School Lunch Rooms Serve Total of 190,978

By RUTH COFFEY
School lunch room programs for Colorado Independent School District's 1964-65 year ran up some impressive totals.

A total of 190,978 lunches were served in the four Colorado City school cafeterias during the 1964-65 school term.

An average of 1,010 lunches were served to school pupils every school day to total 179,006 pupil lunches.

In addition to those, a total of 11,912 lunches were served to adults, visitors, janitors and lunchroom workers.

Free lunches served to less privileged children totaled 14,077.

Spent to operate the school cafeterias during the nine-month period was a total of $63,394.81. Largest expenditure, of course, was for the purchase of food. Food purchases for the lunch room program added up to $34,686.36.

Commodities valued at $16,600 were also used in the program.

Labor to run the cafeterias cost a total of $22,955.40. The lunch rooms now employ 17 full time and 2 part time workers.

Also included in the expenses, a report from the Colorado Independent School District shows, are cost and maintenance of equipment, storage and freight on commodities, cleaning supplies etc.

Grand totals are big. Daily

Other expenses amounting to $8,313.05 include milk purchased for the special milk line given fresh coats of paint.

Wolf Stadium is also getting a new coat of paint and the seats are being re-numbered.

Cost to school pupils is small, comparison of figures shows. At Primary School and D. W. Wallace School, children can buy hot, nutritious and balanced lunches for 25 cents each.

Pupils in Hutchinson School, pupils attending Junior and Senior High Schools, are charged 35 cents a plate because of relatively larger portions served.

Repair work on the Colorado Junior High heating system is also in progress at this time with plumbers making necessary repairs and changes in the system.

In regard to the junior high work, Supt. Wilson said the problems in the system had been found and would be corrected in time for use in the coming school term.

Completion Date Set This Month

Colorado City and Mitchell County will have paved landing strip facilities by the end of the month.

The paved portion of the strip will be 60 feet wide and 3,000 feet long.

County and city employees and machinery have been on the job since last week and the project is progressing according to the set schedule that would see completion by the end of the month or before.

Men and machinery are in the process of clearing side areas to the runway and in the cutting down and leveling of the landing strip.

Trucks are expected to begin hauling caliche used in building the base for the pavement Monday.

Preparatory work before the actual application of the pavement is expected to take two weeks.

Ed Nokes, engineer from the Lubbock firm of Parkhill Smith and Cooper, was to have been on hand Saturday morning to check grades on the runway work completed during the week.

City Manager Ford Merritt said city employees and equipment would be used in the paving work on the project.

County is in charge of preparing the field for paving while the city handles all engineering and paving on the job according to Mitchell County Judge Elmer Martin.

Actual work on the airport paving comes following months of planning after the city and county agreed to work together on the joint project.

COLORADO HIGH GRAD

Major Glover Retires Following USMC Duty

By JAMES ANDERSON
Record News Editor

Major William R. Glover, a native of Colorado City, has retired from the U.S. Marine Corps following a career spanning 23 and a half years including action in World War II, Korean Conflict and Vietnam.

Major Glover is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Glover of Colorado City and was graduated from Colorado High with the Class of 1939.

He first entered the Marine Corps in January of 1942 following 460 days of study at Tarleton State College.

During World War II Glover saw action in the Pacific Theater and served with the 2nd Marine Division at the bloody battle for Guadalcanal.

He received his commission in November, 1944.

In 1950-51 Glover was with the 1st Marine Division in Korea where he was an assistant logistics officer.

Also, he was regimental embarkation officer in charge of loading and unloading troop ships in Pusan.

Following Pusan duty, he participated in the landing at Inchon and was involved in the action around Chosin Reservoir where the Red Chinese entered the conflict at the side of North Korea.

Glover was among the troops of the 5th and 7th Marine Regiments that were cut off and surrounded by the Red Chinese at a spot called Yudamni, 30 miles north of the Chosin Reservoir.

During this action the Red Chinese cut the supply line of the U.S. troops before the Marines eventually escaped from their clutches.

The Marines went to Hungnam where they boarded ships enroute to MASH.

Major Glover remained in Korea until the beginning of the spring offensive in 1951, which eventually led to the stalemate at the 38th Parallel.

Chosin Reservoir incident, Glover noted that the U.S. forces had the situation well under control until the Red Chinese surprised the world by entering the fighting.

Glover remembered that the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur had told the troops they would be home for Christmas prior to increased fighting brought on by the entrance of Red China into the conflict.

Transport Officer
Major Glover served in various capacities after his time in Korea primarily as a motor transport officer at Camp Lejeune, N. C. and Quantico, Va.

