Pulls Cord of Parachute as Loses Senses

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4. (AP)—Major John P. Wood, wealthy air mail pilot and transport executive, went to his death at the controls of his racing monoplane as it exploded in midair early Monday morning.

His body was found in the wreckage today 25 miles northeast of Needles, Calif.

"Landed at wreckage. Body in plane. Death instantaneous. No fire, but explosion."

That was the wire received today by Paul E. Richter, Jr., of the Aero Corporation of California, here today, from pilot Burrell Smith, of the searching airplane sent from here.

Major Wood, 32, was president of the Northern Airways, a line between Chicago and Minneapolis, and was a resident of Wausay, Wis. He went to his death above the great California desert near the Arizona border, at 3 o'clock Monday morning, while racing to Cleveland, Ohio, for a non-stop record from Metropolitan airport, Los Angeles.

Ward Miller, his mechanic and companion on the dash, was saved when the explosion of the five hundred gallons of gasoline aboard hurtled him from the cabin monoplane. Miller mechanically pulled the cord of his parachute as he lapsed into unconsciousness When he awoke he found himself alone and bruised on the rock strewn desert with bits of the monoplane wing near him.

Miller found no trace of the plane, but reached Needles, 300 miles southeast of here, 30 hours later.

J. B. Westman, alias Harry D. McDonald, brought the sensational charges against the officers in a confession of his activities as a vender of illicit liquor under the cover of operating a turkish bath house here.

COUNTY LEVY IS CUT IN THIS PRECINCT

Drastic reductions on two county funds were made by the county commissioners, sitting as an equalization board, in their last session. The jury fund tax was reduced from 25c on the $100 valuation to 10c, and the road bond No. 2 tax was reduced from 70c to 30c.

Taxes on the various other funds remains the same as last year, and as follows: general fund, 25c, road and bridge fund, 15c, road and bridge fund in the four precints, 15c, courthouse and jail fund, 25c, road bond No. 4, 80c.

The 1929 state and county tax rate in precinct No. 1 is $1.58; in No. 2, $1.88; in No. 3, $1.58; in No. 4, $2.38. The 1928 tax rate in precinct No. 1 was $1.59; in No. 2, $2.29; in No. 3, $1.59 and in No. 4, $2.29. The 64-cent state tax of last year was raised to 68c for 1929.

The road bond rate in precinct No. 4 was raised from 70c last year to 80c this year. It will be noticed that the state and county tax rate in No. 4 is nine cents higher this year than last. In all the other precincts, the rate is lower, especially in precinct No. 2, where the rate is 41c lower.

Fervent Greeting Is Given Zeppelin at Voyage's End

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Ger., Sept. 4 (AP)—Beating its round-the-world cruising record by more than a full day, the Graf Zeppelin, German Mistress of the air, landed here from Lakehurst N. J., at 8:52 a. m., (2:52 a. m. E. S. T.)

Church bells pealed and cannon boomed a salute as the huge ship escorted by an honor guard of 12 airplanes, appeared over the city, circling the town hall before it turned back to its hangar at the Zeppelin works.

One of the largest crowds in Friedrichshafen history greeted it there, cheering madly as the ship lowered toward the ground. Within a few minutes it was taken in hand by the ground crew and at 8:56 a m., was walked into its hangar.

The 22 passengers were at the windows of the ship as it came to earth, waving flags in answer to cheers from the throng below, many of whom had waited at the field all night. Ground officer Hans von Schiller was the first to emerge from the dirigible, passengers and members of the crew following after the ship entered the hangar.

New World Record

With its landing the dirigible completed a round-the-world trip—Friedrichshafen to Friedrichshafen—in 20 days 4 hours 18 minutes. The Zeppelin previously had flown around the world from Lakehurst to Lakehurst in 21 days 8 hours 26 minutes, a time which was in itself a record.

The Zeppelin left Lakehurst at 7:18 a. m. E. S. T., Sunday Sept. 1, consuming 67 hours 34 minutes in reaching here over an estimated course of 4,595 miles, against its own record crossing from Lakehurst of 55 hours 24 minutes completed August 10 over a course of 4,200 miles.

Aboard the Zeppelin were 22 passengers and a crew of 40, headed by Captain Ernest Lehmann. For the first time in the history of the Zeppelin's major voyages, its master, Dr. Hugo Eckener, remained in America on business after the world trip ended at Lakehurst.

Uneventful Journey

Save for some wide maneuvering in the region of the Azores, the trip eastward from Lakehurst was without special event, the ship striking for Cape Finisterre, Spain, from the Azores region, skirting the Spanish coast, to Santander, and striking thence for Bordeaux, France.

SUPT. FISHER GIVES PLANS FOR OPENING

Ward Lines Are Not Different From Last Year

LAMAR PLANT IS REMODELED

Negro School Likely to Be Started This Term

Supt. R. B. Fisher, returning today from teachers' institute at Canyon, announced no changes in the previously published arrangements for the registration of students and the opening of school would be made.

