Pro-Egyptian Parties Win Jordan Vote

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Pro-Egyptian parties and independents won a majority in Jordan's new Parliament in elections yesterday.

The National Socialist party, which has been called by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser the "symbol of Arab awakening," won at least 10 of the 40 seats in the Chamber on the basis of complete returns for 35 seats.

Five seats were still in doubt in Amman, the capital where National Socialist leader, Suleiman Nablusi, was contesting for one seat with Abdul Rahman Shukair, a member of the Communst-line National Bloc. Nablusi may be chosen the new premier if elected.

The pro-Communist National Bloc already was certain of three members, the largest representation of a far leftist party in any Arab country. In addition it counted on the support of at least one member elected as an independent.

Another leftist group, Arab Resurrection party, and the extreme rightist Moslem Brotherhood and Moslem Liberation party elected only two members each.

The 16 elected as independents, however, included three or four who were considered supporters of the former Mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin el Husseini, who is extremely anti-British. One of the successful candidates was his cousin, Dr. Jawud Husseini.

The National Socialists advocate terminating Jordan's alliance with Britain by negotiation, but want to make arrangements for other aid before severing military links with the British. Under the British-Jordan alliance of 1948, Britain subsidizes Jordan at the rate of 25 to 33 million dollars a year, and in turn is allowed to keep military bases in the country.

Recent heavy attacks by Israeli forces on four Jordan border posts focused attention on Arab aid to Jordan during the election campaign.

Before the election results were complete, the Egyptian Embassy announced that Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, Egyptian army commander, is coming here, probably tomorrow, to discuss delivery of jet planes and other aid to the Jordan army.

Despite the tension in the country, the election went off without any disorder. About half the country's 400,000 qualified voters cast ballots.

Boy Injured In Accident West Of Ira

A Hermleigh boy was slightly injured, but not hospitalized, this morning when the motor scooter he was riding with his brother was involved in an accident three miles west of Ira.

Earl Russell, 15, Hermleigh, was given first aid treatment at Cogdell Memorial Hospital then released. He suffered cuts on the leg.

He was a passenger on the motor scooter which was driven by his brother, Don Clifton Russell, 17, also of Hermleigh, who was not injured.

The scooter was in collision with a 1952 Studebaker sedan which was driven by Joe Warriner Smith, 58, 1803½ Thirty-ninth Street, Snyder.

Frank Bean and Bill Zimmerman, highway patrolmen, investigated the accident.

Bean said the motor scooter, which was going west on Farm to Market road 1606, struck the side of the car which was going north on a cross road. The scooter was heavily damaged, and the car slightly damaged.

Smith was not injured.

Farm Surplus Sale Okayed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson said today agreements have been signed for the sale of $2,200,000,000 in farm surpluses to friendly foreign countries under terms of the Agricultural Trade Development Act of 1954.

This act authorizes the government to accept foreign currencies in exchange for surpluses. The stated value represented the cost of the commodities to the government under its farm price support program. The commercial export value was put at $1,500,000,000.

Benson said such sales have totaled nearly one billion dollars since March.

"This program," he said, "has been extremely effective both in reducing our accumulated surpluses of agricultural commodities and in expanding markets abroad for such commodities."

Wheat and wheat flour led the export sales list at $871,900,000 in government costs. Cost of other commodities sold under the program included: Livestock feed grains 112 million dollars, rice 220 million, cotton 481½ million, fats and oils 188 million, tobacco $92,600,000 and dairy products 47 million.

Poles Ready For Fight, Paper Says

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — The Yugoslav Communist party newspaper says Warsaw workers stayed at their factories yesterday "to be ready for any eventuality."

This apparently indicated that Gomulka were ready to fight in case his election as first secretary of the Polish Communist party was endangered.

Borba's Warsaw correspondent said that the Warsaw meeting ended with the victory of forces in the party which have the support of the entire working people of Poland.

There was no official comment on Gomulka's election but the way in which the Yugoslav press gave publicity to the Warsaw reports showed that Yugoslavia's Communists are jubilant over the developments.

President Tito, speaking at a luncheon yesterday for Romanian party boss Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej and Premier Chivu Stoica, said Socialist (Communist) countries could set an example for all nations relations on a basis of "equality, independence, mutual respect and an open exchange of opinions."

The Romanians are visiting in Belgrade. Gheorghiu-Dej, in reply to a toast from Tito, said he agreed a new form of cooperation among Socialist countries was necessary based on mutual respect, independence and sovereignty.

BIMBO GETS PAINT JOB—Red paint is splashed on the antlers of Bimbo, a pet deer, by Jack Cummings as his grandson, David Street, 3, holds the paint can. Cummings, owner of a lodge on Casper Mountain, Wyoming, gives Bimbo a paint job every year to protect him from big game hunters. The deer has been a pet since Cummings found him as a fawn in 1949.

Soviet Note Hit Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia's Premier Bulganin almost certainly will fire a quick reply to a letter from President Eisenhower accusing him bluntly of meddling in the American political campaign.

But whether he does or not, Bulganin's letter seems sure to become a major political issue in the coming two weeks with both Republicans and Democrats seeking to use it to their advantage in the debate over continuance of hydrogen bomb testing.

Officials who forecast today that Bulganin will reply promptly said they expect him to deny any intention of interfering in the U.S. political campaign by his surprise message Friday renewing his appeal for an end to atomic and H-bomb tests.

Foregoing diplomatic language in his reply, Eisenhower said Bulganin's newest plea attacked "my own sincerity" and was "personally offensive to me" in its attack on Secretary of State Dulles.

In predicting a speedy reply from Bulganin, diplomatic officials said Eisenhower's charges were of such a serious nature that almost any government would feel impelled to reply swiftly.

They acknowledged that if Bulganin adopts the same strong language Eisenhower used, it will virtually end prospects that such personal messages ever will lead to concrete steps toward world disarmament.

An end to the Eisenhower-Bulganin exchanges, however, would not disappoint top American officials. Many have felt for months that the Kremlin was relying on them as convenient propaganda avenues more than as any serious attempt at negotiation.

Eisenhower said that if an ambassador had done what Bulganin did, he would be expelled from this country.

In denouncing Bulganin's letter, Eisenhower in effect accused the Soviet leader of seeking to give a helping hand to Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, who has been urging that this country take the lead in working toward an end to big-scale nuclear tests. He says the danger to mankind from radiation set loose by such blasts is growing steadily.

Eisenhower has rejected Stevenson's suggestion, saying a foolproof inspection system must be agreed upon before this nation can safely end its tests.

Oveta Culp Hobby Leaves For Tour

HOUSTON (AP)—Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, publisher of the Houston Post and former member of the Eisenhower cabinet, left today for a 3-day tour of West Texas in support of the President's re-election.

The former Secretary of Welfare was to speak for Democrats for Eisenhower at San Angelo at noon and El Paso tonight.

Tomorrow she will be at Lubbock, Midland tomorrow night, and Amarillo Wednesday.

Ruling Given In Negro Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today let stand a speedup order issued in a suit by Negroes seeking immediate admission to all-white schools in Dallas.

Twenty-seven Negroes who on Sept. 5, 1955, were not permitted to enter white classes asked the U.S. district court in Dallas for an injunction requiring admission at once. The District Court dismissed the request as prematurely filed.

The U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans last May 25 reversed the Dallas court and told it to hold a full hearing on the Negroes' protests. Counsel for the school district then appealed to the high tribunal to review the case. The appeal said the district officials were complying with Supreme Court directions in trying in good faith to work out a solution to the problem.

The appeal also protested that the majority opinion of the circuit court implied that it could be assumed school officials would not follow the law as laid down by the Supreme Court in the school segregation decisions of May 17, 1954 and May 31, 1955.

The Supreme Court today rejected the request for review, thus leaving the circuit court order in effect.

Plans For Removal Of Krushchev Are Talked

More Soviet Troops Sent Into Poland

BERLIN (AP)—Russia has pulled some of her crack motorized divisions out of Communist East Germany and sent them into restive Poland, a Western source said today.

The informant said the Soviet high command began crushing the divisions across the East German frontier several days ago, after the crisis in Soviet-Polish relations exloded. There was no information as to whether the troop movements were continuing.

The shift of Russian forces was seen here as an effort to pressure the Poles back into line and to reinforce the position of Poland's defense minister, Soviet Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, who was ousted from the Polish Politburo yesterday.

The redeployment could also be a precautionary step to protect Red army supply lines. Russia has about 400,000 troops, including an estimated 22 ground divisions, stationed in East Germany and their main lines of communication run through Poland.

The West Berlin newspaper B.Z. said five Soviet troop divisions already have been moved into Poland from East Germany.

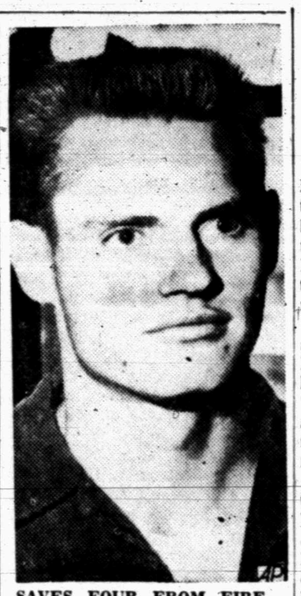

The Western informant said that the number of divisions involved in the redeployment is not yet known but includes "a large number of troops."

Santa Fe Freight Train Is Derailed

BROWNWOOD (AP)—A Santa Fe freight train, carrying fuel tank cars and grain, was derailed today between Goldthwaite and Lometa.

First reports said the tank cars contained gasoline and were burning. Fourteen cars were reported off the track and piled up.

There were no reports of injuries.

SAVES FOUR FROM FIRE—Floyd Lydum, 20, of Firth, Idaho, was credited with saving four lives from a fire that swept a men's dormitory at the University of Idaho, killing three students. Lydum, up late studying, grabbed a rope, ran next door to the adjoining hall and pulled four students to safety. Officials said the fire was set and they called it arson and murder.

Polish Defeat Given As Cause

WARSAW (AP)—The rise of new Polish Communist leaders pledged to independence from Moscow has brought about a movement inside the Kremlin to remove Nikita S. Khrushchev from his top post in the Soviet party, Polish Communist sources reported today.

With tough, anti-Stalinist Wladyslaw Gomulka taking the reins in Poland, the Soviet party leaders have scented a defeat, and the "three M's"—Molotov, Malenkov and Mikoyan—have formed an anti-Khrushchev alliance, these informants said.

The Polish Communist view was this: The three deputy premiers—V. M. Molotov, Georgi Malenkov and A. I. Mikoyan — oppose Khrushchev partly because of his over-all policies, but principally because of his personality and the rough way he has carried out those policies.

Some repercussions inside the Kremlin seemed inevitable when the group behind 51-year-old Gomulka seized the reins of the Polish party and swept Stalinists from the policy-making posts. Gomulka, who became a national hero by defying Stalin, emerged on top after a shakeup of the Polish party's ruling Politburo last night.

Surrounding Gomulka, in the streamlined, nine-member ruling group were other men said to favor his demand for disentanglement from Soviet controls. All remained pledged to continued Communist government.

Among the Stalinists tossed out of the Politburo was Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, the Polish-born Soviet army hero installed by Stalin as head of Poland's military forces in 1949 to hold the country in the Soviet orbit.

The election of a new Politburo, with Gomulka in the key post of first secretary, climaxed a three-day meeting of the Party Central Committee. The Soviet Union exerted intense pressure to keep its men in places of authority. Despite tension, and reports of clashes between Polish and Soviet troops, Warsaw remained quiet throughout the meeting.

Before he officially took power, Gomulka issued a virtual declaration of independence from Moscow. In a fiery speech to the Central Committee, he denounced what he called misrule of the past 12 years.

"There is more than one road to socialism," he declared. "There is the Soviet way. There is the Yugoslav way. And there are other ways."

Gomulka was the Polish Communist party chief once before, in the original Communist government after World War II. Then he was known as a friend of the Soviet Union. A member of the Rowkrers movement since the age of 22, he had been in and out of jail for subversive activity in pre-World War II Poland, and twice had sought refuge in neighboring Russia.

But he refused to go as far as others in turning his native land into a Soviet colony. On Stalin's orders, he was jailed in 1951 on a charge of Titoism. After his release from prison in December 1954 he became a symbol of so-called national communism. The Polish Communists "rehabilitated" him earlier this year.

Meeting Slated On Runway Plans

The commissioners court made plans this morning to meet with Harrie Winston at 1:30 p.m. today to discuss property on the Winston Ranch which is proposed to be used for building the planned east-west runway at the county airport.

At last report this morning, the court had not reached Winston to make an appointment, but the court made plans to discuss the property during the afternoon session with Winston.

Most of the property involved in building the new runway and the northeast-southwest taxiway and providing clearance for that runwey and for the existing north-south runway lies on land owned by Harrie Winston and Mr. and Mrs. Wade Winston.

Winston has previously made offers on the property, but no price had been agreed upon.

The east-west runway project is one of three projects approved in a bond election last spring.

Other projects were a new county library and park improvements, including a small park at the south end of Snyder and picnic areas in rural communities.

The deed for the 16 acre tract for the new park has been signed and turned over to the county. This property was purchased from Winston Bros. for $4,000. The deed just signed is one corrected for the original deed made several weeks ago, and the commissioners court this morning turned the new deed over to Wayland Holt, county attorney, for checking. The property for the park lies south of Thirty-seventh Street at the south end of Avenue M.

Concerning the library project, the county is accepting bids for opening Oct. 31. Plans were drawn by Butler-Kimmel Co. of Lubbock, and at least two contractors have indicated so far they may bid on the library.

Two Abilene Youths Are Arrested Here

Two Abilene juvenile boys, one 14 and the other 15 years old, were arrested here yesterday by city police in a car stolen in Abilene.

The two juveniles admitted to police the theft of a 1956 Mercury in Snyder Friday night, which has been recovered in Brownwood. The Mercury is owned by Walter Nichols of Route 3, Snyder.

The boys were in a 1955 Chevrolet which had been reported stolen in Abilene when arrested here. The Abilene car was owned by Lt. Edesel Reneken who is stationed at the Abilene Air Force Base.

The juveniles were turned over to Bill Ballard, county probation officer, this morning.

'IT WAS TORTURE'

Woman Locked In 8 Days

NEW YORK (AP)—In eight days without a bite to eat, you begin to think about the end. Especially when you're 82.

For eight harrowing days and nights, Mrs. Henrietta A. Emhardt who is 82, had been an accidental prisoner in her own apartment, in the heart of the city.

"I thought I was going to have to die there," she said, "that I'd starve gradually to death."

There wasn't even space to lie down. The only thing she had to drink was water.

"It was torture," Mrs. Emhardt said today, her ordeal over.

A week ago Friday, on the afternoon of Oct. 12, Mrs. Emhardt became locked in the bathroom of her apartment at 11 E. 92nd St., where she lives alone.

She had fallen against the door, jamming it tightly, and, then in trying to open it, had pulled the handle off the doorknob. The rod slipped out on the other side. She was trapped.

