SOLONS PLACE PENSION BILL IN CONFERENCE

Differences Are to Be Adjusted Before Nov. 1

TAX IS DEBATED

Salary of District and County Officers Under Fire

AUSTIN, Oct. 26. (P).—The bill to establish a system of old age pensions went to the conference committee today when the house rejected the senate amendments to the bill.

The house instructed its conference committee to report by November 1.

The senate substituted its bill, differing radically in many respects, for the house bill.

The house indicated continued opposition to inclusion by the conference committee of the general sales tax in the conference report on the pension proposal. Motion to instruct house conferees against the sales tax was made but was withdrawn after instruction to report on a certain day was given.

The house continued to debate the omnibus tax bill for pensions. The senate resumed debate on the bill to place county and district officers on a salary basis.

LONG SHOT IS FINAL WINNER IN LAST RACE

Bettie Joe Pays off $25.10 on a $2 Ticket

Bettie Joe longshot in the last race, paid her backers $25.10 Saturday afternoon shortly after 5:30, ending the Midland Fair's first six day race meet which, in spite of four days of inclement weather and a heavy track, was declared to have been one of the best "fin" meets in the history of Texas horse racing.

Fair officials, on closing the meet, thanked the public for the strong support accorded the race meet and the entire fair. Praise was expressed by Announcer Carl Geyer for the splendid manner in which the event was handled by local committee men and the officials. Taps were sounded and the Saturday crowd of approximately 2,500 filed from the stands in orderly fashion, maintaining to the last the spirit of good fellowship but orderly conduct which had marked the entire meet.

Officials had not had time to compute figures on the financial outcome of the meet and had issued no statement Saturday night. However, they expressed satisfaction at the support given the rodeo, cattle and agricultural shows and race meet and extended an advance invitation to the people of the south-west to attend the next "bigger and better" Midland Fair.

Johnson Attacks Rate With Which Jobs Are Located

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26. (P).—Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA administrator, said at the present rate of re-employment there might still be six million jobless when business returns to normal.

Few Arrests Mar Orderly Fair Crowds

Andy Norwood, city marshal yesterday expressed his and the appreciation of the officers for the manner in which citizens of Midland and visitors had cooperated in observing the various laws during the Midland Fair and racing meet.

Throughout the week, Norwood said, there was but one automobile wreck, and in that there was no one hurt.

Few arrests were made for drunkenness and disorders. Norwood said. Seven special policemen, who were employed a week ago to work during the fair went off the payroll last night.

Norwood expressed appreciation for the work of the state highway patrol men and the Boy Scouts.

Inspector J. B. Draper, head of the highway patrol unit of seven men who worked here during the fair, sent his thanks to the people of Midland for the cooperation his group had received during the past week.

FIRST FAIR ENDS

The Midland Fair's first big show is over. It was a four-way exposition of the highest order and every phase of it was handled admirably.

To begin with, the agricultural exhibit hall contained booths of educational and promotional nature which would have done credit to counties of the black land, corn belt, high plains or any other area. It was clearly demonstrated that crops of this section are of the money-getting kind. Likewise the exhibits of the various women's clubs would have looked well at the State Fair or at an international exposition.

The big rodeo brought contestants here who can win money anywhere in the United States or Canada. The arena and equipment was constructed in such a way that events could be carried off with maximum speed and with no confusion. To back it off, the rodeo committee and helpers carried the show off in exactly that manner. Officials knew their business and there was no disorder. The livestock used guaranteed a wild and fast rodeo, and such it was. As many remarked, the Midland Fair rodeo would have been good at Cheyenne, Pendleton or Fort Worth.

The cattle show and sale went far to advertise Midland as the cattle center of the Southwest. Many buyers did not remain for the sale because of inability to get rooms, officials of the fair said. In spite of that, prices were good and the demand strong. The 2,000 head of feeder cattle were seen by thousands of admiring people who did not realize the quality of beef cattle produced in this section.

The first big day of races, with fair weather and everything favorable, proved that Midland can hold one of the outstanding race meets of Texas. And then followed several days of bad weather, but the meet went right along, the horses ran like nobody's business and the purses were paid promptly to the winners. The enthusiastic little crowd each day put the money through the mutuels and race horse men who follow the sport for a living said they had never seen a new meet as successful, weather conditions considered.

The big feature of the whole thing, which must not be lost sight of, is that the entire Midland Fair was organized, the plant constructed and the show planned and pulled off in less than three months. Such an accomplishment would have been a credit to Fort Worth, Dallas or the Texas Centennial. Fairs, rodeos, race meets and other entertainment events in connection with the plant in the hereafter should be easy compared to the first one. Mistakes may have been made in many departments, as is natural under high pressure, but they were lost sight of in comparison to the big accomplishments.

The first Midland fair was an outstanding success.

Midland owes a great debt of gratitude to the large territory from Fort Worth on the east, Amarillo on the north, at least San Angelo on the south and El Paso on the west which gave such support in publicity, attendance and financial support. To depend on Midland's own population for support of the great undertaking would have meant too great a load and too small results. As it was, there was a large territory to furnish financial support and Midland became indelibly impressed on the minds of these outside people. The Midland Fair is destined to be one of the big expositions of Texas.

Formal Designation of Big Bend National Park Near

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26. (P).—Formal designation of a 750,000-acre tract of land in Southwest Texas as the Big Bend National Park today awaited only word that the state had acquired title to the vast acreage.

The National Park Service said tentatively boundary lines—in Brewster county, principally—had been approved by Secretary Ickes and had been sent to Governor Allred so the state could proceed to collect land titles.

Although the Park Service has learned nothing of the progress Texas is making with this task, it said actual creation of the park as a part of the national system could be accomplished almost overnight as soon as conditions set up in a bill President Roosevelt signed two months ago were fulfilled.

The congressional act, drawn by Representative R. Ewing Thomson of El Paso, Texas, authorized Ickes to establish the park, providing Texas could acquire the land and give it to the government without cost.

Meanwhile, the state department had word from Ambassador Joseph Daniels in Mexico City that the Mexican government was considering establishment of a similar park on the south side of the Rio Grande so that an international park, similar to one on the Canadian boundary, might be created. It would extend about 30 miles north and south of the meandering river.

The park service said the United States park would be used principally as a wild game and fowl preserve and would be beautified in many places. A Civilian Conservation Corps Camp of about 200 men at Marathon, Texas, will be available for work in the park and the service said several more might be created.

Preliminary plans call for construction of no new highways through the proposed park, but the park service said the government might improve what it termed "access roads" to make the motorist's approach easier.

ITALY TO FIGHT AGAINST USE OF LEAGUE BOYCOTT

British Capital to Be Denied Italy Next Tuesday

ARMIES ADVANCE

Bigger Fleet Is Likely To Be Demanded At Conference

ROME, Oct. 26. (P).—Premier Benito Mussolini denounced in no uncertain terms the League's program of sanctions against Italy today. He warned that the Italian people would fight against them.

He spoke in the annual message to the Blackshirt organization in salute to the fourteenth year of fascism opening Monday.

Authoritative London sources said Mussolini had halted the efforts to end war, and that there were no hopes of an early cessation.

Sanctions to Begin

The British treasury department ordered financial sanctions against Italy to become effective Tuesday.

The last diplomatic link between Italy and Ethiopia was broken as the Italian minister left Addis Ababa. The Italians in the north began a drive to occupy the Valley of Faras Mai river, evidently a step in the preliminary advance on Makale.

Italians made sporadic bombing and propaganda flights, and reported that Ethiopian chainmail on the north and south fronts had surrendered.

South Endangered

Addis Ababa circles feared for the safety of the southern front.

Prime Minister Baldwin of England said he would not sanction England's participation in the naval blockade without assurance of the United States' attitude.

Italy was believed ready to demand a larger fleet at the London naval conference in December.

Official French sources indicated that Premier Laval assured Britain that France will not block the League's economic sanctions against Italy.

SUICIDE VERDICT RETURNED AFTER GANGSTER DIES

Police Believe New Mob in Control In Newark

NEWARK, New Jersey, Oct. 26. (P).—Albert Stern, youthful gunman sought for questioning in the Dutch Schultz dog massacre and half a dozen other killings, was found strangled to death in a gas-filled room of the Italian-American neighborhood. A suicide verdict was rendered.

Johnny Torrio, "Torrio the Immune" who taught Al Capone his trade, is believed to be the leader of the gang which shot its way to control of New York rackets by annihilating the Schultz gang.

Torrio retired as overlord of Chicago's rackets during the Capone-Al Moran gang strife.

Counterfeit Race Tickets Seized

One man was in the county jail Saturday night as the result of several counterfeit pari-mutuel tickets being cashed at the race track following the completion of the last race Saturday.

