One Year Budget

AUSTIN (AP)-Gov. Bill Clements said today he is interested in and not opposed to this Legislature writing a one-year budget to be followed by a special session on money matters next summer.

"I would give it every consideration," Clements told a news conference. "Due to our uncertain economy, and inflation, we might make an exception this year and have just a one-year budget with a special session later limited only to financial matters."

Withdrawal Argued

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Chairman Hua Guofeng says the last Chinese troops have withdrawn from Vietnam, but the Vietnamese government reported today that Chinese forces were still shelling and looting inside Vietnam and Laos charged Chinese troops crossed its border last week. Hua, China's premier and Communist Party leader, announced the end of the invasion that China began Feb. 17 in a meeting in Peking Thursday with the governor of Tokyo, Ryokichi Minobe, Japan's Kyodo news agency reported. But Hua did not say if Chinese troops had pulled out of areas in which Vietnam claimed the Chinese put up new boundary markers.

Iran Trial Halted

TEHRAN (AP)—Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini today ordered the Islamic court trying former Prime Minister Amir Abbas Hoveida to halt its proceedings until new rules can be drawn up for the revolutionary tribunals that have sent at least 62 men before firing squads in little more than a month.

There was no immediate explanation for the decision, but the move appeared to represent a victory for Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan who has threatened to resign if such "inhuman and irreligious" proceedings continued.

U.S. Delegation Heads For Egypt

WASHINGTON (AP)-A high-level U.S. delegation is heading for the Mideast today in an attempt to persuade Arab leaders to change their minds and support a peace treaty between Egypt and Israel.

The four-man U.S. delegation and six aides will meet with leaders of two moderate Arab states, Saudi Arabia and Jordan, the White House announced today. The team was scheduled to leave Washington this afternoon.

The delegation consists of President Carter's national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski; Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher; Gen. David C. Jones, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; and Carter's son Chip.

A White House statement said the talks "will be held in the spirit of friendship that has long characterized our relations these two countries."

The administration hopes the four men can persuade Saudi Arabia and Jordan not to participate in a proposed Arab economic boycott of Egypt as a result of its decision to sign a treaty with Israel.

The U.S. delegation won't attempt to use threats, the sources said, but "will make it clear how important we see this in terms of our interest and theirs."

Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, said earlier Thursday that an Egyptian-Israeli treaty probably won't be signed "for the next week or so." The treaty, which has been approved by the Egyptian cabinet, still must be voted on by the Israeli Knesset, or parliament.

In anticipation of the long-sought treaty, other talks were to begin in Washington today on how much aid the United States will give the two countries. Members of Congress have said President Carter reported to them it might be in the range of $4 billion to $5 billion in additional American aid to the two countries.

Snyder 7th Grader Wins '79 County Spelling Bee

Floy Willingham of Snyder, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barton Willingham, won the Scurry County spelling bee this morning.

However, both she and the runner-up, 13-year-old Julie Kellner of Ira, misspelled three words before either could gain a decisive edge in the contest.

Both girls tripped over the words "abscess," "addendum," and "afferent." Miss Kellner also went down to the word "amah." Miss Willingham, however, correctly

Industrial Prospect One Of Largest In America

More information concerning a major industry now considering the Snyder area as a plant site was disclosed Thursday afternoon at a press conference at the chamber of commerce office.

The firm is Teledyne-Wah Chang Albany, a subsidiary of Teledyne, Inc., a "Fortune 100" company.

The facility it plans to construct would produce zirconium, a corrosion-resistant metal which is used chiefly in nuclear reactor chambers and the nuclear fuel rods employed in electric generating stations, submarines, etc.

Zirconium is extracted from sands which Teledyne-Wah Chang brings by ship load from Australia.

Other raw materials involved in the production of zirconium are chlorine, hydrochloric acid, lime, sulfuric acid, caustic soda, coke, magnesium, anhydrous ammonia, methyl isobutyl ketone and ammonium thiscyanate.

Some two years ago, the firm employed Stone and Webster management consultants to conduct a survey and recommend sites suitable for the new zirconium plant. Sites were considered in Washington, Utah, the Carolinas, Texas, Arizona and New Mexico. Local leaders were informed last week that the list of sites under consideration has been narrowed to Snyder and two others.

The plant will require a site of 100 to 400 acres with adjacent rail service and they prefer a semi-arid location.

Some of the factors expected to get consideration are the quality of life

5-Year Health Plan Discussed

A routine public hearing on a proposed Health Systems Plan for a 44-county region was held Thursday night in the community room of the Snyder National Bank.

The Health Systems Agency is a federally funded agency responsible for the planning and developing of health care services and resources. The 44-county region, of which Snyder and Scurry County are a part, covers North Texas, West Central Texas, and a portion of the Concho Valley.

Presiding at the meeting last night was Max Tipton, a board member of the HSA and the second vice president of the tri-region. Agency staff members attending the meeting were David Brown, Linda Moody, and Angel Rivera.

The brief discussion centered on the placement of alcoholism and drug abuse programs on the agency's list of priorities and with the quality of care provided by ambulance services.

L.D. Womble of Snyder, director of the alcoholism and drug abuse center, noted that drug abuse was placed seventh on the HSA's list of priorities and that alcoholism and alsochol abuse were number 10 on the list.

Womble asked if greater priority could be placed on the issues of alcoholism and related drug abuse. He was referred to

Ask Us

Q--Why has there been a lot of "snow" recently on some television channels on SCAT (Snyder Community Antenna Television)?

A--Mel Gilbert, executive vice president of SCAT, says that if the "snow" is only on certain channels, it probably is caused by atmospheric conditions that are encountered every year about this time. These cause interference that results in what the SCAT people refer to as a "sparkle." If you have problems on all channels, he suggests that you call the SCAT office and they will check your line. Every spring, stations from which SCAT takes programs "off the air" have atmospheric problems, especially the higher-numbered channels. Those coming to SCAT by microwave are not affected nearly so much as the others.

