SPECTATORS AND SENATORS LAUGH DURING HEARING

ANDREWS TAKES POST ON STAND AND GIVES HIS ENFORCEMENT VIEWS

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 6.—Having got their forces in motion with little spectacular display behind a barrage of argument, the wet strategists marshaled their heavy guns of testimony today to carry forward the drive before the Senate sub-committee to modify the prohibition enforcement act.

The government's enforcement officer Assistant Secretary Andrews was their first witness to be followed by District Attorney Buckner of New York and numerous others, who will be called upon to put into the record the picture of conditions as they exist from the wet's viewpoint after six years under the Volstead Act.

Andrews Under Oath
Mr. Andrews began his testimony yesterday under oath and had not finished when the committee adjourned. He began by outlining his policy of directing the federal enforcement efforts mainly through the drying up of large sources of illicit liquor supply, such as alcohol diversion, moonshining and smuggling, and placing the burden of blocking the numerous small channels of distribution shifted chiefly upon the shoulders of local police. He considered that large increases in the federal force would be necessary to accomplish his purpose.

Democrats Attacked
"Then you don't think the Democratic national conference could make an error," asked Senator Reed, Democrat of Missouri.

Corruption Is Questioned
Resuming their questioning, leaders of the wet cause asked General Andrews about corruption in the prohibition forces, diversion of alcohol, blind tiger drug stores and many other elements which the witness freely conceded to be involved in the enforcement situation. But he insisted that steps were being taken and would be taken to minimize objectionable features of the dry regime.

A dense crowd again overran the committee room for the second of the six days of hearings allotted the wet. Next week six days will be given the drys, whose chief counsel, Wayne B. Wheeler, made his first appearance.

New Ruling Made On Texas Seizure Laws
BELTON, April 6. (AP)—A search warrant is not necessary for officers arresting a man transporting liquor openly visible to everyone in an automobile, District Judge Lewis H. Jones, held today, overruling a defense objection in the trial of R. G. Frazier, Falls county constable. Frazier objected to testimony showing that he had 25 gallons of whiskey in his possession, claiming that the arresting officer had no search warrant. The prosecution maintained that the car was not searched, but that the officer spotted the liquor in plain view.

VOTERS FLOCK TO POLLS TODAY TO ELECT MAYOR AND MEMBERS OF COMMISSION FOR TWO YEARS

CITIZENS DO NOT RUN TRUE TO FORM IN BATTLE OF BALLOTS TODAY AND NEW VOTE RECORD IS EXPECTED TO BE RESULT OF ELECTION

Showing a marked contrast to the school election here last Saturday, the citizenship of Lubbock Tuesday were turning out in big numbers to cast their ballots in the municipal election that will name four commissioners and a mayor who will lead in city affairs for the next two years. Approximately 600 votes had been cast at 3:30 this afternoon. The polls remain open until 7 o'clock.

A continuous line of voters, both men and women, was in evidence at the polling place in the city hall throughout the day, and interest in the election is running higher than on any similar occasion in recent years.

2 Youngsters Would Be GUESTS OF COUNTY Sec World On Freight

Two young men who have barely reached their majority are now engaged in assisting with the beautification program about the Lubbock county courthouse as a result of their eagerness to "see the world" without funds necessary to carry them in a manner to that ordinarily taken by sightseers.

The two were taken from the binds of Santa Fe passenger train No. 92 here Monday by city police, and were immediately delivered over to county authorities for attention. They claim to have made their way from Los Angeles in this manner without being apprehended, and were rather apologetic at the "audacity" of the Lubbock policemen who broke into their pleasure jaunt at this stage of the game.

CAST OF PLAY TO LEAVE TONIGHT

In addition to the players in "One Must Marry", several members of the Little Theatre organization are going to Dallas this week to attend the tournament there Friday. Part of the group will leave tonight and the remainder will go down tomorrow night, according to present plans.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY

This dinner menu is planned particularly for one of those first warm spring days. A nourishing, well-balanced meal is provided without meat. Bits of felt-over canned or fresh fruits are used in the "cup" suggested for the luncheon dessert. It may be topped with whipped cream if convenient and if preserved or maraschino cherries are not at hand a bit of currant jelly makes an excellent garnish. Of course any kind of jelly "open" can be used but a bright colored one is naturally more effective.

Hot Chicken Sandwiches
Three-fourths cup chopped cold cooked chicken, 1/2 cup chopped cold cooked ham, 1 1/2 cups milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 1 teaspoon curry powder, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 6 slices bread.

Combine chicken and ham. Melt butter, stir in flour and when perfectly smooth slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Moisten curry powder in a little cold milk and add with onion to sauce. Bring to the boiling point and boil three minutes. Add chicken and ham and bring again to the boiling point but do not let boil. Remove from fire and stir in onion juice, salt and pepper. Melt butter in frying pan and saute bread until a golden straw color on both sides. Spread each slice with chicken mixture and serve at once.

Little Theatre Scores Again As Large Crowd Grets Trio Of One Act Plays With Decided Approval

Upholding its reputation of good productions, always and continuing to fill a once vacant niche in dramatic art in the city, Lubbock's Little Theatre organization again blazed its way to further popularity and triumph when approximately 1,000 persons viewed a program of three one-act plays at the Palace Theatre Monday night.

"One Must Marry," directed by Dr. L. A. Pfeuger, Tech professor, probably attracted most interest from the audience as a whole, due to the fact that it is the production which will be sponsored by the Lubbock Little Theatre in the state tournament at Dallas on Friday. Doctor Pfeuger and Herace Nelms, as brothers, and German students: Miss Eula Howard as Louise, their distant cousin, and Mrs. E. E. White as Gertrude, their aunt, made up the cast. Their portrayal of characters, foreign as was its situation, was practically perfect, and the play, while difficult to grasp, offered an outstanding opportunity for both clever and intensive acting. Doctor Pfeuger, due to years of experience in the play and the fact that he translated it from the German, merged his personality into that of his subject without a strain. Mr. Nelms, who has been one of the mainstays of the Theatre organization, upheld his reputation as one of the city's outstanding performers and Mrs. White, in her first appearance on a local stage, showed her talents to a great advantage. Miss Eula Howard, whose lead in "Nice People," the organization's first production last November, won for her immediate popularity, transformed a minor part into one bordering on the stardom. Miss Howard's every action showed the result of intensive culture in the dramatic arts and her diction was particularly good.