It is alleged that immediately after the last race the man went to the windows and received money for the tickets which, under examination, were found to be spurious.

Prompt action by employees in the pari-mutuel windows and by officers was given credit for the saving of a large sum of money as it was reported that the man had several more tickets that he was preparing to cash.

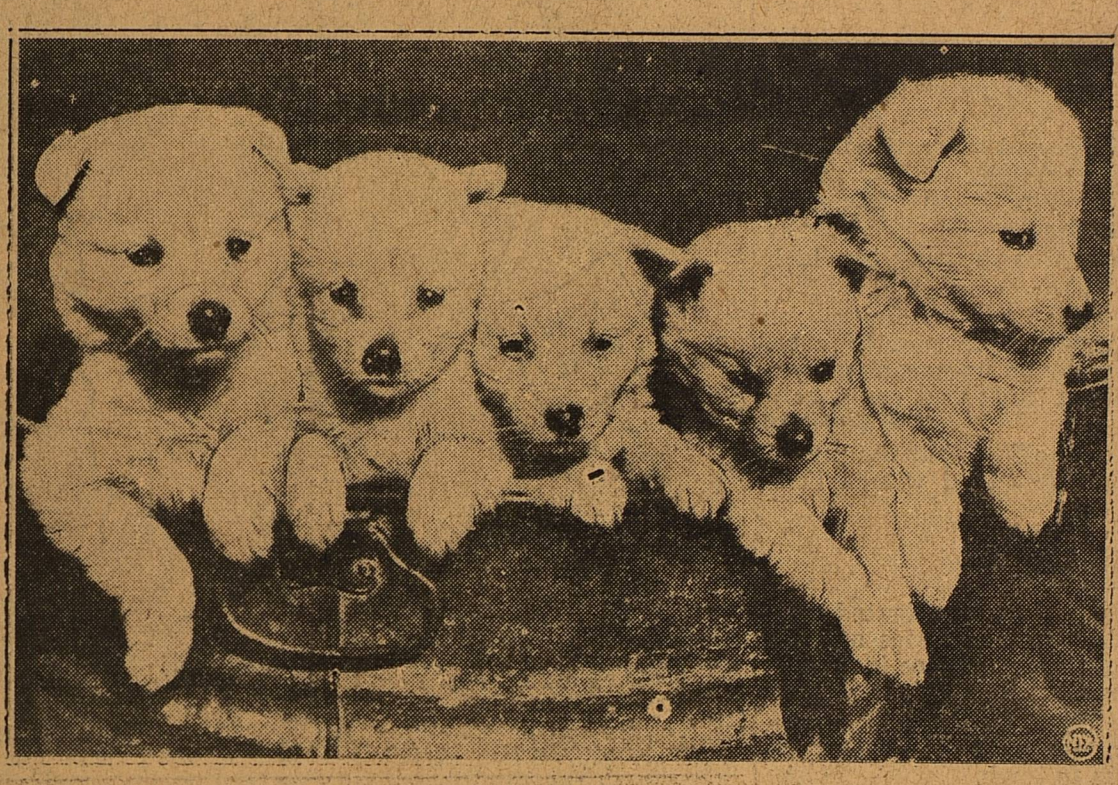

A warrant was held for a short while by investigating officers in the case but was released after questioning. No charges were filed.

Wind Erosion Work At Hereford Begins

HEREFORD, Oct. 26. (P).—Work on the 25,000 acre wind-erosion control project was underway here with preparation of engineered tree sites being carried on steadily. The project, which will supplement work being done near Dalhart, is the first tree acreage plant to be started in this section.

Trees will be planted on watersheds and along roadsides where moisture is available and where wind cutting begins during dry periods. Tentative plans are to extend the area along roadways to include territory 11 by 14 miles, with the 25,000 acre plot as the center.

Canine Quintuplets Face Future Doggedly

The serious expressions of those Spitz puppies, owned by Fred Craft of Chitt. N. Y., must be due to an early realization that, whatever the future holds, they are in for a dog's life. Or maybe they are a bit put out in the realization that, as quintuplets, they have to take second place to those five Dionne girls up in Canada.

Gillespie was not indicted for the slaying of the girl, although he admitted her death at the trial of his son, Wallace, who received a three-year sentence.

The defendant displayed no emotion as the jury reported its verdict after 12 1/2 hours of deliberation.

Farm Debt Adjustment Committee Set Up Here

Hugh F. Weaver of Lubbock, district supervisor, farm debt adjustment division of resettlement administration was here today to organize the voluntary farm debt adjustment committee in this county.

Weaver is district supervisor for A. & M. extension districts Nos. 2 and 6, which embrace 59 counties with a population of 44,342 farms.

The farm debt adjustment committee of Midland county is composed of the following members:

F. Elkin, Frank C. Dale and Mrs. Carl Covington in a meeting today Elkin was named chairman and Dale vice chairman and S. Covington secretary.

Weaver stated that this service is furnished by the federal government for the purpose of saving worthy farmers who are behind through no fault of their own on their farm mortgages, who have been thrifty enough and ambitious enough in the past to own a home and have always been self respecting and self supporting farm citizens.

Weaver said that many farmers with debt problems do not know that this service is available and is particularly desirous that distressed debtor farmers should get in touch with the farm debt adjustment committee, provided in this county, or the county agent, or the rural supervisor, who will gladly advise them what to do.

These governmental agencies are set up in each county so as to bring this service home to the farmer wherever he resides. And how much benefit is derived from this service in Midland county will depend of course upon the interest shown locally by all citizens of the county in cooperating with the federal agency to relieve debt distressed farmers.

YOUTH CANNOT BE TRIED FOR PARENT MURDER

Verdict Did Not Cover Issue at the Time of Crime

JURY IS CHARGED

No Reference Made To Facts of Slayings

AUSTIN, Oct. 27. — Howard Pierson escaped immediate trial for the murder of his parents today, through the jury's verdict that he is insane.

Should he be found sane later, he would be subject to trial for the killing of William Pierson, associate justice of the Texas supreme court, and Mrs. Pierson.

The verdict did not cover the issue of sanity at the time of the slaying.

Four Hour Pleas

Following the four hours of final pleas by the defense and state, District Judge C. A. Wheeler charged the jury in the insanity hearing that its only duty was to determine whether Pierson is insane at present.

Under no condition could the jury consider the facts of the killings or possible future action against the defendant.

Testimony that Pierson was motivated by insane delusions and that he was doing no wrong when he killed his father and mother concluded evidence in his hearing Friday.

Dr. C. H. Standiford, superintendent of the Austin state hospital, testifying in rebuttal, said the youth fatally shot his parents, Justice William Pierson of the state supreme court and Mrs. Pierson, because of a delusion his father had wronged him and he was justified in seeking revenge.

Alienist Testifies

Dr. Joe Wooten of Austin, a mental specialist, testified the thought of right and wrong did not enter Pierson's mind for he was dominated by "hatred, revenge and delusions of persecution" and thought he was doing the right thing.

Previously the state struck at defense claims that Pierson is insane with testimony from officers to whom he confessed the killing and persons who observed his conduct in jail and during off field employment.

Deputy Sheriff Sam Rogers testified that the 21-year-old slayer confessed killing his parents because he had a "grudge" against them. The youth also said something about his father refusing to give him the educational advantages he had given other children, Rogers said.

Rogers testified he obtained the confession about 2 a. m. on the night of the slaying. The youth directed him to a place several miles from the city where he had concealed his father's pocketbook and watch, as well as the gun, some cartridges and other articles.

Insurance Discussed

Attempting to establish a motive for what he charges was a rational though criminal act, District Attorney James P. Hart asked Rogers if Pierson said anything about obtaining life insurance. He said he did not. Justice Pierson carried about $17,000 in insurance. Rogers said (See PIERSON, page 8)

Convicts to Strut At Today's Rodeo

HUNTSVILLE, Oct. 27. (P).—Texans as convicts will strut their stuff with saddle and rope today in their rodeo of the regular season. The occasion also will mark the fifth year the convicts have staged "wild west" performances under the supervision of Lee Simmons, retiring manager of the Texas prison system.

Sunday's show, however, will have "added attractions" in a calf roping contest, by three well-known Texans, Captain Tom Hickman, head Ranger of Austin Mayor Reese Lockett of Brenham and Sheriff Jesse Slaughter of Big Spring will toss their competitive lariats for a cash prize.

"This contest will be for the benefit of the prisoners," Simmons said. "We want to give them something from the outside world."

Slaughter was proclaimed the 1934 champion all-around cowboy at Stamford, winning a $250 cash prize. Lockett and Hickman are renowned ropers, having performed at Madison Square Garden, New York. Hickman had displayed the art of the rope before audiences at London, England.

