YEAR'S COTTON CROP SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Government Report Announced in Full

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 5.—Details of Secretary Hester's annual report on the commercial cotton crop of 192-1922 were announced in full here today. He puts the total of the commercial crop of 1921-1922 at 11,653,133 bales, an increase of 275,817 over the crop of 1920 21, and a decrease under 1919-20 of 790,047 bales. Secretary Hester says the commercial crop of Texas is 942,000 bales under last year. The group of other states embracing Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Missouri, Arizona, California, Kansas and New Mexico, have decreased 396,000, while the group of Atlantic states including Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Kentucky and Virginia have increased 1,614,000 bales.

The report points out that the average grade of the crop was middling, and that a feature of the year's production is that it was one of the most even running growth on record. This is accounted for by the rapidity of picking and ginning.

Mr. Hester has made an extensive investigation into the character of the carry-over, his inquiries being of date about July 15. He says Texas has little non-descript cotton and that there were practically no "bollies" in this year's crop. Oklahoma has been pretty well combed of everything below strict low middling to middling white values, and the supply remaining in that state is good spinnable cotton showing a higher average in grade than at any end season for the past 10 years.

Louisiana has little or no unmerchantable cotton. Arkansas reports not over 1 per cent of unmerchantable cotton. Mississippi reports most of its carry-over of fair grade spinnable action and the Atlantic states show a very small percentage of undescribable descriptions.

The report places the exports of cotton to foreign ports at 6,322,470 bales, against 5,797,500 last year and 6,588,091 year before last, an increase over last year of 524,880, and a decrease under the year before of 265,621 bales.

RAILROAD HEAD DIES OF STROKE

James E. Herbert Drops in Auto

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 5.—James M. Herbert, president of the St. Louis Southwestern (Cotton Belt) railroad, died here late this afternoon in his automobile in which he was returning from the local American's game. Death was due to apoplexy.

Mr. Herbert was discussing the ball game when he suddenly became ill and fell into the arms of one of his friends. Up to that time he had appeared to be in good health.

Mr. Herbert's death occurred on the day of the sixth anniversary of his coming to St. Louis as president of the railroad. He started his career as a railroad telegrapher when 18 years old, and after a few years was made chief train dispatcher of the Wabash railroad on the Litchfield, Illinois-St. Louis division. He became a protege of the late Charles M. Hayes, president of the Wabash. Following Hayes death in the Titanic disaster, Herbert came to the Iron Mountain as general superintendent in 1912, and later to the Southern Pacific as general manager.

And Boston "Laffed"—What Will Harding Do The Kansas Tide—Herrick Passes—

MARY AGNES VITCHESTAIN told ten thousand pious Bostonians that they were going to hell by the thousands every day and that their brains wouldn't save them. Mary is a fourteen year old evangelist and an ordained minister. She told the back-bay aristocrats that they were motoring the road to hades, that they were a bunch of deluded fools, that they were as blind as bats in the night, that Boston is following the devil's garbage wagon of materialism and that jazz is materialism set to music. And educated, refined, cultured, Mayflowered and puritanical Boston "just laffed." Mary must have appropriated her sulphurous remarks from one of the Rev. J. Frank Norris' earlier sermons. If Boston is on the road to hell, where is Chicago going to land?

NOW PRESIDENT HARDING has been told that he should exercise his national emergency power and place all the railroads and all the coal mines of the country in the hands of federal receivers. This would lead to railroading and mining by order of the federal judiciary and if necessary federal judges could direct the appointment of ten million deputy marshals to run the trains and to man the mines. Theodore Roosevelt successfully handled strikes and strikers. Woodrow Wilson found a way but neither Roosevelt nor Wilson found it necessary to place the railways and the coal mines of the republic in the control of the federal judiciary. Regardless of this it is a public demand that the trains shall run and the fuel consumers of the country demand that the mines shall be reopened and production resumed. There is a showdown of some sort coming.

GOVERNOR HENRY J. ALLEN of Kansas candidate for governor by a scant majority. All the Stubbs republicans voted against the Allen industrial court candidate. It was a close shave for Governor Henry J. To make it interesting the democrats of Kansas have nominated a candidate for governor who agrees with William Allen White that the industrial court is a menace to free speech and an assassin of a free press. There is going to be an industrial and political blowup in Kansas in the near future. Kansas is an agricultural state. Progressive or radical republicans have prevented the coming of non-partisan organizers but the tide is rising and the North Dakota disciples are on the way.

Railroad to Link Panhandle and Gulf Once More Seems Probable

By Associated Press.

SEYMOUR, Baylor County, Texas, August 5.—A railroad to the plains again is being agitated here, following the conference between Colonel C. H. Powell of Chicago and the Seymour chamber of commerce.

R. M. Fielder of Tulia secretary of the Texas Panhandle & Gulf railroad association and John Sharp, president of the First National bank of Turkey, Hall county, were with Colonel Powell.

Powell is known here as a Chicago capitalist in touch with financial interests in the east. He has been interested in the plains railroad project for sometime. He first became acquainted with the need of such a route back in 1920 when he made a trip throughout this section. It was at this time that he employed the firm of Wallace &Noonan, first engineers of the Panama canal project, to make a survey. Meanwhile Mr. Wallace died and now Noonan with a party of engineers has started on the actual survey.

The engineers began work at Cap Rock and are expected to reach Seymour within two or three weeks. President O. P. Caldwell of the chamber has appointed a committee to give the engineers any data they may require about the territory.

Complete organization of the new rail project will be perfected before a permit from the interstate commerce commission will be asked, according to Powell.

The Texas Panhandle & Gulf, as the road would be known, would extend from a connection with the G. T. & W. at Seymour to Crowell, Paducah, Turkey, Silverton, Tulia, Dimmitt, Texico, Farwell and Tucumcari. With a connection established here, the G. T. & W. would run on into Fort Worth and a connection would be established there for several trunk lines between the Gulf and the Pacific coast. A shorter route would be established from the Texas plains to the center of the state while an eastern outlet would be made for the famous Dawson, N. M., coal.

TWO VIEWS ON MEANING OF LATEST MEET

Opposing Factions in Strike See Victory

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Both sides in the rail controversy today claimed to see impending victory in the conference of national officials of the engineers, trainmen, engineemen and firemen's unions and B. M. Jewell, head of the shop crafts, with federal executives at Washington.

The eastern strike committee interpreted the conference as proof that equipment of the railroad was becoming so unserviceable as to justify engineers, firemen and trainmen in protesting that the lives of crews and passengers were being endangered by its continued use.

Rail chiefs, as represented by Robert Binkerd, vice chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, characterized the Washington session as "the workings of strike psychology and labor politics."

Neither side predicted what would be the result of the conference and both maintained they would continue unabated their separate efforts to bring the strike to an end—strike leaders, by "bringing the railroads to their knees and rail chiefs by hiring new men until the power of the striking crafts is disintegrated.

Several roads reported that the coal situation has become so serious as to almost overshadow the shop crafts strike.

Prohi Boss Goes After Canadians

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—British Columbia "isn't going to play bartender to the state of Washington much longer," Prohibition Director Roy C. Lyle declared.

"The liquor supply from Canada is doomed," he explained. "Either British Columbia is going dry or the export houses which supply liquor to the states will be put out of business. Either way we win."

Fascisti Muster At Headquarters

By Associated Press.

ROME, August 5.—Shortly before 10 o'clock a bugle call was sounded in the center of the city as a signal for all members of the Fascisti to muster at their headquarters. The Fascisti leaders decided to issue the call because they fear a new proclamation of a general strike.

AIN'T WE GOT FUN?

Chicago flappers in a five-ton "rolls rough" on their way to work when the street car strike forced the adoption of heroic transportation methods.

Some king sometime or other said, "My kingdom for a horse," but said king had nothing on Chicago workers who went him one better when the street car srike started. "My job for a truck, roller skates or a pushmobile," was their paraphrase. And they got to work, too, most of them on time, for employers report that the time clocks clicked just as merrily as usual. The striking carmen are helping out by running jitneys.

GAINS MADE BY PROHIS

Wheeler Elated at Election Results

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The claim that gains are in prospect for the dry forces in both the senate and house as the result of the primaries held to date, was made tonight in a statement issued by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the anti-saloon league.

"Seventeen states, not counting Kentucky, have held primary elections," said Mr. Wheeler. "Thirteen United States senators have been nominated in 12 states, two nominations being made in Pennsylvania. Nine senators have been renominated, seven of whom have stood for prohibition enforcement and two against it. Of the four new nominations, all stand for enforcement of the 18th amendment.

"In the 17 states, 188 congressional districts have nominated candidates. One hundred and sixty three congressmen have been renominated, of whom 128 have voted for prohibition enforcement legislation and 25 against it. Of the new nominations about one third are considered wet or doubtful."

REED GETS LONG VOTES

Victor Assured of Support

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, August 5.—Following state-wide reports that the anti-Reed democrats were considering placing an independent senatorial candidate in the field to oppose United States Senator James A. Reed at the general election next November, State Senator Frank Farris, one of the most ardent backers of Breckinridge Long, who was Senator Reed's opponent for the nomination at last Tuesday's primary election, tonight sent Mr. Reed a telegram assuring him of his support.

INCUMBENTS IN KENTUCKY RE-ELECTED

By Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., August 5.—Early and scattering returns from the seventh and ninth and tenth congressional districts indicated that the incumbents in those districts had been nominated by their respective parties in today's congressional primaries.

Representative Langley, republican, was leading Cess Whittaker, the "jailed jailer" of Letcher county by approximately 900 votes on scattering returns from three mountain counties.

Ferguson and Mayfield Renew Senatorial Race

Ferguson Lays Aside Wet Platform to Fight Mayfield on Ku Klux Klan Issue

By S. RAYMOND BROOKS
Austin Correspondent

AUSTIN, Aug. 5.—Former Governor James E. Ferguson laid aside the light wines and beer plank of his first primary campaign for the United States senate in his San Marcos speech before 900 persons this afternoon, as the paramount issue of the run-off primary, and declared his fight upon the ku klux klan surmounted all other questions involved.

He admitted many of the charges of his previous speeches, but added others against Earle B. Mayfield, his opponent, and re-asserted charges against the personal and public prohibition record of Mayfield.

Cancels Speech

Ferguson announced he has cancelled his Monday speech at Corpus Christi because he is compelled to attend the democratic executive committee meeting in Dallas, before which a motion has been filed, he charged, by a "Brown sugar lawyer of San Antonio, to exclude his name from the second primary ballot."

He charged Mayfield was behind the act because "he was afraid to let the people have whom they wanted for senator."

Ex-Senator T. H. McGregor of Austin will subsitute for him in the Monday speaking date, he stated.

Ferguson coupled the names of his opponent and Billie Mayfield of Houston, together and declared he would take his stand with Senator T. W. Davidson, lieutenant governor aspirant, and go before the people on the klan issue alone.

"Prohibition can be disposed of later, after klan candidates have been disposed of, and perpetuity of the government assured," the ex-governor declared.

Prohibition and Low Rail Rates Are Issues Mayfield Stresses in Speech at Gainesville

Special to the Record News.

GAINESVILLE, Aug. 5.—Earle B. Mayfield, candidate for U. S. senate, confined his speech here last night to three issues—the transportation question, a condemnation of the proposed repeal of the national prohibition law in order to permit the sale of wines and beer, and the urgency of wines immigration for two years by congressional legislation.

"The high rail rates prescribed by the interstate commerce commission at Washington paralyzed traffic and proved ruinous to the farmer," Mr. Mayfield said. "No hope for substantial and permanent relief may be expected from the interstate commerce commission, as that tribunal refused to allow Henry Ford to lower rates on his own railroad for fear that rates might be forced down on competing lines. The people's only hope of relief is through congress. The Esch-Cummins law must be repealed and the rate-making powers restored to the state commissions. My candidacy is dedicated to that undertaking."

Against Light Wine and Beer.

"To amend the national prohibition law so as to permit the sale of light wines and beer would undo what it has taken the prohibition forces of the nation 50 years to accomplish," he declared. "Instead of weakening the federal prohibition law, we should strengthen it and redouble our efforts to enforce it. I therefore favor a change in the penalty for violation of the Volstead act. The first offense for its violation should be made a felony. When the bootleggers learn that the first violation of the prohibition law means a term in the penitentiary at Leavenworth, they will surely seek a new line of business."

I. & G. N. May Get Charter

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Aug. 5.—Announcement as to whether a charter will be granted to the reorganized International and Great Northern Railway company will be made early next week, Attorney General Keeling stated at the close of a conference today with S. B. Dabney and Walter Woodut of Fort Worth, representing the railway company. Judge Nelson Phillips of Dallas also was present at the conference and protested granting the company authority to move headquarters to Houston from Palestine.

Hope for Final Tariff Vote Soon

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, August 5.—A final vote on the tariff before September 1 is hoped for by republican and democratic leaders under the operation of an unanimous consent agreement entered into today by the senate. While the agreement fixes no date for a vote it provides for sharp curtailment of debate and disposition before next Saturday of all amendments to the more important sections of the bill still in controversy.

The agreement was entered into as a compromise and was approved in the midst of debate on the sugar schedule.

Doolittle Ready For Long Flight

By Associated Press.

JACKSON, Fla., Aug. 5.—Lieut. James M. Doolittle completed preparations today for the start Sunday night of his proposed one-stop, one-day flight across the continent.

Weather conditions along the route permitting, the aviator is to hop off from the edge of the Atlantic coast at Pablo beach, 18 miles east of here at 9 o'clock and with a brief stop at Kelly Field, San Antonio, Texas, Monday morning for fuel, he expects to arrive at San Diego, Calif., approximately 2,200 miles from Jacksonville, Monday evening.

PEACE MOVES IN CAPITAL OPENED AGAIN

Harding Starts New Conference for Settlement

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Negotiations to end the strike of railroad shopmen were resumed today by President Harding, B. M. Jewell, president of the railroad employes department of the American Federation of Labor, W. L. Johnston, president of the machinists, and J. P. Noonan, head of the electrical workers brotherhood, left the White House after an hour of conference with the chief executive, expecting to be recalled on Monday.

It was not disclosed whether the president had communicated again with railroad heads whose refusal this week to grant his proposal to give returning strikers back seniority status terminated the first settlement attempt, but the strike leaders said after the conference that the proposals, as originally outlined by the president, constituted their "irreducible minimum in seeking honorable settlement."

H. E. Wills, J. Paul Stephens and Arthur J. Lovell, representing respectively the engineers, trainmen and engineemen and firemen saw the president and presented the possibility that grave prospects of further rail unsettlement were in sight unless the shop situation was straightened out.

It was understood that while they did not set up a possibility of sympathetic strikes by their membership, they declared that railroad equipment, locomotives particularly on many roads was growing to be such that train crews might refuse service.

Raid on Still Starts Shots Flying

By Associated Press.

CISCO, Texas, August 5. — E. A. Merritt, member of a sheriff's posse, is suffering from bullet wounds and Paul Denison is in the custody of officers as a result of a shooting which took place today when the posse set out to raid a still alleged to have been located on Denison's farm five miles west of here.

Armed with a search warrant, the posse, headed by Deputy Sheriff Livingston, were on their way to Denison's place when, it is reported, they were met by Denison, who was ordered to halt. Denison is said to have opened fire, wounding Merritt. The latter's condition is not serious.

3 PER CENT LAW IS EFFECTUAL

Immigrants Held Out Of Country

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The three percent limitation immigration law has proved an effectual bar against any overwhelming movement of immigrants from southern and eastern European countries to the United States, Secretary of Labor Davis announced today in making public a survey of immigration figures for the fiscal year just closed.

The figures made public show that northern and western European countries had fallen far short of filling their quotas while southern and eastern countries of Europe were sending just as many to America as would be accepted.

A summary of the immigrants admitted during the fiscal year which ended June 30 showed that the following countries sent to this country 100 percent of the quotas allowed them under the three percent law:

Belgium, Greece, Hungary, Italy, Luxemburg, Poland, Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, Palestine, Turkey, Syria, the miscellaneous European and Asiatic countries, Africa, Australia and New Zealand. In contrast with these nations the countries of northern and western Europe in some instances, it was explained, sent less than one-half of the number permitted under the quota law.

Germany sent 28 percent of its allotment, Sweden 43 percent, Norway 48 percent, the Netherlands 66 percent and France 75 percent.

New Sculling Champ Crowned

By Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5—Paul V. Costello, of the Vesper Boat club of Philadelphia, today was crowned American amateur champion in the Golden Jubilee National regatta when he beat Hilton A. Belyea, of St. John, N. B., champion of Canada by five feet in a gruelling struggle. Costello's time was 7 minutes, 22 1-5 seconds.

Walter M. Hoover, diamond sculls hero and national champion of last year, did not defend his title, although he was present and took part in an exhibition with Jack Kelly, world's retired sculling champion.

100 Or More Injured In Missouri Pacific Crash Near St. Louis

Fort Worth Flier Telescopes Four Coaches of Local at Sulphur Springs, Mo., Boy Scouts On Return From Summer Camp Numbered In List of Victims; Identification Difficult

2 A. M. BULLETIN

More than sixty persons were killed and about 100 injured tonight when fast train No. 4 of the Missouri Pacific enroute from Fort Worth, Texas, crashed into the rear of a local passenger train known as No. 32, at Sulphur Springs, Mo., 28 miles south of St. Louis.

Four rear coaches of the local were telescoped by the fast train and went crashing down into a ravine, about ninety feet below the tracks, a tangled mass of steel and wood from which came the cries of the injured and the dying.

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5.—From 35 to 40 persons were killed and at least 60 injured when Missouri Pacific fast train known as No. 4, crashed into a local passenger train at Sulphur Springs, 26 miles south of here, at 7:30 o'clock tonight, according to an official bulletin issued by the Missouri Pacific here shortly before midnight.

Most of the injured, it was said, were boy scouts who were returning from their summer camp at Ironton, Mo., about 100 miles south of the scene of the disaster. The names of the dead are not known, and many are said to have been so badly mangled that identification would be almost impossible.

Relief Trains Rushed

Relief trains from here, Poplar Bluffs and DeSoto were sent to the scene of the wreck, carrying all physicians available from the towns and cities along the route. The relief train from Poplar Bluffs was manned by union men now on strike, who offered their services when the report of the disaster reached that town.

Because of the confusion and the debris, the relief work was greatly hindered and only slowly could the injured be taken from the wreckage. Among the first of the dead to be taken from the demolished coaches were Rev. V. O. Penley of DeSoto, Missouri Miss Irene Moon of Festus, Mo., and Engineer Glenn.

One of the coaches was thrown into a creek which runs along the track and was completely demolished.

The fast train was enroute from Fort Worth, Texas, and the local from Poplar Bluffs.

At midnight the following bulletin was issued by the Missouri Pacific office here.

"About 7:20 p. m., train No. 4, engine No. 4312, in charge of Conductor Greig, Engineer Glenn, struck rear end of No. 32, in charge of Conductor J. A. Long and Engineer Goss, while No. 32 was taking water at Sulphur Springs, telescoping four rear coaches on No. 32 train and derailing No. 4's engine.

Engineer Glenn on No. 4 killed, and Fireman E. Linsley badly injured. No other casualties on No. 4. Last reports indicate probably 35 or 40 killed on No. 32 train and about 60 injured.

4 RUN-OFFS ON STATE TICKET

Complete Election Returns In

Special to The Record News.

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 5. — Complete, unofficial returns from the Texas democratic primary election of July 22 tabulated by the Texas election bureau show Ferguson defeated Culberson for second place in the senatorial race by 27,309 votes and that Mayfield received 32,000 more votes than Ferguson. The results in all other races were accurately forecast by the incomplete returns announced earlier. Totals follow.

United States Senator: Charles A. Culberson, 103,989; James E. Ferguson, 131,308; Robert L. Henry, 44,439. Earle B. Mayfield, 163,940. Clarence Ousley, 63,295. Cullen F. Thomas 89,682.

Governor: W. W. King, 22,013; Pat M. Neff, 332,961. Fred S. Rogers, 203,313. Harry T. Warner, 60,036.

Differences in the vote are accounted for in part by the fact that correspondents failed to report on some offices and in some counties names of candidates were omitted from ticket because they did not pay ticket fees.

Four Run-Offs

There will be four run-off races in the state ticket, Mayfield and Ferguson go into the second primary for senator, Davidson and Mayfield for lieutenant governor, Garrett and Terrell for treasurer, Beedy and Marrs for superintendent of public instruction.

Hertzberg and Cunningham will go into the run-off for congress in the fourteenth district, and Blanton and Calloway in the seventeenth.

Rezet Trains Rushed

Rail Men Ask More Safety

By Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Aug. 5. A conference to "prevent further fatalities to our membership on account of defective equipment and armed guards in shops and yards" is asked in a telegram sent to President Harding tonight by E. H. Fitzgerald, president of the brotherhood of railway and steamship clerks, freight handlers, station and express employes.

Mr. Fitzgerald in making the telegram public through The Associated Press, stated he had instructed J. J. Forrester, national legislative committee of the brotherhood in Washington, to arrange a conference with President Harding Monday to lay before him all the details in the situation.

The invitations were sent to E. J. Manion, of the telegraphers, E. F. Grable of the maintenance of way men; D. W. Helt, of the signal men of North America and J. G. Luhrsen of the American Train Dispatchers association. Mr. Fitzgerald stated he had already received acceptances from Mr. Luhrsen and Mr. Grable to attend the meeting.

The five organizations represent approximately 800,000 men.

TO MUCKER READERS: WRITE A LETTER FOR $10

With the beginning of "The Mucker," favorite newspaper serial which has just ended in The Record News, this paper offered three cash prizes $10, $5 and $3 for the best letters submitted on the story.

The offer was made to interest readers in the story. Already a number of letters have been received. However, the contest will not close for a week yet. If you read "The Mucker" more than likely you got some lesson—some unusually helpful thought from it—write this thought in 100 words and send it to the editor of The Record News. For the best of these letters $10 will be awarded the author and for the second best $5 will be awarded and $3 for the third best.

GLENN E. PLUMP IS DEAD. He was a native American. He was born in an Iowa village. He was educated in the schools and colleges of America. He became a lawyer, always on the side of the people. He was for years one of the leaders of the Chicago bar. He was the general attorney for sixteen rail organizations and the author of a plan to give rail employes a portion of the profits. In brief his plan was nationalization with control vested in directories comprising the public, the executive staffs of the lines and employes equally represented. His plan was indorsed by railway unions and the Plumb plan league organized to urge its adoption. Glenn E. Plumb was a masterful man, a forceful writer, an able lawyer, an advanced thinker and a life-long democrat. He never held political office. He practiced his profession and when he wasn't in the court room, he was studying the economics of his country and evolving plans which would do away with strike and blacklists and give the people a voice in the directing of railways as well as the employes a share of their profits. He was a practical dreamer. There was never an idle moment in his life. His plan was hooted by those who represented the old order of things. His economic views were ridiculed but his great ability as a lawyer was never questioned. He was on the firing line with a well defined program before the congressional farm bloc was born. Now there are any number of senators and congressmen who are far in advance of the views enunciated by Glenn E. Plumb four years ago and the republican nominee for senator from Iowa, Col. Smith W. Brookhart, is for government ownership of the railways. Plumb is dead; his program isn't dead. All the railway employes in the country, deep down in their hearts, are for it. Organized workers are for it and should the farm labor combination ever get control of the American congress they are going to attempt to put it over.

Brandeberry Gets Fine Fish Trophy

O. Brandeberry received his trophy of Medina Lake yesterday.

A beautiful six and one-half pound bass, mounted and colored with his natural tints was expressed to him by a San Antonio taxidermist.

Mr. Brandeberry made the catch last month while a member of the party which returned with numerous stories of wonderful fishing and recreation.

The trophy is now on exhibition in the window of the Little Sporting Goods store on Seventh street.

The fish is a companion to that of his brother, F. E. Brandeberry, who took one weighing seven and one-half pounds on the day following.

Fascisti Invade Italian Town

By Associated Press.

ROME, Aug. 5.—Two hundred and fifty fascisti, coming from Tuscany by train, suddenly invaded Civita Vecchia, an ancient seaport town today in answer to a socialist challenge. After an exchange of revolver shots, the police and government troops succeeded in putting the invaders on a train and starting them homeward. Several persons were wounded on both sides.

The Fascisti also occupied and destroyed the chamber of labor building and the railway men's club at Mestre demanding the resignation of the socialist officials of the municipality.

We're Never Too Old to Learn

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Mrs. A. P. Crawford of Greensboro, N. C., has entered Columbia university summer school at the age of 71 because she thinks there is no need to grow old mentally.

Fifty years ago she was graduated from Vassar college. Now she is the mother of six, three of them school teachers.

Comparative literature and a course in radical, conservative and reactionary tendencies in present day morals are the subjects Mrs. Crawford has selected. She says the flappers don't study as hard as the girls of half a century ago, but they acquire a more intelligent outlook.

UNION MEN WILL DISCUSS ELECTION AT LABOR MEETING

Wichita Falls union men more than likely will endorse candidates in the county and state races at a general get together meeting Wednesday, 8:30 p. m. in the main auditorium of the labor temple.

The election and the railroad strike situation will be fully discussed at this meeting, according to officials of the trades and labor council last night.

Members of the railroad organizations, as well as all other union men are invited to be present and take an active part in the discussions. No candidates for any offices will be present. A special invitation has been issued to the women.

DRY SPEEL HURTING CROSBYTON COTTON

Special to the Record News

CROSBYTON, Aug. 5.—The threshing of wheat is about over. The yield was varied. Some favored fields where the rain was plentiful the yield was 30 to 35 bushels, but take an average the yield will probably be around 16 or 17 bushels.

The continued dry weather is seriously hurting the feed crop and some cotton is showing signs of damage; however, there will be quite a lot of cotton made in this territory.

Wichita Farmers Need Rain Badly

Wichita county cotton farmers are badly in need of rain, according to reports from the farms, and unless rain falls within a few days the cotton crop will be seriously damaged. If rain should fall within the next few days the farmers expect to make a good yield as the hot dry weather has kept the boll weevil from showing up. With the cotton market up and going higher, Wichita county cotton farmers hope to hit the market with their staple when it is at its best.

Demand for Space At Fair Growing

There is a strong demand for space at the Texas-Oklahoma fair, according to those in charge and the merchants' exhibits are expected to be among the best ever seen in Texas. The space is being sold at a reasonable rate and not nearly so high as space at other fairs, which fact alone is making it a very attractive proposition to those who are going to exhibit, it is said.

Bag Worms Menace Shade Trees Here

Wichita Falls residents who have shade trees are making war on bag worms, which for a while threatened to destroy the foliage on the trees. The worm pest has been checked by spraying, it is said. There are many pretty shade trees of various varieties in this city and civic organizations all are advocating that more shade trees be planted. Because of the fertility of the soil many different kinds of trees will grow here, which gives the property owners a wide range from which to select.

Many Sightseers Visiting Wichita Irrigation Site

Work on the Wichita irrigation project is attracting a great deal of attention just now and it is said that a day hardly passes but what sightseers visit some parts of the project. Just at this time the project does not show up anything like it will in a few months, engineers say, but the work is going on at a rapid rate and those interested in irrigation projects can get a great deal out of the work done so far.

The Hotter It Is, The Cleaner Your Refrigerator Should Be

When we deliver to the housewife pure ice and keep her refrigerator going, when we see that our drivers give her correct weight and are careful in their work, our business obligations are discharged, but not our interest in her family's health. We feel that we owe it to our customer to show them how to get the most benefit from using ice, how to save waste, how to keep the refrigerator clean and cold. The inside should be washed at least once a week with cold water and soda; then rinsed in clean water and thoroughly dried.

A single drop of milk will develop countless bacteria, start infection if the temperature permits. Keep the ice chamber full. Bacteria cannot breed in cold air and of course food keeps better.

OIL MEN WILL CHECK DRILLING

Agree to Wait For Better Prices

Steps towards a systematic curtailment of drilling operations in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, were taken at a meeting Friday of oil producers at Tulsa, when a call was issued for a meeting Aug. 12 to be held in Tulsa, to be attended by operators from all over the mid-continent field.

At Friday's informal meeting the operators present voiced unanimously the strong feeling that all unnecessary drilling should be stopped immediately, and that independent operators should buy or build a tank for storage of their oil.

Published reports having stated that there is an overproduction in the mid-continent field and some of the purchasing companies having complained of a lack of storage facilities and of the onerousness of the burden of buying and storing oil at a price at phich the producer can afford to operate—there being rumors of a curtailment of pipe line runs (whether well founded or not—the men at this meeting considered that the time had arrived for the producer to take the matter into his own hands and perform both a public and private duty, to-it:

First: Cut out unnecessary drilling absolutely and at once.

Second: Each producer buy or build a tank for the storage of his own oil—and do it now.

Thus will the alleged congestion and certainly wasteful market condition be corrected. At least the producer is going to step out and do his part. All this to the end that the oil may ultimately be produced and marketed in an orderly manner and the refineries supplied with oil as, if and when needed.

The slogan adopted at the meeting is: "Buy a Tank."

Wildcat Will Be Drilled at Dean

The derick is up and preparations under way to start drilling on a new wildcat, near Dean, on the Hawthorne ranch, and west of the Petrolia field. The test will be drilled by W. C. Riddle of this city. It will be put down to a depth of 2,500 feet if necessary, it is understood.

S. L. & S. CUTS TRAIN SERVICE

12 Passengers to Be Taken Off

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 5.—Twelve passenger trains on the St. Louis & Southwestern railroad will be discontinued effective Sunday, T. H. Lawrence, general passenger agent of the road, announced late today. Shortage of fuel and mechanical labor was the reason for the discontinuance, Mr. Lawrence declared.

The trains to be discontinued are Nos. 1 and 2 between Texarkan, Dallas and Fort Worth; Nos. 101 and 102 between Mt. Pleasant and Waco and Waco and Gatesville, Nos. 401 and 402 between Tyler and Lufkin, Nos. 501, 502, 503 and 504 between Corsicana and Hillsboro, Nos. 201 and 202 between Commerce and Sherman.

Mixed Service.

Mixed service will be provided between Hillsboro and Corsicana and between Waco and Gatesville, Mr. Lawrence announced.

The Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad anounced resumption of trains Nos. 25 and 26, train No. 25, leaving Waco Monday and No. 26 to leave Galveston Tuesday, connecting with through trains from St. Louis to San Antonio through Dallas. Randolph Daniels, assistant general passenger agent of the road, announced that improved conditions in shops and roundhouses affected by the shopmen's strike made possible the resumption of these trains.

Weight Law Is Being Violated

AD CAPITAL NEWS .....

AUSTIN, Aug. 5.—The state law requiring the sale of products under markings showing net weight, and prohibiting charging a customer for the weight of the wrapper, is being violated by both retailers and wholesalers, according to W. W. Sanders, chief clerk of the markets and warehouse department.

MARSHALL COME HOME

Former Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall and Mrs. Marshall on board the Aquitania.

If the great American bankers would take hold of the European exchange it could be corrected. This is the opinion of Thomas R. Marshall, former vice-president of the United States, who recently returned with Mrs. Marshall from a three months' vacation trip to Europe. Mr. Marshall seemed in rather poor health upon his return home, but said he was returning to Indianapolis by way of Washington and, if he carried out his plans, would stop and see Woodrow Wilson.

YANKEE GOLF TEAM PICKED

Will Oppose British Entries

By Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 5.—W. C. Fownes, Jr., captain of the committee on selection, announced here today the personnel of the American team which will play a British team on the national golf links course at Southampton, L. I., Aug. 28 and 29. The committee, composed of R. A. Gardner, Chicago; W. A. Vanderpool, New York; J. D. Standish Jr., Detroit; Francis Ouimet, Boston, and Mr. Fownes, named the following noted golfers to uphold the American colors:

Bobby Jones Jr., Atlanta; Jesse Guilford, Boston; Charles Evans Jr., Chicago; Francis Ouimet, Boston; R. A. Gardner, Chicago; Jess Sweetser, New York; Max Marston, Philadelphia, and W. C. Fownes Jr., Pittsburgh. H. R. Johnson, St. Paul, Minn., and Rudyard Knepper, Sioux City, Iowa, were named alternates.

The British team, composed of Bernard Darwin, Roger H. Wethered, Robert Harris, Cyril J. Tolley, W. P. Torrance, C. V. L. Hooman, Colin Calmer, John Cavan, W. Willis Mackenzie and Angus Hambro, captain, sailed for the United States Aug. 3, Mr. Fownes said.

The play at Southampton will be Scotch foursome, 36 holes on Aug 28 and singles on Aug. 29.

Many Accidents On Chicago Streets

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—The fifth day of the street car strike was marked today by six deaths and scores of injured in traffic accidents attributed to the congestion caused by the paralysis of electric transportation.

With the companies compromise 70-cent wage offer accepted by the union leaders and recommended to the strikers for acceptance at a meeting to be held tomorrow and a resumption of service expected on Monday, automobiles continued to meet the emergency successfully.

No cause is known for the trouble between the men.

SILK WELL MAY MAKE 400 BBLS.

Will Swab Out at Present Depth

Drilled three feet into the sand, and standing ith 1900 feet of oil in the hole, the Silk-Bullington-Clark No. 1 Burk Burnett ranch in Carson county is expected to prove a better well than the Burnett No. 2 of the Gulf, a short distance to the north, and the first well in the Panhandle, according to advices to the owners here. An estimate as high as 400 barrels has been put on the well by representatives of the owners, W. W. Silk said Saturday.

