Abilene Artist Wins Sweepstakes In Show

A painting of a street scene titled "Pizza Alley," by Tony Brown of Abilene, is the sweepstakes winner in the Snyder Palette Club's 11th Annual Exhibition.

The show in the Scurry County Coliseum was opened to the public Saturday afternoon and will be open again Sunday from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m.

Awards will be presented in ceremonies at 4 p. m.

A painting by Michael Thornton, head of the Western Texas College Division of Fine Arts, took first prize in the painting division. It is titled "Bronco Billy Takes a Stand." Second prize in painting went to Ted Rose of Abilene for an entry titled "Plumed Serpent," and third went to Mary Hogsett of Abilene for "Santa Fe Stairway."

First prize in the sculpture division was won by Dawn Stubitsch of Abilene. Her winning entry is titled "After the Tide." Second prize in sculpture was awarded to Pamela Gilbreth Watkins of Snyder for "Woman," and third prize in sculpture was won by Jo White of Abilene for "Mary."

Merit awards in painting went to Kerry Young of Snyder for "The American Cowboy;" John R. Gibson of Snyder for "Bill Eiland;" Barbara Ainsworth of Lawton, Okla., for "Study in Contrast;" Mary Brocker of San Angelo for "Dry Wash on Highway 16;" Mac Carow of Lubbock for "Eggs;" and Marvin Stevenson of Odessa for "Cock of the Walk."

Receiving honorable mention in painting were Delores Warren of San Angelo for "Diamond Back Rattlesnake;" Vernell Leach of San Angelo for "Petunias;" LaVerne Lee of Snyder for "Looking Pretty;" Ma Carow of Lubbock for "Many Winters;" Alda Passel of Abilene for "Kaoti;" Stacie Armes of Littlefield for "Fishing on Fantasy Island." Liz Bell of Snyder for "Peaches;" Jean Howle of Lubbock for "Serenity on Highway 6;" Aldo Peruzzi of Lawton,

Rites Pending For Victim Of Drowning

Funeral arrangements were pending Saturday at Bell-Seale Funeral Home for Henry Borego, 33, who drowned March 13 after falling from a boat in Lake Colorado City.

The body was found late Friday, and an autopsy was being performed Saturday.

An employee of Leamco Bearing Co. of Snyder, he lived at 503 34th St.

Surviving are his wife, Alice; a daughter, Margie of the home; two sons, Michael and Israel Borego, both of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Feliciano Borego of Snyder; and four sisters, Lupe Duran, Hope Guzman and Olga Ubando, all of Snyder, and Rita Garza of Trent.

He was a member of Iglesia Metodista.

The SDN Column

Time, and a little dedication, can change nearly everything.

Eight years ago, there were experts telling us that we probably never would see the day again when we could count on filling up our cars with gasoline whenever we felt the urge. Service stations were running dry daily, long lines were forming wherever a station was open, and some station operators were limiting purchases.

The Arabs had us in a squeeze, and they were not reluctant to apply the pressure.

Today, the Arabs are squirming. The conservation efforts in consuming nations have far exceeded expectations, production outside the Arab territory has increased beyond all hopes and the motorized world is literally swimming in gasoline and crude oil. What the experts eight years ago failed to take into account was America's tenacity once it recognizes a problem, and smaller, fuel-saving automobiles.

Now, the experts are telling us that gasoline at 90 cents per gallon may be here by summer, and apparently they are on firmer ground than they were in their 1974 predictions. There's a good sprinkling of regular gasoline under $1 per gallon now, even on the freeway, as you head east. And we are told that it already has dropped to the 90-cent mark and even slightly below, in some places off the Interstate.

Meanwhile, it is a pleasant experience to hear about the Arabs' dismay.

Some of the talk about an "oil glut" has sparked talk that exploration in this country will plummet, but reports sifting into our office suggest otherwise. For example, Sun Gas has just announced that it plans to increase its drilling operations by 60 percent this year.

But what about the idle rigs? One observer had an answer for that: There was a rig shortage when the energy crisis struck, and, typically, a lot of rig-building followed. There are simply a lot more rigs available now than there were, even a year ago. And the Permian Basin Petroleum Association reports that the number of active rigs in the Basin this month is substantially higher than for the corresponding period last year, which is more bad news for the Arabs.

This is the season for political polls, and they are rolling out daily, if not hourly.

It reminds us of an observation attributed to O. Henry: "A straw vote merely shows which way the hot air blows."

To Retain $34 Price...

OPEC To Cut Production

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — OPEC ministers ended their two-day emergency session today with official agreement to limit oil production to 18 million barrels a day and retain the benchmark price of $34 a barrel, the cartel said.

In a surprise announcement, Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani said his country will unilaterally reduce its production to 7 million barrels a day for April.

The Saudis, largest exporter in the 13-member cartel, had just cut their production from 8.5 million barrels a day to 7.5 million. Yamani's announcement effectively lowers the total daily ceiling to 17.5 million barrels at least until May 1.

"The organization has been able to take a decision," said Mana Saeed Oteiba, president of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries and oil minister of the United Arab Emirates.

The announcement climaxed a crisis in the cartel, which has been threatened by a worldwide oil oversupply, falling sales and declining prices on spot markets, where oil is sold to the highest bidder.

The agreement cuts the 13-member cartel's daily output by about 1 million barrels a day. Oteiba did not specify how production cuts will be divided among the members, but he told reporters further cuts are possible if needed to stabilize oil prices.

"We are ready to go further down to a lower figure than 18," million barrels daily in the future, he said.

Saudi Arabia, whose current production ceiling is 7.5 million barrels a day, will not reduce its production, Oteiba said. The Saudis just cut their production from 8.5 million barrels a day to 7.5 million.

The new ceiling will take effect April 1 and will be reviewed at the group's next scheduled meeting on May 20 in Quito, Ecuador, Oteiba said.

Algeria, Nigeria and Libya will lower the price of their top grades of crude oil, according to the terms of the agreement outlined by Oteiba. Those countries now charge as much as $3 a barrel above the OPEC benchmark for their higher quality oil. Oteiba said the differential would be cut by about 50 percent.

The ministers, meeting in emergency session under heavy security at a Vienna hotel, were trying to satisfy conflicting interests among all OPEC members, whose revenues are sharply declining.

Banquet Ticket Sales Launched

Ticket sales are underway for the annual banquet of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, which is scheduled for the night of April 2 in the Scurry County Coliseum.

Ernest Sears, ticket sales chairman, has announced ticket sales teams who will be at work beginning Monday, along with four locations outside the chamber office where banquet tickets may be purchased.

The banquet will feature Iola Johnson, popular coanchor of WFAA-TV's evening newscasts, as the guest speaker. The master of ceremonies will be Miss Johnson's boss, David T. Lane, vice president and general manager of Belo Broadcasting Corp., the parent company of WFAA-TV, Channel 8.

Arrangements for the banquet personalities and program were announced several days ago by Roger B. Mize, chairman of the banquet committee.

Tickets to the banquet are priced at $12 each. Sears said a team composed of David Hines of Hines Construction Co.; Rod Waller of Arrow Construction Co.; Jimmy Thompson, oil industry consultant, and David Holt of Fluid Transport, will work on ticket sales among oil and oil service firms. Paul Sizemore, Wedge Turner of Lone Star Gas Co., Phil Fortune of Texas Electric Service Co. and Sears himself will sell tickets in the business sections of Snyder, and Jerry Baird will be in charge of banquet ticket sales at Western Texas College and to public school personnel.

Tickets may be purchased at Adventures Unlimited Travel Agency on the south side of the square, at First Federal Savings and Loan on the southwest corner of the square, at The Shack and at Snyder Truck and Tractor Co. Orders for tickets may be placed at the chamber office, also.

Although the big ticket sales push is just beginning, Sears said there appears to be considerable interest in the banquet, and response has been good so far.

SHS Student Award Winner

AUSTIN—Chip May of Snyder High School received a first place individual achievement award at the Interscholastic League Press Conference here Saturday.

More than 4,000 students and publication advisers attended the largest scholastic press conference in the nation, which ended Saturday afternoon.

May's first place award was for an editorial cartoon in The Tiger's Tale, Snyder High School's student newspaper.

A.—Not on the same specific charge. That would be what is called "double jeopardy."

Poll Begins On Plan For Park

Voters who live inside the city limits of Snyder may help determine whether a new park shall be developed in the near future by the city.

An informal poll is being conducted on the issue, and a ballot is included with information and illustrations of proposed development presented on Page 9, Section B, of this issue of The Snyder Daily News.

Involved is a proposal for development of Line Park, a tract of land on Deep Creek between 30th and 37th Streets, which was given to the city by the Line family specifically for park purposes.

Following receipt of the gift, the city council named a city parks board, which in turn retained the services of professional landscape architects to assist the board in planning development of the park.

A three-phase plan has been proposed for gradual development of the new park. However, the plan presented by the consultants would cost an estimated $1,085,000.

City officials say that any development likely would proceed at a relatively slow pace and that no general obligation bonds are being considered for financing. Instead, the city would use any available revenues from its sales tax rebates.

However, the city officials are reluctant to launch any project requiring such an expenditure, even if it should be stretched over several years, without widespread input from citizens.

They are seeking expressions from qualified voters, and the ballot on Page 9, Section B, requires a signature and voter registration number.

Tax Collection Proposal On Agenda For Session

In response to requests by some of the taxing entities, the Scurry County Appraisal District is scheduled to take a proposal for collecting taxes before the county commissioners court Monday.

The county has been collecting taxes for all entities. However, it announced in February that the fee for collections would be increased from .6 of one percent to one percent for the coming year, and some of the entities have asked for quotations from the appraisal district.

Under the county's new rates, the overall collection fee would be some $137,000. Following a specific request for figures submitted by the Snyder Independent School District, the appraisal district has estimated that its staff can collect the taxes for $68,000.

Ira School District had made a formal request earlier that the appraisal district collect its taxes for the coming year, and in its session last Tuesday night, Snyder School Trustees instructed Supt. Bill J. Hood to seek figures from the appraisal district.

As the largest taxing entity in the county-wide appraisal district, the Snyder School District pays the biggest tax collecting bill. Its fee under the one percent offered by the county for the coming year would amount to $66,000. Under the appraisal district's proposal, the Snyder School fee would be $32,955.72 if all entities contract with the appraisal district for collections. If the county should remain separate and the other entities should go to the appraisal district for collections, the Snyder School fee would be $44,510.

Under legislation setting up appraisal districts, taxing entities have several options for collecting taxes. They may continue collecting them individually, they may contract with any other entity to collect them, or they may contract with the appraisal district to collect them.

An entity may charge others a collection fee up to one percent, no more than actual cost.

Before the appraisal district was established, the Snyder Schools and the City of Snyder collected their own taxes, while other schools and the Scurry County Junior College district contracted with the county for collections.

The appraisal district proposal is on the agenda for discussion at Monday morning's meeting of the commissioners court in the courthouse.

Weekend update

Deficits Worry NAM

By The Associated Press

President Reagan's efforts to help ease interest rates by creating a new air of confidence in government may be defeated unless he reduces massive budget deficits, a group of manufacturers says.

The large deficits forecast for the next few years "are not consistent with increased business investment and a sustained economic recovery," the National Association of Manufacturers said Friday. It urged more federal spending cuts to pare the deficits.

TV Reporters Stopped

SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Two free-lance U.S. television reporters working for ABC News in El Salvador were stopped by armed men this morning as they were trying to leave their hotel for the airport to go home to Atlanta.

The freelancers, Dennis Suit and Larry Aumack, said their Salvadoran driver was questioned intensely about his family and where he lived and told to be at security force headquarters later in the day.

Suit and Aumack said they would leave on a later flight and would make the 35-mile drive to the airport with a U.S. Embassy escort.

Suit said he and Aumack were not threatened. The men who stopped them were dressed in civilian clothes and carried pistols on their belts, Aumack said. It was not known why they were stopped.

Suspect Shot In Raid

DENTON, Texas (AP) — One man was killed and six other people arrested during an early moring raid of a nearby campground where officers seized a cache of weapons and a pound of suspected methaphetamine.

Richard Larry Rusk, 41, of Athens died in a Denton hospital Friday from a gunshot wound to the chest at 5:10 a.m.

Texas Department of Public Safety spokesman Larry Todd said DPS narcotics agents and local authorities arrived at the campground, about 7 miles south of Denton, at 2:30 a.m. to arrest Rusk on suspicion of manufacturing the "speed."

Officers surrounded Rusk's motor home and identified themselves, but the suspect fled, then "turned and displayed a pistol and shots were exchanged," Todd said.

Todd said Rusk also was carrying a hand grenade and had another in his jacket.

Crash Survivors Hunted

WONDER LAKE, Ill. (AP) — Authorities searched a swampy field in northern Illinois Saturday hoping to find survivors of a blazing military-airplane crash believed to have killed at least 20 people.

The Illinois National Guard KC-135 aircraft went down Friday night in an unincorporated area about 50 miles northwest of Chicago, scattering wreckage over a 2-square-mile area, Air Force Lt. Col. Duane Swimwel said.

Capt. Robert Crabtree of the McHenry County sheriff's office said nine or 10 bodies had been found by early Saturday.

McHenry County Coroner Alvin Queerhammer said he knew of no survivors.

Swimwel said he was not sure how many people were aboard the flight. Police initially reported a crew of seven and 13 passengers were aboard, but Swimmel said only that the plane normally carries a crew of four and can carry up to 40 passengers.

On Economic Development...

