Ask Us

Q—Is it true that the city pays a local landscaper over $2,000 a month, year round, to maintain the City Hall, police department, the sewer plant and the trees and shrubs on the square? If so, does the city actually think it is getting its money's worth?

A—The city pays a private contractor $1,072.50 a month, which includes equipment and supplies. To hire a full-time employee would cost the city $1,807.56 a month, plus the city would have to provide all equipment and supplies. The city has determined it is much cheaper to contract with a private individual.

Nichols 'coming home' to coach Lady Dusters

Western Texas College trustees made it official Thursday, unanimously naming former Lady Dusters' All-American Brenda Welch Nichols as the new women's basketball coach.

Nichols, an assistant for the past four seasons at Pensacola Junior College, was recommended to the board by a search committee after interviews Sunday with five finalists.

"I'm just thrilled," Nichols said from her office in Pensacola. "I'm still on Cloud Nine. I'm glad to be coming home. When I came there to play, I felt like I was at home. I'm ready to get back."

Nichols plans on being on the job next Thursday. At that time she will meet with her players.

"I played in that conference," Nichols said, "so I know the competition is really tough, but I can't wait for the challenge."

The job came open early last month when second-year coach Ron Jones resigned to head a new women's program at Midland College.

"I think she will do an outstanding job," said WTC Athletic Director Milton Ham, who was a member of the selection committee. "I think of the five finalists, she was the best prepared during the interview process. She was able to field the questions and show maturity in her answers.

"We're real excited and really happy that we have a former Lady Duster taking over."

Nichols, who signed a standard 10-month contract with WTC for a salary of $33,411, becomes the first former Duster to coach at Western Texas, as well as the first woman. She is the fourth coach since the women's basketball program started in 1974.

"I think having a woman coach will add real positive dimensions to the program," Ham said. "She played hard when she was here before, she's been with a very successful program at Pensacola JC, and it won't be hard to convince the community to support her."

Nichols' most recent boss, PJC head coach Vicki Carson has mixed emotions about losing her assistant.

"Half of me is really sad to see her go," Carson said, "and half of me is really excited for Brenda having this opportunity. She will be a great addition to the program there. We'll definitely miss her, but we're very happy for her.

"She's done a good job for us," Carson continued. "She's grown

Abortion rule...

States threaten to ignore federal order

by The Associated Press

Utah, Michigan and President Clinton's home state of Arkansas say they won't comply with a federal order to begin paying for abortions today for poor women who are victims of rape or incest.

Many other states also intend to ignore the order, said Ray Hanley, chairman of the State Medicaid Directors' Association.

"We'll be waiting for the feds to tell us we're out of compliance, and then we'll negotiate with them," said Kurt Matthia, assistant director of health care financing in Utah, which bans public financing for abortions.

In December, the Clinton administration ordered states to begin paying for Medicaid abortions in cases of rape or incest after March 31 or risk losing billions in Medicaid funding. Medicaid is a joint federal-state program.

Some states have said that their own laws, regulations or constitutions prevent them from complying. But the Clinton administration maintains that a federal order takes precedence.

On Thursday night, an administration official said no immediate penalties will be imposed.

As the deadline approached, Arkansas, Michigan and Utah went on record saying they would reject the order. Louisiana, Montana, North Dakota and South Dakota threatened to do so, too.

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

Ask any judge or justice of the peace, and they can relate some humorous wedding stores. Larry Crabtree, in the Vernon Daily Record, told about a recent ceremony in Wilbarger County.

The county judge said the couple wanted to kneel. The judge heard the groom whisper a prayer: "Lord, help me be rich and humble."

The bride added her thoughts in a slightly louder whisper: "You just make him rich, and I'll keep him humble."

Another judge says he married a woman so often that she had two weddings on one roll of film.

Once the judge was waiting to marry a couple and overheard the bride-to-be lament to her mother: "Bob doesn't believe in hell."

"Go ahead and marry him. Between the two of us, we'll change his mind," promised the mother.

Major league teams already are in spring training. Folks in the Arlington area are getting excited about the completion of the new stadium for the Texas Rangers.

The enthusiasm has spilled over into nearby Hood County. Jerry Tidwell in Granbury's Hood County News, was talking about the upcoming season and observed that professional sports marketing people are becoming more creative.

The New York Mets are trying a fresh approach — humility in advertising. "The Mets are going nowhere but up," declares a mailing to season ticket holders.

The Mets, which finished in the cellar of its league last year declares: "The availability of quality seating is better than it has been in many years."

James Roberts, in the Andrews County News, has come up with an idea to encourage voting in Texas.

"Perhaps by the general election in November, Big Mama will have a plan to bestow $100 worth of free lottery tickets on all those who vote."

Office lease, insurance okayed by DCOS board

Development Corporation of Snyder directors Thursday afternoon approved a lease agreement for office facilities and approved insurance coverage during it's monthly meeting.

The agreement for office space is with American State Bank and is provided at no cost with the bank also paying for utilities. In turn, the DCOS provides liability and content insurance.

To begin that coverage, directors awarded liability, content and workers' compensation insurance to Fowler and Associates. Auto insurance was awarded to Snyder Insurance Agency.

Action on employee health and life insurance coverage was tabled for further study.