The performance of the regular inmates will consist of calf and goat roping, bronco busting, steer riding, mare and wild cow milking, chariot races and several special events.

Using a transformed baseball park for an arena, the convicts, many wearing 10-gallon hats and high heel boots and drawn from all the system's farms, have performed their rodeo feats with zest. Their spirited performances have brought steadily increasing audiences, including Tom Mix, movie and circus performer, Governor James V. Allred and other celebrities. Convicts entering the contests are required to sign releases against the system in case of accident or death.

Proceeds go to meet rodeo expenses and provide prize money for winners. The remainder goes into the convicts' recreational fund and is used for school work, books, movies and the purchase of baseball equipment.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26. (P).—Two thousand weary fighters continued a desperate battle to halt a forest fire raging inland toward Malibu mountain. The outbreak of smaller conflagrations in spotted areas of Los Angeles county added many worries as damage of the major fire neared the $10,000,000 mark.

Postponement of the Double Hart ranch rodeo until later in November was announced in a letter yesterday from Ollie Cox, manager.

The rodeo originally was announced for Nov. 9, 10 and 11. On account of the fact that it will be a "world championship" meet and many prospective contestants are at Madison Square Garden, Cox decided to put off the show.

BLIND MOTHER LOVE

The New Jersey mother who for 18 hours refused to let her daughter be taken to a hospital for an emergency operation made necessary by a ruptured appendix is a tragic example of the way in which a sincere and protective love can go astray and do more harm than good.

This mother feared hospitals and operations. She loved her daughter as truly as any other mother in the land, and she wanted to protect her, to save her from danger, just as every other mother does.

But how frightfully mistaken was the way in which she tried to do it!

Her daughter suffered from an acute ailment for which an immediate operation was the only possible cure. Mother love, twisted out of shape by an unreasoning fear, stood between the girl and the one thing that could help her.

It was a tragic illustration of the fact that the purest devotion can be useless unless it be mixed with a little common sense.

DYING SYMBOL OF U. S.

The Commerce Department, having investigated matters in such representative middlewestern states as Indiana and Ohio, reports that the old country store is rapidly passing from the American scene.

Autos and paved roads are depriving it of its reason for existence. Fewer and fewer people stop to shop at the crossroads; instead they go on in to town.

In Ohio, for instance, 76 per cent of the stores are now in urban places, and they do nearly 88 per cent of the state's retail business. In Indiana the figures are nearly as high.

Few statistics have recorded a more significant change in American life. The little old country store was as distinctly American an institution as the nation possessed.

Its cracker barrel philosophers and informal debating societies helped, for generations, to shape the ideas of the republic. We shall have lost something that lay at the roots of our character when it finally disappears.

The government is devising a recreation program to teach farmers how to play. The baseball rules undoubtedly award a run to each player not getting a hit.

Troops Massing By Spain Reflects Fear Instilled by Example Set In Belgium Prior To World War

MADEIR, Oct. 27. (U.P.)—Spain's increasing precautions in the face of Italo-Ethiopian hostilities, although carried out discreetly, are producing unexpected repercussions in the Western Mediterranean.

The people suddenly have realized that a part of Spanish territory is as much exposed to the danger of being made a battlefield as Belgium was in 1914. However, the official explanation for reinforcement of Spanish garrisons around Gibraltar is that these measures were necessary as a result of military maneuvers and the enlargement of garrisons at such places as Tarifa, San Roque and La Linea. But the real motive seems to be to establish strong Spanish posts close to the British foothold in the peninsula and thus facilitate the protection of Spanish neutrality in the event of an attack on Gibraltar. This is tantamount to assisting England.

Troops Sent to Morocco

Reinforcements also have been sent to Spanish Morocco, especially Ceuta district, which is closest to Gibraltar and only a few miles from Algeiras, with a view to complementing the defense of the straits and being ready to repulse a naval attack or attempted landing by foreign planes on Spanish soil.

Another vantage spot in the Mediterranean is provided by the Balearic Islands, where fortifications have been rushed along, not only for the purpose of defending Spain's neutrality, but also to permit the use of the islands by England or France, or both, according to the present trend of Spanish foreign policy.

One of the latest steps taken by the Spanish government was to prohibit flying over the Balearic Islands "because of the exigencies of national defense." The prohibition affects the islands of Mallorca, Ibiza and Formentera, and their jurisdictional waters. The decree announcing this prohibition establishes two canals, one mile wide and 250 meters maximum altitude for air traffic to Palma and Alcudia bays, to which there is a regular air passenger service.

Fear of Air Conflict Seen

Although it is impossible to get authoritative confirmation or denial of the report, it has been suggested that this prohibition has been announced in view of the possibility of an air conflict in the Mediterranean, Spain being anxious to prevent undesirable foreign military or seaplanes from using the Balearic bases either for refueling or as the theatre for air battles. A naval or air clash, even if it occurs, is most unlikely in the Western Mediterranean.

However, the Spanish government is following the situation closely and everything is being held in suspense until it is definitely ascertained whether the international situation renders advisable the formation of a national coalition government, and the postponement of the proposed November municipal elections.

Some Spanish people even are pondering whether possible future complications would necessitate general mobilization.

Gas Drills Held

This may be partly attributed to the publication in the newspapers of photographs of anti-chemical warfare drills organized by the Spanish Red Cross, photographs which show Red Cross workers wearing gas masks, tending victims of supposed gas attacks.

There would be little surprise if further significant steps were taken soon, thus confirming that Spain realizes the responsibility of remaining indifferent, partly due to membership in the League of Nations and the repercussions of the conflict between Italy and Ethiopia.

MIDLAND CITY COUNCIL RULES THAT DELINQUENT WATER AND SEWER BILLS MUST BE PAID OR THE SERVICE SHUT OFF

To avoid working possible hardships on customers, the City for the past several months has been lenient in the collection of water and sewer bills and refrained from shutting off any one's service, but conditions have improved to the point where it is thought that these bills should be paid. Therefore, the City Council, in session October 17, 1935, ordered that notice be given through the paper and individually that delinquent bills must be paid by November 11th, or the service of such customers discontinued.

According to the Council no exceptions shall be made in carrying out their order, therefore City employees will have no choice in the matter and should not be blamed for any inconvenience that may occur to those failing to pay their bills before the final date. It is sincerely hoped by the City officials and employees that it will not be necessary to cause such inconvenience.

By order of the City Council, Oct. 17, 1935.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything).

A person's nerves furnish a multitude of excuses.

We once knew a man who was such a liar that one time when he was charged with a crime of which he was innocent he lied himself right into jail.

Probably a man's most embarrassing moment is having someone read a love letter he wrote 30 years before.

The most popular of all speakers is the man who announces he is going to talk for 10 minutes and then ends his speech in five minutes.

With the Halloween season here and Thanksgiving and Christmas approaching, it is also the time of the year when we wonder just how much we can get for the old bus on a trade-in or a new model.

A Midland man gets so remorseful following a drunken spree that he goes out and gets drunk all over again.

CHARTER GRANTED ELECTION MGRS.

Association Aims Supported By Texas Legislature In Resolution

AUSTIN, Oct. 27. (Sp.)—The election managers' association of Texas has been granted a charter by the secretary of state. The aims and purposes of the organization of county and precinct chairmen of the democratic party are to keep the democratic party white, simplify the Texas election laws and make it possible to hold elections upon the highest plane of efficiency.

The association's membership is made up of democratic county and precinct chairmen, election judges, clerks and other election officials throughout the 254 counties of the state.

After obtaining a state charter the first official act of Allen S. Shepherd, originator of the organization, was to appear before committees of the senate and house of the Texas legislature to enlist the support of that body in carrying out the aims and purposes of the election officials' organization. The legislature recently cooperated with the group by unanimously adopting a concurrent resolution embodying the following principles:

Only white democrats to participate in democratic conventions and primary elections.

Promulgation of rules and regulations by national democratic convention that no negroes shall be seated in the National Democratic Convention of 1936.

If negroes are to be seated in the National Convention that convention be not held in any southern state.

State headquarters of the Texas election managers association have been established in Houston under the direction of Allen S. Shepherd.

Bobby Rountree Honored at Party On Sixth Birthday

Honoring her son, Bobby, on his sixth birthday, Mrs. Ed Rountree entertained with a party at her home, 107 S. Pecos, Friday afternoon from 3:30 o'clock until 5 o'clock.

