Brigade Of Fourth Infantry Is Landed

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A brigade of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division, which won fame in two world wars, landed in South Viet Nam today and was immediately airlifted to the central highlands, one of this country's major battlegrounds.

The arrival raised U.S. troop strength in Viet Nam to about 290,000 men and highlighted a day in which ground fighting dwindled to sporadic and light actions.

In the air, however, a U.S. spokesman said heavy strikes continued against North Viet Nam — where Red gunners fired 15 Soviet-built surface-to-air missiles at raiding American warplanes Friday.

One of the most successful raids was a sweep at a 40-truck convoy heading south under cover of darkness. Strafing and bombing attacks set 25 of the trucks aflame in strikes Friday night and early today.

The military spokesman said the only fighting reported today was in the highlands west of Pleiku and about five miles from the Cambodian frontier — an area where some 10,000 U.S. soldiers are hunting the Viet Cong. The light clash today came when a reconnaissance patrol of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, airmobile, Division hit what was apparently a covering force of North Vietnamese regulars.

Details of the action were scant, the spakesman said, but the U.S. forces were pressing on into the area.

The 4th (Ivy) Division, based at Ft. Lewis, Wash.,,is commanded by Maj. Gen. A. S. Collins Jr.It is best known for its D-Day landing on Utah Beach in France in World War II. It also claims to be the first allied unit to reach German soil in that war. In World War I, it fought in the Meuse-Argonne campaign, among others.

The rest of the division is expected to arrive in South Viet Nam in the near future. U.S. officials have predicted that 350,000 to 400,000 troops will be here by the end of the year.

In the air war, giant B52s from Guam flew in this morning for a high-altitude saturation strike on a suspected Viet Cong jungle hideout in Quang Tin Province south of Da Nang.

Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots flew 105 missions over North Viet Nam today, plastering supply and military targets from far above Hanoi down to the 17th Parallel.

The military spokesman reported no losses in Friday's raids on the north and said the 15 missiles fired at U.S. pilots all missed.

'Open Housing' Cut Stifled By Demos

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has beaten back a Republican-led attempt to strip the open housing provision from the administration's Civil Rights Bill. Backers said the vote brightened prospects for final passage of the controversial legislation.

The House voted 198 to 179 Friday to retain the provision, which would prohibit racial discrimination in the sale or rental of 40 per cent of the nation's housing units, most in apartments and housing developments.

Individually owned homes, which make up about 60 per cent of the total number of units, would be exempt from the proposed ban.

House leaders plan to finish action on other provisions and put it to roll call vote by Tuesday. There could be another attempt at that point to eliminate the housing provision, known as Title IV.

Based on Friday's vote, however, the bill's supporters were confident they could turn back any new challenge.

Only a handful of Northern Democrats supported Rep. Arch Moore Jr., R-W.Va., in his effort to kill Title IV. They came from areas where racial violence has flared recently.

About 25 Republicans deserted their party leadership to support the housing provision, written by a Republican, Rep. Charles Mathias Jr., of Maryland. It was offered as a compromise after a much tougher provision proposed by President Johnson bogged down in the Judiciary Committee.

About 80 per cent of the Republicans voted to kill Title IV, including the top leaders, Reps. Gerald Ford of Michigan, Melvin Laird of Wisconsin and Leslie Arends of Illinois.

Ford said he opposed Title IV because he felt it was poorly drafted, ambiguous and of doubtful contitutionality.

Speaker John McCormack and Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma, rallied the Democrats to support Title IV.

"This is the heart of the bill," said Albert. "Strike it and we will have failed in a major area of our responsibility to the American people."

Luci, Pat Exchange Their Wedding Vows

WASHINGTON (AP)—In one of the social dramas of the age, Luci Baines Johnson became plain Mrs. Patrick J. Nugent today. A proud President looked on, alternately solemn and beaming.

The vows between the 19-year-old daughter of President Lyndon B. Johnson and her 23-year-old groom were taken in the giant Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, national church of Roman Catholicism.

Present was a select congregation of 700, including both notables and hitherto obscure folk from Waukegan, Ill., Nugent's hometown.

Luci shook slightly as she said, "I do." During the ceremony she had her gaze alternately fixed on Patrick and on a tremendous mosaic of the Savior behind the high altar. At times during the rites, the bridegroom flicked his eyes.

The exact time of the wedding was 12:42 p.m., EDT. Father John A. Kuzinskas of Chicago administered the vows. The couple knelt before him on white pillows at the edge of the altar platform.

The bride's long, starched illusion veil spread out behind her. Her long-sleeved gown was of white rosepoint Alencon appliques, lightly embroidered with pearls.

Toward the end, before the recessional, Luci planned to make a short detour. In a little ceremony dear to her heart, she was to walk to a chapel near the chancel and lay one of her two bouquets before a mosaic of St. Agatha, a patron saint of nursing.

Then the walk back down the aisle, and off to the feast and reception at the White House. A big tent had been erected on the south lawn, decorated with paper pink poppies looking real. Gilt chairs, and tables bearing silver punch bowls, dotted the greensward. Giant red roses of paper were wired to holly hedges.

Inside the mansion, a seven-tiered wedding cake towered between portraits of George and Martha Washington.

It was not only a double ring wedding — it was triple. Luci, with sleight of hand only a determined bride could perform, ended up with her engagement ring sanwiched between two wedding circlets.

She did this without ever taking off the engagement ring. The feat is performed by putting the ring fingers of right and left hands together, end to end, and sliding the engagement ring from one to the Texas Pacific Oil Co. has completed No. 9-C J. B. Young in the Pardue (Canyon) area of Fisher.

Calculated daily potential was 214 barrels of oil flowing through a 20-64-inch choke and from perforations at 4,392-429 feet. The pay section was treated with 500 gallons of acid, a fracture of 25,000 gallons of oil and 25,000 pounds of sand. Surface pressure was gauged at 280 pounds while gas-oil ratio registered 1,460-1.

Potential was based on an actual 11-hour flow of 97.98 barrels of crude.

Site is 25 feet from north and 940 feet from west lines of W. E. Kaye survey 3, seven miles northwest of Hamlin.

Kem Merren and W. C. Montgomery have abandoned No. 1 Bryant, a wildcat operation, after drilling to total depth of 7,130 feet.

Location is 853 feet from north and 1,985 feet from west lines of section 133, block 97, H&TC survey, one mile northwest of Ira in Scurry.

Unregistered Students To Sign Aug. 11

All students who will be in Snyder High School in the fall and have not pre-registered at either the senior high school or one of the junior high schools should report to the high school Thursday, Aug. 11, Principal Ben Brock has announced.

Several students have moved to the city during the summer and others who might have left Snyder and returned are included in this group, Brock said. Students who registered in the spring are not to report to the office Thursday.

On Friday, Aug. 12, all students who have necessary schedule changes are to report to the high school. It is important that these changes be made at this time in order that class sizes might be adjusted and other items completed before the opening of school September 1.

Classes to be offered at 7:30 for the first semester are Speech IV (forensics), Latin II, Drafting, Industrial Cooperative Training, and Madrigral Singing. Other courses may be offered during the second semester if there is demand.

Both the Industrial Cooperative Training and Distributive Education classes will be offered students for the 1966-67 school year. It was announced earlier that the ICT class might be dropped.

BAND CLASSES RESUME MONDAY AT HIGH SCHOOL

Instrumental classes for members of the Snyder High School Band will resume Monday, Aug. 8, Director Melvin Montgomery has announced.

Montgomery will be the instructor on the brass and percussion classes and director, will instruct in woodwinds. Classes will continue through Aug. 19 and there is no charge for the instruction.

The daily schedule will include percussion and bassoons from 8 a.m. to 8:50; flutes and French horns from 9 a.m. to 9:50; saxophones and cornets from 10 a.m. to 10:50; all clarinets, basses from 11 a.m. to 11:50; stage band from 1:30 p.m. to 2:30; oboes from 2:30 p.m. to 3:30.

Dacus Rites Set Sunday

Mrs. Effie Mae Dacus, 86, who lived at 1603 Avenue S, died at 8 p.m. Friday in the Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Dacus was born in Boone County, Ark., in April of 1880 and married R. H. Dacus in the same county July 20, 1899. She was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Funeral services are set for 4 p.m. Sunday in the First Baptist Church with Rev. Virgil Mott officiating. The burial will be in the Hermleigh cemetery under the direction of Beal-Seale Funeral Home.

Mrs. Dacus is survived by her husband; five daughters, Mrs. Clyde Newton, Snyder; Mrs. Opal Skelton, Snyder; Mrs. Era Martin, Snyder; Mrs. Jane Bullard, Ft. Worth; Mrs. Alma Kelly, Ft. Worth; two sons, Lawton and Roy both of Snyder; three sisters, Mrs. Ivy Undedown, Ft. Worth; Mrs. Nannie Buckner, Waco and Jenny Sharp, Santa Anna; three brothers, E. L. Ballinger, Itasca; Lonnie Ballinger, Itasca; C. M. Ballinger, Cometa; 16 grandchildren and 18 great grandchildren.

New Record Set In July By CRMWD

A record for a single month's production was estabisihed in July by the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

The 1,555,801,068 gallons delivered to customers exceeded the previous record of 1,510,204,000 gallons in July of 1965.

Figures compiled by Paschall Odom, assistant to the general manager, showed production for the month up 3.29 per cent and ran to 7,159,121,144 gallons the amount pumped so far this year. This is 6.12 per cent ahead of the first seven months of 1965, and it presages a record year for the CRMWD.

Member cities of Big Spring, Odessa and Snyder fell three million gallons under last year's July peak in using 1,187,691,100 gallons, but oil companies used 368,209,968 gallons, a gain of 15.25 per cent. All the oil companies but Sun Oil, which had a 9.50 decline, showed increased draws.

During July Odessa used 687,340,000 gallons, or .99 of a per cent less than the same month a year ago. Big Spring used 382,756,000 gallons, a gain of 1.89 per cent, and Snyder 117,595,100 gallons, a decline of 4.00 per cent.

Production, although near a maximum rate, has proceeded without a hitch, said Odom. The district still has Moss Creek Lake and O'Barr fields in reserve for peaking if they are needed.

LINDA HALL LINDA SCHATTEL

2 More Seeking FB Queen Title

Two more entries in the Scurry County Farm Bureau Queen Contest boosted the total number of entries to seven.

The latest entries include Linda Schattel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Schattel of Snyder, and Linda Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Heath, Arah Star Route, Snyder.

Miss Hall is an honor student at Snyder High School, where she has been active in homemaking for the past two years. She was a member of the FHA her freshman and sophomore years. She was a twirler her freshman year and will be a high school twirler this fall.

After graudation, Linda plans to attend West Texas State University at Canyon, majoring in English with a minor in Elementary Education.

Miss Schattel, a senior at Snyder High School, is active in the Latin Club and in the 4-H Club. She is the reporter for the 4-H Club. She enjoys raising show calves and has been a B-team cheerleader. She has been a member of the band for five years and was a twirler.

A Coke party was held Saturday afternoon in the community room of the Snyder Savings and Loan Association building in Snyder for the contestants. Other contestants include Linda Rinehart, Debbie Mathis, Renoka Hooker, Diane Hess and Wanda Hudgins.

The contest will be held at 8 p.m. Friday, Aug. 12, in the Snyder High School auditorium.

Master of ceremonies for the event will be Neil Johnson, farm director for Lubbock television station KCBD.

Jimmie Joe Key, chairman of the Young People's Committee, also is chairman of the committee for the Queen Contest. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Billie Sterling, Mrs. Della Light, Mrs. Dolores Key and Mrs. Joritta Terrell.

LBJ Eyes Spending Curbs

WASHINGTONN(AP) — President Johnson, acting after a wave of steel price boosts he did not challenge, has warned that such increases could force a cutback in government spending on projects such as the space program.

The President coupled the signing Friday of a bill authorizing $5 billion for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration with this warning to business and union leaders:

"If particular segments of our economy continue to raise their prices and increase the cost of this and other programs, it will be necessary for the government to further reduce its expenditures, particularly in those areas where prices are rising in an inflationary way."

Although Johnson made no direct reference to this week's price increases in the steel industry, it was clear that his statement was prompted by that move and last week's rejection by the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists of an airlines contract calling for increases reported to be between 6 and 7 per cent. Acceptance of the contract would have ended the month-old walkout against five major airlines.

The White House has labeled the steel price hikes inflationary, but the industry called the $2 and $3 a ton boosts inconsequential and modest.

In his statement, Johnson said the maintenance of the space program depends on the cooperation of "major business leaders and union leaders."

"If we are to continue our space effort and continue to make the magnificent progress represented by our past achievements," the chief executive said, "we can do so only if business and labor leaders will make their contribution by responsible pricing and bargaining decisions."

Despite the President's strong words, the administration apparently does not intend any dramatic moves to counter the price hikes.

The boosts, initiated by Inland Steel Co. Tuesday, affect sheet and strip steel, which comprise about 30 per cent of the industry's output. Some estimate the industry boosts will increase the cost to the auto indusry — main use of sheet and strip steel — by about $1.50 per car.

The new prices go into effect Wednesday.

OUR VIEW

Governor's Thoughts On Insanity Pleas Make Sense

Gov. John Connally's sober reflections on the tragic massacre at Austin last Monday undoubtedly are typical of conscientious Texans. And the possibility of proposing legislation concerning insanity pleas in criminal cases involving loss of life makes sense.

The new legislation presumably would commit such persons to confinement of some sort for life, without parole provisions.

In exploring the human mind and emotions, it appears all too clear that even the most astute psychiatrists and psychologists still deal mostly with intangibles. There is evidence that insanity may be an "on again," "off again" experience. However, nobody is able to say for certain when it will be "on" or "off."

Thus, a person guilty of a crime of violence during a period of insanity might become sane again, but there apparently is no assurance that he will not revert to insanity and commit another crime.

And while the governor is about it, he might as well include in the same legislation those persons who experience self-induced periods of irrationality — those under the influence of narcotic drugs or alcohol. The latter two encounter soft spots in our present laws just as do those who beocme irrational from natural causes.

The governor said he doubted that firearms control laws would help prevent such tragic events as the sniping at Austin and he would hesitate to recommend such laws because it might give people false hope. However, gun registration laws help crime detection, if not crime prevention, and even the smallest assistance is welcome these days in the field of law enforcement.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a teeth grinder. When he sleeps he grinds his teeth like you wouldn't believe. He ate three inches of lace off his pillow slip.

I can't go into another room because the beds are full of kids, so I go into the bathroom and read until my eyes are crossed. Please, help me.

RAW NERVES

DEAR RAW: If your husband won't go willingly to his dentist, bind, gag, and drag him there. Modern dental techniques have helped many a teeth grinder. Don't put it off. He is ruining not only your health, but his teeth.