In other action, the board accepted the bid from Wilson Motors in the amount of $15,231.50 for a 1994 Ford Crown Victoria. The bid accepted was the low bid of those received. Other bidders were Snyder Chrysler, Howard Gray Motors and Big Country

Your Birthday

Saturday, April 2, 1994

Your probabilities for gratifying several secret ambitions look exceptionally good for the year ahead. If you have a will to fulfill them, you should find a way.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Friends will be supportive today unless they feel you are manipulating them for a selfish purpose. Then, instead of helping you, they may try to hamper your progress. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Major endeavors which are presently running smoothly should not be subjected to changes today. Your input could be detrimental rather than constructive.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Involvements with friends that are conducted in accord with your highest standards could work out quite lucky for you today. Deviations from these principles might invite problems.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In order for a partnership arrangement to function as optimistically as possible, both parties must be in complete agreement. Variations could create combatants instead of collaborators.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Keep your guard up today, because co-workers who support you verbally might side in with the opposition when things get down to the nitty-gritty.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This could be a productive day for you where your work or career is concerned. However, things might not run equally as smooth in your social involvements.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Airing disagreements between you and your mate today in public could tarnish both images and embarrass companions. Keep domestic matters private.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Assignments will be handled effectively today, provided you don't put yourself in a position where much must be done at the last minute.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today if you pal around with friends who are not as generous as you are, don't be surprised if the larger portion of expenses ends up on your tab.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Instead of taking the line of least resistance today you might deliberately choose a course that is fraught with challenges. If so, it could be a foolish choice.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're likely to be a pleasant person to be around today, provided everything is going your way. Should opposition arise, your mood could change in the twinkling of an eye.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You have the wherewithal to add to your material resources today, but once you acquire something you might be careless in its management and nullify your gains.

Fatal heart attack

FORT WORTH (AP) — A Fort Worth police officer in pursuit of auto theft suspects collapsed in a field early Thursday and died of a heart attack.

Other officers found Jessie D. Moorman, officials said. Moorman was a 20-year veteran of the force, whose record included 29 commendations.

The police helicopter transported Moorman, 47, to Harris Methodist Fort Worth hospital where he was pronounced dead shortly before 11 a.m.

Detectives are investigating the circumstances surrounding the officer's death, police said.

An autopsy showed Moorman died of a heart attack, said Bill Young, an investigator in the Tarrant County Medical Examiner's Office.

Campus security concerns students after abductions

HOUSTON (AP) — Campus safety is on the lips of several Rice University students following the abduction of four students, three of whom were left naked at a flower shop and a fourth who was driven away and raped.

The incident began about 12:45 a.m. Thursday as the students, two men and two women, were confronted by two gunmen in a parking lot at Mary Gibbs Jones College, police said.

The men forced the four into the car of one of the students and took them to an automatic teller machine, police said. The victims told investigators they could not produce an ATM card, so they were taken to the parking lot of a flower shop and ordered to strip. The four were robbed of their wallets.

Although the gunmen talked about shooting the four, they instead took one of the students, a 20-year-old woman, police said.

The men then drove the woman about seven blocks, where she was raped and left in the car. After the men fled on foot, the woman sought help at a nearby home. The other students called police from the flower shop area.

Investigators, aided by the victims, are trying to identify the suspects.

Meanwhile, students and staff members were notified of the incident through several channels, including electronic mail messages and fliers, said Rice University spokesman Mike Cinelli.

Some Jones College residents learned the news during a lunchtime announcement.

Jennifer Johnston, a senior art major, said in the Houston Chronicle today that when she found out, her stomach dropped.

"I have one month left, and I just want to get out of here without anything happening to me," she said, adding that she hopes the incident will force the Rice administration to pay more attention to security.

The school has a 16-member police force and several security programs in place, Cinelli said.

Johnston said that in recent months there has been a lot of campus crime. She said she sometimes feels uneasy walking around the tree-lined grounds 21/2 miles southwest of downtown.

As some Rice students prepared for a long Easter weekend, many admitted a false sense of security.

"You never think it can happen here," freshman anthropology major Amanda Fisher said in today's Houston Post. "We're walking along, so wrapped up in our lives, our friends and in talking that we're not aware of what's beyond the next tree."

Said Anne Jessop, a graduate student in the English department: "There's this whole mystique about Rice as this separate sanctuary."

Campus crime is not only a concern at Rice.

University of Houston officials said Thursday that they are taking precautions after three armed robberies on campus parking lots this week.

'Festival' set April 10

St. Elizabeth Catholic Church's seventh annual sausage festival is set for Sunday, April 10, at the Parish Hall. Serving and other activities will begin at 11:30 a.m. and continue through 2:30 p.m.

Meal tickets may be purchased at the door and are priced at $6 for adults, $3 for children 5-12, and children under five will eat free. Those purchasing meal tickets will be eligible for door prizes to be given away throughout the day.

Carry-out orders will be available and homemade sausage — cooked and uncooked — will also be sold separately by the pound, $2.75 uncooked and $3.75 cooked. Some 1,500 pounds of sausage have already been made and the remaining 2,500 pounds will be made on Thursday and Friday, April 7 and 8.

Donations of $1 are also being accepted for drawings for two grand prizes, four aquatred tires (first place) and a 19-inch color television (second place).

A variety of other items will be sold through the Country Store, including homemade food items, baked goods and T-shirts.

Classrooms in the Parish Hall will also be temporarily converted into game rooms for the duration of the festival. They will be sponsored by the religion classes.

Defeated by a habit

By Phillip Alder

Victor Mollo built many humorous stories around a cast of bridge-playing animals. Today's deal — no April fool — appeared in "Bridge in the Menagerie."

The best player was the Hideous Hog, who sat South. HH usually opened with the weaker minor, a lead-inhibiting bid used before putting the contract into no-trump on the next round. Here, however, North had a good hand with impressive diamonds. Of course, Mollo never explains why HH made the egregious underbid of three no-trump, or why he didn't convert to the laydown seven no-trump. But that, as they say, would have ruined a good story.

