PLO Man Dies

NICE, France (AP)—Zuhair Mohsein, military operations chief of the Palestine Liberation Organization, died today as a result of injuries received in a shooting earlier this week, hospital officials said.

Mohsein, 43, who also headed the Saiqa Thunderbolt guerrilla organization controlled by Syria, was shot in the head Tuesday night as he approached the door of a fourth-floor apartment in Cannes.

Rationing Plan Stalls

WASHINGTON (AP)—Confusion and partisan politics were blamed today by House leaders for the latest congressional impasse over standby gasoline rationing.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and Democratic Leader Jim Wright of Texas said they would try next week to reverse the unexpected setback that brought debate on the bill to a screeching halt Wednesday night.

O'Neill claimed general confusion among the 79 defecting Democrats who backed a Republican-sponsored amendment limiting the president's flexibility to impose rationing.

That, plus a solid GOP vote for the amendment, gave the amendment a 232-187 margin of victory, forcing leaders to pull the bill from floor consideration while they decided what to do next.

Finding Grenades

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)-After surviving a nuclear accident and enduring recurring floods, Pennsylvania's capital city must now deal with a new hazard - hand grenades.

The fourth grenade found in the last two months turned up this week at the city's steam generating facility.

"It's developing into some sort of syndrome," said Richard Vajda, captain of city police detectives.

Energy Debate Continues...

Carter Plan Faces Rocky Road

WASHINGTON (AP)—From most signals President Carter was receiving today from Capitol Hill, it was clear he will need all the help he can get to win passage of major features of his energy program.

"The oil lobby is more powerful than it's ever been," House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., told reporters, moments before the House convened for another full day of debate on energy legislation.

And the Senate Finance Committee began work on the "windfall profits" tax on the oil industry, without which Carter told a news conference Wednesday night, "We cannot reach our energy goals."

Anticipating what he called "a massive struggle to gut the windfall profits tax bill" Carter appealed to the American people to demand its approval.

"Your voice can be heard," said the president. "Your voice must be heard."

The nationally broadcast prime time news conference was Carter's first here since May 29 and he appeared forceful throughout. His upper lip twitched briefly, however, when he was asked if he had thought about taking himself out of the 1980 presidential race.

"I have considered all the options," he reported, "and my decision will be announced later on this year."

Carter had a snappier comeback when a reporter asked about a prediction by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., that the president's problems will force Carter out of the race and hand the Democratic nomination to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

"Three or four years ago I was running for president against Sen. Jackson," Carter recalled. "At that time he predicted he would be the next president, starting in 1977. His judgment was not very good then. And now I am ready for the next question."

During the half-hour session in the White House East Room, Carter defended last week's Cabinet shake-up, declaring, "I have no apology to make for it."

Saying that some have thought he acted too rapidly, he said he felt a need to "create a new team to work with me" and "I had the choice of dragging it out or getting it over, in effect, in 48 hours."

As for criticism of his decision to name longtime political aide Hamilton Jordan to be White House chief of staff, Carter said Jordan will do a "superb job" in an assignment he indicated will have strict limits.

"He will not be chief of the Cabinet," Carter said pointedly. "I will be chief of the Cabinet. He will not be the chief of the Congress. The Congress is an independent body. ... Hamilton Jordan will be chief of the White House staff."

Energy, Housing Push Up Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP)-Another big spurt in the cost of energy and housing pushed consumer prices up 1 percent in June as inflation continued to rage above a 13 percent annual rate, the government reported today.

Soaring price increases for gasoline and heating fuel and a slight rise in food prices kept the Labor Department's monthly inflation measure at 1 percent or higher for the fifth consecutive month.

Through the first half of the year, inflation has been running at a 13.2 percent annual rate. If it continues at that pace for the full year, 1979 will register the highest inflation since immediately after World War II.

The inflation rate continued to take its toll on a typical worker's real spendable earnings, after deducting taxes and taking inflation into account, the Labor Department said.

Spendable earnings of a married worker with three dependents declined 0.8 percent in June, meaning that wages could not quite keep up with the rise in consumer prices during the month. For the 12 months ended in June, a worker's real spendable earnings declined 3.5 percent.

The Labor Department said gasoline prices continued to soar in June, jumping 5.6 percent after a 5 percent rise in May. Those prices have advanced at a 60.8 percent annual rate so far this year.

Similarly, fuel oil prices leaped 8.6 percent in June following a 5.3 percent rise in May. Through the first half of the year, fuel oil prices have been climbing at 70.6 percent annual rate.

The government's index of housing continued to rise steeply for a fifth straight month. Housing prices increased 1.5 percent during the month, home financing costs jumped 2.1 percent and maintenance and repairs rose 0.9 percent.

The good news for consumers was that food prices rose by a modest 0.2 percent during June, the smallest advance in 11 months. Clothing prices declined 0.1 percent and entertainment costs rose by just 0.1 percent, the smallest rise this year.

Sunday Last Day To See Quilt Exhibit

Sunday will be the last day to see the "Warm Memories" quilt exhibit now being featured in the Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College.

The display includes about 55 quilts, some old and some new. All are on loan to the museum especially for this exhibit, and each is identified.

A number of quilt patterns are also available for purchase at a nominal fee for the benefit of visitors who would like to duplicate some of the quilts displayed.

The museum is open each weekday and from 1-5 p.m. on Sundays without admission charge. Visitors may use the West Parking Lot which adjoins the museum.

Football season rapidly approaches, and Texas Tech prepared to enter its fifty-fourth season of collegiate play.

In the half century since its beginning, Tech football has produced its share of heroes, memories and legends. Foremost among those was Pete Cawthon, Tech football coach from 1930 to 1940. During those depression years Cawthon collected 76 wins, 30 losses and 6 ties in season play.

While Cawthon reigned, the Tech team changed their name from Matadors to Red Raiders and became the first major college football team to fly to an intercollegiate contest.

A former player of Cawthon reported that the coach told the team one day during practice to go home and get their dictionaries and look up the word "lose." "When you find it," Cawthon said, "cut it out of the dictionary with a razor blade or some scissors. As long as you play for me, they ain't no such word.

Cawthon's dream of entering Tech into the Southwest Conference was not to be realized until after his tenure as coach, in 1956. Perhaps more than any other group, Southern Methodist University resisted the idea of Tech joining the conference. Dr. Clifford Jones, former Tech Board member and former president of Tech, reportedly told the Methodist Church he would give $50,000 to the church if SMU voted for Tech.

Finally, after agreeing to enlarge the Tech stadium and build up the athletic program in all sports, Tech was admitted to the conference.