P. S. And take those lace-edged pillow slips off his pillow. He could CHOKE to death.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: This may sound strange, but in the four years my husband and I have been married, we have never had a fight. O, we've had plenty of disagreements, but we have never settled any of them. When my husband is mad about something, he just sits and sulks. He won't even tell me what's wrong.

I am as bad as he is. When I'm mad, I just hold everything inside. I get a lump in my throat and tears in my eyes and I keep quiet. Sometimes I wish we could bring all our complaints out in the open and have a good old-fashioned shouting argument, but I honestly wouldn't know how to start one. Can you give me some suggestions?

NEEDS A FIGHT

DEAR NEEDS: You are wise to want to "bring your complaints out into the open." Allowing unresolved tensions to build up inside can cause one major explosion far more serious than several minor ones. No married couple can agree on EVERYTHING unless one of them is a vegetable.

When something bothers you, swallow that lump in your throat, let the tears fall where they may and keep talking until you make sense. Don't spout off in anger in an effort to hurt the other, but describe your feelings honestly.

This is sure to provoke some sort of reaction in your husband. He'll either deny or affirm, defend or counter-attack, justify or apologize. And before you know it, you'll have cleared the air.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: A daughter who was very much concerned over her mother's sudden drinking problem wrote, "Abby, why would a loving, respected grandmother turn to alcohol after all these years?"

Had that daughter reread her own letter, she would have discovered the answer. She wrote: "Mother started drinking a few years ago when dad retired."

I know exactly how she feels. My husband is also retired, and I'd drink, too, if I could afford it.

Landlady Says Cage Is Hiding

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — The former landlady of Texas fugitive BenJack Cage says he is in Sao Paulo and calls her on the telephone about once a week to ask for messages.

In Dallas, where Cage was sentenced to 10 years in prison in 1957 for embezzling $100,000 from a now defunct insurance company, Dist. Atty. Henry Wade said he knows where the fugitive is.

Wade said Friday that Cage may be returning to Dallas in about a month.

"We need him and we know where he is," Wade said.

Meanwhile, Brazilian authorities were deciding whether to try Cage on embezzlement charges.

"Under Brazilian law we can now try him on the same charges," said Ruy Machado Lima, head of the Justice Ministry's foreign section. He has recommended that Cage be tried.

Cage disappeared from his Copacabana Beach apartment about two months ago. He lawyer, Laercio Pellegrino, said he has not heard from Cage in more than a month.

Pellegrino said Cage may have gone into hiding because "some people may be after him."

Cage's wife Dorcas and their 5-year-old son have been visiting her mother near Kerrville, Tex., for several months.

Mrs. Cage said she did not know where her husband is and added, "We haven't discussed the possibility of his coming back to the states."

Ira Schools Launch New Term Aug. 29

IRA—Ira schools will begin the 1966 - 67 term on Aug. 29, Supt. Roy Sallee has announced.

Sallee said that a complete faculty will be on hand and that buses will make their regular routes and the school lunchroom will be in operation on the opening day.

The elementary school faculty is composed of Mrs. Jemmie Millhollon, first grade; Mrs. Juanita Corbin, second grade; Mrs. Bettie Burrow, third grade; Ralston Bruce, fourth grade; Tommy Taylor, fifth grade; Brice Fuqua, sixth grade.

The high school faculty includes Mrs. Tommy Taylor, commerical subjects; Mrs. Joyce Fuqua, home economics; L. B. Taylor, English; Robert Williams, mathematics; Dennis Alsup, vocational agriculture; Lynn Jackson, coach and science; Mrs. Lynn Jackson, special reading; Myron Crawford, social studies and principal; and Sallee, superintendent.

Small-Town Businessman Wins Race

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A small-town businessman claimed victory Friday night over Rep. Tom Murray, D-Tenn., chairman of the House Post Office Committee who sought nomination to a 13th term in Thursday's primary election.

Ray Blanton, a member of the legislature, led Murray by 392 votes with 9 of 311 precincts in the state's 7th District uncounted. Four of the delayed boxes were from Blanton's home county.

"From all indications it looks like I won the race," said Blanton, a vigorous campaigner.

Murray, who did not campaign, said from Washington he would not concede until the returns were made official Monday.

As resturns from the Tennessee Democratic senatorial primary continued to trickle in, Gov. Frank G. Clement's margin of victory over Sen. Ross Bass, D-Tenn., increased to 11,000.

Bass withheld his concession statement until midday Friday.

Clement, who lost to Bass by over 97,000 votes in the 1964 primary, will face Howard H. Baker Jr. in the Nov. 8 general election. Baker, son-in-law of Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., gained a landslide victory in the Republican primary.

Most of the state's attention in the elections Thursday had been focused on the race for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Buford Ellington, a former governor who resigned as President Johnson's director of the Office of Emergency Planning to seek the nomination, won by 50,000 votes over John J. Hooker Jr., a 35-year-old Nashville lawyer associated with the family of President John F. Kennedy.

Republicans did not field a gubernatorial candidate.

other. Patrick got only one ring.

Pealing bells atop a 329-foot spire sounded joyous tones as the Nuptial Mass began. A shirtsleeve crowd of 4,000 or more stood outside, craning for a view of Miss Johnson and the President arriving, and of Mr. and Mrs. Nugent and the President and the First Lady leaving.

There was a cluster of peace pickets, too, 20 of them, marching in a circle across Michigan Avenue from the shrine.

The sunlight of a warm Washington day filtered through the stained glass windows of the vast church as Luci and Pat became man and wife before God and a company of 700 guests—among them the powerful men of Washington and neighborhood friends of the groom from Waukegan, Ill.

Everyone got to the church on time—ahead of time, in fact. But it was 18 minutes after the appointed mour of noon when the vast choir fell silent and the wedding Mass began.

A White House spokesman made the formal announcement:

"Luci Johnson became Mrs. Pat Nugent at 12:42 with the exchange of marriage vows."

President Johnson escorted his daughter to the church from the White House.

CAMP BOUND — Some 60 boys of the Scurry County Boy's Club line up for a medical checkup by Dr. Carl Dillaha prior to going to Camp at Lake J. B. Thomas. The camp will be held Monday through Friday. The happy youngsters will sleep in tents at the Camp and enjoy a week of fishing and swimming. Herb Barnett, director, will be with the youths during their stay along with several senior counselors. Parents of the boys will join them from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. Friday for a refreshment hour and then return their children home.

Torrential Rain Strikes El Paso

By The Associated Press

Torrential rain struck El Paso Friday, flooding streets, homes and businesses and a wide section of the city was without electricity for more than two hours in northeast El Paso.

The power failure was caused by the flooding and a heavy electrical storm which accompanied the rainfall.

Two persons were killed in nearby Juarez, Mexico, when they were struck by lightning.

The heavy rain flooded streets during the rush hour traffic Friday evening and water was reported to be automobile headlight-deep in some streets.

Traffic in El Paso was snarled for some time Friday evening following the heavy rainfall.

Officials of the Santa Fe Railway said some tracks were covered by water from a severe rainstorm late Thursday and early Friday. One highway in the area, U.S. 85, was closed early Friday after a bridge washed out.

Rain fell in other sections of the state Friday, but it was mostly light and scattered. The scattered thundershowers were reported at various points in most sections of the state.

The Weather Bureau reported early today a narrow band of scattered light showers extended along a line from about 50 miles west of Abilene to Fort Hood to just north of College Station and to near Beaumont. There also were reports of scattered thundershowers along the upper gulf coast area.

Forecasts indicated the shower activity would continue today in most sections of the state. Areas not affected by the showers were to have partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures.

Maximum temperatures Friday ranged from 103 at Laredo and Presidio to 87 at Dalhart and 86 at Alpine.

Temperatures early today ranged from 71 at El Paso to 84 at Del Rio.

Three Children Are Killed In Explosion

LIVINGSTON, N.Y. (AP) — Three children were killed and four others of the family injured, including the parents, when an explosion demolished their home Friday night, a day after they moved to this residential community south of Hudson.

The dead tentatively were identified as Fayne, 4, Kiki, 8, and Jimmie Sinclair, 7.

Their parents, Albert Sinclair, 37, and Aurora, 36, were taken to Columbia Memorial Hospital in Hudson, along with Bertram, 9, and Margurite, 11.

Rationing Of Aid Wheat Suggested

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may have to ration wheat for foreign countries needing supplies under its foreign aid program.

This was suggested by an Agriculture Department report Saturday which said that because of greatly reduced supplies in this country exports may have to be cut back as much as 150 million bushels this year.

Even with the proposed reduction, supplies of wheat in this country on June 30, 1967, the end of the 1966 crop marketing year, may be greatly reduced from the June 30 supply this year.

Next year's wheat reserves may be sharply below a level regarded as necessary to protect this country from crop failure or other disasters.

Exports of wheat during the 1965 crop marketing year, which ended June 30, reached a record high of 867 million bushels.

The current low level of wheat supplies, reflecting a combination of government production restriction and abnormally high foreign needs, has led the government to authorize an increase of 15 per cent in plantings for the 1967 crop. The government is considering possible plans for making a further increase and a decision is expected next week.

It is quite possible some countries which have been depending on the United States for wheat may have to take grain subsidies, such as corn, oats and barley.

Veteran Drivers List Safety Hazards

BEAUMONT (AP)—Two veteran truck drivers, both recipients of several safe and courteous driving awards, listed what they feel are the major causes of highway accidents:

"Impatience and negligence," said James D. Palmer and Bernard L. Sprinkle. They both concluded, also, that drunk drivers contribute to many fatalities.

Wirtz Works On Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz appears before an unusual Saturday session of the House Commerce Committee to again face questioning about legislation aimed at halting the month-old airline strike.

The bill, passed by the Senate Thursday, would order striking mechanics back to work on five airlines for 30 days and provide [illegible] postpone any strike resumption for 150 more days.

Wirtz told the House Commerce Committee Friday there is little chance for meaningful negotiations between the airlines and the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists while Congress is considering action.

Despite the unusual Saturday session, the bill is not being given rush treatment. If the committee finishes taking testimony from Wirtz today, it will devote Monday o interrogating P.L. (Roy) Siemiller, union president. William J. Curtin, chairman of the five carriers' negotiating committee, is next on the committee list.

Wirtz told the committee Friday the strike, while generally inconvenient and seriously damaging to some individual businesses and areas, has had only minor impact on the economy as a whole, and none on national defense or health. He said it is up to Congress to decide whether, in such circumstances, it should intervene with strike-halting legislation.

15-Year-Old Suspect Is Returned

Mark Richard Harris, 15-year-old suspect in the slaying of Lewis Snyder, Roscoe night-watchman, and in the armed robbery of Henry Whitehurst, owner of the Big Dipper Donut Shop here, was returned to Sweetwater Friday where he faces charges of being a juvenile delinquent.

Simons said the youth also may be charged with car theft. The boy is suspected of stealing a car here and a pickup in Sweetwater.

The police chief said the youth can be tried in Sweetwater on the car theft charge since he is a juvenile, although the theft allegedly occurred here. He cannot be tried on a slaying charge until he becomes 17 years of age.

Funeral for Snyder was held in Roscoe Friday. He was shot once in the head and twice in the body. A gun identified as the one used in the holdup was found near the watchman's body.

The youth surrendered to police in Ft. Worth and they recovered a stolen car. He also made a statement in connection with the slaying.

SPORTS

wIlLiAmSon'S WiLDneSS

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

It's that time of the year again when all sports writers cast their fate to the wind in order to pick the winner of the improbable Southwest Conference, and in this conference where football is king nobody can ever be sure; however, one light brightly shines.

This corner sees upsets but not big upsets, and surprises but not big surprises. In other words Arkansas will reach high cotton again in the SWC, but powerful strength available in other teams will keep the season from being a ho-hum affair.

The light that shines from the northern stars in Arkansas really hits you in two parts—Jon Brittenum and Harry Jones, and if that isn't enough would you believe 12 returning starters from the offensive and defensive units that guided the nationally ranked Porkers last season.

Look for Arkansas to enter the Cotton Bowl undefeated this season. Arkansas will get steady competition from Baylor, Texas and TCU, but when the season is concluded all three will be in the class of also rans.

In fact the hardest job will be to pick the second, third and fourth place finishers without the aid of a crystal ball. So, in this journalistic effort, maybe we'll do just that.

From the what its worth department, here is how the SWC will finish up in 1966.

1. Arkansas
2. Texas
3. Baylor
4. TCU
5. Texas Tech

SMU (Tie)

7. A&M
8. Rice

I hate to be the one to pick another feud between Arkansas and Texas when that type copy is coming up at a dime a dozen, but who can really believe that the Longhorns will slip to the depths of despair two seasons in a row.

Texas ended with a 6-4 season record last year, and for most teams this a successful season, but in Austin that lies on the brink of being catastrophic. Darrell Royal and a determned bunch of sophomores and juniors could easily turn the tables this season.

Terry Southall and company will surely make the Bears the most exciting team to watch this season with their pagentry of brilliant passing, but passing hasn't been very successful in recent years in gaining a berth in the Cotton Bowl. Passing teams frequently find their way to the runner-up spot, but in this stage of the game, who wants that? Maybe Rice? Or would you say A&M?

TCU is on the verge of having a great team, but this corner says its at least a year away, and maybe even two. Serious weight will be placed on sophomores and juniors that have not had a chance to prove their worth. They'll get that chance this year.

All in all, it'll be another great year for the SWC, but in this circuit even a bad year has a lot of merit.

Can Browns Go Without The Brown

By The Associated Press

How will the Cleveland Browns do without their great fullback, Jimmy Brown, in the National Football League this season?

A clue to the answer may be provided tonight when the Browns and Los Angeles Rams battle in an exhibition game.

A crowd of 50,000 is expected to see the game at Los Angeles. It is one of nine pre-season games scheduled this weekend as the exhibition season in both the NFL and the American Fooball League goes into high gear after Friday night's All-Star game in Chicago. The Green Bay Packers, the NFL champions, crushed the College All-Stars 38-0.

Ernie Green has replaced the retired Brown in Cleveland's backfield and his performance will be watched closely by Coach Blanton Collier.

In other NFL exhibitions tonight, Atlanta is at St. Louis, Chicago meets Philadelphia at Memphis, Tenn., and Minnesota tangles with Detroit at New Orleans, La. The New York Giants play Pittsburgh at Ithaca, N.Y., in a day game. In the AFL tonight, Kansas City is at Denver and Miami at San Diego.

Two Sunday afternoon games are scheduled. Dallas is at San Francisco in the NFL while Buffalo is at Boston in the AFL.

Ahern Shows Winning Form In Golf Tourney

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Kathy Ahern of Dallas, playing in her first and last Women's Western Junior Golf Tournament, won the title with ease Friday.

Miss Ahern, 17, who will advance beyond the age limit for the tournament next year, defeated Carmen Maria Piasecki, 17, of South Bend, Ind., 5 and 4 in the finals.

