Banker's Former Wife To Make Effort for Suit Re-opening

HOUSTON, May 7.— (AP)—A "pot" made up by Wall Street friends and maneuvered sagaciously in the "street" has provided Elenor Elaine Lee Harris of New York and Texas $600,000, she declared here last night with which to finanace proposed litigation with Beverly D. Harris of the National City Bank of New York City whom she met in Houston and married in 1915.

"I already have gathered enough evidence to have the court set aside the verdict and judgment in Harris' annulment suit against me." The woman claims to be a descendant from the family of General Robert E. Lee, it is asserted.

"The world has only heard Harris' side of this case up to the present time but it is my turn now and I intend to face him with a preponderance of evidence proving my birth, rearing and character," she said.

Mrs. Harris is in Houston seeking the aid of her influential friends here, it was disclosed.

Funds provided by fortunate investments in Wall Street have enabled Mrs. Harris to spend this spring in the south gathering "her side of the case," she said.

Women Seize Court Spotlight For Bootlegging

SAN ANTONIO, May 7.—(AP)—Women dry law violators today had their greatest day in San Antonio under the Volstead law, six of them, one a mother of five children, figuring in judicial proceeds. The total number of 22 defendants arraigned for violation of the prohibition laws, also constituted a record.

United States Commissioner Edwards said today's fifteen hearings brought the week's total up to 44 to break all previous records in his office during a five-day period.

Mrs. Josephine Vasquez, pleading guilty in federal court to charges of violating the dry laws, was fined $50 and paroled for 30 days to custody of Mrs. Bailey Hughes, woman county probation officer. WIND DESTROYS NEGRO HOUSES

Storm Strikes Sections Of Oklahoma, Doing Heavy Damage

OKMULGEE, May 7.—(AP)—Tornadoes that swept sections of Okfuske, Okmulgee and Muskogee counties late today destroyed nearly a score of houses, injured at least six persons and damaged wire communication. No fatalities had been reported early tonight.

The heaviest damage was wrought in Okmulgee county, in a section northwest of Okmulgee, inhabited chiefly by negroes. It was in this neighborhood that the only reported injuries occurred. Five houses were destroyed and about ten more damaged.

J. J. Klutts, a white farmer, was cut about the head and face when the tornado tore the top story from his house. His condition was not thought to be dangerous. The others injured were negroes.

At Micawber, three buildings were destroyed including the town blacksmith shop. No one was injured.

Torrential rain and hail storms occurred in the western section of Muskogee county and the lowlands near Taft were flooded. Wire communication was impaired, but the damage was not heavy.

Four white persons were injured, one seriously, near Boynton on the Okmulgee-Muskogee county line when four frame buildings were demolished.

Maryland Convicts Make Break; Caught

BALTIMORE, May 7.—(AP)—One ten-year prisoner and three short termers escaped from the Maryland penitentiary early today by sawing the bars of a window and using a rope made of blankets to reach the street from the top of a high wall.

After enjoying less than two hours of freedom one of the fugitives was captured at the home of his sister a few blocks from the penitentiary. Shortly afterward the second convict was captured, but two succeeded in eluding the police who immediately covered all exits from the city.

The prisoners who made their escape are Philip Duesberry, 25, serving ten years for murder; Elmer and Charles Jenkins, brothers, 27 and 29, respectively, up for larceny and George Colburn, 30, serving a sentence for burglary.

Veteran Kills Babes, Then Ends Own Life

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 7.—(AP)—Peter Marratt, 30, world war veteran, today fatally shot his five-year-old daughter, Theresa, and his three-year-old son, Joseph, and then killed himself.

Marratt's wife seized their third child, an infant, when the shooting began and fled the house. Margatt fired at her, but his pistol jammed and the mother and baby escaped uninjured.

Neighbors told police that Marratt, who was gassed during the war, sustained an injury to his head when a trap door fell upon him two years ago and that he had since been irrational.

CHURCH UNION OF METHODISTS IS CONTESTED

General Conference Will Hear Attacks On Proposal

COMMITTEE TO ACT

Meeting of Delegates Is Opened In Memphis By Receptions

MEMPHIS, May 7.—(AP)—The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, will fight out the question of unification on the floor, despite efforts to bring about peace by the appointment of committees to consider the matter.

This is the opinion of practically every delegate at the conference. The church relations committee, which has before it all the memorials concerning the question of the union with the northern branch of Methodism, has instructed its chairman to appoint a committee of three which in turn will nominate a committee of nine to weed out non-essential memorials and bring in reports on the remainder.

Must Report

Under the law of the church the committee must make either a favorable or unfavorable report on all memorials submitted to it. The committee has a small majority of unificationists and is expected to recommend concurrence in memorials asking that the unification commission be continued.

Opponents of unification, have, in secret meetings, passed resolutions calling upon the conference to discontinue the committee and drop the subject of unification and will fight any recommendation to open up the matter. The conference today reversed its action of yesterday which would have changed the entire conference into a committee to aid the adoption of a proposed constitution. On motion of M. H. Norton, Ocala, Fla., the conference voted to reconsider its action and passed a resolution presented by Dr. Stewart French Bristol, Tenn., to refer the report on the proposed document to a special committee of 25 which is to report May 14.

The business today was devoted largely to minor business, reception of memorials and reports from general boards. The Pacific conference presented a short memorial asking that the church request congress to elect a board of censorship for moving pictures. The petition was referred to the committee.

Complete Organization

Committees in session during the afternoon completed organizations and began the appointment of subcommittees to handle various phases of the work before them. All these have been flooded with memorials, reports, petitions and rulings, and will not be able to come before the conference with anything definite before the middle of next week, a number of committee chairmen said today.

The conference indulged in another display of forensic fireworks today when an effort was made to get the body to reconsider its action of yesterday which gave mission delegates the right to vote in committees. Headed by A. J. Lamar, Nashville, a group of delegates hammered away at the conference for an hour or more without avail. The conference divided along straight unification, anti-unification lines in the fight with the unificationists holding a majority.

Mission delegates are all unificationists.

The mission board had charge of the service tonight, presenting "international night" a tableau in which all the mission delegation took part.

Capt. Paul Foley Is Retired by Navy

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(AP)—Captain Paul Foley, who became involved in a controversy with Mrs. Margaret Lansdowne during the naval inquiry into the Shenandoah's disaster, has been retired by the navy department at his own request.

The naval officer was judge advocate of the court of inquiry. The court itself exonerated him from all charges made against him by Mrs Lansdowne, which had to do with his methods of dealing with the testimony she was to give.

Dallasites Now Know How Busy Busy Bees Are

Swarm Puts Pedestrians To Route on Downtown Streets

DALLAS, May 7.—(AP)—Not daunted by the Dallas skyline a swarm of bees came to town today. Dreaming perhaps of a skyscraper domicile as an apiary, thousands of the little winged insects streamed down into the noon-day traffic in the business section of the city, setting pedestrians agog with wonderment or fright.

Buildings, automobiles and sidewalks were covered with the insects after they had broken ranks in the maze of their strange surroundings.

But a man who knew his bees came along—one J. L. Wright of Waxahachie—and tapping his pocket knife gently on an automobile fender, induced the bees to settle.

Wright corralled the queen of the swarm. Soon he had collected about six pounds of the little honey-makers.

He took them home as he considers the swarm a valuable prize.

Valley Railroad Line Is Argued By Shippers of Texas

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(AP)—Disputs over granting permission to the San Antonio and Aransas Pass railway to construct 120 miles of trackage in the Rio Grande valley section of Texas was taken under advisement today by the interstate commerce commission after hearing final arguments on both sides.

The Southern Pacific railroad supported the plea of its subsidiary for extended facilities, as did Texas business and agricultural interests, while the Missouri Pacific opposed the application, holding that existing transportation facilities were ample.

Arguments for granting permission to construct new trackage 90 miles from Falfurrias to the international boundary and 30 miles, from Edinburg to Harlingen, were that citrus fruit growing in the valley was expanding; traffic with Mexico would be greatly developed; additional land would be cultivated and public convenience and necessity demand it.

Women of Texas Ask Zoning Laws

CORPUS CHRISTI, May 7.—(AP)—Adoption of a resolution urging the Texas legislature to pass a zoning act "to enable Texas cities to protect the health, wealth, safety, morals and general welfare of their citizens" featured the final sessions of the 25th annual convention of the fifth district, Texas federation of women's clubs here today.

NEITHER SIDE DISPLAYS SIGN OF WEAKENING

Trade Unionists Talk Of Adding More To Walkout

RECRUITING POLICE

Government Determined To Carry on Despite Work Cessation

LONDON, May 7.—(AP)—Neither side of the strike dispute shows the slightest disposition of yielding to the other. On the contrary, there is a tendency to use stronger forces on both sides. The government is enrolling thousands of additional volunteers to substitute the strikers, and announces it will reinforce the police by recruiting, if possible, 50,000 special constables.

On its side, the trades union congress is talking of bringing in its second line of denfense which, it is claimed, would add another 2,000,000 to the strikers.

So far as the general public is concerned, things seem to be growing easier daily. The organization provided by the government and volunteer efforts, especially for transport is continually improving, with a consequent lessening of public inconvenience.

Disorders Absent

A notable feature of the gigantic conflict, now at the end of its fourth day, is the complete absence of serious disorders; not a single death has been laid to the strike. In almost all previous miners' strikes there was considerable trouble in the coal fields, but on this occasion they are remarkably free from disorder.

Although there were vague rumors today that a possible settlement was imminent so far as the general public is concerned, peace has still made no headway. Nothing appears to have yet developed from the unofficial talks between Premier Baldwin and J. H. Thomas, who, as head of the railway men's union, is looked to as the man most likely to bring peace between the government and the trades unions.

Many theatres in London have closed, but others are bravely risking half empty houses and heavy losses. Sir Oswald Stoll, theatrical magnate, issued an appeal to the citizens to recognize the theatres in their attempt to spread cheer in a depressing situation.

"There is no strike against attending the theatres," says the appeal, "and the streets are safe. All the staffs have turned up at every performance since the strike began."

The press of the country is still tied up with exception of some of the smaller provincial papers where the men are returning to work and where the papers are reappearing.

Texas and Pacific Land Company Certificates Advance 200 Points In Value On N. Y. Stock Exchange

NEW YORK, May 7.—(AP)—Certificates of the Texas and Pacific land trust which have never paid a dividend, have advanced 200 points on the New York stock exchange to a record price of $970 a share in the last three days. This is one of the widest and quickest gains in recent stock exchange history, all transactions, however, being in small lots ranging from ten to 25 shares.