The nearly $2 million expansion of the Tech stadium in 1959-60 involved moving the huge east stands 200 feet east. Made up of concrete and steel and weighing 12,500,000 pounds, the stadium sections were moved by rail. The rails were supported by pine blocks and undergirded with steel rollers.

The latest expansion of Jones Stadium involved new splinter-free seats, enlarged office space for the coaching staff and a remodeled press box.

With talented sophomore quarterback Ron Reeves, running back James Hadnot, and an exciting season ahead, West Texas' only member of the Southwest Conference should provide some colorful action in the fall.---SHERI SELLMEYER

25 Inches Rain Reported...

Evacuations Underway At Upper Texas Coast

By The Associated Press

Law enforcement agencies and the National Guard evacuated residents of low-lying areas today as wind-blown sheets of rain drenched the heavily populated upper Texas coast.

Water poured into homes and businesses as remnants from tropical storm Claudette dumped up to 25 inches of rain in the Southeast Texas area.

In Houston, civil defense officials issued appeals for boats and gasoline as hundreds of homes in southeastern sections of the city and Harris County were flooded. The state highway department closed Interstate 45, running north and south, between Houston and Galveston.

Interstate 10, running east-west between Houston and Beaumont, was closed near Channelview, just east of Houston, because of reported washouts. The alternate route, U.S. 90, also had water over it, effectively cutting a link between the two cities.

Sabine Pass, on the southeastern tip of the state, was virtually cut off today as water covered Texas 87 on both sides of the city. It is the only major road running in and out of the town.

Houston police established a command post on Interstate 45 at Sagemont, near Ellington Air Force Base, to dispatch boats to areas where water was reported as deep as six feet.

Entrance roads to the Johnson Space Center, the training base for the nation's astronauts, were flooded.

Rainfall has ranged from 14 to 25 inches in some areas of Galveston, Harris and Brazoria counties since tropical storm Claudette moved ashore to the east Tuesday afternoon.

Gary Lowe Resigns Post At College

Gary Lowe, director of the Christian Student Center on the Western Texas College campus, has resigned to accept a position as minister of the church of Christ in Eden.

Lowe has been Christian Student Center director for the past 2½ years. He came to Snyder from Abilene where he was associated with Abilene Christian University.

Lowe holds a master's degree from ACU. The resignation becomes effective Aug. 11.

The Christian Student Center is supported by the churches of Christ in Snyder. The director also teaches Bible courses and is part of the WTC faculty.

School Mails Out New Ag Tax Form

The Snyder School Tax Office is now accepting applications for tax exemptions on agricultural land.

Ray Peveler, tax assessor collector for the school district, said that forms have been mailed to owners of farm and ranch land in the district. Anyone who does not receive a form may apply at the school tax office at 2901 37th St. through Aug. 15.

The agricultural exemption is provided in new "tax relief" legislation. It permits farm and ranch land to be valued for tax purposes in school districts on the basis of productivity rather than market value of the land.

However, only land that has been in actual agricultural production for five of the past seven years qualifies for the tax exemption.

Taxing entities were given an option of putting the plan into effect this year or delaying it until 1980. The local school board had decided to delay the exemption for a year, but reconsidered after officials of the Scurry County Taxpayers Association advised that some farmers and ranchers in the district could benefit from the new plan if it should be put into effect this year. The exemption becomes mandatory next year.

Ask Us

Q.—What is the purpose of the new traffic signals being installed?

A.—To meet the federal uniform traffic code and provide uniformity of traffic signals throughout the U.S. Going into the uniform code are such things as safety and durability. For example, it is believed that the mast-arm type signal is easier to see and that two signal heads are a safety factor in the case of a failure. Also, the mast-arm type signal is less likely to be hit by a turning vehicle since the base is farther from the intersection.

Jaycees Planning Renovation Of Humble-Smith

Snyder Jaycees have budgeted $18,000, to be raised with projects and contributions, for renovation of the Humble Smith School for Special Children.

The project calls for adding new play ground equipment and a wheel chair ramp, along with refinishing the inside of the school building. New carpet and linoleum, ceiling tile, observation windows and mirrors are planned for the facility.

Other improvements include plans for a bookcase and bulletin boards, a sink, cabinets and paneling.

Humble Smith School, located at 3100 37th St., was named for Humble Oil Company, who donated land for the facility, and Nellie Smith, the school's first teacher, who is now retired.

The school's current curriculum involves an early childhood program for children ages 3-6 years with developmental lags in areas of language, speech or motor development, said Carolyn Hamby, Humble Smith teacher.

In addition to Mrs. Hamby the school has a speech pathologist, diagnostician and two aides.

Humble Smith also houses offices for counselors, reading consultants and the gifted and talented program of Snyder Public Schools.

dual role

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., may encounter some difficulty in retaining his position as Senate minority leader while simultaneously running for the Republican presidential nomination.

Baker acknowledges that "at some point" late this year or early in 1980, "I'm going to have to focus all my attention on the presidential campaign.

At that time, he plans to delegate the day-to-day responsibility for leading the Senate's Republicans to Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, whose title of minority whip makes him the second-ranking GOP leader in the chamber.

But Baker already has been placed in a difficult position by Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., who resigned his position as chairman of the House Republican Conference - the third-ranking GOP leadership post in that chamber - when he recently entered the presidential contest.

Baker says "the precedent of the Senate is to the contrary," citing the cases of then-Sens. Alben W. Barkley, D-Ky., and Lyndon B. Johnson, D-Texas, who ran for vice president while retaining their leadership positions.

But that explanation doesn't fully satisfy Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., who also is a contender for the GOP presidential nomination.

"I like Ted Stevens, but I didn't vote for him as minority leader," says Dole, suggesting that he might try to press Baker to abandon one of his roles.

anybody but kennedy

If Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., decides to seek the presidency in 1980, at least 10 percent of the electorate probably will reject his candidacy because of his personal conduct 10 years ago.

For the second time in less than a year, a national survey undertaken by a major magazine indicates that there is a significant group of anybody-but-Kennedy voters that has neither foregiven nor forgotten the senator's Chappaquiddick auto accident in the summer of 1969.

The most recent poll, commissioned by McCall's magazine and conducted by The Gallup Organization Inc. of Princeton, N.J., consisted of interviews with almost 1,500 adults.

More than one-quarter of all respondents - 27 percent - said they believe Kennedy's behavior during and after the accident is indicative of a serious flaw in his character.

The survey produced a strong correlation between those who said they were not likely to vote for Kennedy if he ran next year and those who believe that his character is flawed or that he handled himself improperly at Chappaquiddick.

When asked specifically if Kennedy's behavior at the time of the accident was an important factor affecting their decision probably not to support him, 11 percent answered in the affirmative.

