes of real estate that never vary in the making of large clean profits for the owner if they are purchased at the original cost—and UNIVERSITY PLACE, the tract now under discussion comes under one of those classes. It is a Class A residential property or that area of land logically located for the more exclusive type of homes and made desirable by wise and rigidly enforced building restrictions. Future values and selling prices of property of this type have only one trend and that trend is upward.

THE above statement may be easily verified if you will go over in your own mind, the history of increased valuations in high class residential property in this or any other city with which you are thoroughly familiar. For example, only a short time ago lots South of Broadway and near Texas Tech, sold for $400 and $500. Today the same lots are commanding $1250 and $1500 each and in some cases where the owners have experienced increased valuation of property through growth in other cities, their lots will not be offered for sale until they will readily bring at least $2,000 each. And these same lots just a few years ago were grazing lands.

IN OUR own UNIVERSITY PLACE an unique position is occupied, in that it is the last tract of ground available within easy walking distance of Texas Tech—right in line with our city's growth and on a boulevard which when finished will be the most elaborate in West Texas. Because of its strategic location, it will never be required to meet further competition in serving Texas Tech, an institution rapidly becoming a great seat of learning with an international reputation. Stop and think what it means to be able to purchase 100 feet, or 75 feet or 50 feet in width for $5 to $10 per front foot, right within the shadows of a college founded and growing through a universal need.

THIS universal need is the reason for the magnificent plan on which this college is being built. Such Miltonic minds as plan thusly to supply a need are always economical. So, should a campus of less than 2080 acres in extent; or a building program calling for a first unit of less than 120 strictly modern Class A college buildings have been liberal or adequate, a lesser number of either one or both would be the number.

NOW what does this mean to you? To the writer it means an enrollment of 15,000 students within fifteen years. What good you ask, will this do you and your family in a financial way if you buy in University Place? It means that you will have one of the best investments in West Texas, where all elements of risk are eliminated, coupled with the fact that University Place is one of the most pleasing home sites in Texas. Or if you do not grasp this opportunity, you will later say, "I could have purchased in University Place for $5 to $10 per front foot."

The BENSON MURDER CASE

By S. S. VAN DINE • CHIEF CLERK

Characters of the Story
PHILO VANCE, District Attorney of New York County.
ALVIN H. BENSON, Well-known Wall Street broker and man-about-town, who was mysteriously murdered in his home.
MAJOR ANTHONY BENSON, brother of the murdered man.
MRS. ANA PLATZ, housekeeper for Alvin Benson.
MURIEL ST. CLAIR, a young singer.
CAPTAIN LEACOCK, Miss St. Clair's fiance.
LEANDER PFYFE, intimate of Alvin Benson's.
MISS PAULA BANNING, a friend of Pfyfe's.
ELSIE HOFFMAN, secretary of the firm of Benson and Benson.
COLONEL BIGSBY STRAND, a retired army officer.
WILLIAM H. MORIARTY, an alderman.
GEORGE G. STITT, of the firm of Stitt and McCoy, public accountant.
MAURICE DINWIDDIE, assistant justice assigned to the case.
ERNEST HEATH, sergeant of the homicide bureau.
BURKE SNITKIN EMERY, Detective of homicide bureau.
District Attorney's office.
BEN HANLON, Commanding Officer of Detectives assigned to the case.
FRED'S, TRACY, SPRINGER, HEBBINGHAM, Detectives assigned to the case.
CAPTAIN CARL HAGEDORN, Fire-arms expert.
DR. DOREMUS, Medical examiner.
FRANK SWACKER, Secretary to the District Attorney.
CURRIE, Vance's valet.
S. S. VAN DINE, The Narrator.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
 Pfyfe has been in Alvin Benson's power because of a forged check and had given Paula Banning's jewelry as security for a note. Leacock confesses to the murder, but Vance exposes the confession as a lie to shield Miss St. Clair, who already has been eliminated as a suspect. Vance traps Mrs. Platz into admitting she is the mother of Miss Hoffman.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY
 Vance adjusted himself more comfortably in his chair. "Now for your judicial considerations. First, let us assume that at a little before half past twelve on the night of the thirteenth the villain came to Benson's house, saw the light in the living room, tapped on the window, and was instantly admitted. What, would you say, do these assumptions indicate regarding the visitor?"
 "Merely that Benson was acquainted with him," returned Markham. "But that doesn't help us any. We can't extend the sus. per cent. to everybody the man knew."
 "The indications go much further than that, old chap," Vance retorted. "They show unmistakably that Benson's murderer was a most articulate, crafty, or, at least, a person before whom he didn't safe his looks."
 "The absence of the toupee, as I once suggested to you, was a prime essential of the situation. A toupee, don't you know, is the sartorial sine qua non of every middle-aged Beau Brummel afflicted with baldness."