WTC Picked For Pilot Program

Western Texas College is one of 25 junior and community colleges in the United States chosen to participate in a pilot program on community economic development being conducted by the Ohio Council on Economic Education.

Titled "Understanding Community Economic Development," the program is designed to be offered to community college honor students, and is to be implemented during the 1982-83 academic year. Armco Foundation provided a grant to fund the program and additional support came from the Ohio Chamber of Commerce and the Joint Council on Economic Education.

In the preliminary planning stage, the Economic Education Council contacted the national office of Phi Theta Kappa, a national honor fraternity for junior college students, asking that they suggest 50 exemplary community colleges to be considered for participation. WTC has had a chapter of Phi Theta Kappa since February, 1973, and was one of the colleges recommended by the organization.

Dr. Mary Hood, PTK faculty sponsor at WTC, was notified last month that WTC had been selected to participate and was asked to select a representative to attend the first general orientation program to be held March 28-30 at Ohio State University in Columbus. Dr. James Palmer, chairman of WTC's division of social sciences and instructor in economics, will represent WTC at that meeting. His travel expenses will be paid by the Economic Education Council.

Speakers will include John W. Galbreath, owner of John W. Galbreath and Company, discussing "The Role of Business in Community Economic Development;" Dr. Herbert E. Neil Jr., vice president for investments of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, talking on "Current Economic Policy and the Economic Outlook;" John Dues, president of the Corporate Real Estate Division of The Mead Corporation in Dayton, discussing "A Community Checklist for Business Location," along with Donald Fell, executive director of the Ohio Council on Economic Education, Dr. Kalman Goldbert, professor of economics at Bradley University, and James A. Duerk, director of the Ohio Department of community and Economic Development.

"We are pleased that WTC has been chosen to be a part of this new program," Dr. Hood said. "We feel it is an honor both for the college and for the students who have made our Phi Theta Kappa chapter the fine organization it is."

Walsea To Get Degree

JACKSONVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Lech Walesa, the labor leader detained by the Polish government since martial law was declared in Poland late last year, will be given an honorary degree by MacMurray College.

The leader of the independent Solidarity labor movement was chosen as one of five honorary degree winners by the small, private college.

Walesa was awarded the degree because his fight against oppression is in harmony with the school's liberal arts philosophy, college spokesman Jim Murphy said Thursday.

Letter To The Editor

To The Daily News:

As a county commissioner, I feel it my duty to keep the citizens of Scurry County informed, so I would like to address a few remarks to the matter of tax collecting in the county.

New state laws about three (3) years ago resulted in the creation of tax appraisal districts. This was a move in the right direction, as it eliminated a disparity of value between taxing entities and a duplication of efforts in obtaining appraised values. Though not required by state law, Scurry County went a step further and combined all tax collecting in one location. To get this kicked off, since this type of set-up made so much sense, the commissioners court had generously offered to collect all of the taxes in the county tax office for a collection fee of six-tenths of one percent. Years of tradition and experience normally allowed an assessment fee of one percent and a collection fee of one percent. This is what the State of Texas allowed counties.

After two years of experience and some cost studies, the commissioners court decided fees should be nearer the realistic cost and asked for a change to the one percent. Admittedly, this is a sizeable increase which has caused some of the taxing entities not only to question the increase but also to consider moving their tax collection to the county appraisal district office.

The commissioners do not feel that the people of Scurry County want to go back to paying taxes at different locations, so an effort has been made to reach some sort of suitable compromise with the Snyder Public School System, which is by far the biggest taxing entity, by setting a limit on the maximum amount to be paid for tax collection. Any cut from the one percent would be borne by the county.

To date, the establishment of an appraisal district has not resulted in the cost saving that was anticipated. I might point out here that the commissioners court controls all operating unit budgets and sets all of the salaries for county employees, but since by state law the appraisal district is a separate entitiy, it submits an assessment to each taxing entity that has to be met.

Are the members of the commissioners court rightly or wrongly skeptical when the appraisal district with a budget of $347,000 for appraisal work estimate they can do all the tax collecting for approximately $68,000? Negotiations on the tax collecting are still open. The commissioners court is anxious to conform to the wishes of the informed Scurry County citizen. Let your thinking and wishes be known by talking to your commissioner, school board member, and city councilman.

Congressman Is Exhausted

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Doctors believe simple exhaustion may have caused Rep. John Ashbrook to faint at a restaurant while dining with members of his staff, says aide Reggie Bashur.

The Ohio Republican underwent tests Thursday at Mansfield General Hospital and was in stable condition, said hospital spokesman Mike Balduf. Hospital officials said he was out of bed, walking around and talking with his wife and others between sessions with the staff.

Ashbrook, 53, who is campaigning for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate, lost consciousness late Wednesday night while dining with members of his staff.

"The doctors don't think anything serious happened. The doctors say it may have been fatigue," Bashur said.

Auto Contract Talks Are Resumed

DETROIT (AP) — Contract talks aimed at cutting General Motors Corp.'s labor costs resumed today after a 17-hour session that was recessed when disagreements arose on a profit-sharing plan.

"Some snags have developed in certain areas, such as the profit-sharing area," UAW President Douglas Fraser said after the marathon bargaining session ended Friday.

Asked if he still was optimistic an agreement could be reached, Fraser said "Yeah, I guess."

Both sides had said during the week they hoped the talks could be wrapped up "by the weekend."

On Thursday, bargainers had begun drawing up final language on some issues, such as the sharing of sacrifices between blue- and white-collar employees and an employee stock program.

But Owen Bieber, UAW vice president in charge of the GM department, said Thursday the union was dissatisfied with GM's profit-sharing plan and also had work to do on the issue of plant closings.

GM and the union began talks in January, but the negotiations collapsed Jan. 28 without a settlement. Since then, GM has announced plans to close seven plants, and Bieber said the UAW wanted to talk to GM about changing those plans. Some 150,000 GM autoworkers are on indefinite layoff amid the worst domestic sales slump since the Depression.

The newest round of talks began March 12. GM, which earned $333 million in 1981, presented a proposal to the union that closely resembles the contract the UAW signed March 1 at Ford Motor Co. GM seeks concessions to become more competitive.

GM's proposal asks its 320,000 U.S. autoworkers to accept a wage freeze, give up cost-of-living increases for nine months, and forfeit nine paid personal holidays.

In return, GM offers a two-year moratorium on plant closings related to subcontracting work to non-union or overseas facilities. It also offers improved benefits for laid-off workers and profit-sharing.

GM's proposal would run through Sept. 14, 1984. The current three-year contract at GM expires Sept. 14 this year.

Earlier Friday Mary Dresser, a spokeswoman for the International Union of Electrical Workers, which also is bargaining with GM, had indicated the UAW talks were progressing enough that GM bargainers had put the IUE talks on hold.

"We're waiting to see what the UAW gets so we have something to sink our teeth into," she said.

The IUE, representing about 32,000 autoworkers in eight domestic GM plants, traditionally bargains with GM at the same time the UAW does and generally negotiates a contract similar to what the UAW gets.

Winning weight loss combo

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I've been attempting to get rid of excess weight around my beltline. I'm 25 and in reasonably good shape barring the recently acquired bulge.

I would like some information on burning calories. I know I eat about 1,000 calories a day. I do 20 to 30 minutes of exercise daily but I have no idea how many calories I'm burning off, if any. My workout consists of bending at the waist and touching my toes, bending at the waist and touching the opposite toes and trunk twisters I picked up from football practice years ago. I realize one man's idea of brisk exercise may not be the same as another's.

DEAR READER — I can't believe you are just eating 1,000 calories a day. But I am pleased that you recognize that part of winning the battle of the bulge is eliminating fat stores inside the abdomen. There is just as much fat inside your abdominal cavity as there is outside under the skin around your beltline. You won't shrink your waistline adequately without getting rid of the fat — inside and outside.

The kind of exercises you describe do not tone or tighten your abdominal muscles. You need to do sit ups for the upper abdominal muscles. And you need to do leg lifts to strengthen the lower abdominal muscles. Voluntary contracting and relaxing the muscles helps, too. Suck in your stomach muscles and hold them as tight as you can. Some exercises of this nature may surprise you in trimming down your waistline.

For just using calories it is hard to beat walking, jogging and running at the level you are capable of exercising. Start a walking program, then gradually start jogging 100 steps a day in your walk and increase your jogging steps 10 steps a day thereafter. If you can walk-jog four miles a day and control your calorie intake plus do your abdominal muscle exercises you should have a successful program.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 17-12, Winning the Battle of the Bulge, which describes a program for you to follow. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — For the past 10 months I have been passing blood with my stools. It is bright red so I have not given it any serious thought as I've always understood that wasn't important unless it was very dark, almost black.

Now I note I am passing clots more often. I am not sick, no pain, no headache or backache and I do not have hemorrhoids. I am regular. I'm 47, a little overweight, but never sick. Is there any cause for alarm?

DEAR READER — I've commented on this before but it is so darned important that I'll do it again. I wish I could tell every man and woman personally that blood, of any color, from the bowel is NOT normal and means that you should have a medical examination at once.

It is one of the signs of cancer of the rectum or colon. That includes bright red blood. Cancer of the rectum and bowel is the second most common cause of cancer deaths in both men and women in the United States.

It can be cured if detected early enough. Detecting it early is the problem. If it isn't cancer there are other serious problems of the colon that cause bleeding. Hemorrhoids may bleed because a cancer is pressing on internal veins. Don't waste another day. See your doctor at once.

Girl To Get Flute Back

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — The 10-year-old girl whose flute was repossessed by a creditor during school hours will get the instrument back, an attorney for the girl's parents says.

The creditor, who reclaimed the flute on Feb. 11, has turned it over to a bankruptcy trustee and it soon will be returned to Alison Mara McKnight, attorney Eric M. Doroshow said Thursday.

Alison's parents had filed suit against the creditor, saying the repossession was illegal since they filed a bankruptcy petition Jan. 8. The girl, who knew nothing of her family's financial problems, apparently became ill after the incident and had to be sent home.

Hospitalized

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Gov. John Y. Brown Jr.'s blood pressure had been fluctuating during the past few days, so his doctor decided to keep him in a hospital overnight for observation, Senate President Pro Tem Joe Prather says.

The 48-year-old governor was hospitalized Thursday for tests as a precaution.

U.S. Economy Is Still In Retreat

By STEVEN P. ROSENFELD
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The economy is still in retreat and key elements for a recovery remain elusive, government reports of the past week indicate.

Personal income is growing, but not fast enough to revive the economy. Corporate profits remain weak. Industrial production and factory use are up from January lows, but the number of business failures also grew. Interest rates remained at lofty levels.

Murray Weidenbaum, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, told an interviewer: "The major barrier to recovery is those higher interest rates."

In Washington, feuding continued over how to deal with huge federal budget deficits, straining the relationship between President Reagan and the business community that was once solidly in his corner.

Even the most optimistic economic report of the week was lukewarm. "Recent economic data indicate that the recession has ended," said Bernard Schoenfeld, vice president and economist at New York's Irving Trust Co., the nation's 16th largest bank. But he added: "The recovery is expected to be relatively subdued..."

While Schoenfeld was talking about an end to the second recession of the decade, government economists estimated that the nation's economy is declining at the same pace as it contracted in the final three months of 1981.

The preliminary estimates for the yet-to-be-completed first quarter project the inflation-adjusted gross national product sinking at an annual rate of 4.5 percent, equal to the economy's slide in the final quarter of last year.

Dun & Bradstreet Corp. said there were 454 business failures in the week ended March 11, rising from a five-week low of 420 failures the previous week and up 42 percent from the corresponding week in 1981. The credit-rating agency reported 4,398 business failures in the first 10 weeks of the year, up 50 percent from the same 1981 period.

The Commerce Department reported Americans' personal income rose 0.5 percent in February, while personal consumption spending climbed 0.8 percent. Personal savings fell slightly.

Economists said personal income must show stronger growth. Otherwise there will not be enough money for a rebound in consumer buying to stimulate business or enough funds to increase savings to provide cash for investment in business expansion and modernization.

The Conference Board, a business-sponsored research organization, released its February survey of consumer confidence, saying consumers are uneasy about current economic conditions and have turned less optimistic about the future. But more planned to buy cars, homes and major appliances.

The Commerce Department said factory orders for new durable goods rose 1.5 percent in February, the first gain since November and only the second since last July. But major categories, including household goods and non-defense capital goods, showed orders declining from January.

AWARD PRESENTED—Joe Montgomery, left, president of the Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts, presents entertainer Mac Davis an award for outstanding public service for his voluntary efforts to promote the conservation of Texas' soil, water and related renewable natural resources. Davis serves as a spokesman for Texas soil and water conservation districts by urging Texans to become aware of and active participants in the state's soil and water conservation efforts.

Match Slated By Gun Club

Canyon Gun Club will have a .22 silhouette match Sunday from 12 noon-4 p.m. at the gun club range located ¼ mile north of the Northeast Community Center.

Using the proper terms of heraldry, the stars and stripes of the American flag should be known as mullets and barrulets.

Seminar Set On History And Art

A seminar on developing community involvement through history and art will be held April 3 at Western Texas College.

The seminar is sponsored by the Texas Historical Commission and the Texas Commission on the Arts in cooperation with the Scurry County Museum, the Diamond M Museum of Fine Art and the Texas Association of Museums.

"Developing Art and History as a Resource" will be the topic of the first general session, scheduled at 9:30 a. m. wirh Glenda Morgan from the Texas Historical Commission as speaker. Pat Jasper will speak on "Folk Art: Projects, Uses and Funding" from 10 a. m. to 12 noon.