The results of the McCall's-Gallup poll are strikingly similar to those of a national survey commissioned late last year by Time magazine and conducted by Yankelovich, Skelly and White Inc., a New York polling organization.

Some political observers believe that if Kennedy runs for president, he will be rejected summarily by at least 10 percent and perhaps as many as 20 percent of all voters because of his personal behavior.

Personally, we can think of numerous other reasons to reject Kennedy as a candidate, but it can best be summed up as simply "too liberal."

selling business

Business, especially big business, complains that it is unduly maligned by the media and misunderstood by the public.

Now that is a paradox. American businessmen have proved themselves to be the world's best when it comes to promoting their products.

They have no trouble at all selling us their respective cars, soap powders and panty hose.

They can even stimulate our appetite for such fripperies as gadgets guaranteed to improve your golf swing...

Why can't business sell business?

I have before me a several page release from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

With numbers, charts and diagrams this organization representing American businesses seeks to explain that first-quarter profits which have been called "exorbitant" and "inflationary" are actually down from last year.

There is a lot of good sense in this document. The Chamber's chief economist, Dr. Jack Carlson, has done a good job of explaining the numbers with shirt sleeve English.

And when you add profits and subtract taxes and subtract inventories overvauled by inflation and subtract replacement value of depreciated factory equipment, profits are down the first quarter of this year.

The profits that had appeared to total $2 billion in headlines--actually are reduced to a profit margin of 3.4 cents on what your dollar buys. You pay more sales tax than that!

But who is going to see all these charts and diagrams and fine print explanation?

Possibly some of it will be mentioned in the financial section of your newspaper.

But stand on a street corner and watch the faces in the passing parade and remember that those are the people who need to know in order properly to praise or protest, to vote for or against. And this message is not getting to most of them.

First quarter profits are so low -- and the inflation rate so high -- that it is impossible for many businesses to replace outworn or outdated machinery.

This is reflected in the substantial decline in machine tool orders the first quarter.

Thus per-man productivity is unnecessarily slowed down -- and thus each item produced costs more.

Said another way, if profits were up the inflation rate would be down. Your dollars would buy more than they now do -- if businesses were making enough profit properly to modernize.

But how are you going to sell logic when cheap-shot politicians are making a word "profit" sound profane?

When Auto Workers union leader Walter Reuther used to demand for his members a "share of the profits" of the car companies, I used to chide him that his members did not need a new contract in order to share the profits. All they needed to do was to purchase car company stock.

That way they would share in the profits with higher dividends when profits went higher.

But if employees own a piece of the business -- then they must share in the losses, also. And he was never willing to second that notion.

my turn

by john Long

The intrinsic worth of each and every human being is on the increase. The increase is due to inflation, but the worth that is in us all is rising just the same.

I am referring to our chemicals. The U.S. News & World Report recently reported that the worth of every body is now pegged at $6.50. That's up from the 1956 level of 98 cents.

The $6.50 level reflects the current-day price of oxygen, hydrogen, carbon, nitrogen, and trace elements found in the human body.

While the body's value has increased 563 percent over the 98-cent price 23 years ago, the consumer price index has risen 163 percent over the same period, the magazine notes. Thus, it continues, the value of the body has increased nearly 3½ times as fast as the cost of maintaining it.

That last observation, while probably correct, would be hard to prove by me. If that is the case and the worth of the body has increased faster than the cost of maintaining it, then shouldn't the the food I eat be dirt cheap? Shouldn't the gasoline I buy to drive my body around be even cheaper than food?

It probably should be, but such is not the case.

At $6.50 I am tempted to sell myself out. While it is not much, it is something. I feel that, given a dumb enough buyer, I could snooker him out of at least $10.

I would point out to him that my body has never been seriously abused, that it has no scars, only one mole and no warts. I would point out to him all the advantages in having a body such as mine.

Then, after I had him under my power, I would lower the boom on him. Because with my body goes my mind and personality, and they are no bargains at any price.

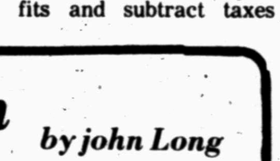

I am perfectly willing to sell myself to someone just to make him think he's gotten a bad deal.

congressional comment

by charles stenholm, mc

WASHINGTON, D.C.— For most of this century agriculture has been a depressed or subsidized sector of our economy. This situation has not occurred because of obsolescence, or poor management, or low productivity as has happened in other ailing industries.

The reason that agriculture has been experiencing difficulties is because the farmer has been encouraged to produce to the point where he more than satisfies the needs of the market. The problem we have been facing most of this century is not shortages - but surpluses. And with surpluses have come less expensive food and low farm income.

We are continually faced with the dual problem of providing for the world's nutritional needs and at the same time insuring an adequate return to our producers. One of the most successful programs that addresses both of these goals is the farm loan system and more recently the grain reserve. This program is administered by the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Farmers can store their produce in government warehouses and receive a loan payment. If the maket prices go above the loan rate, then the farmer can withdraw his crop in an orderly fashion and sell it in the marketplace. If the market price is below the loan rate for a sufficient period of time, then the loan expires and the produce becomes property of the government.

This policy, when administered properly, as is the case recently, can provide a good return to producers and insure an adequate supply to the consumer at a fair price. The cost to the taxpayer is relatively low. Over the 40 year history of the loan program, for every dollar paid out by the government, 90c has been recovered from the market.

Currently the 1980 wheat program is being developed. The Secretary of Agriculture is considering a program which will call for all out production. I have written the Secretary outlining my proposals on this issue. I feel strongly that we should not provide for a zero set aside without adequate compensation to the farmer.

Experience has taught us that too great a level of output will depress prices below the cost of production. I can still recall the effects of the 1974-75 program which encouraged the farmer to produce fence-row to fence-row, and from which we are just now recovering. I fear that just as the American grain farmer is beginning to enjoy relative prosperity, we will produce a record domestic crop which could wreck our market if foreign output increases.

In response to this situation, I am calling for minimum loan prices on wheat of $3.43 per bushel, which will result in a trigger price of about $4.80 and a $6.00 call price. Also the target price should be set near the $4.20 bushel mark, which will allow all Americans to share the risk if we once again over-produce. Farmers have suffered greatly from the high cost and unavailability of diesel and I feel these price levels are justified if we are to ask our farmers for all out production.

Some voices will be raised to say that the prices I have outlined are excessive. But we must remember that in order for a person to stay in business he must receive a reasonable rate of compensation for the services he provides. Food is essential for our survival and the continued vitality of the agricultural industry is important to our economic and defense position in the world. If you eat you are involved in agriculture and agricultural policy.

