	Former Today's Price	Value
Snider-Harvey building site 100x140 feet ..... (1908)	$9,000	$100,000

Abernathy corner Ninth and Lamar(1x18)	22,000	65,000
Ninth and Travis 150x50 feet ..... (1917)	10,000	50,000

Staton declared of the three best investments, bonds, land and city business property, the last was the best of all.

Ralph Schoolfield reported that city real estate sales recorded during the past week totaled $208,400; while county sales, not including oil sales, Iowa Park, Burkburnett or Electra, amounted to $24,575; that the best day's sale was last Monday of $62,450 and that the largest single sale came in the same day for $25,000.

Judge W. B. Chauncey, addressing the realtors, declared he had practiced law for 21 years and then took up real estates because he considered it more "useful and honorable than law."

"The lawyer can make a mistake and get away with it," Mr. Chauncey said, "but a realtor cannot."

He urged caution in sale of restricted properties.

Consummation came early last night following checking and negotiations which had lasted over a period of several weeks, W. B. Sutton of Tulsa, signing the papers for the Prairie and C. H. Clark, J. E. Dunaway and J. M. Baldridge acting for the Shamrock Oil company.

NEGRO KILLER GETS ANOTHER DALLAS VICTIM

Larry Milstead Is Shot and Killed in Auto at Vickery Place

DALLAS, April 25.—Larry Milstead, 28, was shot and killed tonight by a negro highwaymen who held him up as he sat in an automobile with a woman companion in Vickery Place.

Milstead is the second Dallas man to meet death at the hands of negro highwaymen within two weeks. On the night of April 12, Ryan Adkins was held up by two negroes as he was driving with a woman companion near Southern Methodist university.

According to Mrs. Mabel Berry of Austin, Milstead's companion, the negro ordered Milstead out of the car and then shot him, killing him instantly. Leaving the body on the sidewalk, he returned to the car and drove away to another neighborhood in East Dallas. During the drive, the woman said, the negro cursed her and told her that "the white folks killed my father and mother and I am going to kill as many white folks as I can before my turn comes."

The negro beat her over the head with his fists and with the pistol until she was unconscious, she said, and left her lying in a road. When she recovered consciousness she made her way to a house and related her experience. No trace of the assailant had been found tonight.

Milstead was shot once. Mrs. Berry was here visiting her sister, Mrs. W R Bedell. It was in front of Mrs Bedell's home that the killing occurred. Mr. Milstead came to Dallas from Washington, D. C., about a year ago to take charge of the district agency for a typewriter concern. He was well known in Dallas and Fort Worth, having trained as an aviator in the latter city during the war. He is survived by his parents and a sister who resides in Washington.

DALLAS, April 25.—(AP.) — An unestimated amount of damage was done today by a cloudburst which inundated the greater part of north Dallas county. Poison Death Probe Of Shepherd's Alleged Victims Is Transfered To Texas

HOUSTON, April 25.—Worn out after two days of travel from Chicago, John Sbarbaro, assistant state's attorney of Cook county, Illinois arrived here tonight and announced he would begin his investigation of the last illness of Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock tomorrow.

Mrs. McClintock, mother of William N. McClintock the "millionaire orphan" whose death in Chicago a few months ago led to the indictment of William D. Shepherd, his foster father and Charles C. Faiman, head of a medical school on charges of murder, is said to have become ill at Bayview, Texas, in 1919 and to have died a few weeks later in Chicago.

Mr. Sbarbaro had little to say tonight on his arrival here. He announced that he would make his headquarters in Houston while investigating circumstances surrounding Mrs. McClineock's death and that he would question everyone who knew Mrs. McClintock or Shepherd at Bayview. He had nothing to say about reports that the grand jury here would be asked to investigate the case for the purpose of returning an indictment in Texas, where it is said Mrs. McClintock may have been "slow" poisoned. Mr. Sbarbaro was accompanied by newspaper men from the Chicago papers.

U. S. Mermaids Hope to Swim British Channel

Wainwright And Earle To Brave Treacherous Currents

Man has battled the choppy seas and tide of the English channel and succeeded in his efforts to swim across that treacherous body of water.

No member of the fair sex, however, has ever performed the feat.

Wherefore there is much interest attached to the intentions of two American girls, Helen Wainwright and Gertrude Ederle, to attempt the feat.

These girls, two of America's greatest aquatic stars, have gone to England to train for the event. Both plan to attempt the swim. They are confident that they can not only succeed where the few other members of their sex failed but can better the time that has been made by the successful men.

Pride of U. S.

There is a feeling in swimming circles that if America boasts of any girls who can turn the trick these intrepid mermaids can do it. In their swimming achievements to date they have set records approaching those set by the members of the stronger sex. Miss Ederle reigns supreme in the short distance events. Miss Wainwright specializes in the middle distance events and rules that division. The two girls were the outstanding stars of the national swimming championships last year. Between them they won more points than any other entire club—barring the one they represented.

Out of 35 free style swimming records of varying lengths listed in the A. A. U. record book these two girls hold 23. This gives a better idea of their class than recital of the various distances and records.

Both won their heats in the 400-meter free style swim in the Olympic games and their defeat by Miss Martha Norelius of the U. S. in the final was one of the surprises of the games.

Train Together.

The girls plan to train together for the swim believing that they can be mutually helpful to each other in studying the cross currents, tides and winds of the channel while training. When they attempt to swim they will start together, not with the idea of racing, but with he bought hat the presence of the other will urge each one on. Those who have made the attempt and failed attribute their failure partly to the "lonesomeness" while plugging against the choppy seas.

The start of the channel swim is usually from Dover. The time of starting is governed by tide conditions. The expected speed of the swimmer must be taken into consideration so that the shift in the ide will aid instead of hinder the person in the water.

The destinatio nis Calais. The direct distance across is 22½ miles. Henry Sullivan of Boston is the only American who ever performed the feat of swimming the channel. He failed in six consecutive attempts before achieving his goal. His time for the successful attempt was 27 hours and 45 minutes. It was estimated that he swam something like 56 miles in the shifting tides and cross currents.

Girl Musician Best But Also Too Young

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 25. Too young.'

Though she is the unanimous choice of Washington's music critics and a favorite of radio audiences, Miss Dorothy D. Wilson has been disqualified from representing the capital in the singing contest of the National Federation of Music clubs. She is under 20, which is the minimum age requirement.

Miss Wilson already has established a national reputation. When 16 she sang her first solo part in grand opera with the Washington Opera company. Her first paid position as a church solosit came when she was only 17—the youngest in the national capital.

She has sung in concerts the last two years and was one of the chosen artists for Washington's first radio revenue. She has since been heard regularly over the radio, and her rich, beautiful contralto voice has caused many fans throughout the country to write her.

Lavoye Submits To "Move On" Orders

LAVOYE, IN TRANSIT IN WYOMING, April 25.—It's moving day for this entire town and its population of 1800.

The whole of Lavoye is being moved to a new site four and a half miles away in order that its present location can be drilled for oil.

Lavoye tried to stay put, but lost the decision when the matter went to court, the federal judge for Wyoming ruling that the town and its inhabitants must vacate its government-owned site, which had been leased to the Ohio Oil company for development.

At first local residents defied Uncle Sam to evict them, but U. S. marshals began to distribute more than 600 summonses for contempt of court, and Lavoye changed its mind.

Houses and stores are being shifted bodily on wheels.

Suspicions Aroused By His Wife's Finery

NEW YORK, April 25.—Michael J. Shanahan, a watchman at a garage here, has entered suit for $100,000 against Henry M. Dietz, prominent assemblyman of Queens, as the result of his wife's finery.

"My salary was $40 a week," said Shanahan. "When she got a piano I investigated and found the first payment had been made by Dietz."

Shanahan went to Dietz's office, where, he alleges, Dietz confessed that for years he had been very friendly with Mrs. Shanahan. Dietz, in order to keep the affair out of court, offered him a check for $10,000 if he would agree not to bring suit, Shanahan stated. Decision in Mrs. Shanahan's recent suit for separation hangs on the result of the present litigation.

Wichita Falls High Wins District Literary Meet Four Times Out of Five

For the fourth time in five years Wichita Falls schools carried off premier literary honors in the district meet at Iowa Park.

By annexing a total of 76 points, eclipsing her nearest rival by over 40 points, 7 Wichita Falls public speakers successfully surmounted another barrier lying between them and the state literary championship.

Fourteen speakers from city schools were taken to the district meet by Miss Juanita Kinsey, public speaking director, last week and 13 of them entered the finals of the various contests in which they were entered. This is by far the best record ever made in the meet, according to Miss Kinsey.

Boy Wins Debate

For the first time in the history of boys' debating, Wichita Falls may send a boys' debating team to the state meet at Austin, May 7-8-9. The girls' team also came through successfully, but nothing is unusual in that—for the past five years the school has failed to place in the finals at Austin one time, in 1924.

Debaters though are faced with still another barrier before they can play their trip to the capital city. Under a new ruling, district winners in boys and girls must each debate the winner of another district, the victor to go to Austin.

Wire to Austin

A wire has been sent to Austin by Miss Kinsey in an effort to see who the next opponents of the teams will be, but no wire had been received Saturday night.

In addition to Wichita Falls carrying off highest honors in literary contests, Wichita county placed first in many of the rural and junior contests.

The 76 points scored by local public speakers were accounted for in the following manner: Debate, first place in girls and boys, 30 points; declamation, first place in senior and junior girls, 20 points; extempore speaking, first and third places, 12 points; declamation, two second and three third places, 14 points.

All telephone connections are out between this city and Sterling City and only the most meager details have gotten through.

LONDON, April 25.—Leon Trotzky has been pardoned and will resume his position as one of the dictators of Russia, according to the Morning Post. Soviet official agencies announced that his health had been fully restored.

Much mystery has surrounded Trotzky's whereabouts and condition recently. Some reports stated he had been imprisoned. Others related he was shorn of his power and broken in health. Still others told of his being an inmate of a sanitarium for mental ailments.

Trotzky's troubles took a serious turn immediately after the death of Lenin, when others assumed the reins of state in Russia.

COMMENDS JUDGING TEAM

President J. A. Hill of the West Texas State Teachers college received a telegram yesterday from C. L. Davis, state director of vocational agriculture, and C. H. Winkler, of A. and M., congratulating him upon the work of the teachers college high school judging team in the recent contests at A. and M.

Hubert Hill of Canyon, was high point man for the state. The Canyon team won first place in judging sheep and hogs, and second place in all other events.

The Canyon team had no founds on which to make the trip to College Station, but they were so certain that they would win that they invited people to subscribe to enable them to go to the state contest.

Their success showed that they were not only good judges of stock but good judges of their own ability as well. The Canyon team had been drilled by Prof. T. M. Moore of the agriculture department.

McCONNELL BROTHERS

Ma Denies She Closed Pardon Books to "Boys"

Reiterates That Records Are Open at All Times

AUSTIN, April 25.—(AP)—Ghent Sanderford, private secretary to Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, paused long enough from a close examination of pardon records tonight to assert that pardon information had not been denied newspaper men and that hencefforth the records would be "wide open at all times."

Mr. Sanderford asserted that he had not given the order to close the pardon records as was reported in the office of secretary of state, and that Governor Ferguson was willing to let the "newspaper boys" have any information they designate anytime. He further declared that the names on the pardon proclamations could be obtained as soon as the proclamations are signed, and that there would be no delay awaiting for the proclamations to return to the office of the secretary of state for record.

To date the governor has issued but 202 pardon proclamations of which 74 are full pardons and the remainder conditional, he said. He asserted that only 350 proclamations of all kinds including paroles, reprieves and furloughs had been issued since Governor Ferguson took office, and not 400 as was reported about a month ago.

Short Wave Lengths On Radio Can Jump

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Tests recently conducted by the navy have shown that radio signals on short wave lengths have a "jumping over effect"; that after traveling moderate distances they disappear and turn up at distant points.

Apparatus using a wave length of less than 40 meters has been placed on the Seattle, flagship of the United States fleet, for experiments with Washington, Australia and th Philippines and success had been had in recent trials. The MacMilland Arctic expedition this summer also will be equipped with the short wave sets.

A distance of 2,000 miles was worked with a short wave set in a navy plane in flights during a recent test here, the signals being heard in St. Paul and Tampa although they could not be detected at stations much nearer. Reports indicate that after being picked up for a distance of 60 miles from Washington the signals jumped the intervening distances to St. Paul and Tampa.

Students Will Study Forest Conservation

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The necessity for rebuilding forest resources as well as conserving those now available, will be impressed upon the American people during the coming week through public address school exercises, proclamations from government and state officials and radio talks arranged by the committee in charge of national forest work.

Co-operating organizations include the American Federation of Labor, Women's clubs, Boy and Girl Scouts, National Lumber and Woodworking industries and civic and business societies throughout the country.

Reforestration will be mainly emphasized in this year's campaign, but importance of preventing and controlling forest fires also will be stressed.

THEY FEAR SPUDDERS

Shreveport Scribe Says Wichita Falls Dark Horse.

Two Texas League clubs entered the nineteenth renewal of the championship strife in search of honors they have never won—Wichita Falls and Beaumont, writes Otis Harris in the Shreveport Journal. Neither has ever attained a championship, and while the Spuds this season must be regarded as "dark horses" because of their preponderance of hitting power, Beaumont, it seems, must wait another year because of the deep inroads that were made on Bernsen's club as a result of the recall of several farm hands of the White Sox and their ultimate transfer to Shreveport.

Since the Fort Worth pennant trust originated, the Cats have won five straight, and in Fort Worth they'll tell you it should have been six, for notwithstanding the licking Shreveport administered to them in 1919 in the post-season play-off, the Cats won more games and lost fewer than the then Gasmen.

Sister of J. P. Morgan Breaks Real Champagne To Christen Mail-Plane

NEW YORK, April 25.—L. Charles Cox of the Cox-Klemin Aircrait corporation, builders and designers of then ew aid mail plane "Night Hawk," said tonight that real prewar champagne was used in christening the plane at Curtis Field by Miss Anne Morgan this afternoon. The liquor, he said, was taken to the field without a transportation permit from prohibition authorities. Mr. Cox would not say where he got the champagne.

In the absence of R. O. Merrick, enforcement agent for New York and northern New Jersey one of his agents verified the fact that "no permit to transport the liquor had been asked or granted."

Major W. J. Hensley, Jr., commandant of Mitchell Field, who was an unofficial visitor at the christening said he had been told champagne was to be used and advised against it. Seltzer water was ordered used as a substitute he said.

Miss Anne Morgan who is a sister of J. P. Morgan, weilded the bottle, which was decorated with red, white and blue ribbons, carried a label, dated 1914.

Neither the army nor the mail service, it was pointed out, had anything to do officially with the christening, which was arranged by Mr. Cox and the American Women's association of which Miss Morgan is treasurer.

D. A. R. Congress Brought To End By Big Banquet

Last Day Is Spent In Installing New Officers

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The thirty-fourth continental congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution passed into history with a banquet tonight after a day devoted to installing new officers, recording gifts for the building of the society's new $2,000,000 auditorium that brought the total near the $100,000 mark and the passing of a resolution in favor of a nation-wide campaign against "red internationalists." Annual enrollment of aliens also was favored.

The congress declined to go on record in favor of placing prohibition agents under civil service on the ground that it would be "meddling in the police system of government," and taking the stand that the question might be political and not within its scope, refused to endorse the principle invested in the District of Columbia's efforts to obtain representation in congress.

The delegates authorized the national board of management to arrange for a bond flotation for the new auditorium Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, president general, declaring there would be no per capital tax levied for the project.

In passing the resolution to recommend a "definite, intensive campaign to be organized in every state" to combat the danger of radicalism, the congress was informed by Mrs. Cook that "men and women of influence are lending their names to carry on the radical movement under the guise of peace."

After an address by Secretary Davis on "bootlegging" immigrants, the congress went on record as favoring enrollment of aliens "that the desirable alien may be encourged and aided; and that the undesirable alien, here to preach the downfall of our institutions or here in violation of our laws may be promptly found and deported."

"Blues" and "Blacks" Maneuver in Pacific

HONOLULU April 25.—Unconfirmed reports say the "enemy" or "blue" submarines are reconnoitering off the southeast coast of Oahu, the "blues" attempting to establish bases on Molokai and Lanai and also attempting to land from small boats in the vicinity of Honapou, Molokai. Reports from Molokai reported that small boats while approaching that island with the intention of landing men were attacked by a fleet of "black" airplanes.

The landing force was driven off, most of the personnel theoretically being either killed by fire from the airplanes or taken to the water to escape the destructive effect of machine gun bullets.

Another rumor located a considerable concentration of "the enemy" or "blue" forces about five miles south of Kaunakakai, Molokai. These included cruisers and destroyers and at least one dreadnaught.

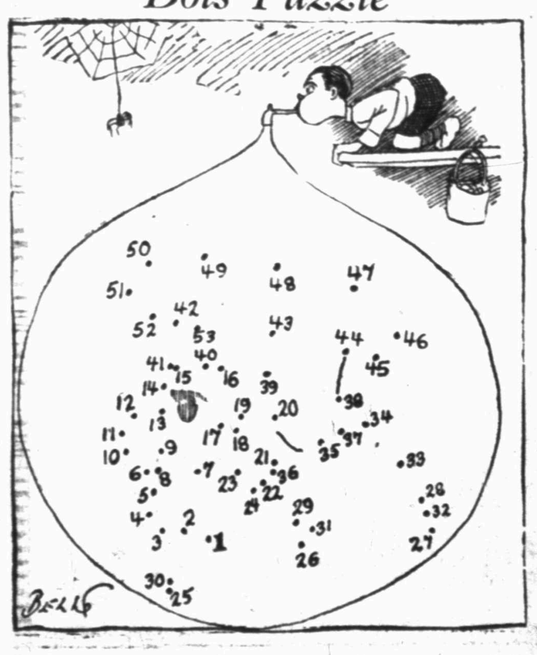

A considerable amount of aerial activity is apparent bearing out rumors that the "enemy" aerial reconnaisance of Oahu has been in progress for several days.

There seems to be no evidence of the "defenders" having been damaged to any extent by the "blue" forces.

The grand fleet is understood to be making an effort to land forces on Molokai and Lanai, while the "black" high command is attempting to locate the airplane carrier Langley and put her out of action before the fleet can launch the proposed gigantic air attack on Oahu centering on Pearl harbor.

This would leave the fleet without an air offensive except such as provided by the 35 scouting planes carried by the eleven battle ships.

Actress Goes To Console Daughter In Europe After Thirteen Minute Divorce

NEW YORK, April 25.—Adrienn Morrison Bennett, actress, who yesterday spent 13 minutes in court in obtaining a divorce and $50,000 alimony from Richard Bennett, actor, said today she would go to Paris in two weeks to console her daughter, Barbara, who is unnerved by rehearsal for her debut in duet dances with Maurice.

Barbara cabled her mother yesterday as follows:

"Mother dear, I'm so lonesome. Maurice is rehearsing me to death. I'm unnerved and tired of it all. Mother, if you don't come I shall probably commit suicide. I can endure this no longer."

Barbara's mother said that although she did not take the suicide threat seriously, she would leave the cast of "Love for Love," a Greenwich village production, and go to her daughter.

Maurice is the professional name of Maurice Mouvet, who obtained Miss Bennett as partner when Leonora Hughes quit him to marry Carlos Basualdo, a wealthy Argentine.

Wichita's Two New Pools and Throckmorton's Wells Feature Week

SW Archer And Refined Market Get Added Push

Several Outlying Counties Due to Get Tests Soon

RAIN GENERAL

Four Dry Holes on South Edge of Litchfield Pool

Two new pools for Wichita county, the first excitement for that languishing area in about a year, and what is either a good big extension or a new pool in Archer county vied with a refiners' market and Throckmorton county's two oil wells to make the past week one of unusual interest in north Texas development.

One new pool in Wichita is nine miles west and a bit south of Iowa Park, Patience and Castleman survey, Mitchell farm, drilled by Howell-Hill-Roberts et al, and is variously reckoned at 100 to 200 barrels a day with but a foot of sand drilled at 1,500 feet. The expectation is that when more sand is taken the well will respond with the characteristic 500 barrel production of other south Wichita county producers.

Underwood Well.

The other of the new pools is that opened by Underwood and Cullum on the Pace land, G. Scott survey, north of the Hill and Roberts pool, the exact status of this well still indeterminable. The hole is standing partially filled with oil from sand at 1,782-85 feet, and every indication points to a nice producer.

These two pools add two other producing areas to the network which have made South Electra and the Iowa Park area one of the most prolific in north Texas, other discoveries of comparatively recent date nearby being Beaver Creek, the farm land area, and the Hill and Roberts area. Both discoveries have developed some extensive trading, the first of the wells having upon occassions flowed, cleaning itself.

Connecting Link.

Down between the Gambrell area and Swastika Muse-Cranfill et al have either extended the Gambrell or opened a new producing area betwixt it and Swastika, in their No. 1, A. J. Lowe, block 3, Crawford pasture subdivision, Holeman survey, the well showing for 100 barrels or better from sand below 1,200 feet. It is noticeable that the well is cut off from neither Swastika or Gambrell by dry holes and that it may form the connecting link between the two districts.

Throckmorton county's two oil wells, while neither of them large enough to cause much excitement, will have the effect of greatly accentuating activity in that county and will cause many another test to be drilled there before the area is passed up for play entirely.

A rain—several of them—occuring at various times during the past week pretty well watered up the district, and furnished water for drilling in a number of sections where previous showers had failed to fill tanks. This was especially true of eastern Wilbarger county, where the drilling water had never been replenished.

Refiners Have Good Week.

The week continued good for local refiners; they sold some of their high gravity gasoline to Standard of New Jersey, takings understood to have brought better than 13 cents, the offer. Lower gravities were still strengthened by the purchase of Carter of the week before. Most of them are sold out now.

Outlying counties showed little more of interest during the week, Collingsworth county is to get a test in its northeastern portion by Hammon and others. Texas company is preparing to test in Foard county, as are also Murchison and Fain. Clay county's miniature production was bumped upward by the completion of Gulf's Worsham No. 5, pumping upwards of 165 barrels a day; there were no new wells in Montague county—Pure Oil company started its first work there during the week between the Humphrey's Jones well and the Texas company's producers; Baylor county showed two abandonments; a test that will be watched with more than passing interest is being contemplated by a large company in western Knox county, where less than a little is known and any thing would be a surprise. This deal is still pending however. Two blocks are being worked up in Hardeman county and the starting of one or two tests there in the near future may be looked for.

Litchfield Defined.

The week development defined the Litchfield pool completely to the south, Plains, Gulf, Murchison and Fain, and Harris et al all ringing up dry holes along its southern edge. Murchison and Fain scored three completions on their Schlegel lease in the Gambrell area for an aggregate of better than 200 barrels a day.

A promised extension of a mile east to the new Waite Phillips pool south of Mankins was stopped when Humble bailed salt water in their No. 1 Parkey at 1,707-08 feet.

South Texas Shows 7,080 Bbl. Increase

HOUSTON, April 25.—Gulf coast heavy oil and that from the pools of southwest Texas, totaling 169,340 barrels was an increase in daily average for the week just closed of 7,080 barrels over the previous week when figures compiled here by the major oil pipeline companies show.

The heavy oil fields of south Texas and south Louisiana produced a daily average of 96,240 barrels compared to 97,050 barrels, a decrease of 810 barrels. The Texas division ran 93,330 barrels compared with 93,280 barrels, a decrease of 920 barrels; south Louisiana 7,860 barrels compared to 7,750 barrels, an increase of 110 barrels; southwest Texas pools, 74,160 barrels compared to 64,410 barrels, an increase of 8,680 barrels.

Following are a few of southwest Texas figures:

Luling 29,400 barrels, a decrease of 200 barrels; Laredo (Mirando) 11,200 barrels, an increase of 400 barrels; Somerset, 2,800 barrels, a decrease of 30 barrels; Lockhart, 4,270 barrels, a decrease of 50 barrels; Mitchell-Reuter, 3,350 barrels an increase of 110 barrels.

Smackover Quiets Down and Passes A More Rational Week

By D. H. BANCROFT

SHREVEPORT, La., April 25.—Following its sensational outburst last week when it more than doubled its output, Smackover heavy oil district has quieted down, if an increase of 393,539 barrels in heavy oil shipments and 28 new wells with 47,425 barrels initial, may be called "quieted down." During the week just closed initial production dropped like a plummet and average initial production also slumped severely, due entirely to the absence of two such wells as the Roxana's 48,000 barrel completion. This week's completions were more normal, accounting for the smaller initial, and the railroads had had time to assemble tank cars, which accounts for increased runs, as the pipelines were already running at capacity.

Announcement of the Standard Pipeline company's plans for a new line to the Mississippi 100 miles east of the field where it will establish connection with barge lines to Baton Rouge refinery was the most welcome news the field has had since the emergency developed. Though it will be at least the middle of July before the line is in service storage will be available before that time to handle the situation, it is believed, and the peak of the new flush production will have been passed. As long as the pipelines and railroads are able to handle 300,000 barrels there is some hope for the small producer of heavy oil, though if he gets by it will be by the skin of his teeth for right now he is up against the stiffest proposition he has ever been up against. He can't stop and he has almost no place to put his oil.

Three Big Wells.

Completions in Smackover were about equally divided between the new 2,400-foot wells and the older 2,300-foot stuff, 13 of each. Average initial production for the entire pool was 1,694 barrels for 28 producers compared with 4,146 barrels for 42 new wells last week. Twelve of the new wells had 1,000 barrels or more, three had 10,000 initial, and nine others ranged from 1,000 to 6,000 barrels. Three were big gassers from the deep sand in the original discovery district and three were lost, one of them because of a blow out at 600 feet which caused a crater. Gas worked up around casing in the Gulf Refining company's No. 8 Berry in 8-16-15.

Only 11 Per Cent Water.

Salt water talk appeared for a while to have occasioned some alarm, but not for long. Many Smackover wells have made water with the oil since the field was first developed, and an analysis of the performance of 62 of the new deep sand wells shows that only 11 per cent of the 200,000-odd barrels daily production up to the first of the current week, was water. However, only four of this week's completions were cut, though two of these were running 70 per cent water, another 40 per cent and the fourth two percent. While it was not pleasant for the owners, Imperial O. & G. Co., No. 2 Murphy which started the procession of giant wells, is all salt, relieving the storage and shipping problem to the extent of 20,000 barrels daily and necessity of treating many other wells, or holding oil in storage until the water can settle out, affords another measure of relief.

The field got the worst scare it has had in some time, worse than a water scare, Thursday when a fire in the northwest corner of the seep sand district on Woodley Pet Co. Umstead lease in 4-16-15 for a time threatened to spread all over the map but was confined to that particular property, to which it did damage estimated at $20,000 to $25,000 or more through loss of storage oil, tanks and a pumping well.

Standard Gets Crusader.

Transfer of the Crusader Oil Co. and Crusader Pipeline Co., to the Standard of Indiana created only a ripple of mild interest as, being a Mex Pet-Pan American property, it was foreseen. Rearrangement of local personnel, however, is more interesting. There will possibly be some minor changes but that's all.

For the first time in the history of the Shreveport district, 20 years daily average shipments went past 250,000 barrels daily and then added another 59,000 barrels; all because of Smackover heavy oil which contributed 215,648 barrels. This was a gain of 56,236 barrels over last week, which in turn, was a gain of 78,880 barrels over the week before. Smackover light oil also showed a small gain. Cotton Valley, with an increase of 1,680 barrels was the only other pool in the district showing a larger daily average run this week than last. All the light oil pools declined, Caddo light, which has remained practically stationary for the last several years showing the largest fluctuation.

Louisiana Falls Off.

Louisiana, with 48,448 barrels fell of 1,140 for last week's daily average runs while Arkansas, with 280,457 gained 57,227, a net gain for the Shreveport district of 56,087 barrels. Runs were divided as follows:

Louisiana—Caddo light, 8,200, decline of 1,458; Caddo heavy, 2,110, decline of 110; Red River-DeSoto, 4,768, decline of 82; Cotton Valley, 10,100, gained 1,680; Haynesville, 12,813, decline 827; Homer, 6,775, declined 125; Bellevue, 3,682, declined 218.

Arkansas—El Dorado, 8,318, declined 192 barrels; Smackover light, 3,346, gained 1,196 barrels; Smackover heavy, 215,648, gained 56,228 barrels; Stephens, unchanged at 1,850 barrels and Nevada county, 1,295 practically stationary with a decline of 35 barrels in the week's total shipments.

Bellevue crude was cut 25 cents to $1.75 late in the week, Standard Oil Co. taking the lead. This brings that oil to a level with Gulf coast grade A with which it classes and which was reduced 25 cents to $1.70 nearly two weeks ago.

SMACKOVER CRUDE CUT

SHREVEPORT, La., April 25.—Cutting the price of Smackover crude below 24 gravity 20 cents to 40 cents per barrel Standard of Louisiana today virtually placed an embargo on that grade so far as immediate shipment is concerned. April 18 the company announced a new price of 60 cents per barrel for oil testing 24 gravity and below accepted for shipment up to the limit of its facilities and 40 cents per barrel for oil run to storage today's cut wipes out the special price and makes a uniform quotation of 40 cents.

The company will continue running oil to capacity of its shipping facilities but is making no new connections and will also continue accepting oil for storage as long as it has any storage available which isn't much.

Refiners See Healthy Week For Industry

Kerosene Buy Follows Gasoline Purchases During Week

CRUDE STABLE

Plants Running Light To Keep From Glutting Market

With refiners sold up on both high and low gravity gasoline and fair to middling prices prevailing for what is not already under contract, and a large order now being placed for their kerosene, the second leg of north Texas' oil industry is looking forward this next week to the third prosperous seven days that they have seen since the advent of the 1925 slump.

Plants Run Light.

So far as is known there is not a refiner in north Texas that is pushing his plant to capacity. It was a stimulation in the Carter order of week before last that any attempt to glut the market would be looked upon in a distinctly unfavorable light by the Standard buyers and there is some inclination to keep runs to stills down accordingly, a general average possibly being about two-thirds capacity.

It is generally believed here that a month's abstinence in this respect will stabilize the market for most of the summer. Good motor weather this spring is looked for. There is not too much light oil despite Smackover's heavy influx, and consumption is increasing rather than decreasing. In all there is a distinctly optimistic outlook among most of the plant operators so far as the future is concerned.

Reserve Bought.

A large buyer entered the market Friday for kerosene and took, it is understood, about 250 cars of stuff that met their tests from north Texas, how much more in the mid-continent not being known. This should pretty nearly clean up the market here on this product, the buy being the first of any size in about three months. The price is understood to be about four cents.

Offerings on 64-66 gasoline Friday ranged around 13 cents, with none below sold on 58-60, 10 3-4 cents and 11 to the trade. Fuel oil was weak at $1.10, and gas oil was bringing 2 7-8 cents.

Corning - Bellevue Cut.

A third cut in Corning crude and a cut in Bellevue during the week is pointed to by some as a basis for pessimism as regards the crude market however, has failed to respond to Pennsylvania fluctuations and the light Bellevue crude is a lubricating oil, and hence not a competitor of mid-continent oil. There is a more or less plentiful supply of lubricating oils now, and with an extension at Bellevue promised in a well there the cut was expected.

WILBARGER REPORTS.

Pope-Gibson et al No. 1, Waggoner, location; Graham-Wood No. 1, George, shut down at 1,527 feet; Greenwood No. 1, Waggoner, location; Gulf No. 1, S. Waggoner, drilling at 2,565 feet; L-U, Waggoner, drilling at 1,175 feet; No. 1, Zipperle, drilling at 1,080 feet; Herbert Oil company No. 1, Waggoner, spudding; Hoffer Oil corporation No. 1, Waggoner, bailed salt water at 2,350-60 feet, dry and abandoned at 2,360; No. 1, Waggoner, location.

Thus Passeth Leaping Lena

Thus Passeth Leaping Lena!

Leaping Lena, mobile landmark of old South Vernon, relic of the days when two weather beaten wooden derricks and one steel derrick were all that graced the prairie in central Wilbarger county, is no more!

It's owner has a new car now, a large highpowered eight-clylnder Cadillac. The old suit of khaki has been discarded, thrown into the boiler and burned, so they say.

An dthe car, the second of its kind, with its memories of many hurried trips with its bobbed blond haired owner, Miss Thelma Wells, has been sold to someone else. Grim and battered as it was with many a mile of Wilbarger county behind it and not so many ahead, that little coupe has served its time, done its bit of work for its plucky owner, and is relegated to the scrap heap to make way for its more sedate big brother.

