Got A Job? Call A Choir Student...

If you have an odd job to do, please contact the Chamber of Commerce at 729-6445, and the Rockport-Fulton Choir Boosters will be glad to find a student volunteer to do it, for a donation.

The Rockport-Fulton High School Choir, under the direction of Martha Luigi, has been invited to perform in the 1982 International Music Festival in Vienna. In order to make the trip, choir members, with the help of the Choir Boosters, are working to pay their way. The Choir Boosters say:

Help our school choir to accept this well-deserved honor.

WORKING TOWARDS VIENNA

Jennifer Cisneros wants to be in Vienna in 1982 for the International Music Festival. Jen Bailey of 68 Curlew wanted someone to do some work in her yard. The solution for both was the Choir Job Placement List at the Chamber of Commerce. The Rockport-Fulton High School Choir, of which Jennifer is a member, has been invited to perform at the prestigious music event. Only 37 choirs were chosen to attend the festival and local choir members are working hard to earn money so they can make the trip and accept the privileged invitation. Some 46 choir members have their names on the placement list and according to Chamber manager Carolyn Behee, response has been excellent. So if you have a job that needs doing, why not call the Chamber at 729-6445 and find a choir student to do it?

Space Services To Go For 'Chip Shot' On First Launch

Federal Aviation Administration public affairs spokesman George Burlage said in Fort Worth that Space Services Inc. has two choices. They can seek a waiver from the federal prohibition against launching unmanned rockets into controlled air space. Or they can seek an exemption from all FAA regulations.

The first course of action would take days, the latter would take months.

A request for an exemption from FAA rules, which in essence would be an acknowledgement that there are no regulations that apply to the Tercheron project, would mean SSI would have to have a statement published in the Federal Register. That would take at least 120 days.

Because Space Services Inc. does not want to leave the 55-foot rocket sitting on Matagorda Island, exposed to the corrosive

Council Votes To Buy Park Land

Rockport's city council has voted to borrow $37,000 against a Certificate of Deposit to buy 4.66 acres of land just north of Memorial Park.

The decision to borrow the funds came during an emergency meeting of the council at 11 a.m. Tuesday, July 21, in City Hall.

The city is buying the land through funding from the now-defunct Coastal Energy Impact Program which awarded Rockport $40,000 for the project.

However, the city has to purchase the property in order to receive the grant funds, and time was running out on the city's option to buy the property.

Council members opted to borrow the $37,000, using a Certificate of Deposit as security, since the interest on the loan will be less than the money the city would lose by cashing in the CD.

The land will be used to increase the city's park facilities.

Fulton Sets Budget Hearing

FULTON — Residents of Fulton will have a chance to air their views on city finances in a public hearing on the proposed 1981-82 city budget at 7 p.m. Tuesday, August 4, in Fulton City Hall.

City officials gave preliminary approval to the budget in their July 14 city council session.

The projected budget for the coming fiscal year calls for general fund expenditures of $16,630 plus an additional $2500 in revenue sharing funds for pier additions.

The city anticipates revenues of $58,700 during the fiscal year which begins October 1.

The city budget must be adopted in time to go into effect on that date.

Amendment Keeps Aransas Intact

AUSTIN — An amendment proposed by Senator James E. (Buster) Brown kept Aransas County from being divided in Congressional redistricting in the Texas Senate this past week — but the entire county may be in a new district as a result of action in the state legislature.

Under a plan proposed by Texas Senator John Wilson, Aransas County would have been divided between District 14 — the district in which the county is presently included — and a new district, 27. Under the split, the extreme southern end of the county would have gone into District 27 with the area from Rockport north remaining in the 14th Congressional District.

Tuesday, Senator Brown proposed an amendment, subsequently adopted, which would keep all of Aransas County in the 14th District. Representative in that district is Bill Patman.

On Wednesday, however, the redistricting bill went to the Texas House of Representatives which, on Thursday afternoon, was still in committee on some four or five redistricting plans of its own, according to a spokesman in Senator Brown's office.

As of late Thursday afternoon, the bill that seemed most in favor among House members was the VonDolen plan — which would keep Aransas County intact but would remove it from Patman's District and include it in the 22nd District of U.S. Congressman Ron Paul.

Representative Leroy Wieting could not be contacted Thursday for comments, but Wednesday he said the Texas House was not expected to take final action on any proposed redistricting measure until this weekend "at the earliest."

Under the VonDolen plan, Aransas County would be included in a district with the counties of Brazoria, Matagorda, Calhoun, and parts of Nueces, San Patricio, Goliad, Wharton and Victoria.

Under the Senate plan, Aransas would be included with the coastal counties of Matagorda and a portion of Brazoria as well as the inland counties of Refugio, Goliad, Victoria, DeWitt, Jackson, Lavaca, Wharton, Colorado, a portion of Karnes, Wilson, Guadalupe, Gonzales, Fayette, Lee, Austin, Washington, Burleson, Milam and portions of Williamson and Ft. Bend.

Senator Brown said the total population of District 14 under the Senate plan would amount to 156,167 which is only about 800 below the "ideal" population for each district.

Brown said in seeking to keep Aransas County intact in the redistricting plan, he was doing "what I think the people of Aransas County wanted."

He praised the Senate redistricting plan as one that "reflects the conservative strength of Texas."

Rockport Country Club Pre-Sales Hit $2.5 Million

Construction dates on the proposed new Rockport Country Club is getting closer as pre-sales have pushed the Club's escrow account over the $2.5 million mark.

"If everyone funds this next week as expected, we will be very close to our initial goal," according to George Eckhardt, chairman of the board of directors.

The goal is $3,150,000 in pre-sales of a package consisting of a lot, stock in Rockport Country Club Inc. and a club membership. When funding is completed, construction will begin on the first phase of the project — residential development, a nine-hole golf course, swimming pool, two tennis courts and pro shop and installation of roads and utility service on approximately 225 acres.

The residential development will include 140 fairway lots and 60 skyview (off fairway) lots.

Site of the development is a 500 acre tract just off Highway 35 North west of the proposed Wal-Mart site.

When the first phase of the project is complete, plans call for purchase and development of the remaining 275 acres in approximately 280 fairway lots and 270 skyview lots, an additional nine-holes for the golf course, clubhouse, two tennis courts and equipment storage building.

The additional roads and utility service needed for the development would also be added.

When completed, the total project will number about 750 homesites, Eckhardt said.

Investors in the project to date have come not only from Rockport, Aransas Pass and Corpus Christi, he added, but from throughout Texas including Dallas, Austin, San Antonio and Houston.

In addition to Eckhardt, other officers in the company include Carl Krueger, president; Delmar Hiller and Gene Rogan, vice presidents; and Gordon Stanley, secretary-treasurer.

Progress Edition

Rescheduled

The Rockport Pilot's 6th annual Progress Edition, originally set for today's Weekender edition, has been rescheduled for the upcoming July 29 Midweek Edition.

Mary Casey First 'Volunteer Of Month'

By Pat Blair

"Mary's the one that holds it all together," says Thyra Russell.

The "Mary" she's talking about is Mary Casey, chairman of the workshop operated by the Aransas County Medical Services Inc. Women's Committee.

Because of her involvement with the workshop — conservatively estimated at 1000 hours a year — Mary has also been named the July "Volunteer of the Month" in a new program inaugurated by the Rockport Pilot to honor volunteers in Aransas County.

Thyra argues with the 1000 hours a year estimate. "I think it's a bit more than that," she said. "Mary puts in at least 100 hours a month."

Mary agrees that she puts in a lot of hours for the workshop — where members of the Women's Committee make the items they sell in their gift boutique and the annual Christmas Bazaar to help raise funds for the county Emergency Medical Service.

"But I enjoy it," she said during a recent interview at the workshop. "I couldn't put in the hours if I didn't enjoy it."