NEW YORK (AP)—In an economic sense, it began as a good day for the president.

He awoke Wednesday to learn the weakened dollar had gained support in foreign markets overnight, and that support strenthened with his nomination of Paul Volcker as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

Domestically and abroad, the naming of Volcker, viewed in monetary circles as being firm beyond the possibility of political compromise, was considered assurance that war would be waged against inflation.

The stock market moved higher, then got another push from the two big automakers, General Motors and Ford, which reported earnings beyond what Wall Street had anticipated.

Whatever lack of confidence the president sensed in his July 15 address seemed to lift as the day wore on; rising stock prices are an expression of confidence in the future. And the energy problem too seemed to be less of a crisis than it had appeared.

At least some might conclude that from GM's statement that "with favorable prospects for increased gasoline supplies, we expect new-vehicle sales to return to more normal patterns."

Before sales were stunted by fuel shortages, "normal" was at near-record levels.

But politically, it wasn't as good a day for the president.

If Americans fail to support him, he indicated, the energy program could be lost. He pleaded for their help, even after telling them again that they were lamed by a crisis of the spirit.

"There will be a massive struggle to gut the windfall profits bill," he predicted. Without it, most of Carter's program to lessen dependence on foreign oil would be undermined by lack of funds.

Hours earlier, in fact, the president received a major setback to his energy plans when the House unexpectedly approved an amendment to greatly limit his flexibility to impose gasoline rationing.

The president did give his views about the economy and the dollar, but his rhetoric may not have convinced all his critics. The dollar is sound, he said, and "inflation will decrease in months ahead."

But in the view of many money currency traders - corporations, various institutions, governments and individuals seeking to protect assets or add to them - the president's dollar record is poor.

And in the view of many people, domestic and foreign, his continued promises about lower inflation have badly eroded his credibility.

While the dollar strengthened against other currencies Wednesday, some analysts said it did so on news of the Volcker nomination. That and what is called short-covering - speculative buying of dollars in case their value shot up on especially good news out of Washington.

It didn't come.

Wave Syndrome Hair Fashions Take Shape

Its coming was inevitable. Many people predicted it would be dynamic. Now its here - The Wave Syndrome - the national hairfashion forecast designed for the fashionable American woman's entry into the energetic 80s.

Created by the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association's Official Hair Fashion Committee for Fall-Winter, The Wave Syndrome emphasizes waves through advanced perming techniques. Waves are featured over the forehead, over the ears and throughout the entire length of the versatile styles.

The forward looking hair designs join fashion's interest in the shape for Fall-Winter. They are styled to balance the total shapely silhouette.

Alida Weergang, of Nashua, N.H., NHCA Styles Director, describes the Wave Syndrome as being, "Distinctively contoured and easy-to-care-for shapes. The emphatic waves and curls", she says, "create a sculptured, together look that accommodates any fashion choice and any activity. The styling is closer to the head than recent trends and hair lengths are generally shorter, although the Wave Syndrome easily adapts to longer lengths." The Wave Syndrome was designed by NHCA's fall-winter Coiffure Design Committee under the direction of Ms. Weergang.

The Wave Syndrome innovators diligently investigated the direction in which fashion is going, both in this country and around the world. Leading fashion designers contributed their insights into trends to watch during the coming year.

"Wave Syndrome creators," according to Ms. Weergang, "utilized these different concepts to design hairfashions that incorporate the most exciting, wide-spread trends which will be seen across America this fall-winter."

A key to Wave Syndrome fashions is its exceptional versatility. For day, Wave Syndrome's efficient shapes compliment the suits and suit-look outfits that are growing more and more a part of the successful, career woman's weekday appearance. The precision styling, combined with professional perming and conditioning, insure a neat, businesslike impression regardless of how hectic the day may be.

On weekends, Wave Syndrome hair is equally accommodating. Waves and curls relax into more casual shapes. Braids and chignons may give extra control for the most active occasions.

After dark, Wave Syndrome hair will correspond to a woman's most glamorous and feminine moods. Soft curls capture the light and reflect it from a thousand facets, forming a beautiful counterpart to elegant gowns and the bright lights of evenings on the town.

Fall-winter Hairfashion directions for men include a permed, wavy shape that is swept toward the back of the head. Variations can be achieved by combing the hair in a different direction. There is also a bright and very brief shape for men that is designed to compliment masculine bone structures.

In duplicate bridge overtricks are most important. In rubber bridge they aren't worth much, but if you can get one at no risk to yourself it is worth going after.

After the jack of spades lead produced the king from East, South could count nine top tricks.

At trick two he led a diamond to dummy's ace and when East dropped the queen, South was sure of a 10th trick.

How could he get the extra 30 points for five odd without any risk? Obviously East was going to be long in hearts and clubs.

A squeeze against East was the obvious way to get that 11th trick.

So South proceeded to give West a chance to put the bite on his unfortunate partner.

He simply cashed his king and jack of diamonds and led another diamond to West.

West laughed, muttered a sarcastic, "Thank you" and claimed the rest of the tricks.

There was no problem. He cashed his queen of spades, leaving dummy with three clubs and three hearts, his own hand with four hearts and two clubs and East with a hot potato.

East had only six cards. They could not include four hearts and three clubs and South had that 11th trick.

She Cares— And Shares

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N Y News Synd Inc

DEAR ABBY: I was raised to believe that charity begins at home, so I want to ask you what you think about a lady who spends three whole days a week as a volunteer in a nursing home for old people.

She says they need the love and attention she can give them. Well, they have a staff paid to care for those old people. And their families are supposed to give them love. So where does a volunteer who is a stranger fit in?

This lady has a retired husband and a 40-year-old handicapped daughter, and I'm sure they need her at home. What do you think?

T.B. FROM KY.

DEAR T.B.: I think anyone who works as a volunteer three days a week can't be all bad. Nursing homes need volunteers to keep the residents in touch with the outside world and make them feel that they are still a part of the community.

Staffs often are overburdened and some families aren't able to visit often. And, as for the retired husband and handicapped daughter, don't assume that they are being neglected. Chances are they manage nicely without her, and they all appreciate time away from each other.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married 23 years and have two sons, 20 and 18.

The problem in this: My husband and I were married (briefly) to others before we met each other. Both marriages ended in divorce. There were no children involved. We have never told our sons about our previous marriages, but now I have the feeling that we should tell them. My husband disagrees. He says, "It's all in the past and it's best to let sleeping dogs lie."

What do you say?

I'VE GOT A SECRET

DEAR SECRET: I say sleeping dogs have been known to awaken at the most unexpected time to set up a disturbing howl. Tell the boys.

