U.S.-flagged tankers reach home waters

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — Three reflagged Kuwaiti tankers escorted by U.S. warships reached their home waters safely Friday, surprising shipping experts who thought high winds had stalled the convoy in the Persian Gulf.

"The voyage from the central Persian Gulf waters was quiet and without incident," the U.S. Defense Department said in a statement in Washington.

"They pulled the wool over everyone's eyes again," said one shipping source. "They used the bad weather and thick dust storms to slip away unnoticed."

Iran admitted for the first time that it sowed mines in the gulf and threatened to wage "all-embracing" war if its forces were provoked by the United States.

Pentagon officials said the amphibious landing ship USS Raleigh cleared the Suez Canal and would arrive in the gulf next week bearing a cargo of four small mine-sweeping boats.

The Pentagon announced it was combining all U.S. military units operating in and around the gulf under a new Joint Task Force Middle East and installing Rear Adm. Dennis M. Brooks as commander.

In Moscow, the official Soviet news agency Tass accused the Reagan administration of "artificially whipping up" tension in the gulf, saying the new military command shows the United States intends to entrench itself in the region. The Soviets have sought to strengthen ties to both Iran and Iraq recently, sending their deputy foreign minister to the region twice this summer.

Iraq said meanwhile that its fighter-bombers destroyed three Iranian factories in raids, resuming an air offensive against Iran's economy after a one-day lull.

The 294,739-ton supertanker Townsend and the twin liquefied gas carriers Gas Queen and Gas Princess, both 46,723 tons, entered Kuwaiti waters at 5:30 p.m. local time, the Pentagon said. It said the destroyer USS Kidd and the frigates Hawes and Klakring escorted the tankers home.

The arrival was confirmed by the Kuwait Oil Tanker Co., which operates the tankers, and came as shipping sources were saying heavy winds and high waves had kept mine-hunting helicopters deckbound and forced the convoy to remain anchored 200 miles away from Kuwait.

"Yes, yes, they fooled us," said one source. The shipping sources included shipping agents, tugboat operators and others who closely monitor gulf activity. They spoke on condition of anonymity.

The U.S. Navy has used deception to keep its gulf convoy movements secret since it began the escort operation July 20, but nothing matched Friday's coup.

It was not clear whether the convoy, after mooring off the Saudi coast late Thursday because of strong, sand-bearing desert winds, moved without using the RH-53D helicopters scouting the waters ahead.

The convoy was the third to reach Kuwait under President Reagan's plan to protect Kuwaiti tankers from Iranian attack by registering them under the U.S. flag and giving them armed escort for the 550-mile voyage through the gulf.

Both Iran and Iraq have attacked foreign merchant ships in their 7-year-old war. Iran has targeted Kuwait, which it considers an ally of Iraq.

The United States is among the nations insisting that the Persian Gulf be kept open to navigation.

Another group of ships has waited in Kuwait for almost a week to start the trip out of the gulf, but the Pentagon refused to say when it would leave.

Iranian Parliament Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani on Friday told a Moslem congregation in Tehran they should be ready for war with American forces.

"We are not seeking a confrontation with America or the escalation of the war," Rafsanjani said in a Tehran radio broadcast monitored in Cyprus.

"But if a war is imposed on us we would be ready to defend ourselves, and our defense will know no limits. That war will be an all-embracing one."

The director of Iran's war information headquarters, Kamal Kharazzi, acknowledged late Thursday that Iran sowed mines in the gulf "to defend our coastlines."

The Pentagon has scrambled to increase its minesweeping capability in the gulf since July 24, when the tanker Bridgeton hit a mine during the first U.S. convoy operation.

Coroner gives list of victims of jet crash

ROMULUS, Mich. (AP) — Lingering uncertainty for some families of 155 victims in the nation's second-worst air disaster ended Friday with release of a coroner's list of identified victims, but theories about the cause of the crash remained in dispute.

The Wayne County Medical Examiner's office said its list included 147 passengers and crew members aboard Northwest Airlines Flight 255 and two victims on the ground.

Names of other victims confirmed by family members raised the total to 155, all but two of them aboard Northwest Airlines Flight 255. Authorities have said they believe up to 158 people were killed in Sunday's crash at Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

Northwest has said that 155 people were aboard the flight, and authorities do not know how many other people were killed due to the number of unidentified body parts they have. Northwest has said it will not release a list of the passengers.

A 4-year-old girl was the lone survivor. She remained hospitalized in Ann Arbor in serious but improving condition Friday.

Meanwhile, the National Transportation Safety Board began winding down its on-site investigation with the cause of the crash undetermined. The investigation team planned to stay in Detroit for three to four more days, a spokesman said.

Much of the investigation concerns whether the plane's flaps and slats, panels along the leading and trailing edges of the wing that help provide lift during take off, had been extended.

Investigators said they had yet to determine how the panels were positioned at the time of the crash.

Two eyewitnesses have said they were extended as it was taking off, contradicting indications in one of the plane's "black boxes" that that was never done.

One of the top investigators, NTSB board member John Lauber, said Thursday after returning to Washington that the co-pilot of a Northwest plane awaiting takeoff "was very positive" the doomed jet's flaps were in the proper position.

And Raymond Peller, a Romulus truck driver and licensed private pilot who was watching air traffic near Flight 255's runway, said, "The flaps were down when they were in front of me and went up in the air."

On Friday, however, NTSB spokeswoman Rachel Halterman said physical evidence presented "conflicting and confusing" information about the position of the flaps and slats.

The physical evidence made it seem as if the flaps were retracted but the investigators "were not comfortable that that is a fact," Ms. Halterman said.

"On the slats, there is evidence to indicate they were extended and evidence to indicate they were retracted," she said.

Three passengers killed when helicopter crashes into river

WASHINGTON (AP) — A helicopter being used on a photography assignment crashed into the Potomac River on Friday, fatally injuring three passengers. The pilot escaped by apparently leaping from the plunging craft.

Dozens of people at a nearby marina saw the Bell Jet Ranger hover about 15 feet above the water and then suddenly plunge into the Washington Channel section of the river around 7:30 a.m.

Assistant Police Chief Isaac Fulwood Jr. said unspecified "mechnical difficulties" apparently caused the helicopter to crash.

"It started to go in nose first, then the pilot was able to level it slightly — and then it splattered," said Marilyn Sharkey, 63, who lives on a boat in the marina. "It went straight down on its belly...It broke up into nothing.

"The pontoons came up, and about three or four seconds later, an arm," she said. "Quite a few of the boats went out to see if they could help."

One of the men killed, William Weems, 44, a free-lance photographer, had leased the helicopter from Stewart Aircraft Corp. to take pictures for a brochure for the Arlington, Va.-based Sumner Realty Corp., said Turner.

The other two victims were identified by hospital officials as Robert Arthur Joy, 45, of Washington, and Victoria Hinckley, 24, of Rockville, Md.

Weems died of cardiac arrest due to drowning, Hinckley succumbed to chest injuries, and Joy died of multiple injuries and cardio-pulminary arrest, hospital officials said.

The lone survivor, pilot Jack Turley, 37, of Baltimore, "apparently was able to jump from a helicopter as it hit the water," Fulwood said. Turley was listed in serious but stable condition at George Washington University Medical Center with head and spinal injuries, said spokeswoman Katharine Baker.

Civilians already were bringing Turley to shore in their boat when rescue workers arrived on the scene, said Police Chief Maurice Turner.

Police harbor boats arrived within three or four minutes, but because they aren't equipped with diving gear, "they had to go back down to the harbor to pick up equipment and personnel," delaying the rescue at least 15 minutes, Turner said.

Midlander charged with murder of Odessa woman

From Staff Reports

ODESSA — A 34-year-old Midland man remained in the city jail Friday night in lieu of $510,000 in bonds on charges of murder and possession of prohibited weapons.

David Dowler, 3707 W. Louisiana, was arrested by Odessa police about 8:20 p.m. Thursday, with the assistance of Midland police, Midland County Sheriff's deputies and DPS intelligence officers.

Dowler was arraigned before Midland County Peace Justice Robert Pine, who set bond at $500,000 in connection with the June 28 death of 30-year-old Leza Kay Chandler of Odessa.

The young woman's body was found by Odessa police officers responding to a call at 1752 E. 53rd St. about 2:30 p.m. June 28, according to Odessa police Lt. John Allen.

Ector County Peace Justice Manuel Valles pronounced the woman dead and ordered an autopsy, Allen stated. The autopsy performed by pathologist Dr. Robert Bright revealed the woman's death was caused by chemical poisoning, he said.

After being charged in Midland, Dowler was returned to Ector County and arraigned before Peace Justice R.G. Hungerford, who continued the bond set by Pine and set bond at $5,000 on each of two counts of possession of prohibited weapons, Allen said. He said the prohibited weapons were firearms silencers.

Two priests among AIDS victims who will attend prayer service with pope

By ELIZABETH FERNANDEZ
Hearst News Service

SAN FRANCISCO — Two priests who have contracted the deadly AIDS virus will attend a prayer service with the pope next month at Mission Dolores Basilica.

Also attending the Sept. 17 service, during which John Paul II will be formally welcomed to San Francisco, will be nearly 100 other people with AIDS, including their family members and health care workers, church officials said Thursday.

It is not clear whether the pontiff will speak with the AIDS patients or mention the fatal disease in his address to the congregation. The pontiff has never spoken publicly of AIDS.

One of the afflicted priests is the Rev. Robert Arpin, who last month disclosed that he had contracted AIDS. Arpin has been "on loan" to San Francisco during the last two years from the archdiocese of Springfield, Mass.

Father John O'Connor, pastor of the 200-year-old Mission Dolores, declined to identify the other priest. He said that a married couple with the disease had also been invited to the service, along with several children and women with AIDS.

So far, 70 AIDS patients have been invited to the 45-minute service, along with 300 members of the parish, 400 senior citizens from around the diocese and approximately 175 members of the diocese clergy, O'Connor said during a news conference.

O'Connor, along with the Rev. Tony McGuire, helped select the AIDS patients who would attend the ceremony at which Archbishop John Quinn will welcome the pope.

"We checked out each (AIDS patient)," McGuire said. "We asked them why they wanted to go. Usually, they gave the most beautiful answers. They said they wanted to see the pope while he is here..."

Hance says he is thinking about accepting seat on TRC

STATE

By JIM WARREN
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Former Congressman Kent Hance said Friday he will spend the weekend considering whether he wants the appointment to the open seat on the Railroad Commission.

Hance, a Democrat turned Republican from Lubbock, confirmed that he met with Gov. Bill Clements on Wednesday, when the two discussed a possible appointment to the three-member commission, which regulates oil, gas and transportation in Texas. Commission Chairman Mack Wallace announced earlier this week that he would leave his post to accept a lucrative offer from an Austin law firm.

"There's an interest on my part and I'm thinking about it," Hance said. "I met with Clements and he said, 'Do you want to be considered?'"

"I don't have an answer for him yet," he said, adding he hopes to reach an agreement this weekend after talking about the job with his wife and law partners.

Hance, who has one daughter in college and another entering law school, said the cut in pay — the $71,000 paid to railroad commissioners is significantly less than Hance earns from his law practice — might influence his decision. Also, he said, his law partners have "told me they don't want to lose me."

"There's an interest (in the seat on the Railroad Commision) on my part and I'm thinking about it. I met with (Gov. Bill) Clements and he said, 'Do you want to be considered?' I don't have an answer for him yet."
— Kent Hance

Hance served in the Texas Senate and the U.S. House of Representative and ran unsuccessfully for the U.S. Senate as a Democrat. After his defeat in the U.S. Senate election, he switched parties. Last year, he lost in the GOP primary in his gubernatorial bid. Republican Party officials have said Hance was pondering either a race for governor or lieutenant governor in 1990 before the railroad post opened up.

"I have not campaigned for the Railroad Commission job," Hance said. "But it was discussed when I met with the governor and I'm going to think about it real hard."

Clements said this week that he probably would name the commissioner on Monday. But sources in the governor's office said Friday that the appointment would likely be delayed beyond Monday if Hance chooses not to accept the position.

John Weaver, executive director of the State Republican Party, said Hance should have an easier time erasing his previous campaign debts if he held an elected position. Recent Federal Elections Commission report shows Hance still has an outstanding debt of $639,812 from his 1984 U.S. Senate race.

Clements' aides have said the person selected would be expected to run — as a Republican — when the seat is up for election in 1988.

Streetcar driver's job 'desirable'

By NANCY PERDUE

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — For David Rodriguez, every working day is a joyride on the streetcar of his desire.

His special streetcar is No. 301, the busiest of five streetcar lines that transport tourists, shoppers and workers through downtown.

Rodriguez, 33, has spent the last six months of his two-year tenure with VIA, the city's transit authority, driving his streetcar between Alamo and Fiesta plazas in the lunch-hour and afternoon rush-hour traffic.

It means living in the fast lane. He has to listen to a few wise-guy tourists sing him the theme song from the Rice-A-Roni commercial. And, he has to compete with wishy-washy drivers for space on crowded streets.

But Rodriguez said he always has wanted to drive streetcars rather than regular buses.

"I get to meet people from all over the world," he said. "It's fun because most of the tourists are there to have a good time. Some of them act as if this is a Disneyland ride."

Rodriguez, who has been told by some of his passengers that he resembles comedy actor Gene Wilder, said he takes the liberty to tell riders jokes as he travels along Commerce and Houston streets. He said a sense of humor is the best way to avoid growing bored as he drives to the same places on the same route day after day.

"I drive the route about 16 times a day," he said. "I do it in my dreams, too. I could probably do it blindfolded."

While his job involves a great deal of repetition, he says the monotony is limited because he makes an effort to keep it fun. He asks children to sit near him so they can help him ring the streetcar's bell as he approaches and leaves each stop.

And his riders keep things fresh. Rodriguez said each group of passengers brings a different set of questions about San Antonio aboard his vehicle.

Some want to know how to get to the zoo or the missions. Others just want to know more about buildings along the streetcar route — places such as City Hall, San Fernando Cathedral and the Spanish Governor's Palace. And when people inquire about San Antonio night life, Rodriguez recommends the romance of the River Walk.

"I refer them at night to go see Fiesta Noche del Rio at the Arneson River Theater," he said. "Sometimes I even give them brochures. I tell them to go there because I know it is fun. I go there myself."

Rodriguez admits he is somewhat of a Fiesta Noche del Rio groupie. He said he goes to the outdoor show every Tuesday, Friday and Saturday because he likes the show so much. But he arrives late on Fridays because he drives the streetcar until 9:09 p.m.

Pastor recalls meeting Presley in Army

By JAMILAH OWENS
Staff Writer

"I wasn't a saint or a preacher but a Christian...and not a fan at all," said the Rev. Johnny Mitchell about the late rock singer Elvis Presley, whom he met while serving in the Army.

Mitchell

Rock 'n' roll music was the furthest thing from his mind, said the pastor of Midland's Mount Carmel Baptist Church.

Interested only in contemporary jazz music and his new wife, Lois, who was back in the United States, Mitchell said he was immune to Presley-mania while the two men were stationed in Wildflecken, Germany, in 1958.

Mitchell was attached to the 26th postal unit there and distributed all mail for U.S. Army personnel stationed in Germany, he said.

Inducted into the Army three days after he was married on Jan. 28, 1958, Mitchell said he hardly thought about meeting Presley, although as a mail carrier in Los Angeles before being drafted he was accustomed to delivering mail to Gary Cooper, Alan Ladd and Spencer Tracy.

But while in the Army, he did come in contact with Presley.

Mitchell this week remembered his encounters with the late entertainer.

His first meeting occurred soon after he was inducted into the Army.

"A man, I forget his name, told me during a meal that Presley was sitting right across from us...I really didn't pay much attention to him because like I said before, I was a jazz enthusiast...rock 'n' roll really didn't interest me.

"After the meal," Mitchell said, "both of us (he and Presley) boarded a passenger train to Fort Ord where after that I did not see him again for a while because I was shipped to the 24th infantry in Augsburg, Germany, where I spend one year with a remnant of an all black — now defunct — infantry."

While in Germany, Mitchell said, his first trip to Frankfurt and then to Fulda was interesting because of the volume of mail he had to pick up. "Presley got masses and masses of mail that had to be sorted," he said.

Mitchell said that while Presley was assigned temporary duty in Fulda, he would frequent the EM club, enlisted men's club (recreation hall). "Charlie Brown (one of Mitchell's army buddies) asked me to go the EM club because he knew Presley was going to be there and he wanted to meet him and get his autograph and that sort of stuff. So, I agree to go," he said. "When we got there I was looking for bodyguards and the like, but there were none.

"I met him and we shook hands and talked awhile...I thought he would be all stuck up, but he wasn't-...What impressed me most about Presley was that he was one of the most down-to-earth men I've ever met. He could have used his status to do things there but he didn't. He was a regular person," Mitchell said.

After that meeting, said Mitchell, he saw, spoke with and played cards with Presley several times.

Mitchell said that when he reflects upon meeting Presley, "I think that it was destined that I meet him. It is sort of odd. I was the only black in the headquarters company of the 24th infantry division, the only black in the 26th Army postal unit, and here in Midland, I was the first black mail carrier to deliver mail door-to-door, and now I pastor at the first black Southern Baptist congregation, also in Midland."

Mitchell said that "I now regret I didn't get to know him better when I had the opportunity but each of us lives and delivers our own eulogy and part of Presley's eulogy would include friendship to all mankind."

Although, Mitchell said he still doesn't care for Presley's music, he admitted that "Love Me Tender" was his favorite Presley movie because it had a lot of character and "not much singing."

Mitchell concluded that "Presley was a very likeable person and if every human was like him, we wouldn't have so much confusion in the world."

Midland County Sheriff Gary Painter visits with two guests who gathered Friday afternoon to honor the sheriff following his role in the arrest of a 47-year-old Portuguese citizen on charges of engaging in organized criminal activity.

Party given in honor of Painter

From Staff Reports

About 40 county employees, Department of Public Safety officers, county lawmen and members of the public turned out at the Midland County Courthouse Friday afternoon to cut a cake of appreciation for Sheriff Gary Painter.

The sheriff made national news earlier this week with the arrest of a Portuguese national allegedly acting as middle man for purchase of arms destined for Iran.

Visible at the event were "Don't mess with Texas" bumper stickers with "Texas" crossed out and "Painter" substituted. Some participants wore Oliver North T-shirts that also had been altered with the addition of Painter's name.

Painter thanked the supporters and expressed appreciation to deputies for the work that led to the sting.

Firefighters tackle fires on rangeland

From Staff Reports

Firefighters from six fire departments in Midland and neighboring counties fought two rangeland fires Friday afternoon northeast of Midland and far southeast of the city.

And, the Midland County Sheriff's Department helicopter took to the air on the scorching Friday afternoon to help Midland and Stanton firemen survey and contain the fire and watch cattle on the rangeland northeast of the city.