West led the heart 10. The Hog won with dummy's jack, played a spade to his ace and cashed his three heart winners, discarding dummy's spade losers. Now HH had to cash three club tricks. But if he "finessed" the club queen, West was bound to lean over the table as if waiting to collect the trick. Then East would know who had the club king. Suddenly HH remembered the Gasper Coup. Leading a low club toward the dummy, he immediately thrust a packet of cigarettes (gaspers) at West. Then HH "finessed" dummy's queen. He continued with the club ace and a club off the dummy. Convinced West had the king, East discarded his spade queen.

Having won trick eight with his club king, the Hog crossruffed the last five tricks to bring home his grand slam.

The moral of the story is twofold: Don't smoke, and lead trumps against contracts that will be made on a crossruff.

Pleads guilty

HOUSTON (AP) — As part of an agreement with the government, an ex-NASA contracting officer pleaded guilty Thursday to unlawfully accepting a gratuity as a public official.

Stephen C. Cleland, who worked at Johnson Space Center, pleaded guilty to using his official position at the space agency to solicit a job for his son.

Eight of nine people originally charged in the undercover investigation of contract fraud at the space center have now admitted guilt in agreements with the government.

Cleland, 46, also admitted to giving confidential NASA documents to an employee of Martin Marietta Corp. In return, the Marietta employee helped Cleland's son obtain employment with another company.

Fisher mum on why he left exclusive club, then rejoined

AUSTIN (AP) — The campaign of Democratic U.S. Senate runoff candidate Richard Fisher says that Fisher quit the all-white Dallas Country Club last year before his race in the special Senate election, and then rejoined after he lost.

For days, Fisher has refused to say when he quit and rejoined the club or why.

On Thursday, he quoted a black minister who said the country club membership was a non-issue. Fisher added, "I've said enough about the Dallas Country Club."

Here are developments in the country club saga:

— March 2: Fisher admitted that he belonged to an exclusive club, but said he was trying to recruit a prominent Dallas Jew. He refused to name the club. "We're trying to break down barriers," he said.

— March 3: Fisher identified the club as the Dallas Country Club. Primary opponents Jim Mattox and Mike Andrews call for Fisher to resign from the club, but Fisher refused, saying he was working from within to change the rules. "It would be hypocritical for me to resign," he said.

Club spokesman Joel Williams said the club has Jewish members. Fisher said he inherited his membership from his father-in-law, the late U.S. Rep. Jim Collins, R-Dallas.

— March 9: Mattox says even if Fisher becomes the Democratic nominee, he could not support him because Fisher belongs to the all-white club.

— March 17: Fisher's campaign said he quit the club and rejoined within the past two years for personal reasons and that politics had nothing to do with it. Mattox said Fisher resigned before running for Senate in the special election last year, and then rejoined after he finished fifth in the 24-candidate field.

In 1939, the United States recognized the Franco government in Spain, following the end of the Spanish Civil War.

Grand jury probes possible UT hazing

AUSTIN (AP) — A grand jury investigating possible hazing has requested University of Texas records involving allegations against four student groups.

Austin police Sgt. Dusty Hesskew said he sought the subpoena because of the lack of cooperation he has received from students.

A subpoena was issued earlier this week ordering the associate dean of students to produce statements, medical records, photographs, offense reports, description of evidence and any other information gathered involving allegations against the groups.

The groups under scrutiny are he Texas Cowboys, Sigma Chi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Alpha Phi Alpha.

In addition, Assistant County Attorney Kate Kelley said Thursday that she will ask the grand jury to also subpoena records about possible hazing involving the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Presidents or spokesmen for three of the groups said they have not been contacted by police. The president of Alpha Phi Alpha could not be reached for comment.

A school official, who is continuing to investigate all five groups, said the investigatory records would be turned over next week.

In March, a Kappa Kappa Gamma member was taken to the hospital for possible alcohol poisoning. However, the sorority president has said the drinking did not occur at a Kappa function.

Switzer settling in as Cowboys coach

IRVING (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys have made their first player move under new head coach Barry Switzer, and he learned about it on the radio.

The Cowboys on Thursday released tight end Alfredo Roberts, who missed all of last season and part of the 1992 season because of injuries.

"I'll be honest with you. I heard it on the radio a few minutes ago while I was out looking at some houses," Switzer said. "I guess the general manager made a decision to release him and didn't consult the coach. Hell, it's OK with me. I ain't going to go and get (upset)."

Switzer was hired on Wednesday, succeeding Jimmy Johnson, who accepted a multi-million dollar buyout on Tuesday to quit halfway through his 10-year contract as Cowboys coach.

Owner Jerry Jones also was general manager when Johnson was the coach, but there were those who suspected he was GM in title only. It was Johnson's expertise that brought players in or sent them packing.

Switzer, out of football the last five years with no NFL experience, is a little short on such expertise.

"We did talk about it the other night," said Switzer, "and it was just a physical thing. It's tragic, the guy was a good player, but he just can't play."

Switzer attended meetings, met players and returned telephone calls Thursday on his first full day as the third coach of the Cowboys, then headed back to Norman, Okla., to pack "30 years of memories."

The former University of Oklahoma coach said he will return to Valley Ranch on Monday and find a nearby apartment so "I can be at work every morning at 7:30 to devote everything I have to the job."

Switzer said he plans to hold his first players' meeting at 10 a.m. Monday.

Two players informed him they are going to be out of town Monday.

"I coached 16 years at Oklahoma and never had anybody do that. That proves to me there's a little more of a maturity level at this level of football," Switzer said.

