Iraq Premier Cries For German Aid

British Counter-Attack Partly Recovers Tobruk Defense

Battle Continues But Axis Forces Said Stopped

Allied Troops Hasten To Help Defend Egypt

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

CAIRO, Egypt, May 2. — The British garrison at Tobruk counter-attacked the Germans and Italians today, throwing them partly out of the fort's outer defenses, British military sources asserted.

The battle still is raging after two days, but those Axis forces remaining inside the outer perimeter of the Libyan fortress have been stopped there, the British said.

Strong contingents of the British expeditionary force rescued from Greece were reported hastening westward to counter the German threat to Egypt and to aid the Tobruk garrison, which is 80 miles inside Italian Libya.

This is the second time the Axis troops have penetrated Tobruk's outermost lines, the British said, but the present attack is more sustained than the other, which failed.

Another Drive

This second drive was launched against the southwest perimeter with a strong German tank thrust supported by dive bombers and followed by infantry.

The Germans apparently were determined if possible to remove this constant menace to their communication lines into Egypt, but the British classed the attack as a failure since it failed to reach the inner defenses.

The inner ring of fortifications, several miles long, covers the town and harbor and is much stronger than the broken outer ring.

Three dive bombers were shot down by the defending RAF, and the British-Australian-Indian garrison troops reported they smashed eleven of the German tanks.

Around Salum, the Egyptian border town to which the Axis drive has reached, the British said enemy force held the port area under continual harassment by British mechanized patrols. The reinforcements from Greece were expected to strengthen this action shortly.

Troops Transferred

Some of these reinforcements were armed with American-made weapons now arriving in Egypt (perhaps via the Red sea since President Roosevelt has declared that area open to American ships.)

British warships ranged up and down the coast to act as major mobile artillery for the Tobruk defenders. They poured shells into Axis concentrations along the coastal road.

Over Tobruk itself the RAF acted as a screen for the ground troops, fighting off hordes of German and Italian dive bombers.

Striking to the west the RAF bombed and machinegunned Axis troops and trucks at Acroma in the Tobruk battle area, and also at Derna, Bengasi and Benina.

Italian resistance in isolated pockets in northern and southern Ethiopia now is so feeble that British troops are being pulled out of East Africa for action in the Mediterranean area, it was understood here.

Mann Pledges Support For FDR's Program

WACO, May 2. (AP)—Gerald C. Mann pledged his support of President Roosevelt's foreign policy "without reservation" and urged Texans to buy defense savings bonds as he brought his campaign for the U. S. Senate to Central Texas tonight.

"Just as there must be no bottlenecks in industry to delay preparedness, so must there be no bottleneck of funds to pay the bill for defending our country," said the attorney general in an address prepared for delivery on the courthouse lawn.

"I take this opportunity to again call your attention to the president's remarks and the necessity of purchasing these securities for our national defense.

"The president is entitled to our full-fledged support. Our defense program must go forward."

WASHINGTON, May 2. — With Secretary of Commerce Jones asserting he did not know "how long England can take the punishment it is taking now," the government made two moves today to expand the production of armaments for that country and the United States.

1. William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman, top men of the Office of Production Management, urged that defense industries induce workers to forego their usual vacations this summer by means of a bonus system. Under the suggested system a vitally-needed worker who usually gets a vacation with pay would receive double wages if he stayed on the job. A $20-week man, for example, would get his usual $40 for his two-week vacation period, plus $40 extra.

2. President Roosevelt wrote to Knudsen and Hillman asking that production of machine tools be expedited, that such tools be worked day, night and Sundays, and that the nation be combed for idle machine tools and operatives to be employed in defense production.

Situation Serious

Jones' statement was made at a consumers conference called to study price trends. He urged his hearers to impress upon their friends the seriousness of the world situation. The cabinet officer said he did not fear an invasion of this country by the Axis powers but that they, nevertheless, "can give us a lot of trouble."

"They can reduce our living standards," he continued. "We cannot compete with slave labor."

The day brought other developments associated with the defense and aid-to-Britain programs:

Secretary Hull said the question of freezing all foreign assets in the United States was under consideration. The aim of such a move would be to prevent any of the assets from being used for the benefit of the Axis.

To Send Observers

The war department announced that "a number of junior air corps officers," would be sent to England as observers. Thus, it was said, the army hopes to build up a group of officers with training in combat service and obtain reports on the performance of British and American planes.

At the treasury, it was indicated that with the defense spending increasing, government expenditures

Bendix Strike Threat Made

(By The Associated Press)

A strike threat was made yesterday against the Bendix Aviation corporation's plant at South Bend, Ind., which has $13,905,000 worth of defense contracts.

Officials of the CIO-United Automobile Workers announced that a bargaining committee had been authorized to order a walkout if the company failed to grant a requested 10 per cent wage increase. The plant employs about 7,000.

Some 1500 dock workers who handle iron ore in Superior and Ashland, Wis., and Duluth and Two Harbors, Minn., also voted a strike for higher pay. Affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, they asked 12½ cents increase to bring their wages to 75 cents an hour. A union official said that while an "overwhelming majority had voted to strike, no time for an actual walkout had been affixed. Such action will await the outcome of a conference at Washington on Tuesday.

Mines Still Idle

In Washington, the Defense Mediation board continued its efforts to bring the CIO-UAW and General Motors corporation into agreement on a contract and avert a threatened strike in 61 plants employing 160,000 workers.

C. E. Wilson, president of G. M., was heard in closed sessions on the company's position. G. M. offered two cents when the union asked 10 cents an hour wage increase.

Coal miners in Illinois and Alabama continued idle. The approximately 45,000 miners in these two states were not covered by agreements reached earlier this week which returned soft coal diggers to mines in the Appalachian area with $1 a day increase.

WARNING SOUNDED

AUSTIN, May 2. (AP)—State Police Director Homer Garrison, jr., today warned that under the new drivers' license law no person under 21 years old was permitted to drive a school bus or operate a public or common carrier vehicle.

Six Burglaries Here Solved

Arrest Friday of two juveniles solved six business house burglaries, it was announced by the sheriff and police departments.

Admission of one of the boys cleared those offenses, leaving only one business house and several residence break-ins to be solved. Most of the major burglaries had been "broken" with arrests several days ago.

Bill Mabray, assistant chief of police, and J. P. Posey, chief deputy sheriff, said the boys, 15 and 16 years old, had returned from the state reformatory only a few weeks ago. Most of their loot was pennies from vending machines, they said.

Found With Pennies

When arrested early Friday morning one of the suspects carried several pennies tied in a handkerchief, hidden in his clothing. Arresting officers said the boys were believed to have just left Stubbs-Young Grain & Seed Co., at 812 Fourteenth street, when they were apprehended.

They had removed two vending machines from a wall in the gain company office and had taken them into a rear department of the store. The machines were battered. After removing the pennies, the youths wiped fingerprints off the metal with an empty flour sack, officials said they were told.

Mabray said the boys had entered Blue Bonnet laundry, at

State Prepares For Collection Of More Taxes

Machinery Is Put Into Gear By Comptroller

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, May 2.—State machinery for gathering $22,000,000 additional revenue annually was thrown into gear today by the state comptroller's office.

Comptroller George H. Sheppard moved quickly to prepare forms, regulations and instructions for collection of the various levies in the new omnibus tax bill finally enacted by the legislature this week.

Signed into law by Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel at the executive mansion shortly before midnight yesterday, the bill was filed in the office of the secretary of state at 11:55 p. m.

By terms of the measure, all new and increased old levies became effective with the dawn of May 1, except for the 32-cent boost in the liquor tax and revision of the gasoline tax law which were put off 30 days.

Tax-On Cards

Persons affected by the new tax levies were advised by the comptroller to keep records of transactions occurring on and after May 1.

Purchases of automobiles on May 1 will be liable to the one per cent tax even though the vehicles were registered before the governor signed the bill, it was pointed out. Buyers must pay this tax to the county tax collector who will transmit the revenue to the comptroller.

Retailers of cosmetics, new radios and playing cards will be required to make quarterly reports to the comptroller showing gross receipts for these articles. The comptroller is preparing forms to be mailed to 75,000 stores directing them to file reports on sales of these articles.

The tax on cosmetics and new radios is two per cent of gross receipts and on playing cards five cents per pack.

Persons in the business of servicing oil and gas well will pay a 2.2 per cent tax direct to the comptroller, based on quarterly reports.

Producers of oil, gas, carbon black and cement will make their tax payments to the comptroller monthly.

County clerks will be made agents of the comptroller in the selling of stamps for levy of the three-cent stock transfer tax.

Big Crop Loans Are Favored By Senate Group

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 2 — Despite indications the administration favors a lower figure, the Senate agriculture committee voted unanimously today for government loans at 85 per cent of parity prices on cotton, wheat, corn, rice and tobacco.

With present benefit payments, members said this would assure farmers complying with control programs a return of about 16 cents a pound for cotton, $1.15 a bushel for wheat and 87 cents a bushel for corn. Tobacco would vary according to grade.

Under existing farm program, farmers have been getting returns of about 12 cents for cotton, 83 cents for wheat and 75 cents for corn. These represent average market prices plus benefit payments.

Support Indicated

The "parity" price of a farm product is a price computed to give it the same purchasing power it had in some previous period, usually the pre-war years of 1909-13.

Sen. Bankhead (D-Ala) said the 85 per cent loan level would require prices of 13.49 cents for cotton, 96.6 cents for wheat, and 69.9 cents for corn.

Other congressional leaders said agriculture department officials had indicated support for the bill passed by the House this week calling for loans of 11.9 cents on cotton, 85 cents on wheat and 61.6 cents on corn.

Coupled with the loan legislation would be authority for the agriculture department to reduce acreage allotments in order to avoid further accumulation of surpluses.

The loan legislation is expected to figure in Senate-House "horse trading" over the annual farm appropriation. The Senate voted $1,340,000,000, or some $450,000,000 more than voted by the House.

Another Call For Draftees Is Made

AUSTIN, May 2. (AP)—Gen. J. Watt Page, state director of selective service, today announced the U. S. army's 14th call on Texas to supply men for military training.

In the third call for May, Gen. Page said local boards would send 1,500 white trainees to induction centers May 21-27.

On completion, he added, Texas will have 26,685 men in training, approximately 80 per cent of the state's quota for the first year of the program.

Every Dog Has His Day—In Court; Custody Disputed

(By The Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, May 2—The ancient wheeze, "every dog has his day" came true literally today in the august chambers of state superior court.

A new trial was ordered in the case of a coon hunting dog whose ownership is disputed by two men with "coon hunting fever."