The high school seniors will register tomorrow afternoon as planned. Juniors will register Friday morning; sophomores, Friday afternoon; and freshmen, Saturday morning. Mr. Fisher and L. L. Sone, principal, have emphasized the importance of new pupils presenting their report cards or transcripts from the schools last attended when they matriculate here.

Grade Plans Given

All pupils in the grades and in Junior high school, with the exception of those coming to town on the buses, will register Thursday afternoon at their regular buildings. While all high school students living on the bus routes will be expected to register with their classes, those in the grades and Junior high will register Friday morning. The buses will run between 8 and 9 o'clock and return between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Since students on the bus routes are to be apportioned among the four ward buildings, with no definite divisions as yet made, all those coming in on the buses wil lregister Friday morning at the Central ward building, where they will be assigned to regular places.

Each of the wards will include from the first to the fifth grades, inclusive. Junior high school, located in the Central high building, comprises the sixth and seventh grades.

Ward Lines Cited

Ward divisions also were announced by Mr. Fisher, who said they would be approximately the same as last year. Children who will attend the West Ward school will be residents west of the following streets: From the city limits south on Hobart street to Ward street; thence south to Buckler avenue, following it West one block to Purviance street; thence south to the railroad tracks, following back to Hobart street, to take in the Finley-Banks and Lavender additions.

The East Ward school district will be east of Starkweather street from the north limits of the city to the Santa Fe tracks.

All pupils living south of the railroad tracks will attend Baker school. Lamar school, sometime known as Central ward, will accommodate all those living in the area surrounded by the above described districts.

Building Refinished

The Lamar building, on the Central high campus, has been completely renovated inside during the summer vacation, Mr. Fisher said. A sanitary system was installed; the floors were scraped clean and disinfected; and a large office, with a book room, was installed on the second floor. The first and second grades will occupy the first floor, and the third and fourth grades will be on the second floor. The fifth grade will be taught in the cottages on the campus.

Registration at the Kingsmill and Hoover schools will be held on Monday morning, when class-room work will begin.

Arrangements are under way for the establishment of a school for the negroes of the city. As the matter now stands, the school board will pay a teacher's salary, provided the negroes themselves, will furnish a building.

Notorious leader of Moslem disorders in the Near East is Sultan Pasha el Atrache, rebel chieftain who has eluded arrest by French and British officials for many years. He's pictured above preparing his own lunch in the desert. He now is reported to be advancing upon Palestine cities at the head of a large body of Druse tribesmen, taking advantage of recent Jew-Arab riots to instigate a widespread Moslem uprising.

ONLY TWELVE DAYS REMAIN IN WHICH TO INSTALL FREE MAIL DELIVERY BOXES FOR SERVICE

Aged Veteran Dies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4. (AP)— Taps have sounded for America's last survivors of the Mexican war. Owen Thomas Edgar of Washington, who became the lone veteran of the war of 1846 last June, the day before his ninety-eighth birthday, is dead.

Pampans who expect to get free mail delivery service beginning Oct. 1 have 12 more days in which to install boxes, according to Postmaster Wm. A. Crawford. The postoffice department has issued a requirement that 85 per cent of the patrons on the delivery routes must have their boxes installed by Sept. 16.

A letter recently received by the B. C. D. from R. B. Creager, Texas G. O. P. chairman, states that the free delivery service positively will not be granted Pampa unless the stipulated percentage of boxes is installed by Sept. 16 when a postoffice inspector will be here to check up on the matter. Postmaster Crawford urges Pampans to install their boxes now. They can be purchased at hardware stores of the town.

The Lions club has appointed a committee comprising W. A. Bratton, Wade Duncan, and C. O. Busby to advocate immediate purchase and setting up of the boxes.

Potsmaster Crawford also announces that two letter boxes, one for east bound mail trains and one for west bound mail trains, have been placed at the station. This service will speed up the dispatch of night mail.

Bobby Jones Starts Poorly Today While British Champ Crushes Foe

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Sept. 4. J., co-medalist with Jones. Fay Coleman, California, sharpshooter, beat Homans 4 and 3.

Clarence Hubby of Dallas, Texas, was two up at the sixth on Gibson Dunlop, of Los Angeles, the sensation of the first day's qualifying play.

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Sept. 4. (AP)—Cyril Tolley, British champion, signalized the opening of match play for the American amateur golf championship today by crushing Eddie Held of New York, holder of the Canadian title, 7 up and 6 to play.

The gallery got a terrific jolt when Bobby Jones, champion and favorite, lost the first three holes to Johnny Goodman of Omaha.

Jones, battling desperately, was one down to Goodman at the end of the ninth hole, but it was still a spectacular match with the champion alternately brilliant and erratic.