Meanwhile, the Midland Police Department's Narcotics Unit continued serving indictments which stemmed from an undercover narcotics operation that began in May of this year.

Firefighters from the Midland Fire Department, Martin County Volunteer Fire Department (VFD) and the Northeast Midland County VFD fought a grass fire on the Nail Ranch in Midland and Martin counties from mid-afternoon Friday to near dusk.

Sheriff's Deputy-pilot Jerry Lee flew a helicopter to the fire to survey the blaze and its danger to cattle and oil-field tank batteries.

"Our job is the protection of lives, rights, privileges, and property of the people in Midland County," Sheriff Gary Painter said Friday.

The sheriff said Lee was "sent up under my authorization. It was a situation we felt was an emergency in nature, and assistance was required." Painter said the helicopter, which his department obtained in 1985, "is one of the finest inventions for law enforcement that has ever been developed."

Earlier Friday afternoon, firefighting units from the Midland Fire Department, the Greenwood VFD, the Midkiff VFD, and the St. Lawrence VFD and a Midland County tanker fought blazing grassland near Midkiff between the El Paso Natural Gas Plant and the Midkiff Plant.

Firemen uncovered no cause for either fire.

Since Thursday, Midland police have served eight of nine indictments on persons accused of being involved in approximately 16 narcotic cases, according a police report. The indictments were related to alleged delivery of controlled substances, including cocaine, marijuana and psilocybin, a hallucinogenic mushroom.

Those arrested Friday afternoon under indictments for delivery of marijuana were Gary Slater, 23, of 2439 Whitmire Blvd. in Midland and Lisa Farr Bundy, 28, and Tom Brancato, 30, both of Odessa.

Metalurgical tests performed on the wreckage at NTSB laboratories would help investigators determine the configuration of the panels at the time of the crash, she said.

ABC News quoted unnamed sources Friday as saying investigators were checking to see if the crew intentionally disabled a warning system that would have indicated that the flaps were not in the proper position.

The system had gone off in the past when there was no actual problem, ABC said.

NTSB officials stressed that no final determination has been made about the cause of the crash, and that weather conditions, aircraft weight, cargo distribution and other factors could have contributed.

Friday, a 50-member contingent of the Michigan Youth Corps and an 18-member Dental Disaster Team were combing the last remains of the wreckage.

"The hardest part was the first couple of days because there were so many bodies," said Keith Hunter, an investigator for the Wayne County Medical Examiner's office.

"Now we're down to the last few bodies. It's much easier now," he said. "It's just a matter of matching up the last little bit of evidence with the last few bodies you have."

Hunter said most family members have identified bodies through personal possessions. A majority of the victims' remains had been claimed by relatives.

The family of one victim was angered that it did not learn for sure of its loss until Thursday. Craig Hoffman, a surveyor and soil conservationist, died in the crash.

"They found his wallet on his body and (had) fingerprints. They've known since Monday and didn't say anything until last night," said his 25-year-old cousin, Julie Hoffman of Saginaw. "It's really annoying. Now anger has taken over. This is unnecessary hell."

"It's getting harder now because you only have parts of maybe one or two teeth to go by," said Bob Szana, a Toledo, Ohio, dentist who is working on identifying victims.

Correction

In Friday's Reporter-Telegram, a story regarding the reinstatement of Glenn Willeford as Upton County Sheriff stated, "Willeford immediately named four deputies to make sure nothing was removed from the premises by (outgoing Sheriff Danny Wayne) Brown and his departing deputies."

However, late Friday Willeford said fear of removal of items from the sheriff's office by outgoing officers was never a concern of his.

Instead, he said, "In the normal course of business, whenever there's an officeholder who leaves office and a new one takes over, there's always inventories done and things like this.

"It wasn't that we suspected that anybody was going to make off with anything from the sheriff's office," he said. "That never entered our minds. As a matter of a course of good business and correct auditing procedures, there were some inventories done today (Friday). It's as much for the protection of the outgoing officeholder as it is for the incoming office holder."

Willeford said Friday he was pleased the transition took place as smoothly as it did.

The Reporter-Telegram regrets the error.

When the Raleigh arrives in the region next week, it will bring to 11 the number of Navy ships operating inside the Persian Gulf.

Outside the gulf, in the northern Arabian Sea, the Navy has a battle group led by the aircraft carrier Constellation. Its jets provide air cover for convoys moving through the Strait of Hormuz, the narrow passageway to the gulf.

Another battle group led by the battleship Missouri is steaming for the region. Earlier this week, the Pentagon ordered six larger minesweeping ships to the region.

The official Iraqi News Agency, monitored in Cyprus, said Friday's raids hit an aluminum plant in Arak, western Iran, and sugar factories in Dezful and Shustar southwest of Arak.

In the Gulf of Oman, between the Persian Gulf and the Indian Ocean, officials at Fujairah port said divers recovered the bodies of the British captain and an Indian crewman of the supply boat Anita that hit a mine Aug. 16.

Fujairah coast guard officials denied reports circulating in shipping circles that more mines were found in the offshore area where the Anita was blown apart and a U.S.-operated supertanker hit another mine days earlier.

Vessels have been steering clear of the general area because of the mine scare.

Girl wonders if she's dreaming

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Four-year-old Cecilia Cichan, the only survivor of the nation's second-worst air disaster, wanted to know Friday if she was dreaming, her doctor said.

The child had not been told that her father, Michael, 32, her mother, Paula, 33, and her 6-year-old brother, David, were killed in Sunday's crash of Northwest Airlines Flight 255.

Cecilia, surrounded by her grandparents and several aunts and uncles, awoke several times during the day Friday. She remained sedated and in serious condition, Dr. Theodore Polley said in a statement.

"When she is conscious she is talking quite a bit," Polley said. "She asks if she is dreaming and she asks to go to the bathroom."

It had not been decided who would tell her or when, said Sandy Lincoln, a spokeswoman at C.S. Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Shortly after the twin-engine MD-80 took off from Detroit Metropolitan Airport, the plane crashed and Cecilia lost her family. She suffered a broken leg and collarbone, a concussion and burns over 30 percent of her body.

Rescuers said the little girl's life likely was saved by her mother, who apparently shielded Cecilia with her body from the heat and flames of the crash.

Her hunched figure was found strapped in a chair attached to a piece of fuselage after firefighters heard a child crying.

"She had her back to us at this time, face down, and we did not want to move her until we could get her neck stabilized," said Dr. John Girardot.

"Maybe God protected her for some reason. Maybe one of the persons around her was cradling her, or protecting her."

Dolls, toys and money in amounts from $10 to $2,000 continued to arrive at the hospital and by Friday the financial contributions totaled $16,152, Lincoln said.

Cecilia was taken off a respirator Wednesday and was breathing well on her own but remained in intensive care.

She underwent four hours of skin graft surgery Thursday on her arms and hands. Doctors said it would be about a week before the success of the surgery could be evaluated.

Polley said he was increasingly optimistic about Cecilia's prospects for recovery. "She's making steady progress," he said.

Relatives were consulting with social workers on the hospital staff this week to decide how to tell the child about the fate of her parents and brother.

To write Cecilia, the address is C.S. Mott Children's Hospital, Room F8412, University of Michigan Medical Center, Ann Arbor, Mich., 48109-0250

Outside the basilica, the sixth mission founded by Father Junipero Sera and the oldest building in San Francisco, thousands of gay rights activists are expected to demonstrate.

Despite a new pullout of the gay faction from a so-called "respect pact," both church officials and gay rights activists stress that violence is not expected.

The church had been negotiating for weeks with gay leaders over a nonviolence pact. The "petition for peace," calling upon signers to promote an atmosphere of nonviolence, involved several groups, including the members of Dignity, a gay Catholic organization.

Recently, though, the leaders of an anti-papal coalition withdrew from the peace accord. John Wahl, head of the Papal Visit Task Force, said that the diocese had betrayed the gay group by leaking information about the agreement to the public before he had the chance to discuss it with his membership.

Taking advantage of the new conference at St. Mary's Cathedral, the Sisters of Perpetual Indulgence, gay men clad in full nun habits, staged a demonstration outside the church to condemn the pope and urge him to cancel his San Francisco visit.

Bishop refuses to investigate Railey

DALLAS (AP) — A United Methodist bishop has denied a request from 18 ministers to investigate the morals of the Rev. Walker Railey because, he said, no specific charge was claimed.

The ministers, citing allegations of Railey's involvement in an extramarital affair before his wife was attacked and left nearly dead in April, asked that the church's committee on investigations look into the matter.

Bishop John Russell on Thursday would say only that he had denied the ministers' request. He declined further comment on Railey's case. But, earlier, he said he was concerned about reports of alleged ministerial misconduct.

"We met with the bishop on Monday and we had a good talk," said the Rev. Bert Jarvis, one of the ministers. "But the bishop said he couldn't do it (refer the matter to the investigation committee) unless there is a specific charge."

An investigation could lead to a church trial which might result in revocation of the Dallas minister's credentials.

Railey has refused to talk to police about the attack on Margaret "Peggy" Railey and reportedly refused to answer questions when called before a Dallas County grand jury investigating the case.

Jarvis described Russell's meeting with the ministers as cooperative.

"I think he is going to resolve this in the best way he can," Jarvis said. "He told us the matter won't go to a church investigation or church trial based on what we did."

A Dallas psychologist, Lucy Papillon, reportedly testified before the grand jury that she and Railey, the former senior pastor of the First United Methodist Church, had dated, traveled together and had discussed marriage.

Mrs. Railey remains in a coma at a Tyler nursing home.

Man sentenced for hiring father's killer

HOUSTON (AP) — A man was sentenced to life in prison after being convicted of murder for hiring another man to kill his father.

Tommy Wayne Dunn, 40, was sentenced Thursday by visiting State District Judge Jimmy James the shooting death of his father, Alfred D. "A.D." Dunn, 53, of Crosby. Trial evidence showed the father and son were vying for the affections of the same woman.

Prosecutor Carol Davies said the elder Dunn was shot twice in the back on Oct. 12, 1981, as he walked across a motel parking lot with Robin Buchanan Summers, who had been having affairs with both men.

Tommy Dunn initially was tried in July 1982 before State District Judge I.D. McMaster, who found him guilty and sentenced him to 99 years in prison.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals reversed the conviction because the officer taking Dunn's confession in the case, Sgt. Carl Kent, later admitted he lied to Dunn about Dunn being seen with the alleged hit man, Donald Eugene Roy, 30, and about another man's confessing in the case. Roy committed suicide in jail after his arrest in October 1981.

Dunn's wife had retained attorney Stan Schneider to help her husband, and the lawyer arrived as Dunn's statement was was being taken. In accordance with the law at that time, police excluded Schneider from seeing Dunn, who already had waived his right to have an attorney present.

Evidence during the second trial indicated there had been years of disagreements between the Dunns before Ms. Summers went to work at Swageco, a manufacturer of oil field equipment where both men worked. Ms. Summers first became romantically involved with Tommy Dunn, testimony showed. Her subsequent affair with Alfred Dunn, she indicated, put a new strain on the Dunns' troubled relationship.

Britain releasing prisoners early to make room in jails

By LARRY THORSON

LONDON (AP) — The British government has embarked on a program to give early release to about 3,500 prisoners to cut overcrowding in a prison system packed almost 20 percent above capacity.

Critics maintain the early releases will alarm a crime-conscious public that wants sharp punishment for criminals.

Despite its long history of campaigning by penal reformers, Britain is in a prison crisis that mushroomed in the past year as the number of inmates leaped by almost 4,000 to 51,029 as of mid-July.

They are jammed into jails with a nominal capacity of 41,650, and about 19,000 are doubled or tripled up in cells designed for one person.

In the past two years, guards have staged strikes and refused to work overtime in demand of better working conditions. A three-day wave of protests by prisoners in April 1986 caused $8.8 million worth of damage to 40 prisons, and watchdog groups have complained that jails "lack basic standards of human decency."

Home Secretary Douglas Hurd announced the early release program in Parliament on July 16, and drew pained responses from fellow Conservative Party legislators who had been elected a month earlier after campaigning on promises of firm penalties for convicted criminals.

Early release will be available only to prisoners serving terms of 12 months or less. If their conduct has been good, they will be considered for release when they have served half of their sentence, rather than after the normal two-thirds of the sentence.

Asked to confirm that rapists or other violent offenders would not get early release, Hurd replied instead that 82 percent of the 3,500 who would qualify had been convicted of non-violent offenses, and the remaining 18 percent had not been judged dangerous enough to merit long sentences.

But his predecessor as home secretary, Leon Brittan, said about 630 of those likely to be released would have been convicted of sexual or violent offenses, and he added that this could result in "considerable public disquiet."

"It is wrong in principle and quite contrary to the rule of law, and everything that we stand for, for convicted criminals to be released prematurely...simply because there is no room to house them," Brittan complained.

The Home Office has taken over an old army camp to take 360 inmates from crowded jails, and Hurd took new steps to try to hasten the long-established program of building 20 new prisons and other refurbishments to give 17,500 more places by 1995.

Hurd has said Britain also was studying U.S. initiatives in having private enterprise run prisons and in using electronic tags to keep track of people being punished by forms of house arrest, though he had little enthusiasm for the "tagging."

Head found in Austin lake seven years ago identified

AUSTIN (AP) — A man with a guilty conscience has identified a decomposed head found in Town Lake more than seven years ago as that of a San Antonio man who was dismembered with a knife and a saw, authorities said.

The man was identified Thursday as Mahlon Ray Turner, 30, who grew up in Randlett, Okla. His head was found floating June 29, 1980, in Town Lake east of Interstate 35.

The break in the case came this week when a man authorities said had witnessed the killing came forward after reading a newspaper story about five unidentified people investigated by the medical examiner's office in the past decade.

The Austin American-Statesman story, accompanied by a sketch of the unidentified man, prompted the witness to go to agents from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms with the name of the victim, officials said.

Authorities said the informant, who is not believed to be a suspect in Turner's death, also provided information on where other remains of the victim were located.

On Tuesday, Austin police and ATF agents went to an unidentified location south of Austin and recovered leg and spine bones. Authorities now believe that a hand and foot that were discovered in San Antonio five days before the skull also belong to the man.

Those remains were found in a cooler filled with concrete that was dumped in San Antonio's Salado Creek.

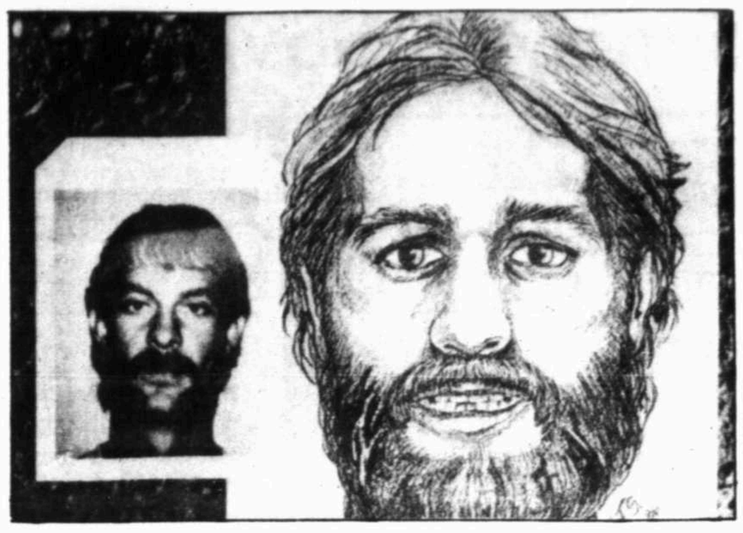
"It's unbelievable," said Dr. Robert Bayardo, the Travis County medical examiner. Identifying Turner's remains solves one of the oldest cases on record in the Travis County medical examiner's office, Bayardo said.

He identified Turner from dental records and from police fingerprints. Turner had a minor police record, authorities said.

Austin police said Turner was last seen alive June 22, 1980, in San Antonio and probably was killed there before June 24, 1980. Austin authorities said their reports will be turned over to San Antonio homicide investigators.

The dead man's brother, Matt Turner, said Mahlon Turner's remains would be taken to his hometown of Randlett for burial.

Matt Turner said his brother grew up in Randlett, population 500, north of Wichita Falls, and played football in high school. He served as a military policeman in Germany, and later worked for the parks and recreation department in Wichita Falls. He was married and had two sons.



A head found in Austin's Town Lake more than seven years ago was recognized from a sketch, right, and identified as Mahlon Ray Turner, left. The head was found June 29, 1980.

East Texas can expect more joblessness

AUSTIN (AP) — The East Texas economy, which has suffered with the rest of the state, will begin a slow recovery next year but not before losing another 4,000 jobs, according to the state comptroller's office.

"The comptroller foresees a period of long-term growth for East Texas that will result from new manufacturing ventures and major restructuring in some industries. But there are some rough times still ahead," the agency said in its Fiscal Notes publication for August.

Among the bright spots for the region is manufacturing, despite last year's loss of 2,000 jobs at Lone Star Steel. East Texas' wide variety of resources provides a solid base for expansion of the area's manufacturing base, according to the report.

The region lost 2.5 percent of its manufacturing jobs last year, compared with statewide losses of 3.8 percent. East Texas layoffs occurred in apparel, logging, plastics and oil field and construction machinery.

"Bucking the downward trend were poultry plants, sawmills and paper mills and manufacturers of air conditioning and heating equipment," the report said.

The area's water supply helps attract meatpacking and bottling companies as well as producers of dairy products, pickles and beer.

The timber industry, a source of longtime East Texas economic strength, is being restructured to produce more products that remain in the area for processing into consumer goods.

"East Texas, like most other regions of the state, still is overbuilt. Construction jobs declined 8.5 percent in 1985 and fell another 3 percent in 1986. The comptroller estimates another 7 percent of building jobs will be lost this year," the report said.

"Looking ahead, there are signs that energy, timber and agriculture are beginning to rebound. Oil and gas employment is expected to pick up as energy prices continue to recover. The timber industry has begun a slow comeback now that the dollar is more competitive in world markets," according to the report.

But the comptroller's agency offered a warning about the region's economic future.

"Before high-tech employers will move to East Texas, a major commitment to upgrading the region's educational and cultural offerings is required. A partnership of business, education and government is essential to coordinate high-tech development on a regional basis.

"In addition, airports and banking need strengthening. Job training or retraining is needed to offer business a skilled work force," the report said.

No criminal activity found in bus accident

KERRVILLE (AP) — A grand jury Friday found there was no criminal activity involved in a July 17 bus accident that claimed 10 lives on the Guadalup River near Comfort, a court clerk said.

A bus and van belonging to the Seagoville Road Baptist Church in Balch Springs were swept away by the rain-swollen river.

