KNAPP MUST GO TO ELECTRIC CHAIR

Supreme Court Sustains Decision of Lower Court in Case of the Ohio Strangler

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 1.—The supreme court today handed down three decisions and in two of them action was taken which means that Alfred A. Knapp, the Hamilton "strangler," and Otis Loveland, the robber-murderer of Columbus will have to go to the electric chair unless the board of pardons and the governor interfere.

The Knapp case is one of particular interest. The jury in the common pleas court found him guilty of first degree murder. He was sentenced to death and was brought to the penitentiary. Subsequently the case was taken to the circuit court, and that body reversed the verdict on the ground that the confessions of Knapp were not substantiated by the appearance of the body of the woman he said he had choked to death. The claim of Knapp's attorneys was that when the body was examined there were no evidences upon it of any violence or blows of any kind whatsoever, and no evidence was offered to prove the cause of death, outside of the confession of the defendant. The court of common pleas expressed the opinion that the corpus delicti consisted of the finding of the body alone, and although the circuit court did not agree with the lower court, the supreme court now affirms judgment of common pleas court and reverses the circuit court finding. The decision will be reported. Knapp's execution is fixed for August 19.

DALLAS IS HOT AFTER THE ELKS

All Texas Joins With Her in the Purpose of Securing the Reunion for Next Year

CINCINNATI, July 1.—Dallas, Texas, is becoming a formidable candidate for the Elk reunion of 1905, and when the grand lodge convenes in this city July 19 there will be the largest crowd of Texan hustlers, a convention ever saw. Elk lodges from all parts of the Lone Star state have joined with Dallas in her effort to win, and they will likely rally to their support nearly all of the great west and southwest.

Among those in Dallas who are prominent in the work in trying to land the reunion is a former well known Cincinnati, Harry F. Bowsher of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad. Bowsher is now located at Dallas, and is on the committee of citizens, as well as the Elks committee. The circular invitation issued by Dallas and endorsed by other Texas lodges is as follows:

"Dallas wants the 1905 national gathering of Elks. Dallas knows how to entertain. Ask the Shriners. Ask the Confederate Veterans. Ask the Methodists. Ask any one who has been here. Dallas may not have miles of broad sidewalks, but she has the heart of southern hospitality, countless sunny homes and numberless smart hostesses.

"Some other town may be a good place to 'put you off at,' but Dallas sends her reception boys into the train after you, and what you have 'trotted' all the 'gait' and your leave of absence has expired she carries your baggage to the train, puts you aboard, bids you bon voyage and a speedy return. While you are in Dallas the town is yours—not in any old way, but fixed up in packages, ready for use, without money or price.

"The Elks Order is too big not to come to Texas for a national gathering. It would be the biggest thing in the biggest place on earth. We will be in Cincinnati to help you make up your mind. We must have you."

NEW SYSTEM OF CAR INSPECTION

Master Mechanics of Various Roads Hold Meeting Here and Recommend Changes

There was a meeting of the Fort Worth Joint Car Inspection and Interchange Association, in the conductors' room at the Texas and Pacific station yesterday. The various railroads were represented by their master mechanics as follows: Texas and Pacific, W. E. Minton; Fort Worth and Denver City, H. C. Van Buskirk; Missouri, Kansas and Texas, John Doyle; Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe, W. E. Simons; Fort Worth Belt railway, F. J. Conway; Houston and Texas Central, E. E. Blossom; Fort Worth and Rio Grande, M. Schoehan; Rock Island, J. E. Holtz; International and Great Northern, J. V. Doldson. Chief Joint Inspector J. W. Hooget was also present.

The purpose of the meeting was to consider the cutting down of expenses incident to the inspection and interchanging of cars at Fort Worth. The system that is now in vogue is to have one chief joint inspector and twenty or twenty-five joint inspectors, besides the inspectors that the railroads employ separately.

The plan used at Kansas City, St. Louis and other railroad centers at present, is to have one chief joint inspector and an assistant, and let the railroads hire inspectors to suit themselves, thus doing away with the army of joint inspectors.

The morning was spent in discussing the matter. At noon the meeting adjourned to be taken up in the afternoon.

After a preliminary discussion in the afternoon a motion was made by W. E. Simons of the Santa Fe that they lay the matter before the various railroad managements, recommending the system used in Kansas City and other places. The motion was carried and it was also recommended that a set of rules similar to those used in Kansas City be adopted. This was carried.

The matter will be laid before the various managements with the request that they reply by July 25.

INTEREST LAGS IN HUMANE SOCIETY

Meeting at Mayor's Office Last Night to Organize One Is Postponed to Later Date

Only a few persons were present at the mayor's office last night to attend the charter meeting of the "Texas State Humane Society." On that account it was deemed advisable to declare the meeting off until more interest could be aroused in the matter.

It was decided to ask the prominent ministers of the city to announce from the pulpit next Sunday this proposed organization of an humane society, and to request the all persons who are interested in the matter to be at the mayor's office at 8 o'clock on Thursday, July 7. Several ministers have already agreed to do this and it is expected that a large crowd will attend the next meeting.

At the meeting last night Rev. B. B. Ramage was present and agreed to announce from his pulpit next Sunday the necessity of a well organized humane society in Fort Worth.

"We need one very badly," said Rev. Mr. Ramage, "and I shall do all I can to get the movement well started."

"If we can only get a few prominent business men to take the matter up I am sure the affair will be a success."

Those who are attempting to organize the society, request that all ministers of the city, who find it convenient, announce next Sunday that there will be meeting of the society on Thursday, July 7, and urge all their congregation to attend.

HEAVY WINDS AT THE GENTRY NEIGHBORHOOD

GRAPEVINE, Texas, July 1.—It is reported here this morning that a heavy storm visited the Gentry neighborhood last night, which did quite a lot of damage to crops, houses and barns. It destroyed the church at that place, blew away hay, barns and several hundred boxes of baked ham. Those who have come in from that section say nobody was hurt, but quite a lot of destruction to property was caused. Gentry neighborhood is five miles east of Grapevine, in Dallas county.

A large number of Grapevine people attended the picnic given at Lewisville yesterday. All report it a grand success.

Most of the sick people here are improving.

B. R. Hall is going right ahead building his new residence, which, when finished, will be one of the most up-to-date residences in town.

Our old and highly-esteemed depot agent, J. A. Marris, together with his family, have returned from the World's Fair. Mr. Marris is very much enthused over his trip and will only remain at home for a few days' rest, then he is going to spend a month enjoying mountain air in Colorado.

Will Turner, who has spent several weeks at Mineral Wells, returned home Monday.

LAW AGAINST CONVICT LABOR IS IN EFFECT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 1.—The law abolishing convict labor passed by the last session of the state legislature became effective today. The measure, which was passed largely because of the efforts made by the various labor organization, is regarded as the most advanced legislation of the kind ever adopted anywhere in the country. Under its provisions contract labor is abolished entirely. Hereafter the convicts will be employed only in the manufacture of articles used by the state. The measure further provides that the convicts shall not be employed more than eight hours a day.

DAVID BOAZ WILL GO TO PORTLAND
Appointed by Governor Latham as a Delegate to American Mining Congress
David Boaz of Fort Worth has been appointed by Governor Latham one of eight delegates from Texas to attend the American Mining Congress to be held at Portland, Oregon, from August 22 to 27. Mr. Boaz said this morning that he would attend the meeting without fail.
Every state in the union is expected to send delegates to the congress, particularly from western states, where the bulk of mining is done. The coming congress will be of great interest to those engaged in mining, as the best methods for treating ores will be the main subject to be discussed in the convention. Other kindred topics will also receive due consideration.
The meeting will also be attended by smelter people.
Mr. Boaz says that special efforts are being made to induce a great display of ore cabinets from every section of the mining west. Already several noted mineral exhibits have been secured for the congress.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.
 Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of The Fort Worth Telegram will be gladly corrected upon due notice of same being given at the office, Eighth and Throckmorton streets, Fort Worth.

The Telegram absolutely guarantees a much larger daily circulation in the city of Fort Worth and surrounding territory than any other daily newspaper printed.

A SECOND ANNIVERSARY

Today marks the beginning of the third year of the present management of the Fort Worth Telegram. Two years ago today the old Mail-Telegram passed from the hands of C. W. Hutchison to those of the present owners. The last change in management made the seventeenth within a period of less than eight years. Mr. Hutchison acquired the paper and its plant through mortgage foreclosure and it was not the first time that the paper had been put through legal processes. To venture newspaper aspirants the old Mail-Telegram ever wore a halo. But the patrons of the paper never seemed to feel that it had won any title to one. And one manager after another in time, came to the same opinion. Three successive months was a long period of possession for any one man. Six months was a record-breaker. Mr. Hutchison was just getting the paper nicely started when the opportunity came for a sale.

Two years have done much for the old Mail-Telegram, under the present management. A month after the paper was acquired, the hoodoo hyphenated name was dropped and The Telegram blossomed forth. On the first of August, 1902, the total press run of The Telegram was exactly 1600. The paper was largely made up of news and telegraph matter that came from Dallas by express. Fourteen hands in all constituted the force of the business, editorial, press, composing and mail rooms. Eight six column pages was the usual size of the paper. A car of white print paper lasted four months. The Associated Press report was a mere skeleton. Such things as country correspondents were never heard of. A small boy came in after school hours and fixed up the mail and got it into the post-office before the press had finished its run of 1600. Mechanically, the plant was in pretty good shape. There was a good four and eight page Goss press, a fairly complete supply of type and equipment in the composing room and two Mergenthaler machines to set the type. But above it all hovered the familiar Nemesis, ghoulishly awaiting the usual victim. Two years later, what?

First of all The Telegram is installed in a handsome brand new home built expressly for its occupancy. This building stands at the northeast corner of Eighth and Throckmorton streets.