Preparations are being made to swab the well at its present depth, Mr. Silk said, the owners being inclined to "let well enough alone" for the present. The Gulf well is drilled five feet into the sand, the thickness of which has not been tested.

The sand was picked up at 3070, at approximately the same depth, allowing for surface conditions, as in the Gulf well. The hole is reported in good shape with a sring of 5 3-16 set through to the sand.

AKIN WINS IN FINAL MATCH

Consolation Play Is Finished

Henry Akin defeated Preston Beck Friday 6-1,6-3,6-2 and took the consolation prize of the Record News tennis tournament. The games were well played on both sides, but the outcome was never in doubt. Akin showed rare form and smashed the ball to the four corners of the court with expert skill. His net play was especially good and from tis position he directed the attack that made the match an easy win.

The first set found Beck starting weakly. Akin played hard tennis and took points at will. Only one game, the third, went to Beck in this set. Akin won all his serves and was playing almost perfect tennis.

In the second and third sets Beck put all he had into the game and made a better showing, but it was evident that he was outclassed. In these sets he took five games. His lobbing game was working well and kept Akin at the back of the court much of the time, but he was unable to handle the hard serves put over by his opponent and the match went to Akin in three sets.

The prize for this event is the choice of any tennis racquet in Noble-Little's hardware store. The winner will receive his prize within the next few days.

Spiking 'Em

By "SPIKE" COOPER

Spudder fans wafted days and days for the inevitable to happen.

Waiting is nerve racking, but the final victory is so much sweeter whe nfinally achieved.

Jim Galloway led his faithfuls, alias "the million dollar ball club," led them down "Peacock alley" before more than than 7,000 fans yesterday and as a result, flop went the Cowtown herd in a 5-5 contest.

'Twas sweet music to Spudder ears when they heard "Slim" Davenport poured it on 'em, and whittled 'em down another notch.

Still further changes in the relative positions of the three clubs now on top are apt to be made, within the next four days.

And the fans enjoyed a game that was hard to get into the system. Ohio street merchants arranged to get the game play by play at the accustomed place in the second story of the Hines building.

Jimmie Maxwell started as announcer, but gave way when Jack Daly, favorite umps of the present season, showed up. It was not unusual to hear Jack calling balls and strikes, or "he's out," but to see him standing in a second story window doing it was somewhat out of the ordinary. He seemed to work naturally from the window (but he's not a second story man, even though he's been accused of that on the field many times.)

Yes, Jack called the game, and the several hundred fans who lined the streets appreciated it.

Just a regular fellow, that's all.

The Cubs have many followers over the country, and many in Wichita would like to see the success of the season rest with them.

The Chicago entry in the older circuit is now playing a difficult role.

The Cubs are up there and fighting, but they're somewhat handicapped.

Bill Killifer, boss of the team, lost his mother in a fatal auto accident last week, but the boys have kept their spirits up and going just the same in his absence.

Killifer is one of the most popular managers in the league this year and his team is fighting with and for him. The boys sorrowed at the message that told of the accident, but stayed in there for him while he returned to his old home to lay his mother to rest.

Art Weiss, sole member of the Spudder hospital crew, is a game fighter.

He was moved from the hospital to the club house Thursday and saw the Spudders cop their 16th straight game from a window.

He has a bad ankle and it will be some time before he's back in the game again, but he's fighting just the same.

Many a fan has regretted the fate that took the youngster out of the game just when he went down, but the friends are going to stick by him all the stronger because of it.

Scribe Kahn of the San Antonio Express journeyed here with the Bears on their recent trip.

Coming directly from Fort Worth, Kahn stated he heard stories of the Spudders and their fans, that a game couldn't be taken here without a gun, and not with one, unless it be a young cannon.

His club dropped four games here, but on the eve of his departure, Kahn said he felt he owed the Spudders and their fans an apology, which he had held for them until coming to see for himself.

Kahn made the emphatic statement that he'd never seen cleaner and better fans, both to their own club, the visitors and the umpires. He also signified an intention of making the same speech in Fort Worth as he returned home.

Thanks, Kahn, the Spudders and all their fans appreciate your stand.

In all probability, all of the Spudders except Bob Bescher failed to see a baseball Friday, when the off day struck, but Bob just couldn't stand the gaff.

There were a bunch of youngsters, 10 years old, staging a game out behind the park, and Bob weakened.

He likes the kids and he likes baseball. Nuf sed.

And the same goes for Dallas, (they haven't copped yet.)

Dallas needed some ball players and "managed" for them. The rumored trade included three Beaumont players, but —— there were two separate trades. One a cash outlay, the other a "swap" to be consummated before October 15, according to reliable sources.

Yes, the Yanks are trying to buy a pennant, but so is Dallas.

'Tis well and good when a sport scribe sees fit to boost the club of his metropolis, but there is such a thing as going too strong on prima facie evidence.

No longer than 10 days ago, Dallas papers broke forth with wild stories of a "million dollar ball club," the "pride of peacock alley."

Maybe they are, and it's too early in the season to foresee their success, but the same week, a stinging "column" story came forth, panning the Yankees unmercifully for the Dugan trade.

It seemed all right for the Dallas club to pull the strengthening deal, but the Yanks were criticized for buying a pennant, (which they haven't yet.)

Coal Mined as Guards Stand By

By Associated Press.

STAUNTON, Indiana, Aug. 5.—The final coal loaded under Governor McCray's plan of production for state use under state troops was piled into a car at a strip mine here today while armed militiamen stood by. While only one car was filled today, about 50 tons, it is expected that Monday real production will begin and that a few days later a thousand tons a day will go out of Staunton. No coal was dug today. That which was loaded on the car had been stripped loose by union miners before the strike. It was shoveled up into the cars, even this having been impossible until the governor sent troops. About forty carloads of loose coal is lying around the mine and by the time it is loaded there will be a full force of imported workmen actually digging coal.

SEABRIGHT NET MATCHES CLOSE

Thrilling Play Marks Last Day

By Associated Press.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., August 5.—A 26-minute match in which Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory defeated Miss Leslie Bancroft, and a stirring four set in country which ended in victory for Norris Williams and Watson M. Washburn over William M. Johnston and James O. Anderson marked the closing today of the Seabright invitation tournament.

The victory of Molla over the West Newton, Mass., girl gave her a second leg on the Seabright singles cup. The score was 6-1, 6-2. Miss Bancroft was never able to advance against the national champion's smashing attack. Johnston and his Australian partner were defeated by the 1921 American Davis cup doubles team, 8-10, 8-6, 9-7, 6-3. Johnston always was the most aggressive player. His volley smashes and cross court drives were a sensation. Anderson was in poor form, repeatedly driving into the net and out after Johnston had made brilliant placements.

Mrs. May Sutton Bundy of Los Angeles and Jean Borota of France won the final in the mixed doubles from Mrs. Mallory and Dean Mathey, 6-3, 6-2.

STRIKERS MAKE CARNIVAL PAY

Will Probably Net About $1,000

Although the strikers' carnival was hastily arranged, it was a success from every view point.

Receipts for the first two nights defrayed the entire expenses, leaving the receipts from the large Saturday night crowd as clear profit, according to officials in charge of the show who estimated that more than $1,000 would be netted as a result of the enterprise.

Planned on Saturday and opened the following Thursday was the speed with which the crafts worked. All the arrangements were made by local committees and all work at the grounds was donated by the strikers themselves.

In addition to free carnival acts, all the concessions were clean and orderly. Large crowds thronged the grounds on each of the three nights, and no disorders of any kind were reported.

The pavement dancing proved the most popular of the attractions and at times, the enclosure was taxed to capacity.

Wichita Getting Tourist Traffic

Clerks in local hotels say there are more tourists passing through Wichita Falls now than ever before.

Registers show guests from every state in the union, and many in groups signify parties making the trips to and from the mountains, or the sea shore.

One clerk stated that 90 per cent of his guests checked out each morning, but the rooms were all filled again before midnight.

Being situated on the Colorado highway, practically all the tourists from central and south Texas pass this way en route to the snow clad peaks of Colorado and Wyoming, while many residents of that portion of the United States seek an outing on the gulf and pass through here en route to Galveston and Corpus Christi.

Maybe Wichita Falls isn't one of the widely famed summer resorts, but it is sharing the prosperity of them just the same.

Collier and Landon's Store Is Remodeled

The interior of Collier & Landon's sporting goods store has been remodeled and refinished.

Carpenters and painters finished their work last week and the stock has been rearranged whereby more floor space and display room has been added.

"Increased business" was the answer given by Mayor Collier, when asked the "why" of the change.

New racks for golf clubs and baseball goods have been added as fixtures, and more shelving has been arranged along the wall formerly occupied by individual booths.

Just another sign of Wichita Falls prosperity.

Crowds Throng City But Police Are Idle

The largest crowd of the summer season thronged the downtown district last night, but despite the many pedestrians, there were no accidents and the police had practically an idle night. One drunk and one man was charged with vagrancy, was the police roll up to midnight.

The fire on Scott street attracted many, and since the blaze was only half a dozen blocks from the theater section, a crowd of at least 2,000 rushed to the scene of the fire.

Former Wichitan Returns for Visit

Joe Meyerscough, formerly of Wichita Falls, but now a resident of Mexia, returned last week for a visit and short business trip.

Mr. Meyerscough was connected with a local bank for several months before moving to Mexia, where he became associated with an oil company. He expects to remain here for several days before returning to his present home.

Common Sense About Eczema and Eruptions!

Here's Something About S. S. S. That You'll Be Glad to Hear.

You might just as well know it right now,—the cause of skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, boils and so on, is right in the blood. There is no getting away from it. Science has proved it. We prove it. You can prove it.

When the cause of skin troubles and eruptions is in the blood, it isn't common sense to simply treat the skin. A bottle of S. S. S. will prove to you what is happening in your blood. S.S.S. is a scientific blood cleanser,—it drives out the impurities which cause eczema, tetter, rash, pimples, boils, blackheads, blotches and other skin eruptions. When these impurities are driven out, you can't stop several very nice things from happening. Your lips turn naturally rosy. Your eyes sparkle, your complexion clears. It becomes beautiful. Your face looks like that of a prosperous, ruddy, well-fed, refined gentleman, or if you are a woman, your complexion becomes the real kind that the whole world so adpires. S.S.S. is also a powerful body-builder, because it builds new and more blood-cells. That's why it fills out sunken cheeks, bony necks, thin limbs, helps regain lost flesh. It costs little to have this happen to you. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical

CHARMING FROCKS FOR MIDSUMMER WEAR

By ELOISE

Dinner and dance frocks may be all important in the winter season but the afternoon costume takes the lead in the summer time. There are several types of afternoon costumes from which to choose. The sweater and skirt outfit is one of the most popular. Printed crepe de chine frocks and all white costumes are a close second with dotted Swiss in light colors and voiles coming in for a good share of notice.

Here are three costumes which have been approved by women of fashion for afternoon wear. At the left is the sweater outfit. This model, however, is a bit different from most skirt and sweater combinations because of the unusual sweater blouse worn. It is made of orchid brocaded silk knit fabric. It is a slip-over model with a V-neck and a wide fringed sash which ties at the side.

A pleated skirt of orchid crepe and a white hat completes the costume.

The vogue for printed crepe de chine is followed by the dress at the right. It is a plain, straight line model with a long loose blouse, loose side panels and slashed sleeves. White silk binds the edges and covered buttons form the only trimming. A flower trimmed picture hat and milady is ready for any afternoon affair of midsummer.

Apple green and white is the color combination of the frock in the center. Although designed for summer wear this frock combines wool and silk. Green trelaine makes the long straight line frock. White silk makes the triangular front panel and white georgette makes the huge pointed sleeves which are trimmed with bands of the trelaine. Trelaine is one of the new fabrics of the season. It is somewhat like jersey with an angora finish. The long velvet tie is a Paris idea.

Radio Concerts Planned for Fair

C. H. Verschoyle, secretary of the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association has made arrangements with the Dallas municipal broadcasting station to broadcast two radio concerts each day, one in the afternoon and one in the evening during the Texas-Oklahoma fair. The concerts will go out over the full distance of the Dallas station and will be splendid advertisements for the Texas-Oklahoma fair. The concerts will be picked up at the fair grounds for the benefit of the crowds.

NEW WELLS EXPECTED IN SOUTH ELECTRA

Grisham No. 2 Texhoma, Panhandle and Hockaday and Shaw all are due to come in within the next 24 to 48 hours in the southwest Electra field, according to reliable information Saturday. The Grisham No. 2 was bailing Friday night and Saturday, it is said. All these wells are in a territory that is being watched with keenest interest by oil men and if they should all come in from the pay sand it means the opening up of a considerable extension to the field.

Whiteker Gets 12 Exhibits for Fair

B. M. Whiteker, exhibit man for the West Texas chamber of commerce, who has been here two weeks working in the interest of the Texas Oklahoma fair association in getting up exhibits, has returned to his home in Stamford. Mr. Whiteker secured the promise of 12 county exhibits for the fair here. The fair association directors expressed their appreciation of his work.

KIWANIANS URGED TO ATTEND MEETING

Julian Bobo, in the weekly Kiwanis letter concerning the regular meeting Monday noon at the Kemp hotel, urges a large attendance at that time in order that a "better report may be made at the district convention" which will be held at Galveston in September.

The Kiwanians are planning to send a large delegation to the district meeting, it is understood, and are urging large attendance at the Monday meetings until that time in order that proper arrangements can be formulated.

Ralph Peterson will give the attendance prize this week, the weekly letter announces, while Homer Sanderford will contribute the "silent boost."

LEON R. PATTERSON WEDS IN BALLINGER

Leon R. Patterson who is connected with the Lewis oil company but who formerly was with the Manhattan oil company here, has been transferred to the Dallas office of the company. Mr. Patterson left Thursday for his new home, going by way of Ballinger where he was married to very pecular young woman of that city.

Judge Marrs Bans Open Cutouts Here

According to Judge J. P. Marrs, it is dangerous to run an automobile in the city limits with the cutout open.

The person taking the chance usually runs into open court.

Yesterday morning he fined a defendant charged with that kind of an offense a total fine of $5.

Four speeders arrested by Melvin Johnson were fined a total of $40.

ORGANIZATIONS AID HELPLESS FAMILY

Down in "No man's land," that section of the city where campers are often found, there was discovered last week a family.

They were needy and destitute when members of local charitable organizations discovered them and their circumstance.

The father, suffering internal injuries, a mother with her new-born babe, and three other small children were "camping" as best they could.

But it's different now. The Salvation army furnished groceries, milk and ice daily, while a Red Cross nurse makes a daily visit to the family.

These institutions are working together with the municipal welfare board and many needy cases are now under their care and treatment.

Wichita Falls isn't so bad after all.

NEWS NOTES OF MOVIELAND

Would you ever recognize this Japanese doll-faced little girl as our own Connie Talmadge? It is Connie as she looks in her newest picture, "East Is West," taken from the very famous stage play of the same name. With her jet black bangs and her tight little pig tails Miss Talmadge looks far different from her own bobbed-haired self, but quiet as charming as ever.

The Talmadges are all out on the coast now and "Peg" Talmadge, mother of the three girls, is building a large mansion where she wants to house Natalie and Buster Keaton and Buster, jr., together with herself and Connie. Norma will have her own establishment but it will not be very far from Ma Talmadge and the girls, you may be sure of that.

NAMING THE BABY

Harry Millarde and his wife, June Caprice you remember, talked it all over before Harry sailed for Europe to direct "If Winter Comes." If the baby is a boy, said June we will call him after his father Harry Millarde the second, but if she is a girl, added Mr. Millarde we will name her June Caprice Millarde.

Constance Talmadge

And now the baby is here, and a girl, and she is June , not June Carprice, however, but June Elizabeth, both names after her mother. Both mother and daughter are counting the days until Mr. Millarde returns from Europe to see the young lady who will play the leading role and perhaps do the directing in the Millarde home in the future.

FOR THE BOOK LOVER

It occured to "Ma" Talmadge the other day that the waiting world ought to know all about the life history of the Talmadges, so she took her pen in hand, if you please, and straightway started a book. Originally she intended this as a sort of a diary, and was going to have mimeographed copies made to be presented on Norma's anniversary, to each and ever member of the family, but lo and behold, Henry Bee, a keen publisher, heard of Peg Talmadge's first literary effort and asked to see the manuscript. He liked the first ten completed chapters so much that without waiting to see the rest of the book his answer was to mail Mrs. Talmadge a contract, and the book will be published in December, under the title of "The Life Story of the Three Talmadges," by Margaret Talmadge.

It will undoubtedly make an ideal Christmas gift for the movie fan.

Oil Cuts Check Operations Here

Drilling operations have fallen off considerably since the last cut in crude came, according to T. L. Coplin, deputy supervisor in the railroad commission service. Some persons were trying to rush permits through before the price cut came have indicated that they are in no rush for permits now, Mr. Coplin said. If continued cuts in prices come Mr. Coplin expects to see a decided fall off in drilling activities. He said Saturday that the decrease in drilling since the last cut in crude amounts to about one-third.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE GRANTED CHAPMAN

Ernest Chapman, charged with theft and with having received and concealed stolen property valued at over $50, was found guilty by a jury in the 30th district court late Friday and was given a suspended sentence of two years in the state penitentiary.

Chapman was tried before Judge H. R. Wilson in connection with the alleged theft of goods and articles claimed to have been taken from an apartment house on Grace street. He was arrested by city officers together with two women and another man, who later escaped.

MRS. HATFIELD SABINA, OHIO

In Pitiable Condition When She Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sabina, Ohio.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness and irregularity. I was weak and nervous and could hardly stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal. I was this way for about a year and had tried several medicines and had a physician, but to no avail. My sister was taking your medicine and finally induced me to try it. I now feel fine and can do my housework without any trouble at all. You can use this letter for the sake of others if you wish." — Mrs. WELDON G. HATFIELD, R. R. 3, Sabina, Ohio.

Housewives make a great mistake in allowing themselves to become so weak and nervous that it is well-nigh impossible for them to attend to their necessary household duties.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken when you first notice such symptoms as nervousness, backache, weakness and irregularity. It will help you and prevent more serious trouble.

Producers Creamery Co.

Open for Business Monday Morning

This organization is composed of 35 of the leading dairymen in this section. Every one of them is interested in giving you pure, high quality milk at the lowest possible cost.

We have purchased the plant of the Milk Products Company on Pecan street with the entire equipment. This plant is thoroughly modern in every respect from the receiving room to the office.

THE PLANT HAS BEEN COMPLETELY OVERHAULED

Our first act after purchasing this plant was to put it in first-class condition. The machinery was overhauled and placed in perfect condition, the entire plant was scrubbed and repainted and now is as clean and sweet as the most particular housewife's kitchen.

From the receiving room, clear through the entire plant the milk is handled by machinery and is never exposed to dust, flies or other possible means of contamination.

The dairy cans are thoroughly cleaned and sterilized each day to insure the milk being received in the cleanest possible manner. All bottles are washed and sterilized in a patent washing machine with a capacity of 12,000 bottles daily.

Every precaution is taken to insure the product of the Producers' Creamery Company reaching the consumer in the most sanitary condition. Two thousand two hundred gallons of milk will be handled daily from the dairys furnishing milk to the company and this amount will be increased soon.

Pure Aerated Milk

The entire quantity of milk received daily from the dairys is passed through highly perfected machinery that completely clarifies and separates it, thereby insuring only pure, first quality milk.

Pasteurization

Complete equipment for treating milk with the Pasteurization process is a part of this plant. This process entirely removes the possibility of any bacteria and lengthens the life of the milk.

BOTH AERATED AND PASTEURIZED MILK AVAILABLE

Our wagons will supply you with either the raw milk which has been thoroughly Aerated and sterilized or the Pasteurized milk as you prefer.

Regular Wagon Service For Customers

The members of our organization will continue to serve their former customers daily and be in an even better position to give perfect service.

Experienced Dairy Man In Charge

Mr. R. M. James, owner and operator of the Hillside Dairy, will be in active charge of operation of the plant and will personally supervise all details.

KANRED WHEAT HAS BEST YIELD

Farmers Find It Best By Test

A total of ten reports made to M. B. Oates, agricultural agent of the Fort Worth & Denver, concerning the wheat crops of the northern belt show that Kanred wheat has a stronger yield through this section than does any other variety planted this season.

The survey concerning the strength of Kanred was recently made by Agent Oates practically covering the north Texas belt, and it was his surmise at that time that Kanred would be the best producer of the various varieties planted. However, to insure his opinion, the agent left cards with the numerous farmers he visited, these being filled out and returned to him, ten of which arrived at his office yesterday.

The reports show for the most part that the land on all the farms was prepared at the same time and in a similar manner. The land is further shown to be of an equality, except that on the farm of Ernest Schur, at Vernon, he having reported planting his soft wheat on his best soil, while Kanred, with a better yield, was planted on the poorest soil the far matforded.

Kanred Yields Best.

With but one exceptian, Kanred is shown in the reports to have led the yield. This exception occurs on the B. O. Smith farm at Iowa Park, and is the result of 30 acres of Kanred wheat having been planted in November and proving a poor yield. His "nagive" wheat was plowed in August and sowed in September, giving a yield of 10 bushels per acre on 65 acres, with an average test of 57 to 59.

Mr. Smith, the reports show, did not cut his Kanred, the yield was so poor.

A summary of results found on the other nine farms however, shows Kanred in the lead. This summary foiolws.

Obe Wall planted 43 acres of Kanred on his farm at Medicine Mound, obtaining a yield of 26 bushels per acre, testing 62, while 80 acres of Miracle wheat yielded an average of 20 bushels, testing 60.

Tom Machen found that 50 acres of Kanred yielded an average of 14 bushels, with a test of 60, while Turkey Red planted on 100 acres of land under similar circumstances yielded 8 bushels and tested 59. Fulcaster wheat which he planted on 50 acres of land, yielding 8 bushels and testing 60.

Test at Vernon.

Ernest Schur of Vernon obtained a yield of 35 bushels per acre from 63 acres of Kanred wheat, while from 20 acres of soft wheat planted on his best land he received only 20 bushels per acre. No test was taken in this instance.

O. Burkhalter of Seymour planted 17 acres in Kanred, receiving 19 bushels per acre yield, while a similar yield was obtained from 9 acres of Turkey Red. Both tested 60.

B. C. Guthrie of Seymour, his report indicated, obtained an average yield of 6 1-4 bushels per acre from 16 acres of Kanred. This wheat came up in March. No comparison on his farm was possible, in view of the fact that he planted only the one variety.

J. W. Elkins of Red Springs, Baylor county, received 16 1-2 bushels average from 34 acres of Kanred, which tested 61. From his Turkey Red he obtained 13 1-4 bushels as an average from 60 acres planted, this wheat testing 59.

E. C. Knox of Iowa Park obtained an average yield of 7 bushels of Kanred from 60 acres, with a test of 56, while 120 acres of Mediterranean tested 46, yielding 1 1-4 bushels.

Carl Stokes of Oklaunion received 10 1-2 busheisp er acre from a 240-acre patch that tested 59. His report indicates that he planted no other variety.

Building Boom Is Expected in Fall

Unusual building activity for the early fall is being anticipated by local architects and contractors. Many people who have anticipated building homes for some time are planning to build this fall, it is said. Costs of material are now down to prices where home builders can not hope for them to go much lower and the final cost of home building is said to be such that many people who have been waiting several years to build homes are now planning to take that step.

EGG INSPECTOR STOPS LOSSES

Says Fertile Eggs Should Be Barred

Flocks of laying hens with which the roosters are permitted to run produce a type of egg at this season of the year that is highly susceptible to the processes of incubation, when not properly refrigerated.

Inspector Rowlett, recently appointed egg examiner, to act in conjunction with the Retail Merchants' association, by the city council, makes this observation following one week's inspection of the eggs placed on market here.

The inspector's first report shows that 83 per cent of the eggs inspected have been found edible, this demonstrating that eggs can be successfully produced and marketed during extremely hot weather.

17 Per Cent Condemmned

The preliminary survey of the egg situation here covering the egg stocks of 36 grocery stores resulted in the condemnation of 17 per cent of the eggs on hand, Mr. Rowlett's report indicates. His report shows that deterioration of those eggs condemned was due principally to inefficient handling on the pavt of the marketer.

The producer is also to blame, Mr. Rowlett points out in this connection, for he does not pay sufficient attention to the fertility of the egg he markets.

The itinerant buyer who gathers up his eggs promiscuously once or twice a week and does not candle as he purchases, is almost certain to get a goodly proportion of of eggs in the various stages of incubation. And by the time these eggs are handled by the merchant without refrigeration, Mr. Rowlett says, they have further undergone incubation until they are unfit for the table.

One of the very nosticeable facts about eggs that show the best keeping qualities, Mr. Rowlett declares, is that they are infertile product and have been produced under the regulations prescribed by egg-producing associations.

Inspections made in this city have already resulted in the elimination of several sources of bad eggs, it is pointed out, and it is announced that the work of Mr. Rowlett will be continued until the produce is all cleaned up and inspected.

Fire Guts Home At 15th and Scott

Fire originating in the attick of the home of Mrs. Ed. Connor, corner of Scott and Fifteenth street, at 9:30 o'clock last night, gutted the building.

No one was at home at the time, and the fire had considerable headway before discovered by neighbors who turned in an alarm.

Directly across the street from the blaze were a number of tanks of gasoline, property of the Mears Gasoline company, but they were never endangered as the wind carried the flames in the opposite direction.

The building was the property of Jerry Lucus and occupied by Mrs. Connor and several roomers.

Neighbors reported a light in the house possibly half an hour before the flames burst from the roof, but when the fire department arrived, there was no one at home.

The amount of insurance, if any, could not be ascertained. The loss was estimated at $5,500.

Fair Directors Ban Profiteers

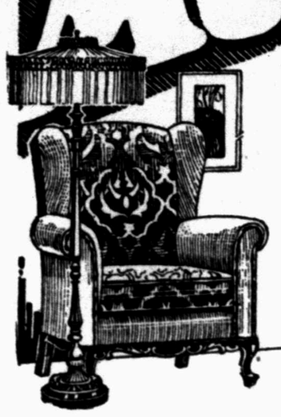

Fair association directors have expressed themselves as being strongly opposed to any hold up prices during the Texas-Oklahoma fair and the result has been that special investigation is to be made on the grounds and the association will fix prices for various concessions so that there will be no profiteering at the expense of the public.

The object of the directors is to let the people from Texas and Oklahoma see one of the best fairs they have ever seen for a reasonable amount of money.

Freedom from care should come increasingly with every dollar saved. It will for you if you put your dollars in the City National Bank of Commerce where U. S. government supervision safeguards your money.—adv.

Spudders Idle Again as Dallas Knocks Panthers Under

POSTPONED GAME LEAVES THREE TO BE PLAYED OUT WITH GASSERS THIS WEEK

Shreveport Club Misses Train in Fort Worth; Two Games Already Scheduled for Today And Monday; Cats Now Only Game and Half in Lead; Today's Games at 3 o'Clock.

By "SPIKE" COOPER

Three double-headers in as many days.

That's an awful hill to confront any two ball clubs in the world, but that's what stares the Spudders and Gassers in the face.

Missed train connections in Fort Worth Saturday morning prevented the Gassers from arriving for the game yesterday.

Two double bills had already been carded, one for today and one for Monday. Now another postponed game is on the book and Tuesday will be the last day the Gassers are here this season, so two games will likely be on deck that day.

Two days of rest bring the Spudders up fresh and in condition to step the route with little difficulty. Of course six games in three days is an awful load, but the Spudders haven't weakened under anything so far this season so long as there were enough men in uniform to get a team in the field.

The Panthers dropped a half game in the standing yesterday when the Dallas team copped the opener of their five game series.

With both teams fighting for the top engaged in double headers today, and double win by the Spudders and a split at Dallas would bring the Spudders and Panthers into practically a tie, with possibly four points between.

Today is a wonderful chance for the Spudders to get within close striking distance. 'Tis indeed a "crooshul" series for both leading teams.

The Spudders are in excellent condition except Weiss and Ramsey. Art is still out with his bad ankle and will be for several days. Jumbo checked in a couple of days ago with an infected finger on his throwing hand, but there is nothing serious and he will be ready to go if called upon. Of course he has not been used for anything but a pinch hitter, but he is ready to go any time called upon.

Nothing definite has been heard from Jake Miller as yet. The message from Salm asking that he return for the remainder of the season has been unanswered. Pittsburgh has already declared themselves favorable to the change, and it now rests with Jake. He may join the club at any time within the next three or four days.

The team doesn't particularly need him right now, but an injury to any member of the regular force would throw a wrench into the wheels of the best team in the league. They are the best team in the league. They according to an official who has seen all the other teams, and seen them more than once, "The Spudders are 40 per cent stronger than any other."

But they're all ready for the grilling Gasser series.

The double bills will be called at 3 o'clock each afternoon.

DALLAS PUTS BRAKES ON PANTHERS

Takes First Game Of Crucial Series

By Associated Press

DALLAS, Aug. 5.—Dallas defeated Fort Worth in the first game of their crucial series here today, 5 to 3. Claude Davenport, elongated local hurler, held the hard hitting Panthers to six hits, while Dallas pounded Wachtel in timely fashion. Lovelace's home run scoring Segrist was the main feature. The defeat halted Fort Worth's winning streak which had reached thirteen consecutive games. The teams will play a double header tomorrow. Score:

CAN JESS WILLARD COME BACK?

Can big Jess come back?—there's something to play over on your zither and listen for discords—yea bo!

Of course the hefty Kansan might come across with the much talked about, lucky punch and knock Dempsey far enough to get a close-up of the pyramids without having to pay any steamship fare, but he'll have to remove a considerable amount of avoirdupois in order to follow the champ's footwork.

When Jess stepped off the train at Los Angeles a few months ago, he looked so large that everybody wondered why he hadn't been shipped through from Kansas in a box car. He resembled the gold rush of '49 rolled into one person and as he jumped into the four or five waiting automobiles, the boys around the station fractured arms and legs in the attempt to beguile some herring into betting that Willard would go in the ring again. But the sporty gentlemen are not out a nickel for no one was kippered enough to lay down perfectly good jack on what looked like an absurdity and now we hear the loud and raucous whoop that Jess is hard at work skipping the rope, punching the bag and shaking the stucco and roses off California bungalows with his road work.

It may have been lack of this very same road work that caused him to give a superb imitation of a man wearing several suits of armour on the lower half of his anatomy after Dempsey dropped him to the mat in the first round at Toledo for Jess had passed up road work like so many green apples during his training period in Ohio.

Willard's 6 ft. 6 in. in height arouses sympathy for any opponent who climbs into the ring against him and Dempsey is no exception for he looks small and diminutive beside the Kansan giant. But if hulk and bulk can withstand a second onslaught from the Utah sledge-hammer, it's going to surprise a number of folks who figured they knew something about leather-socking.

At any rate, there's one bunch of people who hold out little hope for the big fellow's come back and that's the reform league which is perfectly natural, seeing as how Jess is training in Hollywood.

Record News Will Put Out Sport Book

The Record News is about to extend a courtesy to local baseball fans.

Not many know the facts and figures of the game for the last 20 years, so they have been compiled for your convenience in pamphlet form, especially by the Record News.

Indexed for convenience are averages of the American, National, Texas and Southern leagues, hitting and fielding, both individual and as clubs.

Names of all the clubs as they are known in the baseball world, championship series, both of the majors and minors, how to figure averages and percentages, championships of the years just passed and who won them, all these things will be offered for a thin dime, the exact cost of the compilation.

The books will arrive Monday or Tuesday and may be had at the office at any time.

FLEISCHMANN SELLS INTEREST IN REDS

By Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 5.—It was announced here today that Julius Fleischmann, former major of Cincinnati, now of New York, has sold his entire holdings in the Cincinnati baseball team in the National league, 685 shares, to Lou Widrig, August Herrman and Walter Friedlander, who are already heavy owners.

The transfer, it is announced, will have no effect on the management of the club.

WESTERN TENNIS FINALS SUNDAY

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—John Hennessey of Indianapolis and Walter Westbrook of Detroit will meet tomorrow for the men's singles championship in the western tennis tournament as the result of semi-finals victories today.

Hennessey eliminated Walter Hayes, ranking player of the Western Tennis association in three desperately fought sets, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4. Westbrook defeated A. L. Green, Jr., of Chicago in four sets, 6-4, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1.

TOMMY M'CARTHY STRIKES OUT

TRIPLE PLAY PULLED ON BROWNS

Sisler Gets Back In Game After Injury

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, August 5.—The first triple play of the season in St. Louis was executed by Philadelphia today in the game which the Browns won, 4 to 1, by nitting in the pinches. Gerber and Tobin had walked in the first inning and Sisler lined out to Galloway, both runners being retired. Rettig, who won his first major league game from the Browns at Philadelphia recently, pitched to only two batters whom he walked. The victory gave the loc

Leonard Retains Lightweight Crown By Lacing Hammer

BENNY HAS THINGS HIS OWN WAY: CHALLENGER FAILS TO LAND BLOWS CONSISTENTLY

Leonard Opens Cautiously, Favoring Injured Eye, But Speeds Up as Fight Progresses; Hits Hammer at Will and Evades Blows Aimed at Him in Return; Attendance Light

By Associated Press.