The Texas miss was one under par when she ended the match on the 14th hole. Booming the ball 250 yards off the tee at times, Miss Ahern was 5-up after nine holes.

Jess Neely Honored

CHICAGO (AP)—The Football Writers Association honored Coach Jess Neely of Rice Friday for long and meritorious service to football.

Neely retires Sept. 1, 1967 after 26 years as head football coach at Rice.

The association elected Arnie Burdick, sports editor of the Syracuse, N.Y., Herald-Journal, as president and Dave Campbell, sports editor of the Waco, Tex., News-Tribune and Times-Herald, as second vice president.

Maury White of the Des Moines, Iowa, Register and Tribune moved from second vice president to first vice president.

R. D. PIERCE
230 pound fullback

Snyder Graduate Is With Comets

R. D. Pierce, graduate of Snyder High School, will make his Texas Professional Football League debut Sept. 3 as the starting fullback of the Midland-Odessa Comets.

The Comets open on that date in the W. T. Barrett Stadium in Odessa when they meet the Sherman-Denison Jets. The Comets are the newest club in the three year old Texas circuit, and workouts began Friday with 45 members reporting for duty. The team will be cut to 33 before the season starts.

Pierce was a four year letterman at Snyder High, and graduated in 1955. He has no college experience to his credit, but packs around 230 pounds of authority. Pierce will be used as a fullback and linebacker on the new Comet staff.

Pierce is presently employed with Gulfco Well Head Equipment Company where he is district manager. He and his wife, Barbra, have three girls Dee Ann, Charolett and Becky Lynn. They make their home in Midland.

The Comets are coached by the newly appointed Byron Townsend of Odessa, and he has the responsibility of guiding the comets through the first year of competition.

Two players of the Comet team have had pro experience. They are John Hadley, ex-offensive tackle of the Los Angeles Rams, and Bud Windum, former center for the New York Jets.

Other teams in the league include Burkburnet Kings, Pasadena Pistols, Tulsa Oilers and Dallas Rockets. The Comets will have five home engagements.

Althea Gibson Sets Course Golf Record

SUTTON, Mass. (AP)—Althea Gibson, former international tennis star, set a course record during the first round of the $15,000 Lady Carling Open Golf Tournament.

She fired a six-under-par 68 Friday for a women's course record at the 6,280-yard Pleasant Valley Country Club. The lowest score of her golf career gave her a four-stroke lead over Shirley Englehorn, a two-time Lady Carling winner, entering the second round of the 54-hole ladies Professional Golfers Association tour event.

Miss Gibson covered the back nine in 31, also a women's course record. She pared two strokes off the 70 shot by veteran Patty Berg during the Lady Carling two years ago.

Davis Replaces Wynn

HOUSTON (AP) — Centerfielder Ron Davis of Amarillo in the Texas League has been brought up to the parent Houston Astros to replace the injured Jim Wynn who will be placed on the disabled list.

Jim Ryun of Wichita, Kan., who set a mile record of 3:55.3 as a high school senior, couldn't run fast enough as a freshman to make his school's track team.

San Francisco, Pittsburgh Lose As Dodgers Take Win

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

They're throwing at Ron Santo's head again, but his bat keeps getting in the way.

The Cub third baseman was out of the lineup for 10 days earlier this season with a fractured cheekbone, courtesy of an errant pitch by Jack Fisher of the Mets. Friday, Bob Bolin of the Giants took a couple of shots at him.

They didn't go any good, though. Santo hit two home runs and a two-run single in the 10th that gave Chicago a 4-3 victory.

Santo's first homer came off Bolin in the second inning and when Ron appeared at the plate again in the third he suddenly found himself studying the chalk around the batters' box close. Eventually, Bolin struck him out.

Happy with that result, Bolin tried it again when Santo led off the bottom of the ninth with San Francisco leading 2-1. But he climbed out of the dirt and hit his 25th homer of the season, sending the game into overtime.

In other National League games, Cincinnati beat Pittsburgh, 4-3, St. Louis beat New York 7-1, Atlanta crushed Philadelphia 9-2 and Los Angeles bounced Houston [illegible].

In the American League, New York split two with Cleveland, losing 5-4 and wining 3-0, Kansas City took Minnesota 4-2, Detroit shut out Boston 2-0, Washington beat Baltimore 4-2 and Chicago beat California a3-1.

By the time Santo came up in the 10th, Bolin had given way to Frank Linzy but the Giants had gone ahead 3-2 on Tito Fuentes' homer in the top of the inning. The Cubs loaded the bases, though, and with one out Ron cracked the single thata won it.

The Giants are now one percentage point behind the league-leading Pirates, who bowed to Gordy Coleman's tie-breaking home run in the sixth inning. The victory was the Reds' sixth in a row, 11th of their last 12 and 16th of their last 19.

The Cards clubbed three homers off the Mets, the most productive being Tim McCarver's three-run shot in the ninth. Julian Javier had one with a man on, and Tito Francona contributed a solo blast. Rookie southpaw Steve Carlton won his first major-league game, holding the Mets to six hits.

The Braves came up with five runs in the ninth inning in snapping the Phillies' winning streak at seven games. Joe Torre and Denis Menke hit homers in the ninth after the Phils had come from two runs back in the sixth. Torre's homer wae his 27th of the season.

Sandy Koufax became the major leagues' first 18-game winner as Los Angeles jumped on Houston early and often. Koufax left the gamae after six innings, though the Dodgers were quick to say that nothing was wrong with him, they just didn't want him to over exert himself. Sandy struck out 10 Astros in those six innings.

Two Snyder Net Teams At State

AUSTIN—Snyder still had two doubles tennis teams in the state Texas Amateur Athletic Federation Tournament at noon Saturday with a chance to advance to the final rounds.

Gary Gallman and Max Falls defeated Steve Stever and Vasquez, the No. 1 team of Corpus Christi, 6-3, 6-3. They were to meet McClary and Smith of Waco in the quarterfinals Saturday afternoon.

Ken McAllister, Snyder High School tennis coach, teamed up with John Knissen, coach at Amarillo Palo Duro, and they were to play their first doubles match against Driscoll and Calderon of the University of Texas in the mens playoffs.

Gallman did well in the boys singles, advancing to the quarterfinals with victories over Terry Frankel, the No. 2 boy from Austin, (6-4, 6-4), and Cox, the No. 1 boy from Grand Prairie (6-3, 6-3).

Gary lost his quarterfinals match to Mertz of Corsicana, 6-2, 6-1. He was one of only eight boys from among 30 who survived their first two singles matches.

Casper Ain't Much For Show, But He's Loaded With Dough

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Casper doesn't let it bother him that people refuse to "oh" and "ah" every time he steps up to a tee and that he lives in the almost constant shadow of the Big Three — Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player.

"I suppose I just don't exude showmanship," the mild, soft-speaking Californian says. "People say I lack color. Some even call me an old grouch on the golf course.

"Actually, to me golf is a business — it's my livelihood. It's like going to the office and working from 9 to 5. I apply myself. I try to concentrate. I don't notice much around me. I'm not putting on a show.

"After I'm through I can relax and laugh it up. But on the golf course, no. It's not my way."

No man in the sport perhaps has achieved so much with so little credit as this good-looking, 35-year-old Navy veteran from San Diego who is known to most golf followers as a wizard putter and a onetime fat man who lost 50 pounds on buffalo meat, avocados and other exotic foods.

At the moment Casper may well be the best golfer in the world. Many think so. His record says so. Palmer, a year older, has a gaudier past. Nicklaus, nine years his junior, may have greater potential. Nobody has a better present.

Casper's victory at Indianapolis last week made him the first golfer to take four victories on the tour this year. He is the season's leading official money winner with $97,915. He has the best scoring average, the true criterion of excellence, with 70.438 through the PGA championship.

He is second only to Palmer in career tournament victories, 33 to Arnie's 45, and also second only to the Latrobe, Pa., millionaire in all-time official money winnings, $569,914 to $714,799, but he is catching up fast.

Casper secured his position among golf's Goliaths this year when he rallied from seven shots back on the final nine holes to tie Palmer for the National Open Championship at San Francisco and then beat Arnie by four shots in the playoff.

"It meant a great deal to me to win this second Open," said Casper, who captured his first in 1959. "If you win one Open, they can say it was an accident. If you win two, they have to say you deserved it."

Wenden Swims Fast For World Record

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—Michael Wenden has competed in only one event in the British Empire Games and so far has set one world record, helped set another and grabbed a gold medal.

"Would you believe that I could do so much in my first international match?" the tall, blond 16-year-old from Australia asked Friday night.

He and teammates Peter Reynolds, David Dixon and Bob Windle had just set a world mark of 8:07.3 in the 880-yard men's freestyle relay.

And Wenden, who swam the first 220 yards, was timed in 1:57.4, another world mark. It is allowed for consideration as a world record because it was on the first leg.

A Canadian team of Elaine Tanner, Jane Hughes, Louise Kennedy and Marion Lay also established a world mark, 4:10.8 for the women's 440-yard freestyle relay.

Those were the only two finals on the opening day of competition, but Wenden set a games record of 54 seconds flat in winning his heat of the 110-yard freestyle. Other game records set — heats included 2:49.7 by Jill Slattery of England in the 220-yard breaststroke and 4:59.8 by Peter Reynolds of Australia in his heat of the 440-yard freestyle.

John Graham of Pearlsburg, Va., will captain Army's indoor and outdoor track teams in 1967.

Jets, Namath Think Eastern Pennant Is In Their Grasp

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

PEEKSKILL, N.Y. (AP) — There are three little words on Joe Namath's lips.

No, the New York Jets' $400,000 quarterback and highly eligible bachelor isn't altar-bound. His goal is simply:

"Win the championship."

Namath fires the three words back when asked about the Jets chances in the American Football League this season, and there's little doubt that an air of confidence rings the training camp — right up to Coach Weeb Ewbank.

"We think we can go all the way," said Ewbank, although qualifying it with 'if we get the breaks."

Ewbank makes it sound realistic, but all the Jets have to do is completely turn around their 5-8-1 record of last year and upend the defending league champion Buffalo Bills before they can even hang up the Eastern Division pennant.

The flip-flop largely hinges on Namath's progress in his second season and three trouble spots — center, middle linebacker and tight end. All, however, could be solved. How well they are solved probably will determine where the Jets finish.

Here's how the trouble spots look at a glance:

Center — Veteran Mike Hudock was lost to Miami in the expansion draft, leaving John Schmitt, a 22-year-old in his third season, as the lone holdover. But rookie John Matlock of Miami, Fla. could wind up with the job.

Middle linebacker—The guy to beat is Al Atkinson, who played behind Wahoo McDaniel most of last season, now that Carl McAdams, the $325,000 rookie from Oklahoma, is out for most of the season with a broken ankle. McAdams suffered the injury while walking down a Chicago street on a sightseeing tour.

Tight end—Gene Heeter, the holdover veteran, has retired following a second knee operation during the off season. The big guy here could be Bill Yearby of Michigan, the Jets' No. 1 draft choice who is being converted from tackle. Another star rookie is Pete Lammons from Texas.

Namath's No. 1 target, however, will remain flanker Don Maynard, who tied for the league lead with 14 touchdown passes last season. The split end post is up for grabs beteen George Sauer, a rookie last who has impressed, and Jim Colclough, acquired from Boston in the trade for John Huarte.

Matt Snell and Bill Mathis will handle the running back chores unless rookie Emerson Boozer of Maryland State makes enough progress to push his way in. A breakaway runner, Boozer could turn out to be the perfect complement for Snell.

With the exception of center, the offensive line is manned by veterans, Winston Hill and Sherm Plunkett at tackles and Dave Herman and Sam DeLuca at guard.

Flanking McAdams or Atkinson at the outside linebacking spots will be veterans Ralph Baker, and [illegible] Grantham with the front four held down by Verlon Biggs and Gerry Philbin at end and Paul Rochester and Jim Harris at tackle.

The defensive backfield holdovers are Clyde Washington and Bill Baird at the corners and Ray Abruzzese and Dainard Pajlson at safety. Also figuring are Cornell Gordon, a rookie last year, and Sherman Lewis, former Michigan State star returning from two years in Canada.

Lewis not only could grab a defensive backfield spot but add some punch to the kick return teams if he can manage to survive while weighing only 158 pounds.

Packers Insult Stars With A 38-0 Victory

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—"Revenge?" Vince Lombardi mulled the question, then said:

"I don't believe in the word. I can't remember as far back as 1963."

But everyone knows that elephants and Vince Lombardis never forget, and in 1963 the College All-Stars whipped Lombardi's Green Bay Packers 20-17.

So even Lombardi had to admit that the boys were really up for this one" when they completely crushed the richest assemblage of All-Star talent in history 38-0 Friday before a crowd of 72,000.

The National Foooball League champions not only matched the biggest previous shutout in the 33-game series while amassing 388 yards on the ground and in the air but also throttled their own million-dollar babies, Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski.

The two Packer rookies, Anderson with a $600,000 price tag and Grabowski with a $300,000 label, handled the ball seven times between them and wound up gaining 24 yards.

While Grabowski and Anderson were being embarrassed, the two running backs they hope to replace, Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung, combined with quarterback Bart Starr as the Packers rolled relentlessly through the All-Star defense.

Taylor ripped off 75 yards in 15 carries and scored on runs of one and 13 yards. Hornung carried nine times for 44 yards and set up one touchdown before he had the wind knocked out of him and left. Starr completed 13 of 22 passes for 177 yards, hitting Boyd Dowler with a 10-yard touchdown pass and firing a 13-year scoring strike to Bill Anderson.

The other Green Bay touchdown was scored by Herb Adderley on a 34-yard run with an interception. Don Chandler kicked a 17-yard field goal.

The All-Stars, unable to penetrate past the Green Bay 45 in the first half while Steve Sloan of Alabama and Billy Anderson of Tulsa were handling the quarterbacking chores, had their biggest moment in the third quarter when Missouri [illegible] Gary Lane raced 57 yards to the six.

The Packers, however, stiffened and took over with the ball on the 13.

Lane, the property of the NFL's Cleveland Browns, defensive back Nick Rassas of Notre Dame and Atlanta of the NFL, and defensive back Rodger Bird of Kentucky and Oakland of the American League were among the All-Star standouts.

Packers Not Out For Revenge?

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The Green Bay Packers contend they weren't out for revenge when they manhandled the College All-Stars 38-0 Friday, but their victory might prove to be a costly one.

Donny Anderson, the Texas Tech halfback who received $600,000 to sign with the Packers was limping in the All-Star dressing room after the game.

Anderson, who started out as a flanker back, suffered the injury the first time he carried the ball as a running back.

The Packers, who were defeated 20-17 by the All-Stars in 1963, were up for this game although Coach Vince Lombardi discounted any thoughts of revenge.

"Revenge? I don't believe in the word," said Lombardi. "I can't remember as far back as 1963, but the boys were really up for this one."