In the basement press room has been erected a new three-roll color Hoe printing press, capable of printing a sixteen page paper at a speed of 14,000 an hour, with colors on various pages. The stereotype machinery is all of the very latest pattern.

There are four Mergenthaler machines setting the type for the paper every day in the week.

The composing room has an equipment for completeness and convenience has no equal in the entire state of Texas, none barred.

It takes sixty employees to get out The Telegram every day, where two years ago fourteen were more than sufficient.

The Telegram is now printed seven days a week. The subscription price is but 10 cents a week in the city, for seven issues, or a trifle over a cent a copy. The Sunday issue was a success from the very start, five weeks from the day the present management took charge.

The circulation today exceeds 8,000 every day in the week, except Sunday, and on that day the circulation is in excess of 9,500. In fact the actual circulation of the Sunday Telegram for the past six weeks has been 10,200. These are actual figures, which the books will verify. Twenty-three months ago the total circulation was 1600! Today The Telegram puts 5,000 papers every day into the homes of Fort Worth people, the largest circulation of any newspaper has ever attained in Fort Worth. The balance of the circulation goes into Texas and the Territories.

A car of paper that two years ago lasted four months now has to be replenished every eighteen days.

The paper for the first time in its hitherto checkered career has been continuously under one management for two years and bids fair to double that record and double it again.

From a perpetual losing business venture The Telegram has become a profitable investment—one that will grow in value so long as the paper keeps ahead of the town's growth and the growth of Texas. Not a dollar of Fort Worth capital is interested in The Telegram. Every dollar that has gone into the property was brought to Fort Worth by those who had faith in the field and in the future of Fort Worth. There is opportunity now to sell Telegram stock. It is not for sale.

No line of business in Fort Worth has shown the development that the newspapers have during the past year. The Morning Record is as good if not better than any Texas morning newspaper. The same thing can be said of the evening paper, The Telegram, and the Texas evening field. No such statement could have been made a year ago.

There is not a single enterprise in a town which will reflect so much as its newspapers the general local conditions, the growth, the prosperity of the town. Where one finds good newspapers, enterprising and up-to-date, there one will find a town that is right up and a-coming. Fort Worth has such newspapers and is such a town.

During two years The Telegram has made few promises. What promises were made have been more than fulfilled.

So much as to the past. The future has an even more optimistic view than the past. The management is content to say again:

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE TELEGRAM. WATCH IT GROW.

Fort Worth should take heed of the statement of the Dallas physician who says that some of the milk sold in that city is "doctored," and make sure that its own supply is absolutely fresh and pure. It is customary in many cities for unscrupulous milk men to put certain chemicals in their milk to keep it sweet. In Dallas, the doctor says, this ingredient has been found to be boric acid, which while useful enough, doubtless, in many ways, was never intended for consumption in milk. Milk so treated loses its nutritive qualities, and many that drink it lose strength rapidly. No article of food causes so much harm as milk that is not absolutely pure. Its sale should be covered by the most stringent regulations, and every effort should be made constantly to enforce them.

Republican love for the negro is at flood tide during the presidential campaign. At the nominating convention there is always a lot of jollifying and handshaking with the colored brother, and when election day comes he is expected to give return for this sort of patronage by stepping up to the polls and voting a republican ticket. This he used to do religiously, but there are indications that he has begun to realize the fact that the republican before the election and after are of an entirely different sort. This year at Chicago there was the usual gush of meaningless and sickening sentiment with the colored man as the center-piece. It remains to be seen if the old "gag" is good for another trial.

Senator Beveridge is no doubt the best pleased man in the republican party over the nomination of Fairbanks for vice-president on the republican ticket. Fairbanks and Beveridge have long been political rivals, and this turn of affairs disposes of Fairbanks whether elected or not. He can hardly regain his position in Indiana politics if defeated, and his chances for the presidency depend solely on the demise of Roosevelt if the republican ticket is elected this fall. Roosevelt looks distressingly healthy, so that there is a slim chance for Fairbanks there. No wonder he looks upon himself as something of a martyr.

Next Sunday The Telegram will commence the publication of a high-class copyright story, entitled "The Gentleman From Indiana," by Booth Tarkington. This story will appear in serial form, an installment being printed every day in the week except Saturday. While "The Gentleman From Indiana" is not a new story, it is one that is so interesting that it will bear re-reading by those who are familiar with it, while those who are not acquainted with its pages will find it one of thrilling interest. Watch for the opening chapters.

A St. Louis paper announces that among the visitors at the fair is "Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, formerly of the United States navy and now on the lecture platform, but who became famous by reason of his attempt to blockade the harbor of Santiago during the Spanish-American war." Such is fame. A few years ago it would have been simply, "Hobson is here."

In the death of Judge Green Fort Worth loses a good citizen. His service to the public has been long and honorable. He stood all his life as an example of what honest effort and high purpose would do. All who knew him personally will miss him and the loss of his influence for good will be felt by the whole city and state.

Business men in New York have come to the conclusion that they don't pay their employees to play the races, and many of them have issued an order that the mere presence of any employee at a race track will be grounds for dismissal.

July railroad and industrial dividends fall little behind the figures for the same period last year. We don't know this for sure; we only read it.

Houston's car strike still hangs on. North Fort Worth's came and went within three or four days. That shows how much faster we do things up here.

It is all the same to Fort Worth whether Dallas forfeits the games or plays them out.

Good Stories of The Day

ORIGIN OF "ME TOO" PLATT

All sorts of origins have been given for the "Me Too" story, but it was sprung first in the fashionable central New York summer resort, and this was the manner of its springing.
 Mrs. Olive Elwood, counted the brightest woman in Otsego county, the home of Fenimore Cooper, was sitting on her porch in Richfield Springs reading the story of Roscoe Conkling's defection from the United States senate because Garfield insisted on naming a man distasteful to Conkling as collector of the port of New York. Then Mrs. Elwood read how Senator Thomas C. Platt had followed the overshadowing figure of Conkling out of the senate. As the woman read a great hulking Indian passed the gate. He was followed humbly by an undersized squaw.
 "Platts to sell," howled the brave.
 "Me too," meekly echoed the squaw.
 Mrs. Elwood turned like a flash to a friend. "That squaw is Tom Platt," she said, and "Me Too" Platt has been to this day.
 This reminiscence has been revived by the death last week of Mrs. Elwood.

MADE THE PENNSYLVANIAN NERVOUS

Chicago children who enjoyed the outing given last week by the Volunteers of America ought to be grateful to the delegates for some of the picnic blessings. The sisters of the Volunteers passed the baskets industriously until the last moment and the coin fell into it fast.
 One big Pennsylvania delegate was approached by the basket bearer. He dropped a five-dollar bill into the receptacle, saying, possibly a bit unctuously: "He that giveth to the poor lendeth unto the Lord."
 The sister heard and said: "I will repay, saith the Lord."
 "Great Scott!" sister, said the delegate, "that relates to vengeance. I hope none of it comes my way."
 "It won't, brother. You know your Scripture too well."

VICTIM OF HIS OWN REDTARE

John W. Yerkes, commissioner of internal revenue, is telling a good story of himself. Like many Kentuckians, commissioner Yerkes sometimes chews tobacco. Shortly after the promulgation, by his own order, of the rule that all tobacco must be kept in the original boxes until it is sold, he went into a store in Washington and asked for a piece of his favorite brand. The clerk handed it to him, and as he tried to cut off a mouthful it crumbled into dust.
 "What is this that you're giving me," he asked, "punk?"
 "It is pretty dry," replied the clerk; "but we can't help it. We used to be able to take a few pieces out and keep them in a moistening box, but some damned fool up in the internal revenue office decided that that was illegal, and we can't do it any more. Beats all what idiots get appointed to office."
 "Well, that certainly was a fool ruling," replied Mr. Yerkes.

EVOLUTION OF FAIRBANKS

Senator Fairbanks, nominated for vice president on the republican ticket, was assigned to Logan county, Ohio, for a meeting several years ago by the campaign committee. Colonel L. N. Zearing, county chairman, tried to place him at Degraft, but the people there cried that they wanted a man of prominence, and Belle Center likewise objected.
 So he was taken to Rushsylvania, and the chairman apologized for having to take him to such a small place. "It makes no difference to me," said Mr. Fairbanks, "whether it is a large city or a county school house."

He, She—And Charles Augustus

By F. B. WRIGHT

Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure

Charles Augustus had had a most unpleasant day. It had commenced well enough, but had clouded over soon after he had started on his lessons about the dog and the rat and the active cat. Then Higgins had brought Miss Purvis a letter, and with it something had entered into Charles Augustus' life that he could by no means understand.

You see, Charles Augustus loved his governess greatly. She came next to his father and mother and way above the goat. Charles Augustus had quite decided to marry Miss Purvis when he grew up and had even talked over the details with the young lady herself.

The letter, when she read it, made Miss Purvis' face go all pink and beautiful, and then pale and her eyes fill with tears. Then she put the letter away in the bosom of her gown, and Charles Augustus thought that was the end of it. But it was not, for as often as he looked up from his book or slate he saw Miss Purvis reading the letter, and each time he saw tears in her eyes.

What could it be in those scrawly black marks to make people cry? He cried when he was spanked or shut up in a closet or had to do something he did not want to—but this wasn't like that. Charles Augustus could not understand this silent crying. When he cried he wanted to let the whole world know—and usually succeeded.

Later, when lessons were over, he saw Miss Purvis, through the window, writing a letter, and she was crying over that. Plainly there was something in this writing business which was decidedly unpleasant. Charles Augustus decided then and there that he would never write. Then when she had finished she went off to the village and would not let Charles Augustus go with her.