The corporation is one of the most unique in the country. It was organized under a declaration of trust, February 1, 1888, by holdern of land grant bonds of the Texas and Pacific railway company to acquire nearly 3,500,000 acres of land, against the surrender of land grant mortgage bonds and the interest scrip of that company. All earnings of the company have been devoted to the retirement of outstanding certificates, less than $2,000,000 of the original issue of $10,369,411 par value being outstanding at the end of February.

Recent activity in this issue, which frequently is not traded in for weeks at a time is based on the discovery of new oil poola on its properties, which are scattered through 32 counties in Texas. For the last few years, the price range of these certificates has been one of the widest on the stock exchange. They sold as low as 510 this year. Last year they ranged from 255 to 650.

Police Save Life Of Prisoner When They Halt Suicide

LAREDO, May 7.—(AP)—Ernest C. Jamieson, 21, and Dewey Moran, 26, said to be from Dallas, arrested here Wednesday night on a charge of drunkenness today were turned over to city detectives from San Antonio. The men were taken to the Alamo City jail.

Officers said that both men were drug addicts. This morning Jamieson attempted to end his own life by slashing himself several times with a pocket knife across the left wrist, but officers interferred with his work. A doctor was summoned to treat the wounds.

Both men were taken to San Antonio for investigation in connection with several recent safe burglaries and holdups.

Railroad Labor Bill Is Passed

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(AP) Passage of the railroad labor bill by the senate in virtually the same form as it was approved by the house was forecast today by leaders on both sides of the question.

Five hours' debate today revolved around the amendment of Senator Curtis, the republican leader, to delegate final authority in wage disputes to the interstate commerce commission.

Forsaking his usual role of silence Senator Curtis made an impassioned plea for adoption of the amendment as a protection to farmers and shippers from increased rates. He was supported by Senators Underwood, democrat, Alabama, and Williams, republican, Missouri, who declared they would vote against the bill unless the amendment was adopted.

Bigamist Ends Life After Endeavoring to Kill State Trooper

NEWTON, N. J., May 7.—(AP)—Archie G. Ackroyd, former LaFayette college football star shot himself today after a pistol duel with State Trooper Taylor, developing from discovery by his bride of three months that Ackroyd had another wife and two children in Phillipsburg.

The second wife attempted to leave Ackroyd last night shortly after learning of his former marriage. She eluded him today when they were in a downtown street and sought protection of the police.

Trooper Taylor was assigned to escort her to a farm near here, where they had been living. They found the door barred and Ackroyd began shooting when the trooper attempted to break in. His bullets and those of Taylor in reply went wild. They found him dead when the door gave way.

DALLAS SOLON HITS FERGUSON ON BOND MEET

Representative Declares Texans Cannot Yield To "Dictator"

MUST VALIDATE BONDS

Governor's Husband Fears For Political Future He Claims

AUSTIN, May 7.—(AP)—Describing James E. Ferguson, husband of Governor Ferguson as the "Mussolini of Texas," George C. Purl of Dallas, member of the thirty-ninth legislature, said that he will resist the attempts of Ferguson to dictate the terms and conditions upon which a special session of the legislature will meet to validate the district road bonds.

Purl was to attend the conference Thursday with a joint committee of citizens and solons, who made their final appeal on the governor to call a session to validate the $80,000,000 in road bonds affected by the Archer county decision.

He said that he did not propose to surrender his self-respect and pledge himself away from the duty he owes his "constituents to this man Ferguson. If this extra session is not called it will be because James E. Ferguson is afraid that his political fortunes in the coming campaign would be jeopardized by such extra session"

Other Things Up.

Another reason, Purl said, which prevents a special session from being called is that all the appointees made since adjournment of the regular session would have to be confirmed by the senate, which include the new highway commissioners, text book board and many others.

Purl said members of the legislature should not accept any conditional meeting of the legislature. "This state is not owned by Jim Ferguson, his opinion to contrary notwithstanding, and he should be forced to yield to this urgent demand of all the people of this state that an extra session of the legislature be called at once or the responsibility for refusing the demand of the people be placed upon him," Purl stated.

"No member of senate or house should pledge this man to do or not do anything except his duty to his constituents and his state. If the credit and good name of this great state are only to be preserved if its preservation comports with and furthers the political condition and thirst of power of James E. Ferguson then indeed, have we descended to a state of servility that I deny exists.

Favors Session.

"I want my position clearly understood, I am for an immediate called session of the legislature and the enactment of such laws as will validate those road bonds held to be invalid by the supreme court of the United States and will lend my best effort towards this purpose, not at the dictate of James E. Ferguson, but at the dictate of my own conscience and sense of duty to the people of my native state."

He will not introduce any other legislation, he said.

WEEKS ASSERTS BRIDGE IS SAFE

He And Sartin Declare No Cause Exists For Alarm

Assurance that there is no cause for uneasiness over the status of the proposed free bridge across Red River was given Friday noon by Fred Weeks and Judge B. D. Sartin when they explained briefly to members of the chamber of commerce business council the present situation relative to the bridge matter.

Mr. Weeks, attorney retained by the county to handle its legal litigations, sketched the steps that have been taken by toll bridge owners along the river who have obtained injunctions restraining payment of state and federal aid on the project. He asserted that these difficulties were being ironed out and would probably be consummated either next week or the one following at a conference to be held between Attorney General Short of Oklahoma, Governor Ferguson of Texas and officials of Wichita county and the federal government. Attorney General Short will go to Austin for the specific purpose of conferring with Texas officials relative to the situation.

Must Have Authority.

It is inconceivable, Mr. Weeks said, that legal authority does not exist by which expenditure of funds for construction of a free bridge can be authorized. So far the exact authority needed has proved an elusive proposition, but he had every confidence it would eventually be established.

Judge Sartin followed Mr. Weeks and said that officials of the Austin Brothers Bridge company, which has been given a contract for the work, planned to start next Monday on assembling materials and making their preliminary work. The contractors, he said, had been advised by their attorneys that existing hitches were not serious and would be remedied.

E. V. Cole, secretary of the Burkburnett chamber of commerce who has been active in the bridge campaign, also assured the council the bridge would eventually go through.

Explorers Unearth Buried Walled City In South Palestine

JERUSALEM, May 7.—(AP)—Excavation on the site of the buried city of Kirjath Sepher, in southern Palestine, has revealed one of the most complete and well preserved of Canaanite and Israelite walled cites.

The discovery, which is regarded as most unusual in Palestine exploration, was made by the archaeological expedition headed by Dr. Melvin G. Kyle, president of the Xenia Theological Seminary of St. Louis in co-operation with the American School of Oriental Research at Jerusalem.

The uncovered walls are 40 feet high and 10 to 14 feet thick. They contain complicated gates with towers and buttresses. The ruins reveal that the history of the city went back possibly 2,000 years before Christ. An extensive system of galleries and rooms for storing grain and water supplies was found.

A complete discussion of the proposed bond issue of $1,450,000 to be submitted the voters of Wichita Falls in June will be taken up next Friday by the chamber of commerce business council.

A suggestion was made by John Gould at Friday's meeting that such a study should be made in order that the proposed issue could be brought prominently before the public. It was later decided to devote all of next week's meeting to this matter with city officials and others familiar with the situation to be present and make any explanations required.

RESERVE CLUB GIVES PROGRAM

Junior College Girls In Entertaining Event Friday Morning

Members of the Girl Reserve Club of the high school and junior college presented one of the most entertaining programs of the year Friday morning when they carried out the observation of Mother's Day.

Mrs. A. H. Carrigan gave an address on "The Most Precious Mother."

The Girls' Glee club sang the "Dance of Spring," (Wilson.) Another Girl's Glee club sang "Humoresque."

Staff on Stage.

The staff of "The Coyote" was on the stage, and Evelyn Hardeman, editor-in-chief, told of the work and progress of the publication. She revealed the secret of the dedication of the annual to the senior class sponsor, Mrs. Anna Witherspoon.

Miss Juanita Kinsley, teacher of public speaking who has assisted the class in coaching plays and helping the seniors in many ways, was called to the stage where Miss Hardeman expressed the appreciation of the staff for her kindnesses.

Managers Presented.

Grady Snuggs, business manager, presented J. W. Williams and Miss Louise Kelly, financial and literary sponsors of the annual.

Miss Hardeman presented Ford Chauncey with a copy of the 1926 "Coyote," and he in turn accepted it for the seniors, and passed it to Dean S. H. Rider.

Miss Alva Ruth Walker was in charge of the program.

Girls Glee Club Wins Over Boys

The girls glee club of the high school won first honors in a contest held Friday morning at junior college assembly to determine between the girls' and boys' clubs as to which would sing at commencement exercises May 21. The clubs were graded with points on the following qualifications: entrance, standing position, attention, leaving the stage and singing. The vocal tones were noted as to attack, shading, tune, clearness and ensemble work.

Miss Winifred Alvis, musical director at the college, is sponsor of the glee clubs.

The commencement program will be held at the college for both high school and junior college students, this being the thirty-fifth high school graduation class of Wichita Falls.

WORKERS

IN all the talk about the upper and lower classes in our country and the injustice done by the socalled upper to the so-called lower, do we stop to think that both classes are unjust in their thoughts of one another—that is, the workers of both classes?

John Ruskin, the English art critic and lecturer, addressing a working man's institute in the early 70's recognized this fact and his words are just as true in this day and in this country as when they were uttered under such different circumstances in England.

"There are idle rich and idle poor," he says; 'and there are busy poor and busy rich. Many a beggar is as lazy as if he had $10,000 a year; and many a man of large fortune is busier than his errand-boy,, and never would think of stopping in the street to play marbles. So that, in a view, the distinction between workers and idlers, as between knaves and honest men, runs through the very heart and innermost nature of men of all ranks and in all positions.

"There is a working class—strong and happy—among both and rich and poor. And the worst of the misunderstandings arising between the two orders comes of the unlucky fact that the wise of one class habitually contemplate the foolish of the OTHER. If the busy rich people watched and rebuked the idle rich people, all would be right among THEM. And if the busy poor people watched and rebuked the idle poor people, all would be right among THEM.

"But each looks for the faults of the other. A hardworking man of property is particularly offended by an idle beggar; and an orderly, but poor, workman is naturally intolerant of the licentious luxury of the idle rich."