Prosecutor says Lonetree sold out country to Soviets

NATION

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — The espionage court-martial of Marine Sgt. Clayton Lonetree went to an eight-man military jury Friday after a prosecutor told the panel the marine embassy guard sold out his country by passing secrets to the Soviets.

"The issue in this case is quite simple," said Marine Maj. David L. Beck. He said Lonetree, the first Marine ever to be tried for espionage, sold out "to a nation that has since the 1950s declared our nation to be public enemy No. 1."

In its closing arguments, the defense said the case is not that cut and dried.

Defense lawyer William Kunstler said, "It's a very complex case and you have complex things to discuss."

Lonetree, 25, of St. Paul, Minn., could be sentenced to life in prison if convicted.

The defense rested its case earlier in the day without calling any witnesses after the military judge, Navy Capt. Philip F. Roberts, refused a motion for a mistrial as well as requests to have the 13 charges against Lonetree reduced.

Kunstler and fellow defense lawyer Michael Stuhff have said Lonetree disclosed nothing of value. They contend he gave Soviet agent Aleksiy Yefimov non-vital secrets so he could string the KGB along as a freelance double agent.

"To become a double agent, you must first have become a spy," Beck told the Marine officers sitting as jurors.

Kunstler attacked two sworn confessions by Lonetree, saying the prosecution referred only to the parts that benefited the government's case.

In addition to describing Lonetree's contacts with Yefimov and a Soviet woman, Violetta Sanni, the confessions say, for example, that Lonetree tried to blackmail Yefimov by hiring a woman to seduce him in Austria.

Lonetree also resisted Yefimov's suggestion that he provide the names of Marines that could be exploited because of alcohol, drug problems or homosexuality, and instead gave the name of a Marine who was a born-again Christian and a recovering alcoholic.

Lonetree allegedly turned over CIA identities and Moscow and Vienna embassy floor plans. But the defense said that was information the Soviets probably had already.

Two sworn confessions Lonetree made last December in London to agents of the Naval Investigative Service showed Lonetree knew what he was doing when he allegedly became involved in spying through his love affair with Ms. Sanni, Beck said.

Beck also said a high school notebook in which Lonetree drew swastikas and wrote "Hitler lives," as well as testimony from witnesses who said Lonetree was obsessed with the Soviets and collected Soviet paraphernalia in his room, showed the Marine held anti-American views.

Beck said Lonetree's past provided an overall context into which jurors could put his alleged acts of espionage.

"You can't look at a person in a vacuum," Beck said. "You can't look at actions in a vacuum. You have to look at the whole picture, the whole man. This picture of this whole man indicates: Traitor to his country."

Reporters are watching the trial on a television hookup. The government turns off the television when material that might damage national security is being discussed, and parts of the final arguments were censored.

Lonetree's court-martial began on July 22 and included seven days of trial testimony by 32 witnesses called by Beck the prosecution.

Courts-martial were pending for two other former Moscow Embassy guards, Staff Sgt. Robert Stufflebeam and Sgt. Kenneth J. Kelliher, who face lesser charges than Lonetree in the embassy spy investigation.

Woman arrested because her sons ate on train

MIAMI (AP) — Authorities eager to keep Miami's commuter system clean arrested a mother who allowed her children to eat canned sausages on a train.

Tobia Jinks, 26, is scheduled to be arraigned next week on second-degree misdemeanor charges of eating on a train. She was held for an hour and could face up to 60 days in jail and a $500 fine.

"The key is you don't let that start," said Sgt. John Carrel, head of Metrorail's police force. "Otherwise it is New York — the toilet."

The incident occurred July 28 when Ms. Jinks, sons 18-month-old Quinton and 5-year-old Kevin were riding on Metrorail with some friends visiting from Texas.

The group reached the Dadeland shopping center stop at 8:45 p.m., only to discover that the last train returning to Miami left 15 minutes later. So they didn't have time to eat dinner as planned.

Quinton complained he was hungry and reached into his mother's purse to find a can of sausages.

"I saw the 'no eating, no smoking' signs," Ms. Jinks said. "But my baby was hungry..."

Despite a warning from the security guard, Quinton took one of the sausages and the other hungry children followed suit. Two plainclothes police officers appeared, showed Ms. Jinks a pair of handcuffs, and arrested her.

"You mean with all these criminals running around, you are going to get me for feeding my hungry children Vienna sausage?" said Ms. Jinks.

She was taken off the train, held at the station for an hour with Quinton, then released. Since Metrorail had stopped running, she was forced to take a cab home.

19th-century abolitionist stronghold soon to be landfill

New York Times News Service

KANSAS CITY, Kan. — On an overgrown hillside here, close to the Missouri River, an abolitionist river port named Quindaro enjoyed a brief moment in history.

Born in 1857 in the struggle to keep Kansas free, the town was dying within five years. Now the site is destined to be a landfill, buried under the region's trash and garbage.

But before that happens, archaeologists and historians hope to retrieve important evidence about how frontier settlers lived, information that they say reflects an importance out of proportion to the site's age and life span.

An archaeological consulting concern, Environmental Systems Analysis Inc., headed by Larry J. Schmits, has been studying the site since 1984. Now an excavation team is doing its painstaking work.

Emerging are the outlines, in the form of basement walls, of old commercial buildings, including one that apparently housed a store, offices and a meeting hall, and another that housed the town's newspaper. And from the excavation workers are sifting such artifacts as old animal bones, nails, broken glass, pottery, dishes and kitchen utensils.

"There is no question that this is going to make a contribution to what we know about the way people lived here," said Schmits on a visit the other day to the brush-bordered excavation. Even the bones, he said, will yield clues to the diets of those who lived here.

"It's quite a significant find," said John Reynolds, an archaeologist with the Kansas State Historical Society. "The period may seem relatively recent in other areas, but in Kansas, that was right at the beginning of Euro-American settlement."

Unlike other settlements that have been disturbed by either scientists or developers, the Quindaro site, he said, is "a unique time capsule," adding, "Here you have a fascinating slice of American history."

The period of Quindaro's founding was one of rivalry between slavery and antislavery forces to determine whether Kansas would enter the Union as a free state, an outcome that would upset the delicate balance between the contenders. Free-state settlers, often harassed in their passage through pro-slavery Missouri, sought a free-state entry port on the Missouri River.

There were other hopes, too, some of them somewhat extravagant. "Here was absolutely certain to spring up the St. Louis of the Missouri River," wrote a visiting journalist at the time.

The town, named for the Wyandotte Indian wife of one of the founders, grew rapidly. Within a year it had 1,000 settlers and at its peak nearly 2,000. It had two hotels, stores, a blacksmith shop, a sawmill and other businesses including a newspaper. It also became the first stop for escaped slaves on an "underground railroad" to the interior.

Unfortunately, though there was a good boat landing, the hillside site, steep and muddy, made it a poor place for a town. Further problems came in 1858 with a recession that gripped much of the frontier.

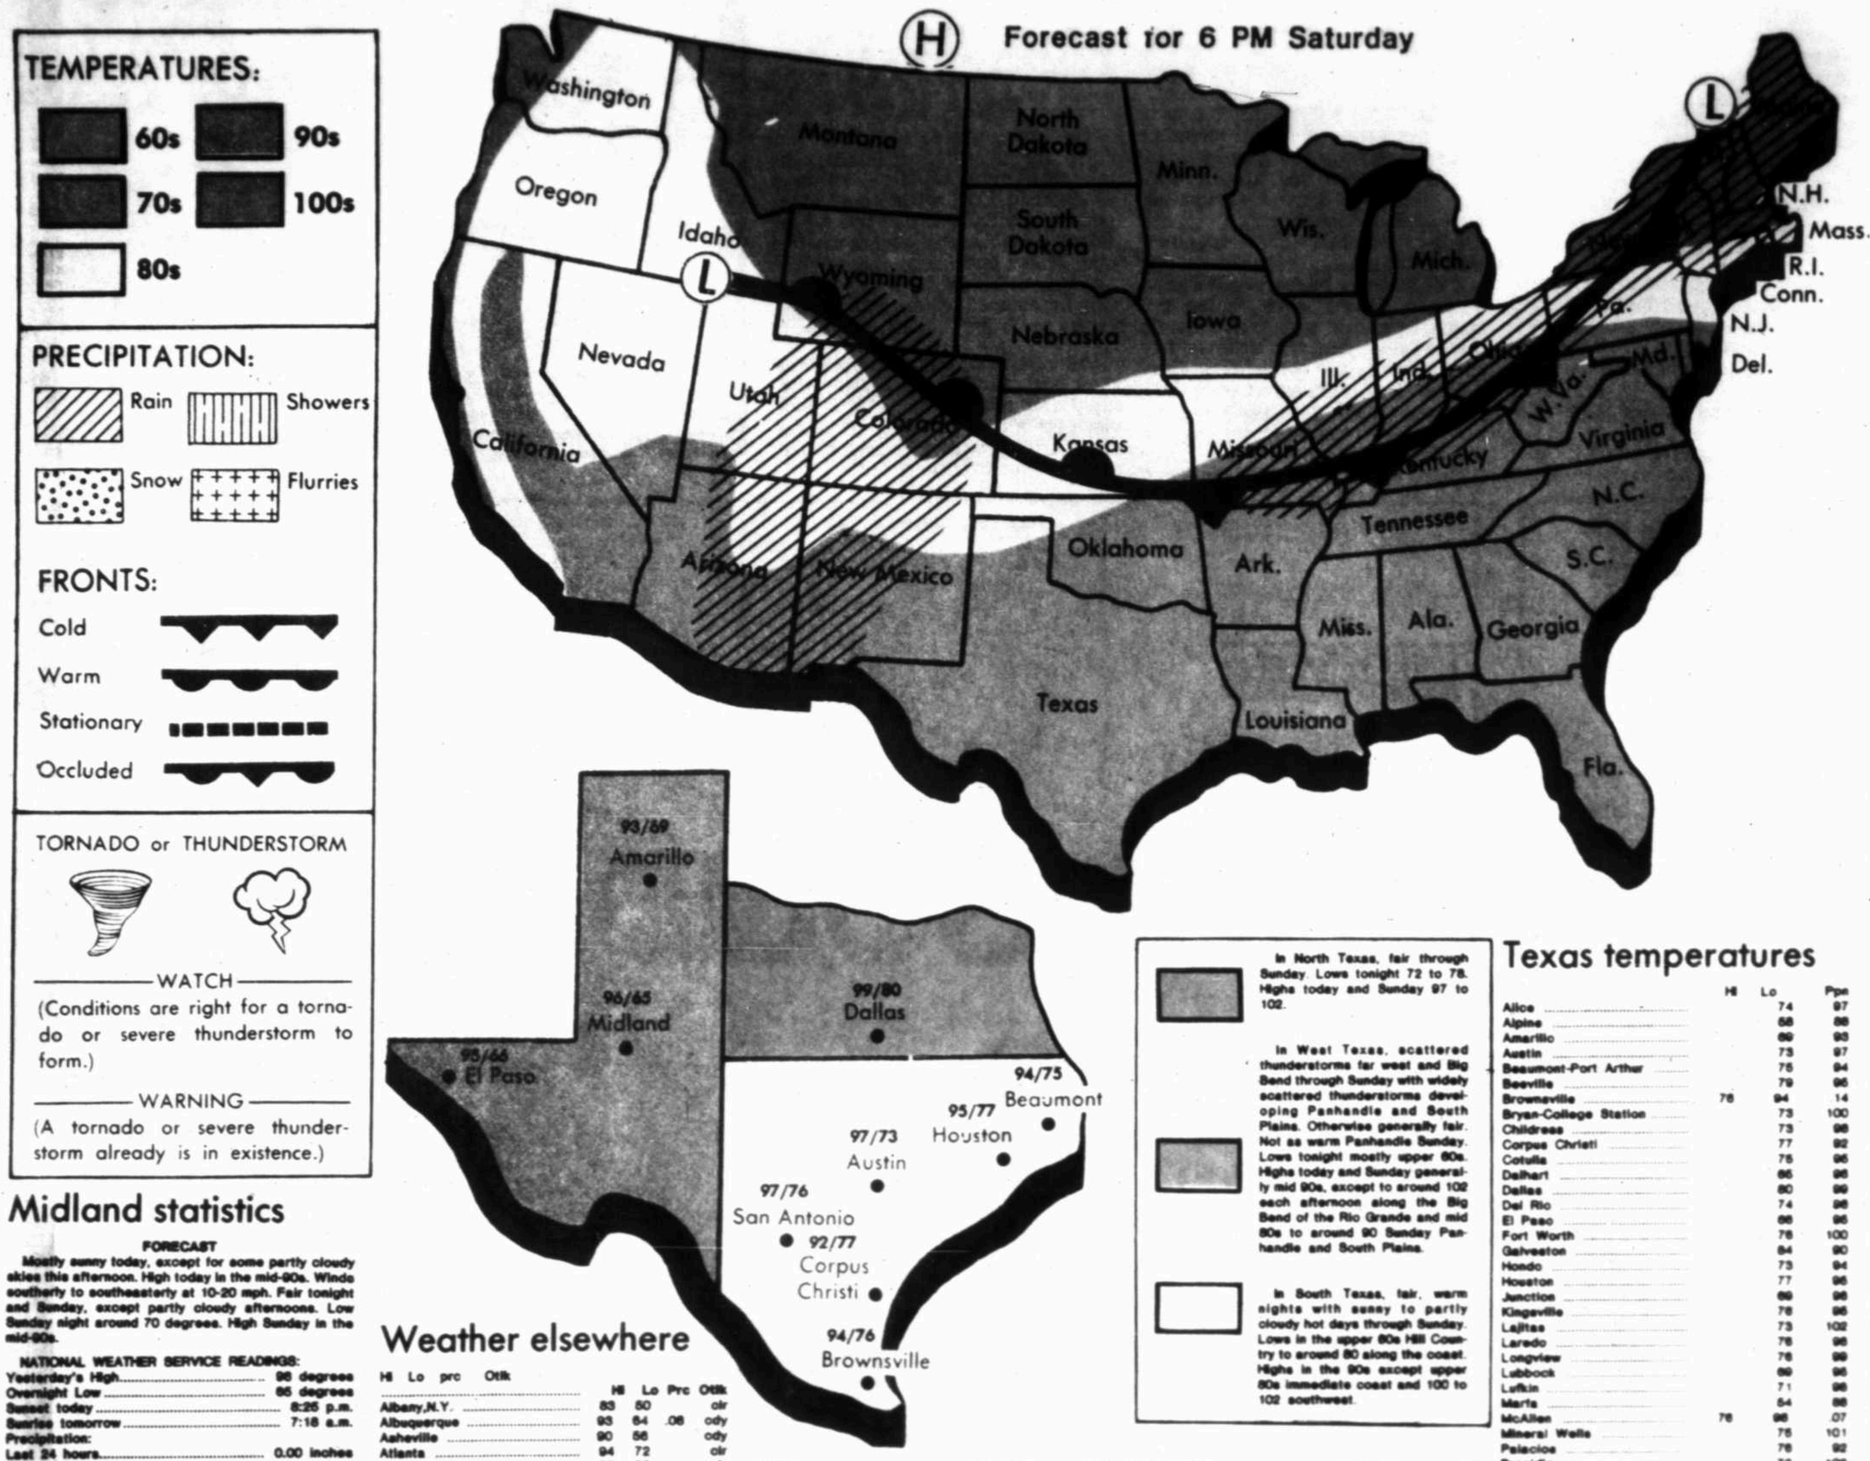
WEATHER SUMMARY



Hot weekend in forecast

From Staff and Wire Reports

Another scorcher, abetted by the humid air, is in store for Midlanders this weekend.

But the hot air is to fall short of the 100-degree mark, as the temperature is to rise to the mid-90s, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport. Winds are to be southerly to southeasterly at 10 to 20 mph.

The low tonight is to be in the low 70s.

Skies are to be partly cloudy tonight and Sunday.

Friday afternoon's peak temperature was 96 degrees, which was short of the Aug. 21 record high of 102 degrees in 1964. The overnight low was 65 degrees, and the record low for an Aug. 22 is 52 degrees in 1947.

STATE

High pressure at the surface and aloft kept the heat wave rolling across Texas with temperatures climbing into the upper 90s over most of the state Friday.

Although high pressure kept most of the state dry, scattered thundershowers were occurring over parts of south Central Texas and the Rio Grande plains. Other showers and thunderstorms were located offshore along the coastal plains in the Gulf of Mexico, the National Weather Service said.

The forecast called for scattered thunderstorms to develop over the Panhandle and South Plains today.

NATION

High winds slammed into an Iowa trailer park Friday, damaging 41 homes, as thunderstorms packing heavy rain and hail moved across the Upper Midwest.

A 55-year-old man drowned in Charles City, Iowa, after a car in which he was riding went off a boat ramp and into the Cedar River, police said. Authorities were not sure who was driving the car, but said the driver apparently became disoriented in a torrential downpour.

Golf ball-size hail fell near Logansport, Ind. High winds damaged a DC-9 parked at the airport in Moline, Ill., and farm buildings near Cambridge, Ill.

Warren Lovell said he saw a funnel cloud touch down in a field about 100 yards from the trailer court.

Today's forecast called for rain and thunderstorms over the central Rockies, from the Central Plains through the mid-Mississippi Valley and from the Ohio Valley to New England. Scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms were likely in Arizona and central and southern Florida.

Midland statistics

FORECAST

Mostly sunny today, except for some partly cloudy skies this afternoon. High today in the mid-90s. Winds southerly to southeasterly at 10-20 mph. Fair tonight and Sunday, except partly cloudy afternoons. Low Sunday night around 70 degrees. High Sunday in the mid-90s.

Stan Holmes receives high-fives around after tying the Midland franchise record of 30 homers in one season Friday night at Angel Stadium. The Angels rallied to win the game 9-7, keeping alive hopes of a second half title.

Montgomery, Holmes pack punch

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

Midland's Angels can ill-afford any more missteps, so Friday's 9-7 Texas League win over the San Antonio Dodgers was a big one in the pursuit of first place El Paso.

Reggie Montgomery's three-run homer in the seventh, his eighth of the season, proved to be the decisive blow in rescuing what seemed a lost cause after the Dodgers jumped off to a 6-0 first-inning lead.

Montgomery's smash over the left field fence, his fourth game-winning hit of the season, not only climaxed a long uphill battle, but evened the five-game series at one.

The Angels picked up a game on El Paso, a 7-1 loser to Wichita, and now trails the Diablos by two games in the TL West.

FOR MANAGER Max Oliveras, the key to the win came in the seventh when lefthander Miguel Garcia relieved Venturino with two on and none out and the meat of the Dodger batting order coming up.

"We trailed 7-5 and that was the game right there. Garcia did a great job, as he has done all season," said Oliveras.