In that half hour of easy time which came when Charles Augustus had shifted from his day things into the ample lengths of his flannel pyjamas and, cuddled down into the big chair with Miss Purvis, toasted his pink toes before the fire preparatory to going to bed, he came once more across this peculiar thing which he could not understand, for Miss Purvis was strangely silent, only answering a listless yes or no to his observations on life and the curious ways of people and the idiosyncrasies of the goat. She did not take much interest even when he touched upon the many things he would give her when he became a man and they were married—the rings like mamma's and an express wagon and a jar of ginger. Though her arm drew him close when he told her how much he loved her, yet Charles Augustus was not satisfied. He felt as though something invisible were between them.

He put up a hand and turned her face toward him.
 "You do love me, don't you?" he said. "And you will wait for me until I am big?"
 She kissed him and told him "Yes." She would always be his sweetheart. "But I'm afraid, dear, I'll have to go away. Will you mind?"
 Charles Augustus minded very much and said so, and the thought kept him awake long after he had got into his bed. Through the door he could see Miss Purvis and the fire. Then he saw her of a sudden bend forward, her face in her arms, and hear her sob.

Though he wanted to comfort her, something told Charles Augustus that Miss Purvis wanted to be let alone. At last she raised her tear stained face.
 "No, it must not be!" Charles Augustus heard her say. "They would think it was for his money. It is better as it is—better for him. I must leave here as soon as I can, and oh, I don't want to!"

Then Miss Purvis took the letter, kissed it and put it in a box on her dressing table, a box with curious patterns in mother of pearl on it, and with a queer lock that only she and Charles Augustus knew how to open.

Charles Augustus' mind started to work this thing out. This letter was the cause of Miss Purvis' feeling bad. It must be taken away—that was all about it.

The room was quiet; the fire died to a little glow of winking embers; Miss Purvis was asleep. Charles Augustus got up and got the letter. Then he hid it under the mattress and went to sleep with a lighter heart. Now Miss Purvis would be happy again, and she would not go away.

But the next day Miss Purvis was not happy. True, she did not cry, nor did she read the letter which Charles Augustus had craftily tucked inside his blouse, but yet she was not the Miss Purvis of a moment ago, who laughed and sang and romped on the lawn with him. It was not the mere possession of the letter then. What was it?

"He must not come." "I must leave here." Charles Augustus remembered those words. Some one was coming then; some one who would carry Miss Purvis, the beloved, away. Charles Augustus thought of giants and gypsies and grew horribly alive to the exigencies of the occasion. His father and mother were away, so he could not go to them for advice.

There was only one man in Charles Augustus' confidence, and he was very big and strong and knew everything. Next to the goat, who was manifestly inadequate under the circumstances, Charles Augustus adored this man. He lived in a house by himself, a long, long way off beyond the most distant trees.

Charles Augustus saw the man that afternoon. He had come to call, but Miss Purvis had excused herself. She had a headache, she said. Now, the man, whose name was Mr. Houghton, was going down the drive with great strides, and so intent on his own thoughts that he did not hear Charles Augustus call to him. It took him a long time to catch up with the man. Indeed it did not happen until the latter had turned off into the woods and Charles Augustus' hat had been lost on the road and his legs much scratched with briars. Then Charles Augustus told his story—about the letter and how she had kissed it and yet cried and was going away.

"And she said 'I can't! I can't!' like that," ended Charles Augustus. "He mustn't never know," she said, and "he mustn't never come here."

What wasn't he to know, and who was he, and did Mr. Houghton think it was a giant that was coming to carry Miss Purvis off? Then Charles Augustus took the letter from his blouse—and then the man knew.

"I'm afraid it is a giant," said Mr. Houghton gravely, "and it's lucky I heard of it in time, because I was going away tomorrow. But now—"

"But now?" said Charles Augustus anxiously.

"Now I think I'll go right back to the house with you."

"And you won't let her be taken—I mean taken—away?" said Charles Augustus.

"No, she isn't going away," the man replied—"at least not very far."

They got out into the road and started back, Charles Augustus' hand in that of his friend and his small shoes plowing through the dust. And then, at a turn in the road, they came suddenly on Miss Purvis, very white and scared looking and carrying Charles Augustus' hat. "Charlie," she cried, "I thought you were lost!"

Charles Augustus plunged toward her. "I told him," he cried triumphantly. "I've told him all about the letter and how you cried because the giant was going to carry you off, and he says the giant shan't and that you are going to live here happily ever after, amen, like people do in fairy stories. And you are, ain't you?"

Miss Purvis looked at the man a second, and then her face came all pink—and then she said "Yes."

It was a very happy walk back home to Charles Augustus, except that he for some reason could not manage to walk between his two friends and hold both their hands at the same time, a thing which Charles Augustus particularly wished.

Skeptical and Pessimist.
 Mr. Dolan looked at his visitor with an expression of confirmed opposition, and during the friend's argument he further emphasized his disagreement by an occasional emphatic shake of the head.

"Now, I don't hold wid loife insurance companies, nor yet wid savings banks," he said stubbornly. "A cousin o' me own, he had his loife insured for the benefit o' his widdy, an' after all he niver had one, for 'twas him lived to be eighty, an' her that died."

"Wid banks it's just the other way," he continued. "For there was me own uncle, he put money in the bank and he kept sticking it in and sticking it in in the hopes that whin old age come he cud take it out gradual loike and enj'y himself, and instid o' that 'twas him that had the widdy before he touched sixty-two! They're wurried on the wrong plan, the both o' thim institutions, man, and it's a wonder to me to hear you sp'aking a good wurrd for 'em."

Hands Were Shaking Already.
 An American actor once attended a duel in Paris for the sole purpose of studying the demeanor of the duelists. He was preparing at the time to act a duelist's role in a new play.

Discussing this combat afterward, he said: "I confess that I learned very little from it. The men were too well scared to teach me anything that would have been of service in a serious stage duel. They reminded me, in fact, of a story that Edwin Booth used to tell."

"This story concerns two principals who, after they had exchanged shots harmlessly, were urged by their seconds to shake hands. They were about to do so when a bystander, who had looked on at their duel despite their requests that he depart, exclaimed in a disgusted tone: "It's hardly necessary for them to shake hands. Their heads have been shaking this half hour."

Cancerous Ulcers

ROOTED IN THE BLOOD.

After the age of 45 or 50, when the vital powers are naturally weaker, it is noticed that a hurt of any kind heals slowly, and often a very insignificant scratch or bruise becomes a bad ulcer or sore. At this time of life warty growths, moles and pimples that have been on the body almost from birth begin to inflame and fester, and before very long are large eating, sloughing ulcers.

Whenever a sore or ulcer is slow in healing then you may be sure something is radically wrong with your blood. Some old taint or poison that has been slumbering there for years, is beginning to assert itself, and breaks out and becomes a bad ulcer and becomes the beginning of Cancer.

Dear Sirs:—I have not words strong enough to praise your great medicine. I had a cancerous ulcer on my left temple for several years. It would itch and burn and bleed, would scab over, but would never heal. I was told to use the Swift Specific. After taking S. S. S. the sore began to disappear, and when all the poisonous matter had passed out it healed. I took in all about thirty bottles, taking it for some time after it had entirely healed. This was about ten years ago, and I have seen no sign of it since.

Gent. Audra County, Mo. JOSEPHUS REID.

These old sores are rooted in the blood, and while washes, soaps, salves, etc., keep the surface clean, they are not healing. A blood medicine to purify and strengthen the polluted blood, and a tonic to build up the general system is what is needed, and S. S. S. is just such a remedy. No poison is so powerful and no germ so deadly that this great vegetable blood remedy cannot reach it, and ulcers of every kind quickly yield to its wonderful curative properties. Medical advice or any information you may desire will be given by our physician without charge.

COMMENTS ON DEATH OF FIRTH

Denver Paper Pays Tribute to the Rock Island Official Who Formerly Lived There

Commenting on the death of William H. Firth, the Denver Times says:

"The news of the death of Mr. Firth was received with genuine tokens of sorrow by all who knew him. He was a well known figure in local railroad circles in Denver for a decade, and had friends in all departments. He began his railroad career in Wisconsin more than forty years ago, and some thirty years since went to the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, when that was the name of the Burlington system. He was with the latter road six years, and during this time was associated with John Q. Bean, general agent at New York, and E. P. Ripley, when the present president of the Santa Fe was general agent at Boston for the 'Q' system. In 1876 he became western passenger agent of the Great Western Railroad of Canada. After three years with the last named road he became general passenger agent of the Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee, now a part of the Grand Trunk system. In 1880 he became general western passenger agent of the Burlington route and in 1882 first came to Denver in company with Colonel Mapleson's opera company, on his way to San Francisco, he being representative of the Burlington on his trip to the west. His headquarters then were at Chicago and his territory in the middle west. After that he became traveling passenger agent in the southwest for the Burlington, with headquarters at Kansas City. Finally he was promoted to the position of southwestern passenger agent at Kansas City for the Burlington.

"When the Rock Island was completed to Denver he came here as that road's agent, and remained here nine years or more. He succeeded Charles E. Sloan, who is again incumbent of the same position he formerly had before going to Texas. Three years ago he was transferred to Fort Worth, Texas, as general passenger agent of the Rock Island lines in Texas, which position he held until his death. Mr. Firth was close to sixty years of age and was a pioneer in the railroad business in the west and middle west. He was a popular, genial man, of large and commanding appearance. He had a very large circle of friends."

COACH EXCURSIONS

The second coach excursion sale of tickets to the World's Fair will take place July 9 and 23. This announcement is made by the Rock Island. Other Texas lines will also sell these tickets on the above dates. This is thought to be the last sale of the kind during the life of the St. Louis exposition. These tickets are good for seven days from the date of sale.

Of the old cases called the following disposition was made:

- Plea of guilty 2
- Fined 1
- No return 1

An arrest was made last night on warrant in the first case for an alleged violation of the automobile ordinance recently passed by the city council. The case will be fought to the end it is reported.