THE PAMPA-CHILDRESS RAILROAD PROJECT has been the biggest before the people of this community, but emphasis upon it should not minimize the importance of all-weather roads — highway paving.

* * *

It is not the mere fact of hard-surfacing that counts. It is the ability to get over the roads, safely and quickly, in all kinds of weather. A railroad is no good unless its service is dependable. Highway paving would be of doubtful value were it merely to joy ride upon. It is fine for tourists, but even for inter-sectional travel the all-weather feature is a principal asset. The smoothest drive is often on a little traveled rural road in dry weather.

* * *

It is highly desirable that highway 33 be paved to the Carson county line. Pampa will reap only ill will as long as motorists have to run off the long stretch of paving, reaching from Canyon to Clear Fork, and at times to be forced to use mud chains. Paving makes a fine introduction to a city and causes the motorist to anticipate a good time. Lack of it creates a feeling of doubt, if not resent

* * *

F. P. Reid is doing a monumental work in keeping interest alive in the north road and in cooperating with Roberts county in getting a road graded to the river. Eventually a bridge can be obtained if efforts do not slacken. It is hoped that a railroad may some day cross the river from here, but that time is uncertain and a highway connection would be needed anyway.

* * *

Those who are thinking of ways and means of building up Gray county must not forget the construction of all-weather roads and the opening up of territory now shut off by impassable highways.

TWINKLES

Twink's friends are having quite a bit of fun asking if the cute little house on Alberc square can be visualized by us as the new city hall. We think it looks a great deal better than nothing. It calls attention to the barrenness of the great open space which will soon be graced by a beau... tiful building, shrubs, and lawn.

LeFors has the proper spirit. She lost the county seat but never whimpered, and now she is boasting of her possibilities and will soon have a newspaper.

Amusu Bridge Club and Kongenial Kard Klub Hold First Autumn Meetings in Parties Given Yesterday Afternoon

Parties for two bridge clubs which had not met during the late summer weeks gave yesterday's social schedule an added note of interest.

Mrs. Jim White was hostess to the Kongenial Kard Klub members and specially invited guests. Pink and white formed the color scheme for table accessories and an ice course served at the conclusion of the game. Tiny baskets of perfumed mints were souvenirs of the afternoon.

Mrs. Ralph Trimble scored high for club members, and received an attractive favor. Mrs. C. L. Craig received the consolation favor, and Mrs. P. C. Ledrick the guest cut.

Other players were: Mrs. A. P. Clark, Mrs. R. A. Webb, Mrs. C. S. Boston, Mrs. P. M. Culberson, Mrs. Guy Mannfng, Mrs. Jack Mason, Mrs. R. S. McConnell, Mrs. Floyd McConnell, Mrs. F. W. Allen of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Mrs. Ted White.

Members of the Amusu bridge club were guests of Mrs. Wm. M. Craven who arranged four tables for the game and included several guests in her invitation list. Bouquets of zinnias gave the house a note of brilliant autumn color.

Members present were: Mrs. Lynn Boyd, Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, Mrs. L. N. McCullough, Mrs. J. M. McDonald, Mrs. W. J. Smith, Mrs. Dick Walker, Mrs. George Wallstad, Mrs. George E. Wolfe, and Mrs. Alex Schneider, Jr. Others playing were the following: Mrs. F. M. Wilson of Dallas, Mrs. R. C. Campbell, Mrs. George Kahala, Mrs. J. S. Wynne, Mrs. De Lea Vicars, Mrs. Leo Hughey, and Mrs. Charles Houk.

The Amusu club follows a policy of never awarding game favors. Scores are usually added, however. High for yesterday's games was Mrs. Wilson's. The hostess served dainty tea hour refreshments.

What-to-Read Club Has Program of Interest Monday

A varied and interesting program was given by members of the What-to-Read club who met in the Methodist church parlor for their first lesson and discussion.

Mrs. M. P. Downs reviewed Tolstoy's "Katrenina," and gave a brief sketch of the author's life. Early Colonial literature was discussed by Miss Jewell Lovelace. She told of the founding of Harvard university and its influence on early American letters.

The freedom of the press was discussed in a round table. The poetic reflections of Shakespeare and Lamb on the inconstancy of love were read aloud.

Closing the program, Mrs. Finis Jordan told the Egyptian story of the black pig, reputedly the world's oldest story.

Henry Roland, "The Human Fly", will climb the wall of the high school building instead of the Schneider hotel according to a change in plans announced today by the American Legion. Roland will begin his climb at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

The change was made because the school building wall is said to be more difficult to climb than the hotel wall which has been scaled by several "human flies."

Roland's wife, said to be the only U. BOBBY JONES AND HOMANS IN TIE FOR START

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Sept. 4. (AP)—The boys have come out of the qualifying trenches, and it's a man-to-man battle from now on for the amateur golf championship.

