

U.S. HAS NEW POWERS AND RESPONSIBILITIES

Bevin Seeking U.S. Revival Of Lend-Lease

LONDON—AP—British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's latest proposal for solving Europe's economic ills is that the United States revive wartime lend-lease.

In a short talk here last night, he recalled his Sept. 3 suggestion that the U. S. redistribute the gold buried at Fort Knox, Ky., where it has stored some $12,500,000,000 of its $21,765,907,000 gold supply.

"I do not mind whether it is lease-lease or that," he went on. "But all I say is this—that you can't get settlement in the world unless we get these economic conditions right."

His lend-lease idea, which he did not amplify, was tossed out in an address to Paul H. Griffith, immediate past national commander of the American Legion, and 135 other Legionnaires bound for European war cemeteries. The visitors were dinner guests of the British Legion.

"The United States have decided," Bevin said, "that we are the junior partner, that we are a third-rate power."

This was an evident reference to recent London newspaper stories that the U. S. State Department, in a report to congressmen now in Europe, has classified Britain as no longer an "equal" in the Big Three. "Let me say to you, my dear Americans," the Foreign Secretary declared, "we may be short of dollars x x x but we are not short of will. x x x We will win through. We won't let you down."

Washington officials commented that lend-lease could not be resumed without authority from Congress, which is not scheduled for a regular session till January, although talk of a special session now is circulating. They added, however, that Secretary of State George C. Marshall's plan for aid to Europe, being elaborated, might turn out to have some resemblance to lend-lease.

Tropical Storm Is Discovered in South Atlantic

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—A severe tropical storm was discovered early today by a ship deep in the South Atlantic—breeding grounds of some of the Western Hemisphere's greatest and worst hurricanes.

The vessel, identified by the weather bureau as the Arakaka, placed the storm about 750 miles east of Martinique, French West Indies, and about 1,100 miles from the outer edge of the storm and experiencing gale winds but was in no danger. The point is more than 2,000 miles from Miami.

More exact information is expected to be available later in the day after a Navy hurricane reconnaissance plane sent from Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico, into the storm, returns to base.

In a 4 a. m. advisory, the San Juan Weather Bureau predicted winds of the storm would increase in intensity, and "move west northward 10 to 15 miles an hour during the next 24 hours reaching a point about 450 miles east of Guadeloupe, French West Indies, early Friday morning."

The storm was further located as near latitude 14.5 north, longitude 50 west. The area is where the great hurricanes which struck Florida in 1926 and 1928 developed.

Grady Norton, weather bureau storm expert here, said it would be several days before its path could be determined, and added that "it will be with us for the next week or 10 days."

Vessels in the path of the storm were advised by radio to exercise "extreme caution."

Short Corn Crop May Bring Less And Costlier Meat

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The last hope that a revived corn crop might ease or remove the threat of less and costlier meat next year all but faded today.

With the harvest time approaching, the government's latest forecast of the crop that will largely determine the size of the 1948 meat supply showed more than 33,000,000 bushels of a yield already rated as the smallest since the disastrous 1936 drought.

The agriculture department yesterday put the figure at 2,462,949,000 bushels as of September 1, a 27 percent drop from last year's record output and the second consecutive decline since July 15.

Officials estimated earlier in the season that a harvest of at least 2,650,000,000 bushels would be necessary to maintain meat production near the present high level.

But the rains that could have boosted the output did not come. The immediate effect of the dropping yield and skyrocketing feed prices may be a flood of livestock to market.

If this happens, agriculture department officials said the increase in current supplies may bring prices down somewhat, but they decline to guess how much.

Next spring, however, farmers will have fewer cattle to sell for slaughter, and the animals they do market will be lighter weight—because of the shortage of corn.

Translated into retail prices, this indicates that if present demands for meat hold steady prices probably will hit new peaks.

In addition to the impact at home, the short corn crop outlook controls the administration with the necessity of taking immediate stock of its efforts to avert hunger abroad.

Export specialists told a reporter there "I, no doubt," that shipments to Europe and Asia "must now be materially reduced."

Farm-Market Road Jobs Set In Gray County

Approximately 10.6 miles of Gray County's farm-to-market roads will be paved next year with state aid, County Judge Sherman White revealed this morning on his return from Austin where the County Commission Highway Commission.

The judge added that the Commissioners' Court had agreed to enter the 75-25 proposition of the state under the new Highway Department policy as laid down on June 2. The Commissioners' Court at first decided to do its own paving and maintaining, but altered its plans on Tuesday before the Highway Commission.

Under the setup Gray County will turn over to the state $75,000 which will be matched by the state with $25,000 for county farm-to-market road paving. The state will furnish all engineering, let the contracts for maintenance for them. The county will have to furnish the rights-of-way for the roads.

Judge White said this morning the Commissioners' Court had asked for 18-foot-wide paving along the following roads:

The Phillips Camp road for 3.5 miles; the Laketon road, running toward Miami, for 5.2 miles, and the connecting road, lying immediately south of Pampa, from Texas Highway 273 west to U. S. Highway 66, for 2.1 miles. Landowners adjacent to these roads have been asked by the Commissioners' Court to furnish 80 feet of right-of-way at no cost to the county. Most of these landowners have signified their intentions favorably to the Commissioners' court, the judge added. One mile of the Phillips Camp road will require 100 feet of right-of-way.

"It is currently estimated," Judge White said, "that the above roads can be paved for less than $10,000 a mile."

During the hearing, the Commissioners' Court requested the Highway Commission to let the contracts during the 1947-48 winter months so the work could be started in the spring of 1948.

Three Are Killed as Cargo Plane Crashes
DENVER—(AP)—An Army C-47, two-engine cargo plane with a crew of three aboard, crashed 30 miles south of Denver early today, public relations officers at Lowry field reported.

They said the three were killed when the transport crashed into Spruce Mountain near the town of Castle Rock.

The big aircraft, capable of carrying some 35 persons, floundered through a grove of trees before smashing into the mountainside.

Army officers said the plane had reported last night from the vicinity of Pueblo but that nothing further was heard from it until the wreckage was spotted. Search planes had been dispatched from Pueblo and Denver.

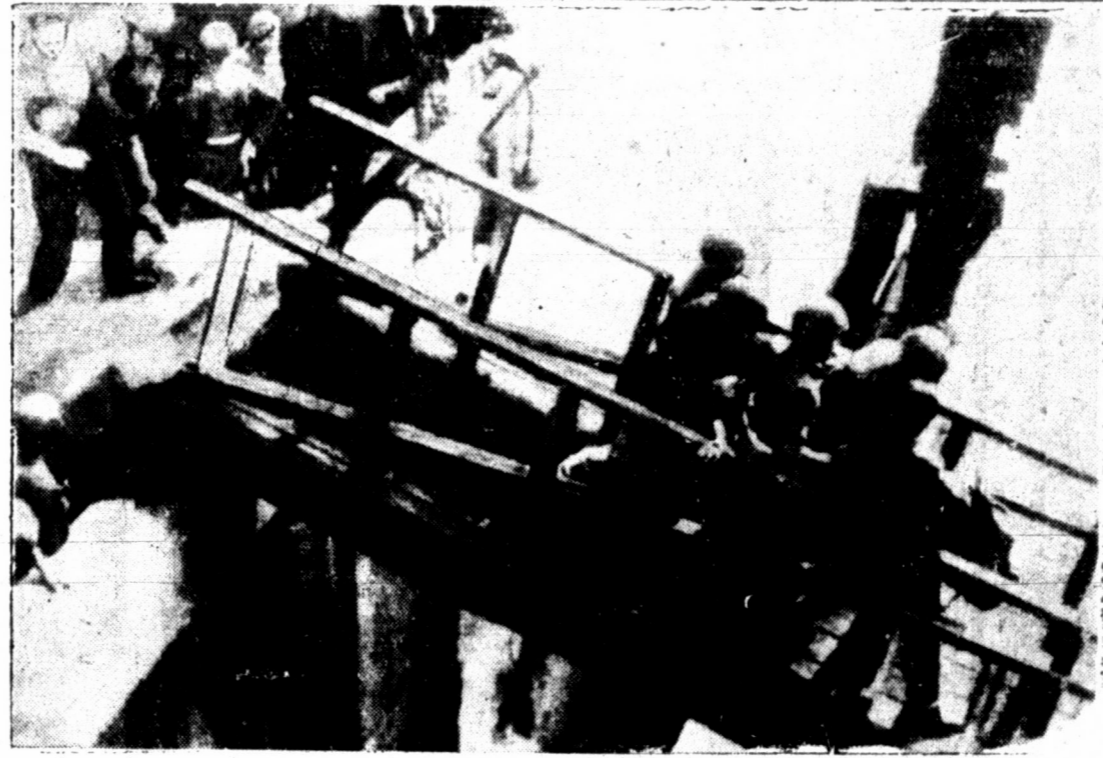

Names of the men killed in the crash were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

OH, THESE ARE STIRRING DAYS FOR US STATISTICS!