Following the break for lunch, sessions will resume with a program on "Community Involvement Through Youth Programs" given by Ricardo Hernandez. He will team with Jasper to present information on "Technical and Grants Assistance" from 4-5 p. m. when the seminar will end.

There is no charge to attend the seminar but preregistration is required and attendance will be limited, Sharon Sutton, local museum director, said. Persons wishing to attend are to contact the Texas Historical Commission at Box 12276, Austin 78711.

Every British post office is entitled to have an official cat on the payroll. Its wages depend on the number of mice it catches.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Being married to a doctor is hard enough, but being married to a young, good-looking, successful one is double trouble.

It's not his patients he gets involved with, it's his office help. After his first affair, I thought I was partly to blame, so I gave him all the attention he needed at home, in bed and elsewhere. But after his third affair, I offered him a divorce so he could marry his secretary. He swore that he really loved me and the last thing he wanted was a divorce. If it were not for my faith and my children, I would have ended my life.

Abby, why is he doing this to me? Why can't he fire his secretary? I have talked to her, but, of course, she's too much in love to listen to me.

I don't know how much more of this I can take. Should I be doing something more? Marriage counseling might help, but he won't hear of it. Please advise me and pray for this . . .

UNHAPPY DOCTOR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Firing his secretary won't help. He'd probably initiate an affair with the next one. Give him an ultimatum. Either he gets counseling to try to get over his playing around, or you're leaving. Please get counseling yourself to help you cope with this situation. Lead from strength. If he thinks you don't mean it, he'll continue his present behavior.

DEAR ABBY: In response to the dialogue that appeared recently between "Longtime Pastor" and "Lutheran Mother":

I, too, have had some unusual requests for weddings, such as a couple in their 80s asking that the choir sing "The Impossible Dream." (Request denied.)

However, I have also performed a wedding ceremony for an "obviously pregnant bride" because the couple had been previously refused by a Catholic priest. They had been loyal church members, and this rejection had driven them and both sets of parents away from the Catholic Church. They were under a great deal of pressure and on the verge of walking away from Christianity altogether.

Jesus frowned on premarital sex, but he also forgave a woman caught in adultery. The United Methodist wedding service I use doesn't ask the bride and the groom whether they are virgins. However, it does ask them whether they will henceforth remain true to each other, and I expect them to take that vow seriously.

Frankly, I give the man a lot of credit for not running away, and the woman for wanting a church wedding. I am tired of denominational legalism or fundamental dogmatism wrecking lives of people in the name of Christ.

THE REV. J. ROGER SKELLEY-WATTS,
BOLIVAR, OHIO

DEAR ABBY: The story of the married woman who castigated her father in his own home in the presence of others for committing the unforgivable crime of talking with his mouth full still infuriates this 58-year-old father. She described him as "warm and loving."

Does that lady not know that there are abusive fathers, drunken fathers, cruel fathers and deserting fathers? I liken her action to that of a woman who receives a beautiful present, then complains bitterly because she doesn't like the box it came in.

May I tell that lady a story:

Once upon a time it was considered ill-mannered, vulgar and completely unacceptable to break your crackers in your soup. Then one night, at a dinner party, an American broke his crackers in his soup. This was duly reported. Suddenly it became quite acceptable to break your crackers in your soup.

Why? Because your nation was no longer singing, "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime?" Why? Because your nation was singing, "Happy Days Are Here Again." Why? Because the name of the American who broke his crackers in his soup was Franklin Delano Roosevelt!

If you use this, sign me . . .

Heart Unit Elects Patsy Williams

Patsy Williams was elected secretary-treasurer of the Scurry County unit of the American Heart Association at a Friday meeting of the unit's board of directors.

Mrs. Williams replaced Beverly Cross, whose resignation was read at the meeting.

Lynn Gelski, activities director for Snyder Nursing Center, met with the board to present funds raised for the Heart Association through the Center's annual Rock and Roll project.

Dr. Ben Brock, unit president, expressed the Heart Association's appreciation to Mrs. Gelski and all those residents of the Center who participated as well as to those individuals and businesses which supported the project.

Dr. Thomas Scannicchio reported on educational programs being carried out in Snyder public schools and displayed posters made by fourth, fifth, and sixth grade students. Blood pressure checks have indicated two students with abnormalities and those students are being monitored, Scannichio said.

The next meeting of the board was set for noon on May 14.

Gifts to the Heart Association are welcome the year around, Dr. Brock said, and they may be mailed to Post Office Box 1185 in Snyder.

More Spring Opportunity Courses Set

Spring Opportunity Session classes in psychology and sociology will be offered at Western Texas College starting April 1.

The courses are Psychology 231, to be taught by Dr. Joe Reaves, and Sociology 231, to be taught by Dr. Gil Fleer. Both will be offered on an individualized instruction basis.

Students interested in the courses may obtain further information from the Student Services office in the administration building. The office will be closed Thursday and Friday for spring break.

Dutch Doubt Shootout Story

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Dutch officials say they have "strong misgivings" about El Salvador's claim that an army patrol accidentally killed four Dutch television newsmen allegedly caught in a shootout with leftist guerrillas.

Four of the five remaining Dutch journalists in El Salvador left the war-torn Central American country for Mexico Friday, saying they feared for their lives.

A three-man Brazilian television crew also fled the country Friday after they reported troops opened fire without warning on their van near Usulutan City, a area of heavy fighting, 69 miles southeast of here. They said the van was not hit.

The Dutch ambassador to Mexico, Baron Jan-Kees P. Speyart Van Woerden, arrived in San Salvador Friday to investigate the killings. El Salvador's Defense Ministry says the four died in a shootout Wednesday between rebels and government troops 35 miles north of the capital.

Autopsies on the newsmen were apparently conducted before the ambassador's arrival but findings were not disclosed. Journalists who viewed the bodies Friday said some had been shot in the face and back of the head.

At the Hague, seat of the Dutch government, Foreign Minister Max Van Der Stoel said some reports indicated the journalists were deliberately gunned down by government troops.

Deputy Premier Joop Den Uyl said his government had no specifics on the circumstances but "we have strong misgivings about the matter." He said the Salvadoran government account of the deaths "was highly improbable."

Hundreds of foreign journalists have been covering the war in El Salvador, where a coalition of leftist rebels is fighting a U.S.-backed civilian military junta that came to power in October 1979.

The U.S. Embassy here said it sent two officers to the area where the Dutch reporters were killed but found nothing to counter Defense Ministry claims that the men were accidentally gunned down.

NCAA Event Continues...

East Dominating Tournament

by The Associated Press

The NCAA basketball tournament is starting to look like the "Big East Invitational," thanks to Villanova, Boston College and Georgetown.

Following Georgetown's lead the night before, Villanova and Boston College both won their respective regional playoff games Friday night and lent a distinct eastern accent to this year's competition.

Villanova defeated Memphis State 70-66 in a tingling overtime game to earn a place in the East Regional finals in Raleigh, N.C., Sunday against top-ranked North Carolina, a 74-69 winner over Alabama.

Boston College tripped Kansas State 69-65 in the Midwest Regional in St. Louis and moved into Sunday's regional championship game against Houston, which shocked Missouri 79-78.

Sixth-ranked Georgetown, meanwhile, hoped to uphold the honor of the Big East today in the West title game against No. 4 Oregon State in Provo, Utah. No. 20 Louisville met 17th-ranked Alabama-Birmingham in the Mideast Regional finals at Birmingham, Ala.

John Pinone broke a tie with 26 seconds remaining in overtime by sinking two free throws and Stewart Granger added two more to clinch it 16 seconds later as unranked Villanova upset No. 9 Memphis State, the Metro Conference champion. Pinone, a burly 228-pounder, had forced the extra period with a layup that tied it at 62 with 28 seconds left in regulation.

Pinone led all scorers with 19 points and freshman phenom Keith Lee, Memphis State's second-team All-American, had 14 to lead the Tigers, despite fouling out with just under five minutes remaining in regulation.

"I was pretty confident," Pinone said of his game-clinching shots. "I'm a pretty good free-throw shooter. I just wanted to get the first one. I knew if I got the first one, the second would be a lot easier."

Pinone also was involved in a play on which Lee drew his fifth foul.

"I thought the foul call on Lee was a good one. He was in the air and leaned forward, so it was not my fault," Pinone said.

Lee, however, had a simpler and different view of the call.

"The way he (the referee) called it, I didn't think it was a foul. But the referee was calling the game. I can't call the game and play, too," Lee said.

Michael Adams and John Garris combined for 38 points and helped Boston College erase a five-point halftime deficit as the Eagles beat Kansas State. Adams scored 11 points in the second half and executed a daring steal in the final minute to help the upstart Eagles preserve a two-point lead.

Garris, a 6-foot-8 junior who averaged fewer than eight points during the season, scored 16 in the first half to keep Kansas State from assuming an

WTC Judoists Compete in NCAA Championship

Western Texas College judo team members will be competing in the National Collegiate Judo Championships at the University of California at Berkeley on April 2-3, Dr. Shell Hillis, coach, has reported.

The athletes will begin workouts March 30, continuing through April 1, and will be sharing workouts with Willy Cahill's judoists. Cahill teaches judo at several colleges in the San Francisco area, including Stanford University.

This is the first year students from junior colleges are to compete in a division separated from four-year institutions.

"In the past, all colleges were grouped together, and as a result we have people who should win this year," said Hillis.

The next trip for the WTC team will be to Indianapolis, Ind., April 23-24 for the United States Judo, Inc., National Championships. The team also plans to go to Odessa on June 6 for the Texas Judo, Inc., Junior State Championships.

Cougars Claw Tigers; Test Boston Sunday

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Lynden Rose led six Houston players in double figures Friday night and the Cougars dominated Missouri inside en route to a 79-78 victory over the Tigers in the NCAA Midwest Regional semifinals.

In Sunday's regional finals, the Cougars will meet Boston College, which beat Kansas State 69-65 in the other semifinal contest Friday night.

Missouri, trailing by as many as 12 points in the second half, staged a last-ditch rally that fell short.

With six seconds left, Ricky Frazier hit a follow shot to make it 79-76, then the Tigers intercepted a Cougar pass and Frazier scored the final basket at the buzzer.

Rose paced Houston's balanced offense with 16 points, Michael Young had 15, Clyde Drexler 14, Akeem Olajuwon 13, Larry Micheaux 11 and Robert Williams 10.

Frazier, the Big Eight player of the year, finished with 29 points, 25 after intermission.

Houston, 24-7 and the Southwest Conference runner-up, took the lead for good on Micheaux's jump shot with 6:06 left in the first half and led 38-32 at intermission. The Cougars' biggest lead was 69-57 with just over six minutes to play.

Missouri, the Big Eight champion, began a fullcourt press with 4½ minutes left and Houston ahead 71-63.

It almost worked as the Cougars, already in foul trouble, were struck by a rash of turnovers that let the Tigers back into the game.

Greg Cavener, a 6-foot-9 freshman, missed two free throws with :55 left that preserved a four-point Houston lead, and 12 seconds later Olajuwon sank the front end of a one-and-one situation to put the Cougars up by five.

In NIT Action...

Purdue Pounds A&M

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) - Center Russell Cross scored 26 points and guard Keith Edmonson added 22 Friday night as Purdue pounded Texas A&M 86-68 in the quarterfinals of the National Invitation Tournament.

The Boilermakers, third-place NIT finishers last year, will play Georgia in the tourney semifinals at New York's Madison Square Garden Monday night. Bradley takes on Oklahoma in the other semifinal, with the two winners meeting Wednesday night for the championship.

Purdue, raising its record to 17-13 for the season, squandered a 16-point lead in the first half as the Aggies' Claude Riley led a comeback that closed the gap to seven points early in the final period.

Cross, a 6-foot-10 sophomore, then had nine points during a 19-9 Purdue spurt that broke the game open midway through the period. The Boilermakers steadily widened the lead to 22 points at 80-58 and coasted the final minutes.

Cross also had a season-high 12 rebounds for Purdue.

Texas A&M, also a third-round loser in its only other NIT appearance in 1979, was led by Riley with 22 points and Tyren Naulls, Reggie Roberts and Lonniell Bluntson with 10 points apiece. The Aggies closed their season at 20-11.

Mike Scearce, playing with a sore back from an injury suffered during practice Thursday, added 11 points for the Boilermakers before fouling out late in the game.

Purdue threatened to put the Aggies away early in the game, taking the lead in the opening minutes and steadily building the margin to as many as 16 points in the first half.

Texas A&M's only lead was at 2-0 on a basket by Naulls, but a basket by Scearce tied the game and a steal and layup by Ricky Hall put the Boilermakers on top to stay seconds later.

Purdue opened an eight-point advantage 12 minutes before halftime, and after Gary Lewis' three-point play sliced the lead to five points, the Boilermakers went on a 15-4 scoring spurt for a 36-20 edge.

A&M, which up to that time hadn't scored more than three unanswered points, then ran of eight straight on two free throws by Riley and consecutive baskets by Lewis, Riley and Milton Woodley. That cut Purdue's lead to 36-28 with 2:52 before halftime, and the two teams traded baskets until a pair of free throws by Naulls with five seconds remaining made it 42-34 at the intermission.

Celtics Win Fourteenth At Expense Of Spurs

BOSTON (AP) - The beat - and the beating - goes on.

When Boston destroyed the Utah Jazz by 42 points on Feb. 24, the Celtics didn't know it but they were launching the club's longest winning streak in 17 years.