Switzer will retain every member of Johnson's staff. He said he asked them to "please let me learn from you."

"It's up to me to garner their respect," he said. "I know they are the best staff in the NFL."

In the coming weeks, Switzer said, his priorities will be spending time with coaches on the playbooks and philosophies and learning the talents of the current roster.

The draft will largely be left to scouting director Larry Lacewell and his staff, he said. Lacewell coached with Switzer at Oklahoma before the pair ran into personal difficulties.

"Larry and I went to dinner last night and talked about the draft," Switzer said. "Nobody knows any more about the college talent than Larry. I'll be mostly observing at the draft this year. I'm getting into this too late to offer much assistance."

Tigers open district schedule with 2-1 extra-inning victory

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

It was a game of baseball cliches.

Sparkling defense. A pitchers' duel. Extra innings. Clutch hitting.

It was all of those things and more as Snyder edged Lamesa, 2-1 in nine innings Thursday in both teams' District 2-4A opener.

Right fielder Bryant Roberson, who had supplied the Tigers with some excellent defensive support in rightfield, slapped an RBI single, scoring leftfielder Chris Mitchell in the last of the ninth with the game-winner.

"It was a heck of a game," said Snyder coach Albert Lewis. "(Starter Alvin) Cantu was the best pitcher we've faced.

"We did an exceptional job on defense. Our outfielders, Chris and John (Clinkinbeard) and Roberson all made some outstanding catches.

"Plus our infield made the routine plays, picking up ground balls cleanly and throwing out the runners.

"It was an all-around team effort."

Snyder's defense quashed four Lamesa threats in the contest. Three Tornado base runners were gunned down by SHS catcher Brad Hart while trying to move from first to second, and Clinkinbeard initiated a first-inning double play, running down a fly ball off the bat of Contreras, then throwing out Ernie Morales, who was trying to get back to second.

The Tornadoes broke a 0-0 tie in the top of the seventh when Chris Contreras, who had singled to open the inning, scored as Tony Barrera reached on an error.

Snyder rallied to tie the score in the last of the frame when Mitchell drew a 2-out walk, took second on a wild pitch by Cantu, then scored on a line-drive single by first baseman Bryan Lickey.

The Tigers scored the game's final run off reliever Contreras, who came on in the eighth after Cantu ran out of gas.

Mitchell was hit by a pitch and went to second on a passed ball before coming in on Roberson's 2-out single.

Cantu, a left-hander, lasted 7 1/3 innings, striking out 14 Snyder hitters and limiting the Tigers to just four hits and one run.

Snyder starter Reagan Key went seven innings, fanning six and walking just three while allowing four hits and a run.

Curt Rinehart moved to the mound from third base in the eighth, giving the Tigers two innings of relief and getting the win.

Rinehart whiffed three of the eight hitters he faced, walked none and gave up a pair of hits while keeping the Tors off the scoreboard.

Roberson was the only Tiger with more than one base rap in Snyder's six-hit attack Thursday.

The sophomore had a sixth-inning single to go with his ninth-inning heroics.

Contreras was Lamesa's top offensive player, getting two hits in four at-bats.

The Tigers move to 10-8 overall and 1-0 in district play with the win. Lamesa falls to 11-7 and 0-1.

The rest of the loop begins play Saturday when Levelland visits Estacado and Frenship hosts Plainview.

Snyder's next outing is slated for Tuesday when the Tigers travel to Levelland.

Richardson seeks third collegiate title

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

Arkansas' Nolan Richardson will be seeking the third jewel in coaching's triple crown when his Razorbacks head to the NCAA Final Four this weekend in Charlotte, N.C.

Richardson carried the Western Texas College Westerners to an NJCAA national title in 1980 and guided Tulsa's Golden Hurricane to the 1981 National Invitation Tournament crown.

Now he has a second chance to add an NCAA national championship to his list of coaching accomplishments and become the first coach ever to win all three.

Richardson took the Hogs to the tournament semifinals in 1990, but came up short.

"We were two games away from the championship in 1990 and we're two games away in 1994," the coach said in a recent telephone interview. "The 90's have been pretty good to us.

"We won't do anything different than we've done all along," the Arkansas coach said when asked about special strategy against Arizona on Saturday.

"We want to do the same things that got us here. We don't want to change anything.

"What we've said all along is that we wanted to give ourselves a chance to win. We just have to keep knockin'.

"Sooner or later, somebody's going to let us in."

It could be this year that the door is opened to the Razorbacks.

Arkansas was ranked No. 1 in the Associated Press college basketball poll for much of the 1993-94 season, and the Hogs carry a 29-3 record into the last weekend of play, the best mark among the four surviving squads.

"We will probably be listed as the favorite," the coach said. "Duke will be there in front of a home crowd, though, so they could also be considered a favorite."

Richardson admits the pressure of getting this far is hard on players and on coaches.

"The coaches can't shoot, or make a free throw or take a charge," Richardson said. "The big thing we have to deal with when we get to this level is all the media attention. All the reporters and TV people, they can take away from your focus.

"We've got a pretty young team," he continued. "They haven't woke up yet. They don't know they're supposed to be nervous or feel any pressure."

The Arkansas coach was diplomatic when aked about his preference of an opponent, Duke or Florida, should the Razorbacks get into Monday's title game.

It really doesn't matter," he said, "and we can't worry about that. We have a tough game against Arizona to get past before we can even take time to worry about who we'll play after that."

Richardson's stint at Western Texas was a successful one.

He led the Westerners to a 98-14 record and three appearances in the national tournament in his three seasons in Snyder, including a 37-0 mark in '80 when WTC claimed the national crown.