What he did was fan Stu Pederson, who already had two hits, and then induced Mike Devereaux to hit a bang-bang double play grounder to third—Bill Geivett to Norm Carrasco to Stan Holmes.

That Venturino was still around in the seventh, after that first inning, was a wonder.

"With the bullpen beat up, I couldn't come in with Garcia that early," explained Oliveras. "I told Phil to calm down and we made some adjustments in the way he was pitching."

It helped that Stan Holmes hit a three-run homer off Dave Eichorn, 3-7, in the first to cut the lead in half, but that didn't get anybody out.

"It was simply a case of Phil rushing his delivery in the first inning and his slider was coming in belt high instead of near the knees," explained pitching coach Chuck Hernandez.

VENTURINO shut down the Dodgers on two hits until and an error and single put Mike Ramsey and Jose Mota on first and third to open the seventh. That's when Garcia was summoned.

Errors set up Midland's winning runs in the home seventh. Doug Jennings reached on an error and Joe Redfield singled. Eichhorn left and Mike Hartley came in.

Holmes skied to left but Montgomery delivered his back-breaker. A two-base error on John Hotchkiss' grounder and Norm Carrasco's single added an insurance run.

Oliveras brought Bryan Harvey out of the bullpen when Manny Francois was called in to pinch hit for Juan Bustabad to lead off the ninth.

"Francois is a switch-hitter with good tools, but he's just up from A-ball," said Oliveras of the switch.

Harvey fanned Francois before giving up an unearned run on a Devereaux single, but still picked up the save, his 18th of the season.

The first inning was a nightmare for Venturino, a hit-batsman, doubles by Pederson, Joe Szekely and Domingo Michel, a walk and then Jeff Brown's three-run homer to cap the nine-batter inning.

49ers to rest vets against Cowboys

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Running back Joe Cribbs and wide receiver Jerry Rice are among the San Francisco 49ers who will sit out Saturday night's exhibition game against Dallas but "could play if it were a league game," according to Coach Bill Walsh.

Safety Ronnie Lott, defensive lineman Michael Carter and wide receiver Dwight Clark are other veterans being held out. They are recovering from off-season surgery. Cribbs has a sore leg and Rice has a broken finger.

Two pre-season games remain after the nationally televised meeting with the Cowboys, and all key players are expected to be ready for the NFL season opener.

The Cowboys wish they could say the same. They're facing a season without Mike Sherrard, the wide receiver who averaged 18.1 yards per catch last year. He suffered a broken leg in training camp before the team's exhibition opener, in which the Cowboys lost 29-0 to the San Diego Chargers last weekend.

Dallas traded for a wide receiver, Rod Barksdale, who as a reserve with the Los Angeles Raiders averaged 24.1 yards on 18 receptions last season. Mike Renfro and former USFL player Gordon Banks are listed as the starting wide receivers now.

Coach Tom Landry said earlier this week that he has no regrets about his off-season decision to release veteran wide receiver Tony Hill, now with the 49ers.

"I think Tony needed to be traded," Landry said of the receiver who actually went to the 49ers as a free agent. "Sometimes older players need a new challenge."

Danny White and Joe Montana, the opposing quarterbacks in most Cowboy-49er games in recent years, will be starting Saturday night. Landry plans to also use Steve Pelluer and Paul McDonald, while Steve Young will do San Francisco's passing after Montana.

One rookie, cornerback Ron Francis, is scheduled to start for Dallas. The 49ers' starting lineup will include rookie running back Terrence Flagler, who also is expected to challenge Cribbs for the starting position in the regular season.

San Francisco is 2-0 in exhibition play, with victories over Kansas City and the Raiders.

Walsh said that Eric Wright, the veteran cornerback who missed virtually all of 1986 because of an injury, might play Saturday night. It would be his first game since last Oct. 12.

On offense, Walsh said, "We have four or five things that we will do because of their defense. But you won't see us with a specific game plan. In fact, there are some things we won't use.

"We would like to see Flagler and (running back) Doug DuBose run some basic plays and Tony Hill catch about five or six passes. We just have to see how his stamina is."

Walsh acknowledged Friday that linebacker Tom Cousineau's name has come up in trade talks with another team, but he denied he was shopping the linebacker around.

Noonan a forgotten man

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — While the Dallas Cowboys and agents for defensive lineman Danny Noonan continue negotiations, the team's first-round draft choice is on the verge of becoming a forgotten man at training camp.

Thursday, Noonan became the longest holdout in team history. Last year's top pick, Mike Sherrard, reported to camp on the 33rd day.

Cowboys linebacker Steve DeOssie said that although he has not detected any resentment towards the former Nebraska nose tackle, some players have enjoyed a good laugh at Noonan's expense.

"I know nobody even notices he's not here," DeOssie said. "Except every once in awhile he'll be the butt of a joke here and there. We're just thinking (about) what we've got to do with the people we've got now. But there's no resentment."

Noonan's agents are looking for a contract worth $1.68 million for four years, including the signing bonus. The Cowboys have offered $1.505 million.

"The kid's going for his money and you don't get many opportunities to go for the money. If he thinks that he's doing the right thing, he's doing the right thing. I don't blame him. Not at all," DeOssie said.

"I've never been one to say a player doesn't deserve what he tries to get," said defensive back Everson Walls, who was a holdout a few years ago. "I really hope he gets it. I would like to see him here because I just saw him in the offseason and he's a physical specimen. There's no doubt what he would add to the club. There's no resentment toward Danny that I can detect."

Linebacker Jeff Rohrer, who walked out of camp earlier this summer because of a contract dispute, said Noonan's holdout is not good for anyone.

"It's not good for Danny and it's not good for the team," Rohrer said. "Obviously, the Cowboys need Danny and have high hopes for him."

Alysheba, Bet Twice renew rivalry today in Travers

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Alysheba vs. Bet Twice is the main theme of the $1,123,000 Travers Stakes Saturday at Saratoga.

Their rousing rivalry stands at two victories each this season — the Midland-owned Alysheba scored close wins over Bet Twice in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, while Bet Twice easily won the Belmont Stakes, then held off Alysheba by a neck in the 1¼-mile Haskell Invitational Handicap Aug. 1 at Monmouth Park.

Alysheba, owned by Dorothy and Pam Scharbauer of Midland, was the 2-1 early favorite to earn the first prize of $673,000, followed by Java Gold, 5-2, and Bet Twice 3-1.

While attention has been focused on these colts, another 3-year-old could be the story of the 118th Travers by 5 p.m. today.

The race, which is scheduled to start at 4:46 p.m. and will be televised by ABC, has enough subplots to satisfy any novelist.

— There is Temperate Sil, who would have been one of the Kentucky Derby favorites. He got sick a week before the Derby and missed all three Triple Crown races.

Temperate Sil is trained by 75-year-old Charlie Whittingham and ridden by 56-year-old Bill Shoemaker, who has appeared in four Travers and won three of them.

— There is Fortunate Moment, who was 15-1 in the early line, although he is unbeaten in six starts, all of them this year at Arlington Park.

"He's paid his way, he's earned it," owner Jerry Pinkley said of Fortunate Moment, who won the Grade I American Derby at the Travers distance of 1¼-miles in his last start Aug.1.

"After the American Derby we decided to come here for the big bucks and the prestige," said trainer Harvey Vanier, who won the American Derby and the Travers with Play Fellow in 1983. "I know we have to be lucky, but so do the others."

Fortunate Moment did not race at two because Pinkley thought he was not mature enough to handle his size and speed. His first race was May 27 and his last four starts were in a period of 29 days.

"It's the best race all year," said Whittingham, a Hall of Fame trainer.

Arkansas rises to the top

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

DALLAS (AP) — Crystal football gazing in the Southwest Conference can be hazardous to your reputation. August form charts can look like the funny papers in December.

However, if any horse has been running true to form the last two years in the SWC it has been Jackie Sherrill's Texas Aggies. Sherrill has made a lot of forecasters look smart.

He's recruited the talent and it has paid off in back-to-back Cotton Bowl visits.

Sherrill may be a year away from another Cotton Bowl in 1987.

There's another horse that has been running second and is due to win.

The Year of the Razorback looms.

ARKANSAS — Coach Ken Hatfield's scrappers have finished second in the SWC the last two years behind the Aggies. Arkansas hasn't been to the Cotton Bowl since it whipped Georgia 31-10 in 1976. All the frustration could end if quarterback Greg Thomas and running backs James Rouse and Joe Johnson have dynamite years. The Razorbacks and their fiesty noseguard Tony Cherico are 2-1 favorites to make it to Dallas in January.

TEXAS A&M — Sherrill's talent cupboard is far from bare. If he gets excellent quarterbacking from Craig Stump and Lance Pavlas, then you can decorate the Cotton Bowl ball maroon-and-white for a third straight year. 3-1 odds.

TCU — Will the long suffering Horned Frogs get a lucky break or two after a season when 28 players missed at least one game? If Scott Ankrom bounces back from ankle surgery and a new defense works, Coach Jim Wacker's team could contend for the title. 4-1 odds.

TEXAS — New Coach David McWilliams will have the Longhorns playing over their heads following a 5-6 season. Quarterback Brett Stafford and running back-wide receiver Eric Metcalf are two of the most dangerous skill players in the country. 6-1 odds.

BAYLOR — Don't ever count Coach Grant Teaff out in a supposed down year. Quarterback Ed Lovell is a question mark and it didn't help when talented running back Anthony Ray of Wharton was hurt at the Texas High School All-Star game.7-1 odds.

TEXAS TECH — New Coach Spike Dykes will have a potent offense but his defense, particularly the secondary, is a big question mark. Quarterback Billy Joe Tolliver needs to have a big year. 10-1 odds.

RICE — Jerry Berndt has the Owls believing in themselves after a 4-7 season. Rice has the offensive horses to create some problems but you still have to have defense to win. The Owls are short on D. 15-1 odds.

HOUSTON — Jack Pardee has coached in two professional football leagues but he'll find the SWC can be just as tough a place to make a living. The former Texas A&M All-American is trying to rebuild a 1-10 club. He has enrolled a lot of junior college transfers and installed the run-and-shoot offense. You don't travel the road to the Cotton Bowl in one season. 20-1 odds.

SMU — It will be a silent, sad fall on Mockingbird Avenue.

Dawson hammers Houston with 39th and 40th homers

Associated Press

CHICAGO (AP) — Andre Dawson doesn't think it helps that much but every time he gets a day off he comes back with a hot streak.

Manager Gene Michael rested Dawson Wednesday and he came back with a pair of home runs Thursday and added two more Friday in leading the Chicago Cubs to a 7-5 victory that snapped Houston's seven-game winning streak.

That gave him a total of 40 and the major-league lead.

"At this point of the season, days off don't make any difference," said Dawson. "It might help physically but you're still mentally sluggish."

Michael feels the days off are important.

"Everytime we rest him, he comes back hot as heck," Michael said. "He never wants the days off but he always comes back fresher."

Dawson's first homer was a high drive that carried into the left center-field bleachers with a man on base and capped a four-run third inning.

"I hit it high and I got full extension on it," Dawson said. "If the wind wasn't blowing out, it might not have made it."

Dawson led off the fifth with his 40th homer, a shot that cleared the bleachers and landed across Waveland Avenue.

"I never gave 40 home runs a thought," said Dawson, whose previous high was 32 with Montreal in 1983. "I just want to bear down and finish strong."

Bob Dernier hit his sixth homer in the first inning and Jody Davis hit No. 17 in the eighth as Lee Smith pitched the final two innings to gain his 30th save.

He became the first player in the National League to have 30 saves in four straight seasons. The only other player to do that was Dan Quisenberry of Kansas City.

"I'm not the kind of guy who looks at stats," Smith said. "I like to think of myself as an excellent relief pitcher but I don't put myself on a pedestal.

NL Roundup

Cardinals 2, Reds 1

CINCINNATI — Jim Lindeman's fifth-inning home run backed a combined six-hitter by John Tudor and Todd Worrell as St. Louis defeated Cincinnati.

Tudor, 4-2, pitched 6⅔ innings for the victory, giving up five hits. Worrell hurled the final 2⅓ innings for his 26th save.

Guy Hoffman, 8-9, took the loss that dropped the Reds one game behind San Francisco in the NL West.

Lindeman's seventh homer of the season was almost caught by Reds center fielder Eric Davis. Davis, who has made four over-the-wall catches this season, got a glove on the ball, but lost both the ball and his glove over the left-center field wall. The Reds said that when Davis' glove was retrieved from behind the wall, the ball was in the glove.

Braves 5, Pirates 4

ATLANTA — Dale Murphy hit his 300th career home run and Gerald Perry singled in the winning run in the seventh inning as Atlanta edged Pittsburgh.

Murphy's 34th homer of the year came off starter Brian Fisher in the sixth and gave the Braves a 4-2 lead.

The Pirates pulled into a 4-4 tie in the seventh on Barry Bonds' two-run homer, his 22nd of the year. It was Bonds' fifth homer in his last four games and also scored Junior Ortiz, who had singled.

Perry broke the tie in the seventh with his single over shortstop off John Smiley, 3-4. The hit followed a single by pinch-hitter Albert Hall and a walk to Ken Oberkfell.

The victory went to Zane Smith, 13-7, who allowed seven hits, walked three and fanned three in seven innings. Ed Olwine got the final two outs for his first save.

Giants 6, Expos 3

MONTREAL — Jeffrey Leonard hit a three-run homer and pitcher Dave Dravecky had two hits and scored twice as San Francisco defeated Montreal.

Dravecky, 7-9, went 5⅔ innings, allowing 10 hits as he won for the fourth time in six decisions since coming to the Giants on July 4 from San Diego. Don Robinson, another mid-season acquisition, finished for his 15th save.

Dennis Martinez, 7-2, was tagged for 10 hits in his 6⅔ innings, and took Montreal's third straight loss.

The Giants took a 3-0 lead on Leonard's home run in the first inning. Robbie Thompson and Mike Aldrete opened the game with consecutive singles, setting the stage for Leonard's towering 440-foot homer, his 17th of the year but his first since July 6.

The Giants added a run in the second on Dave Dravecky's ground-rule double and another double by Thompson.

Padres 6, Mets 2

NEW YORK — John Kruk's two-run homer helped San Diego defeat New York.

Rookie Jimmy Jones, 6-4, won his fifth straight decision as he struck out two and walked two before being relieved by Lance McCullers in the seventh inning.

Ron Darling, 10-8, had a six-game winning streak snapped allowing six runs, four of them earned, on nine hits through six innings. He struck out six and walked one.

Tony Gwynn singled with one out in the first inning, stole second and eventually scored on Benito Santiago's single. Martinez hit a one-out single to center in the third and Kruk followed with his 16th home run to give the Padres a 3-0 lead.

PHILADELPHIA — Milt Thompson knocked in the winning run in both games as Philadelphia swept a twi-night doubleheader from Los Angeles .

Thompson's sixth-inning, two-run double in the nightcap helped Shane Rawley to his National League-leading 16th victory against five losses. Tim Leary, 3-9, took the loss.

Thompson, who went 7-for-11 in the doubleheader with four hits in the first game and three in the second, has knocked in the winning run in each of his last four games, tying a NL record set by Johnny Ray. Thompson has nine game-winning hits this season.

In winning his eighth straight, Rawley allowed nine hits, struck out three and walked two in eight-plus innings. He hit two batters.

In the opener, Ron Roenicke began the 11th inning by chopping a ball to pitcher Matt Young and beating it out for a single. Juan Samuel followed with a hit to right that hopped over the head of Ken Landreaux for a double, sending Roenicke to third.

Thompson then hit a high chopper in front of the plate, and before catcher Mike Scioscia could field it, Roenicke slid home with the winning run.

Kent Tekulve, 6-4, got the first-game victory with two innings of hitless pitching. Young, 5-7, took the loss.

In the nightcap, Thompson's two-run, sixth-inning double gave the Phillies a 4-3 lead. Philadelphia boosted it to 7-3 in the seventh on Lance Parrish's RBI double and Samuel's two-run single as the surging Phillies completed their 10th victory in their last 12 games.

The Dodgers' Steve Sax doubled in the eighth inning of the first game to extend his hitting streak through 11 games, but went hitless in the second game.

White Sox shackle Rangers; Molitor keeps it alive

Associated Press

ARLINGTON — Greg Walker's two-run double highlighted a four-run sixth inning Friday night and Chicago White Sox beat the Texas Rangers 5-1.

Bill Long, 7-6, gave up eight hits and struck out a career-high nine with only one walk. Rookie Paul Kilgus, 2-5, took the loss.

Gary Redus and Jerry Royster each doubled to open the Chicago sixth. After a walk to Ivan Calderon, Walker hit his two-run double off reliever Jeff Russell. Ken Williams scored Walker with a single.

Pete O'Brien gave Texas a 1-0 lead in the first inning with a single after Scott Fletcher singled and moved to second on a groundout.

The White Sox tied it in the second on a walk to Calderon, a groundout and Williams' single.

Brewers 3, Royals 0

MILWAUKEE — Paul Molitor extended his hitting streak to 36 games and Len Barker combined with Chuck Crim on a six-hitter as Milwaukee beat Kansas City.

Molitor lined a double to right-center field leading off the fourth inning, giving him the sixth longest streak in major-league history. It was Milwaukee's first hit of the game off Danny Jackon, 6-15, and the crowd of 37,141, which dodged several rain showers throughout the night, stood and applauded for two minutes.

Barker, 2-0, gave up four hits, walked two and struck out three in 6⅓ innings. He won for the first time since rejoining the Brewers Aug. 13 from the minors. Crim finished for his fifth save.

A walk to Molitor, a single by Robin Yount and Rob Deer's two-run single made it 3-0 in the sixth.

AL Roundup

Red Sox 11, Twins 3

BOSTON — Roger Clemens scattered six hits and struck out nine before being bailed out of a seventh-inning jam by Wes Gardner as Boston beat Minnesota, the Twins' fourth straight loss.

Clemens, 13-7, won for the ninth time in his last 10 decisions. Frank Viola, 14-8, lost for the second time in 10 decisions.

Rookie Mike Greenwell drove in three runs with a triple and two singles as the Red Sox took a 5-0 lead in the fourth inning.

Clemens left the game in the seventh after two walks loaded the bases with two outs, and Gardner retired Puckett on a grounder to end the inning. Gardner went on to his fifth save of the season and Boston's first since June 30.

Athletics 6, Yankees 4

OAKLAND, Calif. Alfredo Griffin's two-run homer and Mark McGwire's two-run double highlighted a five-run third inning Friday night and Oakland beat New York.

Steve Ontiveros, 7-6, gave up eight hits in 8⅔ innings. He struck out a career-high seven and walked one. Jay Howell got the final out for his 16th save, his first since July 6.

Oakland broke open a scoreless game in the third against Ron Guidry, 3-8.

