School bells ring again... What school bell?... the "belles" will all be in the schoolroom, quiet as can be... except, maybe PATTY FLINN, who might be looking out one corner of her eye to spot a good looking "what you may call it"...

Explaining the yearly dilemma, McNally pointed out that each hunting season money, man hours, and telephone calls are lost as a result of gunfire damage to telephone lines. Even if a bullet or shot only nicks the wire, when cold weather comes the wire contracts and the added stress may cause it to break."

Soil Conservation District News

A group of ranchers in the Palo Pinto Soil Conservation District spent Monday afternoon, August 21, on a range tour conducted by the Soil Conservation Service technicians. Results of reseeding bladed timber areas with native grasses were observed on the R. W. Drake ranch in Tudor Game Preserve. Mr. Drake is controlling the brush by running goats in the pasture during certain periods. He plans to keep other livestock out until the grasses are well established.

Very good results from range reseeding were seen on Dr. R. L. Rogers' ranch near Gordon. Grasses seeded on pasture land in 1949 are well established and are producing seed. These grasses include tall dropseed, sideoats grama, Indiangrass, little bluestem and big bluestem. Also observed on Dr. Rogers' ranch was an eight-acre field of King Ranch bluestem. Cub Blue, foreman, told the group that the KR is easily established and is eaten readily by livestock.

Those attending the tour were Nick Galley and sons, Joe A. Robinson and sons, Richard W. Drake, W. H. Mitchell, Elmer W. Galley, J. W. Mings, C. F. Jones, Ofield, Lee Aguirre, J. M. Cooper, Eastland County Agent, B. S. Dudley, Jr., Vocational Agriculture Teacher at Ranger, Mr. Crow, head of the Agriculture Department of Ranger Junior College, and G. C. Moore, W. J. Waldrup and R. A. Sterner of the Soil Conservation Service.

The Mineral Wells Chamber of Commerce and the Supervisors of the Palo Pinto Soil Conservation District are preparing for the Third Annual Soil Conservation Field Day to be held on Friday, September 21. All farmers and ranchers in the District are invited to attend the field day and barbecue lunch. The ladies have a special invitation to come with their husbands. Mail a card to the Mineral Wells Chamber of Commerce, Box 99, Mineral Wells, stating your plans to attend the field day, also include whether or not your wife will be present. Chamber of Commerce needs this information as to the number that will be attending.

Farmers and ranchers in the Palo Pinto Soil Conservation are making preparations to plant winter cover crops on cultivated land. Hairy vetch will be the legume used in combination with abruzyrie on the sandy land and oats or barley on the heavier land. Phosphate will be applied to the land, either before or at planting time on all of the land seeded to hairy vetch. The vetch should be properly inoculated to insure a soil improving rather than a soil depleting crop because without the ability to obtain part of the nitrogen from the air, it becomes necessary to draw all of this element from the soil. The legume is not a native of this section, making it necessary to apply the inoculate to give the plant the ability to use nitrogen from the air. The best time to plant hairy vetch is between September 15 and October 15, but may be planted during the latter part of October and November with some success.

W. E. Brannon, district cooperator at Santo, has completed three miles of large ridge type terraces with heavy equipment. The terraces empty onto a pasture that has a sod of native grass. Brannon has a range improvement program well underway. The cultivated land has been planted to legumes for three years straight. Large areas have been seeded to native bluestem mixtures and others to KR bluestem. The terraces are another step in establishing a coordinated conservation plan on the Brannon Ranch.

Bob Hinkson has completed a four hundred foot diversion terrace with heavy equipment. The diversion was constructed to increase the drainage area on a stock tank.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mills of Dallas, Mrs. Mills of Terrell and Mr. and Mrs. Derwood Cox of San Angelo spent the weekend with Misses Jewell and Audrey Elmore and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cox.

Dale Elmore returned home Saturday night after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Latham of San Francisco, Calif., for the past two weeks.

Billy Black and Danny Patterson returned to their home in Ft. Worth Thursday after spending four days here with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Fincher.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Wickham and children of Fort Worth spent the Homecoming holiday here with his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Plinn.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Roach had as their Homecoming and Labor Day guests Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Sherrod and children of Brownwood, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Roach of Fort Worth, and Mr. and Mrs. B. Sorgdrager and children of Ranger.

Mrs. R. L. Fite of Lovelady is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Davis and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Staggs.

Insurance Is A Life-Time Affair—

... and is so considered by those who figure safety as a business and protection as an investment. The fact that a person has carried insurance many years and never had a claim does not mean that he lost his money premiums. Rather has he gained them because he invested in safety, got protection and lost none of his property. If we pay insurance for what it really is a large part of our financial problems will solve themselves.