Among the workers of the world, then, Ruskin opines, there should be no wordly distinction. "But there are class distinctions, he says, among the industrious themselves. And these distinctions are mainly four: There are those who work and those who play; those who produce the means of life and those who consume them; those who work with the head and those who work foolishly.

In reference to those who play, many of the games, Ruskins avers, are costly—hunting and dressing, playing at literature and art and playing at war. "And they are all paid for a deadly work somewhere, as some of us know too well."

As to the second distinction—producing and consuming, Ruskin states that, 'the first necessity of social life is the law—that he should keep who has justly earned. . . . . But there is a false distinction; namely the power held by those who are earning wealth by those who already possess it, and only use it to gain more." This greed for money makes men unjust and oppressive. The great unfailing principle is this, says Ruskin: Whenever money is the principal object in life with either man or nation, it is both got ill and spent ill."

There must be work done with the hands and work done with the brain, and the same men cannot do both. "There is rough work to be done and rough men must do it; there is gentle work to be done and gentle men must do it."

As to his last distinction, Ruskin applies this test to the work that is wise and that which is foolish: Wise work is 'honest, it is useful and it is cheerful."

LIFE'S PIONEERS

HOW few of us stop to think of the mysteries of the world in which we live. We accept the days as they come and the ideas that are handed to us by our parents or teachers, but few indeed are the men and women who even seek far to prove their theories true or think at all of the unusualness of the common things by which we are surrounded. Those who do delve deeper into the mysteries and strive to learn new truths might be termed "life's pioneers."

"Any most familiar object will suddenly turn strange when we look at it straight in the face," says James H. Robinson, in his "The Humanizing of Knowledge." As we repeat some common word, or regard keenly the features of an intimate friend they are no longer what we took them to be. Were it not for our almost unlimited capacity for taking things for granted we should realize that we are encompassed with countless mysteries, which might oppress our depths of our careless ignorance.

"That I am to myself and you to all my readers, who are each of them I to himself is on contemplation a pertrubing circumstance. That the printed character on this page should stir ideas in you is no easy matter to explain, and no one has yet been able to tell us why we and the earth so inerrantly attract one another. Yet these can hardly be called mysteries to most of us; so inured are we to personality, writing and weight that they are scarcely observed commonplaces.

"Those to whom a commonplace appears to be extraordinarily are very rare, but they are very precious, since they, and they alone, have built up our minds.

"In short, poets, philosophers, religious geniuses, artists and scientists are all rare variants of the human species, who emerge here and there through the ages. Sometime they make a wide appeal to their fellow men; often they stir their resentment or horror; most frequently they suffer neglect and contempt.

"The TRUTH of a new idea proposed for acceptance plays an altogether secondary role. We rank the good, true and beautiful together, but it is shocking to observe how little does the success of a new observation depend upon its scientific or historical credentials.

"For it is not the precise truth of an idea," avers Robinson, "that leads to its wide acceptance, but its appeal—its congeniality to a being with the nature and getting of man."

"DOWN ON THE WABASH"

IN the land of the Hoosiers, in the state of Indiana, the republicans held their senatorial primary. James E. Watson and Eugene Robinson were renominated, the former for a full term of six years and the latter to fill a vacancy. Watson and Robinson voted against the ratification of the world court proposal. They received their orders from home. They notified President Coolidge that they would like to go all the way with him but they needed votes and he didn't.

It appears they were wise. The unfortunates, Coolidge republicans, declared for the world court with all their power of persuasion that glib tongues and lust lungs could manufacture. Down in defeat went the world court champions and up in the sky of victory Senators Watson and Robinson, who switched on the court proposal because they did not have the courage to vote for it in the face of opposition at home.

James E. Watson has been an office holder for 32 years; he has been the republican boss of Indiana on the republican side for most of the time. He is the cleverest side-stepping politician that the Hoosier state has produced. He can be fish today, fowl tomorrow and baked ham next week. It is all the same to "Jim." He promised farm relief legislation this time after having a trusty friend of the corporations and corporate wealth of America for nearly a third of a century.

It must be true that consistency is the virtue of a dumb bell, but this is not the proper way to spell dumbbell. It would not be polite to make use of the other form of spelling.

Now what are the Indiana democrats going to do. They lost their philosopher and bravest leader when Thomas Riley Marshall smiled farewell to those about his bedside and passed on to that valley of rest where the shades of great democrats daily assemble for the peaceful discussion of the temets of the forgotten gospel of Thomas Jefferson.

AN OPEN ROAD FOR STANDARD

ACCORDING to Washington advices, the department of justice presided over by Attorney General John Garribaldi Sargent of Vermont, has found nothing in the anti-trust laws to prevent the Standard Oil company of New York from acquiring the assets and control of the General Petroleum company, a gigantic California concern. Also, the combination of the companies is described as similar and for the same purpose as that of the Standard Oil company of New York with the Magnolia company, a Texas producing organization, which began as a baby and then assumed proportions of an elephant in a few short years.

Attorney General Garribaldi isn't afraid of trusts, or alleged trusts, and he has the last word. "In God we trust" is the morning prayer of a Vermonter, "all others cash." And, if there is any cash around in the shape of pennies or nickles the Vermonters in Vermont gather in the spoils and store it where the moths never makes its appearance.

They are a thrifty people, these Vermonters in Vermont. They worship the gods of their fathers, they vote the republican ticket straight, they believe that money came in the advance of man and regardless of the bleakness of life here below, they know that a paradise awaits them when they shuffle off this mortal coil. It is a condition of mind in Vermont and it never changes.

DOROTHY DIX

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

Dear Miss Dix—For a number of years I have worked for a married man, and long ago learned to love him, although he is married, but he told me his wife doesn't appreciate him. When my young sister finished high school last June, he gave her a position. Now he has transferred his affections to her and she is the favored one, and he treats me terribly.

I can't warn her without telling her my shameful secret, and when I tried to threaten him by telling him I would tell her, he laughed in my face. I don't want my little sister's life ruined as mine is. What shall I do?

VERY WORRIED SISTER.

Answer:

It is your duty to save your young sister at any cost to yourself, and when you see yourself degraded in her eyes, you will pay part of the price of your wrongdoing.

Perhaps when you tell your sister how this man took advantage of his position to make love to you and win your heart, and persuaded you that love justified an illicit relationship, and how, when he tired of you, cast you ruthlessly aside for a younger and fairer face, she may be warned in time to step back from the precipe on which she is standing. Perhaps she will not heed your warning.

For, after all, you will tell her nothing that she does not already know of the risks that a girl who has a love affair with a married man, except that her own sister was the victim in this particular case. You will tell her nothing that you did not know yourself, nothing that every girl does not know, and yet they go on playing with fire, because each one believes that she is going to be the one exception that somehow miraculously escapes being burned.

To an outsider it seems as if a girl must have taken leave of her last vestige of intelligence to fall for one of these misunderstood husbands, whose line is appealing to the pity of softhearted, unsophisticated women. Certainly a man never shows himself in such an unmanly and contemptible light as when he turns whiner, and any girl who has enough spunk to say "boo" to a goose would stop him off short by informing him that she did not hold the office of public consoler, and that he had best tell his matrimony troubles to the Judge of the Domestic Relations court.

You would also think that any girl who wasn't a moron would consider where she got off in a love affair with a married man, and what a despicable proposition it is that he offers her. For she gives all and he gives nothing.

She knows that he cannot marry her, and that she has no hold upon him at all, except his fickle fancy for her. She knows that the man who has been false to his wife, who has broken the most solemn oath that any human being can take, will be faithful to no woman.

She knows that the girl who has a married lover smirches her reputation beyond all cleansing, and that few men will ever want to marry her. And yet for the sake of a sordid, bedraggled romance, she casts her caps over the windmill and gives the best years of her life and all the freshness of her love to a selfish, callous man who robs her of all that makes life worth living to a woman, and then, when he is weary of her, discards her with as little compunction as he does an old automobile.

And why any girl is fool enough to let a married man inveigle her into making such a sorry bargain only the good Lord, who gave woman more heart than head, knowns.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have a husband who is big and healthy and clean, and one of the best pals ever. We find the greatest joy and contentment in just being alone. But, unfortunately, my husband belongs to a family that has the arguing habit in its most virulent form. No matter how small the topic they can get into a violent argument over it, and in the heat of it hurl the most unkind remarks and taunts back and forth. I come from a family where arguments were never permitted, and peace and harmony reigned, but to my surprise when I am with my in-laws I find myself mixing up in the argument. So does my husband, and it takes us days afterward to calm down and get back on the old friendly footing. What shall I do? GLORIA.

Answer:

There is only one way, Gloria, to keep from arguing, and that is not to do it. Just clamp your teeth together and keep your tongue behind them, and let those who differ from you express their opinion uncontradicted. So shall you preserve your own dignity and peace of mind, and save wear and tear on your temper.

The Whip Discovers Art

BY MEIGS O. FROST

All he knew was that his lightning-swift glance down the hallway, lit by the sunset glow, showed the uniforms and badges—that his ears heard the heavy, thick-soled tramp of feet.

Lithely he flashed across the hall and into his room.

His door slammed shut. The lock clicked. With deft speed he braced a chair, back beneath knob, slantingly against it—and dragged over the bed to buttress the chair. It would hold for a moment longer, with that.

A glance he shot out of the window in front. No other flat feet in sight. Hot pup! That was luck for you!

His bag he ignored. There was nothing for identification in that. There never was anything for identification on the Whip.

A flashing rush to the back window. Folks in the courtyard below. The street was deserted, too.

Over the window-sill slipped a leg, just as a thundering knock sounded on the door.

The Whip laughed softly.

The guy that designed those funny, fancy iron-work balconies sure must have had smooth stuff for a getaway in mind, he grinned, as he went down like linemen descending telegraph pole. He was close to the street when he heard, muffled, far above, the crash as the door gave way.

He was down to the corner, headed for the Greaser's place, when a swift glance over his shoulder showed him a police uniform cap, its badge glinting in the sunset light, craning far out of one window. A police pistol gleamed. A shot crashed in the narrow street, while a blast, shrill and long, sounded from a department whistle.

The Whip, it is regretable to say, made a farewell gesture in which outstretched fingers, thumb and nose were allied. He vanished around the corner.

"Some kinda scrap in one o' those tenements back there," he answered an eager and questioning citizen who had come running to call of shot and whistle. "No, thanks. I ain't stickin' my nose into anybody's family troubles."

He sauntered down to the corner, turned another side-street, and vanished.