THE LID STILL ON

That the lid is still on in Fort Worth was shown by a round up last night of four defendants said to have been indulging in a quiet game. Officers Hendrix and Thompson made the arrest. The statement that one of the defendants was merely an onlooker and not a participant in the game, he was given his release by the court. The cases against the others were passed until tomorrow.

FALLS FROM TELEPHONE POLE AND IS KILLED

AUSTIN, Texas, July 1.—A very distressing accident, resulting in the instant death of a comparative stranger in Austin, occurred at 4:30 yesterday evening. W. E. Bridges, a lineman of the Western Union Telegraph Company, had climbed a pole and was adjusting the line when the string he was grasping came in contact with a live wire, which shocked him so severely that he lost his footing and fell to the earth, a distance of thirty feet, striking head first, breaking his neck, from which death resulted instantly.

He was 32 years old, formerly from Brandville, Mo., and leaves a wife and two children.

CORRECTION AS TO McMURRAY WEDDING

In the account of Hugh McMurray's recent marriage it was incorrectly stated that the bride's name was Miss Alice Andrews. Such is not the case. It should have been written Miss Alice McDaniel.

A BIG ELEVATOR FOR FORT WORTH

Grain Men Will Erect One on Four Acre Tract on Frisco Railroad

Fort Worth is to have another big grain elevator. The Empire Grain Company of this city yesterday purchased a four and one-half-acre tract of land on the Frisco track west of Fort Worth, on the Arlington Heights road.

A large elevator, with a handling house of fifty cars and a storage capacity of 100,000 bushels, will be located. Work will begin as soon as the contract for the excavation can be settled.

The elevator is to be built double, so as to permit a doubling of machinery and equipment later on. The work will cost about $50,000.

The Empire Grain Company is composed of R. H. Drennan, W. H. Grant, Major Moberly and R. M. Kelso.

EVERYONE WILL WANT SOUVENIRS

Visitors Can Keep Nothing That Will Give More Pleasure Than Pictures

They say that Mrs. Bass, who is claimed to be the original Mrs. Wiggs of "Cabbage Patch" fame, has been greatly annoyed by hundreds of curious persons, who visit her home and carry away her fence, piece by piece.

And it also becomes necessary to haul load after load of gravel to replace that carried away by souvenir seekers from the homes of noted men and women; these visitors imagine that in former days this gravel was trodden by the foot of the celebrated personage, whom they admire.

And this is simply human nature, for our visits to strange countries would be robbed of half the pleasure if we could not bring away with us some bit of handiwork, or curious product, or photograph to show to those we have left at home.

Thousands of dollars will be spent this year by exposition visitors in the purchase of trifles as souvenirs of the great event.

Those who are wise, however, will secure the "Forest City" World's Fair Art Portfolio, which not only constitutes the most beautiful and artistic souvenir of the fair possible to obtain, but a complete pictorial and descriptive history of the event.

The beauty and grandeur of the exposition is such that words are inadequate to describe it, but the faithful camera catches it all and preserves an accurate reproduction of its salient features, the choicest bits of landscape, sculpture, architecture and art; addition to the life that rounds out and completes the whole.

And if you do not visit the fair, the next best thing is the "Forest City" series. These portfolios can be not bought and those of our readers who desire to secure the "Forest City" series should clip one of the little coupons printed in our columns from day to day and send or bring it to The Telegram office with 10 cents, to pay the cost of handling, wrapping, adding and mailing.

If you have not already secured them, send in your names and your coupons at once for the back numbers, and get each part as issued.

The series will be completed in thirty parts, one being issued each week, and will include the choicest views from the thousands secured by the official photographer especially for this work; and the descriptions are all written by Walter B. Stevens, secretary of the exposition, an eminent journalist and most capable writer, thus making the series doubly official.

TALKS OF ST. LOUIS DETECTIVE FORCE

AUSTIN, July 1.—Captain Thomas Dwyer, representing the St. Louis department, who as stated arrived in Austin yesterday and presented an executive warrant to Governor Lanham from Governor James Dockery of Missouri for the extradition of James H. Doyle.

After receiving the requisition papers properly authenticated, he could not leave for San Antonio until 6:40, and in the meantime talked in a very interesting way of the detective force of St. Louis.

The detective force, he said, was appointed by a board named by the governor, who held their "jobs" during good behavior. The force was under the control and subject to the direction of the mayor and city council. There are seventy-five members of the force in St. Louis and twenty in Kansas City, these being the only places in the state where this department is maintained.

There was always plenty of work for the force, but this was largely increased when the crowd in the city was unusually large. Exposition now under way was attracting large numbers of people of all kinds from nearly everywhere; confidence men, pickpockets, toughs and thieves were there to improve their opportunities which kept the seventy-five detectives working almost constantly.

Captain Dwyer stated further that the hardest work had not been done. In addition to the visitors to the fair, the democratic convention would pour its hosts into the town, which would bring also additional fakers and skinners from Chicago, Boston, New York and other large cities, as a result of which the force would be kept moving day and night.

Train and express robberies were one source of much trouble. These robberies, he said, were committed by men who escaped into the larger cities to elude detectives. They were almost constantly hounding down such characters.

TEXAS HOGS FOR EASTERN STATES

Exportation Has Now Begun, A. B. Parkey Having Purchased Some in Hunt County

Exportation of Texas hogs to the eastern states for breeding purposes has now begun, United States Pension Examiner A. B. Parkey having purchased some in Hunt county this week, which will be shipped at once to his farm in Tennessee.

The hogs purchased by Mr. Parkey, whose farm is well stocked with blooded cattle of all sorts, were purchased from Captain Nichols' farm near Greenville, being particularly fine specimens of the Tamworth breed. Mr. Parkey pronounces the Texas hogs the finest he has ever seen.

Captain Nichols, who two years ago abandoned a lucrative law practice to go into the hog raising business, has over 200 fine animals on his farm near Greenville and is enthusiastic over the possibilities.

In conversation the other day he said: "Why, if I had gone into the hog raising business ten years ago I should be independently rich today."

PRIVATE MAILING CARDS ARE NO MORE

Adieu to the private mailing card. His death occurred by official order last night at midnight, after the expiration of a reprieve extended by the government from April 1.

On that date the cards were ruled to be in violation of the postal regulations and their transmission through the post offices ordered stopped. The immense number in circulation at the time, however, led to a modification of the order delaying the date to enable those possessing the cards to make disposition of them.

CLEVELAND THE TOPIC OF ST. LOUIS GOSSIP

ST. LOUIS, July 1.—Talk in the interest of Mr. Cleveland for the presidency constitutes the most prominent feature of the ante-convention gossip heard today. The publication here of a Washington dispatch stating that John R. McLean advocated the ex-president's nomination has added somewhat to the volume of predictions.

There is no definite movement discernable as yet in Mr. Cleveland's interest, and the few delegates in the city generally decline to discuss the probabilities, saying that all predictions would be premature at this time. The discussion, therefore, is confined to politicians other than delegates and with reference to Cleveland's nomination those are divided into two classes, those who favor him and those who fear him.

In a general way the eastern arrivals are favorable on the ground that Mr. Cleveland can carry eastern states such as New York, which they say no other man can carry. It is asserted strong influence among the business interests is being organized in his interest.

NEWS FROM THE STATE CAPITAL

AUSTIN, Texas, July 1.—The department of education sent notices this morning to the treasurers of the school funds to draw on the state treasurer for the full amount of balance due as per last apportionment of the available fund.

A large number of Confederate veterans received pensions for the quarter commencing July 1 this morning.

ROBINSON GETS DALLAS OFFICE

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The president today appointed D. A. Robinson postmaster at Dallas, Texas. There has been a vigorous contest over the office.

ALL SALOONS MUST CLOSE PRIMARY DAY

All saloons in Texas must be closed on July 3, the day of the democratic primary. The closing must not be of the perfunctory front door character, but must be bona fide. The law absolutely prohibits the sale of liquor on that day.

The attorney general stated in reply to a query that liquor must not be sold and the saloons must be closed.

ONLY OFFICIAL EVER KILLED IN PUBLIC LIFE

AUSTIN, July 1.—Yesterday was a memorable day in Texas annals as it marked the first anniversary of the death of the only Texas official that was ever killed in public life.

Comptroller R. M. Love was shot at his desk at ten minutes past 10 o'clock June 30, 1903, and died upon an iron bedstead moved into the office at sixteen minutes past 11 o'clock, living scarcely more than an hour after the assault. His assailant was also shot by accident in an effort to escape and died that evening at 3 o'clock.

There was never enacted in the state house a more tragic scene, when grief, horror and dismay swayed for hours the hosts of friends and employees of the dead official. Meanwhile as rapidly as the wires could handle the messages, news of the terrible tragedy swept over every portion of the state, and to all the news centers of the nation and world.

No man in Texas was better known or more highly esteemed than Colonel Love, and now the same wires that bore the news of his death to the world outside of Austin were bringing back messages of condolence and loving sympathy to the bereaved family and friends.

No event which has ever occurred in Texas was more widely or quickly known or more deeply deplored, and few men have gone to the graves with greater grief than this incorruptible, patriotic Christian gentleman, who one year ago yesterday resigned his soul to God and commended his weeping subordinates and official family to the protecting care of Governor Lanham.

Three days later the remains of Colonel Love were buried in the cemetery at Tehuacana in the presence of an immense concourse of relatives, state officials, friends and neighbors to await the blessedness of resurrection's glorious morn.

LABOR NOTES

President Estes of the United Brotherhood of Railway Employees addressed a large audience of railroad men last night at the city hall upon the aims and objects of the organization.

In the course of his remarks he outlined the differences between the American Labor Union, of whose executive board he is a member, and the American Federation of Labor. One he classified as Trade Unionism and the other as Industrial Unionism.

This is the second trip of President Estes to this state and he expressed himself last night as being well pleased with the advancement made by the order since his last visit to the section.