She shouted, until her voice gave out, and pounded until her fists went raw, and beat with a brush on the water pipes, until she was so weak she couldn't lift her arms.

"For the first four or five days, oh, how I bounced on the door all day and night with all my might, hoping and praying that someone would help.

"Over the water pipes, I could hear the sounds of people all over the house, and I couldn't understand how they could be so heartless as not to come."

It seemed there was no hope left, but she hung on.

"There was no place to stretch out for a tall person like me," she said. "When I'd try to lie down, my whole body would go into cramps."

In a kind of a listless, gnawing eternity, the time ran on. Vaguely, at times, she'd hear her telephone ring, but it was beyond her prison door.

Unknown to her, in Darien, Conn., a cousin, J. S. Schulten, had been phoning repeatedly. Worried, he finally asked police to check on her.

That was last Saturday night, Oct. 20. Police knocked down the bathroom door. A plucky Mrs. Emhardt, her spirits unbroken and her physical constitution weak but well, said of their coming:

"You can never tell how thankful I was."

The first thing she wanted was to go to bed. Today, rested and still eating ravenously, Mrs. Emhardt said:

"My legs still are very weak and it'll take time to get my strength back, but otherwise I feel wonderful. My appetite is tremendous. Everything tastes good."

Plans Drawn For Disposing Of Oil Land

FORT WORTH (AP) — Plans for disposition of a valuable West Texas oil tract, involved in the River Oaks State Bank failure, were drawn today. A hearing on a receivership suit was postponed.

Judge Harris Brewster granted the postponement at the request of attorneys representing all factions in the Knox County oil field and the bank.

Atwood McDonald, attorney for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., a federal agency now in control at the bank, said negotiations are on for disposing of the 480-acre oil-producing tract.

He said that he and others interested in the case want a chance to agree to some plan "for conserving and operating the property without the necessity of a receivership."

Jesse Martin, who represents Burton Ellis and others named in the receivership suit, said negotiations were on for the possible sale or refinancing of the Knox County field.

If the plan can be worked out, Martin said, all debts owed by his clients can be paid off.

The request for a receivership was asked Friday by Pat Brock, an Archer County oil field trucker. He contends operators of the field, H. S. Rose, Ellis and others, owe him for transporting oil field equipment.

Martin said a New York financial firm now interested in purchasing the Knox County land was here.

He said if the deal can be closed, any debts owed the River Oaks Bank will be paid.

Shivers Calls For Stand On H-Bomb

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Allan Shivers called on Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn today "to say how they stand on Adlai Stevenson's H-bomb plan."

Shivers issued a statement released by Texas Democrats for Eisenhower saying the Senate majority leader and speaker should "reveal their personal position on this important issue."

Johnson and Rayburn are among leaders of the Stevenson campaign in Texas. Shivers is supporting President Eisenhower.

U.S. Producers Seek Action To Cut Down On Oil Imports

WASHINGTON (AP)—American oil producers sought prompt government action today to reduce oil imports.

Russell Brown, general counsel of the Independent Oil Producers Assn. of America (IPAA), urged that Defense Mobilizer Arthur Flemming recommend that President Eisenhower act to limit oil imports to a level "that would not threaten to impair the national security."

U.S. producers have contended the present inflow of oil threatens national security by reducing the domestic industry's incentive to develop new sources of supply.

Brown and other industry representatives prepared statements for a hearing opening today before Charles Kendall, general counsel for Flemming's agency, the Office of Defense Mobilization (ODM).

Spokesmen for importing firms are to be heard later.

The hearing concerns a request by U.S. producers for strict import quotas on oil. Their petition was filed under a 1955 amendment to the Trade Agreements Act. The amendment provides that when imports of any product interfere with the defense program, ODM may recommend that the president order such imports held to "defense requirements."

Brown said Congress, in adopting the amendment, clearly intended that oil imports be held to the 1954 ratio between domestic production and imports. Current imports exceed this level and are increasing, he said.

J. P. Coleman of Wichita Falls, IPAA director and representative of the National Stripper Oil Well Assn., said large imports have been an important factor in lowering domestic oil prices. The large number of super tankers being planned indicate future heavy imports, he said.

"National security is being seriously threatened by inadequate and depressing petroleum exploration in the United States," Coleman said. "The basic issue is whether this country will choose as a matter of public policy to rely on foreign oil to an increasing extent from such uncertain sources as the Middle East or whether imports will be restricted so as to assure the funds and incentives required to find and develop our prospective domestic resources."

Honduras Is Ruled By Military Junta

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—A three-man military junta ruled this Central American republic today in the wake of what apparently was its first bloodless political coup in history.

Julio Lozano, 71, was removed as chief of state by the junta led by Gen. Roque J. Rodriguez, leader of the Francisco Morazon Military Academy.

Other members of the junta are Col. Hector Carraccioli, chief of the Honduras air force, which played a leading role in the revolt, and Maj. Roberto Galvez, son of former President Juan Manuel Galvez.

A Honduras broadcast said one of the first acts of the junta was to proclaim illegal the election two weeks ago of a Constituent Assembly for this banana-growing country of slightly over 1½ million population. The broadcast called the election "a national shame" and said it did not represent the popular will.

The Assembly had been called by Lozano to meet Nov. 11 and was expected to elect him president for a full six-year term.

Members of the Liberal party headed by the exiled Dr. Ramon Villeda Morales had assailed the election as a fraud. Twelve persons were killed in election day violence.

Villeda Morales, a 49-year-old obstetrician, won the most votes for president in the 1954 presidential election but failed to gain the absolute majority required for election. He was exiled last July on charges of seditious agitation.

There was speculation that he would now be permitted to return to the country, along with other exiled Liberal party members.

Lozano, who has been acting president with the title chief of state since September 1954, claimed a clean sweep for his supporters in the election two weeks ago. He heads the National Union party. He declared that his party and the Reformist party, an allied group, won all 56 seats in the Assembly.

There was no report of fighting in connection with yesterday's coup.

Apparently air force planes threatened to bomb the presidential palace and Lozano submitted his resignation.

Joining the air force units were the 1st Infantry Battalion, elements at the military school and military garrisons at San Pedro Sula and La Ceiba.

Some prisoners were taken, but a broadcast over the Honduran radio said all would be released shortly. The radio accounts said complete calm prevailed throughout the country.

AREA OIL ROUNDUP

Four Counties Draw Wildcats

Four West Texas counties — Crane, King, Fisher and Nolan — have gained new wildcat operations.

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 21 P. J. Lea is to be a 9,000-foot prospector in Central Crane County, 10 miles west of Crane.

It is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 47, block B-32, psl survey.

Shell Oil Co. No. 4-D S. B. Burnett Estate is to be a 5,825-foot venture in Southeast King County, 15 miles southeast of Guthrie.

The drillsite is 660 feet from south and east lines of the Mrs. L. Upton survey, abstract 1191.

LaGorce Oil Co. of Fort Worth No. 1 Gerald Byrd is to drill to 5,500-feet in South Fisher County. It is five miles southwest of Longworth and 2½ miles north of the Sweetwater (Canyon Sand) pool.

The location is 330 feet from north and east lines of section 7, block Y, T&P survey.

Hunt Oil Co. of Dallas No. 1-6 C. E. Boyd is a 7,000-foot wildcat in East Nolan County.

It is nine miles southeast of Sweetwater and 330 feet from north and 705 feet from east lines of section 6, block X, T&P survey.

Falcon Seaboard Drilling Co. No. 1 Clayton & Johnson, West Borden County project, has been recompleted as a producer from the Spraberry to extend the Jo-Mill pool five-eighths of a mile northeast.

This operation is 11 miles west of Gail and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 6, block 32, T-4-N, T&P survey. It was completed in April 1954 as a discovery from the Canyon reef for a daily potential of 198 barrels of oil from pay at 8,236-40 feet. It opened the Luck-Pot field.

Production from the Canyon was depleted and the hole was recently re-entered and the section at 7,055-7,145 feet was perforated and tested. A 24-hour initial pumping production from that formation of 27.58 barrels of oil, plus 60 per cent water, has been reported.

Blanco Oil Co. and Newman Drilling Co., both of San Antonio, will drill their No. 1 Pearl Williams as a one-half mile west outpost to the south side of the Arthur Spraberry field in Southwest Borden County.

It is 660 feet from north and east lines of a lease in section 6, block 33, T-3-N, T&P and 20 miles southwest of Gail.

Sterling Williams of Snyder is to re-enter, cleanout and test No. 1 McKnight, the depleted discovery of the Myrtle (Canyon Reef) pool in East Borden County.

This hole originally was drilled by The Vickers Petroleum Co., Inc., and others, and completed for a daily pumping potential of 11 barrels of 38 gravity oil and 24.8 barrels of water from perforations at 7,732-44 feet, on Sept. 2, 1951.

That production was depleted in 1953. The operation is seven miles southwest of Fluvanna and 2,173 feet from south and east lines of section 367, block 97, H&TC survey. Williams proposed to cleanout to the total depth at 7,761 feet.

Humble Oil & Refining Co. staked location for a ½-mile southwest outpost to the discovery well of the Mungerville, East Pennsylvanian) field of West Dawson County.

It is No. 1 Lunelle Hemphill, 660 feet from north and east lines of lot 31, league 3, Taylor County School Land survey, nine miles miles northwest of Lamesa.

The field was opened by Seaboard Oil Co. No. 1-A Weaver.

Klan Visits Rural Church

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Robed Klansmen, making their second appearance at rural churches in a week, last night were welcomed by the pastor.

A band of hooded and robed Ku Klux Klansmen, their faces unmasked, gathered at Mobile and drove to the Rosinton Missionary Baptist Church near Loxley, Ala., about 25 miles east of Mobile.

As at a Baptist church in suburban Whistler the preceding Sunday, they entered the church in single file while the pianist played "Onward Christian Soldiers."

The Rev. Hardy Peeples greeted the robed visitors at the door and shook hands with E. C. Barnard, a Mobile Klan spokesman who apparently led the group.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Howle, Route 1, Box 1252 are the parents of a daughter, born at 1:29 a.m. Sunday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital and weighing five pounds, 12 ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Lindsey, 3802 Noble Drive, are the parents of a girl weighing six pounds. She was born at 11:59 a.m. Saturday in the Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Word has been received of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Stahl of Alpine. The boy was born on Oct. 7 and has been named Terry Clarence. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stahl of Route 1, Hermleigh, and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Vandiver of Route 2, Hermleigh. Mrs. Stahl was the former Wanda Sue Vandiver. Mr. Stahl is attending Sul Ross College.

Mineral Wells Man To Speak In Snyder

Elsie Parnall of Mineral Wells, high school teacher who is president of the Texas State Teachers Association, will be speaker at a meeting tonight of the local TSTA unit.

The meeting will be held at the high school auditorium at 7:30 p. m. The proposed teacher retirement constitutional amendment will be discussed.

Haskell Beard, president of the local unit, invited any residents interested to attend the meeting.

Fine Is Assessed Here On Driving Charge

A fine of $73.50, including court costs, was assessed against Raul Garcia Villaneuva, 20, of Snyder, by County Judge Edgar Taylor when Villaneuva pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Villaneuva was driver of a car which ran off north Avenue E yesterday and struck a brick fence. His wife and child were thrown from the car, but there were no serious injuries.

Local Teacher Goes To Lubbock Meeting

Nellie Smith, teacher of exceptional children for the Snyder schools, attended the first meeting of the newly-organized International Council for Handicapped Children in Lubbock Saturday.

Dr. Morris Wallace, head of the Texas Tech education department, spoke on "The Philosophy of Education for Exceptional Children."

Attending were 38 persons, all but one a teacher of exceptional children. The organization plans three meetings annually.

Tate Denies Charges In State Inquiry

TYLER (AP) — Regional NAACP attorney Simpson Tate denied today he had ever "solicited or encouraged" the filing of school integration suits.

The precise Dallas lawyer was the 20th and final defense witness in a court hearing that will determine whether the NAACP can continue to operate in Texas.

The state, which presented 17 witnesses and 493 exhibits of evidence, wants a temporary restraining order made permanent.

Tate said he had been regional attorney for the NAACP on a retainer basis since 1950. He said his principal work was research on civil rights cases and doing investigation in instances where it appeared the personal rights of members of his race had been invaded.

Tate denied illegal solicitation of law suits, one of the state's principal charges in the hearing, in Kilgore Junior College, Texarkana Junior College, Dallas public schools, Mansfield High School, North Texas State College and Texas Western College.

Of the Texarkana suit, Tate said that a Federal Court rendered judgment in favor of two Negro students Feb. 1 but the students were refused admission to the school in September. He said he filed a Federal Court action for the two Negroes to intervene on authority received from John Jones, Texarkana Negro undertaker. He said Jones told him that he had authority from the two students to file the action.

Shortly after the state court hearing began, a Federal Court contempt action involving the two Texarkana students was dismissed after the students said they had not asked the NAACP to go to court for them. Federal Judge Joe Sheehy reprimanded Tate then for not being sure the students had asked for the suit to be filed.

New State Parks To Be Established

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Park Board designated today two areas as state parks. One will be the first of its kind in Texas.

A half-mile north of U.S. 80 near Monahans 5,000 acres of wind-sculptured rolling hills of sand will become Texas' first state park of desert-like topography. The Monahans Sand Hills State Park is the name.

The other area, 155 acres, at Lake Stamford will also be added to the state parks system.

The board will also hear today from Corpus Christi about plans to enlarge boy and girl scout summer camping areas which will be covered with water by Lake Mathis.

Policy On Poland Being Reappraised

WASHINGTON (AP)—A reappraisal of United States policy toward Communist Poland is in the making. The chances appear good that Poland's new, independent Red leadership can obtain American economic aid if it wishes — and if it survives.

Secretary of State Dulles told a nationwide television audience last night — after conferring with President Eisenhower — that anything which weakens the "great structure" of Soviet Communist power "and leads to its breaking up" is in the interest of the United States.

His words on this and other aspects of the sensational revolt in Warsaw against Soviet domination left little doubt that he sees the prospect of an independent Poland as comparable to the situation of Yugoslavia after its break with the Kremlin in 1948. Yugoslavia obtained help from the United States, Britain and France in order to withstand Soviet pressures.

Even before Dulles spoke out, the White House suggested in response to questions that the help given President Tito of Yugoslavia had encouraged the Polish revolt against Soviet dictation. Eisenhower ruled a week ago that aid to Tito should continue.

"I certainly think," press secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen, "that the President's insistence on continued aid to Yugoslavia reflects itself in the Polish situation and in other unrest in other satellite nations."

The Polish crisis reached a climax last night when the Communist Party Central Committee at Warsaw drove the Stalinists from its controlling Politburo and restored Wladyslaw Gomulka, who was purged in the days of Joseph Stalin, to the powerful post of first secretary.

The ouster from the Politburo of Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, defense minister and symbol of Soviet power in Poland, was seen here as convincing evidence that Gomulka is in deadly earnest about winning for Poland freedom of action.