RINGSIDE, MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Aug. 5.—Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, successfully defended his title in Floyd Fitzsimmons' arena here this afternoon in 10 round with Ever Hammer of Chicago.

Leonard, with his damaged right eye, protected by adhesive tape, boxed cautiously until the last three rounds, when he cut loose with a series of punches that left the challenger bewildered.

Every round but two were Leonard's by a comfortable margin, while the best Hammer could claim was an even break in the first and fourth.

Leonard evidently had serious respect for Hammer's left hand, as he elected to box long range to protect the gash over his right eye as much as possible. Whenever Hammer rushed in close, Leonard set him on his heels with solid right hand punches to the chin, mingling these punches with sharp left hooks.

Hammer Fights

Hammer fought a courageous battle, continually trying to land with his left, but Leonard carried too many guns. When Leonard was shaken up a few times with hooks to the chin he settled down and proved that he was champion. After it was all over, Hammer said:

"Leonard is the toughtest man I ever fought or want to fight. My, how he can punch."

Leonard simply said;

"He's a good tough kid."

Floyd Fitzsimmons' big blue bowl was less than half full when just as the last rays of the setting sun fell across the canvas, Hammer climbed through the ropes, followed a minute later by the champion. The gate receipts were estimated at $28,000 and the attendance at about 7,000.

Round One.

Hammer put two light lefts to the body and clinched. Leonard planted left hook to the stomach. Hammer missed left hook and Leonard landed left lightly to the face. Leonard was boxing cautiously, trying to protect his eye. Leonard complained that Hammer hit low while in clinch. Leonard hooked left to stomach. Hammer tried a left for the stomach but Leonard danced away. Hammer missed right and clinched. Leonard put right and left to the body at the bell.

Round Two.

They landed lefts to face, and Leonard whipped over a hard right to the chin. Leonard stuck a left in Hammer's face and shot over a right to the jaw. Hammer's left was short and Leonard drove him into the ropes with rights and lefts to the body. Hammer was having difficulty in reaching Leonard, who coolly danced out of danger. Leonard landed three lefts to the chin without a return. Leonard hooked twice to the face as the round ended.

Round Three.

Hammer crowded Leonard close and poked a left to the body. Leonard boxed at long range and had the better of the exchanges. He landed two rights to the chin as Hammer came to the ringin-. Hammer stuck a left in Leonard's nose and hooked the champion solidly to the chin. Leonard blocked Hamer's leads and ducked a left hook. The champion shook Hammer up with a right to the chin and received two rights to the body in return. Leonard hooked right and left to the head. Hammer was short with left as they clinched.

Round Four.

Hammer walked in close and pounded Leonard's body. Hammer tried two lefts to the head as they clinched. Leonard snapped over a right and landed two uppercuts as they came into a clinch. Hamer hooked left lightly to the head and Leonard landed right to the body. The titleholder hooked to solid lefts to the chin and danced away from a right. Hammer hooked a left to the stomach and shook Benny up with a left to the chin at the bell.

Round Five.

Leonard hooked left to the body. He repeated it with al eft to the nose. Hammer landed two lefts to the head as they clinched. Leonard snapped a right over to the chin, forcing Hamer to back away. Leonard whipped over a right to the chin, forcing Hammer back. Benny blocked Hammer's left and planted another right to the head.

Round Six.

They missed lefts. Leonard landed right to the chin. Hamer missed a left hook to the head. Hammer knocked off the plaster over Leonard's eye with a rasping left hook. Hamer missed a left and Leonard rushed him to the ropes, landing half a dozen punches without a return. Leonard hooked left and body and they clinched. Hammer hooked light left to the head and brought up two more light lefts at close quarters. Leonard was short with right and left at the bell.

Round Seven.

They feinted for an opening and clinched. Hammer smacked left to the left body and received a left jolt to the chin in return. Leonard hooked three rights and left to the head. He repeated with right and left to the chin. As Hammer came tearing in Leonard hocked him with right to the body. Leonard snapped overa right and left to the head. Leonard backed Hammer around the ring hooking solidly to the body. Leonard danced away from left hooks and clinched. Leonard hit the Chicago lad twice with rights at the bell.

Round Eight.

Hamer tried to land with his left but Leonard blocked. Leonard planted two rights on Hammer's chin and also two lefts to the head. Hammer kept boring in, trying to connect with body punches. Leonard landed two rights to the head and they clinched. The champion hooked a right to the chin. Leonard landed three to the head without a return and smiled approvingly at the ringside fans.

Round Nine.

Round Ten.

Leonard blocked left hooks and backed away from Hammer's rushes. Hammer seemed unable to connect with his left. Leonard sent a right to the chin and pushed Hammer into the ropes, but failed to follow it up. Benny blocked another left and landed right to the chin. Hammer's left to the head was wide and the champion landed to rights to the head. Leonard snapped over a right to the head and clubbed Hammer around the head at the bell.

HORNSBY AND COBB STILL LEAD

Sisler Dropping Fast To Rear in All Departments

By Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Ty Cobb, the Detroit pilot, continues to sock the ball with marked consistency, in the American league, while George Sisler, the star of the St. Louis Browns, is kept out of the game because of illness. However, Sisler, fared better than the Tiger leader during the last week, as he made a gain of one point over his mark of the previous week, by playing in three games. Cobb on the other hand suffered a loss of three points in his last six games, according to batting averages released today and which include games of last Wednesday.

Cobb is topping the list with an average of .415 compared with .418 a week ago, while Sisler continues to be the runner-up with .405, a gain of one point over his mark of last week.

Speaker Near Top

The other two members of the "big four," although not in the "400" class are tagging along behind the leading pair, Tris Speaker, manager of the Indians, being third with .364, and Harry Heilmann of the Tigers next with .357, each of whom has made rapid strides toward the top rung.

Blue of the Tigers took the honors of best run getter from Sisler, by registering 91 tallies, and Ken Williams, Sisler's teammate, deprived George of the total base honors, by boosting his total o 236, which is eight better than Sisler's record. However, Sisler's mark of 34 stolen bases is far above that of any of his opponents.

Ken Williams gave the home run hitters something to shoot at when he cracked out six homers in as many days, and ran his string of four-base blows to 28, giving him th lead for the season among the major league home run clouters, his closest rival being Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Nationals who held the honor for several weeks. "Tillie" Walker of the Athletics has bagged 24 four-baggers, and Babe Ruth is trailing the duet with 18.

Other Hitters

Other leading batters for 80 or more games: Ed Miller, Philadelphia, .349; Bassler, Detroit, .345; Tobin, St. Louis, .341; McManus, St. Louis, .334; Blue, Detroit, .330; Witt, New oYrk, .323.

Rogers Hornsby, star of the Cardinals, was deprived of some of his honors during the last week, although he continued to lead the batters of the National league, with an average of .391. This however, is a falling off of seven points from his mark of a week ago.

He bagged only one circuit drive, and brought his string of four-baseers to 27, but lost the honor of leading the major leaguers in this department to his townsman, Ken Williams, of the Browns, who is one ahead of him.

Max Carey, the speedy outfielder of the Pirates, also took another honor from the St. Louis favorite when he showed a sudden burst of speed and stepped out in front as a run getter. Max scored 87 times, while Hornsby's total is 86. Carey also stole four more bases and is showing the way to the base stealers with 31 thefts.

Hornsby however, in addition to being the leading batter and home run hitter in the league, has a good grip on the total base record with a mark of 280. His hits include, besides his homers, thirty doubles and seven triples.

Other leading batters for 80 or more games: Grimes, Chicago, .363; Hollocher, Chicago, .360; Daubert, Cincinnati, .357; J. Johnston, Brooklyn, .355; Bigbee, Pittsburgh, .352; L. Miller, Chicago, .348; Carey, Pittsburgh, .352; Kelly, New York, .337; Bancroft, New York, .336.

WINNERS OF RECORD NEWS TROPHIES

When Edwin Bebb won the finals in singles it was the first time in the history of local tennis that anyone had taken the championship in both single and doubles events the same year. More unusual still is the fact that his opponent in singles was his partner in winning the doubles.

Playing as a team in this event Bebb and Ellis made a combination that carried all before it. They met five of the city's best during the tournament and had little trouble in disposing of them. This team is probably the strongest that has ever played together in Wichita Falls.

When the two friends met in the finals the games played were of the professional type. The play was hard and both players showed rare sportsmanship in playing their best and yet each giving the other the advantage at every opportunity.

Speaking of Bebb, Ellis said "he is a true sportsman and a good player. He beat me fairly and deserves the cup."

Bebb said, "Ellis is the best net man I have met. He is a hard player and a square man to play against. Ha dhis game been up to its usual style the score might have been otherwise."

TROPHIES TO BE GIVEN WINNERS

Local Firms Donate Valuable Prizes For Net Meet

With the completion of the consolation matches of the Record News tennis tournament, the prizes for the winners in the different events will be awarded. Trophies have been offered for the winners in every contest by local retail houses and these will go to the net men who were victorious over the large field of experts who contended.

Edwin Bebb and M. A. Ellis went through the doubles with flying colors and will receive the handsome silver loving cups donated by Collier & Landon's Sporting Goods store. These cups were made in duplicate,and each man will receive a trophy engraved with his name. The winners in this event earned their cups and can really claim the championship as they met the city's best and beat them decisively. Playing together these men would trouble many professionals and it would be a strong team that beat them.

Bebb defeated Ellis in five hard sets and took the contest in singles. He showed tennis form that would do credit to the best and put up the same game in beating Ellis that they had both shown in their doubles games. He defeated ten net men of the best class and won the match decisively and fairly. He will receive a silver cup given by the Record News.

The runners-up in the doubles will receive tennis rackets donated by The Little Sporting Goods store. Akin and Angle are the players who played to the finals and showed good form. Akin especially put up a good game and played a brand of tennis that would win over any team other than Bebb and Ellis. The runners-up never gave up and their hard playing and determination won for them the admiration of the spectators and players.

The consolation prize will go to Henry Akin and is a tennis racket donated by Noble-Little Hardware company. Akin pushed through a fast field to win this event and won his final match with a spectacular bit of play that gave him a good margin over his opponent. As one of the best net men of Wichita Falls, Akin will give anyone a hard game.

STATE CHALLENGED

Challenging any gun club in the state for a match between teams of 10 members each, the Wichita Falls Gun club announced Friday their confidence in their ability.

There are several clubs in the state with larger memberships, but the local aggregation feel that they have the best 10-man team in the state.

The challenge calls for an excellent side purse, with the meet to be held over any traps in the state.

DALLAS TEAM WINS IN TENNIS

Thalheimer May Be Ace of Whole Tourney

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Aug. 5.—Louis Thalheimer of Dallas and Louis White of Austin defeated Bradley Hogue and George Wright, both of Dallas, in the doubles finals today in the southwestern tennis tournament, being played on the courts of the Dallas Lawn Tennis club. The score was 6-3, 7-5, 6-4.

Today's victory for Thalheimer gives him a strong chance to finish as the "ace" in the tournament. He is strongly favored by tennis followers in the singles finals Sunday with Leven Jester, also of Dallas. Thalheimer, broke into the limelight last year, when he won the state tournament folowing his capture of the inter-scolastic title. He is one of the youngest players entered and his speed and well placed shots have been the sensation of the tournament.

EIGHT IN A TIE FOR HONORS AT TRAPS

Ward and Greenburg Show Unbroken Long Runs

The heat seems to make little difference to local members of the gun club, for the hotter they get, the better they shoot.

In the weekly meet Friday, eight shooters tied for honors and the weekly club trophy with perfect scores, the largest number that has ever come up all even. Ward, Landon, Greenburg, Cooper, Dempsey, Bergen, Kiddy and Merkle all came up with perfect marks.

The handicap system is proving attractive to the novices and they are coming out regularly and more new ones show up each week.

E. C. Ward brought his unfinished run up to 125 before dropping a target, another excellent record for the local club.

Chas. Greenburg had a run of 73 straight Friday which is best record thus far, and shows still further the improvement noted amongst the club members.

Scores for 50 targets, single rise from the 16-yard mark were: Ward 50, Landon 50, Greenburg 50, Cooper 50, Dempsey 50, Bergen 50, Kiddy 50, Merkle 50, Pate 49, Adrian 49, Rhodes 48, Reinhart 48, Adams 47, L. I. Lyon 47, Apple 47, Wilkins 46, Brandeberry 42, Davenport 39.

In the doubles event, Paul Adas was high with an excellent count of 23, Pate broke 22, Greenburg 21, Rhodes 20, Ward 18, Cooper 16, L. I. Lyon 15, Apple 15, Dempsey 11.

Sport lovers of the city are beginning to learn the game and each Friday see a larger number on hand before the targets begin to fly.

As the cooler days approach, a membership drive will be launched in an attempt to show the largest membership of any club in the state.

MAGNOLIAS MEET IOWA PARK TODAY

When the Iowa Park and Magnolia company baseball teams meet at Burk burnett this afternoon a spirited game is promised. The game will be called at 3:30 and both teams will put their strongest men in the box. The teams are old enemies and have met twice before, both games going to the Magnolia by a small margin.

The managers of the teams have spent weeks arranging for the game, both desiring to play it on their home grounds. The enmity rose when the Iowa Park team entered the Oil Belt league over the protest of the Magnolia club. After the controversy the Magnolia team withdrew from the circuit and challenged the Iowa Park nine to play a game to settle the argument. The game has finally been arranged and it is understood that a purse will be put up by the teams which together with the gate receipts will go to the winners. At any rate the contest will be one of the best played by amateur clubs as the two teams are well matched and both anxious to win.

The City National Bank of Commerce welcomes judgment on the basis of what it does for its patrons and the way it does it. It finds satisfaction in pleasing its customers.

All Spudder Regulars Now Above .300 Mark; Four Hurlers Over .500

Homer Summa continues aas the season leader of the Texas league according to official averages released up to and including games of Wednesday. Mike Massey of Dallas is on top of the table with a fat figure of .377 but he has played in less than half of the games of Summa whose figure for the entire route is .357.

The Spuddeers have the greatest number of hitters in the charmed circle, with 10. This number includes every regular member of the team and Weiss, now a member of the hospital corps, and Adolph Ruth, pitcher, outfielder and what-not.

Summa also was the first to reach the century mark in runs scored, having registered 101 for the year. His nearest competition in this feature is Earl Adams who has registered 88 times at the play station.

Fred Beck has yielded up his honor as leader in runs produced. Clarence Kraft has sent 78 scampering across the pan, while Beck is one behind with 77.

Homer Ezzell, the Shreveport thief, has no close rival for base swiping honors. He has stretched his total to 44, with Gene Bailey of Houston second with 24.

Of the .300 hitters in the league the Spudders show 10, Dallas and Beaumont 6 each, Houston and Galveston have five each and Shreveport, San Antonio and Fort Worth boast of but four each.

The .300 hitters of the league are found from every department of the game. Outfielders lead with 15 hitting above the water mark. Six second basemen are in the circle and five catchers. Four first seckers, a like number of hot corner men and as many utility players are up in the honor roll, as are four hurlers. Only two shortfielders are in the list.

GRAND CIRCUIT HAS FAST TIME SATURDAY

By Associated Press.

FT. MIAMI PARK, Toledo, Ohio, August 5.—Following Nadda's wonderful race against time of yesterday afternoon, today's closing card of the grand circuit meeting here brought the fastest race of the year to date.

In winning the Wayne stake for 2:03 pacers, Sir Roch defeated the favorite Margaret Dillon by taking the second and third heats. To win Sir Roch paced the final quarter of each heat in 28 1-4 seconds and the final three quarters of the second mile in 128 flat. The gelding broke in the stretch on the first mile journey which was won by Margaret Dillon.

By taking the second and third heats, Daisy Pointer won the 2:12 pace, and Billy Landis won the 2:15 pace in like manner.

EUROPEAN CHAMP SHATTERS RECORDS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Miss Hilda James 17-year-old European swimming champion, broke one world's record and shattered one American record today in winning a 300-meter race and defeating Miss Ailenn Riggin and Miss Ethel McGary, both of New York.

Miss James swam the 300 meters in 4.33 4-5, clipping 1-5 of a second from the mark set by Miss Ethelda Bleibtrey. She took the lead at the 50-yard mark and finished eight feet ahead of Miss Riggin, who was one foot in front of Miss McGary.

It was in this race that Miss James broke the American record, reaching the 300-yard mark in 4:08 4-5. The previous record of 4:16 2-5 was held by Miss Riggin. The world's record held by Miss James is 4.08 2-5.

The race was held in the 75-foot, open air pool at Brighton beach

Home Grown Yams on Local Market; Tomatoes Selling, 6 Cents

BOWIE GRAPES ON SALE HERE

Tomatoes May Go to 10 Cents Pound

This year's Porto Rican yams, home grown, featured Saturday's produce market. The yams were brought in from farms near Wichita Falls and brought the farmers 5c per pound.

Grapes grown at Bowie, Texas, were retailing on the local market at 40c a basket.

There was barely a supply of home grown tomatoes on the local market Saturday and farmers demanded from 5c to 6c per pound. Monday is expected to see tomatoes at 10c per pound to the farmer. The supply is running short.

Following prices were paid farmers Saturday for their stuff:

Cantaloupes, 10c to 50c per dozen.
Sweet corn, 40c per dozen.
Sweet peppers, 12c per pound.
Okra, 10c per pound.
Peaches, $2 per bushel.
Grapes, Muscats and Concords, 10c per pound.
Fresh blackeye peas, 5c per pound.
Beets, 40c per dozen bunches.
Squash, 4c to 5c per pound.
Eggs, 25c to 27c per dozen.
Butter, 30c to 35c per pound.
Fryers, 30c to 35c per pound.
Hen's 20c to 35c per pound.
Tomatoes, 5@6c per pound.
Spinach, 8c per pound.
Porto Rican yams 5c per lb.

STATE FIGHTS PINK BOLL WORM

Disinfected Seeds Guaranteed

R. E. McDonald, chief entomologist, for the Texas department of agriculture, is beginning a war of education against the pink boll worm throughout the state. Following is his latest article dealing with the boll worm problem and the best means of fighting it:

The pink boll worm is recognized as being a very destructive insect. Wherever it has become established it has greatly reduced the production of cotton. There is no reason to believe that when once it gets a strong foothold in Texas it will not do the same thing. It has been found in about twenty counties in this state and exists in enormous numbers in Mexico.

It is an insect that does not attain its worst for some time after an introduction. A locality may be infested for some time before it is realized. It is possible that it exists in parts of Texas that we do not know about. The cotton fields are so enumerable that it is a physical impossibility to inspect them all. Besides, a light infestation is difficult to discover. Even inspection by an expert does not guarantee that the insect is not there.

Disinfecting Seeds

The pink boll worm has a habit of going inside cotton seed and remaining there for long periods of time. If such infested seed are shipped to a new locality the worm goes along. We built a disinfecting machine and shipped it to Mexico and gave it a thorough trial. We found that we could kill every pink boll worm in cotton seed by warming them to 145 degrees Fahrenheit. Very thorough and extensive experiments showed that cotton seed would not be injured until heated above 165 degrees. For the planting season of 1922 we have disinfected in Texas 13,181,000 pounds of cotton seed with no injury to germination. In the regulated zone around Marilee in north Texas there were some complaints. Heavy rains and cold spells during planting time made germination of all seed bad in that section. A house to house canvass of the district showed that 44 per cent of the acreage planted in disinfected seed failed to come to a good stand the first planting and 43 per cent of the acreage planted to seed not disinfected failed to come to a stand the first planting. For the second planting 7 per cent of the disinfected seed failed to come to a stand and 17 per cent of the seed not disinfected. This shows to any fair minded person that this process does not injure the seed. Tracing them down we found that the bad stand was due to some other cause. Disinfection will not hurt any seed. This is proved beyond any doubt.

Seed Guaranteed

The machines to be used for the 1923 planting will be equipped with recording thermometers and the records for each bushel of seed disinfected in Texas will be kept in this department. No permits will be issued for seed unless they are treated precisely right. Therefore, anyone buying disinfected seed may be assured that such seed are free from any pink boll worms and that the germination has not been injured.

The introduction of the pink boll worm into a community means quarantine measures and more or less inconvenience. It also means the introduction of a ruinous cotton pest. It further means the lowering of the value of farm lands and other property. It is, therefore, to the interest of all citizens to keep this pest out of their community. We undertake to keep seed that are known to be infested from getting out but we have no control over other seed; and as stated above, the pink boll worm may be where we do not know about. Hence, we would urge all farmers in buying planting seed to specify that these seed shall be disinfected and that a certificate to that effect be furnished. We can then assist by seeing to it that such seed are disinfected properly.

Ennis and Marilee got the pink boll worm last year by buying planting seed not disinfected and which they thought were not infested.

FIRST COTTON SOLD ON WACO MARKET

By Associated Press.

WACO, August 5.—The first bale of cotton for this year was sold at auction today for 60½c a pound. It weighed 545 pounds and classed strict middling. The bale was bought by the Waco cotton exchange and resold to the Miller cotton mills for 25c a pound. The Y. M. B. L. gave a bonus of $100 to the grower, making the bale net him $420.72.

WHEAT PRICES MAKE BREAK

Falls in Last Thirty Minutes

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, August 5. — Wheat was under pressure in the last 30 minutes today and prices broke sharply, closing 1⅞ to 1 7-8 cents lower with September 106½ to 107 and December which showed the greatest weakness at 107 to 107 ⅛. Corn declined 7-8 cents to 1 1-8c, oats were half to 3-4 cents off and provisions 15 to 27½ cents down.

Wheat showed less activity than on the previous day and averaged lower, there being nothing in the over-night developments to cause any enthusiasm on the buying side. While there was no considerable support on the breaks in the main, it came from shorts who were taking profits.

Corn and oats were dull, the trade being mostly of a local character. A summary of reports from Central Illinois indicated a bumper crop of corn there but owing to many oat fields not being out the crop of that grain will be small.

Provisions were weaker and lower on scattered selling credited to small packers.

Coal Crisis Firms Steel

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, August 5. — The steel market is very firm owing to the fuel situation. Production is running behind the demand and buyers are urging delivery. Producers are getting little coal and pig iron is also scarce. New bookings have been smaller as both buyer and sellers are awaiting developments relative to the coal and rail strike.

Pig iron is very strong and advancing as many furnaces are being banked owing to scarcity of fuel and producers are unable to fill old orders.

Copper is firm at 14 cents for electrolytic delivered through August, September and October, although some selling agencies are asking a shade more.

The copper export association is taking European orders at 14.20 to 14.52 cif European points. Very little copper is being offered by secondhands. It is estimated that July deliveries to domestic and foreign consumption were about 160,000,000 pounds, of which 100,000,000 were domestic; and that the surplus stock of refined copper is about 320,000,000 pounds of which 180,000,000 are held by the export association.

STATE COMMISSION WANTS MORE ROADS

By Associated Press.

GALVESTON, Aug. 5.—Enactment of necessary legislation to empower the state highway commission to designate, build, maintain and operate highways, was proposed in the report of the legislative committee of the Texas Highway association unanimously adopted by the convention here oday. Resolutions were adoped asking the legislature to call a constitutional convention in view of the inadequacy of the present highway laws, opposing any increase in freight rates on road building material and favoring more attention to design in road and bridge building.

Active Stock Issues Show Increases; Sales Are Light

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, August 5.—Moderate gains were registered by most of the active issues in today's half holiday session of the stock market. Total sales approximated 250,000 shares.

The request of the four railroad brotherhoods for a conference with President Harding on the rail strike had little effect on the market, railroad stocks generally making appreciable advances. Several new highs for the year were recorded in this group, notably by Chicago Northwestern, Southern railway common and preferred, Atlantic Coast line, St. Louis and Southwestern and Pere Marquette. Short pressure was directed again at some of the speculative favorites towards the close of the session, Mexican petroleum reacting 1½ points and Baldwin dropping half, but the general list held up well.

Kresge company, following in the wake of Woolworth which reached a new high early in the week, jumped up 5 points, presumably on reports of increased July earnings by chain stores. Corn products also broke through for a new high, and a good demand was noted for the sugar and tobacco stocks.

Now That's Rather Odd

BELVIDERE, N. J.—A bolt of lightning struck a tree on the banks of the Delaware river, then leaped ten feet to the porch of the summer home of Mrs. Thomas A. Berkey of Easton, Pa., and instantly killed her. A friend seated but two feet from her had her shoe and stocking ripped off but escaped with a burn on the heel.

WASHINGTON — Current prices for automobiles in Austria range from between 2,000,000,000,000,000 and 2,500,000,000,000,000 crowns and vary with shifting exchange, according to a report to the commerce department today from Consul Kemp at Vienna. He advised Americans when approaching the Austrian market to quote prices in dollars to obviate the necessity of employing a certified accountant and to avoid a possible loss in exchange fluctuations.

WAYCROSS, Ga. — Three union barbershops here were closed today by city authorities because of alleged refusal of the barbers to serve non-union workers of the Atlantic Coast line.

BANK CASH

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, August 5.—The actual condition of the clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they hold $50,821,010 in excess of legal requirements. This is an increase of $11,197,450 from last week.

The clearing house statement showed an increase of actual loans and discounts of nearly $8,000,000 as compared with an increase of $33,000,000 the week before. Member banks increased their reserve in the federal resery bank by $9,258,000 as against a decrease of $5,260,000 a week ago. Cash holdings were increased by about 11,200,000 leaving excess reserves at approximately $50,820,000.

BUSINESS NEWS

PINE BLUFF, Ark.—Annulment of nearly a dozen passenger trains, principally on branch lines in Arkansas and Louisiana, but including two trains now operating between Texarkana and Fort Worth, Texas, was anounced today by the St. Louis-Southwestern railway. The annullment orders will become effective tomorrow. Shortage of fuel is given as the reason.

LONDON—There have been reports of the concellation of several American orders for British coal but these cannot be confirmed except in the case o fa few speculative transactions at the Clyde ports, where the demand has been much smaller than in Wales and Newcastle, and whence only one or two ships have sailed with coal for the United States.

Exporters in Cardiff say they are unaware of any cancellation in south Wales.

VIENNA—The exchange continues to fall and the crown tonight was quoted at 42,000 to the dollar, or one thousand more than yesterday's quotation. Business was being severely hit.

BERLIN—The cost of living in Germany took an unusual leap of 32 per cent in July as compared with 9.2 per cent in June. Food alone increased 33.5 per cent over June.

Posters Used to Fight Boll Weevil

Special to the Record News.

DALLAS, August 5.—Ten thousand lithographed posters telling of the latest method of fighting boll weevil have been posted throughout the cotton belt of Texas, by the Texas chamber of commerce. According to authorities upon this subject, there is eminent danger of the boll weevil greatly damaging the crop this year unless the remainder of the season is very hot and dry.

COTTON SEEKS LOWER LEVELS

Strong Rally Fails to Last

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, August 5.—The tendency was lower in the cotton market today, although at one stage a fairly strong rally occurred. Support was lacking mostly because the trade was unable to figure whether the light showers scattered widely over Texas really indicated a change of importance in the weather conditions of the western belt, the drought over which has been a bullish factor of consequence for several weeks. In the late trading the tone was rather soft and the close was at net losses of five to ten points, October closing at 20.65.

The early trading saw a break of 12 to 22 points, the result of light showers at a few points in Texas and the feeling that the drought was about to be broken. When it was seen that no rain of consequence had fallen, early sellers commenced to buy their contracts back and their demand was sufficiently strong to send the most active months 2 to 4 points higher than the close of yesterday. October, after trading down to 20.50, rose to 20.74.

Cotton closed steady at net loss of 5 to 10 points.

NEW YORK COTTON

NE WYORK, August 5.—The cotton market was comparatively quiet and rather irregular today but rallies were attributed chiefly to scattered covering for over the week-end and after holding up from 2,108 to 2,125, December contracts closed at 21.10. The general market closed barely steady at a net decline of 1 to 12 points.

The opening was 2 to 6 points lower and active months sold 8 to 15 points below yesterday's closing figures during the early trading with both October and December contracts making new lows for the movement. Selling was promoted by reports of showers in Texas and more favorable conditions in eastern belt sections while there also seemed to be nervousness over European political change and German finances.

PLANS STARTED FOR HIGHWAYS

Good Road Meeting Under Way

Special to The Record News.

GALVESTON, August 6—What its promoters prophesy shall be termed the pioneer movement of good roads in Texas renewed its inception at Galveston today in a meeting of the recently organized Texas highway association with President W. V. Crawford of Waco presiding.

The meeting has been in session two days culminating in passage of resolutions today embodying a legislative program for presentation to the thirty-eighth legislature.

There was unanimous agreement in passage of resolutions containing the legislative program which includes approval of the state highway commission and its operation, better maintenance of present roadways and erecting of highway fund by a tax on gasoline, a reasonable increase in amount of motor vehicle license fees and collection of an ad valorem tax, if found necessary, in construction of Texas roads.

A strong assailment of the coming legislature looking to adoption of this program is contemplated.

Women Whip Man For Slandering

By Associated Press.

MEXIA, August 5.—Because of alleged slandering remarks by a male acquaintance three women who operate a barber shop here took the man out of town last night and lashed him with a buggy whip. The women paid fines in court today for disturbing the peace.

Family Feud Claims Victim

By Associated Press.

HILLSBORO, Texas, August 5.—A family feud which has existed several months today claimed its second victim when Joe Wade was shot and killed on the public square. John Wade, his brother, surrendered to the police and was lodged in jail. John occupies a cell near that of his brother Lynn, who is being held in connection with the fatal shooting of Ross Wade May 29. Five shots were fired by John this afternoon and all of them took effect.

NOTICE OF SALE
To whom it may concern:
This is notice that on the 25th day of August, A. D., 1922, the Von Allmen Motor Sales company will sell at public auction at the court house door of Wichita Falls, Wichita county, Texas, at 10 o'clock a. m. one certain Cole eight speedster automobile, motor No. 22500, to satisfy an account of Frank Hatcher of Lindsey, Okla., for labor done and material furnished for said car at the instance and request of the said Frank Hatcher.

The above account, together with the lien securing same incurred with the call field body works has been assigned to the Von Allmen Motor Sales company, which is now in possession of said car and which has given due notice of said sale in compliance with the statutes regulating the sale of property subject to mechanic's liens.
VON ALLMEN MOTOR SALES CO.
Dated this 25th day of July, A. D., 1922.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION.
The State of Texas, to the Sheriff or any Constable of Wichita county, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon W. P. Thompson by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 78th district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the courthouse thereof in Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in September, A. D., 1922, the same being the fourth day of September, A. D., 1922 then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the fifteenth day of February, A. D., 1922, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 12372-B, wherein John R. Hirschi is plaintiff and R. A. Blackard, W. R. Moore, W. P. Thompson and C. M. Reed are defendants and said petition alleging: Suit on three notes for $2,000 each executed by R. A. Blackard, payable to the order of W. R. Moore, bearing interest from date of notes at the rate of 8 per cent per annum, secured by a vendor's lien on lot No. 12, in block No. 31, of the Southland addition to the city of Wichita Falls, Wichita county, Texas. That no payments have been made upon said notes except the sum of $75 on Nov. 21,1921, and the sum of $75 on Dec. 19, 1921, which said sums were by this plaintiff credited upon the interest due upon said note No. 1; that plaintiff has often requested defendants to make payments of said notes and interest, but defendants have failed and refused and still fail and refuse to pay the same or any part thereof except the sum of $150 Wherefore, plaintiff prays that citation issue to the defendants and each of them, commanding them to appear and answer herein, and that plaintiff have judgment against defendants jointly and severally for his debt, interest, attorney's fees, costs of suit and for general relief; and for a foreclosure of his vendor's lien upon said real property, and for such other and further relief, both general and special in law or in equity to which he may be entitled.

Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the fourth day of August, A. D., 1922.
A. F. KERR, Clerk, District Court, Wichita County, Texas.

Will Baby Go to College?

OF COURSE! In this day the college-trained man or woman has a tremendous advantage over the man or woman who hasn't been permitted the opportunity for an education. And it's mighty safe to wager that you intend for YOUR BABY to have that advantage in later years.

If you will start an educational fund in baby's name with us, depositing five dollars every month for ten years, and then discontinuing deposits, but leaving the money with us for eighty-four months longer, we will have $2,000 waiting when baby is ready for college.

A monthly deposit of $10 in the same fashion will yield $4,000.

Such an easy way to provide for baby's education. The money will never be missed and it is so very certain. Stop in and start it today or phone us and we will be glad to call at your place of business.

A COMPLETE NEWSPAPER — WICHITA FALLS RECORD NEWS — LEADS IN LOCAL NEWS

$2,195 IN FINES HERE IN 18 DAYS

Marrs Has No Mercy On Law Breakers

On the bench 18 days, Judge John P. Marrs, corporate court magistrate who succeeded Judge W. H. Cald well to the chair, has assessed a total of $2,195 in fines.

Only four night sessions of court have been held, the records show, while the majority of the defendants who have been brought before him have either pleaded guilty or have been found guilty, very few being dismissed. Several persons charged with vagrancy have been corrected by the magistrate and then freed on probation.

In none of these instances have the defendants been re-arrested and brought back into court, the docket indicates.

Police Commissioner J. B. Fitts, in speaking of the work of Judge Marrs and Senator W. J. Townsend, who is acting prosecutor in the absence of "General" E. H. Gipson, said Saturday that "at the rate this court is being operated now, a total of around $3,000 will have been assessed in fines by the end of 30 days."