"I get tired once in a while," she added, "but (referring to a recent vacation), they let me have a whole two weeks off!"

Basically, she believes in volunteering. "It's the best way I know to get acquainted with people."

In Virginia, she was a volunteer worker in the regional office of the American Cancer Society. When her husband was attached to the U.S. Embassy in London, she volunteered to serve as chairman of the Embassy Wives' Speakers Bureau — a group established by the ambassador's wife just after World War II to acquaint British women with Americans and their customs.

And when her husband retired in 1975 and moved back to Rockport — Jim Casey was born and grew up here — Mary immediately began looking for something to do.

She offered her services to the Women's Committee in 1975 — and has been busy ever since.

"Mary's the one," says another Mary — Mary Coudy — "that when someone comes in, like me, and says, 'I want to help but I can't do anything' — she finds something you can do."

The Real Estate Consumer Seller Financing Offers Benefits

Recently many people have found it necessary to provide a portion of the financing when selling a home.

Instead of receiving the full value of the equity in cash, the seller receives some cash and lends the remainder to the buyer.

This often allows the buyer to assume an existing mortgage at an interest rate which is less than that available for new financing. In many instances, however, the interest rate on the existing loan will be escalated to the current rate when the house is sold.

In addition to offering the possibility of a lower interest rate, seller financing benefits the buyer by reducing the cash down payment required to purchase the home. The seller benefits by the greater likelihood of a fast sale.

Seller financing can be a good deal for both buyers and sellers, but remember, proper legal advice is essential in a transaction as complex as the sale of a home.

VACATION BY THE SLICE

If you want a vacation home but do not want to be burdened with the expenses of owning a second home, resort time-sharing may be the answer.

In the present market, a one-time purchase price may be no greater than the cost of a new car. This enables middle-income families to "own a slice" of a resort with furnished accommodations and full facilities.

If you want to combine a vacation and an investment, look into resort time-sharing.

As a time-share owner, you can purchase the right to occupy a vacation dwelling for a specified time period, such as your normal two-week vacation each year.

Resort time-sharing can be looked on as a hedge against inflation. Also, it offers potential vacation savings. As resort hotel rates continue to increase, the mortgage payment remains fixed.

WHAT IS MORTGAGE INSURANCE

Buying mortgage insurance? Sometime the term

"mortgage insurance" can be confusing. One type of mortgage insurance is really life insurance which pays off the home loan if the breadwinner dies.

Before buying, compare premiums to those available on similar amounts of declining term life insurance.

Another type of mortgage insurance protects your lender in the event you default on the mortgage. When you borrow more than 80 percent of the value of a home using a conventional loan, your lender will probably require you to obtain mortgage insurance.

The cost is usually a one-time fee of one percent of the mortgage balance. Each year thereafter you will have to pay one-quarter of 1 percent of the mortgage balance until the loan balance is under 80 percent of the home's purchase price. After that, the mortgage insurance is no longer required.

REAL ESTATE OFFERS INVESTMENT ADVANTAGES

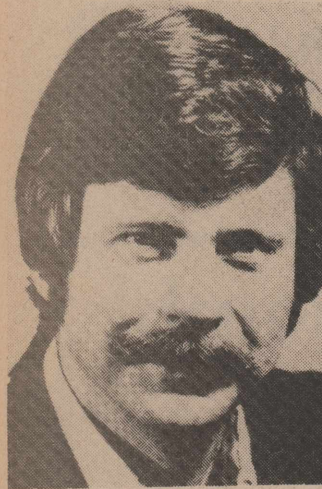

Are you considering purchasing real estate as an investment? Then you should be aware that real estate provides many advantages in addition to an immediate cash return.

The use of borrowed funds allows the investor to increase the return on the amount of money taken out of the investor's own pocket. Interest payments and depreciation are deductible from the income tax and often provide a tax shelter to the small investor.

Appreciation in real estate values and equity build-up often provide handsome returns upon the sale of the property.

And the small investor in real estate can easily obtain investment information regarding both the market in which property is traded and the data on the property's income and expenses.

The Lewis Grizzard Column By Lewis Grizzard

In Praise Of Onions

Vidalia onions grow in one place in the world, and in one place only. They grow in Toombs County, Georgia, between Macon and Savannah. The largest town in Toombs County is Vidalia (Vi-DAY-lia), thus the name of the onion.

Nobody knows why this particular breed of onion — so sweet you can eat it like an apple — grows only in Toombs County — which is a shame.

There needs to be a Vidalia onion legend, maybe something about an Indian brave, Running Onion, who fell in love with an Indian maiden, Princess Vidalia, but her father, Chief Boy-R-Dee, wouldn't let them get married, so they committed suicide, etc., etc.

"I think it's got something to do with the pH factor in the soil," the local county agent told me. County agents are known for their lack of imagination.

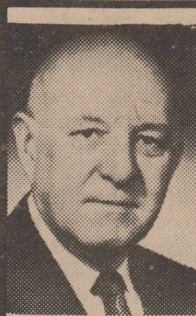

But even without a legend, the word about Vidalia onions is spreading all across the country. One local company spent $100,000 promoting the onion this year and now is shipping Vidalias all the way to Maine and south Florida.

"They make the best onion rings in the world," a Vidalian was telling me. "It won't be long before that's the only kind of onion anybody will eat."

They're already eating Vidalia sweet onions up and down the East Coast. Soon they will sweep into the Midwest and Southwest and cross the Rockies into California.

Bite the bullet time

Representative Claude Pepper (Fla.) "I introduced for appropriate reference a bill (R.R.3973, cosponsored by Biaggi (N.Y.), Ferrano (N.Y.), Oakar (Ohio), to amend title 39 of the United States Code to strengthen the enforcement powers of the U.S. Postal Service to deal with schemes perpetrated through the mails which involve the obtaining of money by means of false representation.

"In essence, this bill corrects a serious oversight in that it would give the same subpoena power to the Inspector General (Chief Postal Inspector) of the Postal Service that we have given to the Inspector General of every other Government agency. "In the course of our recent hearings we received numerous examples of the successful work of the Inspection Service. Here are a few of them (excerpts):

Example. The Service helped to obtain a conviction against a man who promoted a guaranteed cancer cure which consisted of injectible bottles full of seaweed.

Example. Phony arthritis cures from water said to be from Lourdes which is really from a pond in California.

Example. The Service blocked a scheme which advertised guaranteed weight loss of 30 pounds in 30 days. The scheme was bringing in about $112,000 a day.

Example. The Service has stopped numerous work-at-home schemes which suggest that, for a small investment, a senior citizen can make millions stuffing envelopes or growing earthworms. One group of 300 Texas seniors was taken for $47,000 in a scheme to make wreaths.

Example. Another racket involves the sale of vending machine franchises. Senior citizens are told that following their investment all they have to do is visit the machines and collect the money. All too often the machines do not exist.

"The Postal Service has to build a case with virtually no investigative tools with which to do it.

"This bill would (give) the Chief Postal Inspector . . . subpoena authority with respect to the enforcement of title 39 of the United States Code . . . It corrects an oversight in existing law. It will not result in any new regulations on industry.

"Profiteers and charlatans . . . will face an Inspection Service not only with the heart to go after them but with the teeth and tools that it needs as well . . ."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

A recent television program publicized mailorder fraud. But publicity won't correct a bad situation. Congressman Pepper's bill should receive speedy approval.

Outdoors

by Mrs. Richard Alden Knight

NO REAL NEED

During the spring and early summer of 1980 the local newspapers carried ads that sold "creek bottom land."

This year the same man, who is one of the area's active and presumably financially successful auctioneers, is advertising fee fishing.

What he had done was dig down into a natural small pond on his property (which is just across the road from Lycoming Creek), sell the dirt and fill the resultant hole — about two acres in area — with water from the creek and a well.