In addition he spent three and one half years training reserves at Wyoming, Pa., plus a year-long stint on Okinawa as executive officer of the 3rd Motor Transport Battalion.

He retired at Camp Lejeune on June 30.

Vietnam Service
During his stay in Okinawa Major Glover spent 10 days as an observer to action in Vietnam. The 10 days were spent at Da Nang, now famous as the key base for air strikes and operations against the Viet Cong. Glover noted how much the complexion of the Vietnamese situation had changed since he was there in Sept.-Oct., 1964.

Glover explained that many officers were sent from Okinawa to Vietnam for short periods of time up to a month to observe the situation in the country.

He said the terrain of the Vietnamese countryside was vastly different from any other place he served.

"There were jungles in many places we fought at in World War II, but they were unlike the jungles found in Vietnam," the major said.

"We are fighting a guerrilla type of war with no continuous battlefield where 15 or 20 Viet Cong might possibly contain an entire regiment," Glover explained.

"The Viet Cong are fighting the same style as was used by the allied underground in Europe during World War II," he stated.

The enemy may be farming by day and fighting by night," he said.

Asked to project on a solution to the dilemma, Major Glover said, "We must contain the Viet Cong in order to win."

He noted that the Viet Cong used surprise and ambush to a great advantage. "They pick their spot and then strike," he said. "If they can't accomplish a mission, they don't attempt it," he explained.

The major said our forces must make use of the same element of surprise.

Future Plans
Though his plans are still somewhat indefinite, the retired major intends to work in the trucking field as a maintenance supervisor.

He and his wife, Hilda, are the parents of two daughters, Gail, six, and Gina, two.

Howle Advises Blank Planting

Most of the cotton in the Mitchell County Soil Conservation District is planted in a skiprow pattern.

This is a highly desirable method to use in this area, but it tends to leave the land open to wind erosion.

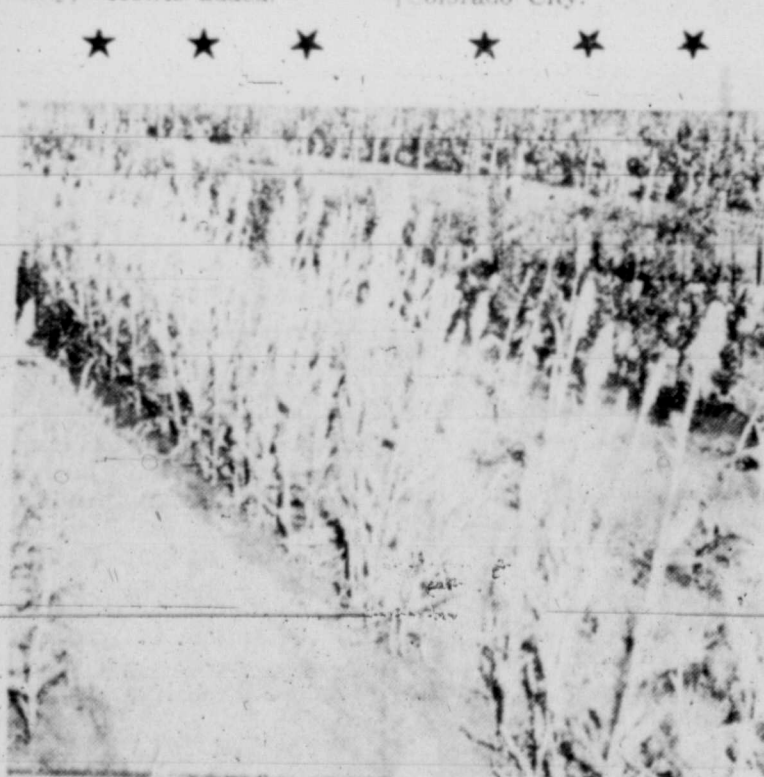

"Now is the time to be thinking and getting ready to seed those blank rows to prevent this wind erosion next spring," according to William L. Howle of the Soil Conservation Service in Colorado City.

"Blank rows should be seeded in August or September to sorghums or during normal seeding dates for small grains. By planting this late, the cotton will not be competing for moisture and the cover crop will hold the soil in place when the winds begin to blow. These crops will improve the tilth and structure of the soil, increase its water holding capacity, reduce runoff and maintain or build up soil fertility," Howle added.

Any cropping system in the Mitchell Soil Conservation District must be built around a plan to treat two serious problems in our area, low rainfall and wind erosion. Man has no control over the forces of the elements; however, protection of the soil can be provided by the use of a cropping system that will ease their effects.