"I still think a lot of Snyder," the coach said. "If there was a way, I'd like to tell everybody there hello and thanks for all the support I had while I was there and since."

Richardson transferred his success into the Division I ranks in 1981 when he guided Tulsa to a 26-7 mark and an NIT title.

While in charge of the Hurricane, Richardson helped Tulsa make a pair of NIT runs and three appearances in the NCAA tournament.

Would he be interested in looking for a new level of competition should he claim the NCAA championship this year?

"Well, I don't know," Richardson said about his aspirations to coach in the NBA. "I'm certainly not looking. I have a great situation here with the Razorbacks.

"But I will leave the door open for any opportunity that might come along."

Just for the record, no coach has ever won a juco crown, an NIT title, an NCAA national championship and the NBA Finals.

Purdue star claims honor

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Glenn Robinson, the only unanimous selection to the All-America team, was the overwhelming choice today as The Associated Press college basketball player of the year.

The junior forward from Purdue received the Adolph Rupp Trophy, which is presented by the Commonwealth Athletic Club in the memory of the late Kentucky coach.

Robinson, who led the nation in scoring at 30.3 points per game, became the 15th Division I player to score 1,000 points in a season.

Stewart selected AP's '94 Coach of the Year

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Norm Stewart, who directed Missouri to an undefeated season in the Big Eight and a spot in the final eight of the NCAA tournament, was selected college basketball coach of the year today by The Associated Press.

NORM STEWART

Stewart is in his 27th season at his alma mater, the third longest tenure at one school among active coaches.

Stewart received 102 votes in national balloting by sportswriters and broadacasters conducted before the NCAA tournament to easily outdistance Charlie Spoonhour of Saint Louis who had 57 votes. Nolan Richardson of Arkansas was third with 40 followed by Jim Calhoun of Connecticut with 37 and Lon Kruger of Florida with 22.

Temporary lockups proposed

AUSTIN (AP) — County officials are praising a proposal by state leaders to use temporary lockups and work camps to hold thousands of inmates until new prisons are completed this summer.

"Texas counties are holding state prisoners at considerable expense and risk to our personnel and property. We welcome this state effort to keep the backlog at a manageable level," Ellis County Judge Penny Redington said Thursday.

The state and counties with the worst jail crowding problems could work together to put up enough temporary structures to take as many as 7,500 felons out of the jails by June 1, said Gov. Ann Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Pete Laney.

The program would cost an estimated $25 million to $30 million, with the state putting up the money, said Steve Bresnen, Bullock's general counsel. He said it would be carved from other state programs if necessary.

"We'll find that money wherever we have to," Bresnen said.

The structures could include tents, prefabricated buildings and other such facilities, officials said. Besides state and county action, the plan could possibly include private prison management companies.

Nonviolent inmates in the program could be put to work on such public projects as roads and parks, the leaders said.

County officials have complained because of the estimated 30,000 state prisoners being held pending transfer to state prison.

"It's impossible for the counties to hold a backlog of 30,000 safely in the county jails. That's why we must have emergency assistance," said Jim Allison, legal counsel for two county groups.

Leaders earlier this year announced a push to complete permanent prison space for 15,000 additional inmates to relieve the pressure on the jails.

The temporary state facilities would shut down on Aug. 31, when construction of that permanent space is completed, leaders said.

However, Bresnen said, counties could continue to operate the facilities on their own.

He said more than half the facilities in the emergency program are expected to be managed by the counties, and the rest by the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

Leaders will begin working with the counties on Monday, he said. "We're going to try to focus on the most overcrowded ones."

Several counties also could collaborate on one project, Bresnen said.

The felony prisoner backlog is expected to reach 35,000 in June, said Allison, legal counsel for the County Judges and Commissioners Association of Texas and the Coalition of Counties with Overcrowded Jails.

"We recognize that state funds are limited, but counties have a critical need for this assistance. If the Texas Department of Criminal Justice meets its construction schedule, we should be able to survive this crisis," he said.

State Attorney General Dan Morales, who presided over settlement of a long-running federal lawsuit over prison conditions, said of the leaders' plan, "Tent housing for work camps are a perfect example of the type of management tools given the prison administration and authorized by" that settlement.

Federal regulators' efforts criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arkansas' Democratic senators complained last year to the Clinton administration that the government had hounded the father-in-law of Associate Attorney General Webster Hubbell for $340,000 — money that had come from the collapsed S&L now at the heart of the Whitewater affair.

Hubbell's father-in-law, Seth Ward, surrendered the funds last April to federal regulators, who waged a protracted court fight to get them, according to correspondence released Thursday by the Resolution Trust Corp.

The RTC issued the documents in response to Freedom of Information Act requests from news organizations.

Federal regulators said Ward wasn't entitled to the money because it consisted of real estate commissions from land deals that "led to the insolvency and failure of Madison Guaranty," according to an RTC letter to Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark.

Ward — who had gone to work for Madison — had been awarded the money after suing his employer in state court in Arkansas, but the regulators took up the matter in federal court.

Rabin rejects right-wing call for army revolt against peace

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin rejected right-wing attempts to get the army to revolt against his peace policies, calling the actions "recklessness and irresponsibility" that could tear the nation asunder.

A forum of some 200 rabbis prompted the dispute by declaring soldiers should disobey if Israel orders them to uproot Jewish settlements in occupied land, particularly in the West Bank city of Hebron. Many right-wing lawmakers endorsed the decree Thursday.

Among them was former Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir of the Likud party, who likened an order to uproot a settlement to a soldier being told to shoot his mother or father.

"Should he obey?" said Shamir on Army radio. "To remove Jews from the soil of their homeland, it is like murdering their parents ... such orders shouldn't be issued."