Keeping tab on our neighbors:

James Roberts, in the Andrews County News, took note of some costly "Knee-jerk reactions" by the federal government the other day, and just when it appeared that the feds had touched on everything, another one emerged. He cited the fears that fluorocarbons were damaging the Earth's ozone, which later were discredited by a group of British scientists; the hassle over nitrites in bacon, and the saccharin scare.

"Now, another knee-jerk reaction," wrote Roberts. "This week the Department of Agriculture made the announcement that it had awarded a half-million-dollar contract to a Massachusetts firm to develop a multi-media information campaign to encourage children to eat better--especially breakfast.

"In other words, we're gonna brainwash the kids to go and eat that school breakfast or else!

"Maybe the government ought to sign a contract with Billy Carter. He evidently liked, too well, his own product."

Sales Tax Rebates Decrease In State

Texas' retail sales for the reporting period ending March 1 were off substantially from the same time last year, based on sales tax collections, State Comptroller Bob Bullock has reported.

The decline was reflected in rebates to cities.

The rebate to Snyder for this period amounted to $65,857, compared to $86,003 the same time last year. Wire services reported that Bullock was monitoring the reports closely to determine whether the decline resulted merely from the difference of a day or two in the reporting process, or if it represented a trend. The reports were consistent from the largest through small cities, with Houston's rebate decreasing from $13½ million to $11¼ million and the Dallas rebate off from $7.9 million to $6.6 million.

Some of the small towns fared better, including Rotan, where the rebate of $10,224 was slightly above the $10,139 of a year ago. Roscoe received a rebate of $3,343, compared to $3,446 last year, and Roby got $2,057, compared to $3,312 a year ago.

Larger towns in the area were not so fortunate. Sweetwater's rebate fell from $71,138 to $52,889, while Pecos was off from $63,985 to $43,099, Levelland from $64,420 to $42,099, Lamesa from $61,658 to $38,557, Brownfield from $52,732 to $31,891, Monahans from $54,415 to $30,176; Post from $19,708 to $13,835, and Colorado City from $24,396 to $10,109.

Hearing In Murder Case Postponed

A pre-trial hearing in the murder-capital murder case of Larry B. Williams has been postponed.

The hearing, which was scheduled for today to consider seven motions which have been filed in the case, was delayed because of the death of a relative of Travis Shelton, one of Williams' two attorneys. No new date has been set for the hearing.

Williams is charged with murder and capital murder in the Jan. 12 robbery of Gibson's Discount Center in which store manager Juan Garcia was killed.

freedom gains ground

Trying to measure freedom on a world scale in a way is not unlike the task of the blind men asked to describe an elephant: It's not easy getting the picture of the whole animal from component elements that can be subject to such varying interpetations.

The complexity of the task, however, is not such as to daunt Freedom House, a private political research organization keeping vigilant watch on the state of liberty throughout the world since World War II. Since 1973, it has been issuing an annual "Comparative Survey of Freedom" rating the relative freedom of the world's nations.

According to the latest edition, 1978 ended up as one of the better recent years. Freedom lost ground in a few countries--eight with a combined population of 144 million. But it gained in more — 24 with some 563 million people.

It was the second consecutive year for which the Freedom House scale registered a net gain. The year's final balance for the world's estimated 4.23 billion inhabitants of 158 nations and 59 related territories was 35.1 percent "free," 24.7 percent "partly free" and 40.2 percent "not free."

To arrive at this finding, the survey evaluated each country according to some two dozen criteria reflecting political and civil liberties enjoyed or denied. These for the most part derive from the traditional European and American concepts of freedom, which might make it appear that lands of widely differing cultures and traditions were being rated according to an arbitrary and possibly alien standard. Something like all parts of the elephant being evaluated in terms of the tail.

But, as the survey points out, "the political and legal institutions competing for acceptance in almost every country in the world today are to a large extent derived from Western experience." Further, the basic concepts of freedom are neither new nor geographically restricted.

"They speak to human desires for justice and autonomy for groups or individuals that to a degree have been present in every society."

In short, the Western tail essentially wags the world animal. And even though the free third of the world is still grossly outnumbered, it nevertheless is encouraging news that the animal's state of health is improving these days.

hospitality waning

Is it possible that in a few years some states will begin posting "no trespassing" signs, or in other ways hint broadly they would just as soon not too many strangers ventured across their borders?

Something of the sort has begun to happen. A number of the states which only a few years ago were competing hard for industry and permanent settlers suddenly are very quiet.

Some of them are still looking, but only for "clean" industries which won't pollute the environment or bring any other bad habits with them. Other states have made it quite plain they would be very content if their populations grew no more.

When one governor says people are welcome to visit his state, "but for heaven's sake, don't come here to live," when the president of a state senate discourages retirees from moving to his state, when even sparsely settled states like Montana begin to worry about too many people--times are indeed changing.

"Since being married costs us an extra bundle on our combined incomes, we're claiming you as a dependent."

at wits end

by erma bombeck

The Diet Workshop recently came up with a survey that didn't hold too many surprises. The most hated food among dieters is liver.

Anybody's.

Personally, I don't like to eat anything that moves when I cook it, excites the dog, or inflates on impact with your teeth.

I used to go to a weight-control group that preached the gospel of liver. I think the slogan they used was "Drink a liver malt with someone you love." We all tried to disguise liver by working our quota of it into other parts of the diet. I did everything but put a dress on mine. It didn't help.

Liver is not like any other food I know. It's the kind that when you drop it, you find yourself apologizing to it. I have met a few pro-liver people in my time, although I try not to cultivate them. They are usually people who sit around and make ridiculous statements like, "Can you get any rhubarb in this town?" or "I didn't like eels either until I tried them in butter."

They will regale you for hours on their favorite methods of cooking liver and what you have to do to kill the taste, but I've never converted.

Even in my fantasies, I can't see Sophia Loren, Jaclyn Smith or Cheryl Tiegs having liver breath-even for hipbones.

I've done a lot of compromising during my diet years, which began the year after I was married and my knees began to blouse. I pretended to crave lettuce, sneaked carrot sticks into my bedroom and ate them under the covers and even layered cottage cheese and pretended it was cake... but liver!