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Greetings, you chubby little statistic you. For a statistic is what you are, whether you like it or not.

This gruesome thought crept up and tackled me today during a session of the International Statistical Institute, which is holding a two-week meeting in Washington.

In just a moment we'll drop in on this conference. But first, fellow statisticians, let's look at you and me. We're born, go to school, join a church, draw a paycheck, buy insurance, get married, have kids—and the statistical wheels grind conscientiously.

And when we die, ah, what excitement, what turmoil in statistical circles. Erase one from U. S. Popl Erase one polychlorinated. Erase one Presbyterian. Erase, erase, erase, erase.

And now, shall we drop in on our keepers, the statisticians? A girl in blue ushered me in and pointed to the subject under discussion: "Prediction from autoregressive schemes and linear stochastic difference systems."

The speech was in English, but with translators busy, and with each delegate equipped with earphones, it also came out in Spanish and French.

I soon picked up a large enough supply of autoregression to last me through the winter. While I was sneaking out, I passed the girl in blue. She had on earphones. And when I motioned, questioning, from the English speaker to her covered ears, she nodded and whispered: "Sounds better in French."

In the hall a fellow was standing in front of a machine that looked like an overstuffed drinking fountain. "Look at the machine, friend," said the man. "It speaks a universal language."

"Hello," I said. The machine made no reply. Sulking, probably, "Suppose you go to a dentist, friend," said the man. "Okay, it's all punched in the card—your address, your age, the work already done on your teeth, and so on."

"Okay, six months later you're back. More work to be done. The new work is punched on a new card. The machine then hunts up your old card, and transfers the old information to the new card. All automatically."

"I suppose every dentist soon will have a machine like this," said I, anxious to please. "No," said the man gloomily. "They're too expensive."

I went out and caught a taxi. Statistics show there are 6,973 taxi cabs in Washington. They expect to take in $31,500,000 a year. I presume that includes my 60 cents.

Eisenhower Hits Again at Talk of Nomination Draft

WASHINGTON—(AP)—General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower hit again today at talk of "drafting" him for the Republican presidential nomination, but still left unanswered whether he would accept the nomination if it should be offered.

He held a news conference in New York: "It has been pointed out there is no such thing possible in American politics as a draft unless the draft is an artificial stimulant. I am not going to be a party to any such draft or anything artificial."

Eisenhower is in New York to visit Columbia University whose presidency he will assume next year when he returns from the Army.

It was the sixth time this year that he has been drawn into direct political comment.

In his fifth comment this year dealing with the 1948 presidential campaign, the 56-year-old general told a news conference yesterday he "deplores" the organization of clubs to work for his nomination and hopes "no one will be attracted into spending his hard-earned dollars or time on this."

But when asked what he thought of a September 7 article by Roy A. Roberts, president of the Kansas City Star, which raised the question of whether Eisenhower would run if nominated, the general replied: "I'm going to be a party to no convincing and no one is going to run me. I don't see where a man has to endorse a bridge and answer a hypothetical question."

This brought a comment from H. D. Spalding, chairman and treasurer of the recently organized "Draft Eisenhower for President League" here, that his group is going ahead anyway.

"He still doesn't say no," Spalding told a reporter. "We are going ahead. The league has now grown to such proportions that regardless of our own convictions it will go forward because it is too big to be stopped."

Coal Production Boost Is Planned

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The United States appears today to be moving into a new position of power and leadership in Western Germany as a result of Britain's inability to pay her own way there.

This developing situation reflects the general growth of American influence throughout the European area due to the need for American dollars to buy the necessities of life and to pay for eventual reconstruction.

It appears to result not so much from any deliberate effort by the United States to gain influence for its own sake as from the American attempts to restore conditions in Europe to a point where the nations there can develop as they wish without heavy outside political influences, particularly communism.

Fresh information on the way things are going in the Anglo-American zones of Western Germany came to light in connection with the official announcement last night of plans to boost coal production in the Ruhr mines of Germany. Much greater output from these mines is regarded in both London and Washington as essential to economic recovery in Europe.

On at least four points, the coal production program shows that the United States is gaining a greater power of decision in the British zone of Germany. These are:

1. The new program provides for organization of a joint British-American Board to supervise the operation of the Ruhr mines, thus placing the United States in a position of 50-50 responsibility with the British, who now have full say.

2. The agreement as released here and in London omitted any statement as to who would head the new board, but information from authoritative informants is that it will be headed by an American.

3. As part of the mine reorganization the actual management of the pits and policies controlling them will be turned over to a German coal agency. The idea of giving the Germans greater responsibility in mine operation and that seeing that they produce was initiated by the United States.

4. The plans of Britain's Labor government to socialize the Ruhr mines by converting them into some sort of German government ownership are reported authoritatively to have been delayed in the face of strong American opposition.

Fiery Columnist, Pegler, Is to Be Feature of News

PEGLER
(Editor's Note: Pegler's column, "As Pegler Sees It," will begin Monday in The News. It will be found Monday through Friday on the editorial page of this newspaper.)

By M.E. HEIMER
There is a sneaking suspicion among many persons in this our fair land, that there must be a burr under Westbrook Pegler's saddle and that if someone removed it, he'd stop biting people's heads off. It is unlikely that anything could be further wrong, and what we would like to do to correct that impression is to sit everyone who feels that way down at a poker game or in a locker room with Missouri Pegler. No one is taster with a dollar, swifter to raise his voice in song, quicker to smile or more genial to walk with along a golf fairway.

On the other hand, while there is no burr under his saddle, there is an atomic punch in Westbrook Pegler's typewriter, and when his daily column and not an 80-yard mashie shot is the immediate problem, he can be a grin man, indeed. For Pegler is an oddity in these days. He feels that right is right and wrong is wrong. And if somebody is wrong, he's going to bite. How sharply he bites, of course, is by now legendary. He bit off the heads of such things as Willie Bioff and George Scalse with such efficiency that the latter walked on his way to prison that he had been "peelerized." In 1941, he won the Pulitzer Prize for reporting. While some laborites might not think so, he has been a good friend of labor's for his remarkable work in routing racketeers from high union positions.

The Pegler story began in 1894 in Mansfield, where our man was born James Westbrook Pegler, son of Arthur James "Bud" Pegler, for years a nationally-known figure within the newspaper trade. It's hard to grow up as a newspaperman's son without wanting to get into the business yourself, and Westbrook was no exception. By the time he was 19, he left Loyola Academy in Chicago, bringing his education to an abrupt halt, and set a job with a press association, working in Chicago.

There was nothing mercurial, nothing fiery about the young Pegler. He never had been a brilliant student in school, and when he got into journalism, his efforts were marked by hard work and doggedness—the same characteristics, incidentally, that feature his output today. Good journalism is 90 percent sweat of one's brow, and Pegler never has been afraid to work. Peg went with International News Service before the first World War. One of his big jobs was covering the 1912 Republican Presidential convention at which the Teddy Roosevelt bolted the party. During the war, he served as a correspondent for United Press, and also did a two-year stretch in the Navy—after which he took off his blues for one of his omnipresent gray suits, and turned to the writing of sports.