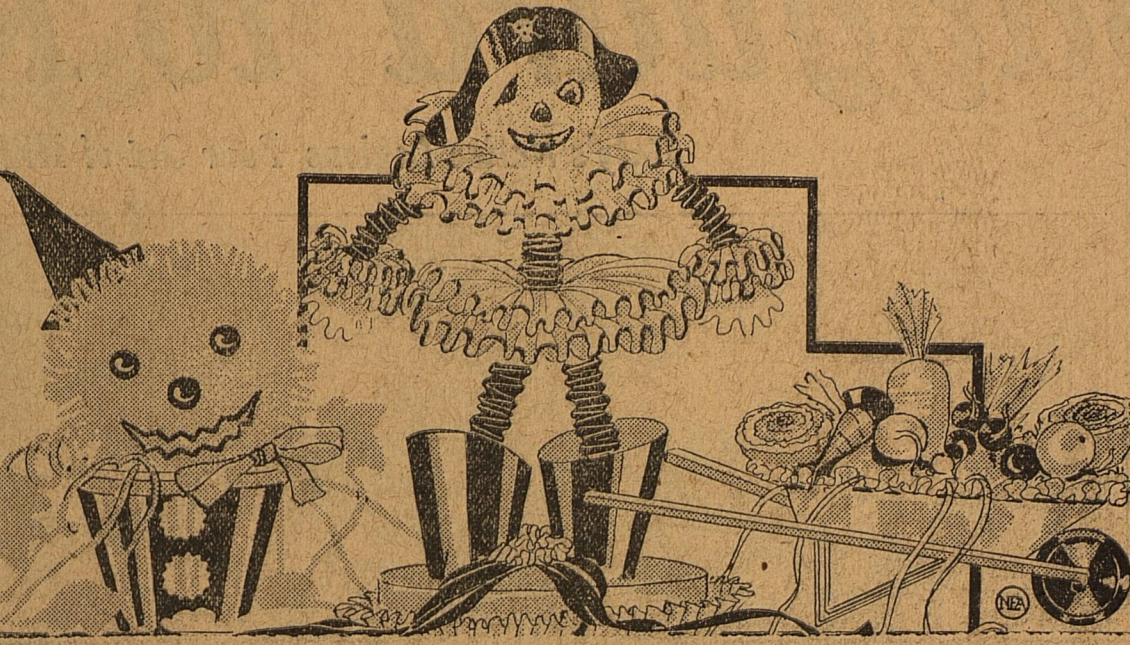

Various games occupied the play period with the prize in a contest going to Gerald Nobles.

The birthday cake was iced in pink and bore six green candles in green holders.

Favors were Halloween horns.

Refreshments were served to Leroy Payne, Oscar Joe Cooper, Georgia Veale Elliott, Eula Ann Tolbert, Jo Ann Proctor, Peggy Wright, Ann Ulmer, Jerry Roy Hudson, Dennis Ray Stephens, Cecil Stephens, Gerald Nobles, Eddie Richardson, and the honoree.

New Ways to Have Fun on Halloween Nite

men made of shirred crepe paper are erected for table center pieces. One pumpkin man of orange and red is three feet high and stuffed. A swash-buckling pirate with a gold dagger, wide orange breeches and a snarl on his wicked face, stands against a treasure trunk which is filled with favors.

Favors this year are more useful than usual — ash trays with green skeleton heads attached which may hold candy at the table; a black spider that supports a practical napkin ring; a candle holder of a hallowed composition pumpkin.

Pumpkins Wired Electrically

Pumpkins, by the way, have gone modernistic. Some made into lanterns have flat backs designed to stand against the wall. These can be bought with electric wire incisions which do away with fire hazards from candles. You can buy decorated panels for rooms—cut-outs of jack-o'-lanterns, ghosts, moons and witches, all ready to put up.

Even the ceiling may be ready-made shredded paper decorations if you want them.

Paper costumes all wrapped up complete in cellophane can be bought for men, women and children — witches for women, skeletons for men, brownies for children.

You can't beat the old-time Halloween games — bobbing for apples, pinning the tail on the donkey, flipping apple peels to find your true love's initials, seeing the face of your fate in the mirror at midnight. But some of the modern touches are not bad.

Chance Is Bewitching

There is, for instance, a scrawny orange and black witch standing over a paper roulette wheel with her finger pointing downward. A guest turns the wheel and must do whatever the witch tells him — that being what is printed at the point where the witch's finger stops. Or the finger may stop at a fortune. There is, too, a fortune telling cake set with fifteen favors and fortunes attached to fifteen candles to be buried in the cake batter.

Variation of an old favorite is a cat cut-out set in the middle of the table in order to permit each guest to try to ring his tail with a composition doughnut. In another version of pinning on the donkey's tail a scene showing the outline of a cat o' fense above an ash can, is set up. Each guest, blindfolded, tries to pin a small cat in the right place on the fence. Or it may be a grinning pumpkin on which are to be pinned rolling green eyes.

Belmont Bible class will meet with Mrs. Troy Eiland, 907 North D street, Friday afternoon at the usual hour.

Escondido club will meet with Mrs. J. R. Norris, 705 N. Arienfeld, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

NEA Cameraman Poses As Chief's Bodyguard to Reach Front Lines

Finds Ogaden Is Bristling With Men and Guns

You have been seeing, in The Reporter-Telegram, the remarkable and exclusive pictures—such as those accompanying this article—which NEA Service Staff Photographer H. V. Drees has taken on the Ethiopian side of the Ogaden battlefield. Equally dramatic is Drees' own story, told below, of how he and a German ex-army colonel were able to penetrate farther into the Ethiopian front lines than any other foreigners.

By V. DRESS
NEA Service Staff Photographer
(Copyright, 1935, By NEA Service, Incorporated)

SOMEWHERE IN THE DESERT NEAR WAL WAL (by courier to Harrar) — (P) — We are in forbidden territory.

No other white men have penetrated as far into the Ogaden battlefield as the region which we have reached after nearly a week of tortuous travel through the brush southeast of Harrar.

My companion, Colonel Zetlin, a retired German army officer who knows the dialect, was told by some natives that Wal Wal is the nearest town; some others said Gerlogubi.

We are not far — an indefinite number of miles — from the Italian lines. Italian war planes fly high above us. Crouching motionless against the rocks, we watch them with the same apprehension felt by the native troops around us.

WINNING AID OF NATIVE CHIEF

Our journey here was the most nerve and body-wracking experience of my life.

When the authorities had begun to make it hot for the photographers in Harrar, I determined to get out if I could. We were watched day and night, followed by soldiers everywhere we went, and forbidden to take our cameras out of the hotel. Our luck seemed the worst possible, until my German colonel met a chief, one Bakala Ayale, who lives in the Wal district, and was in Harrar to confer with the authorities.

After a few drinks—you don't need many of the stuff they sell in Harrar—the chief agreed to allow us to come with him to his village. We hired a lorry, smuggled the cameras into it and set off.

I felt sure we would be stopped at the gates of the town, since I was never allowed out without a guard. But the chief must be "somebody," because they waved him and his bodyguard, which included us, on our way. (Later, I learned the gate-keepers were arrested for having let us slip through.)

FOLLOW TROOP ROUTE TO FRONT

At times our speed averaged four miles an hour and we were more than twelve hours doing forty miles in the hills. In places the lorry sank to its axles in a soft river bed and had to be dug out, and later on, it was even worse digging it out of the sandy desert. In one place we stopped where you could hardly put your foot down without disturbing small snakes, but they did not trouble us much. Once while the lorry was being dug out of a river, I walked a way along the bank. Fifteen feet ahead of me a great head, that looked as big as a football, reared in my direction. It was a python, at least eighteen feet long—not that I stopped to measure it. Did I run!

As we traveled farther from Harrar, the country became stiff with Ethiopian troops. But they seemed to melt into the rocks and scrub, until you were almost on top of them, and then you found yourself in the middle of a machine gun nest.

The natives do not run when they see an Italian plane. They stop dead in their tracks, their heads bent down, and they have a curious way of lying motionless across rocks, becoming almost invisible at a distance of a few yards.

I never realized how many machine guns the Ethiopians have. The region bristled with them. Every mule carries one or two, and the native bearers march two men to a gun. Guns and mules seem to be kept in beautiful condition. They are looked on by their owners as the most valuable possessions on earth.

KENTON, O. (U.P.)—A Holstein cow of the herd of J. P. Richards, near here, is earning her sobriquet of the "one-cow dairy." The animal produces seven gallons of milk a day.

The king penguin makes his choice of a mate and then presents her with a round pebble, which he lays at her feet.

Italy's Native Legions Pour Out of Hills as Tanks Lead the Advance

(Copyright 1935, NEA Service, Inc.) Seemingly springing from the earth like the fabled army of Cadmus, the armed hordes of Askaris fighting with the Italian army swarmed into action against Ethiopians across the rough country near Aduwa on the northern battlefield. A daring staff cameraman pictures the awesome spectacle of a hillside alive with shouting warriors on the war path.