"Neighbors" Well Received

"Neighbors," directed by Gus L. Ford, also a college professor, supplied the humor for the evening, and was warmly received due to its plot, which, as one eastern critic has written, was as "commonplace as potatoes," and as for as Little Theatre productions here are concerned, was the "Main Street" of them all. Mrs. Frank Meadows and Mrs. William D. Green carried parts about which the play revolved while Harold Griffith, J. R. Mosby, Verna Wilson, Frances Swatler, Edna Sims and Paul W. Horn, President of the Tech college, host to representation of the scout movement from over the South Plains.

Mr. Eldridge made a short talk on scouting, emphasizing its aims and objects, and urging that every boy on the South Plains be brought into scouting work during the coming year. He cited statistics showing that crime and misdemeanors among the youth of the land, and especially in this particular section of the state, have been very appreciably decreased since scouting began to throw its influence over the boys.

The executive board planned a program for the year that if carried out will bring practically every boy in the area under scout influence. It was explained before the meeting that a great deal of the subscription money pledged by individuals at various places throughout the area council has not yet been paid, and pending the selection of a man to assume the duty of making these collections, L. S. Harkey, Area Commissioner, agreed to take over the work, and give it all the time he could, until the organization is started.

Horn, President of the Tech college, host to representation of the scout movement from over the South Plains.

Mr. Eldridge made a short talk on scouting, emphasizing its aims and objects, and urging that every boy on the South Plains be brought into scouting work during the coming year. He cited statistics showing that crime and misdemeanors among the youth of the land, and especially in this particular section of the state, have been very appreciably decreased since scouting began to throw its influence over the boys.

TWO MORE TENNIS STARS FOUND BY LONGHORNS

AUSTIN, Texas, April 6. (AP)—In Wilmer Allison of Fort Worth and Louis W. Ferguson, El Paso, Texas University has had two freshman tennis stars whose future intercollegiate performances may rival the exploits of Lewis White and Louis Thalheimer, the most noted tennis stars the Southwest Conference has yet produced.

White, an Austin lad, and Thalheimer, a Dallas product, won the national tennis tournament in 1923 and 1924. The White-Thalheimer combination ranked fifth among all United States doubles teams in 1924, and is regarded one of the best all-around court teams in the world. The outstanding triumph of the Texas in 1925 was gained over LaCote and Borotra, the French Davis Cup Stars, who went down before the Longhorns in five sets.

White is now a student in the Harvard Law School and Thalheimer is attending Texas University, though he is not eligible for competition, having played intercollegiate tennis for three years.

SON OF EXPLORER TO FOLLOW HIS FATHER

NEW YORK, April 6. (AP)—Robert Peary, son of the North Pole discoverer, is following in the footsteps of his father and hopes some day to become a great explorer.

Scientific studies now are claiming his attention at Lehigh University, but when June and vacation time roll around, he will take his first trip northward with the Putnam-Williams expedition to Greenland to gather material for the newly completed Hall of Ocean Life of the American Museum of Natural History.

Young Peary is not taking the trip as a pleasure jaunt. Instead, he will be a full-fledged member and will have to do the work mapped out for him just as all others of the party.

The same man who was skipper of the vessel used by Peary on his successful North Pole expedition will command the Morrissey on the Greenland trip—Captain Bob Bartlett. The navigator, who has known of Young Peary's plans, long has wanted him to make his first trip on the Morrissey.

H. C. Raven, assistant curator of comparative and human anatomy at the museum, is leading the expedition, which was organized by George Palmer Putnam, the publisher, and provided for through a gift by Harrison Williams.

The white whale, sharks, seal and walrus are some of the specimens the party will bring back. Attempts will be made to take movies of the white whale in action as there are no such photographs on record.

Frederick Linnell and Van Campden Heilner will accompany the party as taxidermist and ichthyologist, respectively. Knud Rasmussen, Danish explorer, also is expected to join the expedition. The youngest member will be Putnam's twelve year old son, David.

Around The Lot In Major Leagues Training Camps In South And West

(By the Associated Press) Many disheartening hours are just around the corner for big league hurlers unless the batting records made in most of the exhibition games are only a "streak of luck." A number of pitchers worked in vain yesterday and a few of them experienced their worst dreams coming true, their offerings proving the very thing the batsman desired. In eight of the day's eleven exhibitions, hits total a grand total of 133 safe blows were made, 112 going to the winners and 21 to the losers. And the gardeners were kept busy. Wright of the Pittsburgh Pirates lammed out two homers to feature his club's one-sided victory over Indianapolis at Hot Springs, and the Detroit Tigers collected three extra base hits while defeating Atlanta at Atlanta, 16 to 1. Taylor and Welsh hit Taylor and Welsh of the Braves brought in three runs each by cleaning bags with hits against Jersey City. Favorites won in most instances yesterday, the big losers winning seven of the eight tilts with bushers. The only upset was suffered by the St. Louis Cardinals, outlived and outscored by the Shreveporters. The Red Birds had roared along like a cyclone this spring and the unexpected defeat may serve as a tonic, knocking them from the trees of over-confidence. They will meet Tulsa today. Big Boys Grab Wins In the three inter-league games, the Washington Senators, Philadelphia Athletics and Yanks, all junior circuit flag contenders emerged victorious. The Senators hammered the New York Yankees for 17 hits, nine coming in the seventh for nine runs. The Giant-Senator series is now tied two-all, and will be resumed today at Atlanta, Ga.