You heard Mrs. Platz on the subject. Do you think for a second that Benson, who hid his hair deficiency even from the grocer's boy, would visit with a mere acquaintance thus bereft of his crowning glory? And besides being thus denuded, he was without his full complement of teeth. Moreover, he was without collar or tie, and attired in an old smoking jacket and bed-room slippers.
 "Picture the spectacle, my dear fellow. . . . A man does not look fascinated without his collar and with his shirt, hand and gold-stud exposed. Thus attired he is the equivalent of a lady in curl papers."
 "How many men do you think Benson knew with whom he would have sat down to a tete-a-tete in this address condition?"
 "Three or four, perhaps," answered Markham. "But I can't arrest them all."
 "I'm sure you would if you could. But it won't be necessary."
 Vance selected another cigaret from his case and went on:
 "There are other helpful indications, you know. For instance, the murderer was fairly well acquainted with Benson's domestic arrangements."
 "He must have known that the housekeeper slept a good distance from the living room and would not be started by the shot if her door was closed as usual. Also, he must have known there was no one else in the house at that hour."
 "And another thing; don't forget that his voice was perfectly familiar to Benson. If there had been the slightest doubt about it Benson would not have let him in, in view of his natural fear of house breakers, and the Captain's threat hanging over him."
 "That's a tenable hypothesis. . . . What else?"
 "The jewels Markham—those ornaments of love. They were on the center table when Benson came home that night; and they were gone in the morning. Wherefore, it seems inevitable that the murderer took 'em with 'em. . . . And may they not have been one reason for the murderer's coming there that night?"
 "If so, who of Benson's most intimate friends knew of their presence in the house? And who wanted 'em particularly?"
 "Except Vance," Markham nodded his head slowly. "You've hit it. . . . You've hit it. . . . Pfyfe, right along. I was on the point of ordering his arrest today when Heath brought word of Leacock's confession; and then, when that blew up, my suspicions reverted to him."
 "I said nothing this afternoon because I wanted to see where your ideas led you. What you've been saying checks up perfectly with my own notions. Pfyfe's our man."
 He brought the front legs of his chair down suddenly.
 "And now, damn it, you've let him get away from us!"
 "Don't fret, old dear," said Vance. "He's safe with Mrs. Pfyfe, Leander. And perhaps, your friend, Mr. Ben Hanlon, is well versed in retrieving fugitives. . . . Let the harassed leader advance the moment. You don't need him tonight—and tomorrow you won't want him."
 Markham wheeled about.
 "What's that?—I won't want him? And why, pray?"
 "Well," Vance explained indolently, by "he hasn't a congenial and lovable nature, has he? And he's not exactly an object of blind beauty. I shouldn't want him around me more than was necessary, don't you know. . . . Incidentally, he's not guilty."

 Markham was too nonplussed to be exasperated. He regarded Vance searchingly for a full minute.
 "I don't follow you," he said. "If you think Pfyfe innocent, who, in God's name, do you think is guilty?"
 Vance glanced at his watch.
 "Come to my house tomorrow for breakfast and bring those allies you asked Heath for; and I'll tell you who shot Benson."
 Something in his tone impressed Markham. He realized that Vance would not have made so specific a promise unless he was confident of his ability to keep it. He knew Vance too well to ignore, or even minimize, his statement.
 "Why not tell me now?" he asked.
 "Awfully sorry, you know," apologized Vance, "but I'm going to the Philharmonic's special tonight. They're playing Cesar Franck's D-minor, and Szlansky's temperament is especially suited to his diatonic sentimentalities. . . . You'd better come along old man. Soothe the nerves and all that."
 "Not me!" grumbled Markham. "What I need is a brandy-and-soda."
 He walked down with us to the taxi-stand at 9 o'clock, and we took our seats. "Let the office wait a bit. And don't forget to phone Heath for those allies."
 Then, just as we started off, he leaned out of the car.
 "And I say, Markham: how tall would you say Mrs. Platz was?"
 "Thursday, June 29, 9 a. m. Markham came to Vance's apartment at promptly 9 o'clock the next morning. He was in bad humor.
 "Now see here, Vance," he said, as soon as he was seated at the table. "I want to know what was the meaning of your parting words last night."
 "Eat your melon, old dear," said Vance. "It comes from northern Brazil, and is very delicious. But don't devalue its flavor, with pepper or salt. An amazing practice, that—though not as amazing as stuffing a melon with ice cream."
 "The American does the most dumbfoundin' things with ice cream. He puts it on pie; he puts it in soda water; he encases it in hard chocolate; like a hon-hon; he puts it between sweet biscuits and calls the result an ice cream sandwich; he even uses it instead of whipped cream in a Charlotte Russe."
 "What I want to know," began Markham; but Vance did not permit him to finish.

Ignorance Of Traffic Regulations Prolific Cause Of Mishaps, Can Be Overcome By Review Of Code, Claim.

Indifference Held As Great Factor In Matters Of Safety And In Freedom From Annoyance

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Thousands of motorists in parts of the country are missing opportunity to improve their driving in the important matters of safety, freedom from annoyance, and freedom from clashes with the courts by their failure to know the traffic regulations of their own cities and states, according to the National Headquarters of the American Automobile Association.

This ignorance of the regulation is a majority of cases, is traceable to two causes, the A. A. A. statement says. These are:

A hit-or-miss method of keeping up with changes made in the traffic code instead of making it a practice to get a copy of the new regulations each time important changes are made.

Indifference to the precise nature of the regulations, so that one can get along well enough without them.

New Regulations Adopted

"In virtually every city in the country," declares the national governing body, "regulations are being adopted constantly to new conditions. These changes are carried prominently in the newspapers because their importance is so great. In certain periods, however, they come so numerous and are issued so rapidly that keeping up with them becomes a task that the individual decides to defer until a later date. The result is that when hundreds of motorists in a given locality adopt this attitude, a certain group of drivers sticks to the old regulations while still another adopts the new. Then there is confusion with its attendant evils."