Back in the studio of Edouard Cartier, Katie Rutherford was answering a set of routine questions. Her answers, inscribed laboriously in a departmental note book, with stubby pencil, vaguely covered many things. And as she did not know, naturally her answers gave no clue that the man they concerned was one for whom a reward of a thousand dollars, dead or alive, already had flashed through the city with the late editions. The driver had squawked. And once started squawking he had made a good job of it.

Neither did Kathie Rutherford's answers have anything to do with a small fold of paper she had picked up from the floor before the police entered. The Whip had thrust that fold at her when he wheeled to the sound of flat-foot tread upon the stairs. It had missed her trembling hand.

Unfolded, it separated into six bits of paper, folded and green in color, ornately engraved. Each was a five hundred dollar banknote.

But that, Kathie Rutherford considered, was a matter among Edouard Cartier, herself and one Henry Smith, address unknown.

In an eminently respectable office building, Brit was reporting to the Big Feller.

"Here's the low-down, Boss," said the young man known as Brit. "The driver mentions Louie, an' one o' the dicks knows Louie. That's where the beans get spilled. They spot him drivin' the car out past the Tenth Precinct on the lake road, an' they hollers t' halt. Louie steps on it. A dick cracks down. The Whip smokes up the scenery. Gets him two dicks, but one o' the flat-feet in the police car has him a riot-gun. Buckshot. They riddles the car. Louie's in Charity hospital. He'll pull through but the Whip—that buchshot makes a porous plaster outa him."

"The hell you say," mourned the Big Feller. "There goes one valuable man. Did he have anything on him when they frisked the clothes at headquarters? Any evidence?"

"No evidence," Brit reassured him "The Whip never slipped that way. All they get is his two rods an' a cash belt with five grand in it."

"What?" the Big Feller questioned incredulous. "Only five grand? Why, say, he was in here two days ago, and I got some of his big bills changed for him. I saw him put it back in his belt. There was eight grand in it then."

"Well, there was only five when he reaches headquarters," insisted Brit. "Jimmy the Rat they think is stoolin' f'r 'em is on the inside. He slips me the dope."

The Big Feller meditated.

"The dicks didnt get it," he assented, out of the wisdom of long conviction. "They ain't after takin' no three grand an' leavin' five f'r the public administrator. They takes it all or they don't find it. Three grand in two days! Say, the Whip must have been the fastest spender in the crowd, Brit. And I never saw him unbutton a ten-spot, either! Told me me some kind of mush about savin' up to buy a farm!"

THE SUPREME SACRIFICE
A True Confession
By the Bobbed-Hair Bandit

I worship the beauty of sacrifice
In all the accepted ways:
There's nothing, I think, so dear or nice
Or worthy of so much praise.
There's naught so noble, or even sweet,
In life or the printed page,
And the shows which give me the greatest treat
Portray it upon the stage.

I love the beauty of sacrifice
In mother or wife or maid,
I dote on the hero who pays the price
Love demands, all unafraid,
But one above all the rest I vote—
All other emotion pales
As I yearn and hope and thrill and gloat
O'er the beauty of sacrifice—sales!

INTERVIEWS WITH OUR CONTRIBUTORS
George S. Chappell

By the Fun Shop Reporter

"My early life! Ah, WHY do reporters always ask me that!" Mr. Chappell stifled a sob, and a shadow seemed to fall over his distinguished features. "I don't like to talk about my youthful discouragements," he went on.

"While an iceskate salesman in Florida, I met Dr. Walter E. Traprock, whose specialty was Anti-Colic Alligator Biscuits. Together we traveled to Switzerland, where Dr. Traprock spent a large part of his time peeking at the peaks and learning to play on the Matterhorn, while I was peeking at the Swiss movement of the Jungfrau. We also gathered material for novels, poems and cheese sandwiches.

"After spending some time amid the Arctic wastes—and by the way, the Eskimo girls had some of the cleverest Arctic waists we'd ever seen—we finally returned to this country, where the doctor was forced to leave me for a time. The peanut industry claimed him for some years—he was employed in one of the Peanut-entitaries—and I was forced to struggle along alone.

"Then I began contributing to The Fun Shop after a long, heart-breaking period of discouragement. But, like a telephone girl, I kept plugging away, and now I not only contribute to the Fun Shop, but several other shops as well—on the first of every month. I thank you!"

3. What tree attains the largest size in the United States?

6. What wood is used in the stocks of rifles?

Answers to these questions in Monday's Record News.

The Cypress

There is not a stranger or finer tree in the world than the American bald cypress, which grows along the coast from Delaware to the Gulf of Mexico, and down to the tip of Florida. It is peculiar among conifers in not having evergreen leaves; its needles drop off in the fall and grow again in the spring, like those of the larch. Its wood is among the most beautiful of all woods when polished, and is long-lived under water, naturally enough as it is a swamp tree. And like other swamp trees it has a habit of forming great buttresses at the base, and further, it develops "knees" or as the scientists called them, pheumatophores. These knees crop off from the roots all around the tree, like hooded children of the parent tree, and are breathing organs enabling the tree to spread its roots far in the water. When the basement of the new Mayflower hotel in Washington, D. C., was being dug out the stumps of a great cypress grove were discovered, proving that many thousand years ago Washington had been a cypress swamp.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions:

1. Meteorology is not the study of meteors but of climate.
2. Meteors are small metallic bodies the ordinary shooting stars, which are seen when they collide with the earth's atmosphere and generally burn up instantly from friction, the dust settling on the earth; meteorites are fire-balls, rarely seen, often very large, which occasionally strike the earth with great force; they are made of nickel or iron.
3. Comets differ from meteors and meteorites in being very light bodies, generally luminous gasses.
4. Meteors do not have tails as comets often do.
5. Meteors never reach the earth; if they enter our atmosphere they disintegrate from the force of striking it.
6. About one hundred and forty-six billion meteors large enough to be seen with the naked eye strike the earth's atmosphere annually.

"HER MAN"

--By Beatrice Burton--

READ THIS FIRST:

SYLVIA PHELPS has been engaged to RANDALL PHELPS for a year when he asks her to free him, because he's fallen in love with her chum, FAY SHIRLEY.

Heartbroken, Sylvia gives him up, much to the satisfaction of her spinster AUNT AGONY, who brought her up. Aunt Agony says that Ranny will never be true to any woman for very long, and urges Sylvia to marry PETER WILK, a bachelor who has always adored her.

Aunt Agony's opinion of Ranny seems to be correct, for suddenly he drops Fay and marries Sylvia after all. But their married life is not happy, for Ranny hates to be tied down, and he returns to his old bachelor habits of flirting with every girl he meets, and gambling and drinking with his cronies. Sylvia finally has to give music lesson to pay the rent for their tiny flat. The Nest.

The first baby, JUNIOR, dies, and Sylvia has a nervous breakdown, refusing to see Ranny. She is sure that he no longer loves her, and he spends weeks trying to persuade her to live with him again. Then they buy a little house, and months later the second baby, a little girl, is born. And for a time Sylvia and Ranny are very happy. Then an old friend of Sylvia's BABS DELANO, a librarian, comes to town and stays at their house. She "vamps" Ranny and makes so much trouble that at last Sylvia practically invites her to leave. One night she comes to dinner, and Sylvia surprises her and Ranny in each other's arms. She puts Babs' overnight bag on the porch and tells Ranny that if he dares drive her away from the house in his car, she herself will leave him and never come back. Ranny sneers at her and takes Babs away, and Sylvia brings the baby to Aunt Agony's house, in Peter Wilk's car. Poor Peter had dropped in, expecting to take Babs to the movies, as Sylvia had asked him to help entertain her. But in the night, she regrets leaving Ranny, and goes home to spend the night there with him and return to Aunt Agony's for the baby in the morning. But he tells her he doesn't want her back.

"Just Don't Let Ranny Know" She Begged.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER LIV.

There is nothing so dead as dead love.

When a man stops caring for a woman he does not begin to hate her. He just forgets her. He doesn't think of her. He becomes perfectly indifferent to her.

And all at once, that night, Sylvia saw that Ranny had stopped caring for her.

His eyes, to the light that streamed into the room from the hall, looked at her coldly. His mouth was hard, his whole face sulky.

She knew that he wanted her to go. She knew that he was through with her, and that she ought to go. But her feet refused to carry her from the room.

"Ranny, you can't mean this," she said to him, putting her hands to her aching temples. She felt sick and dizzy. "You can't mean that you don't want me to stay here. Why, Ranny, I love you—you know it!"

His only answer was to smile that smile of his that women found so irresistible. He couldn't have done anything more cruel to her. It seemed to her that he was laughing at her love, as if it were ridiculous and cheap.

She caught her breath sharply, as if he had dealt her a stunning blow. Then she found herself beside him again, without knowing that she had moved.

"You're just angry because I rushed out of the house tonight," she said to him. "I only did it because I was tired and nervous. You know I don't do flighty things like that. Oh, Ranny, put your arms around me! Don't treat me like this. You're breaking my heart."

Silent and sullen, he looked at her. She had seen him in dozens of black moods before, but never like this. Before now, she had always been able to get some word of tenderness or even anger, from him. But now she felt as if he were out of her reach.

She knew she had lost him. And to Babs Delano of all women!

For one instant Sylvia had a vision of the way Babs looked when she first woke in the morning—with puffy eyes and lips, and pasty color.

"Wait until he sees her, looking like that, sometimes," she thought.

She got up from the side of the bed and tried to pull herself together. But her voice shook when she spoke.

"Ranny," she said, "you may as well tell me just what you want me to do, and I'll do it—do you really want me to leave you, for good?"

He groaned. "I've told you I won't hall table, where he would be sure to find it in the morning.

Then, just as she picked up the telephone to call a taxicab, she remembered that she had only ten cents left in her purse. She went quietly upstairs to borrow some from Ranny.

Before she had reached the top step, the sound of his loud, slow breathing told her that he was asleep already. It had not taken him long to forget her!

She tiptoed into the room. His trousers were neatly folded over the foot of the bed.

Reflecting that this was the first time she had ever gone into her husband's pockets for money, Sylvia began a careful search. But she could find nothing but a dime and two nickels. Ranny was "broke," as usual.

With a sigh Sylvia went down the stairs again and out into the darkness of three o'clock of a rainy winter's morning.

It was a long way to Bleak street and it was a little after four when Sylvia rang the door of Aunt Agony's house.

"She'll think it's a telegram, and be scared to death!" she thought, as she stood waiting for her aunt to come down to the door.