"Leaping Lena," she called it,—Leaping Lena is no more!

Wilbarger Test Fails to Bring County New Pool

Week Shows Only Routine Drilling Elsewhere In Vernon Area

One more promised pool for Wilbarger county fell through last week in Lipard Oil company's No. 1, Fluman, W. McKinney survey, abstract 1758, west of South Vernon, now drilling deeper after testing salt water in sand at 1,805 feet. Acore was taken which showed plenty of oil-bleeding. The sand however failed to make a producer.

Over southeast of the Noble well Murchison and Fain's No. 1, Waggoner, SW of SE of SE of section 32, block 4, is drilling past 2,278 feet after failing to make a well in sand at 2,250 feet, while Levy-Morton-Ryan et al are down past 2,025 feet in their No. 2, Waggoner, NW of SW of section 51, block 14, after casing off a sand at 1,840-95 feet which would have made a small well.

South Vernon itself showed a new well in Atlantic's No. 3, Zipperle, reported flowing late Thursday from sand at 1,305-20 feet, NW of SW of section 80, block 14. Castlebury Farm Oil company has set casing on sand at 1,269 feet half a forty south and across the section line west on their No. 7, Castlebury.

Summary Other Activity.

Other Wilbarger county development for the past week is nothing more than a drilling report: A summary as of Thursday follows: Duke et al No. 1, Archer, shut down at 900 feet; Atlantic Oil Producing company No. 1, Waggoner-Reeves, shut down at 2,424 feet; Atlantic No. 1, Parker, shut down at 2,502 feet; Barker-Holmes No. 1, Webb, location; F. Beatty No. 1, Waggoner, drilling at 1,455 feet; Boone No. 1, Welsh, rigging up cable tools; Brewer No. 1, Schomaker, drilling 820; W. G. Burton No. 1, Castlebury, drilling at 2,175 feet; No. 2, Casetlebury, stringing cable tools; No. 1, Zipperle, fishing at 1,110 feet; Burton-Ruff, Waggoner No. 1, drilling at 1,675 feet; Caldwell et al No. 1, Thornton, location; Consolidated No. 1, Waggoner, going on pump for estimated 20 barrels, sand at 1,938-55 feet; Durham No. 1, Waggoner, shut down at 900 feet; No. 2, Waggoner rigging up cable tools;

Light Oil Output Is Greatly Below Refinery Demands

Survey of Fields Show Inroads Made On Storage

HEAVY OIL UP STILL

Withdrawals From Storage Report Exceptionally

By PAUL S. HEDRICK.

TULSA, Okla., April 25.—Despite the large increase in heavy oil production from Smackover and the Gulf Coast fields, the light oil production of the country is regarded as considerably below current refinery needs by many petroleum economists. Inquiry discloses that stocks are still being drawn on quite heavily. This withdrawal from storage has been going on for some time, but at the present time is reported to be exceptionally heavy.

Estimates in the Mid-Continent fields, indicate that stocks at this time are being drawn on at a rate of 75,000 to 100,000 barrels a day. At Tonkawa, at Burbank, at Cromwell, at Wewoka, at Wetumka (Papoose-Gilcrease), and elsewhere the withdrawals are heavy.

Drawing On Storage.

Down in Texas the storage in the Corsicana area, including Powell and Mexia, is being drawn on substantially as well as the older tank farms of large purchasing companies. On April 1 the east central Texas stocks were 27,380,000 barrels and with 11,681,000 barrels of empty storage.

In March the Humble and Magnolia delivered more than 8,000,000 barrels, a daily average of 280,000 barrels against receipts of 7,209,000 barrels. In February the receipts were 5,923,000 against deliveries of 5,871,000 barrels.

Along this line the survey made by A. M. Rowley of the Oil and Gas Journal on the decline of light oil and the increase in heavy oils, is of very general interest and importance. Rowley says that the output of gasoline content crude on which the main price structure is based has decreased more than 100,000 barrels a day for the past three months.

Taking Oklahoma alone he says that April 18 the state's daily estimate was 463,430 barels, compared with 464,940 a day on April 11, and 476,518 on January 17, and 540,662 a day on August 23, 1924.

Kansas output was 85,625 for April 18; and 85,795 for April 11, and 82,650 for January 17, and 84,900 on August 23, 1924.

New Pool In Ranger District Is Opened By 2,500 bbl. Well

Plan Deep Test For New Mexico Rattler Section

May Go to 5,000 Feet To Reach Pennsylvania Level

SANTA FE, New Mexico, April 25.—A standard derrick is being erected on the Rattlesnake dome in the Navajo Indian reservation by the Continental-Santa Fe companies for a deep test. The location is about a mile to the south of the shallow producers. The lease from the Indians provides for a 3,000-foot test but owing to the encountering of commercial oil in all the wells drilled except one and the desire to save this one well for water, the wells heretofore drilled all stopped in the shallow sand. It is probable that if commercial production is not found in the red beds in the deep test that it will be carried on down to the Pennsylvania which is expected at around 5,000 feet.

Unconfirmed reports from Durango state that the Graham No. 1, in 20-29-11, Bloomfield district, east of Farmington, encountered a sand at 674 feet and that it is making 3,000,000 cubic feet of gas and some oil. The well is a little more than a mile west of No. 4 of the Bloomfield Oil & Gas company which made about 50 barrels after being shot.

Frank McCarthy, engineer for Producers & Refiners, is reported making a canvas of Farmington to determine whether sufficient gas contracts can be signed to justify the construction of a gas line from its Ute well near the Colorado line. The Continental refinery at Farmington will probably use gas if the line is constructed. A gas-gasoline plant will depend upon whether the gas shows sufficient saturation to justify construction after the well has been opened for some time.

Gypsy Oil company has resumed work on Ute No. 1, in 16-32-14, Barker dome, near the Colorado line in San Juan county. Drilling was suspended last winter at 2,910 feet on account of water lines freezing. It was necessary to do considerable repair work. The bottom is supposed to be about 200 feet off the Dakota sand. Drillers are now fishing for several joints of pipe which parted in attempting to free the frozen casing.

WILBARGER REPORTS.

First Oil Run Through Big Lake Pipeline

HANDLE 18,000 DAILY

Field Defined Further To East by Dusters

FORT WORTH, April 25—It was a more or less dull week in most parts of Texas insofar as anything new was concerned, though an old district rose out of the past to bid for a spot in the limelight with a 2,500 barrel well.

Then, the Balcoonnes fault offered its contribution to new wells with Skinner, Atlantic Oil Producing company ando thers No. 1, Decker, Thos. Eaton survey, which was spudded Wednesday. It offers the next threat to the crude market, since the Atlantic has been working on the acreage there since Wortham was discovered and has outlined the fault by a more or less intensive core drilling campaign. As is the rule in the Balcoonnes fault zone in the Woodbine sand territory, the structure has the best geology. It will be 10 days or so before it finds the chalk, however.

New Ranger Well

The old Ranger district, though perhaps it should be listed in Stephens county, offered the gusher. It was G. C. Barkley and associates No. 1, Pritchard, section 2, block "B," T&NORR survey, Stephens county, which found the usual lime at 3,531 feet and in to 3,540 started off at 105 barrels an hour and was last reported doing 90 bargels an hour. It definitely proves that district as a pool of some importance, though dry holes all around will prevent its being larger than about two sections. It is half-mile south of Barney Carter No. 1, Langford, section 2, which is doing about 3325 barrels daily from about the same level, having been a completion since June, 1924.

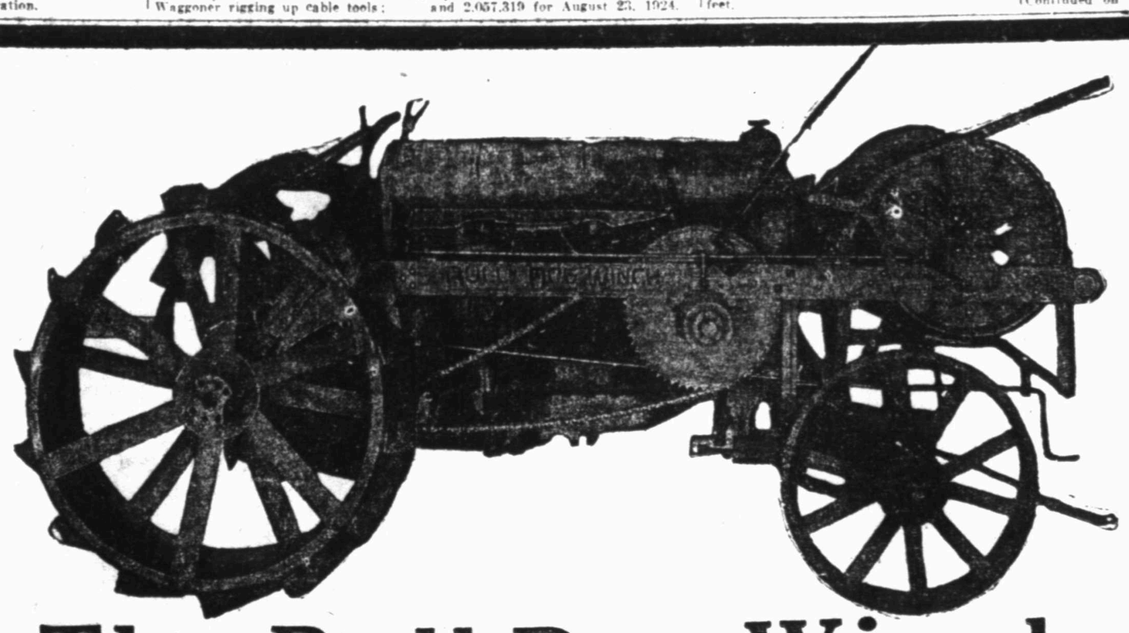

Humble Oil & Refining company completed its 8-inch pipe line from the Big Lake field, Reagan county, 85 miles west of San Angelo, (Tom Green county) and ran its first oil to Comyn station, northern Comanche county, where the line goes into the Gulf Coast trunk. About 18,000 barrels daily will be handled but with the big lake field rapidly attaining larger proportions, some other outlet becomes necessary.

7,500 Barrels By Train

Big Lake Oil company, consequently, has made arrangements to ship 7,500 barrels daily over the Orient to the Gulf Coast where it will be loaded on tankers for the East coats refineries, effective May 1. This will relieve the field of about one-third of its production while the pipe line is running the 1,000,000 barrels of oil that has accumulated in the Reagan County Purchasing company's tanks at Kemper. It will require two special trains daily to pull the 7,500 barrels to the coast.

Ten days old, Big Lake Oil company No. 1, University, center of the southwest quarter of section 26, block 9, continues to be the sensation of the field. The last day's pipeline runs before this was written, showed the well was doing three barrels less

POOR OLD BOVINES MAY GET A CHANCE TO LOOK AT LEFTY LLOYD BROWN'S SOUTHERN EXPOSURE SLANTS THIS AFTERNOON. IT WAS INTIMATED BY THE MIDGET MASTER YESTERDAY.

• • •

But Tanner may send Dick Morgan to the slab. The husky Spudder right hander only worked a third of an inning Saturday, and it is quite possible that the Skipper may decide to shoot him in again today.

• • •

YESSIR.

Insofar as this Mr. Golvin and this Mr. White are concerned there is but one drawback—there is only one of each.

• • •

That slugging affair caused fond reveries for Bill Bailey, gent who ticks off the play by play over par 1 up in the press box every afternoon. Either that or Bill's developing a great imagination.

• • •

Now You Tell One.

He uncorked one right after the fifth inning when the Spudders had opened up on Slimuel with their heaviest artillery. Bill says, sezze: "I remember a game like that back in my home town. There was one pitcher we were all scared to death of. We were playing a morning and afternoon game. This bird pitched both of 'em. Early in the morning game I swung at him with my eyes shut, and hit a two-bagger. That gave me courage. I got to thinking that this guy wasn't much after all and, you know, I hit him for exactly eight doubles before the day was over."

• • •

Bill bought the peanuts for all hands out of self protection, but had to take a parting shot: "Yeah, and we beat that guy in the afternoon game, 43 to 9." Not so good.

• • •

Who said he was a liar? You're wrong. Telegraphers never fib.

• • •

'TAINT RIGHT.

Slimuel took advantage of our left hand hitters for awhile there until it was shameful. The long Dallas pitcher is so drawn out that he can reach nearly to home plate, but he didn't do it. He leaned over, waved at the boys like he was going to throw right at 'em from a first base angle, and then delivered what was usually a perfect strike. Had 'em dodging him.

"Who's up," hollered Gene at the start of the seventh inning.
"Love up," was the reply.
"Whaddye mean, Love up?"

• • •

FISHERS OUT AGAIN.

Fishing season opens May 1, and the cream of the Wichita Falls fishin' fraternity is making studious preparations to gallop out and start all over again where they left off two months back. Among our fishin' stars are Mister Cliff Moore, J. O. Pressley, J. C. Clayton, Hill Daniel, Jerry Chesnut, Jack McCarty, Frank Brandeberry, Clarence Apple, A. C. Parker, Finley Weldon, Ernie Boardman, Gerald Chappell, Doc Burleson, Dick Miller, Walt Keys, and E. G. Hill. Buddy Tanner, one of the most rabid fishers of them all, of course, won't be able to break loose. Too much ball club to study about.

ALL WRONG.

Mr. Gray, the Spudder secretary, is still of that color with worry. Here the 1925 season is well under way and nobody has informed him how close is around and how near is about.

• • •

"Dempsey and Kearns at Parting of Ways," headline.
What—again?

• • •

Now that Butch Weis, last year's Spudder star outer gardner, is down with scarlet fever, Buddy Gardner avers our noble Spudders boast a better outfield than the Chicago Cubs.

• • •

Which means the Cubs either haven't got a major league outfield right now or the Spudders have. Do your own guess work.

• • •

The loss of the popular and hard-hitting Weis is sorely felt by the Killefer outfit. Even Spudder fandom feels the blow, for Artful Arthur is one of the most likeable athletes who ever donned a Wichita Falls monkey suit, and they all sympathize with him in his present misfortune.

Yanks and Wife Call For Ruth to Hurry

NEW YORK, April 25.—The convalescing Babe Ruth today quickened his strides toward complete recovery with two other patients calling for the cheer of his ruddy smile and the mending touches of his magic bands.

They were the broken Yankee baseball team and the only visitor he has been permitted to see daily—his wife.

After two restless weeks in the hospital the famous slugger had another setback added to his mental burdens yesterday when Mrs. Ruth suffered a nervous breakdown. Worry over the home run king's illness was responsible for the collapse, physicians declare.

She was taken to a room in the wing occupied by Ruth and physicians said a week or ten days would be required for her to recover. It was expected she would be able to leave probably on the same day that Ruth himself is permitted to return to the Yankees.

'SALL WALT AND AL

Spuds Use Four Slabsters to Take First From Bovines

By BLONDY CROSS.

The merry music of copious base knocks and the castanet clicking of cleats on home plate vied with the syncopation of a shrill northerly breeze Saturday afternoon at the Harvey plant in composition of baseball's sweetest song from a Wichita Falls angle—another Spudder victory.

They were all there in abundance, the base knocks, the cleat clickings, and the northern gale. Safe clouts were frequent to the extent of 45 in all. The castanet play at the pan occurred on no less than 20 occasions. The wind was present insomuch that it wrought havoc at stages with outer garden fielding chances, blowing some wallops to virgin territory and others into the outstretched hands of waiting athletes.

Our noble Tannermen snatched a riotous series opener from Dallas, 11 to 9, and Spudder fandom was given baseball, both good and bad, in a quantity superfluous. It received in volume far more than it paid for at the box office.

Vicious pummeling of Slimuel Love, elongated Dallas southpaw and erstwhile Spudder nemesis, by flashing Walt Golvin who, we have now come to the conclusion is the greatest first baseman in the world, and the astute Al White, keystoner extraordinary, late in the game battered the affair from the tall one's clutches.

Tough to Begin With.

The veteran wrong-hander slid into a bunch of tough breaks during the first frame when too errors and two bingles bumped him for the same number of runs. But the slim one devastated two of his foemen in that round and for the ensuing three like a new scythe decapitates daisies. Our valient Spudders plunged at the slants and cross-fire delivery of Slimuel in ferocious manner, but connected most of the time with nothing more than the circumambient ether. Meantime, Skipper Tanner had put on a style show of pitchers. Eulas Morgan, Spudder speed-ball propeller, Ira Morgan, sidearm and underhand sinker, and then little Jackie Reid each mounted the promontory. The Steers were holding the upper hand of a 6-2 enumeration in the fifth when the Spudders began belching fire, Walt and Al producing the most voluminous smoke, and Slimuel met sudden demise.

That four-run lead was looking as big as Lake Kemp, and there was one out. Distel singled down second base way. Fitz came up swinging hard, but could no more touch Slim's slants than he could a radio wave. He'd poled him for a one-baser earlier, though. Two down and George on first. Not so good, but—

The bouncing Mr. Bodie paddled a screecher to port. It was a single putting George to third. Dorman flipped another flitting bingle past first, and the Dallas margin narrowed to three. Then up stepped the gallant Walter, Sir Walter, if you please.

Crash! And the lights went out.

When they cleared the debris away, picked up the cripple and set him back on the mound, and settled to equamity again they found that the ball had sailed high over the double-tiered right field border, that three more golden scoring nuggets had been collected, the count was knotted, and White waiting for a swing.

Of course, there was nothing else for Aly to do other than unravel the entanglement. He did. They're still hunting the missing sphere out in the jungles back of left field. Surely was a beautiful drive. Breezed right over the port barrier like a homing pigeon in full flight.

The Steers got over for another in the sixth and then scored in the seventh to take the lead again.

Slim Back For More.

Larry Gardner resurrected Slim in the sixth. It was pure depravity. The lanky one got through the inning all right, but was dealt the sleep producer in the seventh. Oh, yes, it was Golvin and White again. Pingus drew four balls in a row. He was forced at second by Dorman. Golvin boosted Freddy to third with a rousing single to right center. Al lined one almost to the same sector for a base, sending Dorman across. Jonard walked. Williams who had relieved Jackie during the inning, hit to short, forcing Golvin at the plate. Catcher Hungling attempted to double Carl at first, but the throw was too late. White broke from second at the crack of the willow, hesitated momentarily at third when the play was made at the platter, and then stepped in high again as Hungling chunked to first. Our Al tabulated with ease. This heads up baseball put the Spudders in the lead once more. They toted poor old Slim from the eminence and sent in another thrower.

Distel led away in the eighth with a shrieking bust down the right field foul line for three bases. Fitzgerald put him home with a one-sack swat past the keystone. Bodie aviated to starboard. Fitz absconded with second. Dorman expired at the plate. Golvin walked, and who should come up again swing two clubs but the same old Al White. He smacked a single to left center, scoring Fitz. It took these last two runs to win the game, for the Steers were still bubbling over with base hits. They counted one in the ninth on two singles and a miscue.

That's all for this morning. They'll be at it again this afternoon. Squabble begins at 3 o'clock.

Coyote Ballers Divide Second Bill At Paducah

Wichita Loses Opener By 8-4 Score But Cops Second, 11-9

PADUCAH, April 25. — Wichita Falls high school split a double bill here today with Paducah high. Paducah took the opener 8 to 4. The visitors took the final game, 11 to 9. The Paducah nine was composed of high school and all-star players.

The opening game was featured by the heavy hitting of Bridwell, Boland, and Hindman, all of Paducah. Each of these hit the offerings of the visitor pitchers to all sections of the lot.

In the second tilt the Wichita Falls club jumped on the offerings of George Cates in the first frame and before two had been retired had slapped out five counters.

Coyal Francis, Wichita Falls choice for the second game, was sent to the showers early in the tilt and Captain Bill Andree finished the game. Four scores were made off Andree in the remaining six frames. This gives Andree a record of seven runs scored off him in 22 innings in the last two days.

Giants Start Out Again By Pushing Braves In Cellar

McGrawmen Win Close One After Dropping Game To Boston

NEW YORK, April 25.—The New York National made it three out of four from Boston today when McQuillan triumphed over Graham in a spirited pitching duel by a 2 to 1 score. A wild pitch by Graham in the first inning gave New York a run, but O'Neill tied the count with a homer in the sixth. Frisch's home run in the same inning won the game for the Giants. The score:

SLUGGING GENTRY IN BOTH BIG LEAGUES FALL DOWN DISMALLY IN OPENING WEEK OF SEASON

Phils Crack Agate for .317 Average, But Rest of Major Clubs Hit in Weak Manner

CHICAGO, April 25.—(AP)—Hitting in the major leagues during the first week of the season, especially in the National league which is celebrating its golden jubilee, was phenominally light. Some of the players attributed it to the pitchers being farther advanced while others claimed that the hitters, especially the veterans had not yet swung into their stride.

Statistics released today and which included games of Wednesday, showed that the Philadelphia Nationals had an average of .317, the Cincinnati Reds next with .289 and the Giants third, with .281.

In the American league, the Athletics were the big surprise in the stick end of the game with the remarkable average of .328, and the world's champion Senators were perched in third place with .298.

Rogers Hornsby, Cardinal second baseman and champion hitter of the league, ranked fifth, with an average of .394, while Walter Henline, catcher of the Phillies, topped the list with .474. Mike Gonzales, the Cuban catcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, was hitting in second place with a mark of .429 and Walter Holke, first sacker of the Phillies, was third with .409.

Lesser Lights Lead.

Practically all the lesser lights in the hitting game were occupying the spotlight in the American league. Veterans like Tris Speaker, Ty Cobb, Ken Williams, Harry Heilmann, Charles Jamieson and Eddie Collins were far down in the list. George Sisler of the Browns ranked twelfth with .378. Sammy Hale of the Athletics led the procession with .476 and "Red" Wingo, Detroit's slugging outfielder, was trailing with .469, two points in front of Gordon Cockrane, the Athletics' star backstop.

Charles Leo ("Gabby") Hartnett, peppery receiver of the Chicago Cubs, was traveling in a class by himself in the "Babe" Ruth business. While the "Babe" is out of the game because of illness, his new rival, in the homer games collected six four baggers in seven games. Hartnett also led in total bases with 30.

Ira Flagstead, Red Sox outfielder, held American league honors with three circuit blows, while Bib Falk of Chicago and Johny Tobin, St. Louis, were tied for total bases with 22 each.

Hornsby, with ten runs to his credit led the National league run getters, while the American leaguers had Jamieson, Cleveland, E. Collins, and Johnny Mostil of Chicago, tied with nine each.

Mostil Steals Nine.

Mostil set a swift pace along the paths. The fleet-foot White Sox outfielder had pilfered nine bases, while the best the National league had done was send six of its players into a tie with two each.

Leading hitters for five or more games:

National.

Henline, Phila., .474; Gonzales, St. L., .429; Holke, Phila., .409; Moore, Pittsburgh .406; Hornsby, St. Louis, .394; Bottomley, St. Louis, .382; Miller, Chicago, .370; Wilson, New York, .368; Walker, Cincinnati, .367; Hartnett, Chicago, .357; Harris, Boston, .350; Earl Smith, Pittsburgh, .350.

American.

Hale, Philadelphia, .476; Wingo, Detroit, .469; Cochrane, Philadelphia, .467; Poole, Philadelphia, .423; Burns, Cleveland, .417; Judge, Washington .409; Bishop, Philadelphia, .407; Combs, New York, .385; Goslin, Washington, .385; Manush, Detroit, .382; Sheely, Chicago, .380; Sisler, St. Louis, .378; McManus, St. Louis, .378; Dugan, New York, .370.

The light hitting feature also was noticeable in the ranks of the American association, where the Columbus club was the only one slamming the ball at a .300 clip. To be exact, the Senators were hitting for an average of .316, and the Louisville Colonels second, with .290.

Pick of Kansas City, led the hitters with a mark of .500, and Reb Russell, former major leaguer who is chasing flies for Columbus, trailed with .464. Reb had registered 11 runs. He also had collected three home runs for the honors in that department. Guyon, of the Colonels, was hitting third among the leaders with an average of .447 and held total base honors with 27 hits, including three triples, two doubles and a homer.

Westerners Hit.

There was a triple tie for base stealing honors with Richbourg, Milwaukee, Tyson, Louisvile, and Schreiber, Indianapolis booked at three each.

Western league hitting was more pronounced and as a result five clubs were hitting .300 or better, the Des Moines aggregation topping the list with .389, Tulsa next with .351 and Omaha third with .316. These averages included Tuesday's games.

Osborn of Omaha, topped the hitters with an average of .593. There were five players doing .500 or better. Stuvengen, of Des Moines, who was trailing for the hitting honors with .552, was tied with Langford, a teammate, for the run scoring honors, each having counted 13 times; Stuvengen led in total bases with 33, and was tied for the circuit blow honors with Lingle and Griffin, both teammates. Each had banged out three home runs.

Gorman of Denver was showing the way to the base stealers with four thefts.

Leading batters:

Osborn, Ohama, .593; Stuvengen, Des Moines, .552; Wetzel, Des Moin s .538; Langford, Des Moines, .533, Tyrrell, Tulsa, .500; Mizeur, Tulsa, .478; Graff, Wichita, .476; Lelivelt, St. Joseph, .467; McNally, Oklahoma City, .455; Genglardi, Denver, .440.

Atlanta Man Charged With Shooting Player

ATLANTA, Ga., April 25.—George Young, charged with shooting Matt Donahue, star outfielder of the Mobile Southern association club, in a local hotel last night, today surrendered and was released on bond.

Police said Young admitted shooting Donahue and charges of disorderly conduct and shooting at another were entered against him.

Donahue told police he and Pat Hargrave, utility player, were in the same room when some one knocked at the door. When Donahue opened the door he said a man whom he recognized as Young shot at him twice, the second bullet hitting him in the thigh. Young then ran, Donahue expressed the opinion that the bullets were intended for Hargrave. The latter said he had quarreled with Young.

POOR OLD BOVINES MAY GET A CHANCE TO LOOK AT LEFTY LLOYD BROWN'S SOUTHERN EXPOSURE SLANTS THIS AFTERNOON, IT WAS INTIMATED BY THE MIDGET MASTER YESTERDAY.

• • •

But Tanner may send Dick Morgan to the slab. The husky Spudder right hander only worked a third of an inning Saturday, and it is quite possible that the Skipper may decide to shoot him in again today.

• • •

YESSIR.

Insofar as this Mr. Golvin and this Mr. White are concerned there is but one drawback—there is only one of each.

• • •

That slugging affair caused fond reveries for Bill Bailey, gent who ticks off the play by play over par 1 up in the press box every afternoon. Either that or Bill's developing a great imagination.

• • •

Now You Tell One.

He uncorked one right after the fifth inning when the Spudders had opened up on Slimuel with their heaviest artillery. Bill says, sezze: "I remember a game like that back in my home town. There was one pitcher we were all scared to death of. We were playing a morning and afternoon game. This bird pitched both of 'em. Early in the morning game I swung at him with my eyes shut, and hit a two-bagger. That gave me courage. I got to thinking that this guy wasn't much after all and, you know, I hit him for exactly eight doubles before the day was over."

• • •

Bill bought the peanuts for all hands out of self protection, but had to take a parting shot: "Yeah, and we beat that guy in the afternoon game, 43 to 9." Not so good.

• • •

Who said he was a liar? You're wrong. Telegraphers never fib.

• • •

'TAINT RIGHT.

Slimuel took advantage of our left hand hitters for awhile there until it was shameful. The long Dallas pitcher is so drawn out that he can reach nearly to home plate, but he didn't do it. He leaned over, waved at the boys like he was going to throw right at 'em from a first base angle, and then delivered what was usually a perfect strike. Had 'em dodging him.

"Who's up," hollered Gene at the start of the seventh inning.

"Love up," was the reply.

"Whaddye mean, Love up?"

• • •

FISHERS OUT AGAIN.

Fishing season opens May 1, and the cream of the Wichita Falls fishin' fraternity is making studious preparations to gallop out and start all over again where they left off two months back. Among our fishin' stars are Mister Cliff Moore, J. O. Pressley, J. C. Clayton, Hill Daniel, Jerry Chesnut, Jack McCarty, Frank Brandeberry, Clarence Apple, A. C. Parker, Finley Weldon, Ernie Boardman, Gerald Chappell, Doc Burleson, Dick Miller, Walt Keys, and E. G. Hill. Buddy Tanner, one of the most rabid fishers of them all, of course, won't be able to break loose. Too much ball club to study about.

• • •

ALL WRONG.

Mr. Gray, the Spudder secretary, is still of that color with worry. Here the 1925 season is well under way and nobody has informed him how close is around and how near is about.

• • •

"Dempsey and Kearns at Parting of Ways," headline.

What—again?

• • •

Now that Butch Weis, last year's Spudder star outer gardner, is down with scarlet fever, Buddy Gardner avers our noble Spudders boast a better outfield than the Chicago Cubs.

• • •

Which means the Cubs either haven't got a major league outfield right now or the Spudders have. Do your own guess work.

• • •

The loss of the popular and hard-hitting Weis is sorely felt by the Killefer outfit. Even Spudder fandom feels the blow, for Artful Arthur is one of the most likeable athletes who ever donned a Wichita Falls monkey suit, and they all sympathize with him in his present misfortune.

Yanks and Wife Call For Ruth to Hurry

NEW YORK, April 25.—The convalescing Babe Ruth today quickened his strides toward complete recovery with two other patients calling for the cheer of his ruddy smile and the mending touches of his magic hands.

They were the broken Yankee baseball team and the only visitor he has been permitted to see daily—his wife.

After two restless weeks in the hospital the famous slugger had another setback added to his mental burdens yesterday when Mrs. Ruth suffered a nervous breakdown. Worry over the home run king's illness was responsible for the collapse, physicians declare.

She was taken to a room in the wing occupied by Ruth and physicians said a week or ten days would be required for her to recover. It was expected she would be able to leave probably on the same day that Ruth himself is permitted to return to the Yankees.

Spuds Use Four Slabsters to Take First From Bovines

By BLONDY CROSS.

The merry music of copious base knocks and the castanet clicking of cleats on home plate vied with the syncopation of a shrill northerly breeze Saturday afternoon at the Harvey plant in composition of baseball's sweetest song from a Wichita Falls angle—another Spudder victory.

They were all there in abundance, the base knocks, the cleat clickings, and the northern gale. Safe clouts were frequent to the extent of 45 in all. The castanet play at the pan occurred on no less than 20 occasions. The wind was present insomuch that it wrought havoc at stages with outer garden fielding chances, blowing some wallops to virgin territory and others into the outstretched hands of waiting athletes.

Our noble Tannermen snatched a riotous series opener from Dallas, 11 to 9, and Spudder fandom was given baseball, both good and bad, in a quantity superfluous. It received in volume far more than it paid for at the box office.

Vicious pummeling of Slimuel Love, elongated Dallas southpaw and erstwhile Spudder nemesis, by flashing Walt Golvin who, we have now come to the conclusion is the greatest first baseman in the world, and the astute Al White, keystoner extraordinary, late in the game battered the affair from the tall one's clutches.

Tough to Begin With.

The veteran wrong-hander slid into a bunch of tough breaks during the first frame when too errors and two bingles bumped him for the same number of runs. But the slim one devastated two of his foemen in that round and for the ensuing three like a new scythe decapitates daisies. Our valient Spudders plunged at the slants and cross-fire delivery of Slimuel in ferocious manner, but connected most of the time with nothing more than the circumambient ether. Meantime, Skipper Tanner had put on a style show of pitchers. Eulas Morgan, Spudder speed-ball propeller, Ira Morgan, sidearm and underhand sinker, and then little Jackie Reid each mounted the promontory. The Steers were holding the upper hand of a 6-2 enumeration in the fifth when the Spudders began belching fire, Walt and Al producing the most voluminous smoke, and Slimuel met sudden demise.

That four-run lead was looking as big as Lake Kemp, and there was one out. Distel singled down second base way. Fitz came up swinging hard, but could no more touch Slim's slants than he could a radio wave. He'd poled him for a one-baser earlier, though. Two down and George on first. Not so good, but—

The bouncing Mr. Bodie paddled a screecher to port. It was a single putting George to third. Dorman flipped another flitting bingle past first, and the Dallas margin narrowed to three. Then up stepped the gallant Walter, Sir Walter, if you please.

Crash! And the lights went out.

When they cleared the debris away, picked up the cripple and set him back on the mound, and settled to equamity again they found that the ball had sailed high over the double-tiered right field border, that three more golden scoring nuggets had been collected, the count was knotted, and White waiting for a swing.

Of course, there was nothing else for Aly to do other than unravel the entanglement. He did. They're still hunting the missing sphere out in the jungles back of left field. Surely was a beautiful drive. Breezed right over the port barrier like a homing pigeon in full flight.