Texas Women Golfers Tee Off In Championship Flight Today When Annual Tournament Gets Started

(By the Associated Press) GALVESTON, Apr. 6. (AP)—Three of the outstanding contenders for the state golf championship—Mrs. Rufus Fenner Scott, Jr., of Paris, Mrs. Pauline S. Hedrick of Fort Worth, and Mrs. L. W. Magruder of Waco—were tied at 1:15 o'clock today for medalist honors. Each turned in a 55, practically qualifying for the championship flight. With a 45 at the turn, Mrs. John H. Lapham of San Antonio was conceded excellent prospects of turning in the lowest score of the qualifying round and becoming the medalist of the tournament. The San Antonio star was driving well and gave every indication of doing the second nine holes in a round her mark for the first nine. Mrs. Hedrick won the state title in 1922 and Mrs. Scott in 1924. Mrs. Magruder was playing her first round in a Texas tournament. All three showed excellent stroke form, and in match play are expected to "break" 90 for the 18 holes. Mrs. Hedrick took a 46 going out and a 49 coming in; while Mrs. Scott was out in 49 and in with 46. Each shot a five on the 15th hole to tie. The play of Mrs. Lapham was convincing, showing just why the Alamo City ace is the overwhelming favorite to capture the title. She is the longest driver in the meet and her long shots from the tee served her well, for she was a bit off on her putting, missing a three footer on the third hole. Mrs. Lapham showed the best advantage on number 4, the longest hole of the course, getting a birdie five. Three powerful good shots put her on the green. Perhaps the prettiest shot of the first round was a 35 foot pitch by Mrs. A. M. Rhodes of Dallas. She sank the shot on number 1 for a four. Mrs. Rhodes putted well, but drives into the rough cost dearly and she was over fifty at the turn. Indications were with less than a fourth of the golfers in, that under 100 would qualify a player for the championship flight, in which 16 players will be entered. Among those who seemed certain to qualify were Mrs. George Thompson, Fort Worth, 100 and Mrs. John Hodges, San Antonio, who had a 48 at the turn. Mrs. Hodges was runner-up in 1923 for the state championship. Other scores follow: Miss Evelyn Taylor 116; Mrs. B. A. Killstone 122; Mrs. R. G. Suddarth 104; Mrs. J. W. Hamilton, 119; Mrs. Harry Croft, 111; Mrs. Phillip Cooke, 114; Mrs. Ambrose Byrne, 114; Miss Lorna Byrne 110; Mrs. E. W. Hightower 109; Mrs. C. A. Olmstead 109; Mrs. H. Jester 107; Mrs. Wallace Ralston 112; Mrs. C. O. Collins 111; Mrs. B. O. Work, 112; Mrs. E. R. Lederer 104. GALVESTON, April 6.—Mrs. B. A. Killson of River Oaks, Houston, teed off at 9 o'clock today to start the qualifying round of the tenth annual tournament of the Women's Texas Golf Association. She was quickly followed by her partner in the pairings, Miss Evelyn Taylor, Galveston Country Club. The slowest low scorers of the 80 competitors will qualify for the championship flight, in which match play will start Wednesday. Miss Robert C. Suddarth, Cedar Crest, Dallas, and Mrs. J. W. Hamilton, River Crest, Fort Worth. Mrs. Harry E. Croft, Cedar Crest, Dallas, and Mrs. Phillip Cooke, Brookhollow, Dallas. Mrs. Ambrose Byrne, San Antonio Country Club, and Miss Lorna V. Byrne, Galveston Country Club. Mrs. E. W. Hightower, Glen Garden, Fort Worth and Mrs. C. A. Olmstead, Cedar Crest, Dallas.

TECH OPENS BASEBALL SEASON WITH STORMY WIN OVER CANYON BUFFALOES HERE MONDAY 18 TO 9

Tech college is off on its first baseball season, and the Canyon Normal Buffaloes admit that the wearers of the Scarlet and Black are certainly off with flying colors. Monday afternoon on Tech field the Buffs suffered a terrible drubbing at the hands of the Matadors, when the heavy stick artists of Coach Freedland, flow into a fever of activity, driving two pitchers from the field and burying another under a bevy of extra base hits. The final count in the semi-track meet was 18 to 9. Vernon Abbott, of Floydada, who was very effective during his two or three years performance with the Floydada Whirlwinds, was selected by the group of pitchers by Coach Freedland to carry the Scarlet and Black into the first inning, and Abbott proved that he had lost none of his effectiveness. He gave up twelve safeties during the hitting bee, gathered in seven strikeouts, allowed two free passes, and in addition to this drove out a double and a single out of four trips to the plate. Harrell, right hander opened the game for the visitors, and got by the first inning in good fashion, but after three errors, a walk, a single and a sacrifice fly in the first part of the second inning netted the Buffaloes three runners. The Matadors opened up a bombardment on Harrell that drove him to cover after six or seven runs had been scored. Dixon, southpaw, then took charge of the mound, and fared no better, with the hitting spree going on unabated. After facing four men, Dixon followed to the showers, and Elkins, bulky right hander assumed the mound obligation. Ere this, the Matadors had just about winded themselves, and apparently let up in self defense. When the smoke had cleared away, the score revealed that Tech had batted around twice with the exception of four men. A total of eleven runs and as many hits, ranging from scratch singles to ringing three baggers dotted the column. From here the contest settled into a fair battle, with hits being equal for each side during the balance of the game as each gradually added a count taken in the second frame. Rigney, Matador second baseman, led hitting honors with two doubles and two singles out of five trips. Two of these, a double and a single, came in the stormy second. Hard, centerfielder, who started the fatal hitting rally followed Rigney a close second with four bingles, a double and three singles out of six trips. Hill, Buffalo centerfielder, drew three singles out of four trips. Tech, however, was very erratic at times, especially in the outfield, where the nine is admittedly weak. Seven errors were charged against the Matadors, four of these being in the outfield. Hamilton, Hayden and Abbott each booted one for the balance. The two teams play again this afternoon in the closing contest of the series. Score by innings: R H E Canyon ---- 630 029 130--5 12 7 Tech ---- 01110 120 13--18 22 7 Harrell, Dixon, Elkins and Johnson; Abbott and Curtis. LOCAL AMATEURS PLAY AT ROTAN THIS WEEK The Lubbock amateur baseball squad under the patronage of Skipper Sted Allen, who has been termed the father of baseball in this city, will open the season Thursday of this week when they open a two game series against the Rotan high school team at Rotan. Vernon Underhill, whose home is at Rotan where he is attending school this year, will appear on the mound against his former teammates in one of the games. Underhill, according to Skipper Allen is yet not fully decided in regard to his connection with the local club this year despite his many promises that he will be here as soon as school is out there, but the Skipper says that he will know following the trip to Rotan whether or not the big right hander is coming to Lubbock for another season in amateur. The Skipper will take about the same crew to Rotan that appeared against the Tech College Matadors in the two exhibition games last week, and although the club will not be full strength by any means, a lively battle is promised the hustling high school squad. Journal Classifieds pay dividends.