After an eternity the hall light flashed on, and through the window of the door Sylvia could see Aunt Agony coming down the stairs, wrapped in a black kimono that made her look like a deaconess.

"Well, for the dear land's sake!" self saying, after a long time had passed, "did I faint, Aunt Agony?"

There was no answer. She opened her eyes. She was still lying on the bed, fully dressed. But a blanket had been thrown over her.

The clock on the table beside her was ticking away. She looked at it—half past four! She had been unconscious for nearly half an hour.

The door of the room opened and Aunt Agony came in. She was still in her gloomy looking kimono, and she carried a glass of egg nog on a little tray. It smelled of whiskey, and clouds of steam came from it.

"Here, girl, you drink this!" she said briskly, slipping an arm under Sylvia's shoulders. "It'll chirp you up," whatever that meant.

There was no ill of the flesh or spirit that couldn't be helped by strong tea or egg nog, Aunt Agony believed. She believed in national prohibition, but that didn't prevent her from keeping a bottle of brandy in the house all the time. However, she never touched it herself—tea was all she ever needed.

Her eyes narrowed with suspicion as she began to undo Sylvia's wet slippers. She took them off and felt her damp feet. "Where have you been?" she asked, and then answered her own question.

"You've been to see Ranny, haven't you? Did you walk home? You wild child!"

Sylvia nodded, drowsily. The hot egg nog had begun to take effect.

"Yes," she said drowsily, "I did—but just don't let Ranny know it—that's all I ask. He'd have a fit if he knew I was out alone on the street at night."

Aunt Agony snorted. "I should think he would have one!" she said sharply. "The very idea of your doing such a thing! Why, you might have been murdered and your body thrown into the river!"

Drowsily Sylvia wondered what Aunt Agony would say if she knew that Ranny had sent her out alone into the darkness at three o'clock in the morning.

It was just as well that she didn't know it. She would only "pan" him if she knew it. And she knew too much about it now, as it was, too much.

Winter sunlight lay on her bed and warmed her face with its radiance when she opened her eyes again. The clock beside her told her that it was nine o'clock.

Nine o'clock! Why, then, Ranny would be telephoning her pretty soon. He got up at nine o'clock on Sunday.

As Sylvia sat up, she heard the phone downstairs ring, and a minute later Aunt Agony, carrying the baby, came into the room.

"That was Ranny on the wire. He's coming over here to see you," she said, laying the baby down beside her mother. "Now, Sylvia, don't be too soft and easy with him! That's your trouble—you spoil Ranny. If you treated him the way you should, he'd be a better husband to you! I wish he was my husband for about two minutes—I'd tell him where to head in!"

Far from repentance for his harsh attitude, Ranny takes a most extreme step. On the heels of the amazing demand he makes on Sylvia comes a call from Babs.

Hotel Guests Flee From Resort Flames

SALINA, Okla., May 7.—(AP)—Fourteen guests of the Ozark, a resort hotel here, escaped in their night clothing early today when the building was destroyed by fire. They tumbled out of windows and down stairways into the street, abandoning their clothes in their haste.

Volunteer firemen dynamited an adjoining warehouse to stop the spread of the flames to the business section. The hotel was owned by Mrs. Charlotte Bumgarner, a Cherokee Indian. The loss was estimated at $15,000.

'Tippling' Guinea Pigs Beget Sturdy Ones, Expert Shows

BUFFALO, May 7—(AP)—Guinea pigs developed into confirmed tipplers were the progenitors of a race more sturdy than their forebears, Dr. Charles B. Stockard, professor of anatomy at Cornell university medical school, said in a lecture here last night.

The mechanism of inheritance was the subject of the professor's lecture and the story about the tippling guinea pigs was aside from his main topic.

Certain characteristics are transmitted through heredity with almost the exactness of mathematical formulate, he declared.

By means of lantern slides and charts he outlined the results of the experiments on guinea pigs, mice and chickens. The guinea pigs, he said, was found in its wild state with four toes on its front feet and three on the rear. By careful breeding through several generations the professor was able to produce a guinea pig with four toes on its rear feet and five on the front. This is explained by saying that the guinea pig carried these latent characteristics in its heredity and that by right breeding they could be brought out.

Mrs. Horace Dodge To Wed H. Dillman Former N. Y. Actor

DETROIT, Mich., May 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Horace E. Dodge, widow of the automobile manufacturer and one of the wealthiest women in the world, will be married tomorrow to Hugh Dillman of New York City and Palm Beach, a former actor. This announcement to friends set at rest rumors which have persisted for almost a month.

The wedding will be held at the home of Mrs. Dodge's only son, Horace E. Dodge, at his estate at Grosse Pointe, a suburb. The guests will be limited to immediate relatives and a few close friends.

The first distinct rumor that Mrs. Dodge contemplated marriage came April 12 when it was announced at Palm Beach, Fla., that she had purchased the beautiful home of Joshua S. Cosden, wealthy oil man. The purchase price was not announced, but the value of the property was estimated at about $4,000,000. Mr. Dillman acted as agent for Mrs. Dodge in the purchase of the residence.

Miss Carlotta Miller received the honors of salutatorian with an average of 93.25, followed closely by Miss Lena Autrey with an average of 93.23 per cent. Mr. Osborne, winning the honors, is an unusual occurance in the Electra schools being the first boy valedictorian since 1917 when Vernon Dinsmore won the honors.

At a meeting of all the high school students this week, Superintendent B. M. Dinsmore announced that senior examinations would start May 13. During the assembly period, the junior girls and boys baseball teams were given blue ribbons for winning the county honors.

PLAN STORAGE HOUSE

Temporary plans for a four-story building and plant costing $200,000 are being drawn here for the addition of a cold storage plant in connection with the People's Ice company, was the announcement made Friday. A survey is being made in the city to see that space would be necessary to care for the needs of local citizens.

The announcement was also made Friday of the coming to the city of Arthur C. Raynor, formerly of Denton, who has assumed active management of the People's Ice company, succeeding Abe and Morris Marcus. The Marcus Brothers, although retiring from the business, continue to be actively interested in the concern.

Mr. Raynor was formerly with his father and brother in the Raynor and Chrysta' Ice companies in Denton, and have had experience in the line of work he will be interested in in this city.

TO EQUALIZE TAXES

The county commissioners will sit as a board of equalization at their meeting Monday and have presented to them at that time the renditions for the 1926 rolls, it was announced Friday by County Tax Assessor A. C. Howard. It will be the first meeting of the commissioners in this capacity, and inasmuch as the task is rather a big one the sitting will probably be adjourned until some time later when the work will be taken up again.

Overeating, Not Alcohol Cause of Disease of Heart

HOUSTON, May 7.—(AP)—Overeating causes more heart disease and kills more people than the use of alcohol, Dr. C. A. Kenney of Fort Worth, told the twenty-sixth annual convention of the Texas Osteopathic association here today.

"While it is true that alcohol will injure the heart and bring on degeneration of its muscles," he said, "yet over eating is more commonly indulged in," he reasoned, "and therefore overeating is the cause of more cases of heart disease than alcohol."

In the course of his address he pointed out that "the greatest danger from high blood pressure is not apoplexy, as commonly supposed, but heart disease."

In children, those between 5 and 15 are especially susceptible to heart disease, he asserted and recited that "every case of rheumatism, Scarlet fever and diphtheria should be watched for complications.

"Every case of acute inflammatory rheumatism," he said, should also be regarded as an inflammation of the heart, whether it shows evidence of its presence or not, within those ages."

Dr. Stanley G. Bandeem of Kirksville, Mo., stressed the value of insulin in the treatment of diabetes. Presence of sugar in the urinal does not always mean the patient is diabetic, he said. "Fear often produces sugar," he asserted after a preliminary statement that a correct diagnosis is highly important.

Kid Bandits Brag After Their Arrest

The Enterprise is known throughout the state and has several times won the distinction of being the best weekly paper in Texas. The steady growth which Olney is undergoing has made it necessary for the Enterprise to install this new equipment.

In deciding that your new home shall be in Westmoreland Park, you don't have to compromise, on any point.

Because Westmoreland Park is completely satisfying. It offers you every single factor that wisdom and good taste dictate.

It combines beauty and convenience and healthfulness and exclusiveness and good value. It has all of them. You don't have to forego any of the features that you want the environment of your home to have.

HULL-EWING FIGHT DRAW

The Clyde Hull-Wildcat Ewing feud this morning is still unsettled. This pair of classy welterweights fought it out at a speedy clip for ten hectic rounds last night in the Eleventh and Ohio arena as the feature fracas of the American legion weekly leather program. When hostilities ceased the battle was called a draw. Three local sportsmen judged the contest. One of them rendered verdict for a Hull shade. Three rounds were given to each fighter. Four were listed as even affairs.

Wildcat came back strong in the final round.

Hull had the better of the close fighting but Ewing took the lead in long-range battling and beat Hul to the punch many times.

Hull fought a very conservative fight.

Battling Cossey, Wichita Falls bantamweight, scoring knock-downs in four of six rounds thrashed the clever Johnny Rivers of Fort Worth in the semi-final event.

Spike Flanagan, Wichita Falls welterweight southpaw, knocked out George Story of Oklahoma City, in the fourth round of a scheduled four-rounder.

Sailor Murphy won a referee's decision over Eddie Jackson of Dallas in a four-rounder.

The suit asks damages and recovery of profits made by the Panhandle on the manufacture and sale of the tool houses.

WICHITA FALLS CREW SLAMS TWO WACO HURLERS FOR 22 SAFE BLOWS AND RUNS WILD

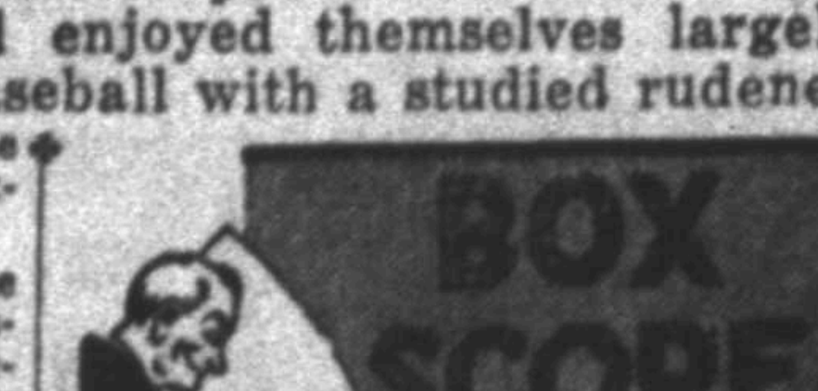

Lapan Cops Slugging Palm With Homer, Double, Two Singles—Bodie Two Non-Stoppers, Fitz One

BY BLONDY CROSS.