The remedy, as seen by the national governing organization, is for an individual to take it upon himself to keep pace with every reprinting of the traffic code and study it thoroughly. In this way, it is pointed out, can the motorist acquire a comprehensive picture of it. If he gains a knowledge of only one or two isolated, even important, additions or modifications in the regulations, the individual is not able to see their important relationship to other sections of the code, the statement says. It continues:

Handicaps Legally

"This point has been brought home forcibly to the legal departments of various of the 48 A. A. A. local clubs. In their work of protecting the motorists' interests in a wide variety of cases, these departments have found themselves handicapped at times by the individual's ignorance of some of the most fundamental of traffic regulations. It is amazing in some of the municipalities which have made sweeping changes in their traffic regulations to make them conform to newer conditions, the number of motorists who have not taken the trouble to acquaint themselves with the new codes.

"Safe, sane and unconfused driving is a matter of every driver knowing precisely just what the regulations specify under a wide variety of circumstances. One driver for instance, cannot assume the right-of-way rule to be one thing and another have an altogether different view of it without saving the way for an accident. Yet this situation is a very common one.

Important Modifications

"A modification of real importance was made in the right-of-way regulation in Washington more than two years ago. Yet a limited survey recently conducted uncovered the fact that only one in five motorists had more than a very hazy idea of the precise regulation.

"There is little excuse for the driver who is ignorant of the traffic code of his own city or state, but there is none for the driver whose indifference to the regulations is based upon a conviction that he can't 'get by' if he is careful when in a police-patrolled section."

Oakland-Pontiac To Announce Team

All-American Selection Of Grantland Rice Offered Over Radio December 20 On Giant Hook-up

The first announcement of the All-American Football Team, the nation's mythical "best" team, in 1927 gridiron stars, will come appropriately enough through courtesy of the builders of the All-American automobile, the Oakland Motor Car Company.

Grantland Rice who succeeded the late Walter Camp as dean of American sport writers, will announce his All-American Football selections on Friday, December 2, at 7:15 p. m. Eastern Standard time, during a special 15 minute "All-American" radio program over the 29 stations of the General Motors Corporation "hook up", the largest group of sending stations ever assembled for broadcasting regular programs. The Oakland Motor Car Company, one of the General Motors "family", will be "host" during the brief but important All-American announcement program, which will include also a medley of American college songs. A majority of the 4,000 Oakland-Pontiac dealers throughout the country will tune in on the program and hold open house with a general invitation to the public in general and football fans in particular.

The Oakland Motor Car Company's first regular turn at "host" during the General Motors weekly "Family Party" will come on December 2 between 9:30 a. m. and 10:30 p. m. Eastern Standard time. This program will be in the nature of a celebration over Oakland's first formal appearance on the air and of its "radio scoop" of December 2 in being the first to announce Mr. Rice's All-American selections. The public also is invited to listen in on the December 5 hour of entertainment at the Oakland-Pontiac showrooms.

FAULTFINDING

Faultfinding is the most elementary reaction to the sense of wrong conditions. It may be wordless as an infant's cry in the night, or it may be the whimper of a pampered race whose dainties have become scarce or harder to get, the plaint of a soft people resentful of the need for hardihood. In any case, it's the first crude reaction to the pressure of conditions. It may be valuable as a symptom only; it is never a diagnosis. It is amazing to observe how large a percentage of our intelligent classes desire to remain in the region of faultfinding simply because effort is required to rise into the region of analysis.

ISAIAH Today as we go to the various places of worship, in the Sunday school we are to study the life and teachings of Isaiah. According to scriptural testimony, Isaiah was the son of Amoa. According to tradition he was the son or brother of King Amaziah. Tradition also has it that Isaiah was martyred during the wicked reign of Manasseh. Little is known of his personal history except that he prophesied for at least fifty years, that he was a contemporary of Amos and Hosea and Micah, that his home was in Jerusalem, and that he probably belonged to the Jewish nobility.

Isaiah admittedly was the prince of all the prophets. His pre-eminence was due to his strong personality, his great influence in civil affairs, his broad conception of the world, his magnificent style, and the world, his magnificent style, and the profound spiritual tone of his writings. Some of the passages of Isaiah's prophecies occupy an extremely high place in permanent literature. It is said that Edmund Burke always read a chapter of Isaiah before entering the house of commons to make an important speech. In that portion of the prophecy selected for the Sunday school lesson the inhabitants of Jerusalem and Judah are accused of the very worst form of ingratitude, that of children to their parents. Isaiah calls heaven and earth to witness that his accusation is correct. From the opening hour of their national life God had been kind to his people, safeguarding them in their infancy, leading them in all their journeyings, protecting them from stronger nations, disciplining them when they needed it, but always dealing with them as a loving father deals with the children he loves.

LEGAL TECHNICALITIES AND PROTECTION.

The law sets up certain barriers for the protection of accused persons. There is the right of trial by jury, the presumption of innocence for all persons until proved guilty, the Constitutional guaranty against being placed twice in jeopardy for the same crime, the right to refuse to testify in one's own defense. These have all been sanctioned by custom and guarded by public opinion. But there have grown up offshoots of these rights—rank weeds of court procedure and usage which threaten to choke out not only the genuine rights of the accused, but the inherent right of all citizens to protection against crime and lawlessness. These offshoots—"legal technicalities," as they are known in court parlance—are rapidly supplanting the fundamental laws based on common sense. Cases are common wherein criminals have gone free through some quirk of court procedure, although jurors, judge and lawyers, all have known they were guilty. Crime has reached unheard-of proportions in the United States because criminals know they have a fifty-to-one chance of going free. Agitators who advocate the overthrow of the law by force are treated as traitors; yet lawyers who undermine the laws by burrowing loopholes through the nation's judicial system are regarded as highly respectable citizens. The natural reaction to this prostitution of justice and the resultant wave of crime which has been sweeping the country is the passing of new and harsh laws for dealing with criminals. New York started the movement with the Baumes Laws, which have struck terror into the heart of the underworld with their stiff prison terms for habitual offenders. But the Baumes Laws deal largely with the sentencing and paroling of convicted persons.