Fullback Jim Grabowski of Illinois, who got nearly $300,000 for signing with the Packers, called the All-Star performance a little embarrassing.

"I sure wish we had gone a little better than we did," said Grabowski. "It got a little embarrassing out there. But I'm sure glad I'm going to the Packers. They're a real good team."

Head Coach John Sauer of the All-Stars couldn't hide his disappointment, but he dismissed all notions that the Packers were trying to run up a score to avenge their 1963 loss.

"Vince isn't that kind of a guy, and I know he wouldn't do anything like that," Sauer said.

"Green Bay is a good team, and they had all the psychology going for them. I can't cry about our loss. We knew we had weaknesses, and we tried to cover them up the best way we could.

"There are certain things you need in a game like this, and we didn't have them. You just can't go out and get other players.

"Our pass protection fell apart, and we didn't expect that, because it had stood up in practice."

FRAMED — Marty Fleckman of Port Arthur, Tex., appears to be partoftree trunk as he hits from the rough on the second hole during the second round of the Western Amateur Golf Championship at Pinehurst, N.C. Fleckman, the leader after the first round, fell two strokes off the pace with 36-hole total of 142. (AP Wirephoto)

Rodgers Out Of Cleveland Open

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports riter

CLEVELAND (AP)—Gay Brewer, who holds a share of the halfway lead, thinks there are 15 or 20 players who still have a good shot at winning the $100,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament.

But Californian Phil Rodgers won't be among the contenders.

The rotund, 28-year-old Rodgers, fifth leading money-winner on the pro tour, looked like he would be with Brewer and Bob Goalby Friday after all three finished with 36-hole tooals of 135.

But Rodgers was disqualified for failing to sign his scorecard.

"That means get out of town, huh?" Rodgers asked after he was told of his boner by a Professional Golfers Association official. Rodgers was near tears as he packed his gear in the locker room.

It marked the second time this season a tournament leader got the bounce for failing to observe the rule. Doug Sanders was disqualified after the second round of the Pensacola Open after he had built a four-stroke lead. Rodgers was in the same threesome with Sanders that day.

Only three strokes separate Brewer and Goalby from the 15 nearest pursuers for the $20,000 first prize. And only five shots back of the front-runners are the ever-dangerous Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper.

"The field is really bunched, and this is the type of course where somebody can get hot quickly," Brewer noted.

Par or better was shot by 66 players Friday over the Lakewood Country Club's par 36-35—71, 6,777-yard layout, with Goalby getting a 67 and Brewer and Rodgers firing 68s. The original field of 144 was cut to 77 for the final 36 holes Saturday and Sunday.

Biggest name among the casualties was Sanders, No. 2 on the money list, who finished with a 72-74—146. A score of 143 was needed to survive the cut-off.

One stroke back of the pacesetters at 136 were Johnny Poot and veteran Julius Boros, who shot a dazzling 64 Friday for a course record.

Clay Defends Heavy Title

LONDON (AP) — World heavyweight champion Cassius Clay defends his title against brawling Brian London of Britain at Earls Court indoor stadium tonight and the bookies reckon Clay should win by a mile.

At 6-1 against, London, a 32-year-old veteran with a face like a dented dustbin, is being written off as a lost cause.

London arrived from his Blackpool training camp Friday night and confessed to being a bit nervous.

"Nervous—but great," he added.

Clay looked so relaxed that some observers felt there was a danger he might go to sleep on the stool.

The fight is Clay's second in London within 10 weeks. He stopped British heavyweight champion Henry Cooper on a badly cut eye in round six of their title encounter May 21.

Clay's manager, Angelo Dundee, predicted that the champion will end it somewhere between rounds seven and 11.

Clay himself, no longer the loud-mouthed campaigner but a bored, relaxed practicioner, declines to make his own forecast.

He made it clear, however, that he expects to win and be able to keep his next fight date with Germany's Karl Mildenberger at Frankfurt Sept. 10.

Clay will pick up $28,000 for that little outing.

Against London he is guaranteed $252,000 plus expenses and ancillary rights. London can hope for about $112,000.

The fight is being televised live in the United States via the Early Bird Satellite starting at 5 p.m., EDT.

Samuel King Jr., class of '69, will manage Yale's indoor track team next winter. He's from Honolulu.

The 1967 Masters golf tournament has been set for April 6-9.

McCoy Leads Girls To Third In Slalom Try

PORTILLO, Chile (AP)—Penny McCoy, a 16-year-old from Bishop, Calif., says it was a combination of fear and determination that drove her down the crucial second run in the World Alpine Championships.

Penny, who led the American competitors with a third-place finish in the women's slalom Friday, recalled her thoughts at the starting line of the second run.

"Oh, boy, this is terrible," she said she thought. "I don't have a chance now."

But with that, she said, a calm settled over her and she plunged through the 52 gate course for the second time, good enough for a combined time of 92.35 seconds and third place.

Annie Famose and Marielle Goitschel of France finished one-two, with times of 90.48 and 90.95 respectively. Jean Saubert, McCall, Idaho, was fourth at 92.37; Cathy Allen, San Pedro, Calif., fifth at 92.72; and her sister, Wendy, eighth at 93.44 in the field off 44 from 11 nations.

Washington Downs Orioles; Detroit Blanks Red Sox

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles were wild about Jim Hannan, but they certainly don't want to miss Bob Humphreys again.

The Orioles jumped on Hannan for two runs on three walks, a wild pitch and a grounder in the first inning, then were stymied by Humphreys and his strikeout pitch for the next seven innings as they bowed to the Washington Senators 4-2 Friday night.

Hannan started the first by walking Luis Aparicio. He walked Russ Snyder before getting the first out, then loaded the bases by walking Brooks Robinson. Aparicio raced home on Hannan's wild pitch, and Snyder came across as Boog Powell grounded out.

When Hannan started the second inning with a walk to Dave Johnson, Senators' Manager Gil Hodges brought in Humphreys.

The right-hander proceeded to retire 11 Orioles in a row.

In all, Humphreys allowed just two singles while striking out eight in seven innings.

In other AL games, Detroit blanked Boston 2-0, Chicago defeated California 3-1, Cleveland edged New York 5-4 before bowing 3-0 and Kansas City trimmed Minnesota 4-2.

In the National League, Cincinnati nipped Pittsburgh 4-3, Chicago stopped San Francisco 4-3 in 10 innings, Los Angeles clobbered Houston 12-1, St. Louis whipped New York 7-1 and Atlanta slugged Philadelphia 9-2.

Detroit's Earl Wilson pitched a five-hitter for his first victory against his former Boston teammates. The Tigers backed him with two runs in the fifth inning, the first scoring on Don Wert's single and the second on Dick Tracewski's sacrifice.

Gary Peters also fired a five-hitter in Chicago's triumph over California. Tommie Agee and John Romano supported Peters with home runs.

The third five-hitter of the night went to New York's Steve Hamilton, who blanked Cleveland in the second game. Tom Tresh's three-run homer in the fifth won it for the Yankees.

The Indians took the opener as Leon Wagner drove in three runs with his 17th homer and a single. Clete Boyer homered for New York and knocked in a third run with a single.

Danny Cater paced Kansas City's victory over Minnesota. He singled and scored in the fourth, singled for a run in the fifth and singled across another in the seventh.

Sonics Can't Buy Runs

By The Associated Press

There is an old baseball saying when a club is in a slump that it can't buy a hit.

Hits are no problem for the Amarillo Sonics; it is the runs they can't buy.

The Sonics got a dozen hits Friday night but lost 3-2 for the third straight time to the Austin Braves. That brought their hit total for the three games to 38.

Amarillo scored only 12 runs in the three games but left a staggering 26 runners on the bases. Austin scored 19 runs and left 22 stranded with 14 of those coming in Thursday night's game.

While second-place Amarillo has been losing so had Texas League-leading Arkansas. The Travelers dropped their fifth in a row Friday night, losing to Albuquerque 5-3 as the Dodgers' Bill Larkin tossed a four-hitter for his 16th victory.

In the other league game, left hander Fred Norman pitched a three-hitter and struck out 12 as Dallas-Fort Worth defeated El Paso 4-0. It was the third shutout for Dalla-Fort Worth pitchers in their last five games.

Norman, getting his second straight shutout, raised his strike out total to 162 in 151 2-3 innings pitched. The Spurs got 12 hits, all singles.

A two-run homer in the sixth inning by Austin's Glen Clark erased Amarillo's 2-1 lead and provided the winning margin.

Albuquerque's Larkin, bringing his record to 16-6, did not give up a hit until Larry Stubing doubled in the fifth. Larkin contributed to his victory by doubling in one run in the second inning anad scoring a few minutes later.

Season Grid Ticket Sale Begins Here

Last year's season ticket holders have one more week to claim their same accommodations in Tiger Stadium for the 1966 Snyder High School football season.

Letters went out several days ago to all persons who purchased season tickets last year, said E. D. Flynn, school business manager. They were notified by the letters that they have until Aug. 15 to reserve the same seating facilities they had last year.

Season tickets cost $7.50 each for the five home games of the Tigers.

After Aug. 15, all tickets will be earmarked for sale to the general public beginning Sept. 1.

The Tigers have two non-conference games and three for the local stadium. Andrews and Stamford will come here for non-conference clashes, while Levelland, Littlefield and Sweetwater will play District 3-AAA games here.

In more than 30 years as president of the National Baseball Congress, Ray Dumont says he has never been on the playing field while a national tournament was underway in Wichita.

United States, Mexico To Meet In Zone Tennis Finals

By RICHARD H. SMITH
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — The United States and Mexico, each with new talent as well as a veteran of past challenge rounds on its four-man team, meet here Aug. 13 14-15 in the American Zone finals of the Davis Cup tennis matches.

The setting, the Harold T. Clark Stadium, is the same as in 1964 when the Australian team featuring Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle carted off the big silver bowl which still remains in the land Down Under.

There's a new and harder surface on the court for the coming matches, and the U.S. team captain, George MacCall, likes that. His team is pitting power and big service against the quickness on which the Mexican team capitalizes.

There also will be one less section of stands this year, but sellout crowds of about 6,000 are expected all three days. Promoter Bob Malaga said that would make the upcoming American Zone matches the biggest ever played from an attendance standpoint.

Drawings will be made Friday, Aug. 12, to determine opponents in the two singles matches opening play Saturday. A doubles match on Sunday is followed on Monday by two more singles matches.

Last year the U.S. defeated Mexico 3-2 in the American Zone finals.

This year's match shapes up as another close one, with neither team rated a big edge.

"When you're playing only a couple of guys, anything can happen," said MacCall, 48-year-old Los Angeles insurance man and former airline navigator who is in his second year as U.S. Davis Cup captain.

"You can get quite a head of steam if you win a first day's match you weren't expecting to win."

The players are scheduled to begin pre-match warmups at 1:45 p.m. EDT each day, with the opening service coming aust before 2 p.m.

The winner of the matches here will meet Brazil in the interzone semifinals in October, and the winner of that match has one more hurdle to clear before a trip to Australia for the Challenge Round.

So far on the 1966 Davis Cup trai, the U.S. team holds a 4-1 victory over British West Indies, and Mexico a 4-1 victory over Argentina.

The Davis Cup veterans of the two teams are Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., the No. 1 U.S. singles player, and Rafel Osuna of Mexico City. They've met on the court many times, and, Osuna said: "He's beaten me more than I've beaten him."

Although he just turned 24 last month, Ralston is in his sixth year of the international compeition.

"People forget he hit the big-time at 17," MacCall said. "If he were to start on a winning string, he could go many years yet."

Osuna, 27, is participating in his seventh Davis Cup quest. He is coaching three youthful teammates — Luis Garcia, 18, of Yucatan; Marcelo Lara, 19, of Mexico City; and Joaquinn Loy-Mayo, 20, of Vera Cruz.

The U.S. team includes with Ralston his partner in the No. 1 U.S. doubles team, Clark Graebner, 23, of Beachwood, Ohio; Cliff Richey, 19, of Dallas, Tex., who holds a No. 3 U.S. ranking; and Marty Riessen, 24, of Evanston, Ill., ranked No. 8.

Graebner had a No. 13 ranking in last fall's ratings, but "this year he'll have to be put among the first five," MacCall said. "Graebner's worked extremely hard this year and acquired the experience for big years ahead."

Neither MacCall or Osuna would give the doubles line-up. The U.S. captin said it could be Ralston-Graebner or Graebner-Riessen. For Mexico Osuna could be paired with Lara or Loyo-Mayo.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

ACAPULCO, MEXICO — Napping in the golden sunlight on the beach of this Pacific resort.

No matter how many times you come here, you are always ready to come back. This is the Riviera of the Americas. The resort center of the Pacific.

So we were talking with some real estate gentlemen about the retirement industry here. But it seems that Acapulco is set up for fun and frolic rather than retirement.

There are a number of folks who have abandoned work and other sinful practices to live here. Mostly upper bracket types who live with the international set.

The real estate gentlemen say there is a reason. Hotels are on the expensive side for retired living. And most of the available housing is held back and rented by the day or week to tourists.

The hustling little city has good schools and fine super markets. It has doctors and shops of all sorts.

Main thing, say the real estaters, is the housing. You may come across a place you like if you drop down and look around. Right location and the right price.

But they are few and far between.

Still, the climate and setting make it an ideal place to live if you can swing a deal. And have the necessary.

Food is higher than in most parts of Mexico because a good deal of it is shipped in. But you can go to the public market any buy fresh fish and vegetables. Go early in the morning. Also, you have plenty of fruit available the year around.

Most of the foreign residents here are well heeled and shop in the supers. They have everything for you.

There are several good schools here in the primary division but for high school you'd have to send the kiddies to Mexico City or Cuernavaca. My 18-year-old began learning Englsih at The McGregor School here back in the '50s. And they did a competent job.

In general, the cost of living of Acapulco is higher than most parts of Mexico. It is compensated for by folks who work here and have a higher ineome.

The retired people, however, present another story. Come down on a railroad pension or social security check and you probably would have some problems.

Much more than other sections of the country which do not run a year around campaign for the tourists $ $ $ $.

Average retired couples seldom pick a resort center so what are we complaining about. You still find it a marvelous place to visit and lie in the sun.

On the other hand, if you have an oil well or ranch back home that gives you a modest income, this is a fine place to swing in a hammock and stroll up and down the beach. You often can make a long term deal on a house, the owner of which would rather have it rented full time for less per day than for short periods.

In other words, Acapulco has a little of everything for everybody who is funning around. But for retirees, the poor folks who like it quiet would probably be happier somewhere else.

Cover Costs $8 A Night

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP) — Two go go dancers have testified each would lose $8 a night by covering up.

Nevertheless, a police court jury found the women guilty Friday of public indecency and unbecoming behavior and fined them $50 apiece.