Hebron has become a focal point of right-wing objections to peacemaking with the PLO, largely because of calls inside Rabin's Cabinet to dismantle the settlement in the wake of the Feb. 25 massacre of 30 Palestinians by a settler gunman.

Involving the army in the debate shows how heated the controversy is getting, as the date draws near for a military withdrawal from the Gaza Strip and West Bank town of Jericho. Those areas are getting autonomy in the coming weeks under the Sept. 13 Israel-PLO accord.

The hawks are worried about the support among Israel's leaders for moving Jews out of Hebron, fearing it could spell the end of all settlements in disputed territory.

More soldiers arrive in Texas for treatment

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Twenty more paratroopers burned in last week's North Carolina military plane collision have arrived at Brooke Army Medical Center, bringing the total to 43 — the largest number ever treated at the burn unit from a single accident.

Col. Basil A. Pruitt Jr., commander of the U.S. Army Institute of Surgical Research, said the largest previous total from one accident was 37 Marines who were burned Oct. 19, 1979, when a fuel bladder split and sent a "river of fire" beneath their barracks at Camp Fuji, Japan.

The 23 injured soldiers who were flown previously to the facility for treatment "are doing as well as anyone could expect," with nine in critical condition, nine in serious condition and five in satisfactory condition, Pruitt said.

The burn unit, which normally has a ward staff of about 150 working eight-hour shifts, went to 12-hour shifts when the first soldiers arrived March 24 and has expanded to a second ward, Pruitt said.

The unit has 12 surgeons, and about nine more, including some Brooke alumni, have been brought in to help out.

The newest group of soldiers arrived on two late afternoon flights at Kelly Air Force Base and were being transported across town to Brooke.

Some family members also arrived with the patients and will be housed in guest quarters on Fort Sam Houston, the Army post where Brooke is located, base spokesman Phil Reidinger said.

"They (the latest arriving soldiers) are not injured as badly as the earlier ones. In fact many of them will be ambulatory (able to walk)," every year as a coach. The extra effort she gives will help her build a real nice program."

Nichols played for WTC two seasons under coach Kelly Chadwick and earned her associate of arts degree in 1987.

She was a Dusters team captain, averaging 25.9 points and 10 rebounds per game and, in her sophomore season, led WTC to a 31-4 record and a fourth-place finish in the NJCAA national tournament.

A two-time all-conference and all-region player, Welch was named Western Junior College Athletic Conference and Region V Most Valuable Player in 1987, and was an all tourney pick at the NJCAA National Tournament.

Nichols also holds the women's scoring record at WTC with 44 points in a single game.

After leaving Western Texas, she transferred to Sam Houston State University and earned a bachelor's degree in physical education. At Sam Houston, she again was team captain, averaging 19.2 points per game and earning all-Southland Conference honors playing for current Howard College coach Royce Chadwick.

Terry Gray, a finalist for the WTC job before withdrawing following his interview Sunday, is an assistant at Howard and was on the coaching staff at Sam Houston State when Nichols was there.

"She'll do a good job for Western Texas," Gray said. "She's young and energetic and very competitive.

"It'll be fun. I look forward to the games with WTC. I think she'll add a little flavor to the conference."

A native of Jennings, La., Nichols joined the staff at Pensacola JC to become a full-time assistant coach. Her primary duties there included recruiting, scheduling, scouting, community camps, summer camps and on-floor coaching.

While at Pensacola, Nichols earned her master's in education degree from the University of West Florida.

While at WTC, Nichols was named Miss WTC and coached in the Snyder Little Dribblers program.

She is married to Barry Nichols. They have one child, Walter Brady Nichols.

was injured.

Fire Chief Terry Don McDowell said the fire was apparently caused by an electrical heater which was placed too close to bed linen.

Firemen said the bedroom was gutted by the blaze. The rest of the residence, which is owned by Vivian Benitez, received smoke and water damage.

The fire was the second in a 12-hour period for firemen, who shortly before 9 p.m. Thursday had extinguished a wooden fence that had caught on fire at 1303 23rd St.

Firemen said the fence, owned by Antonio Silva, apparently caught fire from ashes or sparks from a barbecue pit.

Fisher, Mattox argue over taxes

AUSTIN (AP) — Richard Fisher, who is running for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination, denies that he ever supported an increase in gasoline or Social Security taxes.

"I have never uttered those words in either this campaign or my previous campaign," Fisher said Thursday.

The campaign of his opponent, Jim Mattox, responded by providing a list of newspaper articles in which Fisher said he could support higher taxes.

"The public is fast learning that the real Richard Fisher refuses to take responsibility for his own actions," said Elna Christopher, a Mattox spokeswoman.

Fisher and Mattox square off in the April 12 Democratic Party runoff.

Corps of Cadets leaders are accused of ballot tampering

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — A Texas A&M University election commission is investigating efforts by the Corps of Cadets to defeat a senior yell leader candidate who isn't a member of the corps.

Ben Dale, Student Senate academic affairs chair, said about one-third of the ballots appear to have been altered to delete the name of the candidate, Trent Ashby.

The ballots were inspected after someone complained Wednesday.

An election volunteer manning the polls, when asked why Ashby's name had been removed, said election workers were told the candidate had been disqualified for violation of campaign rules.

Will Haraway, Corps commander, said if the allegations are true, the Aggie Corps of Honor has been broken. But he defended a memo he signed and sent to Corps members urging them not to vote for Ashby or for other candidates who supported Ashby's candidacy.