The Steers got over for another in the sixth and then scored in the seventh to take the lead again.

Slim Back For More.

Larry Gardner resurrected Slim in the sixth. It was pure depravity. The lanky one got through the inning all right, but was dealt the sleep producer in the seventh. Oh, yes, it was Golvin and White again. Pingus drew four balls in a row. He was forced at second by Dorman. Golvin boosted Freddy to third with a rousing single to right center. Al lined one almost to the same sector for a base, sending Dorman across. Jonard walked. Williams who had relieved Jackie during the inning, hit to short, forcing Golvin at the plate. Catcher Hungling attempted to double Carl at first, but the throw was too late. White broke from second at the crack of the willow, hesitated momentarily at third when the play was made at the platter, and then stepped in high again as Hungling chunked to first. Our Al tabulated with ease. This heads up baseball put the Spudders in the lead once more. They toted poor old Slim from the eminence and sent in another thrower.

Distel led away in the eighth with a shrieking bust down the right field foul line for three bases. Fitzgerald put him home with a one-sack swat past the keystone. Bodie aviated to starboard. Fitz absconded with second. Dorman expired at the plate. Golvin walked, and who should come up again swing two clubs but the same old Al White. He smacked a single to left center, scoring Fitz. It took these last two runs to win the game, for the Steers were still bubbling over with base hits. They counted one in the ninth on two singles and a miscue.

That's all for this morning. They'll be at it again this afternoon. Squabble begins at 3 o'clock.

Coyote Ballers Divide Second Bill At Paducah

Wichita Loses Opener By 8-4 Score But Cops Second, 11-9

PADUCAH, April 25. — Wichita Falls high school split a double bill here today with Paducah high. Paducah took the opener 8 to 4. The visitors took the final game, 11 to 9. The Paducah nine was composed of high school and all-star players.

The opening game was featured by the heavy hitting of Bridwell, Boland and Hindman, all of Paducah. Each of these hit the offerings of the visitor pitchers to all sections of the lot.

In the second tilt the Wichita Falls club jumped on the offerings of George Cates in the first frame and before two had been retired had slapped out five counters.

Coyal Francis, Wichita Falls choice for the second game, was sent to the showers early in the tilt and Captain Bill Andree finished the game. Four scores were made off Andree in the remaining six frames. This gives Andree a record of seven runs scored off him in 22 innings in the last two days.

SLUGGING GENTRY IN BOTH BIG LEAGUES FALL DOWN DISMALLY IN OPENING WEEK OF SEASON

Phils Crack Agate for .317 Average, But Rest of Major Clubs Hit in Weak Manner

CHICAGO, April 25.—(AP)—Hitting in the major leagues during the first week of the season, especially in the National league which is celebrating its golden jubilee, was phenominally light. Some of the players attributed it to the pitchers being farther advanced while others claimed that the hitters, especially the veterans had not yet swung into their stride.

Statistics released today and which included games of Wednesday, showed that the Philadelphia Nationals had an average of .317, the Cincinnati Reds next with .289 and the Giants third, with .281.

In the American league, the Athletics were the big surprise in the stick end of the game with the remarkable average of .328, and the world's champion Senators were perched in third place with .298.

Rogers Hornsby, Cardinal second baseman and champion hitter of the league, ranked fifth, with an average of .394, while Walter Henline, catcher of the Phillies, topped the list with .474. Mike Gonzales, the Cuban catcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, was hitting in second place with a mark of .429 and Walter Holke, first sacker of the Phillies, was third with .409.

Lesser Lights Lead.

Practically all the lesser lights in the hitting game were occupying the spotlight in the American league. Veterans like Tris Speaker, Ty Cobb, Ken Williams, Harry Heilmann, Charles Jamieson and Eddie Collins were far down in the list. George Sisler of the Browns ranked twelfth with .378. Sammy Hale of the Athletics led the procession with .476 and "Red" Wingo, Detroit's slugging outfielder, was trailing with .469, two points in front of Gordon Cockrane, the Athletics' star backstop.

Charles Leo ("Gabby") Hartnett, peppery receiver of the Chicago Cubs, was traveling in a class by himself in the "Babe" Ruth business. While the "Babe" is out of the game because of illness, his new rival, in the homer games collected six four baggers in seven games. Hartnett also led in total bases with 30.

Ira Flagstead, Red Sox outfielder, held American league honors with three circuit blows, while Bib Falk of Chicago and Johny Tobin, St. Louis, were tied for total bases with 22 each.

Hornsby, with ten runs to his credit led the National league run getters, while the American leaguers had Jamieson, Cleveland, E. Collins, and Johnny Mostil of Chicago, tied with nine each.

Mostil Steals Nine.

Mostil set a swift pace along the paths. The fleet-foot White Sox outfielder had pilfered nine bases, while the best the National league had done was send six of its players into a tie with two each.

Leading hitters for five or more games:

National.

Henline, Phila., .474; Gonzales, St. L., .429; Holke, Phila., .409; Moore, Pittsburgh .406; Hornsby, St. Louis, .394; Bottomley, St. Louis, .382; Miller, Chicago, .370; Wilson, New York, .368; Walker, Cincinnati, .367; Hartnett, Chicago, .357; Harris, Boston, .350; Earl Smith, Pittsburgh, .350.

American.

Hale, Philadelphia, .476; Wingo, Detroit, .469; Cochrane, Philadelphia, .467; Poole, Philadelphia, .423; Burns, Cleveland, .417; Judge, Washington, .409; Bishop, Philadelphia, .407; Combs, New York, .385; Goslin, Washington, .385; Manush, Detroit, .382; Sheely, Chicago, .380; Sisler, St. Louis, .378; McManus, St. Louis, .378; Dugan, New York, .370.

The light hitting feature also was noticeable in the ranks of the American association, where the Columbus club was the only one slamming the ball at a .300 clip. To be exact, the Senators were hitting for an average of .316, and the Louisville Colonels second, with .299.

Pick of Kansas City, led the hitters with a mark of .500, and Reb Russell, former major leaguer who is chasing flies for Columbus, trailed with .464. Reb had registered 11 runs. He also had collected three home runs for the honors in that department. Guyon, of the Colonels, was hitting third among the leaders with an average of .447 and held total base honors with 27 hits, including three triples, two doubles and a homer.

Westerners Hit.

There was a triple tie for base stealing honors with Richbourg, Milwaukee, Tyson, Louisvile, and Schreiber, Indianapolis booked at three each.

Western league hitting was more pronounced and as a result five clubs were hitting .300 or better, the Des Moines aggregation topping the list with .389, Tulsa next with .351 and Omaha third with .316. These averages included Tuesday's games.

Osborn of Omaha, topped the hitters with an average of .593. There were five players doing .500 or better. Stuvengen, of Des Moines, who was trailing for the hitting honors with .552, was tied with Langford, a teammate, for the run scoring honors, each having counted 13 times; Stuvengen led in total bases with 33, and was tied for the circuit blow honors with Lingle and Griffin, both teammates. Each had banged out three home runs.

Gorman of Denver was showing the way to the base stealers with four thefts.

Leading batters:

Osborn, Ohama, .593; Stuvengen, Des Moines, .552; Wetzel, Des Moines .538; Langford, Des Moines, .533, Tyrrell, Tulsa, .500; Mizeur, Tulsa, .478; Graff, Wichita, .476; Lelivelt, St. Joseph, .467; McNally, Oklahoma City, .455; Genglardi, Denver, .440.

Atlanta Man Charged With Shooting Player

ATLANTA, Ga., April 25.—George Young, charged with shooting Matt Donahue, star outfielder of the Mobile Southern association club, in a local hotel last night, today surrendered and was released on bond.

Police said Young admitted shooting Donahue and charges of disorderly conduct and shooting at another were entered against him.

Donahue told police he and Pat Hargrave, utility player, were in the same room when some one knocked at the door. When Donahue opened the door he said a man whom he recognized as Young shot at him twice, the second bullet hitting him in the thigh. Young then ran, Donahue expressed the opinion that the bullets were intended for Hargrave. The latter said he had quarreled with Young.

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, SUNDAY, APRIL 26, 1925.

Peggy Piedmont's Letter

My Dear Kitty:

DECIDEDLY the little season has started to be a gay one. And with the lovely spring mornings, if your heart doesn't respond to the call of the weather, all I've got to say about you, Kitty, is that you didn't say your prayers during Lent, for you're at odds with the world. 'Cause if you had, you would be in tune with the universe, and earth tells the story of the glorious spring, with its perfume of roses and honeysuckle. The hill sides are colorful with spring flowers, and so it's the heart of things that wakes us, down this way, and makes us glad that we can join in with the season's greetings.

• • • •

AND we are surely waking up, for society has been on the jump the entire week. Going and coming, entertaining charming visitors, meeting the trains for incoming and outgoing guests. One of the most popular and charming of the week's visitors was Mrs. Robert Campbell of Houston, formerly Miss Genevieve Carver of this city, daughter of Mrs. E. B. Carver, and sister of Mrs. Merrill Blair of Kemp Kort. Another was Mrs. D. R. Gurley of Waco, who was such a pleasant and popular visitor at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. W. Fraser. Mrs. Gurley is a frequent guest here and has many friends. She furnished inspiration for many delightful informal luncheons and bridge parties during her stay here, and declared before returning home that she was "on the go" almost day and night.

Among the many affairs given complimentary to Mrs. Campbell, none proved more enjoyable than the informal party given by Mrs. John B. King at the Country club, nor the luncheon at the Wichita club given by her sister, Mrs. Blair. On Saturday afternoon, Mrs. M. R. Garrison entertained at bridge at the Wichita club, which was one of a series of small parties being given this spring by this charming hostess.

• • • •

AND then lately we have had the pleasure of meeting several lovely matrons —additions to the younger married set. One introduced this week was Mrs. Clarence Myers, sister-in-law of Mrs. Raymond Myers, who is moving here with her husband to make her home at 1806 Buchanan street.

Mrs. Raymond Myers was hostess at a lovely bridge party at the Wichita club Friday afternoon, complimenting Mrs. Clarence Myers, when ten tables were arranged for the games. Spring flowers were used in profusion in the decoration scheme, and after the games, an ice course was served.

Another affair of the week, enjoyed by a congenial group of matrons, was the meeting of the Wednesday "42" club which was entertained at the home of Mrs. M. Mitcham on Huff. The living room was decorated for the occasion in pink and white spring flowers and Mrs. Mitcham was assisted in serving by her sister, Mrs. O. G. Stephens, and her daughter, Miss Donna Mitcham. Those who played were Mesdames F. H. Lawson, Guy Raley, H. T. Hodge, J. I. Staley, W. L. Hawkins, S. B. Daniels, Ira Craig, F. E. Haddox, George Coleman, F. E. McConnell, Henry Hobbs and Joe McBee.

• • • •

AND with all those things going on before, the end is not yet, for this week opens with a bang, socially. Monday evening at the Wichita club, Mrs. J. J. Perkins is entertaining with a musical, when her talented brother, R. O. Craddock, who is her guest, and who is studying voice in Philadelphia, will give a group of numbers. He will be accompanied at the piano by Miss Annette Walsh, and Miss Marguerite Fisher will give a reading. Those who received invitations to the affair are looking forward to it with much pleasure, and feel sure that a treat is in store. Other distinguished visitors entering our portals the past week were Congressman and Mrs. Fritz G. Lanham who call Fort Worth and Washington, D. C., their home. They are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ben G. O'Neal, and many affairs are planned for their entertainment. Mrs. O'Neal will entertain in honor of Mrs. Lanham on Tuesday afternoon when bridge will furnish the diversion. Mrs. Charles Norton, recent bride and sister-in-law of the hostess, will also be joint honoree. Mr. and Mrs. Lanham are visitors in the O'Neal home occasionally, and their coming is always inspiration for a series of delightful affairs.

• • • •

CONGRESSMAN LANHAM will speak before the Woman's Forum and the annual breakfast which will close the activities of the organization for the summer on April 30, at the Country club.

But jumping just a little bit from the realm of society to that of books, I want to tell you something about a book I picked up the other day at the home of a friend. It was entitled "The Fruit of the Family Tree," written by Albert Wiggan and in it is contained a number of intensive studies of American families which is given in order among a number of other things to verify their dominant traits.

The front page caught my eye; it was the chart of the Edwards family, beginning with one Richard Edwards and his wife, Elizabeth Tuthill, who have to date 1,400 decendants, nearly all of them of what the author calls "social worth." Some of them were distinguished men or women, such as Jonathan Edwards, Aaron Burr, Mrs. Eli Whitney, Winston Churchill, Melville Bigelow, Chief Justice White, the Fairbanks brothers, General U. S. Grant, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Dr. George Vincent, Grover Cleveland, Robert Treat Paine, Sarah Pierrepoint and among the recent, the president of Bryn Mawr college.

• • • •

CONTRASTED with this group of college men and women, of authorities on law and theology and literature, statesmen and executives, and women and men of affairs, there is the record of the famously infamous Jux family, descendents of the New England vagabond of two centuries ago—Max Jux—more than 1,200, that the author dubs "social scourges." Three hundred died in infancy, 310 were professional paupers, 440 have been wrecked by disease, 50 were prostitutes, 60 thieves, seven murders and 53 criminals. Not one ever graduated from college and as recently as 1915 the strain of inferiority has not worn out or been superseded.

The book's records give one considerable pause. At all events, it is one more proof that no one lives unto himself ,or indeed dies unto himself.

• • • •

EVIDENTLY what we leave in our wills is a small matter compared to what we send down to our posterity by other inheritances. We talk very carefreely about the baby being "just like his mother's family," or the "image of his grandfather," but since we now know that patterns can run clear through to the mind, it is a serious affair, this business of inheritance. A good deal of extra baggage may be included with a nose or with a pair of brown eyes, or with long, slim hands. Certainly much good can accrue to one from a well-balanced, carefully bred type.

But just a word about our Little theatre. You know my pet subject, I feel that no letter I write to you would be complete without at least a hint of what our amateur players are doing, and their work this season has been so wonderfully commendable that I am doubly interested in their performances. "The White Headed Boy," that clever little Irish comedy which was so cleverly given by Miss Agnes Doyle, talented reader from Chicago who was presented here last year, has been chosen for the last performance of the Little theatre group this spring. It will be presented the last week in May, I am told, and rehearsals are expected to begin on it this week. Clifton Clay, juvenile favorite, with local Little threatre fans, has been selected for the leading male part, and announcement of the other characters will be made later.

• • • •

SO after you pause a minute and digest all this news I have written you, and have a little spare time to sit down and think, drop a line to your friend——

PEGGY PIEDMONT.

FOWLER BIBLE CLASS ENJOYS SOCIAL SESSION.

In order to get a line up on the musical talent in the class, the members were arranged in groups and each group was asked to sing their very best. Mesdames F. M. Kell and C. C. Randle acted as judges and after much deliberation awarded the prize, a box of candy, to group five which included Mesdames Leonard Grayson, J. W. Culbertson, Nately, Thompson and Swanson.

Little Miss Barabra Stewart gave a reading entitled, "A True Story," after which the class members formed themselves into line for an old fashioned spelling match, only instead of giving out words to spell the teacher, Mrs. M. Federated Women's Clubs Ready For Annual Adjournment During Months of June, July and August

All Clubs Show Signs Of Ending Activities Until Fall

THROUGH WITH STUDY

Each Organization Has Completely Mapped-Out Programs

WITH the approach of summer weather, club life in Wichita Falls among the reading and music organizations are beginning to show signs for disbanding until the next club season which opens for some about the middle of September and for others October first. Strenuous courses in art, literature, the drama and poetry, together with the construction of the novel and short stories, have held the attention of several hundred club women during the past season, and while some will continue their course of study along the same lines of perhaps several years past, according to a general program mapped out with the beginning of the organization, others are branching off and will pursue altogether different courses.

Four Social Affairs.

Intermingled with the yearly study programs, each club has scheduled at least four social affairs during the year, which includes a Christmas party, a New Year's party, a Valentine party and probably a luncheon, picnic or evening party at the close of the year's work.

The organization of the Woman's Forum was probably considered the feature achievement of Wichita Falls' club women this year. In this organization are many branches and some of the larger clubs have lost their identity to become a department of the Forum. It was organized primarily for the purpose of furnishing every woman who aspires to do club work, a vehicle in which she may find exactly the kind of work fitted to her personal needs. The departments include one in civic, art, health and efficiency, literature, journalism and music. Many splendid lectures were brought here by the Forum by the literature department during the few months since organization, and if plans work out as outlined by chairman of the various departments, many attractive features are promised with the beginning of the club year in the fall. The Forum will close its activities for this year with a breakfast at the Country club, April 30, which is expected to be an annual affair. Congressman Fritz Lanham will be the principal speaker on this occasion.

Athenians Conclude.

This week, on Thursday, will also see the conclusion of the Athenian club work for this season which has included an intensive study of American cities and items of interest in America. The name of the course was "See America First," and the same program was also studied by the Twentieth Century club. Members of both organizations are loud in their praise of the program, and say that they feel that they learned a great deal about America. The Athenian club have decided upon a Chautauqua reading circle for next year, with Mrs. S. P. Jones, the director. This course will include a book on the history of art, one on prominent people, one on the Holy Land, and one on the scientific way of living. A luncheon at the Wichita club Thursday will be the closing social feature of the year.

The Sorosis club which closed the year's study with a picnic at Scotland park last week, studied contemporary short stories, English and American, the past season, and have selected a miscellaneous program for next year which will include lessons on music, art, poetry and short story writers. They will also have one lesson on irrigation.

George Meredith's "Richard Feverel," "The Scarlet Letter" by Nathaniel Hawthorn and "Virginia" by Ellen Glasgow.

The Travel club which closes activities for the year with an annual luncheon May the first to which its auxiliaries, the Junior Travel, and the Tuesday College Women's clubs are always guests. A course in contemporary literature, which included a program on "the best sellers," authors, new poetry and prominent people; one on American playwrights of today, an art program, an original day program, which proved exceptionally unique, and another on planning and furnishing the home, has been studied.

A federation rally on May 6 concludes the work for the Pieria club this season. This program is considered an interesting feature which is not followed by any other club in the first district. It is in the form of an all day meeting which will probably be held at the Wichita club with luncheon served at the noon hour. On this program, Mrs. A. Hallman will lead a discussion on the aims of the State Federation of Women's clubs. The work of Texas music clubs will be discussed by Mrs. Edwin Bebb, and in the afternoon, a musical program will be given under the direction of Mrs. Frank Hoover when Mrs. G. T. Drinkard will address the club on the subject "Curative Power of Music."

Pierias End Study.

This year, the Pierias have completed a four-year study of the drama, three years of art, programs on Shakespeare and Ibsen's plays, contemporary drama, European and American drama and lessons in parliamentary law. Special programs were studied on Americanization, Texas Day, citizenship, Rodin, modern sculpture, lecture on Greek sculpture and music. The course of study for next year has not been announced, but will include several art program studies, completing the four years course in art.

The Unity club, which is the oldest reading club in the city, has completed an interesting course in modern literature, including widely read books and short stories. American literature and state literature and art, held prominent places on many of the programs. The club closed its study course for the year with an open meeting held at the home of Mrs. W. N. Maer on April 24.

The Musicians club which includes in its membership local men and women, both professional and amateur musicians, and a long list of non-musicians who are associate members, will close the year's work with an annual luncheon at the Wichita club, May 7. Besides intensive study and programs given every two weeks, with open programs once a month, this organization has presented some of the most attractive programs at the Junior college auditorium of the year. The proceeds from these affairs were donated to the Steinway Grand piano fund, the piano being a gift to the Junior college from the club. American music, modern American music, organ and sacred music, Spanish and French music, Richard Wagner, modern classics, an Italian opera, modern classics, Texas composers and ensemble music were among the programs studied.

New Century Club.

The New Century club, which is the oldest Federated club in the city, has devoted much thought and work to extension work the past two years and now has to its credit two new hard studying clubs, the Twentieth Century and the New Century Juniors, the latter, composed of young women, whose membership for the most part is drawn from the daughters of the New Century club members. A delightful social affair given recently by the New Century club was the presentation at the country club of the Rev. Fred T. Datson who gave a book review of Tolstoi's "Resurrection." Members of the two auxiliary clubs were special guests.

The Travel club has sponsored the organization of the Junior Travel which has also done intensive study the past year using a varied course, including several special programs which proved especially well prepared and interesting.

It has been noted that Wichita Falls has more women's clubs than any other city in the first district Texas federation, and the work done by all of them is considered to be of the highest type. Only two other cities in the state boast of more women's clubs, these are Dallas and San Antonio.

For the first time in the history of the Minnesota Editorial association a woman has been elected to preside over the meetings. Mrs. R. L. Lord of the Wells, Minn., Mirror, has been honored by election to the presidency of the editorial association.

Mrs. Lord's address at the recent St. Paul convention made such a good impression that she was invited to speak before the National Editorial association which is to meet in Richmond, Va., in June.

Nearly 30 years ago Miss J. A. Reynolds of London was employed by Sampson Clark Advertising Agency, a firm that occupied at the time one obscure room. Recently Mr. Clark died and in his will left Miss Reynolds the sum of $50,000 and her share of the residue of the estate amounting to $450,000. In his will Mr. Clark referred to Miss Reynolds as one who "never threatened to leave me, who never worried over working long hours, who never complained when I lost my temper through being over-nervous, who helped me to remember things and keep appointments, whose advice in business frequently was good, who studied and understood the public."

Sister Margaret Slachta, former member of the Hungarian parliament, says that women should have their own separate political party if they wish to be of the greatest political service to their country. They can then have a firm foundation on which to stand while co-operating with other political organizations. Sister Margaret is said to be the first woman member of a Catholic order to be actively identified with politics.

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE.

TAURUS.

Today's planetary aspects are quite benign, and eminently suited for all Sunday observances and recreations. They denote, until at dusk, a desire for contentment, tranquility and peace of mind. Even though things may be said or acts may be perpetrated that otherwise would distress you, at this time you will meet them all with indifference and with a shrug of the shoulders. In the evening the conditions are not quite so favorable, and there will be a tendency to show the "chip on the shoulders," which only will provoke unpleasantness and lack of harmony. This tendency must be fought if regrets are to be avoided, and poise and self-control firmly established. This can best be done by quiet reading or some other amusement of a harmless character.

A child born today will not, at birth, be very strong and will inspire a considerable amount of thought as to its future. This feeling however, is quite unnecessary, as with proper care, it will develop into a healthy and normal creature. Its disposition will be quite emotional, and its acts will be more the result of impulse than deliberation. Its characters will not be so firmly established as could be desired, and although wishing at all times to do that which is right and never inspired by the desire to do anyone harm, it will, by its lack of vision, very often cause considerable trouble where none was intended. It will not be very studious, nor will it shine at school, but with constant effort, it will succeed in getting by. It will be exceptionally affectionate and very demonstrative, and if its love be returned, will be exceedingly happy, although not materially successful. If its love, however, will not be reciprocated, it will be unhappy and miserable.

Is today your birthday? If so, by your experience and by your actions you have succeeded in securing the confidence of those associated with you. You have great ambitions, are very shrewd, and possessed with a great vision. With these qualifications, it is possible to attain to any height of success, as those who trust you are very valuable associates and will enable you to reach almost any goal. You are considerate of others, and extremely fair in your judgment. You are a good talker, convincing, and intellectual. In your home life you are extremely happy, as you are patient, considerate and kind. You are exceptionally fond of children and they readily turn to you, and children turn to you not as children turn to a parent, but as to a friend.

Successful people born on this date are: Benjamin F. Tracy, lawyer, secretary of the navy under Harrison; Charles F. Browne, ("Artemus Ward") humorist; James P. Kimball, geologist; Erminnie A. Smith, scientist; Harvey Fisk, financier; Henry Gorgenthau, ambassador to Turkey.

Running a Rabbit Farm —By James J. Montague

It was on the advice of my doctor that I started a rabbit farm. Not that there was anything the matter with my health. The trouble was with my finances. Literature was suffering from overproduction that year. The market was glutted, and prices were down. This commodity is just as subject to the law of supply and demand as are corn and hogs. It was during a conversation with the physician mentioned a little earlier in the story about his prospects of getting the money that I owed him that he gave me the advice.

"Why don't you run a rabbit farm?" he said.

If he had asked me why I didn't run a lion farm or an ostrich farm I wouldn't have been more surprised. To me a farm meant a series of fields in which things grew out of the ground. The words "rabbit farm" suggested stalks, like wheat or corn with rabbits depending on them by the ears.

Hitherto I had supposed that rabbits either grew wild in the woods, or managed in one way or another to ingratiate themselves with private families, like cats, in order to secure a livelihood without working for it. That they were reared deliberately and by design had never occurred to me.

"I don't know," I replied, "just why I don't run a rabbit farm. Why should I?"

"Because there's money in it," said the doctor, "lots of money."

"How much?"

"A competence if you go at it the right way. Do you know how many rabbits the scientists of this country consume in a year?"

"I didn't even know that scientists were particularly fond of rabbits. Of course German scientists might now and then like a dish of hasenpheffer —"

"Listen! We don't eat them. We use them in experiment. We used more than a million last year, in laboratory work alone. And we can't get enough of them—not half enough. Do you see now?"

"You mean that if I would run a rabbit farm, you would buy my crop every year?"

"Every year! You would raise a crop every month, and we would take all you raised at a good price. I've wondered for years why somebody who had a place in the country like yours didn't go into the business."

After discovering from the doctor that a good grade rabbits would bring 50 cents, and on receiving his assurance that the animal could be reared for less than a quarter of a dollar, I decided to go into the business.

This decision was confirmed when I learned that a pair of rabbits ought to raise 50 or 60 offspring a year. I did not know at that time how little rabbits care about what they ought to do.

The next day I went to the library and read all the literature I could find about rabbit propagation, and armed with my new knowledge I repaired the following day to a pet store where I bought 60 rabbits, which I housed in a barn that had stood long neglected back of the house.

I also bought some cabbages, for 25 cents each, which I fed the animals. They nibbled the cabbages gratefully, and appeared to like their new home. But when I returned in the morning I found only a hole in the ground which they had dug during the night, making their way to freedom. For all I know they may have gone back to where they came from, as is the habit of homing pigeons. The store was well supplied with creatures that looked like the same rabbits when, after building a concrete pen for them, I went back there to purchase a fresh supply.

The rabbits remained in their new establishment, lacking the ability to gnaw through the concrete walls, which had cost me $100. In a few weeks they had several families—very attractive and playful little rabbits.

But I discovered later that if you look at these young within a day or two of their birth the parents will think they have been contaminated by your glance, and, knowing no other way to get rid of them will eat them. This of course saves buying cabbages, yet it is impossible to feed rabbits on rabbits and make any profit out of the rabbit farm.

I lost several swarms or coveys, or whatever rabbit families are called, by admiring them too early, but others kept appearing from time to time, and the future began to look bright, when for no reason that I could discover the price of cabbage suddenly advanced.

All the dealers in cabbage I knew informed me that the price had gone up one hundred per cent, even for the kind of wilted and damaged cabbages that they had been selling me.

By the time I got a rabbit raised and ready for the market he had cost me 10 or 15 cents more than I could get from the laboratory which had contracted with me to deliver 200 rabbits a week.

Of course I had to live up to this contract, and when I could not find enough rabbits in my own establishment I had to go out and buy them in the open market, paying of course extortionate prices at the stores in which rabbits are sold only as back yard ornaments, and are of fancy build and coloring.

At the end of the first year I was out $250, but I figured that the experience might be worth it, so I kept on. But one thing or another which I could not possibly foresee came up. One of them was a weasel, who wormed his way through the wire mesh which enclosed the pen, and ate so many rabbits that he could not get out again.

I shot the weasel, but I used a shot gun instead of a rifle with the result that every shot in the cartridge killed a separate rabbit. The cartridge contained 184 shots, only one of which—the one that wounded the weasel—failed to bring down its rabbit.

Then one day a haggard, woebegone rabbit which had escaped from a laboratory where he had been inoculated with some highly infectious disease, probably smallpox, came back home for a visit, and hobnobbed through the screen with several of his old friends. The rabbit's manner of caressing is rubbing noses, and the nose, as is well known is a great infection carrier.

A week after that all my pets came down with the malady. I sent for the vet, who gave them all condition powders and said they would be all right in the morning. By "all right" he must have meant dead, for that is what they were when came the dawn.

It didn't seem worth while after that to raise any more rabbits, anyway the literary market was looking up. In my mail I found orders for several recommendations for various kinds of commodities, which I wrote, receiving in a few months all I had lost on the rabbit farm in a year, excepting, of course, my time.

I am permanently out of the rabbit business now. They are interesting little creatures, but the next time anybody tells you that they multiply rapidly, just refer them to me.

FRANCE'S NEW GOVERNMENT.

The cabinet completed by Paul Painleve is curious enough to be termed unique in recent French political history. The premiership is dwarfed by the two ministerial posts which ordinarily come after it in order of importance. Painleve gives the ministry of foreign affairs to Ariated Briand and the finance ministry to Joseph Caillaux. Either of these names has a greater weight of influence than that of the premier. In the present situation, the destinies of France will be almost wholly committed to the hands of Briand and Caillaux.

Briand will be expected to maintain French prestige abroad and Caillaux to repair the national finances. There will be very little for the premier to do in his proper capacity. He has retained the ministry of war, however, in which he may exercise a decided influence upon general policy.

Caillaux is reputed to be the foremost financial expert in France. Briand has shown himself a successful diplomatist. With proven ability in its most important ministries, the new French government will take office under as favorable auspices as could be enjoyed in existing circumstances. The acute stage of financial crisis was passed by the nation before the new government was announced. Illegal inflation of the currency by the Bank of France has been remedied to some extent by the enactment of a bill authorizing the bank to raise the limit of circulation from 41,000,000,000 to 45,000,000,000 francs, which will more than cover the illegal increase of some two billion francs. With this much accomplished for the Painleve ministry in advance, that ministry will have a breathing space before it is compelled to take up the grave task of currency and tax reform.

THE VOICE OF NATURE.

This is the time of the year to get out your copy of Bryant or Best Poems, and read "Thanatopsis."

To him who in the love of Nature holds
Communion with her visible forms, she speaks
A various language; for his gayer hours
She has a voice of gladness, and a smile
And eloquence of beauty, and she glides
Into his darker musings, with a mild
And healing sympathy, that steals away
Their sharpness, ere he is aware
And to the end of its 87 lines.

This also is the proper time of the year for Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborn to be voicing the need of a return to the immediate contact with Nature which men had in Cro-Magnon days.

"The cave boy certainly had advantages which our boys have ceased to enjoy. He was surrounded on all sides by vibrant Nature, full of inspiring and wonderful phenomena, which filled him with reverence and awe, if not with superstition.

"On restoration of the privileges enjoyed by the cave boy and on coming for the first time into direct vision of the wonders and beauties of Nature, not only boys and girls but men and women, young and old, feel a thrill which they may never have experienced before."

But perhaps Professor Osborn errs; man is as close to Nature as ever.

In the words of Goethe: "Nature! We are surrounded by her and locked in her clasp; powerless to leave her, and powerless to come closer to her. Unasked and unwarned she takes us up into the whirl of her dance, and hurries on with us till we are weary and fall from her arms."

Nature is embodied in electricity, the radio, the automobile and the thousand and one other conquests and harnessings of Nature's ether, vibrations, pulses and manifestations, in which the modern man is making himself increasingly expert, just as much as in trees and rivers and beasts.

We do stand much less close to the Nature of the cave man. But would he have preferred his mode of contact to ours? He hunted, fished, ran, jumped and climbed strictly in order to exist.

In those days Nature meant a constant struggle for food, cold and heat, unchecked floods, avalanches and plagues, sabre-toothed tigers and other visitors unpleasant to encounter in the course of a stroll. And, on the other hand, it meant the forests and the mountains and the skies unobscured as the constant background for work and play.

NEW YORK COTTON EXCHANGE EXHIBIT.

Richard T. Harriss is vice president of the New York cotton exchange. He has been placed in charge of a unique exhibit at the southern exposition, to be held at the Grand Central Palace for two weeks, beginning May 11th. This will be the first time so far as is known, that an exchange has exhibited at an exposition.

Richard T. Harriss has named a committee to arrange for the exhibit, which will be designed to show how important a part cotton plays in every day life and the function of the New York cotton exchange in the marketing and distribution of the crop.

Lest we forget Mr. Harriss is a native Texan. He is one of four brothers prominent in the cotton world. His brother, Bayliss Harriss, is mayor of Galveston, and prominent in cotton circles down on the island.