Crew Captain

This is Keleb Wiberg, captain of this year's Columbia University crew. He hopes to lead one of the best shells the Blue and White has produced in seasons to victory. Last fall Wiberg was selected by many experts as one of the greatest tackles in eastern football circles.

TRAILING THE BIG LEAGUERS

BY BILLY EVANS

Playing Spirit of New York Yankees Will Determine Club's 1926 Set-up Since the Yankees started spring training they have been the subject of much ridicule from many of the experts touring the southern camps. Already the club has been condemned to a berth in the second division. It seems Boston is the only club not given an outside chance to beat the Yankees. That means a lot of the wise men of baseball believe the Yanks will finish seventh. On this point I beg to differ. It is possible the Yankees may finish in the second division, the club may drop as low as seventh, but if it does it will not be due to lack of playing ability. The Yankees comprise a first division ball club if they want to be. If they fail to take their baseball seriously, then a berth in the second division looms ahead, because the American League clubs appear mighty evenly balanced.

Miller Huggins has the opposite viewpoint; he lets the player judge for himself what is best.

HE'S AN OPTIMIST As a result of the difference in temperament between the Yankee manager and the leader of the Giants, there is a decided contrast in the spring training methods of the two clubs. The Yankee style appears rather slipshod in comparison with the Giants. Perhaps that explains why many of the experts are of the opinion that the Yankee club isn't going anywhere this season. When I chatted with Miller Huggins it was apparent that he wasn't pleased with the comment about the Yankees and their spring training. "I am perfectly satisfied with my ball club and the way it is being conditioned. Since I am the manager and must suffer if the club fails, I should be the most worried. Instead of being a pessimist, I am an optimist."

"The Yankees are going to finish a lot higher than seventh place. If Ruth has a big year at the bat I am sure we will surprise a lot of the folks who consider my club a joke."

Mr. Shepherd, who was 58 years of age at the time of his death, has been living in Brounfield for the last 25 or 30 years with the exception of a short residence in Lubbock about 6 years ago. "He had only recently gone to Roswell and had not moved his family over when he died Sunday. The daughters living in Lubbock are Mrs. Dobe McCoy and Mrs. Temple Butler. A son, J. H. Shepherd, lives in Olton and a son and daughter are living at home. Mrs. John Long, E. M. Worthy and M. L. Shepherd, of Lubbock, are nieces and nephews of Mr. Shepherd. His brother, W. A. Shepherd, of Abilene, is here for the funeral and a number of friends and relatives are expected to attend from Brounfield.

Advertisement for Prince Albert cigarettes. Features a large illustration of a man in a suit smoking a cigarette. Text reads: 'A tip to men who roll their own'. Below the illustration, it says: 'YOU'VE known that Prince Albert is the finest tobacco that ever tumbled into a pipe, but did you ever try it in a home-rolled cigarette? Say, now! You've got a cigarette-experience coming. P. A. makes the kind of cigarette you can write home about, for a fact. Just get yourself a tidy red tin or a toppy red bag of P. A. today. Put a pinch in a paper and do your finger-exercise. Notice that it doesn't spill all over the place or blow away on the first breeze. That's because Prince Albert is crimp-cut and stays put. A cigarette made with P. A. not only rolls easier—it burns better and, what is very important, it tastes better. Cool and sweet and fragrant. Doesn't burn the tongue or parch the throat. The Prince Albert process prevents that. Go ahead and roll 'em with P. A. Step around the corner today and get some P. A. Make some great cigarettes with it. And, to vary your smoke-menu, tamp a load of this wonderful tobacco into the bowl of your old jimmy-pipe. No matter how you smoke it, P. A. gives you the glad hand in every perfect puff.' At the bottom, it says 'PRINCE ALBERT —no other tobacco is like it!' and shows a pack of Prince Albert cigarettes.

ROBINSON BROTHERS, NEGROES, ARE SENT TO DEATH IN TEXAS PRISON FOR MURDER OF DALLAS OFFICER

(By the Associated Press)
 HUNTSVILLE, Tex., April 6.—After four days' reprieve, S. A. and Forrest Robinson, negro brothers of Dallas, this morning were sent to their death in the electric chair at the state prison here for the murder of Motor-cyclist Policeman C. M. Isbell, of Dallas, on the night of February 4. Governor Ferguson granted the reprieve because the original date of execution fell on Good Friday.

Just before going to his death, S. A. Robinson confessed that his brother admitted to him the killing of a policeman at DePort, Lamar county, Texas, in January, 1925, while he was escaping from a road gang there. Reports from Paris early today, however, stated that Guy Teague, foreman of the chain gang from which Robinson escaped denied that any one was killed when the negro made his get-away.

Escaped To Missouri
 After killing Isbell, who was shot from his motorcycle as he was chasing the negroes in a speeding automobile, the Robinsons escaped to Missouri. They were arrested at Independence after a chase through Arkansas and Oklahoma. They killed H. H. Debus, special railroad agent, at DeQueen, Ark., when he detected them in the act of stealing a ride on a freight train. They confessed to this crime as well as to killing Isbell after being returned to Texas.