Victim number 14 fell Friday night when the Celtics ripped apart the San Antonio Spurs, 134-110, in a National Basketball Association game.

Rather than become tense in an effort to prolong the streak, the Celtics say they are building confidence as the victory pile grows higher and higher.

"If you had a team that hadn't been through what we've been through, or hadn't been in a tight race, I'm sure it would feel pressure," said Bill Fitch, coach of the world champion Celtics. "We aren't worried about the streak. It just happens that the streak is very important to keep alive because of the team we're playing Sunday."

That's the Philadelphia 76ers.

They've stayed within striking distance of the Celtics in the Atlantic Division. Boston is 51-15. Philadelphia, 47-18, is 3½ games behind and will be at home Sunday.

"We don't feel any pressure from the streak," said M.L. Carr, who led six Celtics in double figures with 20 points Friday night. "When you're winning, the confidence flows."

Robert Parish, who had 18 points, said the Celtics don't think about the streak while they're playing.

"When you do that, you have a tendency to play very timid and you stop doing what got you the lead," he said. "We talk about it before we go on the floor, but once we go on the floor it's all business."

Snyder Baseball Tourney...

Tigers Nip Ector, Estacado Next

Snyder's Tigers got three runs in the top of the 10th inning here Friday night, then held on Ector over the bottom half to advance to Saturday's championship game in the annual Snyder Baseball Tournament.

The game was tied 2-2 in the sixth inning and stayed until the Tigers meshed two singles and a walk with three Ector errors to win 5-2.

In other games played Friday, Lubbock Estacado nipped Canyon 5-4, Plainview popped Andrews 9-3 and Lubbock Dunbar rolled over Levelland 12-2.

Saturday's pairings were to place Levelland against Andrews at 11 a.m. for seventh place, Dunbar against Plainview at 1:30 for consolation, Canyon against Ector at 4 for third place, and Snyder against Estacado at 6 for the championship.

Neither of the starting pitcher's in Friday's feature game figured in the win-loss column, but both had good outings. Snyder's Gerald Don Hicks stayed atop the mound for seven and one-third innings, allowing six hits and striking out 13 batters - seven in a row at one time - before giving way to John Wilson. Wilson went the final two and two-thirds in picking up the win. He gave up no hits and struck out five.

Simon Rodriquez started for the Eagles. He went for four innings, allowed three hits and no runs. Abel Juarez came aboard for the final six and eventually took the loss. Juarez gave up four hits and struck out seven batters.

Ector got on the scoreboard first as Eugene Morris hit a bloop fly into short left field to bring in Simon Rodriquez in the first inning, 1-0. Neither team scored again until Snyder got two runs in the fifth.

Casey Peterson was hit by a pitch and David Rios reached on an error. Brent Roemisch walked to load the bases and John Wilson then cracked a single past the third baseman to score two.

Ector answered back in the sixth as Abel Juarez reached on a two-out error, stole third and came in on another error, 2-2.

Both teams got baserunners in the through the next three innings, but came away unrewarded until the top of the 10th when Snyder's Britt Vincent led off with a single. Jesse Hernandez then walked and one out later Barry Davis cracked a single through the hole at shortstop to score Vincent. Snyder added two more runs before Juarez could strike the final batter out, 5-2.

Plainview 9, Andrews 3

Richard Ortegon hurled seven innings and gave up just four hits as the Bulldogs ousted Andrews. Andrews led 1-0 after the first inning, but Plainview tied in up in the second and added six more in the third. The 'Dogs also got one run in the fourth and one in the fifth.

Andrews' scoring came as one run in each of the first, third and seventh innings.

Plainview rapped 13 basehits, including a homerun from David Pena.

Freddie Cornejo took the loss.

Estacado 5, Canyon 4

Canyon and Estacado both scored one run in the seventh inning, but it was Rodney Wheeler's homerun shot that bought the Matadors their second straight victory here. Wheeler also picked up the win, pitching seven innings and giving up just five hits. He also struck out 12 batters.

Schmidt rapped one homer for the Eagles as teammate Clement took the loss. He allowed seven hits - including homeruns by Hector Limon and Wheeler - and struck out five batters.

Dunbar 12, Levelland 2

Dunbar ran away with this one, collecting four runs in the second inning, five in the fourth and two in the fifth to win by the 10-run rule.

Connors picked up the victory by allowing just one hit, a double. Vest was the losing pitcher.

Dunbar got 11 hits and managed eight walks. Weaver, Connors and Moncisias all hit home runs for the Panthers.

Lopez-Melton Holding 2-Shot Lead In J&B

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Nancy Lopez-Melton, a non-winner in more than eight months on the women's pro golf tour, blamed her bad rounds in recent tournaments on a lack of consistency.

But she said that's changing and gives all the credit to her putter.

Lopez-Melton set a course record-tying 5-under-par 67 Friday that gave her a 2-shot lead entering Saturday's third round in the J&B Scotch Pro-Am LPGA tournament.

"I think I was having these bad rounds because I wasn't putting well," she said. "When you're not making those birdies and saving pars, it's tough to get under par. My putting has improved and that will help with my consistency."

Lopez-Melton birdied the first two holes Friday and finished with two birdies in her last four holes. The round gave her an 8-under-par 137 for the first two rounds.

Sandra Haynie, who started the day at 2 under par, had a no-bogey 68 to take sole possession of second place. A shot back was first-round co-leader Judy Clark, who had a 1-under-par 71 for a 140 total.

Two-time defending champion Donna Caponi moved into contention in the second round with a 3-under-par 69 that put her at 142, 5 shots off the lead. Caponi three-putted the final hole for her first bogey of the tournament.

Scores generally were lower during the second round, as winds that whipped through the course Thursday subsided somewhat and temperatures warmed into the 50s.

Most of the leaders, including Lopez-Melton and Haynie, played the 6,237-yard Desert Inn Course after playing the 5,814-yard, par-73 Las Vegas Country Club the first day. The women will play their final two rounds on the Desert Inn course.

Alice Ritzman, who shared the lead with Clark after the first day, struggled to a 6-over-par 78 to put her well off the pace at 147.

Caponi, who came from 12 shots back after two rounds last year to win the tournament, said she was ready to try for a third straight title.

"It's not over with yet," said Caponi. "I'm pleased with my position. I'm starting to roll the ball well and make some putts."

Fourth-year pro Kathy Young, playing at the Las Vegas Country Club, hit a 5-iron into the hole on the 178-yard 17th hole en route to a 2-under-par 71. But she was well back after an opening-round 77.

The tournament, which concludes Sunday, offers a $30,000 first prize.

Pro Baseball Roundup...

Jackson Belts Homer

by The Associated Press

Reggie Jackson has returned his first small dividend to owner Gene Autry as a member of the California Angels.

Jackson, who could earn $900,000 with the Angels this year if attendance clauses in his contract take effect, blasted a home run as California ripped Seattle 10-0 in an exhibition game Friday. It was the veteran outfielder's first four-bagger in an Angels' unform.

"I've been hitting the ball where it's pitched," said Jackson. "If I hit for a high average, I know the power will come. If I get my singles, I'll get the home runs, too."

Jackson said that Yankee Stadium's short right field forced him to be a pull hitter, "but in Anaheim Stadium, I plan to be more of a straightaway hitter."

Brian Downing had three RBI, while Bobby Grich homered and drove in two runs for the Angels. Geoff Zahn, Luis Sanchez, Mickey Mahler and Don Aase combined to hold the Mariners to three hits.

In other games, Atlanta became the first team to win 10 spring games as Larry Whisenton knocked in two runs with a homer and a sacrifice fly to help the Braves beat Kansas City 4-0 on another combined three-hitter.

Pittsburgh improved its record to 9-3 as Tom Griffin, Rod Scurry, Kent Tekulve and Randy Niemann pitched still another three-hitter for a 4-0 victory over the New York Mets.

The other New York team also was shut out, with Charlie Lea allowing one hit in five innings and two other pitchers giving up just four more hits as the Montreal Expos blanked the Yankees 2-0.

Oakland scored four runs in the first inning on Tony Armas' three-run homer and a solo shot by Mickey Klutts and went on to beat the Chicago Cubs 8-2.

Lenn Sakata had three hits as Baltimore snapped Texas' four-game winning streak with a 5-2 victory over the Rangers.

Dave Goltz pitched five scoreless innings to run his spring shutout string to eight, and Mike Marshall hit a solo homer as Los Angeles blanked Boston 4-0.

Don McCormack keyed Philadelphia's six-run seventh inning with a bases-loaded triple and the Phillies went on to trounce St. Louis 14-7, snapping their six-game losing streak.

John Mayberry had two doubles and three runs batted in as Toronto scored four runs in the first inning and five more in the second en route to a 13-9 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Mike Ivie belted a two-run homer and drove in another run as Houston broke a four-game losing streak by defeating Minnesota 5-2.

Champ Summers' three-run homer in the bottom of the seventh inning broke a 3-3 tie and San Francisco went on to a 6-5 victory over the San Diego Padres. Joe Morgan also homered for the Giants.

Rodney Craig drove in three runs with a double and a two-run single to lead Cleveland to a 6-2 victory over Milwaukee.

Lou Whitaker hit a grand slam homer to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 7-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds in the only night game.

NCAA Tournament

overwhelming lead. He finished with 18.

The Eagles won despite a sub-par performance by high scorer John Bagley, who finished with only 10 points. Randy Reed and Tyrone Adams each scored 16 for Kansas State.

Both coaches agreed that Boston College's depth was the difference in the game.

"We don't have a first five, we have a first seven," said Tom Davis, Boston College's coach. "Garris played the best game of his career tonight, and it couldn't have come at a better time."

Kansas State built a five-point halftime lead, but Davis said the Eagles made a defensive adjustment at intermission.

"We went back to our normal defense," he said. "We were trying to do a little stunting in the first half, and it messed us up."

Kansas State Coach Jack Hartman said, "They kept fresh players in the game. We got very, very tired. Depth was a big factor."

James Worthy and Sam Perkins combined for all the points in a 10-2 spurt midway through the second half that put North Carolina in control over No. 13 Alabama. The victory was the 13th in a row for the Tar Heels, the longest streak in the country.

Once the Tar Heels established an eight-point lead late in the game, they went to a four-corner offense that broke several players loose for layups and sent others to the free-throw line down the stretch.

Matt Doherty and Worthy each scored 16 points for the Tar Heels, while Perkins had 15.

Alabama Coach Wimp Sanderson said his defense was designed to help slow Worthy and Perkins, but something had to give and it was the perimeter that opened the way for the Tar Heels.

"We tried to do the best we could with Perkins and Worthy inside," he said. "You do that and you're going to give up something."

Doherty said he knew the Crimson Tide would be worried about Worthy and Perkins, and took advantage of it.

"I was in the right spot at the right time and I hit the jump shot," Doherty said of his 5-for-9 performance. "Teams come out and shut them (Worthy and Perkins) off and that just leaves me and Jimmy pen."

Knee Deep In Cascot

Planting certified cottonseed from Custom Ag Service is the first step in putting you "Knee Deep in Cotton". Cascot varieties are consistently high yielders on dry or irrigated land. Add to that high disease resistance, early maturity, storm resistant bolls, and premium micronaire and you've got just a few of the reasons you should be planting Cascot varieties like: Cascot B-2, BR-1, L-7 and new C-13.

If you're not planning on using Cascot, try 50 or 100 acres and compare its yield with the seed you're using now. We're betting that next season you'll be "Knee Deep in Cascot".

Old-Time Mafia Don Faces Trial

MIAMI (AP) — In a federal courtroom here on April 12, one of the last of the reputed old-time Mafia dons is scheduled to stand trial on labor racketeering charges.

He is Santo Trafficante Jr., of Tampa, Fla., a surviving link to a reputed national chain of Mafia leaders that was also said to include Frank Costello, Carlo Gambino, Vito Genovese and Sal Magaddino of New York; Angelo Bruno of Philadelphia; Sam Giancana of Chicago; Carlos Marcello of New Orleans, and Raymond Patriarca of New England.

Of those, only Marcello, 72; Patriarca, 74, and Trafficante, 67, are alive.

Mafia lore depicted in myriad books and movies over the years is often paralleled in the history of the Trafficante family, as reported by federal and state investigators.

Santo Jr. is the alleged boss of the Tampa Mafia family — one of 26 organized crime groups that federal law enforcement agencies tie to a 50-year-old national crime syndicate with roots in Sicily.

Among the 26 "families," the Tampa group has two distinctions: It is one of the oldest, dating back to at least 1914, and it was the first family to engage in large-scale narcotics activity, federal authorities have said.

In the Miami trial, Trafficante is among 16 men, including reputed Chicago mobster Anthony Accardo (said to have been Al Capone's bodyguard), accused of conspiring with leaders of the Laborers International Union of North America to bleed the union's insurance plans in South Florida and Chicago of millions of dollars.

In a separate indictment, Patriarca was charged with racketeering in the same alleged conspiracy. His case was moved to Providence, R.I., because of Patriarca's failing health.

Trafficante suffers from a persistent kidney ailment that may delay his trial indefinitely.

The third survivor, Marcello, is free on bond while appealing his New Orleans conviction and seven-year prison sentence in the BriLab insurance bribery case.

Grandfatherly in appearance, Trafficante is slight, hunched and grey-haired. At court trials and U.S. Senate hearings he wears baggy old suits. In Florida, he lives in unobtrusive neighborhood homes in Tampa and North Miami.

Asked at his arraignment last June 4 what he does for a living, Trafficante replied: "Nothing," then added, "I take the Fifth Amendment."