In 1933, Pegler sortily closed his dossier on sports crooks and plunged into the "serious" field as a national columnist. Starting cautiously, until he was sure of his ground, he ultimately branched out with the same knockout punches he had used in sports writing. It was something new in the way of a national columnist. There was nothing pedantic nor pontifical about Pegler's column; he wrote sharply, tersely, bluntly and with the impact of a land mine.

Occasionally, he cuts loose with a humorous column, and to this day he retains all the wit that made him a top-notch funnyman when he felt like it.

Honors galore have poured in on this fracked, sand-haired Dempsey of the columnist field. In 1942, for instance, Knox College conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Laws, and more than once he has been called on by official bodies, such as the House of Representatives, to testify as an expert on union racketeering.

Married to the former Julia Harpman, once a reporter in New York and a good one—Peg lives in a modest home just outside Tucson, Ariz. That is he lives there when he's not chasing around the country after his exclusive stories. When he sits down at his typewriter, incidentally, he really sweats and fumes. It's a real task.

Many Counties Seek Farm-to-Market Roads

AUSTIN—(AP)—Seventeen counties have made proposals for construction of farm-to-market roads under the State Highway Commission's new 75-25 cooperative plan, involving an estimated $2,500,000 in county and state funds, Chairman John S. Redditt said today.

He told county delegations present for public hearings today that the Commission would announce conclusions concerning action on the individual projects after an executive session tomorrow.

A "Broadway to Big Bend" delegation was on hand for the second month in a row, to urge designation of the proposed highway to give a direct route from Oklahoma City to the Big Bend National Park.

Redditt suggested the West Texas counties involved should plan to build the highway "section by section" instead of seeking state designation for the entire route.

He encouraged the delegation with the promise, "we will be praying for you."

C. W. Roberts, secretary of the "Broadway to the Big Bend" Association lamented that the contemplated highway was "the most famous unbuilt road in the country."

Even if prices go into the usual "seasonal decline" at this time of year, officials said they will go even higher when consumers begin to feel the effects next spring of fewer bushels of wheat will be used as feed this year—all because of lack of corn.

With less grain to feed and fatten their meat animals, farmers are expected to ship their cattle and hogs to market quickly—at lighter weights. Normally, this would force prices down, but officials agree that this is far from a normal year.

Hiway Patrolmen Explain New Law

State Highway Patrolmen Bill White and P. C. Wynne yesterday addressed the Pampa Rotary Club at its weekly meeting held in the Pampa Room, City Hall.

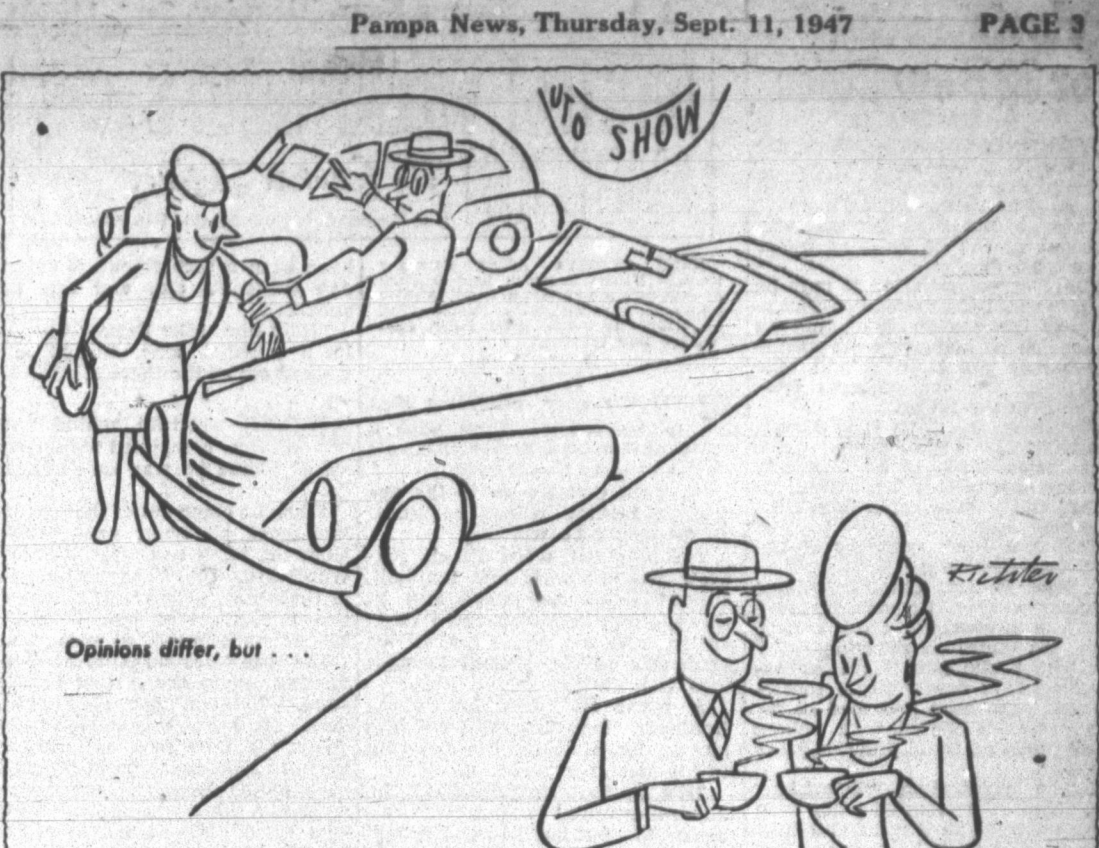

White told Rotarians that most of the accidents over the state happen when drivers between the 19 and 25 year old age group. The 45 year old age group, according to statistics, has less accidents. He pointed out that December has the highest number of fatal accidents and that Saturdays and Sundays poll the highest death rates during the week. Dusk to dawn runs highest for accidents during any time of the day. Drunken drivers cause 40 percent of highway fatalities.

Both White and Wynne explained the new laws, especially on lights, dimming spot lights and clearance lights. Questions were put to the officers on several technicalities in the new laws.

The men were introduced by Charles Burton.

Kon Palmer, of Radio Station KPEN was inducted into Rotary membership.

Club singing was under the direction of Virgil Mot. President Ray Evans presided over the business session.

Officials Forecast Still Higher Food Prices in America

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Government officials forecast still higher food prices today when the Agriculture Department scaled down its estimate of this year's corn crop to 2,403,913,000 bushels.

Even before the forecast, grain prices were soaring on leading markets. Corn and oats set record highs—$2.64 1/4 and $1.23 1/2 a bushel respectively for September delivery—at Chicago.

Corn is the basic feed grain. Prices of meat, poultry and dairy products reflect its prices and supply.

The Agriculture Department's estimate that this year's drought-damaged corn crop will drop to 2,403,913,000 bushels compares with 3,387,927,000 bushels produced last year. The estimate is based on conditions as of Sept. 1.

The new estimate compares with a forecast of 2,437,000,000 bushels the department made on August 15, believe that as much as 400,000,000

The department said that this year's wheat crop is expected to reach all-time high of 1,408,602,000 bushels, topping last year's mark of 1,155,725,000 bushels. The prediction a month ago was for a wheat crop of 1,427,747,000.

The short-corn crop also probably means drastic cut-backs in U. S. shipments of grains to the hungry nations of the world.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said in a radio speech last week that the United States must cut down its exports of grain and that the other countries of the world must do more to help feed themselves.

One high official said privately that the corn crop, on the basis of today's estimate "will not be great enough to take care of all our requirements—domestic and foreign."