Townsend Does Good Work

Senator Townsend took the bench several days before the end of Mr. Gipson's campaign for state legislature from the 111th district, and has occupied the chair as city prosecutor for approximately 18 days. His work in the present administration has been largely instrumental in the conviction of several vagrancy cases and in the correction of a number of others that might have been fined but for the leniency of the court.

The collections and fines assessed under Judge Mars' administration is the largest this year, next to the total collections and assessments under the administration of Judge W. B. Chauncey and Prosecutor Gipson during the first two months of their work in corporate court, the records reveal.

The collections during their administration, according to Lenly Humphris, desk sergeant, were the largest since the boom days in Wichita Falls. Sergeant Humphris, recalling the boom days yesterday, declared that he had collected many a day and night as high as $1,800 for one 24-hour run in police court during the oil field rush, and that on several occasions in that period, police court averaged $10,000 per month in fines collected.

In this connection it is recalled that several policemen have been taken off the force this naturally reducing the amount of work the department is doing. If the city had as many as four additional traffic officers, needed to cover the 65 miles of paved streets here, the returns each month would undoubtedly be greater.

MRS. WHARTON RETURNS

Mrs. Wharton, 807 Thirteenth street, has returned from an extended trip through New Mexico and Arizona. She was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. O. E. Howell.

CARD OF THANKS.

We take this means of expressing our heartfelt appreciation to the people of Wichita Falls for their kindness extended us during the illness and death of our beloved brother. Also to our many friends and to the Rebecca Lodge of Electra for the beautiful floral offerings.

G. D. DEES,
L. B. DEES,
Electra, Texas.

Pastors Expect Cooler Weather To Fill Churches

With the weather somewhat cooler churches in Wichita Falls bid fair to be well filled today, according to reports in church circles. For several Sundays past the weather has been unpleasant on Sunday and many persons who are regular church goers remained at home so that the congregations were not representative in all cases. But with cooler weather here pastors of the various churches anticipate that the houses of worship will be well filled at all services today.

Woodmen Adopt Resolution on Death of Dees

A resolution in respect for and to the memory of R. A. Dees, sovereign W. O. W., local camp No. 3001, has been passed by the organization, commending their departed fraternity brother, and offering consolation to the family of the departed member.

The resolution follows:

Whereas, our esteemed sovereign, R. A. Dees, has been removed from our midst; and,

Whereas, it is but just tribute to the memory of our departed sovereign to say that in his removal our camp has lost a staunch and honored member and that the family has lost a true and faithful husband, a loving and devoted father, therefore be it.

Resolved, that we do extend our sincerest sympathy and do join the loved ones in their sorrow and we do commend them to the Great Comforter for consolation in this sad bereavement. And be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be furnished the family of our deceased sovereign, a copy be spread on the minutes of this camp and a copy be furnished the Record News for publication.

Done by order of Wichita Falls Camp No. 3001, Woodmen of the World, Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 4th day of August, A. D., 1922.

Committee—J. H. Moore, P. H. Leath and A. J. Connor.

Loeb Residence Robbed Friday

Thieves broke into and looted the house of Mrs. Leon Loeb, 2300 Tenth street, some time Friday night, according to a report made to the local police department yesterday morning early, and escaped with a number of valuable articles.

When Mrs. Loeb had made a thorough investigation, she reported the loss of a dress suit, a new grey suit, two other suits, a string of valuable pearls and a brown suit case.

Officers are now searching the city for a man about 35 years old, shabbily dressed and who wore a two or three weeks' growth of beard. He was seen about the place on Tenth street prior to the robbery and has since been missing. Mrs. Loeb expressing the belief that he is implicated in the burglary.

COLUMBIA OPENS NEW AGENCY IN CITY

It isf interesting to many people to kno that after a lapse of several months the Columbia Grafonola records may again be obtained in Wichita Falls. The Columbia has opened an agency in the balcony of the Owl Drug store. They will carry a complete line of records and machines and the operation of the agency is in charge of Mr. Ben P. Proctor.

CITY SHOW LAW USEFUL AT LAST

Permit Is Granted After a Year

That the first permit to be issued to a carnival under the new show ordinance, No. 376, passed July 18, 1921, was granted to the Clarke's greater shows only Friday became known yesterday. A review of the number of permits issued to shows or carnivals under the ordinance showed that a year had passed before the city law was put into use.

The ordinance, its clauses reveal, calls for a $50 fee for the permit, which sum is said to have been promptly paid by the Clarke show management. It further calls for police protection to be provided by the city police department, but which must be paid by the show management at the rate of $5 per day for each man furnished.

An ordinance which is calculated to function in conjunction with the show ordinance was passed during the last week, No. 416, an ordinance prohibiting the holding or conducting of a circus in the city of Wichita Falls at any time from and including September 1 to and including October 10 of any year, having been adopted Monday morning at 10:30 during the conclusion of an adjourned session of the city commissioners.

This ordinance, it is understood, as written for the primary purpose of protecting the Texas-Oklahoma Fair Association, which fair will be conducted between those dates annually.

SEGUIN COTTON MEN HERE ON BUSINESS

Julius Seligman and Joe Freeman both of Seguin, Texas, are in the city looking after their interests here. Mr. Seligman has been for a number of years one of the large cotton factors of the state and was for some time on the New York exchange.

JONES REPORTS WHEAT NEARLY ALL THRESHED

County farm agent Guy R. Jones in his inspection trips over the county has found that not only practically all of the wheat crop has been threshed and sold but in most cases the farmers are preparing their lands for the next wheat crop. Mr. Jones is trying to interest all farmers in diversification and is urging those who have planted only one crop to put part of their land in other marketable crops.

RUSSELL IN CHARGE OF WESTERN UNION

M. F. Russell of Dallas, it was announced yesterday, has been appointed chief operator for the Western Union Telegraph company to have charge of the local office, succeeding E. Lucas, who has been transferred to another point.

L. A. Pryor, it was announced, will remain in this city as night chief operator.

At Last! It Never Reached 100 Yesterday

Wichita Falls is getting back to normal. The hot wave having passed the mercury refused to go higher than 99 Saturday and that point was reached only once just before 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Most of the day the heat was well within the lower nineties and part of the day the temperature lingered at 89 degrees. A cool breeze prevailed during the early part of Saturday night and the atmosphere was not unpleasant.

Dog Show Will Be Feature of Fair

The dog show at the Texas-Oklahoma fair now looms as one of the most interesting attractions at the fair. The show is to be given under national kennel club rules and the prizes will be such as to attract those who have fine dogs. It is said that there are some very fine canines in Wichita Falls.

Your earnings count most when you save a part of them systematically, when they make the present more comfortable and the future more secure. The City National Bank of Comerce provides "national bank safety for savings," welcomes them in any amount and pays 4 per cent interest on them.—adv.

ELEVENTH ST. PAVING WANTED

Property Holders Plan Petition

Proposals suggesting that Eleventh street be paved from Indiana to Grace are likely to come before the Monday night meeting of the city council, it was learned yesterday.

It is understood that property holders living in that vicinity of Wichita Falls will appear in a body before the "city dads" and will urge that the pavement be ordered for the nine blocks.

That the pavement of this street will greatly relieve the crowded traffic conditions of Tenth, it is understood, will be the argument to be presented the councilmen, it being the opinion of the property holders along Eleventh from Indiana to Grace that should this section of the city be paved, the jam on Tenth would be partly continued to Eleventh.

It is a known fact that the pavement on Tenth is rapidly deteriorating, and that within the next two years it will be necessary to replace the work in many places, due to the excessive traffic it receives almost constantly.

Byers-Waurika Track Laying to Be Started Soon

Tracklaying on the Byers-Waurika railroad will more than likely be started in ten days. Monday an outfit will be put to work on the Oklahoma side grading toward Waurika.

Grading from Byers to the Red river is expected to be completed in about two weeks.

Captain H. F. McFarland in charge of building the railroad, said Saturday that just as soon as sufficient material for track building and bridge work arrives he will start the bridge and track crews to work. The men for this work have been secured. it is said, but have not been assembled as yet because of the sloness of material in arriving. The various outfits scattered along the line from Byers to the river are expected to connect up in three weeks and track laying will already be under way at that time. The bridge also will be under construction.

AUTO TIRE STOLEN

While J. T. Hugle slept Friday night, thieves helped themselves to his automobile.

No, they didn't carry off the car, but they started in to strip the machine, apparently, and succeeded in escaping with a new auto casing.

The theft was reported to the local police yesterday morning, however, no trace of the casing had been discovered late yesterday afternoon.

$105,800 FOR NEW BUILDINGS

Katy Freight House Permit Given

Although the number of building permits issued during the past seven-day period fell two lower than the lowest record for any equal number of days in July, possibly the largest weekly report of funds to be expended on new buildings and additions to be made at once in Wichita Falls was reported during the past week. The records showed that only four building permits were issued and applied for, but that a total of $105,800 is to be expended on those four.

The permits were issued to the following persons:

Dr. A. H. Douglass to add a sleeping porch to his residence at 2157 Avenue G, cost $500.

H. D. McCoy for the M. K. & T., to erect a concrete freight house at the corner of Ninth and Ohio, $100,000 consideration.

Dr. L. I. Lucey, to add a sleeping porch to his residence at 1413 Seventeenth, cost $300.

M. B. Snyder, to repair a store building at 820-822 Indiana, $5,000 consideration.

Thieves Take Ball Gloves and Gun

Evidently someone plans to go into the gun business.

And this evidence leads the police to believe that a band of thieves are operating in this city, being guilty possibly of the robbery of Mrs. Leon Loeb's home Friday night and of the robbery of a store located at 625 Seventh street at the same time.

A report made to the police early yesterday morning indicated that thieves had broken into the place of business on Seventh street Friday night effecting an entry through a sky-light.

A Colt automatic pistol, a Remington automatic rifle, three pairs of "Bill Doak" baseball gloves, three Ingersol watches and about $8 in money was reported by the management as having been stolen.

No trace of the thieves has been obtained thus far.

What Irrigation Will Do for Wichita

HOOCH HOUNDS FIND STRANGE HIDING PLACES

Tyler Would Make Bootleggers Take Own Medicine

A dry agent's life is filled with spice
He has a merry old time.
He gets booze from morn 'till night
—Street Corner Ballads.
—Street Corner Ballads.

Necessity is the mother of invention.

And that adage, written long ago, proves quite true in the investigations made by federal officers as it does in every other phase of life, according to Archie Tyler, prohibition enforcement officer, headquartered in this district.

It is Mr. Tyler's assertion that the curious devices discovered by federal enforcement officers would make large volumes of interesting reading matter, for the "ways of the bootlegger" are strange indeed, and the law violator found in the ranges, and in the hills, in the country and in the cities, has formulated numerous methods of disposing of some of the "stuff" that ordinarily he wouldn't drink himself.

The federal officer in this district receives at intervals summaries of some of the raids, contained in interesting news form, he asserted Saturday, and in these reports are explanations of numerous devices invoked by the bootlegger to carry on his work.

Agents Collect Curios

A report received recently by Mr. Tyler shows some of the work that various departments are conducting, narrating fines, disposition of cases and the curios discovered in the bootlegger's den.

Contained in the latest summary is the statement that Director H. E. Mackenzie of Connecticut reports his squad of enforcement officers, under the direction of Sergeant Kroopneck, has rounded up quite a number of violators in that section lately. Fines range from $100 to $200 and costs, and one sentence was a fine of $125 and 90 days in jail, the jail sentence being suspended.

Booze In Pop Bottles

One enterprising merchant with an extensive trade in "lemon soda" was investigated and a quantity of "white mule" found in bottles with caps bearing the names ginger ale, root beer, etc. Upon pleading guilty to the charge of having liquor in his possession with intent to sell, the violator was fined $100 and costs, which was paid.

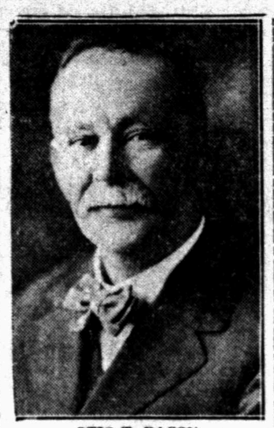

Forty-five cans of five gallon capacity each, containing grain alcohol, were found concealed under furniture in a truck driven by two colored men near Ridgefield. They were fined $150 and costs each.

"A traveling salesman of Newington, Conn., has just returned from the South Seas," says Director Mackenzie "and he reports that the liquor interests are spreading propoganda in those countries to check any prohibition movement, realizing that success of prohibition in the United States means prohibition there, because it is being followed closely. Saloons in Australia and New Zealand are required to close at 6:00 p. m., and there is a law against treating."

Director Mackenzie also reports that E. L. G. Hohenthal, who has just returned from a tour of Europe in the interest of the prohibition movement, says that dry America is having quite an influence on some of the people in foreign countries. In Prague, a meeting of the committee for prohibition revealed a great deal

Wichita Falls' First Mayor Is Still Live Wire

OTIS T. BACON

Otis Bacon Lives to See Wichita Grow From Prairie Town To Thriving City.

Because Red river was bank full on August 10, 1883, Otis T. Bacon, who enjoys the distinction of being Wichita Falls' first mayor, will celebrate the 38th anniversary of his becoming a citizen of Wichita Falls next Thursday. Mr. Bacon, who has been one of the most influential and prominent citizens during all of his residence here, and has had, among other distinctions, a number of years as postmaster to his credit, was on his way to Indian Territory, in company with John Howard and General John A McClernan, whom he had met in San Antonio.

Mr. Howard, for a number of years deceased, had extensive property interests in Wichita Falls. His daughter, Mrs. Wade Walker, now residing in California, retains many of these interests.

Road Commissioner First

Mr. Bacon's election as mayor was the stamp of public approval placed on his management of the job of road commissioner. The energetic young man went to work and took Wichita Falls out of the mud in the best possible way for an era that knew no paved streets. The 1,500 or possibly 2,000 inhabitants were so pleased with his success that when the embryo city was incorporated the young road commissioner was made mayor. And so a republican became the first mayor of Wichita Falls.

During his tenure of office, Wichita Falls experienced the first spurt of educational growth and advancement, and the brick school building, now the Austin school, corner of 13th and Bluff, was built.

Weds Blue Grass Girl

In the meantime the mayor had made a trip back to the blue grass region of Kentucky and returned with a bride. The first formal "ground breaking" for a public building in Wichita Falls took place with the new bride as mistress of ceremonies.

Equipped with a shovel, Mrs. Bacon tried to "break ground" but a drouth made the ground too hard for her to even scrape up a shovelful.

A lowly prairie dog hole saved the day, and the ceremonies went on. Espying some loose dirt around the entrance to the prairie dog's habitant, Mrs. Bacon scooped out the only shovel of loose dirt available.

Those were the days of real drouth according to Mr. Bacon, as he recounted some of the early experiences seated on the front porch of his Tenth street residence.

Saw Some "Real Heat"

"Talk about 112 degrees being the hottest in the history of Wichita Falls," he said. "Back in July, 1886, I saw the thermometer go up to 115 on three days. And when it was hot in the old days, it was hot. There were no electric fans, nor plenty of water, to keep the trees and flowers from burning up. We had ice, but it was scarce and high. All the water came from wells and cisterns."

The drouth of 1886 burned up all the crops, and left the majority of the farmers unable to secure seed grain for the coming season. A general collection to buy seed wheat was taken up in the town. This experience was repeated again in 1896, when a similar drouth period came.

Mr. Bacon expressed pleasure that the irrigation project would soon make drouths here a thing of the past.

Buildings Good, Even Then

Wichita Falls in 1883 wasn't as bad as one might think, Mr. Bacon said. There were several brick build-

WICHITA FAIR TO RIVAL BEST

Will Have Twelve Attractions Free

Twelve free attractions which are known all over the United States, 26 midway shows put on by the best known midway show company in the world, two radio concerts each day together with the eruption of Vesuvius and other fire works displays, are the shining lights which will make the Texas-Oklahoma fair in Wichita Falls September 30 to October 4, inclusive, one of the really biggest fairs in the United States. The free attractions signed up are more numerous and better than the pagant of progress, now on in Chicago, has to give the public, according to C. H. Verschoyle, who has just seen them.

Verschoyle Gets Best

C. H. Verschoyle, general secretary of the fair association, has just returned from Chicago where he signed the contracts for the big amusement features. Mr. Verschoyle, who before coming to Wichita Falls, was connected for several years with the Texas state fair at Dallas and is one of the men who helped make the great fair a success, and he knows amusements. He knows the kind that the people want and in his selection he picked none but the best and he picked them so that the public will have something to see every hour during the fair.

No other fair in the United States will have a better line of attractions than will the Texas-Oklahoma fair and with the contracts signed the people who come here can be assured that they will get more than their money's worth. It is the initial year of the Texas-Oklahoma fair and it is the object of Mr. Verschoyle and others to make the fair so good that its future will be assured. It will jump into existence as one of the greatest institutions of its kind in the entire country.

28 Wortham Shows

Here are the attractions Mr. Verschoyle signed up in Chicago: C. A. Wortham Shows No. 1 consisting of 26 shows, largest midway show com-

WICHITA FALLS BIRTHS EXCEED DEATHS 2 TO 1

Little Disease Here Doctor's Reports Show

The birth rate in Wichita Falls during July was almost 2 to 1 as compared with the death rate, according to the vital statistics report from the office of Dr. W. P. Lowry, city health officer. In its final diagnosis the birth rate may be found to be more than 2 to 1.

A peculiar situation exists in Wichita Falls for the reason that almost as many people from out of the city die here as there are deaths among residents. People are brought here sick and injured from the oil fields and some of them die in the city. These deaths are not properly charged to the city. The persons who come here for treatment generally have been here only a few days and cannot be considered residents of Wichita Falls whole on the other hand most of the births—practically all of them in fact—are born to parents who reside in the city.

Some Births Not Reported

On the face of the reports for July it would generally show that the birth rate is not nearly 2 to 1 as against the death rate. The exact figures show that there were 35 deaths in the city during the month and 51 births. But a close scrutiny of the death list shows that at least 10 of those who died here had been brought in from the oil fields or nearby towns after they had been injured or were very ill. Then in the case of births it can be said that the total number reported never represents the total number of births. While there is a law requiring physicians to report births regularly, the authorities have a great deal of trouble getting all physicians to do so and in Wichita Falls, as elsewhere, it is claimed that there are always births that are not reported. On the other hand, all deaths are reported because a burial certificate can not be issued until the death is reported.

Little Disease Here

As to the causes of deaths reported here, they are numerous. But the death list shows beyond doubt that Wichita Falls is an extremely healthy city. The most deaths from any one cause, according to reports of recent months, come from automobile or other accidents and gun shot wounds. Oil field workers who receive injuries in the field and persons injured in automobile accidents prevailed. One small child, Charles Morgan, age 5, died from electrocution. The child was playing out doors, it is said, and caught hold of a live wire. Among the death list for the month were the names of two persons who died from old age.

Dr. Lowry has stated that Wichita Falls is remarkably free from contagious diseases and as a whole the city is in an unusually healthy condition.

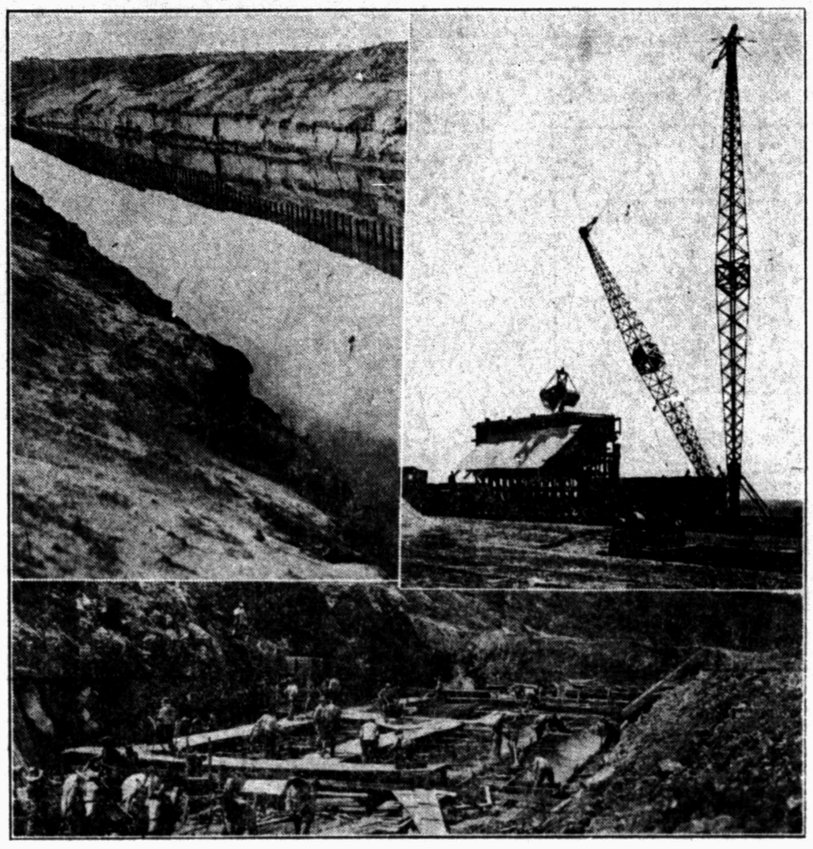

Stock Show Held

By Associated Press

MARLIN, Aug. 3. — The annual poultry and stock show of the girls' and boys' clubs of Falls county was staged here recently. Forty members of the clubs entered the poultry contest. The five boys winning first prizes in the poultry and corn exhibits were given free trips to the short course at the Texas A. & M. college.

In India certain species of fish can live out of water a day or two, and on a hot summer's day they may be seen making their way rather clumsily across the fields.

Another "Dollar Bringer" for Wichita County

LEATHER GOODS ARE MADE HERE

Factory Brings Lots of Business Here

Stuck away on Seventh street is a business where leather goods are made to pay in great quantity.

And an industry in the manufacture of automobile straps, oil derrick belts and leather knee pads for cotton pickers is conducted on a profitable basis, but which will be increased during the month of October to even a larger scale.

This is the business house of the Rauch Leather company, 620 Seventh street. And it has been in operation under its present management right at that spot for the last seven years, conducting a trade that covers all of north Texas and all of southern Oklahoma.

In connection with the manufacturing industry and the leather goods handled by the company, a large jobbing trade is carried on by the Rauch firm, and two traveling salesmen are kept busy on the road all the year around, transacting business and soliciting trade for the Wichita Falls house.

Cow Town Afraid Of Spudders Now

The "hopes" that "Wichita Falls will get so hot that its baseball club will burn up" were expressed by a Panther City ball fan over long distance in a communication here yesterday, it was learned.

That the Fort Worth fans are really beginning to dread the Spudders and that they fear for Fort Worth when that contingent again meets the Wichita nine was expressed in the communication, it was learned.

Two-to-one bets on Fort Worth against Wichita Falls, it was declared during the conversation, have ceased, and the cow town fans are expecting this city to carry off the second half the fan declared.

Masons May Renew Certificates Here

W. S. Tate, member of the committee on work, Grand Masonic lodge of Texas, will be in Wichita Falls Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week for the purpose of conducting examinations for the renewal of certificates.

The visit of Mr. Tate has been arranged in order to avoid the congestion that has heretofore existed when certificates were renewed at the grand lodge.

All holders of certificates, whether now in force or not, are advised to avail themselves of the opportunity for renewal, as none will be made at the grand lodge this year.

10 MORE MILES OF PAVING HERE

New Streets Boost City's Total

Wichita Falls' 65 miles of pavement may easily become 70 or 80 miles of concreted roadway if the additions being urged by prominent citizens and the old program formulated over a year ago are carried out.

The city paving program passed and accepted last year has all been practically completed with the exception of six blocks on Burnett, extending from Thirteenth to the mill and elevator.

However, present plans, although not incorporated in any program, call for the extension of pavement on Indiana from Eleventh to Thirteenth, where paving will start Monday, and on Burnett, where two blocks are also to be paved. And interested citizens are demanding pavement on a number of other streets, which, if accepted by the council, would extend the pavement here to around 10 miles additional.

Opinions differ as to just what would be the most beneficial improvement, and it is agreed that if the taxes were paid up in full the city might be able to afford a splendid auditorium and a new city hall as well.

CITY WILL BE BIGGER TRADE CENTER SOON

Irrigation Project Will Populate Farm Lands

Why is Wichita Falls a good place in which to live?

Why is this one of the best cities in the country in which to invest money? What is there here that gives Wichitans confidence in the future of their city? that inspires them to build for the future rather than for the present?

This is the second of a series of articles telling of the advantages of Wichita Falls. It is the story of what put the "faith" in the "city that faith built."

A vast area of land where thousands of families can earn a comfortable living and give to the world products of many kinds that will increase the food supply and thereby build up a domain within itself, pouring, as it will, its trade into the logical trade center—Wichita Falls. That, in short, is the definition of the land to be irrigated by the Wichita valley irrigation project.

There are many kinds of irrigation projects and yet the Wichita valley project is different from any other, according to A. E. Leidigh, expert who came with Dr. B. Youngblood's party from A. & M. college and looked the project over before coming back for a complete economic and soil survey. Mr. Leidigh, as an agronomist of national reput with long years of service with the United States department of agriculture, has looked into most of the irrigation projects in this country.

No Land Grabbers

"The Wichita valley project is different from any other in that there appears to be no land grabber or set of land grabbers who are planning to exploit the project for their own personal benefit and at the cost of the many. On the other hand, it appears that the people behind the project are interested solely in putting it over on the best basis for the benefit of the general public and the upbuilding of this great portion of country. That being the case, I think the problems can be worked out to a great advantage and I feel sure that the Wichita valley project is going to be one of great success and will mean much to this section of the country as well as to the public in general." Mr. Leidigh made the foregoing statement just after he had completed a preliminary investigation into all phases of the project.

Diversified Farming Here

Going into the soil and crop situation on the land to be irrigated, Mr. Leidigh said: "I think that for the first few years at any rate the project is going to furnish two kinds of farming. I think conditions are peculiarly adapted to both dry and irrigated farming, especially on the fringes of the project. The farmer can grow some wheat under dry farming and at the same time he can irrigate some alfalfa and other crops to make a diversified farm. He can raise his cattle and his hogs and will raise the food for them, besides marketing the various products which he will have to offer to the market from his field." Mr. Leidigh is a strong believer in diversified farming and thinks the Wichita valley project is going to be peculiarly adapted to that purpose. The experts, in making their survey, will not only cover the soil to see what it will grow best, but will cover the economic situation, telling what crops

And Now Ears Are in Style---But Who'll Get a Kick Out of Ears?

We've seen their ankles, neat tnd trim,
(Though some weren't quite so slim),
We've seen their necks, all shaved and slick
And never made a single kick

We've watched them shiver in the cold
With their stockings neatly rolled,
And then perspire in summer's heat,
Dressed in furs from head to feet.

And now they're going to show their ears,
What'll they think of next, the dears?
But we should worry, what they show,
Give 'em the dough and let 'em go.
—Street Corner Ballads.

"You Can't Hear Any Better"

BY THE SOCIETY EDITOR

With the temperature higher than most thermometers register, and the electric fan I share with an enigmatical telegraph editor rattling the copy paper with air that hints of the Sahara, it's hard to speak on the subject of uncovered ears without prejudice and from a strictly aethetic point of view. There's an impulse, well-nigh irresistable, to cry "Three cheers" in quite unmistakable tones; but along comes a particularly frolicsome heat wave and enthusiasm drowns in the resulting pools of perspiration.

Besides August won't last forever and one must consider the little busy bee and remember that there are frosts.

Maybe it's pretty. Some of the French find it so, we are told. At any rate there will surely be no more uncomliness revealed when the ears are shown than will be concealed when skirts are dropped to the seven inch standard.

There are difficulties in the style for the bobbed haired girl unless she wants to go all the way and have the fair head shingled. But let her first examine the view as well from the rear as from the front.

From a utilitarian standpoint (though what has utility to do with a woman's coiffure?) the society editor is in a very good way to know that uncovered ears will make little difference. It takes a greater, thicker gob of hair than women nowadays ever effect to keep out the tiniest whisperings that go about over telephone wires and at bridge tables, for so say the scribblings that even now lie unpublished and unpublishable in a shabby notebook here in the drawer.

"They Can't Be Any Worse—"

BY THE POLICE REPORTER

A lean, lank, hungry looking girl half stood and half hung over the railing that surrounds Judge John Marrs' desk in corporate court.

Her lips were the reddest hue that paint can make them. Her cheeks, the bones of which almost protruded through a skin that must have been palid underneath, were daubed with the gaudiest of rouge.

She was a typical unfortunate character, and yet her clothing, her attire and her very demeanor indicated the fact that she was "the latest" of the world of fashion.

It was a tragedy.

No, not the fine the court assessed her on a charge of vagrancy; there wasn't any tragedy in that.

But I am speaking of the scanty attire she wore, which is the very kind that other women wear, and which, because it is so scanty, reveals many a tragedy.

Some people think that the police have no hearts. Some think the judge is cruel, while others even have the audacity to insinuate that the police reporter himself is a brute. But, take it from me, folks, he isn't. Neither are the police or the judge cruel. They all have hearts, and they look everything over that comes their way when police court is called to order each morn at 8 o'clock.

And this was one of the occasions when "the entire force," reporter, police and judge alike were "taking in" everything they saw.

Truly, it was a tragedy for a woman to appear in public like she was dressed. Back in '61, so our grandparents relate, they wore hoop skirts, and long sleeves—and there wasn't much chance to witness so distinctly the tragedies of a cruel fate that many a bipeded human has had bestowed upon them.

Thank goodness the men still wear long trousers!

But to have looked the "dame" over to which this story is dedicated, one might have thought that she was a relic symbolizing that antiquated song, to-wit: "They're Wearing Them Higher in Hawaii."

Why some women are game enough to venture forth for a promenade on frail supports is more than we have been able to deduct. But some of them are, and this one who faced the court was among that game class.

And while we sat there—the judge, the police, the spectators and the police reporter—it is presumed that the same thought was radioed through the minds of all of us: "Haven't they got nerve?"

And to the police reporter the thought came over and over again: "If short skirts reveal such tragedies, what will revealed ears show?" And, incidentally, there are several people still wondering about that very thing. Surely dame style hasn't been the only reason for human hair being twisted and distorted, or bobbed out of shape purely to be wound around a couple of hearing pieces.

There must be some other reason. There must be some discrepancy, or some disfiguration of those ornamental trumpets called ears that makes women hide them from the curious gaze of man.

But if there are, are still wondering why the deuce the women don't take the same care of "props" that they do of "gossip repticals."

If you don't believe twentieth century styles have caused many tragedies to be revealed, just take a stroll down Indiana, Scott or any other prominent thoroughfare, and "look 'em over." And when you have seen the tragedies, join us in wondering what sights feminine ears will reveal when dame style's pendulum has swung the other way, uncovering that which man has almost forgotten about the anatomy of woman.

"Just Like Elevator—Up and Down"

BY THE SPORTING EDITOR

And fashions are expanding again.

Mrs. Dame Fashion has decreed, and as a result, the unfair sex will soon be in a mad scramble for that which is the "yea, and thou shalt" of the feminine world.

Skirts going down and the hair going up.

More family secrets are doomed to be exposed, and once again the shell pink "sound-catchers" will be exposed to the greedy eyes of heartless males.

Just how far down the skirts must go, Mrs. Fashion did not say, but they're to go down. And just how high the hair will go she did not say, but up it goes.

But that brings about another perplexing consideratin for those inexperienced in the ways and whys of style. How are those with bobbed locks going to accomplish coiffures (if that's correct) when "there ain't no hair?"

Not so long since, the flapper mode was accepted as permanent. That meant that all who became members of the "shorn-tresses" class were safe for many days to come. Now that they've gone and done that which makey dressing impossible, how're they going to surmount the seeming difficulty?

Now that the decree has been issued, what will be the result?

Will there be a series of high-sticking capital adornments such as are seen in pictures of the east Indian villages? Maybe they'll do it in little screw-knots on the back of the head, grandmother style.

Regardless of what the prevailing style will be, there's going to be a change for the "Eyes of the World."

It's all right for the girls to do what they want to with their hair. Men'll like to see their ears for a change, for it has been so long since exposed ears were permissible that many have forgotten what a dainty lobe looks like. Many a man now could tell you whether or not his beloved has ears. Soon they'll know, if what we hear is true.

Let 'em do what they want to, try all the other changes they can, but it'll be a long time before Mrs. Fashion announces anything so well-favored as the short skirts, (masculinely speaking.)

Yes, full modes are nothing but a la elevator after all, UP and DOWN.

"Well! We Can Stand Anything Now"

BY THE MARKET EDITOR

If fashion has decreed that women must show their ears, then they will show them. We can stand the shock. We have been used to standing shocks for the past six or seven years until now our morals are calloused with shock absorbers.

Being used to the familiar run of chickens dressed and otherwise on the local market, legs, ears and general makeup don't mean anything any more. Its the novelty the women look for and since for several years, it has been considered immodest for woman to show her ears to anybody but friend husband, they have decided it will be novel and daring to show them now, especially since their display of livestock in such various forms and variety of covering has become somewhat monotonous to the average run of men and fails to attract more than passing attention.