The executions of the Robinson brothers was the price they were sentenced to pay for drunken joyride on the night of February 4, which resulted in the killing of Clarence Isbell, 25 year old motorcycle policeman.

Isbell was shot from his motorcycle at the intersection of Forrest and Whitaker avenues in Dallas in an attempt to stop an automobile from speeding. The Robinson brothers were in the car with several other negro men and women, and according to their own testimony they were intoxicated.

Negroes Make Get-Away
 The negroes were captured after a sensational escape into Arkansas, where they killed a railroad special agent who ordered them from the freight train on which they were escaping. This was at DeQueen, Ark. They were later captured in Independence, Missouri where they went to get mail.

Officer E. B. Wofford, who was Isbell's partner, described the killing at the brief trials in which the Robinsons were sentenced. He said he and Isbell were watching for speeders. He testified that as he was chasing a speeding car east on Forrest avenue, he saw Isbell pass chasing another car going west. In a few moments he heard Isbell blow his horn and order the driver to pull up to the curb. A moment later he heard a shot and saw Isbell fall from his motor. Wofford raced to the spot and exchanged shots with the blacks as they sped away.

Negress On Stand
 Details of the joyride preceding the shooting were related by Mabel Lofton, a negress, who was an occupant of the death car. She testified that S. A. Robinson fired the shot which killed Isbell. She quoted the other brother as saying:

"They arrested me once for speeding when I didn't have a gun, but I am ready for 'em tonight."
 The two brothers, she testified, carried guns.

"Snap (Forrest) was driving the car out Forrest avenue and had a gun in his hands," she testified, "but S. A. fired first and Isbell fell from his machine just as S. A. fired."

"I'm guilty," said Forrest. "We all were drunk—tanked up—when Isbell was shot."

Gertrude Davis, negress, testified that S. A. Robinson came to her house the day following the shooting and showed her a newspaper containing Isbell's picture. He admitted to her that he had killed the officer and when she asked why, she testified the negro replied:

"Just because I was mad and full of chow beer."

The negroes were tried simultaneously in separate courtrooms. The jury in S. A. Robinson's trial was out only two minutes.

The Robinsons are the second pair of Dallas negro brothers to be executed recently for the murder of whites. Frank and Lorenzo Noel, known as the "black terror," were executed several months ago following a series of murders and attacks on white women.

GOOD ATTENDANCE GIVEN LEGION MEETING HERE

With one of the largest groups ever assembled here at a meeting of the local Post of the American Legion, Legionnaires and ex-service men who had gathered from throughout the county celebrated the closing of a hotly contested membership campaign Monday night. Over 100 members and visitors attended the session, and without an exception each individual joined in the spirit of the occasion.

Figures released through the Post adjutant revealed that the membership roster had been increased by 112 during the campaign, with the team led by W. T. Strange accounting for 59 of those to win the contest. The camp under the leadership of Claus Whitacre, which was said to have been leading in the race throughout played second fiddle when the final accounting was made.

A special program consisting of music, short, snappy talks, a freak drill of a "rookie" squad conducted by Corporal Rupp, and various other fun producing incidents, together with a good feed, made up a session that was enjoyed by all present as among the best they had ever attended.

gom of the Post; and Col. Clark M. Mullican, all emphasized the importance of retaining the interest that is now prevalent in Legion work, and made it very impressive that the Legion is both non-political and non-sectarian. It is also the only really exclusive organization in existence, one of the speakers said, for only men who were in the last war are eligible to membership, and there will never be any younger members in the organization than at present.

It was announced by Post Commander Woods that meetings of the Post henceforth will be held every two weeks instead of on the first and third Monday nights in order to avoid any possible confusion as to meeting dates.

The Legion also is planning entry into the city baseball league, and a committee headed by J. A. (Judge) Raley is now negotiating for such a move, and a plea will be made for entry when the executives of the league meet in the near future when the Daily Journal will be host to the gathering at a banquet.

Britain, Wichita Falls; George B. Pugh, Little Rock; and W. T. Woodruff, of Pine Bluff, Ark.

The meetings will be held at the Saenger theater and will open Thursday morning, April 22 with A. H. McKnight, president of the Texas Bar Association, presiding. Paul Jones, Sr. of Texarkana will deliver the address of welcome with responses by William H. Burgess, Ed Faso, Harry P. Dalley, Ft. Smith, Ark., and E. H. Randolph, Shreveport.

Three addresses are in the program for the first day, former Senator Chester L. Long of Topeka, Kansas, speaking on "Liberty with Government;" William Reynolds Vance, professor of law at Yale University, on "The Contemporary Legal Systems of Louisiana, Texas, and Arkansas."

Friday, April 23, Edmond Phelps, president of the Louisiana State Bar Association, will preside and E. A. McCulloch, chief justice of the Arkansas Supreme Court, and Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana will speak. Justice McCulloch will speak on "The Progress and Development of the Law."

EXPRESSING OPINIONS IS TO INVITE ITALIAN EXPULSION

ROME, April 6. (AP)—Members of the Chamber of Deputies who try expressing their individualities against the dictates of the Party Directorate are either suspended from the Party for indeterminate periods or expelled outright, a punishment which usually means the end of their political careers.

No fewer than seven Deputies have been expelled and three suspended as a result of Secretary Farinacci's campaign to weed out party members who insist on having opinions of their own. They are: expelled, Edoardo Torre, Massimo Rocca, Gio Batta Rebera, Battista Baldo, Tommaso Benassi, Aldo Oviello, and Michele Terzaghi; suspended, Pietro Bulsoni, Pietro and Amadeo Belloni.

CO-EDS AT KENTUCKY ENTER FORMER OCCUPATIONS OF MEN

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 6. (AP)—Women students of the University of Kentucky here are showing an inclination to shun the professional fields in which women have formerly concentrated their activity and to venture into professions dominated by men.