Rookie Randy Velarde of Midland hit an RBI grounder in the New York fifth.

Day-to-day pressures greet Molitor's streak

By BEN WALKER

The days pass, the numbers add up slowly and the pressure grows quickly. Try to stay loose. Try not to think too much. Try a double-secret secret handshake. Anything to get that one hit.

A long hitting streak, like Paul Molitor's, means more than handling fastballs and curveballs. It's the mental side of chasing the ghosts of some baseball immortals. It's mind over batter.

"The nights seem to be getting shorter," admitted Molitor, who extended his hitting streak to 36 games Friday night. "I haven't been sleeping great."

Pete Rose felt it. So did George Brett. So did Joe DiMaggio and he wound up with the legendary 56.

"I think what he (Molitor) is going through is harder than what I went through," said Rose, who set the National League record by hitting in 44 straight in 1978. "People started picking up on his streak when he got to 22 or 23 games. It didn't start with me until much later."

"The hardest part is dealing with the press and keeping them happy," Rose said. "Going to the ballpark and facing the pitchers is the easy part."

With Milwaukee on the fringe of the American League East race, Molitor has become the focus of each Brewers game. Can he keep it alive?

"You try to put it out of your mind, but it is a distraction. Going up to the plate, you try to block it out of your mind," Molitor said.

GOT TO get the one hit — the sooner, the better. Streaks are such a quirky combination of skill and luck. They can end with four line drives that wind up in someone's glove.

DiMaggio hit two rockets that Ken Keltner backhanded on a hot night in Cleveland, and it was over. Then, DiMaggio hit in his next 18.

When DiMaggio did it in 1941, the streak was a novelty. There wasn't the kind of attention, the national television coverage and the interest that follows these days.

Now, it starts the first time Molitor steps to the plate.

"It's a big plus if I can get a hit early because it takes the pressure off me and my teammates," Molitor said.

If he makes an out, the anticipation builds. Three times, Molitor's streak went down to his final at-bat. A walk would have stopped him. Three times, he got a hit. But even if he goes 5-for-5, the streak advances only one game at a time.

MOLITOR EXTENDED his streak to the sixth-longest in major league history (tied with Ty Cobb) by hits eight straight days in Baltimore and Cleveland. The Brewers started a nine-game homestand Friday night.

"It's hard on the road. That's why I'm looking forward to getting home and spending some time with my family," Molitor said. "I think that's the first time I'm really going to be able to get my mind off it."

"You go through a routine every day and you try not to vary it," Molitor said.

For Molitor, that means a secret handshake. It's a high-five, low-five deal with teammate Rob Deer before each game.

"At the All-Star break, I told Rob I had noticed Jack Clark and Ozzie Smith had originated a 'high-10' and so we started doing this on my first day back (off the disabled list)," Molitor said.

"I don't talk to anyone about it and I'm surprised Paul told you guys," Deer said. "He knows we've got to do it and I know we've got to do it."

"It was funny in Chicago. It was quarter after one and I'm dressing. The game's at 1:30. By the time I'm out there, he's on deck and I couldn't shake his hand.

"His first at-bat he almost sprains his ankle. Then they make a couple nice plays on him and before you know it he's 0-for-4. I'm thinking about this and he's kind of mad," Deer smiled. "I said, 'Paulie, let's shake.' We did it, and he doubled."

THE ONLY THING WORSE THAN SETTLING FOR LESS IS PAYING MORE FOR IT.

$1,000 MORE THAN A VOLVO.*

$2,000 MORE THAN A VOLVO.*

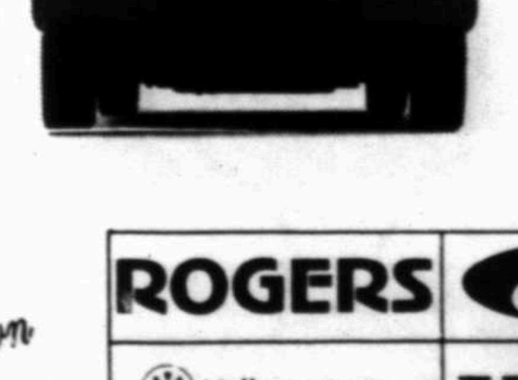
There are a lot of cars that cost more than a Volvo.

But few, if any, are worth as much. Especially when you consider everything a Volvo has to offer.

Like a three-year limited warranty that puts no limit on mileage. An eight-year limited warranty against corrosion. And a comprehensive roadside assistance plan called "On Call."℠

Not to mention Volvo's legendary reputation for safety and durability.

$15,735*



So if you're in the market for a new car, test drive a Volvo 240 sedan or wagon (or, for that matter, any of our 700 series cars).

You'll find there's only one thing better than not settling for less. And that's not paying more for it.

Half-marathon ideal distance race

By Frank Morgan

Morgan

A strong argument can be made that the half-marathon is the best race distance. The experts tell us that you can run two to three marathons per year. The emotional involvement and commitment required to properly train for the marathon limits most of us to just one marathon a year, or one every two years.

This is one reason the number of marathons has decreased in the past few years while attendance at the major marathons has increased. If you are going to put in all the time and effort, you might as well run in a big, well-organized race.

For success at the 10K or shorter races, you have to have lots of speed. The 10K remains the most popular race distance because it is easy to run on limited training. With an adequate training base, you can race a 10K every two weeks and not feel any ill effects.

The shorter races such as the 5K are becoming more popular because even less training is required, offering the thrill of competition without the price of serious training.

All of which takes us to the half-marathon. The half-marathon is long enough to be a pure endurance run. Like all races, speed is important. But the most important part of the half-marathon is endurance. Unlike the marathon, the time spent training is not so severe as to totally disrupt the rest of your life.

The physical demands of the half-marathon are stressful, but not so stressful that it will force a lengthy recovery period. The distance must be respected, but it is short enough that it can be enjoyed without suffering physical exhaustion.

The MRT/YMCA half-marathon Nov. 7 has grown over the last two years into one of the largest races in the area. This year's race has been selected as the Texas RRCA Half-Marathon State championship. This will be the first state championship race ever held in Midland.

WITH 11 weeks to prepare there is enough time to permit the most casual runner to build his mileage to the point where the race can be comfortably finished.

The main emphasis in training should be on the long run. Start with the longest run in the last two weeks and add one mile per week until the week before the race. If your last long run was two miles, you will be able to add a mile per week until 13 is reached on race day.

More experienced runners should add a mile a week until 12 is reached and then run a long run every other week, adding two miles each time. After 12 miles, long runs are too stressful to run every week. For maximum endurance effect, the experienced runner should build his long run to 18 miles. This will build strength and endurance to push hard for the 13 miles of the half-marathon.

Long runs should be slow and easy. In most cases, run at least a minute or two per mile slower than is planned to run on race day. The long long run is stressful enough without adding the extra stress of increased speed. The extra adrenalinerace day will permit the runner to increase the pace and hit the runner's goal time.

Run long once a week. On other training days, run relaxed easy runs at your current distance. Do not increase total mileage, just the length of the long run.

Experienced runners can add a day of speed each week, intervals of a half mile and mile at slightly faster speed than the race pace. A few races between now and the half-marathon will help evaluate progress.

Raiders to begin construction in Irwindale

EL SEGUNDO, Calif. (AP) — The Los Angeles Raiders hope to break ground on a "state of the art" stadium in nearby Irwindale by early November, managing general partner Al Davis said Friday.

Davis signed an agreement with officials of the tiny industrial town located some 18 miles east of Los Angeles in the San Gabriel Valley late Thursday at the Raiders' training camp in Oxnard. The new stadium could be completed in two years.

On Thursday, Davis was given a $10 million non-refundable check by Irwindale representatives. He had required up-front forfeitable cash before considering the move.

The agreement calls for Irwindale to loan the Raiders $115 million to build the stadium, which will include luxury boxes, along with a team hall of fame, practice facilities and executive offices, and parking lots in Irwindale.

Thus, the team which moved from the Oakland Coliseum to the Los Angeles Coliseum in 1982 plans to move again, this time to what is now an abandoned, 80-acre, 160-foot deep gravel and rock pit adjacent to the 210 Freeway.

Motta through with coaching

DALLAS (AP) — Dick Motta, who retired as coach of the Dallas Mavericks in May, still won't talk about why he quit but he says he thinks he's through with coaching.

"I made myself a promise that I would never get into that," he said. "That's part of my life that is all done now. I think I'm through — coaching is over."

Motta, who had 808 victories — third best on the all-time list — in his 19 years as an National Basketball Association coach, met with Mavericks owner Donald Carter on Thursday. He was in Dallas to wrap up personal affairs, including the sale of his home.

Motta now travels the country making motivational speeches at executive meetings, trade association conventions and universities.

"No one knows why I left because I never said why," Motta said. "My private life is important to me, and I don't feel I have to share those thoughts with anyone."

"I understand where Dick is and where he is coming from, and I respect it and appreciate it," he said.

Carter said he doesn't feel that Motta took advantage of him when the seven-year Mavericks coach resigned without warning.

"Without Dick, I wouldn't be where I am today, basketball-wise," he said.

Motta still is part of the Dallas franchise, Carter said.

"He is available as a consultant for about another five years," the team owner said. "There's a part of Dick in the Dallas team. I don't ever want that to be forgotten."

'Skins-Packers highlight busy exhibition slate

Associated Press

Washington Redskins Coach Joe Gibbs doesn't ask for much.

"We'd like to step up a notch from last week and play better on offense, defense and special teams," Gibbs said. "We're looking at improvement by the team as a whole, then at the play of the individuals."

The Redskins are in Madison, Wis., Saturday to play the Green Bay Packers, who are looking for a quarterback, as the second weekend of the exhibition season begins.

Packers Coach Forrest Gregg said he would start 15-day holdout Randy Wright "unless his arm falls off," but also seeing action will be Chuck Fusina, Don Majkowski and David Woodley.

The Redskins and Packers play at 76,000-seat Camp Randall Stadium, home of the Wisconsin Badgers with whom Wright played from 1981-83.

Saturday's night games have Cincinnati at Detroit, Houston at New Orleans, Cleveland at the New York Giants, Atlanta at Kansas City, the New York Jets at Tampa Bay, Indianapolis at Minnesota, Pittsburgh at Chicago, Seattle at St. Louis, Dallas at San Francisco and Buffalo at the Los Angeles Raiders.

On Sunday, Philadelphia's at New England, and San Diego plays host to the Los Angeles Rams. Miami is at Denver Monday night.

Gibbs said he would start Jay Schroeder at quarterback, followed by Doug Williams and Mark Rypien.

Washington beat Pittsburgh 23-17 in its preseason opener but will be without linebacker Neil Olkewicz and defensive end Dexter Manley, who are nursing knee injuries.

Gregg plans to get running back Kenneth Davis back in action. Davis missed the opener with a bruised sternum and hasn't even scrimmaged since early in training camp.

Cowboys at 49ers

/ Carl Monroe will start for San Francisco in place of injured wide receiver Jerry Rice, who broke his right ring finger in practice. Coach Bill Walsh said the hairline fracture wouldn't have been serious enough to keep Rice out of a regular-season game.

The 49ers are 2-0 in preseason.

Cowboys wide receiver Mike Renfro, who missed Dallas' 29-0 loss to San Diego last weekend, will play, and Coach Tom Landry said Danny White would play the first half at quarterback, followed by Paul McDonald and Steve Pelluer. Running back Tony Dorsett will play, but Herschel Walker, who has strained knee ligaments, won't.

Bengals at Lions

Cincinnati's No. 1 draft choice, defensive end Jason Buck, remains unsigned, but their next three selections are scheduled to start at Pontiac. They are cornerback Eric Thomas, free safety Leonard Bell and defensive end Skip McClendon. Coach Sam Wyche also said he planned to use starting quarterback Boomer Esiason in the first and fourth quarters.

Lions Coach Darryl Rogers said he planned to start Chuck Long at quarterback and leave him in at least three quarters. "I plan to go with him as long as I feel like it, and I won't change that,' Rogers said.

Oilers at Saints

Houston quarterback Warren Moon played only about two series in a 32-20 loss last week to Kansas City, but the Saints expect to see much more of him this week. Moon hit 8-of-12 passes for 105 yards and two touchdowns in his brief appearances.

"He's a good quarterback, very mobile," said New Orleans Coach Jim Mora, who coached Moon at the University of Washington.

Saints starting quarterback Dave Wilson had a sore back during the week, but Mora said he would play against Houston if able.

Browns at Giants

Cleveland defeated St. Louis 31-16 in its exhibition opener, and Browns Coach Marty Schottenheimer is glad to be continuing his club's preseason preparation against tough opponents.

"We're playing the champions and we need that type of challenge. The better the competition, the better you can assess your own players," Schottenheimer said.

Falcons at Chiefs

First-year Coach Frank Gansz will use this game to pick between Todd Blackledge and Bill Kenney as the starting Kansas City quarterback. Blackledge had the job at the beginning of last year, but lost it seven games into the season. Kenney will start, and Blackledge will play the second half.

Last week, Falcons placekicker Mick Luckhurst returned from back surgery to kick four field goals and help Atlanta beat Buffalo 19-14. Luckhurst missed the last six games of last season.

Jets at Bucanneers

Jets Coach Joe Walton was encouraged by the return of left tackle Jim Sweeney and left guard Ted Banker in last week's victory over Philadelphia. Walton said that he felt the key to his club's success was getting the injured players back and "a contribution from our young people."

Wacker has best talent in five years at TCU

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

SWC Tour

FORT WORTH (AP) — Texas Christian Coach Jim Wacker told the Southwest Conference press tour Friday that the Horned Frogs could have their best football team in his five years at the school.

"We have a chance to be better than at any time I've been at TCU," he said. "We're twice as talented as the 8-3 team that went to the Bluebonnet Bowl in 1984."

Wacker said the Horned Frogs possess the talent to have one of the best offensive teams in the nation.

"We WILL move the ball on offense and you can put that one in the bank," Wacker said.

Wacker has installed a drop-back passing scheme with his Veer offense.

"Don't be afraid to change and experiment," Wacker said. "Will it work? I won't know until we play great teams like Texas A&M and Baylor. I have a lot of hopes and dreams and no answers."

Wacker has hired a new defensive coordinator, Rick Johnson, who was the secondary coach at Baylor and tutored the likes of All-Americans Ron Francis and Thomas Everett.

"I came home and my wife asked me 'Why are their receivers so open and ours aren't?,'" Wacker said. "That's when I decided I needed a new passing coach and a secondary coach."

Noel Mazzone, who was a quarterbacks and receivers coach at Colorado State, also has joined the Horned Frogs.

"I'm excited about the passing game Noel has brought to us," Wacker said. "It's a lot like the one the San Diego Chargers run."

Wacker said that under Johnson he thought TCU would be vastly improved on defense.

"He's the best football coach I've ever been to the (black) board with," Wacker said. "He will have a great impact on this program. I just didn't have the answers on defense. Now, I have nothing to do with the defense."

Wacker said TCU would be tested early by its tough schedule.

"We'll have a great opportunity early to find out what kind of a team we are," Wacker said. "We go to Boston College, play at the Air Force, then meet Brigham Young and Arkansas in Fort Worth. We face as tough a four-game stretch as anybody in the country.

"We have an experienced team and a lot of depth," Wacker said. "What we need now is a big shot of confidence. The way to get that is through success."

Mustangs top Grady in 6-man scrimmage

From Staff Reports

GRADY— Midland Christian School defeated Grady, 7-2 in touchdowns, in a preseason six-man football scrimmage here Friday night.

Next Friday, Midland Christian will open its season against Lake Arthur at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Against Grady, MC recovered one fumble in the end zone for a TD. The other six were offensive touchdowns.

Cubans charge rowdy hecklers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Cuban baseball players had to be restrained from going into the stands after hecklers following Friday's game with Puerto Rico, police said.

A Cuban exile also said he was attacked by a Cuban security official, but the fight was quickly broken up by police. There were no injuries in either incident and no arrests.

Witnesses said a Cuban player threw an object into the stands and police had to hold back several Cuban players who attempted to go into the stands. An initial report said it was a bottle, but police later said that couldn't be confirmed.

Police said security had been beefed up for the game, and will be increased even more for Saturday's gold medal matchup between Cuba and the United States.

"We will have high visibility of police," said Barbara Sinclair, a spokeswoman for the Indianapolis Police Department.

The incidents occurred after a dramatic ninth-inning home run by Antonio Pacheco lifted Cuba to a wild 6-5 victory over Puerto Rico to earn a berth in Saturday's gold medal game.

"For some reason three Cuban baseball players tried to get into the stands," said Sinclair. "Police had to physically — and I stress physically — had to restrain them from getting into the stands."

Texas Aggie star paces U.S. into game for gold

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Texas A&M star Scott Livingstone hit for the cycle and drove in five runs and one-handed Jim Abbott allowed only three hits in 4⅓ innings of relief as the United States beat Canada 7-6 Friday to set up a U.S.-Cuba gold medal game in the Pan American Games baseball tounament.

The United States, 8-0, will go for its first Pan Am baseball gold medal since 1967 in Saturday's championship game against Cuba, 7-1.

Cuba, winner of the last four Pan Am gold medals, moved into the gold medal game by rallying to beat Puerto Rico 6-5 earlier Friday on a ninth-inning leadoff home run by Antonio Pacheco.

The U.S. handed Cuba its only defeat of the preliminary round, and its first setback in the Pan Am Games in 20 years after 37 victories, 6-4, last Saturday on Ty Griffin's two-out, two-run homer in the ninth inning.

Puerto Rico, 5-3, will face Canada, 4-4, for the bronze medal Saturday.

Livingstone, of Dallas, capped a five-run U.S. uprising in the first inning against loser Dennis Boucher, 1-1, with a three-run homer over the left field wall. He singled in two runs in the third, knocking out Boucher, tripled in the sixth and doubled in the eighth.

Abbott, of Flint, Mich., relieved Joe Slusarski of Springfield, Ill., in the third after Canada had rallied to tie the score 5-5, with the help of Bill Byckowski's three-run homer. He held the Canadians to one unearned run while striking out five in earning his second victory of the tournament.

All five of the United States runs in the first inning were unearned, thanks to two Canadian errors.

Leadoff batter Griffin, of Tampa, Fla., was safe when second baseman Brad Harvie muffed his grounder. Griffin went to third on a single by Dave Silvestri of St. Louis, Mo., and scored on a grounder by Tino Martinez, also of Tampa.

Pan Am Baseball

Then, Mike Fiore of Coral Gables, Fla., grounded to shortstop Alan Mauthe, whose throw to third, trying to cut down Silvestri, sailed into the United States dugout.

Silvestri scored and Fiore went to second. After Ted Wood of Chagrin Falls, Ohio, walked and Scott Servais of of Coon Valley, Wis., grounded out, Livingstone hit his first homer of the tournament, giving the United States a 5-1 lead.