SO THINK WE

We think that Bob Murray was right when he said at the Rotary club that he did not think that anyone should ever look upon Lubbock when they are speaking of Lubbock for it is one of the biggest things here and is doing a great deal to develop the city of Lubbock, and the South Plains in general.

We think that Lubbock is building more homes and more business houses now than any other city on the South Plains and it is not done by an oil boom or any other kind of a boom. It is merely brought about by a need for such houses, and some of the largest business enterprises have recently been secured for Lubbock, or rather we would say have come to Lubbock the past twelve months that have ever come before, and this is a good indication that these big corporations are placing a great deal of confidence in Lubbock and this part of the country.

We think that possibly some of the officials of Texas will go into bandit hunting business since there is a bounty of $5000.00 per head offered for bank robbers.

We think that there never was a business that run itself that ever paid a profit. Most of them will not run long enough in the first place and the further they run the deeper in the hole they get.

We think the way to keep Lubbock running in high is to keep plenty of booster oil in the crank case.

We think Lubbock should have five times as many street lights as she has. It will cost money yes, but it is needed, and all good cities have plenty of light. Why not Lubbock.

We think the Methodist conference this year are not standing back on saying what they want in a man for President and what they want is not found in Al Smith either.

We think that the worst thing about human beings is the forgetting of the good deeds of people. Gratitude is one of the greatest things on earth, but too many people forget the good that people do all too soon. One little wrong step sometimes overshadows hundreds of good deeds. It is best illustrated by a drop of black paint in a gallon of white. The white paint is never just as white as it was before, and it does not take much of the black paint to make the white mighty shady.

We think the United States can not be too careful in the admission of foreigners into the United States unless they are of a very high type of people. Too much foreign influence, too much red Russia, spaghetti and other foreign substances are coming into the United States torrible in the mines at this time.

We think that the best backing up can hand to the schools besides financial support is to stand behind the teachers. Nine times out of ten when a teacher corrects a child, it needs correction and yet about half of the parents will take up the child's side of the question and attempt to break the discipline principals the teacher is trying to cultivate in the child.

We think that in the years back young men went to see young ladies to spend the evening sitting quietly around the fireside and enjoying good conversation; now they don't start until late evening and don't come home until morning.

We think what happens a billion years or more in the future gives most people little concern, but astronomers are curious folks, and this is one of the many things they worry about.

We think that there are many detective agencies in the United States and some of them get away with murder, but somehow William J. Burns seems to be the impressario most often caught and exposed.

We think that the number of Christmas shopping days is decreasing rapidly. Early shopping should be made and if people of this city would mail their packages early this season they would lighten the burden of the rush in the postal departments.

We think that most people take their religion so seriously that they will fight for it; possibly some of these days we will learn that it's better to live for it.

We think that if there is any doubt in your mind as to the nearness of Christmas just take a visit through the local business houses, and you will be readily reminded that it is time to do that holiday buying.

We think that if a lecturer is eloquent, he can grace the lecture platform.

We think that large scandals usually are an outgrowth of small talk.

We think that fate usually has a finger in the engagement ring.

RUDDER PROPELS SHIP NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE—Type ship builders are interested in a new type of rudder, first fitted to the steamship Gympas Prince, built for the United States Gypsum Company, which is said to have a propelling as well as steering function. By curving the rudder in opposite directions above and below the axis of the propeller, the inventors say advantage is taken of the twist in the propeller outflow.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that several large conventions will be held in Lubbock during 1932, including: The 41st district Rotary convention, the Texas synod of the Presbyterian church and the annual Northwest Texas conference of the Methodist church. An invitation will be given to the state teachers of Texas to hold their annual meeting in Lubbock for 1932.

It is reported that today a new passenger train service for Lubbock to Dallas over the Santa Fe will be started. This train will give the passengers a twelve hour run into Dallas.

YOUR HEALTH

QUACK MEDICINE SEEKS OUTLET OVER RADIO By DR. MORRIS FISHER Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Today most American newspapers are reasonably clean as regards the kinds of advertising they will carry. Few of them, for instance, will devote their pages to the announcements of such obvious quackery as a recent invention called the magic hair collar.

This consisted of a coil to be hung around the neck. Inside the first coil was a second coil of wire and attached to this a light. When the house current was turned into the first coil a magnetic field was created and the second coil lighted the little light. Some people can get all stirred up about a little light. It was the claim that this contraption could cure every human disease by magnetizing the iron in the blood.

Not That Kind of Iron Of course, most people did not know the difference between organic iron such as occurs in the blood and inorganic iron such as is represented in an iron nail. There is no more chance to magnetize the iron in the blood than there is to pick up a piece of spinach with a magnet.

There is probably not a newspaper in the United States today that will carry the advertising for a device of this kind, although early in the promotion of Wilshire's scheme some newspaper advertising departments did fall for it.

Barred from the newspapers, a number of forms of quackery, including the magic collar, have sought to spread their claims over the radio. Younger than the newspapers, radio broadcasting stations have not yet learned to look with suspicion on medical devices that claim to be cure-alls.