ATTEND THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE NEXT SUNDAY

SHE'LL NEVER GRADUATE

This little girl is a "beginner." She has just entered the SCHOOL that will teach her HOW TO LIVE.

She'll never graduate! No one ever does! For religious education is different from secular education. It has to fit its pupils for living every day the very best way. In such a course, there just isn't any point at which the pupil can be sure he has enough "learning" to put away his books.

Therefore the Church Schools of our community provide classes for all ages. Every Sunday, while tiny tots are listening to Bible stories, grown-ups are studying the practical application of Bible truths in life.

Religious education should be a family activity. Don't just send your children to Church School. Come with them.

They need religious education because they must learn how to live. And you need it too, for life's richest possibilities are still ahead of you.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor in worth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. These are four sound reasons why every person should join the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

If It's News, It's in The Tribune!

Do you face the future this way?

So many, many people face the future by crossing their fingers and hoping for the best. They hope that the children won't get sick. Hope they'll be able to pay off the mortgage. Hope that they'll never lose their jobs. Hope that emergencies never arise and hope that someday they'll be able to retire. Hope is fine. You can't get along without it. But intelligent, sensible men and women don't depend on hope alone! That's why they prepare for the future in a sure way. They buy U. S. Savings Bonds!

You can, too. It's easy and here's why: Just join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. This way, savings are deducted automatically from your pay check a little at a time. Can you think of a better way to build toward future financial independence?

Another thing about these Bonds. Your savings work right along with you and for every $3 you invest you get back $4 when they mature. So, if you've been crossing your fingers, stop and start saving Bonds instead! Sign up for your Payroll Savings Plan or buy Bonds regularly in your post office or bank.

He's been in a stew about it lately, though. Seems that trash-dumpers take one look at his property, stop their car or truck, and out goes a load of rubbish, spilling all over his place and the roadside, too. Wouldn't that make you mad?

Last night Squint dropped by the house. Over a friendly glass of beer, he tells me what he's done. "I put a couple of empty oil drums out there," he says, "with a big sign reading: 'If you must dump trash—use these—I like to keep my property clean!'"

From where I sit, Squint's sign should make any would-be roadside trash-dumpers pretty darned ashamed of themselves. Now and then some folks just have to be reminded that they ought to have as much regard for their neighbors' rights as they do for their own.

Let's Talk Livestock

BY TED GOULDY

FORT WORTH, August 28—Stockers, stockers, whose got some stockers! That's the way it goes these days. Grass is getting higher and virtually all cattlemen are in the market for more cattle or calves to put out on their grass. Sheep men have much the same condition with supplies of suitable replacement sheep far below the demand.

And now it's pigs. Buyers from all parts of the country are looking for pigs. At Fort Worth today, the pig market jumped $1 per hundred and the same story was heard from other markets.

Good corn and good maize crops have set the stage for a winter season in which livestock feeding will be a big item.

At Fort Worth today, a feeder buyer took a load of 36 choice creep-fed calves shipped by P. R. Bonds of Hicks at $31.50. Numerous sales of stocker yearlings were reported in the $24 to $28.50 field, one such shipment of over 100 steers on the long yearling and two-year-old order was from Whorton Mann, Rome. These cattle included 29 horned whiteface steers at 718 pounds at $27 and 76 plain steers of 690 pounds at $24.50 and these plain steers ranged down to some sure enough common kinds with a lot of dairy bred to them.

Stocker cows selling in the $22 range include some good quality, but quite aged cows, to some pretty good plain stocker cows that are younger. One calf off these cows, however, will certainly choppen them up. The warm weather resulted in liberal water fills but this did not slow up the stocker buyers.

Bob Harper, head of the cattle buying department at the Swift & Co. plant at Lake Charles, Louisiana, was on the yards here today and he says the situation is the same in South Texas and East Texas and Louisiana yards. There is lots of grass and folks want stockers to put on it. That is why packers have to pay up to $20 per hundred for cutter cows.

There are still very few grain-fed cattle being offered at Fort Worth. A few club calves from boys in Jack county appeared at Fort Worth today and five of them sold for $30 and five for $28.50. A few commercially fed yearlings reached $29 and $30 but strictly fancy and highly finished beef is a rarity.

H. H. Flowers, Jacksboro, marketed a string of 70-odd steers here last week that averaged better than 1,200 pounds at $28. The steers were good quality grade Herefords and had been supplementally fed on grass.