After Canada tied the score 5-5 with four runs in the third, the United States took the lead for good in the bottom of the inning by scoring two runs on a single by Fiore, a double by Servais and Livingstone's single to right.

Canada scored an unearned run in the fifth on singles by Byckowski and Kotkas, a double play, a walk and an error by Livingstone at third base. They were unable to get any closer.

Canada scored once in the first on a walk to Mauthe, an error by Silvestri at shortstop and Byckowski's single.

The Canadians knocked out Slusarski in the third. Mark Griffin opened with a walk, moved to second on a single by Greg Duce, and both runners rode home on Byckowski's homer to right field.

After Jim Kotkas singled singled and Randy Curran doubled him home, Slusarski was gone.

Abbott, who was born without a right hand, was replaced after surrendering a leadoff single to Greg Roth in the eighth and throwing one strike to Larry Downes.

Cris Carpenter of Gainesville, Ga., came in and shut down the Canadians over the final two innings, striking out three.

Overall, U.S. pitchers fanned 14 Canadian batters, with Slusarski striking out six in the first 2 1-3 innings.

Alcala holds Coors lead

DENVER (AP) — West Germany's Volker Diehl won a rain-drenched sprint over the final 3¼ miles with countryman Adreas Kappes and Dutchman Arjan Jagt Friday, capturing the 17th stage of the Coors International Bicycle Classic.

A light but steady drizzle slowed the field of 51 men in the stage, the Denver Tivoli Criterium.

Overall leader Raul Alcala finished in a group of 27 behind the three leaders, but were credited with the same time as Diehl, Kappes and Jagt. Alcala will keep the leader's red jersey with a 3:02 lead over Jeff Pierce and an 11:44 advantage over Andy Hampsten.

Diehl, known as "Dr. Deutschmark" for the amount of money he won in the 1987 Nabisco Mayor's Cup in Germany, finished the 50-mile course in 1 hour, 28 minutes, 30 seconds.

NFL

Both Sweeney and Banker had off-season shoulder surgery.

Tampa Bay rallied from a 31-10 deficit early in the fourth quarter before losing to Cincinnati by one point, and new Coach Ray Perkins wants to build on that momentum. Bucs rookie quarterback Vinny Testaverde threw three touchdown passes in the final six minutes.

Colts at Vikings

Last week, quarterback Jack Trudeau gave Indianapolis its victory at Detroit with a 15-yard scoring play to Roy Banks to climax a 75-yard drive in the game's final seconds.

Minnesota led New Orleans 14-0 after two Wade Wilson touchdown passes last weekend, only to lose to the Saints. Wilson again should share time at quarterback with rookies Rich Gannon and Brent Pease as second-year Coach Jerry Burns continues to evaluate his younger players.

Steelers at Bears

Chicago quarterback Jim McMahon, nursing a sore arm, had hoped to take a few snaps against the Steelers, but after skipping out of practice last Thursday, he was listed as a non-participant.

"He's not going to play Saturday," said Coach Mike Ditka.

McMahon, who has been coming from from shoulder surgery last December, probably won't play until the Bears' Aug. 31 exhibition game against St. Louis.

McMahon said he was taking treatment on his arm when he was listed AWOL.

Steelers Coach Chuck Noll says his starters will see a little more action than they did in Pittsburgh's loss at Washington last Saturday. Mark Malone will start at quarterback and play at least the first quarter, Noll said, and Steve Bono and Bubby Brister will see some action.

Seahawks at Cardinals

Seahawks Coach Chuck Knox says rookie linebacker Brian Bosworth will play "15 to 18 plays." Bosworth, the Oklahoma All-American, hadn't even practiced with Seattle until Saturday after a contract holdout.

Knox said that Dave Krieg and Jeff Kemp would split time at quarterback, as they did last week.

The Cardinals probably will be without rookie tight end Robert Awalt. Awalt, a third-round pick from San Diego State, pulled a muscle in back of his left knee in training.

Bills at Raiders

With the starters set, Buffalo Coach Marv Levy said he would use this game to fill out the rest of his roster.

"This may be, in terms of a broad number of players, the game we have to devote more toward evaluation than any other preseason game," he said.

Levy will start his top quarterback, Jim Kelly, but third-year pro Frank Reich will get a lot of playing time.

Rusty Hilger, meanwhile, will start at quarterback for the Raiders and probably will play the entire first half.

"A lot of it depends on how much we have the ball," Los Angeles Coach Tom Flores said. "In the second half, we'll probably go with Ed Luther and maybe Marc Wilson."

Rams at Chargers

Los Angeles Coach John Robinson hopes the combination of second-year quarterback Jim Everett and first-year offensive coordinator Ernie Zampese can produce some more excitement in the Rams' attack this year. Robinson hired Zampese away from the flashy San Diego Chargers last season.

"We're trying to mix that passing game with the running game we had. We're undergoing some changes," Robinson said.

San Diego opened its preseason with some defensive flash, shutting out Dallas. But while Zampese is gone, 15-year quarterback Dan Fouts remains to carry on San Diego's air attack.

Eagles at Patriots

New England quarterback Tony Eason gets his first preseason start. In their loss to the Giants last week, the Pats used Steve Grogan and Tom Ramsey at quarterback, but Coach Raymond Berry said he may let Eason play the entire game.

The Eagles also lost their playoff opener, 13-10 to the New York Jets.

"We have a fine group of young football players," Eagles Coach Buddy Ryan said. "The main thing is we just don't have very many experienced hands."

Dolphins at Broncos

Don Strock will take over for injured quarterback Dan Marino. Strock, a 14-year veteran, has seen a lot of action for Coach Don Shula over the years but has not started since the 1985 preseason.

The other little-used emergency starter, Bud Brown, will start in place of injured safety John Offerdahl and ahead of eight-year veteran Glenn Blackwood, who has sore ribs.

Island's casualties high

Peleliu is an island in the Republic of Palau in the Pacific Ocean.

During World War II, more than 13,000 Americans and Japanese died in less than three months of fighting, often in hand to hand combat, in the autumn of 1944.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, prominent minister of another generation, began his pastoral prayer one Sunday with: "Now I lay me down to sleep . . ." Embarassed, he caught himself, fumbled around for proper pastoral phrases, and in a cold sweat continued his prayer.

"I don't know what happened," he wrote later. "The words just came out. A slip of the mind, a return to childhood, I guess."

As he was greeting people following that service, no one mentioned his prayer-slip until a little old lady came up. Taking the pastor's hand in both of hers, she looked deep into his eyes and said, "Thank you, Dr. Poling. I got new insight into my pastor this morning."

Dr. Poling, almost afraid to ask, managed finally to say, "Oh, and what was that?"

"I saw my pastor, as a little boy, kneeling by his bed learning his first prayer."

What our children will be, they are now becoming. The poet is right:

"The child is father of the man."

And positive experiences in early years influence experiences in all the years.

Falwell explains position on AIDS, his role at PTL

By CYNTHIA ROBINS

Hearst News Service

SAN FRANCISCO — Under the glare of television lights, the Rev. Jerry Falwell steps from the platform at the American Bar Association's constitutional forum on religion and politics. Slicing through the crowd with a flurry of flesh-pressing and a smile that does not light up his eyes, he is like a dark shark in the water — relentless, purposeful, efficient.

His mechanical peremptory "God bless you's" are for well-wishers, but not for the earnest, young gay man who has attached himself to Falwell's right elbow, saying, "I don't always agree with you, but isn't it great that we live in a country where we have this kind of freedom?" Falwell gives him little heed, choosing instead to give his ongoing line about AIDS to the gay journalist who is also dogging his steps.

"I think the only cure for AIDS is total abstinence," he says. Later, he will tell another reporter, "I have never suggested that AIDS is a form of gay terrorism or that it was God's judgment on homosexuals. I do believe it's God's judgment on this American society for tolerating, embracing, even promoting promiscuity on both sides."

It has been a long journey for the son of an alcoholic businessman who became pastor of the largest Christian congregation in the United States (the 22,000 souls of the Thomas Road Baptist Church, Lynchburg, Va.), proprietor of TV's $100-million per year "Old-Time Gospel Hour," head of the Liberty Foundation (formerly the Moral Majority), adviser to the President, and guide dog protem to the corruption-ridden PTL Club — a position, he says, that he would gladly give up to get back to his real business — being "a pastor, a husband and a father." His only interest, he says, "is pleasing God, my family and my congregation."

The ambition, the drive, the manipulativeness with which he has been endowed by the press are not readily visible. He sits squished in a corner of the Cadillac Sedan de Ville that is taking him, his aide, Mark Demoss, and his son, Jerry Jr., to his Israeli-built Westwind jet. During the 35-minute drive, he does not engage in eye contact. Choosing to face straight ahead, he alternately jabs the air with his forefinger or forms cathedrals with his well-manicured hands. He answers questions in a sing-song voice that suggests he's heard it all before.

Questions about the PTL — was his intervention really aimed at saving Jimmy Bakker's ministry or just a power grab for all that PTL money?

"There's nothing you can really say to the critics that would change their minds," Falwell begins. "We will stay there (at the PTL) until it is healthy again, spiritually and economically, because it is right. By the way," he adds "I receive no income of any kind from the PTL."

Or questions about the "redirection" of the PTL from the Bakker's "health and wealth" philosophies (Falwell says the Bakkers picked them up from Oral Roberts) to a more mainstream fundamentalist approach to evangelical Christianity.

"The PTL scandal," says Falwell, "has hurt those ministries that are preaching the 'health and wealth' philosphy, which is the theology that God wants everybody to be healthy and wealthy. That if you are truly walking with the Lord, if you are truly a spiritual person, you can have good health. And if you are poor, you have not learned to plant 'seed' and trust God and get from God."

"It is a very debilitating philosophy to that lady who is dying from cancer and is led to believe that she is not as spiritual as others who have no cancer. Or to the poor in the inner cities in this country who will probably remain poor. Or to the Third World Christian who lives in Haiti or Liberia or Ghana, where there is no prospect in the next 25-30 years for economic upturn. They love the Lord and they tithe potatoes and livestock because they have no money. To preach that doctrine to those societies is to drive them into the ground and break their hearts and ultimately drive them away from God."

"Health and wealth," explains Falwell, is promulgated in a near "cultic fashion (that) will take bread money off the table and send it to these men with the idea that 'I'm giving God $10 and he will give me $20. It's our way out of poverty.'"

In response to yet another expected question pointing out that Falwell has continued to ask for funds for PTL — $1.75 million at the end of July, he says proudly: "Yes, and we raised $2.3 million and have, for the first week of August, raised $1 million.

"Teaching and preaching stewardship in church or TV ministry is not wrong unless someone is receiving private inurement," he says. "If someone is ripping off those contributions for personal use or misappropriating them and using them for purposes other than for what they were raised, yes, there is a moral issue there and that did happen at PTL. And no, I don't see any moral issue in asking for more money from the same audience. Because we have never asked them to send their last dollar. We've asked for persons who want to see their ministry survive."

And finally, to those questions about Falwell's controversial stands on AIDS, drug addicts and homosexuality, the preacher is unrepentant, indicating that in his view homosexuality, at least, is curable through the Gospel. He says that in his 31 years in the ministry "we have led many homosexuals to Christ and, frankly, we have graduates of Liberty University, now pastors of the Bible, preaching in churches who were practicing a homosexual lifestyle when we first met them. We led them to Christ and trained them."

When it was was revealed to the press in March that Bakker, the charismatic Pentecostal TV preacher, had "strayed" with a then 20-year-old church secretary, Bakker stepped down from the $129-million-a-year PTL Club and handed what he thought was temporary control to Falwell, a Fundamentalist Baptist — a man he had not even met.

Four and a half months later, after the public reports of rampant fiscal impropriety, kinky sexual misconduct and homosexuality pushed Bakker and his wife, Tammy Faye, beyond redemption, according to Falwell's militant interpretation of Scripture, the reverend is still the titular head of two congregations — his own and the Bakkers'. Given all the negative press and the soap-opera aspect of the PTL scandal, would he play rescuer again?

"If I had known on March 17 when I met with Mr. Bakker in that Palm Springs hotel, what I know now — no, I would not have taken it," he says. "If I knew there would be 18 federal agents there from the Justice Department, the U.S. Postal Service, the Internal Revenue Service, seeking criminal indictments, I would not have gotten involved because I don't want to be a party to anyone going to jail. That clearly is where (that is all) headed. At any point in time, had I quit, I am convinced that the ministry would have gone out of business and been sold on the block."

RELIGION IN BRIEF

The Rev. and Mrs. Haskell O. Wilson

Couple among 68 named to Baptist Foreign Mission Board

RICHMOND, Va. — The Rev. and Mrs. Haskell O. Wilson were among 68 people named missionaries by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board Aug. 12 at Glorieta (N.C.) Baptist Conference Center. The Wilsons' daughter, Jan Laremore, and son, Mark Wilson, reside in Midland.

As missionary associates the Wilsons will live in South Africa, where he will start and develop churches and they will be involved in a variety of outreach ministries.

He is pastor of Fairlanes Baptist Church, Borger, Texas. They are former members of Paramount Baptist Church, Amarillo.

Born in Dallas, Texas, Wilson is the son of the Rev. C.H. Wilson of Bethany, Okla, and the late Maudie Wilson. His father is a Nazarene minister. While growing up he also lived in Greenville, Irving and Brownwood, Texas. He considers Amarillo his hometown and Paramount Baptist Church his home church.

He received the associate of divinity degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth. He also attended Howard Payne University, Brownwood, Texas.

He has been associate pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, San Angelo, Texas, and Pleasant Valley Baptist Church, Amarillo, and pastor of Hobart Baptist Church, Pampa, Texas.

Born in Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Wilson, the former Elaine Walsh, is the daughter of Elaine Nix of Largo, Fla., and John T. Walsh of Cambridge , Mass. She also lived in Greenville, Irving and Brownwood. She considers Amarillo her hometown and paramount Baptist Church her home church.

She attended Southwestern seminary. She has been a laboratory technician in Amarillo and Big Spring.

Church sets 73rd annual session

The Mount Calvary Missionary Baptist Church will host the 73rd annual session of the Progressive West Texas Missionary Baptist Association and its Auxiliaries Monday through Thursday.

Host pastor is the Rev. Robert E. Lathan. Evening services will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Services Monday will include a welcome and musical. All churches are invited to come with their choir and give an "A" selection.

For more information call the church.

Church continues Dobson films

The James Dobson film series "Focus on the Family" is continuing at Crestview Baptist Church. "What Wives Wish Their Husbands Knew About Them — The Lonely Housewife" will be shown at 5:45 p.m. Sunday in the Educational/Activities Building.

Crestview Baptist Church is located at 3300 THomas Ave. Kenneth Hall, pastor, invites the public to attend the series. Childcare will be provided.

FUMC Youth Sunday observed

The annual Youth Sunday at First United Methodist Church in downtown Midland, Main Street at Illinois, will be observed this Sunday morning at 10:35 in the sanctuary. The youth will be in charge of the entire morning service of worship, including the sermon, the liturgy, the music, and ushering. This will be the climax of their Youth Activities Week which has been held this past week with evening activities at the church.

Sunday at 3 p.m. the senior high youth will meet at the church for a planning session. At 6 p.m. both junior highs and senior highs will have a pool party fellowship time.

All youth of the community are welcome to participate in all these events.

Youth Revival begins Sunday

Calvary Assembly of God will be holding a Youth Revival beginning 7 p.m. Sunday and running through Wednesday evening. The Rev. Danny Williams will be ministering. Pastor, Gayle Reeves, extends an invitation to come to the Youth Revival at 908 S. Johnston.

Films in third week at church

The showing of a four-part film series entitled "Celebration of Discipline: The Path to Spiritual Growth" is in its third week at Golf Course Road Church of Christ.

The films are the work of Dr. Richard Foster, associate professor of theology and writer in residence at Friends University, Wichita, Kan. Foster, a popular christian lecturer, is the author of the books "Freedom of Simplicity" and "Celebration of Discipline."

The third film, "The Outward Disciplines," which deals with the social implications of solitude, submission, service and simplicity of life, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the church's family center.

Child care is provided and no donations will be taken.

Mini Olympics held for youths

Mini Olympics for the Youth Spiritual Enlightment Seminars will be held beginning 9 a.m. today at Washington Park. The olympics will be followed by a noon picnic.

The four-day event closes 3 p.m. Sunday at Midland Center, 105 N. Main St. Guest speaker is the Rev. Donald Flinn.

Youth Spiritual Enlightment is a non-denominational organization for youth 7th through 12th grades.

Following the noon picnic today will be a 1 to 4 p.m. mass choir rehearsal at Macedonia Baptist Church, 201 S. Carver St. Then an Outreach will be conducted from 6 to 7:30 p.m. today. The day's activities close with a 7:30 p.m. Washington Park Rally led by the Rev. W.C. Palmer.

For more information call Linda Bailey, 684-4659 or Rose Christian, 1-337-3668. Transportation will be provided.

Youth sexuality study offered

A human sexuality study for 9th grade youth from a Christian perspective is being presented by Christian Life Enrichment Ministries, a non-profit ministry of Christian Life Enrichment Resources, under the sponsorship of the Midland Association of Churches.

The 15-session sexuality course will be offered in four churches beginning the week of Sept. 13 and ending the week of Nov. 15. The classes will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. at St. Luke's United Methodist Church on Sunday evenings, St. Nicholas Episcopal Church on Monday evenings, Midland Lutheran Church on Tuesday evenings and Trinity Presbyterian Church on Wednesday evenings.

Cost for the course is $50 per student. The Midland Association of Churches has scholarship money available for those students who need assistance. Each of the four classes is limited to an enrollment of 20 students. To enroll or for more information call Linda Goddard, 697-5078 or go by CLER Ministries, 2902 Northtown.

Nun tells men's group 'church sexism sin'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A ranking nun told heads of Roman Catholic men's orders that "sexism in the systemic life of the church is sin — moral evil — which does violence to both men and women."

Speaking to about 300 Major Superiors of Men at their annual meeting, Sister Patricia McAnn, vice president of the Sisters of Mercy of Pittsburgh, noted she had taught for years at all-male seminary.

It was a "closed world...a clerical, patriarchal" system, she said, adding that continuation of it in the church prevents "real collaboration between men and women working together in the church."

The meeting re-elected the Rev. Stephen Tuta of Cupertino, Calif., as president and adopted several resolutions, including one endorsing the Central American peace process and opposing any outside military aid there.

Will Star Wars Maintain Our Freedom? Lifescope Says, "We Have An Even Better Option!"