It is very suspicious of any new device or remedy that is described with an air of mystery, and for which extremely general claims are made relative to the cure of such chronic diseases as tuberculosis, diabetes, chronic rheumatism, lumbago, or anemia.

Disease Causes Vary Causes of disease are as varied as the diseases themselves. It is unreasonable to believe that any peculiar electrical device, any kind of unusual rays, or chemicals, or manipulations, will have the power to control all of them.

The reasoning man treats the individual cause; the unthinking man falls for the glib talk of the extoller who thrives upon the hopes of the sick.

LUBBOCK

Lubbock has 156 blocks of pavement totalling 11.88 miles and construction work on 14 additional blocks is in progress. The paving with the exception of a few blocks is all brick on a concrete base. The city of Lubbock ranks with other cities similar in size in the entire nation in the number of blocks of paving completed.

LAUGH

Village Barber: Tommy, run and tell the editor of the Bee if he don't edit the paper 'Ya like' in season. Inquirer: Do you believe in the survival of the fittest? Man asked: I don't believe in the survival of anybody. I'm an under-taker. "Pardon me a moment, please," said the dentist to the victim, "before beginning this work I must have my drill." "Good gracious, what!" exclaimed the patient, "can't you pull a tooth without a rehearsal?" "Is it true, Mrs. Muller, that you told Mrs. Schulze I had a lot of wrinkles on my forehead?" "Why, I am too short sighted even to see the freckles on your face!" "Hubby: Your check to the grocer came back with 'no funds' on it." "Wife: That's funny, I saw an ad in the paper yesterday which said the bank had a surplus of over $3,000,000." "How do they trace their ancestry?" "The grandfather, a city bank director, was traced as far as Japan; there all traces were lost." Jim: One of those show girls is going to ride down the street this noon on horseback, dressed in one of the original seven veils they do even to see the freckles on your face!" "Tim: Fine, I'll be there. I haven't seen a horse for years." A New Yorker met a Scotchman just back from the Florida golf course struggling up Broadway, dragging an alligator. "What are you doing with that alligator?" he asked. "The son of a gun has got my ball," he replied.

Our Sunday Morning Sermon

By REV. R. F. DUNN

CREED AND LIFE

Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life.—John 5:24. Last Sunday we had for our study "Creed and Conduct," and we saw that real faith is inseparable from works of righteousness; and that faith, without works, is dead. If there is anything more worthless than a dead faith, I do not know what it is. Like other things that are dead, it becomes a nuisance, if not a peril. We now turn to another phase of faith—"Its relation to life." This takes us deeper into the mysteries of the "Gospel of the grace of God." When Christ told Nicodemus that "Except a man be born again, he could not see the kingdom of God," this master in Israel said, "How can these things be?" In answer to this question our Lord said in part, "And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the son of man be lifted up, that whom ever believeth in him should not perish but have eternal life.—John 3:14-15. Here is not only the fact that our salvation depends upon our faith, or belief, but even the action of faith is illustrated by the lifting up of the serpent in the wilderness, when those who looked upon it were instantly healed of the deadly poison. It should never be forgotten that God has fixed the condition of our salvation upon a plane that extends to all men alike, so that there is no difference between the rich and the poor, the learned and unlearned, the moral and the immoral. "All we like sheep have gone astray." We have turned, every one, to his own way and the Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all.—Isa. 53:6. If we are saved by grace, through faith and not of works, it is the prerogative of God to fix the condition of our salvation. "It is not of works, but of grace, and that through faith; for we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus, unto good works."—Eph. 2:8-10. When the Philippian jailor fell upon his knees before Paul and Silas and cried out, "What must I do to be saved?" the answer was "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved;" and they did not stop with that direct and complete answer to the question of the jailor, but added these words, "And thy house."—Acts 16:30-31. Please note that he (the jailor) took them, the same hour of the night, and washed their stripes; and was baptized, he and all his, straightway. It is further stated that "He rejoiced, believing in God with all his house."

UGLY MAN Man I'd say is never Very much to see, If he's a bear, and I like him better. That's enough to be, If he made him kindly, Strong for every task, Woman takes him blindly, Nothing more she'll ask. Man, the lucky creature, Ugly as a bear, With no charming feature, Does he need to care, Homely as they make him, Love will crown his life, Some sweet girl will take him, Glad to be his wife.

Chrysler Builds New Car As Most Powerful In U. S.

Walter P. Chrysler and his engineers present today what they believe is the most notable car ever produced—the 112-horsepower Imperial '28. It is the most powerful standard car in America, as well as Chrysler's conception of the "finest" that money can build.

Overall length of the Imperial is 131 inches. The big springs, anchored in blocks of rubber, and the special Chrysler rubber mountings at the front and rear of the engine contribute to a real softness and comfort in riding, and an outstanding example of the world's most distinguished finer motor cars.

Five Custom Models There are five Chrysler-built models: They are Town Sedan, five and seven passenger sedan, sedan-Limousine and Roadster. Custom models by LeBaron, Duesenberg and Dietrich—three of America's foremost authorities in signing and building special cars—round out the body choices. Prices range from $1275 to $4700.

Red-Head Engine Standard Performance will be found in every smoother. With the "Red Head" high compression engine, first introduced into the Chrysler line several months ago, and now adapted as standard for all body types of the new Imperial '28, is combined even faster acceleration and noticeably greater power at all speeds.

Hi-Cor Went Black. She Was Frightened To Death Mrs. Waite, New Brighton, writes: "That deadly indigestion and pain, caused by constipation made my color go black. I was so frightened to death, and I feel your laxative saved my life. I take them every night now for pre-emption, and do not fear an attack of constipation poisoning any more."