FARMERS' PICNIC

A large number of the local labor leaders, including Secretary Woodman of the State Federation of Labor, are today attending the picnic of the Tarrant County Central Farmers' Union, being held at Pleasant Run, sixteen miles northeast of this city, on the Cotton Belt.

Addresses will be made by President Means and other prominent men in the movement for the organization of the farmers.

PATIENT CONSCIOUS DURING OPERATION

ZANESVILLE, Ohio, July 1.—Dr. H. T. Sutton today performed an operation for acute appendicitis upon Miss Emma Schreiber, who is also suffering from typhoid fever, and did not use any anesthetic. Cocaine was administered locally as the three-inch incision was made, and the appendix was doused in cocaine until sensitiveness was destroyed and then removed. The patient was conscious during the operation, and did not suffer the least pain.

It is the first time an operation was ever performed under similar conditions in this city, and is very rare among the most eminent surgeons of the country.

DEATH OF DR. ROBINSON WHILE AT ST. LOUIS

AUSTIN, July 1.—It was learned yesterday that Dr. T. P. Robinson of San Angelo had died suddenly while in St. Louis on business last Tuesday and that his remains reached San Angelo yesterday, where interment was made.

Dr. Robinson was formerly a successful and very popular physician of Whitman, Washington, where he practiced for many years.

While residing at Whitman he married Miss Kate Ewing, a daughter of George Ewing, a large planter in that neighborhood, and a sister of Will Ewing, the present county attorney, and John Ewing, a deputy sheriff.

From Whitman he moved to Gallup, N. M., where he conducted a large drug business successfully in addition to doing an extensive general practice.

Later Dr. Robinson returned to Texas settling in San Angelo, where his family, consisting of his wife, daughter, Gerlie, and son, Payne, joined him, who had lived in Brenham two years to avail themselves of the educational advantages offered in that city.

VISITS GRANDSON UNDER SENTENCE

Aged Negress Comes From Sherman to See Rufus Martin, Condemned to Death

Rufus Martin, the condemned negro murderer, who will pay the extreme penalty for killing Charles Swackhammer in this county a year ago, today received a visit from his aged grandmother, Mrs. Holley, who came all the way from her home in Sherman to see him.

The scene is said to have been an affecting one, made so by the fact that the two had not met before in seventeen years.

"The last time I set eyes on Rufus was while he was in jail at Sherman fully seventeen years ago," said the old feeble woman in speaking to a reporter for The Telegram.

Mrs. Holley said she wanted to see him once more before he was executed and made the trip to Fort Worth for this express purpose.

NEW FIRM ABSORBS TWO BIG DRY GOODS STORES

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 1.—The sale of the "White House" and the dry goods establishment of Haas & Oppenheimer to A. F. Hardie & Co. of Dallas is announced. The transaction involves about $150,000. The two houses are to be consolidated and the new establishment will be conducted by the new company, which is composed of A. F. Hardie and J. M. Hardie of Dallas and Max Kaliski of this city, who has been the proprietor of the "White House."

The new firm will occupy the site of the Haas & Oppenheimer store, which will be remodeled to suit the needs of the enlarged concern, which will do a retail and mail order business exclusively in dry goods and kindred supplies.

Both the White House and Haas & Oppenheimer have been well and favorably known in past years, and each has built up a large trade, which it is expected with confidence will go to the new firm.

A. F. Hardie conducts, at the present time, stores in Waco, Austin, Fort Worth and Dallas, and several other points in Texas. The stores at Fort Worth and Dallas have been recently acquired.

The entire force of Haas & Oppenheimer has been engaged by the new firm. The amount involved in this transaction approximates $150,000.

The store of Haas & Oppenheimer will be closed today pending taking stock.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—Mrs. Jack London, wife of the novelist, now serving as press correspondent in the far east, today filed suit for divorce. Infidelity is the ground alleged and the name of Miss Anna Strunsky, who is alleged by Mrs. London to have alienated the affections of the novelist, frequently appears in the petition. Miss Strunsky and London collaborated in literary work and at the time of his departure for the orient some months ago she was a passenger on the same Pacific liner.

YALE WINS 'VARSITY
RACE FROM HARVARD

LONDON, Conn., July 1.—Harvard won the four-oar event by something over a length after a race unique in the history of this course. Yale led practically throughout the race, only to go to pieces within the last half mile, while Harvard in a grand spurt crossed the line.

The event was rowed in deplorable confusion of the official arrangements. Without warning this race was allowed to proceed the big event of the day, contrary to all arrangements.

There were almost no spectators. There were no observation trains. Dozens of newspaper men stranded in the city did not witness the race. The official time was Harvard 19:12, Yale 19:15. Yale broke an outrigger four lengths from the finish.

The 'varsity eight-oar race at a distance of four miles up stream with the tide, was started at 11:16. They got off splendidly with slight advantage to Yale in the first hundred yards. In the first eighth of a mile Yale gained a quarter of a length. The race at the mile mark was very close.

After passing the mile Harvard drew up bit by bit and Yale led by little less than a length. Yale drew away again and won by five boat lengths.

The official time was: Yale 21:45, Harvard 22:07.

CONDITIONS NOT VERY GOOD.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 1.—After a night of high winds and heavy rain the morning brought with it conditions indicating that the two events of the Harvard-Yale regatta postponed from yesterday, the 'varsity race and four-oar could be rowed today. A dense fog enveloped New London harbor and the river and there was a slight southerly breeze. The water, however, was smooth at 8 o'clock and the sun apparently was making headway through the haze.

The crowds were smaller as the result of yesterday's trying experiences, but were out early and prepared for any kind of weather.

The long and tedious wait yesterday, together with depressing weather, told upon the oarsmen's physical makeup. There was no attempt today to keep secret the fact that the crews are in a somewhat nervous condition. Although both Yale and Harvard refused officially to make any statement, it is understood the men lost weight since yesterday and the average reduction at Harvard is three pounds.

DOG ORDINANCE
HAS BEEN FRAMED

Council Will Tonight Consider
Bill Providing Tax for Canines and Other Regulations

An ordinance taxing dogs and prohibiting them running at large during the summer months unless properly muzzled has been prepared by the city attorney at the request of the city council and will be presented to that body tonight.

The proposed ordinance, which embraces the salient features of the ordinance in force in San Antonio and the one under consideration by Dallas, provides a tax of $1 on every dog over 3 months of age. Licenses to be issued upon March 1 of each year. Upon the issuance of a license the city assessor will furnish the person paying the tax a tin plate or tag, upon which the number of the license will be placed. This tag must be attached to the dog's collar and dogs not thus tagged will be impounded.

To secure the release of an impounded animal, the license must be paid and in addition a fee of 25 cents for each day the dog is in the pound. Dogs not claimed will be disposed of by killing or otherwise, at the discretion of the marshal.

Another provision of the measure is that all dogs, tagged or otherwise, are liable to be impounded if found at large unmuzzled between April 1 and October 1.

1. The proper muzzling pound fee, as in the other case, is necessary to the release of the animal.

The measure is made to provide equally to persons visiting the city with dogs and interference or insult to an officer in enforcing the ordinance is made punishable by a fine of from $5 to $200. Failure to procure a license is made subject to a fine of from $2 to $10.

GETTING READY FOR TONIGHT'S SESSION

A meeting of the streets and alleys committee was held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in preparation for tonight's session of the city council.

At this meeting the application of the Northern Texas Traction Company to construct a line out Hill street from Seventh, out Summit avenue and thence across Cooper street to Eighth and down Eighth avenue to the 1500 block, was taken up and will be reported favorably to the council. It developed in the discussion that every property owner along the proposed line, with the exception of three, had signed a petition asking the granting of the franchise. A franchise for practically the same territory was granted once before by the council, but has since lapsed. The present line, it is said, will be completed within ninety days.

The committee has also decided upon the opening of Laurel street, in place of Cactus, as originally intended, owing to the construction of a residence on the line proposed for Cactus street.

LEAGUE WILL PURCHASE
40,000 FRUIT TREES

MARLIN, Texas, July 1.—A proposition with great possibilities is now under discussion among members of the Marlin Business League. It is a plan to undertake the development of the fruit growing industry in Falls county by the purchase of 40,000 trees in one bunch, which will be sold in lots of 500 to parties who pledge themselves to plant them and give them every attention possible, in order to insure proper growth and maturity.

These trees would be purchased at very low prices and sold to farmers at actual cost. The citizens who recently visited the fruit belt of East Texas are confident that this section is in every way adapted to fruit culture.

OVER 600,000 POUNDS
OF WOOL SHIPPED

LAMPASAS, Texas, July 1.—Messrs. Stokes Brothers of this place have sold their warehouse of wool, consisting of about 350,000 pounds, to C. Palmer, the Texas representative of Messrs. Jeremiah Williams & Co. of Boston.

This wool is being baled and loaded to the cars today.

The other two houses have already sold, which now closes the business here for this season. The price paid for this shipment is not obtainable at present. However, it is claimed to be a very satisfactory price, as it was a very choice lot of wools.

The wool shipments from this point this spring will amount to more than 600,000 pounds.

REPUBLICAN CLUB
OPENS THE CAMPAIGN

ing in Cooper Union, the Republican Club has formally opened the local campaign. The meeting was called ostensibly to ratify the ticket nominated at Chicago.

He reviewed the republican administrations of the last eight years in all the various departments of government, and summed up their achievements by declaring that the American people are looking over the history of these years, must admit that the "party has done tolerably well."

Demonstrations of approval occurred several times during the ex-senator's speech. An allusion to the Perdicaris incident was loudly cheered.

SWISS IS SENT ON HIS WAY REJOICING

NEW YORK, July 1.—Charles E. Salzig, a Swiss-American who arrived here from Antwerp Tuesday with his wife, six children and only $2, has been sent rejoicing on his way to Chicago with his family.