In a message to Hezekiah and the citizens of Jerusalem, King Sennacherib of Assyria taunted them and asked, "Do you think you can survive my siege of Jerusalem? King Hezekiah is trying to persuade you to commit suicide by staying there - to die by famine and thirst - while he promises that 'the Lord our God will deliver us from the king of Assyria'! Don't you realize that Hezekiah is the very person who destroyed all the idols, and commanded Judah and Jerusalem to use only the one altar at the Temple, and to burn incense upon it alone?

"Don't you realize that I and the other kings of Assyria before me have never yet failed to conquer a nation we attacked? The gods of those nations weren't able to do a thing to save their lands! Name just one time when anyone, anywhere, was able to resist us successfully. What makes you think your God can do any better? Don't let Hezekiah fool you! Don't believe him.

"Yes, the gods of all the other nations failed to save their people from my hand, and the God of Hezekiah will fail, too," he wrote.

The messengers who brought the letters shouted threats in the Jewish language to the people gathered on the walls of the city, trying to frighten and dishearten them. These messengers talked about the God of Jerusalem just as though He were one of the heathen gods - a handmade idol!

Then King Hezekiah and Isaiah the prophet cried out in prayer to God in heaven, and the Lord sent an angel who destroyed the Assyrian army with all its officers and generals! So Sennacherib returned home in deep shame to his own land. And when he arrived at the temple of his god, some of his own sons killed him there. That is how the Lord saved Hezekiah and the people of Jerusalem.

Charismatic Christians on rise?

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Contingents from about 30 denominations were among the 35,000 charismatic Christians participating in the recent North American Conference on the Holy Spirit, about half of them Roman Catholics.

At times, their singing-in-tongues filled the Louisiana Superdome with a multitude of unrehearsed, different melodies.

The Rev. Vinson Synan, a Pentecostal leader of Oklahoma City, predicted "the Pentecostal and charismatic form of Christianity will become the predominant form of Christianity by the end of this century."

The movement claims to be the fastest growing Christian force, now numbering 277 million Protestant and Roman Catholic adherents worldwide, its ecumenical aspect based on shared experience of "gifts of the Spirit" rather than on dissecting doctrine.

Homosexuals urged to change lifestyle

By MICHELLE PERRON

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Fueled by the fear of AIDS but relying more on the power of prayer, a non-denominational ministry here is working to help homosexuals change their sexual preference.

"We are here for people who want to step out of homosexuality," said Amy Ashcraft, 25, director and founder of Freiheit. "We want to be an extension of the church...and an avenue to educate people about homosexuality."

The ministry takes its name from the German word for freedom.

Freiheit teaches that homosexual sex is a sin and urges gay people to adopt celibate or heterosexual lifestyles. Similar groups exist under different names in several major cities, both among Protestants and Roman Catholics.

Ashcraft and co-director Carol Coursey, 31, reject theories that homosexuality is an innate trait and say it is a chosen lifestyle.

"We try to help people see that homosexuality doesn't appear out of thin air," Coursey said. "A lot of times it is things in the past, wrong things that have happened to someone, that have caused them to choose this lifestyle. Usually they've had some very hurtful experiences.

"What we try to do is help them understand the way they are and understand why they made the mistake," she said.

"It (homosexuality) is a learned behavior, so it can be unlearned. ...It may not have been a conscious choice at first, but to continue to pursue it is a choice."

Ashcraft, of the Assembly of God church, and Coursey, a Presbyterian, counsel homosexuals individually and hold group prayer meetings at their homes twice a month.

Neither has formal training in counseling. Ashcraft graduated from a church-sponsored liberal arts college in Missouri and works part-time as an accountant for an oil company. Coursey studied communications and religion at two Mississippi universities and worked as a church photographer in Alabama. She returned to Jackson last year to work at a Christian bookstore.

"I had been meeting people struggling with homosexuality and I believed the Lord was leading me into this ministry area. I just didn't know how to go about it," Coursey said.

She met Ashcraft when a mutual friend brought her into the bookstore.

"Our philosophies are almost identical," Coursey said.

About a dozen people regularly participate in the Freiheit ministry, which began in January 1986 and recently acquired a small office. In addition, a handful of homosexuals write intermittently to Freiheit, often scrawling simply: Help Me. Send Information.

Relatives and friends of homosexuals also seek help from the ministry as they attempt to accept their loved ones' way of life, Coursey said.

Ashcraft developed the idea for her unique ministry while on a two-year religious mission in West Germany.

"I was working with people on the streets who were in a sinful lifestyle and kept encountering people struggling with homosexuality," she said. "The Lord began to put the idea into my heart of ministering to homosexuals."

Friends told Ashcraft about Exodus, an international non-denominational group that ministers to homosexuals. She interned with a branch of the organization in Minnesota, returned to Mississippi in December 1985, and began Freiheit the following month. It is affiliated with Exodus International.

The ministry's beginnings were small: a post office box and a classified ad in the newspaper, reading "Gay. There is a way out."

As Ashcraft began speaking to area ministers about what she hoped to accomplish, things began to fall into place.

"Some ministers don't know what to tell people who come to them with this struggle," she said. "We are hoping to speak to more churches and ministers and educate them about what they can do."

Ashcraft said she sensed some early tension from the Mississippi Gay Alliance as she began Freiheit but believes that has subsided.

The non-profit ministry is supported through individual contributions and regular payments from an Assembly of God church in Pearl, just outside Jackson. In addition to her Freiheit duties, Ashcraft works part-time as an accountant for an oil company.

Ashcraft and Coursey believe the AIDS epidemic has contributed to growth of the ministry.

"...AIDS is a great opportunity to bring out the Christian in everyone — to care for people," she added. "After all, what did Jesus do to sinners? He ministered to them."

U.S. officials willing to meet with Iranian minister

Subjects of talks would include hostages, Persian Gulf crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, whose relations with Iran have long been frigid, said Friday that officials would be willing to meet Iran's deputy foreign minister next week to talk about U.S. hostages and the Persian Gulf crisis, if Iran asks for a meeting.

If such a meeting took place, it would be the first high-level discussion — except for the secret talks during the Iran-Contra affair — since early 1981 when the two countries arranged the release of Americans held hostage in Tehran for 444 days.

The Iranian official, Mohammed Jawad Larijani, is scheduled to be in New York on Monday to attend a United Nations disarmament conference and to meet with officials of the world body.

Asked at the State Department if U.S. officials would also hold talks with Larijani, Deputy Spokesman Phyllis Oakley said, "We are not particularly seeking such a meeting but would be prepared to meet should the deputy foreign minister so desire."

As for possible topics, she said, "What we are talking about are serious issues; we're talking about the aggression of Iran against its neighbors, the continuation of the war, the support for terrorism."

IRAN HAS acknowledged having influence with groups claiming responsibility for the abduction of eight Americans still missing in Lebanon, and Mrs. Oakley said a meeting with Larijani could include discussion of the captives "in a general way."

She repeated U.S. policy against negotiations for release of hostages. That policy, she said, calls for "no deals, direct, indirect, under the table, around the thing, any way you want to say it: no deals."

As has become clear in the Iran-Contra hearings, the Reagan administration conducted secret talks with Iranians in 1985 and 1986 and sold arms to that country in an effort to win the release of the hostages and to build toward better relations with some Iranian leaders.

President Reagan has barred further arms sales but has said the United States would be willing to talk with the Iranians in an effort to get them to moderate their policies.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz repeated the willingness to talk in a speech earlier this month.

Mrs. Oakley, who called a meeting with Larijani a "hypothetical" issue, said the United States had not decided who would be its representative if such talks were held, but she suggested that Richard W. Murphy, the assistant secretary of state for Near East affairs, would be the logical choice.

Another State Department official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said a lower level diplomat — probably a member of the U.S. mission to the United Nations — would be more likely to represent the United States.

The official said U.S. and Iranian officials have met over the years at meetings of international organizations and have had regular contacts in the Hague, Netherlands, where the U.S.-Iran Claims Tribunal is disentangling the nations' economic relationship. But not since 1981 have they had high-level talks on bilateral issues, the official said.

A SECRETARY at the Iranian mission to the United States said neither the mission's spokesman nor any other diplomats were available to discuss the possible meeting.

The United States has been looking forward to Larijani's visit in hopes that he will signal to the United Nations his country's willingness to heed a U.N. Security Council demand for a cease-fire in the Iran-Iraq war. Iraq has accepted the demand.

The Security Council demand, in a resolution passed in July, requires the panel's members to meet again to impose an arms embargo on any party to the seven-year-old war who refuses to accept a truce. There is no deadline for agreement, but the United States has been pressing for a quick decision.

In a letter to U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar, who is heading the effort to win adherence to the truce, Iranian leaders last week denounced the proposed cease-fire, but did not formally reject it.

Mrs. Oakley said that unless the Iranians accept the truce soon "we believe the council must move quickly to consider enforcement measures."

THE REAGAN administration also is reviewing U.S. trade relations with Iran, but has made no decisions on a possible boycott of Iranian oil, White House spokesmen said Friday in Santa Barbara, where the president is vacationing.

U.S. trade with Iran has plummeted since the rise to power of anti-U.S. leaders in Tehran in the late 1970s. Americans sold less than $34 million worth of goods in Iran last year and Iran exported about $612 million in goods to the United States. Three-fourths of the total exports were oil.

Jackson: Schroeder has ability to be candidate

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Jesse Jackson gave Rep. Patricia Schroeder, a potential Democratic presidential rival, some encouragement on Friday, evoking India under Indira Gandhi and Israel under Golda Meir as proof that women can lead nations.

"We cannot have any misgivings about a woman's ability to run for office and be president," said Jackson, who became the first black to run for president when he ran in 1984.

Jackson told the National Women's Political Caucus that Mrs. Schroeder, a representative from Colorado, is qualified to run.

Both Jackson and Mrs. Schroeder have said they will announce their intentions next month. Six other Democrats are already in the race.

"If Indira Gandhi could lead India and Golda Meir could guide Israel to war, we can elect a woman president," he said.

Jackson and Sen. Albert Gore Jr. of Tennessee expressed reservations regarding conflicting reports about whether former Sen. Gary Hart will re-enter the crowded Democratic field.

Hart withdrew in May amid questions about his relationship with Miami model Donna Rice.

"It's his right and it's his risk," Jackson said.

Asked if Hart's re-entry would invite questions about every candidate's personal life, Jackson said, "Given how this drama has continued to unfold — Donna's got movies and books and the like — it probably would continue to be a matter of some concern."

Gore said, "Gary and I have been friends a long time. I personally hope he does not get into the race," he said.

Gore and Jackson followed Mrs. Schroeder's appearance before the feminist group, which will hear today from Democratic hopefuls, Sen. Paul Simon of Tennessee and Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri.

The moderate Gore acknowledged, "My record with your organization is not 100 percent," but he pledged that if elected he would appoint women to his administration.

RED & The RED HOTS
appearing at Late Night at Joey's
Red and the Red Hots came together in 1984 as a result of a collaboration between Red Young and PATAN. Presenting the music and fashion of the 1940's, the time has come for this very concise and well-polished act.
The band's format-Red on vocals and keyboards, two female singers, acoustic bass, drums and horns, was formulated while Red and PATAN were on tour with Linda Ronstadt. Other stars Red performed with include Sonny and Cher, Joan Armatrading, Dolly Parton and Eric Burdon.
The talents combining to create Red and The Red Hots constitute an entity both positive and professional. The music and moods created are as viable today as they were 40 years ago. "People used to dance holding each other and they are wanting to return to the romance and sophistication of that day."

SUNDAY, AUGUST 23, 1987

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: You have paid too much for some things, both financially and emotionally. Put yourself on a budget and stick to it. Several infatuations are likely in the period just ahead. Look for a partner who shares your goals and interests, then you can build a relationship strong enough to last forever. Share more of yourself with family members.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: "Spoon River Anthology" author Edgar Lee Masters, actress Shelley Long, "Nancy" cartoonist Ernie Bushmiller, actress Barbara Eden, dancer-director-actor-singer Gene Kelly, sportscaster-football great Sonny Jurgensen.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A new love blossoms for someone in search of romance. A sale item is no bargain if you do not need it in the first place. Gather your thoughts in a quiet setting.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Spend part of weekend with someone who shares your love of the arts. Cultivate people you know will play a positive role in your life. Travel should be easy and fun now.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A good day to display your sense of humor. Be a good Samaritan. Even if you are up to your neck in work, find the time to hear a child out. Romance is rewarding.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Rereading books you have enjoyed in the past will give you great pleasure. Resist calling your "honey" at work. Visit the beach or countryside and contemplate what the future holds.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You are ready for almost anything today, but others may not have the energy to keep up. Compromise and a relationship will flourish. Ignore any rumors you hear. You know more than the gossips.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Opportunities for fun abound this weekend. Get household tasks out of the way early so you can accept any spur-of-the-moment invitations. Delegate more domestic responsibilities. Everyone should pitch in.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): There is much to do before you can flee to more relaxing, fun places. Get an early start. Money problems will be easier to solve than those connected with a new relationship. Offer to compromise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Events are moving in ways that will benefit you. You are delighted by news of a family member or old roommate. Let tensions fade before approaching a neighbor again. An agreement is possible.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Stay on top of current events. You could get a brilliant idea from something you see or read. You are more likely to be a spectator than a participant in sports. Keep diet resolutions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Although you are usually an inspiration to others, today you meet someone who inspires you. Open your pocketbook to someone who really cares. The odds are in your favor when you take a financial gamble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Significant new social contacts are part of the picture. Your intuition may not be as accurate as usual. Channel your energy into activities that will be emotionally rewarding. Pay bills on time to protect credit rating.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Let others carry their fair share of the load. You are not doing children a favor by letting them think they are getting away with something. Be firm but fair. Set ground rules.

Slave trade, navigation tied together

Associated Press

1787 Constitution Daybook

Wednesday, Aug. 22, 1787

PHILADELPHIA TODAY

Today was clear and pleasant.

CONFEDERATION TODAY

The same four states were represented as yesterday, but the quorum was still a long way off. Daniel Huger of South Carolina joined the four other delegates awaiting another colleague so their state might be represented.

CONVENTION TODAY

Pressure was building in the debates to resolve two controversial issues — the future of the nation's slave trade and navigation regulations. Article VII, Section 4 tied these two elements of the nation's economy together by setting taxes on all imports except slaves.

Debate continued on Luther Martin's (Md.) move to modify the article and section to include a tax on imported slaves. Slavery, its proponents argued, was not only contrary to the principles of the Revolution, but a real threat to the Union. Slaves, George Mason of Virginia argued, made every master a "petty tyrant" and they brought the "judgement of Heaven on a Country."

"If slavery be wrong," countered Chrles Pinckney of South Carolina, "it is justified by the example of all the world." Besides, South Carolina and Georgia could not "do without slaves."

As debate continued, the range of opinions on slavery in America took more definition. John Dickinson (Del.) was adamantly opposed to the Constitution's authorization of the slave trade in the states. Rufus King (Mass.) "thought the subject should be considered in political light only." If two slave states took exception to import duties on slaves, the northern and middle states would see it as unfair.

Roger Sherman (Conn.), who opened today's debate with a plea for a compromise for the sake of the larger government scheme, felt it was "better to let the S. States import slaves than to part with them." Edmund Randolph of Virginia disagreed; better to lose two slave states and keep the Union which mostly favored restrictions on slavery.

Oliver Ellsworth (Conn.) interjected an ominous note: "This widening of opinions has a threatening aspect." If the delegates did not take the plan as it now stood, he feared the slave-owning states might "fly into a variety of shapes & directions, and most probably into several confederations and not without bloodshed."

The Convention promptly formed a committee to consider these Article 7 clauses again. Those delegates appointed — John Langdon (N.H.), King (Mass.), William Samuel Johnson (Conn.), William Livingston (N.J.), George Clymer (Pa.), John Dickinson (Del.), Martin (Md.), James Madison (Va.), Hugh Williamson (N.C.), Charles Pinckney (S.C.) and Abraham Baldwin (Ga.) — were to hammer out a compromise to save the Constitution.

DELEGATES TODAY

William Samuel Johnson (Conn.) dined at his boarding house and visited John Fitch's steamboat.

George Washington dined with the Morrises at the Hills and visited at Mr. Powel's in the afternoon. He also dropped a note asking Clement Biddle if he knew of a responsible person who would contract to buy herring, and if so, how many barrels.

LOOKING BACK

The Slavery Compromise

Few actions of the Convention are so difficult to understand and accept as the one permitting the continuation of the slave trade until at least 1808. But in 1787 this clause of the Constitution allowed for a critical compromise on the hotly debated matter of federal regulation of navigation.

Northern states tended to favor central regulation of commerce as a means to assure a steady national treasury while distributing the trade more evenly among the major ports. Southern states, on the other hand, had less commerce, more agriculture, and a history of slavery as a means to that lifestyle. They, therefore, tended not to favor regulation of commerce and particularly resisted any effort to restrict the importation of slaves.

The committee appointed in today's session faced the pressing problem of finding a compromise that would satisfy both factions. The Constitution's very future was at stake. The delegates from the 11 represented states (New York's quorum had gone home and Rhode Island never sent delegates) accepted this challenge after the Convention had been under way for close to three months. They realized that some among the delegates were willing to risk the future of the Union on the matter of slavery. But they also knew such stalwart anti-slavery men as Virginia's Edmund Randolph and pro-slavery men as South Carolina's Charles Cotesworth Pinckney were seeking a middle ground.

Gouverneur Morris, formerly of New York but at the Convention a delegate from Pennsylvania, presented the issue of the committee squarely: he "wished the whole subject to be committed including the clauses relating to taxes on exports & to a navigation act." These things, he predicted, "may form a bargain among the Northern and Southern States." And so they did.

As proposed by the committee and accepted as part of the Constitution's Article 1, Section 9, slaves would be imported into this country for another 20 years. In exchange, as provided in Section 10, the nation got a navigation clause that provided federal control of foreign trade.

Hotel helps Saudi prince maintain body clock

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — People who travel a lot say there's not much you can do about jet lag — unless, of course, you're a Saudi Arabian prince.

Prince Alwaleed Bin Talal Bin Abulaziz Alsaud recently paid a hotel on Hilton Head Island to install $4,000 worth of lights and a volleyball court for late-night play to help him and his family maintain their "natural body clocks" as they were set in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, said Tim McEneny, a spokesman for the Hotel Inter-Continental.

The prince's 20-member entourage left the island Wednesday night after an eight-day stay, McEneny said.

The hotel staff spent much of the time helping Prince Alwaleed, 29, his wife, 9-year-old son and 6-year-old daughter live and play as if they were still eight hours away in Riyadh, McEneny said.

This included serving dinner between 1 a.m. and 2 a.m.

NEW YORK (AP) — Beset by money and equipment problems and the approach of autumn, Jim Dickson says he won't make a second attempt this year to become the first blind person to sail solo across the Atlantic.

And, he said Friday, he doesn't know if he'll be able to make another attempt.