Judge William E. Hirt's opinion ordering the new trial observed:

"Even a hound dog may have his day in court."

It's not a matter of dollars and cents but the dog's scent which brought him into court.

The ownership dispute dates back to 1935 when Howard L. Beard of Montgomery county, took a recently purchased Kentucky hound out hunting. The dog put his nose to a hot trail and just disappeared.

More than two years later when Beard answered an advertisement of William Mossman, he claimed he discovered Mossman was offering his

More Rain Falls On Plains; Crop Outlook Bright

GENTLE rains continued to bathe Lubbock and the South Plains Friday night.

Crop conditions, already considered the best in several years, were said to become brighter in the almost continuous rainfall. Rarely was there torrential fall as more than two and a half inches were measured in Lubbock.

Forecast was for continued cloudiness and showers today.

Don L. Jones, superintendent of the state experiment sub-station east of the city, said rain started about 4 o'clock Friday morning and during the day and night totaled well over the 1.74 inch total of the whole of May last year. Normal for the month is 2.45 inches.

Double The Average

Thus far this year is more than double the average for the 30 years records have been kept at the experiment station. The 1941 aggregate of more than 9 inches compares with the normal 3.44 inches and 4.04 inches of 1940.

Only 4.09 inches of rainfall was received for the same period in 1937, when the South Plains raised a record cotton crop. Other years of "bumper" crops were accompanied by heavy rainfall, agricultural authorities said. In 1932 there was 3.90 inches, in 1919 there was 3.76 and in 1915 heavy fall.

Jones said sorghums and cotton planting before the usual planting time were only crops subject to damage. Normal cotton planting time is from May 10 to June 10, he said.

Will Need More

Although more moisture will be required from time to time during the growing season, present moisture will almost insure good crops.

Evidence of the general nature of the downpour and its heaviness were the experiences at Buffalo lakes, southeast of Lubbock about 8 miles.

There water began running over the spillway of Upper lake for the first time since it was completed about three years ago. Water on the spillway during the

Carol, Lupescu Leave For Cuba

(By The Associated Press)

LISBON, Portugal, May 3. (Saturday) (AP)—Bound for sanctuary in Cuba, former King Carol of Rumania, Mme. Magda Lupescu and their faithful former palace chamberlain, Ernest Urdareanu, sailed at midnight on the American export liner Excambion.

They planned to debark at Bermuda and obtain passage thence to Havana, ending the long flight which began Sept. 6 when the Iron Guard revolution sent them hastening first to Switzerland, then to Spain and finally to Portugal.

Portugal Thanked

Carol and the red-haired woman for whose love he once renounced his rights to the throne as a youth, slipped aboard the liner at 1:30 a. m. Friday. Madame Lupescu brought along her four pet dogs.

They locked themselves in a 35—the nearest thing to a luxury suite the Excambion boasts—and remained there until the ship had sailed.

During their long wait, only one or two intimates, including the Cuban charge d'affaires, Francisco de Archey y Pilon, and his wife, were permitted inside.

Carol sent out by Urdareanu, however, an expression of gratitude to Portugal, the United States and Cuba.

Had Eight Visas

"I cannot help but feel sad on leaving Europe," Urdareanu quoted his master, "although I do not feel downhearted. I have been exceedingly well treated while here, and I am sure I shall enjoy by stay in Cuba.

"The reason I decided on Cuba among several Latin American countries which kindly granted us visas is not only that it is neutral but it has a first class climate. I still need a rest, and it goes without saying that there will be no political activity on my part while away from my own country."

Carol had obtained visas from at least eight Latin American countries before making his choice.

Britain's Troops Defend Base; New Warfront Opened

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, May 2—The wily premier of Iraq was reported reliably late tonight to have sent an urgent appeal to Berlin for military help after a day-long battle with the British garrison at Habbaniyah airdrome which raged sternly into the night.

Official British pronouncements said the Iraq force, which had been massed about the air base, began to shell British cantonments at dawn on orders from Premier Raschid Ali al Gailani, who seized power April 4 in a coup d'etat. This coup was clearly Axis-inspired, the British said.

The attack began after the British had ignored an ultimatum demanding they cease troop movements and plane flights.

Immediately, in the words of an official British announcement, the British took "the necessary counteraction," and the resulting battle raged all through the day and was continuing tonight.

Shortly before midnight a reliable British source said the Iraq premier had sent out a new and more urgent call to Berlin for assistance, following up one appeal already reported by the British and Turkish radios.

By what route and to what extent Germany would be able to help the Raschid was not clear.

From the meager reports available here it appeared that British women and children, removed from Baghdad under Iraq promises of safe conduct, were in the air base and therefore under fire.

Patently this situation was extremely grave in itself; it created an unexpected and very real threat to the vast oil fields of Iran which feed the British fleet and Middle Eastern armies and it gave Germany the prospect of a new grip for the great military pincers she is trying to close on Suez from both east and west.

Said German-Inspired

London had no hesitation in calling the Iraq attack German-inspired; the British Broadcasting company said flatly that "it is now known that soon after the Rashid Oli had violently and illegally seized power and publicly announced he would honor the treaty between Iraq and Britain, he appealed to Germany for armed help to oppose the British."

All day today the German short wave radio was dinning out reports that the Iraquis had risen in arms against the British in what, it was implied, was the start of a Moslem holy war.

All this came swiftly to a head

Tax Program To Spare 'Working People' Asked

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 2. — Opposing proposals of the treasury and congressional tax experts for stiffer taxes on small incomes, the CIO demanded today that Congress spare "working people" from wage cuts "in the guise of taxation."

The views of the Congress of Industrial Organizations were made known in a statement by Philip Murray, president, prepared for presentations at House ways and means committee hearings on raising $3,600,000,000 in new revenue.

Murray's statement was released shortly after the American Farm Bureau federation went on record for cutting present income tax exemptions approximately in half and establishing a flexible system of income tax rates aimed at counteracting the inflationary effects of defense spending.

Spending Discussed

Mingled with the tax talk of taxes in official circles was the related subject of federal spending.

Speaker Rayburn disclosed that he was planning to tell President Roosevelt "at the first opportunity" that congressional tax leaders desired immediate action on Secretary Morgenthau's suggestion that non-defense spending for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1941, might be cut $1,000,000,000.

Some leaders of the ways and means committee, the speaker related, felt that "it would make their task much easier if something along that line was done."

Rayburn said that at his conference with these leaders, not identified, there was talk of possible reductions in appropriations for relief, the agriculture department, the National Youth administration and the Civilian Conservation corps.

Beaverbrook's Paper Clears Up Situation

LONDON, May 3. (Saturday) (AP)—Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express today assailed the "everything fine" tone which it said prevailed in some British newspapers.

In an editorial 24 hours after Beaverbrook's appointment as minister of state with powers which observers said would make him virtual deputy prime ministry and economic dictator, the express said:

"Bunk merchants are at it again . . . among other fairy tales we read yesterday were: (1) The German army is rotting in Holland; (2) there is mutiny among U-boat crews; (3) Russia is going to fight Germany.

"On the contrary, we have been licked in Norway, licked in France, Belgium, and Holland; licked in Libya and licked in Greece.

"Believe nothing good in this war until you see it and until you earn it."

While he went to another hostelry for the night, police started telephoning. On their sixteenth call they found the hotel where the Texas visitor was registered. His car was located in a nearby parking lot.

Chinese Scholar Speaks To Club

The Manchurian crisis of 1931 was the beginning of the present world crisis and had Japanese aggression been halted at that time all the terrible conflict that is taking place in the world today might have been averted, Dr. No-Yong Park, noted Chinese scholar and author, declared in a talk before the Lubbock Knife and Fork club Friday night in the east ballroom of Lubbock hotel.

Peasant Art In Sports Dresses Is Becoming Popular Over Nation

The Woman's Angle
by Margaret Turner

THE most apt description one could write of the late Dr. W. F. Fry was that given by his friend, Rev. J. P. McBeth, pastor of the First Baptist church in Dumas, who dedicated a book to him as follows

"To Dr. William Francis Fry, M. A., D. D., a great scholar, a noble teacher and dear friend, a shepherd in his church, a master in his classroom and a joy to his students, a friend to the lost and a brother to the redeemed, a father to the young preacher, tender in fellowship, humble in spirit and mighty in the scriptures."

It's also true that he loved so much to teach that he used to say if there were Bible classes in heaven he hoped to continue his classroom work there.

BLUEBONNET LEGEND

K. N CLAPP sent us an old and beautiful legend concerning the origin of the bluebonnet and also the information that the Texas flower may be easily grown here with irrigation, difficult without. The plants die with the hot weather, the seeds sprout and carry through winter. Mr. Clapp's bluebonnets stood zero weather two years ago.

He said they appear to do better without cultivation or fertilization.

HERE'S the legend: According to this story, the land of the Aztecs was afflicted with a terrible and devastating pestilence, and the pleadings of the people and the prayers of the priests were of no avail. Finally, the god to whom they prayed agreed to accept a maiden's life as an atonement for the people's wickedness. A beautiful girl offered to make the sacrifice, and as she approached the altar on the hillside, her little bonnet of blue dropped—unnoticed—from her head. The next morning the ground was covered with flowers of the same hue of her bonnet, each in the same pattern and each splotched with spilt blood. The pestilence passed, but the bluebonnets have been blooming ever since.

One can half believe this story as he travels the roads of Central Texas at this time of the year and gazes in rapt admiration upon the fields carpeted with these flowers which seem to have caught and held some of the blue of the Texas sky that bends above them. One can readily understand why the ancient dwellers in this soft and gentle land endowed it with legends and wove about it the garlands of tradition.

CANNED STOCKINGS

SILK stockings are said to be still available in the London stores—at a price. Grades and shades are limited, but if you can afford to pay over eight shillings for a pair of hose, the choice seems wider.

For those fortunate women who have been able to buy up a good stock of hosiery, the problem of preserving them is looming large on the horizon.

"Bottled" stockings seem to be the answer, according to experts. They are washed out in soapy water, dried naturally and dropped into warmed jam jars which then are hermetically sealed. As jam jars cannot be used for jam (rationing of that commodity having been instituted) many women have tried out the bottled stocking system.

Tomorrow you will find British women reaching in the cupboard for a jar of stockings—praying that the recipe won't turn out a failure, as sometimes happened with their jam.

Screen Designer Uses Embroidery

By DEE LOWRANCE
NEA Service Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD. — Exciting fashion news in California's wholesale market is to be found in the collection of Louella Ballerino, important California designer. There's real glamor in her late spring and summer clothes for both day and evening.