The jury deliberated 1¼ hours before returning the verdicts against Mary Ann Chapman, 21, Henderson, and Barbara Warner, 28, Evansville, Ind.

Fred Thomas, owner of the Silver Dollar discotheque, said he will appeal to the Court of Appeals, Kentucky's highest court, if necessary.

Thomas, testifying in the dancers behalf, said they have danced in flesh-colored tops since summonses were served by Police Chief Charles West.

This, said Miss Chapman, costs the girls $8 a night, since their nightly covered wage is $12 compared with $20 for topless.

Prosecutor Ned King told the jury the girls performed at the club "naked above the waist except for gimmicks at the ends of their bosoms."

Texas Solons Eye Water Diversion

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. Reps. George Mahon and Richard White said Friday they will seek a $300,000 study on the feasibility of diverting water into West Texas from the lower Missouri-Mississippi River system.

"It is vital that the Congress recognize the continuing water requirements of the Southwest, and develop water supply and management policies to remedy shortages," they said in a statement.

"It is important that every source for new water supplies for West Texas be investigated, including the great resources of the Missouri-Mississippi River system."

Mahon, Lubbock, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, and White, El Paso, said they understand the Reclamation Bureau could make tentative studies such as the one they propose if money is made available.

They said they may try to have money for the study included in a supplemental appropriation bill later this year.

If the study indicated such a diversion were practical, more funds for a detailed study and planning would be sought. Construction money would be the next hurdle.

The Reclamation Bureau estimated the initial study cost at $300,000.

Think Child Was Poisoned

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—A judge has ordered the body of an infant girl who died in 1962 exhumed and examined for possible arsenic poisoning, after the mother was charged with fatally poisoning her husband.

Dist. Judge Byron Matthews Friday ordered a pathologist's report made on the 2½-month-old Rita Jean Trammell after hearing testimony from a physician who saw her at her death.

Dr. J. M. Stewart testified he refused to sign the death certificate of the infant without an autopsy, saying he could not rule out the chance the baby had been poisoned.

Mrs. Jean Trammell, 25, was charged with murder in connection with the July 14 arsenic death of her husband, Patrick Wayne Trammell, 25.

Trammell's sister, Mrs. Margarite Cook of Dallas, told Matthews at the hearing Friday she noticed similar swelling about the eyes in the bodies of the infant and of her brother. She showed color slides of the infant while healthy and after it was dead and in a casket.

Twelve living relatives of the Trammells are being tested for arsenic traces in their body.

Stars' Offsprings Assess Situation

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is being a star's son a help or a handicap to a young actor?

Both, say Noel Harrison and Randy Kirby.

Noel, 32, singer, actor, Olympic skier and son of Rex Harrison, adds: "For a while I thought I'd never have an identity of my own. Then I realized most clearly that part of my identity is being Rex Harrison's son."

Says Randy, 23, stage actor, radio and television commercial performer and son of television's Durward Kirby: "It's no longer a hindrance. Now it's a help."

The two sons are working together in the first television series for bath—"The Girl From U.N.C.L.E.," programming outgrowth of the man from same.

Harrison, whose acting heretofore was in repertory and bit parts of five English movies, plays a secret agent who with Stefanie Powers battles the evil forces of THRUSH. Kirby plays a trainee spy.

Each only slightly resembles his father. London-born Harrison has shaggy, dark blond hair, large blue eyes and gracious manners. His nose was broken in skiing, a sport in which he represented England at the 1952 and 1956 Olympic Games.

His parents were divorced when he was 6, but he calls his father, since married three times, "a good friend." Did Rex Harrison give him any advice? "He advised me at some length, when I was 12, not to go into show business — then probably decided I wasn't going to take his advice."

Five Killed In 2-Car Collision

BRONSON, Tex. (AP)—Five persons were killed and four others were injured in a fiery two-car collision on U. S. 96 one-half mile north of here Friday.

Killed were Mrs. Ivy Clark, 30, of Bronson and her daughter, Sandra, 12; Samuel E. Watts, 16, Robert L. Lacey, 23, and Miss Exa Velma Wade, 22, all of San Augustine.

Authorities said another daughter of Mrs. Clark, June, 8, reached inside the burning car and pulled her brother, Tim, 5, to safety.

The other two Clark children were injured as were Shirley Mae Davis and Mrs. Corine Wade, mother of Miss Wade.

Many of the bodies were burned beyond recognition, officers said.

Salt herring must be washed and soaked overnight in water to cover before using.

133 Oil Wells Are Completed In Week

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission reported Saturday 133 oil wells and 48 gas wells were completed during the past week.

This brought the total for the year to 4,518 oil wells, compared to 4,186 last year, and 1,293 gas wells, compared to 1,600 a year ago.

There were 146 wells plugged, including 67 dry holes.

Eleven wildcat oil wells were drilled during the past week—four in Dist. 7C, three in Dist. 2, two in Dist. 8 and one each in Dists. 4 and 7-B. There were 12 wildcat gas wells—six in Dist. 4, three in Dist. 2 and one each in Dists. 3, 8 and 10.

Say Salt Is Coming From Oil Wells

BIG SPRING, Tex. (AP) — Contamination from oil wells is endangering water supplies, Central and West Texas officials said Friday in testimony before the House Inland Salt Water Pollution Control Committee.

G. L. Hamilton, Kent County commissioner, said the water is "already contaminated."

Hamilton said a heavy outcropping of salt water was spoiling much of the Brazos River quality. Upstream dams to prevent pollution from infiltrating lower regions, he said, would prevent much of the contamination.

Nolan County oil pits are effecting municipal supply lakes at Sweetwater, Aubrey Simpkins, water superintendent, said. He said the polluted water was seeping underground and flowing into the city's water supply.

The Railroad Commission is too short-handed to properly oversee orders banning open disposal pits for salt water out of oil wells, said Roy D. Payne, director of field operations for the commission.

Payne said the next legislature should be asked to appropriate money for 30 more field men.

Payne and Gerald Fugit, Ector County judge, said the commission should have greater pollution powers to stay on top of the pollution control.

Race Is On For Queen Of Fiesta

Three candidates for Queen of the Sixteenth of September Fiesta have been announced.

Dates of the Fiesta celebration this year will extend from Sept. 15 through Sept. 17.

In the contest for Fiesta Queen are Sara Garcia, Gloria Rios and Janie Rosas. Residents may cast votes for the favorite queen candidate and the public is invited to attend the fiesta.

There will be dancing nightly at the Benitez Pavilion, with well-known combos providing the music. Those needing further information on the fiesta plans should contact Martin Benitez.

Three Will Share Award

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission's $50,000 Fermi Award will be shared by a European woman scientist and two West German university professors who laid the groundwork for the splitting of the atom.

The awards, announced Friday, go to Prof Otto Hahn, 87, a Nobel Prize winner living in Goettingen, West Germany; Prof. Fritz Strassmann, 64, of Mainz, West Germany, and Prof. Lise Meitner, 87, a native of Vienna now living in England. She is the first woman to receive the honor.

Each will be given a one-third share of the $50,000 cash prize, a gold medal and citation.

The award was created in 1954 to honor the late Dr. Enrico Fermi under whose direction a group of scientists achieved the first nuclear chain reaction in Chicago in 1942.

Hahn and Strassmann published result sof experiments in 1939 showing that the nucleus of a uranium atom can be split. About the same time, Prof. Meitner was reporting that a uranium nucleus was sometimes split by absorbtion of a neutron, one of the basic principles in the chain reaction theory.

Business In Texas Hits All Time Peak

AUSTIN (AP) — Business in Texas reached an all time peak for the second consecutive month in June, the Texas Bureau of Business Research said Saturday.

Dr. Francis Kay, statistician for the University of Texas agency, said however:

"The boom has lost some of its steam.

"This does not mean that a downturn in general business activity in the state is imminent. During the 64 months since the current cyclical upswing began, the boom has slowed for one or two quarters, only to surge upward again. With a war in progress, a downturnnin general business activity is unlikely although some sectors heavily dependent on an abundant supply of credit are feeling the pinch of tight money."

The bureau reported an increase in business activity of .1 of a percentage point over May's record figure and 6.2 per cent above June of last year.

The bureau reports showed that in the 20 Texas cities used in judging state business activity eight reported advances during June, two were unchanged and ten declined.

For the first half of the year, 18 of the 20 cities showed substantial higher rates of business activity.

Business activity in the cities for June and for the year to date included:

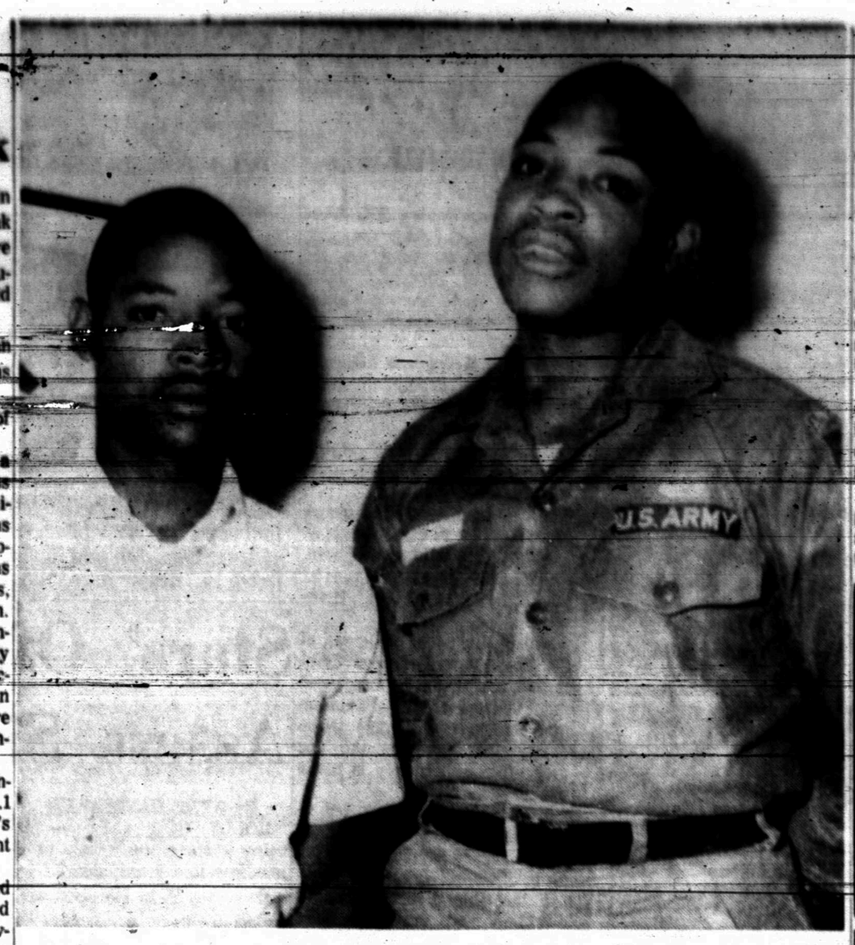

Abilene up 1 per cent for June and up 5 for the year; Amarillo down 4 and up 9; Austin down 6 and up 3; Beaumont up 6 and up 12; Corpus Christi up 9 and up 5; Corsicana down 8 and up 11; El Paso down 2 and down 2; Fort Worth down 5 and up 6; Galveston down 3 and unchanged; Houston up 10 and up 10; Lubbock unchanged and up 4; Port Arthur up 16 and up 8; San Angelo down 1 and up 9; San Antonio down 6 and up 10; Texarkana down 3 and up 14; Tyler unchanged and up 4; Waco up 2 and up 8; Wichita Falls down 6 and up 9.

Charles Deere At Ft. Hood

Sp. 4 Charles R. Deere has been reassigned to Fort Hood, following a tour of duty in Viet Nam, according to a letter from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Deere, who are living temporarily in El Paso.

The Snyder soldier will receive a leave and will visit his parents in El Paso and friends and relatives in Snyder. The combat veteran is a brother of Sgt. Donald R. Deere, who was listed as missing in action by the Defense Department following a battle near the Cambodian frontier. Sgt. Deere was on duty with the Green Berets at the time he was listed as missing in action.

Mrs. Deere said they received a letter from the Adjutant General of the Army in which he said U.S. forces still are searching for Donald.

Girls Start Drive To 'Save Beatles'

London (AP) — Two American girls called on Britons today to support their "Save the Beatles campaign" in the United States.

Their appeal in an ad in the personal column of the Daily Telegraph, came as the "Ban the Beatles" campaign spread to Spain and South Africa and a new controversy stirred up in Britain.

The American girls are Susan Dobbs and Theresa Earles of Hopewell, Va. Their ad said they had founded the "Save the Beatles campaign" in the United States.

It went on: "Dozens of radio stations across the states are banning their records and having bonfires, because of a statement by John Lennon. We have a petition to get them back on the air. Please, England help us, we love them, too."

The 12-line ad cost the girls $33.60.

Lennon's quote in a five-month-old interview which has offended some disc jockeys and others in the United States was:

"Christianity will go. It will vanish and shrink. I needn't argue about that: I'm right and it will be proved right. We're more popular than Jesus now. I don't know which will go first — rock 'n' roll or Christianity.

"Jesus was all right but His disciples were thick and ordinary. It's them twisting it that ruins it for me."

So far about 20 U.S. radio stations have banned Beatle records. The ban is spreading to other countries.

Brian Epstein, manager of the Beatles, said in New York the British singers will fulfill their American engagements starting next week despite the "Ban the Beatles" move.

Epstein said Friday, "they will arrive in Chicago as scheduled on Aug. 11" for a 19-day tour.

Meanwhile, Beatle George Harrison stirred up more trouble. In an interview with a musical paper he commented on the British government and its proposal to ban pirate radio stations which pump out pop music and lard in commercial advertising which is banned on British airwaves.

He was quoted as saying: "Why don't they make the crummy BBC (British Broadcasting Corporation) illegal as well. The government makes me sick. This is becoming a police state. They should leave the pirates alone. At least they have had a go which is more than the BBC have done."

Brothers Visit Before Viet Nam

Two Snyder boys who are becoming useful citizens held a reunion here this week. They are Sam Davis and Cornelius Davis, sons of Anderson Davis.

Sam recently returned to Snyder after completing a course in the operation of heavy equipment cranes at a Job Corps School in Michigan. Cornelius recently completed training in the U.S. Army Paratrooper School at Ft. Bragg, N.C.

Sam hopes his training at the Job Corps School provided him with the necessary training to enlist in the U.S. Army. He will make an application to take the test this week. Cornelius will return to duty at Ft. Bragg and ultimately be sent to Viet Nam, where he hopes he can be of further service to his country. He's stationed on permanent duty with the 82nd Airborne Division.

Another brother, Thomas Davis, recently returned from Viet Nam where he saw service as a gunner on a helicopter crew. He has been reassigned to Camp Polk, La.