All the Harriss boys were born, reared and educated in the Lone Star state. They won their way without wealth to back them. It is appropriate that a Texan should have been named to direct the exhibit which is to be shown at the Grand Central Palace.

FRANCE IS COMING BACK.

Official statistics regarding the foreign trade of France in 1924 show that the imports from the United States were greater than from any other country. Great Britain which was first in 1923 was second in 1924. France owes an enormous foreign debt, but the people of France decline to be heavily taxed, war or no war. They are willing to fight and die but they are unwilling to be heavily taxed for the payment of the debts contracted for war purposes.

HEAD AND HEART—THOUGHT AND VIRTUE.

"Thought, thought, is the fundamental distinction of mind, and the great work of life," cried William Ellery Channing.

"All that a man does outwardly is but the expression and completion of his inward thought.

"To work effectually, he must think clearly. To act nobly, he must think nobly.

"Intellectual force is a principal element of the soul's life, and should be proposed by every man as a principal end of his being."

It is common to distinguish between the intellect and the conscience, between power of thought and virtue, and say that virtuous action is worth more than strong thinking.

But we multiplate our nature by thus drawing lines between actions or energies of the soul, it was believed by Channing, the chief apostle of New England Unitarianism.

"The head and the heart are not more vitally connected than thought and virtue," he opined.

Channing's philosophy is characterized by his passionate faith in the divinity of human nature.

Does conscience include, as part of itself, the noblest action of the intellect or reason? Do we degrade it by making it mere feeling? Is it something more? Is it a wise discernment of the right, the good?

"Take away thought from virtue, and what remains worthy of man?" Channing observes.

"Without power of thought, what we call conscientiousness, or a desire to do right, shoots out into illusion, exaggeration, pernicious excesses.

"The most cruel deeds on earth have been perpetrated in the name of conscience.

"Men have hated and murdered one another from a sense of duty

"The worst frauds have taken the name of pious."

Thought, intelligence, is the dignity of man, and no man is rising but in proportion as he is learning to think clearly and forcibly.

COLLINES IS ELATED.

Former Senator V. A. Collins is highly elated because the supreme court of the United States has declared the Kansas industrial court law unconstitutional. This is his prayer, "long live the constitution. Long live the great tribunal which is deaf to every appeal except that of duty." And then the former senator adds this comment, "if you have property the constitution protects you and your right to enjoy it. If you are without property, the constitution protects your life and liberty."

This former senator was a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor last year. He declared for the repeal of the open court law. Posing as a prophet, in his review of the action of the supreme court in setting aside the Kansas law, Mr. Collins says, "just so it (the supreme court of the United States) will say of the Texas open port law the first time it is put up to that great tribunal in the proper way."

It will be recalled that Kansas coal miners were jailed and kept in jail by the Kansas industrial court because they would not accept the wage scale fixed by the aforesaid court which has been stripped to the bone of its power by the court of last resort.

Speaking of Collins, he is the candidate for governor who told the people that the taxes could not be reduced unless the educational and other institutions of the state were crippled or partially crippled by the powers that be.

Collins hasn't changed his mind.

MORE COTTON ON FEWER ACRES.

There is a drouth. Yes. It has been with us for months. Yes. Why worry? Cotton growers are alarmed. They should dig up the records of other years when the drought threatened the tillers of the soil. This is the closing week of April. A north Texas newspaper has given some facts as to early and late planting in a story appertaining to more cotton on fewer acres. These are samples:

John W. McFarland planted his cotton May 7, 1924, on his farm in Anderson county. His yield was better than two bales an acre.

F. H. Littleton of Vernon, Wilbarger county, planted his cotton May 16, and made more than two bales an acre.

Phillip Noto of Brazos county planted his cotton March 14, and raised a total of 4,631 pounds of lint on five acres.

W. N. Harkness of Hooks, Bowie county, had to replant his cotton June 9, and made 3,574 pounds of lint on five acres.

Luther Caughn of Buffalo, Leon county, planted his cotton May 16, and got a total of 3,832 pounds of line off five acres.

This shows a wide variation in planting dates, writes the cottone ditor of the Dallas News, or from March 14 to June 9, or almost three months. He adds that it shows much may happen between the middle of April and June 9th. His conclusion is, "there is no reason for gloom." A sensible conclusion. There is no reason for gloom.

WANNAMAKER ON THE ROAD AGAIN.

And now J. S. Wannamaker of South Carolina, president of the American Cotton association, says the year 1925 will be critical for the cotton industry in America unless a good crop is produced. It is important he says that the cotton reserves of the world depleted through the short crops of three famine years should be restored to normal condition.

Patriot Wannamaker says there is danger of the boll weevil making heavy inroads on the 1925 crop unless farmers are aroused and take the proper precaution to check the pest. J. S. has the figures. He says the farmers in the year 1921 gave over 6,000,000 bales to the weevil and that their loses in 1921 and 22 aggregated $1,000,000,000.

J. S. is notified that the weevil has not made its appearance in Texas this year. There is a reason for it. Cotton growers have been backward in planting. They are waiting Jupiter Pluvius to extend his favors or rather to bestow his favors.

This prediction is made by the writer. There will be sufficient cotton grown in America this year to supply the demand of the spinning world. There will be a carry over next year. Why borrow trouble until it comes.

GREAT CALIFORNIA RESERVOIR.

Lake Almanor in Plumas county, California, is said to be the largest artificial power reservoir in the world, and now the Great Western Power corporation intends to increase the size of the lake to a capacity of 1,300,000,000 acre-feet which would give the reservoir about four times its present storage capacity.

It is announced that the development is part of the great western's $200,000,000 Feather river program, and with the enlarged reservoir the company will be in a position to stand a number of years of rain failure.

It is said the Lake Almanor water shed is 504 square miles, and that of the Feather river system about 3,000 square miles.

In years to come, and they are not far off, the gigantic power companies will control the rivers of America and the dividends will be larg

Letters of a Japanese School Boy

A Tour of Charleston.

To Editor——who do not have to go to Palm Beach to study palmistry?

Dearest Sir:—

You bat your bootware I got a sipprise for Cousin Nogi what I threw right into his open face last Wedsdy p. m. (daylight shaving).

That date I walk into Sons of Yama-to Drug Store & Saloon where I find my slightly depraved relationship drunking something looking like soda water & smelling elsewhere.

"So ho, Togo!" he evaporate from scorn, "where you been gone this two (2) months? You are carrying a suit case all covered with hotel libels. You look so healthy I am fraid you will drop dead & for what reason you seem so refined like you have talked with educated persons? Where have you been?"

"Away," I drape.

"There is so many kinds of Away," he vampire. "Among others there is the North Pole, Arabia, Manganese, Peru and the Peanut Arcipeligo."

"Gass again," I amputate.

"Shall not!" he dib. "By yr outside appearance I think you have been living on sunshine, grapefruit, salt water & palm trees. Which long distance land have you dishcovered?"

"Charleston, S. C." I relate.

"O, shux!" dictate Nogi. "You should not look so swieled & umporfant. You have not dishcovered Charleston. Hon. Owen Wister dishcovered that town in 1492 & wrote a book intitled Lady Baltimore which make all the oldy ladies of Charleston so darnly mad that they never go to Philadelphia anny more. Why you go to Charleston, I ask to know?"

"Axidental," I revoke. "About two (2) months of yore Mrs. C. W. Quockmire, my owner, say I were such a nuesance around house she would pay me wages to leave home. This seem only fare to me. Therefore I find a ferryboat to Florida so I could find the place where good chorous girls goes when they die. 'So Hon. Ship sail right out of the weather & got into climate. Nextly I know he stop himself at a port all covered with sunshine & Colonlle houses & Greek temples & Gen. Peace.

He'd Gone Far Enough.

"'Oh let me out of this ferryboat to get there!' I holla while snatching suitcase.

"'O stop before lost!" shouch Captain 'You are in Charleston which are only 1-3 yr ticket!"

"'I should not worry if it was Jamestown or Johnstown of Williamsburg,' I snatch forth. 'This are the city for which I have been looking in geography.'

"'It pays not to advertise," dictate Captain saddishly while pushing boat away from shoar. 'If you stop in Charleston you will probly stay there & we cannot make anny money taking you back East.'

"What make Charleston such a charming for people who sees it?" require Nogi.

"It are so foren," I report.

"What make it so so muchly more foren than other American cities?" are next question for him.

"Because it are entirely inhabited by Americans," I snuggest. "This make them seem very oldy fashion & peculious. Nearly all of them got here in 1640 & cable to King Chas not to expect them back. Even Charleston niggeroes is such antique family that they will not let other niggeroes in society, howeverly blackened they are."

"Will not Charleston niggeroes talk with outside niggeroes?" requesh Nogi.

"They cannot do so, if they wish," I ramport. "They got a languidge called Greek temples stretch on all sides of you while people in pants just like you & me come out of doors resembling Geo. Washington's aunt. Every backyard look like Pompeii filled with magnoleum trees, graveyards, flowers, goats & locile color. While looking at such picture 2 or 3 days your eyes gets so full of beauty you wish you could find a German hotel & get ridd of it."

"How old are those houses of which you speak of?" narrate Nogi.

"I tell you some statisticks." This from me. "One day while roming through streets with Charleston gentman we go inside a very deserted anciane home. What I see there? A ballroom slightly bursted with budflowers whittled around all the doors, with splandid wooden panels surrounded by carved jewelry, with a kind of royal mantle-piece covered with portraits of Cupid lynching Venus with a rope of roses."

"'Goshes!' I holla. 'What Jenius built that lovely inside of his house?'

"'Adam,' report Hon. Charleston.

"'Oh gwonn! Your squiffing me!" I nudge.

"Nextly we come to one magliflous house with a front door what look just like the entrance to the Revolutionary war if planned by Stanford White. On it were a porch with colums longer & straighter than any columnist could make, even newspaper columist with assistants. Ouch, it were hansom & beautiful!

"'What antiluvian artist bilt that?' I require quite stupidized.

"'Adam,' narrate Hon. Charleston while walking.

"'You mean say this town are made in time of Adam?' I revoke.

"'O, some sexions is older than that,' he betray. 'But quite large parts of Charleston were bilt in Adam period.'

"That night when I go back hotel for chance to think alonesome I meet a rather round Towerist from Minneapples what tell me quite a shock. 'Oh,' he grump, 'that are not the get to jail with. He study good manners from the Chief of Police who are named Rutledge from his gt-gt-gt ete grandfather who were one of the Lords Proprietors of Carolina. A very sweet and gentile street are also named Rutledge."

"For the Chief or for the Lard Proprietor?" require Nogi.

"Not sure," I commit. Charleston are so filled with Pat Richian family names that it make yr head dive & swim. For instancely there are Hugers (pronounced U. G.) and the Smiths (pronounced Rhett). Charleston grow the finest Smiths in the world, for they all have sprang from Landgrave Smith which were the only grand duke that ever ruled in America and have got a grave which look like Shakespere, only quite older.

"Charleston are completely surrounded with plantations, alligators, Spanish moss, niggero spiritualistics, roads which were also bilt by Adam, several gardens of Eden where wisteria grows on trees 40 ft high and 200 miles of red gardenia flowers that resemble beautiful bonfires and are edmired by everybody exept Miss Amie Lowell, the only lady what ever got fat writing poetry.

"S. Carolina have got a good rds movement which they pay for by tax on gasolene, gum & eating tobacco. If they would charge 25c every time a Towerist say, 'How Wunerful!' they would obtain enough money to pave the nitire State in 30 days."

"Since you are so highly stuck up about Charleston," dib Nogi, "why you come back to this fierce North American climate?"

"I are like Hon. Harney Baruch," I explain. "I merely left there so I could give myself the sweethearted pleasure of going back."

Nogi seem tipped over.

Hoping you are the same,
Yours truly,
HASHIMURA TOGO.

CHARLESTON ARE COMLETELY SURROUNDED WITH PLANTATIONS, ALLIGATORS, SPANISH MOSS, NIGGERO SPIRITUALISTICS, AND FLOWERS.

The Married Life of Helen And Warren

Piccadilly at dusk!

The swarm of home-bound clerks, the endless line of packed buses, the booming din or traffic, the shouts of cockney street venders.

On the Swan & Edgar corner, Helen waited by a window of "6 Guinea" gowns. But the simpering wax figures failed to lure her.

Warren had said six. It was now almost half past!

Then she saw him elbowing his way toward her.

"Waitin' long? Been at the steamship office."

"Oh, did they have anything better?" eagerly.

"Not a darn thing! No cancellations," steering her through the crowd. "Afraid to wait any longer — so I nailed that room."

"Not that inside one—way down on 'E' deck?"

"It's that or nothing! And I've got to go by that boat."

"But, dear, that man you know? The one who always takes care of us—"

"Still on his holidays. This other bird's hard-boiled. I put up a stiff fight—but he wouldn't come across. The boat's full—but they've always something in reserve."

"'E' deck!" dismayed Helen. "Dear, I'll die down there. And inside, too—not a breath of air! I'll be sick all the way over."

"Best I could do! Now drop it! Where we goin' for dinner?"

"We haven't been to the Cheshire Cheese this trip," trying not to think of the wretched homeward voyage.

"Take too long to get down in this jam I'm tired—want to go somewhere near. How 'bout the Carlton Grill?"

"No, dear, we can go to hotel restaurants at home. We've only four more nights in London—let's go to some old chop house."

"Not many left 'round here. By George, I've got it! That place Bennett took me to lunch—Crowley's! Best meal I've had this trip. Come on, it's not far," hailing a taxi.

"Crowley's?" puzzled the driver. "I don't seem to know that, sir."

"—Been there over two hundred years —ought to know it," growled Warren. "Well, drive up Oxford to the top of Bond."

Only three more days! Forcing back the thought of the stateroom, Helen reveled in the soft mist, blurred lights, and smoky odor of London.

Oxford street now. More cluttered, overcrowded show-windows. The Englisho shopman's idea of displaying his stock.

"Pull up along here!" Warren's cane signaled the driver.

"Oh, what a quaint old place!" as she sprang out. "Almost opposite Marshall & Snelgrove's—and I've never noticed it!"

The narrow sagging old-world house -hrank back from the menacing modern shops.

"Crowley's, Est. 1712" was the faded sign over the dingy doorway.

A low sawdusted room with a charcoal grill in the rear. Deserted, except for three men with mugs of ale at one of the bare wooden tables.

"Guess they don't do much here at night—a lunch place. Let's take a look upstairs."

Up dark steep steps to a low oak-beamed room. A solitary diner at the long table that filled the floor space.

"Not very lively," grumbled Warren, as they slid in on the wall bench. Then, as a shirt-sleeved waiter appeared, "Serve dinner here?"

"Give you a nice chop, sir. But no joints at night."

"How about some fish first? Had some rippin' sole here the other day."

"I'll ask the cook, sir."

"Well, see if you can't fix us up. And some of that Musty Ale!"

"This old beamed ceiling—and that huge fireplace!" enthused Helen. "But things don't look over-clean."

"Now pipe down on that! You always want to come to these old places — then kick 'cause they're not slicked up like a pink tea-room."

The waiter re-appeared, his greasy alpaca coat a decorous tribute to Helen.

"The cook's grilling you the sole, sir," placing before them two foaming pewter mugs. "Will you have the chops underdone, sir?"

"Yes, well underdone. Some bubble-and-squeak—and grilled tomatoes."

A heavy tread on the steps. A ruddy well-groomed Englishman entered.

At his stiff bow of recognition, Warren nodded curtly.

Helen's whispered, "Who is it?" was rebuffed with a silencing scrowl.

"Good evening, sir," the waiter wiped off the table before the newcomer.

"Loin chop with kidney. Pint of half-and-half. How are you, Peter?" as a huge black cat jumped up on the bench beside him.

Apparently they were old friends, for the behind-the-ear massage was expectantly received.

When the Englishman dismissingly took up his newspaper, Peter, with stately reluctance, responded to Helen's come-hither glance.

"Oh, how big and fat! No? Won't you let me pet you?"

"Owns the place," grumped Warren. "Saucy beggar. Ah, here comes our sole!"

"Be careful, sir, that plate's very hot. You'll find that very nice, sir."

"Looks great! You can't beat the English sole."

Warren's geniality expanded under the grilled sole and Musty Ale, but the Deck "E" stateroom still gloomed Helen's thoughts.

"Dear, tomorrow I'm going down to that steamship office and see what I can do," impulsively. "What's his name? Gilson? If I tell him how ill I'll be in an inside room — that I MUST have air—he might—"

"Now that's all settled!" sharply. "Here, you won't get this at home."

"No, no more! But, dear, if I approach him right — you bluster so! You antagonize people—you demand things. I got that room in Paris after the clerk told you they hadn't any. Now I'm going down—"

An under-the-table nudge from Warren. A silencing, warning nudge!

What had she said? Puzzled, she glanced around. No one but the Englishman, now dispatching the loin chop behind his propped-up "Evening Standard."

"At least I can ask if there's any cancellation—"

"Now I've attended to our passage. That's settled! Hand me the salt! By the way, I ran into Tracey today—just got back from Spain. Had a great time. Says we ought to go there next year. How 'bout it?"

"No, no, not to Spain! They're too cruel to animals. Those horrible full-fighters! Those poor old horses —blindfolded and helpless," with a shudder. "Ring Lardner wrote it up. He said no lover of horses could stand it."

"Well, we can go to Spain without takin' in a bull-fight."

"I don't want to go anyway. I've seen pictures of their wretched cab horses. That's why I love the English—they're SO good to animals. Aren't they, Peter?" stroking the sleek ball of fur, now dozing on the bench beside her.

"Too underdone, sir? A little more fire?"

"No, just right" Warren viewed the smoking chops.

"No more bubble-and-squeak, sir, but I brought you some vegetable marrow. And the tomatoes will be right up, sir."

"Look, dear, he smells the chop. Yes, I'll give you some!"

But the bit of browned fat was sniffingly refused.

"Choicey, aren't you? Want some of the lean? There! That cunning white nose—and white spats, too! My how loud you purr! I'd love to take you with us. Would you like to go to America? You would?" Then with a sigh, "but I'm afraid you wouldn't enjoy the trip—not in that inside stateroom."

"Stop foolin' with that cat!" grouched Warren. "Your chop's gettin' cold!"

"I'd like some sauce with it. Harvey's or Escoffer's."

"You don't want to spoil that with sauce," he frowned. "Tre real flavor —cooked over charcoal! Can't get a better chop in London."

Well, I'd like something with it—a salad," caring little for meat. "Dear, he didn't bring us a menu."

"No menu here! You take what they've got. Doubt if they've any salad —but you can get some celery. Serve that with cheese. Had some great Stilton here for lunch."

The Englishman, who had followed his chop and vegetable with Cheddar and watercress, now gathered up his gloves and stick.

"Pardon me, but I couldn't help hearing what you said about bullfights. I was in Spain two years ago and saw part of one. I left before it was over. It's no sport for anyone who loves horses."

"That's why I'll never go there — nor Mexico, either! But England—you've such wonderful horses here!" glowed Helen, eagerly responsive.

"I'm glad you think we're good to animals. So you'd like to take Peter with you?" tweaking the black ears. "Then we'll have to make him comfortable. If you'll stop at the office tomorrow, Mr. Curtis, we'll try to fix you up with a better stateroom."

Helen could only stare as the color flamed her face. His stiff bow when he entered — and Warren's warning nudges! She should have known!

"That's mighty decent of you, Mr. Gilson," Warren had risen.

"Right after you left, we had a cancellation. An 'A' deck room—outside. I'll attend to the transfer."

A final tweak of Peter's ears, a British bow, and he was gone.

"Well, what d'you know about that?" grinned Warren, as he sat down.

"He heard everything I said!" fluttered Helen. "Oh, what DID I say?"

"Said you were going down to vamp him! I tried to tip you off—but you kept on chewin' the rag. Guess he thought he'd rather cough up now — than have you buttin' in tomorrow."

"On 'A' deck—outside!" ignoring his ungracious version. "Oh, he was wonderful—I could've hugged him! And just because he loves animals — and he saw I did," exultantly, cuddling Peter. "You always fuss about my 'gushing' over cats—but it got us an 'A' deck stateroom."

"And I'll never hear the end of it. That'll be your new record. If you pull off anything—trust you to harp on it. I get all the reservations for the whole darned trip. If I don't land the best there is everytime—guess my average isn't so rotten!"

Then as the waiter entered.

"How's the Stilton runnin? Good and ripe? Well, two on that — with celery and brown biscuits. And here," shoving over his tankard, "a double repeat on the Musty!"

POEMS THAT LIVE

FOR LOVE'S SAKE ONLY

If thou must love me, let it be for naught
Except for love's sake only. Do not say
"I love her for her smile, her look, her way
Of speaking gently; for a trick of thought
That falls in well with mine, and certes brought
A sense of pleasant ease on such a day"—
For these things in themselves, beloved, may
Be changed, or change for thee—and love so wrought
May be unwrought so. Neither love me for Thine own dear pity's wiping my cheek dry,
A creature might forget to weep who bore
Thy comfort long, and love thy love thereby,
But love me for love's sake, that evermore
Thou may'st love on through love's eternity.

CATHOLIC CHURCH.
Lawrence Hoyt, O. S. B.

Communion: 6:15, 7 and 8 masses 8 and 10 a. m. At the first one the senior choir will sing hymns, while the junior choir will sing the high mass. The church reads the epistle from I Peter 2, 21-25, in which St. Peter tells us that Christ did not only die for our redemption, but also to leave us an example how to bear crosses and adversities and even unjust persecution patiently and without seeking revenge or retaliation. The gospel she takes from June 10, 11-16, wherein Christ tells and provides that He is the good shepherd, and shows who are the hirelings and who are His sheep. Our Sunday school will be at 2 p. m. instead of 3 to give the children a more unbroken time for innocent amusement, and at 7 p. m. instead of 7:30 for the same reason regarding the entire congregation. This is merely an experiment to see if this arrangement will suit the people better and if it will bring larger crowds to Sunday school. With the evening Sunday school we again combine benediction, and the junior choir and the people will sing in this connection the following hymns: "Come Holy Ghost," "Just for Today," "Like a strong and Raging Fire" and "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name." We again extend a most hearty welcome to all our friends.

Junior College Dramatic Season To End With Play, 'Mammy's Lil, Wild Rose'

"Mammy's Lil' Wild Rose," three-act comedy-drama to be presented by the students of the Junior college, May 4 and 5, promises to furnish a fitting climax to the season of school dramatics. It will be the only spring play to be given this year by the high school or college, the high school having decided not to present one at the close of school as heretofore.

Rehearsals have been held daily for several weeks, no effort being spared to make the performance one of true college finish. Spectators of rehearsals have frequently declared that the play promises to equal or to surpass the success of the winter play, "Am I Intruding?" which brought a better response than any other school play ever given here. It is the hope of the directors and the cast to make a showing that will make the announcement of a college play a real event for the city in the future.

In the cast are found a number of people well known in the city. Every member has played a real part in some of the amateur productions of Wichita Falls players during the last few years.

Marjorie Woolsey, as Rose, the mountaineer heroine; Edward Kadane, as the leading man; Conan Cantwell, as Uncle Joe, husband of old Mammy Celie; Louise Scott, as the faithful old southern mammy, form the central group for the action of the story. The conflicting action is carried out by Yancey Cummings as the villain, in love with Rose, and Lemuel Peters as the mountaineer admirer of Rose.

A comedy part is brought in by Babe Joan, a mountain charmer of voluminous proportions, played by Janie McCalister, and her native Romeo, Orpheus Jackson, tall and thin, played by Jerry Vinson.

The cost of characters follows:

Rose ..... Mountaineer Orphan
Marjorie Woolsey
Mammy Celie ..... Protector of Rose

Man in Texas Arrested For Negro Burning

He is One of Six Men Accused of Killing Florida Negro

CROSS CITY, Fla., April 25.—D A. Parker, arrested in Ballinger, Texas, today is one of six charged with the murder and late burning of Lewis Barker, negro lumberman and clothing salesman of this place. Barker's body or bones purported to be his, was found several months after the alleged murder, which is believed to have taken place in October, 1924.

Parker is the only one of the six charged who has not been captured or brought here to face the charges.

W. G. McCrane, one of those accused, was recently acquitted of the charge and T. W. Higgenbotham, famous as the "whipping boss," in the celebrated Marftin Tabert case of more than two years ago, and E. G. Priest, have been given their freedom as a result of testimony given by Charley Hart, negro, also charged in the murder of Parker.

Disposition of the case against the others has not been made.

Summer School Will Offer New Courses

With the addition to the curriculum of an extensive program of college courses, the summer school of 1925 should have a wider appeal than ever before. This will also be the first session to have the advantages of the new college building, with its equipment and library.

"This year's summer school interest not only high school students who want to make up work or who want to shorten their course," stated A. K. Presson, principal of the summer session and deano of the summer college; "it should interest also students who wish to commence or to add work in standard college credit courses, students who wish to take their courses in smaller number at a time in more intensive form, and teachers or prospective teachers who wish to gain or to build on teacher's certificates.

The session will open for registration at the new college building on Monday morning, May 18, and classes will start on Tuesday. Interested persons should communicate with Mr. Presson at the college building.

San Jacinto Day Hurts Week Bank Clearing Totals

Decrease of Over $800,000 Noted Under Total For Week Before

Just when it seemed as though Wichita Falls bank clearings for one week might pass over the $4,000,000 mark for a new four year record, San Jacinto Day had to come along, the banks had to declare a holiday, and bank clearings fell down for a new 1925 low record of $2,989,563.40. This was the first time in the current year the clearings for any seven days failed to pass the $3,000,000 mark. The total for the preceding seven days was $3,840,233.73, a difference of $850,570.33.

After the Tuesday holiday, the highest day's clearings was reported in some time. The total was $713,453.42. "They'll come back, though," was the reply of banking officials when questioned as to the banking prospects for the next few months.

The hope was expressed that before the summer slump comes in July, clearings will have passed the $4,500,000 mark, which will be a new record for northwest Texas, even days of the oil boom failing to produce little better than $4,000,000.

Clearings for the past week as reported by the Wichita Falls Bank Clearing association follows:

Monday	$ 617,596.68
Tuesday	Holiday
Wednesday	712,467.42
Thursday	628,412.45
Friday	574,449.54
Saturday	456,731.31
Total	$2,989,663.40
Last week	3,840,233.73
Decrease	$ 850,570.33

POPULAR SUICIDE DAYS

SEATTLE, Wash., April 25.—Sunday is the most popular day in the week for women to kill themselves and Monday is the most popular day with men, it was disclosed in a report of an address made by Garland Ethel, professor of philosophy at the University of Washington before a philosophical society. He said his data was based largely on European research work.

"The women favor Sunday," he said, "because on that day they are generally left alone while their husbands are brawling, and men kill themselves on Monday because they face the grim necessity of returning to work."

POOR EDDIE - By FANNIE HURST

Copyright, 1925, by
The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Lummox", "Humoresque"

Eddie and Will were twins. Forty-four years old when Eddie married.

Poor Will, thought Eddie, reluctantly leaving him alone after ALL THOSE YEARS TOGETHER.

Later—poor Eddie thought Will. Illness—bad luck—more illness—debt, and THE PITIFUL BABY.

But that night when Minna lay bandaged, fearing scars—It was quiet when Will walked home that night. The click of his shoes was like the echo of the CLICK IN HIS HEART.

WHEN Eddie Holz married, he and his twin brother Will were forty-four years old.

You could have knocked the town down with A FEATHER—that is how confirmedly bachelors these men were in the eyes of their community.

For that matter, you could have knocked Will down with a feather.

It simply didn't work its way into his realization for a few weeks after Eddie had come into the room they occupied jointly over the harness shop where they were business partners, and blurted out to him, in the most stuttering kind of discomfort, that he was engaged to be married to Minna Algahr, who worked in the Nine-nineteen-and-twenty-nine Cent Store.

The Holz boys had been two of THE MOST INSEPARABLE figures in town.

No church social failed to caricature them good-naturedly. They were a town institution. No wonder when Eddie Holz married he set the entire community in commotion. No wonder when Eddie married it left Will as BLEAK and as SOLEMN as a moor.

And to Minna Algahr of all girls! Eddie who had never so much as looked at any of them before, capitulating finally to Minna Algahr, who chewed scent and wore rhinestone combs in her frizzed yellow hair and every spring broke out into fever sores on her lips and who on Sunday mornings brought all six of her smaller sisters and brothers to church and slapped at them and tweaked at them constantly through service.

Minna Algahr of all girls! Minna, who was pretty enough with her big blue eyes that were magnified through high-power spectacles but whose shoulders hitched and who had long, bony wrists.

For weeks after Eddie broke the amazing news to his twin, Will used to just sit during quiet hours in the store and regard Eddie with what amounted to stupefication.

Poor Will! In his heart Eddie bled for his brother. It was hard to think of leaving him alone that way, after all their years together.

But after all, Will was to be a constant and welcome guest at his home after he was married. Indeed, if need be, Minna had agreed to it, Will was to live with his married brother.

And Eddie loved Minna. She wasn't bony or near-sighted and nervous to him. She was tender with all the beauty with which men invest their loves. To Eddie, Minna was suddenly THE MEANING OF ALL THE DRAB YEARS that had led up to his finding her for himself.

Will did not go to live with Eddie and Minna. There was something too delicate and finely strung about Will for him to accept the well-meant urgings of his brother and the dutiful seconding of his sister-in-law.

Will knew in his heart that Eddie was being brotherly and Minna dutiful. And so he kept to his room over the harness shop and the town legend of the inseparable Holz brothers began to die out.

Almost from the first, as luck would have it, things DID NOT GO SO WELL with the Eddie Holzes. After they had fitted themselves up a jolly little four-room frame cottage on Canal Street with mission furniture and a self-playing piano, gift from Will, didn't Minna go and fall off a stepladder, while hanging lace curtains in the dining room, and lay herself up with a sprained ankle for seven weeks! Then Eddie, dragging down some harness from the store room, sprained his shoulder.

No sooner had her ankle got healed than Minna began to droop of what the doctors diagnosed as a mild case of malarial fever, and before the first year was over, Eddie had already borrowed three hundred dollars from his brother to meet the unusual strain of doctor's bills.

Poor Eddie. He began from the very first year to gray a bit at the temples and to wear the hurried, harassed look of one whose mind is always in two places at once.

Then the baby was born. And the heart-hurting truth of it was that the baby was born with a too-large head. It drooped forward on the frail little body like a heavy flower on a puny stalk. Will's heart bled the day that Eddie brought it so proudly into the parlor to show it to its uncle. Eddie's baby wasn't quite right. And yet Eddie, who was in that absurd state of happiness where he couldn't keep the smile from making his mouth seem to skate all around, DIDN'T SEEM TO NOTICE.

Leading his neat, his well-ordered life, the same life that had characterized his years with his brother, Will's heart swelled with hurt for Ed.

Somehow the sight of Eddie, hurrying out evenings with apologies to Will for knocking off a bit sooner, rushing down High Street to stop in for chops or stew to carry home; dashing into the druggist's en route for patent medicine for Minna's pain in the back or soothing syrup for baby; somehow the sight of Eddie, in his reversible collars, harassed with all these woes, hurt Will so! Hurt him so that by the third year of the marriage, Eddie was indebted to his brother for nineteen hundred dollars, half of it the result of Will's pressing the funds upon his hard-pressed brother.

And then with the perversity with which ill luck can sometimes haunt a family, the really horrible happened.

Dragging herself up from her couch, where Minna lay half the time now from back-ache, to heat the baby's gruel at the gas stove, the flimsy sleeve to her kimono became somehow ignited, and when Eddie came home that evening, he found the house smelling charred and neighbors on the stoop and in the parlor and applying greased bandages to Minna, who had been found in a faint on the floor after beating out the flames about her ears and throat with a baby blanket jerked from a chair.

Poor Minna. She had lost her looks as it was, after marriage, and now there she lay with her throat bandaged against the DREADFUL POSSIBILITY of scars!

POOR EDDIE! If only there had been some way to save him from his mistake. Sometimes a sense of guilt overwhelmed Will. He should have found some way to prevent it. And now Eddie was caught. Trapped. Trapped with poor Minna, whose looks were gone and whose back ached so perennially and now whose throat was so apt to be scarred.

Half that night Will walked the street, PITYING EDDIE.

Toward morning he rounded up again at his brother's house, peering in through the window to see if by chance his services might be needed.

Eddie was on his knees beside his wife's bed. He had her in his arms.

Minna, who whined so, was crying out quite audibly.