The most fashion-wise Hollywoodites know Ballerino's designs, watch for the newest and grab them off. That's why you'll find that Bette Davis snagged the most unusual of her spring evening gowns. It is a peasant style in crisp white pique with a square neckline banded in red-white-and-blue braid and red rickrack. The same trim appears at the top of the restrained dirndl skirt, while the plain wing sleeves and fitted bodice make the dress look as if it stepped out of the pages of Grimm's Fairy Tales. No wonder Bette picked it out as soon as it was made and saved it for the eastern vacation she took as soon as she finished her work in "The Great Lie."

Draws Inspiration

That peasant touch is a "trademark" with Louella Ballerino. She made it her own over four years ago and has been consistently ringing surprising changes on it ever since. She likes authentic detail, draws her inspiration from the many books she has collected of peasant art from the middle-European countries, now so cruelly mangled by war. Taking particular care to use actual peasant colors, Ballerino has her braids and threads dyed for her. Her materials are woven to simulate those peasants wear.

Her peasant designs of this year differ from those of last summer. But the charm remains. You'll find longer waistlines, more fitted bodices. Skirts are still dirndlish, but much less full. Necklines are mainly square, but she has developed a heart-shape that is most becoming.

In several of the less formal afternoon frocks she combines very full voile sleeves with heavy linen and a pet material of hers—linray, linen and rayon mixed and as washable as that proverbial handkerchief.

In addition to the bright embroidery of which she is so fond, Ballerino's latest colection has a remarkable amount of applique and insertions. On an all-white dinner dress of pique, for example, she uses big inserts of eyelet pique at the waisteline and around the hem on the full skirt. One of this designer's freshest, most attractive morning frocks is a lavender seersucker with flashy Polynesian flowers in white pique appliqued at the pockets and the neckline.

Another favorite designing trick of Ballerino's, one which highlights the bust without overdoing it, is an appiqued band of contrasting color, with an embroidered motif that is echoed on huge patch pockets. It is illustrated well on a dress worn by Joan Perry, featured in Warner's "Strange Alibi." The fabric is lilac linen, with deeper and brighter tones of lilac used in the flower embroidery on white linen applique.

COOL LILAC — Joan Perry models a Ballerino dress, a casual lilac linen, trimmed with inserts of white linen embroidered in bright and deep tones of lilac. The panels, with their conventionalized flowers, are typical of the peasant art decoration which has become practically a "trademark" for this designer.

National Defense Projects Totaling $310,000,000 Have Been Awarded Texas

State Gets Big Slice Of Work

By J. B. KRUEGER
Associated Press Staff Writer

A tide of welcome dollars—perhaps upwards of half a billion—is pouring into Texas for national defense.

Already $310,000,000 has been provided or pledged for defense works in this state.

Out of this sum are springing camps for the new soldiers, airports for fliers, shipyards for warcraft and merchant vessels, plants for turning out bombers, great furnaces for making steel, refineries for chemicals and a dozen other huge establishments dedicated to arming America.

Office Is Keeping Tab

The Dallas regional office of the National Resources Planning board, amidst all its other many interests, is keeping tab on the financial side of the defense effort in Texas and is one of the few agencies which has a fairly complete roster of the whole thing.

The regional office takes in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas. From its records it is plain to see that huge Texas is getting a huge slice of the national defense job. In terms of money and men the Texas portion dwarfs that of the other three states combined.

The planning board's total of $310,000,000 is incomplete: it does not include the payrolls which must be ladled out of thousands of soldiers, airmen and workers from now on in Texas. It does not include the work distributed by the government to the smaller Texas factories, such as those that make cotton socks for the Army and buttons for the Navy.

Projects Are Listed

The list of defense projects is impressive.

As supplied by the regional planning board office, with a cautionary aside that the figures are subject to slight corrections (some estimates have been upped on the cost of Texas projects) they are:

Baytown, toluol (explosives) plant, $11,836,000.

Beaumont, cargo vessel construction, $3,958,000.

Grand Prairie (near Dallas) airplane factory, $7,700,000.

Fort Worth, airplane assembly plant, $10,511,400.

Freeport, addition to Dow Chemical plant for extracting magnesium, $8,007,407. (The planning board couldn't explain that $7).

Galveston, navy drydock, $2,254,343.

Houston Gets Millions

Houston, six shipways (Todd) $4,680,000.

Houston, contract to Todd Shipbuilding company for 25 merchant ships, $3,750,000.

Houston, steel mill, construction and production, $17,000,000.

Houston, construction of steel submarine-chasers by Platzer boat works, $2,552,000.

Orange, construction of shipyards, $4,600,000.

Orange, construction of 12 destroyers at those yards, $87,780,912.

Orange, construction of 10 mine sweepers, $3,500,000.

Housing Projects Included

Defense housing near Grand Prairie will cost probably around a million dollars; near Houston, $500,000; near Orange, 850 houses will be built for $1,480,000 for the first 500; near San Angelo, $296,000.

Defense works at San Antonio army posts run to $10,585,235 at latest estimates. They include housing, new construction, repair, extensions at Brooks, Kelly, Randolph and Duncan fields, Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio air depot and Camps Normoyle and Stanley.

Included is an item of $405,000 for construction of 30 underground hangars, the first the planning board had heard about, at Camp Stanley.

Victoria, aerial gunnery base, $2,300,000.

Wichita Falls, air corps technical school, about $12,000,000.

San Angelo, basic air training station, $1,600,000.

Costs Are Given

The major army and navy establishments cost the following to build:

Camp Barkeley at Abilene, $7,051,320.

Camp Bowie at Brownwood, $14,106,380.

Camp Wolters at Mineral Wells, $11,452,982.

Fort Crockett at Galveston, improvements, $1,741,630.

Camp Wallace at Galveston, $7,563,630.

Ellington field, Houston, $1,318,647.

Fort D. A. Russell at Marfa, $114,572 for improvements.

Camp Hulen at Palacios, improvements, $6,462,360.

Sabine Pass naval section base, about $1,000,000.

Fort Clark at Brackettville, improvement, $302,152.

Fort Brown at Brownville, improvements.

Naval training station at Corpus Christi, $54,000,000 (the planning board figure did not include $10,000,000 recently allocated for the project, which brings the total cost to $54,000,000).

Naval aviation base at Dallas, $750,000.

Fort Bliss at El Paso, extension and improvements, $12,880,360.

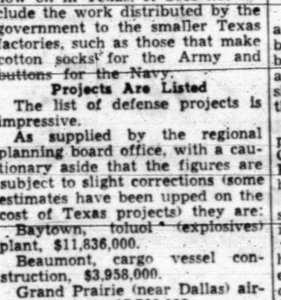

Hospital at El Paso, $489,670.

This totals $310,160,023.

Play Day Scheduled At Tech Gym Today

The 11th annual Play day will be held today at Texas Technological college, despite Friday's rain, it was announced in the women's physical education department.

Most of the games can be held in the gymnasium. Those which would have been played outside will be canceled, because of mud.

Approximately 400 students and former members of the Women's Athletic association are expected to attend. The W.A.A. and women's physical education department will sponsor the event.

Lubbock Groups Plan To Attend Dairy Show

A Plainview delegation received assurance from Lubbock Chamber of Commerce Friday that Lubbock will be represented each day at the Panhandle-Plains Dairy show in Plainview Tuesday through Saturday.

Those who visited Lubbock to publicize the show were Bob Cobb, J. Sam Locke and Frank Bain. They called upon numerous business men while here.

Prospects are bright for the most successful show of the kind held in Plainview, they reported.

Cleanup Drive Is To Start Today

Regardless of weather, Lubbock's cleanup campaign starts today, Mrs. Norman H. Holt, chairman of the cleanup committee of the chamber of commerce, announced Friday.

However, she said, the most important event set for the opening day of the campaign—the Boy Scouts' annual nail and junk pickup—has been postponed until next Wednesday.

Inspection Set Monday

Cyril E. Batton, chairman of the pickup, announced that the scouts will assemble at Junior High school next Wednesday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock, and will start the pickup from there. The city has been divided into six districts, with scout troops assigned to each district. All scouts participating are to receive free tickets to a motion picture show, good for Thursday afternoon. Prizes also will be awarded to troops and scouts making the best records.

Scouts also are to be busy Monday afternoon when they are to inspect back yards and alleys. They are to start from Junior High school at 3:15 o'clock.

Proclamation Issued

A proclamation officially designating May 3-10 as the period for the campaign was issued by Mayor Carl E. Slaton in advance of the opening.

The mayor announced also that additional men will be employed by the city during the week and that all materials will be hauled from alleys except rocks and dirts. Tree cuttings, grass and the like will be handled without charge.

The campaign will be the first in 12 years in which Lubbock has not been a competitor for the trophy offered by the National Cleanup-Paintup Campaign bureau to the Texas city making the best cleanup record. During the last 11 straight years, Lubbock has been the winner of the annual trophy.

Camporees Postponed Until Next Week-end

Jack O. Stone, South Plains council Scout executive, Friday announced camporees scheduled for Friday and today will be conducted next week.

The Floydada camporee, he added, will be combined next Friday and Saturday with that of eastern district and will be held in Matador.

Free-For-All Battle Predicted For 67th Running Of Kentucky Derby Today

Cleveland Beats Red Sox To Run Streak To Eight

(By The Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, May 2. — The league-leading Cleveland Indians boomed their victory streak to eight games today with a 7 to 3 triumph over Boston in their series opener.

With their first ladies' day crowd of 14,000 cheering at even the semblance of a hit, the Indians collected 11 against Heber Newsome and Tom Judd. They sewed up the game with a four-run rally in the fifth inning, climaxed by Jeff Heath's triple with the sacks clogged.

It was the third straight victory for the Tribe's Mel Harder, although he was chased in the sixth after allowing three runs on four hits. Harder hurled four hitless frames but needed the relief help of Joe Heving, who held his former mates in complete control.

Hal Trosky started the Indians toward victory with the first of his three blows—a single in the second. He scored on Beau Bell's double, and sent a 400-foot drive over League Park's center field wall in the fourth to tally again.

Cleveland's booming fifth was launched by Roy Weatherly's single. Kent Keltner doubled for one of his three extra-base hits, Lou Boudreau walked and Trosky was hit in the leg to fill the bases. At this point Heath clouted a lusty triple which meant finis for Mr. Newsome, the Boston rookie righthander. Judd, rookie southpaw, finished the game and permitted one run.

Texas Sprinter Tops World Century Mark

COLLEGE STATION, May 2 (AP) Pushed by a strong wind, Carlton Terry, University of Texas sprint star, won the 100-yard dash here today in 9.2 seconds, beating the world's record of 9.4 and leading Texas to victory in a triangular track meet.