Led from the wind-blown hazards of Pebble Beach by Bobby Jones and Gene Homans, who tied for medal honors with totals of 145, one over par, in the 36-hole qualifying skirmish, the 31 survivors were paired for the elimination match play today. Two 18-hole rounds faced the reduced field of title contestants which by nightfall will be abruptly paired to a select eight for the quarter finals tomorrow over the 36-hole route.

Although outplayed first by a college boy from the University of California at Los Angeles, Gibson Dunlap, on the opening day of the qualifying competition, and then held to even terms after 36 holes by another collegian, Eugene V. Homans of Princeton, Bobby Jones began the main struggle for the defense of his crown without any shift in the odds in his favor. The champion drew the young Omaha star, Johnny Goodman, who qualified with 157, for his first round opponent, with the prospect that he would be called on in the afternoon to battle the long-driving California entry, Phillips Finlay, hero yesterday of as dramatic a comeback as the qualifying round has ever witnessed.

Homans, son of a former famous Princeton football player, was bracketed with Fay Coleman of Culver City, Calif., while Dunlap, hero of the opening day, drew Clarence Hubby of Dallas, Texas. The first match today brought together two outstanding stars in Cyril Tolley, British champion, and Eddie Held of New York, holder of the Canadian title, who was forced to playoff for the right to continue in the tournament. Another star attraction involved George Von Elm of Detroit, champion in 1926, and Chandler Egan of Medford, Ore., title holder in 1904-05.

INDIANAPOLIS—Tracy Cox, Indianapolis, knocked out Eddie O'Dowd, Columbus, (3). Jimmy Dale, Decatur, Ill., outpointed Phil O'Dowd, Columbus, (3).

McCarthy Sure Cubs to Tangle With Athletics

CHICAGO, Sept. 4. (AP)—Manager Joe McCarthy has broken his silence regarding his Cubs' chances of winning the National league pennant. He thinks they are "in."

"I don't think there is any doubt about us mixing with those Athletics in the world series now," McCarthy admitted after studying the past month's record and the future schedule.

"The Labor day games are over and we are out in front by 12 1-2 games. The boys came back in great style after the Pittsburgh slump and now have won four games in a row. That proves they have championship mettle and I think I can safely say we are in."

Cowboys to Report September 9 for Stiff Training

ABILENE, Sept. 4. (Special)—Coach Frank B. Bridges will make the first call for football aspirants to the Cowboy eleven of Simmons university here Monday, September 9, when a three-week's training period begins before the Cowboys open with the Texas university squad here September 28.

Fifteen letter men will form the backbone of the Cowboy-machine which has been doped to carry off the Texas conference. The Simmons coaches are anxious for new blood however, and have been scouting hard all summer for likely freshmen. The Cowboy machine lacked speed and offensive punch last year, and that is what Bridges and Anderson are seeking this season.

Letter men expected to report are: Hyde, captain; Sanders, Clark, Houghton ,Sellers and Kuhn, backs; Jennings and Andrus, ends; Pearce, Ribble, Smith and Culpepper, tackles; Daniel, guard; Allen and G. Golightly, centers. Hamilton, L. Golightly and Bennett of last year's squad are expected to letter this year.

Members of the Tenderfoot squad of last year and Freshmen are expected to raise the total number of candidates to about forty men.

Rainfall of last evening started promisingly but soon ceased. It was of a local nature, and amounted to but 16 of an inch in the city.

SPEAKING OF MR. SWEETSER

By O. B. KEELER

When they go saying, as a lot of superficial fololwers of golf (and not a few critics) are saying these days, that Bobby Jones virtually is certain to make Pebble Beach his fifth amateur championship triumph, the week of September 2, why, I just remember Floosmoor. And before that Brookline, and before that St. Louis, and before that a few other national amateur championships. And I have nothing to say, for the nonce. I prefer to let the forecasting critics do the explaining—in case.

There was Flossmoor, now, in 1923. Bobby went to the huge Chicago course with the prestige of his first open championship at Inwood. And the critics elected him amateur champion, before ever a ball was struck, at Flossmoor.

And after a terrific 35-hole battle with T. B. Cochran, an unheralded golfer from Wichita Falls, Texas, who got into the tournament in a play-off, Bobby, breaking the course record with his morning round against Max Marston in the second match, was ejected from the competition in Round 2, his earliest exit—to date. Max put him out, at the thirty-fifth green, and went on to defeat Jess Sweetser, 1922 champion, on the thirty-eighth green of one of the grimmest struggles in history.

And speaking of Sweetser . . . . . Bobby was the hot favorite the year before, at Brookline. And he went through steadily to the semi-final round, and there he met Jess Sweetser, another 20-year-old youngster.

And, speaking of hot rounds, Jess holed a 90-yard pitch for an eagle 2 at the second hole and busted a course record of 13 years' standing to give Bobby the worst thrashing he ever got in an amateur championship, 8-7.