But let them remember there can be no sensations in ears like there were in legs. Many a maiden fair of face allowed her stock of popularity to go below par when she first put on short skirts and revealed the tragedy—or should we say tragedies—of her makeup. On the other hand there were many maidens homely of face whose stock went way above par when they donned the abbreviated gowns.

But ears, bah! There is absolutely no kick in ears. We may see some that are pale white because they have remained under cover so long and we may see some that are almost cauliflowered from being handled so roughly under the French biscuit, etc., but a sensation, never! We should worry about your ears, girls.

Summer Dancing Season Closes With Brilliant Ball at Lake

Avoleh, Cypher and Comus Clubs Join in Making Dance Success

COMUS CLUB members brought the summer dancing season to a brilliant conclusion in a midsummer dance at Lake Wichita Friday evening. The entertainers invited members of the Avoleh and Cypher clubs to join them and the result was one of the largest and most elaborate social affairs since the easter dances.

THE hall was brilliant with colored streamers, pennants and flags, all illumined by colored flashlights which threw rainbow reflections far out across the lake.

JIMMIE'S JOYS, the six-piece novelty orchestra brought from Austin for the occasion, was one of the evening's greatest attractions.

* * *

SPECIAL honor was paid a number of summer visitors in the city who were included among the guests.

Festivities started about 9:30 and were at full tilt until morning. A number of the most beautiful evening gowns which have appeared during the summer were to be seen in the hall, most of them forecasting the coming of fall.

Hosts, chaperones and guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Jouette Bonner, Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Gwynn, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Marcus, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. D. Donnell, Mrs. A. KAUFMAN ORCHESTRA TO GIVE CONCERT TODAY

An attractive musical program will be offered Sunday afternoon on the lawn of the First M. E. church, South, by the John H. Kaufman orchestra. One of the most interesting numbers is a medley of old, well known songs "Gems of Stephen Foster," including "Old Dog Tray," "Willie, We Have Missed You," "Old Folks at Home," "Nellie Was a Lady," "My Old Kentucky Home," "Beautiful Dreams," "Alendz Burk" and "Ring De Banjo."

Other numbers are: Lake's "Poet and Peasant" and "Light Cavalry March," and Bendix' "Crickets Serenade."

The orchestra is composed of well known local musicians with enviable reputations for capability.

At the evening church service R. D. Kennedy will lead a lively sing-song. Rev. J. D. Pinkston will preach at the evening hour.

MANY ATTEND PARTIES AT MEDICINE PARK

Wichita Falls society went en masse, or practically so, to Medicine park for this week-end. A number of parties, some of them very large, made the trip over Saturday, and the week's activities in social circles were limited to a large degree to outings.

Reservations for thirty were made for a party chaperoned by Mrs. H. F. Weldon and Mrs. E. C. Harlin. Those included were: Mrs. H. F. Weldon, Mrs. E. C. Harlin, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nolen, Louise Montgomery, Hallie Maude Neff, Austin, Sadie Addicks, Nancy Jane Harlin, Suda Willis, Ethel Moran, Ethel Owen, Katherine Moore, Josephine Cummins, Adelle Marcus, Margaret Barnhart, Charlie Nolen, George Massie, Lee Haney, Harry Viner, C. J. Norton, Edwin Weldon, John Britton, R. W. McEachern, Raymond Myers, Coy Harlin, Allen Mortgomery, Staton Bonner.

C. W. B. M. MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS MONDAY

Communists Blow Up Power Lines

By Associated Press.

NAPLES, Aug. 5.—A group of communists today blew up the posts of the power transmission line used for carrying the electric current from Abrazzi to Naples, a distance of 130 miles. The metallurgical, cotton and textile factories depending upon this current had to close down.

Sufficient power to run a few mills and tramways to provide light and pump water is being generated here.

Senator Sheppard Tries to Help "Man From Texas" But Gets Stung

Special to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Senator Sheppard of Texas is out $20 and others are out more by the operations of a nice mannered "constituent."

One evening nearly two weeks ago as Senator Nathaniel B. Dial, (Dem., South Carolina), was preparing to retire, the telephone bell rang. A man sweetly apologized for disturbing him at such an hour, but declared that he had just discovered the embarassing fact that he lacked enough money to buy a railroad ticket to his home in Newberry, South Carolina, and wanted temporary assistance.

As he gave the name of a prominent Newberry family, disclosed familiarity with several prominent people and discussed local business conditions with facility, Mr. Dial told him not to worry about the time of night but to come on out.

A youthful appearing, well-dressed man soon was ushered in. The Senator explained he carried very little money, and had but $8. The stranger thought this would be very helpful.

"But it will not get you to Newberry," the senator said, 'let me go down to the grocery store and get some more."

The senator had his check for $10 cashed and turned over $18 to his grateful constituent who left at once.

A few days later Mr. Dial learned several other senators had undergone similar experiences. He was considerably surprised when he saw the visitor enter his office again in a few days. The police were called. At detective headquarters the man gave the name of D. J. Connolly of Macon, Ga.

He was identified by several other senators as having obtained money from them in the role of constituent. Two senators, Spencer, (Rep. Mo.), and Nicholson, (Rep., Col.), failed to identify him as the men who duped them several weeks ago. Detectives believe congressmen have been worked by a gang.

The man was identified by the following:

Senator Morris Sheppard (Dem., Texas), $20; Senator Duncan U. Fletcher (Dem., Fla.), $10; Senator Harris, (Dem., Ga.), 75c, and Representative Frank Park, (Dem., Ga.), $97.60.

Senator Nicholson said the man who saw him and got $10 wore a mustache. Connolly is clean shaven. The man who saw Mr. Nicholson gave the name of J. I. Parker, and the check he had cashed for $10 was N. G.

Senator Spencer advanced $20 on the plea of a "constituent" but did not identify Connolly.

Representative Jefferis (Rep., Neb.) is said also to have been duped.

STOREY WINS WHEN VOTES ARE RECOUNTED

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, August 5.—Following a recount made by the Wilbarger county democratic executive committee, John A. Storey, county attorney during the last term, was named as the nominee of the democrats in the coming general election over O. O. McCurdy, another aspirant for the office. In the first count of ballots, the two candidates were declared in a tie, but another canvass of the votes showed Storey to be 10 ahead.

SOCIETY GOSSIP

Timely Little Talks Over the Teacups An Individual on the Inside Impresses Her Opinions on Friend People Peggy Piedmont Meets During Week

DEAR KITTY: Sometimes I've a notion just to echo the wails, groans and worse which the weather has been inspiring, but I remember that it never happened this way before, and that lots of people are too busy for groaning, and that besides and particularly you've little to do with the regulation of the sun's heat. I can't sing you the song of Pollyanna this week, though, Kitty, or at best only a tiny faint little one, for it's so hot that even the youngest and gayest, as represented by the Comus club you've heard so much about have given up dancing for the nonce and taken to the swimming pools at Medicine Park and nearer here.

AND certainly there is a group of youngsters in Wichita Falls who know how to fight hot weather in the most approved fashion. The Golf club swimming pool is the center of activities for a dozen or two young swimmers every evening and they are responsible for exhibitions of astonishing skill and endurance at swimming and diving. You've heard already about little Nancy May, the 5-year-old wonder at the pool, haven't you? She's the youngest of them but can make the length of the pool within less time than your average grown-up. Little Elizabeth Couper, who is just 12, is another prize winner and so is Dell Hatchitt, 11. Margaret Kendall Catherine Weldon, Laura Lee Hampshire and Winston Massy, a young visitor from Austin, are among the prize winners. It's hard to pick the best from among the many who are especially clever. No doubt you remember some of these: Kemp Maer, Albert and George Cotton, Elizabeth Langford, Virgil and Lester Daniels, Lily Graham, who is only 9, Imogene Willis, the Graham children, Fred Couper, Jr., Edward Smith and T. P. Duncan? An extraordinary number to be counted as experts in just one pool. don't you think? You ought to see a pair of the little fellows using the fast Australian crawl in a race down the length of the pool.

I'VE been too busy watching and counting the young swimmers to discover who is the champion among the players who crowd the putting green in front of the club house each evening, or who, also, is the most acclaimed for scathing wit among the still larger group who sit in easy chairs around the green but I'll search out these shining stars for you soon.

SPEAKING of the hot weather, the new fall things are in. At least a few of them are. There have been several displays and all the late July and August travelers have had their pick already.

I'VE seen a few of the new things, Kitty, and it appears at once that the tables have turned. For years the world has belonged to the small women and young girls so far as the fashions were concerned but there is to be a new ruler among women this fall in the shape, (and size) of the larger members of the sex.

TO BE sure, some of the younger girls here who are particularly dainty have already appeared in greatly lengthened garments, which have been acclaimed as charmingly smart. Miss Sadie Addicks and Miss Nancy Jane Harlin are among the slightest of the city's young girls who have been seen in the more dignified new fall togs and no doubt the others will prove equally smart in spite of the great change in mode.

IN the first and most important place, they're to be seven inches from the floor! That isn't a report of what they're wearing in the east, my dear, or in Paris, but an actual measure of length the ready-to-wear houses here have already offered and sold. Miss Grace Sanderson, of the P. B. M. department, says that's to be the standard length, an inch or an inch and one-half above the ankle, and she says its possible for small women to be smart in the new things, admitting at the same time that she (for she's a small woman) is not having things all her own way anymore.

THE new things are beautiful, of course, and possessed of the sort of grace and dignity people have been missing in the fashions of late years. All waist lines are low; most sleeves are long and elaborately decorated in brilliant and varied colors, most of them sleeves that only a very graceful arm can manage well.

THERE'S a new material, and a gorgeous one, called "eloka" that's being used a great deal. And much of the trimming, besides elaborate beading, is karacule.

I WISH I had time to describe to you some of the individual dresses I have seen, for I've a notion you're been too busy with other matters to go nosing around in shops, or even window-shopping yourself. But I must leave this discussion of woman's special vanity for other matters except that I will reassure you on one point: We aren't going to have to wear high shoes, or boots, or even, in this part of the country, goloshes. One of the shoe men here told me he had a few hundred pairs of left over shoes he'd sell for one dollar a pair! So that, it seems, settles it.

AND now I've a reading list for you, to counteract the ill effect of my talk of frivolous matters. Except, alas, it's a frivolous reading list I have to offer. The Kemp library here is always announcing the most tantalizing list of new books just when I'm most busy. Almost every week there are a dozen or so new ones, new in every sense of the word, for some of them have scarcely had time to come off the press and be reviewed (favorably, of course) before they appear on the lists here. I believe the library service here is rivaled only by Dallas and Austin among the cities of the state, and both of them are university towns!

ONE of the new books on the shelves is Knut Hamsun's "Dreamers" and a comforting book for summer reading it is, too. Froths, I call it, but W. W. Worster, in his introduction says it's something pleasantly futile, deliciously unprofitable. There's everything and nothing in it, a story of some light hearted and distressingly aimless villageres in a Norweigian coast village. It's a love story, of course, and a delightful one.

THEN there's Carolyn Well's delightful parody on "Main Street" which is almost as famous as the original "Ptomaine Street" its call-ed, you know, and even the hard-boiled and ungenial H. L. Menckhen has a word of praise for the sparkle of its wit.

SEVERAL of A. A Milne's newest plays have recently been received and Eugene O'Neil is to be had for the asking as well. And of course you know about this "Dancers in the Dark" of Dorothy Spears, which is rivaling the reputation of the "Sheik" for sensationalism, but isn't so very naughty after all.

BUT the library shelves are as inexhaustible as the new styles and it's getting too late for writing. I've just time now to tell you a little more about the people here whom you have known.

PERHAPS you've heard that Miss Anita Monroe, who has been so long one of the especial prides of Wichita Falls people has returned to New York for six weeks special study before going back to take her place with the rest of the "Lady Billy" company. Miss Monroe's visit home was shortened by the coming of the strike. She did not care to risk arriving in the east on time and left earlier than she expected on that account. "Lady Billy" is to tour the coast this winter, beginning September 1, you know.

AND did you know that the W. T. Willis family are going to spend the winter in Washington? Mrs. Willis and the girls and boys will be there all the time. Society here will especially miss Miss Suda Willis who has been so much a part of every occasion for the last few years. She plans to enter George Washington university. Both the other boys will also be in college. The family expects to return to Wichita Falls.

SEVERAL girls who formerly made Wichita Falls their home have been visiting here recently. Of course you remember Louise Stevens, who left Wichita Falls for Austin after gradutaing from high school? She's here now, planning to stay until about time for the university to reopen, for she's working for a B. A.

LILLIAN SPROLES has also been down from her home in Muskogee. She created quite a sensation among the young people here with her palm reading.. After some half-serious study of the art of science, she is sometimes almost alarmingly proficient and some of her palm readings almost caused rites on the dance floor when she began speaking of secrets. For convincing instance she had things to tell one of the most charming of our younger girls who has recently cut her beautiful dark curls and whose name has been seriously linked with another. When Miss Sproles began to talk to her of love affairs, happy and otherwise, other guests at the Comus club dance began to fear the discerning eye of the palmist.

BEFORE the month is over Miss Goldie Maricle, who has also made her home in Austin since leaving here will be a guest in the home of Miss Annie Lea, an old school chum. Miss Maricle graduated from the university at Austin this spring and is planning to teach in Whitesboro this fall.

AND now, Kitty, dear, there are other things to be done. I shall have serious matters to talk to you about next week, unless it gets too hot!

—PEGGY PIEDMONT.

Clarendon Club Gives Barbecue

Special to The Record News.

CLARENDON, August 5.—About two hundred members of the Clarendon country club and their friends attended the barbecue at the club lake Thursday night. The beef was donated by Charles McMurtry, and was prepared by Frank Whitlock and his assistants: Odos Caraway, George Ryan, George Reed and J. F. Blocker.

SMILE PARTY GIVEN AT PARK

Baptist Classes Produce Laughs

Special to the Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Aug. 5.—On Tuesday, June 25th, Mrs. Daisy Hoseman, assisted by the Fidelis class of the First Baptist church, entertained the Baraca class at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Parsons, 901 Avenue C and 8th street.

The social was in the form of a smile party. The house was beautifully decorated in blue, white and pink.

Each guest was met at the door by Miss Leona Owens, who insisted on an entering smile from each.

The guests were then led to the lawn where games were played. The first game was the "Smile Factory," the next was the "Throwing Smiles." Those not following the rules of the game were requested to pay forfeits, which were sold over Rev. B. R. Robinson's head. The penalties included reports of first love affairs, various couples doing the wedding march or the rabbit" dance. Mrs. Chester Belle took a pillow and "flogged" the Reverend Robinson.

Other smile producing stunts were required before the treasures were all reclaimed.

Then came the measuring of smiles. Frank Kelly won the prize; his smile was five inches long!

Next came the card drawing to determine partners and the note attached gave all a pleasant surprise, reading thus: "Daisies Won't Tell, But Daisy Will—Miss Francis Ioma Jackson to Mr. Ira D. Hullum, August 24, 1922."

This question was asked six Wichitans yesterday: "What is the greatest need in Wichita Falls today?"

AMONG TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

Politics Creeps in Society Column

(By MARGARET E. EPPLER)
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, August 5.—

"Now we can see our title clear
To two more years unfurled
Now we can smile at Satan's rage
And face a frowning world."

This is something that most members of the present Texas congressional delegation can sing now that the primaries are ended, and every one of them who stood for a re-election led his opponent, although some of them will not have their "titles clear" until the second primary. So all of the Texas members will come back when the house convenes ten days hence in high spirits.

There was a time when politics did not belong in the society column. But it does now, with the women voting. Of course, when the congressmen come back the Texas congressional ladies will also return. They will find Washington—if the weather man later does not upset things—having the most delightful summer of recent years, with plenty of cool days sprinkled in with an occasional rather torrid one.

Season Will Be Late

However, indications are that the season will be later in opening this year than last. Last year society was brought home from holiday making earlier than usual by the exigencies of the disarmament conference and the hundreds of notable visitors it brought to Washington and the resultant entertaining. But this year with the elections on the November schedule to keep officials busy in their home states and their wives ready for ballot box duty on the fateful Tuesday of that month, it is apparent why the season will be later in opening. Washington is keenly interested in the coming elections. So much of its social gayety depends on the fate of its notables and leaders in the forthcoming conflict. Whether or not the great American public says thumbs up or down is the burning issue of the hour in many a Washington household, and the biennial excitement of election year is apparent everywhere.

Autumn Brides

Autumn brides are beginning to prompt dates on the fall social calendar. An engagement of interest to Texas as well as Washingtonians, is that Miss Floy Barnhardt, daughter of Colonel George C. Barnhardt, U. S. A., and Mrs. Barnhardt to Mrs. Wilson Gordon Saville of Houston, son of Colonel M. E. Saville, U. S. A., and Mrs. Saville. No definite date has been set for the wedding but which will take place in the late fall.

Miss Adrienne Onderdonk of San Antonio is the guest of Miss Josephine Daly of this city. Miss Onderdonk, with her father, Julian Onderdonk, the landscape artist, recently visited many eastern cities, selecting art works for the Texas state fair, to be exhibited in October.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Given and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Heitmann of Houston were visitors to Washington during the week.

Other Texas visitors during the week were: J. Darrauzet, Galveston; Mr. and Mrs. J. Ruckman, Karnes City; R. W. Wagner, Dallas; J. M. J. Murphy, Dallas; R. W. Warren, Dallas; Mrs. M. J. McLaughlin and children, Dallas; E. M. Hubbard, Henderson; Mr. and Mrs. L. S. R. Clerk, Waco; Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Reid, Galveston; Mrs. M. E. Sisson, Houston; Miss M. Hubbard, Houston; F. E. Gusike and wife, Austin; Miss Nina Gusike, Austin; J. C. Paul, Amarillo; Mrs. John H. Harris, San Antonio; J. E. Schmidt, Dallas; R. C. Miller, Beaumont.

The amount of paper annually consumed by the government printing office in Washington would make a sheet large enough to cover the entire city of Philadelphia.

Society Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Bachman chaperoned a party of young people to Medicine Park for the week-end Saturday afternoon. Members of the party included Misses Ethel Mae Martin, Ruth Nolen, Louise Stevens, of Austin, Walter Bachman and John Allen.

The Catholic Daughters of America will hold their regular business meeting Tuesday evening, August 8, at 8 o'clock at the church. All members are requested to be present.

Miss Elizabeth Conway, who has been the guest of Mrs. F. R. Quimby, 2904 Tenth street, left this week for Colorado, where she will spend the rest of the summer.

Mrs. R. K. Henderson, buyer for the millinery department at Perkins-Timberlake, left Thursday for New York where she will spend ten days in selecting the fall millinery stock for the local department store.

Miss Mildred Bachman is visiting her sister, Mrs. Errett Williams in Fort Worth.

C. M. Doke is visiting in Clarendon and Amarillo.

The B. R. club will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Bertha Reed on Wednesday afternoon of this week.

William Duncan, of Fort Worth, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Duncan at 1404 Grant street.

Mr and Mrs. T. P. Duncan, Miss Margaret Duncan and T. P. Jr., will leace this week for Colorado. They plan to make the trip in the car.

The Woman's Benefit association will meet Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. D. Dellis, 1648 Elizabeth street.

REV. COOK PROUD OF HIS SUNDAY SCHOOL

Rev. W. D. Cook, pastor of the Yale Avenue Evangelical church, speaking Saturday of the work at his church said:

"You cannot appreciate the good attendance at our Sunday school during this hot summer weather until you have attended once and then you will want to come back again when you see how interested those boys and girls are. We just insist that you come one time and see us in the work.

"We will dispense with the other services of the day ad all are invited to attend the great union meeting at the First church, corner Fifteenth and Broad streets."

UPPER HUDSON MECCA FOR TOURISTS

(By International News Service.)

ALBANY, Aug. 5.—Albany and the upper Hudson region is becoming the mecca for tourists from all parts of the United States and Canada. Thousands of automobile boat and biking parties pass through here daily to visit points of interest in this section.

Reports received here from the northern part of the state are to the effect that this will be a banner year for the resorts in the Adirondacks.

One of the most noticeable changes from other years is the great number of girl hikers in knickers on their way to the mountains. Many of the young women say it is just a "nice walk" from New York City to Albany and thence to the woods.

Wichita Falls Family Has Civil War Letter Telling of Ancestor's Death

Interesting heirlooms were received here this week by Mr. J. B. Smith, father-in-law of R. W. Morgan, former police chief here, in the form of a furlough given his father by General Bragg during the civil war. He also has in his possession a letter telling of his father's death, during the war, and describing his burial at Bardstown, Kentucky.

His father, Captain E. W. Smith, of company G, 37th Mississippi infantry, was campaigning in Kentucky in 1862 when he was taken seriously ill. He started to the hospital with his nephew. On their way they met a Mr. William Johnson, who proved to be a lodge brother of Captain Smith's, and he took him home with him. It was in his home that he died.

The following letter was written Captain Smith's people by Mr. Johnson at the close of the war, when mail service between Kentucky and the more southern states was renewed:

Bardtown, Ky., Aug. 21, 1865

"Dear Madam:

"Your husband, Captain Elijah W. Smith, died at my home on the 11th day of October, 1862. He was captain of company C, 37th Reg't., Mississippi infantry. He was decently interred in the town cemetery and his grave marked. If it should be the wish of the family to remove him at any time, there will be no difficulty in finding it.

"He left some little things at my house, viz., sword, pistol, watch, some gold, I believe about $50, some southern money, (not confederate) pencil and his clothing. His money and pencil is deposited with E. B. Smith, one of our merchants. His clothing, pistol and sword are at my house. At any time that these articles can be sent you, let me know how I are to send them and I will attend to it.

"He is buried with the other confederates, but his coffin is black and is lined, while the others are red and not lined.

"Yours respectfully,
"Wm. JOHNSON."

ACTOR ACTS ALL TOO NATURALLY

(By International News Service.)

LILLE, France, Aug. 5.—Less poignant because accidental, but no less a shock to the audience, a tragedy similar to that in "Pagliacci" was enacted at a local theater.

The play being presented was a melodrama in which a woman shoots a dancing partner who has been untrue to her.

No one knows how it came about that loaded cartridges were substituted for the blanks.

When the actress who played the bertayed woman pulled the trigger her colleague crumpled up all too naturally.

Everyone applauded heartily, even when the announcement came that "the comedy is finished." The actor, M. Rene Renaud, is in a Lille hospital, seriously wounded.

Hair Reveals Woman's Nature Says Valentino

Noted Screen Star Compares Blondes and Brunettes; Says Dope Is Misleading.

Blondes or brunettes?

Which is the ideal type of beauty and womanhood. Which is the most attractive, the most appealing to men, the most beautiful? What are their predominating characteristics?

Rodolph Valentino, one of the screen's most popular stars, was approached with the question. The Paramount actor was in position to talk on such a subject, having just completed "Blood and Sand," Fred Niblo's production of the Ibanez novel, in which he played with two talented brunettes, Lila Lee and Nita Nadli. At the time he was working in "The Young Rajah," in which Wanda Hawley, a perfect blonde, plays the leading feminine role, and Maude Wayne, who also has light hair, has a principal part. He was able to discuss the contrasts. Here is how he responded on the subject:

Rodolph Valentino

Blondes Have Best Temper

"It will be generally found," he said, "that the blonde type of woman is more even tempered, of a quieter and more placid disposition. The brunette, on the other hand, might be described as a class, as more excitable, more pointed in temperament, perhaps quicker to respond to an emotion. They might also be said to be slightly more eccentric in their tastes and desires.

"Both types can be highly artistic, but the brunette can be more of an extremist, emotionally. Let us consider the tragediennes of stage and screen. Are they not mostly brunettes? What do we find among our blonde actresses? Generally they seem to run more or less to the light type of drama or light comedy. This outward expression of ability is, of course, an expression of their inner selves for it is only by reason of their natural tendencies that they are best fitted for certain kinds of acting roles.

Brunettes Best Vampires

"A majority, perhaps, of our most successful ingenues are blonde types, while the stage and screen vampires are standardized to the brunette class. This again illustrates the quality of their real emotions.

"Not outward complexion or the color of their hair or eyes, but that intangible thing called personality, abstract qualities of beauty and virtue and emotions, are the factors which have the final weight in the attraction of one ex for the opposite. I, myself, am a brunette and so is my wife. The color of her hair and eyes, however, was neither the remote nor the immediate cause of my affection for her.

"In case of love or affection between man or woman, it is the woman herself which influences man—her personality, her character, her appealing qualities, the sentiments and qualities and tastes which she possesses, which are in common with those of man; the natural understanding which results between two who have anything in common. If both are naturally artistic, they are naturally attracted to each other.

"Disproving the theory of the lasting qualities of a mere outward attraction, numerous cases might be cited of men of one complexion and their wives of the opposite, in which the matches were sad failures. And there are just as many of this kind as there are of matrimonial failures between men and women of the same hue of hair, skin and eyes."

Camera Misses Thrill in "When East Comes West"

During the filming of "When East Comes West," starring Franklyn Farnum, now showing at the Gem theater, a scene not written for the camera, and not a part of the story, took place, and the entire company stood breathless, unable to render aid.

Everything was ready to shoot the scene where Peters, the heavy, is abducting Mary Brennon, played by Marcella Pershing, in a buckboard. The director had secured the required footage and called "cut," when one of the horses took a sudden lunge, frightening the other horse, and they both started down the road at a breakneck speed. The buckboard tongue was shattered into a million pieces on striking a rock, and the horses and buckboard went careening madly along.

Only by Peters' (Robert Kortman) clever driving were the pair saved from serious injury, and he finally managed to bring them to a stop. Director Eason remarked that it was too bad they did not have the runaway in the camera, but Miss Pershing and Mr. Kortman were satisfied to have their good health and safe return.

Murder Trial in "For the Defense" Is Very Dramatic

Probably the biggest punch in "For the Defense," a new Paramount picture starring Ethel Clayton which will be shown at the Empress theater, Monday and Tuesday, comes in the trial scene, acording to Paul Powell, who directed the production.

Jennie, the protege of the heroine, played respectively by Miss ZaSau Pitts and Miss Clayton, is on trial for the murder of the hypnotist, Dr. Kasimir, played by Bertram Grassby. Seeing that the evidence is all goin gagainst the girl, the star springs to her feet, and, regardless of court procedure, cries:

"She is innocent, I killed him!"

In fact, she is not sure but that she did, because she was under a hypnotic spell at the time of the tragedy.

Knowing herself innocent, a fact she has maintained steadfastly throughout the trial, Jennie, determined not to permit her best friend to bear the burden of guilt, reverses her testimony and screams that she alone is guilty. As a matter of fact neither is guilty—but the rest must be left for the audience to discover when the picture is presented.

"For the Defense" is an adaptation by Beulah Marie Dix of the play by Elmer Rice. Vernon Steele plays opposite the star.

In Switzerland when the cows are driven to the mountain pastures for the summer, the leader, which wears a bell, has her neck garlanded with flowers for luck.

Raymond Hitchcock and a Fairbanks twin (Guess which!) in the Paramount Picture 'The Beauty Shop' A Cosmopolitan Production

FILMING OF "DIVORCE COUPONS" NO EASY TASK

A transatlantic liner, termed the wonder ship, left her moorings at pier 54, at the foot of Fourteenth street, New York, for Southampton, England. There was nothing strange about her sailing, and thousands of passengers and visitors came and left without being aware that anything out of the ordinary had occurred.

Yet there were groups here and there, thrilled with different emotions as Corinne Griffith, Holmes E. Herbert, her leading man; Webster Campbell, her director; two cameramen, assistant director and a number of others boarded the great steamer to make final scenes for "Divorce Coupons," which will be shown at the Strand this week.

Most of the "shots" were made on boat deck before the Aquitania left her moorings, and it was with difficulty that the curious throng was kept out of camera range. Occasionally a sailor would step between the camera and Corinne and gaze blankly at the lens, while an assistant director waved frantically and yelled for him to get out of the way.

Everything was set and moving smoothly when a party from another part of the ship entered by the way of an unguarded entrance and spoiled a pretty love scene. The sailors formed a guard after the novelty of picture making had worn off, and everything was sailing smoothly until a ship's officer happened to stroll into the portion of the boat where the picture activities were in progress.

Every sailor left his post, forgetful at the ropes; another inspected the lifeboats, a third adjusted a tag on one of the steamer chairs, and the officer, champing fiercely on the stump of an unlighted cigar, glared at the camera in a position to obtain a fine closeup.

Among the properties used in the scene was a five-pound box of chocolates used for atmosphere. This interested Corinne, and she ate up the atmosphere, while she laughed at the queer interruptions that were delaying her picture.

The most difficult scene to take was postponed until ten minutes of sailing time. It showed Miss Griffith going abroad the steamer. This scene was shot at a time that most of the visitors were leaving, and not a few belated ones who had been refused admission were clamoring at the gates, waving baskets of flowers, boxes of candy and other gifts, trying to attract the attention of friends aboard.

The camera was placed and Miss Griffith started aboard when she was almost swept over the rope railing by a frantic passenger who had spotted a friend in the throng. This woman had thrown herself upon the assistant director, who was holding back those aboard the vessel. Her force carried him to one side and the woman rushed down the gangplank, followed by a score of others, charging directly for the camera.

The quick wit of the cameraman and Director Webster Campbell saved the instrument and a morning's work, which cost about a thousand dollars to produce. The woman went on, thrusting aside a guard and rushing into the arms of a young man on the other side of the inclosure who had brought her a basket of flowers and a box of candy. Her joy was short lived, however, for she was thrust into the background by the score that followed her, all anxious to greet friends and say goodby. Occasionally there was a note of tragedy in the scene, and then the eye would shift to a Hindu mystic taking leave of a cult who had filled his coffers while in this country.

The hardest thing in the whole adventure was the securing of a closeup on the gangplank. The camera was set and the crowd held back when a woman, spotting a friend, broke away and stood between Corinne and the camera, demanding, "Who is she that can hold up passengers while she has a picture taken?"

The crowd took up the cry, "Who is it?" "Tell the name of the star."

When it was announced that the young woman was Corinne Griffith she received an ovation, and after acknowledging the greeting resumed her work unhampered.

'THE DICTATOR' IS REAL DRAMA

Wallace Reid Has Star Role

The internal disturbances of certain romantic and ebullient South American republics, which have for years furnished the American press and humorous writers with material for exciting dispatches or clever, humorous discussions, were placed in the hall of fame by the plays of the late Richard Harding Davis, who was virtually their literary spokesman.

"The Dictator," which comes to the Olympic theater next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, as a Paramount offering with Wallace Reid in the star role, is one of this type by this author. It is the play which Willie Collier made famous on the stage and one in which Mr. Davis paints an exciting picture of valcanic life in the Latin-American continent.

Walter Woods, an experienced scenarist, translated the play to screen terms, which meant modifying it somewhat, bringing certain incidents down to date and generally applying the modern brush to the canvas, which is, however, still fresh and alluring.

Lila Lee, leading woman, has the role of Juanita, dainty daughter of Dr. Rivas, a self-styled "liberator," played by Theodore Kosloff. Mr. Reid, as Brooke Travers, falls in love with her and then the trouble begins. From Los Angeles the scene shifts to a tiny Latin-American republic where a bitter war between rebels and regulars is waged. James Cruze, a veteran Paramount director, handled the megaphone.

Just what all Wichita Falls needs at the present time might constitute a large narrative, but the greatest need could be simmered down to any number of things.

RAYMOND HITCHCOCK COMING TO MAJESTIC

The Majestic offers three first-run feature productions in their line up for the week, but of the three the big hit should surely be Raymond Hitchcock in "The Beauty Shop." This is a Paramount picture, and follows closely the stage play by the same name that made Raymond Hitchcock so popular on the speaking stage.

He is supported by an all-star cast including the famous Fairbanks twins who have the dancing part for this big musical comedy screen production, and the dancing of this famous pair should be really worth the price of admission, and to see Raymond Hitchcock in his famous play with all the elaborate settings, and talent displayed is surely a treat not to be missed.

Friday and Saturday comes Richard Talmadge, who without a doubt is the Douglas Fairbanks the second, and is the man who doubles for Doug in most of his risky stunts, playing in "The Cub Reporter," a picture full of excitement and thrills, action, speed and steam, and will be enjoyed by all who see it.

Melville E. Peters has moved his law office to Suite 203, Morgan building. Telephone No. 5855.—adv.

WATER CARNIVAL FOR FREDERICK

First of Its Kind in the Southwest

Special to the Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., August 5.—With 17 acres of water, Frederick is to feature the best entertainment ever held in southwest Oklahoma, August 10, 11 and 12 at Burt's lake, two miles north of here. This water carnival is something new for the people in this part of the state.

Frederick is known to have the best bathing pool in this section of the state, the water being furnished by springs. Besides the pleasures received from bathing and boating, large quantities of fish have recently been caught, making this lake an ideal sopt for lovers of summer amusements.

For this carnival, diving apparatus have been constructed to suit all who indulge in this sport. An aviator has been secured to "pull stunts" for the occasion.

The Frederick commercial band, which has become well known in the southwest, will furnish music.

FREDERICK, Okla., August 5.—Although having been organized only over two weeks, the local chapter of the De Molay order is now putting on regular degree work with about 30 members on the list.

Paul McLellan, master councellor, and Robert Cull, scribe, stated that it is hoped to have all high school boys in the order before the first of the year.

HARD LUCK, SON. WE DON'T BLAME YOU

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 5.—Sultry July days brought disaster to Howard Crayton, a youth of twenty-three.