(Copyright 1935, NEA Service, Inc.) Italian tanks are shown rumbling over the hastily constructed military road to Aksum, enroute to conquest of the Ethiopian holy city, which quickly capitulated.

Natural and Man-Made Defenses Hide Ethiop Warriors From Italian Eyes

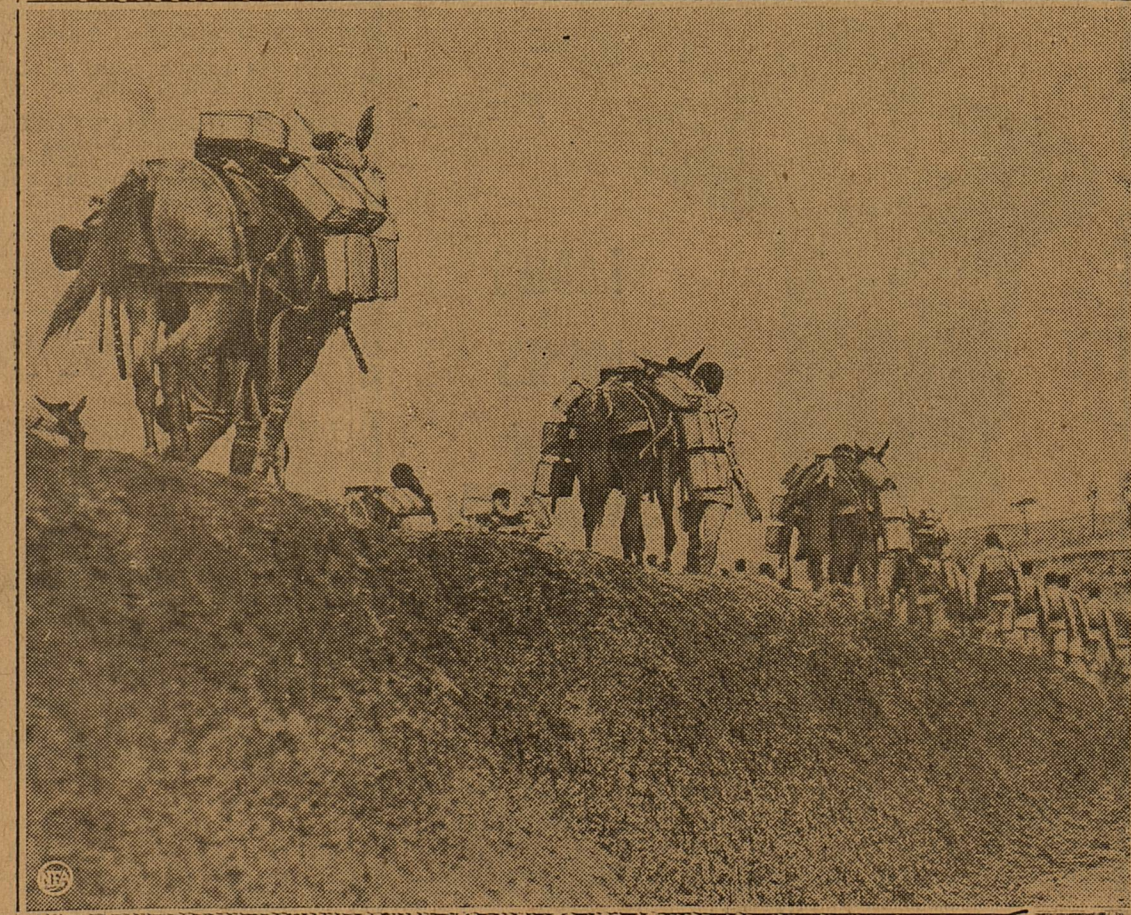

(Copyright 1935, NEA Service, Inc.) Nature is the great camouflage artist aiding the Ethiopian armies. In this picture just received in America after a fast journey from the Ogaden front by courier, plane and ocean express, H. V. Drees, The Reporter-Telegram-NEA Service Staff cameraman, shows troops taking advantage of the natural camouflage offered by a cactus-grown gulch during a skirmish with Italian forces near Wal Wal. Were not the soldier at right pointed out by an arrow, it would be difficult to find him in the scene.

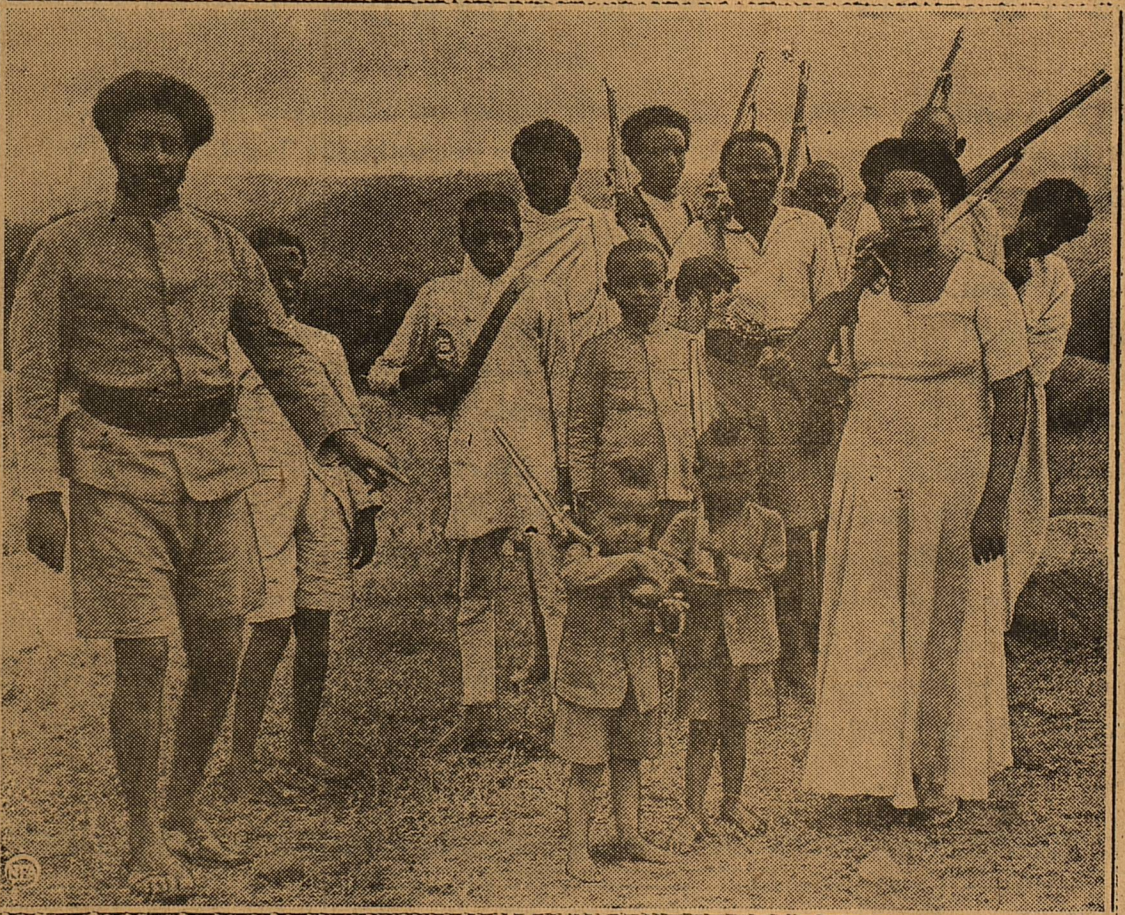

(Copyright 1935, NEA Service, Inc.) Where nature fails to provide natural defensive facilities, the Ethiopians have been quick to profit by European trench warfare lessons, digging shallow trenches even in the heat of battle. Here H. V. Drees, Reporter-Telegram-NEA Service Staff cameraman, in a picture rushed to America from the Ogaden front, shows a column of Ethiopian regulars advancing along a trench as they maneuvered to gain an advantage against attacking Italian forces.

Ethiopia's Defenders — Men, Women and Children — Move to Meet Foe

(Copyright 1935, NEA Service, Inc.) Because of lack of adequate motor equipment, mule trains have been the chief means for moving munitions to the Ethiopian front lines. Here H. V. Drees, Reporter-Telegram-NEA Service Staff cameraman, shows you a train of heavily laden pack mules plodding toward Wal Wal with cases of cartridges urgently needed in the fight against Italian invaders.

(Copyright 1935, NEA Service, Inc.) In the great Ogaden district where Italy's southern armies strive to drive back defending forces, every home is in peril from air raids and artillery attack, so Chief Bakala Ayale, most influential man in a region near Wal Wal, has trained his family and retainers as home guards. Even his wife (right) and young sons bear arms for use against raiding planes or land foes.