Hum-ho! I looked up the old cards the other day just to reassure myself that Bobby Jones once stood 6 down at the end of the first nine holes of a championship match and then came back in 24 to gain only one hole. It was true.

And Sweetser is in this Pebble Beach affair, too.

Ruggles Declares Forfeited Game "No Contest" After Investigation

DALLAS, Sept. 4. (AP)—Because the overt act for which Monday's Fort Worth-Wichita Falls game was forfeited to Fort Worth by the umpire apparently was the act of an irresponsible player and no team collusion was shown, William B. Ruggles, acting president of the Texas league, has thrown the game out of the records as "no contest."

Umpire Cecil Grigg forfeited the second game of the double header at Fort Worth when he charged Manager Jim Galloway had changed pitchers to delay the game and Outfielder Gullic failed to field an easy fly ball. This failure and the change of pitchers took place just as it was getting dark, while the game was in the fourth inning and while Wichita Falls was behind. The umpire felt an effort was being made to force him to call the game before the legal minimum had been played so the game would not count.

Ruggles held Galloway had a legal right to change pitchers, however open to criticism on the grounds of sportsmanship the maneuver might have been. He left any disciplinary action that might be taken on Galloway to the Wichita Falls club.

Gullic, evidence placed before Ruggles showed, maintained he failed to catch the fly because of the dusk, and because someone said, as he tried to catch it, "drop the ball." Had he caught the ball it would have retired the home side and the fifth inning would have started, but the umpires agreed it could not have been finished.

Waco Man Only Golf Survivor in California Meet

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Sept. 4. (AP)—Clarence Hubby of Waco, Texas' only hope in the national amateur golf tournament, faced the toughest campaign of his life here today as first round matches got under way.

Today Hubby must beat Gibson Dunlop of Los Angeles, who broke a course record Monday to beat Bobby Jones medal score by one stroke in the first half of the qualifying round. In case of a win today, however, Hubby's lot would still be a tough one. Francis Ouimet, former champion, probably would be his opponent, and should he clear that hurdle Bobby Jones would be his probable foe.

Six other Texans failed to get past the qualifying rounds.

Gibson Payne of Dallas came closer than other members of the sextette with an 162. Dennis Lavender of Abilene and Charles Dexter of Dallas, the Herold of Dallas.

WICHITA FALLS PREPARING FOR DIXIE SERIES

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Up Wichita Falls way they think so well of the Spudders' chances of winning the current chase the chamber of commerce is offering attractive round-trip rates to the three southern cities which still have a chance to participate in the Dixie series.

From the manner in which the Oilers poured it on the Dallas Steers in their series opener yesterday—18 to 1—there is every indication the chamber of commerce knows what it is about. If every club was given a country licking, the Spudders administered one to the first half champions.

Doubleheaders in four cities today will effect the final evacuation of southern territory. Starting tomorrow, the four northern outfits will be in their home orchards until the race ends a week from Sunday. Houston, only club given a chance to beat the Spudders to the tape, finishes on the road. The Buffs have won 23 and lost 41 games on foreign soil so far, which may be indicative of something or other.

Outside of the lusty swatting of the Spuds batting order from top to bottom, the feature of the Dallas debacle was the sterling pitching of Jack White, husky young righthander whom the leaders hauled in from Abilene a month or so ago. White held the Steers to eight blows and blanked them after the first chapter.

The Buffs pounded 12 hits off Lefty Stiely, just sold to the St. Louis Browns, to down the Exporters, 4 to one. One was a homer by Hack Miller. Paul Wachtel, who was pitching in the Texas league before Stiely was baseball conscious, limited the Shippers to six safeties, all singles.

Despite a five-run rally that drove Whitworth to cover in the eighth, Shreveport dropped its opener to the Cats, 8 to 7. Ernie Holman, Sport siege gun, whiffed in the ninth with the bases crammed and two out.

The Cats, incidentally, are without a leader, Frank Snyder and Ted Robinson, club president, having left for a tour through the player marts of the North and East.

George Blackerby blasted his 29th and 30th four-baggers as the Cubs maltreated the Indians again, 16 to 7. Sanguinet[illegible]nth. It was Earl Caldwell.

PENNANTS ARE ALMOST SURE IN BIG LOOPS

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

With the two pennant races settled beyond the doubts of even the most hopeful Pirate and Yankee supporters, the Cubs and the Athletics now turn to a pursuit of the mathematical certainty through the stretch. The chase should not be long.

A survey of the standing of the clubs shows the Cubs need sixteen victories and the Athletics eleven to assure another Chicago-Philadelphia world's series even in the face of a possible clean sweep by the runners-up clubs. The Mackmen have twenty-three more games to play and the Bruins twenty-seven.

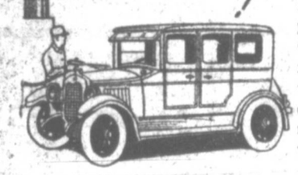

Since a defeat for a second-place team also counts toward the victories needed by the leaders, neither of the coming champions should require more than ten days or two weeks at the most to settle the argument. It is the first time in many years that both races have been in line for such early decision in the same season.