Engineering fields and law are proving attractive. Four women members of the senior class are to embark on careers as lawyers and five plan to enter fields of engineering. A survey disclosed that social fields in which women have a recognized place are losing their attraction, while general business is drawing many.

Bandits Rob Fourteen DO NOT WAKE CHILDREN Women Poker Players

(By the Associated Press) NEW YORK, Apr. 6.—Fourteen women playing poker were held up and robbed by three gunmen in a Bronx apartment early Monday. The robbers vanished in an automobile with more than $1,000 in cash and gems. Children were asleep in a room adjoining that in which the two games were in progress. The robbers gained entrance to the apartment of Mrs. Ina Orr by pretending to be seeking one of the players. The women, true to the tradition of poker-players, made no outcry and gave up their money and jewelry quietly. When the robbers discovered the sleeping children, they issued their orders in whispers to avoid waking them. A fourth robber remained outside at the wheel of an automobile while the others held up the women.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Cotton Markets

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Apr. 6. (AP)—The cotton market opened irregularly, May starting 6 points down and July 2 points off, owing to Liverpool cables being lower than due. As the Northern market opened steady, later months here showed no change and the positions rallied after the call. May advanced to 17.30c and July to 17.51c, or 1 to 3 points under yesterday's close. Prices were supported by the forecast for rainy weather in the belt. The market ruled quiet during the morning but prices eased off on July and October on reports of liquidation of a large long line by Wall Street operator. Hester's monthly fertilizer statement showed a falling off in sales during March of 249,000 tons compared with March of a year ago, thus cutting down the excess for the season to the end of March to 19,419 tons. The market ruled steady near noon on the strength of this report, recovering 2 to 5 points from the lows.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Apr. 6. (AP)—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of one to seven points. Buying of May at the start, presumably to fix prices for the trade, had sustaining influence but demand was soon supplied and prices weakened under liquidation, local, Southern and Liverpool selling.

Bearish sentiment evidently was encouraged by a better weather map than expected, relatively easy Liverpool cables and rumors that Southern mill curtailment was likely in the near future to strengthen the position of the goods and yarn markets. Before the end of the first hour, May sold off to 15.60c and October to 17.30c or 7 to 13 points net lower.

Reports from New Orleans that fertilizer sales for March had aggregated 1,145,391 tons against 1,416,991 last year attracted bullish comment but were without any important effect on the market. General business continued quiet, October selling around 17.40c at 2:00 o'clock when the general market was 4 to 9 points net lower.

NEW ORLEANS FUTURES

NEW ORLEANS, April 6. (AP)—Cotton opened steady, May 17.95c; July 17.56c; October 16.90c; December 16.80c.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, April 6. (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady: May 18.72c; July 18.15c; October 17.51c; December 17.16c; January 17.10c.

Stocks And Money

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, April 6. (AP)—Stock prices moved irregularly at the opening of today's market. The reduction of over $500,000,000 in stock exchange brokers' loans last month had a bull-bait effect on sentiment, but buying was of a cautious character. General Electric, Commercial Solvents B, and Allied Chemical recorded initial gains 1/4 to 2 points.

Operators on the long side appeared to gain confidence as trading progressed with bullish demonstrations most effective in the chemicals, motors, local traction and public utilities.

General Electric quickly extended its gain to nearly three points, Peoples Gas and Manhattan Electric Supply each advanced two points, and Hudson, General Motors, Mack Trucks, Brooklyn Manhattan Transit, National Power and Light, Pullman, United Railways Investment preferred, New York Central and Seaboard Airline common and preferred were among the many issues to advance a point or more. DuPont broke nearly five points but recovered practically all its loss before the end of the first half hour.

Foreign exchanges opened irregular with trading in larger volume after the prolonged Easter holiday in European and South American capitals. Demand sterling held firm around 84.85%; French francs yielded two points to 3.47 cents and Belgian francs broke nine points to 3.69%.

Grain Markets

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Apr. 6. (AP)—Influenced by unexpected strength of Liverpool wheat quotations and by firmness of security values at New York, the wheat market here took an early upward swing today.

Continued unfavorable weather N.W. likely to bring about further delay to seeding of spring wheat tended also to lift values. Opening prices 1-8c to 1/4c higher. May (new) $1.58 1/2 to $1.59 and July $1.35 to $1.36 1/2, were followed by moderate additional gains; and then something of a reaction.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat strength. After opening 1/4c off to 3/4c up, May 7 1/4 to 7 1/8-corn scored a slight general advance. Oats started 1/4c @ 3/4c to 1/2c higher, May 4 1/4 to 4 1/8-c, and later continued to harden.

Provisions were easy, owing to a setback on hog values. CHICAGO REPORT CHICAGO, April 6. (AP)—Wheat number 1 hard $1.65 1/2; number North- 1 $1.62.

Corn: number 3 mixed 63 1/2 @ 69; number 3 yellow 69 @ 69 1/4. Oats: number 3 white 12 1/2 @ 12 3/4; number 2 white 4 1/2 @ 4 3/4.

REPUBLICANS IN POWER LAUDED BY FESS

OHIO SENATOR SAYS HIS PARTY HAS BEEN A BOON TO NATION

(By the Associated Press) PORTLAND, Maine, April 6.—When the record of government financing and foreign adjustment during the last five years of Republican administration is completed, it will challenge all administrations of all countries for an equal showing, Senator Fess, Ohio, declared today in a keynote address at the state Republican convention.

"We are now eight years from the close of the war," he said. "The Republican party has been in charge from March 4, 1921. The contrast between conditions in 1921 and 1926 is striking. "There is deposited in the savings institutions more money by seven times over than the capital of all the national banks, state banks and trust companies in the entire nation. "Other acts of the administration to which he drew particular attention were enacted of sixteen bills looking to farm relief, restriction of the protective tariff system and the Washington arms conference. Senator Fess concluded by congratulating "all America upon her leadership in the White House."