Texas scored 75 points, Rice 51 1-2 and Texas A. and M. 43 1-2.

The strong wind will probably prevent the century mark from becoming a record.

Whirlaway Top Favorite From 11-Horse Field

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2. — A batch of trouble started to cook up at Churchill Downs tonight, just when everything had looked dandy for the 67th running of the Kentucky Derby tomorrow with a wide open field of 11 three-year-old princes of the turf.

First off, Owner Lou Tufano announced flatly that the Downs' racing strip was so hard he would scratch his Market Wise, winner of last week's Wood Memorial at Jamaica, unless it rained before post time for this richest Derby in history. This would leave 10 to run, headed by the "big boys," Porter's Cap, Our Boots and Whirlaway, with an expected crowd of 100,000 cheering them on and old man weather promising neither rain nor mud.

And right on top of that, it was learned the grooms have threatened a "strike" for two hours before the first race is called to the post unless they're satisfied. The management was reported ready to talk things over when the grooms made their "beefs" officially.

HE PICKS WINNER
LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2 (AP) — Sports Editor Ed Danforth of the Atlanta Journal will be able to go home from the Kentucky Derby and tell a friend "Well, I picked the winner for you."
He sent postcards to eleven men on the Journal, solemnly advising each one to bet on a different horse.
For himself, Danforth chose whirlaway.

Louisville Jammed

All of bunting-bedecked Louisville was jammed tonight with what Col. Matt Winn, the major-domo of the Downs, predicted would be the biggest crowd in Derby history and would show a $2,000,000 betting handle for Derby day galloping.

And, with the weather man changing his official prediction of "partly cloudy," from his previous reckoning for local showers, the usual Derby eve hoopla and hullabaloo made it safe only for strong men and study women to be milling about in the streets or fighting their way for a blue grass nectar—a mint julep.

Yet, while "fresh money" and the chances for a free-for-all battle for the first time since Bold Venture bounced home in 1936 figured to make this the greatest Derby of them all, the 10 colts and one gelding entered through the racing secretary's office today made up one of the most peculiar collections of candidates ever to try for the $75,000-plus jackpot.

Field Is Varied

There were hurt horses, Tom Bragg's Blue Pair suffering saddle sores and an injured leg and Lou Tufano's Market Wise a bad hoof; there were speed horses, Blue Pair and Richard Kleberg's Dispose, and there were proven route-goers like Royce Martin's Betting Favorite, Our Boots, and Charley Howard's second choice, Porter's Cap.

There were bargain horses with rags to riches careers, like Rocky Palladino's Little Beans, bought for $500, a sick, ailing "cripple," and Market Wise, picked up for $1,000 by Lou Tufano last fall when he started a racing stable for the first time.

There was the sensation of the Eastern campaign this spring, J. Fred Byers' Robert Morris, winner of his only two three-year-old starts, and there were the sneered-at outsiders, Cleaveland Putnam's mud-running Swain, Hugh Nesbitt's gelded Staretor, and Emerson F. Woodward's seemingly outclassed Valdina Paul, but not even these were considered altogether out of it.

Starts At 4 O'clock

But most of all, there was the "glamour boy" of the lot, "whacky" Whirlaway, owned by Warren Wright of Chicago and the Blue Grass, the only old "horse-family" name in the lists. Leading money winner among the 1940 two-year-olds, he was beaten in his last two starts because he ran wide at the turns. Then Trainer Ben Jones—the same plain Ben who saddled Lawrin to win the 1938 Derby for Herbert Woolf—switched jockeys and hired shrewd, cool Eddie Arcaro to handle him tomorrow.

Now, the man on the street is back touting Whirlaway, and a majority of the press-box experts pick him to straighten out his long full tail and wave it in the faces of the others at 4:45 p. m. (central standard time) tomorrow.

Sunset Sets Pace In Qualifying For State Track; Finals Today

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUSTIN, May 2 (AP)—Sunset's mighty men of the track remained heavy favorites today to win the Texas schoolboy championship but the stumbling block—if there is a stumbling block—is not likely to be Jeff Davis or Laredo, teams long regarded as chief threats for the Dallas crew.

Slashing preliminaries firmly ensconced Sunset as the team to beat, with the boys in purple qualifying in six sevenths to lead the field into tomorrow's finals.

The barrier that arose was Highland Park's embattled Scotties, defending state champions few expected to be high in the running this time.

Highland Park, with Larry Wolf running a 49.8 anchor quarter, beat Jeff Davis' highly-touted mile relay team from Houston in 3:27.2, within two seconds of the state record.

This, with Wolf's expected victory in the quarter-mile and Bill Hannum's points in the pole vault, puts the Highlanders in a good position to edge in with the title should some of Sunset's men falter.

Sunset appeared ready to sweep the low hurdles because Doneal Hill and Bill Hamman had the best times in this event, Hill with 22.2, Hamman with 22.4.

O'Donnell Is Ousted From State Net Meet

G. R. Pearce and Weldon Hancock of O'Donnell, district and regional boys tennis doubles winners lost to Don Goldbeck and Tony Martinez of Brackenridge High, San Antonio, 6-2, 6-3, in the first round of the state high school tournament at Austin Friday, the Associated Press reported.

Janice Jones and Betty Howle of Amarillo went into the semifinals by defeating Christine Sanders and Christine Prestene of Howland, 8-6, 6-2. Maida Mickle of Amarillo lost a girls singles test to Rosalia Villa of Fort Hancock, 6-2, 7-5.

Bullard Threatens In Class B Track Meet

DENTON, May 2 (AP) — Long-legged J. E. Briscoe promised today to make his Bullard High school five-man team a serious contender for the Texas high school state Class B track and field title as he led qualifiers in the 100- and 220-yard dashes.

Briscoe stepped the century in 10.4 seconds and the furlong in 23.2. Repeats in these events tomorrow would give the Smith county school a 10-point start toward the title which Boyd, High won last year with 11 points.

Air service has just been inaugurated between Johannesburg, South Africa, and Entebbe, Portuguese East Africa, and will be extended to the Belgian Congo.

Cardinals, With Krist Pitching, Whip Phils, 4-2

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—The St. Louis Cardinals strengthened their grip on the National league lead today by winning 4 to 2 over the Phillies for their seventh straight victory, unveiling a rookie pitcher of considerable promise.

Righthander Howard Krist, who won 22 games for Houston and set a Texas league earned run record of 1.71 last year, gave the Phillies only five hits, two of them—and both the losers' runs—coming in the ninth inning. He walked only one man, hit one batter and struck out four.

The Cards connected for nine hits off Johnny Podgajny, Walter Beck, who relieved him in the sixth inning, and Vito Tamulis, who took over in the ninth.

St. Louis opened up in the second with a run, Enos Slaughter scoring on Frank Crespi's single. They got two more in the third on Terry Moore's triple with Jim Brown on base, Moore scoring on a fielder's choice. Their final tally came in the ninth when Martin Marion singled Slaughter home, after the latter had bunted and advanced on Gus Mancuso's single.

The triumph was the twelfth in 15 starts for Billy Southworth's club and kept them well ahead of the second place Brooklyn Dodgers.

All Games Rained Out In WT-NM League Yesterday

The West Texas-New Mexico league was a total "washout" yesterday, heavy rains prohibiting all scheduled games at Lubbock, Lamesa, Wichita Falls and Big Spring.

And indications at midnight were that the same would be true today. Even if the rain ceased—and it was falling at a goodly clip here—the fields probably would be too wet for playing.

Pampa and Lubbock, scheduled to start a three-game series here yesterday, were forced to postpone the opener. Manager Dutch Prather and his Oilers moved into Lubbock early in the day, but never left the hotel.

Bright sunshine all morning and up to game time just might allow for a resumption of the schedule this afternoon, but it was doubtful.

If it is possible for the teams to play Sunday, they probably will meet in a double header in an attempt to "catch up" a little.

Manager Charlie Engle of the Hubbers announced last night that Ralph Wobszal, regular left fielder, clean-up hitter and one of the best looking prospects on the club, was in Lubbock sanitarium. Exact nature of his illness was not immediately learned, but Engle said it appeared that an infection had set in as result of an injury to his knee and hip when he crashed into the left field fence Thursday afternoon. He was running a high fever, and sanitarium attaches said he probably would be confined for a few days.

Engle said that Elvin Mahan, regular shortstop, probably would be moved to Wobszal's left field position while Engle himself would play shortstop.

The league-leading Borger Gassers were scheduled to play at Wichita Falls last night, Amarillo was to open a series at Lamesa, and Clovis was to play at Big Spring. The same schedule holds good today and Sunday, if weather permits.

Borger leads the league with five victories and no defeats. Big Spring is running second with five victories and two defeats, while Lamesa, Clovis and Amarillo are tied, each with an equal number of games won and lost.

State Amateur Meet Quarter-Finals Slated

BEAUMONT, May 2. (AP)—Sudden-death pairings of the first day's matches blacked out two stars, but the three outstanding favorites of the Texas Golf association tournament survived today in good style the first two rounds.

Frolicsome Joe Worthington, a junior student at the Texas college of Arts and Industries, surrendered to Jack Tinnin of Houston, 4 and 3, and F. E. Ames, Beaumont city champion and strong local choice, was ousted by the champion, Billy Bob Coffey of San Antonio, 3 and 1.

Joining Coffey and Tinnin in the quarter-finals was Bobby Riegel of Houston, titlist three years ago who swamped Tommy Blake of Houston, 7 and 6. In the morning round, Riegel eliminated 18-year-old Jack Burke, jr., of Houston, 3 and 2.

Giants, Bucs Play To 7-7 Tie In 13 Frames

NEW YORK, May 2. (AP)—Darkness brought a 7 to 7 tie game today for the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Giants at the end of 13 innings of see-saw struggling. The Pirates, after losing an early three-run lead, rallied for four runs to knot the count in the eighth. Each team made 12 hits.

County Officials To Fight Return Of Bond Redemption Funds To Department

Senate Reverses Action Of House

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, May 2.—Judge Merritt Gibson of Longview, head of the county judges and county commissioners' association, said today the county officials will fight to the last ditch to keep the House of Representatives from accepting the Senate's proposed grant of all excess road bond redemption funds to the state highway department.

To date the county officials have won a decision in the House. Yesterday the highway department was victor in the Senate. The House had voted to continue the distribution to counties on approximately the same basis as in past years. The Senate voted to give all excess to the state road department.