Here's why, he said, consumers will be paying more for meat:

A shortage of corn means less grain to feed beef and dairy cattle. Feed prices are on the way up in the general trend toward higher prices.

Less corn to feed the cattle and hogs will force farmers to feed millions of bushels of wheat they ordinarily would sell. Some officials believe that as much as 400,000,000

Television Set For 32 New Cities

By MAX HALL
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Things are stirring in television.
Television stations will blossom out in 32 new cities within the next year or so. Receiving sets are coming out of the factories at better than 400 a day.
Don't expect miracles. It may be many years before television reaches your living room—depending on where you are and how much spending money you have. It will take time, and the era of mass television is in the future.

Just now, television is still concentrated in eight metropolitan areas. Two-thirds of all television sets are still in New York City.
But those statements won't be true very long.
Here is a quick summary of the television situation:
1. The Federal Communications Commission says 31 commercial stations are in operation today and 55 more are under construction.
2. The Radio Manufacturers Association says nearly 70,000 receiving sets have been produced so far this year—compared with about 16,000 produced in all previous years together.
3. The publication "Television" says about 61,200 receiving sets were being operated in August and they were divided as follows among the eight areas that have sending stations: New York 40,000; Philadelphia 8,500; Chicago 5,100; Los Angeles 3,000; Detroit 2,000; Washington 1,500; St. Louis 1,000; Schenectady 700.
4. Television's No. 1 problem, perhaps, is that of developing networks.

Networks are needed because elaborate studio programs will be too costly for most individual stations to produce alone.
Also they are needed so that people throughout the country can be treated to big events like the world series, a championship boxing match, or a president's speech before Congress.
The range of each station is short, covering only a single metropolitan area.
When all television stations now under construction are in operation, 40 cities will have stations instead of eight as at present.
But it won't be easy to link groups of these stations together.

Radio networks are linked together by ordinary telephone wire, but a television broadcast won't go over an ordinary telephone wire.
One way of doing it is through an expensive thing called a coaxial cable. New York and Washington are already linked in this manner. The American Telephone & Telegraph Company now is extending its coaxial cable system to all large cities of the country, but this is a slow process.

Motor vehicles scrapped in the United States in 1925 averaged 6.5 years old while those scrapped in 1945 averaged 12 years old.

DOCTOR WOODWARD'S AMBITION

By Elizabeth Seifert

THE STORY: After Andrew leaves, Nikki accuses her mother of having a crush on him. Nancy slaps her daughter's face—then horrifies at what she's done, consoles her wildly.

XVIII
WITH the easy, confident step of an animal filled with a sense of his own power, Andrew strode back to the hospital.

He went directly up to the operating theater where he knew Glenn would be working.
The benches were filled; Andrew stepped back into the hall, slipped down the steps and in through the scrub-up room door. He got into a gown, scrounged his arms and hands, pushed through into the theater.
A nurse looked at him questioningly, then helped him into gloves. Dr. Malcolm was lecturing to his attentive audience.

"It's his fifth major today," the nurse murmured to Andrew. "He's worn out—but he's been good!"
Andrew nodded, his eyes blue as sapphire above the gauze mask.
The anesthetist signaled; more lights went on above the table. Dr. Glenn stepped from the lecturer's desk, dropping the towel which had enfolded his arms.

Andrew watched Glenn's hands, the precise way his fingers signaled for the instruments, thumb to index finger for scalpel, the open, suppliant palm for the hemostats, the clenched fist for retractors—all the correct, exact gestures.
But now those glistening gloved fingers faltered ever so slightly. Andrew saw Susan's head go up, saw her look over her shoulder to where Martin stood against the wall. Martin nodded and turned toward the basins.

But here was Andrew, ready; he stepped to Malcolm's shoulder, took the scalpel from his lax fingers. Malcolm's eyes widened at this breach of ethics, yet it would be a greater one to refuse one surgeon's aid, and ask for another's.

"Help him, Miss Perry," he said in a muffled tone, turned and walked out of the theater.

MALCOLM opened blood-shot eyes to stare at the red-headed man in white. Slowly he lifted his hands and looked at them, as if to make new acquaintance with those servants which had served him so well.

Martin was on his feet, his hand upon Woodward's arm. "Let's get out of here," he said, so firmly that Andrew followed him without question.
Out in the hall, Martin turned furiously upon Woodward. "What in hell are you trying to do?" he cried. "Malcolm is all of seven years older than you. Do you expect to climb into a wheel chair at forty-five?"
Andrew shrugged. "He was badly cracked up an hour ago."
"Yes, but because he is old. His hand never fumbled in his life. He was blind with migraines—though I've no doubt he could have operated blind. If you would look at today's surgery record, and discover the work Malcolm has done, you'd not dare speak of age and fumbling hands!"
Andrew leaned against the wall, his hands in his pockets, a quizzical smile upon his lips, listening to what Martin had to say. His shoulders lifted in a rueful shrug. "I don't blame you for talking as you do, Glenn," he said reasonably. "Anyone would admire you for your loyalty to your brother. But don't lose sight of the fact that I am a doctor; I know about migraine, and its associated illnesses. I saw the condition your brother was in this afternoon—lax wrists, thickened fingers, a cloudy brain."
Martin's hands clenched against his sides, his mouth stretched into a hard-bitten line. "You're a doctor," he said tightly, "but I'm afraid you're a man out to kill, not to cure."

derstanding of Staff work that one helps another. Just among us of the profession, we can face the fact that any of us may fumble, that our hands will slow. When that day comes for me, it will be a relief to know that disaster may be averted by someone ready to fill in. I'm just glad, sir, that I was ready to help you today."

MALCOLM opened blood-shot eyes to stare at the red-headed man in white. Slowly he lifted his hands and looked at them, as if to make new acquaintance with those servants which had served him so well.

Vacation Tough Problem for Lana

By ARMAND ARCHERD

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—While most of us are comparing vacation experiences with the neighbors, Lana Turner is just getting ready to leave town. Lana, of course, will not have to dig into junior's piggy bank to assure passage home, but she has problems that face only a movie star like Lana Turner.

The former sweater girl (she is now a "dramatic actress") told me of her worries on the "Homecoming" set.

Lana can't simply go away to the mountains or the seashore for a couple of weeks. She has from six to eight months to kill. She is compelled to take a long trip. Last year she went to South America, so she can't go there.

I suggested Africa since Tyrone Power is there.

"No," she laughed. "I'm not that much of an outdoor girl."

She decided on Europe, mostly Southern France and Italy. But au-

Harvesters Face Opening Test Against Electra Tomorrow Nite

ZEKE GRIFFIN, 185 pound, right tackle, starter last year's Harvesters team will again see action as first string tackle when the Green and Gold open with the Electra Tigers, here, tomorrow night.

New Guinea uses tobacco as money and a native can purchase a wife for about two "sticks," worth about 12 cents.

A barbarous South American tribe, the Gomacmas, marry young girls to old widowers and young boys to old widows.

Some primitive tribes prefer and even insist on marriages of cousins.

The first test of the 1947 edition of Coaches Tom Tipps' and Aubra Noncaster's Pampa Harvesters will be tomorrow night, when the Harvesters face the Electra Tigers of District 2AA, coached by W. E. Weathers and "Cy" Craig. Kickoff time will be at 8 o'clock.

Today, as they did yesterday, the team will hold light workouts in preparation for the first clash of the year.

For the convenience of the spectators, the Harvesters will wear numbers on their jerseys corresponding to the position they play. The centers will wear jerseys in the 50's, the guards, 60's; tackles, 70's; ends, 80's; quarterbacks, 12-19; left halfbacks, 20's; fullbacks, 30's right halfbacks, 40's.

The Harvesters will go into tomorrow night's game slight favorites, over the lighter Tiger team. The Harvesters will outweight the Tigers nine pounds per-man. The local gridmen will weigh 170; the Tigers 171.