"This is not how we want to win, but when Trent decided to run for public office, he opened himself up to a whole myriad of criticism," Haraway told the Battalion, Texas A&M's student newspaper.

Two senior Corps members who are seeking student government seats said Corps leaders accused them of being disloyal for supporting Ashby. The names of Ross McGlothlin and Ray Hernandez were left off an internal Corps memo that supposedly listed all cadet candidates.

Steve Kendrick, another Corps member who has openly supported Ashby and is himself running for a student government position, is listed on the memo immediately above the name, "Benedict Arnold."

Haraway said he does not know Kendrick and referred to the inclusion of Benedict Arnold as "an attempt to make a smart-aleck remark."

"I can say whatever the hell I want because I know I'm within the bounds of the law. That was a closed memo meant for Corps members only. It's none of (the election commission's) damn business what it means. The Corps will take care of the Corps."

Hernandez said he was disappointed Haraway signed the memo.

Haraway said he failed to see how the omission of the names of McGlothlin and Rollins could be damaging to the election process.

"I think having Ross and Ray in the Corps is damaging enough. I think they're the ones who are damaging the integrity of the Corps," he said.

Weighing risks of pelvic radiation

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please discuss the effects of radiation in the pelvic area. I understand the good cells will repair themselves but the cancer cells will not. Will my muscles be affected or will anything be permanently damaged?

DEAR READER: Pelvic radiation during the performance of routine X-ray studies causes no long-term consequences. I assume that by "radiation in the pelvic area" you mean therapeutic X-ray treatment for cancer.

As you know, radiation therapy releases huge amounts of radiation that is focused by a machine in the area needing treatment. High-dose X-rays kill cancer cells. They also burn or kill normal tissue, but the theory is that new normal cells will re-grow, leaving the dead cancer cells behind.

In the main, this system works; however, damage to normal tissue can, unfortunately, be extensive. Consequently, pelvic radiation usually causes inflammation and irritation of non-malignant tissue, such as the bowel, bladder, reproductive organs, and lymph glands. Muscles, nerves and blood vessels are generally not affected.

Thus, many symptoms may follow pelvic radiation. These include diarrhea, gas, abdominal pain, bleeding into the urine, uterine hemorrhage, and swelling of the legs.

My answer to your question is, by necessity, general. Your specific case may be unique or different in several ways. For instance, you may require less radiation than is customary, which means you would have far fewer side effects, a trade-off that you may have to accept as part of successful therapy. Ask your oncologist or radiation therapist what is in store for you and what to expect in the way of post-radiation symptoms.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Two years ago I had my gallbladder removed. Until five or six months ago, my body felt exactly as it did prior to surgery. Now, however, it seems I'm on the verge of being nauseated often with a dull pain in the area of my heart. My wife feels it represents a hiatal hernia, but I feel it is related to the lack of a gallbladder. I do eat more often and that seems to help, but I wonder if an over-the-counter medicine, such as Pepto Bismol, might help.

DEAR READER: I'll side with your wife, because pain and nausea don't customarily follow gallbladder surgery. If you do, indeed, have a hiatal hernia, Pepto Bismol may help you by absorbing gastric acid before it backwashes into your esophagus.

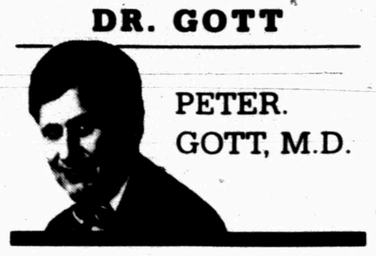

However, rather than guessing at the root of your problem, I suggest that you see your doctor for a diagnosis. Through a variety of tests, including upper gastrointestinal X-rays, the physician ought to be able to pinpoint the difficulty and recommend treatment.

Remember that angina (heart muscle spasm), a dangerous and potentially fatal condition, can masquerade as intestinal discomfort and nausea, so don't put off seeing your family physician.

To give you more information, I am sending you free copies of my Health Reports "Peptic Ulcers" and "Heart Disease." Other readers who would like copies should send $2 for each report plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title(s).

Federal judge orders probe into medical care of inmates

TYLER (AP) — Following claims that at least one Texas inmate died and another performed surgery on himself, a federal judge has ordered an investigation into whether state prisoners are being denied proper medical treatment.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice, who presided over the long-running Ruiz lawsuit concerning conditions in state prisons, gave the Texas Attorney General's Office and prison officials 60 days to investigate and file a report with the court.

Under a final judgment in the Ruiz case in December 1992, Justice ordered the state to continue giving proper health care to prisoners and to monitor compliance.

But several motions and affidavits filed by inmates claim that has not been done, according to a court order signed Wednesday, the Tyler Morning Telegraph reported today.

After receiving the state's response to these allegations, Justice said he will determine whether to conduct a hearing or reopen the case.

Ron Dusek, spokesman for the Texas Attorney General's Office, said today that the agency "will comply with Judge Justice's request and provide him with whatever information he wants."

In the order, Justice cites complaints that "countless" inmates at the Ramsey I Unit in Brazoria County have been denied proper medical treatment, that inmates with AIDS are denied medical care, and that prisoners are assigned to perform work which they should not do because of their medical conditions.

The United States took possession of the Virgin Islands from Denmark in 1917.

Fears Over Banana Safety Simply Don't Hold Water

by Abigail Van Buren

© 1994 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Referring to your column concerning whether or not bananas should be washed, I am happy to say that your original conclusion — that they need not be washed — was correct.

While it probably would do no harm to wash everything one purchases to remove ordinary dust and dirt, it is usually unnecessary.

The pulp of the banana itself is sterile until the peel is removed, thus making it one of the most secure ready-to-eat foods for adults as well as children.