I can't help but wonder how he ever got permission to draw off Lycoming Creek late last summer when the creek was abnormally low.

On the other hand, he obviously paid for doing it. He tells me that when he filled in the pond last August by adding warm creek water to the sun-baked clay bottom, he lost half his original 5,000 stocking to the water temperature.

Open seven days a week all year, no Pennsylvania fishing license is required. Insofar as Pennsylvania residents are concerned, it hardly seems to be economically feasible.

Our resident license is $9. His fee for fishing charges are $2 ground fee; $2 rod rental (of course you can bring your own, with a restriction of no spinners to be used and a minimum six-pound test) and all fish caught must be kept at a charge of $3 each.

He'll clean them for you, of course — 20 cents each. Damaged fish (and I saw a good dozen scooped out in the hour I spent talking with the man) are cleaned and frozen on the grounds. These he sells for $1.80 apiece.

Admittedly the trout are good ones. He has stocked and continues stocking 10- to 26-inch rainbows, brooks, browns, tigers and palominos.

Of course, because there is absolutely no cover either in or around the water, he must depend upon pellet feeding, to the tune of about 100 pounds a day. Pellet-fed fish simply do not develop the firmness nor color that even hatchery trout do after spending even a relatively short time in the wild.

I think unless I want to clearly see a trout's reaction to a new fly (should I try to come up with one!), I'll confine my fishing to free-flowing streams, plenty of which we have here.

On the other hand, he may become our next millionaire—I doubt!

Live Oak Peninsula Philosopher

Editor's note: the Live Oak Peninsula Philosopher on his grassy ranch examines the latest Supreme Court ruling and goes off in several directions.

Dear editor: Even before a woman gets there, the Supreme Court — knowing she's on the way — has ruled that a woman is entitled to the same pay as a man if she's doing similar work.

Not equal work, just similar work. Those guys know what they're doing.

As a result, already some city employees are striking, demanding that the rules be enforced, with city officials saying they'd have to raise taxes to do it.

I've looked in vain for some official to solve the problem, in a move to fight inflation, by suggesting the way to equalize pay is to lower the men's salaries down to what the women are making.

Would that comply with the Court's ruling? I'm not proposing it. You don't have to be a Supreme Court judge to look out for your own health.

But what interests me is the possibility of carrying the Supreme Court's ruling further.

For example, my farming is similar to but not equal to a lot of others around here. Is it now my Constitutional right to get paid as much as they? Where do I go to get my check?

Or take a Justice of the Peace in some small town. He rules on issues and makes legal decisions. Certainly his work is similar but not equal to the work of a Supreme Court judge. Isn't he entitled to the $70,000 a year or whatever it is a Supreme Court judge gets?

I don't know what the salary differential is, but shouldn't the Governor of a small state be paid as much as the Governor of a big state? Their work is similar and sometimes promise more than they can deliver and deliver more than their state can pay for.

Understand, I'm in favor of women getting paid on the same basis as men, but I'm wrestling with the problem of whether a piccolo player in a marching band should get as much as the guy who has to tote that big drum.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Austin At Wharf

Never I think was there a beardless captain in one of Donald McKay's famous clippers. Commodore Dewey's beard fluttered in the faint Manila breeze when he gave his famous order: "You may fire when you're ready Bridley." On I might go.

Having sported a Van Dyke, a goatee as the misinformed would have it (Uncle Sam has a goatee), for a year under four decades I consider myself a bit of an authority on the subject.

Until a few years ago it took guts or gall, I'm not sure which, to wear a beard in the United States. In my own case a beard destroyed whatever inhibitions I may have had. I became accustomed, and then ceased to notice, the stares and turned heads.

A brief history of beards in this country goes something like this. The earliest settlers wore beards and at no time since have they been entirely abandoned, even though there have been periods when they were worn only by backwoodsmen and mountaineers.

Some time in the last quarter of the 18th century the beard was abandoned in more polite society. Notice their rarity among portraits of the Founding Fathers.

Midway through the next century the beard returned, witness President Lincoln, Robert E. Lee, Ulysses Grant, etc.

Here I may be mistaken, but I think William Howard Taft was the last bearded President. Since then there hasn't been one with even a pencil line moustache, although Thomas Dewey threatened.

In any event the nation remained noticeably clean-shaven from the days of Woodrow Wilson until the late 1960's and the advent of the scraggly beards of the hippies. Those were my tough years!

But that has changed and respectable barbers have become hair stylists and trim professional men's hair and beards. I can supply additional information to anyone interested.

I ALWAYS FORCE MYSELF to chuckle when I pick up one of those letters to the editor that begin with statements to the effect that our forebears came to this country to escape religious persecution and intervention with their beliefs. That is the sort of pap our public schools are forced to foist upon our children because of half educated busy-bodies of a Joe McCarthy or Jesse Helms and company ilk.

In the minds of such people there is an historical gap between Columbus's discovery of America and the arrival of the Pilgrims in 1620 (the Pilgrims did come to these shores seeking religious freedom).

The zealots choose to ignore this gap of more than 100 years, even as they pretend to know nothing of Cotton Mather and the New England witch burners.

Of course, well enough known but never given the significance in history is the colony of Capt. John Smith at Jamestown, Virginia, 13 years ahead of the Pilgrims. Smith landed with a band of adventurers, all male and bent on establishing fortunes.

An unpleasant contrast when compared to the devout Pilgrims, especially when in time English women in mild or great trouble were imported to the Jamestown colony and virtually sold to the highest bidders. This perhaps calls for a commentary on American mores but I leave that to someone of a more philosophical bent and better versed in history than I.

Meanwhile an historical footnote on the early New England settlers may be in order. British and French traders arrived on that coast nearly two decades before the Pilgrims. Their interest and concern was not with religion but the trade in cod-fish.

Of them one historian of the time wrote:

"These men were generally reckless adventurers. Some were runaway seamen, some fugitives from justice . . . Every man followed his own impulses unchecked. The grossest immoralities prevailed. There was no Sabbath here; no clergyman to proclaim the gospel of Jesus Christ, with its alluring promises and fearful retributions."

In 1623 things became so bad at a trading company post in Maine that agents were sent to institute strict law and order. They were supported by a Rev. William Merrill, Episcopalian, whose duty it was to instill religion in these rude people.

He tried, abandoned the effort as hopeless, and returned to England in disgust. —ahab

Two Cast Ballots In Navigation Election

Two ballots were cast this past week for the Aransas County Navigation District election as absentee voting got underway for the August 8 election.

Absentee balloting will continue through Tuesday, August 4, at the county clerk's office, Aransas County Courthouse.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. on the regular Saturday, August 8, election day and remain open until 7 p.m.

Ten candidates are vying for five seats on the Navigation District this year with only one, Hillis Dominguez in Pct. 2 running unopposed for re-election.

Most crowded race is for the commissioner from Pct. 4 with three candidates — Danny C. Cox, Kirk Holman and John Dzerk — seeking election. Jimmy Anders, Pct. 4 incumbent, did not seek re-election.

Absentee Voting Starts In Water Board Election

Absentee voting will begin Wednesday, July 29, in the August 8 elections for the Aransas County Water Control and Improvement District 1 which serves the Holiday Beach area. Three candidates have announced for the three positions up for election — Jane L. Kemmerer, Wilson R. Burns and M. Joan Nish, M.D.

In the Pct. 1-1A race, Gail

Driver is seeking election against incumbent David Maguglin, and the race for Pct. 3 will be between incumbent R.W. Landrum and challenger Homer V. Faber.

Incumbents in those posts — J. Gordon Hargrove, Fred F. Mullins Sr. and Frank H. Smith — chose not to run for re-election. Hargrove is current president of the board.

Absentee voting will be in the Water District office in the Lingner Real Estate building on Highway 35 North. Election officers for absentee voting are Alice Warren, Louise Wilken and Robert L. Warren.