By managing adequate amounts (2,000 pounds per acre) of sorghum or small grain stubble on the surface of the soil, wind erosion can be controlled and make better use of the rainfall received. During rainfall, the stubble breaks the force of the rain drop, retards runoff and increases the rate water soaks into the soil. "It also acts as a cover to reduce erratic temperatures and thus less by evaporation," stressed Howle.

For further information concerning your conservation cropping system, contact the Soil Conservation Service in Colorado City.

Miss Verlinda Jo Chesney, Bride Of Warren F. (Tim) Bennett, Jr.

In a formal ceremony at seven, Saturday evening, in First Baptist Church here, Miss Verlinda Jo Chesney became the bride of Warren Frank (Tim) Bennett, Jr., of Pittsburg, Texas.

The bride is only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Dorn Chesney, 1742 Locust St. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Warren Frank Bennett, Sr., of Pittsburg, Rt. one.

Rev. M. A. Smith, Jr., pastor of the church, was officiant for the double ring ceremony. The couple stood for their vows before an altar centered with a lavish arrangement of white roses, flanked by spiral candelabra entwined with smilax and white roses. Pews were marked with moss green ribbon, white roses, and fern leaves.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a sheath wedding gown of Artie white silk veiled over peau de soie and re-embroidered Alencon lace. The dress featured a portrait neck and long pointed sleeves. A trellis design of applique lace, embroidered in sequins and pearls, enhanced the bodice and skirt and a wide detachable train swept from unpressed pleats.

The bridal veil of scalloped illusion, sprinkled with pearls, was attached to a double crown of pearls and Alencon lace. White roses and Lilly of the Valley fashioned the bride's bouquet which was accented with pearls. An orange blossom from the wedding dress of the bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Edgar M. Majors, was twined in with the bridal flowers.

Mrs. Joe Weaver, of Colorado City, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Linda Six, of Garland; Miss Suzanne Chesney, cousin of the bride, of Midland; Miss Connie Chatman, of Marlin; Mrs. Jack Pruett, of Pittsburg; and Miss Marie Louise Brooking, of San Antonio.

Attendants of the bride wore formal floor-length gowns of jonquil yellow crepe with moss green velvet ribbon marking the Empire lines. Scoop necklines and matinee sleeves accented the bodice. They wore matching Dior hats of jonquil yellow and carried as arm bouquets cascades of yellow roses arranged with smilax and moss green ribbon.

Flower girl for the wedding, Kathy Ratliff, wore a dress of jonquil yellow sheer tulle. Devin Hughey, nephew of the groom, of Lufkin, was ring bearer.

Jack Vandenberg, of Spearman, attended the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen were Tom Neal, of Lubbock; John Markee, of Borger; Jack Pruett, of Pittsburg; Glen Staggs, Jr., of Stinnett; and John Merritt Jr., cousin of the bride, of Colorado City.

Mrs. Warren Frank (Tim) Bennett, Jr.
... Before Her Marriage, Miss Linda Chesney

Charles Hagen, of Pittsburg, was head usher. Groomsmen in the wedding party doubled as ushers before the ceremony.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. James E. Payne, organist. She also accompanied Mrs. J. C. Garrett, wedding soloist, who sang "One Hand, One Heart," as the pre-nuptial song and "The Lord's Prayer" after the exchange of vows.

Reception feting the bridal couple, their attendants and wedding guests, was hosted by the bride's parents in the reception suite at First Baptist Church.

The bride's table was laid with a moss green taffeta cloth, overskirted with net, and decorated with arrangements of white roses and Lilly of the Valley in spiral candelabra. The wedding cake was four-tiered and heart-shaped, covered with white roses.

Covered with a moss green polished cotton cloth, the table for the bridegroom held a single candle garlanded with smilax and yellow roses. Decorations for the piano, where Mrs. Payne presented a program of music during reception hours, were cascades of yellow roses. A white Bible and a bouquet of white roses marked the guest registry desk.

Assisting in entertaining, as members of the reception niece, of Pittsburg; Mrs. John T. Merritt, aunt of the bride; Mrs. Curtis Latimer, Mrs. Charles C. Thompson, all of Colorado City; and Mrs. Morris Griggs, niece of the bridegroom, of Pittsburg.

For a honeymoon trip the bride traveled wearing a suit of black and white cotton tweed with lizard accessories and a white rose shoulder corsage.

The couple will be at home at 117 Parkland in Pittsburg until February when they will move to Fort Lee, Va., where the groom will be stationed as a second lieutenant in the United States Army.

The bride, granddaughter of Mrs. W. J. Chesney, 104 East 9th St., and of Mrs. Edgar M. Majors, 843 Elm St., attended Texas Christian University and Texas Technological College. She was a member of Pi Beta Phi social sorority.