Watches Fearless Troops Go Gaily Into Battle

NATIVE BANQUET WELCOMED THEM

We lived on the country and we didn't do badly. The old chief shot enough gazelle and birds to feed an army. Arrived at Bakala Ayale's village, we were presented to his family and royally welcomed.

Bakala Ayale told my companion, the German colonel, that our lives would be unsafe if he did not protect us. That may be so, but we have been very well treated by all the troops we have seen here. They do not seem as suspicious as they did in Harrar, and every man is willing to divide what he has with us.

We do not want for food. Our first meal at Bakala Ayale's house was a feast. We sat on the floor around an upturned basket which served as a table. The table was covered with a flat grey substance. I was surprised to see Bakala Ayale break off a piece and place it in his mouth. It was a bread table-cloth! It looks like a great layer of crepe cloth, and it gradually disappears as the meal goes on. We had sheep, and birds, and something which tasted like curry, only a hundred times hotter. You break off a piece of the "table cloth," dip your hand in a bowl, take a piece of meat—and eat. The drink is a potent beverage which I can only translate as tache. It is made of herbs, according to the colonel.

While we ate some natives squatted on their heels and played weird, monotonous music for us. Others danced. After the banquet we were conducted to a small fairly clean mud hut where we slept until morning.

AS FIGHTING STARTS REACH FRONT

The next day we started out and a few hours later our mules were among the troops at the front. Long lines of soldiers, apparently well armed, stretched across the country, bringing up machine guns and ammunition, in boxes printed with words in French. I was told much of the ammunition was from Belgium.

We went on hour after hour, being stopped now and then by patrols, until we got to a place where every cactus seemed to conceal one or two black soldiers with a machine gun.

Towards evening we heard some firing a short distance away toward the south, and twice I saw columns of, or rather groups of, irregulars—about a hundred in each group—racing forward to take up positions. It seems the Ethiopian never walks if he can run, especially if he has a gun in his hand. I never have seen a happier crowd of people than these black warriors. They always were laughing and shouting when they were going to be targets for the enemy seemed to be a great joke to them all. The nearer we came to the trenches on the actual front lines, the happier the troops seemed to be. The trenches are very shallow, and I am told the warriors think they are foolish, preferring to use the natural cover behind which they always have fought in past years.

In the hills, too, the Ethiopians were occupying every pass, dragging their machine guns up the steep paths, and piling up brush shelters as camouflage.

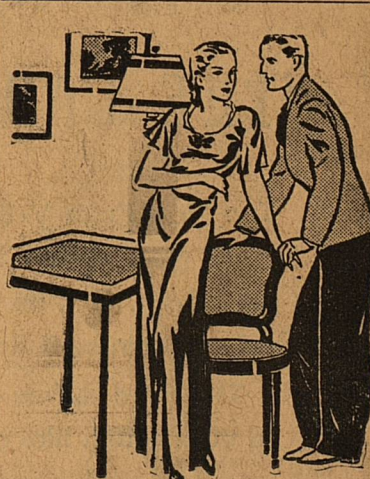

It is a strange mixture of modern and primitive military methods that is being employed in the defense of Ethiopia.

Bulldogs Play Sorriest Game of Year, Lose To Wink 19-0

ALL HOPES FOR A CHAMPIONSHIP GO WITH TEAM LOSS

The Midland Bulldogs lost all chances Friday night of winning a championship this year when they played the sorriest game of the season and let Wink defeat them 19-0.

The scores is no true indication of how one-sided the game really was, for only once was the Midland team able to penetrate the Wink 20 yard territory and never were they able to make any sustained drive, the first downs being 11 and two in favor of the winners.

The Bulldogs got their one and only chance to score early in the first quarter when they recovered a Wink fumble on the home team's 18 yard stripe, but after losing the ball on downs they never threatened again.

The first Wink touchdown came in the first quarter when Ezzell, fleet Wildcat halfback, circled his own left end for five yards to enter pay territory.

The half ended with the score six to nothing but did not remain that way long as the Wink team blocked a punt for Richman early in the third period and recovered it behind the Midland goal line for their second score. A pass was completed for the extra point. After the punt had been blocked Richman chased the ball back in to the end zone but while he was meditating over whether to run with the ball or whether to fall on it and give the Wink club two points one of the home team members saved him the trouble of making up his mind by falling on the ball.

The last Wink score came in the same period when Chazy, Wink quarter, took a punt on his own 30 and dashed through the entire Midland team for 70 yards.

The Bulldog defense was weak all night and time after time Ezzell, a little 135 pounder, went around the ends or off tackles to run up a staggering amount of yardage. Neither was the pass defense more than mediocre but the Wink team failed to take more than ordinary advantage of this feature, not passing the ball more than a half-dozen times during the night.

For Midland Cowden and Rettig, second string backs, showed more ability than the rest of the team combined, and had they had any material aid from their teammates the score could very easily have been far different.

There was not outstanding star for the Wink team as they worked as a unit all night and each man did his share nobly.

RICE, BAYLOR AND TEXAS CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE TEAMS GAME WINNERS

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 26. (P.)—The Baylor Bears kept their South-west Conference slate clean today with a 14-6 triumph over the Texas Aggies.

An inadequate pass defense was responsible for the Aggies' second conference setback in the last two weeks. Twice they repulsed the Bears' ground drive but could not fathom Lloyd Russell's passes.

The Aggies scored first in the opening period but from then on the Bears, advancing by Russell's passes and punts, had the game their own way.

AUSTIN, Oct. 26. (P.)—The Rice Owls scored a brilliant comeback today by toppling a herd of fighting Texas Longhorns, 28-19, before a record crowd of 30,000 frenzied fans.

The Owls scored first within a few minutes of the opening kickoff when Nichols, Rice center, recovered a Texas fumble and repeated a few minutes later on a sustained drive from the 40-yard line to give them a lead that the gallant Longhorns could never overcome.

John McCauley and Bill Wallace were brilliant for the victors and were the predominant reasons for an Owl victory.

The losers spiced the battle with a series of daringly-executed passes, Sheridan to Arnold and Jurecka to Collins.

FROGS GIVE GENTS WORST BEATING IN YEARS

SHREVEPORT, Oct. 26. (P.)—By flashing a dazzling aerial attack when they were unable to pierce the stone wall Centenary line, the Texas Christian Horned Frogs today swamped the Gentlemen, 24-7.

It was one of the worst beatings that the Gentlemen have taken in years and the first home game they have lost since 1931.

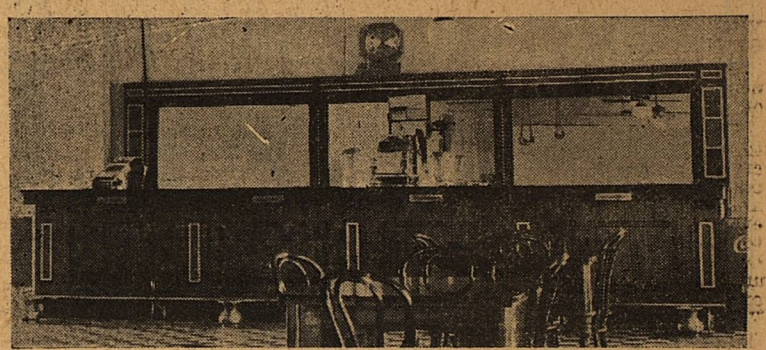

Sam Baugh, Frog quarter, shot bullet passes all during the game to ends and halves and was the outstanding star of the day.

The titmouse, a bird, will snatch hairs from a man's head and use them in next building.

King of Barbecuers, Up Amarillo Way, Has Fed Many Notables of Nation

AMARILLO, Tex., Oct. 26. (AP)—A barbecue is not a real barbecue out Amarillo way unless John Snider has something to do with it. Whether it is a beef, a sheep, a chicken or whatnot, to be barbecued, John Snider ranks as the peer of them all when it comes to getting the job done just right.

He began his barbecuing career about 30 years ago and much of his success is due to the regionally famous "John Snider barbecue sauce". He spent about 25 years developing the sauce and he is not willing to divulge what it contains. It is good, he says, on all meats, vegetables and sea foods, but it is not for sale. It is merely a part of the Snider barbecue.

Snider has fed thousands of persons at an estimated 500 barbecues. He doesn't make much money out of his art—just expenses and about laborer's wages, depending on the amount of help necessary—but he has his reputation as the barbecue king of the Panhandle to uphold.

Snider's largest barbecue was in 1926 when he cooked 500 steaks and 50 sheep for a meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Amarillo. He fed 12,000 persons at Sterling, Colo., in 1922, 6,000 at Juarez, Mexico, in 1926, and 15,000 near Amarillo on another occasion.