Bob Clinton, director, said the choir still needs new members and urged those who wish to sing with the chorus in its annual Christmas program this year.

No Rock 'n' Roll

LONDON (AP) — American jazzman Lionel Hampton won't be able to play a concert in Royal Albert Hall Friday. The directors say they won't allow rockn' roll there.

Depositors To Be Paid

FORT WORTH (AP)—The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. will begin paying off depositors of the defunct River Oaks State Bank at 9 a.m. tomorrow, officials said today.

Checks will be drawn on banks in this area and may be cashed.

John Cecil, counsel for the FDIC, said the federal agency will pay out between four and five million dollars to the bank's approximate 5,500 depositors.

All accounts of $10,000 or less will be paid in full.

Cecil said a small percentage of the accounts are more than $10,000. These depositors will be paid $10,000 and will retain their claims against the bank for the rest. They will share equally with the FDIC in liquidation of the rest of the bank's assets.

Bond Is Set Here In Wife Desertion Case

Charles Beall, charged here with wife desertion, was returned here from Fort Worth during the weekend by Howard Gibbons, sheriff's deputy.

Beall's bond is set at $500.

Big Sea Maneuvers

TOKYO (AP)—Warships and aircraft of Japan's sea self-defense force today opened the biggest sea maneuvers since the postwar fleet was created. About 12,000 men, 150 warships and 20 planes are taking part in the 15-day war games. American submarines and planes are participating.

Planting Of Trees To Be Stepped Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tree plantings in Texas and five other states where shelterbelts were established in the 1930s to help protect farm homes, soil, livestock and other property against disastrous duststorms are expected to expand in the soil bank program.

Forest Service officials said today farmers now can get some payment for taking land out of production under the soil bank conservation reserve program and that it may stimulate tree plantings.

The goal is around ahalf million acres planted in windbreaks and shelterbelts.

Some officials recently were in the Middle West to meet with commercial nursery operators and to determine the number of trees available for windbreak planting. Some state which operate nurseries may expand their facilities if the demand warrants it.

The Forest Service says all reports it has received indicate that the big government-aid shelterbelt program in strips of West Texas, west Oklahoma, west Kansas, west Nebraska and parts of North and South Dakota during the dust-bowl days of the 1930s proved successful.

That shelterbelt program, authorized in august, 1934, and expected to run for a 10-year-period, was halted in 1942 because of the war. Since then there has been some private tree and shrub planting in the area.

The shelterbelt program was a measure for drought relief and employment in 1934. The plan called for a swath 200 miles wide from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, consisting of windbreaks in 100-foot strips of trees planted in a north-south direction through the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, covering an estimated one million acres.

In the eight year program $14,862,307 in federal money was spent on the project and 217,378,352 trees were planted on 30,223 farms.

A large part of the government money went to buy trees from commerical nurseries or for seedlings from federal or state nurseries. Some wild seedlings were gathered and planted.

In 1944, the Forest Service said, a check showed an 89 per cent survival of the plantings. Some seedlings set out in the 1930s are 50 to 60 feet high.

"I'll never forget the telephone call that rushed a doctor to my mother's bedside."

An Interview With Mrs. Ora Surls by Telephone News Reporter Don Davis

Does any single telephone call stand out in your memory? Mrs. Ora Surls remembers one from 60 years ago as clearly as if it had happened last night.

"I remember the first time I ever used a telephone. It was back in 1895. I was about six years old. My mother was ill and wanted the doctor. We didn't have a phone so I ran to the nearest neighbor who did. I was so scared but when the doctor on the other end of the line answered 'I'll be right over,' it all seemed like a fairy tale to a six-year-old girl."

That's the way Mrs. Ora Surls tells about her most memorable telephone call. It was the first time she experienced the magic of the telephone but certainly not the last.

Meeting Mrs. Surls 60 years later is like bumping into an old friend. She's a warm, friendly person with a keen sense of humor and heaps of patience—qualities she's used to take 67 years of living pretty much in stride.

Coming from a pioneer farming family, Mrs. Surls has had her share of ups and downs. But that's the past. She'd rather count her blessings. She says the telephone is very definitely one of them, calls it her "best friend." She means it.

LARGE FAMILY

Keeping up with her family, which Mrs. Surls treasures above everything, is a big enough assignment in itself. Eleven of her 13 children are living and situated in different parts of the country. With a family of that size, Mrs. Surls has had many memorable telephone calls through the years. Many have brought good news. Many is the time Mrs. Surls has answered the phone and received glad tidings of a new arrival in the family—there are 30 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Other calls Mrs. Surls remembers with sadness. One of these came in 1943, during the war. Three of her boys were in service and one of them, who was headed overseas at the time, called his "Mom" before leaving. "Mother, we fly out at 2 a. m.—overseas duty. Don't worry, I'll be safe. I'll write you soon. Remember, I love you."

That was the last time his mother heard his voice. He was killed on a mission a few months later.

You'd remember calls like these, wouldn't you?

You can't help but see a little bit of everybody in Mrs. Surls' story. That's because the telephone plays such an intimate part in all our daily lives. Probably you've had a telephone call, or calls, you'll never forget. If so, and you'd care to write me about it, I'd like to hear from you. Just address your letter to me, Don Davis, here at the telephone company.

YOU AND YOUR TEEN-AGER

By BEVERLY BRANDOW

"I'll have a hot dog," the pint sized boy told the waitress. "Oh no," his mother interceded; "he'll have the hot plate lunch."

"—And do you want mustard or chili on your hot dog?" the waitress asked, ignoring the mother, and continuing to take his order.

After she had disappeared into the kitchen, the boy turned dreamily to his mother and, with great pride announced: "You know what? She thinks I'm real."

I giggled right out loud when I read that anecdote. It's not only little boys who need that lift to their egos. Teen-agers need to feel "real" too.

In the case of the little boy, the plate-lunch may have been better for him than the hot dog, but there are some parents who make a habit of vetoing their children's dicision regardless of their children's ability to make wise ones occasionally.

Teen-agers, in my opinion, need all the encouragement they can get in standing confidently on their own two feet. Yet many teens are hindered rather than helped by their parents in this respect.

They come home from school to find their mail has already been opened and read. When they talk on the phone they may hear the extension receiver lifted or may have to give a play-by-play account of the conversation later.

When arranging the furniture or decorating the bedroom, it is Mom's ideas that are carried out.

A shopping spree can be a lot of fun, but not when you're not allowed to pick your own clothes. Few of us take much pride in wearing someone else's selections.

The list could go on. The point is that teen-agers who need a helping hand to develop into capable adults are in some instances being kept helpless, pinned under their parents' thumbs.

Parents are loved and their counsel is always needed by growing boys and girls, but teen-agers who are to mature normally also need to be made to feel that their ideas are of value and their personality is due repect.

Teens are wonderful and we love them, so let's help them feel "real"!

(If you would like two free booklets dealing with the smoking and drinking problems as faced by your teen-agers, write me in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Girl Scout Meet Slated

A special workshop will be held at Sweetwater Tuesday starting at 10 a.m. at the Camp Boothe Oaks.

Miss Gwendolyn C. Elsmoew, senior program advisor of the Girl Scouts of the United States, will be the instructor. Although Miss Elsmore is especially concerned with senior programs, she will also hold sessions on brownie and intermediate groups.

Miss Elsmore served as community advisor in Region Three, which consist of Washington D. C., Delaware, Mayland, Pennsylvania and Virginia., and was also a field director in Portland, Oregon. She is an alumni of the University of Oregon and a major in the field of education. She was a high school instructor in Oregon schools before entering the profession of Girl Scout work in 1942.

Miss Elsmore is a native of Wisconsin and has done graduate work in the New York School of Social Work and Columbia University She was program chairman for the Senior Girl Scouts roundup of 1956.

Anyone interested in attending the workshop is requested to meet at the East Elementary School by 8:30 a.m. and rides will be provided.

Speakers Are Named For VFW Meeting In Snyder

AUSTIN—The junior vice commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Texas, Doyle Willis, of Fort Worth will be featured speaker at the fall meeting of representatives from posts and ladies auxiliary unit of that organization meeting in Snyder on Oct. 27 and 28.

The group will come from VFW's District 8 which includes Haskell, Shackelford, Jones, Fisher, Scurry, Mitchell, Nolan, Taylor, Callahan, Eastland, Brown and Comanche counties.

In addition, Mrs. Mamie McCandless of Kingsville, president; Mrs. Ruby Jo Roe, of Abilene, senior vice president and Mrs. Jane Waters of Fort Worth, junior vice president of the Department of Texas Auxiliary, are to be in attendance and will be heard at both the joint meeting and in closed sessions of the Auxiliary.

Talmadge E. Dean of Anson is commander of District 8 and Mrs. Annetta Simmons also from Anson is president of the Ladies Auxiliary units in the District.

Program notes reflect that support of the proposition to increase funds for and extend the Texas Veterans Land program will be given prior attention and that plans for a district-wide observation of Veterans Day will be outlined.

Scurry County Memorial Post No. 8231, commanded by L. A. Crehshaw, Jr., is host to the meeting and elaborate plans have been made for the presentation of the programs and for the entertainment of the attending representatives.

From The Pacific

From the Pacific Islands comes this dessert. Cook for about 30 minutes, stirring often 1 cup brown sugar, ¼ cup margarine and ½ cup milk.

Remove ½ cup of this mixture and save. Add 3 cups of cooked rice to the rest of the mixture. Mix well. Turn out on a platter and shape into a round cake. Ice with the ¼ cup mixture and sprinkle with toasted coconut.

HD Meeting Is Held Here

The girls county-wide home demonstration meeting was held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the office of Miss Ruby Butts, county home demonstration agent.

The meeting was called to order by Barbara Martin, president. Barbara Thornburg, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting.

A discussion was held on writing articles for the country-wide newspaper. Those to take part in the project include Jacueline Martin, Barbara Martin, Peggy Brown, Patsy Hammitt, Loretta Sterli, Betty Pylant, and Uderia Brown.

An announcement was made on the postponement of the achievement day that will be held in the county barn, Nov. 6-7. The new date will be announced later.

FOR GOOD EATING

Short on ideas. . . and time? Looking for a sassy menu to perk up a wilted family-special guests? Just dress up that old stand-by, the Frankfurter, with a toasty, crispy, butter-mustard wrapper and fill it full of chutney and cheese and a fingerful of other tongue-teasing bits. Serve it with chilled Coke and cool, creamy Pineapple Cole Slaw. Everyone will wonder what you have done to make a hot dog taste like that. . . . It could start a whole new career for the frankfurter!

FRANKFURTER WRAP AROUNDS

12 frankfurters (1½ lbs.)
1½ cups sharp cheese
2 tablespoons finely chopped chutney
2 teaspoons grated onion
4 strips bacon, fried crisp
12 slices thin-sliced bread
1-3 cup soft butter
2 teaspoons mustard

Heat oven to 450 F. (hot oven). Split frankfurters almost through length-wise. Grate cheese and add chutney and grated onion. Crumble crisp bacon and add to cheese-chutney mixture. Blend well. Trim crusts from bread. Combine butter and mustard. Spread half of butter mixture on bread slices. Fill slits in frankfurters with cheese mixture. Place a frankfurter diagonally on each slice of spread bread. Bring opposite points of the bread up over the top of the frankfurter and fasten bread in place securely with toothpick. Brush bread with remaining mustard-butter. Arrange wrapped frankfurters on a baking sheet and toast in pre-heated oven for 8 to 10 minutes or until bread is a golden brown and cheese mixture in frankfurter is melted. Makes 12. Serve piping hot.

PINEAPPLE COLE SLAW

½ medium head cabbage shredded
1 carrot (curls or thin strips)
1 small can shredded pineapple
1 cup mayonnaise
¼ cup French dressing
½ cup chopped celery
1 teaspoon salt
Dash finely ground pepper

Cut cabbage into fine strips and add to chopped celery and carrots. Then mix, separately, the mayonnaise, French Dressing, and seasonings—blend well. Add dressing and cabbage mix and blend these together. . . .then lace in the shredded pineapple. Put into salad bowl-garnish with olive slices or a pineapple slice!

Put Canvas Cover On Air Conditioner

Cotton canvas, traditionally used for summer awnings, assumes a new role in the winter. Covers for window air conditioners can be made from this sturdy fabric.

The covers not only protect the cooling units from the winter elements, but they also save homeowners the double expense of having the air conditioners removed in the fall and replaced the following summer.

Tasty With Chicken

For a vegetable especially tasty with chicken, stir some cooked whole kernel yellow corn inap rice after it has simmered 14 minutes. Cover and allow to stand at least 10 minutes. Some chopped pimento or cooked green pepper is good in this dish.

Former Miss Universe Is Now Carolina Housewife

By ROBERT McHUGH

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP) — Miriam Stevenson, tabbed "the most beautiful girl in the world" two years ago, has graduated to a house wife.

The transition from "Miss Universe" to Mrs. Donald Upton is domestically speaking.

She is continuing her television work at Columbia station WIS-TV where her husband is chief announcer.

Don's hours being what they are, Miriam figures they'll see about as much of each other with her working at the studio as they would if she remained home.

The advent of children, of course, would change all that.

The blonde charmer has been busy the past few weeks planning color schemes and furniture arrangements for the apartment she and her groom share.

"Interior decoration and fashion designing were my favorite subjects in college," she says. "In fact," she adds, "I majored in Home Ec to get those subjects."

Don had opportunities to sample her cooking before the recent wedding, and Miriam says, "he seems to like it.

She acknowledges the degree of kitchen proficiency one would expect of a graduate in home economics, but with characteristic honesty she doesn't brag about it.

After winning "Miss Universe" honors in 1954, Miriam tried a summer in Hollywood, but returned home in the fall to finish college.

Her sudden switch from the world's reigning beauty to a South Carolina college girl made headlines at the time. But those who knew Miriam best weren't too surprised.

She drinks buttermilk, wears very little makeup (not even enough to hide her freckles) and displays a frankness of manner incompatible with the pretense and tinsel standards that abound in the movie Mecca.

A studio colleague of Miriam's mused as follows:

"If any girl in the country could be said to have gone through the strain of becoming Miss Universe without noticeable change, it would be Miriam."

Upton, in addition to his TV tasks, is the lyric end of a song-writing team. The musical half, Stanley Zabka, acted as best man when the knot was tied at Lebanon Presbyterian Church in Winnsboro, S. C.

Federal School Aid

In Tacoma, Wash., President Eisenhower declared that he would "again call upon Congress to act at the beginning of the next session" on the matter of federal aid in school construction. He warned that federal aid alone can't do the job, but "the federal government can—and will—help and lead."

Both sides are blaming the other for failure of the school construction legislation at the last session of Congress, and there is something to be said on both sides.

But the immediate cause lies squarely at the door of Negro Congressman Powell, representing the Harlem district of New York City.

Powell insisted on adding an amendment, in the form of a rider, on the education bill which would prohibit the use of any money for construction purposes in any school district that had failed to integrate the races. There were warnings from Mr. Eisenhower and others that such a provision would likely result in killing the entire bill.