Chevrolet Opens New Flint Plant

New Warehouse Is 3-Story Structure With A Floor Space Of 225,000 Feet And Dockage

The Chevrolet Motor Company today announced the opening of a new $525,000 parts and service building in Flint, Mich. This structure marks the completion of a two-million-dollar parts and service program extending over the last year and a half and involving in addition the construction of four major supply depots and a complete reorganization of those at Oakland and Tarrytown.

The new Flint building is a three-story steel and concrete structure with a total of 225,000 square feet of floor space. Railroad docks for 12 freight cars have been provided to expedite shipping.

Made necessary because of the great increase in Chevrolet ownership during the year, the new warehouse is one of the finest in the industry with the most modern conveyors and the latest equipment for handling parts, and promises to provide Chevrolet with the most complete facilities for the efficient handling of parts distribution.

The structure becomes the central Chevrolet warehouse, the major portion of which is devoted to the storing of parts to insure good service to Chevrolet owners. More than two million dollars worth of parts will be kept on hand at all times.

The plant is also equipped to handle the vast export business now being done by the Chevrolet Motor Company. Shipments leave the plant daily for Chevrolet foreign plants and representatives in all quarters of the world.

Since the first of the year, Chevrolet has also established complete warehousing operations at Des Moines, Memphis, and Kansas City with a new warehouse to be completed in Los Angeles, Feb. 1. The four major supply depots built in the last year and a half are at Janesville, Wis., St. Louis, Mo., Norwood, O., and Buffalo, N. Y.

WHISTLES STOP KISSES

ST. PAUL—Adoption of whistles instead of semaphores for control of traffic on St. Paul streets brought only one complaint: Wives of the traffic cops said the use of whistles—at least at the outset—made their husbands' lips so sore they could not kiss them good-bye or hello or anything else. But the whistles are still being used.

TAGS LIKE RAINBOW

1928 Auto Numerals Appear To Be Loud In Shades

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—With 27 different color combinations of 42 different states appearing on some 25,000,000 motor license tags the coming year, the color scheme bids fair to rival the rainbow.

Idaho, the potato state, will sport a natural green potato on a vine emblem. Massachusetts, famous for its cod, will show white cod on a green with a fish; Wyoming will have a license of yellow on deep blue and in Porto Rico, the color scheme is violet on gray.

Six states and the District of Columbia are retaining the same color scheme, but reversing the sense of the background and numerals.

Graham Brothers Exports Boosted

New Peak Reached First Ten Months Of Year As Canada Showed Gain Of 13.8 Per Cent

Exports of Graham Brothers trucks in the first ten months of 1927 reached a new peak in the company's history with a total of 3,616 vehicles sold and shipped to foreign dealers, an announcement by the truck division of Dodge Brothers, Inc. states. Export business in this period has been materially larger in proportion to the company's total business than it was in the corresponding ten months of 1926, it adds.

Detail figures show that the company made its greatest proportionate gain in sales to Canadian dealers, the total for the period being 1,067 units against 821 in the same ten months last year. This represents an increase of 13.8 per cent. The results of the first ten months show that the company's foreign business is expanding rapidly in relation to its total output, the export sales and shipments this year comprising 18.9 per cent, of its total volume compared with 14.5 per cent in the same period of 1926.

Graham Brothers has enjoyed an excellent business this year and in October sales shipments broke all records for the year with a total of 6,125 units. The same trend has carried through the first 12 days of November sales shipments totaling 2,932 vehicles compared with 1,826 in the corresponding 12 day period last year, an increase of 62.3 per cent.

FRANCO-SPANISH TRADE

NEW YORK—France may succeed the United States in first place in the foreign commerce of Spain if trade between the European countries continues to increase as markedly as in the first six months of this year. Spanish exports to France rose from $35,000,000 francs value during the first half of 1926 to 796,000,000 for the same period this year, imports totalled $32,000,000 francs against $14,000,000 for the same period of 1926.

INVESTIGATE RUG TRADE

TEHRAN, Persia—Decreases in the exports of Persian rugs have led the Persian government to begin an investigation of the rug market. Use of inferior wool and aniline dyes, failure to follow Persian patterns and delay in completing rugs ordered on contract are believed to have caused the loss of business. A government grant of $750,000 will be sought to carry out an industrial improvement program.

Mop Markings Investigated

WASHINGTON—Big handle and mop men have been invited by the Federal Trade Commission to meet at a trade practice conference in Cincinnati soon to tell what they mean by imprinting meaningless numbers on mop handles. The commission says mop makers used to stamp "16 oz" on the handle when a mop was made of 16 ounce yarn, but some of them of late apparently have been stamping only the numerals, "16". Many such mops have been found to weigh only 12 ounces or so.

Buick Stands High In Repeat Sales

Series 115 Group One Of Most Popular Shown In History Of Company In Past Four Years

FLINT, Mich., Nov. 28.—The seven Buick models comprising the series 115 group which was introduced into the Buick line less than four years ago, is finding particularly ready acceptance among the fast-growing ranks of two-car owners. C. W. Churchill, general sales manager of the Buick Motor Company, announced this week. Mr. Churchill was discussing recognition of its need for more than one automobile.

Dealers' reports, Mr. Churchill said, indicate that a surprising proportion of the Series 115 models sold during Buick's record-breaking past three months were bought by owners who already possessed one or more of the Series 120 or Series 128 models. Buick's retail sales for the period between June 30 and October 1 totaled $2,355, of which approximately half were cars of Series 115.