From the Electra camp comes word that the strongest side of the Tiger line will be the right side, while, from viewing Harvester workouts the past week, it looks as though the left side of the Harvester lines will be the strongest. Harvesters that will probably be seen most filling the left side of the line will be Charlie Thornborough, 155 pound, left guard; Rozcoe Russell, 215 pound, left tackle; and Darrell Davis, 156 pound, left end.

In the backfield, the Electras have three standout men. They are Fobby Myers, and Johnny Knight, fullbacks, and Joe Jacob, fullback.

The probable starting backfield for the Green and Gold tomorrow night, will be Lattion, quarterback; Mayes, left halfback and captain; Conklin, fullback and Williams, right halfback.

Greenville Takes Lead In Big State League

(By The Associated Press)

Greenville was back on top of the State League today, the weather and a 9-4 decision over Gainesville just night having contributed to the cause.

Rain forced a postponement of Texarkana's tilt with Waco and the Bears dropped half-game behind.

Wichita Falls continued to add to its third place margin, beating Sherman-Deaton 12-4. Paris exploded for five runs in the tenth inning and a 10-5 win over Austin.

Greenville jumped on Ed Schaack for 14 hits and nine runs in six innings before Cranley took over.

Milan Vucelich, Reed and Davis hit homers for Greenville and Steve Plantz and Lon Goldstein for Gainesville.

Three hits and Mike Rollins' homer gave Paris its five winning runs in the tenth.

Wichita Falls used home runs by D. C. Miller and Al McCarty to pace its decision over the twins.

Catcher Rudy Briner of Wichita Falls was married in a home plate ceremony prior to the game.

Cards and Bums Begin Payoff Play Tonight

This is it. The payoff series between pace-setting Brooklyn and fast-moving St. Louis opens tonight at Sportsman's Park with the Dodgers holding a shrinking 4½ game lead in the exciting National League pennant chase.

For all practical purposes the Cardinals must do or die in the current three-game set although the season does not end until Sept. 28. Eddie Dyer's Red Birds count on a clean sweep to pull the Brooks back within reach.

Time is fast running out on the defending champions who have only 19 games in which to make their bid. But they are favored by a schedule that calls for 12 of those 19 at home while the Dodgers must struggle through 12 of their 16 remaining contests on the road.

Manager Burt Shotton has tried to manipulate his "thin" pitching staff with the idea of winning this all-important set from the Cards. He has nominated Ralph Branca to face Harry Brecheen in the opener.

Shotton inserted Jackie Robinson in the cleanup spot yesterday at Chicago, indicating that he probably will do the same tonight. Robinson rapped Cub pitching for two hits in the Brooks' 5-1 success.

The Cards banged out 14 hits off Dugh Leonard and Charley Schanz, scoring one each in the second, fourth, fifth and sixth innings after the Phils got to Al Brazle for an early run in the second for their only score in a 4-1 Cardinal triumph.

Ralph Kiner, closing in on New York's Johnny Mize in the home run race, hit his 42nd and 43rd as his Pittsburgh Pirates lost to the Giants, 9-2. Kiner now is only three behind Mize.

Ewell Blackwell was bumped hard and retired in the seventh with a pulled muscle over his left arm and his eighth loss as Clyde Shoun, an old Cincy mauler, hurled for the Boston Braves, shut out the Reds, 8-0, with five hits.

The New York Yankees, stung by insinuations that they are backing into the American League flag, bumped Cleveland, 7-4 while Boston bowed to Detroit, 5-1, to increase their lead to 12½ games with 16 to go. Any combination of six New York wins or Boston defeats will clinch the pennant.

Freddie Hutchinson scattered eight hits and five runs in the tough spots, to hurl Detroit to a 5-0 edge over the Red Sox' Earl Johnson who yielded seven of the Tigers' nine hits in less than three innings.

St. Louis got tight pitching from Fred Sanford and five runs in the seventh inning to trample the Philadelphia A's, 8-2.

Walt Masterson stopped the Chicago White Sox with four hits in 14th win for Washington by a 3-1 score in a duel with Earl Grove whose five-hit effort was betrayed by shoddy fielding.

Power Packed Aggies Switch From T-Model to Single Wing

COLLEGE STATION—(AP)—Three years of using the T formation has given Coach Homer Norton of Texas A and M quite a few ideas on how to stop it. So he's coming up with a defense that will be new to the Southwest Conference this fall—and which he has high hopes will slow down the formation built on speed and timing.

He'll need it, too, because seven of his ten opponents will be using the T.

Norton is quitting the T this season for the simple reason that he doesn't have the type of men for it. Most of those on the squad played double-wing in high school and never have been adept at the T at A and M.

The A and M team of 1947 appears longer on defense than offense although it seems destined to make big strides in its attack over last year. It has a flock of excellent passers and more important still, has a flock of guys who will be able to catch them. Its running should be greatly improved, too. In fact, the Aggie team of this fall, using the double wing and box formations, may play an important role in where the Southwest Conference championship is to go.

No one expects a title but it is an anticlimax for A and M will better its 1945 record of four wins against six losses.

Twenty-seven lettermen return. Twenty of them played last season. There aren't enough tackles and centers to suit Norton but his starting team will be very good. Most notable losses were Leonard Dickey and Monte Moncrief, a pair of fine forwards indeed. Norton expects to partially make up for these with Milton Rout, who played freshman football here before going to West Point where he was on the varsity squad three seasons. Bob Tullis and Jim Winkler return to give A and M a good starting combination. Jim Flowers, converted from center, is showing much promise.

Bob Gary and Herb Ellis are his centers. He could use another veteran or two.

Ends are well-manned with Cotton Howell, Norton Higgins, Charles Wright and Wray Whitaker, lettermen, and Merf Frokop, squaddie. Howell is playing his second varsity season, Higgins his third. Norton expects guard play as good as any team in the conference with Odell Stautzenberger, for whom an All-American boom has already started; Herb Turly, Charles Overly and Joe Sacra, lettermen.

A and M has plenty of good backs although none of the "dangerous every minute" and "go all the way" variety. Key men of the backfield is Jim Cashon, who grew up on the A and M campus, was a regular in 1944 and is back from the service. Jim returned in time for spring training. Norton tabs him one of his smartest quarterbacks and figures him equal to most any passer in the country.

Buryl Baty, who flashed in sports last fall; Jim Hallmark and Stan Hollmig are other capable pitchers.

Reston Smith shows promise of returning to the form of 1945 when he was one of his conference leaders in yards gained. He is bigger (now 180) and more rugged. The best runner and best all-around man appears to be Bob Goode, all-conference yard before last, who weighs 214. Goode is a good punter.

Barney Welch and big Ed Dusek are tabbed as other regulars in the backfield.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK—(AP)—Robin Brown, Paul's boy and Bill Edwards, Jr., son of the Cleveland Browns' tackle coach, both had ambitions to be T-formation quarterbacks on the sophomore teams at their respective high schools this fall—being smart kids, they both went to the Browns' training camp to interview backfield coach Branch Collier, an expert on the "T"—because of a mixup Robin failed to see Collier while Bill was filled up with instructions—As soon as young Brown reported to his Shaker Heights coach, he was established as quarterback and still holds the job—At Cleveland Heights young Edwards, loaded with T formation tricks, was advised to forget quarterbacking and now is playing guard.

SPORTS BEFORE YOUR EYES
Average attendance at seven All-America conference football games so far is 37,482, beating last year's figures for the same games by about 15,000 a game. J. B. McKale, Arizona U. baseball coach, is starting fall practice and expects 80 candidates. Wonder why more college coaches don't try the same stunt, they'd have better weather than in the spring—California's George Engel, age 72, claims to be the oldest active flight manager except Billy McCarney.

Softball Tournament Will Open Tomorrow

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The 15th Annual Amateur Softball Association's world championship tournament opens tomorrow at the Elks Field in suburban Lakewood, and the Fort Wayne, Ind., Zolner Pistons and the Jax Girls of New Orleans will be back to defend the titles they won in 1945 and defended successfully last year.