DEAR ABBY: Lenny and I have been married nearly three years. He's 26 and I'm 24. We have good jobs, a car of our own, a neat apartment and no serious problem. However, I do have one mini-problem. I'm curious, suspicious, or maybe I'm just plain nosy. Anyway, when Lenny is in the shower I can't resist going through his wallet.

The last time he caught me he just about hit the ceiling. What do you suppose he has to hide?

SNOOPY

DEAR SNOOPY: Maybe he has nothing to hide; he just resents your nosiness. If you don't want your mini-problem to grow into a maxi, stay out of his wallet.

CONFIDENTIAL TO S.B. IN B. H.: Heed the wise advice of Joseph Zabara, the 13th century Spanish Hebrew physician and poet who wrote:

"Before the trouble comes, advice obtain;
After it has come, advice is vain."

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Mail Privilege Revoked

WASHINGTON (AP)- Question: Until this month, what fringe benefit did 26,000 federal prisoners share with 535 members of Congress and the president of the United States?

Answer: Free mailing privileges.

And who no longer enjoys them?

You guessed it. Since July 1, inmates of federal penitentiaries have been issued five stamps a month for letters to wives, sweethearts, judges, lawyers and the nation's newspapers.

After that, it's 15 cents apiece, with help for those who can't afford it.

Hastening the drastic cutback was a prisoner's presidential campaign and a mailing of 535 mimeographed complaint letters - one to each member of Congress. But the move had long been considered.

"Our postage bill was $800,000 a year. Then some fellows began to abuse the privilege and it went to $1,400,000." said Michael Aun, a Bureau of Prisons spokesman.

They Must Go But When?...

Old Barracks Giving UT Headaches

AUSTIN (AP)—The situation is a familiar one public officials want to tear down peeling, aged housing units while residents say they couldn't afford to move.

But the scene is not in the inner city or along a proposed freeway route.

The landlord is the University of Texas, one of the nation's richest universities with money from private endowments and proceeds from oil and gas leases.

The upset residents are University of Texas students, many pursuing graduate and professional degrees. They live in World War II wooden barracks that were converted to married student housing in 1946.

The Brackenridge and Deep Eddy Apartments outlived the "temporary" status assigned them more than 30 years ago when returning servicemen crowded college campuses.

University officials expected to replace them after 10 years. Two additional brick complexes were built in the 1960s and 1973 but could not accommodate the 569 families already living in the older units.

The barracks' safety continuously has been questioned, most recently by UT Regent Jon Newton.

He told fellow regents in March he was concerned about the buildings' "appalling" appearance and possibly hazardous condition. A study was ordered and discussion of the investigation was on today's agenda for the regents' meeting in San Antonio.

Officials conclude the buildings are firetraps, energy inefficient and increasingly more expensive to maintain.

The study says renovation or replacement would drive rents up too high compared to the $69 to $92 paid monthly for one to four-bedroom unfurnished apartments.

Razing of the barracks is recommended.

"Demolition is certainly a possibility that can't be avoided," university Vice President James Duncan said in June. "Obviously at some point they are going to have to go. The question of when is a whole different question," said Duncan.

Apartment residents organized the Brackenridge Neighborhood Council to fight demolition plans. They obtained independent estimates of modest renovation plans and will present those figures to the regents.

At stake, explains council president Kelly Saenz, is a chance for a degree while raising a family.

"By far the majority would have to drop out," she said if the barracks were gone. The area is a "community" where residents babysit each other's children.

Mary Hitchcock agrees. She is 39, divorced and living with her 15-year-old. Her monthly income is $382, including $100 child support. The rest comes from a parttime job. Rent for her two-bedroom apartment is $86, electricity runs $40 and food about $200 with no meat.

She is studying to be a home economist counselor or extension agent.

"The only way I can return to school is to go to UT with this type of housing," she said. "I don't feel they (apartments) are dangerous. I wouldn't be living here if I did."

Spraying For Grasshoppers Near Finished

WASHINGTON (AP)- The Agriculture Department says it hopes to complete by this weekend a cooperative spraying effort to control grasshoppers in 17 plains and western states.

Officials said Wednesday about 7 million acres of rangeland was scheduled this year, the most spraying against hoppers since the 1930s.

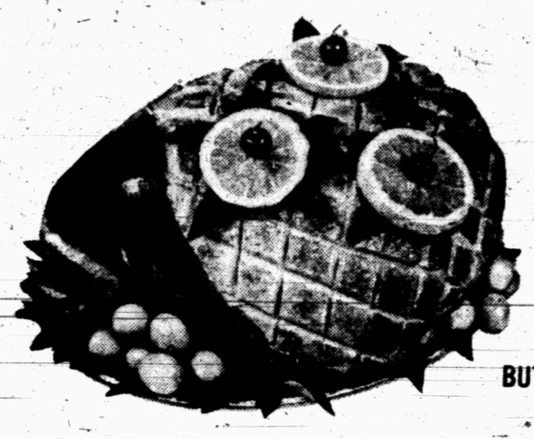

The spraying is still under way in some areas of Colorado, Nebraska and Wyoming but is expected to be completed by July 28, the department said.

At Sportacade...

Powell Grabs First U.S. Gold

MOSCOW (AP)—Two brief days in Moscow, one good throw out of six, and John Powell was on his way home to the United States today with the gold medal in the discus in the pre-Olympic Spartacade Games.

Powell helped the U.S. track and field team to a triple gold medal day in chilly Lenin Stadium Wednesday night, ending the United States' gold-medal shutout.

The former San Jose, Calif., policeman descended on Moscow Monday night and had almost no time to get acclimated.

He was hopelessly off form with his first five throws, and the Americans wore glum faces. Then Powell suddenly clicked. He heaved the discus 206 feet, 9½ inches to win.

"I'm glad someone asked me to come," he said as he headed for the U.S. National Sports Festival in Colorado Springs. "I think I'll come again."

Powell was not the only American winner to procrastinate Wednesday. Henry Marsh of Eugene, Ore., ran last for most of the 3,000 meters, was at least four yards behind the leader entering the straight-away, and then produced a tremendous finishing kick to win the steeplechase in 8 minutes, 28.09 seconds.

The third gold medalist was Wardell Gilbreath of Houston, who led all the way to win the 200 meters in 20.84.

Don Coleman of Eugene, Ore., was second behind Gilbreath, and 18-year-old Carl Lewis of Wilingboro, N.J., finished third in the long jump. So it was a night of glory for the depleted American squad, which had struggled against adversity and failed to win a single gold medal in the first three days of competition.

Powell, 32, was the United States' No. 1 discus thrower for three years from 1973 to 1975. After the 1977 season he retired.