When George Earnshaw speared his twentieth victory at Philadelphia yesterday 10 to 2, with the Yankees on the receiving end, he placed his team just fourteen and one-half games to the good. He also clinched the season's series against the champions, as the third straight in the holiday engagement gave the A's a record of 12 games won and only eight lost in play with the Yanks, with two more to be decided.

With nothing whatever at stake, the Red Sox and the Senators played a spirited game at Boston, with the Senators on top 10 to 5 at the finish. The victory gave the Washington clan the edge in the series by two games to one.

All of the National league clubs spent the day recuperating from a holiday. The Cubs and the Cardinals had intended to go into St. Louis to play off a postponement, but an inspection of attendance figures at recent games led Sam Breadon to decide in favor of a double-header today.

Local J. C. Penney Company Store Opening Tomorrow Is No. 1,085 of Extensive National Organization

The Pampa J. C. Penney company store which opens here tomorrow is number 1,085 in the chain, which has a goal of more than 1500 stores by the end of 1929. The total number of stores opened or assigned at the end of 1928, was 1,024, making the store in this city the sixty-first in the 500-store increase set for this year.

At the close of 1928, the total volume of sales for the year was $176,697,622.02 and with the opening of the 1,500th store the total yearly volume is expected to reach $250,000,000.

The first J. C. Penney company store was opened in April of 1902 in the little mining town of Kemmerer, Wyo. and in its first year it did a total business of $29,000.

The growth of the organization from that time has been an outstanding developments in the merchandising history of the country. Financing of the company, outside of preferred stock issued directly after the war, proceeds from which was used to defray tax expenses, has been entirely through the earnings of the stores.

Funds to provide for the rapid expansion set for this year were obtained through the sale of new common stock to present holders of this class of stock.

The man who heads the organization, as chairman-of-the-board, is the man who opened the first store. Directors and operating executives are men who have come up through the ranks from clerks to their present positions.

Managers for the new stores will be taken from men who have been trained in the present stores and advancement to positions made vacant through promotions will be made out of present employes.

Plans for the expansion program which finally set upon 500 new stores for this year, were made after trips by Mr. Penney, and by Earl C. Sams president, throughout a large portion of the country and as a result of requests made by chambers of commerce, local business organizations and others for new J. C. Penney company stores.

Policies of the company rigidly eliminate "sales," "bargain days," and other price cutting procedures.

Mr. Penney, in addition to his activities as a chain store merchant, is a nationally known exponent of better and more profitable farming, and is himself a breeder of purebred livestock, including Guernsey cattle, Berkshire hogs, and Hampshire sheep which he exhibits at leading state fairs and stock shows.

He is also the proprietor of a 120,000 acre farm project conducted along the same lines of co-operative management which has been the backbone of the J. C. Penney company. In publishing fields he is known as the president of the Christian Herald Publishing association, publishing the Christian Herald.

The manager of the Pampa store is W. E. James, who has had extensive training with the company.

The SHINING TALENT

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MOLLY BURNHAM, successful young playwright, vacationing in Italy, receives word of the death of RITA NEWTON, her roommate at college. Molly had known Rita was ill. She had promised, in the event of Rita's death, to take care of her child. But she had not dreamed that death was so near.

Heartbroken, she returns immediately to America, ready to execute her promise. On the way over, lonely and despairing, she begins work on a new play. She works constantly, day and night. And, to her own amazement, completes the script before the boat docks.

JOB NEWTON, Rita's widower husband, meets her at the pier. RED FLYNN, a reporter, and collaborator on Molly's first play, contrives to board the boat at quarantine, so that he can be with Molly first. He tells her that Bob was having an affair with a young woman, who is taking care of Rita's baby. Molly is scandalized, but when she sees Bob, he looks so sad and wretched, she is ready to forgive him almost anything. He tells her that JACK WELLS, her sweetheart, was with him a moment before, but seems to have disappeared.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVIII

"A MOMENT ago, Bob? You mean he came to meet me, he's gone?"

Molly's heart beat nervously. She knew, with sickening surety, that Jack had seen her first, seen her with Red's arm about her shoulder.

And Red knew it, too, for he grinned with maddening insolence.

"Jealous lad," he drawled.

"Oh, shut up, Red!" she commanded petulantly.

Bob was trying to say the proper things, and making a very bad mess of it.

"Dreadful about Rita, wasn't it? Oh, an awful shock. I never dreamed . . . hadn't the remotest idea. Of course I knew she was ill . . . But the end was so sudden . . . There's one blessing though—she didn't suffer at the last. It was her heart, really. Simply worn out, the doctor said . . ."

Those were the things, reflected Molly, that everybody said. The stereotyped expressions. But Bob was broken-hearted. There was no doubt about that.

