Straw Vote Here Gives Moody Bare Majority Over Jim and Davidson

That Dan Moody, attorney general, and candidate for the office of governor to succeed Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, may carry Wichita Falls by a fair majority appears at least as a possibility if the first day's results of "straw" vote undertaken here may be taken as a criterion.

That is exactly what will happen if the balance of the city's voters act as 134 of them, taken at random on the street, in the office and from the city directory, acted Monday when approached and asked how they were going to vote. Of the 134 69, two more than a majority, evinced an outright Dan Moody preference. Lynch Davidson came second with 31 votes, and Mrs. Ferguson third with 14 votes. Greater than the vote polled by Mrs. Ferguson even was that of those who stated they were "undecided;" 20 put themselves in this class, 17 of the 20 stating they were "anti-Ferguson" and undecided only as to the relative merits of Dan Moody and Lynch Davidson.

A similar proportion of votes for the three candidates was found to exist among members of the jury panel for the 89th district courts Monday morning. A number of lawyers in the court room polled the group, which is possibly as representative a gathering from over the county as may be drawn together. Of 38 members of the jury panel there were 21 voted for Dan Moody, the 21 being there more than a majority. Thirteen voted for Davidson, and four for Mrs. Ferguson.

In none of the straw votes taken here has a single vote for any of the other three candidates, Zimmerman or Mesdames Wilmans and Johnson been found.

DALLAS, June 28.—(AP)—Sandi Esquivel of El Paso, University of Texas fighter, won his first professional ring engagement here Monday night by dropping Wild Cat Monte of Wichita Falls to the mat nine times before he took the count.

After three cautious rounds Esquivel ripped into Monte and tore him to pieces with a brutal right. The knockout came in the seventh round.

As the seventh round came up, Monte fell into a swoon and plunged to the floor apparently suffering pain in the stomach. He was revived and gamely came back in an attempt to smother the little Spaniard. Monte at this point rushed at Esquivel but after taking the count of nine Esquivel crushed him with a body blow and the fight was over.

Call Conference on River Drilling

OIL COMPANIES SEEK PERMITS TO BEGIN WORK

Riparian Rights Owners On Canadian Object To Operations.

MARLAND HOLDS LEASE

Land Commissioner Will Meet With Operators In Fort Worth.

AUSTIN, June 28.—(AP)—Rights of lessees of the state to drill for oil in the river bed of the Canadian river in the productive Hutchinson county field, will be the subject of a conference he will hold Wednesday with oil company representatives at Fort Worth, Land Commissioner J. T. Robison said today. A second conference will be held Friday at Texarkana.

He said huge fortunes for the state, as well as for oil companies, might be the stakes of the conferences.

"The Marland Oil company has bought leases from the state, covering about 25 miles of the river bed of the Canadian in Hutchinson county," he said. "This company has made locations and desires to start drilling but is encountering opposition from riparian owners on both sides of the river.

"Riparian owners at some points are refusing to permit the Marland company to cross their property in reaching the river channel. They fear, of course, wells in the river bed will suck the oils from their lands.

"The purpose of the conference is to bring about an amicable settlement, avoid litigation, and aid development, which likely would mean large royalties for the state."

Commissioner Robison pointed out the state had realized approximately $1,000,000 in royalties from oil development in Cow Bayou in Orange county.

The Marland, the Gulf and Phillips Petroleum companies will have representatives at Fort Worth and Texarkana, Mr. Robison said.

JIM WILL QUIT, WISEACRES SAY AFTER SURVEY

Withdrawal of Fergusons Is Freely Predicted By Observers.

MAY SEEK SENATE

Getting Out Now Would Preserve Following, They Believe.

AUSTIN, June 28.—Rumors and predictions that James E. Ferguson will withdraw the Ferguson candidacy before the July 24 primary have survived the Ferguson triumph with the state democratic executive committee at Wichita Falls.

These guesses, by experienced political analysts as well as those who are tackling the intricate game this year for the first time, are now being made as freely and as frequently as at any time since the Ferguson challenge that either the governor or the attorney general quit office after the first primary was made and accepted.

This writer has been with Dan Moody during Moody's campaign trips for the past three weeks. There is hardly a day but that he has heard some prophet or political sage, tell Moody the Fergusons won't permit the vote to be recorded on July 24.

It is only fair to say that Moody has made no effort to get reports or predictions on the subject; has shown no interest in this possibility, and has expressed neither opinion or preference on the question.

Jim Is Confident

But others, as well as Moody friends, have been making the same prediction. Newspaper writers of experience longer than that of Ferguson in public life have followed this line of opinion, and have placed behind their prognostications their reputation for ability to foresee the important developments of a crucial campaign.