Nevertheless Powell, with plenty of encouragement, persisted, and the provision was inserted by a pretty strong vote.

Then, as everybody expected, the bill failed of final passage by a narrow vote, and both sides have been blaming the other ever since for its defeat.

The truth is that the Powell rider gave a good many members of Congress who oppose the bill on principle—and this includes most Southern Democrats and some Northern Republicans—a readymade alibi for doing it in the final go-round.

They are opposed to federal aid on principle, believing that control follows dollars. The Powell amendment proved the truth of their contention—that federal control and coercion would result from federal aid.

The Powell amendment was an obvious attempt to coerce school districts everywhere into integrating in order to share in the federal money for constructing badly needed school buildings. It proved what opponents of federal aid have been saying all along—that federal dictatorship in school matters would inevitably follow federal aid to education.

Powell, a Democrat, has now repudiated his party an announced his all-out support of President Eisenhower, but he has received few if any seconds from responsible Negro leaders in Manhattan and vicinity.

Federal aid for school construction would be available today had Powell not insisted on his rider.

Top State Problem

Perhaps the water situation around Beaumont has been relieved by rains by this time, but one day last week a water shortage of unprecedented proportions forced the Lower Neches Valley Authority to reduce the amount of water available for industry in that area by 56 per cent.

It was the first cut in water usage in that area since 1899, when the LNVA and its predecessor organizations went into service.

We West Texans are accustomed to thinking of the entire coastal region as unusually well blessed with water supplies. However, the rapid industrialization of that area has put a severe strain on available supplies, and that region has shared with the rest of Texas the trials and tribulations of the great drouth.

All municipalities in the LNVA territory were requested to reduce water consumption as much as possible, until the current shortage blows over.

The Neches is described as in the most critical drouth situation since 1915. The river is flowing at the unprecedentedly low rate of 101 cubic feet per second.

West Texas is an old hand at withstanding the ravages and inconveniences of long dry spells. It sympathizes with the coastal areas which now find themselves hard-pressed.

The situation points up the fact that all Texans share a common water problem, and the next session of the Legislature should put that problem at the top of its 1957 agenda.

Principal In 'Bridey Murphy' Episode Will Be Glad When All Is Forgotten

By WILLIAM J. BARKER

Copyright, 1956, The Denver Post, Inc., All rights reserved.

PUEBLO, Colo., Oct. 22 (AP) — Virginia Tighe is probably the least known famous woman in America.

Millions of persons would more readily recognize her by the fictitious name of "Ruth Simmons," which was given in the controversial best-seller, "The Search for Bridey Murphy, by Morey Bernstein, the subject of a new motion picture which retains the title of the book.

The book and the movie were based on a series of experiments in which "Ruth," or Virginia, under hypnosis, told details of a "previous life" in 19th century Ireland as Bridey Murphy.

What effect has all this had on Virginia Tighe?

In real life she is a slight, shy woman of 33. Her rust-brown hair is cropped and curled. She has a warm smile.

As we talked in the living room of her home in the middle class Belmont suburb of Pueblo where Virginia lives with her husband Hugh and their three children, I noted that she looks like Teresa Wright, who plays "Ruth Simmons" in the forthcoming movie.

"I can't wait to see it," Virginia said. Then she hesitated, adding, "but I'll be glad when it's been shown and forgotten. Both Hugh's and my relatives in Chicago are very much opposed to this Bridey business on religious grounds. That's perhaps the biggest reason we've avoided publicity — because it's offensive to them."

Hugh Tighe is also 33. From his dark crew-cut down, he looks the ex-Air Force pilot that he is. You can see why he's a good sales manager for the automobile agency where he works.

"If I'd realized there was going to be so much hullabaloo over Ginnie because of Bernstein's book I'd never have permitted her to be hypnotized," Tighe said. We're counting the days till the rest of the world gets around to treating us like normal human beings the way Pueblo does."

"You see," Ginnie said, "there are the children to think of too. For a long time we were in fear of the day when one of them would come home in tears because somebody'd told her that her mother was a spook or a witch — that hobgoblin, Bridey Murphy. "The mothers around here, and the teachers, have explained to our youngsters' schoolmates why they mustn't taunt our small ones with this. We haven't had any trouble at all on that score. Oh, of course one day our eldest, who's 9, came to me and said, 'Are you Bridey Murphy, Mama?'

"I did a rapid bit of thinking — Was this the time to tell her about the birds and the bees and Bridey, so to speak? Then I wound up answering her, 'No darling, I'm Virginia Tighe, your loving mama.'"

"That seemed to take care of that crisis," Hugh said, turning to me. "The ones that make me mad are the clowns who try to give Ginnie a bad time. Some moron currently is mailing anonymous stuff hinting at a romance between Ginnie and More Bernstein — one of those Svengali and the helplessly hypnotized, Trilby implications. The postal authorities will get him eventually."

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

THE GREAT WORLD AND TIMOTHY COLT. By Louis Auchincloss. Houghton Mifflin.

Married to Ann, and father of two young boys, Tim is a lawyer in the firm of Sheffield, Knox, Stevens and Dale. There were several scores of others in the office but he seemed to be on the way to a partnership.

He had earned it, too, every year, every month and minute. One colleague married the boss' daughter, one made sure he got his vacation, but Tim kept Ann waiting to the last before she could rent their summer cottage, and he would rather work than play.

One difficult and rich client, George Emlen, got under his skin. George was related to Dale, whom Tim disliked and Knox hated, but Dale was able to dump on Tim's shoulders an extremely complicated, tough job — it upset the Colts' vacation plans again, and it also could lead to the coveted partnership. One involvement with Dale, however, leads to another, to associations with his wealthy circle, to sophisticated Eileen, to a new contact with Emlen and finally to a dramatic courtroom scene when Tim decides which great world he prefers.

This is the sixth book and the best from Auchincloss, who is a lawyer. Here is the world of money-making, titles, tomes and briefs, a dry-as-dust world until the able novelist works life into it for the benefit of the layman reader. The man is never absent from the lawyer, and behind the legal mind you always find the husband and father: this identity of career and ingrained character gives Auchincloss his fine drama.

Better Times Predicted For Immediate Future

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Better times ahead are predicted today by a wide sampling of business leaders.

They aren't talking in general terms about long-term possibilities for the economy as a whole but about what they expect in the next few weeks or months for their own companies or industries. The sampling includes the fields of steel, chemicals, textiles, home building, appliances, TV, movie theaters, women's wear and distilling.

Auto makers too are out today with glowing predictions of better days ahead for them. But this is usual with them at the start of a new model year.

Steel executives are among the leading optimists. Latest to join the chorus is Joel Hunter, president of Crucible Steel, who expects the current quarter to be one of his company's best. This should offset a strike-slowed third quarter and bring sales for the year to a record high.

The chemical industry will continue its spectacular growth, Dr. Charles Allen Thomas, president of Monsanto Chemical, predicts. And he sees a new era of technological advance just ahead: cheap conversion of salt water into fresh, harnessing of energy from the sun, cheaper building materials, cost cuts in making chemicals.

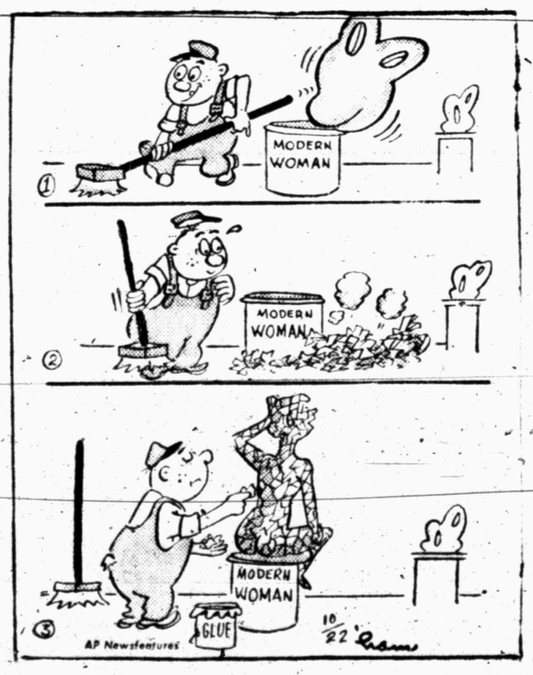

Home appliance sales still can rise 20 per cent to top five billion dollars this year, in the view of Judson S. Sayre, president of Norge Division of Borg - Warner. The trick: use better selling methods.

TV set sales in the final three months of this year can top those in the same period of 1955, Dr. W. R. G. Baker, vice president of General Electric, believes.

The lagging home building industry will revive next spring, predicts Norman Strunk, executive vice president of the United States Savings & Loan League.

The textile industry will be doing better from now on, says Leon Lowenstein, chairman of M. Lowenstein & Sons. He sees a notable pickup in business at the store level in both men's and women's garments and yard goods for home sewing.

Ike May Take Michigan Again, But His Margin Will Be Reduced Considerably

By JACK BELL

DETROIT (AP) — The shift was changing. Men and women streamed in and out of Chrysler Corp.'s sprawling Dodge plant in Hamtramck.

Blinking a bit in the October sunshine, some hurried homeward. Some migrated toward the new headquarters of United Auto Workers Local No. 3.

Others wandered in groups up the street to a bar.

Here are the men and women who make up the well-organized core of Democratic strength in Michigan.

Will they vote 90 per cent Democratic, as leaders of that party claim? This seems doubtful. Will they vote 75 per cent Democratic, as Republican leaders contend? This too is open to doubt. Somewhere in between, the realists say.

There are an estimated 700,000 UAW members in Michigan and most of them seem to be getting from their union a day-by-day political indoctrination. They are a powerful factor among the three million or more Michigan voters who may go to the polls next month.

But is their concentrated political strength offset at least in part, by Republican gains among Detroit's 400,000 Negroes?

Can the Democrats hold intact their overwhelming strength in Detroit and at the same time pick up substantial support among Michigan's generally Republican and Are the state's small business men whose income depends primarily on that of the farmers, looking toward the Democrats?

These questions can't now be answered with any authority.

However, surface indications are that President Eisenhower again will pocket Michigan's 20 electoral votes, but with a sharp reduction of the 321,000-vote margin he rolled up over Adlai E. Stevenson in 1952.

Eisenhower's personal pull this year may determine whether Detroit's nonpartisan Mayor Albert E. Cobo can win an uphill battle on the Republican ticket against Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams, bidding for another term.

Williams won four years ago despite Eisenhower's big Michigan vote. But now the national and state ballots are combined, as they have not been previously.

To many of the members of UAW Local No. 3 in Hamtramck, the political pattern is simple:

Eisenhower was a great general, but he is a poor president. They're going to vote Democratic, all the way.

Among those interviewed, there was no sign of enthusiasm for Stevenson, but almost everywhere was the expressed determination to vote the straight Democratic ticket.

One exception was Terry Alexandr, lining up his work schdul with the union secretary. Commenting that he had been laid off for at least 18 months during the last three years, Alexander said he hasn't made up his mind on the presidential race. But he said he likes Williams for governor again.

Percy Harding, a millwright in the Dodge plant, said he was going to vote the straight Democratic ticket "because I don't like Ike or anybody in his Cabinet."

Up the street an argument was going on in the dim recesses of a tavern.

Ruth Harvey, who works for Dodge, said there wasn't a woman in her plant division who had indicated she was going to vote for Eisenhower.

"I'll bet you, out of a group of any 50 women in the whole plant, you wouldn't find five who are going to vote for Ike," she said.

"When Eisenhower ran four years ago, almost all the women were for him. But now they are strictly against him. He's a good Army man but he's no good for the working man."

John McMahon, a peppery Scotsman who works alongside women in the plant, said he couldn't agree. McMahon, a Democrat all the way, said a little sadly he's having some political trouble with some of the women in his department. One of them, he said with an air of amazement, even wears an Ike button to work.

"She says Eisenhower got us peace and is most likely to keep it and she is going to vote for him," McMahon said. "How do you argue with a woman like that?"

In the world of the taxi driver, the hotel porter, the waitress, the elevator operator, the building service employe, the bartender and the man who digs ditches, Eisenhower is strong.

For example, Lewis Strong, who runs an elevator in Detroit's War Veterans' Memorial Building, said "I voted for Ike in 1952 and I'm going to again, but I'm going to split my ticket this time and vote for Soapy Williams."

Reuben Culbertson, a Negro waiter, said he had been voting Democratic for a long time, "but I'm kinda undecided this year." He added: "I might vote for President Eisenhower. He's a good man. 'Course, I'll vote for Goy. Williams."

Mrs. Cora Holloway, a Negro maid, said she is going to vote for Eisenhower "because I'm afraid if we change we might get involved in one of those wars again."

Mary McCarvel, a Negro maid, said she voted for Eisenhower in 1952 "because I wanted my boy to come back home from Korea."

"But, Stevenson, that's my man now," she said. "Lots of people here in Detroit have lost their jobs. Men just can't seem to get work."

Auto Makers Overlooking Most Desirable Feature

By INEZ ROBB

Well, sir, as I bade a fond farewell to Detroit a day or so ago, it occurred to me that the auto industry is barking up the wrong cylinder with its long dreams of rocket cars, atom-powdered cars and flying hotrods.

For an industry that tries to pierce the veil of the future with all the frenzy of a tea-leaf priestess, car manufacturers consistently overlook the one simple improvement to its product for which the motoring public longs.

What the public craves is not teevee in the back seat or a spigot gushing hot coffee up front but a handy-dandy garbage desposal unit. No other object in common use in this country collects or attracts as much miscellaneous debris in so confined a space as the old family car.

Drive 50 miles through city or country, hill or vale, and at the end of the journey the motorist is buried under a rat's nest of apple cores, candy wrappers, popcorn boxes, facial tissues, old paper cups, tag-ends of sandwiches, newspapers, discarded road maps, pop bottles, and comic books bought in fond hope of keeping the little nippers quiet.

At the end of a day of cross-country driving the motorist isn't certain whether he's in a garbage scow or en route to a rummage sale. Even if he is a scofflaw at heart, and crass enough to strew the lovely countryside with trash, his hand is stayed in hundreds of towns and counties by crisp roadside signs saying the penalty for such is jail and or a stiff fine ($100 in and around Detroit).

What the family car really needs is not more foam rubber and chrome, but a built-in disposal unit that will care for paper sacks, broken skis, chicken bones and even, in emergencies, obstreperous children.

If the motor industry refuses to take seriously my proposal for a garbage disposal unit, it also sees no threat to its supremacy at home in the present popularity of the small, foreign-made car. It has made no more dent in Detroit than a mosquito dive-bombing an elephant.

The Merlins of the Big Three say flatly that the American motorist wants, in an American-made car, a juggernant with the speed of light and all the comforts of home. And that he will not buy an American made midget.

Only the American Motors Corporation in taking a gamble in '57 with a new small car. This is the Metropolitan, with a 52-horsepower engine and an over-all length of only 12 feet, five and one-half inches. But even though both engine and body of the Metropolitan are made to American specifications, it is being manufactured in England.