Saturday's pairings include: Girls division—Washington, D. C. vs. Fort Worth, Texas. Men's division—Washington vs. Harlingen, Texas.

Houston Gains Only Majority In the Texas League Playoffs

By the Associated Press
Houston has the only clear majority in the Texas League Shagbushness playoff today, holding two straight decisions over Tulsa.

Port Worth and Dallas were all square at one game each as they moved to Dallas for three games. Only one game will be played tonight—Houston and Tulsa traveling to the Oklahoma city.

Gene Markland's seventh inning home run with the bases loaded enabled Dallas to trim the Cats.

Port Worth took a 3-0 lead in the fourth off Dallas' pitching ace—Bobby Hogue. Irv Noren and Dae Pless doubled and Maurice Atwell and Manager Lester Burge singled to account for the flurry.

The Rebels picked up a single run in the fifth inning on pinch-hitter Hank Oana's single back of an error and Boy Moyer's single.

Markland's homer chased Podbielan from the mound and Bob Austin finished.

Dallas used Joe Orrell and Tom Pullis from its slencier hurling staff after Hogue retired at the end of the fourth.

Three runs in the first inning plus Jack Creel's three-hit pitching was all Houston needed.

Mac Stewart's wild throw to third enabled the first two Buff runs to come home, then Hal Epps singled Eddie Knoblauch across the plate.

Stewart settled to match Creel almost pitch for pitch the remainder of the game.

It was Creel's first victory over the Oilers. He lost seven attempts in the regular season.

Clarence Beers (25-5) was due to oppose Bill Lee (5-2) at Tulsa tomorrow night in the third game of the series.

Big Willard Ramsdell (20-5) was Fort Worth's choice to open at Dallas tonight against Rufus Gentry (13-8).

Milton Price, Texas League secretary, yesterday announced that a

WALL STREET STOCKS
NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Strength was displayed by assorted stocks in a late bounce today but many leaders were indifferent and the market during most of the session was neglected as speculation centered in heavy commodity trading which drove a number of staples to record peaks. The securities division went to sleep after a fairly active opening. There was a bidding sport in the final hour with a few winners gained at the close. Plus marks for pivots usually ranged from fractions to 2 points or so when the first round sounded. Transfers for the full proceedings held to around 750,000 shares.

Pond Creek, Knobloche was up 8 points, Island Creek Coal 3 and Chicago Pneumatic 7 1/2% all at 1947 tops, in reflection of pleasing dividends. American Woolen added about 4 on retained and expanded unfilled orders.

CHICAGO WHEAT
CHICAGO, Sept. 10 (AP)—Prospects of a special congressional session to provide "temporary aid" to Europe prior to inauguration of the Marshall plan stimulated heavy buying in all commodities on the Board of Trade today.

All contracts of all grains made new season peaks, while September corn at $2.64 1/2 was at a new record high for any corn contract and September oats at $1.23 1/2 established a new peak for any oats delivery. Yellow corn sold at a record of $2.68 1/2 in the cash market.

Best prices were attained during the first hour, when all deferred wheat contracts soared the 10-cent daily limit. Realizing sales brought about a retreat but the market maintained a firm undertone.

Wheat closed 3 1/2-9 1/2 higher, September $2.74 1/2-2 1/2 higher, $2.61 1/2-2.60 1/2, oats were 1 1/2-3 1/2 higher, September $1.21 1/2-1 1/2, soybeans were 5 cents higher, November $3.23 1/2, and lard was 25 cents lower to $24.00. A hundred pounds higher, September $21.75.

Modern mothers don't let offspring interfere with their pressures, says Harold Beary of Texarkana.

Beary is a bus driver, and he tells of a recent young woman passenger on the Dallas to Texarkana run. She was dressed in cowboy clothes, and was carrying a six-month-old baby.

She wanted a cigaret, so she pulled out a sack of tobacco and began rolling it, cowboy style. That's hard enough to do without a baby on your lap (have you tried it?) but with Junior kicking around, the mother got pretty irritated.

"Every time I go to roll a butt, you have to go knock it out of my hands," she scolded.

Speaking of doing things the hard way, G. D. Davis of North Zulch deserves recognition.

He wrote the Paris News that he is 50 years old, and has one arm.

"But in the fall of 1945 I picked 225 pounds of cotton in half a day on the Luther Poteet farm near Biardstown, with one hand."

A new Dallas Company has announced a policy of helping Texas song writers get their tunes on wax. In the past, it took a big name, contracts, and politics to crash big time.

But the Lone Star Publishing and Recording Company says it is following pure Texas philosophy—if a man is good, rest doesn't matter.

Four new records just released are the Texas Polka, Down The Aisle Of Life, Whistles and Minnesota Moon. The recording was done in Dallas.

WE, THE WOMEN

Children Need Home Training—Discipline

Here's an explanation of how to solve the teacher shortage that comes from a teacher herself.

Teaching would be a more attractive job if parents didn't expect teachers to take over the discipline of their children. It is the parents' duty to discipline their children, not the teacher's.

For instance, parents all too often leave the matter of discipline up to the teacher instead of thinking of school discipline as just an extension of home discipline.

"Thank goodness Johnny is starting back to school," the mother parent sighs with relief. "Maybe the teachers can handle him. I certainly can't do anything with him."

Then there is the matter of manners. If today's teachers get a gang of unruly, sassy kids, their parents decide the teachers just don't make the kids respect them. Respect for their elders should be taught at home, maintains this teacher, and if children are rude to their parents, they'll be rude to their teachers.

SEX EDUCATION, TOO

And there is a great hullabaloo about the duty of schools to give children sex education, which is one more instance of parents shirking their responsibility.

One reason teaching is becoming less and less attractive, this teacher claims, is because the schools are getting more and more students whose parents think the school should give them their entire education. So they pour into the classrooms, ill-mannered, disrespectful, ignorant of all sorts of things they should have learned at home.

Gracie Reports

By GRACIE ALLEN
I suppose you've heard the latest. That Congress may control the weather. Yes, it seems the scientists have learned how to make rain by dropping dry-ice pellets from airplanes into clouds. So an Illinois Congressman proposes that Congress appropriate a lot of money and really go into this thing. Can't you imagine campaign slogans like this: "Cast your vote for Senator Bricker—he'll make it rain a darn sight quicker." Or "If you're dry, just build a raft. Then cast your vote for Senator Taft."
But I'd like to warn the congressmen they're letting themselves in for plenty of headaches. If they make it rain to please the farmers, the city people will complain, and vice versa. And it might not be as easy to stop the rain as it is to start it. Some of them might float away on their own political platforms.

AUSTIN—The child who cannot hear is badly handicapped. Hearing-of-hearing children are often considered backward and become greatly retarded in school when in reality they may be highly intelligent but simply cannot hear much of what is said to them. Children who appear backward in school should be observed carefully to determine if hearing is a factor in the situation.