Salzig formerly was a policeman in Melrose Park, a suburb of Chicago. He went back to his old home in Europe, but failed to earn a livelihood and determined to return to the land of his adoption. Only $2 remained in the family purse when the steamer arrived. The Battery policemen learned that Salzig had formerly traveled a beat and immediately set about taking up a collection. They soon secured a good sum, with railroad tickets and victuals enough to last the family a week, enabling them to continue their journey in style.

NEW YORK LETTER

NEW YORK, June 29.—If all the suspenders discarded in New York today were tied together they would make a belt long enough to stretch around the world. To say that it was the hottest June day New York has seen in thirty-one years would be merely to quote a dry, meaningless fact from the records. Until 3 o'clock in the afternoon the city was under a giant lens which accumulated and distributed all the heat it did for other places right over the little rock-ribbed island of Manhattan. The asphalt plazas around Madison and Union Squares became so soft that one had the impression of walking over a carpet while crossing the street. Standing in the doorway of the Fifth Avenue hotel or the Hoffman you could see the heat waves rising from the little square around the World monument. If a crate of eggs were dropped anywhere on the square a giant omelet would be cooked and ready in three minutes. It was so hot that a lot of people thought there was a fire under the city. The streets were deserted, but the cool rathskellers and the grill rooms of the hotels were crowded. About half the population went down to Coney Island and other places nearby. In five miles of beach around the island there were probably one hundred thousand in the surf. About 3 o'clock a storm swept up from the north, accompanied by heavy, intermittent showers. This left no perceptible impression for a few hours, but at nightfall it became a little cooler. Over on the east side the firemen got out their hose before noon and cooled off blocks of burning pavement, thus making the streets habitable for the thousands who were chained to their homes by lack of funds to carry them to the shore. Tonight there are thousands who will sleep on the roof or not sleep at all. The parks will be crowded with open-air lodgers and the beaches strewn with recumbent figures on the wet sand. There is probably no spot on earth of equal dimensions which presents such a large area for the absorption of the sun's rays. The skyscrapers in the lower part of the town alone must increase the heat enormously. A terra cotta ledge exposed to the sun for a few seconds becomes so hot that the hand cannot comfortably remain on it for a few seconds.

LULU GLASER'S MANAGER TANGLE
It appears that Lulu Glaser is not to change managers without some trouble. Her old guide, Fred Whitney, claims her contract with him has not yet expired, and he is going to make trouble for the new manager, Mr. Dillingham. That gentleman is going right ahead preparing for the season with "The Madcap Princess," and rehearsals will be interspersed with court appearances, the serving of papers, consultations with lawyers and other pleasing warm-weather diversions. There are a lot of theatrical folk here spending their money with the lawyers.

HUGE STEEL SKELETONS DONE
The entire steel frames of two of the biggest of the new buildings in New York are now set in place, and the skeletons give some idea of how they will look when completed. The Times building in Longacre Square, or Times Square, as it will hereafter be known, will be a distinct improvement over the Fuller building. It occupies a trapezoid about the same dimensions as the Flatiron building, but it is not so tall. It has a more effect. It will look more like a monument. While John Wanamaker was hobnobbing with King Edward last week the iron workers were riveting the last steel beam in the tower that is to surmount his great retail store.

NEFARIOUS RIVER TRADE
For the last ten days the police have patrolled the East river at night with boats mounting searchlights. Many a floating body from the Sloum was revealed by the broad beams, and a great number of suspicious characters were picked up who were prowling about in rowboats. These men were supposedly river pirates, but on the ghastly business of despoiling the dead of jewelry. It seems impossible that there are men who would do this, but the police know better. Their vigilance prevented these river rats from doing any harm, but they hovered about nevertheless, looking for the chance. The majority of these thieves live on the Jersey shore, near Elizabethport and Perth Amboy. When hard pressed by the police or the United States revenue officers—for when business is dull they will try to earn a dollar by smuggling in a bit of tobacco—they will run their boats on to the beach and hide themselves in the New Jersey salt marshes. The river thieves usually pose as junk dealers, and to make it appear that they are engaged in an honest line of business they procure licenses and, during the day, row in and about the ships and the wharves trying to bargain for odd bits of junk, while at the same time they are planning robberies for the night.

EXCURSION BOATS CROWDED
To see the way the excursion boats were packed today for all points along the Sound one would never dream that the last of a thousand dead who were lost in one of these old tubs had not been recovered, buried and forgotten. Twenty boats of the Sloum type, some better, but most of them not so safe, carried out a great crowd today and every one of them was equipped not a whit better than was the Sloum. Of course, there has been a hasty overhauling of life preservers and a perfunctory drilling of crews for fire emergencies, but that is all. Before the season is over some rust-out crews which have been drilled will be changed on most of the boats, for they seldom keep the same crowd over a month at a time. It is plain that official bodies must step in and take some action to prevent future accidents. The great public is as heedless as ever and careless of its own safety.

SOUTHWEST TEXAS NOTES

San Antonio Express.
Judge W. W. Bogel of Marfa is in the city. He has reports of a good rain at Marfa Sunday night, but was not informed as to whether it extended some distance south of there, where his possessions lie.

Judge A. M. Turney and J. D. Jackson of Alpine are in the city. Judge Turney reports some good rains lately out that way, which extended to Marathon and Raymond. Mr. Jackson has been out in Uvalde county for several days looking after the shipment of some cattle to market.

Al. McFaddin of Victoria is here, but he is too busy to spend much time on change. He is a delegate to the convention, but he manages to keep pretty well posted on the cattle market all the time. He has shipped out some good cattle lately, and while he hasn't received a sum as he wanted, still he has reasons for congratulating himself that he has been getting about the best "there is" during the past week or two of heavy runs.

A. P. Rachal is up from the ranch in Wilson county for a few days. "Everything is in good shape with us," said he. "Some sections have had more rain than we have, but we have plenty of grass, and therefore are not justified in registering any serious complaints. The screw worms have been a little troublesome, but no loss has been sustained therefrom."

Joseph P. Green of Gregory and John M. Green of Encinal, comprising the firm of F. G. Green & Co., are both in the city and are incidentally congratulating each other on the pleasant paths they trod in their respective sections. They report a shipment of fifteen loads of cattle to market from Encinal Sunday. Three cars were billed to Fort Worth and twelve to St. Louis. Joseph Green reported rain falling on the ranch in San Patricio county Monday morning.

Captain B. Padlock of Fort Worth is down attending the convention. He is the man who, back in the '70s, drew the spiderweb map forecasting the railroads which would make Fort Worth the railroad and live stock center of the state. There were very few railroads in Texas at that time, and Fort Worth got her first one in 1880. There were plenty of cattle around Fort Worth at the time the map was made. The captain bought a herd of cattle to make him eligible to membership in the Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas, but he had hard luck. Fifty per cent of them died the first year. He had bought a cow and calf, and the calf died.

Cattle stealing in Texas has about had its day, and it is no more popular in Karnes county than in any other section of the state. There was a time when thieves plied their trade, but they were encouraged by their ability to run them out of the country before the owners were aware of the depredations. Killing cattle for beef now is in bad taste, besides being exceedingly dangerous.

The Express, in urging cattlemen to refrain from shipping half-fat cattle to market, feels justified in its contention from the fact that the live stock people of the north are urging the holders of native cattle to hold their shipments back until they will at least make a better showing in the market than grass cattle. Fat grass cattle will have plenty of troubles when they go up against fat natives at any time, but neither the Lord nor salt will save the man who butts in with hidebound skeletons.

As an evidence of the arguments being used up north, here is one from the Chicago Drovers' Journal: "Texas cattle are moving freely to market, owners having been stimulated to let loose by the recent rise in values. Good rains in Western and Southwestern Texas have made fine grass and stock has picked up wonderfully during the past month. If this supply becomes liberal, which is probable, the competition will be severe on the light thin natives, and owners of such stock should endeavor to make them above the Texas grass class of steers."

There will be a strong effort made to secure for the San Antonio International Fair and also for the quarantine exhibition at the St. Louis World's Fair the largest aggregation of Shorthorn cattle ever brought together at one time ever recorded in history. There is a move now on foot among the Texas breeders to have every state below the national quarantine line represented by one or more herds and plans are being worked out that promise to secure practically the entire movement of the quarantine exhibit direct from San Antonio to the World's Fair immediately after the close of the San Antonio International Fair on November 2 next. President Joseph P. Green of the Texas Shorthorn Association, upon whom devolves the work of working up the interest in the undertaking, is up from Gregory and in discussing the subject with an Express representative Monday said: "During my recent trip north I waited upon the powers that be, with a view of getting the date for the quarantine exhibit at the fair moved up from November 12 to November 7, and we hope to accomplish this. This will enable exhibitors at the fair here to load out their cattle here with dispatch, thus reducing expenses to the minimum. I believe that Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee and the states east of us are getting sufficiently interested to come. I have been in correspondence with a number of breeders of fine cattle back there and a number have signified their intention of being represented. Under the former management of the live stock department of the World's Fair the quarantine opinion was rendered that the quarantine breeders had not made sufficient progress to justify an exhibition, or in other words, that a creditable display was impossible. The breeders are now slow to recognize an extra effort should be made to disprove this contention by showing to the world that just as good cattle are being produced below this line, which, in the minds of the misinformers, separates the good cattle from the inferior class. The quarantine line was fixed by the government on the recommendation of representatives of the various states of the union as a safeguard against the spread of tick fever and without any intention or thought of placing the stamp of disapproval on the cattle. The cash prizes offered to exhibitors of Shorthorn cattle at the San Antonio International Fair this fall are the most comprehensive yet offered in the south, the total amounting to $2400, and the breeders of other states are slow in recognizing that the Texas Shorthorn men are getting busy and are manifesting an interest in the Texas exhibit that is very encouraging. Indeed, I regret that we have not the exact conditions to report, but it is too early yet for the breeders to know just what accommodations they will require and perhaps, it would be best for the engagement of space to come through Secretary Vance to San Antonio International Fair, who is taking a deep interest in the proposed exhibit. I shall be glad to furnish the Express with anything in the way of news as it develops, and especially as to the proposed change in the date for holding the big show in St. Louis."