Income Has Been Greater

The fund is created by allocation of one cent of the state four-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax to retire bonds issued by counties and road districts to the extent the proceeds were used in building roads that have become part of the 26,000 miles of the state highway system. For many years the penny a gallon did not raise enough money to meet current bond indebtedness. In recent years the income is greater than needed.

Highway officials, backed with a movement against diversion of road-use taxes convinced a majority of the Senators that the highway department could do more with the money than county officials. The money was needed, too, highway officials asserted to be using military roads up to required standards. County officials said the counties were entitled to the present excess to offset the years when the state could not pay all its share.

The fight became bitter as the Senate voted. Sen. Olan Van Zandt of Tioga accused the highway department of "propaganda" and "common backdoor ward politics" to get money. When the vote was announced reversing the house policy he exclaimed: "There have been some promises for roads."

Senators protested. Van Zangt said: "The bait has been held out to Senators that if this passes they will stand a better chance of getting roads."

The House had a 15-vote majority for distribution to counties. The Senate vote was 19 ayes to 8 noes to give all excess to the highway department.

Chinese Speaker

to happen. . . Japan is not going to fight America alone."

Approximately 250 persons heard his address, "Outlook of the Far East." Dr. O. W. English, club president, announced last night's meeting as the final one for the season, the next meeting being scheduled for September. Durwood H. Bradley, Lubbock attorney, introduced the speaker.

"You are facing today a boomerang effect of the Manchurian crisis," Dr. Park told his audience. Japan took a short cut back in 1931 to power and influence, violating peace treaties and principles of international law. . . . The war in Europe today was made then in far off Manchuria ten years ago which has spread and engulfed the entire globe.

Might Have Been Prevented

"Had the powers backed up the United States position then, saved the peace treaties, all this might have been prevented. . . The Japanese goose-stepped into Manchuria, violated the Washington treaty, made it a scrap of paper and Germany and Italy saw how easy it was to make short cuts, so the Ethiopian conquest, the Czechoslovakia crisis, the Austrian crisis, the Polish war resulted. . . "

Interspersing his remarks with numerous "in my humble opinion" prefaces, Dr. Park traced the rise and fall of world civilizations from the old Chinese empire through the present and predicted the rise of domination of the Western Hemisphere over civilization.

"We are living at the end of an age," he declared, "the end of the age of European domination of mankind. . . At one time Asia dominated the world and its leadership lasted 3,000 years and then Europe ruled for about 300 years. . . . Whether Hitler wins or England wins, you are destined to play a leading role in civilization, might I say, for at least 500 years, possibly 5,000 years.

"You have demonstrated the ability to live peaceably with your neighbors. . . . You have an efficient and unselfish leadership based upon a fine philosophy. . . You are trying to work out a new cause, a sort of combination of the old Chinese and the Roman ideas.

"But how you use your power and influence depends upon the role you play. . . If you use it in seeking cooperation, not domination; in perfection, not expansion, your leadership will continue to shine like an illustrous star. . . . You are not going to repeat the tragedy of old China as you are building up your national defense. . . . Old China sought to build a cultural civilization at home and neglected her national defense and as a result the empire fell."

Reviewing the Sino-Japanese conflict, Dr. Park declared "China today is in a better position to fight than when the war started. Other things being equal and the Chinese keep on fighting, certainly the Japanese haven't a Chinaman's chance and they will be expelled eventually. . . The Chinese will fight on, at least until the end of the European war, for if China falls, the Japanese will be free to attack the British in the Far East. . . So long as China continues to resist the Japanese, she will be like a millstone around Japan's neck."

Dr. Park declared that in spite of embargoes and boycotts, the Japanese are still buying war materials from the United States, explaining that the government of the United States is controlled by pressure groups and "for every dollar your scrap dealer is making you are spending one hundred dollars for protection."

"The only trouble is the man who is making the dollar is keenly interested but the people who are paying the hundred dollars aren't so interested."

He predicted that if and when they strike the totalitarian governments will come through South America and will gain a large foothold through fifth column activities.

"Your country is just as susceptible to fifth column activities. . . . The danger lies in internal collapse. . . .

"The British empire is as good as lost without the aid of the U. S. . . . The fate of Britain depends upon what you do. . . Let us hope you people of America will find the right leadership which will pull us out of the shackles of war into a promised land of eternal peace."

MILD RECOVERIES MADE

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—Stocks hung out the rallying sign in today's market, attracting bidders for steels, rails, oils and assorted specialties.

Activity and prices were best in the first hour. Selling then began to dribble in and early gains of fractions to more than a point were reduced or cancelled in many instances.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues retained a net advance of .1 of a point at 39.3. Transfers totalled 400,390 shares.

As in previous mild recoveries, brokers inclined to attribute today's mild comeback mainly to the belief of speculative forces the list was "oversold."

Handicapping sentiment was the still depressing tone of foreign dispatches.

At the same time, some cheer was derived from reports of a sharp expansion in retail spending throughout the country and expectations steel mill operations soon would return to high levels as settlement of the coal mining controversy assures fuel supplies and enables the reopening of numerous blast furnaces.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—Faltering after a rise of 8 to 10 points to new seasonal peaks, cotton futures today closed only a shade above previous finals.

Trade opinion was that a recent sharp advance had for the present discounted the bullish implications of Washington moves to boost parity loan values. The Senate agricultural committee voted to make the loan level 85 per cent of parity.

Worth Street trade in cotton fabrics showed a brisk revival, brokers estimating the day's turnover in print cloths and related items at between 12,000,000 and 15,000,000 yards.

might average $2,000,000,000 monthly in the fiscal year beginning in July. A total of $1,300,000,000 was spent last month, on defense and non-defense items.

Rep. Faddis (D-Pa) told the House that Sen. Guffey (D-Pa) had spoken the desires of the people of Pennsylvania in urging that American naval vessels be assigned to convoy shipments for Britain.

Letter Made Public

The president made public his letter on machine tools at his regular Friday press conference and added some explanatory comment.

"I have watched the past few months," he said in the letter. "At the same time, I have seen the critical machines in our defense plants used in an ever growing number of hours each week. . . .

"But it is not enough. The ever increasing demands for munitions, planes and ships, caused by the critical situation which confronts our nation, requires that they be produced in even larger numbers and head of the schedules assigned to them. It is essential that industry continue to increase the number of vital machines manufactured and that every single critical machine in the United States be used the maximum number of hours each week."

Blue Law Is To Be Enforced To Letter

The Sunday blue law banning dancing in Lubbock will be enforced to the letter, law enforcement agencies announced jointly Friday.

Operators of dance halls within the city limits and on the outskirts were warned to close their halls to dancers at midnight Saturday. No dancing will be permitted until midnight Sunday, officials said.

"We believe that the late hangers-on will stay out of public if they have no place to loaf," one spokesman said.

At the close, wheat was ¼ to ⅜ cent above yesterday's finish, May 91¾@91½, July 80@80⅛, corn ⅛ to ⅛ down, May 87⅜, July 68, oats unchanged to ¼ higher, soybeans ½ lower to ¾ higher, rye ⅛ to ⅜ off, and lard 7 to 10 cents advanced.

More Rain Forecast

forenoon was approximately two inches in depth, and the volume was increasing in spite of the fact that the valve at the bottom of the dam was partially open. The valve will release approximately 61,000 gallons per minute when wide open, flowing into Lower lake. Water was over both spillways flanking the dam on Lower Buffalo lake.

The lakes can be reached from Lubbock only over the "south" road, according to reports this afternoon. Parts of the "north" road are under water.

Drainage Improved

The rainfall provided the first real test of the $300,000 storm sewer system completed in the southern part of the city during the past winter. City officials said that the system more than proved itself. Water was kept well drained from such points as College avenue and Nineteenth, and along Nineteenth, which invariably have been "flood problems" when rains have fallen in the past. At the point where the new storm sewer system opens into Yellowhouse canyon, water poured from the 96-inch opening at a depth of around four feet.

Other sections of the city which are lacking or deficient in storm sewer drainage facilities were less fortunate. Sections of Fourth street were miniature lakes. Portions of "the Flats" were covered to depths of around six inches, with the result that many negro servants were late in reporting for work. However, bus service both in the city and on the lines radiating from Lubbock were operating on schedule.

Reports from all available sources were that the rain has been heavy and general.

Rainfall totaling up to four inches drenched the western section of Texas and Oklahoma, sent streams on rises, closed highways and further delayed spring planting.

Welcomed By Farmers

The moisture extended into New Mexico, Kansas and Colorado. Three inches fell in the Dalhart-Texline area.

Panhandle wheat farmers welcomed the fall.

The three Conchos in the San Angelo area were on small rises. Bridge washouts were reported in that section. The moisture was general in the San Angelo sheep and goat raising section.

Streams in the Abilene area were overflowing where one to four inches had fallen. Rotan reported four inches, Stamford had 2.76 and still raining. Others reporting were Abilene 2.02, Merkel 2.25, Hamlin, Big Spring, Coleman, Baird and Anson, two inches. Winters, Eastland, Ballinger and Quanah reported an inch and a half. Electra had an inch and Olney, 1.25.

Wind whipped down trees at Paint Rock in Concho county.

A cattle drive in the Big Spring area bogged down in the mud.

Jones Gives Figures On April Weather

Three-quarters of an inch more rain than the 30-year average, the third highest relative humidity and third lowest evaporation were outstanding features of April weather in Lubbock.

Don L. Jones, superintendent of the state experiment sub-station, released figures Friday.

"The rain fall — totaling 2.23 inches—centered around two periods, the 13th and 14th and from the 23rd to 29th," he said. "All rains except that of the 29th fell slowly, with practically no runoff. That of the 29th had several torrential showers which caused some runoff.

"Moisture penetration by the end of the month had reached caliche in all cultivated areas, penetrating as deep as five feet with a high degree of saturation. At 30 inches in the native pasture, the caliche was reached and was moist but not to as high degree as in cultivated areas."

Temperatures were about averages, maximum 84 degrees, minimum 34 degrees and mean 59 degrees. Relative humidity average of 63.4 compares with the normal of 49 per cent. High for the month was 92 per cent, the low 30.

Total evaporation was 5.152 as compared to the normal of 6.773.

Other figures:

Clear days 10, partly cloudy days eight, cloudy days 12. Total precipitation from Jan. 1 to April 30 was 6.95 inches, 3.35 inches over the average.

Custody Of Dog

long-lost dog, "Jerry," for sale.

Beard sued in Montgomery county court and was awarded the dog despite Mossman's contention that:

The hound's name was "Skeeter."

He was purchased from a Louisiana breeder.

He was not even distantly related to "Jerry."

The litigants were agreed only that the dog was a "good 'un."