Texas Today

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff
Rain making is so much in the news these days that maybe you'd like to hear about what may some day be known as the Hiroshima of man-made rains. The first Southwestern target, test and outcome. That, and a few legal aspects of rain making.
The dry ice idea really started in the East. Vincent J. Schaefer, research scientist for General Electric, experimented and found the plan feasible.
The Arizona Republic, a progressive newspaper published in Phoenix, brought the thing to a head. Arid Arizona needs water as badly as many Texas points, where a good rain means the difference between beefsteak or going barefoot.
Managing Editor Harvey Mott of the Republic and Amos Hoff, Phoenix Junior College professor, went to New York to talk to Schaefer, came home with facts, figures, and a lot of enthusiasm.
On July 16 they made their first test. That might be called the Hiroshima of the Southwest, that flight in which Lee Ackerman, aviation editor of the Republic, dropped 50 pounds of dry ice on a cloud which ran 3,000 feet deep. The ice was in pellet form, about the size of peas. And it rained.
Observers said "thousands of tons" of rain fell. The shower lasted half an hour.
David Rasco of the Amarillo Globe News went to Phoenix to witness experiments. He said every time ice was dropped, it rained, although

Tough Life

It's no picnic being a senator, says Sen. Sheridan Downey, of California. He maintains that about 90 per cent of all senators are overworked. Downey stayed in Washington most of the summer, working at his paper's stacked desk.
The moisture varied.
Then came the big experiment—with 500 pounds of dry ice. This large-scale attack on target clouds produced a major rain.
"The very first cloud into which dry ice was dropped boiled, flattened out, and poured out a characteristic black curtain of water, silhouetted against the bright white of more distant cumulous clouds," Mott wrote.
The complications? Well, Rasco reported that lawyers already are hinting at an "Interstate Cloud Commission" to regulate this Buck Rogers type of cloud busting. Who is going to get whose moisture? Can Texas bust Arizona clouds? Who owns the air above a given piece of property? What amount of water may be taken from the clouds in equity to other potential rain recipients? Can moisture in the air be owned?
These are a few simple questions that must be answered once rain making becomes simple and practical.
The big thing, though, is rain. West Texas says let it rain, then fight out the legal problems later.

The Bonds of Strife Must Be Tightened

An interesting little statement came out of the pages of Life Magazine the other day. It goes to show us some of the pitfalls against which we must guard if we wish to live in the kind of land we inherited. Life's London correspondent quoted Sir Stafford Cripps, who conceived the idea of levying the 75 percent tax on imported American luxuries as saying it was not merely a matter of economics, but one of ideology. Sir Stafford, the article said, "feels that U. S. firms create a longing in British hearts for the fancy plumbing and conveniences and the shiny new gadgets and luxuries with which Hollywood crams its sets. He would like to dull this appetite."

QUICKIES

By Ken Reynolds. "See these pictures I got with a News Want Ad most hide all the cracks!"

HERE'S THE MAN

President Truman's Attorney General Clark has not yet shown us any facts in his attack on business monopolies. Early in August this renegade Texan, turned New Dealer, announced that he would prosecute 20 big U. S. firms on charges of violating the anti-trust laws. However, in his announcement the Truman mousetrap talked too much about inflation, thereby tipping his hand. He made it pretty clear that the moribund New Deal is going to try to stage a re-election come back by reviving the old hate-business theme which, in the heyday of the New Deal's depression, almost succeeded in stamping out free enterprise.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

WASHINGTON BY RAY TUCKER FRESHMAN—A United States Senator usually makes himself suspect when he levels serious charges against a person and political nature of the case is clear, especially in the case of a presidential election, and Senator Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut has placed himself in this unenviable position. The curious conclusion may be quibbled or that a smart literary salesman outtalked, and outsmarted him.

Mr. Baldwin has become the center of a political storm because he has aired his grudges for public consumption in a current magazine article. He declares that the Senate leadership, and that the Senate Robert A. Taft of Ohio, did not give sixteen freshman members sufficient representation and voice in party councils during the recent session. He adds that such goings-on may endanger Republican chances in the 1948 campaign.

AGGRESSIVE—Washington does not believe that Mr. Baldwin's resentment was aroused by this neglect of a more person. He is a member of the Senate, and he is a member of the party councils during the recent session. He adds that such goings-on may endanger Republican chances in the 1948 campaign.

SLIGHT—But Mr. Taft insisted that the question should be turned over to the Joint Committee on Economic Report, which the Ohioan heads. The party elders agreed with the Buckeye statesman, to Mr. Baldwin's chagrin.

Mr. Baldwin felt the slight more keenly because he had obviously tried to pattern his upward progress on that of Senator Brian McMahon, his Democratic sidekick from South Norwalk.

Although a new member, Mr. McMahon was made head of the special Atomic Energy Commission solely because he sponsored a resolution for Congressional study of the atomic force. Now he has atomized himself into an authority on the subject and a prominent member of the upper chamber.

POIL—Senator Taft's selection of Mr. Flinders for this extremely important politico-economic task sets a precedent which only the inner G. O. P. circle appreciate. It marks the Ohioan as an unusually canny politician, assuming that he is aware of the background.

When the Vermontor sought reelection, he had the endorsement of the C. I. O. Their support of a Republican from one of the two, four-time non-Roosevelt states amazed everybody. But it let the so-called Ickesian school of columnists to eulogize him as a liberal and to use him as a foil against the Taft leadership. For a newcomer, he received in favorable headlines in the New Deal camp of journalists.

It is a fact that Mr. Flinders has treated his machine tool force generously and paternally in his Springfield, Vt. plant, but he is no Lewis-Murray leather admirer. However, his factory union persuaded the state organization to acclaim him, and such an endorsement was

Common Ground

By R. C. HOILES

Why Such Little Respect For Politicians? A socialist acquaintance of mine asked why the word "politician" was associated with scorn and disrespect. Of course no socialist would understand why the word "politician" doesn't carry much respect. There is a very definite reason why this word is held in so little esteem. The reason is that more and more we are asking politicians to do things that would be wicked and immoral for an individual to do. And of course the more we ask them to do something which violates the Commandments "Thou shalt not steal," and "Thou shalt not covet" and to do it collectively, the less respect men who believe in the Ten Commandments will have for the men who do these things.

How can there be very much respect for a man who accepts an office to do things that he never had a right to do as an individual? We are asking politicians to serve two gods—the god of force and the god of voluntary agreement; the god of coercion and compulsion and the god of love. It is an impossible task for any man to do.

When a political office only embraced tasks that the individual originally only had a right to do; then any political office was a trust—then men had great respect for the office holder who did his work honestly and conscientiously. Then, it is contended, the more socialistic we get the more we ask the government to do things that no man has a right to do, the less we are able to get men of honor to fill these jobs, the more we are filled with men without principle, men who believe that the end justifies the means or that might makes right or that necessity knows no law.

That is the reason the word "politician" is held with such little esteem.

Amazing? No, in Harmony With Majority Rule in Education

People who believe that the majority has a right to coerce the minority for any kind of education are not far from compelling the majority to pay for, should ponder over this sentence in Henry Link's latest book, "The Redismery of Morals."

"Recently a teacher in the tenth grade asked her class in hygiene class to vote on the subject they wished to discuss. The majority voted for a discussion of how to have intercourse without the risk of pregnancy. And if the majority rule is right, if the majority does have the right to coerce the minority to pay for any education the majority wants, then if the majority wants this kind of education the majority must pay for it whether they like it or not.

It makes little difference whether the majority is a local school district with local people or whether the majority includes everyone in the state or everyone in the nation. The principle is just as tyrannical. The end results are bound to be just as bad. It is only easier to see it when the tyranny is controlled by the state or Federal government. The power is bigger and easier to understand.

And how would those who believe in majority rule government and have any pretenses of believing in the Ten Commandments want to be compelled to pay for public education which is this kind of immorality can be taught.

To the Editor: I have just read in this evening's paper (Sept. 9) an item about our city manager and commissioners wanting the taxpayers to know that they are up against with no "new revenue." Some time ago I read about the rising cost of city expenditures above '42 and '43, with no new revenue. My city taxes have almost been doubled since '43, and look at all the homes built since then. I'm sure they are not tax-free.

School taxes have also been doubled. I, for one taxpayer, think it time to cut down on so much spending. I have heard of a big tax for those who would sell their homes before they will pay higher taxes. Added to all the new taxes, what goes with the parking meter money, and all the fines collected. Oh, well, I'm just a taxpayer who does a lot of thinking and wondering.

PITY THE POOR PALOMINO JUDGE—HE MUST DECIDE HUE OF NEW-MINTED GOLD

By GARTH JONES
FORT WORTH—(AP)—An artist's palette could be essential equipment for judges of the first annual world championship All-Palomino Horse Show here Sept. 17-22.

It will be up to them to decide which of the blond equine beauties most nearly resemble the hue of a newly minted gold coin.