To Those Who Judge Quality by Price The quality of Ford cars can not be judged by the prices at which they are sold—because Ford prices are made possible by conditions that are absolutely unique in the automotive industry. From mine to market the Ford car is the work of a single organization. The Company owns and operates the mines and forests that furnish the raw materials for its products. This material is carried over Ford transportation routes, fabricated in Ford mills, manufactured in Ford plants—and the finished product is sold to the public through the Ford dealer organization. Thus there is but a single manufacturing profit on the car. The following statement, previously made in an advertising message, is repeated here because of its great significance to the motoring public. "If any other manufacturer endeavored to produce a car similar to the Ford, according to the high standards of quality in material and workmanship used by the Ford Motor Company and with the same tried and proved design, it would be impossible to offer it at anything like Ford prices. And it is well to note that even with less costly design they have not been able to meet Ford prices." GERALD CHAPMAN, ARCH CRIMINAL, PAYS WITH HIS LIFE FOR THE DEATH OF POLICEMAN; WAS GAME TO END

Gerald Chapman

Name Was George Charles Chapman, whose real name was George Charles, started for the execution chamber at one minute after midnight, the prison chaplain, the Rev. Father Michael P. Barry, took his place at the condemned man's side. The executioner carried no crucifix and Chapman was without the consolation that his saint might have brought had he desired it.

Had Long Career A $145,000 mail truck robbery in New York an escape from Atlanta federal penitentiary and another escape from a hospital at Athens, Ga. were among the high spots in the criminal's career.

Three times had Chapman been reprieved in last minute efforts by his counsel to save his life. His last reprieve expired last night at midnight. A minute later he began his march to death.

A small blue chalked circle on the floor of the death chamber marked the end of Chapman's life's journey. He did not see on the wall a noose of new hempen rope, because before the noose was fixed a black cap was thrown over his head.

Chapman's face had a slight flush as he entered the chamber. He piercingly glanced to the right and then to the left, sweeping the audience with his brilliant eyes. His last look before the black cap shut out the light was towards a corner in which the windlass and weights of the hanging machine.

Appeared Before Board He had personally appeared at the prison before the board of pardons over which Governor Trumbull presided and pleaded for commutation of sentence to life imprisonment. He spoke for thirty-two minutes. He indulged in sarcasm and invectives at the state's attorney.

Back in his cell Chapman said "Goodbye, old pals," to his attorneys and they tried in Hartford a petition for a new trial, but the document was fused another reprieve.

Fery crosses were burned at several places in the county during the night but the authorities said these had nothing to do with the execution of Chapman. One story was that a car laden with dynamite had been driven toward the state prison and another was that this same car was in Plainville, the home of Governor Trumbull.

In view of rumors that state police took precautions to protect Governor Trumbull's State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn, who prosecuted Chapman, and Superior Court Judge Newell Jennings, who sentenced him.

State troopers were at the home of the state offices.

Taking the Profit Out of War

By BERNARD M. BARUCH

Reprinted from The Atlantic Monthly.

[The February issue of the Atlantic for 1925 carried a paper by Mr. Sisley Huddleston dealing with the general subject of "taking the profit out of war," which Mr. Huddleston called "An American Plan for Peace." The first-quoted phrase was put into language by the War Industries Board toward the close of the World War through its efforts to eliminate all war profits. Mr. Huddleston's article came to the attention of Mr. Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board and administrator of the non-profit plan, and (as he writes now), since it seemed to indicate a growing interest in the idea, induced him to invoke practical means to bring about a full comprehension of taking the profit out of war in the various great countries of the world. To this end he responded to a suggestion of Mr. Owen D. Young, of the Pace School of International Relations at Johns Hopkins University, that he establish a course of lectures there to expose the War Industries Board plan in detail. Later he will proceed to make similar arrangements at leading universities in Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, and Japan. Agreeing with Mr. Baruch that the subject calls for public knowledge and discussion, it was natural for the Atlantic to turn to him for the following paper.—THE EDITORS OF THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY.]

War was once described as Prussia's most profitable industry. It needs only a scant examination of history to learn that other countries were open to the same indictment. The methods of the Robber Barons did not pass with the end of feudalism. Annexation by conquest did not cease. But when America entered the World War President Wilson fathered a doctrine that shall always govern—that never a foot of territory would be added to our boundaries by force.

So, as America has taken the lead toward making impossible national profit through war, it too may be America's privilege to point the way toward making impossible individual profit through war. To take the profit out of war is to take a long step toward creating an economic detestation of war. The experience of the United States in the World War affords a basis for the belief that the plan here discussed is practical. In fact, it is more than a belief—it is a certainty, although not widely known.

The world is such a busy place, and the radius of human activity has been so greatly enlarged because of modern inventions, that it is not strange that there are but few people who are conversant with what was quietly but effectively taking place in this country in the mobilization and use of its material resources in the World War—a process that would have eventually eliminated all improper profits. Strength is given to the public advocacy of industrial mobilization made by both President Harding and President Coolidge—Mr. Coolidge as recently as last October in his Omaha speech to the American Legion—by the fact that the plan they advocated as a part of the regular national war agencies had once been set up and successfully operated under the War Industries Board.

Preceding the President's recent clear exposition of this subject, some degree of public interest had been engendered by an exchange of letters between Owen D. Young (of Duquesne fame), in behalf of the Walter Hines Page School of International Relations, and the writer. The correspondence resulted in the establishment of lectures at the Pace School (of Johns Hopkins University) on this theme. Previously the Atlantic Monthly printed an article by Sisley Huddleston, who pointed out that Europe saw great strides toward peace in the American idea of "taking the profit out of war" in a systematic way. His basic reference was to the plan of the War Industries Board.

The resources of a country might be referred to as the five M's: (1) man power; (2) money; (3) materials; (4) machinery; (5) morale. (Including raw materials, manufacturing facilities, transportation, fuel and power) and (5) morale. The intelligence with which the first four are directed and coordinated as a whole will determine the fifth, the morale of the community. In the war emergency it early became evident to those who were charged with the responsibility of mobilizing the resources that there was a just sentiment among the people against profiteering. Profiteering might be willful and profit making might be involuntary; but whatever its form, there was a just determination it should cease. So it became necessary to fix prices where the supply was limited.