Mr. Bennett received his degree in May from Texas Tech where he was a member of Phi Gamma Delta social fraternity, and held membership in the Interfraternity Council, Scabbard and Blade and the Agricultural Economics Club.

In addition to out-of-town members of the wedding and houseparties, guests were here for the marriage ceremony from Borger, Post, Sweetwater, Abilene, Idalou, Earth Dallas, Big Spring, Snyder, McKinney and Pine.

Rehearsal dinner party for the bridal couple and their attendants was hosted Friday evening in the private party dining room, at Villa Inn Restaurant, by the parents of the bridegroom.

A bridesmaid luncheon complimented the bride and her attendants Saturday at noon in Villa Inn.

Hostesses were Mrs. Ker Easton, of Midland, Mrs. John T. Merritt, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Curtis Latimer.

Agent Notes Danger For County Stockmen

Numerous head of livestock in Mitchell County are lost each year after grazing on sorghums, Sudan grass, Sudan, sorghum hyarids and Johnson grass.

Cause of death in many of these animals may be due to prussic acid poisoning according to Mitchell County Agent Buddy C. Logsdon.

These grasses contain a glycoside which may break down into prussic acid in the digestive tract of the animal. The poisonous material is most likely to be present in young, immature stalks, or is second growth following periods of drought or mechanical harvesting. There is also danger in the fall, following the first frost, reminds Logsdon.

Cattle are more susceptible to the poison than sheep or goats. Horses and swine are rarely injured. An affected animal may stagger and act sleepy before suddenly dropping dead. Severe muscular twitching sometimes occurs. Death results from suffocation since the poison prevents the exchange of oxygen from the blood to the tissue.

A drench of molasses diluted with water may help a poisoned animal, but a veterinarian should be called at once to give additional treatment.

To prevent prussic acid poisoning, do not graze at any time until growth reaches at least 18 inches. Do not graze regrowth that has been stopped by lack of moisture, frosted pastures, or regrowth after a frost.

Forage containing prussic acid can be fed safely if it is cut and allowed to cure completely in the field, or if it is put up as silage and not fed for several months. Mature plants with few suckers are seldom dangerous if growth has been normal. Grain sorghum or Sudan stubble grazed in late fall can be dangerous.

A good way to check safety is to turn one or two low-grade animals into the field and watch them for a day or two. Be sure water is available to them, or the symptoms may be delayed. If the test animals remain healthy, it's probably safe to turn the main herd into the pasture.

DEAR DORIS

advice from Doris Clark

DEAR DORIS - We have to give talks on occupations or something connected with them. Last time I discussed nursing. This time I'd like to have something everyone will enjoy and think great: maybe a panel with two others.

Counting On You DEAR COUNTING - One of my pet themes is that every single one of us has a special talent. When we discover this, and choose the career related to it, life is a breeze. Your work should be your fun.

My leaflet "On Choosing A Career" goes into this, pointing out that we must avoid false clues, as well as discovering our own special aptitudes. Your panel discussion could cover both, giving examples of people who have found the right job, and some who haven't.

(Anyone may have this leaflet by writing in for it, enclosing ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

DEAR DORIS - Daddy's day starts at ten a.m. and he loves staying up until two a.m. This is bad enough, but he encourages the children to stay up, too. If I tell the kids to get to bed it's, "Oh

Ruth Coffey's

CONVERSATION CORNER

ART LINKLETTER, who has his own way with children, sometimes asks the smaller ones on his Houseparty Show, funny questions.

"If you could be an animal — just any animal — what would you want to be?" Linkletter will smile.

Sometimes the answers take listeners by surprise. "I'd be a snake," a little curly-haired cherub will answer, "so I could bite people."

"I'd be a tiger," says a timid little girl, "and scratch everybody."

One very thoughtful child squirmed, frowned, then giggled. "I'd be a rich lady's dog," she said. Good thinking.

ONCE IN A WHILE Linkletter changes the question to make it go "If you could be anybody in the world, who would you be?"

Answers to that one range from "George Washington" to "Ringo" to "Matt Dilland" to just "The President."

Little girls frequently want to be Jackie Kennedy, Pat Duke, Debbie Reynolds, Queen Elizabeth, or "My Aunt Eissy 'cause she's an airline hostess."

One little five-year-old grew coy and answered in a loud stage whisper, "I'd be Mrs. Linkletter."

Heart full of love, however, went to the little girl who looked puzzled, then indignant. She finally answered, firmly, "I'd just want to be ME!"

NOW THERE is a real philosopher. "I'd just want to be ME."