He has amassed great wealth, federal agents say, but they concede they've been unable to locate it. And, according to law enforcement officials, he remains "very active."

Trafficante has been boss of the Tampa family since 1954, according to files of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration and the DEA's predecessor, the old U.S. Narcotics Bureau.

The records go back to 1914, when heroin and morphine were outlawed in the United States. In those earliest of records, the bureau identified a "Tampa Mafia family" headed by the late Ignacio Antinori as "the major source of illegal drugs imported to" America.

Under Antinori's direction, said the report, the family developed a Cuban connection that gave it a virtual monopoly on narcotics in the United States.

Antinori leadership ceased in 1940 when he was murdered. He was reportedly succeeded by Santo Trafficante Sr., a Sicilian born in 1886 who had been a resident of Tampa since 1904.

In 1946, 32-year-old Santo Trafficante Jr. took up residence in Cuba where, under the smiling eyes of the dictatorial Fulgencio Batista regime, he operated a group of casinos for the Tampa family.

He returned to head the family when his father died in 1954, Senate documents say.

In 1957, Trafficante was questioned in Tampa after the slaying of maverick New York boss Albert Anastasia. Anastasia, said to be an impulsive killer who called his organization "Murder, Incorporated," died in a Park Sheraton Hotel barbershop chair.

As Anastasia was getting a shave, a towel was thrown over his face, and his throat slit.

Trafficante checked out of the New York hotel an hour later. No charges were ever filed.

After the Anastasia assassination, the Mafia "national commission" of bosses notified the 26 American families that there would be no more activity in narcotics, according to Senate testimony by Joseph Valachi, a "soldier" in the Genovese family.

The sole family to defy the rule, Valachi testified, was Trafficante's.

When the Batista regime fell in 1959, Trafficante hurried back to Cuba.

AUTHENTIC COSTUMES--Betty Richardson's second grade students have been learning the story of "La China," a Chinese girl who captured by pirates and sold into slavery in Mexico. To go along with the lesson these two students modeled authentic Mexican costumes. Priscilla Suarez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Suarez, is wearing "Chino Poblano," the National Women's Dress of Mexico. She is wearing a red skirt, green sash, white ruffled blouse and sequins. Leon Gutierrez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Gutierrez, is wearing the "Charro Suit," the National Men's Dress of Mexico. (SDN Staff Photo)

Space Shuttle Crew Is Ready

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — As their new landing site took shape in New Mexico today, astronauts Jack Lousma and C. Gordon Fullerton were heading for Kennedy Space Center, ready to take the shuttle Columbia on its third and busiest trip into space.

Everything was on schedule for a 10 a.m. EST liftoff Monday and the weather posed no problem. The crew was flying from Houston, with Lousma in NASA training jet 917 and Fullerton in 924.

"We are ready to go," Fullerton said Friday. "Jack and I look forward to flying this entry into White Sands."

The last-minute shift in landing sites — from Edwards Air Force Base in California to the Northrup Strip of the White Sands Missile Range in southern New Mexico — provoked a big movement of technicians and machinery, but was no bother to the astronauts.

For them it means about a minute longer in space and a landing approach that takes them south of Los Angeles and north of Phoenix, instead of along the rugged coast south of Bakersfield.

The astronauts spent six hours Friday in shuttle simulators in Houston and practiced flying barrel rolls in their T38 jets to acclimate their bodies to space flight.

"It was quite a contrast today as we practiced landings at Northrup Strip and Kennedy Space Center instead of the approach over the ocean into Edwards," said Fullerton. "We got a good tour of the Southwest."

On launch pad 39A at Kennedy Space Center here, the countdown slipped three hours behind schedule with a troublesome computer and fuel line regulator, but was back on track by Friday evening.

Workers cleaned the shuttle's windows, tested its computers and removed several work platforms.

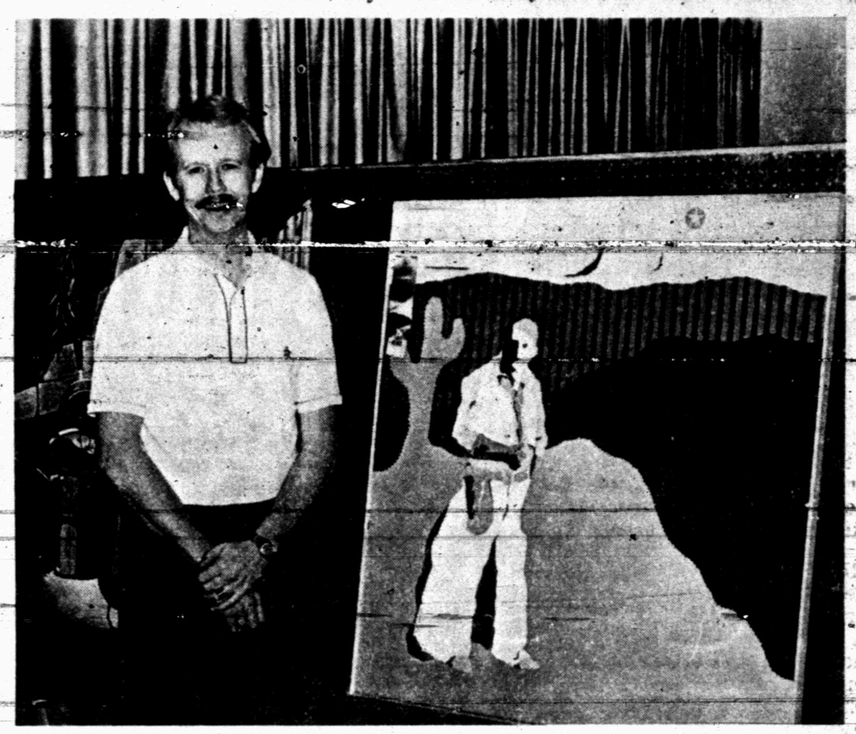

In case of trouble in the first minutes of flight, the crew would turn the shuttle around and head for a 15,000-foot paved runway a few miles from the Florida launch site. If they were only able to get barely into orbit, mission rules call for a landing at Northrup.

The site resembles an Antarctic base. Its gypsum sand is talcum-powder fine and so brilliantly white that actor Clint Eastwood recently considered making an arctic movie there.

The two 6-mile runways form an "X" on the floor of the Tularosa Basin. On the west side are the reddish Organ Mountains, which get their name from their pipe shape. Far to the east, and darker in color, are the Sacramento Mountains.

The normally desolate basin was being turned into an instant spaceport.

A 23-car train from Edwards, with priority clearance for all tracks, was due to arrive tonight with critical equipment needed to purge the ship of its volatile fuels and gases, to cool it and to blow away poisonous vapors upon landing.

Crash Caused Taylor Death

The death of Paul Blaine Taylor on March 10 in Houston has been ruled accidental by Harris County Medical Examiners.

Taylor, the son of S. A. Taylor and Celia Vidulich, both of Snyder, was involved in a car-train crash, the medical examiners reported. The body had been found on a railroad right-of-way.

Funeral service was held in Snyder on March 13.

Artist Tops Show

Okla., for "Waiting for Spring;" L. E. Davis of Abilene for "The Mail Route;" Shirley Counts of Abilene for "A Moment;" Anita Meynig of Dallas (two) for "Crab Apple, Mint and Apricot" and "Native Texans;" Myrtle Rochelle of Lubbock for "The Prairie Reclaims Its Own;" Pete Moreno of Lubbock for "Dawson County;" Jean Smith Hensley of Big Spring for "Hen House;" and Lois Burney of Snyder for "Spring Concept."

Honorable mention in sculpture went to Robert Traylor of Big Spring for an untitled entry; Jerry Fox of Snyder for "He Brings the Bison;" and Pamela Gilbreth Watkins of Snyder for "The Woman and the Wolf."

The show was judged by Dick Cheatham, Lubbock artist, who had praise for the entries.

"There is a wide range and variety in this show, from very realistic to contemporary," Cheatham said. He said the sweepstakes winner was "technically nice, strong and had good contrast."

Theft Case Under Probe

Snyder police are investigating one theft and one aggravated assault reported Friday.

Around 9:30 Friday morning, an employee of Homco called police and reported the theft of a cutting torch from that business. According to reports, the torch was taken from their shop sometime between March 12 and March 18. No value was set for the missing torch.

Officers were called to the emergency room of Cogdell Memorial Hospital around 11:45 p.m. Friday to investigate a reported assault. According to reports, officers found George Wallace at the hospital where he was being treated for a knife wound sustained in an assault earlier in the evening. Formal charges in the incident were expected to be filed Saturday.

Local police also arrested two men on DWI charges Friday evening.

Mrs. Doty To Tell Of Visit To Poland

Darla Doty, who lived in Poland for six months in 1977, will be talking about her experiences there at a brown bag luncehon Tuesday in the Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College.

Mrs. Doty went to Poland through the 4-H Youth Exchange Program. She lived with two farm families and was also assigned to work on one of the state owned and operated farms.

She will accompany her program with slides made in Poland.

The luncheon, which is open to everyone with no admission charge, will begin about 12:10 p.m. and will be over by 1 p.m. The museum furnishes coffee and tea for visitors. Persons wishing further information about the program are invited to call the museum office at 573-6107.

Doctor To Face Suit

Janie M. Chapin of Temple has filed a civil suit in the 132nd District Court seeking recovery of damages from Dr. Shashi Rao of Snyder.

According to information in the complaint, Dr. Rao operated on Ms. Chapin on April 16, 1980 while she was in Snyder.

The suit alleges negligence on the part of Rao and claims that he did not complete the surgical procedures he had told her he would perform.

Firm Pleads Guilty

ABILENE—Price Construction Co. and Arthur A. Price of Big Spring entered a plea of guilty to an information filed by the U. S. Attorney's office here in connection with highway construction bids.

The information alleged conspiracy to rig bids on a U. S. Highway 180 project in Scurry County in 1977.

Highway Department records show that Price got a contract on a bid of $476,201.59 on Sept. 15, 1977. There were four other bids on the job.

Federal investigators claim contractors have pre-arranged bids to increase prices. The government has charged 19 Texas companies and 16 of their officers with participating in the scheme.

Coach Search Is Continuing

Scurry County Junior College District Trustees expect to meet within the next few days to consider filling the position of men's basketball coach at Western Texas College.

The board interviewed several applicants earlier. However, no contract has been agreed upon, it was reported Saturday.

The coaching position has been vacant since the resignation of Larry Dunaway early this month.

Cunningham Scholarships Are Available

High school seniors who will be graduating in the top 10 per cent of their class may apply for a Cunningham Academic Scholarship at Western Texas College, James Parker, WTC Financial Aid Director, said.

Students who are members of the National Honor Society or its equivalent but not in the top 10 per cent can apply for a Nancy Caton Academic Scholarship.

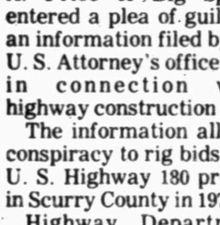

These scholarships are not available for students who graduate as valedictorian and salutatorian of their class since there are special scholarships for those persons.

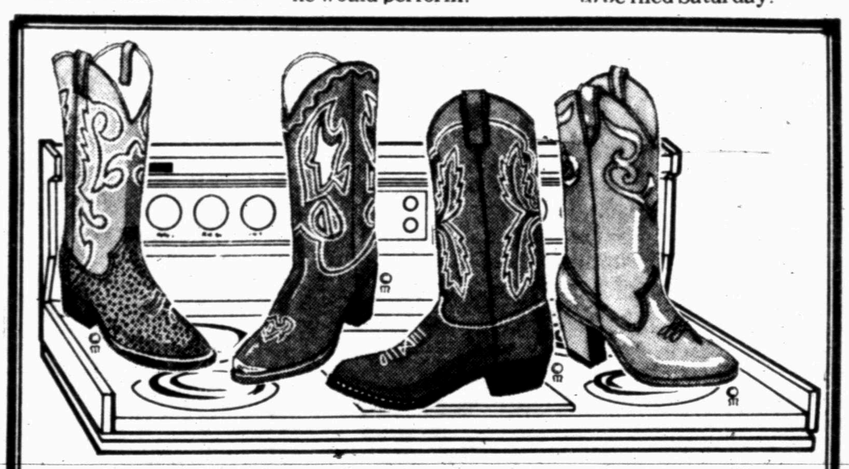

Students interested in any type of financial aid to attend WTC are invited to contact Parker's office, ocated in the WTC Administration Building.

Gen. George Washington received the first Medal of Honor in 1776 for the capture of Boston from the British.

MR. AND MRS. HUNTER GRANT CRAWFORD

Joseph, Crawford Wed In Afternoon Ceremony

Denise Ellen Joseph, daughter of Harold and Karen Joseph of Williamsburg, Iowa, and Hunter Grant Crawford, son of Gerald and Mary Lou Crawford of Dunn, were married at 4 p.m. Feb. 22 by Judge Preston Wilson.

They exchanged vows before the fireplace in the home of the groom's parents. Judy Billingsley played "We've Only Just Begun" and "The Wedding Song" on the piano.

Lisa Hull of Williamsburg was maid of honor. She and the bride carried long stemmed yellow roses with white and yellow ribbon.

Sid Crawford served his brother as best man.

The celebration began at 10 a.m. with guests arriving at their convenience until vows were exchanged. At 5:30 p.m. a goat barbecue was served.

A double layer cake with frosting and yellow roses and sugar bells was served at the bride's table.

The bride attended Williamsburg High School and is employed at First National Bank. The groom is a graduate of Snyder High School and works for OTI. They are at home at 1909 21st St. in Snyder.