Flowers has been ranching at the same spot for 37 years and shipping his steers to Fort Worth each year. This year he is crossing his grade Hereford cows with Aberdeen-Angus bulls. Two years from now, his steers will be the Hereford-Angus cross and he says in earlier tests the "black white-faces" have produced good doing kinds of steers. One steer in the shipment the other day was black with a white face and was one of the best steers in the lot.

Flowers reported he had never seen grass so high at his ranch. "You could just see those steers' backs above the grass," he said. He feels that the rank grass has not been as fattening as would shorter grass and the 15 days that it rained in July also slowed down the steers' gains, he says.

They are conducting a "Truck drivers' Safety Contest" at Chicago. The livestock trucker with the best record—meaning the fewest dead or crippled or bruised stock—will get some big prizes and there will be a grocery prize offered for other truckers with good records.

Sounds like a pretty good idea to us and if their contest works out the way it looks at the present time, we might do something like that down here with benefits to all concerned. What do you think?

Treat Grain Seeds For Smuts and Blights

Planting time for winter grain crops is at hand, and E. A. Miller, extension agronomist of Texas A. & M. College, reminds farmers that there are several precautions to take in preparing for seeding the grain.

First, he advises getting good seed of the right varieties and he suggests that farmers contact their local county agents in regard to the best varieties for their particular counties. Secondly, he recommends cleaning out any weed seeds and smut balls which might be present in the seed, and thirdly, he recommends treating the seeds with chemicals. These last two precautions help guard against noxious weeds such as bindweeds and blue weeds and grain diseases such as grain smuts, seed rots and smut blights.

Miller states that the disease which wheat growers need to guard against most is stinking smut. This smut is hard to recognize in the field except by its foul odor and the somewhat greener color of the infected grain heads. The kernels of infected plants change to smut balls, and when the grain is combined, these smut balls are broken open and millions of black spores are scattered over the healthy wheat seed. If the seed with spores on them are planted, a good crop of stinking smut will develop next spring where the grain should be. Smut reduces the yield in the field and smutty grain is docked on the market.

Oat and barley smut, however, is easily recognized by the black, barren heads in the field. According to Miller, the stinking smut of wheat and also oat and barley smut can be controlled by mixing one-half ounce of either the new improved cereasan M per bushel of seed.

He says that loose smut of wheat also leaves empty black heads in the field. Chemicals do not control this smut, but it can be controlled by a difficult hot water treatment. However, Miller suggests that it might be better to get clean wheat seed from growers who were not bothered by loose smut last season.

Miller states that treating the grain seed with chemicals is inexpensive insurance against losses from grain diseases, and further losses from dockage on the market.

Prepare Laying House For Winter Egg Profits

Poultrymen should be doing the jobs now that will mean more fall and winter egg production and getting the laying houses ready should be high on the list, says J. C. Williams, assistant extension poultry husbandman of Texas A. & M. College.

Williams recommends that the houses be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected to remove all possibilities of diseases or parasites. He says that the buildings may need repairing and some of the hinges on the doors, windows, or shutters may need to be replaced or adjusted. He points out that clean windows let in more sunlight, which is a source of vitamin D for the layers.

For each five birds, he advises providing one nest and at least three inches of feeder space per hen. Watering facilities should provide each 100 hens with from five to eight gallons of water a day and each hen needs at least eight inches of roosting space.

Litter also is important, and Williams recommends that it be from four to six inches deep in order to keep the moisture in the house down. Wood shavings, sand, ground corn cobs, cane pulp, straw or other kinds of litter can be used. The kind of litter is not so important as long as it will absorb moisture.

He says that the time to place birds in their winter laying quarters is when they have come into about 20 percent production. Since they will remain in the range shelters until they reach 20 percent production some nests must be provided there.

Three square feet of housing space per hen is enough for the lighter breeds such as Leghorns, but Williams says that four square feet will be needed per bird for the heavier breeds.

He says that he personally prefers to keep laying hens confined at all times. His reason is that, since plenty of space is being provided in the house for every bird to be comfortable during extremely bad weather and plenty of feed, water, roosting space and adequate ventilation are being furnished, it is unnecessary to turn them out of a house when all conditions inside of it are favorable for maximum production.

Williams points out that many poultrymen are using night lighting because they have found it profitable. When properly used the light will cause the egg production to occur in the fall and winter months when egg prices are highest.

Williams reminds poultrymen that one precaution to be taken in using evening lights is to dim the lights for four or five minutes before they are completely turned off in order to allow the birds to find the roost before the lights go completely out. An automatic switch is convenient for this purpose.