I have done a lot of thinking on the subject as to why liver is thinning. Some people think it is because food has to taste bad to make you look good. This is an old wives' tale and is simply not true.

The reason why liver makes you thin (and why two percent of the dieters polled refused to even try it) is because liver goes a long way. Not only will a pound of it feed a city the size of Seattle for an entire month, but a single spoonful of liver into the mouth of a dietee will be chewed for three days, thus eliminating all the fattening food you might have eaten.

my turn

Don't forget tomorrow is the day you bring your dog to the ag building by the coliseum to be vaccinated against rabies and registered. Actually, it is not limited just to dogs. Any pet subject to catch rabies will cheerfully be vaccinated. If your wife or girlfriend has been associating with skunks or foaming at the mouth lately it wouldn't hurt to have her vaccinated too. And in my opinion all kids under 12 and other varmints likely to bite should be ran through the line. It's only $5 a shot and with rabies on the rise we can't be too careful.

Snyder residents are lucky to live in a town where there are relatively few dogs running at large. With Lloyd Merritt as the animal warden, I'm surprised there are any stray animals at all with enough nerve to step inside the city limits.

It wasn't always that way. Around the turn of the decade I was a college student and spent the summers in Snyder working in the oilfield. I often rode my bicycle in the late evening. I couldn't go a block without having some frisky hound take after my heels. Mostly they were not stray dogs but pets of people who felt no obligation to keep them restrained. If jogging had been fashionable in those days there would have been a lot of sore rumps and lawsuits.

I finally did figure out a way to discourage the little beasts from attacking me every time I rode by. I would simply fill a couple of paper cups, the variety you get at a fast-food place, with gravel scooped from the side of the road and fling the contents at the charging canines at the appropriate moment.

The shower of pebbles would usually stop them in their tracks with a yelp to boot. If not, the race was on. But that was back when bicycles were equipped with baskets for carrying those extra little necessities. Bicycle baskets nowadays are as scarce as balanced budgets.

Also back in those days there was a rage to own a German Shepherd. It didn't seem to matter that these dogs could eat more than a Baptist preacher or that one's yard was smaller than the bathtub, every third house had to have a German Shepherd.

Legend and folklore attribute high intelligence and fierce pride to these animals and if even half trained they live up to their reputation. Most of these dogs, however, grew up with the same discipline that was applied to the family house cat. As a result, they spent their days roaming the street using their superior wits to search out and destroy pedestrians and bicycle riders. The only thing that would keep them in their own yard was a chance to terrorize the mailman or meter reader.

While it was a fad, status symbol or fulfillment of a childhood dream for most there were those who acquired German Shepherds for more legitimate reasons.

Damon Johnson, one of the men I worked with at Musslewhite, said he got one hoping it would keep an eye on his young children. It did. In fact he said he learned the hard way there was no spanking his children in the yard. I'm sure it took a special kind of diplomacy to coax a kid into coming in the house for a whipping. Then there was the matter of staying in the house until the dog could forget the screams of its young playmate.

Some ideas just work out too well.

Irate Teacher Vents Wrath

ATLANTA (AP)-Georgia's teachers haven't been at all shy about letting state legislators know their feelings concerning proposed pay raises in the budget now under consideration.

One irate teacher vented her wrath Thursday on Sen. Beverly Langford, D-Calhoun, saying, "I wouldn't vote for you if you were St. Peter."

Langford replied: 'Ma'am, if I were St. Peter, you wouldn't be in my district."

WASHINGTON (NEA)- Federal officials have decided that their best chance to improve television programs is not to change the current operators but to encourage alternative sources. After years of grandiose plans and promises for expansion, they may be successful.

It has become popular across the country to criticize most television programs as unimaginative, too heavy on sex and violence, and created by a few isolated trendsetters in Hollywood and New York.

Even if the criticism is valid, the government should continue to allow the public to determine what broadcast fare, if any, it wants to watch.

As Charles D. Ferris, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), noted in a recent speech, the fact remains that "on every weekday night television sets are on in 60 percent of American households and the vast majority are tuned to ABC, CBS, or NBC."

But the reasons they are watching those three networks is because they have little choice. Few viewers outside the very largest metropolitan areas can select another commercial station with first-run shows. And most public broadcasting programs still have relatively small viewer appeal.

This system has survived with little challenge for nearly three decades. One important, often overlooked, reason is that each of the three networks owns five television stations - the maximum permitted by the FCC - and all are in the 10 largest metropolitan areas.

This means 15 of the 30 stations affiliated with a network in the biggest dollar markets are owned by the networks and, consequently, hardly likely to do anything not in the best interests of the networks.

For example, these network-owned stations have shown little interest in programs distributed by independent producers seeking to challenge the network prime-time schedule. Without the approximately one-fourth of the public in the audience of each network's owned stations, many operators feel it is futile to market their work nationally.

Rep. Lionel van Deerlin, D-Calif., chairman of the House Communications Subcommittee, may urge his colleagues to reduce this control and bring more diversity to television ownership and programming. He has sponsored a bill to overhaul the entire Communications Act and hopes for its enactment in 1980.

At the FCC, Ferris makes it clear he thinks there should be considerably more than three major networks and is supporting steps to achieve that goal, including the recent creation of a special staff to review network dominance and analyze ways to relieve it. Ferris believes the result almost certainly will be a greater variety of programs because "many independent voices are preferable to a few."

Even if government does not act, private enterprise has dramatically altered options for the regular viewer. Cable television, which now reaches 14 million homes, can import programs from hundreds of miles away. In Atlanta, sports and movies on Ted Turner's "superstation" WTCG are distributed to cableviewers nationwide.

A new - somewhat less spine-tingling - service available to many cable subscribers is a continuous feed of the House of Representatives in session.

Home video cassettes have achieved phenomenal popularity in the few years they have been marketed commercially. Consumers now can spend a few hundred dollars on a machine that will record the viewer's favorite programs and play them back whenever he or she wishes.

Television technology is so advanced that engineers envision the day when a home set will receive as many signals as a typical radio.