Insurance FACTS
by Tom Deffebach

YOUR Independent INSURANCE AGENT

There is a great deal of public anger voiced nationally against drivers who operate under the influence of alcohol. Started initially by relatives of the victims of drunken drivers, the movement has gained sympathy from many people around the country. Most important are state legislators who are attempting to pass tough new laws directed against drunk drivers. It cannot be stated strongly enough that alcohol, drugs and driving do not mix. Anyone who drinks and-or takes drugs and drives is endangering the lives of innocent people on our highways. Driving is a privilege, not a right.

People come to THE DEFFEBACH AGENCY, College Heights Shopping Center, 3201 College Avenue, 573-5611 because of our complete insurance services. We handle multi lines of insurance and put our customer's interests first. If you have any questions concerning insurance drop by and we will try to answer them. Hours: 9am-5pm 5 days a week.

INSURANCE TIP:
If you drink alcohol, do not attempt to drive. Innocent lives depend on it.

Cleaning Down-Filled Garments

Dirty down-filled jackets, gloves and vests don't always need a $15 dry-cleaning job. They can be cleaned easily in the family washing machine, says Sports Afield, and here's how; Use a mild detergent in cool water and set the time for 10 to 15 minutes for the wash-and-spin cycle.

In the dryer use low temperature; it may take several hours to make sure all the down or feathers are dry. The secret is to insert a pair of rubber-soled sneakers in the drum during the drying period. The bouncing shoes eliminate lumps and distribute down to each section of the garment.

A bald person loses 34 percent of his body heat through the top of his head.

ATHLETES-PROTEIN

Supplemental protein for body-building programs in young athletes is of no value, states the American Medical Association. Protein does not increase strength, is not an efficient energy source, does not store in the body, and may take extra energy to metabolize and digest when taken in excess. The AMA also notes that excess protein may cause dehydration, loss of appetite and diarrhea.

'Mission M.I.A.' Is Riveting 1st Novel

MISSION M.I.A. By J.C. Pollock. Crown. 274 Pages. $12.95.

Those who dote on action novels that are taut, lean and realistic should find themselves riveted by this one.

The story hinges on a "reunion" of a handful of former Green Berets who served in Vietnam — but what an awesome reunion it is. After years as civilians, working at routine occupations, they've gotten together again to take on a grim and perilous mission.

They've learned that a former buddy, who had saved their lives at the cost of his own capture and presumed death, is still alive in a horrorhole of a camp in Vietnam. The ex-Berets set about mounting a lightning-like rescue raid.

Meanwhile, author J.C. Pollock has conveyed a shattering account of barbaric conditions and prisoner treatment in the Viet camp. Several other Americans are held there, nearly starved, beaten and-or rat-eaten to death.

For three weeks the reunited Berets drill off flab with furious intensity and re-hone their many former killing skills. Unexpectedly the U.S. government begins trying to halt their foray.

Despite this and other difficulties, however, the rescue team gets to Thailand and thrusts into former enemy territory. That's when the fast and furious action really begins. The reader is likely to feel right in the middle of it all. And before it's over there will be a genuine surprise or two.

Pollock says much technical and other information came from men who actually took part in precisely such raids. One had been a four-year Vietcong prisoner himself.

This is Pollock's first novel. Let's hope it isn't his last. Frank Stilley for The Associated Press

Alcohol is not an antidote for poisonous snake bites. Experiments show that not only does the alcohol increase the ill effects of poison, but also that it is a stimulant and in any large amount is injurious to anyone who has been bitten by a venomous snake because it quickens the heart action and pumps the poison more rapidly through the system. Snake venom, on the other hand, when injected into the bloodstream, slows the heart action and lowers the blood pressure.

The North hand is taken from "Modern Bridge Conventions." It is a Root-Pavlicek example of the use of a cue bid after a Stayman response and strong second bid by partner.

North has a very good notrump, but responds two diamonds to his partner's Stayman two clubs because he doesn't hold four cards in either major suit.

South has a very good hand and undoubtedly has planned to go to a slam after the notrump opening. His three spade jump is a force, shows at least five spades and asks more information from partner.

North doesn't know how strong the South hand is, but he has maximum spade values and shows it by his four-diamond cue bid. The rest of the bidding shows experts at their most scientific. South intended to bid six. After North's show of strength he tries for seven and finally bids it.

A little care is necessary in the play. South should take two rounds of trumps and the king and ace of hearts. Then he ruffs his last low heart, comes to his hand with a club, pulls the last trump and claims.

Art Competition Announced

Congressman Charles Stenholm has announced plans for an art competition for high school students in the 17th Congressional District.

The winning entry will be displayed later this year in a national exhibition in the corridor leading to the United States Capitol.

According to Congressman Stenholm, the art competition is part of "An Artistic Discovery," a nation-wide activity initiated by members of the U. S. House of Representatives to recognize the creative talents of young Americans. Between now and May 15, members will conduct local art competitions for high school students in order to select artwork to be displayed in the national exhibition.

Final decision regarding suitability for exhibition in the capitol rests within the discretion of a panel of qualified persons chaired by the architect of the capitol.

"I believe that no group of Americans is more creative, expressive and curious about our society than our young people," said Stenholm. "This competition enables us to encourage and recognize their rich and diverse artistic talents at a time when the budgets of our local arts organizations are being curtailed."

The competition, to be conducted at no expense to the federal government, is open to any high school student. There will be area competitions in Snyder, Wranglerford and Abilene with finals in Abilene on May 15. Artwork must be two-dimensional and no larger than 30 inches by 30 inches (unframed). Eligible categories are paintings, drawings, collages and prints.

For further information, those interested should contact their high school principal, Congressman Stenholm's offices, or Martha Kiel, at 915-677-3505." She is serving as competition coordinator.

Stephens Listed Among Top Community Leaders

Chuck Stephens, formerly of Snyder, and now minister at the Church of Christ in Russell, Kan., has been included in the 12th edition of "Community Leaders in America" in the division for outstanding young community leaders. This is the first year for a special section for young leaders.

Stephens, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Stephens, is a graduate of Snyder High School, and a cum laude graduate of Western Texas College and Abilene Christian University.

He is married to the former Tina Bullard of Snyder, and they have one son, Cody.

He served one year as youth minister at the Jayton Church of Christ and has been minister for the church in Russell for three years.

He was active in drama at SHS, and at WTC he was a student senator, president of Kappa Chi, was a member of Phi Theta Kappa, and received the outstanding Bible student award.

At Russell, he has been Kiwanis co-chairman for the Miss Russell County Scholarship Pageant.

Listings in "Community Leaders of America" are made by an American Biographical Institute board from nominations furnished by professional associates, business, civic clubs and prominent members of the community in which a nominee lives.

The listings of young leaders are those between the ages of 16 and 30 whose academic standing, extracurricular activities, service to profession and community leadership are worthy of note by others. Leaders in business, civic, educational and governmental fields appear each year.

Copies of the volume are placed in the Library of Congress, the Smithsonian Institution, the World Trade Institute Library, the U. S. Customs Court Library, the National Library of Canada, and all state libraries in the United states.

Several Did Burglaries

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A Mexican federal police officer and his wife along with six teenagers have been arrested and charged with burglarizing between 100 to 200 homes in the past six months.

Investigator Art Rendon of the Cameron County sheriff's office said Thursday that Charles Barros, 37, and his wife, Rocia, age unlisted, were arrested Wednesday night at their trailer house outside the city limits. Officers discovered a cache of allegedly stolen items at the house, including two television sets, jewelry, cameras, weapons and stereo equipment.

"He identified himself as a Mexican federal officer and we found papers on him to that effect," Rendon said of Barros, who apparently worked in Matamoros, Mexico, but lived here.

Barros and his wife allegedly fenced stolen goods taken from affluent homes in Brownsville and the nearby country club resort development of Rancho Viejo, the investigator said.

The German dirigible, Hindenburg, with 99 people aboard, crashed May 6, 1937, on her first Atlantic crossing of the season. The Hindenburg burst into flames as it approached the mooring mast at the U.S. Naval Air Station at Lakehurst, N.J. Sixty-four persons died in the crash.

Basics Cited In Desert Survival

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Mike Trimble says you don't need as much to survive in the desert in an emergency as people think.

Trimble, who has been teaching courses and doing research on wilderness survival since his student days at Arizona State University, emphasizes in his courses that the most basic tool for survival is also the most important — your mind.

The Corona del Sol High School biology teacher says each situation is unique.

In an emergency, "instead of having the situation control you, you should control the situation," Trimble says. That demands a sound mental state that "removes the element of panic," common sense, a level head and imagination — all part of that most important tool, the mind.

Trimble, an avid outdoorsman who has had to put survival techniques to use himself on occasion, speaks of what he calls the five basic necessities for survival on desert, mountain top or other wilderness area.

The basics, he says, are food, water, warmth, shelter and mental or spiritual attitude. Trimble points out that the spiritual attitude becomes most important "when death is imminent" and it's recognized there is going to be no rescue.

And though the mind is the basic tool in survival, there are others — including survival kits that every traveler should carry in the car.

"A mirror is probably the most important tool" for that survival kit for desert travelers, Trimble says. If you're lost or stranded on the desert, "you probably won't hike out by yourself and you need a mirror to attract attention."

Trimble also advocates a pocket knife, useful for multiple purposes, and string, because it's so versatile.

String can be used as tinder to help start fires, he points out. And if you add a welder's flint and a screw to the survival kit, "you can attach a little screw to the flint, tie some cobbler's string around the screw and you have a metal match."

In the desert, water becomes one of the major concerns. Trimble teaches how to find water in the desert and how to make an emergency solar water still.

But, he adds, "sometimes using that still may not be the wisest thing to do." Without water, it's estimated that a human being has only a three-day survival time if the temperature is 110 degrees. In extreme temperatures, conserving water becomes of major importance.

"In most cases, you will be restricted to the water you already have — in a bottle or in your body," says Trimble. "If a solar still gets you two quarts of water, but (because of the high temperatures) you would lose two quarts in sweat, it's best to stay in the shade and forget it."

Homestate Savings...

Schedules Its Formal Opening March 22-26

Homestate Savings will celebrate the formal opening of its Snyder branch office at 3405 College Avenue with an open house from March 22-March 26, Don Whitehead, president of Homestate Savings, announced today.

During the five day celebration 11 prizes will be given away. At the close of business each day, two drawings will be held from the day's registration.

The two winners will be given gift certificates which will allow them to select a gift from 87 famous name gifts shown in full color brochures.

On Friday, March 26, a $500 interest bearing checking account will be given as a grand prize. This grand prize also allows the recipient to receive free checking services with no service charge ever plus the first 200 checks are free of charge. The grand prize winner will be drawn from all registrations for the entire week.

In addition to the daily prizes and grand prize, each person attending the open house is invited to enjoy free refreshments.

Registration for prizes will be limited to the Snyder branch office which is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. Registrants do not have to be present to win nor do they need to be a Homestate Savings depositor.

Hostesses for the five day open house are La Nelle Joplin, branch manager of the Snyder office, and Debby Farmer, assistant branch manager.

Also attending the open house will be John Davis of Sweetwater, vice president of Homestate Savings in charge of branch operations, and Linda Mitchell of Colorado City. Mitchell is employed in the Homestate Savings Branch office there.

Both Joplin and Farmer are extending a public invitation to come visit the 2400 square foot and loan office building which features a lobby and counter area, two offices and a coffee room.

Homestate Savings, with home office in Sweetwater, has branch offices in Roscoe, Rotan, Hamlin, Colorado City, Abilene and Big Spring with savings deposits of over $84 million, loans outstanding of over $94 million and total assets in excess of $109 million.

Florida Road Being Rebuilt

MARATHON, Fla. (AP) — The Overseas Highway, which permits island hopping by car through the Florida Keys, is undergoing an intensive reconstruction program designed to make the "highway that goes to sea" safer and more enjoyable for travelers.

Under the program, 38 of the highway's 43 bridges are being replaced, including the Seven Mile Bridge. The upgrading of the highway — 113 miles over blue-green waters — is costing the state of Florida $175 million, according to Jack Mueller of Key West, Florida Keys Bridge program manager.

The two-lane highway, on which traffic is being maintained during construction, is being widened slightly on each side.

To the east, drivers see the Atlantic Ocean, to the west, the Gulf of Mexico, as they traverse the highway which stretches from south of Miami to Key West.

THERE'S MORE THAN ONE WAY TO FLY A KITE--The male members of the Union Baptist Church decided to have a kite flying contest Wednesday night. The only problem was that the wind didn't cooperate and, according to the rules of the contest, the kites could only be three inches in length. But there is more than one way to fly a kite as Tommy Lane, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Lane, shows us here. If all else fails climb a pole and let the kite fly with the wind. (SDN Staff Photo)

SNYDER RADIOLOGIST INC. ANNOUNCEMENT

WHY THE RADIOLOGIST'S BILL
IS SEPARATE FROM THE HOSPITAL BILL

The radiologist is a private physician specializing in the use of x-rays and radioactive substances used in medial diagnosis and therapy. Your physician requested the services of the radiologist in interpreting the results of your recent examination in the X-ray Department.

With some examinations, the radiologist was personally involved in the examination. If you had only films made, your personal contact may have been solely with the technologist. Once the films were made and checked, they were presented to the radiologist for his interpretation, as well as his written and oral consultation with your physician.