LA Firm To Acquire Permian Corporation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An agreement has been reached for Occidental Petroleum Corp. of Los Angeles, to acquire Permian Corp. of Midland, Tex.

The companies said Friday that Permian stockholders would receive three-fourths of a share of Occidental stock for each Permian share. The agreement is subject to approval by both boards of directors.

Permian, which markets crude oil in 18 Midwest states, had sales of $282,736,000 and earnings of $4,207,000 for their fiscal year ended May 31.

Occidental, developer of oil, gas, sulphur and phosphate resources and manufacturer-distributor of fertilizers, had sales of $200,370,000 and earnings of $14,334,000 for the fiscal year ended last Dec. 31.

Two Vehicles In Mishap Friday

Officers investigated a two-vehicle mishap at Twenty-fifth Street and Avenue N at 12:10 p.m. Friday.

Involved were the 1955 Chevrolet pickup of William A. Cooper, Jr., Clairemont Road, and the parked 1962 Model Volkswagen of Robert Lee Jones, Snyder. Damage to the car was estimated at $70.

Minor damage also resulted from a one car accident at Sunset and Avenue. The car of Scott Harmon, Lubbock, had damage estimated at $45. The mishap occurred at 5:04 p.m. Thursday.

Scattered Showers Fail To Ease State Rain Need

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Spotted rain has failed to relieve the widespread need in Texas for moisture, says John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Only limited areas had enough.

Ranges grew brown under heat and drought but grazing is still sufficient in most areas to keep livestock in good condition.

The hot, dry weather is maturing earlier crops with some grain sorghum harvesting under way in the Rolling Plains (Vernon) and the first bales of cotton ginned in the southern part of Central Texas. Corn and rice also are being harvested.

In their midweek summaries, the service's district agents gave Hutchison their appraisals:

Scattered rain over the Panhandle helped, but overall hot and dry conditions continue. Irrigated crops made good progress, but dryland crops need rain. Ranges are below average. Some cattle are being moved, others are being fed.

South Plains (Lubbock) moisture is short to very short. Irrigated crops made excellent progress but dryland cotton needs rain now and most dryland sorghum is under severe drouth stress. Castor and soybeans and sugar beets are making good progress. The vegetable harvest is active. Stock water is ample but ranges are very dry. Irrigation goes on at capacity.

The Rolling Plains need moisture. Cotton growth and fruiting is slow. Sorghum is being harvested. Stock water is needed in many counties.

Scattered showers in North Central Texas helped but the overall moisture situation is getting critical. Cotton on the lighter soils is suffering, but most crops are still in fair condition. Ranges and livestock are in good condition.

Scattered rain in Northeast Texas helped parched pastures, but they and all crops need a soaking rain. The peach harvest reached the peak and cotton prospects are good.

Dryland crops and ranges in far West Texas are suffering from drought. Irrigated crops made good progress, but cotton insects increased. Good onion and cantaloupe yields are reported. Labor is short.

Moisture is short to very short in all West Central Texas. Cotton is blooming and insect infestations are light. Sorghum prospects are below average due to lack of rain and heat. Good hay yields were reported for the nearly complete harvest. The peach harvest was about 75 per cent complete. Yields were good but prices are depressed.

In Central Texas, scattered showers have been the only moisture of late. The sorghum harvest is making good progress. Yields from early plantings are good. Dryland peanuts need rain. A heavy movement of peaches and grapes is occurring and pecans ar eshedding from natural causes in Brown County. Pastures are brown.

Moisture is short to very short with only scattered showers during the past week in the Nacogdoches district. Drought has reduced corn and hay yields and is browning pastures. Insect damage to cotton is continuing. The pecan crop is developing well.

Moisture in Southeast Texas ranges from very short to adequate. Cotton is opening and the rice and sorghum harvests are picking up. Pecan prospects are spotted. Labor is needed for harvesting.

Except for coastal counties, moisture is short in South Central Texas. Cotton and peanuts made satisfactory progress.

The dry, open weather in South Texas pushed the sorghum harvest to the 50 to 95 per cent complete stage and aided the opening of cotton. From 2 to 10 per cent of the Valley's cotton has been harvested and it is opening in the Coastal Bend area. Labor ranges from adequate to short.

Project For Aged Living Is Surveyed In New Book

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

A FUTURE FOR THE AGED. By Frances Merchant Carp (University of Texas Press, $6.50).

Ever since the days when the elderly lady sat in the corner by the fireplace and knitted, the big question among many younger parents has been "What are we going to do with mama?"

Urban life is not conducive in all instances to taking an elderly parent into the childrens' homes as residents. Often the personality conflicts were too great for any involved to find happiness.

Then there are the elderly without children and whose incomes are so low they must live in squalid quarters with primitive facilities.

Victoria Plaza in San Antonio was designed for persons up in years. And it gave investigators and social workers an excellent opportunity to investigate a host of problems.

The investigations were carried on through help of the Hogg Foundation for Mental Health, the University of Texas, Trinity University and the federal government.

Purposes: To determine who would fit into a low-rent housing project for the aged, and if they were admitted, what effect it would have on their personalities.

Everyone, including sons, daughters and parents, must face the fact that elderly persons sometimes are querulous, complaining, domineering and outspokenly critical.

Too often their income is minute and they move into hovels, there to finish their lives in bitterness and loneliness.

This was what the investigators found when they interviewed applicants for Victoria Plaza. Their questions were in depth. Very few received any money from their children, if any, and some even sent money to their offsprings.

Then one year after the residents moved into the sparkling new high rise building, the change was as the author says, dramatic.

Those admitted were required to have fair health for their age, although illness was a pre-occupancy common complaint, obviously psychomatic, and to not possess any traits which would be generally unacceptable. One man, for instance, insisted on moving about the plaza in the semi-nude. He was finally asked to leave.

Main complaints came from the men who had no wives. They were so overwhelmed with food gifts from the widows or spinsters that they didn't know what to do.

One question a year before the plaza opened was whether the individual considered himself elderly, aged or old. They all described themselves as such. After a year at the plaza, they largely upgraded their status to that of "middle-aged."

Those who were not admitted were questioned, for test purposes, at the same time the now-established plaza residents were queried. Those who lived as in the past showed no improvement in their outlook.

But those at the plaza dressed better, were more alert, mixed with other persons, held more pride, generally had found happiness in better quarters and companionship. They did find costs a little higher because of more rent and because they wanted to improve their furniture, clothing and themselves.

The book is written in language anyone can understand, which is somewhat unusual for this sort of survey. And it is almost a key handbook for those who must be administrators in any capacity for private or government housing for the elderly.—The AP

THE CROSS TIMBERS, By Edward Everett Dale (University of Texas Press $4.75).

The Cross Timbers of Texas are a sort of indefinite geographic location, starting somewhere around Dallas and extending west to the Colorado River.

It was a favorite of early settlers, for there was plenty of timber, and as one man said, all a woman had to do was walk across the soil and she became pregnant, so rich was the land.

To compensate, it took many months and years of sawing and grubbing to clear the ground for farming.

What it was like to live in this part of the country and build a farm is told in a new book, "The Cross Timbers," by Dr. Edward Everett Dale, research professor of history, emeritus, of the University of Oklahoma.

The big mystery of the book is in the ending—in a wagon going west. How did a youth with almost no formal schooling ever become a professor? The book doesn't say.

But although this is a personal narrative of the West in the 1880s, it is not very much the story of a man's life.

It is the story of how people worked, ate, played, and prayed in that period of Texas. Actually there was little change until automobiles and tractors revised the face of the earth.

It is extremely well written. And it proves that not all the West was wild. It puts things in perspective. Without detracting at all from the book at present, it appears it will be more valuable 50 years from now than at the moment.—The AP

Gardener's Corner

By EARL ARONSON

IF YOU HAVE yearned for a fountain in your backyard, you can set one up yourself if you have as little as $20, a few materials and muscles.

There are now an estimated 500,000 display fountains in this country's private gardens or yards, up from 10,000 in 1960, according to one report.

The boom is attributed largely to sharply reduced costs. And the fountain fancy has been influenced by the magnificent water displays at the World's Fair in New York and by increased travel to Europe.

A Dallas, Texas., company (Hydrometals Inc.) has patented a recirculating nugget pump that stands 3½ inches high. The pump, with brochure, is being sold by department stores as part of a do-it-yourself kit for $20.

Most of today's fountains are of the so-called jet stream type in which water rises from water. With the underwater nugget pump, water is recirculated, an important factor in water-short areas.

The tiny pump not only is unobtrusive, but it leaves no problem in some fountains. It has a thermal overload protector that shuts off the motfrioit tor that shuts off the motr if ito becmes to hot.

A hedge and shrub trimmer with cutting edges on both sides of the long cutter bar is on the market to accelerate gardener' work.

The tool (by Rockwell) is double insulated and housed in breakproof thermoplastic to protect against electric shock. It weighs only 5¼ pounds, is powered by a ¼ horsepower motor. The trimmer has a pruning saw attachment that makes quick work of branches up to 1¼ inches thick.

If you are giving a potted plant as a gift, go all the way and provide a matching red clay saucer. The saucer not only will protect furniture from water staining but it will give the plant a more finished look.

The clay pots are porous to give plants good drainage and an air supply. But the saucers are now waterproofed to prevent moisture from seeping onto floors and rugs and to catch excess water.

When planning for a summer excursion in the out-of-doors, a first thought should be first aid. Try to anticipate accidents or injuries that maay occur and include appropriate supplies in your first aid kit. Girl Scouts all over the country begin with this basic list for treating common out-of-doors mishaps:

Bites, stings. . . .bicarbonate of soda (dissolved in water)
Blisters. . . .soap, adhesive dressing
Burns. . .sterile dressing
Fainting. . . .aromatic spirits of ammonia, inhaling capsules
Plant poisoning. . .soap, calomine lotion
Cuts, scratches. . .soap, adhesive compresses, sterile dressing
Sprains. . . .triangular bandage
Splinters . . . package of needles, matches for sterilinzing.
Any emergency. . .small pair of scissors, safety pins, change for telephone call, first aid book.

Flake canned salmon and add to mashed potatoes; shape into patties; dip in slightly beaten egg and bread crumbs and fry until heated through and browned.

Repotting Tip

When repotting plants to larger clay pots, be sure that top soil is below the lower portion of the pot rims, and that at least an inch of soil covers the tops of the plant roots. Then if watering should wash some of the soil to one side, the roots will still be covered.

Grind the last of that baked ham for a sandwich filling. Use either mayonnaise or sour cream with which to moisten the ham. If mayonnaise is used, season with pickle relish; if sour cream is used, you may want to season with prepared horseradish or prepared mustard.

Trim Nancy Reagan Finds Self On Fringe Of Battle

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Mom, can I have a popsicle?," asked 8-year-old Ronnie.

Nancy Reagan said he could.

"Mom, can I get a guitar?"

"We'll talk about it later, honey."

This dialogue is not from the life of Nancy Reagan, ex-debutante, ex-actress, in the role she says she likes best — homemaker.

She is the wife of Ronald Reagan, Republican candidate for governor of California who will try to thwart the third term bid of Democrat Edmund G. Brown at the Nov. 8 general election. If he wins, Reagan could become an important figure when Republicans gather to pick a national slate for the presidential election in 1968.

Nancy Reagan, daughter of a Chicago brain surgeon, is a handsome, brown-eyed woman of 43 who has been married to Reagan, 55, for 14½ years.

As Nancy Davis in movies, she says, "I usually played the wife" — including, once the wife of George Murphy, now U.S. senator from California. She quit films upon becoming Reagan's real-life wife.

Mrs. Reagan likes to work in her garden, give dinner parties for eight or ten good friends, including the Robert Taylors, and ride horseback at the Reagan ranch.

Now, however, she finds herself in the thick or at least the hot fringes of political battle. "When you have children, you have to divide yourself."

When the Reagans appeared jointly during the California primary campaign, in which Reagan won the GOP nomination by a landslide, she let her fluent actor husband do all the speechmaking. But there were teas and coffee hours where Nancy was the sole attraction, and —

"I had to make speeches. I said I never would — I like to just sit and talk. But I'd get up and tell how we got involved, why we're doing it, the importance of the two-party system and the importance of men other than politicians becoming involved politically."

Her audiences see a trim, 5-foot-4 figure weighing 109 pounds.

Her mother, Edith, once was a New York stage actress. Nancy was president of the dramatic club at Girls' Latin School, Chicago, and majored in drama at Smith College, Northampton, Mass.

Deciding on an acting career, she went to New York and got a job as engenue in "Ramshackle Inn" with Zazu Pitts. Next came "Late Song" with Mary Martin, "Cordelia" and "The Late Christopher Bean" with Miss Pitts. A television performance in "Ramshackle Inn" led to an MGM contract.

Producer Mervyn LeRoy brought about the meeting of the Reagans, telling Nancy, "I think you two should know each other."

"Ronnie called and asked me to have dinner but, never having seen me, protested himself by saying he had an early call the next day," Nancy said. "I said I had an early call, too.

"During dinner he said, 'Why don't we see the first show at Ciro's?' It was Sophie Tucker. During the first show he said, 'Why don't we stay and see the second show?' We got home about 2 a.m."

They had another date the next night and a year later were married.

Reagan previously was married for eight years to actress Jane Wyman. They had two children.

The Reagans live at suburban Pacific Palisades in a magnificent contemporary home they built nine years ago on a shelf carved into the Santa Monica Mountains. The feeling is outpool, lush shrubbery and vast visa visible through wall-size windows containing, incidentally, two cracks from sonic booms.

How does she feel about the possibility of becoming California's first lady?

"Oh, my. That's like another question people ask me — what my pet project would be. I've always said I can't answer that. I think it would be presumptuous of me. You cross one bridge at a time."

Stroganoff Style Shows Off Round

When you want to go fancy with beef round steak, cut it in strips and plan to serve with sour cream and noodles from a chafing dish. That's the idea behind Beef Stroganoff.

Round steak is easily cut into strips for this dish, advises meat authority, Reba Staggs. Select steak that's cut one-half inch thick, then use a sharp knife for the strips three inchdes long and one-half inch wide.

After the round steak has been browned and cooked with a small amount of water, add the ingredients as indicated. When it's finally placed in a chafing dish, then is the time to add sour cream and heat gently so it does not curdle.

Beef Stroganoff

3 pounds round steak, cut ½-inch thick
2 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup lard
¼ cup water
2 cans (4 ounces each) sliced mushrooms, drained
1 teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cups dairy sour cream
1 package (8 ounces) medium noodles, cooked

Cut round steak into strips about ½ inch wide and 3 inches long. Combine flour and salt and dredge meat in seasoned flour. Brown meat in lard in fryingpan. Pour off drippings. Add water cover tightly and cook slowly for 1½ hours. Remove meat from frying-pan, add mushrooms, paprika, pepper and butter or margarine. Cover and cook slowly 2 to 3 minutes. Add meat, fold in sour cream. Mix well. Cook until heated through, but do not boil. Serve over cooked noodles. 8 to 10 servings.