"Oh, Eddie, if only you hadn't ever married me. I've ruined your life. I've dragged you down. And now look at me—scarred—I should have left you be in peace—like Will——Oh, Eddie—IF ONLY YOU HADN'T married me—"

"Why Minna—why Minna—don't you know, honey-darling—I've never known what happiness was—before now. You. Baby. Why Minna—with all our troubles—they've been nothing, stacked up against the happiness of you—of baby—I wouldn't change back places with Will—why, honey, there ain't money enough to make me change back places with Will. Poor Will—I'm so sorry for him, Minna—half the time I find myself going around being sorry for Will, Minna—because HE AIN'T GOT YOU—"

"Oh, my dearest," said Minna, and with her thin unbandaged hand stroked his face, "Oh, my dearest."

"Oh, my dearest," said Eddie, kissing her all over her face and as near as he dared to her bandaged neck.

It was quiet when Will walked home that early dawn toward his room over the harness shop. His shoes clicked on the deserted sidewalks. It was as if he could hear the echo of THE CLICK IN HIS HEART.

New Fable of Tetley's Treatise on Women—By Geo. Ade

His subject was "Certa in Phases of Femininism."

Those of you who were so Fortunate as to attend the Literary Exercises in connection with the Graduating of the Class of '22 from Bingham College nodoubt will re call the masterly Oration delivered by Herman Tetley. It was the only Speech made by any Graduate and Herm was selected for this Signal Honor because he resembled William Jennings Bryan when the Latter was the Boy Orator of the Platte, instead of the Fully Matured Real Estate Booster of Florida. Herm had a flashing eye, an aqualine Beak and his Hair met the Collar. You could tell, by looking at this Laddy-Buck that he had been incarnated for the Special Purpose of making Speeches.

It was a very hot Day and a great many sons of Old Bingham, wearing Facial Decorations of Ivy and Alfalfa, had come from as far away as Rock Island, Ill., and Chillicothe, Ohio. In spite of the tropical Humidity, the Orator of the Day was fully clad in the Habiliments which must be adopted by ane one who hopes to put over an Oration.

He wore a long-tailed, pall-bearing Suit of Winter Clothes and had a little white Hickey inside the Weskit, than which nothing could be more Marmalade. Also he was shod with Patent Leathers of dazzling Radiance.

The Volstead Enactment has made Claret Cup an Equivalent of Arson, but the Bird who wears Patent Leather Shoes in the morning goes scot free. Yet there are those who prate of Justice.

No doubt the Reader will be interested to learn what Herman Tetley talked about. Well, he talked about 25 minutes and his Subject was "Certain Phases of Feminism." Read it over again and read it slowly and you will perceive that the Hero who started across the Atlantic Ocean in a Dingy was a Piker when compared with Herman.

Adam's Policy, in the Early Days.

Elihu Root is past Eighty and knows more than the Encyclopedia Britannica, but do you think you could induce Elihu to stand out on a Rostum and deliver a lot of brash Opinions in regard to the prevailing Gender? Not on your Vanity Case. But Mr. Tetley, who was just old enough to Vote and never had been East of Pittsburgh, was there with a Spiel. While serving his Term at the Sectarlian Reformatory he had attended several House Parties and met the Wives of the Professors and he was bursting with Data.

Not only did he sum up, briefly, the whole Significance of Woman's recent Itch to hold Office, invade the Professions and put Man back into the Nine Hole, but it was all contrary to the Basic Laws of Nature. When he allowed that there were certain fundamental and biological Differences between He and She, which would forever disqualify the Gentler Sex from tackling any rugged Task, he thought he had stumbled upon a new and glittering Truth. He even went so far as to advance the novel Theory that Woman's True Sphere is within the Home.

He did not know that Adam said exactly the same Thing two Days after He lost the Rib, and kept on saying it up to the Day of the Fruit Episode. Adam continued to refer to Himself as the Head of the Household even after he was taking Orders. The Records are not complete, but undoubtedly he used to say to Cain and Abel, "What I say goes, but I don't like to have any Argument with your Ma."

Not long after Commencement Day we find Herman back to Sycamore, where his Dad owned the principal Bank. For a great many years the Male Parent ofthe Class Orator had been engaged in helping Farmers who were up against it and sometimes he collected no more than the Legal Rate ofr Interest. Tetley, Sr., had quite a Sense of Humor, for he often said that the Lord had prospered him. He had a rating which gave the Son a local Importance not to be attained by putting the Hand inside the Coat and spieling a lot of Websterian Observations.

Herman had read in a Folder that Travel has a Broadening Influence, so he talked the Guynor into letting him go to Europe before he settled down and used his Algebra in running the Bank.

Herman started for the Old World, accompanied b ythe vast Store of knowledge which he had acquired at Bingham. He was still strong in the Belief that Women should not attempt anything more intricta than knitting a Sweater for some Male Relative. He liked the Type of Girl who admired Him and his whole Attitude toward the Inferior Sex was one of god-like Forbearance and Patience, tinctured with mild Amusement, but Old Tet, '22, didn't believe that any Flapper could tell him anything he hadn't known for three of four years.

On the Train he met an Actress who had washed up and walked out, leaving Hollywood flat, because the Directors were not Genteel. She had lost her Purse and borrowed $40 from the Class Orator. He gave her his New York Address but up to the time of his Sailing the Letter had not arrived, probably because the Postal Service is so unreliable in a crowded City. So many Letters are being sent to so many different People, it is small wonder that some of them are misled.

On the Liner it happened that this Deck Chair adjoined one on which reclined a Young Thing with Roly-Poly eyes and Lips of supernatural Redness. He classified her at once, bringing to bear all of the Psychology he had mastered during his Senior Year. About the only Thing to be said in her Favor was that she was a good Listener. She encouraged the cultured young Aristocrat from Sycamore to go ahead and blat about Himself for Hours at a Time and when she learned that he had been Manager of the Glee Club she got all worked up and said he must have got many a Thrill out of the Job.

She asked him where he had his Hair Cut, and if that was a Real Pearl in his Stick-Pin, and did they have Movies in Sycamore and had he ever thought of going on the Stage and if so, why. It didn't take Herm long to size her up as Cut but Shallow—Beautiful but Dumb. He never read any of the Letters she wrote back to Madge and Ethel and Lora, telling about the Goose she had been stringing. It is very difficult for an Intellectual Giant to realize that he is being joshed by some Baby-Face whose Brain seems to be absolutely at Rest.

In every Large City on the Other Side the educated Greenie went into Shops and permitted hypnotic Sales-Girls to load him up with Junk he didn't need and didn't want. And yet, it seemed to him, all of the time, that they were a lot of deferring Menials who simply wanted to learn his Royal Pleasure.

Becoming a Trained Seal.

He came back Home with a busted Letter of Credit but the Complex of Superiority was working overtime. He still suspected that the Creator had put aside all other Engagements and devoted a Week to working out the Plans and Specifications for Herman Wekkoff Tetley, Bingham, '22. It's certainly great if you can feel that Way. It helps one to get through many Rainy Afternoon—you know, just get in front of a Mirror and wallow in your own Personality.

It was about Christmas Time, 1923, that the handsome Young Gentleman with the best Speaking Voice ever heard at his Alma Mater first met the Grass Widow known as Geraldine. When Herman got a Flash at the vacious Shoulder Blades and the carefully blended Complexion and the Third Act costume, he should have crossed his Fingers and run Two Miles in the Opposite Direction, but he was rather Intrigued, if the Reader will permit us to get away with that Word. He felt that Geraldine might prove to be an Interesting Study. She turned out to be Nothing Else But.

Never having attended Bingham College she had to rely on some Practical Knowledge she had picked up on the Side. She sized up the cocky Valedictorian and speared him as if he had been a Fish. She took the proud Patrician and made him a Trained Seal.

Long after, when the Lawyer showed him the Letters which had been purchased for $10,000 and asked him where he got such words as 'Babyola," "Snoopkins" and "Honey-Bunch," he said he sent her the Notes to keep her from dying of a Broken Heart or committing Suicide, as per Threat.

It required the Services of all the high-priced attorneys in Sycamore to side-track the Breach of Promise Suit. The Fact that the expensive Detectives from the City dug up on Geraldine almost enough to send her to the Chair, did not alter the Fact that an old respected Family, such as the Tetleys, dating away back to the Time of the Spanish-American War, could not afford to be involved in an unsavory Scandal.

The local Bank received a Crimp from which it will not recover for many a Moon. Geraldine started for Atlantic City to work at her Trade. Herman kept under Cover for Weeks. Most of the time he was in his Room, reading, over and over again, his Masterpiece entitled "Certain Phases of Femininism." When he came to that Part about Women being the Weaker Vessel and condemned by the immutable Laws of Creation to remain such, he would tear out another Handful of Hair and carefully deposit it on the Table.

MORAL: An Oration will do no harm unless prepared and delivered

WHO'S WHO IN THE DAYS NEWS

HSUAN TUNG

JAPAN twice recently intervened and saved the former Chinese emperor, Hsuang Tung, from his friends of the north, who desired to place him again on his throne, and his enemies of the south, who wanted his extinction, and now, safe in the Japanese confession at Tient-sin, he is seeking to become the ward of the United States, according to messages that have been received within the last few days. It is also said that "Henry Puyi," as he Manchu Prince now prefers to be called, failing to become a ward of Uncle Sam, will come here anyway to finish his education but he will come under the protection of Japan.

Two romantic flights marked his progress to Tientsin from the Chinese quarter of Peking, where he had been placed for safe keeping by the "Christian General" Feng Yu-hsiang, at the time of the latter's coup d'etat last November. The first, which took place on February 10, was to the Japanese legation, the second, two weeks later, was to Tientsin.

Those persons who have had access to him since the beginning of the year say that he has been fearful of his life ever since December 31, when some emissaries of the new government called upon him and forced him to sign a second abdication, which went much further than the first by depriving him of all his imperial appendages and perquisites. By the first, signed on Feb. 1, 1912, he was to retain all his titles, receive an annual grant of $4,000,000 (silver), have a residence in the Forbidden City, and be allowed to exercise the right to issue "moral and cultural decrees."

He was then only eight years old. He had been emperor since Dec. 2, 1908. In his retreat in the Forbidden City, where the twelve years he was kept a practical prisoner by successive governments of Peking, he married quietly Dec. 1, 1922, Princess Kuo Chin-si. He had not even emerged when an attempt was made by General Chang Hsun, with German backing, to restore him to his throne in July, 1917.

On the 6th of last November the troops of General Feng invaded the palace in the Forbidden City and took its imperial tenant to the much more modest abode in the Chinese city. There, at first, he was kept under close guard and he was forbidden to receive any visitors. Later the watch over him was relaxed and he is said to have tried to get in touch with the legations.

During the latter part of his sojourn in the Chinese city he is said to have heard terrible stories of the way the "Christian General" treated his guests.

How He Made His Escape.

These stories, particularly after the humiliatioh of his second abdication on December 31, caused the young man to seek an abode elsewhere. He achieved this with characteristic Manchu cunning.

German Vote Will Be Almost Even, Report

BERLIN, April 25.— Former Chancellor Marx, choice of the Weimer coalition, or republican bloc, and Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, champion of the parties of the united right, today were on the last stretch of their race for the presidency of the German republic with neither expected to have walk away in tomorrow's polling. Political leaders say the result is fully as problematic as was the contest in the United States between Charles E. Hughes and Woodrow Wilson in 1916.

With no tangible figures or other data available speculators are occupying themselves with guessing at the whereabouts of that familiar but elusive election apparation, the stay-at-home vote, and the extent to which Von Hindenburg will profit by ballots cast for complimentary or sentimental reasons.

Back Quit Hurting

MRS. JOHN DIXON, of Bedford, Indiana, whose portrait appears above, has had a valuable experience in the use of Cardui, and what she has to say about this well known medicine should be of interest to every woman who is troubled as Mrs. Dixon was.

"Cardui can not be too highly recommended," says Mrs. Dixon. "That is how I feel about it and I have given it a fair trial.

"About eleven years ago I was so weak I could scarcely stand on my feet. I felt like I would fall in my tracks. I had to hold myself up at all times. My back was so weak and ached continually. The ache and pain would come in my sides. . . . I was so tired all the time.

"I read of Cardui and decided to give it a trial. I knew I couldn't feel much worse and stay up. I didn't care to eat.

"After taking about half a bottle of Cardui I felt better. I felt hungry and I ate. I felt stronger then and kept up taking Cardui. I soon felt like working and, after taking six bottles, I was like a different person. My back quit hurting, and I was better than I had been in a long time.

"Since it did so much good for me then, when I get run-down, don't feel good, I know I need a tonic. About two bottles of Cardui build me up. I have taken it the third time now, and it always helps me. I surely recommend it for weak women."

Many thousands of women who once were weak and suffered from other common ills, as Mrs. Dixon did, have reported great relief from their troubles as the result of their use of Cardui.

If you suffer from similar symptoms, you should try this harmless, mild-acting, vegetable compound. Ask your druggist for Cardui today.

Mass Meeting Plans Aid In Assault Case

Indiana P-T-A Calls Big Meeting to Assist In Murder Case

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 25. Residents of Irvington, the suburb in which is located the home of Miss Madge Oberholtzer, were called today to assemble in a mass meeting tomorrow to outline plans for assisting authorities to bring to justice the persons responsible for her death.

D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the ku klux klan, whose home was also in Irvington, has been indicted on a charge of first degree murder in connection with Miss Oberholtzer's death. Earl Klinck and Earl Gentry, both former residents of Evansville, were also indicted on murder charges as alleged accomplices of Stephenson.

The call for the mass meeting was issued by Mrs. J. H. Dunn, president of the Irvington Parent-Teachers' association. It was originally extended only to women's organizations, but later was made to include all residents of the suburb.

Since the indictment of three men a number of Indianapolis organizations have made contributions to be placed in a fund to be used in aiding the authorities.

A petition to have the trio admitted to bail has been filed and a hearing was set for Monday. Because another murder trial is in progress in the criminal court, however, the hearing probably will be postponed until next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Marmon Dealers Report Biggest Sales of Year

Unprecedented Volume Of Business For Big Company

Increases in sales, unprecedented in the history of the Nordyke & Marmon company, were revealed recently in a survey of the volume of sales in Marmon dealer establishments throughout the country for the months of December, 1924, and January, 1925, as compared with the same two months last year, according to Fritz Motor Co., local Marmon dealer. The results of the survey bea rout with added force the recent statement of S. M. Williams, president of the company, that Marmon will enjoy the greatest volume of business in its history in 1925.

Dealers Telegraphed.

The survey was conducted following the receipt of numerous telegrams from dealers, telling of increases in sales for December and January which, in many cases were two or three times as great as sales made in the same period of time last year. The investigation revealed for instance, that sales in Albany have increased 325 per cent; sales in Boston have increased 353.3 per cent; sales in Buffalo have increased 320 per cent; sales in Indianapolis have increased 366.7 per cent; sales in New York have increased 136.6 per cent; sales in Washington have increased 250 per cent; sales in Detroit have increased 118.8 per cent, etc. Practically every Marmon dealer in the United States has reported an increase in sales volume over last year.

Shipments Increasing.

Factory shipments also have increased astoundingly and the factory now is practically at the peak of production. The three models of the standard line—the five and seven-passenger sedans and the four-door Brougham coupe, still are leading in popularity although in the last few days there has been a steady demand for cars of the deluxe type and particularly for the roadster and coupe deluxe.

The success of the new Marmon is largely attributable to beauty of body design as it is revealed in the enclosed cars. Closed cars will be more in demand than any other types in 1925, in the opinion of Mr. Fritz.

"This is a closed car year," he says. "The closed car has brought about a revolution in the motor car trade. In three years the possession of an open car will be a mark of wealth, for only the wealthy can afford cars of both types. Most of the open cars to be built from now on will be sport models."

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

CAN'T HURRY IN CONGESTED TRAFFIC

When you try to go fast in congested traffic you are really gaining nothing according to a series of tests made by scouts of the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California through the congested districts of Los Angeles.

These demonstrated that it is extremely doubtful if the time saved by hurrying and exceeding the speed limit pays for the extra gasoline and the brake lining worn by drivers trying to cut down time.

Do you allow pasters of one kind or another to be attached to the windshield of your car?

It is a dangerous practice.

* * *

The practice of "heading" a motor car into a parking space, regardless of its size, and leaving it there, forcing traffic to turn out for the rear end, is one that should be discouraged.

* * *

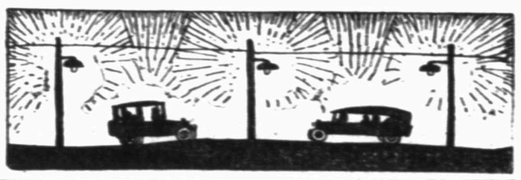

In parking always assume that there may come a time when the man ahead or the man behind may want to move his car. Give him plenty of room.

The Automobile Trade Journal has been telling its readers of the possible uses of arcades and overpasses as a means of reducing traffic congestion.

Chevrolet Sales Plan Successful Since Beginning

Over $6,000,000 Worth Of Cars Sold in Past Seven Months

Cars and trucks aggregating $6,000,000 have been sold under the Chevrolet 6 Per Cent Purchase Certificate Plan since this copyrighted method was inaugurated among Chevrolet dealers seven months ago.

The plan, regarded as a fundamental improvement in automotive merchandising, has met with such uniform approval that now more than 2,000 of the Certificates are sold each month.

Under its provisions a prospective car owner may start with an initial payment as low as $5. If desired, a larger first payment may be made. This is followed by weekly or monthly installments suiting the convenience of the purchaser. These payments are then entered upon the back of the Purchase Certificate. When the sum of the payments plus the 6 per cent interest earned reaches one-third of the retail price the car is delivered. The balance may be met either outright or on a deferred payment plan.

Another attractive features is a provision that a Certficate holder who already owns a car gains a further credit toward his new automobile of 6 per cent of such amounts as he may spend with the dealer for service, repairs or accessories on his old machine.

The Certificate savings are amply safeguarded. They are banked in a separate trustee's account, in a local bank. Over 2,000 of these accounts are established in different banks in the United States. In addition all money paid in on a Chetrolet Purchase Certificate is insured against all loss by a strong and well known insurance company.

Five Overland Fours Set Average of 32.75 Miles Per Gallon of Gasoline

(Los Angeles Times.)

LOS ANGELES, Calif., April 25.—The famous ten-gallon hats of Texas has nothing on the long-distance all-steel "one-gallon" Overland cars that travel—regular owner style—better than 32 miles on a single gallon of gasoline, and in five different directions all at once.

Five Overland all-steel touring cars, strictly stock models, just as they are delivered to private owners, left the Automobile club of Southern California to test gasoline mileage.

Allowed One Gallon.

Each one was allowed one gallon of gasoline, and each was routed in a different direction, checked out by local newspaper men.

In order to get an idea of what these new four-cylinder Overlands will do under general driving and traffic conditions, L. J. McCracken, manager of the Willys-Overland-Pacific company and sponsor of the test run, suggested that they be routed over various highway used every day by hundreds of thousands of local motorists.

Benjamin R. Buxton of the Bozani Motor Car company, reported that he had to make 11 stops getting out of traffic on his trip. He drove north on Figueroa to Eighth street, east to Broadway, north to Sunset, and Macy and east by way of Mission road and the Valley boulevard toward Pomona. His one gallon of gasoline carried him 33.7 miles to the "Old Phillips ranch" about halfway between Spadra and Pomona, in spite of all his traffic tie-ups.

Bucked Traffic.

The car sent out from the factory branch bucked trafic north on Figueroa to Washington, west on Washington to Hoover, to Alvarado, to Glendale boulevard, over East Colorado avenue to Pasadena, Mt. Wilson toll house, Devil's gate dam, Michigan and Ocean View boulevards and stopped with 31.9 miles to its credit in front of the Montrose State bank.

Pilot Lane ofthe Sonoma Motor Sales company headed north on Figueroa to Pico, west to Veront, to Eighth, to Western, to Wilshire, over Rossmore avenue and Cahuenga pass and via Venura boulevard to Owensmouth, there he recorded 33.7 miles as his car stopped at the foot of San Susana pass.

The car sent out by Lynn C. Buxton, newest local Willys-Overland dealer, went east on Adams to Main, south to Harbor boulevard, to the harbor and Long Beach, proceeding as far as Sunset Beach, where the speedometer showed 33.6 miles as the last drop of gas was used.

Beaches and Hills.

Roy M. Johnson's Overland hit for the beaches and the hills. Taking a course out West Adams to the junction with Washington, he toured Venice, Ocean Park and Santa Monica via the Speedway and then turned up Topanga canyon for a stiff pull to Ventura boulevard where he recorded 30.9 miles when the car came to a stop headed up the coast route north.

Five Overlands, each with a gallon of gasoline to start, traveling through traffic under ordinary driver conditions covered 163.8 miles. Their average mileage per car was 32.76 miles, or about 1-2 cent a mile for gasoline expense.

"This record is one that will impress thausands of motorists who must think about the economy of both initial investment and ensuing cost of maintenance," said McCracken.

Oakland Director Believes Demand Due to Increase

He Says That Last Half Of Year Will be A Banner One

During the second half of 1925 the sale of motor cars will be fully as great, if not somewhat greater, in the farming territory than during the first six month's period.

W. R. Tracy, assistant director of sales of the Oakland Motor Car company gives this as his opinion after a two month's trip through the great agricultural sections of the country, comprised of the mid-west and western states. Mr. Tracy travelled more than 11,000 miles.

"The tendency in the selling of the automobile is away from the seasonal idea, he states, toward an all year round proposition, in which sales for the last half of the year will, in all probability, be as great as during the first six month's period.

Closed Car Demand.

"The constantly growing public demand for closed cars is one of the important factors in leveling out the seasonal selling peaks in the retail end of the motor car industry," he continues. "Another important factor is the tremedous growth in good roads, enabling persons in the rural and farm district to use their cars throughout the year.

"The increase in good roads not only permits the use of the car throughout the year, but is one of the important factors that will increase the sale of motor cars. Invariably, increased motor car registration follows the building of good roads in every section.

"The policy which Oakland has adopted for some time of continually improving the car but not bringing out yearly models, will undoubtedly be followed by many other companies. This method of production enables a car purchaser to obtain the latest model at any time of the year, and also makes for steady sales during the entire year.

Two Cars Per Family.

"The growing custom of individual families to own two cars has reached such proportions that we can now look upon this class of purchasers as forming a new market which will make for a steadily growing increase in sales each year.

"This is not going to be a boom year. In fact it looks to me as though we will have steady production and sales each year, gradually increasing in a steady curve from year to year.

"The industry has reached the point where the replacement market, plus the natural growth in population, will give us pretty definite knowledge on which to predicate yearly production.

"Business conditions, as I observed them, are good. The fruit and agricultural industries on the Pacific coast and in the mid-west states are good. The lumber and fishing industries of the northwest have not been so good but are now looking up. Though crops and crop prices were good last fall, a recent decline in the price of wheat made the farmers in Kansas, Nebraska and the wheat growing states conservative.

"I really do not believe there will be a great deal of spending by the farmers until the harvesting and sales of this year's crops, starting in July. Oats were already planted in Iowa when I was there early in April, and large crops are being planted everywhere in the farming territory."

New Record Is Set By Dodge Brothers

Dodge Brothers have been establishing new high records continuously for several months, as compared with similar periods for previous years, but the record for the week ending April 11 is the best in the company's history.

With retail deliveries aggregating more than 7,000, an average of more than 1,300 production day, the best previous week was surpassed by several hundred cars. New retail orders exceeded the corresponding week of 1924 by 1,000 or approximately 19.7 per cent.

Although Dodge Brothers Motor Cars are now being built at the rate of 1,100 a day, both deliveries and new orders are some 200 a day in excess of production.

"Had dealers stocks permitted, the number of deliveries for the record week would have been even greater," said John A. Nichols, Jr., vice president in charge of sales. "It is not a spurt, but a steady, healthful climb."

Hup Owner Praises Car in Long Drive

A Hupmobile four owner just returned from a trip into Nevada, Arizona and Texas, drove up to the headquarters of the Greer-Robbins company, distributors for the Hupmobile in California last week to tell officials of the distributing concern how well his roadster had performed on the long journey over roads of different kinds.

"That Hupp never faltered for an instant," he said. "No matter where I wanted to go, even though the grade was the steepest and and the road might only be two rails wide enough apart for the wheels.

"Whenever I stopped to put oil into the motor people generally remarked about the absence of loose wires under the hood. As a matter of fact all of them are housed in flexible metal tubing large enough to allow the wires plenty of freedom and at the same time keep them from rubbing off their insulation.

INSPECT EACH PART

"Lincoln manufacturing standards call for individual inspection of everything that goes into the construction of the car. In one room, every ball bearing or roller bearing which goes into the building of the Lincoln is actually run at high speed and listened to with a delicate instrument to detect the slightest roughness which might produce noise," said Claude Red, salesman for Langford Motor Co., Lincoln and Ford dealers of this city.

Rickenbacker Auto Head Thinks Car Is Best Of Allies to Any Business

"The automobile is not a rival," says B. F. Everitt. "It is the most valuable ally to all other industries and lines of business.

"It is just as illogical — just as silly for business men in other lines—to rail at the automobile as a competitor, as it was for the workman to resent the advent of the automatic machine tool.

"The old typesetter went on strike when the typesetting machine was introduced—he imagined it was a rival. It proved his greatest benefactor, for it not only multiplied his efficiency—once he had learned to use it—but it make his work easier while doubling, trebling and finally quadrupling his pay.

"And where there was one typesetter there are now 10 linotype operators—for the extra efficiency of the machine, multiplied newspapers and magazines—gave us a 64 page paper where we previously had a 4 page one. That is only one of many examples that are familiar to everyone.

Simply a Machine

"The automobile is simply a machine which multiplies the energy of its owner.

"It not only pays for itself, but creates wealth and purchasing power to buy other things.

"Before the railroad came, there really were no factories—only work shops.

"Prior to that the use of the horse was limited only to such small areas as were available for consumption of the home-made product.

"The railroad rendered it possible for makers of everything to produce vastly more for foreign use.

"The telephone did not supplant any other convenience. On the contrary, it created wealth for the purchase of other things theretofore unknown in the home, by increasing the productive power of it's owner's time.

"Show me a home without a telephone and I will show you one that lacks most every other modern convenience and labor saving device.

"Put a 'phone in the office and in the home—power washing machines, pianos, phonographs, automobiles, trucks and tractors follow, as sure as night, the day.

"It is a truism that the coming of the steam railroad, not only did not supplant the horse, but increased his value. He was needed more than ever to carry products from the source of origin to the railroad which then transported them to far-away markets. In other words, the horse proved to be the greatest feeder of that which was expected to exterminate him.

Destroy Predecessor

"Pessimistic people are always predicting that each new form of transportation will destroy its predecessor. Experience proves the exact opposite.

"No inventor of a newer and quicker method of transportation has ever been able to predict even a fraction of the business it would, itself, develop.

"For example, the bicycle, not only did not supplant railroad travel nor usurp the package carrying business, but, in its heyday, was the greatest contributor to the express companies.

"Almost overnight, that business ceased and pessimists thought the express business was on the decline.

"Almost simultaneously the automobile came along and today supplies in the form of parts, tires and etc., more than three times the railway express business that the bicycle did.

"Even the express companies themselves, fought the parcel post because they thought it would deprive them of business.

"In actual practice, however, it has developed a type of traffic of its own and previously non-existent, and since the advent of the parcel post the express volume and revenue has more than doubled.

Fought Motor Trucks

"For a time, the railroads fought the motor truck and the passenger bus, which merely shows they were short-sighted. Now the railroads, themselves, are among the heaviest buyers of these types of motor vehicle.

"The truck has taken from the railroad a large percentage of its 'short haul' business. But that was the unprofitable part of railway freighting.

"The motor bus, while it may deprive the railroad and trolley lines of a percentage of passenger traffic on some lines, still does, by acting as a feeder on lateral roads, supply vastly more than it takes.

"We now observe that, where the motor bus proves so much more efficient and economical than the trolley car the company simply deserts the latter and supplants it with the motor bus.

"Far from being a competitor of the railroad, the automobile is today its biggest individual customer.

"Paying the highest freight rate—double first class—the shipping of automobiles constitutes a large percentage of the total volume of freight in America.

"Indirectly, the motor car is still the best ally of all other industries because, by the high wages it pays, the vast quantities of products it purchases from other industries—drawing as it does from the mine, the steel mill, the rubber plantation, the ranch and the lumber woods—the automobile creates vast wealth and purchasing power.

"In fact, the purchasing power of America—the ability to own homes to furnish them, to dress better and live better, has nearly trebled since the advent of the automobile," says Mr. Everitt.

Pierce-Arrow Cars Have Good Brakes

After tens of thousands of miles of use on "Series 80" cars, all over the United States and many foreign countries, Pierce Arrow four-wheel safety brakes have given convincing proof of their efficiency for every sort of driving condition, says salesmanager, Bradley Duke Auto company, Pierce-Arrow distributors.

"No trouble of any kind has been reported with these Pierce Arrow brakes," he said. "Owners report perfect operation in every sort of climate ranging from the extreme cold and snow of Canada to the tropical conditions that exist in South America.

"Some owners experience brake trouble chiefly from two sources. The most frequent trouble is keeping the brakes in adjustment, and because of this fact, the liners need replacement more often than should be necessary.

"Pierce Arrow engineers spent years working out this problem. The type of four-wheel brakes adopted for Pierce Arrows is the development of a principle used with conspicuous success for 15 years by a prominent European automobile manufacturer."

Star Coupster Is Newest of Durant Low-Priced Autos

Car is Furnished in Best Of Taste With New Fixtures

The public demands more and more utility and comfort from its automotive transportation. This trend is finding expression in the constantly increasing use of closed cars.

The greatest unfilled demand has been for a quality closed car of the one-seat type, low in initial cost, capable of providing reliable, comfortable, economical year-round transportation for business or recreation.

Commends Self

Responding to this demand, Durant Motors, Inc., in the new Star Coupster, has produced a car that commends itself because of its low initial cost, its low operating cost, its graceful lines, and its wide utility.

It possesses many of the refinements of the advanced type of closed car, such as permanent top, glass rear window, clear vision, one-piece glass windshield, wide generously-upholstered seats, covered with durable gray Spanish artificial leather, enough leg room for tall men, side and ceiling in a good quality of gray cloth, flexible transparent door windows, instantly adjustable like a Pullman car curtain, that disappear within the top of the car when raised. A cowl ventilator provides fresh air without exposure to the weather.

Lower Portion

The lower portion of the body is finished in blue lacquer with a white stripe, upper portion in grained artificial leather. The radiator shell is nickeled.

This body is mounted with the celebrated Star Million Dollar Motor built on the standard Star chassis.

The price $625 f. o. b. factory makes it the lowest-priced one-seated, closed automobile in the quality low-priced field. Nothing combining its power, year-round utility, reliability and low selling and operating cost has hitherto been produced.

Ford Production Is Boosted, Says Dealer

Production has been stepped up to 7,000 cars and trucks a day in the Ford factories, according to word received here last week by the Langford Motor company, Ford and Lincoln dealer. The company has been operating on a full week schedule for some time and the present production schedule represents an increase of 600 units a day over that of a few weeks ago.

Reports coming in from all sections of the country show rapidly increasing spring buying with dealer requirements mounting and stocks nearly depleted. Fordson tractor production has also been moved up to 450 per day to care for growing demands.

HOPPER POISON PURCHASED

C. of C. Makes Ready for War Against Pests in Hardeman.

QUANAH, April 25. — Acting on the theory that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure", the chamber of commerce has ordered supplies of poison and syrup and with which farmers of Hardeman county will poison the grasshoppers before they get a chance at the crops.

No custom has as yet been planted. The dry weather has hatched the hoppers by the millions throughout this section; but with no crops to destroy, and the grass too dry for the tiny hoppers to feed on, the farmers believe by distributing poison around the fields much better results will be obtained than to wait until crops are up.

C-C Convention To Have Biggest Parade

Information indicating that the annual parade feature of the West Texas chamber of commerce convention to be held this year at Mineral Wells will eclipse all similar attempts by the West Texas organization, reached the chamber of commerce yesterday from headquarters.

The letter also contained request for what part Wichita Falls contemplated in the monster pageant, the number of representatives from Wichita Falls to be included in the parade.

"Work in the morning; play in the afternoon" is one of the prominent slogans on the West Texas organization's stationary.

Time of the parade at Mineral Wells this year has been set for 1:30 p. m., on Tuesday, May 5, which is the second day of the big convention.

Lincoln Motor Tests Are Made In Silent Room

Special Room Outfitted For Testing New Cars

One of the interesting tests carried out by the Lincoln Motor company, a division of the Ford Motor company, in manufacturing Lincoln cars, is that of the clutch and transmission, according to Harold L. Arnold.