This small, snappy two-seater is meant for the two-car family. There is room for the luggage and kids — if real small — in the rear. It will squeeze 35 to 40 miles from a gallon of gas, park on a dime, and sell for about $1,550 with heater and radio.

It is hoped that the Metropolitan will give the Volkswagen and other midgets a run for their money. But only time will tell.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Reporting On Ladies Events Is Confusing

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — For those of us who've been around for a couple of administrations, covering afternoon ladies' functions these day can get a bit confusing. One day you march down a receiving line filled with wives of today's cabinet officials. The next day you're shaking hands with the women whose husbands held the same posts in the days of the preceding administration.

There was Mrs. Fred Vinson, widow of the late Chief Justice, heading one receiving line and introducing us to Mrs. John R. Steelman, wife of Truman's White House advisor, Mrs. Dean Acheson, wife of the former secretary of state, and Mrs. Jesse Donaldson, wife of the Truman postmaster general.

You also say hello to Nancy Kefauver, wife of the Democratic senator from Tennessee who wants to be the next vice president, and to pert Lindy Boggs, wife of Congressman Hale Boggs (D-La.) who heads up the Democratic congressional campaign committee. This shindig was to honor Mrs. Edison Dick of Chicago, co-chairman of the National Volunteers for Stevenson - Kefauver. The American Newspaper Women's club headquarters, where it was held, was jampacked.

Next day the same clubhouse was equally jammed with women wearing Ike buttons, Ike, and Dick insignia, and all kinds of GOP jewelry. In the receiving line were Mrs. Sherman Adams, wife of the presedential assistant; Mrs. Arthur Summerfield, wife of the postmaster general; Mrs. Herbert Brownell, wife of the attorney general; Mrs. James Mitchell, wife of the secretary of labor.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Howard Coffin, Republican National Committee-woman for the District, and chairman of the women's division of the Eisenhower-Nixon Campaign Club of the area. Mrs. Adams brought four little toy elephants she had sewed into party garb — frilly white embroidered skirts, jeweled headdresses, corsages of tiny imitation flowers — to show the ladies. Doris Brownell was wearing one of those handsome gold link barcelets with minature music box studded with rhinestones spelling "Ike."

Most of the Democratic ladies were wearing chic new fall dresses in black. They were adorned with "Adlai and Estes" jewelry and the honor guests wore rose carnations. "We're the poor man's party; we can't afford orchids," one of them quipped.

Survey Shows Need For New Expressways

DETROIT (AP) — Traffic jams in Detroit would be eased if the Motor City would build 259 miles of new expressways. A traffic survey committee said the job could be done for 1½ billion dollars. If the program could be financed, an expressway network would stretch to within a 25 mile radius of downtown Detroit by 1980.

18 Persons Killed In State Violence

By The Associated Press

A car-train crash that claimed four lives and a storm on the Gulf Coast were the worst killers as Texas' violent death toll climbed to 18 over the weekend.

Four persons were drowned or missing as result of high winds in the Galveston area Saturday. Another was electrocuted during the storm that raked a large section of Southeast Texas.

The total highway toll was at least 12. In addition to electrocution and drownings, one person was shot to death.

The worst traffic accident of the weekend in the state was at Waco Sunday morning where a car driven by Mrs. Vera Helen Robinette, 32, crashed into a Katy train killing the woman and her three children. The children were James Edwin, 11, Daethine, 14, and Larry 7. All were en route to church.

The bodies of two persons who drowned in the Texas coast storm that struck Saturday afternoon were recovered Sunday. They are Mrs. Ruby Ann Lampier, 38, and W. M. Keeton, 52, both of Houston.

Two other persons, Anton Adams Sr., about 50, and Ralph Brackens, 51, both of Houston, are missing and were presumed drowned by the Gulf storm.

Willie Lee Moore, 28, of Houston was electrocuted in the storm when he touched a live wire.

L. B. Springfield, 86, of Dallas was killed Sunday in a car accident near Corsicana.

Two persons were killed Sunday morning in a headon crash of two cars 14 miles east of San Antonio. They were Richard J. Potter, 53, of San Antonio, and Mrs. Maurine Christopher of Nacogdoches.

James Erwin, of Lorena, about 30, and Benjiman Deckard, 50, of Waco were killed in a one-car accident outside of Waco Saturday morning.

Mary Jannet Clayton, 15, of Amarillo was killed Friday when the car in which she was riding overturned north of Canyon.

Barbara Cole, 3, was killed Saturday night near Houston in an automobile accident that injured five persons.

A Dallas man, Pedro Duran, 55, was killed Saturday when a car went out of control and struck him in the front yard of his home.

At Houston, Roy Edward Hill, 24, was shot to death Saturday night.

Cool Front Expected To Sweep State

By The Associated Press

A weak cool front was scheduled to move across Texas Tuesday but the U.S. Weather Bureau said it would bring no moisture and little change in temperature.

The clear skies and mild weather Sunday and Monday in the state were a contrast to Saturday's violent storms that claimed five lives.

Brownsville with .12 inch and Beaumont with .10 were the only points in the state reporting rain Sunday.

Early Monday morning skies were clear over Texas. Temperatures before dawn ranged from 39 at Dalhart to 61 at Galveston and Beeville.

Maximum temperatures Sunday afternoon ran from 71 degrees at Wichita Falls to 86 at Laredo.

Generally fair weather covered the western half of the nation today while variable cloudiness and scattered rain spread over much of the East.

Except for scattered showers over the Pacific Northwest and northern Rockies, fair skies and lower temperatures were reported west of the Mississippi.

Fog which has blanketed the southern half of the Great Lakes was lifting in most sections in the morning and mostly clear skies ranged over the Midwest. However, showers were forecast for later today in Upper Michigan and northern Wisconsin.

Meanwhile, a band of cooler air pushed eastward through the central states giving lower temperatures west of a line from Minnesota to northern New Mexico.

New England reported fair and milder weather.

Prison Rodeo Crowd Large

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — The prison rodeo has set a new attendance record for its first three performances. Another crowd is expected Sunday when the event will be televised nationally.

Attendance was 32,000 yesterday, equalling the mark set Oct. 14. It brought the attendance for the month to 82,000, which Prison Board Chairman H. H. Coffield of Rockdale said was an all-time high for the first three performances.

Sunday's performance will be televised on NBC's "Wide, Wide World" program.

Among visitors yesterday was Lee Simmons of Sherman, former general manager of the Texas Prison System, who started the rodeo in 1931.

"I never dreamed it would grow to this extent. Seeing this record crowd makes me feel good inside," Simmons said.

Poll Shows Negro Trend

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Daily News said today an analysis of ballots cast in its presidential poll in New York state indicates President Eisenhower has "cut deeply into the normally Democratic Negro vote."

The indication is, the News said, "that President Eisenhower has accomplished what no Republican candidate has been able to do since early New Deal days."

"This switch in loyalties," the story added, "has been a significant factor in helping Eisenhower to run consistently stronger in the straws than in the actual vote he got four years ago."

With 8,962 straw votes tallied, these statewide percentage standings were given: Eisenhower—60.8. Adlai Stevenson—39.2.

Rewriting Of Constitution To Be Urged

AUSTIN (AP)—A move to rewrite the Texas Constitution was approved yesterday by directors of the State Bar.

Judge W. L. Thornton of Dallas, chairman of the Bar's committee on constitutional revision, who proposed the drive, said the Constitution should be more flexible in some areas and tightened in others.

Newton Gresham of Houston, Bar president, said the revision committee will draw up suggestions to be considered at the association's next board meeting in January at Corpus Christi.

The Constitution was written in 1875. It has 43,000 words. It contains 17 articles and more than 300 sections.

The greath length of the Constitution has been the source of agitation in recent years that it be rewritten. Another argument for revision has been that it gives great power to the Legislature as against the executive and judicial. In 1949 a move to rewrite the Constitution was launched but no actual work was done.

Nasser Makes Pressure Move

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Gamal Abdel Nasser's Egyptian government is bringing heavy pressure to bear on Ethiopia and the Sudan in an attempt to form an "African tier" to counter the Baghdad Alliance. He is having some success in Sudan, but little with the suspicious Ethiopians.

One of the Egyptian purposes is to protect Cairo's interests in Nile waters, which mean life or death to Egypt. The Blue Nile rises at Lake Tana in Ethiopia, joining the White Nile at Khartoum in Sudan. The White Nile, rising in Lake Victoria, has its source in the British-controlled protectorate of Uganda.

But more than the Nile is involved. The pressure obviously is part of the Nasser campaign to drive Western influences from Africa entirely.

Nasser's campaign against Ethiopia began with abuse and graduated to soft wooing. About a year ago the Egyptian radio blasted away steadily at Emperor Haile Selssie's government. It accused Ethiopia of plotting with the British and Americans to establish military bases from which Egypt could be besieged. It accused the Ethiopians of posing as Sudan's friend to lure the Sudanese away from Egypt.

This served only to make the Ethiopian regime even more suspicious. Since then, there has been a change in the political picture in Sudan, with the rise of Premier Abdullah Khalil there. Egypt's propaganda turned once again to the prospect of a working union between Ciaor and Khartoum.

For Ethiopia, instead of abuse, came blandishments. Egypt and the Arab press in general began mentioning prospects for a three-way conference of Emperor Haile Selassie, Premier Khalil and President Nasser in November.

If there is to be any such conference in November, the Ethiopians haven't heard of it. Nasser had, indeed, invited the Emperor some time ago for a state visit on Selassie's way home from an Asian tour. But a check in Addis Ababa shows that not only is Selassie avoiding the bloc deal — he has postponed the state visit to Egypt until February.

Recently the Sudanese foreign minister, Mohamed Ahmed Mahgoub, was quoted by the official Egyptian news service as saying he considered a strong African bloc necessary because of joint interests in "liberating the peoples of Africa." This sounded like a direct quotation from the broadcast ambitions of the Nasser regime.

State GOP Shift Seen By Ledrick

FORT WORTH (AP) — Paul Ledrick, state manager of President Eisenhower's campaign said yesterday he has noticed a shift to the Republican ticket in Texas during the past two weeks.

Ledrick told GOP county chairman a statewide survey conducted last week for his headquarters showed 60 per cent of Texans now favor the Republican ticket.

Ledrick said the State Republicans have been aided by intensive organization work and the recent visits by Vice President Nixon.

"Stevenson, Kefauver and Lyndon Johnson haven't hurt us either," he said. "Their speeches and tactics have helped to remind people that President Eisenhower most nearly emobides the traditions and aspirations of Texans."

The GOP chairman referred to the speeches to be made on behalf of the Democratic ticket and said the increased activity on behalf of Adali Stevenson and Kefauver is a further indication of what he referred to as the "Eisenhower ground-swell."

He reported "particularly large gains have been noted in Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston, San Antonio and El Paso and in the rural areas of South and West Texas where farm voters now favor Eisenhower by nearly 12 per cent."

Four From Brenham Killed In Accident

BRENHAM (AP) — Four Brenham residents were killed and two Texas A&M students were injured last night in a 2-car collision near here.

The dead were Herbert Beerwinkle, 51; his wife, 45; a daughter, Elizabeth, 6; and Mrs. Ike Wozniak, 55.

Officers said the four were returning home from a church bazaar in Bremond, where Mrs. Wozniak's son is a Catholic priest.

Attendants at a Bryan, hospital said Jimmy Bingham of Hamilton and Gary Clements of Alvin, both about 20, had multiple bruises and severe facial lacerations.

Fishers Get Daughter

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—The baby expected by crooner Eddie Fisher and his actress wife, Debbie Reynolds, arrived almost three weeks ahead of schedule. The 6-pound, 12-ounce daughter was born in St. Joseph Hospital after the parents had made a hectic, 120-mile dash by car from Palm Springs.

IN WESTERN MONTANA

Grizzly Bear Kills Hunter

AUGUSTA, Mont. (AP) — A big grizzly bear killed one hunter and mauled another in a grim battle in the western Montana mountains.

The victim was Kenneth Scott, 29, Fort Benton, Mont., farmer.

Another hunter, Viv Squires, received a claw wound in the foot.

He said the incident occurred in a wilderness area 40 miles west of here Saturday. Scott died of injuries yesterday.

Squires gave this account:

The bear jumped them as they were looking for elk. Squires backed up, tripped in brush and the bear grabbed his ankle, sending a claw through a heavy logging boot. Squires kicked. The bear reared up and noticed Scott on a knoll.

Scott fired two slugs into the bear, which then retreated.

The hunters decided to track down the wounded bear before it could harm others. After tracking for four hours, they found the bear and Squires emptied his clip of 30-30 shots into it.

Before he could reload the bear charged. Scott fired two shots. His gun jammed and he yelled for Squires to run for safety. Squires thought Scott was running too.

Squires went to camp to get the other six members of the hunting party.

They returned to find Scott severely mauled and the bear gone.

They took Scott to a river bank for first aid. The bear again surprised them, but was felled by two slugs in the neck from a rifle fired by Morris Embleton, 23, Fort Benton.

The bear dropped dead about 10 feet from the party.

Large Attendence Reported At Fair

DALLAS (AP)—The State Fair reinforced today its claim as the biggest state fair in the world after closing yesterday with a total attendance of 2,672,252 in two weeks.

The total was 60,982 above last year's record.

Two Fort Worth entries took top honors in competition at yesterday's horse show. Honey Dodger, owned by O. H. Crew, was named grand champion reining horse in the Palomino performance classes. Sky Deb, owned by Ann Rhodes, was named grand champion pleasure type performance horse.

Meet the magic of the new kind of Ford!

An Action Test will show you that Ford's newness just begins with its longer, lower, wider beauty. It's a completely new car—right from wheels up!

Out on the open road, Ford's magic really takes over! Ordinary stretches of road become special. In fact, every trip's a treat. And it's no wonder, with the all-new "Inner Ford" melting the miles.

The revolutionary new frame, for example, is a full foot wider at the center. You ride lower, with more inside room . . . full road clearance.

And this longest of all low-priced cars is a cinch to handle! With a lower center of gravity, wider rear tread and new easier steering, even tight turns and rutted roads come easy.

And talk about "big-car power"! This new kind of Ford offers you your choice of Silver Anniversary V-8's with a wide range of horsepower to suit every need.* Or if you prefer, you may choose the world's most modern "Six" . . . the new Ford Mileage Maker Six.

The new Ford is easier to enter—roomier than ever.

Spotlight On Bear-Ag Tilt

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

Baylor and Texas A&M, the last teams in the Southwest Conference, meet Saturday night and the result will have a profound effect on the league championship and undoubtedly will be felt in the national rankings.