"He's simply inadequate," she decided. "Poor fellow." And she felt very sorry for him.

"It's awfully sporting of you," he went on, "to be willing to take the baby." His mild blue eyes filled with tears. "It seems like an awful imposition though, Molly."

"Oh, no," she declared warmly. "I want her like everything, Bob. It's wonderful of you to let me have her."

He threw up his hands helplessly.

"Good lord, Molly, I don't know what else I could do."

He was peering near-sightedly about the pier.

"It's awfully strange where Jack went. You see we came down together. I phoned him when I got in this morning. I came over on the midnight, and we had breakfast together. Then we phoned the pier, to see what time you were docking, and when they said 9:30, we came right down. Why, I was talking with him a minute before you called me. I suppose he'll be around soon. It's funny, though."

"To tell the truth," put in Red maliciously, "I think Wells saw me with my arm 'round Molly. I guess he's one of these jealous birds. Got sore—and now he doesn't want to play."

"You can't blame him," defended Molly. "After coming all the way down here to meet his girl, he sees her shining up to a boob like you. Naturally he's got some pride."

* * *

SHE turned her back on Red in indignantly.

"Don't high hat me," he advised her. "I've bought you a ticket to You'd better be polite."

"Why don't you telephone Jack?" suggested Bob. "Things aren't going any too well at the office, and he's low as the devil. I know he'd be glad to hear from you."

"If he's going to act like a spoiled baby, I'm not going to humor him," she declared.

But at the Grand Central, while the boys were at the ticket office, she slipped away to call him.

And, when she heard his voice, her heart began leaping in terrific fashion, so that even her throat was throbbing. Jack had a nice deep voice, with a caressing sort of timbre.

"Hello," he said.

"Hello yourself," she cried, trying to keep the quaver out of her voice. "What's the big idea? Bob said you were at the pier. Why didn't you speak to me?"

"You didn't look like you were expecting me," he told her.

"Well, I wasn't. I didn't expect Red either. He came on at quarantine."

"Yeah? Well, he doesn't waste no time—I'll say that for him."

"Oh, Jack, what's the matter with you, dear? You're not hurt because Red had his arm around me, are you? I was feeling awfully faint. I'd been working so hard. I wrote all the way over, Jack. Another play, honey. I've sent it already to Mr. Durbin. And I hadn't had any breakfast at all. I was feeling rotten, really. Besides, Red doesn't think anything of things like that. I don't suppose he gave it a thought."

"Probably he wouldn't give kissing you a thought either?"

Molly's manner cooled.

"Now see here, Jack Wells, if you're going to be unreasonable like that! Oh, what's the use of being hateful? I want so much to see you. I've missed you awfully. I felt dreadfully because you never wrote me. And I was worried to death. Why didn't you write, Jack?"

"I've been pretty busy," he began.

"You're not in love with anyone else?" she demanded.

"You know better than that, Molly."

"Then you're glad I'm home again."

"Sure I am."

"Well, that being that," she decreed gaily, "you may take me to luncheon."

"Gee, Molly, I'm sorry. I can't. I've an engagement—a business engagement. Maybe you've heard of Mrs. Bulwer-Eaton? She's the widow of that Five and Ten man—the chap that died last year, and left a flock of millions. She's remodeling their place on the Cape, and I've drawn up the plans. It's rather important, you see. May lead to bigger things. Anyhow I couldn't possibly break my engagement with her. You understand, of course, Molly?"

* * *

"OH, of course," she assured him, but her voice had grown cool. "How old is your golden widow, my dear?"

Jack laughed.

"Gosh, I don't know. She's plenty old."

"Well, don't let her vamp you," she cautioned. "These bloated millionaires know their stuff, my child."

"Now you sound like one of your characters," he chided. "By the way, how about the new play? All full of bootleg gin and wild women, I suppose?"

"Exactly," she retorted coolly. "Sorry, my dear, but I'll have to run along now. Red's waiting for me."

"Wait a sec, Molly. Are you really going to take Rita's baby?"

"I said I was, didn't I?"

"Well, there's no need of getting sore about it. How do I know what you said? Bob said you said so—but, shucks, he's usually talking through his hat."

"Well, I am," she declared. "You haven't objections, have you?"

"Good lord, Molly! What's the matter now? All I wanted to say was [illegible] one of you [illegible] a great lot, girl. But you're going to have your hands full. What do you know about taking care of a baby?" Jack laughed shortly. "You don't want one of your own. And now you're taking on somebody else's."

"Who said I didn't want one of my own?"

"Well, let's not talk about it over the phone."

Molly was righteously indignant.

"You make me tired!" she flared. "You know perfectly well . . ."

Her voice broke. She was very near angry tears.

"Nothing to get excited about," admonished Jack. "I was only trying to tell you that I think it's darn decent of you to take the baby. I'll bet there aren't many girls who'd take even their own sister's child, and sacrifice all their independence and everything for it."