A special room has been fitted for the purpose. It is known as the "silent" room and is so constructed and insulated that factory noises are completely shut out and only those created in the room itself can be heard.

Transmissions are placed on a test stand and driven by an electric motor, which is mounted outside the room so that even the hum of the motor cannot be heard.

Expert inspectors test each transmission and clutch assembly, first, free from load and then, through an ingenious arrangement, a load is applied similar to that in driving a car. This provides a practical method of testing gears, bearings and shafts for any noise in transmission or clutch. Assemblies which do not pass the test 100 per cent are torn down and rebuilt with new parts.

The test is strikingly illustrative of the extreme care which is taken in every phase of Lincoln manufacture.

Wichita Falls to Get Spring Produce Soon

Although spinach is the only vegetable up to this time of the year offered in local markets that is home grown, the season for Wichita county fruits, berries and vegetables, will open very shortly, according to George Keit, owner of Wichita Produce company.

"Although the season is very short for many commodities in this section, Wichita county farmers will supply an average of one-third of the market for fresh vegetables this season, I think," Mr. Keith declared. "The supply will be greater this year from the county than ever before, because of the many new farms and gardens started under the irrigation. The future for this field is brilliant, and I believe that in time local farmers will fully supply the market along some lines and do extensive shipping.

"Within a very few weeks, bunch vegetables will be ready locally. Beans will come on in thirty days; an abundance of bell peppers in 45 days, tomatoes, black eyed peas, potatoes and onions in 60 days, with cabbage and turnips in the fall."

With many truck gardens starting over the community, it has been noted that the backyard gardening over the city seems to have been stimulated. Evidently, citizens had not fully realized that water is the only thing needed in Wichita county to make things grow.

Potash and Perlmutter Discuss the Twelve Good Men and True —By Montague Glass

"I see where a lot of lawyers and judges are claiming that trial by jury is a failure," Abe Potash declared the other day, "in especially since they begun to let women serve on juries."

"Women has got nothing to do with it," Morris Perlmutter said, "which is my expreience on and off juries, Abe, the human race is divided into three classes, men, women, and juries, and when it comes right down to juries, y'understand, they're got most of the short-comings of both sexes, Abe, and the intelligence of neither. It's got to be the case nowadays, Abe, that the only chance a highwayman has of being found guilty is to be tried by a jury of the people he has robbed.

"Otherwise his lawyer will produce in court the wife and three children of the defendant if he has any, and if not, anybody else's wife and children will do, and right away the jury will be willing to bring in a verdict that the man who was robbed should ought to be jailed for trying to bust up the family of a brad working highwayman."

Troubles of The Jury.

"Which where lawyers and judge make their big mistakes, Abe, Morris continued, "is believing that witnesses and evidence has got any effect on a jury, and especially in accident cases where they get a thousand dollars a day medical expert to testify that the plaintiff has a strabismus of the duodenum or something, to influence a jury of twelve men, eight of whom think that thealimentary canal runs from Buffalo to the head of navigation in the Hudson River ten miles below Glens Falls.

"I myself have been on juries, where the only time anybody in the court room was using words shot enough for me to understand, was when my mind was so occupied with what was going on at the store that I didn't pay any attention to what the witnesses was saying at all."

"Lawyers don't figure that the jury has got their troubles the same like the plaintiff and defendant," Abe observed. "All they ask a prospective juryman is: does he know the plaintiff or the defendant personally, but they never think to ask him if everything is all right at home or has he got any engagment uptown or downtown which will cause him to bring in a verdict in favor of the side that was finished the quickest and allowed him to get away to his sick wife or sick business, as the case might be.

"Furthermore, Mawruss, it's my experience that juries don't bring in verdicts based on what goes on in the court room but on what goes on in the jury room," Abe continued. "I've been on many cases where eleven jurymen had made up their minds for the defendant in the court room because the court room evidence had decided them that way.

"Then when they got into the jury room, they switched to the plaintiff because the evidence in the jury room was that the twelfth man was so determined to find for the plaintiff, that if they didn't come around to his way of thinking, they would be locked up all night and miss four pinochle games, three lodge meetings, two movie shows, a couple of good night's rests and one musical comedy.

"But what happens in the jury room, Abe, ain't got nearly so much effect on a jury as the way the lawyers behave personally in the court room," Morris declared. "Speaking for myself, y'understand, I've decided many a case for the plaintiff on the grounds that the defendant showed very poor judgment and taste in the selection of a lawyer, which I ain't particularly stubborn, Abe, but I've got my likes and dislikes, too, and rather than bring in a verdict in favor of any such loud-mouthed, smart aleck of a lawyer as Henry D. Feldman or Keut J. Goldstein, y'understand, I would consent to be locked up all night in a downtown hotel without steam heat or running water in the room and not even a deck of cards to play Canfield solitaire with."

"Well, that's where the jury system has done a whole lot of good, Mawruss," Abe said. "Many a business man has settled a ten thousand dollar suit on a plain business contract out of court rather than have the matter decided by twelve men who have got such poor judgment, y'understand, that their wives can't trus them to buy a seventy-five cent order of delicatessen on Sunday afternoon without running the chance of getting a shortage on the delivery of any how the rye bread and dill pickles."

A Question of Pockets.

"Moreover, Mawruss, so many cranks get on juries nowadays that of the defendant being found in the possession of a wife and three children rather than on the evidence that he was also in the possession of a pint flask of whiskey on his hip," Morris declared, "which if it wasn't that certain states has juries as well as laws, y'understand, many a wife and three children would be sentenced to three years non-support for being related to a man with hip pockets in his pants."

"Well, in them states where it is three years in states prison for carrying a flask in the hip pocket, Mawruss," Abe observed, "it will be practically impossible to get a jury who will find men guilty of such a crime unless the law also provides that the district attorney shall ask all prospective jurymen whether they was ever confined in a lunatic asylum, and if the prospective jurymen deny that they were, then the district attorney shall have the right to challenge them for cause."

"It's only wasting time to ask jurymen that question, because if the plaintiff with a perfectly good case for goods, wares and merchandise delivered and accepted has found himself licked merely because Juryman Number Three got an idea that the plaintiff looked like the juryman's wife's uncle who was a member of the Socialist Labort party and downed him in an argument about the child welfare amendment to the Constitution no later than last Fourth of July," Abe continued.

"Then there is jurymen with prejudice against cross-eyed people who are deciding cases where the defendant has a bad cast in the right eye, and practically five jurymen out of ten are so chivalrous that they figure any woman under forty with regular features, blonde hair and a black dress with white collar and cuffs can do no harm, even if two hotel detectives, her husband and eight disinterested witnesses testify otherwise, y'understand."

"Still, Abe, in some criminal cases it's a whole lot better that the jury should decide the case on the basis jurymen convict under such a law, it's either proof, either that they were once confined in a lunatic asylum or that they anyhow ought to be," Morris said.

"Then how about the legislators which pass such laws?" Abe asked.

"You can't judge the sanity of legislators by any ordinary rules, Abe," Morris remarked. "In particular when it comes to enforcing Prohibition. In fact it wouldn't surprise me in the least if they even passed a law making it also three years in prison for any merchant or manufacturing tailor to put hip pockets in pants at all."

"Wait a couple of years till they add the Prohibition of smoking to all the other Prohibitions, Mawruss, and such a law won't be necessary, because the manufacturers of pants for men will step entirely," Abe concluded. "They'll all be wearing skirts."

"It Wouldn't Surprise Me in the Least if They Passed a Law Making It Also Three Years in Prison for Any Merchant or Manufacturing Tailor to Put Hip Pockets in Pants at all," Morris Remarked.

Yale Engineers Test Cadillacs In Class Work

Interesting Efficiency Tests Made By The Students

Part of the work of the Yale engineering laboratories consists of regular tests of the efficiency of various makers of American automobiles. These tests have been carried on for a period of more than ten years, and the results of tests on the same make of automobile shows some interesting comparisons. Some of the comments on the recent test of a V-63 Cadillac, as reported in the Yale Alumni Weekly, are very interesting as it was more than ten years ago that the first test of a Cadillac eight was made at Yale.

"The V-63 Cadillac, which was tested, had run 21,000 miles at the date of test and was in excellent condition," runs the account of the Yale test. "The rolling resistance was only sixteen pounds per 1,000 pounds of car weight; quite a low value. The loss of horse power between engine and rear tires was less than 10 per cent at full load. Both of these items testify that the small internal frictions of the car and help to explain its excellent power performance.

"The test of the Cadillac eight in 1914 showed fifty-three horse power at the rear wheels at a speed of forty miles an hour. On the 1924 model the horsepower was sixty, an increase obtained without change in size or speed of the engine, and hence chargeable to improved valve timing, carburetion, etc.

"The V-63 Cadillac used in the test had run 21,000 miles. The revolutions of the engine during this distance, assuming the car to have run always in high gear, and never idle, were about 69,000,000 turns. This amount of use had not worn out the engine, but apparently had only limbered it up for good operation, as shown by these tests."

Resale Value of Car Is Always Important

The resale value of a motor car is a factor now considered to a greater extent by prospective buyers of automobiles than ever before, declares a representative of the Wichita Hudson-Essex company, retail dealers for the Hudson and Essex.

It is pointed out that in past years, prior to the near approach of the much-discussed saturation point, the resale value of a car didn't carry the weight. The demand for used cars exceeded the supply, and as he remarks, any make of car brought a fair figure on the used-car market.

"The resale factor, we believe, is one of the outstanding reasons for the remarkable sales records now being established by Hudson and Essex everywhere. An unprecedented demand for these motor cars on the new-car market spells a similar demand for Hudson-Essex on the used market, both demands the result of the motor-car public generally recognizing the Hudson-Essex line as one of marked value.

"The demand for used Hudson and Essex cars at this time is clearly indicated by the many calls we have daily for used models of the line. We have been unable to supply this demand—in most cases either a Hudson or Essex being sold by our used-car departments the same day it is turned in on a new car. It is safe to say we could dispose of with ease double or even triple the Hudson and Essex used cars we are now selling if the cars were to be had."

Fairview Schools To Consolidate in 1926

The following teachers have been re-elected in the Fairview independent school district for the session of 1925-26: E. M. Allgood, Denton, Texas; Miss Mary Sypert Clark, Gainesville, Texas; Miss Fay Clemmer, Clyde, Texas; Miss Frances DuBose, Devine, Texas; Mrs. Eloise Hardy Harris, Burkburnett, Texas; Mr. Jake Harris, Burkburnett, Texas; Miss Jewell F. Johnson, Chillicothe, Texas; Miss Olna Oatis, Burkburnett, Texas; Miss Billy Ruth Thomason, Memphis, Texas; Miss Frances P. Tirey, Waxahachie, Texas; Miss Mattie de Walker, Alto, Texas. Miss Elsie Glenn of Fort Worth will be clerk in the superintendent's office. The other teachers of the district did not desire re-election. W. T. White was re-elected superintendent in January.

Since all of the schools will be consolidated into the brick building it will not be necessary to employ as many teachers as heretofore, though it is expected that there will be 16 classroom teachers.

The school is going to operate a supply store next year from which pupils may buy any and all of their supplies needed in the school work. The profits from this store will be expended on an elementary school library. It is expected to operate this store on as small a margin as possible so that pupils may have the benefit of lower prices on supplies and text-books not furnished by the state.

Clarendon Ranch To Be Divided and Sold

CLARENDON, April 25.—Announcement was made here Friday that the C. T. Word ranch containing 38,000 acres, is to be subdivided and placed on the market during the next few days. The ranch is the property of the Commerce Trust company of Kansas City and is under the supervision of F. E. Chamberlain, local banker, who will supervise the sale.

It is estimated that approximately 10,000 acres of the estate is tillable, 6,000 acres of which will be subdivided into 160 acre farms and thrown on the market at prices ranging from $35.00 to $50.00 per acre. The remainder will be divided into small ranches and sold at prices based on value and location. It is stated that liberal terms will be allowed and an effort will be made to culminate the project by fall.

Ring Rakes Over Tender memories of Mah Jongg—Recalls Good Old Days —When Laundrymen Cashed in on Ancestry, Suggests palming off Old Sets on Europe —By Ring Lardner

To the editor:

As has been our custom in the past the writer will sometimes answer questions in these columns provided we feel like the answers is of gen. int. Like for inst. we will take occasion today to reply to a query recd. from a admire during the past wk.

"Will you kindly advice me," writes J. H. M., "if they was ever a game called mah jong or mah jongg or something and if so please give a few details in regards to same."

When we first read the above it did not strike no cord in our memory and we was about to cast the letter to 1 side as the works of a boob when all of a sudden a flash of recollection flashed acrost my mind and I recalled a xmas time 2 or 3 yrs. ago when I did not have no idear what to get for madam as usual and 1 of my girl friends says to get her a mah jongg set which was all the rage and she says she knew where she could get a hold of one that was a little damaged for a measly $45.00 which it would bruise you to extent of $60.00 if you tried to buy it new.

Time Out For Brawling.

So I give this gal the commission to buy the set and the madam acted tickled to death with it and had company in once or twice a wk. to play mah jongg and admire the set and they was a couple times when they was shy a player and dragged me in and tried to learn me the game and got sore as a boil when I said it was a good deal like rummy.

A high class $60.00 mah jongg set was made up of a lot of little pieces of wood and 5 or 6 dice about the size of caviar and a wooden chest of drawers that was always cracked in several places when you got it. They charged $9.00 or $10.00 extra for 4 long pieces of good that was called walls for no reason. And I guess they must of also charged extra for spelling it with 2 gs.

I won't make no effort to try and tell how the game was played as no 2 people was even close to a agreement regarding same and many a life long friendship was smashed to h—l and gone on acct. of one of the partys saying chow mein when she should of said eggs fo yung and a little sister-in-law of mine from Indianapolis lost what respect she had for this branch of the family when she found out we played with flowers and seasons though she was never able to exclaim why they was included in the set.

I give up the game one night when they added up my total fo a hand and found it was 40,000 and one of the gals in the game had 2000 and they said that made her and I tied.

It didn't take nowhere near as long to play mah jongg as it did to get ready and getting ready was the sole of brevity compared to the time spent in brawls. Games like hockey and chicken fighting that use to be considered tough was looked on as only fit for hopeless cripples after mah jongg was introduced.

They's been big rewards offered for the arrest and conviction of the goop or goops that brought mah jongg to America. Who ever done it is keeping their mouth shut as they realize the everybody would join with the Ku Kluxers and see that they got justice. A good many think it was the same people that brought the Democratic convention to New York.

The game was suppose to of started over in China but wile most Chinamens looks silly I never seen one yet that looked silly enough to of originated mah jongg. However the chinks was not slow to take advantage and hundreds of them is now living in the lapse of luxury and eating imported rats as a result of $25.00 a hr. mah jongg lessons.

Our women folks, heavens bless them, would hesitate a long, long time before paying $.60 for a new bulb so as their husbands wouldn't hafto undress in the dark but they trampled each other down trying to be the first to give their laundry man $25.00 per hr. for learn them a game that was a complete surprise to him at the time and still is.

No Profit on European Deal.

It must give a chinkie a hearty laugh to think of the money we spend sending missinaries to China to enlighten the natives and try and develop their mind, and then think of mah jongg in all its branches.

Amongst the beneficiarys of the mah jongg epidemic in this country was the boys known as experts at auction bridge. The fact that I can run a typewriter at a fair rate of speed don't qualify me as a teacher of kelly pool but the fellows that had been writing and teaching bridge in our best circles soon added mah jongg to their repertory and would of cleaned up even more handsome than they did if they had of wore yellow masks and slanted their eyebrows and hung a Chinese lantern on their ear.

They was many a hot newspaper controversy as to this and that feature of the new game indulged in by old masters of 2 days experience and it is pathetic to ponder the amount of white space wasted on mah jongg lectures that might of been used for pictures of Gloria Swanson and Mrs. Coolidge.

What to do with your mah jongg set is a question that is now bothering many a former addict. For a brief time they was a movement a foot to try and get other countrys interested in the game and unload our outfits on them, but for some reason another you hate to even sell stuff that ain't worth nothing to people that ain't going to pay nothing for it. Personaly we have found that the chests or boxes makes very good kindling, wile the tiles can be used as confetti and the wooden money as guest toothpicks.

Many A Long Life Friendship Was Smashed on Acct. of One Of The Partys Saying Chow Mein Instead of Eggs Fo Yung.

What To Do With A Mah Jongg Set Is A Question That Is Bothering Many A Former Addict.

Commissioner of Health Says to Open Car Window And Let the Fresh Air In Paraphrasing St. Paul: "Stop taking stuffy air, only open your motor car windows and take plenty of fresh air, for your health's sake."

"You'll find fresh air and sunshine on the highway, to health.

An excellent way to improve the health of mind and body is to ride out in the open air. In the spring time, the world is a happy place to live in and there are many pleasant things to see along the great highway of health.

Fresh air is a stimulating agent which helps to keep us fit, and taken together with sunshine it is a true tonic, benefiting both the well and the ill. Every person is entitled to a place in the sun, it is here for the taking.

Pure air promotes physical and mental perfection. Breathing deeply helps to prevent an accumulation of fat, quickness the digestive processes and aids in ridding the body of poisonous waste products.

We need fresh, pure air all of the time, sleeping or waking, resting or working, sick or well; our supply of fresh air never should be curtailed, either in quality or quantity.

Nothing can compare with a ride in an open vehicle out along sunny parks and into the countryside. There is gaity in the skies and health in the woodlands. With each draught of fresh air, there comes new courage and greater effectiveness in meeting the problems of working and living.

Let us partake of the fresh air and sunshine in abundance. These life-giving elements will clear up that old winter cold and cough and bring red blood again to the veins.

Let us ride in the open, in a frame of mind to enjoy; dust off the cobwebs of everyday life and as we ride, let us not only look, but see, noticing renewal of life in its many forms and manifestations.

Have your car windows opened so you may have every opportunity to breathe fresh air. Be suitably dressed for the open, of course. See that the car has enough oil, water and gas, then throw the throttle wide and go where vim, vigor and vitality await you, any place where fresh air and sunshine abound.

Be not afraid of colds. Dress warmly. If you can, select a car with readily enclosable body to shut out the storms of spring, the sudden squalls of weather. Avoid getting wet and then remaining in the wind.

There are cars as open as the out of doors, yet which can be enclosed swiftly against extremes of weather. These are ideal. But keep them open until storm requires enclosure. If the storm requires closing only one side, keep the other open. For fresh air is unseen gold that enriches your treasury of health.

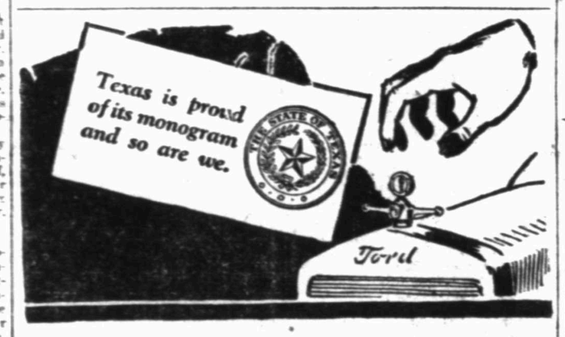

The ideal car such as referred to by Dr. Bundeson is the Studebaker Duplex—open as the out of doors itself, yet enclosable in half a minute, either on one side or all around. The Duplex is a ticket to happiness along Dr. Bundeson's highway of health.

CREDIT GAS WITH AN HOUR SAVED

How much time do you save every day on account of your natural gas supply?

This question, addressed to a hundred housekeepers, brought forth answers that showed conclusively that few stop to think about this advantage.

One of them answered, "None"; ten thought 30 minutes a day; the others all guessed between. They had used natural gas so long they had forgotten about the time required to build and nurse a coal fire, the time required to clean out the ashes and clean up the kitchen; the time needed to heat water—and all the other little things they were saved from by natural gas.

Probably not one of them saved less than an hour a day; many more. That hour is a literal prolongation of life—you gain about one day in fifteen by it—days for more work, more pleasure, more rest, more study.

Let us not forget, when we consider the low price and the cleanliness of natural gas, to add to its credit the saving of time as well.

Cotton Is a Product In Which West Texas Leads Any Like Area In World

Editor's Note: This is another of a series of articles by Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald on the winning of west Texas. They are now being published in The Record News in connection with the coming convention of the west Texas chamber of commerce at Mineral Wells to which Wichita Falls will send a large delegation. Wichitans should make their reservations now with the chamber of commerce committee.

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Record News Staff

Texas is the banner cotton state. Texas has been known in some years to produce a third of the cotton crop of America. There has been more wealth taken out of the soil of Texas in the form of raw cotton than the gold mines of the world have produced in two centuries.

Cotton was a southern product before the coming of the civil war. It was cultivated in all the older sections of old Texas. While the war was on the price of cotton shot to the skies, and blockade runners carrying contrabrand cotton to the mills of Manchester and Birmingham added to the festivities of bloody strife.

A vast financial institution is the National City Bank of New York. It was founded by the Stillmans. Grandfather and father and son have been prominent in its management. Now this elder Stillman, a Connecticut Yankee, spent many years of his life at Brownsville and while the civil war was on he was interested in the Port of Bagdad, on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande, where the cotton was dragged overland by oxen and the blockade runners made their daring runs from the mouth of the Rio Grande to the ports of England.

Laid Fortune Foundation

Tradition says that Stillman laid the foundation for his mighty fortune in Bagdad and vacinity and there were many others like him. But this has to do with West Texas. In the memory of thousands of men now in the prime of life, the cultivation of the cotton plant in West Texas was begun by hardy tillers of the soil from the older section.

Every time a ranch was broken up the man with the plow and the hoe planted cotton and corn and rye and feed stuffs. Wherever the iron horse touched the man with the plow and the hoe began a battle for existance and to create for himself a farm and the products which go with a farm.

All the time the battle for diversification was being waged. In his earlier years in Texas as a newspaper writer the author of these sketches must have written a hundred thousand columns on the subject of crop diversification and crop rotation. It was only yesterday that West Texas was given over to the cowman and the sheepman and their herds and flock.

Cotton Great Money Crop

Now cotton is the great money crop of West Texas. There are cotton gins everywhere. There are cotton seed crushers everywhere. There are cotton buyers everywhere in season, and in two or three of the war years there was more cotton grown in the territory lying west of Fort Worth than was produced in the territory lying between that city and the Guf of Mexico.

This is one of the amazing transformations that has taken place in the years since Larry Chittenden, at his ranch in Jones county, penned the poem "The Cowboys' Christmas Ball," and before the Swentons, owners of vast ranches and herds, began the cultivation of real crops by inviting home seekers from afar to become purchasers of their lands.

The Swentons, who are New York bankers as well as Texas ranchmen, for years and years had the late Frank S. Hastings as their manager. He had a constructive brain, he had vision and he was one of the builders of a vast territory, that is, he aided in its transformation from live stock ranges to cultivated farms.

Produced 47,000 Bales

In a single year Jones county produced 47,000 bales of cotton, where a few years earlier cattle grazed and the cowboy was the master. Indeed it has been demonstrated that there are 50 counties in West Texas the natural home of the cotton plant.

Hall is another county where the cotton farmer has astonished his brethren in the old sections of the state.

Hall and Lubbock and adjoining counties have come up strong as yilelders of the fleecy staple and in many of the West Texas counties touched by the Santa Fe and its feeders, cotton is the crop, the money crop that has come to stay. A Wilbarger man produced two bales to the acre last year. There is a cotton mill out at Post in Garza county, one of the first established in Texas and a dividend maker of high degree.

Wherever the plowman has turned the soil of the west he has been a winner. Wherever the man with the hoe has found habitation he has conquered the wilderness. There are cotton experts who say that West Texas alone could produce half the cotton crop of the world and half the cotton crop in normal years would be about 10,500,000 bales.

Cotton is the gold crop of America. It is the new money crop of the south. According to President Coolidge it is by far the greatest single item of our export trade. Last year we sold abroad more than $950,000,000.00 worth of cotton, and it is the contention of our financiers and economists that the assurance of a favorable trade balance lies in our exports of cotton.

In a recent address interesting figures were given by the president.

Graded Sixth

He said on the manufacturing side the cotton industry is graded sixth among our great manufactures. It employes about 500,000 wage earners, and turns out products valued around $2,000,000,000.00 annually.

Of the 159,000,000 cotton spindles in the world he said 56,000,000 are in Great Britain, while the United States with 38,000,000 occupies second place. Owing however, to the difference between the American and British fabrics, our spindles consume about twice as much raw cotton as do those of Great Britain.

Texas has 25 cotton mills. Texas is on the brink of a vast revival along manufacturing lines. In the years to come, the textile will be the chief industry of this common wealth. New England has read the handwriting on the wall. In the future the cotton mills are to be placed where the cotton plant grows. As has been said, West Texas for many reasons, has the advantage over the growers elsewhere.

Howe, About Stone Mountain, Edbert Smotts, Noble Work

By ED HOWE

The poor abusing the well-to-do;
Wives and husbands abusing each other;
Employes abusing employers;
Business men abusing rivals;
Candidates abusing each other;
It is all the unreliable stuff preached by the Soviets—the Communists, the Socialists.

Don't imagine Sovietism only in politics; it is a factor in everything. The man in the wrong in any argument adopts the best excuse he can think up hurriedly.

When in an argument with a rival, you may think you have right, to exaggerate, to accept bad things about him on insufficient evidence.

You haven't.

Many excuse themselves with the statement that self-preservation is the first law of nature.

It is: but telling a lie isn't the best self-preservation;

The best way to favor yourself is to tell the truth, and be fair.

Everyone likes the Literature of Protest. And everywhere protestant is unreliable; he protests too much; conditions are never as bad in anything as he says they are——Protest is like sentiment; it is always overdone——Protestants should at least be truthful and reasonable, but rarely are.

For a good many years I have heard of a great work of art to be accomplished on Stone mountain, near Atlanta, Ga.

Eight years ago, happening to be in Atlanta, I was taken to Stone mountain by boasting citizens, and told of the wonderful thing to be done there.

The mountain was to be changed into a battle scene on a huge scale, faithfully depicting all the heroes of the southern confederacy.

Ever since the "item" has been in a week has not passed without some reference to this new evidence of greatness regularly accomplished by Americans, to the shame of other parts of the world.

A recent row in the Stone Mountain association brings out the humiliating fact that all this big talk has been brag. Although a great deal of money has been collected and spent, and many enthusiastic meetings held.

The great man who was to carve the battle scene seems to have done nothing save give interviews to reporters, and deliver addresses before art associations.

A recent newspaper article declares nothing has been done in actual carving except half a face on the mountain side, although from the noise made, and the long time the hullabo has been going on, I had imagined the artist had carved entire armies.

Half our American things are accomplished in the Stone mountain plan; the great things we do are in the future. Private enterprises accomplish results, but committee work is largely boasting in presence of newspaper reporters.

How we have bragged about airplanes!

Lately a daylight-to-dark flight was planned from Michigan to Florida. Great crowds gathered in Michigan in the morning, to see the planes depart, and speeches were made boasting of the greatness of Americans.

In the afternoon crowds gathered in Florida to welcome the flyers. While waiting, speches were made telling of our greatness.

In a day or two some of flyers arrived in Florida, with tales of hard luck.

And the man in charge of the expedition said the planes that were owned by the government not fit for anything; that they were so much junk.

And think of the billions we have spent on airplanes; of our boasts that in a few years we would be sending passenger airships across the ocean from daylight to dark—with room and bath for every passenger!

In all our public affairs, the inevitable investigation reveals another Stone mountain.

You will recall the Tea Pot Dome scandal, originally one of our proudest boasts; we intended to store oil, and be prepared to wipe out other nations in the wars we were preparing for.

But all we got out of it actually was another humiliating Stone mountain.

An old saying is "A penny for your thoughts."..... the offer is not high enough; some thoughts would not be confessed for a million dollars.

I don't know; I merely have notions.

A new idea in big business is to not only pay valuable employes a big salary, but a bonus on earnings. Men willing to work, and capable in other respects, are so scarce that their services command fabulous prices; one man is said to receive a million a year, in addition to a bonus; and other employers are bidding for his services. Really capable employes are making more money these days than employers who spend their winters in the south, and their summers abroad. Really valuable employes are so scare that many of our biggest institutions are now owned by them.....When Henry Ford dies, who will manage the Ford works?

The best man on the job, and he will get a salary and commission that will stagger you.....The real opportunities in this country come to employes of profitable institutions built up by hard workers dead and gone.

Seen in a foreign publication: "If you have trouble with servants, get rid of your wife."

I once knew a man of very bad habits who was accused of an indiscretion of which he happened not to be guilty.....And how he enjoyed proving he was not guilty! He had never before been innocent, and enjoyed the opportunity to the uttermost..... We are all a good deal that way..... And I am grateful that my worst offenses have not been found out. We all complain about gossip, but gossip is merciful to all of us in that it does not know all.

I am inclined to believe John D. Rockefeller will in time become very popular, for the reason that when he wishes to do good, he does it with his own money, and without bothering others.

No one has contributed a penny to the Rockefeller Foundation, except Mr. Rockefeller himself; and in human history there is no record of an equally useful institution. And he has bothered no one, and Andrew Carnegie did with his Carnegie libraries.

The most troublesome man I know is Egbert Smotts. He has made a good deal of money in a small town, and has become a tremendous nuisance as a do goodster. He wants to found an Egbert Smotts school; an Egbert Smotts hospital; an Egbert Smotts band; an Egbert Smotts park the city, the county, to give $5,000 to his $1,000 and suggestion. In addition he pesters people for personal subscriptions.

I think Egbert should do such good as comes in his way with his own money, and let others do good in their way. This is the plan of a very intelligent and practical man who is growing in popularity so rapidly that I am of the opinion he has the right idea.

I shall never be satisfied until I give John D. Rockefeller something; a watch, a loving cup, or other small thing I can afford, but which will express appreciation.

Every American has the notion he is particularly devoted to noble work. An American, he says, is always devoted to education, patriotism, religion, progress, more than foreigners. This has been the burden of the speeches he has heard, and the reading he has done since he can remember; so he tries to be equal to the character. He does not stop to realize that this stuff is fed him for a purpose by demagogues, to cause him to support foolishly extravagant things.

The American, with all his good points, is a good deal of a dunce. He believes his sentimental gush is his strongest point. It is actually his weakest.

The labor unions, the church, even the women, need regulation we must administer, however much it shocks us to admit it.

A LADY CASHIER — By Rupert Hughes

By RUPERT HUGHES

If she has to, any woman can get along without a single fashionable gown; but does the woman live who can get along with only one.

Dresses are like cherries: you cannot pull one out of the basket without bringing along half a dozen others. And that sad scientific fact is the basis of a vast amount of social misery, matrimonial failure and evil behavior as well as a vast amount of social rapture, matrimonial success and good behavoir. Fashion had a good deal to do with a recent crime that is likely to become a fashion.

For here's a new crime for women. We are likely to hear more and more of it, too. Of course there is nothing really new under the sun, but things that were isolated in the past have a way of becoming epidemic for a while.

Fifty years ago in this country women had far less freedom or respect than they had in Egypt 2,000 years before Christ, but today the women have more liberty than they have ever had in recorded history.

With the glories of liberty come the crimes of liberty, since everything has "the defects of its qualities." Yet it is well to have the qualities even if we must take along the defects. It is well that women should vote even though they learn how to swindle politically or inmitate the foolish men who have always tried to advertise their own virtues or bigotries by writing them in the law books.

It is well that women should earn their own money, even if they spend some of it foolishly or earn some of it criminally. They used to spend their husband's and father's moneys foolishly, and earn their own moneys by the crimes of wheedling, marrying for money, renting their love out to strangers for money, selling their daughters to the streets or to unloved husbands, and other abominations.

But the latest fashion in women criminals is the lady who embezzles in order to dazzle a lover.

Women are passing rapidly through all the stages that men passed through slowly on their own way from slavery to serfdom, up through restricted suffrage to universal male suffrage legal equality and unhampered opportunity.

We now see girls running away from home as boys used to run away from home. Before that, a father could bind his son and daughter out to years of apprenticeship or indentured servitude—which were prettier words than "sell into slavery" but just as ugly in their effect.

By and by, boys ceased to run away from home and just walked out. Now the girls are stepping out.

Young men have long been stealing and gambling and tapping tills and falsifying ledgers in order to get money with which to make handsome presents to mercenary sweethearts who collected in advance for their caresses.

And now the women are under way along the same path. Only a few months ago a pretty girl who sat in the booth in front of a movie palace and snapped tickets up at visitors, was arrested because she had got into the habit of turning in only a portion of the proceeds and devoting the rest to her own decoration on her evenings off.