Well? Who would you want to be if you could change and be somebody else — just anybody else in the whole world?

It might be all right if you could be a composite person, made up of all the admirable traits you like in any number of people.

LIKE, say, you'd choose to look like Lilli Palmer, sing like Barbara Streisand, dance like Mary Martin, write like Pauline Frederick — and spend money like the second Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller.

Only if you had to swap your own special well-worn problems for a collection of all theirs ... no thank you.

"I'd just rather be ME!"

TO BE YOURSELF is a true art. It requires the putting away of pretense ... the forsaking of trying to look, walk, talk, act, worship, think, vote, spend, and BE like anybody else under the heavens.

To be yourself — just yourself — is the best way to make other people appreciate the self you are. Start imitating ... keep trying to be somebody else and you lose the identity God, Himself, breathed into you.

Anyhow, to be yourself is an absolute must. You can't escape it. Not really. You are YOU.

AND IF, like Mr. Linkletter's little child guest, you can like yourself, like being yourself, chances are pretty strong that other people will like you better, too.

With all your funny little ways ... your faults, virtues, reactions, downright phobias ... with all your special dreams, disappointments, small successes ... with all your affections and your aversions ... you are the only person living who can be YOU!

Make the best of it. And if you make the best of YOU, that is all people who know — and love you — want. It's all God expects.

SEEN LATELYS were Frances and Charlie Godwin, lunching out Thursday, the day they were in the process of moving. Frances was saying that the Godwin daughter, Marilyn, and her bridegroom Lt. Robert Dean Brookshear, will be back this weekend from their honeymoon.

At another table sat an engaged couple, tall Jimmie Costin and his bride-elect, cute Mary Ann Merritt. With them were Carolyn Howell and Jimmie's mother, Mrs. J. C. Costin.

JOE MERRITT and his beautiful little wife Carolyn (Shimer) are in Colorado City visiting their parents the Ford Merritts and the Johnny Shimers.

Joe, who has been stationed with the Army at Camp Polk, La., is due for reassignment August 11, to overseas duty — possibly in Viet Nam. Carolyn will stay in Colorado City.

SHOPPING SCENE brought meetings with glamorous Selma Landau (Mrs. Willie) looking wonderfully well after a recent hospital stay in Big D.

Saw attractive Margaret Sparks (Mrs. Ben) wearing a green slack suit ... Ruth Barnett (Mrs. Joe.)

Other faces, other places, were those of L. J. Taylor ... Bobbie Steakley and her husband Dr. H. Jene ... Louise Geisenberger (Mrs. Sam) who's fun to talk to and who lives in Natchez, Miss.

Mrs. Bruce Byrne, slender and vivacious ranch wife, was in town with daughter Sharon and the littlest Byrne daughter.

Saw Earl Brock, his pretty blond wife, and their family, too. And that nice First Baptist preacher, M. A. Smith, Jr.

FAN MAIL — to be exact a letter from Dallas signed by the favorite sister, Mary Smith Clark, enclosed a clipping from the Dallas Daily Times Herald.

It was a "Cross Country" column by Weldon Owens, who came to C-City one time for Tumbleweed Festival. Only this time the column was written by a guest columnist named Rick Taylor.

Rick, former Record news editor, is now editor in chief of the De Soto Star, weekly newspaper of the fast-growing Dallas County town, near Big D.

Rick is doing his Taylor-Made column for the Star, now. He winds off his Dallas guest column with this: "Taylor-Made ... once ran the Ten Commandments to fill space in absence of news copy. A few days later one of the Star's oldtime subscribers canceled his subscription — because 'You're gettin' too darn personal.'"

WHILE in the column-comment sharing mood, might as well let you in on this one. It's too good to go unnoticed. Good for one laugh, anyhow.

Tulia Herald, up in Swisher County, has a hard-hitting (Democrat) editor and columnist named H. M. Baggarly.

Other day, he started his Country Editor column with this gem: "I never met a man I didn't like." Quote from Will Rogers' Wrong, Elizabeth Taylor.

Which seems as good a place as any to say adios, for now. So much for the Taylor tales. This time.

Jane Merritt Visits C-City

Miss Jane Merritt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. (Jack) Merritt, 725 Vine St., arrived here Monday night for a visit with her parents.

She was accompanied to Colorado City by Miss Nina Haynes of Bye, New York. The two will leave August 15 for Bellingham, Washington, where both are to be members of the English department faculty at Western Washington College.

Miss Merritt, who holds her B.A. and her M.A. from Texas Tech, has taught English the last two years in Clemson College, Clemson, North Carolina.

Her friend Miss Haynes is also a former Clemson teacher.