The hospital bill will include a charge for x-ray to cover the use of its equipment, the films, supplies, and technical personnel. The bill from the radiologist is for his professional consultative services. (Reading your films, which is done in the hospital.) Which is requested by your physician.

SPRAYING FRUIT TREES

With peaches, plums and apricots blooming now, it's time to prepare for insect and disease control. Many pests infest or lay eggs during the bloom period of these fruits, and control measures need to be timed specifically for best control. Copies of "Homeowners Fruit and Nut Spray Schedule" are available from our office at 2605 Ave. M.

Fruit trees should be sprayed with malathion or zolone plus either benomyl or captan beginning when 75 percent of the petals have fallen and then on a schedule of 10-14 days for three more applications. The insecticide zolone and malathion are recommended for control of the oriental fruit moth and plum curculio that lay eggs during the bloom period. Zolone tends to be a more effective insecticide during hot weather than malathion and as summer months and hot weather approach, homeowners may want to use more of it.

Captan and benomyl are effective fungicides against scab and brown rot.

To produce quality fruit, it is very important to select the recommended materials for insect and disease control and maintan a regular spray schedule.

A good insecticide for peaches, plums and apricots then would be:

One tablespoon malathion, or one teaspoon zolone, plus one and one-third tablespoons captan, or half a tablespoon benomyl, for each gallon of water.

Spray schedule for apples and pears, is somewhat different than for peaches and plums.

The first application for pest control should begin at the silver tip stage of growth. This is during the dormant season and dormant oil would be used. At this time, it is too late to apply a dormant oil.

The next application of a pesticide should be at tight cluster stage of growth, or pink bud. Just prior to the opening of the bloom, the bud will enlarge to the tight cluster stage and show a pink coloring to the bud. This also is called the pink bud spray. Many of the apple trees are at this stage.

After the apple trees begin blooming, all spray applications should be discontinued until 10 days after full bloom, or when all petals have fallen. Two more applications of approved pesticides on 14-day intervals should be applied.

Zolone or malathion should be used for apples. The addition of captan or benomyl in these two spray applications after full bloom should give satisfactory disease control.

Two precautions on apples should be mentioned. Do not use Sevin for insect control as it will cause the apples to fall off. Also, do not spray apples when they are in bloom as this will prevent pollination.

Read and follow directions on the label of all pesticides.

Tourism Plan Is In The Works

RUIDOSO, N.M. (AP) — The New Mexico Border Commission has introduced a plan to develop a tourism marketing program aimed at drawing Mexican tourists to New Mexico.

Commission Chairman Ray Sadler made the proposal, which also is aimed at funneling American travelers to Mexico through New Mexico, Thursday at the board's regular meeting here.

Sadler's plan would link $10,000 from the state's tourism and travel division with matching funds from individual southern New Mexico communities.

The plan included using lodgers' taxes collected from travelers who stay in motels throughout the state to form the base for the communities' contributions.

Initial reaction to the proposal was favorable from commission members, Tourism and Travel officials, businessmen and Department of Commerce and Industry officials, all who were at Thursday's meeting.

One drawback that could hamper the plan voiced immediately was the recent devaluation of the Mexican peso.

But Sadler said that while he thought the peso devaluation would reduce Mexican tourist flow for a few months, that was an advantage for New Mexicans.

N. C. Pork Wins Contest

WASHINGTON (AP) — It came as no surprise to Rep. Eugene Johnston, R-N.C., that a North Carolina chef's pork barbecue took first place in the second annual "Barbecue Bowl."

After all, the freshman congressman declared, Tar Heel barbecue is "the real thing, clearly superior to the mustardy concoction prepared in the lower Carolina."

"Hogwash," retorted Rep. John Napier, R-S.C., who along with Johnston conceived the idea of having outsiders judge North and South Carolina hogs.

On Wednesday, Barbecue Bowl judges from the Virginia and Georgia congressional delegations declared chef Short Sugars of Leesville, N.C., the winner. Second and third place were captured by South Carolinians from Hemingway and Bennettsville.

Hundreds of politicians, staffers and dignitaries converged on Capitol Hill for the occasion. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., was master of ceremonies and entertainers from both states performed.

Helms, who said he had hoped for a tie so there would be a rematch, was assured that another Barbecue Bowl will be held next year.

"Everybody had a swine time," Johnston said.

Dwight D. (Ike) Eisenhower, former president and Allied supreme commander in Europe during World War II, died March 28, 1969, at the age of 78. Eisenhower, a Kansas farm boy, worked hard to be appointed to the U.S. Military Academy and rose swiftly from the rank of a one-star brigadier in 1941 to the five stars of the supreme commander in 1944.

Moderate Republicans Are Getting Frustrated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fourteen months after Ronald Reagan assumed the presidency, the "other" wing of the Republican Party, the moderates, are becoming frustrated and uneasy with the direction of the Reagan revolution.

Patricia Bailey, a Republican on the Federal Trade Commission, says the Reagan team is too ideological, increasingly out-of-step with the American public. "A lot of us are seething on issues and on the general tone...but you do your job and don't complain."

Rep. James Leach, R-Iowa, says: "The middle is where Americans are at." He questions budget priorities, "bellicose" foreign policy and fairness on civil rights.

Bobbie Kilberg, a veteran of the Nixon-Ford White House, says the administration pays too much attention to right wingers who "scream a lot."

And Connecticut Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., says the conservatives want to run it all, "And they are."

But Weicker, himself up for re-election, believes a day of reckoning is coming, Nov. 2: "At the end of the '82 elections, they'll see we have to be a party that brings in all views — conservatives and moderates."

Bailey, Leach, Kilberg and Weicker all work in the moderate wing of the Grand Old Party. During the 1980 presidential campaign, moderate and liberal Republicans put aside their policy differences with Ronald Reagan and united with conservatives to support his election. During 1981, the moderates voted unanimously with Reagan to push his economic program through the House.

Now, many Republican moderates are disillusioned. They say the voices of moderation are not being heard in the White House; that smaller government is one thing, gutting so many social programs is another; that providing for the common defense does not mean stripping the general welfare.

Reagan needs their continued support to push his programs through an increasingly skeptical Senate and the Democrat-dominated House.

Last week, Sen. Robert Packwood, head of the Republican Senate Campaign Committee, sounded an alarm. He expressed dismay, saying that Reagan's view of America is basically white, male and Protestant; that the president's positions on abortion, the equal rights amendment and the handling of tax exemptions for schools will cause lasting damage to the party.

Packwood's remarks were met with icy anger at the White House. He apologized to the president, but refused to retract the statements, and it is clear that he is not alone in his concern.

Pat Bailey, whose husband is a Republican political consultant, was appointed to the FTC by President Carter. Reagan flirted with promoting her to chairman before she criticized proposed spending cuts that she thought would hamper antitrust enforcement. She remains fiercely protective of the FTC's mission.

"I'm not an ideologue, I'm a compromiser" says Mrs. Bailey. "Most people in the country are moderates. They're in the middle of issues that come before my agency. They believe that the government should be involved in some ways in regard to consumer protection."

Two weeks after James C. Miller III took up the chairmanship, he said the FTC should review and possibily discard its 11-year rule requiring advertisers to substantiate their claims.

Mrs. Bailey also said that moderate Republican women believe the Reagan administration is insensitive to the concerns of women. "We see a pattern of activity in the administration that is distinctly anti-female," she said. "I'm concerned to the point of alarm."

Referring to a recent Reagan administration proposal that would require federally funded family planning clinics to notify parents if a teenager receives a prescription for contraceptives, Mrs. Bailey said, "Boys don't have to go to doctors to get contraceptive devices. If they did, this bill would be laughed off the floor of Congress."

Jim Leach summarizes his view of current Reagan policies this way:

"There's too much emphasis on bellicosity in policy is needlessly unsympathetic."

the abuse of credit

When Romania recently became the second Soviet bloc country to fall behind in its payments to Western banks, including those in the United states, the American people saw another example of the economic lunacy that has prevailed for so long in the Free World.

As it did in bailing out Poland recently to prevent the declaration of default, the Reagan administration wrote one check for nearly $5.5 million and another for about $320,000 to U. S. banks which Romania failed to pay. The decision to make good on another Commodity Credit Corp. guarantee to private U. S. banks holding unpaid Soviet bloc debts fuels the controversy and increases the administration's embarrassment, just now waning from the Polish bailout. But this is only the beginning. Unpaid U. S. government loans and loan guarantees to Poland total almost $2 billion, and Romania's debts are thought to be as large or larger. Moreover, there are numerous other communist loans as shaky.

The loans to Soviet bloc countries by U. S. banks, now being serviced by U. S. taxpayers, were used to purchase American agricultural products, manufactured goods and technology.

Talk about a no-win situation: Americans, who have labored in farm and factory to provide food and goods to communist countries must now be taxed for their own toil because of defaulted loans to Soviet block nations. Even worse, the U. S. government, with its long affliction of mounting deficits, has pursued an insane policy of borrowing or printing money in support of such loans. Thus have we debased our currency in order to subsidize rigid, inefficient communist economies and to underwrite the Soviet Union's threatening military buildup, the most massive in history.

President Reagan provided a little redeeming relief in all of this when he rejected yet another $65 million commodity credit loan scheduled for Romania. He did this over the objections of the State Department and the Department of Agriculture. The aborted loan was for the purchase of U. S. corn and soybean meal to feed what was the granary of Europe before communism took over.

In his little-heralded rejection of further credit to Romania, the president is reported to have simply advised the State and Agriculture people that if prospective borrowers can't pay their bills, "Let's not extend them credit."

Let's not indeed.

WHEN IT RAINS, IT POURS.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Some people are born great, some achieve greatness and some just grate."

On several occasions we have observed incidents that cause us to believe there are two classes of people in the United States:

One group are those who make the laws, and the other group are those of us who must live with and under those laws.

Members of congress have long been noted for passing laws and tax increases that affect us all and then exempting themselves from such burdens. Social security is one such item that is of no minor consequence.

The contention that there are those who are above the law came through loud and clear last week in the case involving Sen. William A. Williams Jr.

The New Jersey Democrat was found guilty last May of nine counts of bribery and conspiracy. He was sentenced to three years in prison and told to pay a $50,000 fine.

Almost a year later, the U.S. Senate gets around to considering his official misconduct and explusion from the Senate's private club.

The senator finally did bend to the pressure and offered his resignation. However, if you kept up with the news accounts, he never confessed to any wrong doing.

The culprit, according to Williams, was a corrupt and ambitious FBI and its Federal Strike Force. In legal terms, Williams said it was entrapment.

Hogwash! If the guy were honest and innocent, he would have walked away from the bribe offer. You might tempt, but you can't trap an honest fellow. Surely, the FBI had some reason to suspect that he would take the bait.

All of that is history now, but taxpayers will live with the results for some time to come. It seems that Williams, a convicted and near-expelled member of the U.S. Senate, is entitled to $47,000 yearly retirement benefits.

We are a bunch of chumps if we allow such in the future. In essence, Williams' first-year retirement salary will cover most of his $50,000 fine.

We're outraged that such a situation can occur in the U.S.--where violation of public trust is rewarded. We need some changes in the law.

Council Oks Entex Hike

HOUSTON (AP) — The City Council Thursday granted Entex Inc. an $8.5 million annual increase in the rates it charges for natural gas, $10,5 million less than the company asked for.

The increase will add 85 cents to the monthly bill of each of Entex's Houston residential customers. Commercial customers will see an increase of $1 in each of the five steps in the rate structure.

Entex has 550,000 customers, about two-thirds of whom live in Houston. The firm has traditionally waited until the Houston rate request is resolved before asking for increases in the other 20 communities.

Entex President Wayne Johnson said he was "disappointed" in the decision, but said the firm would not appeal to the Texas Railroad Commission.

Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infrantry bore the brunt of the Chinese Communist spring offensive in Korea April 24, 1951. The infantry's Second Battalion held its positions through a night of hand-to-hand fighting.

Since the beginning of written history, people have wondered how columnists got their ideas. Sit back, relax, I'm going to tell you.

This isn't done with the intention of revealing trade secrets. My purpose here is to share methods. The time has come to shed light on a murky and misunderstood profession. And besides, its midnight and what else am I going to write about?

One famous columnist said that to get ideas he simply sat down at his typewriter and waited for little beads of sweat to form on his forehead. Soon after, an idea would occur.

This doesn't work for me because I don't like to sweat. It looks unatural and is widely believed to be a leading cause of body odor.

Another columnist, when asked how he got ideas, pointed to the dents on top of his typewriter and to corresponding bruises on his head. I also tried this method and must report that it too is unsatisfactory.

However, the practice is not without merit and whatever line of work you're in I suggest you try it, because it feels so good when you quit.

Another flaw in the above method is that we don't use typewriters much around this paper anymore. Instead, there is this fancy computer system with individual terminals to type in stories. If the publisher caught anyone banging his head on one of these, he would smash their face through the screen and then charge them for the damages.

But back to the topic of how to get column ideas. My own personal method works something like this: I get up bright and early and watch the 10 o'clock news to see what happened in the world while I slept.

Then I eat a hearty breakfast of two eggs over easy, pork chops, bisquits and gravy, coffee and a large glass of orange juice. Or sometimes I have a short stack with bacon and a tall glass of milk. Waffles and sausage really hit the spot on some mornings. If someone else is buying, I prefer scrambled eggs with a medium rare breakfast steak and I pour a little Tobasco Sauce on both and wash it all down with Coca-Cola. Omelettes are good too. I guess what you eat is really a matter of personal taste.

After breakfast, I go to the paper office, sit in front of my terminal screen and think. Shortly, I become sleepy and decide a short nap will make me more alert.