She worked hard in a small cell, and, as she figured it out, she had a right to a little splendor. She had enjoyed some $2,000 of the company's money before she was discovered.

Far more heroic was the loot extracted by another more infatuated lady. She diverted to her own uses some $16,000 of the funds turned into her employers, who were what is known as "realtors."

Hitherto her life had been tame and obscure as maid, wife and widow. Her earlier romance is not included in the record. She blossomed into fame only when she settled down to hard work as a self-supporting cashier.

But she found it monotonous to set at a barred window all day and watch the world go by. She found it harrowing to let the streams of money come and go through her fingers and never stop. A business-man she was all day, but when the clock struck 5 she suddenly became all woman again. She longed for beautiful gowns, jewels, and most of all, for love.

She met a man and he made love to her. He was of a type that used to be considered loathsome in America, though common enough in older civilizations: the male who preys on a woman's vanity and accepts money from her. But everything is changing here, and now that women are growing too proud to stop to breach-of-promise cases or to accept alimony from divorced husbands, it is the men who accept alimony and sue for breach of promise.

In the eternal topsy turvy of this revolving sphere it may turn out to be quite respectable for a man to fawn on a woman and accept presents from her, sell his beauty to the best advantage and expect to be supported in the style his father was accustomed to. This used to be the highest ideal of the most respectable parents, and daughters who wanted to earn their own livings were considered a disgrace to their families and a menace to the sanctity of the grand old American home. So why should we dispise men for doing what was once revered in women?

What's sauce for the goose should be sauce for the gander. That at least seems to have been the guiding principle of the pretty young man who flattered before this overworked, underloved cashier of the realtors.

She was once very pretty herself, so she felt a need of the enhancement of fine raiment and glittering jewelry. Her salary did not reach that far; but there was plenty of money flowing through her hands. One night she did not brush all of it off.

She bought herself a beautiful gown. Now, as I said before, there seems to be a clause in the feminine constitution which makes it possible for a woman to get along without a single fashionable dress, but quite impossible to get along with only one.

The cashier's first little gown bowled for a hat of equal modishness. That hat called for shoes, stockings. The ensemble demanded an appropriate coat. The fingers, rings. The ears, ear-rings.

The new gown was lonely. It must have another for a change. The second frock required another outfit. It was indecent not to have hat, shoes and other things to match. The second costume compelled a third. And so on. As Gilbert says:

"In for a penny, in for a pound,
"Tis love that makes the world go round."

The realtors were absorbed in their dreams and booms. They were idealtors and failed to notice the guilt that harrowed their supposedly hard-boiled cashier. They never imagined that their Cinderella in the cage became a princess after dark and flitted about with a prince.

He ridiculed her as a homely old frump who had dolled up and made a fool of herself.

She soon found that her clothes were too royal for the little flat into which the grey mouse she had once been used to steal contentedly. She rented a more sumptuous apartment. Naturally, nobody but a miser could live in a sumptuous apartment without giving sumptuous dinners and parties. So she gave sumptuous dinners and parties.

And now her young man began to find that she was growing too gorgeous for him. Reversing the old legend of King Cophetua and the beggar maid, this Queen Cophetua said she would marry the beggar man, poor as he was.

He accepted her proposal but, with a maidenly shyness, insinuated that he really needed an automobile to keep up appearance and increase his business. So she bought him an automobile. That is, the realtors bought him an automobile, though they had not yet found out about it.

Step by step this reversed romance followed the same old pattern. The Arabian Nights and the Greek romances and the chronicles of the smallest shabbiest towns of all time are full of the disasters of men who stole in order to adorn young women, only to have the young women spurn them when they had reached the end of their funds.

As countless men had embezzled for the sake of their mistresses, the lady cashier embezzled for the sake of her mister.

As men had educated women to such greed that they demanded at least more than the men could provide, so this poor woman educated her man to demand more than she could provide.

Being a book-keeper by habit, she had kept a strict account of her purloinings. In a moment of anxiety if not of remorse, she paused to add up the total. It dazed her. The boom was coming unboomed: collections no longer poured through the cashier's fingers and the realtors were beginning to think of their reserves. At any moment they would reach for sums that should have been there and were not. They would ask questions. They would look over their books. The cashier would be put in a cage with bars on all sides.

It must be very exciting to be an embezzler when the crisis arrives, when the thrill of stealing and the pride of spending come to an end and there is no more to steal; when one cannot return a cent; one cannot stay, and one is afraid to flee into a world beset with telegraph wires and radio waves.

This dismal lady had a bad night of it. Her one refuge was the man she had embellished with her embezzlements. He had promised to marry her.

She called him in an asked him to name the day. He put her off with tender evasions. She insisted. He resisted. This was the humilitation unendurable. She reproached him with being a trifler who had accepted gifts from a woman. He ridiculed her as a homely old frump who had dolled up and made a fool of herself. He made a laughing exit—in the automobile she had stolen for him. He has it yet! and takes other and prettier women riding in it!

That must have been a black night for Cinderella in the sour fargments of her pumpkin-shell coach, with remorse and ridicule and fear of impending punishment as the only companions of her solitude.

The next day she went to the office, stole as much as she dared and announced that she was called out of town suddenly. Her resignation was accepted with regrets and good wishes. The new cashier found large holes in the books. The realtors found out that they had been bled for $16,000. Their regrets were genuine, but their good wishes for the lady cashier were transferred to the detectivs they sent after her.

In flight the cashieress did just what numberless male cashiers had done: she tried to fly high enough and fast enough to escape the ravens of despair.

She tried to cover her tracks by changing her name at this town and that, where she rested for a while. She had committed her crime on the coast of one of our oceans and she reached the coast of our other ocean before she came to a halt. She dared not venture into a foreign country with the little that was left of her defalcations.

A mania for one last fling prevented her from seeking a wise obscurity. She lived at the most gradiose hotel and amazed its denizens by her lavishness. She bought herself more gowns, a saddle-horse and a riding habit; and kept in the toes of her riding-boots the memorandums of her thefts.

True to form, she tries to win a fortune by gambling for it. She lost, of course. They always lose who must win.

We are generally surprised at the stupidity displayed by criminals after the crime: but if they had been really wise enough to escape the consequences they would have been wise enough not to commit a crime at all.

So the poor befuddled cashier went about her own undoing. She made such a stir even in that fast-spending circle that people began to wonder and to talk. She advertised herself so blatantly that even the detectives could not miss her.

They came and saw and studied her, arrested her and brought her back to the opposite coast for trial.

So far as I know, she has not been tried, but her condemnation is pretty certain; for she has not committed a murder, but only a theft.

I asked the warden of Sing Sing once what sort of people he had in charge, and he said, with a trace of affection:

"These are the poor fellows whose horses didn't win and who couldn't put back the money they had tapped the till for. There's no end of men outside who would be here if the truth were known."

And now one may add the words "and women."

The equality of the sexes is extending to the penitentiaries and the quality of the star-boarders is improving steadily. Female convicts used to be poor drab victims of poverty who had only the shabbiest opportunities for the cheapest crimes. But from now on, as their opportunities grow larger and larger, women will be able to rival the piracies of the most reckless men. And visitors to penitentiaries may look forward to finding very grand ladies behind the bars.

Fifty years ago, women who wanted to get rich quick had to get married; but now a mercenary lady can acquire a fortune far more quickly and a little less dishonestly by stealing it.

PIE CAUSES TRAFFIC JAM.

DALLAS, April 25.—One of the largest and most concentrated traffic jams in the history of Dallas occurred today in the heart of the downtown district. Hundreds of pedestrians, trucks, limousines and flivvers jammed together at the most travelled street crossing. As soon as the police managed to get the crowd moving, they were balked by hundreds of other curious persons, who gathered and blocked the streets to see what was happening.

Two boys, fighting over a piece of pie, caused it all. The pie was wrecked.

TOO MUCH GAWLF RUINS BRITISH

GOLFERS DENY LAMENTABLE ATHLETIC DOWNFALL DUE TO CHASING THE ELUSIVE PILL

Eclipse of Isles Causes Much Anxiety Among Athletes of World and England Especially

By ED HUGHES

Ah! ha! The secret is out—the why and wherefores of the British decline in athletic power! And what do you suppose is the cause of the ghastly state of affairs in British sport?! Nothing else than golf—too much attention to the "great walking game," as a British critic terms it.

This gentleman is a Mr. L. F. Maxse, editor of the National Review in London. Whether or not this disgruntled gentleman has sized up the case of British emaciation in sportdom is a question. But that he has aroused British ire, started something, cannot be disputed. In part his amusing, if not soundly predicated article, runs as follows:

"Golfers indignantly repudiate the suggestion that the eclipse of England in many international sports and pastimes is in any way ascribable to the rise and spread of their favorite hobby.

"But they have some awkward facts to explain away. In the first place, the date of our relative decline in international competition coincides with the time when the British press went golfing mad and began treating "putting" as a main duty of man, and made popular heroes of leading golfing professionals.

AMERICAN DOTE ON GOLF AND LOOK AT 'EM.

"Indeed, we have never been quite the same country since at more active and athletic games, and the chief hope of our recovery would appear to lie in our competitors catching the same infection, as we are glad to hear is the case with the Americans, who do nothing by halves, and who are said to have latterly 'gone dotty' on golf, with every prospect of ultimately spoiling their tennis.

"A second suggestive fact is that the only two nations who nowadays can put up a serious fight for the Davis cup against the United States are Australia and France, in both of which, we believe, the younger generation concentrate on running games and eschew the great walking game."

Mr. Maxse also asserted that the British Olympic failure was due to golf, a game which he characterized as that lazy, selfish, paltry pastime.

BRITISH ALIBIS CAUSE OF LAUGHTER TO WORLD.

The British condition in the realm of athletics is indeed a lamentable one. Yet it is a funeral that is not without its laughs. Every reason that is assigned seems to tickle one's sense of humor more than the last one. Mr. Maxse's for example.

A critic, answering him solemnly, blames it on the housing conditions in the "tight isle," where hundreds of thousands are jammed together in cities and towns.

Joe Bowker, former world's bantam champion, told me, when he was over there a few weeks ago, that the British people ate too much meat. That was the reason they couldn't win at athletics.

What it is the writer, of course, hasn't the slightest idea. But he hopes John Bull never finds out, so that he can continue to make explanations. John has real talent as a funmaker.

The Harvard eight which will row Yale intends using a "mysters shell." From the outside it resembles the familiar style of shell. But on the inside, of which only crew members have had a peep, there is said to be some radical departures in shell construction. It was designed by a naval architect and built in the Harvard boathouse.

Perhaps the Crimson has decided to install a silent motor in the bark this year. Inasmuch as it has been five years since a Cambridge shell has nosed out a Yale varsity eight the idea does not lack merit.

At any rate, there hasn't been any mystery attached to Yale crews or shells in the last five years.

They've been first rate oarsmen, splendidly coached. Particularly those of Ed Leader, whose status in the rowing world is anything but a mystery.

Notice that Wellesley girls are to take up Lacrosse.

GIRLS TO TAKE UP MAN'S GAME IN LACROSSE.

Lacrosse is one of the roughest of all games. It also calls for a superabundance of stamina—in fact, more than American football does. The writer has witnessed many lacrosse games and has played a little himself. Injuries are frequent, and often severe. .. wallop with a lacrosse stick on any part of the anatomy above the waist is nothing to hunger for. We've seen many a chap laid out unconscious following a mix-up for the ball or in an attack on a carrier. It's a man's game and no mistake.

The college girls seem to dote on rough mannish games of late. They revel in the black eyes and broken teeth which field hockey supplies them. Now it is lacrosse. Perhaps prize fighting is next.

One can easily see the harm in all this. Where is the good? Perhaps some of the girls can explain to me.

Notice, too, that an English lady is to teach these shy Wellesley maids the art of lacrosse. Why the importation, anyway?

Doesn't Wellesley know that lacrosse is the most American of American games—because it was the sport of the first American? Yes, it was the game of the American Indian.

McCARTY WAS TO SHOOT UP LITTLE NEW YORK.

Billy McCarney, manager of Charlie Weinert, is just about the best story teller we know in the boxing game. One of Mac's favorite themes is Luther McCarty, the heavyweight, who was accidentally killed in a bout at Calgary with Arthur Pelkey some years back. McCarney managed McCarty. He believes to this day in all sincerity, that McCarty was the greatest heavyweight that ever lived.

"McCarty was not only a great fighter, but he was a great showman, too," chirped Billy the other day. "He was the most colorful fighter I ever saw—a bona fide cowboy of the plains with a rare store of imagination for that type of individual.

"Luther could not only carry out my schemes for getting his name in the papers, but could invent plenty of his own, too. And that reminds me of the time when Pat McDonald, your athlete-traffic cop, spoiled one of the best ones that I had ever concocted. I had instructed Luther to doll up in his cowboy attire, ride up Broadway on his pony, and when he arrived at Forty-second street to whip out his two revolvers and let 'em go.

BUT COP WOULDN'T ARREST LITTLE McCARTY.

"McCarty followed instructions to the letter. He drew a tremendous crowd, who closed in on him from everywhere wondering what all the shooting was about. McDonald hustled up to the scene of the disturbance. Naturally he was in a great rage, and he lit into McCarty in healthy fashion.

"Of course my object was to have McCarty arrested so that the thing would be sure to get into the papers. I was shortling in high glee as McDonald was preparing to yank McCarty to the hoosegow when some one in the crowd yelled—"Hello, McCarty! How's Luther McCarty.'

"McDonald heard the voice and quickly inquired of his prisoner if he really was the celebrity in question. McCarty answered that he was.

"Whereat a broad grin stole over McDonald's face as he held out his hand for a shake.

"'Why didn't ye tell me ye was Luther McCar-r-tie?' said the good-natured Pat. 'Ye don't think I'd arrest Loother McCar-r-tie, do ye?'

"And McDonald didn't. I haven't got over the shock yet."

Some Timely Bunts In News of the Sport World

NEW YORK, April 25.—Optimistic Yankee fans are hoping that Sam Jones' recent six-hit game presages better things from the man from Woodsfield, Ohio. Jones seemed to be himself when he turned back the surprising Red Sox with those six bingles. Lee Fohl's team has shown considerable attack-power to date. Jones was practically worthless to the Yanks last year, due to a sore arm. He won but nine games and lost six. Huggins' pitching staff is in a very uncertain state. If Sad Samuel does round into form he'll become a regular in short order.

SAM JONES YANKEE PITCHER

LONDON, April 25.—Frank Moran, the pride of Pittsburgh, who once earned his dough by giving heavyweights a sock on the jaw, is now making a living here by giving anyone who wants it a belt in the back. He's a tailor. If his patrons want their coats plain it's all the same with Frank. The former heavyweight mauler, who met most of the leading heavies of his time, including Jack Johnson, and Jess Willard, never had much science in the ring, but he had a haymaking swing that hurt when it landed. Frank affectionately called it his "Mary Ann."

FRANK MORAN

NEW YORK, April 25.—Ben Paschal came to the New York Yankees from Atlanta in the Southern league with the reputation of being a "Babe Ruth." But the woods are full of alleged Babe Ruths. Fate decreed, however, that Paschal was to have a chance to live up to his name. When Babe Ruth's illness forced him out of the line-up before the opening game Paschal was given the task of filling his shoes. Ben socked out a home run in the first game and has been hitting the ball hard ever since. Subbing for the king is a hard job, but Ben is doing it.

BEN PASCHAL

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., April 25.—Cyril Walker, American open golf champion and a Britisher by birth, will not be a member of the American delegation which will play in the British open tourney this summer. Walker has his heart set on retaining his American title. Ill health handicapped him in his winter play in the south. Walter Hagen, British open title winner last year, beat him 12 up and 15 in a 72-hole match played at St. Petersburg and Miami, Fla. He does not want to overtax his strength this summer. He is now professional at the Englewood club.

CYRIL WALKER

NEW YORK, April 25.—John McGraw believes that he can make a winning pitcher out of Tim McNamara, recently acquired from the Boston Braves. This despite the fact that Tim's record with the Braves was mediocre, considering all things, and that the Giants drove Tim from the box with a six-run fusillade the day the trade was made. McNamara won 8 and lost 12 games with the Braves last season. He pitched but six complete games. This was due partly, however, to Bancroft's efforts to stop the opposing batters by injecting pitchers in relays.

TIM McNAMARA

EMPORIA, Kan., April 25.—Eight years ago Earl McKown started his athletic career with one idea in mind—that of becoming a pole vaulting star. His ambition was realized the other day. Participating in the annual University of Kansas relay games as a member of the Emporia Teachers' college, he established a new intercollegiate record in the pole vault. McKown's mark was 13 feet 2 7-8 inches. He cleared the bar at that figure on his third and last try. The record he broke was held by Hagardner of Yale, made in 1912.

One Goslin Who Hates Goose Egg Is Goose Goslin

He Hopes to Lead League Again at Driving In Runs

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

Because his last name came close to being a seven letter word meaning goose Mr. Leon Allen Goslin, illustrious outfielder of the world's champion Senators, was named "Goose" shortly after he began to waddle.

And now, despite the fact that he can't be accused of having web feet and has a serious aversion for goose eggs, the name sticks.

That he isn't web-footed is indicated by his speed on the bases. He picks 'em up and lays 'em down too rapidly. The fact that he scored just 100 runs for the champions last year, and stole sixteen sacks, proves that his feet carry no mud.

And he does ruin the goose-egg row in the inning by inning scores. Just when a pitcher feels he has reached an easy inning and decides to take a full breath Goose gets his tail feathers up and brings the pitcher down with a ringing base hit that pokes a couple of runs across.

Led Loop In 1924.

Goslin led the league last year in driving in runs. Just 129 fellow players romped home on his hits. He scored 100 himself as mentioned, which made Mr. Goslin mainly responsible for just 219 tallies for his team, about a third of the total number they scored.

All of this but five years after he said a sad farewell to the budding trees and the flatboat bogged in the barnyard and sailed forth from his dad's farm in Salem, N. H., to become a big leaguer.

Goslin had his heart set on becoming a Walter Johnson. Figured then that Walter might be through by 1925 instead of jiustentering his novitiate as a world's series hero. But Leon socked the ball at such a lively rate for the Charleston club in the South Atlantic league that he was converted into an outfielder. Which made him a member in good standing of the loyal order of used-to-be pitchers.

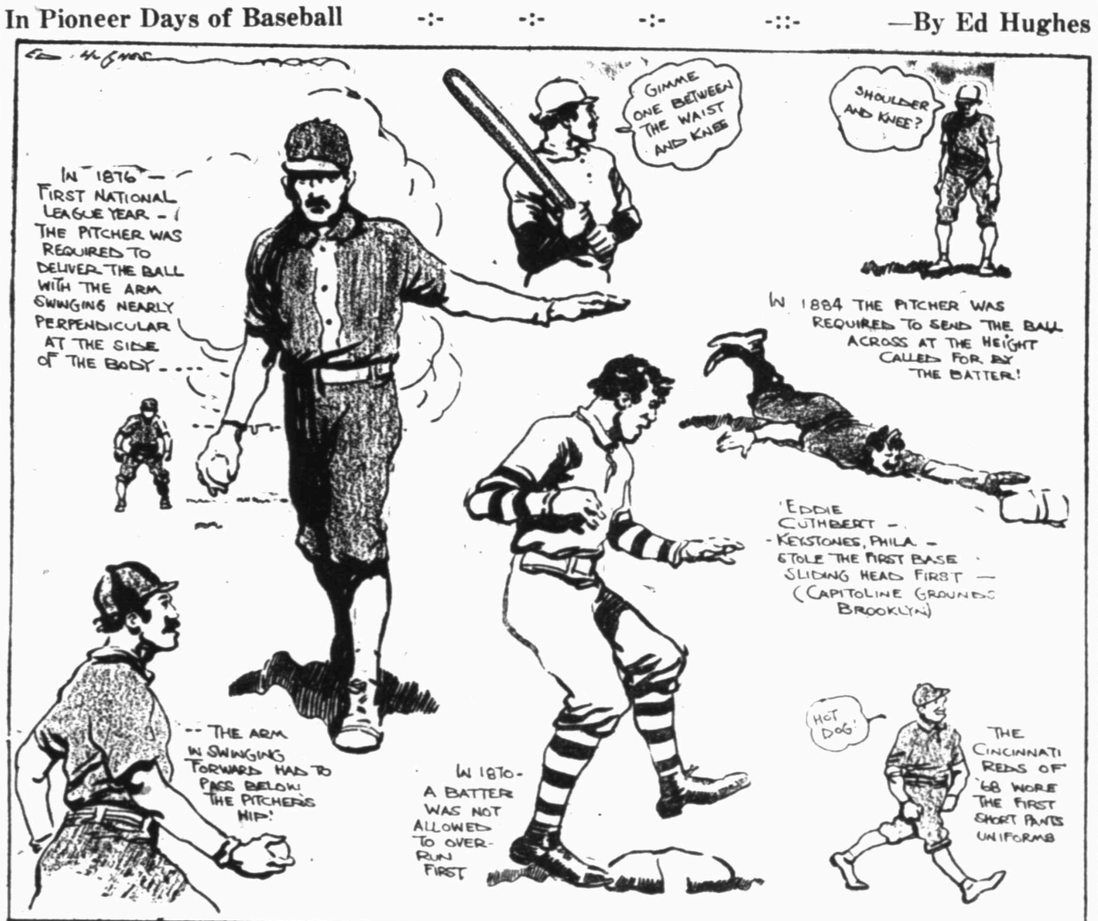

Goslin is also a member of the alumni association of Connie Mack's kindergarten school. The tall leader grabbed him from Columbia, where Goslin then was playing, in the fall of 1921 and, after looking him over turned him back. That's where the Senators stepped into Gosline's life and Goslin stepped into fame.

Ties Ruthian Record.

Goslin hit only 12 home runs in the regular season last year. But it turned out later he was saving his stuff. Pitted against the wise old Jawn McGraw and his obedient pitchers Goslin proceeded to unlimber his bat and collect three circuit clouts. This little feat tied the record of the mighty Ruth. Goslin collected a total of 21 bases on his hits in that memorable series. Which gave him one record all his own.

"And this is another year," remarks Goslin, as he starts doing his stuff. He is quite confident that it will be a good one for him and the Senators. If he keeps driving in runs the way other clubs will have something to worry about most of the season.

Tunney Has Chance to Become Dictator of Heavyweight Class If He Can Slap It on Gibbons

Gene Beat Greb; Greb Beat Tom—Georges Found Him Mighty Tough Customer

Mr. Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion and boasting all the gold braid, honorary degrees and emoluments that go with that tin headgear, now looms up in fistic circles like a new green roadster on the boulevard.

For Tunney holds in his good right, and short kicking left the power to knock the heavyweight fighting division into a chatoic state and come out as dictator of a new ring government so to speak.

Tunney has been signed, body, soul and water bucket to meet Tommy Gibbons, chief contender for Jack Dempsey's crown, in a battle in New York City, June 5.

While the battle will be literally one of light heavyweights with the American light heavyweight championship at stake this part of it is of minor importance. To both men the contest looms up mainly as one that may have a direct bearing on the heavyweight championship.

This is interesting in view of the fact that in the past months of gum chewing and wrangling as to who should have the chance at Mr. Dempsey's dust covered crown, Tunney's name has been mentioned but casually in most quarters.

He Humbled Carpentier

This despite the fact that Tunney is one of two men who has licked Georges Carpentier—the man who met Jack Dempsey in "the battle of the century" and the man who came closest, up to the Firpo battle, of knocking Mr. Dempsey's crown off his curly hair.

Some one seems to have thought of that but recently. The Gibbons-Tunney bout is the outcome of that brilliant thought.

You'll recall that Carpentier came to this country a year ago in an effort to get another fight with Dempsey. In the hope that he could prove his right to another battle Carpentier met Tommy Gibbons and Tunney. Gibbons defeated the French star when Carpentier apparently hurt his ankle. The visitor was "out" on his feet when the fight ended.

Tunney then proceeded to give Carp as nifty a lacing as Gibbons did. Most critics were surprised at Tunney's showing. He had never met a man as flashy, cunning or clever as Carpentier. Despite this the young American war veteran handled himself calmly and with real ring generalship.

Tunney also has another good argument in his favor when it comes to comparing him with Gibbons and the other "logical contenders."

World Before Him

After losing the American light heavyweight title to Harry Greb a couple of years ago Tunney won the title back from him and in a third bount proved that the second victory wasn't a fluke. You'll recall what a terrible time Thomas St. Paul Gibbons had with Mr. Greb. Harry wouldn't fight according to the rules, Tom said.

Now if Tunney up and smacks Mr. Gibbons on the rule book or just above it where will Mr. Tunney be placed in the heavyweight ranking? No chance of placing him lower than No. 1. And Tom Gibbons claims to the first opportunity to seek the married Mr. Dempsey can be thrown in the waste basket.

So the world lies before Mr. Tunney.

Early Baseball Set-Tos Take A Heavy Toll

Ruth, Cobb, Blue, Gingsby, And Other Stars Down

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

Count that day an exception which doesn't see some big league ball player socked on the initial letter on his uniform by old Joe Hard Luck.

For, judging by the toll taken to date—since the last fall show—the year in baseball—as far as the big yea rin baseball—as far as the big leagues are concerned.

Looking over the list that has been compiled since Rabbit Maranville, Cub star, cracked his ankle early in training season of that team, we find something like a dozen stars of considerable magnitude in their various firmaments, laid up for varying periods with injuries or illnesses.

Babe Ruth heads the list, of course.

Ty Cobb comes next. He was stricken with the grippe before the team got home.

Lu Blue, Cobb's first sacker, has nursed a poor knee since the first week out.

Denver Grigsby, also a Cub joined Maranville by cracking his ankle.

Bill Wambsganss, veteran second sacker with the Red Sox, twisted his knee.

Barney Frieberg of the Cubs has been nursing an ankle which he wrenched last year.

Charley Dressen, coming young infielder with the Cincy Reds, has been nursing a stiff arm.

Connie Mack saw his hopes for a flying start wrecked by injuries to Heimach, star pitcher, and Joe Hauser, first baseman and home run star of the Mackmen.

Frankie Frisch, Giant captain, enters the season with a weak ankle, due to a training camp injury.

And so the list goes on. A dozen or more players have fought mild cases of the flu and grippe all spring.

And many of these misshaps are bound to have direct bearing on the outcome of the pennant races.

How long the jinx will remain busy is a matter for conjecture. Half a dozen big league managers are crying for help already.

Glenna Collett Hopes to Drive Way in England

She Tries First Time For British Golf Championship

Can Glenna Collett, most powerful driver in the ranks of the feminine golfers, win a British title on her first effort?

That is the question American golf enthusiasts are asking as she awaits, abroad, to participate in the British women's open championship meet next month.

If this sturdy Providence, R. I. maid does win a championship she will be the first American miss to turn the trick. She will have succeeded where no less a brilliant golfer than Alexa Sterling failed—where Marian Hollins and Miss Edith Cummings met defeat.

And if she wins in this, her first effort, she will have accomplished something that Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Bobby Jones, Chick Evans and Francis Ouimet failed to do. These brilliant golfers were beaten in their initial efforts. Hagen's defeat was decisive enough to be a distinct shock to his followers in this country. However, his feat in winning the open title two out of three years following that defeat indicates that he was off his game apparently in his first try.

Two Reasons Why.

There are two reasons why an American girl or woman has never won the British title. They are Cecil Leitch and Joyce Wethered.

Miss Leitch reigned supreme in European golf circles for years. The woman who finally challenged her right to the title of "world's greatest woman golfer" was Miss Wethered. This courageous member of a golfing family—her brother Roger rose to the front ranks of golfdom in recent years—was the girl who finally dethroned Miss Leitch as British champ. While the victory and Miss Wethered's masterful play in recent tourneys still must be ranked as a formidable player.

Miss Collett will carry into the British tourney a style of play that no American miss before her has boasted—a powerful driving game that equals that of many star golfers. She is rated as the hardest driver in the ranks of the women. Her long shots compare favorably with those of the best masculine players.

All-Around Playing.

Her all-around playing approaches nearer to that of the men than the game of any other woman who has ever turned in a score below 80 in a woman's national tourney. She made her home course at Providence in last year's national in 79.

Her general play has been brilliant in all her championship matches, which won her the national, eastern, Canadian, north-south and other titles. One of her latest achievements was the winning of the Florida east coast championship, in which she turned in a card of 79.

Miss Collett gets her powerful swing from perfect technique rather than size. She is of medium stature. She gets her hips and shoulders into her shots, which give her much of her power.

Her defeat in the national women's event last fall was the biggest surprise of the tourney. She met Mary K. Browne, former tennis wizard, in one of the semi-final matches and went down to defeat when Miss Browne made a wonderful shot on the eighteenth hole, squaring the match, and then won out at the nineteenth hole.

While abroad Miss Collett plans also to play in the French women's tourney.

May Ask Nurmi For Expense Accounting

LOS ANGELES, April 25.—Hugo Quist, manager of Paavo Nurmi, and Willie Ritola, commenting on New York reports that the A. A. U. sought complete statements from him and the runners concerning reports of demands for excessive expense money, said that he would be ready to make a complete statement at any time.

Quist said that he saw no argument about negotiations with Drake university representatives "and of course, Nurmi and Ritola had nothing to do with any negotiations for their manager acted for them in all negotiations."

He added that as to a choice between the middle west and the Pacific coast that Nurmi had expressed preference to run in the coast events.

CLEVELAND, April 25. — L. A. Walker, of the Toledo Y. M. C. A. won the singles championship in the national Y. M. C. A. hand ball tournament here today by defeating Harry Goldman of Cleveland easily in the straight games.

Herman Dworman and Al Schaufelberger, Detroit, are the winners in the doubles over Young and Tyler, Cleveland.

McNamara And Rose Ryan Pass Each Other Again

Trade of Old Collegiate Rivals Gives Both Chance

By NORMAN E. BROWN

The other day "Rosey" Bill Ryan and Tim McNamara, big league pitchers, passed each other on the high road between Boston and New York. The Giants sent Ryan to the Boston Braves in exchange for Tim.

The last time their paths crossed the passing was much more dramatic. Ryan won his first spurs as a pitcher with the Holy Cross college team. At that time McNamara was drawing attention of the big league scouts with his hurling at Fordham, the alma mater of Frankie Frisch.

Ryan at Holy Cross

Ryan ended his career at Holy Cross with a record of 23 victories out of 24 games. That one defeat was administered in the final game he pitched. And the opposing pitcher was McNamara. Holy Cross went down to defeat, 4 to 3. It so happened that Frisch was the man who decided the game by socking out a triple that drove in the winning run.

While the trade, off hand, seems to give McNamara a better opportunity than it does Ryan, the latter should be benefited by it.

Ryan, though apparently ready at times to be a regular with McGraw's team, has never been classed as such except when some of McGraw's vets cracked momentarily. One reason for this is said to be Ryan's failure to take the game seriously enough when working. McGraw made it plain that Ryan's pitching in the final game of the 1923 world's series was not above censure. The fact that Ryan received little chance to work regularly since that time might indicate that McGraw did not care to take chances with him until he proved that he was ready to give all he had.

Lacked Incentive

On the other hand Ryan may have lacked the needed incentive to work hard—the knowledge that he was a valuable member of the staff. He found himself rated in all discussions of the pitching strength of the Giants as a "youngster" and a "comer." Ryan may have felt that four years' service with a pennant winning team should entitle him to some consideration or a new deal.

Whatever may have been his side of the case he has the new deal. He has a splendid chance to step in and become the "ace" of the Brave mound staff. If his failure to take the game seriously came from his being in a rut he now has the chance to climb out "on his own."

McNamara, on the other hand, was dissatisfied with his berth. Pitching for a tail-end outfit is a discouraging task. When McNamara does get a chance to show his stuff with the Giants he will have the knowledge that he has a championship infield and outfield behind him. He will pitch confidently with that knowledge.

It will be interesting to watch these two pitchers in their new environments—one with his chance to become a big toad in a little puddle. The other with his chance to prove that he can pitch with a winning ball club behind him.

Little Visitor Wins Ashland Oak Purse

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 25 — Little Visitor won the Ashland Oaks with $3,000 added purse over a field of eight other three-year-old fillies in the feature race of opening day at the association park here this afternoon. Her time for the mile was 1:43 2-5. Buttress was second and Rothermel third. The winner paid $13.60 to win on a $2 mutual ticket.

Several eligibles for the Kentucky derby making their first appearance of the year, were among the carded starters in the various races which made up the opening day program.