His high and mighty nibs, Frederick Brainard, much maligned (the past several days) manager of the Spudders, hauled his noble athletes out yester morn and indulged in a lively batting practice. Then again Friday p. m. early the stalwart leader of Wichita Falls' entry in Doak Roberts's pet annoyance, the league that refuses to do obeisance to Fort Worth any more and is beginning to curl a disgruntled lip at Dallas' efforts to shift the scene of the annual Dixie series, put on a private little slugging party. The hitherto proud but ineffective Spudders loosened up and enjoyed themselves largely, socking Jabez Gardner's baseball with a studied rudeness to all regions in and adjacent to the orchard both explored and unexplored.

At game time having developed the habit, let us hope, the roistering pastimers refused to conclude their practice, but continued the assault on Pratt's Waco oufit.

The Spudders took to the southpaw shoots of Jimmy Priesmuth with demoniacal glee, walloping the wronghander to cover in one and a third innings. Chief Aguilar, the swarthy starboard heaver was commandered into service by General Pratt and should have gone the route of his pale face brother but for the fact the high officer of the Brazos river village forces failed to send for rescue. Frolicsome Spudders readjusted their sights and opened a machine gun attack on the unprotected Redskin in the fifth, tripped around the paths freely in front of five boisterous base blows and then at the close of the round looked to see if the stoical Indian had been demolished totally or just nearly so. To their surprise, Chief limped out to the throwing knob again in the sixth, so the belligerent Brainard boys cut loose and lambasted him for six stiff clouts including two home runs and a brace of doubles. This lusty attack failed to unmount Aguilar, so they opened a staccato of base bingles in the seventh and followed tornadic two-bagger. But Chief stuck along and continued to serve up the cannon fodder, so our gang quit in disgust. Bodie singled in the eighth but the crack augured nothing other than a boost to the square-rigged gentleman's batting average.

22 Safe Slams

A close check of the casualties at conclusion of hostilities showed a 16 to 1 victory for Wichita Falls in the series opener, garnered by swift base running and 22 clean knocks.

Jim Roberts hurled from the winning side of the ledger and came darn near getting beat. He allowed seven hits, three of which were clustered in the eighth, the round in which the South Texans threatened to overcome a 16-run lead by scoring one. Jim had a tough time of it. He merely managed to strike out nine.

Stormy Davis was the most serious victim of Jim's fire-ball delivery. The erstwhile cyclonic person struck out three times on his fourth and last appearance bounded into a double play.

Donald (Pete) Lapan, the wee but vociferous Irishman, worked like a Trojan on the receiving end of Jim's chunks and then stepped out as the leading larruper with two singles, a double and a home run. The small person drove home six of the Wichita Falls tallies.

Bodie, back in the lineup, after several days absence, his return with two circuit smashes and a single. Fitzgerald found his hitting optics again and contributed a four-bagger and a pair of flossy bingles. Washburn went down the ladder with a triple, double and single. Turgeon socked one for three bases and punched a couple of one-sackers. Distel poked two doubles and a single.

Waco opened with a mild menace when with one away Wilson whipped a single to right, but Jim struck out Pratt and Kearns was turned back, Distel to Washburn.

Fireworks Early

Distel worked Friesmuth for a base on balls in the Spudder half of the first. Lamb popped one into the clouds. Wolgamot missed the catch but grabbed the sphere on first bounce and forced George at second. Bodie followed with a lusty larrup that was soaring higher when it cleared the center field boards. So loud was the concussion that Lamb in wonderment halted at third to gaze at the fleeting apple as it bounded gaily through the clover atop the hill back of Spudder park. The clout, of course, produced two golden scoring nuggets. The boss bounded out to third, but Washburn served notice on Friesmuth by ringing the bell for three bases with a lightning rift to left center. Fitz rolled out to short.

After Turgeon was called out on strikes in the second, Lapan and Roberts dashed one-basers to left. Distel sent Pete across the plate and Friesmuth to the dugout with a streaked smack to right center for two sacks. Chief Aguilar sneaked up on the chunking dome while no one was looking and issued Lamb a pass. Bodie followed with a well spanked onion to short and Cohen came up to start a quick double play that was carried through with precision by Pratt at the Keystone and Kearns at first.

Turgeon intimated something or other at the start of the Spudder fourth when the bombastic mite smashed a magnificient drive to the screen in center and nimbly cantered to third. But he was held at his base when Lapan bounced out to short and was caught on the slide a moment later when Roberts rolled out to the same sector. Distel retired on a rifle shot to Davis in left.

Five in Fifth

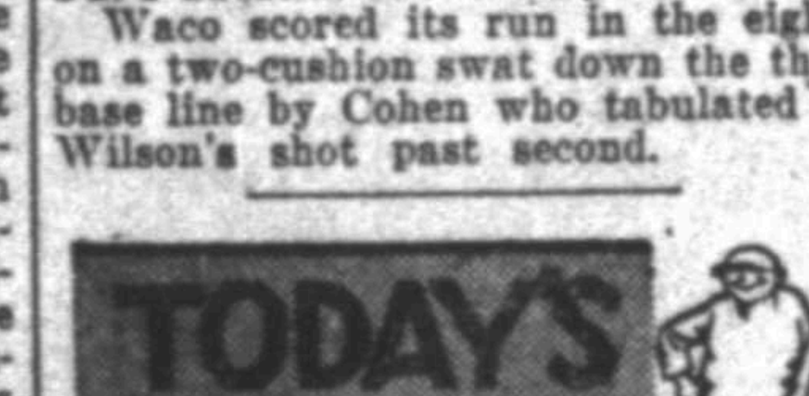

We didn't get the midget's inference until the next inning. He had clanged the tocsin signifying the attack was about to be unleashed on the hopeless Aguilar. Bodie drew a walk in the fifth after there was one out. Brainard arched a double against the right center wall, sending Ping to third. Washburn snapped a bounder to Pratt who uncorked a jungle heave into the turf at home plate in an effort to cut off Pizzola out of the picture. Result was Fred and Ping tabulated. Fitz followed with a pack past second for a base. Turge hoisted a lofty aviation to port for the second putout of the inning. Then Lapan sent the already bruised sphereoid zooming over the left pasture barrier. Roberts and Distel singled but Lyman rocketed to Davis. The Spudders had checked five more runs.

They sloughed Chief in the sixth, crashing through the counting portal for a quartet of runs on six blows to virgin territory and one sacrifice fly. Bodie pelted his second homer to left. Washburn doubled and then Fitzgerald bumped a four-bagger over the score board and nearly knocking the Mexican population perched on the gun traps shed viewing the conflict, into the weed patch below. Turgeon and Lapan singled. Roberts ran the first Pete home with a sacrifice aviation to center. Distel doubled down the third base line, putting Lapan to third. Lamb bounded to the hot corner and Boggess tagged George out.

Lapan Scores Three in Seventh

The cannonade continued through the seventh round. Bodie went out, pitcher to first. Brainard drew a life on low throw to the bag by Pratt. With Washburn up, the Spud leader appropriated second while Aguilar stood gaping at the batter. Sharp but low peg by Knox came near to catching the skipper, however. Pratt, on the receiving end, muffed the bounce. Mule produced the candy blow, a punch past the keystone, scoring Brainard. Fitz and Turg wafted singles to short left center, filling the runways. Lapan chased the trio helter skelter to the counting room with a sugary slam to the right center fence. That concluded the Wichita Falls advance for the day.

Waco scored its run in the eighth on a two-cushion swat down the third base line by Cohen who tabulated on Wilson's shot past second.

By "Blondy" Cross

Motto: "RAZZ THE RAZZERS"

THE SPUDDERS, BACK IN THEIR HITTING CLOTHES AGAIN, CONCLUDE THE WACO SERIES THIS AFTERNOON AT THE GARDNER PAVILION.

• • •

Brainard's busters are booked to bait Houston's languid Buffs at the plant Sunday in the first of a three-game bill.

• • •

Yesterday's startling renaissance of Spudder walloping talent should cause the turnstiles to whirl merrily today and tomorrow, at least.

• • •

Brainard makes his hurling selection from Sutherland, Wheeler and Martin today.

• • •

HE GOT A NEW ONE

Heh, heh, enough is enough and too much is superfluous. Irate Spud follower trickled into the baseball sanctum yesterday and beseeched Sec. J. Will to swap him another set of box seats as far removed as possible from those listed under his name at the time.

"I gotta box beside the biggest beefer in the world," grumbled this fan. "All he does is gripe and bellyache, and I can't enjoy the game!"

• • •

NOW, YAP SOME MORE!

The Spudders are riding in the lower altitudes at present and, as was to be expected, a host of "first class" Wichita Falls "sportsmen" are yapping their ears off, howling for sundry baseball scalps, riding the home guard when it's down. This same band of intelligent citizens are wonderful winners, however. Should the Brainard outfit break its slump all of a sudden and tear out on a victory streak there will be a swarm of "I-told-you-so's" charging around annoying everybody with their usual dispensation of hot air. When you win you're a hero; when you lose you're a ham.

• • •

The man in the stands always is a smarter baseball manager than the man out on the field of play.

• • •

If in a fist fight your opponent kicked you when you were down you would think him very unsportsmanlike.

• • •

Put Your Dukes and Fight!

Discovered, one Wichita Falls sports enthusiast who stands by his runs win or lose. Took my Stutz over to the shop to get its speed cut down and stumbled into Charley McNutt. Incidently, Charley was secretary of a ball team once that appeared hopelessly in the cellar on July 4 but climbed out quick enough to win the pennant.

Charley came surging down on us roaring like a Packard with the muffler knocked off: "Isn't this the blankety - blankest, second-guessing bunch of fans you ever saw!" He then ripped off into a wild oration on this and that and the other about the loyalty of the tin-horn gambler who loses a buck on the outcome of a game, the grandstand manager who outsmarts the salaried manager every time after the play has been made, and extolled the baseball ability of various Spudder cogs, winding up with:

"Brainard! Why, he's the smartest baseball man in the league! Also, he's playing out of his position at third base and got everything in this man's league so far outclassed at the job that there's no comparison!"

• • •

J. P. Montgomery is another booster who doesn't stomp a fellow when he's on the under side. Monty sent a letter to every Spudder telling him that win or lose, the Montgomery organization was 100 per cent for the team. Presented the boys each a bit of neck wear. And do those athletes appreciate that kind of spirit? We'll tell the universe!