All these steps do not mean a threat to the "Fonz" or Charlie's Angels. But more broadcast outlets offer the prospect that television will begin to cater to smaller audiences and more specialized tastes.

37 Years Later, An Indiscretion Calls Him Daddy

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Please answer in the paper because I live in a very small town and if anyone ever found out my name I'd be a laughing stock.

What would you do if your husband, after 34 years of marriage, suddenly announced that he has a 37-year-old daughter? I raised hell. Was I in error?

My husband told me that a woman came to his place of work and identified herself as the girl he got pregnant 37 years ago. She reminded him that when she told him she was expecting, he said he'd do anything but marry her because he wasn't ready for marriage. She then disappeared. Now, after all this time, she suddenly finds him and says her daughter would like to know her father! My husband says he recalls the incident vagely. Without consulting me, he agreed to meet this so-called daughter and also promised to tell our children about her!

I say this woman is out to make trouble and wreck our home. I forbade my husband to tell our children about it. (We have two.) I told him this woman may not even know who fathered her daughter, and he shouldn't get involved.

Our family life has been good up to now, but this is upsetting. What should I do.

FROM A SMALL TOWN

DEAR FROM: Advise your husband to see a lawyer and find out (a) how much (if any) legal responsibility he has to this woman and her daughter, and (b) how to handle it.

If your husband feels a moral obligation to the woman, he will have to deal with it as he sees fit. In the meantime, the word from here is—keep cool and keep quiet!

DEAR ABBY: I know this is a dumb question for an 18-year-old girl to ask, but when is a girl no longer considered a virgin?

I had a boyfriend and we were very, very close, but we never had sexual intercourse. (We did everything BUT.) Am I still considered a virgin?

Please answer in the paper, as I don't want this kind of information coming to my house in a letter. Also, I'm sure there are other girls who would like to know.

VIRGIN OR NOT

DEAR VIRGIN: Although you have done everything BUT—the "but" makes the difference. Technically, you are a virgin.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LOTS OF PROBLEMS IN MILWAUKEE: You need a "parentectomy—which means to become completely independent from your parents. You must support yourself, make your own decisions and assume total responsibility for your own actions. At 30, you are old enough. Get going.

The teen years are the questioning years. Abby has the answers to all your questions in her booklet, "What Teenagers Want to Know." Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope.

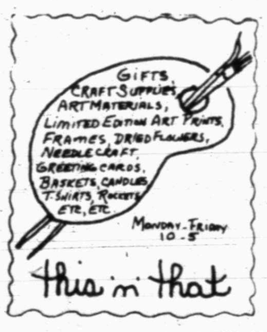

Clutch and small flat women's handbags with extra long shoulder straps worn bandoleer-style across the body--termed "blazer"--are among popular accessory styles for spring, reports Becky Culp, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Herbs To Beware Of

Beware of certain herbal teas containing buckthron and bark and senna, suggests Mary K. Sweeten, a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M Univeristy System.

Although these herbs are not harmful, they are known to have a laxative effect, she points out.

We quote from Easley Blackwood. "One of the best friends a declarer has is the trump policeman."

South gets to four hearts on account of the honors and his good hand.

He ruffs the third spade and sees that a successful diamond finesse will let him make an overtrick unless trumps break 5-1.

How about an unsuccessful diamond finesse? He will still make four if trumps break 3-3. Can he handle a 4-2 trump break and losing diamond finesse?

Yes, he can if he puts Blackwood's trump policeman to work.

South ruffs the third spade. Leads his 10 of trumps to dummy's jack, takes and loses the diamond finesse.

West had the third defensive trick and would like to lead his last spade and force South to ruff, but there is that policeman trump in dummy ready to ruff a spade and protect declarer.

West can lead anything he wants to lead, but South is going to draw trumps and claim the rest of the tricks.

We slightly favor opening it, but have no criticism of anyone who prefers to pass with it. The hand is border line.

Wins Preliminary House Approval...

Tax Relief Bill Passes 1st Test

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)—A "tax relief" bill described in terms of both Robin Hood and the Prodigal Son has won preliminary House approval.

House members gave up lunch Thursday and worked to mid-afternoon to advance the bill, which will come up again on Monday for final passage. That would send it to the Senate.

The measure HB1060 enacts all the optional provisions of the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment and provides more than $430 million in state tax dollars to offset property tax cuts school districts must grant.

The Tax Relief Amendment automatically exempted $5,000 of the market value of owner-occupied homes from school property taxes. It left implementation of its other features to the Legislature.

Key provisions of the bill approved Thursday would:

-Grant the disabled and those 65 and over a $10,000 homestead exemption, in addition to the mandated $5,000 exemption, and freeze school taxes of the elderly at their present levels.

-Exempt two cars or light trucks per family from property taxes.

-Limit increases in state spending to the percentage of growth of Texans' total personal income.

-Exempt intangible property such as stocks, bonds and bank accounts from taxation, except for the handful of intangibles already taxed - chiefly bank stock.

-Tax farm, ranch and timber land - both family-owned and corporately-owned - according to its crop-producing capacity, not its market value. Taxable value would be estimated net income divided by either 10 percent or the Houston Federal Land Bank's interest rate plus 2½ percent, whichever was greater. If the "capitalization rate" was 10 percent, an acre that could produce a $30 average annual profit would be valued at $30 for taxation.

-Omit intangible property from the measurement of school district wealth that is used to determine how much state aid each district would receive - a step considered essential to avoid ruinous cuts in aid to big city schools.

-Use state tax money to reimburse school districts for revenue losses resulting from property tax cuts mandated by the Tax Relief Amendment and the implementing bill.

Automobile tax losses, minus each district's collection costs would be reimbursed only for the first year and are estimated at $17 million.

Junior college district revenue losses caused by the change from market value to agricultural value also would be reimbursed, although nobody knows the amount.

School districts whose level of property appraisals for taxation fall below the state average would receive 36 percent of their losses.

5 Sentenced HereThursday

Five men were sentenced Thursday in 132nd District Court, and one received a prison term.