Indianapolis Race Draws Tommy Milton

INDIANAPOLIS, April 25. — The entry of Tommy Milton in the annual 500 mile automobile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway May 30 was announced today. Milton is the only driver ever to win the local contest twice.

Dr. William F. Shattuck, Los Angeles, also has entered.

HORNSBY REPORTED IMPROVED AFTER INJURY

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—The condition of Rogers Hornsby, Cardinal second baseman and National league batting chambion, who suffered a slight concussion of the brain when hit in the head by a pitched ball in yesterday's game with Cincinnati, was announced today as slightly improved and favorable for early recovery.

Dr. Robert F. Hylan, club physician, said it probably would be only a few days before the star would be able to return to the game regularly, but that the time depended on later developments.

Paavo Nurmi Victor Over Eight Indians

COLIESUM, Los Angeles, April 25 —(AP)—Paavo Nurmi, the silent and marvel runner from Finland trotted down the cinder path to an easy victory over eight Indian entries in a three-mile event here today.

Nurmi's time was 14:15.9, a new American record for the three-mile run.

Nurmi, timing himself at every quarter of the race, ran easily and was never pressed closely after the first quarter, although he did not sprint far ahead at the finish.

BAMBINO NEEDS REST.

Ruth Should Submerge Himself, Says Frisco Writer.

Probably what Babe Ruth needs most of all is the prescription of his physician, who says, "rest," comments Harry B. Smith in the San Francisco Chronicle. Ruth is so big a figure in the world of baseball that he probably never gets away from the national pastime; is hardly permitted to forget that he is king of swat. Day in, day out, whether playing ball or apparently loafing, he is confronted by the game out of which he makes so fine a living.

In season, even after "hours," he is up against this same situation. Unquestionably he has aggravated the case by his winter tours, which, of course, force him into contact once more with people who want to talk to him of how he swats out the long distance runs.

BIG FIGHT IN THE NEAR FUTURE.

Within not so many weeks the boxing fan will be treated to quite a remarkable nosegay of fisticuffs in the east. These brawls have to do with the yearly Milk fund bouts, the Italian hospital fund drive, and the staging of bouts by the newest of Gotham clubs—the Polo Grounds A. C.

The latter bouts will be staged first. They are scheduled for either June 5th or 12th, the main bout bringing together Tom Gibbons and Gene Tunney. The Italian hospital program features displays between Mickey Walker and Harry Wills and Charley Weinert. Another title will be at state in the Milk fund bouts on May 29th. Paul Berlenbach gets a crack at Bould Michael McTigue's world's light heavy crown. In addition Jimmy Slattery, picked by many as the next heavyweight champion and Young Stribling will clash in a six-rounder.

* * *

WEINERT OUTCLASSED.

These are all interesting frays to the writer with the exception of the Wills-Weinert thing. Weinert in the opinion of this scribe has no business in the same ring with the giant colored fellow who has badgered Dempsey for a fight these four years and more.

The Walker-Greb battle is probably the best of the lot, with the former standing a good chance of beating the middle-weight champion and thereby possessing two titles. The writer selects Greb to win, but the thing is being figured very closely in the odds.

The Gibbons-Tunney display will bring fans to New York from all over the country. It will determine the second best white heavyweight in the business, and as such has its importance. The writer likes Gibbons' chances in this meeting.

* * *

Keen interest centers in the Berlenbach attempt to knock out the "cheese champion" McTigue in their bout at the Polo Grounds. Just what the odds will be is difficult to say, but it would not be surprising were Paralyzing Paul sent to the post the favorite. His terrific punching is expected to wear down the ancient and cautious Michael.

Nevertheless the writer believes that McTigue's cleverness will forestall the unskilled savagery and heavy punching of Berlenbach. However poor a champion McTigue may be he can surely box. And he is particularly deft in matters defensive. Berlenbach is very poor shucks as a boxer, a fact which he proves every time he goes against one. Augie Ratner, for instance, had little difficulty "tying up" the German, the bout ending in a draw.

Jimmy Slattery, the Buffalo Phantom, figures to outpoint Stribling in their bout. The battle is limited to six rounds owing to the fact that Slattery is under age.

Few people have the hardihood to mention the fight referee in the same breath with the baseball umpire in the matter of courage and general efficiency. This despite the fact that most referees have at one time fought in the professional ring and should know the game.

The reason is that mentally and morally, as a rule, the umpire is head and shoulders above the critic of the cauliflowered gentry.

* * *

FAMOUS DECISIONS ON THE DIAMOND.

Hank O'Day was one of the best umpires the diamond has yet produced. He gave the decision which cast the Giants the pennant in 1908. O'Day watched Merkle closely after Bridwell had made the hit which shoud have won the pennant. He saw Fred tear for the clubhouse instead of touching second. Hank hustled toward Jonny Evers, the Cubs' second baseman to make sure that Johnny held the ball which retired the Giants on a forceout.

And then he quickly rendered the decision, eminently correct, which tore a pennant from the clutches of the Giants spreading consternation in the stands and on the playing field until the light of accuracy was seen.

That decision not only demanded courage, but a well lubricated knowledge of the playing rules as well.

* * *

O'Loughlin and the Little Book.

The late "Silk" O'Loughlin was an indomitable handler of the indicator, also letter-perfect in the rules of diamond play. Once in a game between Washington and the White Sox, Larry Schafly, captain of the Senators, left the field while his team was at bat.

Schafly's outfit took the field before the captain returned. Fielder Jones, first man up for the Sox, noticed the cavity at second, and promptly banged a hit through the space. He was chuckling over his strategy as he plugged for first. Suddenly O'Loughlin spoke up. He motioned Jones back. Jones plunged into a hot argument with "Silk."

"Silk" bawled his explanations to Jones in tones which resounded throughout the ball park. "The little book tells me they can't play with eight men on the field!" It was a half forgotten rule correctly applied to a situation so rare as to be almost new.

* * *

Tim Hurst's Pet Story.

Here is the favorite story of the late Tim Hurst, colorful, humorous, pugnacious Tim, perhaps the most picturesque of all the "umphs." It happened in Baltimore long years ago, and there was a runner on first. "The man started to steal," explained Tim. "As he left first he spiked the baseman, who tried to trip the bloke. The second baseball blocked the spiker, who slid into the bag and tried to spike Hugh Jennings, who covered the bag, and attempted to sit on his man to knock his wind out.

"The batter hit Robinson, who was catching, on the hands so he couldn't throw. So Robby stepped on my toes with his spikes and then pushed his glove in my face, so I couldn't see to give my decision. It was one of the hardest I ever had to make.

"What did I do? Why, I punched Robbie in the ribs, called it a foul, and sent the runner back to the first!"

Hurst, as you can imagine, was not only a good umpire but an excellent fight referee as well.

Yet how many ring referees, granted suffucient knowledge of baseball, could have switched jobs and dealt decently with these nettling situations?

ROCKMAN COPS ABERDEEN HAVRE DE GRACE PURSE

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 25.—Rockman won the $10,00 Aberdeen stakes, a four and one-half furlong race for two-year-olds here this afternoon. Fiddlesticks was second and Cinema third.

TEN RECORDS SMASHED AT DRAKE MEET

Reese of Texas Fastest Intercollegiate Miler

4 MILES, 17:58.3

Thrills Make Relay Races Feature of Big Meet

DES MOINES, Ia., April 25.—(AP)—Beneath the rays of a friendly blazing sun, ten Drake records were smashed and three were tied in the finals today of the sixteenth annual Drake relay carnival. An army of nearly 2,600 athletes from 191 universities, colleges and high schools participated in the record breaking. Fifteen records went by the boards in the two days of competition.

The new records established today were in the discus, shot putt, two-mile university relay, two-mile college relay, mile college and half-mile college relay and three interscholastic events and the running hop, step and jump.

Schwarze the Star.

Overshadowing the performance of the individual athletes, was the record smashing of Herbert Schwarze, giant weight man of the University of Wisconsin, who shattered two marks. Schwarze who has been tossing the discus for only three weeks threw the missile 146 feet 7 1-4 inches, beating the Drake relay record of 138 feet 6 3-4 inches made by Platt of Denver in 1923. Schwarze shattered his own Drake record in the shot putt with a heave of 47 feet 9 2-8 inches. In the trials yesterday the badger giant put the ball 45 feet 6 1-8 inches, which broke the old Drake record.

The crack relay quartet of northeast high school of Kansas City, Mo., raced to victory in three events breaking records in all of them. They started off by taking the one mile interscholastic event in the record breaking time of 3:30 5-10 lowering the mark of 3.31 1-5 made by Cedar Rapids in 1922. They then won the half mile after a close race with Central high of Omaha, covering the distance in 1:32 8-10, which lowered the former record of 1:33 2-10 hung up by University high of Chicago in 1922. The Missouri[illegible] on the third relay of the day by snatching a victory in the quarter mile hanging up a new record of 45 3-10. The old mark was 45 6-10 made by Cedar Rapids last year.

Butler Cracks Records.

The Butler college runners of Indianapolis also cracked two records, winning the one mile college relay in 3:18 2-10, shattering the former mark of 3:23 2-10 made by Cornell college in 1921. The Hoosiers also won the half mile college relay in the record breaking time of 1:27 8-10. The former record of 1:30 8-10 was made by Wabash in 1917.

The two major university relays went to Michigan and the University of Texas. The Wolverines, with the aid of the brilliant running of Charlie Reinke, the anchor man, won the two mile event covering the distance in 7:51 4-10 and bettering the Drake relay record of 7:52 2-10 established by Ames in 1921.

The race developed into a thrilling struggle with Ames, Wisconsin, Notre Dame and Michigan threatening throughout. The Badgers led at the end of the first relay, with Ames trailing, second. The teams finished in the same position at the end of the second relay with Notre Dame third. At the start of the final relay, Ames was in the lead with Michigan second. Reinke of Michigan and Conger of Ames then settled down to a sensational drive, but the Wolverine had greater endurance and finished two yards in the lead. Reinke went his last half mile in 1:54 3-10.

Texas Takes 4-Mile.

Texas captured the four-mile event after a spirited contest with the Oregon Aggies. Reese of Texas rated as the fastest intercollegiate miler in America overcame a five-yard lead on the final mile and won by ten yards. The Texans' time was 17:58 3-10.

A team of Haskell Indians, honored with traditional Indian names bagged a victory in the two-mile college relay, hanging up a new record of 8:04 4-10 this lowered the old record of 8:10 3-10 made by Monmouth college a year ago. Michigan shared honors with Butler in winning two races, taking the 880-yard university relay after a battle with Illinois. The Wolverine quartet ran the distance in 1:25 5-10, which tied the Drake record for the event.

Amateur Golf Rules Made Much Harder

NEW YORK, April 25.—The number to qualify by medal play in the tournament for the national amateur golf championship is cut in half under the new conditions of competition announced today by the United States Golf association. The tournament will begin August 31 at the Oakmont Country club, Oakmont, Pa. Steps have also been taken to reduce the number of competitors, which in recent years has been unweildy. Players eligible to compete for the championship are limited to those with handicaps of three or less but a handicap alone will not entitle a golfer to seek the title. Each entrant must submit before August 1 a statement of his performances in competition during the last two years.

Since the tournament began in 1889 the 32 highest scores in medal play beginning the tournament have survived for match play. This year there will be only 16 qualifiers.

The change was necessitated by reduction of the time of the tournament from seven days to six, a step decided upon last January in order not to keep star amateurs away from private duties more than a week.

Rodeo to Put on Big Boxing Card Friday

The annual Triangle ranch rodeo will have a new added attraction this year in the way of a big boxing exhibition to be staked Friday night at 8:45 in the rodeo arena at the Triangle ranch. The fight is being staged under the auspices of Bruce Cobb post of the American Legion at Iowa Park.

Two big main events have already been arranged for the card headliners. Lads well known to Wichita Falls fight fans have been signed to do the glove slinging.

A 10-rounder has been slated between Clyde Hull, St. Paul mitten tosser, and Johnnie Simpson of San Antonio. Both of these are classed as welterweights and have been on the local card several times in main events.

Tommie Murphy and Cyclone Burns, the heavies that went so strong with the fans in their appearance Thursday night at the Wichita theater, will also step off 10 rounds of fast boxing that is sure to please the fans as much as it did here last Thursday.

Several good preliminaries are being arranged by the officials and a good card can be expected.

Owing to the brilliant playing of Ray Powell and the good start made by Homer Peel, the local club owners have decided to reduce forces. They also have Bill Hollohan for outfield duty and Pete Compton as a regular along with Peel and Powell.

GEORGETOWN RELAY TEAM IS SENSATION

Members Clip Off A New World Record In Penn Relays

ENGLISH STARS LOSE

British Hurdler Unable To Win At Short Distance

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—(AP)—International competition which saw the defeat of both Lord David Burghley of Cambridge university and A. E. Porritt of Oxford, was overshadowed in the final events of the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival today by the attainments of a mighty team of relay stars from Georgetown university.

The Washingtonians, who yesterday romped away with the world record for the mile Medley today accomplished a greater feat, eclipsing the two-mile record made by Boston college last year by five and two-fifths seconds. Swinburn, Holden, Sullivan and Marsters ran the distance in 7 minutes, 42 seconds. The time for the halves were: Swinburne 1:58 3-5; Holden 1:54; Sullivan 1:54 2-5; Marsters 1:55.

Fordham university offered the competition for Georgetown in this event but the New York quartet trailed far behind throughout, and when Marsters crossed the line he was a lap and a half in the van. Later Georgetown sent a team into the mile relay and the finish was one of the most sensational of the meet. Jimmy Burgess, national 440-yard champion, running the final quarter, closed a gap of ten yards that had been handed over to Gage, Yale anchorman, and forced himself across the line a foot in front of the foe.

Marsters, Herlihy, Ascher and Burgess represented Georgetown in the mile test while the Yale team, which finished second was composed of Paulson, Clark, Norton and Gage.

Lord Burghley, who yesterday defeated a capable field of American performers in the 400 meters hurdles, proved unable to cope with American speed at a shorter distance and over the higher barriers. G. B. Woods of Butler and G. L. Scattergood of Princeton, defeated him in the first heat of the 120-yard high hurdles although for a time the Englishman appeared to be on his way to victory.

Phil Rookie Has Sweet Slow Ball

Jack Knight, rookie pitcher of the Phils, is given credit for having one of the sweetest slow balls in the big show. And judging from his efforts todate, this southern lad knows how to manipulate the tantalizing shoot. For one thing he pitches with an easy motion that makes for longevity.

Knight might have been pitching for the St. Louis Cardinals this season had he been willing to string with the western outfit. Little Rock had control of his services when war interrupted his baseball career. When he returned to the game the minor league club sold him to St. Louis, but he refused to report. He played amateur ball in the south for a couple of seasons before changing his mind. When he did report the Cards sent him to Houston and it was from that club that the Phils grabbed him.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, April 25.—Stock prices developed a rallying tendency towards the close of today's brief session of the market, after a period of extreme irregularity, during which violent declines took place in some of the high-priced specialties. Fluctuations generally represented the usual week-end evening up of operations of professional traders.

Commercial solvents A and B broke 15 and 18 points to 90 and 85, respectively on reports of serious German competition in the production of Butanol, one of the company's most important products. At today's lows, both stocks were off about 100 points from the year's highs. Nash Motors broke 16 points to 350 and then recovered half of its loss. Rails displayed a firmer undertone, Reading standing out by moving up 2½ points to 77⅝. Union Pacific and Canadian Pacific each rallied 1½ points to 135¼ and 142½, respectively. International Railways of Central America preferred advanced 1 point to a new 1925 high at 65. Northern Pacific sank to a new low at 58¼, but later rallied about a point from the bottom figure.

Standard industrials showed little change on the day. U. S. Steel and Baldwin showed small fractional gains at 115 and 110⅛, respectively.

Demand sterling sold within a small fraction of $4.82, the highest price in a period of 10 years and more than a cent above last night's close. French francs held steady around 5.20c. Other European currencies showed only nominal changes in quiet trading.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 25.—The cotton market had a brisk opening but turned quieter as the sessions progressed. The opening was easy with the May position 19 points on first transactions owing to the circulation of notices for 25,000 bales on May contracts, today being the first notice day for that month. The other months eased off in sympathy. May dropping to 24.05 and all the early loss was recovered on reports that the May notices had all been stopped by spot interests.

The rally was helped by evening up buying for over the week-end and before the advance was checked May traded at 24.30, July at 24.64 and October at 24.09, or 18 to 25 points above the lows. The close was a little off from the top showing net gains for the day of 1 to 3 points. Aside from the early slump in May and its rapid recovery fluctuations were not wide. It is assumed that the notices issued today represent only about half the final total, but the promptness with which they were cared for indicates that all May contract tenders will be readily absorbed.

Although exports today were 37,196 bales, they exerted no apparent influence and the market, aside from the momentary influence of the May liquidation was purely a weather affair. The weather map confirmed private reports of good rains in Oklahoma and Arkansas and in a large part of northern and western Texas.

The cotton exchange here will be opened beginning Monday morning at 8 o'clock and close at 1 p. m., to conform with New York's daylight saving program.

than 300 barrels an hour, enough oil from the one well to load almost the entire two special trains.

Defined to East

The Big Lake field itself was farther limited on the east by the completion of two dry holes in section 26, block 9, by the Texon No. 2 Oil corporation, which leaves that group with virtually no producing acreage and the Texon No. 1 Oil corporation with not more than one and one-half sections, Texon Group No. 2, University, No. 2 in the center of the southwest of section 26 and University No. 3, in the center of the northwest of the suothwest of 35 of section, block 9, are dry at 3,185 feet and 3,202 feet respectivley.

Within another week it will be known whether Johnson and McCamey No. 1, University in southeast of the southeast of the southwest of section 13, block 9, a mile north of the field, will extend the proven area. It was last reported drilling below 2,600 feet.

The flood of oil at Smackover is a good thing for the industry, say several leaders who gave out interviews in Fort Worth last week. The large amount of fuel oil thrown on the market has cut the price of that product to a point where the large railroad systems and other industrial users may economically continue its use, though several had changed because of the increasing price and scarcity of the item.

AUTOISTS—
There Is only One DUCO—DUPONT DUCO
WHY YOU SHOULD LET US PUT DUCO ON YOUR CAR

1 Duco is the longest wearing finish known.
2 Gasoline, oil, mud, tar, turpentine, battery acide, alkaline dust, salt air, etc., cannot harm it.
3 You need not lose the use of your car for more than a few days.
4 You can secure any of the season's most popular shades—in any degree of lustre, either dull, satin or polished.
5 A Duco finish is easier to keep clean.
6 The lustre of Duco actually improves with age if given ordinary care.
7 It will increase the re-sale value of your car.

Duco has been adopted as standard by twenty-five of the leading car manufacturers because of recognized merits.

Texas Broncs To Play At Annual T. Burnett Rodeo

Select Group of Texas Longhorns Will Aid In Play

FOREIGN CATTLE TOO

Bucking Brahma Of India Will Also Partake Of Enjoyment

It is said that the southwest of 50 years ago is gone, that the cowboys and their cattle, the longhorns, passed kings of the range, have also passed away along with their usefulness.

Perhaps that is why each year thousands of people from over the southwest are attracted to the Tom L. Burnett ranch, located 17 miles out on the Wichita Falls-Electra highway, where cowboys meet annually in their play for several days. This year the playtime starts next Thursday, April 30, and lasts until May 3, and is known as the Tom L. Burnett rodeo, first inaugurated three years ago as a means of celebrating the opening of the famous Wichita valley irrigation project.

The ranks of the cowboys are fast thinning, as are the cattle, but of the few who yet remain, are numbered men who have developed the ability of cattle work to the highest degree of efficiency.

These men now with their ranches and cattle gone have for the most part turned into paid performers at rodeos over the country as a means of earning their living. Paid they are but their play is real nevertheless, their ranks are still thinning due to injuries each year that take away a few more of them. Each year some cowboy is brought to the hospital suffering from some accident at the rodeo. Their work is play but a dangerous sort.

Their playmates are unpaid, untamed, and unloved. The famous longhorns knows nothing of the rodeo and have an inborn sense of meanness furnishes a fitting opponent to the bulldoggers who earn their living through the most spectacular play known, that of twisting the neck of a huge loghorn steer. Some of the longhorns though, are not Texans, the Texas longhorn is said to be growing old and unable to give the fight demanded by the rodeo spectators.

Of Indian Lineage

One group in particular of the longhorns do not belong to this country. They seem proud of their lineage dating back only a few years to the sacred cattle of India, and they seem to resent the fact that their blood is mixed with that of the Mexican longhorn, they are called Brahmas and are as wild as the proverbial jack rabbit and so vicious that they will fight their own shadow.

The bucking horses which will be used in the bronco busting contests for both cowboys and cowgirls have their history and the phrase untamable, manhating, outlaws does not in all cases fully portray their vicious cunning, their tricky bucking prowess or their ungovernable disposition they are not the ordinary broncho's just gathered from the pastures as in the old days of the spring breaking but are dyed in the wool outlaws, so called because back at whatever time the first attempt was made to break them to the saddle, or who ever attempted to ride them for the first time met with defeat, and the horse was victorious, perhaps the rider was trampled under foot after being thrown by the steed and perhaps like the well trained lion that scratches its trainer getting first blood and thereafter becoming unmanageable, likewise the outlaw bucking horse after its first victory if of a certain spirit and disposition becomes forever lost to the class known as docile steeds and until death defies all efforts at subjugation.

Spent Several Years.

Tom L. Burnett has spent several years and much money in gathering up his herd of outlaw buckers which will do the sunfishing at the rodeo. These horses have been purchased from widely scattered sections they first had to win a reputation that would attract his attention before his scouts were sent to look them over and try them out, but when they filled the bill price was not a factor in the deal, and the result is that the buckers which will be seen in the Triangle arena are said to be the greatest string of real bucking horses owned by any one individual in America.

Turning back the pages fifty years brings us back to the days when every large ranch had certain days or a certain time for breaking horses for the remuda, and like other lines of work or sport it has not suffered with the passing of time, the riders of today are said to be far better than those of fifty years ago and with large cash prizes to be won or lost and with the material at hand with which to win or lose those prizes the broncho busting events of Burnetts rodeo it is said will out shine any similar contest ever staged in this country.

Bulldogging New Sport.

Bulldogging has become a sport in the past decade and half and its dangers and its thrills will be in evidence as more than a score of the most skillful and daring bulldoggers known to the game will contest against each other in the art of barehanded wrestling the wild longhorns for the large cash prizes offered for the winners, among them will be many who thrilled almost countless thousands at Wemberly stadium London, England, last June in the international championship cowboy sports contests, and chief among these will be the "Tarzan of Bulldoggers," Mike Hastings, who won a wager of 200 pounds at Wemberly by bulldogging a Scotch highland steer brought in by a group of Scotchmen who wagered that no American cowboy could lay one of their steers on his side in two minutes, it took "Big Mike" just 16 seconds to prove to them that they were all wrong in their opinion of American cowboys and Scotch steers.

To every small boy the cowboy is a hero and there is perhaps no person who does not admire the grit, nerve and skill of the genuine puncher who never seems to look back no matter what the odds or dangers rea, those who have attended the past rodeos staged by Mr. Burnett have marveled at the grit and courage of many who although injured in the rough work keep going on, partially in a great effort to reach the coveted goal of the finals but mainly because it is against the principals of the cowboy and the west to turn back, they will all be there practically; every star that has ever appeared in the local arena with new ones just beginning to shine, new expetrs of saddle and lariet just beginning to win their laurels and from the grand entry on down through the fifteen or sixteen events which will crowd each afternoons program starting just after the big free barbecue at high noon Thursday down to the great closing riding classic. The trick riding with the greatest number of expert horsemen ever assembled in one arena in the state, there will be thrills follow one another in rapid succession. Tom L. Burnett, known as the "Texas Rodeo King," will see that there are plenty of thrills from start to finish.

Green Tells Labor's Realization of Need to Eliminate Waste in Industry.

Discussing the statement of Comment wage scale or increased wages merce Secretary Hoover that labor's hop for maintenance of its present wage scale or increased wages lay in its co-operation in the elimination of waste in industry, William G. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, gave labor's view.

WILLIAM GREEN

The theory that the problems of waste and efficiency are solely problems of management has given way to the newer concept of the mutuality of interest in all problems relating to service and production, in Green's opinion.

"Labor is interested in the successful management of industry because it reasons that with the introduction of economy processes, in the development of efficiency and increased production, the cost of manufacturing and production can be reduced without lowering the standard of the workers or reducing wages," he said. "Labor firmly believes that if the cost of production of commodities must be lowered it should be accomplished through the promotion of efficiency in workmanship and management, the elimination of waste and the introduction of economy processes. This belief is contrary to the old accepted rule of reasoning which held that a lowering of the cost of production could only be brought about through a reduction in wages. Disagreement over wages, hours of employment, working rules, sanitation and various other questions cause industrial conflict.

"Perhaps the greatest source of industrial conflict is the refusal of employers to permit their employes to exercise the right to join labor unions. In fact, the most bitter, costly and far-reaching strikes in history were due to the hostility of employer toward the organization of their employes. In the light of this experience is it not reasonable to conclude that if employers of labor would accept trade unionism as an essential part of industry and would treat with their employes collectively, strikes inaugurated for the purpose of establishing organization would be entirely eliminated?

Appeals for Union Policy.

"This would remove one of the greatest causes of industrial controversy. This would be a reasonable, rational policy for enlightened employers to pursue. Inasmuch as labor organizations cannot be destroyed or prevented, why not recognize their value and merit, and accept from them the benefits they can give through their organized effort? Many forward-looking progressive employers have caught this spirit and have accepted trade-unionism as an institution.

"There is no power which can be invoked which will prevent the workers from organizing into trade unions.

"If trade unionism were un-American, unpatriotic or antagonistic to the American form of government or to American institutions then employers of labor might be justified in vigorously opposing the very existence of such an organization. But, they do not have even this excuse, for American labor and American labor organizations are loyal to America, to its traditions and to the American principles of government.

Fear the Established Order.

"The labor organizations of our country recognize the existing order and have steadily refused to embrace any imported philosophy, no matter how it may be diguised or how seductive and alluring it may appear. Labor is sound, constructive, practical and rational. Because of the opposition which has come to labor at every turn of the road it has been forced to assume a militant attitude. It has been compelled to fight for the enjoyment of freedom, liberty and justice. It has fought for its existence."

COCHRAN TO HAVE BATTLE WITH TEXAS AMATEURS

WACO, April 24.—One of the greatest struggles in history of Texas golfdom is forecasted for the Texas amateur championship tournament which will be held at Spring Lake club here May 20 to 23 inclusive. All of the leading amateurs of the state will be entered to contest for the title now held by Tommy Cochran of Wichita Falls. Many experts are forecasting the main battle to be between Tommy Cochran, the present champion, Ossie Carlton, young Houston star and long a rival of Cochran's and George Rotan, veteran Houston star of international reputation.

A factor that will have considerable weight in deciding the title is the geographical aspect of the Spring Lake course, conceded to be one of the most difficult and erratic course in the southwest. The pitch shot will be one of the most used in playing the course and the golfer who depends on long drives entirely will find himself in trouble. The course is in excellent condition and should a rain fill several dry water hazards before the tournament it will be in the best condition in history.

Besides the Texas amateur title to be decided there also will be awarded in the tournament the Waco trophy, Lone Star trophy, Texas trophy, Spring Lake trophy and Huaco trophy.

STUDEBAKER

New Standard Six Coach

$1295

f. o. b. factory

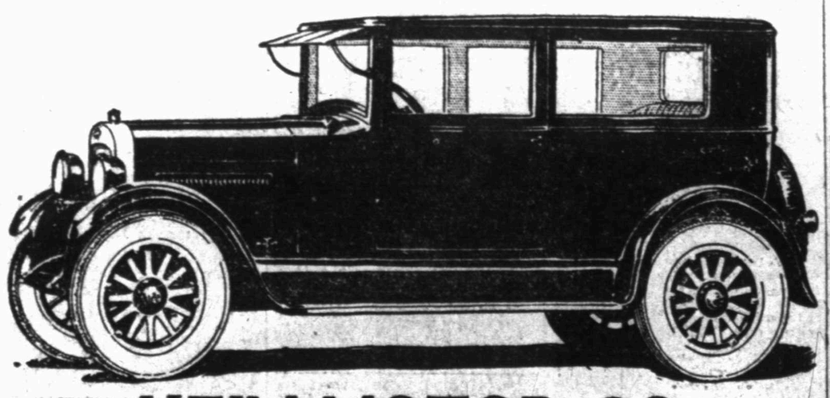

[with full-size balloon tires]

STUDEBAKER has $60,000,000 invested in plants in which Studebaker cars are manufactured complete, including all bodies, both open and closed. No other large automobile manufacturer that we know of makes all of his own bodies.

This means that Studebaker saves the profit of outside parts makers and body-builders. Thus the price of this new coach is not burdened by an extra profit. At $1295 it represents a value no other automobile manufacturer can equal.

And no other manufacturer can offer a coach of such fine quality at the price. For every coach that Studebaker builds carries with it traditions of fine craftsmanship that have existed in Studebaker plants since 1852.

Compare this coach with other cars which sell at much higher prices. This will prove that Studebaker values are unequaled.

English and Arab Colts May Fight It Out in Derby

Quatrain Looms Equal To The Best For The Distance

An imported English colt and a sturdy son of Omar Khayyam may battle it out for the purse and glory that go with the winning of the Kentucky derby, blue ribbon event of the American turf.

Master Charlie, the former, because of his 1924 record as a two-year-old, and Quatrain, because of his royal lineage, are already mentioned among the possible favorites.

Master Charlie won $95,525 last year. Victories in the Hopeful and the Kentucky Jockey club stakes earned his owner, William Daniel, over $50,000.

Omar Khayyam's worth as a sire has been established. Quatrain, owned by Frederick Johnson, has already proved that he will seek a place among the stars of the turf world. In the winter meet at New Orleans he led Chilhowee and several other good horses to victory in the $25,000 handicap.

While these two youngsters are rated highly, wise horsemen are keeping in mind the jinx that seems to hound early choices for the Churchill Downs event.

You recall, of course, what happened last year.

Sarazen was by far the big favorite in the early discussions.

The fact that he was not entered in the Preakness and therefore could be primed for the derby, was pointed out. But he was drawn from the entry list long before the horses were called as being unfit for such a test.

St. James and Wise Counsellor sprung into favor as Sarazen faded. St. James broke down. Wise Counsellor was fit as a fiddle until he was shipped east for the event but developed a bad case of nerves.

Black Gold, ranch horse and long shot, won the eevnt.

American Society To Aid in Coding International Law

Executive Council Will Draw Up Suggestions For Geneva

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The executive council of the American Society of International Law today adopted a report of a special committee accepting an invitation from the secretariat of the league of nations legal section to participate in the progressive codification of international law.

A two-day meeting of the society was concluded with a banquet tonight at which Secretary Kellogg and Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador, made brief addresses.

The request from the league of nations was for the society to consider and draw up a list of topics for consideration by the committee of legal experts at Geneva.

The committee report stated that it was consonant with the spirit of the society to co-operate with the league, at least to the extent to which it had been asked, and proposed that a special committee be formed to study the question and submit a report to the executive council in September. If favorably reported by the executive council the report will be transmitted to Geneva in time for consideration at th emeeting October 18, 1925.

Henri Fromageot, legal adviser to the French government was honorary member of the society at today's business session.

ECZEMA

You will be compelled to admit that the results of S.S.S. are really amazing!

MANY people imagine that eczema or tetter needs only some external application on the skin in order to get relief. This is because the attention of the sufferer is so violently directed to the intense burning and itching which accompanies this disease. Try as they may—permanent relief will never be theirs until the disease laden blood is thoroughly cleansed.

We know there is one thing that stops eczema and that is more red-blood-cells! S.S.S. builds them by the million! You can increase your red-blood-cells to the point where it is practically impossible for eczema to exist. We know that as blood-cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! We also know that night follows day. Both are facts! But have you, eczema sufferers, ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought about it. Skin eruptions, eczema, with all its fiery, skin digging torture, and its soul-tearing, unreachable itching, pimples, blackheads and boils, they all pack up and go, when the tide of blood-cells begins to roll in! Blood-cells are the fighting giants of Nature! S.S.S. builds them by the million! It has been doing it since 1826.

S.S.S. is one of the greatest blood-cell builders, blood-cleansers and body strengtheners known to us mortals! When you put these facts together,—then to continue to have eczema and skin eruptions looks more like a sin than a disease. S.S.S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it routs eczema, clears the skin, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, and gives you that more up and going appearance.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.