PLANT COTTON ON WHEAT STUBBLE
Farmers Making Experiments. Government Report Will Be a 90 Per Cent Crop
The next government report on condition of cotton in this county will be made July 3, and it is said by prominent cotton dealers here that it will be shown that the general condition of the plant will be 90 per cent, which is considered above the average.
One time last year the condition of cotton went down to 66 per cent.
Some farmers in this county are making experiments in planting cotton on wheat stubble fields. If a late fall results good cotton will be made. If frost should prevail, the cotton will not amount to much, being planted so late.

JUDGE GREENE LAID TO REST

Funeral This Morning From First Presbyterian Church Is Largely Attended

The funeral of the late Judge S. P. Greene occurred this morning at 9 o'clock, from the First Presbyterian church, and was largely attended by friends of the deceased, in order to pay a last tribute to a man who, in life, was among the most prominent in professional circles of Fort Worth's citizenship.
The services at the church were conducted by Dr. William Caldwell, acting pastor of the First Presbyterian church, assisted by Dr. John V. McCall of Cleburne, who is one of the prominent preachers of the Fort Worth presbytery. The services throughout were very impressive. There was a beautiful display of floral offerings from friends who were intimate with the judge during his life in a social and professional way.
Worth Commandery was in full force, as was Lee camp, Confederate Veterans, of which order Judge Greene was an active and ardent member.

The Masonic fraternity took charge of the remains as they left the church and escorted them to the cemetery, at which place the remains of the burial ceremonies were conducted by Lee camp.
BAR TAKES ACTION
Members of the Fort Worth Bar Association held a meeting yesterday afternoon and was presided over by Seth W. Stewart, partner in law of the deceased.
Judges T. H. Conner, J. W. Stephens, Ocie Speer, Irby Dunklin, M. E. Smith and W. B. Harris were appointed to act as honorary pall bearers.

A committee was named to draft suitable resolutions on the death of Judge Greene, which are to be read at another meeting of the bar to be held next Monday morning.
Promptly at 8:30 this morning the bar met in front of the court house and marched in a body to the late residence of the deceased on East Weatherford street, where they took charge of the remains and accompanied them to the First Presbyterian church.
By order of the bar association both the Forty-ninth and Seventeenth district courts and the court of civil appeals adjourned for the day.
District Judge Irby Dunklin made the following order upon the records of his court yesterday evening:
"With feelings of profound regret I announce the death of Judge S. P. Greene, a distinguished member of this bar. For him the judge of this court entertained sentiments of great respect and a sincere personal regard, and I am sure that this feeling was shared by each and every member of the bar, and by the community at large."

"Judge Greene's life was a conspicuous example of a conscientious, Christian gentleman, who, from noble, honorable principles, faithfully discharged the duties of life, both public and private. He was a loyal and courageous Confederate soldier, and filled with ability and credit, many public stations, including the office of judge of one of our courts, and every honor to which he was entitled."

"As a mark of respect to his memory it is ordered that this court stand adjourned until 9 o'clock Monday, July 4."
General K. M. Van Zandt, major general commanding Texas division, United Confederate Veterans, issued the following order late last evening:
"It becomes the painful duty of the major general commanding to announce to the comrades of the Texas division, United Confederate Veterans, the death of Colonel S. P. Greene, adjutant general and chief of staff, which occurred at his home in this city, Wednesday, June 29, at 8:25 o'clock p. m., surrounded by his heart-broken wife, grief-stricken relatives and sorrowing friends."

"Colonel Greene was born in Williamsburg, S. C., December 21, 1842, and was in the 63d year of his age when called home to 'The undiscovered country, from whose bourne no traveler returns.'"
"The major general feels that no words of his are necessary to recount the many virtues of head and heart—his valorous deeds on many hard fought battle fields of '61 to '65—or his record as husband, brother, citizen, comrade or friend—as they are well known at home and abroad and need neither mention nor comment."
"It is hereby ordered that all camps of this division assemble in their halls at as early a day as practicable, to take such action as may be deemed proper in view of the death of our lamented comrade."

THE MODERN ENDING
"And so," concluded the fond father, "they were married."
"Oh, yes, I know," interrupted the daughter and heiress, "an' got a divorce, an' lived happily ever after!"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

COULD NOT CROSS THE PLATE

The Sort of Balls That Jarvis Handed Up Are Not to Their Liking—Score 3 to 0

Nine different varieties of peace dwelt within the massive frames of the Dallas players yesterday and ge-ticle silence captured the voice of Catcher Rickey as victory hinted of a perch upon Captain Willis' men. The shut out was not a certainty until the last man was out in the ninth.

The game was approved by every loyal fan and every man in blue put up the best he had in the shop. Four lonesome singles were all that Dallas could get, two of them going to Doyle.

Dallas did not get a man past second, Rickey being the only one to travel even that far. Doyle undertook to follow up each of his hits with a steal and was nabbed at the bag.

Jarvis handed across the plate one of his very best and in his assists caused second to be vacated on several occasions.
Clark, though not so loudly touted as some other Dallas pitchers, puts up an article of drops, floaters and speed-balls that are second to none of the visiting pitchers. His one error yesterday let in the first runner. In the seventh with one down Willis was passed. Pointexter hit to center and Hubbard went out on Clark's throw to first.
Willis was on third when Clark fumbled Reitz's infielder and scored easily.

Two more runs came in the eighth.
After Sullivan filed to Boy Hubbard sent a safety over second and started to steal second. Rickey dropped the reins when he threw to Andres and as the ball got out of the traces on a trip to the fence, Hubbard tore across the plate.

Disch presented with four and Dunn took the measure of the center field for a double, bringing him in.

NOTES

What's the matter with Hubbard?
Several minutes of applause was given to Disch when he went to bat.
*Was a bad day for pliffers. Hubbard got Doyle in the second and Jarvis got Doyle and Johnson in the fifth and Rickey in the fourth.
Andres is positive that Boles should not hang on the fence just to catch a foul fly. The Dallas man thinks Boles' feet do not look so well up in the air.
The fans think Boles looks great that way.

When Doyle's cap gets on straight he soon "sidens" it.

Rickey does most of his coaching on his knees. He will lecture to the Y.
M. C. A. next Sunday afternoon.

"Sully" didn't get a base on balls.
Hoffheimer, a new pitcher, went to bat for Dallas in the ninth. He struck out.

Rickey and Reitz got the only stolen bases, one apiece.
Disch sprinted the three bags on Dunn's double to center.
Doyle backed against the left field fence for Sullivan's cyclone in the first and got it.

An El Paso paper a few days ago printed a sensational article predicting the sale of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad to the Gould interests.
It is stated on good authority that there is not the least foundation for the rumor. The Orient, it is declared emphatically, is not for sale. This is borne out by the fact that the stock of the company was placed, not as is usual through Wall Street brokers, in large blocks, but by Mr. Stilwell personally among small investors in the United States and with his friends in Europe. This was done for the sole purpose of preventing any clique obtaining control of the stock and freez-had an experience with the Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf which taught him a lesson. He raised the

EXTENSION OF THE NATIONAL
From reports received in this city work is progressing rapidly on the New Matamoros extension of the National to Brownsville. The work of laying track on the new line has now proceeded to a point beyond the bridge that spans the Pesquera river. The false work of the bridge was recently completed and the iron construction work is nearing completion. The laying of the track is now beyond the Pesquera river and is being pushed forward with all possible speed. The grading work has reached kilometer 100 and the track laying finished to kilometer 75. The distance from Monterey to San Miguel is 211 kilometers and it is necessary to construct an entirely new road between these two points, which will include grading, cul-verting and bridge building. From the station of San Miguel to the terminus at Matamoros is the old narrow gauge line of the National and this will be converted into standard gauge as soon as the work is completed from Monterey out to San Miguel. The distance from Monterey to Matamoros over the new extension is 331 kilometers.

SHORT LINE RATES
The passenger department of the Rock Island in this city has been advised that commencing at once the short line rates between Chicago and from which the standard short line

AWAIT ARRIVAL MONSTER SHIP

New White Star Boat, Baltic,
Due Next Week in New York
Is One of Largest Afloat

NEW YORK, July 1.—New York is awaiting with considerable interest the arrival in port of the Baltic, the latest White Star leviathan and the largest steamship ever launched. The Baltic left Liverpool day before yesterday and is due in New York early next week.

Registering, as she does, 24,000 tons, the Baltic exceeds the Cedric and Celtic by 3,000 tons. Her capacity for cargo is about 28,000 tons, and the displacement at her load draft about 40,000 tons. She is 726 feet in length, or twenty-six feet longer than the Cedric and Celtic, which,
with her two great funnels and four-pole masts, she greatly resembles.

The symmetry of her hull is so perfect that it is only when in juxtaposition to other craft that the steamer's tremendous size is apparent. She is primarily intended to meet the want of an increasing number of travelers whose first desire is not great speed, but the largest modicum of comfort coupled with moderate speed. She can carry 3,000 passengers, beside a crew of about 350. All her first-class accommodation is amidships. The grand dining salon, situated on the upper deck, extends the full width of the ship—seventy-five feet. It has seating accommodation for 370 people.

TEACHERS WIND UP CONVENTION

Most Successful Meeting Ever Held Closes at St. Louis Today—Visitors See the Fair

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 1.—Today wound up the business of the most successful convention ever held by the National Convention Association. The attendance undoubtedly establishes a new record for the association's convention. The fact that many of the visitors to the convention made their headquarters at the various state buildings on the exposition grounds makes it impossible to give the exact figures regarding the total number of visitors, but the register at the general headquarters of the convention shows that more than 10,000 teachers attended the general sessions or took some part in the sectional conferences and other meetings that were held in conjunction with the big gathering.