"That's really a question of money," Dickson said on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America."

Dickson left Portsmouth, R.I., for Plymouth, England, on Aug. 4, but was forced to detour south to Bermuda when his 36-foot yacht's satellite navigation system and autopilot broke down on the trip's fifth day.

The journey was further delayed when Dickson had to ride out rough seas and heavy winds from Tropical Storm Arlene in the yacht, the Eye Opener. He said last week the yacht needed about $12,000 in repairs following the storm.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress-singer Ann Jillian says she's rehearsing religiously for her role as a headliner at the Sept. 16 pageant that will precede a stadium-sized Mass by Pope John Paul II.

"I'm not just a blond actress doing an entertainment event," Jillian said Thursday during a news briefing at the Los Angeles Archdiocese. "I've been a Roman Catholic all my life. I sing at my church every Sunday at 5 p.m. with the rest of the congregation."

Family not convinced Hess killed himself

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — A second autopsy on former Nazi deputy fuehrer Rudolf Hess failed to convince relatives he killed himself, the Hess family lawyer said Friday.

Lawyer Alfred Seidl also criticized a Bavarian mayor for ordering the 93-year-old war criminal's body out of town.

The Allies, who had held Hess prisoner since 1941, say he left a suicide note. The British doctor who performed the first autopsy ruled Hess died of asphyxiation after strangling himself with an electrical cord.

The family requested another autopsy, but "the doubts about the suicide assertion have not been removed in any way," Seidl said.

He said forensic medicine specialist Dr. Wolfgang Spann conducted the autopsy in Munich and full details of this autopsy would be released Monday.

Seidl said imprints found on Hess' neck show the "influence of an outside, violent force," but he did not elaborate. Seidl previously indicated he believes someone else may have killed Hess.

"Whether the outside pressure came from a cord or not is not known," the lawyer said.

Hess, former deputy to Adolf Hitler, died Monday at the British Military Hospital in West Berlin after being rushed there from nearby Spandau prison. For 21 years, he was the only inmate at Spandau, held under guard of the victorious Allies of World War II — the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

Seidl complained that Mayor Uwe Lichtenberg of Fuerth ordered Hess' body removed from that Bavarian city Thursday night.

Seidl said that after Allied authorities handed over Hess' body, the family took it to a funeral home in Fuerth, northwest of Munich.

But the lawyer said Lichtenberg, a member of the left-leaning Social Democratic Party, ordered the body taken from the city by 7 p.m. Thursday without giving a reason.

Seidl said the body was then taken to Munich University clinic. He called Lichtenberg's order "shabby and unfitting."

A police spokesman in Fuerth, who insisted on anomymity, said Lichtenberg was on vacation and was in Fuerth only on Thursday to issue the order on Hess.

The newspaper Bild said Friday that Rudolf Hess would be buried Tuesday at his family's cemetery plot in Wunsiedel, a remote Bavarian village 11 miles from the Czechoslovak border.

Throughout Friday, dozens of visitors stopped at the family plot. Many were elderly, including one who wore the now-outlawed swastika that once was the symbol of Nazi Germany.

Fresh bouquets had been laid on the gravesite, including one with a card with the "Deutschland Lied" (Germany Song) printed in full.

The song, with the phrase "Deutschland, Deutschland ueber alles," (Germany, Germany over all) was closely identified with Nazi Germany.

Wunsiedel Mayor Karl Walter has expressed concern that his town would become a pilgrimage site for rightists from across West Germany.

Police in Frankfurt said Friday they arrested two right-wing extremists on suspicion of planting a bomb at the main railroad station.

The two men, aged 18 and 19, allegedly placed a homemade explosive device in a luggage locker on the north side of the sprawling train station shortly before Thursday midnight, police said.

Police said they had the two under observation because of concern that neo-Nazis might carry out attacks in West Germany following Hess' death. Officials declined to identify the two.

Terrorists threaten to torture French, American captives

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Pro-Iranian kidnappers claimed Friday that 17 fellow Shiite Moslems convicted of bombings in Kuwait are being tortured, and threatened to give American and French hostages the same treatment.

Islamic Jihad, which holds two Americans and three Frenchmen, said one French captive was "gravely ill," but did not identify him. The organization's name means Islamic Holy War.

A typewritten statement in Arabic accused Kuwait of "severe psychological and physical torture" of the 17 Shiites, who were convicted of bombing the U.S. and French embassies in the Persian Gulf emirate Dec. 3, 1983. Their release has been a long-standing demand of Islamic Jihad.

Seven people were killed in the bombings.

The statement was delivered after nightfall to a Western news agency in Moslem west Beirut. It demanded an improvement of conditions under which the Kuwait prisoners and declared:

"Otherwise we shall begin mistreating the hostages with us likewise. No news about them will be released in future. We note that one of the French hostages is gravely ill."

THE STATEMENT was accompanied by a videotape in which French hostages Jean-Paul Kauffmann and Marcel Carton pleaded for help.

"France knows well that our fate is tightly connected with the prisoners in Kuwait," Kauffmann said in a 17-minute recording. "France and Kuwait are friendly states. Why has nothing been undertaken with the Kuwaiti authorities?"

Kauffmann, 42, was clean-shaven and clad in a white shirt. He read from a written statement.

Two posters behind him read in French: "The 17 Combatants Imprisoned in Kuwait Must Be Freed" and "The Combatants Do Not Forget the Oppression of the Superpowers."

"It must be known that the prisoners (in Kuwait) are under severe conditions of detention," Kauffmann said. "Our captors threaten to inflict upon us the same ill-treatment if nothing is done to put an end to that torture.

"How long do you think we can take it? There are moments when a horrifying panic takes hold of me."

Addressing Prime Minister Jacques Chirac of France, he said: "Don't say that what we are asking for is impossible. Start a dialogue first. We are at the mercy of our abductors because of your refusal to start a dialogue.

"I HAVE often heard our captors saying, 'If your government wants, your issue will be resolved in 24 hours.' "

To his wife, Joelle, and their sons, Gregoire and Alexandre, he said: "If the government remains motionless, you shall not see us again."

Carton, 63, appeared on the screen wearing glasses, clean-shaven and clad in dark blue pajamas. He is the oldest of the 25 foreigners missing in Lebanon, who include eight Americans.

"I am like a rat at the bottom of a trap," he said. "A sick rat, an exhausted rat, a rat that has lost all its vital instincts." His voice shook as he read from a statement.

He accused Chirac's government of abandoning the French hostages.

Islamic Jihad said it would give Kuwait 15 days to issue filmed interviews with the prisoners in Kuwait before it starts "mistreating the hostages."

Kauffmann is a journalist and Carton was protocol officer at the French Embassy in Beirut. Kauffmann was kidnapped May 22, 1985, and Carton and the third French captive, 46-year-old vice consul Marcel Fontaine, were seized March 22, 1985.

THE KIDNAPPERS, believed to be Shiite zealots loyal to Iranian revolutionary patriarch Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, also hold Americans Terry A. Anderson and Thomas Sutherland.

Anderson, 39, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, was kidnapped March 16, 1985. He is the captive held longest.

Sutherland, 55, of Fort Collins, Colo., was acting dean of agriculture at the American University of Beirut when he was seized June 9, 1985.

Hashemi Rafsanjani, speaker of Iran's parliament, said in an U.S. television interview broadcast Thursday that the hostages could be freed if the United States caused Kuwait and Israel release Shiite prisoners they hold.

The State Department said it would not put pressure on allies to release prisoners.

Islamic Jihad said Kuwait "has lately begun employing cruel methods of torture and suppression against our brethren, banning them from performing their religious rituals and from using the bathroom."

Its statement came four days after U.S. journalist Charles Glass, 36, gained his freedom after 62 days of captivity. He said he escaped from his jailers.

INCLUDED AMONG the 25 missing foreigners is Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite, who dropped from sight Jan. 20 after leaving his hotel in Moslem west Beirut negotiate with hostage holders.

Ash-Shiraa, a Beirut magazine, said Friday he would be freed soon in return for $5 million in ransom. It quoted an unidentified source in west Beirut as saying the deal was worked out by a "prominent Lebanese leader who negotiated with the kidnapping party."

There was no way to verify the report. Ash-Shiraa gained prominence by publishing the first news last year of secret U.S. arms sales to Iran, but most of its subsequent reports about the hostages have been wrong.

Bomb damages tourist's car, Austrian shop

BOLZANO, Italy (AP) — Extremists bombed the car of an Italian tourist near Sarentino and set afire an Austrian-owned shop in this provincial capital of the Alto Adige (South Tyrol) region, police reported Friday.

No one claimed responsibility for the overnight sabotage. Police said, however, that they suspected German-speaking and Italian-speaking extremists, who have long been feuding in this northern Italian region close to the Austrian border.

Police said a homemade bomb damaged the car of a Sicilian tourist which was parked outside a hotel in Sarentino, 18½ miles north of Bolzano.

In Bolzano, a pastry shop owned by an Austrian company was badly damaged when arsonists poured gasoline and set it afire.

NOW APPEARING RUTH SHORTER

Goodnights
During her seven years as a performer, Ruth Shorter has become accomplished in many styles of music.
As a working vocalist and bassist in the Albuquerque area Ruth has gained many fans in the Country-Western and Country-Rock Circles. This lead to nomination for 1985 "Female Vocalist Of The Year" by the New Mexico Country Music Association.
Also in 1985 came the honor of being a featured vocalist at the very exclusive "Madrid Jazz Festival", sponsored by the New Mexico Jazz Workshop. To her credit, Ruth is often asked to perform as an "Opening Act" for major stars, the most recent include Earl Thomas Conlee, Razzy Baily and Donna Fargo.

Contra leaders OK Salvadoran peace talk plan

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Nicaraguan rebel leaders on Friday approved a Salvadoran proposal that they and insurgents in El Salvador hold separate but simultaneous peace talks with the governments they oppose.

Salvadoran rebels previously agreed to the proposal.

But the leaders of the Nicaraguan rebels, known as Contras, set the condition that they would not lay down their arms until Nicaragua's left-wing Sandinista government is on an "irreversible path to democracy."

The United States supports the Contras and also backs the Salvadoran government in its battle against leftist guerrillas.

Six Contra leaders announced their decision after meeting for five hours with Salvadoran President Jose Napoleon Duarte, who suggested last week that the separate Nicaraguan and Salvadoran peace talks begin Sept. 15.

"We are disposed to talk and to sit down at a negotiation table and we have accepted the peace plan (proposed by the five Central American governments), but until Nicaragua is on an irreversible path to democracy we aren't ready to have our people turn in their weapons and expose themselves to another betrayal by the Sandinistas," said Pedro Joaquin Chamorro, one of the Contra leaders, at a news conference.

Azucena Ferrey, also a member of the Contra directorate, read a statement from the steps of the presidential palace, saying, "We state our political goodwill to begin discussions directly with the Sandinista regime that could lead to a cease-fire."

But when she was asked why the Contras would not disarm, she said, "Here (in El Salvador) there is a process of deomcratization. We lack liberties, civil guarantees, human rights. We are fighting to establish a democratic process in our country."

Both the Contras and the Reagan administration have called repeatedly for peace negotiations between the insurgents and the Sandinistas who gained power in July 1979 after ousting the conservative government of President Anastasio Somoza.

President Daniel Ortega's Sandinista government has refused and demanded direct talks with the United States because of its support of the Contras.

In a speech to the National Assembly Aug. 13, Duarte called on the rebels fighting his government and the Contras to open separate meetings Sept. 15 with representatives of the two governments.

The five Central American countries, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Honduras and Guatemala, gained their independence from Spain in 1821 and all celebrate their national independence day on Sept. 15.

Duarte's government held talks with the Salvadoran rebels in October and November 1984, but they produced no results.

In his Aug. 13 speech, Duarte said his proposal was part of the preliminary peace plan approved at a summit of the five countries Aug. 7 in Guatemala City. He urged Nicaraguan and Salvadoran rebels to accept by Aug. 30 his plan for separate but simultaneous negotiations next month.

The Aug. 7 plan calls for ceasefires, negotiations, amnesties, democratization of the Central American countries and an end to logistical and military support for rebel forces from outside.

Leaders of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, the Salvadoran guerrilla coalition that has been fighting the government since 1979, quickly accepted Duarte's proposal for talks, but did not mention embracing the oeverall peace plan, as Duarte had stipulated.

But the Nicaraguan rebels, who are receiving $100 million in aid approved by the U.S. Congress, said they had agreed to both the talks and the peace plan.

Their statement said, "Considering our democratic inclination, with this public declaration, we accept in good faith the peace plan for Central America."

On Thursday night, Nicaragua's foreign minister repeated the Sandinista opposition to such talks.

"The Central American problem has a name, and that is American interventionism, and it continues to be very active even after the presidential accords," Miguel d'Escoto said. ""We've always been willing to meet with the head of the Contras, Mr. Reagan."

Showing their wounds

Striking South African miners reportedly injured by security officers display their wounds Friday at the National Union of Mineworkers' headquarters in Westonaria, west of Johannesburg. The miners' union said Friday that security officers fired lethal ammunition and rubber bullets at strikers Thursday night at the Libanon gold mines, killing one and injuring at least 30 others.

Mountie arrests American wanted for selling technology to Soviets

WHITEHORSE, Yukon Territory (AP) — A California businessman under indictment for illegally shipping $15 million of computer equipment to the Soviet Union was arrested by an alert mountie while on a fishing trip.

Charles McVey, who was flown to Vancouver, British Colombia, on Friday for extradition proceedings, had for several years returned from his refuge in Europe to fish at tiny, remote Teslin Lake, Canadian police said.

McVey, 64, had been on the 10 most-wanted list of the U.S. Customs Department's Operation Exodus project, which seeks to track down illegal exporters of U.S. high technology.

The former Villa Park, Calif., resident fled the United States shortly before March 1983, when a federal grand jury in Los Angeles indicted him on 23 counts of selling and shipping specialized computer equipment to the Soviet Union.

McVey is charged with using dummy companies to buy equipment such as minicomputers, satellite image processing gear and scientific equipment, based on a shopping list provided by the Soviets.

The indictment says the goods — $15 million worth — were diverted from 1977 to 1982 to institutes and military centers in the Soviet Union through a Swiss freight forwarder. If convicted on all counts, McVey faces more than 100 years in prison and a fine of up to $500,000.

A $1.2 million fine has already been levied against McVey by the U.S. Commerce Department, the second largest ever handed out under the U.S. Export Administration Act.

McVey was arrested Wednesday night in Teslin, near the British Columbia-Yukon border, said Cpl. Dan Fudge, who heads the Royal Canadian Mounted Police's two-man Teslin Lake detachment.

The 6-foot-3, 300-pound McVey surrendered peacefully when Fudge, recognizing him from a picture on file, made the arrest at a private residence in the village of 400 people about 110 miles east of Whitehorse, the mountie said.

Staff Sgt. Tom Hill of the RCMP's customs and excise division said Canadian police kept an open file on McVey, who had for several years been returning to Teslin Lake.

"He's a creature of habit," said Hill. "He likes to go to the same motels and fish the same lakes."

Fudge said he heard rumors in the community that McVey was back, saw him in a coffee shop and obtained an arrest warrant.

"We suspect that he has been in Europe — Switzerland and Malta — we just hadn't caught up to him," Mike Fleming, U.S. customs spokesman for the Pacific Region.

Hill said McVey is to appear in court for a bail hearing Monday.

Paul Halprin, the special Crown prosecutor handling the case, said extradition proceedings usually take up to 60 days but could take much longer if McVey appeals an extradition order through higher courts.

Demjanjuk witness attempts suicide

JERUSALEM (AP) — A defense witness in John Demjanjuk's war crimes trial tried to commit suicide and was given emergency medical treatment at a Jerusalem hospital, police reported Friday.

Defense lawyer John Gill said he and Israeli colleague Yoram Sheftel discovered Anita Pritchard of Houston, Texas, collapsed on her bed in her hotel room Thursday night. He said an ambulance took her to Bikur Holim hospital.

Police said Mrs. Pritchard, 40, swallowed painkillers and cut one wrist. According to the Israeli news agency Itim, her stomach had to be pumped in the emergency room.

On Wednesday, she retracted testimony in the trial and acknowledged under cross-examination that her credentials would not have allowed her to testify in a U.S. court.

In retracting her testimony about the so-called Trawniki card, a key piece of prosecution evidence, Mrs. Pritchard acknowledged Wednesday that she took only a one-year correspondence course toward a doctorate in psychology from an unaccredited school in San Rafael, Calif.

Mrs. Pritchard, appearing pale and withdrawn, was released Friday and Gill accompanied her out of the hospital. She would not speak to reporters.

Itim said Mrs. Pritchard planned to return to the United States tonight.

Zippora Levy, a nurse on duty when Mrs. Pritchard arrived at the hospital, said she was "in a severe state of depression" and saw a psychiatrist.

She said the woman had tried to slit a wrist, but did not hurt herself seriously and no stitches were required. The nurse also said Mrs. Pritchard swallowed over-the-counter painkillers.

Demjanjuk, 67, is accused of being a brutal Ukranian guard known as Ivan the Terrible who operated the gas chambers of the Nazi death camp at Treblinka in occupied Poland, where 850,000 Jews and other prisoners were killed in 1942-1943.

The defendant, who was born in the Soviet Ukraine, is a retired Ohio auto worker. He claims to be a victim of mistaken identity and says he was held in two prisoner of war camps after the Germans captured his Soviet army unit.

Mrs. Pritchard was the second of two defense experts to falter under cross-examination. Last week, the prosecution discredited a conclusion reached by American handwriting analyst Edna Robertson that the Trawniki card was forged.

Police don't interfere in Panamanian riots

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — Hundreds of people demonstrated Friday against Gen. Manuel Anotnio Noriega, the nation's military leader, setting trash and two automobiles ablaze, erecting barricades and blocking traffic.

Riot police did not interfere and there were no immediate reports of arrests or injuries.

The protest was organized by the Civic Crusade, a coalition opposed to President Eric Arturo Delvalle's military-dominated government, which has been calling demonstrations almost daily since June to press for Noriega's ouster.

Civic Crusade leaders accuse Noriega, the Defense Forces chief, of corruption and using strongarm tactics to silence opponents.

Friday's rallies began when students at the National University, near the downtown banking district, blocked adjacent streets with rocks, set trash cans on fire and burned two automobiles belonging to the state telephone company.

A few hours later, about 2,000 nurses and doctors from the Santo Tomas Hospital and employees from the Social Security Institute marched through the capital's main avenues, shouting anti-government slogans.

Earlier in the day, about 100 workers from La Prensa, one of three opposition newspapers closed down by the government, demonstrated peacefully for two hours at the Miraflores Lock of the Panama Canal to demand the newspapers be allowed to reopen.

Again, anti-riot police stood at a distance but did not interfere.