"The trial judge said frankly he would not have been surprised if the jury rendered a verdict in favor of Mossman," Judge Hirt said. This meant there was sufficient grounds for a new trial since the evidence was so equally divided, Judge Hirt explained.

"Both parties have what the witnesses referred to as 'coon hunting fever' and this case is of importance to them far beyond the mere money value of the dog," the judge added.

Burglaries Cleared

Charges will be filed in juvenile court against the boys today, one official said.

To Pay For Milk

Residences at 1920 Thirteenth street and at 1614 Avenue K were burglarized Thursday night. At the former address Mary Stanton lost a purse containing $5 and valuable papers.

At the Avenue K address Hilda and Pearl Stolle lost purses and $16.50. Someone entered a window and took the purses off a chair nearby.

Lilla Neubrand of 1310 Avenue M, a nurse, reported theft of a purse containing $64 and other valuables.

Two negroes, 20 and 25, were being held for investigation of burglary. They were charged with drunkenness.

Four juveniles, who stole milk from a milk truck Friday, will pay for the milk, John W. Wilson, Boys club counselor, said.

Flying Fortress To Be Sent Here To Pick Up Officers

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche Staff Writer

Want to know whether the army treats its men all right? Just ask Capt. J. G. McKinnon of Fort Douglas, Utah, or his brother, Lieut. Hollis McKinnon of Fort Ord, Calif.

One of the army's huge new B-17 four-motored bombing planes —known as the "flying fortress" —will land about noon Sunday at Municipal airport to take the two men back to their army stations.

May Be Inspected

They have been in Lubbock for funeral services of their mother, Mrs. P. D. McKinnon of 808 Avenue R, who died at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning.

The bomber will be at the airport briefly Sunday and may be inspected by Lubbock persons, Capt. McKinnon said. Its arrival at Lubbock will be the climax of adventuresome efforts of the two men to reach Lubbock after having been notified of the death of their mother.

Lieut. Hollis McKinnon, a graduate of the University of Nevada, was at his post at Fort Ord when he received word of the death. His commanding officer immediately authorized a two-seated training plane to be used to bring him to Lubbock.

Weather Is Barrier

Weather conditions, however, were to prove a barrier to the lieutenant and his pilot. Their first delay came when they attempted to fly through a canyon south of Mt. Whitney in the Sierras of California and Nevada. Clouds blocked their way and they had to go back to Bakersfield, Calif., to wait for clear reports.

Finally the clouds partially dispersed and they were able to fly through the mountain pass to Winslow, Ariz., Lieut. McKinnon said. East of Winslow they again encountered unfavorable weather and were forced back to Winslow.

And here Lieut. McKinnon wants to put in a good word for long distance telephone service. Waiting for better weather, he was in a Winslow hotel. "Not a soul except the pilot and myself knew where we were, but Mrs. Chloedelle Ellis of Lubbock, a long-distance telephone operator, located me and had me paged as I walked through the hotel. No one was more surprised than I."

Will Fly Back

Eventually they were able to get through to Albuquerque, N. M., where the lieutenant was able to ride a bus on to Lubbock. Their landing there was entirely by instruments.

Capt. J. G. McKinnon's trip was also eventful, if not fraught with so many set-backs, he said. The commanding officer at Fort Douglas authorized use of a twin-motored B-18 bombing plane to bring him to Lubbock. Only once—in a mountain pass near Salt Lake City—did they come into severe danger, he said.

Capt. McKinnon has recently been transferred to the air corps. He was formerly a member of the ski troops which are receiving training near Salt Lake City. He is at present an army athletic director.

Both men will fly in the flying fortress back to Fort Ord. Then Lieut. McKinnon will go to his California post in a smaller plane.

Iraq Calls For Help

yesterday when it became known that the Iraqi government, which seemed to have acquiesced in the landing of British troops in Iraq in the middle of last month, had balked at additional landings and had massed troops in considerable strength about the Habbaniyah air base.

Disposition of the British forces landed at Basra was undisclosed, but presumably some of these troops already are in the vicinity of the Mosul oil fields and it was considered likely the RAF was prepared to reinforce them if necessary.

A British source expressed confidence that Turkey would be inclined to view the Iraq situation as German-inspired and therefore a menace to Turkey's own security. The Turkish radio, this source said broadcast that the Iraq premier had appealed to Germany for help, the announcer commenting, "Germany will have to figure some way to get help there."

Syria, where French authorities recently have had trouble with nationalists, remained a question mark. The position of the Haifa, Palestine, branch of the British oil pipeline, dangerously near the Syrian border, led to the belief that the British would waste no time in insuring its protection if there were any evidence of German penetration.

Before the war, the British had in Iraq two bomber squadrons, one bomber transport squadron, several armored car companies and a supply depot and hospital. Disposition of these forces now is a secret, but originally most of them were at the Habbaniyah air base.

This base was established by treaty and contains RAF armored cars as well as planes and a garrison. Similar arrangements, effected a year ago under the Anglo-Iraq treaty of alliance, permit the British to open lines of communication through Iraq for military forces.

The Japanese "Peace Plan"

THE "peace plan" proposed in Japan the other day and described in news dispatches from Tokio was, of course, too preposterous for even a moment's consideration. The Axis as a world conqueror could not impose terms much more severe than the Japs have suggested, with seeming seriousness, for voluntary acceptance.

However, the dispatch contained one irritatingly amusing passage. It quoted an unnamed spokesman as saying that Foreign Minister Matsuoka of Japan would come to the United States if he could be assured that "any negotiations he conducted would be as successful as those he conducted recently in Moscow, Berlin and Rome."

Happily, there seems no prospect that Matsuoka or any other representative of the Mikado's empire is going to receive any assurances of any kind from this country. There is every indication that if our State department even should go so far as to extend an invitation to the Jap foreign minister to visit this country—and there is no reason to believe such an invitation is contemplated—it would invite popular condemnation.

True, if Matsuoka wants to come over here, there would be nothing to do but accord him a courteous reception and hearing. But if he should choose to travel east toward the United States, it should be with the clear understanding that it is his own idea without encouragement of any kind from this nation.

1868 Dr. W. F. Fry 1941

LUBBOCK friends and admirers — and they are legion—of Dr. William Francis Fry today will gather at the bier of that fine and kindly man to say a last farewell.

But even though he soon will be gone from the wide circle of friends whom he loved so well, Doctor Fry will not be forgotten. He has touched the lives of too many people; he has been a force for good and for tolerance and for high thinking for too long to be forgotten by that host of people who over many years received his stimulation for right.

Baptist minister, teacher, scholar, Doctor Fry had an opportunity to work with and to guide literally thousands of young people. First at Hardin-Simmons university at Abilene, later at Texas Technological college, this good man took advantage of his opportunity and no one except God in Heaven can know how much good he wrought with the youth of West Texas. Suffice it is to say that his contribution to right living and right thinking has been both great and of lasting character.

The Editor of The Morning Avalanche knew Doctor Fry. He knew the Doctor as a man, a a teacher and as a counsellor. And knowing him, we can say in all candor that we never knew a more consecrated man, nor one who was any more of a living, breathing, working example of the teachings of the Christian religion.

A man who condemned wickedness in all its forms and works, Doctor Fry nevertheless refused to condemn the humans who fell victim to those forms of wickedness. He had deep understanding. He had natural sympathy and kindliness. And because he possessed these attributes his friends can say, in all truthfulness, that few men who walk the earth have followed as nearly as Doctor Fry the footsteps of Jesus of Nazareth.

As nearly Christ-like as mere man can be, Doctor Fry chose to lead, rather than to attempt to drive people in the right way of life.

What was even more important, he lived as he wanted others to live—not simply because he wanted them to do as he did, but because he knew that to do so was the Christian way. In the years the Editor has known Doctor Fry, he has never known the Doctor to perform an act, or to utter a word that was hurtful to any person. On the other hand, we know of numerous instances where Doctor Fry has gone out of his way to say and do kind things, aimed at helping a stumbling brother along life's rocky road.

Doctor Fry was a great man in his quiet and unassuming way. His soul is thus bound to be a great soul.

We mourn his passing from us, but we know he has reached his goal.

Someday I'll Find You

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

YESTERDAY: Eileen Gardner was the prize graduate of the year at the university, and until a complete stranger named Martin stole her heart, she seemed to have her future cut out for her. The difficulty now is that she does not know where Martin took her heart, and she must somehow make it clear to Jordan Estill that she cannot marry him without admitting what had happened to her. All Eileen has of Martin is a tiny gold ski he dropped.

Chapter Six

Tete A Tete

Jordan ordered with unaccustomed lavishness. It touched her—as if he was afraid he hadn't been giving her a good enough time, spending enough on her. She wanted to say, "Oh, please don't—it isn't that!" But she couldn't. Any man would rather think his gifts had failed, than that he had.

The musicians filed in when they were half through, and Jordan— again— suggested dancing, immediately. Usually he lingered through any moments he had with her alone.

She had not danced here since commencement night. Not since Martin had caught her, whirled her out with that quick grace and strength she remembered now—it must have been very good, he had been neither awkward nor overbalanced; it had been all quick, casual-seeming motion.

Martin. Martin M. D. That sounded like a doctor, but he wasn't a doctor, though he might have been old enough, if he had time to fly from New York to say good-bye to somebody, and then fly on to the coast just to get a moa in New Zealand. Not really. He was just ragging about the moa. . . .

She laughed suddenly there in Jordan's arms, and he looked down and said, "What is it, Eileen?" and she came back, almost losing step, to Jordan, and Jerry's, and the blank feeling that there was no Martin. That—if it hadn't been for the gold ski on her bracelet—the whole of Martin was something quite unreal and untrue.

"Jordan, what's a moa?"

He answered as she had known he would, seriously.

"It's a recently extinct bird—one of those big birds with useless wings, like the penguin. The last were killed in New Zealand."

Martin couldn't ever bring her one, then. He wouldn't have any how. It was all a crazy dream. The reality was schoolteacher aunts, an instructor lover, a neat sound safe routine.

People were beginning to sift in as they returned to their tables; their own crowd, calling to them cheerfully, waving, brushing them, and stopping a moment to gossip as they went by. A good crowd, a crowd she'd belonged to this long time. All greeting her, waving to her, building her up, the old way.

"I love them," she said impulsively to Jordan.

"They love you . . ." he said. Eileen, everybody loves you. You belong in this town."

"For heaven's sake," she said impatiently, "you act is if I were going off to the other side of the continent in a covered wagon."

Jordan was not a stupid man. He was slow-spoken and set and a little shy, that was all.

He said, "Eileen, part of you has."

"What on earth do you mean?"