It is true that some permitted substances are used to ward off insects or neutralize fungi that develop in the humid tropics, but these are used well within the limits set by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

At the beginning of the packaging process, the bananas are immersed in tanks of water having a mild current that carries them down the packing line. This procedure minimizes handling, gently reduces field temperature, and also serves to wash off field dust and residue.

At the end of that procedure, the bananas are packed in cardboard boxes and are loaded into refrigerated containers. They are then transferred to refrigerated vessels for shipment to the United States.

It is highly unlikely that insects or other contaminants could survive such a thorough process — and our experience over the years shows that they don't.

While some of the conditions described by your readers may have been true 70 or 80 years ago, they certainly are not true today.

Abby, please inform your readers that bananas are one of the healthiest foods people can eat. Their high fiber and potassium content make them especially valuable for older people as well as children.

ROBERT M. MOORE, PRESIDENT, INTERNATIONAL BANANA ASSOCIATION

DEAR MR. MOORE: Thank you for the reinforcement concerning bananas. It is by far the best publicized fruit known to man, woman and monkey. Mel Brooks said he would rather eat a rotten banana than a fresh peach.

It is also the funniest fruit around. Thirty years ago, Carmen Miranda sang (if my memory serves me):

"I'm Chiquita Banana and I'm here to say/That bananas have to ripen in a certain way/You can put them in a salad, you can bake them in a pie-eye/But no matter how you eat them, it's impossible to beat them/Oh, bananas like the climate of the tropical equator/So never, never put bananas in the refrigerator." Cha-cha-cha!

P.S. I personally find them very appealing.

DEAR ABBY: I think it's rude to ask someone how much he or she paid for something. However, I come from a family that asks that question whenever I wear something new.

If I don't tell them, they think I'm a snob. Also, I am constantly being asked where I bought this or that.

Please give me a good answer. If I try to get out of answering, they get mad.

SICK OF QUESTIONS

DEAR SICK: My standard answer to "How much did you pay for that?" is, "Why do you want to know?"

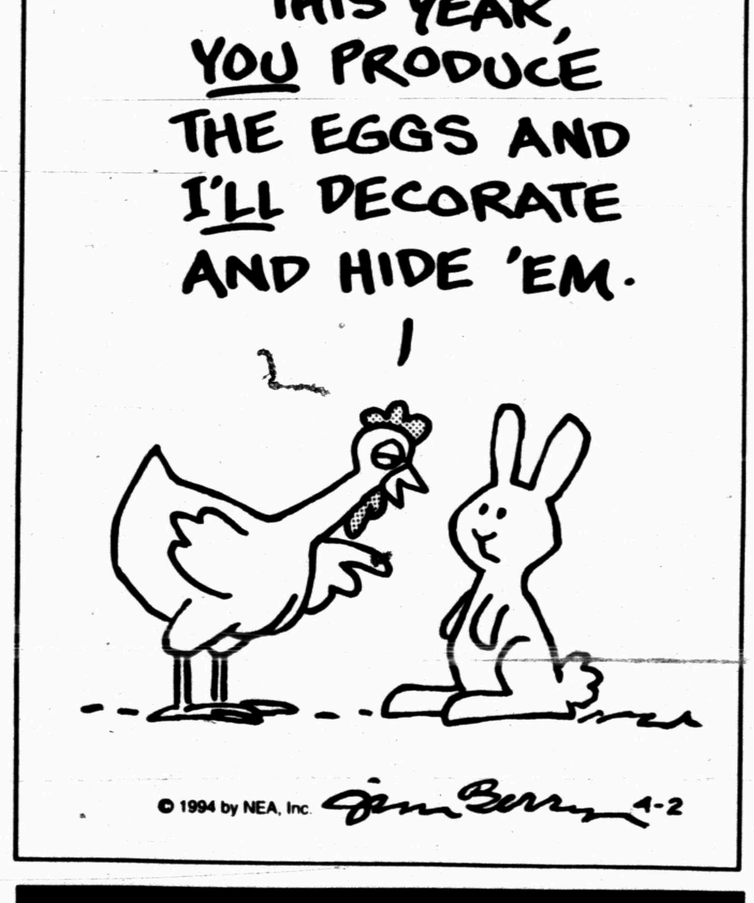

If the questioner persists, I follow up with, "If you will forgive me for not answering, I'll forgive you for asking."

I'll admit, these are not very cooperative answers, but it beats disclosing personal information you prefer to keep private.

Facts About The BIBLE

BY JOHN LEHTI

THE SHEPHERDS' PROTECTORS

WHILE THE YOUNG SHEPHERDS GUARDED THEIR FLOCKS THEY IN TURN QUITE OFTEN WERE GUARDED THEMSELVES BY SMALL BANDS OF YOUNG MEN WHO WERE SUITABLY ARMED TO WARD OFF BRIGANDS AND OUTLAWS WHO MIGHT STEAL THE SHEEP. THESE YOUTHS WERE USUALLY IN SOME KIND OF MINOR TROUBLE WITH THE AUTHORITIES. FOR PAY THEY RECEIVED FOOD FROM THE OWNERS OF THE FLOCKS. SUCH AN ARRANGEMENT WAS MADE BY DAVID AND HIS SMALL BAND OF COMPANIONS WHEN HE HAD TO LEAVE SAUL'S PALACE UNDER THREAT OF DEATH. THIS MEAGER BEGINNING LATER LED TO DAVID AMASSING AN ARMY POWERFUL ENOUGH TO ENSURE HIS CONTROL OF THE ENEMY PHILISTINES WHEN HE WAS MADE KING.