The crowning event in his career was when he barbecued 200 steaks near Washington for the National Press club in May, 1932. During 11 days at the capital he met many of the political "big shots" of the time—President Hoover, Vice-President Curtis, Speaker of the House Garner, Governor Ritchie of Maryland and RFC Chairman Jesse Jones. Pictures taken with some of the notables are among his prized possessions.

"Those governors and officials up there are like Methodist ministers when there's chicken dinner—they all come," Snider said.

"That guy eats all of the time," he said of Garner.

Barbecuing, however, is merely a side-line with Snider. He has been a peace officer most of the time since 1892, and was chief of police of Amarillo from 1906 to 1912 and again in 1922.

He was born in Collin county in 1874, and came to the Panhandle in '85, before Amarillo was established.

Castle Gets Horseshoe Tribute From Peers

OAKHAM, England, Oct. 25. (AP)—Because of a curious old custom, Oakham Castle here is hung with shoes from the horses of nearly every English king and queen. The castle has the right to demand a horseshoe from every peer that passes through the town, and if anyone refuses, the rider can be taken from the horse.

George IV gave the castle a horseshoe of bronze, seven feet high, and Queen Elizabeth gave one of the largest in the castle. The Prince of Wales has also presented one, but since the king has not passed through the town on horseback, there is none from him.

SLACK ACTIVITY IS INDICATIVE OF END OF SEASON

Six Out of Seven Are Strictly Field Development

By PAUL OSBORNE

Probably indicative of the normal end-of-the-year slackening of activity, West Texas new oil locations dropped to seven during the week past, and only 13 wells were completed, ten as producers and three as dry holes. Six of the seven new operations are strictly field development, while the other will seek to extend present limits of production.

The completed operations were scattered through six counties, and the ten producers total 6,331 barrels daily new potential production, largest single well being Mid-Continent No. 4-A Howe in the Sayre Pool, Winkler county.

Wahlenmaier et al No. 1 Cox, located in the center of the northwest quarter of section 8, block A-33, public school land, northern Andrews county, was one of the failures of the week. The test reached a total depth of 4,811 feet in limestone with no shows of any sort reported.

Ector Gets New Location

Sole activity for Ector county was the new location in the North Cowden Field, Stanolind No. 24 Cowden, which will be 440 feet from the south and west lines of section 35, block 43, township 1 north, T. & P. Railway survey.

Principal scene of activity for the week, both as to completions and new locations, was the Sayre Pool, new sand pool a few miles north and west of Kermit, Winkler county. In addition to completing their No. 4-A Howe, located 2,310 feet from the north line and 990 feet from the west line of section 12, block 26, public school land, for 1,713 barrels daily, Mid-Continent made location for No. 6-A Howe, 2,310 feet from the north line and 1,650 feet from the west line of the same section.

Well Is Completed

Westbrook's activity in the Sayre Pool included the completion of No. 1 Hendrick, 330 feet from the north line and 2,310 feet from the west line of section 14, for 508 barrels daily through tubing after test; location of No. 2 Hendrick, 990 feet from the north line and 2,310 feet from the west line of the same section; completion of No. 3 Daugherty, 1,880 feet from the south and east lines of section 11, for 750 barrels daily flow; and location of No. 5 Daugherty, 2,310 feet from the east line and 330 feet from the south line of the same section. All are in block 26, public school land.

Other Sayre Pool activity was completion of Sinclair-Prairie No. 1 Cummins, 990 feet from the north line and 330 feet from the east line of section 11, for 470 barrels daily; completion of Sayre No. 3 Daugherty, 990 feet from the south and east lines of section 2, for 886 barrels daily; and location of Magnolia No. 13 Walton, 1,650 feet from the east line and 330 feet from the south line of section 1, all block 26, public school land.

2,200-Foot Test

In southern Winkler county, test-inz westward extension of the Halley Pool, Emperor Oil Company made location for a 2,000-foot test to be known as their No. 1 Conoco-Halley, and located 330 feet from the south line and 2,310 feet from the west line of section 12, block B-12, public school land.

Ward county activity was limited to the southern Ward province. Thompson completed No. 13-B Johnson, 990 feet from the north and southeast lines of section 9, block 34, H. & T. C. Railway survey, for 958 barrels daily flow through tubing. Eastland completed No. 2 Grimes, 2,310 feet from the northeast and southeast lines of section 14, same block, for 515 barrels daily flow. California completed No. 1 Hardage and Wilson, 330 feet from the southwest and northwest lines of section 11, same block, for 387 barrels daily flow. Atlantic completed No. 1-B Miller, 660 feet from the northwest line and 335 feet from the northeast lines of section 19, same block, for an estimated 30 barrels daily but is preparing to plug to abandon; and Wahlenmaier et al made location for No. 1 Humble Potts, 990 feet from the southwest and 330 feet from the southeast lines of section 28, block B-29, public school land, offsetting Pat Hill's recent completion.

Lovine Has Completion

In the Wheat Pool of Lovine country, Sinclair-Prairie completed No. 3 Bell-Lepp at total depth of 4,303 feet for initial potential rating of 136 barrels daily. Location is 330 feet from the northeast and 410 feet from the southeast lines of section 91, block 1, W. & N. W. Railway survey.

In Pecos county, Continental scored a completion for No. 1-B University, located 330 feet from the north and west lines of section 5, block 17, university land. Plugged back to 1,638 feet and treated twice with 500 gallons of acid, the well makes about 208 barrels of oil daily along with nearly twice that amount of water.

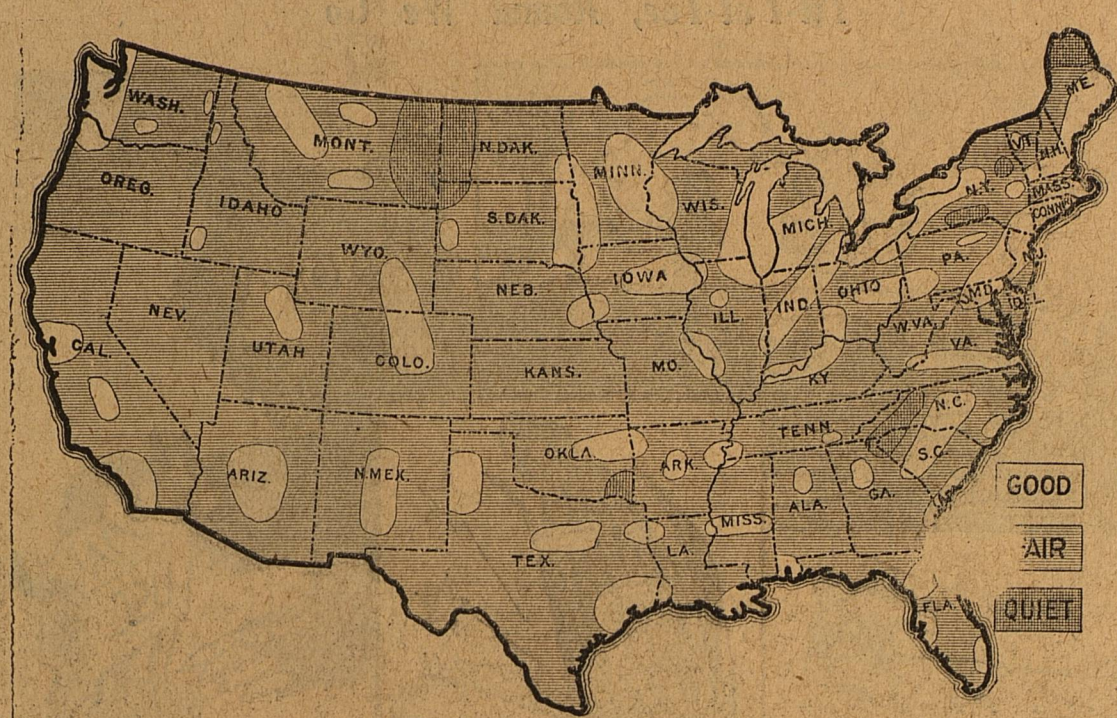

Failure was recorded for Moore Brothers No. 1 Mrs. Erie Miller, 660 feet from the south and east lines of section 35, block 34, township 5 south, T. & P. Railway survey, southern Glasscock county. Drilled to total depth of 3,070 feet, the test showed sulphur water through the last two feet of formation drilled.