"Something happened commencement night."

"Well, of course—"

He said, again, "Don't fence."

She held herself very still. She hadn't realized that Jordan had seen anything.

"Well," she said lightly, "except for commencement and the dancing here, and the Onderdonk party—all of which happen every year—what happened, would you know?"

He frowned.

"You turned into something—I don't know—as if part of you was gone away. I can't say it clearer than that."

"It certainly isn't very clear."

He frowned.

"I've been thinking. Wondering. And I wondered if it wasn't Miss Willesdon."

Almost Right

So close, and yet so far off! Eileen said, with relief: "What makes you think so?"

"She's a spellbinder. Most of the women who did her job have forgotten all about it, or dried up into frustration from getting what they wanted. But that woman's high-powered; she's ruthless and charming, she could make anybody do anything. When I heard her talk I was nearly swept away myself; she practically had me sold on—" Jordan spoke more harshly than usual—"suggesting that I turn into a clinging vine for some strong girl to support."

Eileen felt herself coloring. "But that's silly. That isn't an issue any more. We do the best we can, just as it happens."

He nodded. "Of course. But somehow I wondered, because I couldn't think of anything else, if what she said about girls shamelessly and frankly proposing to men they happened to like had got you."

Eileen giggled. "Suppose it had?"

"You might have some sort of crazy idea of going off and—"

"And making a career of it?" Eileen's laughter broke out, quite unaffectedly. She leaned back, mirthful eyes on his, dropping her hands on the glass table top. Her bracelet struck against the edge, and something fell tinkling from it. It lay beside her plate, a small slim bright thing. The tiny gold ski.

The laughter was struck from her face as suddenly as the thing had been struck from her bracelet.

Yes. There was one man in the world she'd go that far for. . . . But he was a dream, an anonymous playboy, somebody who didn't count, whom no sensible, bright little girl would ever think twice about.

Jordan, at her silence, stopped too and looked. His eyes caught the ski. He reached over and picked it up.

"For heaven's sake, where did you get this, Eileen?"

"I—I found it. Found it on the floor that night at Jerry's."

"Well, you'd better advertise it. The fellow who lost it is going to be plenty sore."

"Really? What goes on about it?"

"Insignia of the most important international ski championship, that's all. Amateur class. It's like a fraternity pin; you are only supposed to let your wife or sweetheart wear it. I understand she has to beg hard."

She did not want to advertise it. She knew whose it was. But her heart turned over at the idea of finding out what Martin's last names were. She might discover it by watching the papers about people on sailing lists from the coast. She would write Martin, then; tell him she had his ski, he could come for it. . . .

She deliberately put it back on the bracelet and bit the ring tight. She'd get a jeweler to solder it. She'd take no more chances. She and Martin had both dropped it. It mustn't happen again. It was the sign that he was real, that he had really come and gone.

"Never mind all that," Jordan said. "It's not important. I was just ranging frantically around for some reason, and I admit the idea that a middle-aged lecturing woman might start you off was far-fetched. A man with her looks and ruthlessness and charm might. . . . I was just hunting for trouble." His voice became slower.

Proposal

"I love you and I want to marry you. You know that perfectly well,' Jordan said doggedly.

He said it in a gap of the music, unheeding the couples dancing past them, the bright lights over their heads, the table—fortunately occupied by two people as engrossed as they—jammed too close. He was rather white.

"I've held off till you were graduated. That is, I suppose you knew, but you knew I was holding off. Everyone supposed you'd carry on here. When you decided to go off to that fly-by-night shoestring station those crazy Weigands run for the love of art, I admit it was a shock to me. It didn't seem as if you were the farseeing reasonable girl I thought you."

"Jordan, I'm sorry—" she began.

"Don't be sorry!" he exclaimed with a violence unlike himself.

"All right. I'm not sorry. But I don't want to marry you. I mean, it wouldn't be fair to promise anything. I hope the Weigand station will lead to something. Concert work at the very least."

"Here in this city?" His eyes brightened.

"Anywhere. Oh, Jordan. I do like you, but I don't want to marry—" the old line that every girl uses to soften every refusal slipped automatically from her lips—"anybody at all, right now."

"Just this spotlight bug," he said bitterly. "I thought you had more sense."

"Don't you want to get somewhere?" demanded Eileen hotly. "Why shouldn't I?"

They were close to a quarrel.

"I suppose I should be grateful that you aren't trying for Hollywood," he said dejectedly.

"Sure you should, darling," she was laughing at him.

He caught his breath. His eyes were bright, his mouth quivered. He was hers, entirely and helplessly. They both knew it.

He said doggedly, "Remember—remember you belong to me though you don't know it yet. Remember you're going to marry me sooner or later. Remember I'll always be waiting for you."

Jordan said nothing on the way home. When she got out in front of the apartment he said, "Are your plans settled?"

"Pretty well."

"When do you go?"

"Day after tomorrow."

"Oh, yes." She felt obscurely apologetic. "Write care the station."

"Of course."

He did not kiss her again. He held out a hand which in spite of the summer night was very cold.

She did not think very much about Jordan that night, lying awake and excited after the things she had to do were done. She thought of her future. Girls less pretty, with less good voices than she, had become singing stars. . . . Girls less ambitious and capable had become top business executives. . . .

The bracelet lay on the small table. She reached out and touched it before she turned over and went to sleep.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE behavior of Axis diplomats in the United States has provoked the wrath of President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull. They are held to have violated American hospitality far more grievously than the headlines have reported. Included among the trouble-makers are Stalin's representatives.

Government agents are now checking reports tending to link persons close to the late General Krivitsky with the Soviet embassy here. Krivitsky was found dead in a Washington hotel a few months after he had written several magazine articles highly derogatory to the Soviet regime. The local police called it suicide, but FBI authorities insist that the case was bungled. Stalin's headquarters here, especially since signing of the pact with Japan, have been the scene of mysterious, nightly meetings of foreign diplomats. Powerful radios have been installed there.

Italian and German diplomats have been indicted openly by Messrs. Hull and Jackson for unbecoming activities. Only bar to asking their recall appears to be the fact that the Axis powers would retaliate, leaving us with no observers in their capitals.

DESTROYED: Complete conquest of the Mediterranean area by Hitler will nullify the British blockade, according to a confidential survey by our agricultural experts. It would make Der Fuehrer and his conquered nations self-sufficient for years.

Before the war, Germany imported vast quantities of major foodstuffs and essential war material from Greece, Turkey, Syria, Palestine and Egypt. With the outbreak of hostilities in 1939, this stream of goods dwindled to a thin trickle, mostly of tobacco from Turkey. Meanwhile, for lack of shipping, tremendous stocks have been accumulated in these countries. They include cotton, wheat, oil, fats, fruits, hides, opium, vegetables, fertilizers, wool, tobacco, cereals. From the French possessions of Algeria, Morocco and Tunisia, Germany would obtain live stock, iron ore, wines, etc. They have had nothing from this area since 1939. The memo notes, however, that Hitler might be deprived of these supplies if fierce fighting occurs.

"Under such circumstances, a large portion of the surplus now available for export may be destroyed. This is already the case in Greece, and would similarly occur if Turkey chooses to fight rather than give in peacefully. As for Egypt, if the occupation of Alexandria and Suez alone would result in complete capitulation, it may be assumed that the present stocks, as well as crops now growing, may not be affected, and supplies would be immediately available to the Germans.

OVERTURE: Our economic and military students believe that the outcome of Hitler's Mediterranean thrust will determine the direction and length of the war, notwithstanding Prime Minister Churchill's belittlement of the importance of these operations.

Mastery of both Europe and the Mediterranean would enable Der Fuehrer to choose his own time and strategy, according to this view. Through barter arrangements he could establish his new social and economic order on all of the European continent, as well as in portions of Africa and Asia. By providing his victims of war with food and employment, he might conceivably reconcile them to their plight. He seems in a fair way to accomplish that result in France now. To defeat or dislodge him under these conditions would be almost impossible, in the opinion of our military men. Moreover, cutting the British lifeline to the Near East and India would be a severe blw to the empire's peacetime or wartime economy.

Many here believe that Hitler will make a serious peace overture if he attains such a sweeping conquest. Should that he rejected, as it probably would be at London and Washington, he then would consolidate his forces for an all-out blitzkrieg against England that would make previous efforts seem puny.

OBJECTIVE: Confidential reports on the record flights of American-built bombers from Canada to Britain furinsh only mixed satisfaction to our military strategists. They are learning now how narrow the Atlantic ocean has become.

With favorable tail winds, the planes have made the hop in as short a time as eight hours. The average is about 10. Against headwinds on return voyages, the flying time varies. But the normal period is around 14 hours. Should Hitler and the United States ever clash, Canada and New England would be within striking distance of his biggest bombers. Dakar, which he may seize if his African campaign succeeds, is nearer to the Brazilian coast than Canada is to Britain. And most South American countries are practically defenseless.

It is such considerations as these which lie behind the occupation of Greenland and private plans for construction of additional bases in Canada. Now, with Dakar a possible German objective, Navy people are propagandizing for occupation of the Azores before Hitler grabs them.

NEW studies of the labor supply which will be needed, if that bridge of ships is to be completed in time, confirm and re-emphasize this column's estimate that we are running behind. The original official forecast was that there should be 188,000 men engaged in ship construction by this time. Co-OPM Director Hillman boasted last week that there actually are 231,000 thus employed. But in the meantime huge additions to the Anglo-American program had shoved up to the requirements.

The latest analyses reveal that in order to run on production schedule, private and Navy yards should have 291,500 at work at the close of April. They will need 27,700 additional men this month, 25,900 in June, 29,900 in July, and 120,800 through December. Additions for 1942 will be at a slower pace. The significance of these figures, from a defense standpoint, has to be judged from other facts which the Labor department did not mention in the current study.

One is that slightly more than 46 per cent of the new workers must be skilled, and another 23 per cent semi-skilled. The other is that the labor market does not contain enough skilled and semi-skilled artisans, in the fields involved, to satisfy a single month's needs. The only solution, of course, is makeshift—hire whoever is available; train as much and as fast as possible; juggle jobs to make the maximum use of the limited skill available. Ships will be built, thus. But they won't come off the ways with that speed which the situation demands.

DUCKLINGS: The U. S. shipbuilding program probably is the most enormous agenda ever prepared for production. It involves 1464 craft, ranging from barges to superdreadnaughts. It represents an aggregate outlay of $5,668,000,000 within the next four or five years. It calls for 582 warships of all classes, plus 288 "district craft" for the Navy; 330 cargo, passenger and other types for the Maritime commission; 60 cargo vessels for Britain; and 240 tankers and cargo ships for private shipping firms.