More than 5000 lives have been lost in shipwrecks on the Great Lakes during the last 50 years. When the Maharajah of Patala goes visiting, his wardrobe is carried along in 200 trunks.

Credit for the immediate success of the Series 115 is given by dealers to the one-quality policy governing construction of the entire Buick line. Tough designed to the requirements of the driver who prefers a somewhat lighter car than the 120-inch and 128-inch wheelbase Buicks, the seven models on the 114-1/2 inch wheelbase are identical with the others in quality of material, in workmanship, and in engineering details.

"This fact," said Mr. Churchill, "has made our Series 115 cars popular among owners who have long derived satisfaction from the larger Buicks. It is only natural that when need for a second car arises, they turn again to Buick. Besides assuring themselves of reliable transportation, they secure added convenience in operation and servicing through use of two or more cars of the same make."

The Series 115 Buicks are designed to meet a variety of owner requirements. They include five-passenger two and four-door sedans, roadster, touring car, two-passenger coupe, four-passenger country club coupe, and five-passenger town brougham.

KER-CHOO!

Obey These Simple Rules And Dodge Winter Colds

"Sure, I've got a cold. I always get one at this time of the year." How often have you said that, or heard it said, in November? Pretty often?

Well, the idea that one is bound to get a cold in November is all wrong, say medical authorities. Here is a list of seven rules the doctors have drawn up, careful observance of which, they say, will enable anyone to go through even the worst weather without getting the sniffles.

1—Take regular daily exercise, walk to and from work if possible. Spend as much time out of doors as you can.

2—Put in regular hours of sleep and see that you get plenty of it.

3—Keep your feet dry. If they get wet, put on dry shoes and stockings at the first opportunity. A hot foot bath when the feet have been wet or chilled will often ward off a cold.

4—When colds are prevalent void crowded public places as much as possible.

5—Do not get the driver from persons who have colds. Should protect nose by covering mouth with a handkerchief they cough or sneeze.

6—Wash your hands frequently, avoid putting your fingers in mouth or nose.

7—Keep the mouth, nose, throat clean. Gargle the throat with warm salt water, especially after having been in a theatre or crowded public place.

Follow these rules, say the doctors, and you can laugh at weather.

"I Wish Now I Had Bought Dayton Tires"

—Jones

The two of them were standing in front of Brown's Sport Model Car, which was equipped with 31x6.00 Dayton Stabilized Balloons. Jones had recently bought for his car, some Standard Brand tires, which had already given him some trouble and were showing uneven and premature tread wear.

Said Jones, "I see Brown, where you have just bought some Daytons." Brown replies, "Well, I have had them several months, and you can see for yourself how slightly they show any wear—its really astonishing to me too, how Daytons stand up. I just noticed my Speedometer, and have traveled 9385 miles with hardly any visible wear showing on the treads. Besides, I have to carry only 34 pounds pressure in them, and believe me, they are the most comfortable tires I ever rode on."

Jones remarked, "That settles it,—its Daytons for me next time—for they would be the cheapest tire for me in the long run, with the remarkable mileage you get from them."

Chapter "Forty-three"

"Another thing, Anderson, don't try that old spall about self-defense. Be original. Now if you and your business have any other business to attend to, you'd better trot along with them!" He edged off towards the others, trying to find the ground with his aching feet.

That was my last personal encounter with either of the two. Another party, Officer X, had boasted that he will get me if I ever come back to California. I'm going back some day, on other business, and I hope to be able to look out for myself.

The Supreme Court sustained the lower court, and Lips was sentenced to San Quentin for four years. Anderson's trial was held immediately, and his attorneys made a hard fight for him. One of them, Mahoney, dwelt at length upon Anderson's great need as a father, declaring that the man took his oath of office so seriously that he had killed no less than five men and one woman in upholding the majesty of the law.

Anderson also got fourteen years. I had received several telegrams asking me to appear before the state legislature at Austin, Texas. Several of my friends had been endeavoring to get the state to reimburse me for my traveling expenses as much as the state of Texas had the public in general had been considerably benefited by my work in the rounding up of the swindlers. I had, of course, borne all the expense out of my own pocket and my resources were dwindling rapidly. I would have welcomed state aid, for I still had to find Spencer, and the matter of finding him was giving me considerable worry. I had no idea how long it would take to find my last man nor how much would have to be spent to complete my work.

With the Lips-Anderson affair behind me, I decided to proceed to Austin to see what might be done regarding the reimbursement. I stopped in Fort Worth on my way and gathered up the court records and other data which would support my claims for reimbursement. Just as I was ready to continue my journey to Austin I met Jesse Brown, the district attorney.

"Hello, Norfleet," he exclaimed. "Heard the news?"

"I hadn't. Could it be that Spencer had been captured?"

"Reno Hamlin has forfeited his bond and is gone!"

"That was a start. The whole thing was like trying to hold down six keys with five fingers. One would always be popping up. A short time before I had been congratulating myself on having all of the gang except Spencer. I should have knocked on Wood."

Since there was nothing I could do immediately that would assure Hamlin's capture, I proceeded to Austin. I saw Governor Neff and appeared before a number of committees. They all seemed more than eager to repay my expenditures. Mr. Lee Stephens was chairman of the Appropriation Committee. I put my claims before him, through the cooperation of Burke Mathis, my home representative. We then laid the matter before Mr. Stephens of Ballinger, chairman of the Claims Committee. The idea of reimbursing me for the amount I had spent was favorably regarded by both Claims and Appropriation Committees, and it was put before the House. Here it carried and it seemed certain that I would receive the appropriation. It was then submitted to the Attorney General for his approval, and he turned it down saying it couldn't be legally done.