Whenever the government created a shortage by its demands, prices were fixed, not only for the Army, Navy and the Allies, but for the civilian population as well. And in addition to price fixing on war essentials (such as steel, wool, copper, and so forth), the balance, after the war program had been filled, was rationed or distributed according to the priority needs of the various civilian demands. In other words, where the price of the product of an industry was fixed that industry had to deliver the part which the government did not need to the civilian population, not in the way the industry chose, but as the government directed.

It must be remembered that when the war came there was no adequate preparation. Indeed, it is doubted by the best authorities whether any effective form of preparation then known would have been of much avail in view of the widespread and engulfing results of the war and the lack of knowledge of the various instruments of destruction which were being devised and which it became necessary combat.

Our own Army had several divisions fighting one with another for materials, transportation, housing, and so forth. On top of that prevailed the demands of the Shipping Board, with the slogan that ships would win the war, and of the Food Administration, with the slogan that food would win the war. Further, there was the Railroad Administration with its need for material and labor, and finally there was the feverish quest for labor and supplies on the part of the munition makers—all competing for labor, money, materials, transportation, fuel, power, and each insisting on the greater importance of its activity. All this while the labor supply was being lessened by the flow of men into the Army.

While an endeavor was being made to bring order out of chaos, the great undertaking had to be on. Men, ships, munitions, food, material, had to be provided. Old organizations, bureaus and traditions had to be met and changed, but not destroyed until the new was set up. The wonder of it all is, not that there were so many mistakes, but that so much was accomplished.

At the time we entered the war prices were at their peak, and tending higher because of the war's insatiable demands. The problem was not alone to secure the materials and labor and to stop the confusion, but to do it in such a way that the morale of the people would be maintained. The prices of some things, like steel and copper, were fixed far below prevailing rates, and the wages of labor in those industries were standardized. The more highly organized an industry, the easier it was to arrange. Order did not commence to appear until the Army funneled its needs through one man sitting with a section of the War Industries Board and until the Navy, Shipping Board, Allies and Railroad Administration did likewise. Each department satisfied its requirements through a central authoritative body. This was called the War Industries Board, controlling and directing all materials and co-ordinating through its chairman the whole system of governmental and civilian supply and demand. It was created by executive order in March of the year 1918.

Briefly, this board endeavored to mobilize the industries of America so that the fighting forces of the Allied and associated nations could draw from the United States—the last reservoir of men, materials and money—the things needed for the winning of the war at the time the things were needed and with the least dislocation of industry and the least disturbance of the civilian population.

The War Industries Board was organized like any other supervisory committee, with a chairman, vice chairman, members in charge of various activities, bureau chiefs and subordinate workers. It surveyed and sought to arrange the whole industrial war field under the plenary powers conferred by the President and the Congress. How well it did this is a story for others to tell. What it did is the basis of the plan I am here drawing.

It was comparatively easy to fix prices and to distribute materials, and indeed to stabilize the wages of labor in those industries in which prices were fixed. The labor situation, however, became increasingly difficult, particularly when General Crowder found it necessary to withdraw men from the proposed campaign of 1919 after 4,000,000 soldiers had already been taken.

Much has been said about the profiteering of labor. It is an unjust accusation. It is only fair to say that this condition was primarily brought about through the inexperience of the organization within our own governmental departments and by the furious bidding of munition makers and ship builders for services. That situation, together with the increased prices of the things that labor had to buy with the results of its work, made it inevitable that labor must get higher wages.

So it became evident that the price fixing program had to go even further, and the War Industries Board, when the Armistice came, was proceeding with a campaign to fix the prices of all the basic things that labor had to buy. Some had previously been fixed. I speak of labor in a much broader sense than manual labor, for the unorganized so-called "white collar" part of our community—clerks, teachers, government employees, professional men—were less able to meet the situation than labor in the narrower sense. For the protection and relief of such groups certain plans were devised. To illustrate—

HAY CONSUMPTION SMALLER; CROP DECREASES

SAN ANTONIO, April 6. (AP)—Although hay consumption has been smaller than usual, there is less hay for the market than there was a year ago, according to reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture from a large number of dealers.

A resume of hay conditions as reported to the department and forwarded to the market, shows service of the state-federal agriculture departments, said that dealers' stocks in consuming areas are slightly below average and virtually no hay is being bought for deferred shipment.

Supplies of local hays in the South are not large, but holdings in the North Atlantic states are generally adequate for the needs of the season. Canadian hay continues to be imported in good volume and is working down the Atlantic seaboard as far south as Georgia.

About 78 percent of last year's smaller marketable surplus of timothy has been shipped from principal surplus producing states on March 15 compared with about 55 percent a year ago and about 70 percent respectively at this time in 1925 and 1924, but the movement of alfalfa was for the past two years, with about 88 percent marketed to March 15.

Texas, however, was an exception to the general rule, 95 percent of the marketable prairie hay having been moved on last March 15, compared to 75 percent on December 15, 1925, and 85 percent on September, and 85 percent March 15, 1925. A generally mild open winter from Mississippi river west favored reduced hay consumption, while feeding was further restricted in some sections by the smaller number of animals on farms and the low prices of feed grains and other concentrates. Slightly more hay was required from feeding in Ohio and the northeastern portion of the United States on account of the less favorable season in that area.

The trend of hay prices in the immediate future will be largely governed by weather conditions and the length of the spring feeding season, the department's resume said. Prospects are that the stocks of hay on farms when pasturage becomes available will not be large.

According to the "intention to plant" report, farmers are intending to devote about the same acreage to tame hay this year as last. If average yields are obtained on this acreage, the 1926 crop will be larger than the 1925 production.

Southern farmers were planning to increase their hay acreage, which suggested to the department that shipments of hay from surplus producing sections to the South may meet sharper competition next season.