"I didn't even know my gold was the first for the United States," Powell said. "That makes it a double pleasure. Now I'm on my way back, and maybe I will be America's No. 1 again."

Gilbreath failed to qualify for the AAU Nationals.

"Now the gold is starting to come," he said.

Meanwhile, the United States track team looked forward to Friday, when it had another excellent chance to resume its quest for gold.

Sub-four-minute miler Craig Mosbach of Princeton, now at school in Europe, and relay man Cliff Wiley of the University of Kansas were expected to run the 1,500 meters. The first round of heats is set for Friday and the final for Sunday.

Rangers 3½ Games Out...

Jays Jab Texas

TORONTO (AP)—Dave Stieb didn't feel well but the Texas Rangers felt worse when the game was over.

Stieb increased his record to 3-1, with clutch late inning relief help from Tom Buskey, in pitching the Toronto Blue Jays to an 8-3 victory over Texas on Wednesday night.

The loss for Texas, coupled with California's win over the New York Yankees, dropped the Rangers to 3½ games behind the Angels in the battle for the American League West pennant.

"I didn't feel too good, not at all," said Stieb, a rookie right hander who was playing the outfield in minor league baseball just a year ago.

The 22-year-old scattered nine hits over 7 1-3 innings, striking out one and walking three before 24,705 fans. Buskey relieved in the eighth to quell a Texas rally and earn his third save.

"I didn't feel like I had it," Stieb said. "My slider wasn't doing too much of anything. The fastball was decent but I was standing up a lot. It was just chaos tonight."

He had enough, though, to snap a seven-game Toronto losing streak. Stieb also had pitched the last previous Blue Jays' victory and is the lone Toronto starter with a winning record.

Texas had cut the Toronto lead to 5-3 on Pat Putnam's solo homer, his 13th, to lead off the eighth. One out later, Richie Zisk belted a triple but Buskey took over, walking John Grubb and then striking out Jim Sundberg and Eric Soderholm.

Otto Velez and Rick Bosetti both hit home runs and drove in three runs each to key the Toronto offense.

Richard Rockets Astros Past Cubs

HOUSTON (AP)—Although J.R. Richard's strikeout total may not show it, the normally slow-starting Houston pitcher has found it harder than usual to get his high-speed attack going this season.

He has mowed down opposing batters a major-league-leading 174 times so far this year, but the giant right-hander only has a record of 8-11 to show for it.

He was 7-11 before Wednesday night, however, when he blew down 12 Chicago batters while his teammates were banging out 12 hits as the Astros won their fifth game in a row, a 6-4 decision over Chicago.

"Finally, everything was working for me tonight... my fastball as well as my slider and change-up," Richard said.

"It wasn't just one basic pitch that was good, it was my rhythm and my striding, it all came together."

He was devastating through seven innings, allowing just three Cubs to reach base, while his teammates were hitting with abandon and running wild on the basepaths. The Astros stole five bases, two of them by Jeff Leonard, and upped their hit total to 62 in their last five games.

Houston attacked loser Rick Reuschel, 9-7, immediately, scoring two runs in the first inning. Terry Puhl was hit by Reuschel on the ankle and scored on a double by Jose Cruz, who came home when Enos Cabell blooped a single to right field.

Bound For State...

Teens Win!

SWEETWATER--- Colorado City eased into a 1-0 lead here yesterday but it was a short-lived advantage as Snyder's Buffs ripped off a bundle of their own to win the Texas Teenage Baseball District Tournament, 14-1.

Errorless fielding and a two-hit performance by hurler Brent Roemisch bought Snyder the key victory, which advances the Buffs to the State Tournament July 30 through Aug. 2 at Killeen.

Snyder, which swept through the double-elimination tournament here without a scratch, will open state competition Monday at 2 p.m. against a district 6 champion. The winner will play again at 8:30 Monday evening. Loser of the game will battle at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

The Buffs racked up three runs in the second, two in the third, one in the fifth and eight in the sixth to rout the Colorado City squad - a team Snyder had defeated 12-3 Tuesday.

Barry Davis, Snyder first baseman, ripped off three base hits in four times at bat to pace the Buff hitting. Curtis Gafford, Roemisch, David Rios, John Wilson, Tommy Gressett, David Gee and Perry Echols all collected a base hit apiece as Snyder rapped out 10 for the contest. Roemisch accounted for three RBI, while Rios, Davis and Gee garnered two apiece.

Roemisch's two-hit, 10 strikeout performance highlighted a Buffs defensive game, aided strongly by Rios, who snared six grounders for outs from his second base position. Davis collected in another grounder and Gressett, Gafford and relief pitcher Jimmy Cain wrestled down balls from the air.

Eight teams will make up the state tournament field. The tourney will be double-elimination.

The triple American success Wednesday was the first real challenge to Russian supremacy.

Tatyana Animisova led a 1-2-3 Soviet sweep of the women's 100-meter hurdles, winning in 12.90. The top American was Deby LaPlante, who was fourth in 13.13, barely missing a bronze medal when she finished .03 behind Nina Morgulina.

In gymnastics, Teresa Schneider of Minneapolis, Minn., walked out of the competition in protest, and Nelli Kim, darling of the Russians, failed to shake her bridesmaid complex.

Stephenson Resigns As Snyder High Basketball Coach

Jack Stephenson, Snyder High School head basketball coach for the past three years, has resigned to accept another position with a Class 4-A school.

JACK STEPHENSON

"Snyder has been great to me and my family," he commented. "I certainly hate to leave my kids and my program. There are just some things you have to do, and just hope for the best."

Stephenson racked up a 64-37 record with the Tigers, guiding them to a district championship with last season's 28-6 mark.

The Sul Ross graduate had coached at Midland Lee for eight years before coming to Snyder as basketball coach. His record with Lee, as a junior varsity coach, was 210 victories and 104 losses. As assistant to the varsity, he aided Lee teams to district titles in 1974 and 75 (state semi-finals), and tied for championships in 1973 and 76.

STATE COMPETITOR--Tonya Holladay, above, has qualified for the State TAAF Track and Field Meet in Waco this weekend. Miss Holladay will compete in the 50 and 100 dash, and the long jump. Others qualifying from Snyder were Thomas Selmon, Keith Wallace, Morris Anderson, Dale Jenkins, Lloyd Benson and Robert Schooler. (SDN Staff Photo)

Velasquez and Jerry Garza got one each.

"This was one of the best games of the summer," commented Bill Boles, who works with the boys each summer. "It was the first to go into extra innings".

July 18, Mike Ramirez and his team won over the Stacey Alls group, 11-5. David R. Rios belted two homers and scored three runs for the winners while Andy Lopez and Cabillo also knocked a home run each. Cabillo scored twice, and Mike Ramirez, Larry Rodriquez, David Martinez and Lopez scored once.