A detective informed Judge M. J. Kilrow he "couldn't believe his eyes" when he saw Clayton dressed "a la Adam" enjoying a siesta beneath an oak tree near the business section of the city.

Judge Kilroy fined Clayton $50 and imparted some advice to him:

"We'll try to find you a cool spot at the municipal farm. Kansas City is not the garden of Eden."

Plan Fine Fire Works

Mr. Verschoyle has made a tentative agreement with the Thearle-Duffield fire works company now putting on the big fire works display on barges at the Pageant of Progress in Chicago, to come here. A grand stand will be necessary for this event and Mr. Verschoyle has received the promise of the state fair in Dallas of 3,000 seats from their bleachers to send here for the event. This matter will be put up to the directors. The famous fire works company puts on the eruption of Vesuvius the first night and a different set each succeeding night.

In securing the Wortham shows and the Al Sweet singing orchestra the Texas state fair association came to the rescue of Mr. Verschoyle and signed a waiver for those two attractions to come here as they were under contract to show at no other place than Dallas in Texas.

The fair association directors through Assistant Secretary McGhee Saturday morning expressed sincere appreciation of Mr. Verschoyle's work in getting the wonderful attractions. Mr. Verschoyle is worth more than money can estimate to the association, it is said, because of his experience and his hard work in putting the fair over.

ings, in fact almost all of the business section, from the depot to Indiana avenue, on Seventh street, and a block on Ohio, to Eighth, was of brick, though the houses were scattering. I. Jalonick, grandfather of Mrs. Earl Clayton of this city, had built pratically all of these buildings.

The residence section was widely scattered, a large part of the houses being east of the tracks, that section being opened up first for residence building.

Wichita county, with the exception of scattered farms along the Red and Wichita rivers, was at that time pasture land for the Burnett and Waggoner herds.

The oil developments of today were of course unthought of, irirgation, even the small project build in 1900, would have seemed a wild dream, to those pioneers of the early eighties. But none of them but were sure that in the coming days Wichita Falls would be a power to be reckoned with in the empire of Texas, just as today these same pioneers and builders are still on the job, confident that the greater era of deevlopment will come in years, where the first growth came by decades.

"It's been a great 38 years," says Wichita Falls' first mayor, Otis T. Bacon.

accomplished, much under way and an increasing interest. One of the best reports is that there are 800 abstaining students in Charles university in Prague. Some of these students and those in other universities spend much of their time in prohibition propoganda work which aids them to get through college. The people seem to realize the necessity of redoubled activities and the enactment of prohibition laws, and the slogan "An alcohol free nation by 1930" has been adopted.

Close 50 Places in One Town

Director Seth May of Maine reports to Federal Prohibition Commissioner Haynes a sweeping investigation has been carried on in Waterville with the result that approximately fifty places have been ordered closed, the injunctions being issued in Portland by Judge John A. Paters of the United States supreme district court for Maine. These bills are in the nature of complaints made in equity and allege that the places referred to are common nuisances. Under the provisions of the act, if the temporary injunctions are sustained, a permanent injunction will be issued and the proprietors and owners of the buildings enjoined from selling or allowing the sale of liquor in the buildings. If the permanent injunction is not heeded, the place can be closed indefinitely by officers and those connected with it sent to jail for contempt of court, from which decision there is no appeal and the length of confinement depends on the will of the judge.

Many Raids Here

Many stills and numerous bootleggers have been captured in this section since Mr. Tyler's advent here, his own record shows. Possibly his career as a federal officer, including the gun battles and the sensational raids made on located stills would make a rather large volume itself, but Mr. Tyler naturally is reticent concerning the things he himself has done.

It is to his credit, however, that he has headed many successful raids, and that through his work, many violators of the Volstead act have been arraigned before Commissioner J. A. Lantz.

And Tyler has suggested a good code for the punishment of the bootlegger, too. He says that the courts ought to inflict the punishment on the bootlegger of making him drink his own concoction.

It might help to decrease the number of bootleggers, at that.

In fact, every detail will be worked out so that when a farmer gets on the land he will not have to guess what his crops are going to cost him, but will be able to look at the survey sheets and tell almost exactly what the cost will be if he follows instructions.

Ideal Farm Here

The ideal farm for the Wichita valley project has been pointed out as one that will have several kinds of fruit trees which will grow and produce here to furnish fruit and preserves for home consumption and perhaps some fruit to sell; a good garden or truck patch to furnish vegetables for the table and some to sell, as well as some feed for hogs and chickens; a patch of alfalfa to run hogs on as well as to cut for feed, a field of wheat and other grain that is adaptable; some cattle and hogs to be fed on the products of the farm and sold at market; a few dairy cattle and some poultry. The combination should bring the farmer in an income through various seasons and make him a comfortable living. Wichita Falls and the outer world, through the distribution system of railroads that enter here will furnish the farmer an outlet for his products.

GENERAL TIRES PROVE POPULAR

Company Has Fine Record

Pat Jarratt of the Dixie Tire Service company, local dealers for General tires is in receipt of the following news item, sent the local agency by the factory:

Common stockholders of the General Tire and Rubber company will receive their regular quarterly dividend checks the first week in August. Payment of the dividend, at two per cent per quarter, has been authorized by the directors, and it is noted in financial circles that the company has not omitted paying a dividend, either on common or preferred stock, since its formation eight years ago. This is reflected in the market stock quotations General common being well over 200, with none for sale. The next quarterly dividend on preferred is due October 1.

Year's Sales Are Record

The management reports the largest year's business, both in units and in dollars, in the company's history, and it is interesting to note that General's business has been larger each succeeding year, even in the midst of the recent depression. Generals' product consists of pneumatic tires and tubes, in all sizes, for passenger car and commercial work. All of its tires are sold through dealers to the consuming public, and the factory is now working at capacity production.

The success of this company, through a time in which there has been much stress and trouble for others in the same line, has attracted much attention. Wm. O'Neil, vice president and general manager, attributes it to dealer co-operation, production of quality goods and the fact that the company does not take any so-called "original equipment" business from car manufacturers. Mr. O'Neil was quoted in July "System" a national business publication thus:

On Sound Basis

"The last two years have cleared the air. The business mortality among dealers has been enormous. Now the tire industry is having a new start. Thoughtful survivors, both in tire making and tire selling, realize thoroughly, perhaps for the first time in their business lives, that their vocation is no different from any other so far as basic principles are concerned—the discriminating tire buyer does not buy because a tire is cheap. He buys when he needs tires and because of the security and mileage they will give him.

"We have some 600 dealers who handle only our tires—dealers, that is, in cities of more than 10,000 population. Take the hundred largest cities in the United States. In 43 of them the General tire agent has the largest business in his town."

REO AS A TRAVELING STORE

"Every man or woman, who lived in the country as a child, will recall the butcher, the fish man and other itinerary vendors, who use to visit every door on weekly rounds, bringing some of the advantages of the town to those who lived in the rural districts," says Mr. Fritz of the Fritz Motor company.

"In those days we thought it was quite a convenience to have these merchants come around; but as time went on they began to disappear. The automobile enabled people to get to town more often and the patronage of the traveling merchant, with his restricted stock, suffered accordingly. But now a new element has entered in, which is bringing back the stores on wheels by making it possible to carry complete stocks and to cover a vast extent of territory in a very short time. Reo speed wagon stores are opening up the field.

"The Reo speed wagon is being used in many places as grocery stores, meat markets, hardware stores, plumbing shops and even clothing stores. A special body is constructed which permits the carrying of almost as large a stock as is carried in the average small shop on city streets, and sometimes room is provided for the customer to enter to do his shopping, or, in the case of the market, where a large refrigerator is built into the store, an awning suspended from the rear provides shelter for both merchant and customer."

The traveling grocery store illustrated has been mounted on a Reo speed wagon chassis by Mr. Chas. Vantilburg of Piqua, Ohio.

He states that he has been doing a greater volume of business with his traveling grocery than was formerly possible in his corner store.

This traveling grocery store has a regular route and its coming is looked forward to by the housewives all along the way.

Olds to Have Same Models

The 1923 line of Oldsmobiles will consist of the present four and eight-cylinder models, with no radical chassis changes, it was announced today by A. B. C. Hardy, president of the Olds Motor Works, Lansing, Michigan.

"We have decided to maintain the same chassis and body models for 1923, because we consider our four and eight-cylinder models have been brought to a state of perfection as near 100 per cent as the best automotive engineers can design and the most experienced workmen build," said Mr. Hardy. "We are always ready to adopt any improvements that our engineers, in co-operation with the General Motors laboratories, find will improve the dependability, power and economy of Oldsmobiles, and we make such improvements from time to time; but only after any months of actual road tests have proved that they are real improvements."

NASHES GIVEN THOROUGH TEST

Every Car "Smooth" Before Sold

A circular road, one-half mile in diameter, which lies just back of the long rows of saw tooth buildings that comprise the Kenosha factory of the Nash Motors company typifies the fact that in the production of Nash cars nothing is "left to chance." That road is just as much a part of Nash manufacturing equipment as are the battery of electric furnaces in the heattreating department and the marvelous drop hammers of the forge shop.

The fact that close inspection follows each operation throughout the factory in the manufacture of parts that go into the completed car and that each part is re-inspected after it has ben assembled with a co-ordinate part, and that the entire car is inspected after it leaves the assembly line, does not satisfy the Nash Motors company. Before a Nash car is shipped to a dealer the company makes sure by first hand information that the car is in perfect condition.

Gets Rigid Test

Thus after the Nash Six is complete in every detail, it is taken immediately out on the testing road, where in the hands of a mechanic, trained by long experience to detect the slightest indication of improper functioning of any part of the car, it is given a rigid test.

The tester, after driving the car out onto the circular road, puts it in low speed, then in second and finally into high. He circles the road many times, frequently alternating these speeds and as frequently going into the reserve.

If he detects the slightest inaccuracy in the functioning of any part he takes the car to the "hospital," a special adjusting department, where the trouble is immediately remedied. The car is then taken out again by the tester and driven over the track to make absolutely sure that it is in perfect condition.

MURDER CAR SELLS FOR SMALL SUM

PARIS, Aug. 5.—Landru's little motor truck, in which he is said to have transported the bodies of his victims, was sold at auction for less than $100. It was brought by a suburban plumber, who says he will exhibit it at a public amusement park.

Ford Makes His Own Windshield Glass; Uses Own Principles, Too

The Ford Motor company, Detroit, has begun to manufacture its own plate glass, and already has in operation the first modern glass house ever equipped especiall to make glass for automobiles.

As is customary when taking over the manufacture of a new product, Ford has applied his own principles of production, and, as a consequence, the methods and machinery used in making Ford glass are a radical departure from established practice. The Ford continuous conveyor system features the operations so that from the time the glass leaves the furnace until it becomes a polished windshield, it is always moving.

Glass making, when viewed in the Ford plant, looks to be very simple. The raw materials are introduced into the furnace where they become a molten mass. Drawn from the furnace in a semi-liquid state, the glass passes under a roller, which gives it width and thickness, and on to a moving conveyor. This carries it for 464 feet through a gradually cooling furnace. At the end, it is cut and placed on another conveyor which carries it through the grinding and polishing, after which it is ready for use.

This adds a new link to the fast-growing chain of Ford industries, which are being established and expanded from time to time in line with the Ford policy to achieve complete independence of outside material sources in manufacturing Ford products, and at the same time are the means by which Ford is enabled to use in the production of motor cars, trucks and tractors material of unusually high quality and sell them at the famous Ford prices.

Wills Sainte Clair Is Proving Popular In Wichita Falls

Bill Lampe has the information printed on the rear of his Wills Sainte Clair, "It's in Wichita Falls," meanin' of course, the Wills Sainte Clair. From the number of Wills Sainte Clairs you see on the street, and judging from the short time they have been offered to Wichita Falls motorists, we are inclined to think that Wills Sainte Clair is in town and in town strong. Among the cars delivered in this territory since the agency was placed here a few weeks ago are the following: Jim Howard, W. C. Ray, Glenn Conner, Dr. Burleson, M. V. McLain, R. H. Buchanan; R. H. McKinley and a new roadster delivered to E. P. Harding Friday.

Bill has recently opened a sales and service station on Tenth street, next to the Dixie tire service, and is now greeting friends and prospective Wills Sainte Slair owners in a brand new home. The local firm is a branch of the Southwest Motor company, Wills Sainte Clair distributors of Dallas.

Mr. Lampe is well known here, having been with D. L. Fritz' Marmon organization for several months, prior to coming here he was with the Southwest company in Dallas.

J. Maunders, well known automobile salesman here, and lately with the Remrod auto company, is associated with Mr. Lampe.

Oakland Makes Price Reductions

PONTIAC, Mich., Aug. 5.—The Oakland Motor Car company today announced reductions ranging from $240 to $100 on its complete line of six models, effective August 1st. The touring car has been reduced $150 and now sells for $995 f. o. b. factory. The sedan and four-passenger coupe have been reduced $240 and now sell for $1545 and $1445 respectively. There are correspondingly large reductions on all other Oakland models.

George H. Hannum, president and general manager of the Oakland Motor Car company, states that the new prices are due to the large volume of sales of the newest models, which resulted in larger production and in larger savings gained through large production. The 15,000 mile written engine guarantee will be continued.

HUDSON SALES NEAR HIGH MARK

Predict This Will Be Best Year

The clearest presentation of present sales and future sales outlook in the automotive industry today can probably be gained by comparing 1922 with 1920, the greatest sales year in automobile history.

Basing its prediction on shipments for the first six months of this year and on present outlook, the Hudson Motor Car company announces that 1922 sales of both Hudson and Essex cars will easily surpass those for 1920, the largest year in Hudson-Essex history. Orders already received insure continued maximum output for the balance of the summer, with every indication of heavy production throughout the balance of the year.

"Sales of Hudson and Essex cars for the first six months of 1922 were 95 per cent of sales for the similar period of 1920, the heaviest six months' period in the companies' history," says Lloyd Weaver of the Lloyd Weaver company, local Hudson-Essex dealer. "It is now certain that before Sept. 1 factory production will have surpassed totals for the first eight months of 1920," says Mr. Weaver. "Output for the remainder of 1922 will be considerably larger than for the same period two years ago, it is now practically assured.

"July sales will be about 18 per cent greater than for July, 1920, with some shortages still continuing in almost all parts of the country. Many distributors are asking the factory to ship them 'without limit,' or every car it possibly can.

"August output will be more than 30 per cent higher than for August, 1920, and more than 200 per cent greater than for August, 1921.

"June sales were the greatest of any single month in the companies' history, surpassing those for May, when all former records were broken.

"Indications that the farmer will come into the market for heavy buying soon are numerous. Orders, heavier than for any time this year, are being sent in by distributors in the farm belts. This is particularly true at several southernr points. The eastern coast and the Pacific northwest down to below San Francisco and east beyond Salt Lake City are also asking unusually large shipments.

"Sales for the first six months of this year were 142 per cent greater than for the same period in 1921."

BLOW-OUTS

Word received by Walter Dougherty at the Keim Mtotor Co., says that Frank Keim, the big boss at the Studebaker agency, is enjoying life to the full extent, down where the cool sea breezes blow, around Corpus Christi and thereabouts.

Charles K. Dalton, branch manager of the Dalton Rubber Co., with headquarters in Dallas, was in town last week closing up a contract for the distribution of Daytons with the Cut-Rate Tire company, thereby the local company will have the distribution of Daytons in seven counties in this section.

J. M. McFall, Julian McFall and H. M. Gregor of McFall brothers, were in Dallas last week where they attended a farewell dinner given in honor of D. A. Carsen, departing district representative for Dodge Brothers motor cars, who has been transferred to Detroit. Mr. Carson was presented with a beautiful platinum watch by the dealers and guests present. George S. Sills, newly appointed district representative for Dodge Brothers, was also an honored guest at the dinner.

Clarence Dodge, sales manager for McFall brothers, is another one of the knights of auto row who is enjoying the summer by keeping away from work. Mr. Dodge and Mrs. Dodge are enjoying a vacation in the mountains of Colorado.

George E. Reynolds, district manager of the White Truck company of Dallas, was a welcome visitor of the Overland Motors company last week.

Prices reduced again. That was the big noise one heard on every side last week. Among the dealers to receive notice of reductions were Excelsior Motor company, on all Studebaker models, Victory Motor company on the Oldsmobile line, Dixon Motor company, on Buicks, King and Weaver Motor sales on the Chevrolet, and er on the Nash models, Von Allman Wilhelm-Moulder company, on both their Chandler and Cleveland models.

E. S. Segal of the Cut Rate Tire company, is in Dundee this week on business.

Arthur Huff of the Arthur Huff Motor company, took a few days off last week and journeyed down to Dallas. Mr. Huff was another of the dealers who received a reduction in price on their cars, his Oakland announcement being one of the first to be received here last week.

With prices lowered it looks as if the automobile business is due for a little boom within the next few weeks. With cars of standard make as hard to get as they have been for the last few weeks, the cut was pretty much of a surprise to nearly every dealer concerned.

CHINK MOONSHINE FOUND IN DENVER

(By International News Service.)

DENVER, Aug. 5.—"Jimmy" Hammill, federal prohibition enforcement agent, a former Denver boxing promoter and widely known in sporting circles in Colorado, gets the credit for discovering what is believed to be the first Chinese "moonshiner" ever arrested in the United States.

An aged oriental, unable to understand the English language, was arrested by Hammill in a Lawrence street house here, where the enforcement agent found a complete distillery, $1,000 worth of manufactured liquor and 1,000 gallons of mash.

The prisoner merely mumbled "Tom" when efforts were made to learn his name.

The entire upper floor of the house had been used for the manufacture of illicit liquor, the officer said. The still was of seventy-five gallon capacity. When Hammill entered he was nearly overcome by fumes.

Letters from People

BE BRIEF AND COURTEOUS

Names of writers must accompany all letters, although it is not always essential that they be printed with their articles.

The Record News:

In a recent edition of the Record News I read an article on voters, "Who, Us?" let the men do it, say Wichita Falls' women. A reporter seeking to get an accurate expression of the sentiment on the subject from the women of Wichita Falls found only three out of 50 who declared their intention of voting, other women were not interested. This is an appalling state of affairs if women in every other hamlet, town and city show the same interest, but this is not the case I am happy to say which will be shown in the final runoff in the fall.

I predict that the public will realize more than ever before that women are potent factors in its county, state and national affairs. They realize she is full of interest, wide awake and alive to everything that is passing, fully conscious of her importance in the scheme of things as never before, and still remaining modest and serene. I further predict that when the straw ballot is taken two years hence, the reporter will find among the average run of women citizenship a different state of affairs, and will have another story to tell, for it will be considered by that time, thoroughly unprogressive, too utterly prosaic and a marke of unintelligence not to be informed on the questions of the day. I am spending the summer with my husband in Winert, but came home Saturday to vote, if I should have failed to do this, would feel that I was shirking my responsibility as a citizen. To me the fact that a woman has obtained the right to exercise the sovereignty of a citizen by casting her ballot does not lessen the chance that she will fulfill the purpose of motherhood or wifehood, by reason of that privilege, but on the other hand by keeping abreast of the events of the day and the great issues of American citizenship today, its broadening influence will have its effect on her, making her a better mother, a better wife, and now as never before it can truly be said man and wife are partners for they have an interest in common.

TARIFF WAITS UPON ELECTION

G. O. P. Candidates Want More Time

By BASCOM N. TIMMONS
Washington Correspondent
Special to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The two major political parties will go into the November election with the Underwood tariff law, a democratic measure, still the law of the land.

The Fordney-McCumber bill will be through both houses and in conference, but it will not be finally passed and ready for the president's signature when the voters of the nation begin their balloting in November.

This today was definite and of positive knowledge to the senate leaders. It is simply a question of mathematics—the bill cannot be put through all the necessary stages prior to November.

Republican leaders profess to believe that it is good politics to get all the discussion in open session of congress out of the way by September 15, send the bill to conference and adjourn. Then in December while the house is handling the regular annual appropriation bills, leaders say that senate and house conferees can iron out their differences, put the final touches on the bill and send it to President Harding.

Bonus Bill Next

After the tariff bill is passed the bonus measure will come up. It is hoped to have the tariff bill out of the way by September 1. As the bonus measure comes from the finance committee as does the tariff bill senate leaders will be unable to go at once into conference with the house on the tariff. Therefore, it will be close to October 1 before the tariff bill can be taken up in conference.

The biggest task facing a conference committee for years will then be up. Before the senate completes the bill it will have added 2,000 amendments, now pending as finance committee amendments. As it passed the house the bill had 678 separate paragraphs and now it has 716. Ordinarily this number of amendments and new paragraphs would require much time, but it so happens that the house bill is on the American valuation system and the senate on the foreign valuation. The conference after the heat of floor debate must settle these two hostile valuation plans in some quiet committee room and a stupendous task it will be.

Wait For Election

No political party is going to allow a tariff law to go into effect on the eve of election. No matter how good it is any new tariff law is hard to put into operation, and it is always unsatisfactory at the start.

Consequently, if they could, the republicans would hardly put the bill into operation on the eve of the election. But they cannot put it into operation anyway, with the time remaining.

The senate still has to consider the silk, paper and sundries schedule, the free list, and the administrative features. All of these are highly controversial. The sundries section alone is an enormous thing.

Republicans in the campaign prior to the November election will point out that a tariff bill has been passed and is only waiting for a few kinks to be straightened out and then will become law, carrying out the republican pledges.

The democrats will make much capital of the fact that the G. O. P. "was afraid" to enact a bill before election, and will make use of the speeches of Senators Lenroot, Nelson and other republicans, attacking the bill.

FERGUSON TO APPEAR BEFORE COMMITTEE

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Aug. 5.—James E. Ferguson, candidate for the United States senate in the run-off Texas democratic primary with Earle B. Mayfield, has cancelled his speaking date at Corpus Christi Monday and instead will appear before the democratic state executive committee meeting at Dallas on that day and contest any attempt to keep his name off the ticket. The committee meets at Dallas to canvass the returns of the July primary.

Judge John W. Caines of San Antonio has filed charges against Mr. Ferguson, setting forth that Ferguson's impeachment as governor several years ago, makes him ineligible to a place on the state ticket. A similar charge was made before the first primary, but the state committee permitted Ferguson's name to go on the ballot. The second primary will be held August 16.

REDUCTION IN TAXES URGED FOR ORIENT

By Associated Press.

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Aug. 5.—Citizens in mass meeting here last night appointed a committee to urge Tom Green county commissioners to reduce the tax valuation of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad in this county to $100 per mile. Clyde M. Reed of Parsons, Kans., chairman of the Kansas public utilities commission, representing the interstate commerce commission on an inspection of the Orient property, told the meeting this was one way in which the territory served by the road could aid in avoiding a threatened suspension of operation of the line. Mr. Reed declared abandonment of the Orient road within six months is certain unless it obtains more traffic and reduces expenses.

One of the important reasons why Nash cars stand up so solidly under hardest usage is the added strength and size of each unit.

BAYLOR PLANS BIGGER RODEO

Premiums Total Over $4,400

Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Aug. 5. — Plans for one of the biggest events ever staged in west Texas are rapidly maturing through the management of the board of directors of the Baylor county fair and cowboys' reunion, which is to be held in Seymour, Sept. 19 to 23, headed by I. O. Newton, as president and George S. Plants, secretary.

The directors promise to break records in rodeo premiums for this attraction and are offering $4,420 in these contests alone. $1,450 will be the purse in the bucking bronco contest, with $500 ,$300 and $200 as finals. The bronco busting contest will be one of the big features this year and will be for the championship of the world. Riders will be required to use stock or range saddles and ride under rules which will give the real cowboys an even break with the professionals for the money.

Will Reproduce "Old Days."

Every effort will be made to reproduce as nearly as possible in all the wild west features the cowboys' reunion of olden days. A real old-fashioned cowboys' square dance will be held and the breakdowns will be played by musicians familiar with this class of music. Two blocks on the pavement, it is planned, will be roped off for the dance.

Arrangements were made last week for the famous Tom L. Burnett Brahma steers, which have made history as the wildest bunch ever assembled in an arena. Bucking horses with equally as much punch are being sought and contracted for.

The chuck wagons will again be in ning to take care of their outfits in ning to take care of thei routfits in this typical western manner. Fifty acres for camping on beautiful Seymour creek, with water, wood and lights, will be provided for those who come prepared to camp. This campsite is within four blocks of the business district and about the same distance to the fair grounds.

Seating Capacity Increased

A gravelled thoroughfare looping the park and fair grounds has just been completed at an approximate cost of $6,000 and ample parking ground to the west of the new entrance is being arranged for. The seating capacity of the grounds will be increased to 12,000, which will include two new grand stands 100 feet each in length and two 100-foot bleachers. A seven-foot bullproof wire fence will enclose the entire rodeo grounds and a three-quarter mile race track is being graded and put in condition.

A livestock building 48x100 is another new building for this year in addition to the 70x100 agricultural building, which has recntly bn completd. New pens and fencing throughout the grounds are being built and all buildings will be painted white, making the prounds one of the prettiest and best equipped, for fair purposes in west Texas.

Better Livestock This Year

County Agent G. C. McGown who has charge of the livestock and agricultural exhibits states that the Baylor county fair will have the minest exhibits in their history this year. He now has the assurance of six county agricultural exhibits and the livestock will include specimens from some of the best breeders in this section. Roland Busby of Archer county will conduct the pure bred divestock sale on the fourth day of the show and buyers from all the surrounding counties have signified their intention of being present. More than $5,000 will be awarded in the agricultural and livestock exhibits. Miss Millie Halsey, home economic demonstrater of Baylor county, will be in charge of the poultry, canning, cooking and textile departments.

Frank Rhoades of Throckmorton county, "king of rodeo riders," will again be manager of the wild west features, and R. B. Willson of Munday, John T. Davis of Throckmorton, E. A. Stevens of the Hash Knife ranch and Elbert Elliott of Baylor county, assistant managers.

Indiana Mine Zones Quiet

By Associated Press.

STAUNTON, Ind., August 5.—All sections of the 20 to 40 mile area through which Indiana state troops are scattered, guarding mines, were quiet tonight, but the situation was considered by officers in charge to be decidedly tense, especially in the neighborhood of Jasonville and Linton (Greene county) where detachments of militiamen established headquarters about midnight last night. At Staunon where snipers fired on sentries early this morning resulting in continuous firing for nearly two hours, there was no indication of further disturbance, but every outpost had been doubled and new machine gun posts established.

JULY ONE OF HOTTEST MONTHS IN THIS AREA

Special to the Record News.

STAMFORD, Aug. 5.—The month of July was one of the warmest in the memory of settlers in west Texas, according to reports received by the West Texas chamber of commerce. Unusually warm weather for the plains country was reported. The hypothesis is that the continued dry weather together with the hot winds from the west has brought this about. In a number of West Texas the thermometer during July reached as high as 103 in the shade. However, the heat of West Texas is tempered by the almost continuous breezes which blow. So far as can be ascertained there has not been a prostration by heat anywhere in west Texas this year.

PITY THE JUDGES IF QUINN GETS IN

By Associated Press.

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 5.—Texas judges will be required to report for work at 9 o'clock every morning and would be allowed one hour for lunch if a bill which Representative B. E. Quinn, democratic nominee for re-election to the lower house, says he will introduce at the next session of the legislature, is enacted.

The bill, regulating the working hours of the jurists would be applicable to all judges from that of county court to the justices on the bench of the supreme court, Quinn says, and would require their presence at the courthouse from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. Two vacations a year at specified seasons, are provided. Mr. Quinn would also require county commissioners to designate between what particular mile posts road improvements are to be made in obtaining approval for and making reports of public expenditures.

Three New Oil Sands to Be Tested Out in Electra District This Week

PRICES HOLD DRILLING DOWN

Better Market Will Boost Field

Two tests on as many sands, in the southwest side of the South Electra pool, provided the center of interest for the week at Electra and their successful completion will have an important bearing on future operations, when conditions in the crude market become such as to ecourage further drilling.

The new sands are provided by the Panhandle Refinery No. 1 Waggoner, in section 27, at 1830 feet, the Grisham, McCallister and Brown No. 2 Waggoner at 1,740 feet.

Testing of these various sands was under way at the end of this week.

New Wells Scarce

The shut down of operations following the second cut in the price of crude, is already showing up, in the scarcity of new wells in the 1900 foot sand, which has boosted the Electra production so high in the past few weeks. Production has dropped only slightly, so far, since the flush of these wells stays on for a considerable length of time, in most cases.

Two 1900 foot wells are reported from the Gladiolus lease of the Hobbs Oil company, the No. 63 and 64, each making 350 barrels.

The No. 53 Burnett of the Planet Petroleum company is reported making 300 barrels, also in the 1900 foot sand.

On the Waggoner lease, Gibson survey of the Shamrock oil corporation, the No. 5 and No. 6 are reported preparing to complete in the 1900 foot sand. The No. 7 is on the 1500 foot sand, and preparing to complete.

Cline Co. Drilling In

The Cline Oil company's No. 2 Waggoner, east of the Shamrock lease is drilling to the 1900 foot sand, and should be completed in a short time, it is reported.

The Rio Bravo Oil company's No. 1 Fee, in section 31, is on the sand, at 1944 feet, and preparing to complete. Location has been made for No. 2, 1,000 feet south of the No. 1 which is an offset to the No. 6 Rio Bravo of Harvey and Cullum, a recent completion in the 1900 foot sand.

Harvey and Cullum are drilling around sand depth in their No. 9 in the northeast corner of their lease, and the No. 10 on the south line, offsetting one of the Hereford Oil company's 1900 foot wells, is drilling around 1,200 feet. When these wells are completed drilling will be temporarily suspended on this lease, it is understood. The Hereford Oil company's No. 6 Allingham is the only well now drilling on this lease, and is reported nearing completio.

New Test Coming Soon

A new test will start drilling in section 8, a short distance across the Wilbarger county line, the No. 1 Waggoner of the Cochran, Golding Oil company.

The Texhoma Oil & Refining company's No. 1 Waggoner in section 13 is reported drilling through the lime on top of the 1900 foot sand, and should provide important developments within the next few days. This test is of interest because of its location, about halfway between the deep producers in section 31, and the new 1900 foot producers on the Jennings ad the Beaver Electra refinery grounds, on a diagonal line.

Drilling operations in the new pool just east of the town of Electra are reported making fair progress, though no new wells are reported for the week.

The Camp Oil and Gas company lost the first hole on the No. 1 Douglas, and has skidded the rig and started drilling again.

The Gulf production, the Humble, Green and Dale, and Cumley et al are among those due to furnish some sort of news within a short time in the Electra suburbs pool.

Hunter Gets Producer

T. F. Hunter completed his No. 4 Roberts B, in the 1600 foot sand, in the North Fowlkes pool, reported a 100 barrel well.

In the old South Electra shallow pool Smith and Caldwell's No. 7 Burnett is reported a 40 barrel well, at 730 feet.

McDonald et al have abandoned their No. 5 Burnett, junked, after several weeks of attempting to complete in the 1960 foot level.

Another abandoned deep test is reported, from the west side of the field, the Bankers Petroleum company's No. 1 Waggoner, in section 26.

Two Wilbarger Wells

Two completions are reported from Wilbarger county this past week. One of them, the No. 2 Wharton of the Sigler Oil company, is practically an offset to the famous Sigler discovery well, and is the first successful completion since the drilling in of the No. 1 well, more than two years ago. The new well is pumping 50 barrels, and is slightly less than 2,100 feet deep.

The second Wilbarger county completion is the Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 34 H. and T. C. a 30 barrel well in the 1800 foot sand.

Burkburnett Completions

Three new wells are reported from the South Burkburnett shallow fieled, two of them on the Stump Oil company's Cropper lease. The No. 8 is reported a 25 barrel well and the No. 9 a 20 barrel well, both in the 1400 foot sand.

The Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 12 Dodson is a 100 barrel well, in the 1040 foot sand, this lease having already supplied some of the nicest completions in the entire south shallow pool.

The old Burkburnett pools also contributed a few new wells.

The Staley Langford et al No. 9 Fee is a 100 barrel well in the 1800 foot sand and the No. 4 Holtzen of the Magnolia Petroleum company is reported also a 100 barrel well, in the 1800 foot sand.

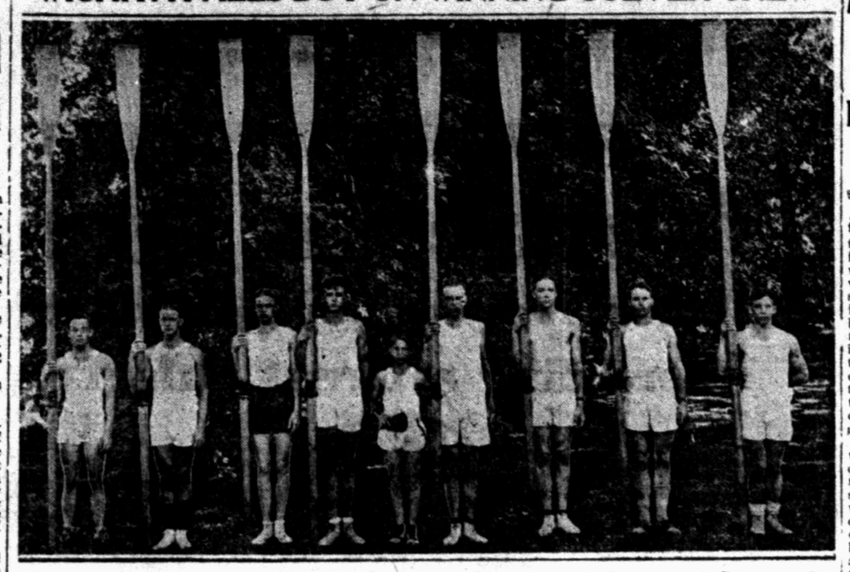

In the old Sunshine Hill district, between Electra and the Clara pool, the Fort Dearborn Oil company's No. 11 Eads is a 10 barrel well in the 440 foot sand.