TRAINING NEED FOR JOBS CITED

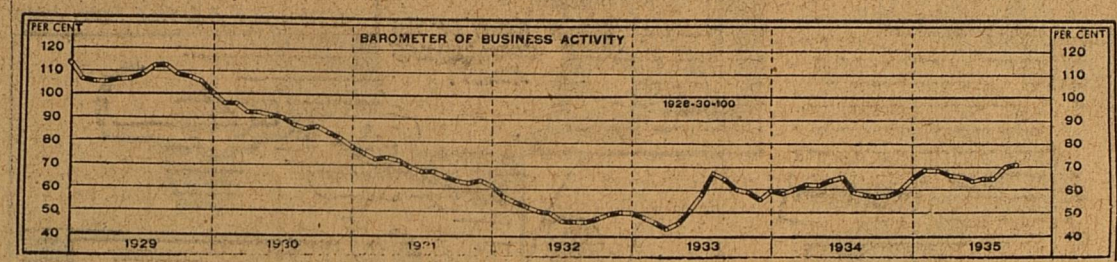

NEW YORK, Oct. 26. (AP)—An appalling lack of vocational training as one of the basic causes of unemployment is perhaps the most significant fact revealed by one of the most unusual national surveys just completed.

The 250,000 Camp Fire Girls of the country collected data on unemployment relief, public works needs and projects and the requisites for better citizenship. This is believed to be one of the first times in history that a large segment of the nation's womanhood between the ages of 14 and 20 has been given the opportunity to express its opinions on the most vital problems of the day.

The survey involved a careful study of local city governments

Estimated 10,000 Head Cattle Now in Feed Pens

LUBBOCK, Tex., Oct. 27. (AP)—The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal estimated that 10,000 head of cattle are in feeding pens on the South Plains and that within 30 days commercial feeders and farmers will have approximately 23,000 on feed.

Hundreds of farmers, feeding small lots, are expected to double that total, although an accurate check on such operations cannot be made until harvest is completed.

Excellent pasturage with grass the best in a decade in many instances, and with fewer cattle than for several years, the Avalanche-Journal says, will have an effect upon feeding operations. Several ranchers, who have done so in past years, may not feed in pens because they can supplement grazing with corn-canned cake until spring, then sell or ship to northern pastures for fattening.

Scores of ranchers in the western tier of counties are likely to harvest until after the holidays. The extent of feeding operations in Terry, Yoakum, Gaines and parts of Hockley, Cochran, Lynn and Dawson counties will not be determined until the corn is gathered.

through the country and a fairly comprehensive grasp of local relief plans and objectives. But the girls did not stop here. They went farther, making suggestions for needed public works, such as buildings and parks, even making models to scale of these. Also, they worked out careful and comprehensive budgets on feeding a family of four on $5 a week in the south and $7 to $10 per week in the north, where food prices are higher.

Results of the survey were submitted first to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt who said in part: "I think the girls who did this survey did a remarkably good job. In meeting this need they are assets to their communities."

So careful and significant is the survey considered, that it is planned to submit the results to the Federal government as informational aid in relief work.

DR. BERGIN NAMED SOUTHWESTERN U. HEAD TUESDAY

New President of School Is Prominent Minister in Methodist Church

GEORGETOWN, Oct. 26. (AP)—Election of Dr. John W. Bergin as president of Southwestern University was announced by Dr. Claud C. Cady Jr., chairman of the board of trustees, after a called session of the board Tuesday.

Dr. Bergin had served as acting president since Sept. 1, at which time the resignation of Dr. King Vivion became effective.

The new president is an alumnus of the university and holds the degrees of bachelor of philosophy and doctor of divinity. He was a member of the board of trustees several years and is chairman of the executive committee.

Dr. Bergin has been prominent as a minister in the Methodist church, having served as presiding elder of various districts and as pastor of churches at Temple, Corsicana and Fort Worth. For the last two years he was presiding elder of the Georgetown district.

"It will be our aim," Dr. Bergin said, "to set in motion immediately a program for celebrating Southwestern's centennial in 1940; build the Cody Memorial Library honoring Dr. C. C. Cady, many years dean of the faculty; liquidate all financial obligations; secure a million-dollar endowment; enroll 700 students; and put on Snyder Field the best football team in the Texas Conference."

New Bootleggers Appear in Ireland

MONAGHAN, Ireland, Oct. 26. — (AP) The Irish have kept bootlegging in its primitive state. Country boot-makers in the Irish Free State have been kept busy lately making "boots" to deaden the noise made by cattle as they are smuggled over the border at night to Northern Ireland.

On one occasion a posse of police captured a herd of 250 cattle, with their hoofs stylishly encased in flannel moccasins, being smuggled across a mountain pass in Caledon. Inasmuch as this herd alone would have evaded $10,000 duty, it is believed that large financial interests

Centennial Heads For State Set-up Finally Decided

DALLAS, Oct. 26 (AP).—The State Department of Publicity for the Texas Centennial, whose task it is to disseminate information throughout the nation about the $17,000,000 celebration planned for all parts of Texas in 1936, has decided that its organization this week and was moving forward rapidly along all publicity fronts.

The State Department, as differentiated from the local agency maintained separately by the central exposition here, will concentrate its effort on all sections of Texas, encouraging every manifestation of Centennial endeavor and publicizing all projects undertaken throughout the State.

Believing that those undertaking publicity work for Texas should be well informed on all phases of Texas history and development, the department has engaged the services only of Texans. The personnel roster, announced today by Charles Roster, publicity director, includes men and women from all parts of Texas.

Dale Miller of Dallas is head of the press division; Merle Tucker of Fort Worth, chief of the radio division; and Mrs. Elithe Hamilton Beal of Coleman, head of the school's and women's clubs division. William P. Elliott of Corpus Christi is State press representative, Roger M. Busfield of Fort Worth is in charge of periodicals, and Robert C. Coulter of San Antonio is travel director. Miss Melissa Castle of Austin is a research authority.

Miniature Saddle Constructed by Weatherford Man

WEATHERFORD, Oct. 26 (AP).—Sam Robinson, veteran saddle maker of Springtown, has made a miniature saddle complete in all details. It is cinched on a prancing plaster of paris black horse with bald face and white feet.

The tree was whittled from a piece of white pine and the leather work is finely tooled, trimmed with silver, and finished in two colors, natural and dark maroon. The stirrups are covered with leather, and the bridle, bridle reins, girths, trimmings, bridle bits, and buckles are perfect pieces of workmanship.

In the seat of the saddle, in tooled letters, are the words "A Baby."

Sam Robinson has been making saddles and harness more than 50 years. At one time he employed a number of workmen but now does all the work himself that comes to his shop in Springtown.

Deer Scarce in Idaho

BOISE, Ida. (UP).—Idaho deer hunters face a poor season, in the opinion of Guy B. Mains, supervisor of Boise National Forest, who returned from a tour of the woods. "I saw only one deer on the 700-mile trip," said Mains. "That's something of a record. Usually there are dozens."

something was said about insurance, but he did not remember details. Through Deputy Sheriff Paul Blair, the county jailer, the state further sought to show that Pierson is not the emotionless, mentally unbalanced person his defense has pictured him to be. Blair testified that the youth wept when he met his elder brother, William H. Pierson, and a sister, Mrs. Alice Thomas of Salina, Kan., for the first time after the killings.

"His brother and sister cried and and around him."

Rogers admitted on cross-examination that he thought Pierson "peculiar" and said he never had seen him exhibit remorse or other emotions. He also said the youth's story that robbers had opened fire on the party was so crude he didn't believe it for a moment.

Asserting he had observed Pierson frequently in the five months he has been in jail, Dr. M. P. Smartt, county health officer, expressed the opinion he was sane. On cross-examination he said he was not "an expert on insanity" and did not answer questions as to the symptoms of dementia praecox, from which the defense contends Pierson is suffering.

Tommy Burns

Turns Adviser On Marriages

HOUSTON, Tex. Oct. 26. (U.P.) Tommy Burns, former world heavyweight boxing champion, has drawn up a list of "Ten commandments" for matrimony. They are:

Take your marriage as seriously as a champion takes his sport. No athlete makes a success without sacrificing good times, so-called. Neither does a matrimonial couple.

Baseball, bridge - playing and marriage demand team work. The first few rounds frequently are easy in prize fighting and in matrimony. It's staying power that counts.

No champion ever got where he is without learning to "take it." Burns has a successful marriage.

Break clean your grudges. Don't whine about your partner's shortcomings.

Erase from your dictionary the word jealousy.

Burn your candle at one end: marriages and championship demand physical fitness.

Following the trend of your courtship: keep your best front showing.

Burrowing owls do not burrow; they use the burrows made by prairie dogs and other animals.

U. S. stamp taxes were paid on more than 45,350,000 packs of playing cards during a 12-month period between 1933 and 1934.

The throne of Italy has been occupied by Victor Emmanuel for 34 years.

Raddage is a curious plant which was grown by crossing a radish and a cabbage.

Romantic Moment

The camera catches George O'Brien and Frances Grant in a romantic moment from the thrilling new Zane Grey picture of adventure in the outlaw West, "Thunder Mountain." Now showing through Tuesday at the Ritz. Short subjects on the program include "Our Gang in 'Little Papa'" and Paramount news.