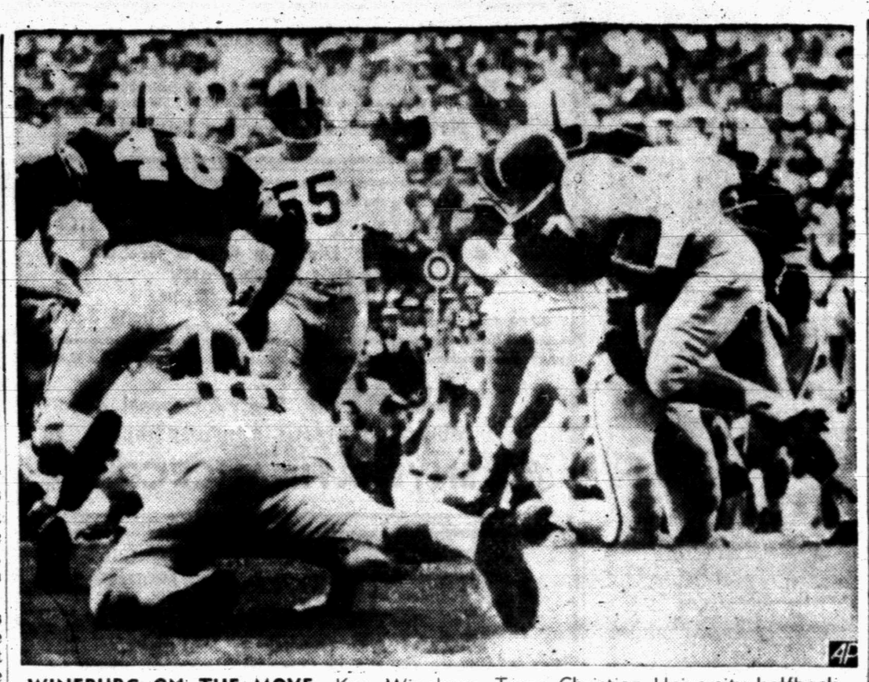

Baylor is undefeated and untied. Texas A&M has a tie to mar its record. But the Aggies, rated fourteenth in the nation, beat Texas Christian, the No. 4 team, 7-6 last week. They may be higher in the rankings this time than Baylor, which has been holding the tenth spot.

Moreover, Texas A&M now is the favorite for the conference championship because when it licked Texas Christian it beat the team that was the people's choice for the title.

Baylor, despite its perfect record, hasn't been as impressive as several of the other teams, notably Texas Christian and A&M.

While Baylor and Texas A&M are clashing in the big one at Waco, Rice and Texas, both losers in their conference starts, get together at Houston to decide which is to be eliminated from championship consideration. Rice took a heartbreaking 13-13 defeat from Southern Methodist while Texas was walloped 32-14 by Arkansas last week.

Two other conference members—Texas Christian and Arkansas—turn back to intersectional strife. TCU plays Miami, which lost its perfect record last week when it was tieed 7-7 by Georgia, and Arkansas clashes with Mississippi, a 10-3 upset victim at the hands of Tulane.

WINEBURG ON THE MOVE—Ken Wineburg, Texas Christian University halfback, moves through his left tackle for a 6 yard gain in the first quarter of the TCU-Texas A&M game at College Station. Texas A&M halfback John Crow (on knees) makes the tackle. Other players are: Buddy Dike (38) TCU halfback; Bobby Conrad (40) A&M quarterback and Jim Ozee (55) TCU center.

47 Unbeaten Elevens Dot College Ranks

Paced by the seven victories of little Missouri Valley of Marshall, Mo., at least 47 college football teams still are unbeaten and untied.

Among the major unbeatens, each with 4 victories, are top-ranked Oklahoma, second-rated Michigan State, Georgia Tech (No. 3), Tennessee (No. 7) Southern California (No. 9) and Baylor (No. 10).

Mitchell Planning To Quit Baseball

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Dale Mitchell, major league outfielder for 10 years with Cleveland and Brooklyn, said today he is quitting baseball and will join a Houston oil equipment company.

Mitchell said he will work for the Associated Oil Field Rentals as a special representative, seeing customers in Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Dallas, Fort Worth and Wichita Falls.

Records Set By U.S. Team

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP)—The U.S. track and field team set four world and two American records were and outdid eight Olympic standards.

Yet the assistant team manager, Ralph Higgins, was moved to comment after the Saturday warmup event, "Actually, the boys were under wraps."

The brilliant performances were turned in on the Chaffey High School track. Another Olympic record was tied.

Coach Jim Kelly said he was happy over the suad's progress.

A week ago, when the team arrived in the Los Angeles area, Kelly said his goal was 12 of 24 possible first places at Melbourne. Sports writers viewing the warmup believe Kelly may have been on the conservative side.

Exciting world marks were topped in the 100 meters, shot put, hammer throw and a mile relay and American marks were recorded in the 5,000 meters and hop, step and jump.

Leamon King, University of California speedster, ran the 100 meters in 10.1 and Bobby Morrow of Texas, in finishing second, was clocked in 10.2. Four watches caught King at 9.3 for 100 yards.

Tigers Idle As Loop Play Opens Friday

District 3-AAA will open its conference play Friday night, but the Snyder Tigers will not get into the act until the following Friday.

The Bengals will have an open date, while all other teams in the loop will be playing this week.

The Sweetwater Mustangs, considered the Tigers' roughest opposition in the district, will be hosting Lake View in one of the loop openers, while Lamesa will go to Colorado City for the other game.

This is the first year for this district under the present organization. Colorado City and Lake View were moved up to Class AAA this season from AA. Lamesa, Sweetwater, and Snyder are the only teams remaining in Snyder's former district, in which the Tigers took the championship last year.

In season standings, the Tigers still lead, being undefeated in six games.

Lamesa, which was in fifth place last week in season standings, moved into a tie for second last Friday. Lamesa and Snyder were the only elevens in the district taking wins last Friday. Lamesa and Sweetwater have each won two intersectional games and lost four. Lake View has taken on win and one tie out of five games, and Colorado City has not won a game in six.

The Tigers are pointing toward their big game of the season a week from Friday when they go to Sweetwater. Most observers figure the winner of that game will be the team which will represent this district in the playoffs.

The remainder of the Tiger schedule includes Lake View here Nov. 9, Colorado City here Nov. 16, and Lamesa there Nov. 23.

Ransom Wins '56 PGA Title

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—Henry Ramsom, after an absence of 15 years, has regained the Texas PGA golf championship.

The 45-year-old Bryan professional and rancher posted a wind-swept one-under-par 70 yesterday for a 54-hole 204 to win the 1956 title.

Ransom's nine-under-par total gave him a three-stroke margin over amateur John Paul Cain, Texas Tech junior from Sweetwater, and a four-point edge over another veteran pro, Byron Nelson of Roanoke.

The championship carried a $1,000 first prize. Nelson won $700. Cain received a new set of irons.

Hayfever normally keeps Ransom out of golf after mid-August and this was his first venture into the Texas PGA since he won the championship in 1941 at Amarillo.

Ransom won with a 65-69-70—204 against Cain's 70-66-71—207. Nelson had a 67-66-75—208. Sharing fourth place were Earl Stewart Jr., Dallas, with a 70-67-72—209, and Rex Baxter Jr., University of Houston, with a 68-72-69—209. Stewart, a pre-tournament favorite, won $500.

Lone Star Race Tight

By The Associated Press

Fights for survival feature the Lone Star Conference football race this week.

Sam Houston State, the only undefeated team in the league, both in season and conference play, meets East Texas State at Commerce and it will be the game East Texas must win to stay in the race.

Stephen F. Austin and Texas A&I, who can't afford to lose another one, battle at Kingsville.

As the race goes past the halfway mark Sam Houston is first, A&I and Southwest Texas State are tied for second with two victories and one loss apiece, while Stephen F. Austin is next with a 1-1 record. East Texas has lost the only conference game played.

Lamar Tech has lost two and Sul Ross three and both are considered out of the race for the title.

Southwest Texas State beat Stephen F. Austin 32-6 last week while Texas A&I was lacing Sul Ross 29-0 and Sam Houston State was downing Lamar Tech 20-6.

Lions, Cardinals Find Foes Tough

By The Associated Press

The two unbeaten kingpins of the National Football League, the Detroit Lions and the Chicago Cardinals, are finding their thrones threatened by rumblings of revolt from below.

The Lions held to first place in the Western Conference yesterday but barely averted a defeat by the San Francisco 49ers when quarterback Bobby Layne booted a clutch 17-yard field goal just 17 seconds from the end for a 20-17 victory.

The Cardinals, outrushed 229 yards to 125, had to capitalize on six pass interceptions, a blocked field-goal attempt and two fumble recoveries, to down the Philadelphia Eagles 20-6 and retain first place in the Eastern Conference.

Meanwhile, the closest pursuers, the Chicago Bears in the West and the New York Giants in the East, displayed their mounting strength with lopsided victories. The Bears, accumulating a 209 yards on the ground, 268 in the air and 26 first downs, buried the Baltimore Colts 58-27.

The Giants trounced the Pittsburgh Steelers 38-10 on the limber arm of Chuckin' Charley Conerly. The 32-year-old quarterback flipped three scoring passes.

In the other games, the Washington Redskins finally won their first after three straight defeats, beating the once-proud Cleveland Browns 20-9. The Green Bay Packers, with a sensational Tobin Rote-to-Billy Howton combination, turned back the Los Angeles Rams 42-17.

Eagles Take Third In Row

By The Associated Press

The Gulf Coast Conference football race doesn't look like a cut-and-dried affair after all.

North Texas State has risen from the ranks and appears to be a serious challenger to Trinity for the championship.

The Eagles won their third straight game last week and it was most impressive as they whipped previously unbeaten and highly rated Texas Western 13-6.

North Texas State and Trinity clash at Denton Nov. 3 and the title undoubtedly will be in the balance at that time.

Trinity was idle last week and so was Midwestern, another member of the conference. Abilene Christian College played outside the league and took a 28-20 drubbing from Chattanooga in an intersectional contest.

The Scherfectady team of the Class A Eastern League is connected with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Buffs Show Border Power

By The Associated Press

The Buffaloes from West Texas State at Canyon emerged powerful from a weekend of Border Conference football that saw the hopes of at least one team cimmed considerably.

The Buffaloes won their fifth straight game of the season handily by a 45-0 score over New Mexico A&M. The victory moved the West Texans into a three-way tie with Texas Western and Arizona State at Tempe for conference leadership.

Disappointment came to Texas Western in the form of a 13-6 whipping at the hands of North Texas State.

Tempe gained its fifth win, a 26-13 victory over Hardin-Simmons in another conference game Saturday.

Arizona beat New Mexico University 26-12 and Wildcat tailback Art Luppino set a new college record for rushing. He gained 54 yards for Arizona to bring his collegiate total to 3,247 yards, 35 better than the old record.

Two games of conference to conference records are scheduled for the coming Saturday.

Texas Western will meet the New Mexico Aggies.

Arizona plays Texas Tech, a former member of the conference. Though now in the Southwest Conference, Tech's results with Border teams still go on the Border Conference record books.

West Texas will be idle but Temple plays San Jose State and Hardin-Simmons plays Tulsa.

Winning Streaks In AA Race Continue

By The Associated Press

The Class AA division of Texas schoolboy football features two of the longest winning streaks extant and the teams holding them still are favored to meet in the championship finals.

Stamford, which now has won 24 straight games, and Deer Park, which has gone through 36 without defeat, continue to look like the powers of the opposite brackets.

But there are some tough teams to hurdle as the Bulldogs and Deer get moving in the conference campaign. They are not expected to bob up before Stamford and Deer Park get outside their districts, however.

One team for Stamford to worry about is Comanche, which has rolled through six games without a loss and numbered upper class teams like Stephenville, Killeen and Graham among its victims.

Comanche gets its first big test in its own class this week and it's the feature game of the state. The Indians meet Hamilton, also undefeated and untied, at Comanche Friday night.

The Comanche-Hamilton game is a conference affair in District 8 and will establish the championship favorite.

Only two of the state's 29 districts have undisputed leaders as conference play opens on all fronts. Lockney paces District 2 and Burkburnett tops District 9. Lockney is one of the 11 undefeated, untied teams left in the state.

Other teams with perfect records are Stamford, Comanche, Hamilton, Grapevine, Lewisville, Bonham, DeKalb, Deer Park, Sweeny and West Columbia. Gilmer, Hebbronville and San Antonio Sam Houston are unbeaten but have been tied.

Lockney and DeKalb have the week off so only nine of the unbeaten, untied teams will risk their records this week.

The schedule by districts (all games Friday unless indicated otherwise):

1. Canyon at Dimmitt, Muleshoe at Dalhart, Tulia at Olton.
2. Floydada at Slaton, Tahoka at Abernathy, Spur at Post.
3. Perryton at Childress, Shamrock at Quanah.
4. Hamlin at Seymour, Nocona at Stamford.

27. Karnes City at Goliad, Kenedy at Floresville, San Antonio East Central at Pleasanton (Saturday).
28. San Antonio Edgewood vs. San Antonio Sam Houston, San Antonio Northside at Devine, Cryscal City at Del Rio San Felipe.
29. Taft at Refugio, Sundeen at Aransas Pass.
30. Bye.
31. Fremont at Hebbronville, Falfurrias at Freer, Benavides at San Diego.
32. Raymondville at La Feria, Rio Grande City at Mercedes, Edcouch-Elsa at Donna, Mission at Lyford.

Porkers' Nebitt Takes Lead In SW Loop Ball Carrying

DALLAS (AP) — Gerald Nesbitt, Arkansas' hammering fullback, has taken over the lead in Southwest Conference ball-carrying on the strength of a tremendous day against Texas and the first poor one by Ken Wineburg of Texas Christian.

Nesbitt, who hails from Big Sandy, Tex., carved 123 yards out of the Texas line last week to bring his total for the season to 396 and put him 29 yards to the good over Wineburg, who was held to a net 13 in seven tries against Texas A&M before retiring with an injury.

Nesbitt, however, has played in five games and Wineburg only four and the latter still has the best average 8.7 per run to 6.5 for the Arkansas terror.

Charley Arnold, Southern Methodist's busy quarterback, was as good as usual against Rice, throwing for 101 yards, and it kept him well in front in both passing and total offense.

Arnold has completed 43 passes out of 92 and 646 yards and six touchdowns. He's 221 yards ahead of second place Joe Clements of Texas in passing and he tops Clements in total offense by 129 yards with 648 yards (he has gained two yards rushing) to 519.

Del Shofner of Baylor continues to lead the punters with his 41.3 yards average although he didn't play last week. Nesbitt raised his average by a yard but still is second with 38.9.

Walter Fondren of Texas took over the lead in pass-receiving from Tommy Gentry of Southern Methodist when he snared five against Arkansas while Gentry didn't catch any against Rice. Fondren now has caught 15 passes for 226 yards. Gentry has gathered in 12 for 139 yards.

Don Watson of Texas A&M leads the punt returners with an average of 12.8 yards on five runs. Jack Hobbs of Texas tops the kickoff returners with 24.0 on five. Texas Christian still is the leading team on offense with an average of 394.5 yards per game while Texas A&M is the top defensive outfit, giving up 216.4 per outing. Arkansas has the unusual record of being third in team offense with 303.2 yards per game but next to last in defense by yielding 309.8 yards a game. Texas has the worst defense in the league—377.2 yards.