Among the papers and addresses presented today at the concluding general sessions were the following: "The Argument for the Teachers' Federation," Miss Margaret A. Haley, president of the National Federation of Teachers, Chicago;
"The Limitation of the Superintendent's Authority and the Teacher's Independence," Arthur G. Gove, Denver, Colo.; "The Education Creed," Z. X. Snyder, president of the Colorado State Normal school.

The bulk of the visitors to the convention will start for home tonight and tomorrow. Others will linger a few days longer to finish their sight-seeing at the World's Fair.

OYSTER BAY TO WELCOME TEDDY

Every Inhabitant Will Gather
at Depot to Greet President
Home for the Fourth

NEW YORK, July 1.—Oyster Bay is planning a rousing welcome to President Roosevelt when he arrives tomorrow to spend the summer with his family. The republicans, with the oldest inhabitants foremost, will gather at the depot to cheer him, grasp his hand and greet him when he alights from the train. At Army street he will be met by the high school pupils, boys and girls drawn up in line, waving flags and singing patriotic songs.
The last ovation will be from the public school close by Sagamore Hill. All of the pupils, in their Sunday best, will stand in front of the school house, and again the president will be greeted with patriotic songs.

Though no formal arrangements have been completed, it is expected that the president will consent to take part in the Fourth of July celebration that the people of Oyster Bay are planning. They hope to make it the most glorious Fourth in the history of the village. Another big time is anticipated the last of the month, when the republican leaders of the entire county will come to Oyster Bay to formally notify the president of his nomination.

Advice to Women

STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL.

This is a very important consideration in a woman's correspondence with Mrs. Pinkham. It is a great satisfaction to feel that one woman can write to another telling her the most private and confidential details about her illness, and know that her letter will be seen by a woman only,—a woman full of sympathy for her sick sisters, and with a knowledge of woman's ills greater than that possessed by any other person.

Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence thus entrusted to her, and although she publishes thousands of testimonials from women who have been benefitted by her advice and medicine, never in all her experience has she published such a letter without the full consent, and often by special request of the writer.

The reason Mrs. Pinkham is so amply qualified to give advice in cases of female ills is for the reason that about one hundred thousand cases come to her each year,—some personally, others by mail, and this has been going on for twenty years, day after day, and day after day. Twenty years of constant success—think of the knowledge thus gained. Surely women are wise in seeking advice from a woman of such experience, especially when it is absolutely free. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

As an illustration of the good coming from such advice we herewith publish two letters of Mrs. E. F. Hayes, the reading of which should give every sick woman confidence in Mrs. Pinkham's ability to help them. These are only two of thousands of the same kind of letters which Mrs. Pinkham has on file.

Mrs. Hayes' First Letter Appealing to Mrs. Pinkham for Help.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been under Boston doctors' treatment for a long time without any relief. They tell me I have a fibroid tumor. I cannot sit down without great pain, and the soreness extends up my spine. I have bearing-down pains both back and front. My abdomen is swollen, and I have had flowing spells for three years. My appetite is not good. I cannot walk or be on my feet for any length of time. The symptoms of Fibroid Tumor given in your little book accurately describes my case, so I write to you for advice."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St. (Roxbury), Boston, Mass.

Note the result of Mrs. Pinkham's advice—although she advised Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, to take her medicine—which she knew would help her—her letter contained a mass of additional instructions as to treatment, all of which helped to bring about the happy result.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Sometime ago I wrote to you describing my symptoms and asked your advice. You replied, and I followed all your directions carefully, and to-day I am a well woman.

Your advice and the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely expelled the tumor and strengthened my whole system. I can walk miles now.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound" is worth five dollars a drop. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female trouble of any kind to give it a faithful trial."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St. (Roxbury), Boston, Mass.

Mountains of gold could not purchase such testimony for take the place of the health and happiness thus gained by Mrs. Hayes.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles or such hosts of grateful friends. Do not be persuaded that any other medicine is just as good. Any dealer who suggests something else has no interest in your case. He is seeking a larger profit. Follow the record of this medicine, and remember that the thousands of cures of women whose letters are constantly printed in this paper were not brought about by "something else," but by LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND. For sale the world over.

U. S. TROOPS ON CANADIAN BORDER

Toronto Fears an Invasion of American Army and Urges Defensive Measures

TORONTO, Jan. 12.—The News publishes in bold type a sensational article entitled, "Troops Along Canada's Frontier," in which Canadian military officers with special facilities for acquiring information, say:

"Some people are arguing it would be an act of aggression for Canada to buy rifles and train militia of moderate strength. Apologists must mean for Canada to make provisions for her own defense if attack is to be aggressive toward her powerful neighbor. The states have no such scruples. The government newspapers try to make their readers fancy that Dundonald advised building forts along the frontier. Americans have on their borders something much more formidable than forts. They are quartering trained professional soldiers, among the choicest in the world, all along the boundary line. They are increasing the numbers of these troops. Small but efficient bodies of regular troops at the present moment are within striking distance of both Montreal and Toronto. At Fort Niagara are infantry, veterans not long home from the Philippines. It is doubtful whether our militia have cartridges enough to defend Hamilton and Toronto from this force. There also are troops at Buffalo.

"It is understood a considerable force is to be stationed at Oswego. From that point it could move on either Kingston or Prescott, both of these places having direct railway communication with Ottawa. A large post is being established in the Dakota military district and this will be in touch with railway systems running northward toward Winnipeg.

"No one questions the right of the Americans to place their troops where they please in their own country. It is a fact, however, if a quarrel rose suddenly and if the American government were to act suddenly—as in the case of Panama—it could at a moment's notice launch an exceedingly formidable force at Montreal and Toronto and possibly at Winnipeg and Ottawa. While our militia, surprised, half armed and destitute of ammunition was trying to muster to stop the rush of these straight shooting veterans the national guard would be mobilizing."

The Russian edict forbidding the exportation of horses on account of the war with Japan has very disadvantageously affected several sections of Germany, particularly those of Northern Germany, which portion of the country has been accustomed to depend for its general supply upon importation of horses from Russia. In the year 1903 43,500 horses, valued at 17,000,000 marks ($4,046,000), were imported into Germany from Russia.

Taking the last five years the world's average production of cotton per annum has been 16,000,000 bales, calculated at 500 pounds to the bale; the production during the year 1908 was 15,500,000 bales. This gives an increase of but 500,000 bales during the last five years, or an average increase of 100,000 bales per year, which does not keep step with the increase of the world's population and the much greater use and demand for cotton fabrics which is a marked feature of the times.

CHIEFTAINS TO GO TO POW WOW

Today Marks the Beginning of the Grand Trek of Democrats to St. Louis

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The grand trek of New York democratic chieftains to St. Louis begins today. David B. Hill, Edward Murphy Jr., and George Ehret of the "Big Four," William F. Sheehan, Alton B. Parker's personal representative, and others who favor the nomination of the judge for the presidency start from Albany aboard the Southwestern limited over the New York Central unless plans are changed. Tammany Chief Charles F. Murphy, accompanied by Chairman J. Sergeant Cram of the general committee, Charles A. Towne, W. Bourke Cockran, Thomas F. Grady and two car loads of anti-Parker leaders depart from the Pennsylvania station in the afternoon, according to the program outlined today. About the same time Corporation Counsel John J. Delaney and other promoters of the McClellan boom depart for the convention city. Hill and Edward Murphy Jr. are to establish their headquarters at the Southern hotel.

August Belmont has leased palatial apartments at the Planters and will devote himself to attempting the conversion of delegates from the South.

Grand mountain scenery in Valley of Virginia, famed for health. European and American teachers. Full course. Conservatory advantages in Art, Music and Elocution. Certificates Wellesley. Students from 20 States. For catalogue address MATTIE P. HARRIS, President, Roanoke, Va.

Tammany Chief Murphy is to occupy rooms but a few doors from the rooms in which Hill is to be quartered at the Southern. McClellan headquarters will be at the same hotel.

That Tammany leaders have fully made up their minds not to lose any possible chance offered to wreck the fortunes of Judge Parker as a candidate is patent. Today the McClellan literary bureau worked overtime printing and mailing thousands of pamphlets reciting why the mayor's name should be presented at St. Louis and describing his vote-getting power as well as his public achievements.

Parker boomers put out a report that Tammany is divided as to McClellan, Cleveland and Gorman.

This information is said to have been carried by Mr. Belmont to Judge Parker on a secret visit paid to Esopus on Sunday.

In the evening Mr. Belmont called back to the city. Today at his banking house Mr. Belmont vehemently declined to discuss his mysterious visit to Esopus.

IRRIGATION COMPANY BLOCKIN GHONDO PLAN

CARLSBAD, N. M., Jan. 12.—The first hitch in the carrying out of the plans of the reclamation service of the interior department occurred when it became known that the Pecos Irrigation Company had forwarded to the secretary of the interior formal objection against the purchase of the Hondo reservoir site and the commencement of actual work on this, the first project taken up by the national government.

The irrigation system of the plaintiff is located seventy-five miles south of the mouth of the Hondo river, but in the protest, which is quite lengthy, it is set forth that the company has a prior claim upon the excess flood waters and the normal winter flow of this important tributary of the Pecos, from which the Carlsbad system gets its supply.

A four-dollar gold coin belonging to Dr. Charles J. Lange is on exhibition at the Germania National Bank in Milwaukee. The piece of gold is thinner than a 25-cent coin, but of the same diameter. It displays on the obverse side the "Liberty head" without a cap and the 13 stars interspersed with "6387C7 grams." On the reverse side is a five-pointed star with this inscription: "One stella—400 cents." The pluribus num. Deo est gloria, and on the rim, "United States of America, 4 Dol." The coin is valued at $200.