The prison term was for three years and given Byron Keith Wortham on a probation revocation. Wortham had been placed on probation for the June 24, 1978, offense of breaking into The Snyder Daily News.

It was revoked because of a subsequent burglary arrest. The second offense took place Feb. 9 when he is alleged to have attempted to steal an item from an enclosed area at McDonald Welding Supply.

Another participant in the incident at McDonald Welding Supply, Stephen Mark Franks, pleaded guilty to a burglary charge and drew a three-year probation and a $500 fine.

The other three charges dealt with allegations of driving while intoxicated. Named in those charges were Robert Windall Waller, Loomis Lane Allen, and Pablo Zapata Martinez.

All entered guilty pleas and received two-year prison terms that were probated.

Scarce Diesel Sparks Threat

AUSTIN (AP)-Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown warned Texas oil companies today to solve spot shortages of diesel fuel for farming or the federal government will invoke standby controls.

"If the oil companies do not impose their own regulations that will enable farmers to plant and harvest, the companies are faced with government intervention in their business," Brown said in a statement.

"If there truly is a shortage of diesel in Texas, companies can use their ingenuity to do some switching within the state so that farmers can at least get their crops planted in time."

Brown said he has received calls from farmers who say their dealers have been ordered to cut back on diesel fuel deliveries. He said some companies have put their dealers on supply allotments that are inadequate even for initial planting operations.

Basics of DE...

Many students, parents, and businessmen have inquired about Distributive Education - What it is, Who is eligible for it, etc.

WHAT IS DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION? A Vocational training program for students who are interested in studying the field of marketing both in the classroom and on the job.

WHO CAN TAKE DE? DE is available to Junior and Senior students who demonstrate a serious interest and aptitude for vocational cooperative training, are a minimum of 16 years of age, have a good grade and good attendance records at the high school.

HOW DOES THE PROGRAM OPERATE? The student makes application for distributive education at the high school DE office. The student must sign up for DE and other necessary academic courses. The student goes to regular school classes half the day, and goes to a training station (job) the other portion of the day. The student's grades are determined by their class work, participation, and job performance. The student is paid for work on the basis of a regular part-time employee.

HOW ABOUT CREDIT FOR DE? Distributive Education must be taken three consecutive quarters as a minimum, and counts 3 credits for each quarter. However, many students take the DE program both their Junior and Senior years. Distributive Education credits are accepted by Texas State colleges and universities. DE graduates are encouraged to attend college and a large percentage of them do attend.

Students In Working World

Distributive Education and Industrial Cooperative Training programs are designed to orient high school juniors and seniors to the business world and the American economic system. This is accomplished through a combination of classroom instruction and on-the-job experience.

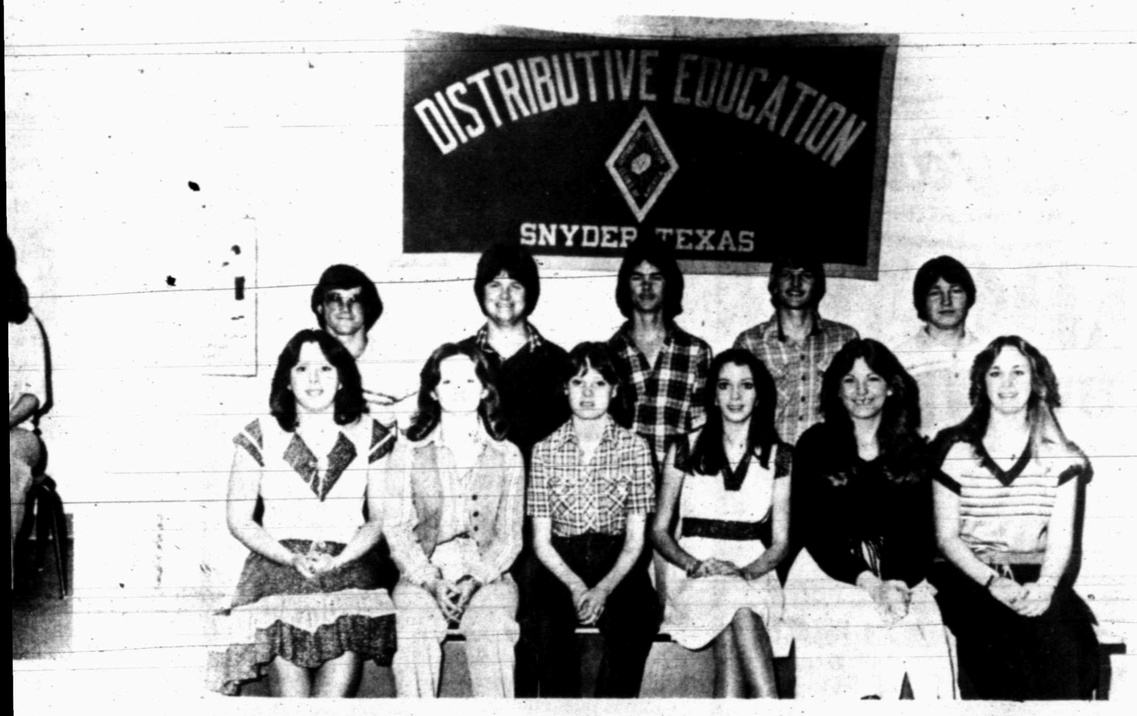

Students, both boys and girls, are placed in jobs according to their abilities and interests. Backing up this hands-on experience are classroom studies in selling, display, advertising, management, etc.

In addition units in Job Application, Job Orientation, and Free Enterprise are covered in the curriculum.

Why are these programs referred to as Co-op Programs? The programs involve cooperation between the business community and the local school system. Many businesses favor employing students because of desire to be a part of the training of high school students and because of their interest in the related school study offered to the student. Many business owners, managers, and workers received their initial training through the Co-op programs.

D.E. and I.C.T. serve as excellent business survey courses for the pre-college student.

The success of the Co-op programs and their constant growth is a tribute to the interest and time devoted by the local businesses who assist in the training of these students.