The Saturday, August 8, elections will be in the Lee Miller Recreation Center on the east side of Highway 35 North at Holiday Blvd. and St. Charles Loop. Election hours are from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

Sales Tax Collections Up

Sales, as measured by city sales tax collections, took a dip in Rockport in June but the year-to-date totals were still ahead of last year's by almost 41 per cent, according to State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Through the end of June, sales tax collections amounted to $159,499 for the city of Rockport — an increase of 40.59 per cent over the $113,454 collected during the same period last year.

This was in spite of the fact that June tax collections amounted to $10,170, a decrease from the $18,894 collected in June, 1980.

In Fulton, sales tax figures were up both for the year-to-date and for the month — $2,790 in collections for June, 1981 (compared to $2,100 for June, 1980), bringing the year-to-date total to $18,355.

This was a 251.40 per cent increase over last year's sales tax collections. Balancing that is the fact that Fulton did not begin collecting a city sales tax until March, 1980.

Sales for the area in general took a dip during June, according to sales tax collection figures for the month, ranging from a difference in Taft of only $90 ($3,210 in June this year compared to $3,300 for the month in 1980) to Gregory where the sales tax collection for the month was reported at zero, compared to almost $2,000 in 1980.

However, some cities, such as Aransas Pass and Portland, reported increases in June, 1981, sales over June sales last year.

For the year through June 30, most area cities have seen sales tax collections increase from 16 per cent upward, with Fulton's the highest increase reported and Rockport's in the higher ranges. Increases in area sales tax collections have averaged in the neighborhood of 20 per cent.

Push Underway For Rape Crisis Center

A series of workshop meetings on a proposed crisis intervention center for Aransas County are scheduled to begin next month in the community room at Live Oak State Bank.

The first meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Friday, August 7, and meetings will continue each Friday at that time, according to Esther Decker who is spearheading the movement.

Mrs. Decker will conduct the workshops assisted by Rose Taylor.

The workshops are an effort to organize a non-profit crisis intervention center, and officers of the organization will be elected at the first meeting in September, Mrs. Decker said.

The meetings are open to the public — men and women. Mrs. Decker emphasized. She extended a special invitation to volunteers of the Rape Crisis Center, Coastal Bend Hospital Auxiliary, VFW Auxiliary and church and civic organizations.

Originally planned to assist victims of rape — Mrs. Decker is herself a victim of the crime — the proposed new center will also respond to victims of other crimes such as burglary which Mrs. Decker describes as "the rape of your home."

As for the crime of rape itself, Mrs. Decker emphasized that men as well as women have been rape victims and that it is not a crime of sex but of violence.

Mrs. Decker said she was raped in September, 1980. Since that time, eight other persons have been raped in Aransas County.

THE SYSTEM WORKS

Frank and Betty Subjek listen as country foreman Ralph Chapa explains how their street is to be repaired. The Subjeks live on Ocean Drive in Palm Harbor and had, along with neighbors, complained several times to the county concerning the bad shape their street was in. Bad drainage and no pavement made the road almost impassable. Residents were not able to receive mail at their homes, as postal employees considered the road too damaged to drive on. The Subjeks and neighbors appeared before the county commissioners' court on Monday, July 13, with their complaints. County Commissioner for Precinct 1, John Lee promised the Palm Harbor residents that action would be taken by Monday of the next week and Monday morning, July 20, a crew of county workmen, under Mr. Chapa's supervision arrived to begin work. The road was re-graded and filled with dirt and caliche and blacktopped.

A prayer does not have to be made of words. It can be the sketch of a pencil on a drawing board. This one expresses the thoughts and yearnings of the person whose soul grasped the pencil.

Here in your own newspaper you have encountered some unknown artist's depiction of the Christ! That artist's prayer can be your prayer... if it expresses your thoughts... your yearnings.

Such are the riches of our Christian faith that each one of us is strengthened, encouraged, empowered by the devotion of another.

That's why every week you will find us together in worship. We share our prayers. We share our Lord.

ALIVE IN CHRIST

Each of us is sometime born,
And each of us must die;
At births we whisper, "Thank you, Lord,"
At deaths we wonder, "Why?"

For life to us is really joy,
And death to us is grief;
These truths are so apparent
We accept them in blind belief.

That life is joy we won't deny,
It's great to be alive!
Jesus gives abundant life;
It's faith that makes us thrive.

We come alive in Jesus Christ
And live from day to day
In blessed sweet assurance
That Jesus is the Way:

The Way of Life, the Way of Hope,
The Way away from Fear;
The Way of Joy, the Way of Peace,
The Way Eternal, here.

But what of Death, that dreaded foe,
Who wreaks such havoc and pain?
Can we survive his fearful stroke
And truly live again?

Through Christ our Lord we conquer all:
E'en Death, "the enemy last,
For we die in Him, and we live in Him,
When our lot with Him is cast.

All of our questions may linger,
When death takes our loved ones away;
Our "why's" may keep us awake at night,
As lingering grief tries to stay,

But when we think of the tears of God
As His own Son died on the Cross,
We know somehow he shares our grief
And feels with us our deep loss.

He bids us to look to the garden
Where the tomb is open wide,
Where Jesus conquered the grasping grave,
And walked through with confident stride.

Where our Lord Jesus Christ stands waiting
To receive His children on high,
And shout to those who are grieving:
"In Me you shall never die!"

Pipes Guest At Revival

Rockport's First Baptist Church will host a week-long revival to begin Sunday, July 26. Services will be at 7:30 p.m. every night through August 2 in the church building at 902 Main.

Music director for the revival will be Harry Layden. Special guest minister for the revival will be Jerry Pipes of Fort Worth, who is accompanied to Rockport by his wife, Debra Rhymes Pipes.

Pipes is a native Texan, born in Alice and raised in Bryan. Though raised in a Christian home, he did not come to Christ until his sophomore year in high school. As a senior he became president of the Fellowship of Athletes at Bryan High School where he won district honors in football and track.

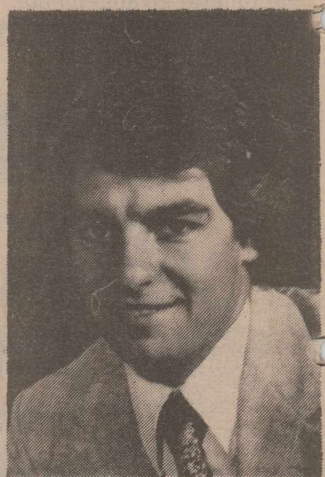

He received his undergraduate degree at Texas

A&M University in Physical education with an emphasis in Psychology. While in college, he was committed to the academic process, and as a result he was an honor graduate and was admitted into the Phi Epsilon Kappa, the honors fraternity for Physical Education. It was also during college when he entered the ministry and then pastored the Spanish Baptist Mission in Navasota for three years.

Debra was born in Abilene, Texas on November 18, 1955. She graduated from Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene with a Bachelor of music education with vocal emphasis degree. While in college, Debra was in three singing groups, on the dean's list for four semesters, a member of SAI and Kappa Delta Phi and was elected Who's Who of Outstanding Women of 1979.

Nursing Home News

By Maxine Mayer
Activities at the Aransas Pass Nursing and Convalescent Center got off to a very good start Monday with Sandra Lee, a volunteer, coming out to visit with our residents.

Tuesday morning Frances Bexley and Patsy Crumrine were out and brought the First Baptist Church Sunday School Class, composed of the following girls: Sammie Alma, Debbie, Sherrill and Mary Beth.

These girls enjoyed visiting on a one-to-one basis with many of our residents. Tuesday afternoon, the "Caring Ones" were out to play bingo with our people which was enjoyed very much.

Tuesday evening, the Pruitt family and friends were out to sing for our residents.

Wednesday morning, Delma Rodgers was out to visit and do errands for our people.