"Oh, I shan't do that," she informed him airily. "I'll have a nurse, of course."

"A nurse!" he ejaculated.

"Why surely."

"But a nurse will cost an awful lot of money," he objected. "You don't mean you'll have a trained nurse, Molly?"

"Well, I'm certainly not going to turn Rita's baby over to some ignorant little nurse-maid," she retorted. "I'll have a children's nurse, I suppose."

Jack whistled.

"Maybe if I took a course, you'd give me a job?" he offered jocosely.

But Molly did not think that at all funny.

"I hope everything's going well," she murmured politely.

"Not so hot," he acknowledged. "But if Mrs. Bulwer-Eaton comes to terms, I'll be sitting pretty . . . Say, don't let me keep you from your friend, Molly. Won't he be getting nervous?"

"Maybe," she said, "I should hate to annoy him. Goodby."

* * *

SHE hung up the receiver angrily. Why was it, she wondered, she and Jack always quarreled? Was it because he was so crazily quixotic that he wanted her to think he had ceased to care? Was he really trying to sacrifice his love on the altar of her ambition? To eliminate himself from her life, so that she might find a love more prosperous?

Or could it be that he had really stopped loving her? That he had actually tired of her?

"Placating the heavy suitor?" teased Red.

On the train Bob talked continually of Rita and the baby. He hadn't much money, he said, but he would give Molly all he could afford. Everything he could do would be too little, he insisted. But Molly silenced his protestations.

"I won't take a penny," she declared. "It will be my privilege to take care of little Rita, for her mother's sake. If you want to start an account for her, to provide for any possible emergency, it might be a good idea. But I shan't need any weekly stipend, or anything like that, Bob."

"You're so good!" he groaned, and took out his handkerchief.

Red was embarrassed at seeing a man so near to tears.

"Got a carbon of that play you were talking about, Molly?" he asked. "I'd like to look it over."

She found it in her traveling case, and Red forthwith eliminated himself from the conversation. They were nearing Boston, when he put the sheets aside.

"Suffering catfish!" he cried. "That's going to knock 'em dead. It's a wow, dear! It makes Delphine look like a bedtime story."

He was wringing her hand wildly.

"How do you do it, girl? How do you get that way?"

"I'm glad you like it," she smiled.

"Like it!" he exclaimed. "You heard her, Bob? She's glad I like it. Like it, you little fool! I love it!"

"Well, I hope Mr. Durbin does."

"If he doesn't, he's a bigger fool than Broadway ever took him for. Of course he'll like it. What do you think he is? Say, there isn't a producer living wouldn't jump at a thing like that. It's got everything—mystery, heart throbs, horror, love, hate! It's got 'em all, dear. And the dialogue . . . say, where did you pick 'em all those wise cracks?"

"Not so bad?" she laughed.

"I don't know how you do it," he marveled.

"Work," she told him seriously. "I worked day and night, all the way over."

"But where did you get your plot?"

"It's partly true," she confessed. "You've sent it to Durbin?" he asked.

"Yes—by messenger, from the pier. I told him to get in touch with me at the office."

"Fine!" approved Red. "I suppose you're going to Bob's? I'll go to the office, and see if there's been a message. I'll phone you later."

Molly and Bob took a taxi at the station.

"I forgot to tell you," began Bob hesitatingly, "about the girl. I've had at the flat, taking [illegible] Rita. The truth is [illegible] lately . . .

Arab Leaders to Have Conference

JERUSALEM, Sept. 4. (AP)—Forty-eight Arab leaders from all parts of Palestine, comprising the Palestine Arab executive, have been summoned to meet in extraordinary private session in Jerusalem tomorrow to consider recent developments in the Holy Land.

Publicity regarding the meeting was suppressed, but in some quarters it was felt it would afford opportunity for open airing by indignant Moslems chieftains of the resentment aroused in them by certain recent events.

News of the impending meeting emerged shortly after it was learned here the British government had ordered a special Palestine commission headed by Sir Walter Shaw, former chief justice of the Straits settlements, to make an inquiry into Arab-Jewish clashes, beginning its task this month.

Decision of the British government not to permit the scope of its Palestine inquiry to extend to any question altering the Balfour declaration—that which fixed British policy at establishing in Palestine a national home for Jews—was hailed with joy by the Jews but was resented openly by Arabs.

Failure to secure a pipe-line connection for the Big Gray's test in section 57, block 3, Jim Saunders pool, which Sunday had 500 feet of oil in the hole, forced shutting down of the test yesterday. Drilling is now at 2,840 and five-inch casing is being set in the hole.

The well is a mile north of the heavily producing Finley-Brown pool. More than a mile intervenes between it and and producing well to the north, West, southeast and north.

PROMINENT RAILROAD MAN DEAD IN CONNECTICUT