Then its back to work. Of course by now its time for lunch so I head for the deli. You can't expect a man to work on an empty stomach.

After lunch and a short nap, I really get serious. I stare at my screen and concentrate. Out of the blue a revelation will hit me. For instance, I may realize that my car needs washing. You know what they say: "Clean car, clear thinking."

Also, at the car wash I can observe little slices of everyday life and really be among the people. Lots of big, important things happen at car washes.

After a short rest, I'm back on the job again and by now I'm really hot. Sometimes when I'm rolling like this a thought will pop into my head so suddenly that it makes me sit up straight.

For example, the other day, just as I was about to start a dynamite column, I realized I hadn't made up my bed. I rushed home in a near panic. What if the house burned down and the firemen and spectators saw my unmade bed? That would be almost as traumatic as not having on clean underwear and being in a car wreck and all the people at the hospital finding out.

Of course after I was home and fussed with the sheets a few minutes I remembered I didn't know how to make up a bed because I haven't made one up since that week I spent in church camp in '65. It hardly seems worth it since you've got to undo it to get back in at night. And if the house burns the bed will to, right? Where would I put all my comic books, magazines and potato chips anyway?

So I simply changed underwear and drove carefully back to work.

I checked to see how my column was coming and wouldn't you know it. Somebody had erased it! I accused everybody.

This is one of the advantages of the computer system. Stuff can be erased...poof...gone forever.

I may know I never punched a key but nobody else does. In the old days, I had to content myself with going through the trash and grumbling. Now I can act geniunely hurt and lament, "That was my best one yet." and get real sympathy.

Amid understanding pats on the back, I go home now although its only mid-afternoon. I'm just too tired, frustrated and discouraged to write anymore. This is a hard life, and you have to be tough to make it.

What about the column? Well I'll watch a little TV, maybe take in a movie, then I'll worry about it. I can always hack out something.

J. P. Harris received an award for 35 years of service with Mobol Oil Corp.

Paintings of Tom Ryan, noted western artist, were being shown in the Diamond M Museum. Here for the show was Dean Krakel, managing director of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame in Oklahoma City, author of a book titled "Tom Ryan---A Painter in 6666 Country."

15 YEARS AGO

A fire caused heavy damage to the Snyder Country Club golf shop.

Nona Morrison of Jacksonville was named director of religipus education at First Baptist Church.

Several prairie dogs acquired from Lubbock, were turned loose in the prairie dog enclosure in Towle Memorial Park.

20 YEARS AGO

Harold McKinzie of Snyder was defeated, 90-85, by Don King of San Antonio in his bid for vice president of the Young Republicans of Texas. The group elected officers in a convention at Amarillo.

Published reports that a committee planned to recommend that coeds be admitted to Texas A&M University had no significance, declared Earl Rudder, A&M's president.

25 YEARS AGO

W. A. (Bill) Murphy, special agent in charge of the FBI in Dallas, conducted a school here for police officers of Snyder, Sweetwater and Colorado City.

Jack Cross was elected president of the Snyder Toastmasters Club, succeeding Bill Schiebel. S. P. Hulen was named administrative vice president, and Frank Le Feuvre was named educational vice president.

The Texas Railroad Commission cut the production allowable from 18 days to 16 days.

Frank Kubala, Hermleigh farmer, received an award as top supervisor in the Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District. The award was presented by H. W. Cargile on behalf of Texas Bank & Trust Co. of Dallas.

30 YEARS AGO

Ed Chapman was elected commander of the veterans of Foreign Wars post here, succeeding Jack Caperton. M. M. Clark was named senior vice commander; H. F. Clark, junior vice commander; Mark Cannon, quartermaster; Frank Stephenson, chaplain; Jesse King, judge advocate; Dr. John Broaddus, surgeon; and K. O. Pitner, trustee.

Bill Burge began his duties as administrator of the Snyder Hospital.

Jim Ikard, county tax assessor-collector, announced that his office would be open during the noon hour on weekdays and on Saturday afternoons through March 31 to take care of last-minute demands for automobile tags.

The Bell System announced that eight cities would be hooked up to its television network in time for the national political conventions. The cities getting television network service for the first time were Miami, New Orleans, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Oklahoma City, Tulsa and San Antonio.

at wit's end

This column could be the most important document you've read since the small print of your credit union loan.

Listen to this. Scientists at Yale University have just concluded some people, especially those who are overweight, can gain weight just by looking at fattening foods. It's true. They discovered that when people carrying extra pounds looked at food, smelled it, or even listened to it sizzle, their bodies released increased levels of insulin which accelerated their conversion of sugar into fat.

And all these years, I believed my cadaver friends who waved a piece of cake under my nose and coaxed, "It won't hurt you just to smell it!"

Have you any idea how many times I've listened to cereal snap, crackle and pop and thought it was just another waltz? Or the TV commercials I've watched in ignorance while I outgrew my chair?

And when I think of the times I've sat in a theatre next to three boxes of buttered popcorn, I could kill them for costing me two beauty queen titles.

But the most revealing thing about this survey is that we don't have to inhale food to suffer its consequences, and where have we heard that before?

I'm taking my anti-eating crusade to the airlines. Why should I have to sit next to a person who stuffs calories into every opening in his face and gain weight for what he eats?

I don't want to stand in a crowded elevator any more next to a man with banana breath or wait in a doctor's office with a woman pigging out on candy bars.

I'm going to put a sign on the office doughnut pusher's desk saying, "Thank you for not eating." And I'll target restaurants and convince them they should have two eating sections: the serious side where they cook at your table and wheel a dessert cart around for you to see, and a godforsaken place where diners may pick at their lettuce alone.

As for grocery shopping, it's what I've suspected for years. They should have a sign over the door that reads, "CAUTION: This store causes fatness. Shop at your own risk."

Just writing this column has probably put a pound or two on me, but it's not the first time I've had to eat my own words.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Your Birthday — Bernice Bede Osol

March 21, 1982

You should form alliances that will be beneficial for all concerned in the year following your birthday. They will be able to hold fast against the passage of time.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You and your special someone won't need a lot of people around today, but it might be fun to plan something with another couple you both like. Predictions of what's in store for you in each season following your birth date and where your luck and opportunities lie are in your Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Rather than lounging around in the shade today, try to find projects in which you can express your artistic urges. Busying your hands with beauty will be rewarding.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Cupid looks upon you very favorably today. It's entirely possible you'll catch someone's eye and the sparks will fly. It may be a person you've long admired.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Have you been thinking of something to make your home or surroundings more comfortable? Do it today. The change will be permanently pleasing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Put the concerns and needs of your mate a few notches above your own today. You'll be surprised how it will work wonders for your relationship.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Conditions that could contribute to bettering your lot in life look hopeful today. Results will come quicker if you stir things up a bit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your greatest gifts today are your leadership qualities. Now is the time to put them to use. Take control where you can advance your self-interests.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your nobler instincts will be much in evidence today. You're apt to make sacrifices on behalf of others without even thinking what you'll get in return.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Opportunities are apt to present themselves today to tighten the ties that bind you to an already good friend. Take the initiative to strengthen the relationship.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The chances of your ambitions being fulfilled today are excellent. You're ready to pay your dues to get ahead. You don't fear hard work or long hours.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're a good salesperson today and, if you choose to, you have the ability to take heavy ideas and make them sound light and exciting.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Someone who is very fond of you and who also feels a trifle obligated for kindnesses from you is secretly working to balance the account.

March 22, 1982

Take advantage of any opportunities this coming year to further your education or to add to your knowledge. As you grow in wisdom your possibilities for success will increase proportionately.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Matters requiring the support of others should be taken care of as early as possible today. Your chances for gaining allies lessens as time marches on. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in each of the seasons following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Persons not in harmony with your goals and purposes today could have a disruptive influence if they butt into your business. Keep them at arm's length.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In activities today requiring a collective effort, be a team player instead of trying to be a standout. On your own, you may not perform well.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Things will go more smoothly today if you allow adequate time for what you have to do. Mistakes are likely if you begin to rush to beat the clock.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you are negotiating something today involving money, take care that the other party doesn't introduce some last-minute one-sided changes.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Give priority today to matters affecting your work and finances. Subdue tendencies to go off on a tangent which could cause you to lose monetary advantages.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In order to make things easier for yourself today, there's a chance you may delegate something of importance to someone who isn't qualified to handle it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You should be quite good today in handling most situations. However, your skills may not be up to par in areas where money is involved.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you are too impatient or impulsive today, there's a possibility you could derail something beneficial you have going for you. Slow down your pace.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your possibilities for personal acquisition look encouraging today. If you're fortunate and get what you want with the help of others, be sure to share.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be careful today that you don't snatch defeat from the jaws of victory. There's a chance you could have something in your grasp, then make the wrong moves and lose it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Joint ventures could be very advantageous today, provided you play your assigned role. Don't try to upstage your associates.

(The following is a biographical sketch of the Line Park Development.)

On December 11, 1980, Bill and Sig Line gave to the City of Snyder 31 acres of property to be used only as a public park and to be named Line Park. Almost the entire acreage is located in the Deep Creek flood plain. On January 5, 1981, the City Council appointed Jerry Vestal, Delbert Downing, Mrs. Patsy Huckabee, Mrs. Faye Thompson and Mr. Jimmy Dyess to the Parks Board. The Parks Board was requested to formulate a comprehensive Master Plan for Line Park development and present it to the City Council. The City Council contracted with Mr. John Alford and Mr. Walter Heard, Landscape Architects, as consultants to work with the Parks Board on the development of the park. The Parks Board held public meetings from January 8 through September 29, 1981. The Board pursued a goal of developing a park which retained a lot of its natural setting, yet provided facilities not duplicated in other parks within the city. The Park Board sought to care for the needs of the elderly and handicapped, as well as the children and families of the community. It was agreed that the 31 acres would be totally and comprehensively developed. Development of a walkway for both joggers, bikers and strollers along both sides of Dry Run and Deep Creeks from 25th Street to 37th was envisioned. Foot bridges to cross over both creeks, also from which to fish, (that could easily be replaced after rains), soccer, volleyball, softball fields, picnic tables and playgrounds for kids, were considered, as well as a pavilion for family outings or reunions. His and Her restrooms were included. All development was to be kept as close as possible to a natural setting. Parking areas were limited requiring people to have to walk through the park. Because of the concern for flood and erosion control, acquisition of the West Bank of Deep Creek (not included in the Line Brothers 31 acres gift) was considered and pursued. The Board felt the present barrow pits West of Deep Creek presented a hazard that should be controlled in the development. The park entrance was set on 30th Street between Dry Run and Deep Creeks.

After formulating a comprehensive plan for the total development of Line Park, the Park Board requested that Consultants, Alford & Heard, present cost estimates projected over a 3 year—3 phase development plan. The Comprehensive development was then divided into Phase I - development of the island between Deep Creek & Dry Run Creek. Involved in Phase I were the following:

PHASE I Island between Deep Creek and Dry Run Creek

Park Entrance (walls, signage, flagpoles and concrete flatwork)	$20,000
Park Drive (1,250 line. ft. with curb & gutter)	$36,700
Parking and Turn-a-Round (70 cars)	$52,500
Overlooks (3)	$15,000
Picnic Units (13)	$65,000
Trail
8' crushed granite	$51,000
8' concrete	$13,500
Central Pavilion (concrete paving, buildings, barbeque and picnic tables.)	$98,000
Gazebo (Building and Concrete Paving)	$18,000
Lighting (18 area lights)	$36,000
Plant Material
Trees	$25,000
Turf	$12,000
Irrigation (3 acres)	$10,000
Bridges (2)	$44,000
Playground	$21,000
Volleyball (lighted)	$9,000
Basketball (lighted)	$6,000
The Total Estimated Cost of 1983 PHASE I	$532,700

1984 Phase II - development of the park property east of Dry Run Creek would include the following:

PHASE II - East of Dry Run Creek

Park Drive (700 lin. ft. with curb & gutter)	$49,900
Parking (91 cars)	$68,000
Tennis Courts (2 including lighting)	$45,000
Volleyball (lighted)	$9,000
Basketball (lighted)	$6,000
Trail
8 ft. crushed granite	$12,000
8 ft. concrete	$9,000
Irrigation (12 acres)	$40,000
Backstops (2 fields)	$2,000
Portable Soccer Goals (4 fields)	$5,000
Playground	$28,000
Pavilion with restrooms	$24,000
Lighting (9 area lights)	$18,000
Plant Material
Trees	$10,000
Turf	$26,000
The Total Estimated Cost of Phase II	$351,900

The final Phase III would be completed in 1985 and would involve Park property West of Deep Creek. The following is included in the Phase III development:

PHASE III - West of Deep Creek

Paving (3,400 lin. ft. with curb and gutter)	$99,000
Picnic (5 Units)	$25,000
Bridges (2)	$44,000
Trail 8' crushed granite	$9,000
Plant Material
Trees	$12,000
Turf	$14,000
The Total Estimated Cost of Phase III	$203,800

All estimates do not include earthwork or tree and brush cleanup.

The Total Cost of the Project is Estimated at $1,085,500

Because of the projected cost of the Line Park Development, the City Council and Parks Board wishes to obtain a consensus of Opinion from the citizens of the community before pursuing the project. This project would not be funded with a General Obligation Bond issuance, but would be funded, providing that funds are available, from revenues derived from the city's Sales Tax rebates. Please vote your preference this coming April 3, at City Hall. A voting ballot will be provided for all voters participating in the city elections to vote For or Against the development of Line Park.