Thursday afternoon, due to a program cancellation, we all met in the activities room and played brain testing games of numbers and events and the winners got bananas for the answers. They all seemed to enjoy it very much.

Friday morning, Frankie Edwards, Sarah Balsley and Laura Gunn were out to have our paint class.

Friday afternoon, eight members of the Rockport AARP were over to lead our residents in their monthly "old fashioned sing along."

Saturday morning, Father James Hamilton was out to give Holy Communion to all of our Catholic residents.

Sunday morning worship services were led by Reverend Al Bankert.

Thanks to all the people who bring gifts of flowers, magazines and nice clothing for our residents to enjoy.

Each morning and afternoon, we had our exercise and reality orientation classes and our coffee and social time each morning and afternoon.

Once more, may I give thanks to all the people who make our home such a wonderful place for our residents to live.

[Most Often-Asked Questions On Nutrition]

Q. I'm starting to get a wrinkle here and there. What can I do to prevent or slow down this process?

A. Experiments have shown that some premature aging wrinkles could be prevented by giving large amounts of vitamin E. It is felt that perhaps the multiple stresses that induce aging cause cells in the lower layers of skin to be destroyed and bits of scar tissue to take their place; wrinkles form when such scar tissue contracts.

Nutritionists feel that it is essential to maintain a completely adequate supply of all nutrients along with the large quantities of E so that healthy tissue can be built to replace scar tissue and wrinkles be eliminated.

Q. Is the yeast that I keep hearing about being so good for you the same yeast I use for baking bread?

A. No! The baker's yeast to which you are referring, when used uncooked, can actually cause harm because it grows in the intestines and absorbs the B vitamins supplied by food or supplements; this can result in multiple B vitamin deficiencies. The yeast you've been hearing about is a nutritional yeast such as brewer's yeast or torula yeast. These are usually found only in health food stores. Nutritional yeast is a superb food. It is felt that more nutrients are concentrated in yeast than any other known food, and that its use alone could correct the majority of the world's nutritional problems!

Until next week, Folks, stay happy and healthy! It's a beautiful world!

Captain's Table

old fashioned fish dinner

Here's a fish dish that's delicious and filling and very low calorie as well. The high nutrient content of fish makes dieting with seafood very easy. A four ounce serving of fish provides nearly half the protein needed each day to help build and repair body tissue. In addition, all seafoods are high in vitamins and minerals and contain polyunsaturated fats. Of course, there's an appealing variety of recipe possibilities too!

OLD FASHIONED FISH DINNER IN A POT
1 pound redfish fillets or other thick fillets
6 chicken bouillon cubes
1 cup thinly sliced peeled carrots
2 medium onions, cut into eighths
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 cups broccoli pieces
1/2 teaspoon basil
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 can (4 1/2 ounces) sliced mushrooms, undrained
1 peeled tomato, cut into 8 wedges
2 tablespoons sliced Spanish olives
Cut fish into 2-inch chunks. Combine 6 cups hot water, bouillon cubes, carrots and onion in large stew pot or Dutch oven. Bring to a boil. Cover and cook just until carrots are tender. Add to hot liquid, stirring constantly until cornstarch is cooked.

Add broccoli, basil, oregano and pepper and cook uncovered five minutes. Add fish chunks, mushrooms, tomato and olives.

Stir carefully to mix.

Cover and cook until fish flakes, five to eight minutes. Makes about ten cups.

Approximately 121 calories per one cup serving.

Mrs. Flores and Terry Flores presented Ms. Garcia with a beautiful table floral arrangement of blue carnations and white daisies.

A DAY'S FIND

Joe Morasch of Kingsville, Missouri spends his retirement time in Rockport with a metal detector trying to find buried treasures. Wednesday was a little slow for Joe as he had only five pennies and a toy ring to show for his efforts. Joe says his luck is usually much better but he believes this time someone had been in the area before he got there. The treasure hunter has spent the last 10 years enjoying Rockport. When not looking for treasure Joe gives field demonstrations on the use of metal detectors for Roy's C.B. and Electronics in Rockport.

Swan Features Apprentices In 'Musical Melodrama'

An old-time melodrama in which the audience can cheer the hero and throw popcorn at the villain is the next offering at the Black Swan Restaurant/Theatre.

The show is 'No, No, a Million Times No,' and it's due to be launched with a champagne gala at the Black Swan, just off Highway 35 South, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 30.

The show will feature all 17 of the restaurant theatre's apprentices with leading roles going to apprentices Laurie McNitzky as the heroine, Bob DeWolfe as the hero and Manuel Bonilla as the sly villain who tries to corrupt the country-girl heroine for his own gain.

The show will run Thursday through Monday, July 30 - August 3, and Friday through Monday of the following weekend, August 7-10. Dinner starts at 7:30 p.m., according to Ed Humphries, co-owner of the Black Swan, and the show is at 9 p.m.

Riding Association Sets Show

FULTON — The Aransas County Riding Association will hold its second open horse show for the year Sunday, July 26, in Fulton Arena on Highway 35 North.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. with events scheduled to kick off at 11 a.m. Horsemen from throughout the South Texas area are expected.

Events will include halter classes for registered and grade horses, trail, western pleasure, bareback equitation and speed events such as pole bending. Also featured will be an event held for the first time at last month's show — working cowhorse class.

Trophies will be awarded in all events.

Humphries added that noisemakers and popcorn will be provided for the audience during the show's run so they can respond appropriately to the villain and hero as they seek to thwart each other.

As a 'modern' touch to this old-fashioned drama, the riches the villain is seeking are in the form of oil deposits on the heroine's father's land.

Humphries added that the "main feature" each evening during the two-week run will be preceded by a pre-show of excerpts from "The Music Man."

Arts & Crafts, Dog Shows Coming Up In Coliseum

CORPUS CHRISTI — An arts and craft show and dog show are among the events scheduled during the first half of August at the Memorial Coliseum and Exposition Hall in Corpus Christi.

Events will start Saturday, August 1, with a dog show, opened to the public, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the Coliseum. The show will continue through Sunday, August 2, again from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. The show is sponsored by the Corpus Christi Kennel Club.

Also set for Sunday, August 2, in the Exposition Hall, is an arts and crafts show from 11 a.m. until 6 p.m.

On Thursday, August 6, Jay Bee Sports will present All-Star Wrestling at 8 p.m. in the Coliseum, then Friday, August 7, the Corpus Christi parks and recreation department will use the Coliseum for a Children's Western Carnival from 1 p.m. until 3:30 p.m. The Carnival is free to the public.

Another arts and crafts show is scheduled for Sunday, August 9, in the Exposition Hall from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Admission is $1 for adults, free for children under 12. All-Star Wrestling will start at 8 p.m. August 13 in the Coliseum.

On Saturday, August 15, Johnny Ortiz is holding a public dance from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m., also in the Coliseum.

Oak Decline Workshop Set

Specialists from Texas A&M University will be on hand to answer questions and provide information on live oak decline during a workshop on the disease Monday, July 28.