The State Constitution provides that the legislature has the right to make an appropriation of this kind for services to be performed, but that it can not appropriate a fund for services already rendered. I then had a conference with Governor Neff, Assistant Attorney General Jones and Messrs. Satterwhite, Stephens and Burk Mathis.

and try to keep you from losing your money." He didn't appreciate my interference much then.

From Holman's description of the gang, I was sure that they were members of the gang I had been seeking, and I reasoned that it was altogether possible that Spencer was with them. At least it was another fake stock exchange, and it might give me a valuable lead of some sort.

Holman must have given the matter considerable thought, for he seemed to become disquieted and he said he was going home. For morning he had decided that there must be something to my statements, and he had decided to stay away from Denver.

I told Governor Neff, Satterwhite and Jones of this red-hot tip and said that I felt, in the State interest as well as my own, that I should follow it immediately. I asked that the contract concerning the reward be completed and signed so that I might leave that night for Denver. It was not completed before my departure, but I left with their assurance that I needn't worry about it. I felt fully protected in the matter and gave it no more thought, concentrating on the work before me.

On the train, I concluded that it would be wise to stop in Fort Worth and look into a matter or two concerning the Hamlin case. My original swindling charge against Hamlin was still on the books in Fort Worth. As long as this remained on record, he would probably keep pretty well under cover. If it were dismissed, he would probably use less caution and begin to operate more openly. Spencer might also join him and hide, figuratively, in his shadow. I decided to stop off in Fort Worth and have the case dismissed. A little publicity would soon reach him, and I figured he'd stick up his head somewhere.

This was soon arranged, and I cut out several newspaper clippings, mailing them to cronies of Hamlin who would pass the information to him.

Then I went before the Grand Jury at Fort Worth and got a new and much stronger indictment against Hamlin, taking care that it was given no publicity. I saved that for a little surprise.

I had heard that Hamlin's wife lived somewhere near Oklahoma City, and I wrote an old friend of mine, Will Flynn, an ex-cowman and ex-sheriff, for his help. Flynn and I were lifelong friends having cemented that relationship in pioneer days when he endured many hardships together. I sent him Hamlin's picture and gave him as much information as I had. Finances were cramping me again and I went on home to raise some money.

I had no idea that I would hear of Hamlin so soon and intended going on to Denver. But it seems that it wasn't intended for me to go to Denver at once, for a series of incidents and clues led to other trails.

I hadn't been home more than a day or two when I got a wire from Flynn. He had landed Hamlin and had him in jail at Oklahoma City. I hurried away to that city and found my mulebuyer friend safe behind the bars. He was smiling and his spirits reflected absolute confidence that he would soon be released. He quickly informed me that his case had been dismissed and that I could do nothing with him. To prove his assertion, he pulled a clipping from his pocket and handed it to me. I recognized it; I had clipped it from a Fort Worth paper myself.

"Norfleet," he said, in a voice that was meant to humor me, "you can't hold me here. You see there is nothing against me."

"Well, well," I replied, squinting at him, "that's too bad. If that's true, then there's nothing against you. But look here!" I handed him a letter from John A. Boykin, solicitor general at Atlanta, Georgia.

Reno's face went chalk white and his lips trembled.

"I was anxious to collect my own reward in Texas, and I didn't want to be bothered with having to get extradition papers. Boykin did want Hamlin, and I had heard that a man was on the way to Oklahoma City to claim him. That wouldn't do. I'd have to get him back to Texas as quickly as possible and I'd have to out-fox him to do it."

CHICAGO—A mammoth painting of early Chicago, on the ceiling of a famous coffee house, presents an unsolved problem. It represents the southern portion of the city as being in the north and the north portions as lying to the south.

HARES INVADE SWEDEN

MALMOE, Sweden—The brown or German hare is gradually driving northward in Sweden the older stock, which is grayish in summer and snow white in winter. Since the hare is an unaggressive animal, hunters are at a loss to explain the retreat. Both kinds are unusually plentiful this season.

The first diptheria antivenin was made in 1834.

TWO AIR RECORDS IN NIGHT

Not satisfied with his first record for night flying, Captain Toshio Kato, of the Japan aviation school at Tokyo, immediately flew again and established a new record. He hopped off at 5:30 o'clock in the evening and broke by 35 minutes his previous record of six hours in the night air. He immediately flew again and remained up until 9:25 o'clock in the morning, besting his previous record of the night by three hours. Most of his flying was in dense fog.

MOTOR SLED CLIMBS HILLS

The trouble of walking back after a good ride down a hill has been obliterated by a motor sled that has just appeared in Germany. It is propelled by a cog-wheel driven by a one and one-half horsepower gasoline motor. On the slide the drive-wheel is disconnected and the sled coasts. Then the engine is operated for the return trip. The sled has made nearly 20 miles an hour on level surfaces, and the footrests are heated by exhaust gas from the engine.

Policemen of Berlin are taking intensive training on an outdoor unit that has been installed recently. On hundred men can exercise at the same time on the apparatus, which consists of horizontal bars, trapezes, ladders, swinging rings and other attachments, and is fitted for individual or group work. Staunchly constructed of metal, the gymnasium has been named "Iron Philip" by the policemen.