Ryff All Set For Comeback

By The Associated Press

Loser of only two fights in his pro career, 24-year-old Frankie Ryff starts a "comeback" tonight in the hopes of regaining a place among the leading lightweights.

The handsome New Yorker meets ambitious Frankie Ippolito, a neighborhood rival, in the 10-round feature at New York's St. Nicholas arena. Ryff is the 13-5 favorite.

Du Mont will telecast at 9:30 p.m. EST.

Rookie of the Year for 1954 and a leading contender earlier this year, Ryff was knocked out of the ranking list June 2 when he was flattened in the ninth round by Larry Boardman at Madison Square Garden.

It was the first time Frankie had ever been floored. His other loss was by decision to contender Ralph DuPas. After the Boardman kayo, Ryff took some time out to ponder retirement and then decided to give it one more try.

He is signed to take on Kenny Lane, fifth-ranking lightweight from Muskegon, Mich., at Miami next month.

Jr. High Varsity B Squads Set Play

Snyder's two junior high grid squads will have both A and B teams playing in games this week.

The double schedule came after the Snyder-Lamesa junior high games were rained out at Lamesa last week. Those games were reset for tomorrow night at Lamesa.

Also on the schedule were games with Colorado City teams at Colorado City Thursday night.

Ace Amos, eighth grade coach, and Bill Hartsfield, seventh grade coach, decided that since teams could not play more than one game a week this would be a good opportunity to give the small boys a chance to play. So they will take their varsity teams to Lamesa for tomorrow night's games and B teams to Colorado City for the Thursday tilts.

Each evening's schedule will begin with seventh grade games at 6:30.

The seventh grade team is undefeated in five games.

The eighth grade has won two, tied one, and lost one.

Counting this week's games, the junior high squads have four tilts remaining on their schedules. The final games will be on Nov. 8, when Lamesa teams come here.

Watson Cited By Bryant As A Likely Star

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—A magazine editor called Coach Paul Bryant of Texas A&M last week and inquired about pictures for his All America team.

He wanted to know which Aggie players would be most likely to stand out in a possible victory over Texas Chirstian in the Southwest Conference's big game Saturday.

"I suggest Jack Pardee, John Crow and Don Watson," said Bryant.

"Don Watson? Who's he?" asked the editor.

"Well, if somebody wins the game for us it will be one of those three and Watson is most likely to do it," the coach replied.

Prophetic words. Watson was the man who beat Texas Christian. He intercepted a pass to stop a TCU drive, he made a long run to set up the winning touchdown, and he passed for that. Then he held the ball for Loyd Taylor, Aggie place kicker, to boot the extra point that brought A&M a 7-6 victory.

Watson is becoming known as the greatest clutch player in the league.

He plays any position in the backfield, is a fine runner, an adept passer, is lightning at running back kickoffs and punts and is one of the best in the conference

Against Villanova this year he saved two touchdowns with bulldog tackles of ball carriers who had broken into the clear, showing that he's a tough defensive player although weighing only 150 pounds.

2 Policemen Are Shot In Gun Battle

LINCOLN, ILL. (AP)—Two Illinois state policemen were shot early today and one was reported in critical condition after engaging in a gun battle with four heavily armed men.

Officer Glen Nichols, about 35, was shot three times and critically hurt and officer Robert Golightly, about 28, was wounded once in the roadside gun fight on a U.S. Route 66 bypass.

Sheriff William Keys of Logan County said two Joliet, Ill., men were captured, but the two others involved in the fracas eluded police. He identified the prisoners as William G. Wilfong, 31, and Arvid Jopp, 24, both of Joliet.

Keys said the officers chased an auto carrying the four men after it went through a red light near Lincoln, a central Illinois community.

The car stopped near a restaurant and the four opened fire as the officers drove up, Keys related.

The policemen returned the gunfire, but Keys said he did not know if the two who escaped on foot in opposite directions were wounded. Neither of the captured pair was struck by bullets, he said.

14 Are Hospitalized In Auto-Bus Mishap

NACOGDOCHES (AP)—A collision between an auto and a Continental Trailways bus near here yesterday sent 14 persons to the hospital.

The most seriously injured was James Allen, alone in the car. The driver of the bus and all 12 passengers were sent to a hospital.

Democratic Veterans Chairman Is Selected

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ted Donnell of Killeen was chosen Texas Democratic Veterans chairman today by national party Chairman Paul Butler.

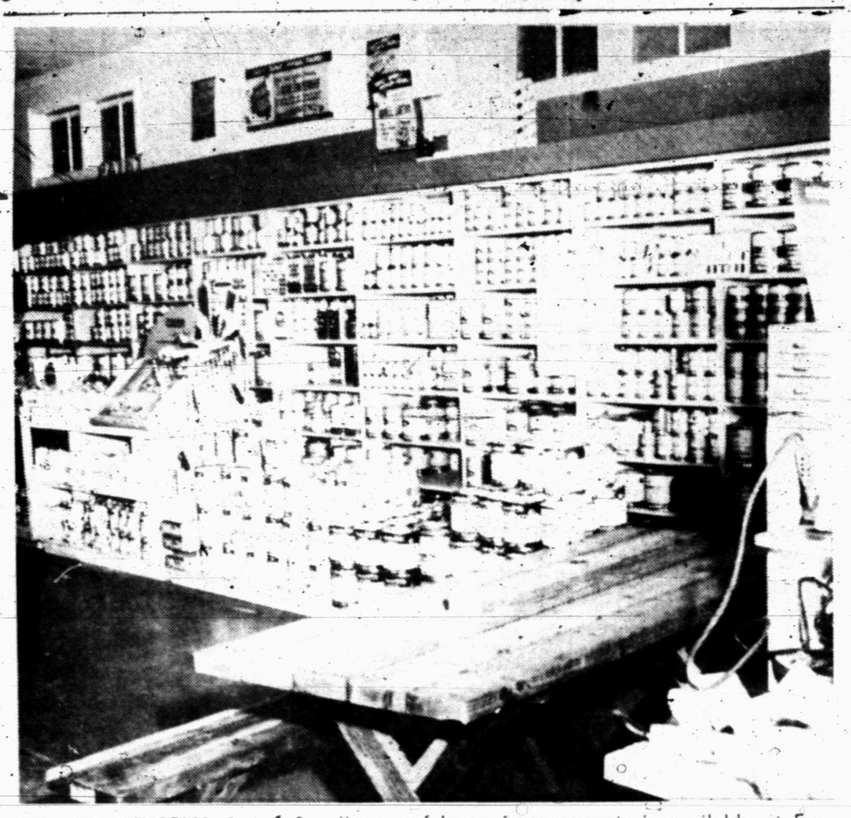

Donnell will work with party officials to stimulate support for the Democratic ticket.

Country Health

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A scientist says country dwellers live five years longer, on the average, than their smog-breathing city cousins. Dr. Linus Pauling, Nobel prize-winning chemist of the California Institute of Technology, said "People who live in smog-free cities will live perhaps that much longer than those who dwell in the smog."

Ricochet Death

WHITEHALL, Mont. (AP) — Clark Russell Lane, 10, was killed yesterday by a bullet which ricocheted after killing a rabbit. Coroner Kyle Scott said the boy's brother, Gary, 13, fired a .22 caliber rifle at a rabbit. The bullet killed the animal, then glanced off a tree stump and struck Clark in the head.

AN AMPLE SUPPLY of stock for all types of home improvements is available at Forrest Builders Supply, 2109 Twenty-fifth Street, which makes it a practice to stock items which are ordinarily found only in large cities. Forrest can help plan home modernization and enlargement and arran ge loans for the projects. (Lee Watson photograph)

Forrest Builders Has Finance Plan

Many residents of this area have been wanting larger homes and have debated whether to enlarge the houses they have or to buy new homes.

With new home financing curtailed considerably, many are thinking more of enlarging now. And while financing on new homes is harder to secure now, the financing of home improvements and modernization is available.

Turner Beard, manager here for Forrest Builders Supply, 2109 Twenty-fifth Street, has at its disposal an almost unlimited amount of funds for home improvement and modernization loans. While these funds are not used for building new homes, they can be used for construction of new small commercial or industrial buildings.

This is available in the new Forrest Finance Plan A, which has a range of up to $5,000 for the loan and a range of from six to 84 months for repayment. This compares to a maximum of about $3,500 usually loaned for such purposes here, and the top repayment period of seven years compares to a maximum of five years usually allowed.

Under the new Forrest plan, payments on the loans are made monthly, quarterly, or annually, whichever fits the income of the borrower. A person who is paid by the week or month, of course, would make loan payments monthly, while those whose income is received quarterly or annually will make their loan payments on that basis.

Another feature of the Forrest plan is that speedy service can be given on establishing the loan. Setting up the loan does not take a long period of time, as do some other loans.

FHA Title I loans are also available, but the new Forrest plan covers many things that a Title I loan cannot.

One example of home improvement which can be made: a person wishes to add a bedroom to his house, but with an additional bedroom he feels he should also have an additional bath. While some loan programs would not provide enough for the building of both, the new Forrest plan would.

Many residents have converted their garages into rooms and built car ports. The garages have made into a number of things, some use them for workshops, while others make them into dens. Still others rearrange their entire house plans and make garages into living rooms, bedrooms, or rooms for other uses.

Adding rooms, fencing, building backyard patios, and numerous other things can be done by the homeowner through the new Forrest finance plan.

Many persons in small businesses would like to own their buildings instead of paying rent, and smaller business buildings can be constructed under the Forrest plan.

Farmers can use the plan for construction of buildings used for commercial purposes. Some have used such plans for building broiler houses.

Forrest Builders Supply is not in the loan business, Beard said. This is just one of the many services the firm supplies for the convenience of customers. Forrest takes care of all the detail work so the home owner doesn't have to worry about the loan for his home improvement.

Forrest Builders Supply has ample stock for home improvements, enough that the home owner has plenty of choice in materials, fixtures, and other things used. The firm has many things in stock which some residents would expect to find only in large cities, and it makes it a practice to have items which are needed but not usually found in cities of this size.

Forrest also has some new three-bedroom GI houses for sale in the Forrest Addition in southeast Snyder.

Beard invites any residents interested to discuss home improvements with the firm, or, if they desire, the purchase of three-bedroom homes. Forrest can help with the planning of improvements and then secure the needed loan.

High Court Ruling Hit

FORT WORTH (AP) —The Supreme Court was described by Herman Talmadge, former Georia governor, last night as "nine mighty midgets."

Talmadge said in a speech that Gorgia was determined to resist the court ruling outlawing segregation in public schools.

"Come what may, we are going to preserve our segregated schools," Talmadge, Democratic nominee for the Senate, said.

Declaring the Supreme Court has been "chipping steadily away at the reserved rights of the states," Talmadge said plans are being made to establish a state system of private segregated schools. He said both Negro and white students would be subsidized at private schools of their choice by the state.

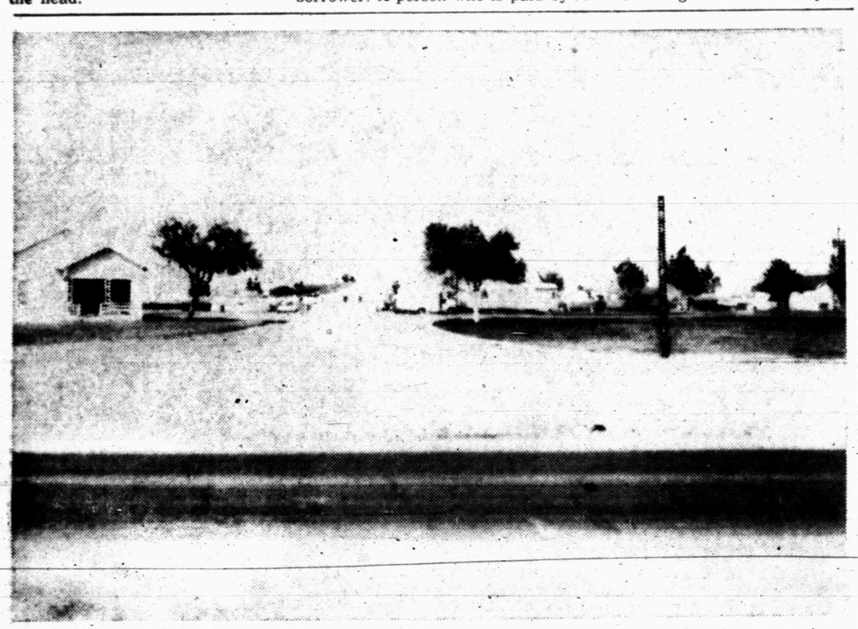

Trial Of Parr Is Scheduled Today

NEW BRAUNFELS (AP) — George Parr, South Texas political leader, was called to trial today on a theft conspiracy charge.

Named in the indictment with Parr are B. F. McDonald Jr., D. C. Chapa and Givens Parr.

Dist. Judge John Fuchs denied last week defense motions for a change of venue to Duval County, Parr's home.

A survey made in 1934 indicated that erosion had badly damaged more than 280 million acres of crop and grazing land.

MODERN TRAILERTOPIA—One of West Texas' most outstanding trailer courts is the Trailertopia, pictured above, located one mile west of the Snyder square on the Lamesa highway. A well equipped children's playground, a washateria, spacious storm cellar, and many other modern conveniences including all-channel television antenna, one of the tallest receiver antennas in this area, are included in the modern facilities. (Lee Watson photograph)

Trailertopia Has Many Advantages

One of the most modern and complete trailer courts in West Texas is the Trailertopia, located one mile west of the Snyder square on the Lamesa Highway.

Owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Donaldson, the Trailertopia has been developed into a place for gracious living for trailer home dwellers.

All the conveniences available to residents of houses are at the command of trailer homes in Trailertopia—and some that are not commonly available to house dwellers.

One of the outstanding features of Trailertopia is the well equipped playground for children of the court. Swings, see-saws, and other playground equipment items are provided to occupy the children of the court—and the playground is located well away from the highway, but near the washateria so that customers of the washateria can do their weekly wash without any worry about the safety of their children.

The washateria is another modern convenience of the court. It is equipped with the most modern washing machines, drying equipment and clothes drying lines.

Of interest to almost everyone who is familiar with the eratic nature of West Texas weather is the spacious storm cellar at Trailertopia which is large enough to accomdate all the occupants of the trailer park in case of severe weather.

For a very nominal fee trailer dwellers of Trailertopia can have the services of one of the tallest television antennas in this area. Good, snow-free reception of television channels in Lubbock, Big Spring, Midland, Sweetwater and Abilene is available to Trailertopia dwellers.

One of the recent projects of Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson has been beautification of the park, and lawns have grown to add to the beauty of the park.

Rains In State Fail To Make Big Dent In Drought Picture

By ROBERT E. FORD

DALLAS (AP) — Little Mike Oatman, 14 months old, ran to the window last week and looked out, then unloosed a great uproar.