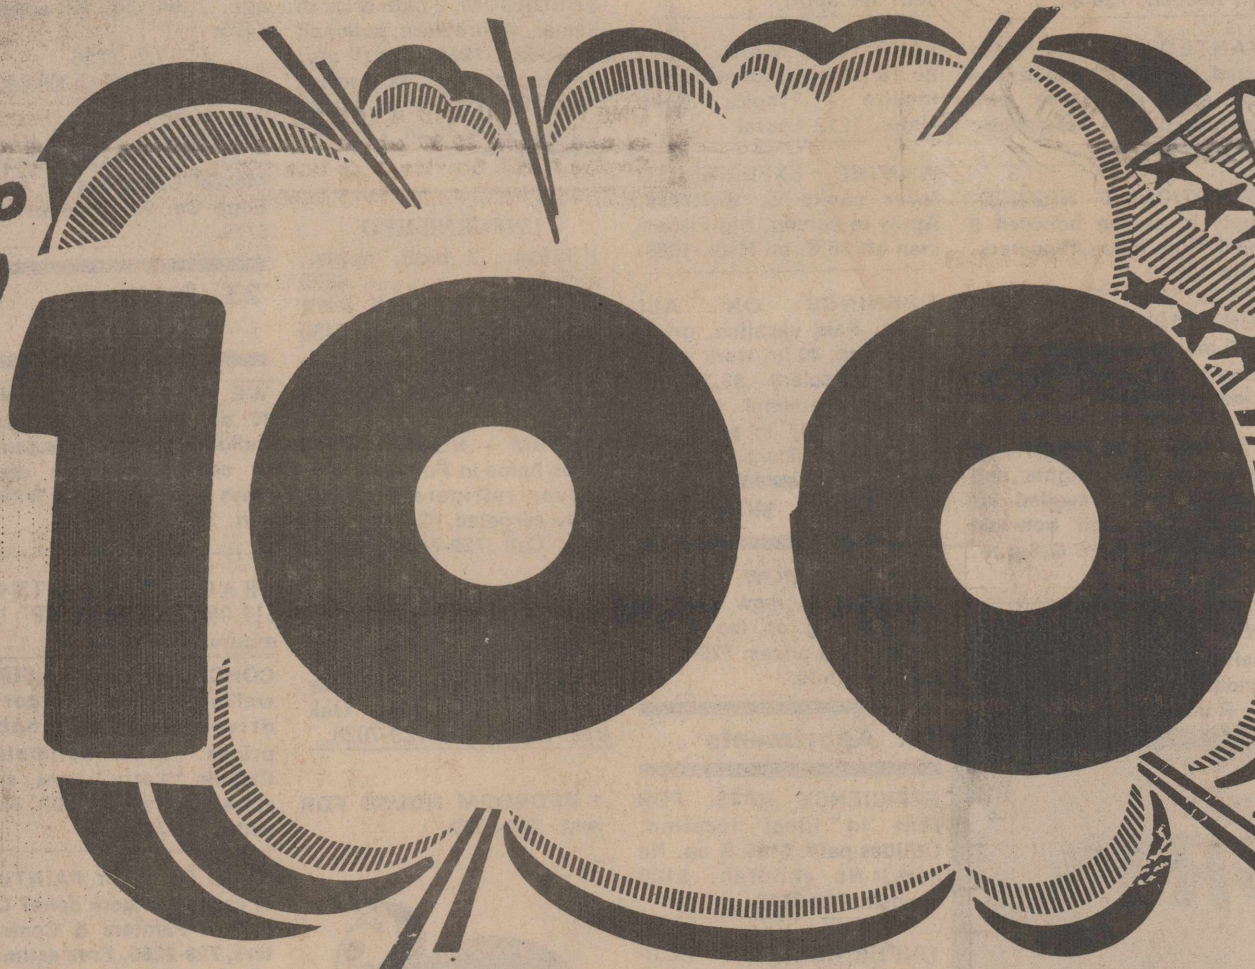

The workshop will begin at 5:30 p.m. in the Bay-house Room, Rockport Racquet and Yacht Club.

The workshop is free to the public and will include a demonstration of how to treat this disease that costs thousands of dollars of damage every year.

The workshop is sponsored through the office of Mike Rothrock, county agricultural agent for Aransas and San Patricio.

Mary Casey is also the one who buys the supplies for the workshop — a responsibility she's held for the past five or six years, even before she became workshop chairman three years ago.

She's the one Women's Committee members go to when they have an idea for something that might sell in the Gift Boutique or Bazaar — the one who works out what type of supplies will be needed and goes looking for other volunteers to help make the projects.

And for the past three years, she's also been in charge of the annual Christmas Bazaar.

But she's quick to give credit to the other Women's Committee volunteers who assist her. "It's a matter of 'if the girls will help you,'" she said, "and they've been so great . . . We have at least 50 women who really do things."

She keeps the workshop open three days a week — 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays — during the summer. In the fall and winter, "we have some winter folks who keep it going another day for us."

Besides her volunteer activities, Mary has also found time to raise two children, a daughter, Gwen, and a son, Michael. Gwen is now in Virginia and Michael in California, says Mary, "so we go coast to coast."

The women who work with her praise her service and dedication — like many of the volunteers, she spends extra hours at home working on projects for the gift shop and Bazaar. But there's more to Mary Casey than that, says Thyra who's been co-chairman of the workshop for two years.

"Besides being our 'boss' (at the workshop)," Thyra emphasizes, "she's the best friend we have."

salt air for that length of time, spokesmen for the rocket company say they will probably choose to pull off what public relations man Walt Pennino refers to as a "chip shot."

Pennino explains that SSI would like to have a longer and higher flight in order to receive more data from the rockets instrumentation package.

Pennino says that a "chip shot" would only last about 10 seconds and only a small amount of data would be transmitted from the vehicles instrumentation package during a flight of such short duration.

However, if the company can get permission for the originally planned 50-mile sub-orbital flight, much more information concerning such things as stress and vibration can be obtained in what would then be a 55-second flight.

Pennino says that company engineers are moving ahead with plans to conduct static engine tests on Monday, July 27, and are looking at July 31 as a launch date.

Magazine Features Hunting

AUSTIN — With summer almost half over, many Texans' thoughts already are turning to the upcoming hunting seasons, which really aren't that far away. In the next few months, TEXAS PARKS & WILDLIFE magazine will feature articles to whet hunters' anticipation, including hunting methods, wildlife management and some of the state's most sought after game species.

The July issue focuses on quality white-tailed deer, explaining that nutrition and heredity are the keys to producing the big bucks hunters hope to find come November. A study initiated on the Kerr Wildlife Management Area in 1974 has demonstrated the role both these factors play in combination with others that work together to produce deer with maximum antler development and body weights.

Also in the July issue are two stories about the jetties along the Texas coast. One explains why these structures offer such a wealth of fishing opportunities and the other follows the history of their construction, which began more than 100 years ago.

The Woodland Cathedral is a 175-acre wilderness sanctuary in the forest beside the Sabine River which is being preserved through a lease between the International Paper Company and The Nature Conservancy.

Subscription to TEXAS PARKS & WILDLIFE magazine are $5 for one year and $9 for two years. To subscribe, send check or money order to 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, Texas 78744 or call toll-free 1-800-252-9688 and charge the subscription to VISA or Master Charge.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Dear Dr. Lutz,

I have a one and one-half year old German Shorthair Pointer that has a water phobia. His mother and all her offspring like the water. My dog will fetch things on land, but will not go in the water. Please advise me how to correct this problem.—Peter Dear Peter,

You should start by introducing your dog in shallow water where he can wade and there is a gradual slope. With a leash attached to his collar, walk into the water with him as deep as your knee cap.

Act as you would if you were introducing swimming to a small child. Encourage and praise him. Take him every day that the weather permits. It may require a week or two for your dog to gain confidence.

Once you have the dog enjoying the water, he will fetch because he has been trained to do so on dry land.

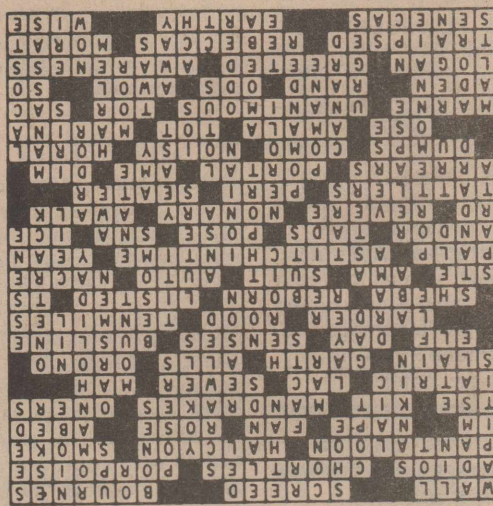

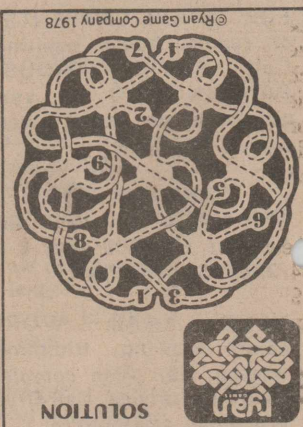

If you have any questions concerning the health and care of your dog or cat, write a letter to the Rockport Pilot, 1002 Wharf Street, Rockport, Texas 78382. Dr. Lutz will answer your questions in the Weekender.