Stecher Trains for Santel

Joe Stecher evidently isn't going to run any risks with Ad Santel in that championship match which was to be held in this city about the middle of the month. The scissors exponent says he doesn't want to meet the Flying Dutchman until after he has rested up a bit and then put in about two weeks training at Hot Springs. Stecher begins working out the first of next week. That would throw the bout over to the first week in June, around June 1 or 2.

• • •

Jim Londos has signed papers to meet Stecher in New York June 10, but the champion is holding out for a $25,000 guarantee.

• • •

Unless Santel beats him to it, Londos stands as the one man in the wrestling game today who appears Stecher's probable successor. The Greek, ever a dangerous grappler, is improving still more and that rapidly.

• • •

Londos built himself up from a legitimate welter to a heavyweight. When asked how he did it he answered: "Just the same way that any man succeeds whether it be in the business, newspaper or any other line of endeavor. By staying with the three P's, perseverance, precision and perspiration."

Cats Tag Shippers

FORT WORTH, May 7.—(AP)—When they are working behind a good hurler, the Cats can make errors and still win, they demonstrated this afternoon when they downed the Exports, 3-1. Jimmy Walkup, who went the route for the Panthers allowed only three hits while his team was making nine.

Gene Caldera went most of the route for the Exporters and all of the runs by Fort Worth were debited against him. Eberhard took the mound for the seventh and eighth innings. Beaumont made only two errors, but couldn't do anything with Walkup's delivery and the latter issued no passes.

Hatchett and Eddie Palmer had the honor of driving in two of Fort Worth's three runs, two of which were made by Konetchy and one by Edington.

Commish Turns Tunney Down

NEW YORK, May 7.—(AP)—Gene Tunney's claim to recognition as the leading heavyweight contender received a setback today when the state athletic commission refused to accept his formal challenge for a title match with Jack Dempsey on the grounds that Harry Wills has prior claim.

Nevertheless the attempt by representatives of Tunney to file the challenge is interpreted as another move in Tex Rickard's campaign to displace Wills in favor of Tunney as an opponent for Dempsey in a title bout here in September.

A blanket challenge on Tunney's behalf for a bout with any other leading heavyweight contender, but preferably Wills may be filed next week, his representative said.

M'DUFFY HURLS GREAT GAME WHILE PANHANDLE CLOUTS IN 9-1 VICTORY OVER ELECTRICS

Odell McDuffy stopped the onslaught of the Wichita Falls Electric team dead in their tracks Friday afternoon. He blanked the Kelly outfit over the last six innings after a bad start when the Poleclimbers counted one run. The Panhandle Longhorns won, 9 to 1.

McDuffy had all his old time form and cunning and was the master all the way. McDuffy also had all of the stuff in the world at bat and slapped out a pair of safe bingles that drove in three of the nine runs scored.

"Ohklahoma Lee" Courtney started on the hill for the Electrics and weathered the gale of base hits only one and two-thirds innings. After he had given up four runs and three hits he was pulled. Everette Blue took his place on the hill.

Shaw and Faichney Flash

The two teams had a little trouble in the second inning and several fist blows were struck.

Frank Shaw had a great day in center and took in the drives to that field from all angles and points. Don Faichney staged a great game at first base and took in throws both high in the air and out of the dust. His one error was one that he lost in the sun that is bad on all first basemen in the league. This is the first error Don has made in the past two years.

Toad Graves and Odell McDuffy led the hitters with two each.

A walk to Hinds, a hit batsman, and Courtney's error shoved over one run in the first inning for the Panhandle. A double play pulled Lee out of a bad hoe, Guy Taylor knocking down Hargrove's line drive. Brown thought he caught the ball and turned back to first and Hargrove gave up the run. Taylor recovered and threw to Whatley to engineer a double killing.

Four in Seventh

Singles by Stanfield, Blue and Lynch tied the score in the last of the first inning.

Singles by Hohen, Graves, McDuffy a walk to Hinds and an error by Whatley scored three runs for the Refiners in the second inning.

An infield hit by Hinds, a fielder's choice and an error in left scored the Panhandle run in the fourth inning.

The Panhandle club broke loose in the seventh inning with four more runs. A double by Hargrove, an infield out, singles by Faichney and Kerr, a walk to Graves, a sacrifice fly and a single by McDuffy scored the tallies.

WAGGONER WINS

ELECTRA, May 7.—The Waggoner refinery nine nosed out the Lions club here tonight in Twilight league play, 5 to 3. Shanafelt pitched for the Lions and was untouched until the third when the Oilers connected for five hits and the same number of runs. He struck out four men and walked two. Cook hurled for the Refiners and allowed four safeties. The game was a four inning affair. All the runs were scored in the third round. Wallace led the hitters with a double and a single. The score:

Olney Slaughters Newcastle, 13 to 5

The Olney High School Cubs took their eighth game without a loss Friday afternoon when they whipped the Newcastle All-Star, 13 to 5. Killcrease struck out 14 Newcastle batters and let the All-Stars down with three hits.

The Newcastle team was practically the same that held the Spudders to a close score on April 1.

Olney will play the Jacksboro high school in Olney this afternoon and will tackle the Wichita Falls Coyotes in Olney Monday afternoon.

TEXHOMA WINS

The Texhoma Red Sox defeated the McMann Refinery at Burkburnett Friday afternoon by the score of 2 to 0. Heath did the hurling for Texhoma and let McMann down with three hits. Newall drove in the first run of the game and enough to win the contest with a double in the third. The McMann club used two pitchers.

Munden Cyclers Defeat Jackson

Munden Cyclers defeated the Jackson Tire company nine Friday afternoon, 3 to 2, on the Ball brothers' diamond. Both clubs are members of the Wichita Falls Independent league which is scheduled to swing under way Sunday.

Al Prince was the winning pitcher. The game was five innings in duration.

O'Neal, Munden center fielder, connected for a two-bagger.

Fort Worth Boy Flashes in State Track Meet, Wichita Falls Breaks Even in Title Tennis Tournament

AUSTIN, May 7.—(AP)—By qualifying for the semi-finals of five events, the stalwart Jim Stewart, Fort Worth Central's formidable "one man track team" today made his school the favorite to capture Saturday the state high school track and field championship.

Stewart's most determined opposition likely will come from the well-balanced San Antonio Main avenue aggregation, Brownsville, led by R. Cleyea; Abilene featuring B. Sellers; Ranger, Eastland and Amarillo are other schools with a "look-in" for the title.

Stewart qualified in every event he entered—the 120 yards high hurdles, shot put, discus throw, high jump, and running broad jump. In each, he stamped himself one of the top notchers of the field.

Last year competing from Breckenridge high school, Stewart set the Texas university interscholastic league record of six feet 2¼ inches in the running high jump—a mark nearly two inches higher than the southwest conference record held by Rufus Haggar of Texas university. Stewart is practically conceded first place and five points in the high jump.

Today he won his heat of the high hurdles with plenty to spare, and is favored to finish first in the "high timbers" Saturday, though he will be crowded by Carrol Jones of Olton, a hurdler who runs in excellent form and had the best time registered in the preliminary heats.

Celyea, Brownsville's brilliant star, likely will win the shot and discus; but Stewart should place in these events as well as in the broad jump.

Tennis play was held up by the muddy courts. In the boys' singles, Lawrence Quick, state champion, defeated Oscar Powers of Wichita Falls, 6-2, 6-1; Barnes of Austin defeated Brown of Mercedes, 6-2, 6-8, and Mason, Waco, won over Baker, Jewett, 6-2, 6-1.

In the boys' doubles, Wichita Falls defeated Kerrville, 6-2, 6-2, and Saturday will meet the winners of the Dallas Oak Cliff-Yorktown match to see which will enter the semi-finals; in the first round the strong Oak Cliff team of Quick and Barr trounced Corsicana 6-0, 6-0.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, May 7.—(AP)—The cotton market today had periods of fair activity but trading was less brisk than yesterday. The price trend was downward and the rallies were of small scope and short lived. The depressing influences were the weather, which did not prove as bad as had been indicated yesterday and the British strike, which showed no signs of the early settlement predicted yesterday. The culminating bearish influence was the Danish sympathetic strike call which created fears of the strike extending to still other European countries and a slump in the stock market. After opening 12 to nine point down the market rallied nine to 10 points but soon started downward again and at the lowest of the afternoon active months were 24 to 31 points under the close of yesterday. The close was near the bottom, showing net losses for the day of 24 to 27 points.

At the start Liverpool being lower than due and early weather reports less unfavorable than expected the market opened 12 to 19 points down but soon rallied to 17.81 for July, 17.04 for October and 17.08 for December or nine to 12 points below the previous close. These prices were the highs of the day.

The market soon turned easier and by the end of the first hour prices were 20 to 23 points under the previous close. Prices ruled rather quiet during the middle of the day and fluctuated narrowly but became easier again in the late afternoon in sympathy with the decline in stocks and because of fears that the British strike might extend to other European countries. May eventually dropped to 18.13, July to 17.85, October to 16.90 and December to 16.92 or 24 to 31 points below the previous close. The close was near the lowest.

Exports for the day totaled only 128 bales. Exports for the week were 78,802 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, May 7.—(AP)—Sharp advances in the cotton market yesterday were followed by reactions today. July contracts, which had sold at 18.69 yesterday afternoon broke to 18.41, and closed at 18.45, compared with 18.61 at the close Thursday. The general market closed steady at net declines of 12 to 21 points.

The market opened barely steady at a decline of six to 12 points, in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables, liquidation by some of yesterday's buyers and local or southern selling. Some traders who had bought yesterday, apparently were disappointed over the failure of today's early reports from England to indicate any decided progress toward a settlement of the British strike. Selling also was promoted by a more favorable weather map and offerings increased after publication of a forecast for clearing weather in the southwest.

After showing net losses of 15 to 20 points, the market rallied slightly on covering, but prices eased off again later under continued liquidation. May declined to 18.86, and October sold off to 17.46, active months showing net losses of 18 to 22 points. The close was within three or four points of the lowest on most positions.

The prospect for better weather in the southwest and belief that yesterday's advance had left the market in rather an easier technical position, seemed the chief factors o nthe decline. The bulk of the selling was attributed to liquidation, but there was also some selling here which appeared to be for southern account and was attributed to hedging purchases of spot cotton from marketing associations in the south.