"What's that? What's that?" he asked his mother excitedly.

He was seeing rain for the first time. It's rained in Dallas within 14 months, but rain is still rare enough to cause children to wonder.

The rains in scattered parts of the Southwest ranged up to 7 inches last week. But in the words of Texas Agriculture Commissioner John White, "they didn't make a real dent" in the 10-year drought.

The Texas moisture was too slight to help much. Scattered to heavy rains in Oklahoma helped, but most of the state reported supplies of water still were short. Rainfall in Eastern Kansas benefitted wheat. Arizona reported no significant rain. The drought was becoming severe in much of Missouri.

Even had the rains been general and heavy, agricultural experts say, they alone would not have erased the scars of 10 years of general drought. The drought was broken only by a wet season in 1949.

To restore subsoil moisture, say the experts, rains must be frequent and heavy.

The Texas rains, which caused floods around Del Rio on the Mexican border, appeared the heaviest of any in the Southwest.

Where moisture fell, it raised the level of stock water ponds. On the Rio Grande, which divides Texas and Mexico, a total gain of 4 to 5 feet was expected at Falcon Dam from the heavy Del Rio rains. Flow from the reservoir has been cut off for many weeks because the water level has been low.

Rains fell in the watersheds of the rivers supplying North Central Texas cities with water, but the soil was so dry the rains were absorbed where they fell and there are not much runoff into city reservoirs.

The prospects for rains in the Southwest in the fall and winter are not good, Weather Bureau records show.

Commissioner White said the insuffiient rains would have some benefits. He listed them as:

1. Morale boosters, demonstrating to farmers and ranchers that "it can rain in Texas."

2. Restoring stock water in tanks and creeks that had long been dry.

3. Greening up pasture lands and providing some moisture for wheat and oats in localities that got rains.

Reports from Southwestern Associated Press bureaus show varying drought conditions, ranging from desperate to barely fair.

Arizona has not had rain in a long time. Cattlemen were reported moving up to 40 per cent of their herds off the range, and widespread selling off of part of basic herds was reported.

Missouri reports the situation on livestock water and pastures is the worst in years. Hauling of water to homes and livestock is increasing.

Colorado is asking for 4 million dollars in federal drought aid. Kenneth W. Chalmers, U.S. soil conservationist, says 154,280 acres of crop and range land have been destroyed by the drought since Sept. 1. Officials claim 4 million acres are threatened.

"Moderate statewide rains in New Mexico gave only a little encouragement to wheat farmers, who haven't had enough rain since June to sprout even weeds. The showers damaged cotton being harvested. Range prospects were described as the worst in years.

Scattered light to heavy rains in Oklahoma relieved the drought somewhat, but crop observers say much more water is needed. Water supplies for both farms and cities still are short.

The drought situation has not changed a lot in Kansas, although rains last weekend over most of the eastern half of the state improved prospects for the 1957 wheat crop. Subsoil moisture remains critically low.

Bulganin Note Is Warming Up National Political Campaign

By The Associated Press

Russian Premier Bulganin landed in the middle of the U.S. political campaign with a loud thump yesterday. President Eisenhower denounced him as a meddler in the controversy over ending H-bomb tests.

Bulganin's latest note — endorsing the views of "certain prominent public figures in the United States" who want H-bomb tests halted — drew a stinging reply from Eisenhower and added fuel to the current campaign debate.

Even before Eisenhower's rejection of the Bulganin letter, Adlai Stevenson put out a statement saying, "The White House seems to have dismissed the Russian offer out of hand . . ."

Stevenson said the Bulganin letter appeared to contain "nothing new," but "it is encouraging that Russia appears to be still disposed to curb these dreadful weapons."

Stevenson referred to an earlier statement by presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty, who had called the letter "a propaganda exercise rather than a serious attempt to achieve understanding between heads of state."

Stevenson's own proposal —that the United States take the lead in negotiations toward ending H-bomb tests — has been condemned by Eisenhower and other GOP leaders as a threat to national security unless there are foolproof mutual inspection agreements.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) called on Stevenson to "repudiate the unwarranted interference of Premier Bulganin . . . in our free American elections." Knowland said Stevenson should do so "because you have helped create this situation by your unfortunate position on H-bomb tests."

In a statement issued in California, also before Eisenhower's reaction to the Bulganin note was made public, Sen. Estes Kefauver said the United States has "everything to gain and nothing to lose" by negotiating with Russia on a test ban.

The Democratic vice presidential nominee said it is "necessary to the very survival of the world that we call a halt to these deadly tests."

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) said he agreed the Bulganin letter was an "improper intrusion" into the American campaign. He said Eisenhower was "entirely correct in resenting" it.

Eisenhower's letter to Bulganin repeated his earlier stand that inspection and control agreements are the first step in any disarmament program, "both of which your government has steadfastly refused to accept."

Secretary of State Dulles, in a televised interview, minimized the radiation danger connected with H-bomb explosions. He said such radiation is "relatively a very minor angle of the problem" which has been "built up into an effort to create a great scare."

Scientists, meanwhile, continued to range themselves on both sides of the controversy. Some argued that a halt is necessary now, others that it is impractical and unsafe to do so at this time.

Although the H-bomb stole the headlines, other political angles were not neglected as the Nov. 6 election showdown neared.

The White House made public a telegram from Eisenhower saying his administration "has done more for small business than any prior administration." He cited statistics and accomplishments designed to counteract Democratic charges that small business men are suffering under the GOP.

In Chicago, Stevenson campaign strategists claimed a Democratic lead over Eisenhower in 21 states with 235 electoral votes. They said a driving finish aimed at the big-city vote in some of the larger states can clinch a victory.

Stevenson speaks tomorrow night in New York, and was expected to hit again at administration foreign policy. Eisenhower, who wound up a five-state Western tour Saturday, speaks Thursday night in New York, also on foreign policy.

Vice President Nixon starts a final two-week campaign trip today. Stops in the first three days were scheduled in Michigan, Illinois and Indiana.

Search For Missing Men Is Continuing

GALVESTON (AP)— Search continued today for two persons missing and presumed drowned when violent winds and tornadoes lashed the Galveston area Saturday.

Two bodies were recovered yesterday. The death toll from the storms stood at five dead or missing and three injured. At least 36 persons were rescued from capsized boats, reefs, islands, and oil rigs, the Coast Guard reported.

Still missing were Alton Adams Sr., 50, and Ralph Brackens, 51, both of Houston.

Recovered yesterday were the bodies of Mrs. Ruby Lampier, 38, and William Keeton, 52, both of Houston. Their fishing boat capsized.

Willie Moore, 28, of Houston was electrocuted when he tried to turn off an outdoor electric switch during the wind and hail storm.

Winds up to 110 miles an hour lashed southeast Texas during the storm. Ten private airplanes were overturned and store fronts smashed at Bryan. Winds of 90 miles an hour were clocked at College Station near the stadium where 42,000 fans were watching the A&M-TCU game.

Survivors In Bad Condition

AULKAND, New Zealand (AP)— Two survivors of the crash of a U. S. Navy plane at McMurdo Sound, Antarctica, were listed as "dangerously ill" today in Christchurch Public Hospital.

They are Staff Sgt. Robert Spann of Buffalo, N. Y., suffering severe head injuries, and Aviation Technician Richard Lewis, Summit, Pa.

Spann, Lewis and a third man also injured in the crash, Aviation Mechanic Clifford Allsup, East Greenwich, R. I. ,were flown here from McMurdo. Allsup was listed in good condition with minor chest and head injuries at the New Zealand air force sickbay in Christchurch.

Four men were killed in the crash and another man, Ens. K. D. MacAlpine, of Ambler, Pa., was injured too critically to be moved from the U. S. antarctic base.

Top Mau Mau Leader Killed

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—The almost mythical leader of Kenya's Mau Mau terror gangs fell screaming in the bush yesterday near Nyeri, ending a hunt of three years.

An African policeman fired at a flash of leopard skin and brought down "Field Marshal Sir" Dedan Kimathi, the 35-year-old mastermind of the Mau Mau campaign to drive the white man out of this British East African colony.

Kimathi, deserted by the remnants of his once powerful followers, was clad in a leopard skin and armed with a .38 revolver. He suffered a slight wound in the thigh.

Princess Margaret, now in Kenya on a tour of East Africa, was told of the capture in Nairobi, 100 miles away. She was asleep in a Nairobi hotel when Kimathi was shot. And was given the news when she visited a British military hospital in Nairobi this morning.

Kimathi was charged with carrying a lethal weapon — a capital offense under emergency regulations governing Kenya.

It's Not So Safe At His Home Either

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Whitney C. Hansen didn't join in Utah's deer hunting over the weekend because he thought it might not be safe.

While working in his driveway, a bullet ricocheted off his garage rain gutter, burned a streak across his back above the belt and imbedded itself in the ground. Moments later a second bullet slammed into the side of his house.

The bullets apparently came from the mountains northeast of the city, not far from his home.

COMEBACKER — Wladislaw Gomulka, the rehabilitated former Polish leader, continued his comeback to power despite the visit of Nikita Khrushchev and top Soviet officials. The visit was apparently made in effort to stem Poland's headlong rush toward independent Communism.

Auto Overturns

CORSICANA (AP) — E. L. McDowell, 36, of Waco, died early today of injuries suffered last night when his car overturned on Highway 31 about 7 miles west of here.

U.S. Getting Big Jump In Antarctic

MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP)—An airlift unique in antarctic history is giving the United States a big jump on other nations sending expeditions to explore this ice-covered continent during the International Geophysical Year.

The lift, by 100-ton Air Force Globemaster planes, was set back temporarily last night when the nose wheel of one of the mammoth craft collapsed on McMurdo Sound's rough, 14-foot thick ice runway.

But bulldozers were hurriedly put to work smoothing and re-scraping the runway and the plane was pushed out of the way so that the airlift could go on.

Key personnel, equipment and even fresh vegetables and absentee ballots are being ferried here in the Globemasters' barnlike car go holds. The first of the big planes arrived yesterday morning after a 2,250-mile flight from Christchurch, New Zealand. Its cargo included a small Otter plane —the kind used by Canadian bush pilots—for trips between the bases the United States is establishing in the antarctic.

Russia and other nations also have bases on the continent to join in studies of this end of the earth and its atmosphere during geophysical year.

But it will be at least two months before most antarctic expeditions will be able to begin just emerging from its long winter, and it will be late December before pack ice surrounding the continent breaks up enabling ships to reach here.

More State Counties To Get Drought Aid

DALLAS (AP) —The number of Texas counties covered by the drought relief program has climbed to 233 with the designation of 15 more over the weekend.

Counties added to the list are Angelina, Harris, Jasper, Montgomery, Nacogdoches, Newton, Panola, Polk, Sabine, San Augustine, San Jacinto, Shelby, Trinity, Tyler and Walker.

Walter McKay, director of the Farmers Home Administration, pointed out the government subsidy under the feed grain program is being increased from $1 to $1.50.

Former Red Agent Shoots At Intruder

NEW YORK (AP)—Former Soviet agent Victor A. Kravchenko shot an intruder who entered his apartment Saturday night.

Kravchenko, fearful of assassins, said he grabbed for a gun when the stranger allegedly pushed into his East Side apartment and started eating him.

Kravchenko, 51, fled his job with the Soviet Purchasing Commission in Washington in 1944 and sought asylum in this country. He is the author of "I Chose Freedom," an anti-Communist book.

Last night he told newsmen he would have to search for a new apartment where he can resume his incognito life as a mining engineer. He has been using the name "Peter Martin."

Police said Michael Garcia, 21, and a pal, Joseph Ruiz, 23, rang Kravchenko's doorbell while looking for another apartment in the same building.

Kravchenko opened the door and asked what they wanted. An argument, brawl and shooting ensued.

Garvia, a piano student, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Roosevelt Hospital with a bullet wound in the abdomen. He was charged with felonious assault.

Police said Kravchenko acted in self-defense and they laced no charge against him. Ruiz also was freed.

Here! New Task-Force 57 Chevrolet Trucks!

Performance-proved in a history-making test on the ALCAN Highway to Alaska

Here are the trucks that conquered the ALCAN Highway—one of the world's most challenging roads! Six new '57 Chevrolet trucks, heavily loaded with cargo, roared north from Dawson Creek, B. C., through 1,520 miles of mountains and mire, rain and hail—every conceivable natural roadblock—to Fairbanks, Alaska. Running around the clock, they made this tortuous trip—normally a 72-hour run—in less than 45 hours.

Like a carelessly unwound ribbon, the Alcan Highway twists and reels for 1,520 miles. It tumbles over towering mountains of awesome beauty and wanders through desolate Yukon forests.

It's the road where trucks grow old before their time. The road where gravel endlessly sledgehammers the life out of trucks. Where a fog of superfine dust chokes engines, and vicious ruts jolt and jar each chassis unit.

This is the road that was chosen to give the new '57 Chevrolet trucks a supreme test of stamina, performance and handling ease. The results of that test made hauling history!

Six new Chevrolet trucks – representing light-, medium- and heavy-duty models—traveled the length of the Alcan highway in less than 45 hours. They ran day and night—but this was no test of speed. The Chevrolet Alcan fleet made normal stops, and maintained safe and legal speeds all the way. As a special additional test during the run, two of the trucks went the entire distance without once having their engines stopped!

It's all down in the AAA record book. Never before has a new truck been so thoroughly proved. Come in and see how well these new Alcan champs measure up to your job.

FIRST WITH THE MOST MODERN FEATURES!

New 283-cubic-inch Taskmaster V8 delivers 160 high-torque horsepower. Standard in Series 5000, 7000 and 8000, optional in Series 6000 at extra cost. Horsepower ranges up to 210 in Chevrolet's complete line-up of modern V8 and 6 truck engines.

Revolutionary Powermatic Transmission—exclusive with Chevrolet trucks—is an extra-cost option in Series 5000 and 6000 and all heavy-duty truck models. Hydra-Matic is offered in 3000 and 4000 Series models at extra cost.

L.C.F. models outdate the C.O.E. because they're lower, handsomer, easier to get into and out of, and save time in routine engine maintenance. Yet they offer all C.O.E. advantages.

Heavyweight Champs with Triple-Torque tandem are rated at 32,000 lbs. GVW, 50,000 GCW. And Chevrolet's advanced tandem axle unit offers a built-in three-speed power divider.

The Chevrolet Alcan run was sanctioned and official results certified—by the AAA.

Proved on the Alcan Highway . . . CHEVROLET Champs of every weight class!

Alcan fleet reports up to 18.17 miles per gallon! That's the mileage reported by the Cameo Carrier, with Thriftmaster 6 and Overdrive (optional at extra cost).

All the way in DRIVE range with Powermatic! This Powermatic-equipped 10000 Series tractor traveled the Alcan Highway in a single forward-speed range!

New Super Taskmaster V8 flattens Yukon mountains! This Series 5000 truck with its new 283-cubic-inch V8 climbed towering grades with ease.