Spotting the list almost at random, there are 17 battleships, 12 aircraft carriers, 54 cruisers, 79 submarines, 201 destroyers, 20 seaplane tenders, 104 submarine chasers, 134 minesweepers, 200 emergency cargo vessels ("ugly ducklings") for us and 60 for Britain, 75 tankers, 100 barges and 46 tugs.

An Awful Responsibility Is FDR's

President Faces Peace Or War Decision For Nation

By PAUL PALMER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 2.—As the United States enters this month what promises to be the most critical period in its history, the future fate of 130 millions of Americans depends upon the decision of one man. This is now the measured opinion of prominent officials here.

The highly critical period is the balance of this month. In the space of these few weeks, informed sources believe, this country will either be kept out of the European maelstrom or else drastically dragged into it. The man who is to make the portentous decision, a very worried man today, is Franklin D. Roosevelt. It is for him alone to choose between war and peace.

Pressure On Full Force

The time for the final showdown, observers agree, has come. The pressure is now on with full force. Winston Churchill pleads frankly for all-out American aid. Ex-Ambassador Bullitt denounces any talk of peace. Ministers of the gospel urge an immediate declaration of war. An organization is formed here to demand that an expeditionary force be sent abroad at once—just where, no one seems to know. Exiled Poles, Serbs, Czechs, Norwegians, Dutch, Belgians, and Chinamen clamor for the U. S. to give up her security and join their lot. Everybody seems to be trying to shove the United States into the holocaust—with the notable exception of the workaday American people themselves.

They, oddly enough, appear to have little say in the matter. It is ironic, but quite accurate, to report that the momentous question now before the world's last remaining quasi democracy—shall it become a military dictatorship engaged in a fearful war, or shall it reamin a near-democracy at peace?—is not going to be decided democratically by the people, or even by the people's Congress. The decision will be made privately, by Mr. Roosevelt.

THE immediate reason for this extraordinary state of affairs, informed observers point out, is that there are no "steps short of war" left. The President has taken them all. He has done everything he possibly could do without actually forcing hostilities with Germany. And in the course of this deft maneuvering, he has managed to gather to himself almost as much power as that possessed by his totalitarian rival in Berlin.

So that, at this moment, Mr. Roosevelt occupies a position unparalleled in the history of American Presidents. By one stroke of his pen he alone can plunge the United States into an all-out war. He has only to sign an executive order instructing the Navy to convoy merchant vessels to England, and the job is done.

Here Is The Situation

To convoy, it must be remembered, does not mean merely to accompany ships across the ocean. It means to get them across safely, in the face of and in spite of lethal opposition. To accomplish this, it is incumbent upon convoying warships to do their best to sink every submarine sighted, shoot down every hostile airplane that approaches, and attack without warning every enemy surface craft encountered. Convoying is a carefully planned and relentlessly executed war maneuver, in which a continuous offensive is the only defense. By its very nature it would be, in the present case, as much an outright frontal attack on Germany as the landing of an American expeditionafy force in Hamburg.

CONVERSELY, when convoys are employed by one nation, the enemy nation's primary effort is to sink as many of the convoying warships as possible. this the enemy always will do so far as he is able, first in simple self-defense; and second so that he can proceed with his main mission, the destruction of merchant vessels. In the present case, Germany is not going to be intimidated by the mere appearance of the American Navy in the North Atlantic. Hitler has sworn to sink any vessel, of any nationality, carrying supplies to England. His U-boats, Focke-Wulf bombers and surface raiders can be depended upon to carry out his orders.

Hence the dispatch of the first armed convoy from American waters means war, and nothing else but war. After the event—after some hundreds or thousands of American sailors have perished with the destruction of an American cruiser or destroyer—the passage of a declaration of war by Congress would be a meaningless formality. In the opinion of one nationally prominent senator, who has discussed the matter in detail with this correspondent, Congressmen who voted against such a declaration of war would be branded as traitors.

What Thoughts?

These facts, unfortunately not widely enough appreciated throughout the country, are all well known to Mr. Roosevelt as he sits at his desk and toys with the pen which can command the unrolling of a series of events as unswerving as the sequence of a classic Greek tragedy. What must his thoughts be, as the awful responsibility of his decision closes down upon him?

FDR Faces Decision

Does he recall his repeated promise to "American mothers and fathers" not to lose the life of "a single one" of their sons? Or is he remembering the pleading and cajolery that came distantly over the wire in the latest of his transatlantic telephone conversations with "Winston"?

Does he think of the war agitation of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and the House of Morgan? Or does he see the common American people, impotent and perhaps a little bewildered, listening mutely as their radios tell them to be prepared to sacrifice everything?

As the smoke of Mr. Roosevelt's cigarette curls up from the end of its long holder, when he sits alone in his study late of an evening, does he reflect that the White House walls have never before looked down on an American President with such utter power of life and death over so many of his fellow men?

We never will know. History may tell our children. But what Mr. Roosevelt does, we will know, and that very soon. For the decision about to be made by this one man is to decide the fate of all of us 130 million Americans—right now and for an unknown number of years to come.

There's no doubt about it, the sow is the real center of hog profits. Feeders make or lose on what she gives in the litter. Sows need pig-building feed if they're to farrow big litters of heavy pigs — and Purina Sow and Pig Chow is built especially to go with grain to give sows what they need to produce big litters.

Come into the store and see us about Sow and Pig Chow. We'll show you records that prove it's a real-pork-making ration.

National Defense To Put 5,000,000 Unemployed To Work

Rolls Of Jobless Are Diminishing

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 2. — The Parade of new workers into private industry, under impetus of national defense, was shown by government figures today to have attained a pace which, if maintained, would put over 5,000,000 unemployed to work within a year.

Paul V. McNutt, Federal Security administrator, reported that state employment services during March placed 376,000 men and women, 55 per cent more than in the same month last year. In addition, 53,000 placements were made by the employment offices bringing together worker and employer but not carrying through the actual employment process.

To Be Virtually Cleared

If the new job pace holds for 12 months, a social security spokesman pointed out, the rolls of registered, able unemployed virtually would be cleared.

On April 1 the active rolls of employment offices showed 5,166,391 persons seeking work. Of this total more than 1,600,000 registered during March in response to McNutt's call for a nation-wide listing of persons available for work in defense industries.

North Carolina Leads

North Carolina, with 20,902 placements in March, had the largest percentage gain over that month a year for any state. With 1,924 placements, Rhode Island had a gain of 215 per cent to follow North Carolina.

Among states which showed declines with the placements and percentages were: Oklahoma, 3,646 and 19; Texas, 26,583 and 7; Arizona, 3,155 and 4; Washington, 5,509 and 10.

Plugging Orders Given On Borden Test

SNYDER, May 2. (Special)—B. C. Mann of San Angelo issued plugging orders today for his eastern Borden county test, No. 1 Canning-Reynolds, after sulphur water had been encountered at 2,635 feet.

Two showings of oil, the first at 2,298 feet, were encountered.

Location is in the northeast quarter of section 151, seven miles northwest of the Sharon field.

Col-Tex Refining company's Colorado City has posted a new price for Sharon ridge crude. The new schedule is 82 cents per barrel for 30 to 30.9 gravity oil, with two cents increase for each point above 30.9.

Hooten Is Speaker At A.B.C. Luncheon

Americans should value their way of life enough to see that they do everything possible to continue it in this country, R. L. Hooten, district commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Friday told the American business club in an address at a luncheon in Hilton hotel.

President Hugh Anderson announced Wilfred Johnson, national president, would be in Lubbock May 13, and in a vote the club decided on a stag party that night. J. E. Maisen was named chairman of a committee on location, Joe Leaverton of a committee on refreshments and M. T. Hill of a committee on entertainment. Fenner Tubbs reported progress on a proposed inter-club golf league.

W. L. Hester was program chairman, and introduced Hooten. "We have done very little to help anybody find out about our American way of life," Hooten commented. The V.F.W. he said, is composed of men who have carried American arms in foreign lands. "We may not know so much about the war but we have seen some of its effects," he said.

The organization has stressed the need of the United States to draft men for its armed forces to protect the nation. "If we draft our men, we ought to draft both capital and labor to see that our men have the arms and the munitions of war to fight with," he added.

In Europe the dictators have "drilled and re-drilled into the minds of the youth the ideas of Fascism, Nazism and communism," Hooten said. The whole continent is organized. They have sent out feelers in the United States to disseminate their doctrines and to seek to organize opposition to our government, he said.

"Any man who will not salute the American flag and who will not protect it, should be sent back to the other side," the speaker added. In America, where "every American citizen ought to speak up for democracy," we have religious tolerance, freedom of speech, freedom of press, the right of assembly and trial by jury, he said.

SHERMAN PLANT SOLD

SHERMAN, May 2. (AP) — Sale of the local Kimbell Diamond Milling company properties, one of the Southwest's major milling plants, to the Quaker Oats company was announced today.

More Defense Bonds Bought

Additional supplies of national defense bonds are expected to arrive at Lubbock financial institutions this morning, sales having approached the $70,000 mark and exhausted supplies of the securities in Lubbock.

Total sales of bonds and orders placed Friday afternoon stood at $66,040.

Largest individual bond sold thus far was one for $10,000 purchased by John King, Lubbock oil man, for his son, John Harris King. George E. Benson, Lubbock county chairman of the bonds sale, said today. The Kings reside on West Fourth street.

Knox Thomas, secretary of the First Federal Savings and Loan association, reported a total of $5,325 in bonds had been purchased by customers of the association and additional sales would be made when the bonds arrive.

Thomas pointed out that Lubbock financial institutions were receiving no revenue whatsoever from the sale of the bonds, the handling of the purchases being merely a courtesy to the government and patrons of the various institutions.

Postmaster Amos Howard reported a total of $15,250 in bonds and stamps had been purchased at the postoffice.

W. S. Posey, vice president of the First National bank, and L. C. Ellis, who is handling the bonds at the Lubbock National bank, reported numerous inquiries about the bonds this morning. They placed additional orders for the securities for patrons today.

PROGRAM SCHEDULED

A Salvation Army community program at 8 o'clock tonight will be directed by Vernice Ryan and Virgil Boyd at the Army headquarters at 1120 Seventeenth street.

Miss Hallie Wall will present piano selections and a reading, the Salvation Army string band and Songsters Brigade, both under direction of Herman Lambrecht, jr., will present several numbers, and quarters directed by P. O. Brock and Jim Turney will sing.

Movie fans of Chosen now prefer "sentimental, scenic and strategic" pictures, according to government censors.