Woman Sheds Her Veil

By JOE McGOWAN JR.

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — Miss Kubra Nourzai shed the Moslem veil, obtained a Western education and now has become Afghanistan's first woman cabinet member.

As Health Minister in the government of Prime Minister M. H. Maiwandwal, Miss Nourzai has attained the highest position held by a woman in the history of this tiny, landlocked country.

Her story is typical of the change sweeping across Afghanstan today— a change as yet incomplete and marked by stark contrasts.

Ultra-modern marble and glass multi-story office buildings are rising alongside mud-walled huts without electricity or running water, whose occupants live virtually as ther ancestors did when Alexander the Great and his army came to rule.

Women in short skirts and spike heels walk to work in government offices alongside others whose husbands still require them to wear the sack-like veil called a chaderi" whch covers them from head to ankles.

"I wore the chaderi until 1958," says Miss Nourzai. "I went to Paris that year and I left it behind."

She did post-graduate work in France in administraton and education, earning a master's degree.

"When I came back to Kabul, it (chaderi) had disappeared enough that I felt no need to put it back on," Mis Nourzai says.

The stay in Paris, plus subsequent travel in Europe and a three-month visit to the United States seem to have had their effect on this young Afghan woman.

Miss Nourzai appeared fully westernized when she was interviewed in her office one afternoon recently. She was wearing a snugly tailored suit, a short sleeve overblouse, nylon hose, spike heels, a bouffant hairdo— AND sunglasses.

Her office, carpeted with a collection of Afghan rugs— showed a distinct woman's touch. It was liberally furnished with pots of flowering plants and vines.

It also had wall charts showing the status of various health projects under way in this country, which is just beginning to step into the 20th century.

Afghanistan is a country the size of Texas, with about 14 million people, some 95 per cent of them illiterate. It is bounded by Iran, the Soviet Union and Pakistan, with one small corner touching Communist China.

"We have a lack of doctors and of medical facilities," Miss Nourzai points out. "We have severe problems in environmental sanitation, preventive medicine and safe water supplies."

She points out that statistics are generally unavailable in Afghanistan (there has never been a census) but that the average life expectancy is estimated to be 35 years. "We hope to improve this figure rapidly," Miss Nourzai says optimistically.

"Malaria is virtually under control now. We are working on mass vaccinataion for smallpox. We are making advances against cholera and many other diseases."

The Health Ministry, like most others in the Afghan government today, is confronted with staggering problems and hampered by a shortage of funds and trained personnel.

Miss Nourzai is an example of how rapidly a well educated person can advance in this country today. The ministries are largely staffed by young people recently returned from western —and Russian — universities. Six months ago Miss Nourzai was head of the Kabaul University home economics department.

"There is NO opposition to women in government," Miss Nourzai says. "There are a lot of women on the university faculties and we have a number of lady doctors."

In this country, where the people once overthrew a king who tried to ban the chaderi, Miss Nourzai says, "In time the veil will disappear from Afghanistan."

TO WED — Mr. and Mrs. James P. McWaters of Cleveland, Tex., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Wanda Carolyn, to Steven Gordon Free, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Free, formerly of Snyder. The couple will be married on Sept. 10 at 4:30 p.m. at the First Methodist Church in Cleveland.

Yeasty Old Girl Of Upper Crust

MUZZY. By Chrles W. Thayer.

Three or four generations ago, before someone (probably a psychologist or a social worker) invented the idea that adolescents are people (and hence a vast market for businessmen), adults managed to run their affairs without any nonsense from the young.

And because the adults weren't bothered by the absurdity of letting their offspring "develop their personalities," they had plenty of opportunity to develop their own. The result was that at least a few of them became delightfully wilful eccentrics, who ran the world about them with an Elizabethan flair and a confident assurance that the world was their oyster.

This is a book about such a personality, a really cool one, a Philadelphia lady with the right connections (Philadelphia is, or was, as much concerned with right connections as snooty Boston). The account is told wittily by her son, and inevitably it will remind some readers of Clarence Day's "Life with Father."

Thayer depicts his mother as an indomitable Old Girl with a voracious zest for living. Accustomed to upper-crust status, she kept right on after the death of her husband. She set her six children the proper example of a fighting spirit; she played so-called touch football with them so vigorously that visiting members of the Princeton varsity finally were forbidden to take part, for their self-protection.

She clung to an ancient social ritual of the tea party, but helped circumvent Prohibition. She conquered the Model T as if it were a horse, and preferred jet travel to steamships. She badgered the servants but treated them with feudal benevolence. She made maddeningly female demands upon everyone in sight, but took family crises in nonchalant stride.

The author has Alexander Woollcott's relish for a good anecdote. The household he describes is less riotous and more genteel than the one in "You Can't Take It with You," but equally individualistic. With traditional upper-class understatement—a powerful, inverted form of upsmanship—he portrays a life-enhancing, zany figure from among yesteryear's memorable days.

Here's Idea To Pep Up Barbecue

Barbecued onions are a delicious accompaniment for grilled meats, such as steak, hamburger, chicken or beef roasts. They are grilled right on the barbecue so there are no extra dishes to wash.

The onions are barbecued individually with a buttery-blue cheese spread. Zesty American blue cheese lends a piquant flavor accent. Hot pepper sauce is added for extra-zip and liquid smoke gives an authentic 'barbecued" taste.

BARBECUED ONIONS

8 medium onions
½ stick butter (¼ cup)
¼ cup crumbled American blue cheese (about 1¼ ounces)
4 drops hot pepper sauce
¼ teaspoon liquid smoke

Peel and quarter onions. Reter. Mix remaining ingredients together. Place blue cheese-butter mixture in center of onions. Wrap each onion securely in heavy-duty foil. Grill over hot coals or in bed of charcoal for 25-35 minutes.

Varied Careers For Goree Girls

Editor's Note: It looks from the outside like a well-protected girls' college. The interior is bright and pleasant. But inside are nearly 400 women, there for committing just about every crime in the book. Late figures show 117 are there for murder, one serving a total of 500 years in prison. A report on the Goree prison for women.

By The Associated Press

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — At first look, it seems that a sculptor has been at work in metal, a sculptor with a penchant for geometric design.

But try to get through the sculpture. You can't without a key.

The attractive metal bars serve the same purpose as the starkly horizontal and vertical bars of most prisons.

For this is a prison for women, designed particularly for the presumably higher sensibilities of the sex, in a prison system which in recent years places emphasis on rehabilitation instead of monotonous confinement or punishment.

The prison system, with its new emphasis, has changed its name to Texas Department of Corrections.

The prison with the artistic bars is the Goree Unit for Women, just outside main headquarters at Huntsville.

Latest published reports show 377 inmates, of which 117 are serving time for murder, 111 for forgery and the remainder for a variety of other crimes.

None is in a death cell. Texas never has executed a woman in the electric chair. Back in 1863, Chepita Rodriguez was hung for murder, as much by a vigilante band as by organized government depending on which history you read.

Some women have been assessed death, but the sentences were commuted and one died before her execution.

The latest and most attractive Goree unit was opened in 1965. The women's prison unit first started as a collection of shacks, and although new units were built during the years, overcrowding was a problem until the new structure for 204 women was constructed.

Mrs. Velda Dobbs, the warden, sends about 200 women back to the outside world each year. But new ones arrive almost daily.

Not many women are repeat offenders. This unit lists 267 first offenders, and only 12 are in the prison for the third time. Education, counseling and a pre-release program are credited with the low return rate.

The majority of the women are between 26 and 30 years of age, and 70 per cent have less than a seventh grade education. The oldest inmate is 73. One woman is sentenced to 500 years for murdering her family.

Auxiliary Of VFW Meets

The Scurry County Ladies Auxiliary of VFW Post No. 8231, held a regular business meeting Aug. 1 with vice president Bonnie Lemora presiding.

A letter from Thomas Davis was read by Viet Nam chairman Ethel Sowell. It congratulated the Auxiliary and Junior Unit for the gift box that they had sent to him in Viet Nam.

A report was given on the department convention which was held at Houston. Delegates from the VFW Post and its Ladies Auxiliary attending the convention were Mr. and Mrs. George Norris, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Spivey, Mr. and Mrs. Bob McKinney, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Don Ginbey, Mrs. Mary Franks, Mrs. Ethel Sowell, Mr. Jack Sparks and Rev. Truman Bennett.

Between the Post, Auxiliary and Junior Unit, Snyder won several awards from the department. Mrs. G. T. Sowell was appointed to serve as Chairman of the Junior Girls Units for the department in the coming year.

The Auxiliary Patriooic Instructor, Mrs. Pearl Beasley, was installed by District 8 president, Ethel Sowell.

Eleven members were present and will meet again Aug. 15.

VFW Junior Girls Honored At Party

Mrs. Joe Holcomb hosted a party for the VFW Junior Girls Unit in honor of the Unit's first birthday Aug. 2.

Cake and punch were served to 17 guests which included some parents of the Junior Girls.

The French sometimes couple tomato and pineapple in a poultry dish. Borrow the idea and grill baked tomatoes and sliced pineapple to serve with broiled chicken. Nice indoors or out!

LIBRARY NOTES

Read any good books lately? How about coming by your Scurry County Library and selecting a few from the following new listings.

"How To Shake The Money Tree" by Robert Metz. This book is the intelligent man's guide to borrowing and credit buying.

"That Great Pattillo" by Joseph E. Garland, Captain Pattillo was one of that raw, fiery breed of men born with the sea in their blood and a fight in their fists. This book is more than one man's colorful biography—it is also a fascinating account of the once-great American fishing industry in the days of sail, when life was flavored with salt fish and rum and freshened with a breeze o'wind.

"Cissy" by Paul F. Healy. She was Cissy Patterson, of the wealthy and formidable newspaper clan, founder of the Chicago Tribune and of New York's Daily News. She had hitherto been known chiefly as a socialite. Cissy's biography is both a fascinating story of a cyclonic woman and a lively, anecdotal account of the newspaper world in its most colorful era.

"Treasure of Kenya" by Malcolm MacDonald. In this engaging book, over 150 of the familiar and less well-known African birds and beasts are described and illustrated in some of the most magnificent color photographs ever taken in the wild. The author is a skilled self-trained naturalist who writes about the creatures he has observed with enthusiasm and verve, and hsi comments about their habits and behavior are shrewd and entertaining.

New fiction: "It Only Hurts a Minute" by Don M. Mankiewicz; "Heretic" by Alison Maclean; "Champion of Sourwood Mountain" by Billy C. Clark; "Catherine" by Hilda Lewis and "Best Is Yet To Be" by Bentz.

New mysteries: "House on Greenapple Road" by Harold Cunningham; "13 Ways to Dispose of a Body" by Basil Davenport; "Faceless Enemy" by Frances Wees and "Johnny Under Ground" by Patricia Moyes.

If there is one thing the prospective home buyer isn't lacking, it's advice. It comes from anywhere and everywhere.

Two of the more interesting recent statements on the subject come from such widely divergent authorities as a motivational research expert and the president of a savings and loan association. The motivational research authority, Dr. Ernest Dichter, says the shrewd seller "caters to the hidden influences as well as the more obvious ones." And the president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of New York, Wesley J. Bahr, thinks most home buyers don't spend enough time studying the characteristics of the neighborhoods in which they plan to live.

What are these hidden influences Dr. Dichter is referring to? For one thing, he says, many builders make a mistake by reducing the sizes of rooms "when in fact it is against the wishes of the future home owner." In conducting a study of home buyers for Weyerhaeuser Company, he discovered that it's not only for space reasons that people these days want larger asserts, "space means freedom, growth and prosperity, and people resent being denied the full gratification of these basic desires."

A house, according to Dr. Dichter, has masculine and feminine domains. The woman worries about style and color, while the man looks at a house wondering what he will have to repair and how often he will have to paint. (When that painting time arrives, home owners will benefit from Andy Lang's booklet, "Paint Your House Inside and Out," available by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 954, Jamaica, N.Y. 11431.)

Bahr advises prospective home buyers to take a more careful look at neighborhoods. He says the age of the community's dwellings 'are less important than the outward evidence they are well maintained." He points out that "nearby homes in disrepair can ultimately downgrade the value of the best - maintained individual home."

As a general rule, Bahr thinks "home buyers would be wiser to compromise on issues of exterior styling or interior decorative features in order to find a home with basically good location values, than to overlook negative elements in the neighborhood because the home design seems just right." He adds that the common-sense approach is to purchase a home that is generally priced within the average represented in the neighborhood, avoiding the highest and lowest extremes.

"A home buyer, he explains, "may select a standout lavish, expensive home in the midst of moderately priced homes and find it a source of pride, but it could be a source of concern or monetary loss in the event he wants to sell it at a later date."

QUESTION: My hobby is buying second - hand furniture, removing the old finishes and putting on new ones. My wife recently told me I had to get rid of some of the renovated pieces of furniture we had around the house, as it was getting too difficult to move. I sold two tables, a bureau and a cabinet—an now have received an order to redo a vanity for a neighbor.

But she wants it refinished in a very bright color, like the blond finishes you sometimes see in modern furniture. I assume that means I will have to bleach the wood—and that is one aspect of wood finishing I have never attempted. Is it difficult, and do you think I should try it?

ANSWER: If done carefully, bleaching wood is something that almost anyone can attempt. Since you already are experienced in the finishing of various kinds of wood, you should do better than most. Our recommendation is to buy a commercial bleach and not try a home - made mixture, even though we have seen some good results with the latter.

Follow the directions very carefully, especially regarding the use of rubber gloves, old clothing, etc., as a bleach is a strong chemical solution. We are sure you know that bleach must be applied only to raw wood, which means that all the old finish must first be removed.

Also, since the chemical may damage any metal on the outside of the vanity, be sure all hardware is removed before you begin, as you probably will do in any case before using varnish remover.

REID-MORRIS ENGAGEMENT TOLD

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Reid, Lubbock, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth, to Mr. Troy Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Morris of Snyder.

The couple will marry at 2 p.m. Sept. 3 in the Ford Memorial Chapel of the Baptist Church in Lubbock.

The bride-elect is a 1963 graduate of Lubbock High School, attended Wayland Baptist College, and is a senior home economics major in Texas Tech. Morris graduated from Snyder High School in 1961 and is now attending Texas Tech. He is employed by Shop-Rite Foods in Lubbock.

To the star-spangled American boss

—And others who deserve it for doing a favor that you might not have thought about

Hats off to the many presidents and managers of companies who helped build the Payroll Savings Plan into what it is today—one of the most popular and easy ways to save money.

These business leaders provided the facilities and manpower necessary to operate the Plan—plus their own enthusiastic endorsement. And never stopped to count hours or pennies.

Thanks to them, over 8 million Americans—their employees—are building security and helping their country through this automatic savings plan.