The Texhoma pool in Archer county supplied three new wells this past week. The Texhoma Oil and Refining company's No. 25 Gose is a 150 barrel well in the sand at 1,595 feet, and the No. 6 Coffman Yeats of the same company is making 150 barrels, from the sand at 1597 feet. Both of these wells are in the south end of the pool.

In the north side of the producing area Harper and Jones No. 3 Taylor is reported a 125 barrel producer, at 1610 feet.

The Texas company's No. 3 Chance is on the 1600 foot and the No. 4 ... lease is drilling around 1400 feet.

WICHITA FALLS BOY ON WINNING CULVER CREW

Jerome J. Kennedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Kennedy, Kemp hotel, was the only Texas boy in the crew which represented Culver military academy in the recent water carnival on Lake Michigan. The diminutive ecoxswain in the center of the picture, has finished his fifth year as a military academy student, being enrolled at Gulfport military academy, Gulfport, Miss., when he was nine years old. He has been a student at Culver for two years. He has spent his vacation here with his parents for the past thre summers and is now enjoying the summer camp of Culver before coming home.

Mr. Kennedy has been operating in the Wichita Falls district since the opening of the Burkburnett townsite activity.

PANHANDLE HAS NEW PRODUCER

Interest Revived by Silk Well

Special to The Record News.

PANHANDLE, Aug. 5.—Interest has been considerably revided in the panhandle field during the past week by the Silk well in Carson county and the McGee well in Hutchinson county.

Silk-Bullington-Clark No. 1 Burnett in north Carson reached the producing sand last week at 3,070 feet. A crooked hole and collapsed six-inch pipe which would not go to the bottom and prevent caving, bade the completion of the well look doubtful for a time. This trouble has been overcome by running a string of five-inch with a packer to the four-foot cap rock of lime immediately above the sand, which is said to be holding satisfactorily. Oil is standing 1,700 feet in the hole after the bit penetrated the sand six inches.

It is reported that after a few feet further drilling, a three-inch pump will be placed in the well for a test, if the well doesn't flow. A much smaller pump was placed in the Gulf well one mile north, which pumped 13 barrels per hour continuously without lowering the oil in the hole, which stood at 1,400 feet. With the oil standing 300 feet deeper in the Silk than in the Gulf wells and the sand hardly scratched, the Silk well looks much better for production than any of the other three producers in the field.

While the two Gulf wells in Hutchinson and Carson counties have not been thoroughly tested, they are both credited with being good for better than 500 barrels each per day and are 12 miles apart, north and south. The McGee, between these wells, was recently shot and the production will not be known until the bridge is cleaned out. However, present estimates are 500 barrels, as it is spraying over 50 barrels through the bridge.

AFTER GASSER NEAR VERNON

Heinzerling Well Has Oil Showing

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Aug. 5.—Twenty-two feet of oil bearing sand on a structure which thus far has measured up fully to the expectations of those developing it, was encountered last week-end in the Heinzerling well south of Vernon and marked the most important development in the Wilbarger county field. Diligent search through Electra and other neighboring oil fields, however, failed to bring to light swabbing tools of sufficient dimension to serve in the Heinzerling test, and as a consequence the operators have cased off the sand and will continue a deeper hole in quest of gas.

In all probability a second test will be sunk at some future date to determine the possibilities of an oil sand encountered at 350 feet, and the strata passed up last week. Meanwhile W. H. Heinzerling, in charge of operations, is confident of finding an excellent gas pocket in the neighborhood of 1,400 feet. Absence of water at 850 feet, the depth at which the twenty-two foot sand was encountered last week, makes the work of casing off the strata comparatively simple.

Get Five Showings

The Zaca quiesta operators, sinking a test on section 99 in block 14, have set twelce inch casing at 880 feet, and have sunk their hole about 1,000 feet. Five good oil showings are reported by those in charge, the last one having been encountered on Tuesday of the past week. The Zacaquiesta is operating on the same structure with the Heinzerling, and several well-known local citizens have an interest in the test.

The Sigler offset, sunk near the well-known discovery well in the field, has been on a test for the past week, and is reported to be making in the neighborhood of forty barrels a day. Future tests in the immediate vicinity, according to Lloyd Sigler, will depend to a certain extent on the success of the Planet petroleum test now being sunk several miles further south. In the event the Planet operations terminate successfully, a pipe line can be installed in the field for the purpose of furnishing fuel oil to other derricks.

Dismantle West Vernon

Work at dismantling the west Vernon equipment three miles west of town is scheduled to begin Sunday. Fee owners declined to renew leases in order to permit the work to progress. The west Vernon well, for some time holding the closest interest of the local operators, was started three years ago. After 700 feet had been negotiated, the location was sold to the Penn-Burk company which was later unable to successfully finance the project. A. E. Dean of Philadelphia and New York, who owned many leases in the vicinity, then took charge of operations in order to protect his interests, and toward the latter part of February, 1922, recommenced drilling operations. The hole was abandoned in June at a depth of 2,700 feet.

The Planet Petroleum company, operating south of the Sigler field, is reported at 2,000 feet with only 100 feet more to negotiate to reach the contract depth. There have been no showings of consequence. Operations are under the supervision of Jack Greenwood of Fort Worth.

Three miles southeast of Vernon the Noble well operators have finished their tedious work of several months in drilling out a steel shoe, and have again commenced making hole at a depth slightly over 3,000 feet. The Farmers Valley test, eight miles west of town, has set casing at 750 feet and is again making progress. A quantity of pipe was purchased by operators from the management of the West Vernon test.

North of Pease river the Dickey-Bell Oil company, operating on the Ogerly farm, has temporarily suspended operations at slightly more than 2,100 feet. Leases have been renewed and arrangements made to continue the hole until a deep tests is made.

BRADY ENJOYS BUILDING BOOM

Office Buildings Are Going Up

Special to The Record News.

BRADY, Aug. 5.—The biggest building boom in many months has taken possession of Brady, where the sound of the hammer and the song of the saw are heard daily.

The Gibbons block of brick is rapidly being completed and will be ready for occupancy by the middle of September. The R. Wilensky Dry Goods store and the Townsend Variety store will occupy the two store rooms. Upper story will be used for offices. The new Ogden-Bell block of three brick buildings has been started, foundations being laid. A modern stone or brick building will be built in the next weeks by S. W. Hughes & Co., on the south side of the square. The building will be 30x90 feet. Applications have already been received for possession of leases. The Embry gin has been rebuilt from bottom upwards ltest machinery and equipment added and a general overhauling made. Work has started on the large cotton compress which will replace the one destroyed by fire several weeks ago.

An addition is being built to the office building of the Mayhew Produce company. It will be of brick and house three cold-storage rooms. Julius Levy has plans under way for the erection of a large brick theater building just opposite the Masonic hall. The building will have store rooms on either side of the theater entrance. At the courthouse erection of a rest room is progressing, new concrete benches are being poured, and ash receptacles provided. Two rooms are being added to the M. S. Middleniss bungalow. Others making improvements on their homes are those being made by J. E. Shropshire, G. A. Krueger, Dr. J. W. Wagsdale is erecting a modern 5-room bungalow, at a cost of $3,000. J. A. Holton also is erecting a new 5-room bungalow to cost approximately $3,000.

LATE SUMMER STYLES IN ATTRACTIVE SWEATERS

By ELOISE

Sweaters, sweaters everywhere, no matter how hot the day, is the edict of the fashionable world this summer. Nobody stops at one or even two of them, but a sweater for every day in every color and two for some days is the rule. A silk sweater for dress, a white sweater for evening, a bright sweater for sports and a dark sweater for a change are but a few of the seasons for owning a sweater. The smart new sport skirts of silk, flannel and eponge are another good reason.

Here are two attractive sweaters of the slip-on style. The one in the center is a dark brown wool sweater made in a large block weave. It is the popular V-neck style and is worn with brown and white checked knickers for hiking and golf. A white silk and wool model is shown at the left with a red and black striped eponge skirt. The skirt features the fringed hem. A sailor hat makes the costume suitable for business, street or country wear.

If, however, one prefers a frock instead of the ever popular sweater the one at the right is a charming style. It, too, is suitable for many hours of the summer day. It is made of lovely white Japanese crepe which launders perfectly and is cool as can be. Bright checked gingham makes the collar, cuffs, sash and appliqued pockets which are made in a unique fruit design.

Any of these costumes is practical enough to buy even this late in the season, particularly if one's vacation is still an anticipated joy.

FRENCHMAN KILLS BABES FOR REVENGE

(By International News Service.)

SAINT BRIEUC, France, Aug. 5. Eugene Hoguet, forty-one years old, has been condemned to death for the murder of his four children. He took them from their beds and drowned them in a lake near his home.

"I did it to revenge myself upon their mother, who threatened to divorce me," he told the court.

"I'd rather he would have killed me outright than to have made me suffer death four times," pleaded the young wife and the jury stayed out only a few minutes.

JUDGE KNEW, TOO, RELEASES PRISONER

(By International News Service.)

CINCINNATI, Aug. 5.—"I guess I did park too yong, your honor," a man admitted to Judge Meredith Yeatman in police court here. "I had been out blackberrying, and I was trying to get something that would relieve me from the chiggers."

There was a sympathetic look in the Judge's eyes. "I knew just how you feel," he said, suspended the costs in the case and sent the prisoner home to scratch.

BOLD BANDIT INVADES STATION

(By International News Service.)

PARIS, Aug. 5.—"How many?" It was the dull hour of ten at night. The woman who sells subway tickets at the Madeleine station of the Nord-Sud mechanically handed out two bits of pasteboard. "I'll take all you've got!" said a gruff voice. The woman looked up to see the muzzle of a revolver poked through the grating.

A moment later the owner of the revolver disappeared into the street bearing with him about $100 in small French coin. Police have no clue but a vague description.

Oh You Hot Water!

A constant supply of hot water is one of the advantages of a home using natural gas. Without heating up the house, and at very little expense, you may revel in the luxury of all the hot water you want.

There is a right way and a wrong way to heat this supply. The wrong way may cost you more than is necessary. The right way makes it economical as well as convenient.

Reduce the Cost

Boilers may be heated directly with a flame underneath. This flame should be short and blue. The burners should be cleaned occasionally.

Then, if you will jacket the boiler with a sheet of galvanized iron, placed about one inch from the boiler itself and extending down over the burner, you will obtain all the heat from your burner, consume less gas and have smaller bills.

If, in addition to this, you will cover the outside jacket with asbestos or magnesian insulation, you will enjoy an abundant supply of hot water at an insignificant price.

Women Still Willing to Die for Lost Love

Four Outstanding Instances Confound the Cynics, Who Hold That Women No Longer Take Love Seriously, and Prove That the Modern Maiden Is Just as Intense as Cleopatra, Sappho, Francesca and Juliet.

Mary Fanny Grasswitt, Virginia Girl Who Fled to Chicago and There Killed Herself When the Man She Loved, O. S. Hunsicker, Was Disclosed as Married.

Frank Dicksee's Famous Painting of the Tomb Scene from "Romeo and Juliet" Showing Romeo About to Take Poison, Believing That Juliet, Who Was in a Trance, Was Really Dead. The Greatest Love Tragedy of the Drama.

By Elizabeth Shields

THE modern cynic takes deep delight in saying that woman no longer takes love seriously. "Her interests have become varied," he declares. "She satisfies her psychic cravings by seeking—and often finding—success in business, achievement in art, complete independence of the male who once was her destiny."

Thus the word of the cynic who looketh upon the outward appearance. The actual fact is that women love as recklessly, as deeply and desperately as they have loved since the race began. Softly feminine, strong in passion, they love with such wholeness of being that, like women who loved of old, they find the world but waste when the light o' the heart, which is evanescent as impulse and long as eternity, goes out.

The poor little sordid tragedies of the Marion Fishers, the Mary Grasswitts, the Peggy Beals, the June Matilda Reynolds, who have loved and been loved and dared death when loving was over have plenty of precedent in tales of womanhood.

Sappho, sweet singer of Lesbia, sang no more when the glow of her life was dulled. Her longing and her pain were dark companions of her terrific gesture of resignation.

The Sorceress of the Nile found glory grim and grandeur a futile thing when love was gone. She, too, sought peace in the terror of the Beyond.

Tender, clinging Juliet hardily wooed death when her Romeo no longer wooed her.

* * *

Spring was reveling in Massachusetts. But there was a maid of Malden who saw only desolation where cherry-blooms grew and felt only chill in the velvet wind. There had been love between Marion Fisher and Walter Stephens. Then there was no love. The pretty Marion was stricken with such sense of loss as to feel that futility lay backward and forward and all about. Life that had been desirable as life always is to the late 'teens suddenly was worth exactly nothing. Furthermore, Marion was in the difficult position of having always before her the object of her emotional stress. For she was a stenographer in the very office of the man who had loved her! Perhaps one could stand any sort of sorrow if it were to come in a single shock and be finished. It is the cruel repetition of shocks that destroys morale. After Marion had met Walter over and over, always with increasing hopelessness, she went to the office early one morning with a bit of bottle in her coat pocket. It was labeled with the skull and cross-bones.

She wished to have a farewell look around the place where she had been so happy—and so miserable. It really was her good-by to the man who no longer cared. Then it was over. She raised the bottle; the liquid began to burn her throat.

AND——

The face she never expected to see again was before her. A white, anguished face and a voice saying things not at all like those a man out of love would say. A pair of arms went round her, too, so she didn't quite fall. When she began to realize what was happening she was lying comfortably at home with both hands clasped in those she loved.

If only Sappho and her stony-hearted swain might have experienced the revelation of death without its finality! Perhaps they, too, might have visioned a future of happiness together, just as did this humble stenographer and the once indifferent youth!

* * *

There was no such happy ending to the death-rather-than-no-love story of Mary Fannie Grasswitt. Poor little lonely heart, lying under Chicago soil! Who shall say that her spirit does not wander back to Virginia, there to hover about the man whom she so loved in her troubled life?

A Southern romance, this, of old Richmond. Whisperings under the stars. A first kiss when magnolias bloomed. Other kisses while river songs floated through the evening under a purple sky. He promised and she believed him. So their love became what the world calls guilty though she thought it pure.

They wandered through fairyland. But this was the summer of happiness for the daughter of Virginia. A chill wind cut through one day, forerunner of winter to come. O. S. Hunsicker was married; he had a daughter. He had neglected to mention these things when he made his promises.

However, the habit of the heart is formed of steel. Love comes unbidden and leaves at no bidding. Mary Fannie Grasswitt tossed discretion down the wind.

Then Fate came round with a bill payable. The girl fled before that demand, hiding herself in Chicago. Followed long letters to Hunsicker, begging, pleading. But she knew, finally, that his passion had flickered out. Without it she felt as if she were sinking through fathoms of darkness; sinking into depthless night. She bought a gas-tube and took it to the furnished room she lived in. Not a big, spectacular love was Fannie's. Yet perhaps she felt herself kin to Cleopatra with the first, sweet lethal flow.

* * *

Marie Peggy Beal is another who wished to die because love was gone. But Kansas City's mystery woman differs from the others in that she also wished the man with whom she had shared love to die with her. Having loved her in life, he would love her again in death, despite the graceless wall of indifference he had built between them as they stood at the end of their trail.

This appeared to be the reasoning of one of the most beautiful women ever to come within the toils of the law in the mid-west city. F. Warren Anderson, Kansas City and Philadelphia clubman, scion of New Jersey aristocracy, man of irresistible personality, had belonged to her in happiness. Better that he still belong to her in unhappiness than that he be another's, or that they find contentment separately!

Thus thought another woman long ago; Francesca, who elected to be wafted on the winds of hell while time shall run just so the arms of Paolo held her close! So on a night which was to be the last of many nights strung upon their illicit love, the nurse who was Number Fifty-one on the "Perfect Lover's" list of loves, sent a bullet through his head and another through her own body. Only half of her wish was realized. If her preference was death for herself, she lost. Still she may win eventually. For Kansas reserves the noose as penalty for murder.

Peggy Beal of Kansas City, No. 51 of Maj. F. Warren Anderson's "Conquests," Sent a Bullet Crashing Through His Brain When He Boasted of His Magnetism Over Women. She Then Attempted Suicide.

June Mathilda Reynolds, of Boston, Who Attempted Suicide Because Her Employer Lover Lost Interest in Her.

Marion G. Fisher of Malden, Mass., Whose Self-Destruction Was Prevented by the Timely Arrival of Her Employer, Whose Love She Mistakenly Believed Had Been Lost.

Juliet, after all, was a selfish lady, even as Sappho and Cleopatra were selfish. They died because they wished to escape the ache of unrequited love. And most selfish of all was Francesca da Rimini, who sentenced her lover to eternal perdition that she eternally might enjoy his love.

So perhaps there are women today more noble of heart, if not of station, than those others of illustrious memory. June Matilda Reynolds, sweet-faced, scared-eyed blonde, who has yet to greet twenty, took stock of her heart-fancies and found that, sincere as they were, they appeared to offer harm to the man she adored. Daniel Grimes, much older than she, was a figure of wealth and position; she had been only a cashier in a restaurant he owned. Seeing her spring-like loveliness, he, too, offered promises which she believed. Followed four ever-to-be-remembered years. Then awakening.

Was she a mill-stone round his neck? Was she dragging him from his best, impeding his progress? Perhaps. She tried for a time to drop out of his life; to work her way and live her life. But the attraction was too strong; she kept going back. So finally she knew what she must do. There was a whole handful of veronal tablets; surely enough to make a very little and very tired girl sleep a very, very long time!

Perhaps you will be disappointed to know that she was not permitted to make her sacrifice. Wishing to die so the man she loved might be happy, she "had no luck," as she said herself when the police found her. Perhaps one of these days Daniel Grimes will find his way to the Boston hospital where she is drawing back to life and will tell her that love so sincere that it would destroy itself rather than burden its object never can be other than a joy in the life of a man.

O. S. Hunsicker (left), for Whom a Single Girl Killed Herself Because He Posed as Single, and Maj. F. Warren Anderson (at right), Who Boasted of Fifty Conquests Before No. 51 Slew Him.

"HUBBY WANTED HAREM"

A girl was a girl and her husband wasn't particular as long as she was pretty, Mrs. Lotta M. Avery told the judge in describing his hammock spooning parties with numerous of the fair sex.

DETROIT, July 31.—"He wanted a harem." That was the title of the piece Mrs. Lotta M. Avery spoke when her turn came in divorce court here.

According to her story to the judge, her husband, Alden Glenn Avery is an automobile salesman who should have been the sheik of Araby or some other such places where harems are quite the rage.

"He wanted a harem — not a wife," Mrs. Avery told the court.

Mrs. Avery, tall, lithe and blonde, waxed indignant as she told of her husband's weakness for a "pretty face." She's the mother of three little girls.

"He never failed to fall for a pretty face," she testified. "It was nothing for him to hold one on his knee in my presence. He was not content unless he was with some other woman."

The divorce was granted Mrs. Avery.

"Now, he's free," she said, "and he can go to Turkey or Timbuctoo and get himself a whole harem, because he certainly doesn't want a wife."

The Magnificent Glaciers of Switzerland Are Among the Wonders of the World — Immense Reservoirs Feeding Vast Rivers — Some Advancing At An Alarming Rate.

By MARIE WIDMER

In proportion to its size which embraces but a total area of 15,975 square miles, Switzerland is indeed wonderfully rich in all the forms of mountainous and aquatic landscape beauties that an inland country can boast and one of the most sublime features of these scenic attractions are unquestionably the glaciers, those huge streams of ice, which sweep so majestically from the uppermost mountain regions down into the valleys.

Latest statistics show that the 1077 main glaciers of Switzerland cover a total area of approximately 787 square miles.

The most extensive mer de glace (sea of ice) is situated in the Jungfrau-Finsteraarhorn group and the greatest single glacier in the country and in the whole of Europe is the Aletsch glacier which in a total length of 15 miles descends from the base of the Jungfraufirn down to the Eggishorn and Belalp from either of which points the Rhone valley is conveniently reached.

Frozen Snow

While a glacier is invariably likened to a frozen stream, it is by no means formed of frozen water, but of frozen snow. The snow crowning the mountain tops is not of the variety we are accustomed to see in the lower regions, but can rather be described as a fine, dry powder, which is formed into a granular mass by the action of the sun shining on it in the middle of the day; for what is thus partially melted quickly freezes again each evening in globular forms. Consequently a glacier is not slippery like ordinary ice.

This process goes on year after year and has gone since times immemorial which accounts for the enormous size of many of these streams. The upper parts being less melted, present far the most granular surface; and the lower, getting more thoroughly dissolved at times, is the most consolidated ice. For this very reason the Swiss themselves designate the upper portion of a glacier as the "Neve" or "Firm" and the lower part only is called "glacier," derived from the French "glace"—ice.

Thickness Varies

Many eminent scientists have attempted to measure the thickness of these formidable frozen streams, but inasmuch as the ice fills up all the deep as well as the shallow places in its course down the mountains, it is not surprising that there has been a marked difference in their respective findings. De Saussure, the eminent Swiss naturalist, calculated the thickness at 600 feet; Agassiz, a later explorer, found some holes registering a depth of 780 feet; others discovered a depth of only 150 feet and consequently estimated the average thickness of a glacier to be between 60 and 100 feet.

According to scientific research an extraordinary expansion of these glaciers, leading them down through the valleys, across the lakes into the open plains, takes place but once in many thousands of years. Thus the last expansion of this kind, for which actual geological proofs are still found in many parts, dates back to some 20,000 years ago.

Cracks Or Crevasses

The constant heavy pressure on the glacial ice frequently causes splits of large masses and forces it so far to separate that there is no chance of a gradual rejoining. These cracks or crevasses are the dangerous feature of the glaciers, as they are often concealed by a treacherous coating of snow. Their presence and location is however generally known to the guides, so that a glacier tour under the leadership of such men is a perfectly safe venture.

Almost all glaciers have what are called "moraines" either at the sides or down the center. These are beds of stones, dirt and rubbish which collect from the very top of the glacier, and come sliding down on the ice. If two glaciers meet and join then the moraine on the inner side of each naturally meets and joins too, forming for the remainder of the course a bed down the center of it.

Sometimes large pieces of rocks fall on the glacier, and by their shadow prevent the ice under them and on the shadow side from being melted. The consequence is, that while the surrounding surface is melted and lowered by the heat of the sun, the portion underneath remains undisturbed, so that the rock finally rests on a sort of pedestal. But when an object of smaller proportions falls upon the ice, it becomes heated much more quickly than the ice. It then melts the ice upon which it rests and gradually makes a hole of some depth.

Enormous "Pot-Holes"

In the course of ages these stones slowly ground out holes in the rock beneath and were left back when the glacier receded. Striking remains of this pre-historic glacial activity are found in the famous Glacier Garden of Lucerne which is situated in the very heart of the city, where nine cauldrons, the largest 31 feet deep and 27 feet in diameter afford a most unique spectacle. Stones consisting of gneiss, granite of the St. Gothard, and alpine limestone are visible in the "pot-holes," an eloquent proof of their long wanderings from the Gothard range in the south. Ten large glacier mills are also found at Maloja, in the Upper Engadine, and the effect of early glacier movements is also clearly apparent on the granite walls shutting up the Grimsel.

There is no doubt that the glaciers are of very great use in the economy of nature. They are the locked-up reservoirs, the sealed fountains, from which the vast rivers traversing the continents of the globe are sustained. The summer heat which dries up other sources of water first opens out their bountiful supplies. When the rivers of the plains begin to shrink and dwindle within their parched beds, the torrents of the Alps, fed by melting snow and glaciers, rush down from the mountains and supply the deficiency.

Glaciers Are Growing

During the past decade several of the Swiss glaciers have grown considerably. While a slight forward movement was observed during 1909 and 1910, the excessively hot summer of 1911 sufficed to counteract the same. During the following years, however, the advance became once more perceptible and reached its peak during the summer of 1920, when these otherwise most rhythmical phenomena attained altogether ominous proportions. At that time it was discovered

Village Threatened

One of the best known Swiss glaciers, the Grindelwald glacier, in the Bernese Oberland, has in recent years been advancing at the alarming rate of twelve inches a day and its relatively close proximity to the village of Grindelwald has been taken advantage of by a commission of scientists who are watching and studying the growth and eventual retreat, which according to their estimation is likely to occur shortly. Woods, barns, pastures and fields, whatsoever may obstruct the downward course of these gigantic masses of ice are relentlessly overwhelmed and buried.

These alternate advances and retreats of glaciers are known all over the world, wherever people dwell in high mountain valleys. During cold and rainy eras the glaciers grow; during warm, dry eras they recede. In the alps the population so well understands the relation between glaciers and the precipitation of moisture on the mountains that in the last quarter of the past century when there was a project on foot to flood the Sahara Desert, it met with strong opposition in Switzerland, as the Swiss are under the impression that a huge expanse of water in North Africa would permanently increase the snowfall in their country. Whether the irrigation of such an immense tract of land in Northern Africa could have an atmospheric influence on the Swiss Alps is a question which the glaciers will in all probability solve some day, for recent reports have it that the French Government has authorized a project to irrigate a large part of the Sahara with water from the Niger River.

NORMA TALMADGE IN "THE ETERNAL FLAME"

GLENN HUNTER AND MARY ASTER IN "SECOND FIDDLE"

ERICH VON STROHEIM

MAE BUSCH AND RICHARD DIX ON SHIPBOARD

"ROBIN HOOD" IN THE MAKING

Edna Murphy—"Our Leading Citizen"—"The Eternal Flame"—Our Mary As Director—"Second Fiddle"—Erich Von Stroheim.

ABOUT one girl in a thousand, probably, who embarks upon a photoplay career achieves the distinction of playing leads during the first year. Edna Murphy proved herself that one, for within a very short time after her first screen appearance she was cast as George Walsh's leading woman. She then appeared as the feminine lead in a serial. She was in the cast of "Over the Hill," and she and Johnnie Walker—who made a hit as the black sheep in the latter production—then appeared as co-stars. Their first appearance was in "Live Wires" then followed "The Jolt" and "Extra! Extra!"

"Our Leading Citizen"

This is the story of a young lawyer (Thomas Meighan) in a small town, who is devoted to fishing and who, at the outbreak of the World War, enlists and returns a hero. In France he meets again a girl (Lois Wilson) he has admired back home. She returns first and paves the way for his reception, but his modesty prompts him to hide his light under a bushel. Finally he is caught and properly "received" by the populace. He is groomed for Congress, but refuses to agree to certain corrupt demands and learning, as he believes, that the girl has urged him on to further her brother's ends, disappears from town. Later he is brought back, wins the election and weds the girl who was always true to herself and to him.

"The Eternal Flame"

In "The Eternal Flame" one finds a story of tense heart interest that revolves around the petty jealousies, scandals and romances of the court of Louis XVIII. The Duchess of Langeais (Norma Talmadge), a beautiful young woman of sterling character, finds herself regarded as a toy by her warrior husband, who wagers on her purity just as he would upon a pet falcon or horse. His interest is centered upon his own life and he leaves to take command of the army at the front without a thought for his wife.

In this loneliness she finds friends who seek her love; but to all she remains aloof until General de Montriveau, an intimate of Napoleon, arrives. At first it is a game to see if any charm is able to make a dent in the inflexible iron soul of this soldier; but it passes that stage. The general is carried away by her sincerity. He refuses to listen to malicious whispers about her.

A moment of vanity, the desire to be known as the conqueror of the man who has never fallen in love, all but ruins the duchess. Her letters for forgiveness and of explanation fail to find a welcome. Although her husband has died, she finds, at the end of months, that her love must perish and resolves to enter a convent. At the last moment the man who had spurred the general on to believe malicious gossip about the duchess admits his mistake. Spurring his horses, the general overtakes the coach bearing the duchess to the convent in time to turn a possible tragedy into a reunion of happiness.

Conway Tearle is leading man.

Mary Takes The Megaphone

Mary Pickford in the role of director. She has taken her place in the director's chair to assume charge of one of the tournament scenes in her husband's new production, "Robin Hood". Beside her sits Husband Doug in all his knightly glory. Behind her, in the South African hat, is Allan Dwan, the real director of this picture.

"Second Fiddle"

This is the story of the young son of a New England blacksmith, who helps to pay for his brother's college education. The older boy is the favorite son for whom the parents, dazzled by his fine manners and lordly airs, have made great sacrifices. In a series of exciting situations, the younger brother (Glen Hunter) proves to be the true hero, whose simple honesty and natural cleverness have been overshadowed by his brother's pretentious and superficial brilliancy.

Both boys are in love with the same girl, and for a time, it seems as if the older brother will win. But after proving that the younger son has sacrificed himself in order to aid his brother in an emergency, the young girl promises to become his bride, with the happy consent of the simple parents.

Erich Von Stroheim

Erich Von Stroheim earned his first motion picture position by his intimate knowledge of European nobility and every type of foreign military decoration. He had various minor roles until "Hearts of the World" and "Heart of Humanity". In these he played the part of a brutal Hun officer so realistically as to almost cause his undoing. For a time he could not get another job because of the prevailing prejudice against the Hun. His first big success was in "Blind Husbands."

Mae Busch And Richard Dix Go Abroad

The picture above shows Mae Busch and Richard Dix on board the steamship Homeric, which took them to England, where they are playing the leads in the great film version of "The Christian". Maybe Dix is frowning because he has just learned he must lose ten pounds on the voyage—no pleasant task with a sea-air appetite.

WHAT OF THE DIRT FARMER

COMMISSIONER OF AGRICULTURE George B. Terrell has a slogan: "Farming must pay or the nation will perish." In the long ago the "Old Alcalde," O. M. Roberts, had a slogan: "Civilization begins and ends with the plow." It is admitted by students of history that the "Old Alcalde" was one of the wisest men among the early fathers of Texas. Commissioner Terrell says the state taxes are now more than the people generally are able to pay. He contends that if it is necessary to raise more money for schools and other purposes such extra taxes should be raised by equalizing property values and levying taxes "on those corporations not now paying their just share of the taxes." Furthermore he insists that the state agricultural administrative work is divided among several departments when it should be united with the department of agriculture, like it is in many other states and experience has convinced him that it could be handled much more economically by combining the work and that a saving of $75,000 a year can be made by the consolidations suggested.

He would place all agricultural work requiring administration and police supervision with the department of agriculture, where he insists it naturally belongs, and this calls for the consolidation of the warehouse and marketing department of agriculture, "in order to eliminate unnecessary duplication, concentrate directing power and promote efficiency and economy in the administration of agricultural law."

Texas is a billion dollar agricultural state and before the coming of the year 1930 it should be a three billion dollar agricultural state. Commissioner Terrell boldly declares that corporations are not paying a just share of the taxes and that the money these corporations pay into the treasury are wholly inadequate to compensate for the privileges they enjoy and the income they receive. He has been renominated and will be re-elected without opposition. Texas is the banner cotton state. Texas is the banner wheat state of the south or southwest. Frank Kell says the day will come when the vast wheat fields of Texas, in the Panhandle and Plains sections, will astonish the world by their productivity and their annual yield. Texas is greatest among the food producing states. There are millions of acres of Texas land which nature kindly designed for the sheep and goat industry. There are millions of acres which nature kindly designed for pasturage for beef and dairy production. Going are the last of the great ranches of the southwest. Texas of the future will be the home of the stock farmer and not the ranch owner or range king.

Object lessons are convincing lessons. Travel from the gulf to the foothills of Colorado and the stockman is in evidence. Passing away is the ranchman of other years and his vast domain. Texas, in coming years, will produce annually a greater number of hogs than any other American state and the time may come in the not distant future when Texas bacon will be better known around the world than the bacon made from the Kansas or Missouri porker. Indeed, those who are familiar with the growth of the swine industry in Texas say that the Lone Star is the ideal home of the hog and that the pork raisers of the state have been more successful in recent years than the producers of beef and mutton.

Fifty per cent of the white farmers of Texas are tenants. This is to be regretted. A man who owns his own home or his own farm is certain to rank up with the highest type of citizen of any commonwealth or country. The "Old Alcalde" was a very wise and a very just constructive statesman. He was one of the best informed men that ever lived under Texas skies. He knew that the land question or issue began thousands of years before the coming of the Christian era and has been carried down the corridors of time as a burning issue. It is an issue today. It will blaze forth whenever a James Stephen Hogg comes to make it a paramount issue in Texas and other American states where the land is slowly passing into the hands of the few.