Little League Softball All-Stars Capture District 29 Championship

By Ted Norman

The Rockport All-Stars have won the District 29 Little League Softball Tournament Championship in a come from behind effort against heavily favored Odem.

In order to be crowned district champions the Rockport girls had to beat the Odem All-Stars not once but twice and they did just that. The Rockport girls with Ginger Dickerson on the mound in the first game found themselves staring at a seven point deficit as the Odem All-Stars took an early first inning lead.

Rockport came back in the bottom of the first inning with three runs as Lequita Lewis hit a triple and got credit for two RBIs.

Odem added on two more runs in the top of the second to make it a 9-3 game.

In the bottom of the second inning the Rockport All-Stars were given some free trips to first base and as the Odem pitching began to fall apart Rockport scored eight runs and took a two run lead in the 11-9 game.

Odem had another good hitting session in the top of the third as they piled on five more runs and once again took the lead over the Rockport All-Stars. Then things began to really look bad for Rockport as they were held scoreless the bottom of the inning.

Dickerson managed to get things together on the mound in the fourth and fifth innings holding the Odem girls scoreless as the Rockport All-Stars scored two runs off of a single by Dickerson that netted her credit for two RBIs.

When the Rockport girls came to bat in the bottom of the fifth they were trailing by one but at the end of the inning they had a nine run lead over Odem.

Things got started in the bottom of the inning with a double off the bat of Marv Harder that drove in one run. Several more runs came in on long singles but the clincher was a grand slam home run by Larry Randall.

Odem could barely scrape together two runs in the top of the sixth and the game ended with the Rockport Little League Softball All-Stars winning their first game against Odem 23-16.

This was the first loss for the Odem team and now, in order to win the district crown Rockport had to play them again on Wednesday night.

In the second game against Odem the Rockport girls used Mary Kay Krosgaard on the mound and her talents along with some timely hitting from the Rockport batters gave the Rockport Little League Softball All-Stars a 10-9 victory over Odem and the District 29 Championship crown.

Odem was held scoreless in their lead off efforts in the first inning and Rockport's Shelly James hit a long single in the bottom of the first with two RBIs to help give Rockport a 4-0 lead in the championship game.

Odem spent another scoreless inning in the top of the second and Rockport tacked on a single run in the bottom of the inning when Larry Randall hit a single to drive in a run.

With the Odem girls trailing by five they came to bat in the top of the third and failed once again to score and things were looking good for the Rockport girls.

Odem gave up a run on walks in the bottom of the third and Rockport increased the lead by six.

And just when it looked like the Rockport All-Stars had the game in ice Odem scored six runs in the fourth inning and it was a tied ball game at 6-6.

Then for the first time in the game the Rockport girls couldn't score and with four innings gone the two teams were locked in a 6-6 tie.

Odem grabbed the lead in the top of the fifth with three runs to make it a 9-6 game. But Rockport came back strong in the bottom of the inning with four runs, one off a single and RBI by Shelly James.

This is the first time that a Little League softball team from Rockport has won district.

Rockport was the only team in the district that consisted of Grain Belt, Aransas Pass, Ingleside, Odem and Rockport, to beat Odem.

The Rockport girls won the district championship the hard way by coming up the losing bracket of the tournament playing six games and losing only one.

License Fees Altered By State Legislature

AUSTIN — The Texas Legislature in its recent session made several changes in sport fishing licenses, including a 50-cent price increase for the resident one-year fishing license.

The resident license increase raises the price from $4.50 to $5, effective for the 1981-82 license year. All annual fishing licenses expire at the end of each fiscal year, August 31, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department said.

The resident combination hunting and fishing license remained unchanged at $8.75, and no hunting license fees were altered.

The legislation also raised the fee for the annual non-resident fishing license from $10.50 to $15. It abolished the $1.25 three-day saltwater sport fishing license. In its place is a temporary (14-day) resident sport fishing license costing $2.50; nonresidents may obtain a temporary (five-day) nonresident fishing license priced at $4.50. Both licenses are valid for salt and freshwater fishing.

Fishing and hunting licenses may be purchased at Texas Parks and Wildlife Department offices across the state and at tackle shops and sporting goods stores. The 1981-82 licenses are expected to be available at most outlets by mid-August, the department said.

Prospective purchasers of the new temporary 14-day resident sport fishing license are reminded that while they may be able to purchase the license before September 1, the license will not be in effect until after that date.

Care Should Be Used In Releasing Largemouths

AUSTIN — Most fishermen would agree that returning undersized game fish to the water is a good idea. But it's good conservation only if done correctly.

Fisheries biologists of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department point out that largemouth bass are the most caught-and-released fish in the state, and are subject to high mortality rates if mishandled.

"Summer is a particularly critical time, since large numbers of smaller bass are caught by anglers, and the warm water and air temperatures tend to put more stress than usual on the fish," said Inland Fisheries Management Coordinator Bob Bounds.

A pair of needle-nosed pliers is safer and more effective than bare hands for removing imbedded hooks. If a single hook is too deep in the fish's throat to reach, it's best to simply cut the leader near the hook and release the fish.

If a fish must be held, the fisherman should first wet his hands and then grasp the fish gently on the gill plates.

"You should avoid grabbing the fish around its midsection, because that can remove much of its protective slime coating and can injure internal organs," said Bounds.

Bounds noted that with the increasing need for minimum-length and "slot" length limits on Texas' lakes, releasing techniques become even more important. "Studies have shown that when handled properly, largemouth bass have a very good survival rate, even in warm weather," Fayette Power Project Lake near LaGrange is a good example, he said.

Tennis, The New Contact Sport

By Ted Norman

The temper tantrums thrown by Wimbledon winner John McEnroe may have won him a tournament but they aren't helping tennis, sports in general or many of the thousands of young viewers who are now trying to emulate 'the brat'.

The recent outburst by McEnroe not only cost him a broken racket but a little thinner pocket book and the loss of an invitation to a very important dinner after the Wimbledon event.

Those of you who remember when the game was played under the watchful eyes of silent spectators who only politely applauded when a truly superb tennis shot was pulled off probably are wondering what has happened to tennis.

Some tournament promoters and some player agents have decreed the old style of tennis to be positively too boring and unsuitable for the television audience and so they have contrived to spice the game with grunts, groans and temper tantrums in order to make it palatable for the fans.

McEnroe has become one of the darlings of the grunt, groan and complain generation and it has rewarded him handsomely.

Although tennis isn't a sport I participate in very often it is one I enjoy watching very much and a sport that is rapidly moving in the direction of self destruction.

McEnroe is a perfectionist, he has worked very hard and achieved some of his goals and dreams in the world of tennis and his actions have been very good for Mr. McEnroe.

There are, to be sure, others on the Pro Tennis Circuit who also need to have their wrists slapped but none as much as the temper tantrum tossing McEnroe.

McEnroe didn't leave England after the Wimbledon tournament, he escaped from England and upon arriving in America tried to change his looks with a haircut and assume a new mannerism. He even played in a tournament and kept his temper under control.

The young tennis star has been getting progressively worse each season and hopefully he reached his crescendo with the racket breaking episode.