There are others who have helped other millions of Americans own a share of their country. Volunteers in every walk of life. Folks in radio and TV, movies and the theater. Newspaper and magazine and billboard folks. And Bond "salesmen" in thousands of banks and savings institutions.

Buy Bonds at your bank, or on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, and you'll see what a good idea it is.

And the next time you see your boss (who helped make it so easy for you to save)—thank him.

He deserves it—from all 190 million of us.

Dawshans Are Vital To Tribal Life

By ABDULATIF EL MAY

SANAA, Yemen (P) — No single word can describe them. They are tribal spokesmen and one-man supreme courts, but they are of the lowest caste and live apart from other men.

They can trace the ancestral lineage of a whole tribe, but know nothing of their own origin. They instruct prospective grooms among the tribal nobility how to behave with their brides, but can never marry above their station.

"They" are the Dawshans, a class of Arabs who are indispensable to tribal life in this remote country, most of whose inhabitants are tribesmen.

Dawshan is derived from an Arabic word meaning noise, or uproar, but strangely enough, the Dawshans are a quiet people.

Every major tribe employs one or more Dawshans, and despite their low caste, they are highly regarded. The blood money if one of them is murdered, for instance, is set by tribal law at about $33,000, ten times the amount allotted a regular tribesman.

When two tribes are at war—a regular fact of life in this country of gun-toting fighters—it is the Dawshan who is in charge of peace talks, prisoner exchanges or payment of ransom. Every word he says is considered to be spoken by the entire tribe he represents, and cannot be retracted.

Many Dawshans can memorize messages thousands of words long and recite them without missing a preposition.

In war, the Dawshan is the flagbearer and is immune from harm, because 'a tribesman tarnishes his hands and dagger if he sheds the blood of a Dawshan," in the words of a tribal chief.

Although the Dawshan is the final recourse when a tribal court cannot settle a dispute, he himself can never testify at anyone's trial, because being of low caste, he cannot appear before a judge.

Dawshans earn a meager living from fees paid by bridegrooms who consult them before the wedding night on how to behave. The Dawshan's wife—called a Dawshanah—instructs the bride.

Dawshans usually live in woolen tents on the outskirts of a tribal encampment, surrounded by their camels, donkeys and watchdogs. Their clothes and other belongings are usually inherited from the dead, and they get a share of the crops belonging to a dead person.

Bristling Berlin Wall Is Near Its Fifth Birthday

By HUBERT J. ERB

BERLIN (AP) — The bristling wall dividing Berlin will be five years old Saturday. Few believed it would last when it was built.

But there can be no doubt that the wall and the adjoining barbed wire fences that encircled West Berlin have achieved their primary purpose. What was once a flood of fleeing refugees has been reduced to a trickle.

Before the wall, West Berlin was an open hatch for refugees already barred by patrols and barbed wire from crossing the West German frontier 110 miles away. Refugees came to East Berlin and simply crossed over, provided they were willing to leave behind everything they could not carry.

They came by the hundreds of thousands.

Even after the wall, they kept coming—through tunnels under the wall and in cars and trucks to smash through the wall. They climbed the wall, crawled inch by inch past guards, dogs, watchtowers, trip wires and patrols, or swam border streams, often in the hail of bullets. At the very beginning, people jumped over from buildings at the border, some to their deaths. As the risks went up, the numbers who came went down.

The Saturday before that Sunday when the Communists started building their barriers, a refugee was registered in West Berlin every 40 seconds. Over that weekend 6,624 came across, many in panic, as though they sensed it would be their last chance. In 1961 up to Aug. 13, some 155,000 people poured through the open hatch.

That day, workmen protected by tanks and guns began unrolling hundreds of miles of barbed wire along the East-West border in Berlin.

Thousands of angry West Berliners threatened to tear away the wire with their bare hands. Communist armored cars, bayonets and water cannon drove them back.

On Aug. 15, masons started building the actual wall that was to become an iron and concrete curtain some 15 miles long running through the heart of Berlin, anchored on either end to 85 more miles of barbed wire.

The lack of sharp Western reaction is still a sore point to many a Berliner. A West Berlin attorney said recently that if the U.S., British and French forces responsible for West Berlin "had rolled tanks over the border to stop the wall from going up, nothing would have happened."

Said an East Berlin professional man with close connections to the Communist regime: "Even we here never expected the Americans would let the wall go up, much less stand. With the wall, I for one gave up hope for (German) reunification."

Perhaps the ugliest crisis stemming directly from the wall came when East German border guards shot a 17-year-old East Berlin refugee, Peter Fechter. He was left to bleed to death at the base of the wall.

West Berliners were incensed, not only at the Communists, but also at the Americans, who, they felt, should have gone to Fechter's aid.

There is now a cross with a black flag at the spot. West Berliners place wreaths there all year long, as they do at other border points where refugees were killed.

The wall death toll is variously estimated up to a total of more than 150. West Berlin police, however, put the confirmed death toll at 58 and give Confirmed wounded — 52. Known seized—2,215. Incidents where Communist guards opened fire — 1,065. Incidents where West Berlin police gave covering fire to refugees—1. East German soldiers known killed, including three trying to escape—5. Uniformed East German soldiers who have fled—465. Total refugees registered since the wall—about 5,000. Total refugees since the postwar division of Berlin—about 1.6 million.

That the Communists intend to keep their barriers up has been pointedly illustrated since last year. They have started erecting what they call their "modern border," using a new, slick and prefabricated concrete wall or wire mesh fence.

A stretch of the new 10-foot-high wall already stands behind West Berlin's Reichstag building. To make escapes harder, the new wall is rounded at the top.

Air Conditioning Of Cars Booms

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — An estimated 8 million automobile owners are making use of air conditioning this summer.

The rapid development and acceptance of the summer comfort units has caused one expert to speculate air conditioning may lead to revolutionary changes for automobile design and mechanical equipment.

George J. Liddell of the Sun Oil Co. automotive laboratory says industry activity indicates more cars will be equippped with integrated heating, cooling, dehumidifying, filtering and ventilating systems to provide total atmospheric conditioning.

"As people learn to take advantage of this system, they will drive continually with the windows closed, so why have windows that open at all?" Lindell asked recently while discussing future trends.

"With glass set permanently, flush with body panels, wind whistle from the outside will be reduced materially and, using the space now taken by window lifts, ducts can distribute conditioned air around the interior. Then, cooling may be accomplished electrically instead of mechanically, cutting the complication and weight under the hood."

Liddell, writing in his company's "Our Sun," acknowledges some of these changes will come soon, others much later, if ever.

"Even if they were all here today not everyone would take advantage of them—100,000 new 1965 cars didn't even have heaters!" he said.

But Liddell is impressed by the fact the air conditioner is the fastest growing automobile accessory today even though it was not until 1953 that a purchaser could buy an air conditioned car "off the shelf."

"The public acceptance of air conditioning in cars has astounded even its most optimistic proponents of a few years back," he said.

"One of every four new-car buyers today orders air conditioning, while 10 years ago it was only one of 40."

Liddell said the 2 million factory installations plus nearly 500,000 "tack-on" after market units represented more refrigeration capacity than all of the window air conditioning units sold for home and office use.

He points out, however, that an automobile refrigeration unit is big enough for a five-room house and weighs as much as two extra passengers or five suitcases full of clothes.

This very desirable summer comfort, Liddell says, is not free.

"All of the heat removed from the car's interior must be rejected outside; the engine may overheat unless its cooling system has ample capacity," he said.

"Without tinted glass all around, the cooling load can be excessive. Undersized or underinflated tires will take a beating. When a car is ordered from the factory with air conditioning, all of these items have been considered, but any one of them can cause problems if a unit is installed later.

"Finally, power to drive the unit may cut gasoline mileage a little—perhaps a mile or two per gallon.

Junior Editors Quiz on BIRD SONGS

QUESTION: Why do birds sing?

• • •

ANSWER: When you see a bird singing away with the enthusiasm of the little house wren in our picture, you might think he's singing just because he loves it. He probably does like to sing, but there are other reasons for that bright tinkling flood of melody. Inside that wren house is a Mrs. Wren, and soon there will be small wrens to care for. No doubt Father Wren's singing did help persuade Mrs. Wren that he'd make a good husband. But she probably thought of the practical side, too. She knew that when the family came, they would be extremely hungry. She didn't want other wrens getting the insects her family would need for food, and Father Wren felt exactly the same way. He had looked the general area over and had picked out a certain part for a hunting ground. He knew exactly what bushes, trees and paths marked out its limits. He is singing as loudly as he can so that other wrens will understand that they are to stay away from his particular territory. He's telling them to leave his special crop of food alone.

Refrigerator-Rising French Bread

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: I read with interest your recipe for refrigerator-rising bread. Now I wonder whether you have a recipe for French bread that can rise in the refrigerator. I often bake French bread the usual way for company suppers and always have a problem in timing so that it will be crisp and hot from the oven when I'm ready to serve. It seems to me that of all homemade yeast breads, French bread is the one for which it would be most helpful to have a recipe using the refrigerator method.—Mrs. L. R.

DEAR MRS. L.R.: You asked for a recipe I wanted myself, and one which I believe is bound to interest many other cooks. So as soon as I ferreted out the following rule for Refrigerator-rising French Bread, we tried it in my test kitchen, and I'm delighted to pass it along. This recipe makes two excellent loaves—Their interior is more compact than regular French bread, but their crust is crisp. The baking may be timed so the bread will be ready and hot at the moment you want to offer it.—C.B.

REFRIGERATOR - RISING FRENCH BREAD

2 cups warm water
2 packages active dry yeast
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon salt
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
5½ to 6½ cups unsifted flour
Cornmeal
Salad (not olive) oil
1 egg white
1 tablespoon cold water

In a large warm mixing bowl; dissolve the yeast in the warm water. Add sugar, salt and butter. Stir in 2 cups of the flour. Beat with a rotary beater (electric or hand) until smooth—1 to 2 minutes. Add 1 cup of the flour. With a wooden spoon, beat vigorously until smooth—about 150 strokes. Work in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto a lightly floured board and knead until smooth and elastic—about 10 minutes. Cover with plastic wrap, then a towel; let rest on board for 20 minutes.

Punch down dough; divide in hal. On a lightly floured board, roll each portion into a 15 by 10-inch rectangle. Beginning at the 15-inch side, roll up tightly toward you; seal edges by pinching together. Taper ends by rolling gently back and forth. Place loaves on a large greased cookie sheet sprinkled with cornmeal. Brush loaves with salad oil. Place plastic wrap over tops; do so cover loosely; do not tuck wrap under cookie sheet or loaves will be too tightly covered. Refrigerate 2 to 24 hours.

When ready to bake, remove from refrigerator. Carefully uncover the loaves; let stand for 10 minutes at room temperature. With a greased toothpick or metal skewer, puncture any gas bubbles that may have formed. With a razor blade, make 4 diagonal cuts on top of each loaf. Bake in a very hot (450 degrees) oven for 25 minutes. Remove from oven and brush with the egg white mixed with cold water. Return to oven; bake 5 minutes longer. Makes 2 loaves.

FRENCH BREAD, made by the regriferator-rising method, will be all ready to bake just when you need to serve it.

Planning Designed

PASADENA, Calif. —Four engineers, graduates of the California Institute of Technology, became concerned about the vanishing natural beauties of California and decided to slow the process down.

They formed the ASD Corporation—for the analysis, search and development of land— in 1959. Their philosophy has been that land planning can be done in a way that won't create "instant slums."

Current projects include a shopping center in Fairfield, 40 miles north of San Francisco, it will be entirely air-conditioned. ASD's preliminary economic studies have reversed Fairfield's plans for expansion from east to westerly direction and the relocation of a golf course.

In a residential area in Claremont, 35 miles east of Los Angeles, the firm used underground utilities, mushroom-type street lights and insisted that each home have its own patio and graden and enough space outside to separate children's play from adult diversions.

Now the company is planning to develop 1,000 acres of rolling hills near the Mojave Desert for a retirement community.

Marinate Ribs, Put On Rotisserie

One of the impressive sights on the out-of-doors grill is a rack of spareribs woven on the rotisserie rod. As if that weren't enough, there's also an unforgetably savory aroma that wafts its way to all the diners.

Appetites will be in high gear for a spareribs feast so it's best to plan three-fourths to one pound of this pork cut for each person, according to meat expert, Reba Staggs. If a large rectangular pan is used for marinating them, it will hold a rack or two nicely.

Spareribs will turn readily if they are "threaded" evenly on the rod.

Tasty Spareribs

3 to 4 pounds spareribs, cut 4 to 6 inches wide
1½ cups catsup
½ cup soy sauce
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
⅛ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 clove garlic, minced

Combine catsup, soy sauce, Worcestershire sauce, hot pepper sauce, lemon juice and garlic. Pour mixture over spareribs and allow spareribs to marinate 10 to 12 hours, turning after 6 hours. Weave spareribs on spit of rotisserie. Cook according to instructions with rotisserie. When cooking in rotisserie oven of range, place broiler or foil pan (without rack) below meat to catch drippings. Roast at a moderate temperature (350 degrees) for 1½ to 2 hours or until done. 4 to 6 servings.

Leftover Ham Stars In Salad Meal

All leftover ham doesn't get into the food grinder for a sandwich filling. Some of it does very well when diced for an unusual salad for luncheon.

Pineapple is a time - honored accompaniment with ham, but this one has novelty in the form of peanuts as well as ripe olives for surprise contrast. This will look especially pretty served in a gelatin ring mold of either red cherry or black cherry gelatin, says home economist, Reba Staggs.

Hawaiian Ham Salad

2 cups cooked diced ham
1 cup chopped celery
½ cup pitted small ripe olives
½ cup pineapple chunks
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ cup coarsely chopped peanuts
Lettuce leaves

Combine ham, celery, olives and pineapple. Mix mayonnaise with lemon juice and add to ham mixture. Chill in refrigerator about 1 hour. Mix in peanuts before serving. Serve in lettuce-lined salad bowl or in center of gelatin ring mold. 6 servings.

It's a never-ending source of news.

The Coverdale Bible shown here is the first edition ever printed in English. It was produced by Miles Coverdale in 1535.

Although religion is the oldest continuing story in the history of mankind, it's still one of the biggest. Especially today. Sweeping changes are taking place in every region of the religious world, and they affect almost every member of our community.

To keep track of all these developments is a big job for an expert reporter, and fortunately, we have just the man for the job: George Cornell, religion writer for The Associated Press and author of the weekly column, "Religion Today."

In his 15 years of covering religion, Cornell has won the reputation of being among the most knowledgeable writers on the scene. He's also won almost every important award, including a James O. Supple Memorial Award given to the outstanding religion writer of the year by all the other writers in the field.

As a member of The Associated Press, we count on George Cornell to get us the whole story. As a reader of this newspaper, you can count on us to get it to you—fully, factually, and above all, fairly.