That is, after they have decided just what is the color of a brand new gold piece.

"According to the rules a perfect Palomino is the color of a newly-minted gold coin," says J. T. Boothman of Fort Worth, general manager of the show. "But no one knows exactly the color of such a coin."

Actually the Palomino horse is not a certain breed of animal, but a certain color animal, Boothman explained. Individually, they may be a thoroughbred, a quarter horse, or a Morgan. They can be purebred, crossed, or linebred.

Until recent years Palominos usually have been registered in stud books as "golden chestnut with flax mane and tail."

However, today the registration requirements are almost as detailed as a corset salesman's order blank.

Such as: "Body color: That of a newly minted gold coin; or three shades lighter or darker... mane and tail: White, silver or ivory with not more than 15 percent dark or chestnut hair... Skin color: The skin shall be basically dark... Eyes: The color shall be dark and both of the same color."

It's that gold color that tries the decisions of most judges.

"We've consulted artists and photographers," Boothman said, "but they felt that gold is the most delicate color in the world."

"We've had famous artists draw up color charts to show the color of a newly minted gold coin and three shades lighter and the three shades darker. That didn't work either."

Color is a very important factor in Palomino horse judging. In the halter classes (strictly appearance) color counts 50 percent. In the saddle classes, color counts 25 percent, conformation 25 percent, and performance 50 percent.

As I See It--

By SAM LEWIS VEITCH
Washington, D. C.

Farm organizations reacted to recent price complaints only a few days after Attorney General Clark announced his department would make a sweeping investigation of high prices for food, clothing, and housing. As expected, the farm reports were not very enthusiastic.

Albert Goss, Master of the National Grange said "It doesn't take a lawyer in the anti-trust Division of the Justice Department to find out why prices have increased. Any competent economist can find the answer."

And, with those words, Mr. Goss took the blame right back to the doorstep of the groups that are screaming loudest, labor unions. He said that wage increase after wage increase in past months have progressively boosted cost of production with resulting higher prices. If labor persists in seeking still higher wages, Mr. Goss went on, then there will be still higher prices. There is no "out" to this issue, he said, higher costs means higher prices.

FARMERS MIGHT CUT PRODUCTION
Then, Mr. Goss went into another angle of the price question, directing words again at labor and others. He lashed out at those who, he said, wanted farmers' prices cut to below cost. This, he said, would simply cause farmers to quit producing; and with scarcities on all sides, prices would skyrocket. This is the Grange answer to CIO demands that food prices roll back to the June, 1946, figures—or to the O. P. A. level. Goss pointed out that the CIO would be the first to fight a parallel roll-back of wages, if such a thing should be considered. Yet, wages are the primary cost of food production, he said. And, while high industrial wages do not directly concern the farmer as a businessman, they are felt in higher costs of the things he buys. They also indirectly affect him in that he must compete with urban-wage scales for his help.

FARM VALUES RISE
Latest developments in the farm real estate market, as reported by the Department of Agriculture at the end of July, indicate that farm property in the preceding four months increased another two per cent in value, which brings the overall national average just five per cent below the all-time peaks of the early 1920's.

However, don't let this give you the idea that all farms in the country have jumped in value. Southeastern farmers, for instance, have been having less luck with vegetable crops and the like this year, and their farm properties are worth slightly less. However, wheat and livestock properties went up even more than the average two per cent, because of all the all-time highs for these products. They more than offset the drop in the South.

This same report says that farm land is now 10 per cent more valuable than it was a year ago, and almost double what it was worth in the period 1935-36. But the number of farm sales hasn't dropped. The year ending in March saw the biggest volume of sales on record.

FARM FINANCING
Persons buying land made an overall average down payment of 41 per cent. However, about one-seventh of all the sales made last year were financed with 75 per cent borrowed money; and, on the basis of increased prices, that means they were financed for more than they were worth three years ago. These farmers, according to recent information, are the ones in danger if prices should fall.

Texas Has New Law Relative to the Control of Bang's Disease in Dairies

"While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, . . . and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease."—Genesis 8:22.

By MAC NEAL IRWIN
Amid all the fanfare and excitement which has accompanied the foot and mouth disease campaign in Mexico a very important law regarding Bang's disease has been passed in Texas by the state legislature. The law provides that all cattle that are tested and found to be infected with Bang's shall be branded "B" on the left jaw. It is now the legal responsibility of the veterinarian who makes the tests to brand the infected animals. Purpose of the law is to prevent reactors to the Bang's test from finding their way into other dairy herds, thereby continuing to spread the disease.

All cattle found to be Bang's reactors, must be reported to the Livestock Sanitary Commission.

Mark down September 17-20 as the days the Jersey cows go to town. That is the time the Texas Jersey Show will be held at Waco. A Texas herd will be selected from Jersey cattle shown at the Waco show to be entered in the All American Jersey Show at Columbus, Ohio, October 22-25. The Texas State Herd won first place at the Columbus show last year.

Livestock buyers and commission men's eyes popped wide open last week when a shipment of 282 10-month steers came to market at the San Antonio stockyards. The steers which averaged from 7 to 10 years old came up from the O'Connor ranch in Victoria and Goliad counties. They were reported to have the typical lance spiraling horns of the old timers. The steers averaged 1320 pounds.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
(Johnson on KPND Monday thru Friday, 2 p.m.)

HOLLYWOOD — This is Hollywood, Mrs. Jones, where liquor is raspberry pop. Tyrone Power was doing some drinking scenes in "Nightmare Alley." By the time the shooting was over, he had swigged some five bottles of raspberry soda water. He asked the prop man for a change of flavor to lemonade, root beer or lime cola, but no dice. Said the prop man:

"We've been using raspberry pop for 20 years and I'm not going to break a precedent."

This is Hollywood, Mrs. Jones, where directors defy the laws of gravity. Gene Kelly and the Nicholas Brothers were doing a leaping dance for "The Pirate." One sequence had Gene and the boys jumping from a high platform, turning a somersault in midair and landing on the floor below. Director Vincent Minelli yelled:

"That's great, Gene, but could you all pause in the air for a second or two—it would be a great camera effect."

20-MINUTE SEASONS
This is Hollywood, Mrs. Jones, where Brian Donlevy has a winter house in Malibu. In driving time they are exactly 20 minutes apart.

Where they have developed a new gimmick—a camera which can be concealed in a truck and can shoot through glass. This means that you may be sitting in a picture theater some evening and suddenly see yourself walk across the screen in some sidewalk scene. It will be used in shooting a new film, "T Man," in which Dennis O'Keefe will be photographed on the streets of New York, Detroit, Washington, Boston, Montreal and San Francisco—and nobody the wiser.

This is Hollywood, Mrs. Jones, where even Christmas trees have stand-ins. They were shooting the picture, "The Bishop's Wife." In one scene a Christmas tree was an important part of the shot. To keep the starrng tree from wilting under the hot lights, the prop man used a stand-in tree of the same size for the rehearsal and switched to the star of the forest when the director yelled, "This is a take."

This is Hollywood, Mrs. Jones, where a police officer stopped Anne Revere — who won that Oscar a couple of years back—and started to give her a ticket for speeding. She gave her name and address and he laughed at her.

"Don't kid me, lady. Movie actresses don't go flying around in jeeps looking like you do in those blue jeans and work shirt. You'll have to think up a better one than that."

PRODUCE THE PRODUCE
This is Hollywood, Mrs. Jones, where the RKO picture, "Rachel," needed a full set of crops, ready for harvest, for location scenes up in Eugene, Oregon. The Oregon crops were just coming along in their early growth. They couldn't delay the shooting, so they brought the mountain to Oregon. The prop man had all crops shipped up from California, two carloads came 1200 miles and then had to be planted. The shipment included three acres of cabbage, 10 acres of corn, full-bearing apple trees and a variety of other produce. And the scene for which this was done will take exactly two minutes in the theater.

Captain Cook sailed around New Zealand in 1769.