July 20, the Tony Ramirez crew outlasted Paul Davis and company, 5-1. Valdez and Garza each knocked a homer; Valdez scored twice and Ramirez, Greathouse, and Garza added a run each. For the losers, Sonny Cobb scored the lone run.

VOLLEYBALL

Tony Ramirez's team defeated Stacey Alls and crew 15-13, 15-11.

Ramirez and Richard Guzman served 5 points for each team to lead all scoring. In the second game Valdez served 8 winning points and Jerry Garza served four for the losers.

July 19, Morris Anderson and his won over Pete Willis and troops 15-13, 15-6. Jerry Comstock served 9 for the winners to lead the scoring and Earl Sneed served seven for the losers in the first game. In the second, Comstock served for 9 and Alls got 2 for the losers.

July 21, Jerry Garza and team defeated the Keith Wallace group 14-16, 15-4, 15-10. Bobby Scott served 7 for the winners and Sonny Cobb, 5 for the losers in the first game. In the second, Rene Ramirez served 12 winning points while Keith Wallace added three for the losers. In the third and deciding game, Cobb notched 8 for the winners while Wallace and Clem Rodriquez served 3 each for the losers.

BADMINTON

Ricky Escobedo defeated Jerry Comstock in the finals of day-one play last week, 11-8. July 21, Escobedo again defeated Comstock, 11-6.

"All of the badminton games are being played well with close scores as the members become more adept at the game," said Boles. "Badminton is a relatively new sport at the club."

SHUFFLEBOARD

July 19, 12 members took part in matches with Jimmy Velasquez winning in the finals over Ricky Romero, 84-68.

Other problems

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please send me some information on the menopause? I'm 43 years old and am having pain in the back of my head and neck and I also have aching in my joints. I'm on Sinequan for depression. Most people say that I am too young but others say that I'm the right age. I have three teenage children and work 40 hours per week. My husband had a stroke and is in a nursing home. The doctors found that my heart beats fast at times and I'm on Lanoxin for this. I wake up during the night and can't go back to sleep. This has been happening for about three years.

How long does the menopause last and what can be done to keep from getting depressed? Any information you can send me would help as I can't find any material on this.

DEAR READER — The age of menopause varies. Sometimes it occurs as early as 30 years of age but that's extremely unusual. In other instances it doesn't occur until after 50.

Many of the symptoms attributed to the menopause are a subject of controversy. The only symptom that we know specifically is caused by the menopause is hot flashes with accompanying sweats. These can be relieved by giving female hormone replacement.

Most of the other symptoms that can be caused by menopause can also be caused by other conditions. Your headaches can be from an entirely different cause and may be related to the depression problem that you're experiencing. Waking up at night from sleep can also be part of a depression.

I can see from your brief letter that you have ample reason for an anxiety depression without being in the menopause stage at all. You didn't say anything about your regularity or menstrual history which would be rather important in deciding whether or not you are in the menopause.

So I would just like to caution you against assuming that all of your symptoms are caused by your menopause as opposed to being caused from some of your other problems. I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-12, Menopause, as you requested. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

When you have a depression that's caused by factors other than the menopause, you can't expect female hormones to correct the problem.

Incidentally, Sinequan is a good medicine and is frequently used to help people with such problems. Rely on your doctor to help you with professional advice concerning your depression. If he thinks it's necessary, you might want to have a consultation with a psychiatrist to see if there's anything else that can be done to help you through this difficult period.

Airstrip To Cross Canadian Border

PINEY, Manitoba (AP) — It won't be long before you can land a small plane in Canada and taxi into the United States.

Manitoba Premier Sterling Lyon and Minnesota Gov. Al Quie will mark a unique occasion in aviation history July 28 when they shake hands at a ceremony across the international border. The occasion will be the opening of what is believed to be the only airstrip in the world that runs between two countries.

The idea was born of necessity seven years ago when the state government decided the airport runway at Pinecreek, Minn., had to be extended to 1,000 meters for safe night flying.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

July 27, 1979

This coming year unusual opportunities could come through persons you already know quite well. No matter how strange the tips may sound you would be wise to study them from all angles.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may experience an urge today to gamble on something that's out of your field of expertise. Better think it over carefully before you plunk your money down. Discover with whom you best get along romantically by sending for your new Astro-Graph Letter which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Use no methods today that could make you appear as if you're trying to be a martyr. Do what's expected of you without any dramatic frills.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Through someone else's efforts you could enjoy unexpected gains today. When discussing what occurred, don't pretend you did it all on your own.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Avoid socializing with a pal today who always seems to stick you with the tab. He or she may attempt to pull off this same ploy again.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Achievements may not come as easily for you today as you hope, but don't use this as an excuse for quitting. Second or even third efforts may be required.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Say nothing unflattering about one friend to another today unless that person is there to defend himself. It could jeopardize your relationship.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Someone you know is very curious about a joint venture you're involved in, and may pry a bit too much today. Take care you don't say more than is wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your first decisions are likely to be your best today. If you begin to overanalyze, you could become confused and impede your progress.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It isn't that you won't have the opportunities to be productive today, because good chances will keep popping up. Your indifference will stop you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You could lose out on an unexpected fun invitation today because of shyness. Don't beat around the bush. Accept it happily.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do what needs to be done immediately, instead of making promises to get to the chores later. In your heart you know you won't get back to them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be complimentary rather than critical of those who strive to lend you a hand today. If you fear they can't perform as expected, do it yourself.

ABC Airs Eyewitness Newsmagazine

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It seems, at first, like a scene from a movie. A gritty, shabbily constructed movie.

Then you realize it is some kind of news report from Southeast Asia. The reporter tell us in grave tones that he is about to embark on a dark and dangerous mission. With a thick mustache and wearing a cute kerchief around his neck, our correspondent looks spiffy, and ready for the jungle.

He takes us on an "operation" with a small group of Laotian rebels, reminding us now and then how dangerous it all is. These are real heroes, he tells us. They are carrying on a war with weapons discarded from earlier wars. They will never give up.

There is much walking and running through the jungle, more reminders of the dangers that lurk therein, and a return trip. We never find out exactly what all of this is about, where the "mission" was headed or what were its aims.

No matter though, It looked just swell.

Welcome to Eyewitness Newsmagazine, also known as "20-20." Your reporter this evening - Geraldo Rivera, natty dresser and fancy turner of the snappy phrase. On this particular night, Geraldo ends his segment in the studio, polishing it off with a neat little summation of the whole history of Indochina.