Distributive Education students also become active in DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America), a local, state and national youth organization that affords leadership opportunities and civic involvement. The Texas Association of DECA, which is sponsored by the Texas Education Agency, has over 20,000 members in more than 663 chapters in high schools.

Local DECA Chapter officers are : Angela Brumley, President; Nena Melton, vice president; Sharon Strickland, secretary; Joe Beth Stephens, treasurer; and La Ronda Cain, historian.

DECA activities in 1978 included a social with fellow DE students from Hamlin and Sweetwater, an Area DECA Officer's Workshop held at Angelo State University during October. DECA members met at the Shack during November to discuss the current year's fund raising activity - cheese and sausage sales; and to finalize plans for a Thanksgiving party for the residents of Snyder Oaks Nursing Home.

During December the DECA Chapter treated the high school faculty to a Christmas Appreciation cake. DECA Chapter officers also visited two of the students who were injured in the McCaulley School bus accident.

The Area I DECA Career Development Conference was held at Angelo State University during February. Eight DECA students represented the Snyder High DECA Chapter in the role-playing competency based competitive events.

Area I DECA winners from Snyder included Terry Thames in Petroleum Marketing, Daniel Peralez in Finance and Credit; and Mary Pruitt in Food Service.

The 33rd Annual State DECA Career Development Conference is being held now in Fort Worth. Over 2,700 students and advisors from throughout the state are participating in the workshop seminar, and competitive event sessions.

The annual Employer Appreciation Banquet which will be held in April will sum up the year's DECA activities.

Gas Rationing Scheme Would Punish Texans

AUSTIN (AP)-The Texas Energy Advisory Council says the state will be on the losing end if the Carter administration's standby gas rationing plan is adopted.

Milton Holloway, the council's executive director, said Thursday that Texans would have "to spend $116.4 million a month to purchase sufficient gas coupons from states that have extra ones.

The estimate was made by the U.S. Department of Energy, he said.

The council adopted a resolution Thursday opposing the proposed rationing plan, which is based on a national average.

It said any rationing plan should take state-by-state driving patterns into account.

The resolution said under the administration plan certain groups would "bear a disproportionate share of the burden of shortages."

The plan "would result in massive income transfers from the lower income, more rural areas of the South including Texas to the high income areas of the Northeast and the West Coast."

The council stressed the "production oriented" energy policy favored by top Texas officials should be adopted before the federal government puts any gas rationing plan into effect.

The council said it recognized energy shortages put the nation in a vulnerable position, but removal of regulatory barriers would be the most sensible solution.

The council also voted to ask the Legislature for three times as much money over the next two years for the Texas Energy Development Fund, established in 1977.

The budget proposal is for an extra $1.1 million for each of the next two years, or an annual budget of $1.8 million. The Legislative Budget Board recommended $675,000 annually.

Among the research projects the development fund proposes are geothermal, solar, lignite and gasohol studies.

In 1945, the Big Four Powers invited 39 nations to San Francisco to draw up a charter for the United Nations.

Don't overdo cod liver oil

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 64 years old and I have arthritis and high cholesterol. I have read that cod liver oil has been beneficial in treating arthritis. I would like to try it. Is cod liver oil of any value in treating arthritis?

DEAR READER — No, it won't help at all. About 30 percent of people feel better when they receive any treatment, regardless of whether the treatment is of any value or not. I don't mean that the illness is in their mind. I am talking about actual diseases, such as arthritis. That's why it's so hard to judge whether a new medicine really is helping people or whether they are merely helped by their faith in the medicine and their doctor.

Some types of arthritis have remissions which would occur naturally anyway, whether the doctor provided medicine or not. If a person happens to be taking something that he thinks will help the arthritis at the time the natural remission occurs, he is greatly impressed with it. That's how you get these stories of people having miraculous cures from some unlikely substance.

Cod liver oil contains lots of vitamin D. If you take a lot of it and also get vitamin D in your milk (I hope you are drinking or otherwise getting about a quart a day) plus other food, you can soon approach toxic levels. Persistently taking 2000 units a day or more can cause softening of your bones.

You probably have osteoarthritis. I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-10 to give you more information about it. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please tell me something about herpes simplex number 2. I am told that it is a form of VD and there is no cure for it. Periodically, both my husband and I get these sores, on his nose, chin or penis and mine occur on the buttocks. My husband went to a skin specialist who diagnosed it as herpes simplex number 2 and told him it was a form of VD and there was no cure for it.

We have both been getting these sores for about five years and it is ruining our sex life. Please tell me if you know of any cure. Also, when I have a Pap test, it is never diagnosed. Please help me.

DEAR READER — I wish I could. The truth is we don't have any good medicines to treat viruses. Herpes is a virus infection. Antibiotics work well for bacteria, but viruses are a whole new ball game.

There are some anti-viral medicines in the research stage of development but some of those have undesirable side effects.

The herpes simplex sore is the common cold sore. Herpes simplex number 1 is usually around the lips. The difference in the location of the two viruses in the past gave rise to the statement that herpes simplex number 1 was above the belt and herpes simplex number 2 was below the belt. That distinction isn't applicable anymore for a variety of reasons.

The Pap test is used to look at the characteristics of your cells to see if you have any changes that might indicate cancer. They are not done to look for viruses. That's why no one has diagnosed herpes from your Pap test.

Wheat Growers Advised Of Grazing, Hay Option

WASHINGTON D.C.-Charles Stenholm, 17th District congressman, advised today that farmers who planted wheat for 1979 harvest now have another option to consider: They may graze cattle or cut hay on their wheat acreage.

Wheat grazed or cut for hay under the special wheat acreage grazing and hay program will qualify for the same deficiency payment rate as wheat harvested for grain. Wheat program participants will be allowed to graze cattle or cut hay on wheat acreage equal to the higher of 50 acres or 40 percent of their total intended planting of wheat feed grain and upland cotton. This action is being taken to encourage the production of more beef later on this year.