The great commoner, who sleeps in the shade of a pecan grove, was bitterly opposed to alien ownership of land. In his campaigns for constructive reform he made it one of the burning issues. He won on it and yet the courts and the constitution were held to be on the side of the alien land buyer and against those who would make homes for themselves, cultivate the soil and add to the wealth of the commonwealth. James Stephen Hogg held that all idle lands held for speculative purposes should be taxed higher if need be, than the cultivated land held by those who were aiding and feeding the mouth and filling the stomach of the world. More than two decades after Hogg made his crusade against alien overlords grabbing the lands of Texas, James E. Ferguson launched his land tenaney issue and two years ago the Hon. Pat Morris Neff had something to say in favor of a graduated land tax that would make it at least interesting for individuals or corporations who held large tracts of land for speculative purposes and ever opposed the building of modern highways, modern school houses and educational advantages for the children of the people, vast irrigation projects and drainage movements—in fact, ever with their faces to the sunset, their backs to the wall and their hands on their pocketbooks to keep Texas from going forward.

There is a county west of Fort Worth on the Denver railway and the Colorado-to-the-Gulf motor highway where 16 men own one-third of the acreage of the county. They are opposed to modern highways. They are willing to live out their lives and walk in the old cow trails made by the herds of long horns in the long ago. There are others.

Commissioner George B. Terrell may have started something. He never says a word about a tax on land held for selfish or speculative purposes but he does insist that extra taxes for public free school purposes, for public roads and for the support of the state government shall be raised by equalizing property values and severance taxes on natural resources or gross receipt taxes, "upon corporations not now paying a just share of the taxes and which are wholly inadequate to compensate for the privileges they enjoy and the income received.

Yes, the dirt farmer of East Texas may have started something.

There is nothing surprising about the moribund condition of German finances. Death loves a shining mark.

Carry On!

ILLUSTRATED BY HUBERT MATHIEU

IT'S easy to fight when everything's right,
And you're mad with the thrill and the glory;
It's easy to cheer when victory's near,
And wallow in fields that are gory.
It's a different song when everything's wrong,
When you're feeling infernally mortal;
When it's ten against one, and hope there is none,
Buck up, little soldier, and chortle:

Carry on! Carry on!
There isn't much punch in your blow,
You're glaring and staring and hitting out blind;
You're muddy and bloody, but never you mind.
Carry on! Carry on!
You haven't the ghost of a show,
It's looking like death, but while you've a breath,
Carry on, my son! Carry on!

And so in the strife of the battle of life
It's easy to fight when you're winning;
It's easy to slave, and starve and be brave,
When the dawn of success is beginning.
But the man who can meet despair and defeat
With a cheer, there's the man of God's choosing:
The man who can fight to Heaven's own height
Is the man who can fight when he's losing.

Carry on! Carry on!
Things never were looming so black.
But show that you haven't a cowardly streak,
And though you're unlucky you never are weak.
Carry on! Carry on!
Brace up for another attack.
It's looking like hell, but—you never can tell:
Carry on, old man! Carry on!

There are some who drift out in the deserts of doubt,
And some who in brutishness wallow;
There are others, I know, who in piety go
Because of a Heaven to follow.
But to labor with zest, and to give of your best,
For the sweetness and joy of the giving;
To help folks along with a hand and a song:
Why, there's the real sunshine of living.

Carry on! Carry on!
Fight the good fight and true;
Believe in your mission, greet life with a cheer:
There's big work to do, and that's why you are here.
Carry on! Carry on!

Let the world be the better for you;
And at last when you die, let this be your cry:
Carry on, my soul! Carry on!

THE 5:15 —By Segar

THE OIL OUTLOOK

ACCORDING to the Wall Street Journal, price reduction in crude oil is timely and the Mid-Continent slash comes with a decrease in the Mexican crude supply. There is little light grade Mexican oil available, if the Journal is telling the truth, as most of it is sold under contract or refined by the companies producing it. This same newspaper says there has been a heavy slump in the Mexican output and that oil coming out of Mexico will command a higher price. Reduction of crude oil in the Mid-Continent and the cut in pipe line rates, previously 87½ cents a barrel, are declared distinctly to the advantage of the eastern Standard Oil companies and both reductions come when the supply of Mexican oil is decreasing and price advancing.

Is this an oft told tale or is it really true that the Mexican field is being exhausted? Only those on the inside know the facts. There are geologists who say that the Mexican fields haven't been scratched and that the underground supply is sufficient to provide half the world for a hundred years. There are men who are high in the petroleum world who ridicule the estimates or forecasts of the geologists and independent producers. Regardless of all this, there came a reduction of 50 cents a barrel in Mid-Continent crude and a cut of 12½ per cent in pipe line rates from the Mid-Continent fields to the Atlantic coast. Standard Oil refineries built at Atlantic seaboard points must be kept busy. Standard is the greatest selling agency for refined products in the world and it has the most efficient organization in the world.

An enthusiastic traveler refers to northern Mexico as a paradise. Well, Paradise is where the ransomed are.

We seem to remember that the rum business did much to make the first American merchant marine profitable.

A woman politician has one advantage. She can enjoy being a home body when her sphere is flattened at the polls.

WHY?

WHY is it that the world loves sin better than salvation and continues to crucify Christ? That is a question that may sound odd in a way, but it is a perfectly legitimate question. Most everybody will say that the devil has caused people to follow sin instead of the light, which is true, but why is it that people are so easily deceived by the devil?

There is no man who can testify that happiness comes through sin. There are those who become so steeped in the ways of sin that they think for a time they are happy, but they are not. They follow the lure on and on until it leads to destruction—wrecked health, wrecked lives and wrecked homes. There may be satisfaction in many things that sin brings, but the satisfaction is only short lived and there is no peace in sin.

Christ came to earth to give man the only way to true happiness. He lived the humble life of the poor man of His day and He lived among sin, yet He sinned not. There is one very interesting point about the life of Christ and that is that though His enemies, even those who crucified him, never once disputed His power to raise people from the dead, to cast out devils and to drive away sin. Some said He did it through the devil, but nobody denied that He had such power. And yet this same Christ who went upon the cross and died in agony because of His love for humanity still is crucified day after day by those who reject him in refusing His love. All Christ asked was faith and love and yet there are thousands and thousands who are so entangled in the affairs of the world and this short life on earth that they are turning away from their only hope in the world to come where the real life begins.

FROM A SEAT IN THE GALLERY

By Herbert Corey

FOLKS have a nasty sense of humor here in Washington. Worse than that, they have no reverence at all. They have seen so many eminent men close-up that their sense of awe has been atrophied. They jest at the most sacred emotions of the great. A statesman under the harrow provokes coarse guffaws.

"Did you hear how Herrick came to go back to Paris as an ambassador?" asked a vicious and iconoclastic political thug. The story is being told as a horrible example. You folks out in the great open spaces, as Merton of the Movies would say, should know how human nature is corrupted in Washington. No man of pure, serene, kindly nature could believe this story. Even if he believed it he would not pass it on. Yet surgeons use scalpels. It is an unpleasant duty to expose this festering meanness, but it is a duty:

"Herrick wanted to go to London," said the contemptible tale-teller. "He said to President Harding:

" 'If I cannot have London I will not take anything. I do not want to return to Paris.' "

The nameless person who tells this story said this lifted a great weight off President Harding's mind. What he wanted more than anything else in the world was to find some place where Herrick would not go. The nameless person said there is a great gulf fixed between Herrick and the president. For years they have religiously kept a hate hour for each other. The good news spread, said this purveyor of meanness. President Harding's friends chuckled to each other:

"The Old Man," they said, "is going to slip Herrick the Paris job. Then he won't take it and that automatically passes him into the bucket and we toss him on the dump."

So they had a little festive gathering at the white house offices. Mr. Herrick was dated to call on the president that day and find out whether or not he was to go to London. And the president would say, "No, Myron. Sorry, Myron. I want you to go to Paris." And from the broken remarks of the festive gathering later on it was gathered that the president said just that. And Mr. Herrick said:

"Oh, very well. I'll go to Paris."

Can calumny go farther? The answer is no.

SALES FOR COTTON

FRANK A. VANDERLIP is an international banker. European conditions do not look good to him. E. B. Guthrie is a Texas cotton factor. He has just returned after a two months' business tour of England and France and Holland. He did not look through the Vanderlip glasses. He says financial conditions have not looked better in England and France and Holland since the days before the war and that they will draw a heavy cotton supply from America this year.

He discovered that cotton stocks are depleted over there and much Texas cotton will go to Europe this year. He found Americans in all the principal cities of the countries he visited, and he found the natives beginning to get back into their old pre-war strides and looking for still better conditions. International bankers appear to have one viewpoint. American business men, particularly those interested in cotton and its marketing, have another viewpoint and the business man is much more optimistic than the banker.

As a rule, you can measure a man's feeling of importance by the degree of his discourtesy.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

CORN COBS to RUN Your MOTOR CAR

Machine by Which Corn Cobs Are Made Into Furfural, a New Raw Material from Which a Substitute for Gasoline and Hard Rubber Is Secured.

THE lowly corn cob, heretofore good only for the making of "Missouri meerschaums" or to be burned, will soon be furnishing the fuel that runs your automobile. And it is predicted that by using this new "gas" the motorist may not have to "shell out" so freely as formerly.

More than six years of research work by chemists in the Department of Agriculture Laboratories has resulted in the development of a process that, it is predicted, will make possible the production of a low priced substitute for a fuel for automobile engines, as well as for a wide variety of hard rubber and synthetic resin products; provide a good market for waste farm by-products, and conserve the native supply of methanol (wood alcohol) and the forest products, particularly hardwoods, used in the manufacture of methanol.

The results of this work were announced through the American Chemical Society by Dr. W. W. Skinner, assistant chief of the Bureau of Chemistry.

The achievement consists in the perfection of methods for producing a chemical compound known as furfural at a low price and by a simple process from corn cobs. Dr. Frederick B. La Forge and Gerald H. Mains of the Bureau of Chemistry are credited with having done this work. They have successfully brought the process for the production of furfural to a commercial scale, and at the same time have aided in the development of a commercial market for furfural by supplying quantities of the material to manufacturers for co-operative research on its utilization.

The importance of the work is apparent when it is understood that such widely used articles as printing plates—light, durable substitutes for electrotypes—phonograph records, varnishes, pipe-stems, cigarette holders, electrical instrument parts formerly made from hard rubber, buttons, binders for brushes, glue and a hundred other kindred articles are now being manufactured from synthetic resin compounds, and the use of such resins is rapidly increasing.

The synthetic resins industry, since chemists discovered the secret of making them about 15 years ago, has had a remarkable growth. The raw materials used in this industry are chiefly formaldehyde and phenol (carbolic acid). These two compounds, chemically combined, condense into a solid which is highly valuable as the basis for making the articles enumerated. Thorough tests have proved furfural to be an excellent substitute for formaldehyde in this work.

The possibilities of conservation may be seen when it is explained that the source of formaldehyde is methanol (wood alcohol), and that methanol is produced chiefly from the destructive distillation of hard woods, such as birch, beech, oak, maple and elm. The soft woods, while they are more plentiful in America, produce such low yields of methanol that they are of small value as a source of supply.

Some of the Things Made from Furfural, a Product of the Corn Cob: The Black Solid in the Centre Is Resin, the Bottle Contains Varnish, and the Remaining Objects Are Made of a Substitute for Hard Rubber.

The price of formaldehyde at this writing is eight to ten cents per pound, for a 40 per cent. solution. Under methods of producing furfural now in general use, the product sells for about 50 cents per pound. The present price of methanol is about 60 cents per gallon.

Furfural, under the La Forge process, can be produced commercially for about six cents per pound, and with the development of the by-products, also obtained from corn cobs, Dr. La Forge is hopeful that it may be produced even more cheaply. Among the available by-products are acetic acid and a gummy material which has a field of usefulness in the manufacture of coal briquettes. Tests show the undisputed superiority of the briquettes made with this gum over those made with other binders. The new briquettes are characterized by a total absence of smoke and superior water-resisting qualities.

Furfural has been tried as a fuel in an automobile engine and worked successfully, Dr. La Forge reports. It will explode under the conditions of the automobile engine, but because of its high boiling point, cannot be used with the type of carburetor suited to gasoline.

The method of production is quite simple, as opposed to the former method of obtaining furfural, which is a complicated and costly process. Following their laboratory experiments, Dr. La Forge and Mr. Mains erected a large scale experimental plant in the large industrial laboratory of the Bureau of Chemistry.

The apparatus consists of a large steel cylinder, conical shaped at the bottom, with a removable lid which can be clamped down tightly, and a valve at the bottom for the discharge of the exhausted material.

The corn cobs, with some water, are placed in this cylinder or pressure cooker and steam at about 135 pounds pressure is turned in. After cooking for about two hours the furfural is blown off with steam, passed through a condenser and collected as a solution of furfural in water. This solution is then distilled in a special apparatus for the separation of the furfural from the water.

The old method of production consists in heating vegetable materials with strong mineral acids. Then the acid is neutralized and the furfural separated.

Plans are now under way for the erection of the first commercial plant to utilize the new process. It probably will be located somewhere in the Corn Belt where raw materials are close at hand.

How the EXACT TIME Is Broadcasted by RADIO

RADIO fans throughout the country have become accustomed to the idea of setting their watches and clocks by wireless each day at 12 o'clock noon or 10 P. M., Eastern standard time, but scarcely one in a thousand knows just how the exact time is broadcasted daily at these two hours.

These time signals, as they are called, are sent out by wireless from the government station at Arlington, Va., over a high-power radion telegraph transmitter which operates at 2500 metres wave length. The time signals are controlled by wire line from the United States Naval Observatory and represent the exact time as registered by a chronometer at that point.

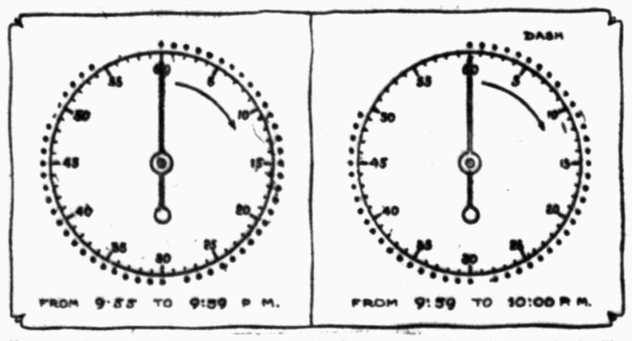

The Arlington time signals are retransmitted by many of the broadcasting stations. For example, if a few minutes before 10 o'clock at night (Eastern standard time) you are listening some evening to W. J. Z. radio station at Newark, the program is interrupted and you hear announcer say:

"Please stand by for Arlington time signals which will now be retransmitted, with final dash for 10 o'clock."

Then promptly at 9:55 the listener will hear a succession of buzzes, each of which is an electric impulse being transmitted every second over the wire line to Arlington. Each impulse results in the radiation of a Morse dash by wireless, and thus a listener using a receiver tuned to the wave length of 2500 metres will hear a series of dashes exactly one second apart as Uncle Sam's master clock ticks them off.

The radio enthusiast whose receiving set will not tune above 700 metres can hear the Arlington time signals perfectly since they are retransmitted on a wave length of 360 metres by the important radio telephone broadcasting stations throughout the country.

The following explanation is given of the manner in which the Arlington time signals are broadcasted:

How the Time Signal Dashes Correspond with the Position of the Second Hand of the Master Clock. The Final Dash Is Exact Noon, or 10 P. M., Eastern Standard Time.

From the zero second of 9:55 P. M., for example, a dash is transmitted each second until the 28th second, the 29th second being marked by the omission of one dash of the series. On the 30th second the dashes begin again and continue until the 54th second, the five dashes running from the 55th to the 59th second also being omitted. On the zero second of the next minute the dashes begin again and the same routine is carried forward until the end of the 59th minute.

For the last minute before the hour 29 dashes are transmitted (beginning at zero), the dash corresponding to the 29th second is omitted, and 20 dashes beginning with the 30th second and running to the 49th second, are transmitted. The 10 dashes, which would correspond to the 10 seconds from the 50th to the 59th inclusive, are omitted. After this pause of approximately 11 seconds a longer dash (which the announcer at the radio station calls the "final dash") is sent out marking the exact hour of 10 P. M., Eastern standard time.

For broadcasting the time signals at noon the same procedure is followed.

Solving the MYSTERY of the FLAMING SEAS

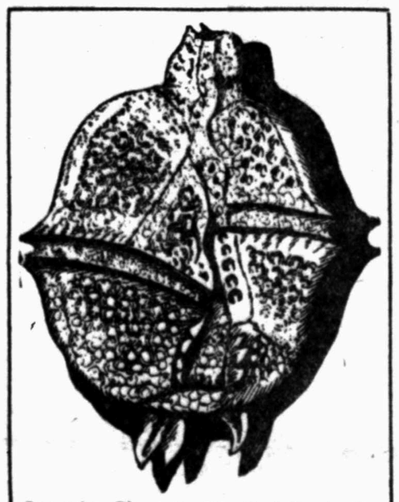

FOR many years it has been noted that at frequent periods from July to September, the surf along the coast from a point about the latitude of Los Angeles breaks into glowing cascades of greenish-blue and golden-blue light, visible, of course, only at night. By day patches of discolored sea, usually red or yellow, often hundreds of acres in area, appear along these same coasts. Millions of bottom-dwelling fish, crustaceans and other marine life are thrown up dead by the tides along the shore, coincident with these periods of glowing surf. Sardines, herring and other fish caught in the nets dragged through these patches of discolored sea immediately become unfit for food. Fish, oars, swimmers, seines and even boats leave trails of similarly flashing flame in the water of these warm seas, the phenomenon being recorded from points far south along both coasts of South America.

From a mere scientific, biological and zoological curiosity, the matter became of economic importance to the commercial fisheries as well, and Prof. Charles Atwood Kofoid, a scientist from the University of California, began an investigation of the exact cause of the phenomenon which, at certain seasons of the year, turns the tropic and semi-tropic seas to lakes of flame by night and to spreading patches of red and yellow water by day. Prof. Kofoid was assisted by the staff of the Scripps Institution for Biological Research, at La Jolla, California, a point in the midst of the affected coastal region and one most adaptably located for the collection and examination of specimens.

It had been known previously that these two phenomena were due to a common cause, the presence in the water of untold myriads of tiny organisms, seemingly just on the borderland between plants and animals, known to science as dinoflagellates. By this year's work of Prof. Kofoid and his assistants, however, the identified and classified number of different varieties of these animalcules was increased from 84 to 207, an increase of 123. Of these 207 varieties, 134 were pictured in colors by artists employed especially for this purpose, and the result of the entire monumental effort is being given to the world by the press of the University of California, in the form of one of the reports of that educational institution.

Some idea of the delicate character of this scientific undertaking is gained from an account by C. H. Dunlap, writing in the Illustrated World.

"The largest of these dinoflagellates," says this authority, "is less than one-hundredth of an inch in length, and the smallest about half that size. Though myriads exist in every patch of red or yellow water, it is very difficult to bring any of them to a laboratory on shore, and they are so delicately constructed and constituted that the brilliant concentrated light of the microscope usually destroys such life as they possess, thereby adding to the difficulty of studying them. Some live like plants, and some like animals, others being veritable cannibals, infinitesimal in size, but nevertheless ferociously preying on their own kind.

Gonyaulax Diegensis, Magnified Nearly One Thousand Times, One of the Minute Creatures That Cause the Fiery Sea.

"The light seen on the surf at night and the discolored patches of water in the daytime are caused by the oxidation of an oil given off by the bodies of the dinoflagellates. As this oil is phosphorescent, it gives off light, rather than heat, as it combines with oxygen. The lack of knowledge of these minute organisms possessed by man prior to this year's work was due to the difficult conditions under which the dinoflagellates—there is no easier name for them—had to be studied. In the first place, they live at all points from the surface of the sea down to a depth of one thousand feet. They can be taken only in dip nets of the finest meshed silk bolting cloth; in fact, cloth through which even the water cannot pass except very slowly. All the dinoflagellates are simple-celled creatures of definite structure and color, but are easily destroyed, so that they have to be handled, either in quantity or one at a time under the microscope, with the most delicate of trained fingers and the utmost care.

"This year, however, every preparation for the work of studying, identifying and classifying the tiny creatures was made in advance. Fast motor boats were provided with which the collections of water containing the dinoflagellates were rushed from some distance at sea to the laboratories of the Scripps Institution. Tanks, high-powered microscopes, projectors, amplifiers, and drawing materials were all set in place and ready for the task when it came time. In addition to all this equipment, skilled artists were employed to make drawings of these minute creatures as they were revealed to the human eye by the powerful microscopes in the laboratory. These drawings were made in the natural colors, and furnish probably the finest collection of microscopic picturing ever done in any zoological work."

HEAT and CRIME

A WAVE of heat sweeping over a country usually causes a wave of crime to follow it. There is nothing strange about this, for everyone knows how fretful he becomes when clothes stick to the skin, when appetite for solids fails, and the one desire in life is to get cool.

What is curious is the fact that women are definitely more sensitive to a sudden rise of the thermometer than men. A criminologist who has made whole volumes of notes on this subject has proved that at a normal temperature man is more criminal than woman, but that when the thermometer goes up the conditions are reversed, and then the woman is more criminal than the man. This authority refers not to thefts and burglaries, which have little to do with weather, but to crimes of violence, assaults, beatings and murders. The two worst periods for offences of this description are before a big storm and during a hot, high wind. Before a storm the barometer is low and the air is hot, muggy and charged with moisture. This is regular suicide weather. It causes great bodily discomfort, and at the same time saps the vitality.

Hot winds cause irritation of temper, with the natural result of high words and quarrels. On such days assaults reach a maximum.

When the storm breaks in torrents of rain down goes the crime thermometer with a bump. So, whatever the farmer's thoughts may be, no body of men are better pleased to see heavy rain break a hot spell than the public's guardians.

Why the UMBRELLA Once Had an IMPORTANT PART in RELIGION

IT is not known where or when the umbrella was invented. It probably originated in hot climates as its earliest mission was not so much to protect against the rain as against the sun. In fact, the word is from Latin and means "sun shade." In the beginning the umbrella was of religious significance. Ancient carvings show processions of priests and rulers with umbrellas carried over their heads.

Ancient writers, according to a contributor to The Pathfinder, allude to Christ as the protector who stands ready to ward off the fires of Hades—a sort of "spiritual umbrella"—and for this reason the umbrella became the emblem of divine protection. In the basilican churches of Rome there hangs a large umbrella near the altar or suspended in the vestry as a reminder of this ready help.

The first umbrella was probably a palm leaf or a woven makeshift of reeds. On temple walls of Egypt and Assyria, and in ancient drawings of India and China, umbrella-like articles are pictured.

According to Hindu folklore, in the fifth incarnation of Vishnu that god visited the infernal regions with an umbrella in his hand. Persians used the umbrella as part of their religious ceremonies—a symbol of the mercy as well as the power of their deity.

In Egypt no religious ceremony was complete without the umbrella. It was one of the distinguishing marks of priesthood.

Also in Greece, it had its religious significance. During the feast of Athens, so the story goes, Scirus the priestess was borne from the Acropolis to the sea under a white parasol. In the feasts of Bacchus it was held aloft in honor of the god and his votaries.

The umbrella was also a mark of nobility in many lands. In oriental countries it is still associated with royalty—certain sizes and colors being used by kings and princes while smaller and less gaudy specimens are used by the lesser nobility.

In Siam the ruler's umbrella is formed by a number of circles, one above the other, while that of other members of his household have one, two or three circles, according to rank. The Mahratta princes of India have among their titles, "Lord of the Umbrella." The kings of Burmah were spoken of as the monarchs "who reign over the great umbrella-wearing chiefs of the East."

The umbrella played a leading role in civil and ecclesiastical matters in medieval Europe. Alfred the Great walked about under a huge umbrella carried by his bodyguard. Knights of old often carried umbrellas to shield their armor from the elements. The "baldachins," or canopies erected over ecclesiastical chairs, etc., closely resembled umbrellas.

FAIRY TALES Founded on FACT

WHO would have thought that the old fairy tale about "The Babes in the Wood" is a perfectly true story in its main facts? Yet, centuries ago, there actually was a wicked uncle who robbed his nephews of their inheritance. The tragedy occurred in Norfolk, England, and is there commemorated in some scenes painted on the mantelpiece of the Old Hall at Wayland Wood, near Watton.

"Bluebeard" is another fairy tale that is also a true story. Many years ago the great Gilles de Retz, Marshal of France, and the most powerful man in all that land, was proved to have kidnaped into his huge black castle some hundreds of wretched little children. There—in a secret chamber in the thick walls of his stronghold—this monster tortured his victims to death, gloating in their agonies.

For these and other crimes the Marshal was sentenced to death. But so strong was the memory of his crimes that for centuries his name was held up to naughty children as a bugbear. "Be good, or Gilles shall have you," their mothers would say; and even today there are to be found peasants who cross themselves in trembling fear at the very name of the French Bluebeard.

"Jack and Jill" are derived from the legends of the old Norsemen—the sea-rovers who once pillaged Britain. According to the Scandinavian story, Hjuki and Bill were drawing water, when they were caught up by the Moon goddess and taken from off the earth. From this tale the names have been corrupted into the Jack and Jill of the nursery.

"Tom Thumb" is another Norse tale. The Norsemen had their Dwarf Thaumlin; the English took the story, twisted their tongues round it, made it Thumblin, and added the Tom as their own contribution.

"Jack and the Beanstalk" comes from the Far East, where the sacred Bo-tree of Buddha reached far beyond mortal sight, into the heavens.

"Jack the Giant Killer" is found in some shape or form in almost every country. In the East he appears in the sacred books called the Eddas; in Norway he is Snorro. In England he is mixed up over and over again in the legends that grew up round the Round Table of King Arthur.

One fairy tale that is purely British is "The Frog Who Would a-Wooing Go," and he is first heard of in 1580 in an old book, which tells of "The Most Strange Wedding of the Frog and the Mouse." But, after all, the frog isn't so much a real fairy tale as a nonsense story, deliberately invented for the amusement of children.

How a Safety Match Can Be Ignited Without Its Box

A SAFETY match can be lighted without its box, by being rubbed with a long quick sweep on a smooth window glass, according to Popular Science Monthly. To do this successfully the movement must be a long and rapid one and the match so held between the thumb and fingers that the head will not break off.

The smoothness of the glass prevents the head of the match from rubbing off, as is the case when it is rubbed on a rough surface. The friction of the rapid motion generates enough heat to ignite it.

It is not advisable to light matches by rubbing them against mirrors or other highly polished plate glass; naturally it mars them.

Have Rum-Joke Inventions Reached their Limit?

There's No Law Against Trick Receptacles in Which to "Bring Your Own," and So the European Novelty Manufacturers Are Now Doing a Big Business, but Flapper Rum Sleuths Are On the Trail.

Not Exactly "on the Hip," but a Little Above Two Feet.

"100 Lbs." on the Outside and "100 Proof" on the Inside.

IT was undoubtedly expected by the fathers of prohibition that efforts to evade the dry law would result in the invention of devices for smuggling and concealing liquor. But that the business of artful dodging of the Volstead act would be carried to the extent that it has probably was not dreamed of by those who ratified the 18th amendment.

How extensive this effort to cheat prohibition has become may be gleaned from the latest cables from Europe announcing that German and English manufacturers are building up a very lucrative trade by the manufacture of various ingenious inventions by which one can safely conceal liquor and thus have a nip on the sly. Ships arriving at the Atlantic ports have great quantities of these artifices, which can be sold owing to the fact that there is no law against their importation.

It has often been said by prohibition advocates that the citizen who drinks occasionally voted for prohibition because he had in mind the vivid pictures of misery he had seen in the corner saloon. Now, strangely enough, more out of a spirit of deviltry than anything else, and without any desire to defeat the dry laws, many of this class of saloon enemies are having great fun using devices such as are pictured on this page. Girls and women, too, have found much sport in their use.

Just where the thing will stop is problematical. The implements of the strong man, the evening cigar, the garter of the young woman and the educational globe of the classroom, have been used to deceive those who are enforcing the law. Even the candy of children has been employed. One concern in New York city was raided for making whiskey filled chocolates and bonbons. At a dinner attended by men representing country-wide membership in a great profession innocent looking "lollypops," placed at the dinner plates, turned out to be well rectified cocktails inside colored glass "candy" on a stick.

And it is business competition that has developed the devices. On the one hand there are the bootleggers racking their brains for new dodges to fool the prohibition agents. On the other hand there are the rum sleuths lying awake nights planning means of getting into the confidences and the secret caches of the booze sellers.

Take the picture of the young woman who is standing near the globe atlas. Calling on her in her bachelor apartment, one might believe quite readily that she was a studious schoolma'am preparing to put her class through a geography lesson in the morning. The chances are—if you were a stranger—that she would let you think so. But, if you were in her good graces, she would press a catch, the globe would open and there before your astonished eyes would be as inviting a wet layout as ever "drove the skeleton from the feast or painted landscapes in the brain of man."

The Topers Used to Say, "Put a Stick in It." Now They Put It in the Stick.

And that behatted young woman with the book of "verses" under her arm. Would the most suspicious dry agent ever suspect what the reader is privileged to behold—that the "Four Swallows" announced on the cover are really four swallows of Scotch whiskey? It suggests that the book should have been called "Omar Khayyam" so that a certain immortal line might have been changed into "a book of wine beneath the bough."

Then the girl who rolls her own and also carries her own, not exactly on the hip, but about the knee. What agent would dare search even if he suspected? And, moreover, is not the fair one safeguarded against search and seizure by the well known permanent injunction against the invasion of individual rights? Or lefts?

The young woman with the 100-pound shot has with her a most handy agency for distributing cocktails at the weekly meeting of her "club." After the members have all assembled tiny glasses are passed around and the strong woman announces her act. She lifts up the shot with one hand and then, with the other, presses a spring, thus revealing to the astonished and thirsty members, the parch-destroying contents of the "shot."

Pointing Out That the Surface of the Globe Is Three-Quarters Wet—and the Contents Even More So.

There is no law against a man taking a drink. But there is a provision of the Volstead act which prohibits transporting. Even the hip pocket falls under this. So, as there are times when men hanker for a wee bit when far from the security of their own firesides, this page illustrates how the thing can be done right under the noses of the prohibition agents. The cane which contains a bottle uncorked by opening the head of the stick, and the cigars which also hold a good swallow each, concealed beneath their Havana wrappers, are two very popular methods.

The enforcement of the Volstead law has resulted in one prohibition agent being cast upon the screen of national prominence. That man is Prohibition Enforcement Agent Isidor Einstein of New York city. Einstein, familiarly known as Izzy, through his ingenious and highly amusing disguises and artifices, has made himself the subject of thousands of newspaper articles which have been published in every part of the United States and not infrequently in other countries.

A "Best Seller"—the Book Entitled "Spring Poems in Four Swallows."

Izzy first made his appearance in Brooklyn three years ago, a fat, untidy, blue-eyed, brown-haired individual, with lower lip slightly drooping and a blank expression. One reporter said, "He couldn't catch his breath." And when the word was passed that he was going to use disguises a laugh arose all over the Brooklyn federal building. But Izzy did it.

He went into a hotel down South Brooklyn way carrying a fiddle. He asked for a drink and was refused. "All right," said Izzy, "I'll fiddle for you anyway. What's your favorite tune?" The owner answered, "The Lost Chord," and Izzy began to play. When he got through the owner was weeping.

"I'll give you a drink for that," he sobbed, and poured out a bumper from a bottle he had taken from a secret cabinet. Izzy took the whiskey, poured it, apparently, down his throat, but actually into an opening in his shirt which connected with a rubber bottle hidden beneath, and then arrested the bartender.

He entered an upstate New York hotel called the "David Harum Inn." He asked who David Harum was. The bartender told him about the "best-seller" book and its hero. He asked, "Is Harum in?" Everybody roared. "The drinks are on me," said Izzy. They were poured forth, and forth went the bartender and owner under arrest.

At the time of the anti-prohibition parade in New York, Izzy marched, carrying a placard railing against prohibition. He found ready victims who sold him "stuff" out of sympathy.

His ready wit is remarkable, as well as his knowledge of what is necessary to make a case. He entered a big cafe in New York city one night and with Moe Smith, his partner, pretended he was a rustic seeing the sights with his city friend, Moe. He entertained so well that every one applauded him. He sang songs and told stories. Finally he asked if he could get a drink. The owner of the place appeared and said the head waiter would serve him in the hallway.

Izzy went there and met the head waiter, who handed him a flask of whiskey. But Izzy knew that the actual sale—the passage of the money—would have to be witnessed. He told the head waiter that he had no money. "My friend has it all. I'll call him." Moe came, gave the waiter the money, and the place was "pinched."

He Doesn't Have to Go to Havana for a Drink, for a Drink Is His Havana Filler.

One day when Izzy and another agent were walking through Adams street, Brooklyn, they came upon a suspicious looking van. Izzy halted it and questioned the driver. He quickly found it was full of whiskey valued at $20,000. The driver, who was the owner of the load, offered Izzy $4000 cash if he would let him drive on. Izzy arrested him and helped convict him. The man was sent to jail.

That protean person, the flapper, who turns jockey over night, apprehends burglars with the efficiency of a police detective and turns traditions topsy turvy, is now disporting in the capacity of secret rum sleuth. A force of women, with the flapper "in their midst," has been organized by Miss Georgia Hopley, the first woman dry agent appointed. These women are volunteers, recruited from clubs and society circles. One of them is Cora Frazier, seventeen years old, and her home seems to be the whole of Mississippi. She has caused the imprisonment of her father, her uncle and two cousins.

According to Miss Hopley, the aid given by the secret work of the women will keep teeth in the dry law.