This is not to say that sports people, especially those whose livelihood depends on the split second call of a human being who is suppose to be objective at all times, shouldn't have the opportunity to express an opinion about a judgement call.

Certainly a competitor should have the right to question a call or express an opinion but young McEnroe is trying to tell the tennis world how to run the show.

His younger brother Patrick, who is trying to work his way up through the ranks of the tennis world, says that he feels brother John is right in venting his emotions on the court and he said John's outbursts are part of his drive for perfection and he says he plans to build his career on somewhat the same foundation. Patrick thinks his brother's behavior livens up the sport. "If every tennis player was like Bjorn Borg and never said a word during a match, it'd be boring," said Patrick.

Some players, spectators and writers have said we should disregard the quaint pretenses of the event and accept the new tennis game with the grunts, grounds and rackets slamming spectacle that it has become.

With the strongest possible feelings I strongly disagree.

It has really only been a few years since tennis has moved out of the era of being for young gentlemen of the well heeled and ladies of finishing school into the glittering world of big bucks business.

In almost all sports there are numerous occasions of players giving something back to the sport, of showing appreciation for what the sport has done for them. But the big bucks tennis people just seem to take more and more from the 'sport' and give back nothing.

McEnroe is probably among the worst.

McEnroe should not be given the honor of being the one who introduced violence and disorder to tennis for he is not. He is the person who has answered the call of the time of those who want and need this behavior on the courts.

He is only answering the desires of the rude and crude spectators who believe a hog call or hiss is just as welcome at a tennis match as it is at a rodeo or mud wrestling event.

McEnroe is the man of the hour, he is only filling the place in history that events of our times have created for him.

As long as the fans applaud the behavior of McEnroe he will perform for them. Only when they show disapproval of his behavior will he make a much needed attitude adjustment.

The game of tennis is one that is played more with the mind than the body and this was recognized in the 'old days' and it is only a matter of time before tennis is moved into the contact sport column.

St. Charles Bay, 729-2053 - Fishing has been pretty good at the landing with some reds and trout being taken. The water is a little muddy and no one is getting any trout. Frozen shrimp is available for the weekend and new tanks are under construction for live bait in the future, maybe late next month.

Sea Gun, 729-2341 - Lots of speckled trout being caught off of the charter and party boats. Plenty of live bait available.

Copano Causeway, 729-8633 - No one knows why but fishing from the pier isn't as good as normal. The water is nice and the weather is perfect but only a few keepers have been landed. Bait is plentiful.

flounder being taken. Bait is plentiful.

Fulton Beach Marina, 729-8609 - Fishing is good in the area, one boat came back with a dozen and a half good size trout. Bait supply is good for the weekend.

Fulton Harbor Bait, 729-8532 - Fishing is great, Marshall and Gloria Henson of McAllen did real well, Tom and Elaine Duncan landed 40 trout and two reds about noon Thursday, a boat landed with 17 speckled trout and two 3-4 pound trout. Even the kids are doing good off the wall.

Beach Road Bait House, 729-8614 - Fishing has been only fair but things look good for the weekend. Lots of live and fresh dead bait. The water is clear and tides are high.

Sandollar, 729-8562 - Fishing has been slow, too much fresh water, but things are picking up. Anglers are landing some fish but they are smaller than those usually caught in this area. Bait is plentiful.

Outboard Motor Stolen

A Johnson outboard motor valued at $800 was taken from Metzger's Boat Barn at Chaparral and 10th Street, Fulton, this past weekend. Theft occurred sometime between 6:45 p.m. Friday, July 17, and 8:30 a.m.

Saturday, July 18.

The motor was taken from a boat belonging to Donald Vandenberg of Houston.

Police Report

Motel Manager Charged With Disorderly Conduct

Richard B. Sparks, 42, manager at Harbor Lodge Motel was charged with disorderly conduct following an incident at the motel Saturday, July 18.

Sparks allegedly fired two shots into the wall of an apartment at the motel during a dispute with a tenant Sparks was reportedly trying to evict.

The incident occurred about 1:30 a.m. Saturday. Bond of $1,000 was set on the charge.

Public Intoxication

John A. Alderman, 40, of Aransas Pass was charged with public intoxication after he was arrested by Rockport police about 8:40 p.m. Wednesday, July 22, at Lettie's Liquor Store No. 2.

Alderman was reported to have taken a cab from Aransas Pass to the Rockport store than refused to pay his fare.

Bond was set at $75.

Two Arrested For Burglary

A 32-year-old Corpus Christi man and a 15-year-old juvenile were arrested Wednesday morning for the forcible entry of a residence under construction at 2403 Shorewood in Harbor Oaks.

Police Detective Steve Trevino said charges were filed Thursday morning against George Perez, 32, and the juvenile.

The incident occurred shortly before noon Wednesday when Perez and the youth were reported to have driven to the residence.

A witness at the scene told police later that Perez forced open the locked garage door then he and the youth entered the residence.

An electrician was working inside the house at the time. He told police Perez and the youth said they were there "to pick up some tools." The man said they got the tools and left.

After they left, the electrician called one of the owners of the residence and she called police about 11:52 a.m. Wednesday.

Trevino said Perez and the youth had been hired earlier to lay ceramic tile in the house but, prior to Wednesday, had been told not to do any more work until construction of the house was nearer completion.

At the time they forced entry into the residence, Trevino said, they did not have any authorization to be there "and we (the police) determined that a violation had been committed."

He added that the same house was burglarized earlier this month, on July 11, between 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m.

SOLAR FACTS

by Robert E. Lewis

HEAT STORAGE

Everyone is familiar with what happens to a metal porch chair when it is left in the sun. It gets very warm, sometimes even uncomfortable.

If the metal chair is placed in the shade, out of the direct rays of the sun, it continues to stay warm for awhile but soon gives up its heat. The metal chair is, in effect, a reservoir accumulating the sun's radiation or warmth.

In a dwelling that uses a passive solar system for heating, a heat storage reservoir is a vital part of the system. Quite obviously the sun's heat is incoming only during the day. Heat must be stored from day to night and from sunny day to cloudy day. Various materials can be used to store the heat of the sun, but preference is given to those that are relatively inexpensive, have high heat-storage capacity and are good conductors. For these reasons, water or masonry (concrete, bricks, adobe, etc.) are often used for heat storage. In the language of solar energy these heat storage materials are said to have "thermal mass."

Thermal mass commonly takes the form of masonry floors or walls in a building. If water is used for a thermal-mass wall, it is usually placed in metal or fiberglass tanks or tubes. Regardless of what material is used, it must be positioned so that the sunlight coming through the south-facing glass wall will strike the thermal mass.

The basic concept of heat storage via thermal mass is the same in all passive solar energy systems, whether they use direct-gain, indirect-gain or isolated-gain methods. In each system, the thermal mass stores the sun's energy for release at a later time.

In direct-gain systems, masonry floor and/or walls usually serve as the thermal storage area. With indirect-gain systems, the thermal storage wall forms the south wall of the building and is covered with glass on the outside. In the isolated-gain system, where the sun's radiation is collected and stored away from the living area, water or rocks are commonly used as the storage medium. If water is used as the thermal mass, it is usually with indirect-gain.

Increasing the thickness of any thermal mass will allow it to store more heat, although it will also take longer for the mass to absorb its capacity. Conversely, the thicker the thermal mass, the longer it will take to cool.

Because a too-thick thermal mass can actually slow the rate of heat transfer and make a system less efficient, optimum thicknesses for thermal mass walls have been calculated. Such calculations are based on the material used, location of the building and type of passive heating system being used.

This same system works in reverse for cooling. If you cool the mass off at night by opening windows it will serve as a heat sink during the day to cool the area.

Whether one chooses masonry or water for heat storage is a matter of preference; there is only a slight difference in the efficiency of the two.