Producers participating in this special wheat acreage grazing and hay program must also comply with normal crop acreage requirements and with set-aside requirements for wheat harvested for grain and feed grain crops planted on their farm. There will be no advance payments or minimum payments guaranteed this year as was provided to 1978 special wheat acreage grazing and hay program participants.

The deficiency payment rate for 1978 wheat crops was 52 cents a bushel. The 1979 wheat deficiency payment rate will be determined in December and will be the difference between the established target price of $3.40 per bushel and the higher of either the national average market price during the first five months, June through October of the marketing year, or the national loan rate of $2.35.

Producers wishing to use this option may indicate their intentions at their local ASCS office during the 1979 wheat and feed grains program sign-up period currently underway. The sign-up period ends April 30.

Arkansas Gets Set For 'Em Next...

Bird Leads Sycs Over Oklahoma

By The Associated Press.

In a word, it was the Bird.

Larry Bird, Indiana State's high-flying All-American, carried the soaring Sycamores into the championship game of the NCAA Midwest Regional tournament Thursday night at Cincinnati.

Bird, college basketball's Player of the Year, wowed a record Ohio crowd of 17,252 at Riverfront Coliseum with his magnificent all-around skills, leading the unbeaten and top-ranked Sycamores to their 31st victory of the season, a 93-72 rout of No. 16 Oklahoma.

"He is one heck of a player," marveled Oklahoma Coach Dave Bliss. "You can't judge him unless you play against him or see him in person."

Bliss came Thursday and he was convinced.

The Birdman of Indiana State destroyed the Sooners with a characteristic performance - 29 points, 15 rebounds and five assists.

The Sycamores will go for victory No. 32 Saturday against fifth-ranked Arkansas in the Midwest Regional championship game.

The Razorbacks beat 13th-rated Louisville 73-62 in the opening semifinal game of the Midwest Regional at Cincinnati.

The West Regional semifinals also were completed Thursday night as second-ranked UCLA and No. 6 DePaul advanced to Saturday's final at Provo, Utah.

UCLA used a devastating 58-point second-half in crushing No. 12 San Francisco 99-81 and DePaul defeated No. 10 Marquette 62-56.

Semifinal games will be played tonight in the other two regionals.

In the East Regional at Greensboro, N.C., No. 8 Syracuse, 26-3, faces No. 14 Penn, 23-5, and 17th-ranked St. John's, 20-10, meets 18th rated Rutgers, 23-8.

And in the Mideast Regional at Indianapolis, it will be No. 19 Toledo, 22-7, against fourth-ranked Notre Dame, 23-5, and seventh-rated Louisiana State, 23-5, vs. No. 3 Michigan State, 22-6.

The regional winners will advance to the national semifinals at Salt Lake City next weekend.

"They (Indiana State) are a good basketball team, but he (Bird) makes them a very good basketball team," said Bliss after watching helplessly as the omnipresent Bird swooped all over and around the defenseless Sooners.

Bird's six points keyed a 13-4 burst near the end of the first half that put Indiana State in command 45-37 at intermission.

Despite his impressive show, Bird underscored Indiana State's team approach.

"I just try to play a team game," he emphasized.

Carl Nicks added 20 points for Indiana State, while Ray Whitley topped Oklahoma, 21-10, with 24 points.

All-American Sidney Moncrief guided Arkansas to its 14th consecutive victory and 25th triumph in 29 games this season.

'Bama Bounces Past Aggies In NIT Play

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

What, we worry?

Not Alabama's basketball team.

The cold-shooting Crimson Tide fell behind Texas A&M 23-6 in the first 12 minutes of their National Invitation Tournament quarter-final game Thursday night at the Houston Summit. And they trailed 36-30 at halftime.

But were they worried?

No way.

"We felt good at the half because we knew we could come back," said Alabama's Reggie King, the Southeastern Conference Player of the Year.

And come back they did.

After their slow start, the Tide got rolling and beat the Aggies 72-68, earning a berth in Monday night's NIT semifinals at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Unranked Alabama, 21-10, the only representative not from the Big Ten Conference remaining in the tournament, will face 15th-ranked Purdue, 26-7, a 67-59 winner over Old Dominion Thursday night at West Lafayette, Ind.

The other semifinal will match Ohio State, 19-10, against Indiana, 20-12, in a battle of unranked teams.

"We've had to come from behind a lot this season," said Ken Johnson, Alabama's scoring leader with 20 points. "We just kept on executing what we had been doing and the shots started falling."

They started falling so well that Alabama went ahead by eight points in the second half. But Texas A&M battled back and tied the score 60-60 with less than four minutes to play.

Then King drilled in a baseline jump shot and freshman Eddie Phillips made a slam dunk and was deliberately fouled. Phillips converted two fouls shots, completing a four-point play, and Alabama was safely ahead.

King finished with 18 points and Phillips had 17 as Alabama put an unexpected end to Texas A&M's season.

"I'm sad," said Rudy Woods, the Aggies' freshman center who scored 22 points. "The season wasn't supposed to end tonight. It was supposed to continue in New York Monday night."

It will continue for Purdue. The Boilermakers, behind the 30-point scoring of 7 foot-1 junior center Joe Barry Carroll, led virtually all the way in eliminating Old Dominion, 23-7.

Carroll scored seven points when Purdue ran off nine in a row in the first half and went ahead to stay 18-13.

Snyder Competes At Cinder Meets

Snyder varsity track teams were to head in different directions today, both bound for area meets.

The Tiger girls' team, to participate in its first of the season, was to try the Spur Relays against Abilene Cooper, Childress, Monterey, Post, Slaton and Sweetwater. Field prelims were set for 9 a.m. with running finals taking place at 2:30 p.m.

Snyder boys' team makes its bid at the Brownfield Relays, in an afternoon-evening meet planned for 2 p.m. Running and field finals were set for 6 o'clock.

Entries into the single-day tournament were to include Lamesa, Snyder, Seminole, Levelland, Andrews JV and Brownfield. The meet is especially important for the Snyder boys, who have been predicted to have their toughest test (district-wise) against the Cubs.