"20-20" is the working man's "60 Minutes." You might have thought that "60 Minutes" was the working man's "60 Minutes." But this is the newsmagazine format brought to the people - flashy, preferably visually exciting bits aimed beyond the heads of no one.

And it is working. Earlier this month, "20-20" was ABC's top-rated show of the week, finishing third, ahead of CBS' "60 Minutes," the prototype of current TV newsmagazines.

It wasn't always so. The first "20-20," last summer, was a fizzle, a kind of mish-mash of entertainment and news, but mostly neither. Then came a period in which it was considered a "special" of sorts, showing up occasionally, getting low ratings, then quietly going away.

Still sold on the idea of a "60 Minutes"-type show, ABC brought in its news fixer, Al Ittleson, to make "20-20" work. Ittleson, you may not be surprised to learn, had earned high marks with the network by spreading the Eyewitness News philosophy among ABC's local stations across the country.

"20-20" lacks the polish and restraint of "60 Minutes," but that may just be a matter of gettings its legs. Since the show went weekly in May, "20-20" has had some very interesting segments, including an informative piece on Skylab and an interview though rather sloppily presented with businessman William Niehous shortly after his escape from Venezuelan kidnapers.

And while "20-20" may not have the class of "60-Minutes," or even NBC's "Prime Time Sunday," it does have the best dressed jungle adventurer on TV, and some really nifty pictures. Trouble is, you can't color them in.

Says AFL-CIO Official...

Labor Faces Challenge By Business Community

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)-Organized labor faces a determined assault by business on prevailing construction wage laws and must get tougher in its political activitiy, a national AFL-CIO official says.

Thomas T. Donahue, executive assistant to national AFL-CIO president George Meany, addressed the Texas AFL-CIO convention on Wednesday.

He predicted a continued attack by business on prevailing wage laws and said the activity "represents guerrilla warfare against workers and decent working conditions."

Prevailing wage laws prevent contractors on government jobs from paying workers less than the wages normally paid in a community. A bill to repeal the Texas law died in this year's legislature only after thousands of "hard hats" thronged the Capitol in protest.

Donahue said opponents of the prevailing wage law talk of holding down costs, "but the real goal is not economy but busting unions."

The convention of delegates from 1,000 union locals, representing some 265,000 union members, began Wednesday and runs through Saturday.

Delegates are expected to re-elect Harry Hubbard as president and Joe Gunn as secretary-treasurer without opposition.

Donahue recalled that last year's "Labor Reform Act" was killed by a U.S. Senate filibuster after a move to cut off debate failed by a single vote.

"We probably spent $6 million to $8 million on that effort," he said.

Donahue said with irony that labor should have "an honor roll of COPE-endorsed senators" who voted to let the filibuster continue. COPE is the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education, which endorses candidates and funnels labor money into political campaigns.

He named five senators who he said were endorsed by COPE but voted against shutting off the filibuster: Dale Bumpers, D Ark.; Lawton Chiles, D-Fla.; Richard Stone, D-Fla.; Howard Cannon, D-Nev.; and Howard Zorinsky, D-Nebraska.

The labor bill would have made it easier for unions to organize workers in non-union factories.

"We need to be even tougher in giving support to candidates and in supporting the candidates we endorse," Donahue said. "We need to take a harder look than in the past at those who say they are our friends.

...The lesser of two evils should not be good enough for us any more."

Hubbard urged the 1,500 delegates to donate or pledge $200 apiece toward supporting labor-endorsed candidates in the 1980 Texas elections.

Building trades unions quickly donated or pledged $26,640 toward labor's political kitty.

Cattle Inventories To Increase, Report Says

WASHINGTON (AP)— Farmers and ranchers have continued to reduce their cattle inventories but there are further signs in a new government report that a long-awaited rebuilding effort is well under way.

The Agriculture Department said Wednesday the July 1 inventory of cattle and calves was 118.5 million head, down 3 pereent from 121.7 million a year ago.

One USDA official, noting an increase in the number of heifers retained as herd replacements, predicted that "we'll see an increase" in beef cows for breeding next year.

The analyst also said that for greatly different reasons related to marketing patterns the retail beef supply will edge up next year from the reduced 1979 level.

Cattle producers, troubled by depressed market prices, trimmed herds for four consecutive years since the inventory peaked at a record of 132 million head Jan. 1, 1975.

Last Jan. 1, the inventory was down to 110.9 million head, the smallest in a decade and 16 percent fewer than the peak just four years earlier.

The mid-year inventory is normally larger than the Jan. 1 number of cattle on farms and ranches.

Cattle prices began rising sharply about 18 months ago, reaching record levels this spring before leveling off. This has encouraged producers to gradually rebuild their breeding herds.

However, for the longer term, it will take at least several years before the rebuilding produces a significant increase in retail beef supplies.

Eldon Ball, a livestock economist in the department, said the July 1 inventory of 118.5 million was slightly smaller than the 120 million he had expected the survey to show.

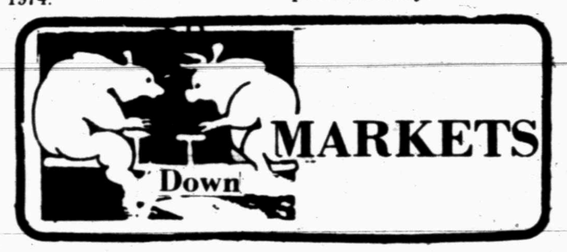

But Ball said the new report helped confirm earlier indications going back into the last half of 1978 that farmers and ranchers have been keeping heifers as replacements for breeding herds.

The July 1 inventory showed beef replacement heifers at 5.78 million, an 8 percent increase from a year ago. Total beef cows, at 37 million, were down 2 percent from a year ago, however.

By Jan. 1, he said, total beef cow numbers - the animals that produce the calves for future slaughter - are expected to be on the increase.

Meanwhile, the 1979 calf crop is expected to show a further decline of 1 percent to 43.5 million head from 43.8 million born last year, the report said. Including the current crop, calf production has declined for five straight years after peaking at a record of 50.9 million in 1974.

Red-Faced Black Bear On The Prowl

PHILLIPS, Wis. (AP)—A red-faced black bear is prowling Wisconsin's north woods - and the coloring is caused by mud, not just embarrassment.

While keeping two Department of Natural Resources foresters treed for two hours recently, the 250-pound beast spray-painted his face crimson when he bit open a paint can and rolled in the mess.

The foresters, David Bailey and Roy Gilge, both 29, were spray-painting the boundaries of a DNR timber sale in the Flambeau State Forest here when the bear appeared.

The bear wandered off eventually and the men made a dash to their pickup truck.

"We didn't think we would get out of the woods alive to tell the story," said Gilge.