Exports today 3,125, making 7,123,862 so far this season. Port receipts 7,937. U. S. port stocks 971,631 against 701,647 last year.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, May 7.—(AP)—Widespread relief from drouth sent all grain values downward today. Wheat led the decline, in which corn established a new low price record for the season. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ⅜ to 1⅝c net lower, May (new) $1.58⅛ to $1.58⅞ and July $1.38⅛ to $1.38⅜, with corn one to 1⅝c down, oats ⅛@⅜c to ⅝c off and provisions at 2c to 30c advance. With the weather favorable for corn planting and with wheat weak, the corn market gave way under renewed liquidating sales. Oats eased down with other grains.

Higher quotations on hogs helped to lift the provision market.

NEW YORK, May 7.—(AP)—A sudden outburst of selling turned the corners of prices reactionary toward the close of today's stock market after an earlier period of dullness and irregularity. Final quotations disclosed a fairly strong list of net declines of one to four points. Trading was in slightly larger volume than yesterday, the day's sales aggregating 832,700 shares.

A bear drive against some of the low priced motors, based on the belief of a sharp reduction in second quarter earnings, started the selling movement which also involved the usual week-end profit taking. Jordan broke over three points to a new low for the year at 30⅝, and Paige Detroit fell back over two points to a new ow at 15 on rumors of a possible decrease in the dividend. Mack Trucks was hammered down over four points to 111¼ and General Motors, Hudson, White, Chrysler, Pierce Arrow and Moon yielded one to 2½ points. Chrysler reported earnings of $1.35 a share in the first quarter, or only slightly more than in the same period last year.

British strike news was closely watched, but apparently had little influence on the price movements in securities and commodities. Both wheat and cotton lost ground, but the selling was attributed largely to reports of more favorable weather for the growing crops. Foreign exchanges continued to show stability with persistent rumors of early stabilization plans for the French and Belgian currencies.

Oils started upward at the opening, but the buying movement soon petered out. Early gains ofa point or two in Atlantic Refining, General Asphalt, General Petroleum, Pan-American "B" and Colorado Fuel were wiped out. Weakness of the rubber shares was accompanied by rumors that a rather drastic marking down of inventories would have to be made by some companies because of the recent drop in the crude product. United States Rubber common broke nearly four points to a new low for the year at 56½, and Goodrich closed nearly two points lower at 51½, also a new low.

Ward Baking "A" soared 6½ points on the declaration of an initial quarterly dividend of $2. The commercial solvents issues were bid up about five points but lost more than half their gain.

More Truth Than Poetry

THE FORCE OF EXAMPLE

An owl, whose custom it had been
To spend his nights in eerie screeching
And raise the devil of a din,
According to his early teaching,
One evening, dazzled by the gloom—
Within a White House window wandered
And fluttered to the sleeping room
Where Mr. Coolidge lay, and pondered.

Had he confronted me or you
In such a crucial situation
He likely would have cried: "Hoo Hoo!"
With hideous vociferation.
And we in turn, had we beheld
An eldritch shape about us hover
Would very probably have yelled,
And hid our heads beneath the cover.

But Calvin gazed upon the bird
Without a qualm of trepidation;
The president said not a word,
The owl vouchsafed no conversation.
And when the morning skies grew gray
The uninvited stranger wended
On silent wings his homeward way,
And thus the interview was ended.

Of seven owls which make their home
About the stately White House portals
Six wake, amid the gathering gloom,
The echoes with their hoots and chortles.
But one has been inside the place,
And while the others screech and riot
He wears a meditative face
And keeps astonishingly quiet!

State Engineers To Receive Pay As Result of Decision

AUSTIN, May 7.(AP)—As the result of the attorney general modifying his opinion on employment of engineers in the state highway department, 18 resident engineers and their assistants aggregating approximately 75, will receve their April salaries from the state. Warrants were drawn today by the highway department.

The attorney general reversed Thursday his opinion of March 16, when he stated that the highway department could not pay any more engineers than included in the appropriation act. However, the letter written by Assistant General L. C. Stone, reversed and modified the first ruling, it was stated at the highway department and permits resident engineers and their assistants to be paid out of the road construction fund.

Most of the counties paid the salaries of the resident engineers for work in March, but they worked in April without knowing whether they would be paid at all. The salaries range from $90 to $400 per month, or total approximately $15,000.

H. DAUGHERTY IS INDICTED

Former Attorney General Accused of Defrauding Government

NEW YORK, May 7.—(AP)—The special federal grand jury investigating the sale of the American Metal company today indicted Harry M. Daugherty, former United States attorney general, Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, and John T. King, former republican national committeeman from Connecticut for conspiracy to defraud the government.

The grand jury concluding investigations begun last January, charged Daugherty, Miller and King with conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the transfer of $7,000,000 of American Metals company funds from the custody of the government to the Societe Suisse Pour Valeurs de Metaux, a Swiss company alleged to have been German owned.

The indictment charged alleged conspiracy on the part of Daugherty and Miller acting for the government in the matter of turning over American Metals company securities to the purchasers by preventing the government from participating in their honest and unbiased judgment. It charged conspiracy between Daugherty, Miller, King and the late Jesse W. Smith to receive from the claimants of the securities $391,000 alleged to have been paid for effecting the transfer of securities.

Arrangement for surrender of Daugherty, Miller and King are pending. Miller and King are already under bail on other federal indictments. None of these named in the indictments were in court today. Daugherty issued a statement at Columbus, Ohio, saying he had nothing to fear. He said that he was not called upon to review the decision of the department of justice on which he said the sales had been made.

Standard Attacked By State Senator

DALLAS, May 7.—(AP)—Increased cost of $5,000,000 a month is the toll which the Standard Oil company's re-entry into Texas already is taking from the pockets of gasoline users Senator Edgar E. Witt of Waco said today. He said he expected to start a campaign for repeal of the law passed by the last legislation which permits foreign corporation to own and control Texas corporations without violating the anti-trust law.

Senator Witt attributes this large increase in gasoline cost to the passage of this law, because he said, this legislation has permitted the large oil corporations to come into Texas and drive out the independents.

A state-wide raise of two cents in gasoline prices announced Wednesday by leading oil companies is the basis for Witt's estimate of a $5,000,000 increased cost. He said the raise was costing McLennan county automobile owners at least $4,000 a day.

The bill was attacked recently by Lynch Davidson, who said that it would certainly permit monopolies not only in oil but in other necessities.

"The measure was a special interest bill but it looked so innocent few members of the senate knew what it was," he said. "Just before its passage the capitol was full of oil lobbyists and agents of the big oil companies who repeatedly interviewed members of the legislature to sway their votes."

Senator W. H. Bledsoe of Lubbock led the fight against the measure. He said it was "the most far reaching and octopus generating measure ever offered to the Texas legislature."

"Within a few months after the bill became a law, the Standard Oil company bought out the Magnolia Petroleum company and the Humble Refining company. It was not long after these companies were taken over that the price of gasoline went up.

"I am told by independent dealers that they are being forced out of business until they buy Standard products."

AMERICAN TYPEWRITERS HIT

The American typewriter has fallen under the ban of the Prince of Wales' dictum, "Buy British goods first and all the time," but with a proviso. The condition is that British typewriters as good be found. Parliament's Stationery office, for instance, has promised to try to make the change, but confesses that out of 18,000 typewriters used in government offices, only 50 are British and the others American.

REPTILES ENDURE FASTING.

Observation of a large python in the Melbourne zoo disclosed that the serpent fasted 18 months, then took its food regularly. An iguana (lizard-like creature) fasted nine months, then greedily gobbled eight unfortunate sparrows, the last two being merely shaken and quickly engulfed. They could be heard chirping for a while after arrival at their destination.

ALAMO STUNTS DRAW THRONGS

Big Crowd Out Friday Night for Annual Program

A crowd that packed the Alamo school building to the doors was on hand Friday night for the annual carnival and stunt night program staged there under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers association of the school. All the pupils of the various classes took part.

Plays, stunts and various entertainment features had been arranged and were put on in every room in the building. Visitors were regaled with music, talks, impromptu circus acts and numerous other amusements as they wandered or rather pushed their way through from the top floors to the bottom.

In the corridors and grounds refreshment stands dispensed pop corn, peanuts, pop and all the other orthodox circus necessities.

Proceeds from the affair will go toward the building fund of the school which is anxious to add an auditorium and also to purchase a grand piano.

"Box of Monkeys" A Comedy Riot In League Offering

Comedy ran rampant at the First Methodist church, south, Friday night when the Ansil Lynn Epworth league put on a two-act humorous play "A Box of Monkeys," before a crowd that packed the church rooms to the limit.

The cast of characters was as follows:

Edward Ralston—Milton Price.
Chauncey Oglethrope — Leland Breckenridge.
Mrs. Ondego Jones—Valle Fern Lowry.
Sierra Bengaline—Lucille Ballard.
Lady Guinevere Llanpoore—Mrs. R. W. H. McCullough.

Between the acts a free will silver offering was taken. Music was also supplied during the intermission by Miss Cloe Stripling at the piano and E. F. Baumfalk who played a trombone solo.

FOLSOM HELD ON NEW CHARGE

Acquitted Friday, He Is Arrested on Second Indictment

A verdict of acquittal for Frank Folsom by the jury of the 89th district court at two o'clock Friday afternoon failed to bring his liberty, the defendant being immediately rearrested on order of the district attorney and confined to jail to face trial on two other indictments charging identical offenses at different times against his fourteen-year-old daughter. Bond was set by Judge P. A. Martin at $2,500 in each case, and Earl Kuntz and Walter Nelson, attorneys for the defendant, were trying to perfect this late Friday afternoon.

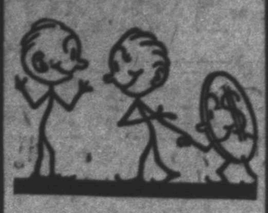

Argument and testimony in the case were completed promptly at twelve noon Friday, the jury going out to lunch and returning for their deliberation which consumed little more than an hour.

Two Arrests Made In Cameron Theft

Two arrests, which police freely admit may or may not aid in solving the case, were made Friday morning by city police in connection with the breaking open of a safe in the Cameron cafeteria sometime Thursday night and robbed of approximately $1,200 in cash and jewelry. The two arrested are former employes of the cafeteria.

The safe job was discovered at 9:30 Friday morning by employes of the restaurant. The knobs had been neatly knocked off by one of more men who had entered the building by prying open a window at the rear. Persons handling the safe before the police arrived prevented the obtaining of finger prints.