Tiger Dale Jenkins comes into the meet with an outstanding 14-7 pole vault effort, but Cub Kirk Hill is close behind at 13-6. Brownfield's Russ Jones has vaulted 13-0.

The Cubs also feature returning district broad jump champion Gilbert Franco. That competition should be one of the highlights of the meet, featuring Franco (22-0 best) against Snyder's Thomas Selman (22-6 best).

Brownfield also carries a lot of strength in the 880, where Snyder is woefully weak.

Saturday, Snyder eighth grade girls and boys will attend a meet in San Angelo.

Stabler Top Topic At NFL Meeting

HONOLULU (AP)-Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler was exonerated by National Football League owners of any implications in a controversial drug case in his hometown but also was the reason for a new playing rule voted in at the annual NFL meeting.

The owners today go into further issues of player safety and looking at the experiment of using television instant replays to aid officials.

It had been implied that Stabler was involved in an incident in which Sacramento Bee reporter Bob Padecky was arrested, then almost immediately released, in what authorities said was a drug frame-up.

Padecky said he was summoned to Stabler's hometown of Gulf Shores, Ala., by the Raider quarterback for an interview.

Padecky said he met with Stabler a couple of times in Gulf Shores without getting an interview, and later Padecky was arrested when authorities, acting on a telephone tip, found a substance believed to be cocaine in a magnetic key case under the fender of the reporter's rented car.

Local authorities in Gulf Shores said it was an attempt to frame Padecky but that Stabler was not involved.

Stabler did admit fumbling forward in the final seconds of an Oakland regular-season game which the Raiders won when Dave Casper recovered the loose ball in the San Diego Chargers' end zone as time expired.

Errol Mann then kicked the extra point for a 21-20 Oakland victory.

The owners put in a new rule stating that if an offensive player fumbles anywhere on the field during a fourth down play or any down during the last two minutes of either half, only the fumbling player is permitted to recover and advance the ball.

Recovery by any other offensive player returns to the ball to the point of the fumble.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said the owners want to broaden interpretations of unnecessary roughness. That would include further protection for quarterbacks who have been battered in the past.

Final action may come today on a proposal calling for officials to blow the whistle more quickly when the quarterback is in the grasp of a defensive player.

"It's not necessary to crucify the quarterback, and this rule will also eliminate the second hit which causes injuries," said the Commissioner.

Ray Harroun, driving a Marmet, won the first Indianapolis 500-mile auto race in 1911.

SC Advances In Fem Meet

AMARILLO (AP)-Cynthia Jacobs scored 15 points and grabbed 17 rebounds to pace top-seeded South Carolina to a 62-51 college basketball victory over California in first round action of the 11th annual National Women's Invitational Tournament.

In other first round games, Drake routed Utah, 88-67; Northern Kentucky upset Mississippi College, 78-72, and Oregon beat Minnesota, 85-74.

Northern Kentucky used its full court press effectively against Mississippi College. Jennifer Lyons had 20 points and Jan Vincent added 18 for the Kentucky squad.

Drake's Sharon Upshaw scored 34 points and grabbed 18 rebounds to offset a 28-point offensive outburst by Lori Parish of Utah.

Cats Crush Lobos 6-2

MONAHANS--Coach Albert Lewis' Snyder Tigers dumped their sixth baseball opponent in a row yesterday, the latest victim being tournament host Monahans here, 6-2.

The Tigers, now 6-3 for the season, will play either Lubbock High or Kermit tonight in a 7:15 semi-final game.

Mitch Mackey picked up another win from the mound, allowing only four hits. Snyder caught the hosts for seven hits, including five for extra bases.

First-up Bryan Vincent smacked a double and Richard Crayton tripled him in for the Tigers' first run in the opening inning here. Mackey got on on an error to push Crayton to home, and Scott Crenwelge came up with a double to give Snyder a 3-0 lead.

In the third inning, Vincent drew a walk, Crayton secured first on an error and Mackey was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Sid Everton got a base hit to score Vincent, and Crewelge brought Crayton home when his blast led to a fielder's error.

Snyder got its final run in the sixth inning as Vincent pounded the game's only home run.

Monahans Lobos scored one run each in the first and second innings.

Local agencies, spearheaded by the chamber, are inviting local residents to write letters expressing their interest in bringing the plant to this area. It is believed that letters of welcome would be interpreted by the firm's management as the best evidence possible that their people would be welcomed here.

Sitting in on the session Thursday afternoon were Dalton Walton, chamber president; John Fagin, mayor; Rex Fields, president of the Scurry County Industrial Foundation; Bill Warner, chamber manager; George Patterson, city manager; Jim Dower, city engineer; Guy Sullivan, chairman of the Scurry County Board of Development, and news media representatives.

Amtrak Plan Still Alive

WASHINGTON (AP)—An administration plan to chop 11,800 miles from Amtrak passenger train routes is still alive in the Senate.

The Senate Commerce Committee voted Tuesday to approve Amtrak spending estimates of $522 million in fiscal 1980. That's the amount the Carter administration wants to go along with a 43 percent cut in passenger routes. Sen. James J. Exon, D-Neb., attempted to add $160 million to the package, but lost on a 10-4 vote.

FDA reclassifies diet aid Ingredient; drug enters Category I as OTC

Phenylpropanolamine, used to reduce appetite and aid in weight control, enters drug category 1 - generally recognized as safe and effective as an over-the-counter medication after a vote by the FDA's Miscellaneous Internal Review Panel. The decision follows years of research.

Analysis of data from the results of 19 studies on both human and animal subjects showed:

- Patients using phenylpropanolamine lose twice as much weight as those dieting alone with a placebo.
- Weight loss is equal in those subjects using phenylpropanolamine and those using prescription drugs.
- Weight losses average 4½ pounds after the first week and over 12 pounds after the first month, with average weight loss after three months amounting to 24 pounds.

Test results indicating the safety of phenylpropanolamine include:

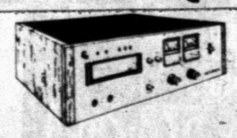

- No significant side effects.
- No abuse potential.
- No habitutation.