Ferguson crowds have discounted this line of rumors. Frequent statements showing James E. Ferguson's supreme confidence in the outcome would seem to further belie such predictions that the Ferguson campaign will crumple, or that James E. Ferguson will prefer not to permit a vote to be registered, and in order to prevent it will do a "Suzanne Lenglen."

But still these rumors persist. One man will say that Mr. Ferguson's physicians are already warning him against a strenuous campaign, and that the one-speech-a-day program is a concession. Another will say that Ferguson's lack of the same degree of bitterness toward Lynch Davidson as shown toward Dan Moody's campaign, reflect a possible willingness of the Fergusons to abdicate in favor of the Houston man, despite the fact that Davidson's speeches have as roundly scathed what in this campaign is termed "Fergusonism" as Moody has.

No opinion is here ventured whether the Fergusons ill draw out before the first primary. This writer doesn't claim to have either knowledge or worth-while opinion on the subject. But there are deductions which can be drawn, regardless of all the divergent views on the Ferguson course.

Seeks Senatorship

One is that Ferguson would, if he should abandon the race, give notice as plainly as in words, that he wants to preserve the Ferguson constituency in order to run for the United States senate.

One is that if Ferguson pulls out, he definitely blocks any special session of the legislature during the remainder of Mrs. Ferguson's term.

Another is that if the Fergusons should decide they still feel as they did before Ma's election—that one term is enough—the challenge and its acceptance of either Mrs. Ferguson or Dan Moody's quitting office for the next four or five months, would be definitely cast into the realm of forgotten things.

Should the Fergusons take this unprecedented course to prevent the voters from registering an expression upon the first woman governor's first term, new fields of speculation would be opened up, with chances for as many different conclusions as there are different opinions now, as to how the Ferguson vote would go, whether Ferguson could "deliver" it, whether the Ferguson adherents would stick together for the future, and whether they would rally back when and if Mr. Ferguson announced for the United States senate in 1928.

SAILOR HELD AS C. PONZI

Financial Wizard Believed Caught Trying to Quit Country.

NEW ORLEANS, June 28.—(AP)—Charged with being Charles Ponzi, "financial wizard" who is wanted by Florida and Massachusetts authorities, a man who claimed to be Luciani Andrea, a seaman, was arrested here today.

The arrest was made by George Lacy, a deputy sheriff of Houston, Texas, when the Italian steamer Sic Vos Non Vodis docked here while en route from Houston to Genoa, Italy. Lacy declared Andrea answered Ponzi's description in every particular.

Records on the vessel revealed that Andrea boarded the craft in Tampa, Fla., June 8. Andrea was quoted by Lacy as declaring that he had worked in a Tampa restaurant as a waiter for four months prior to the time he boarded the vessel. He could not be Ponzi, if that is true.

Lacy said he noticed Andrea in Houston last Tuesday and followed him aboard the Sic Vos Non Vobis.

RIOT SQUADS HALT MANIAC IN BALTIMORE

TERROR STRICKEN

Wounded Officers Kill Wild Man As Latter Fires Away.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 28.—(AP)—Suddenly crazed with a rifle and two revolvers in his hands, Vance Lee, 35-year-old negro, shot down nine persons in northwest Baltimore in a space of 20 minutes today before he died with 12 police bullets in his body.

Three of his victims, two of them policemen and the other a seven-year-old negro girl are near death. Of the others, all more or less seriously hurt, three were policemen and the rest were by-standers who got in his way.

The injured are:

Patrolman Webster Schumann, shot in mouth, may die. He is credited with firing the shot, after he was wounded, that first stopped the demented man.

Police Clerk Thomas Dillon, shot in head, may die.

Police Chauffeur Leroy Lentz, shot in ankle.

Patrolman John R. Collins, shot in hand.

Dr. William Kamurer, shot in leg.

Arthur Wells, negro, shot in neck.

Calvin Howard, negro, shot in leg.

Neighborhood to Cover.

Having sent the entire neighborhood in the vicinity of Argyle and LaFayette Avenues to cover and with his nine victims ranged about him in the street or crumbled into areaways, Lee backed, at bay, against a plate glass window with a bullet wound in his shoulder. A concerted fire from the wounded men on the ground and from the guns of Albert Ludwig and Hardy Bates, the only policemen of the seven who had answered riot calls still on their feet, dropped him to the sidewalk dead. A special riot squad which arrived a few minutes later gathered up the wounded.

Lee shot every policeman who approached him during the twenty minutes before he was wounded. He picked three of his victims out of a police car which was cruising after him.

The shooting originated in a quarrel involving Lee and Wells, one of the wounded negroes. Lee shot Wells with a revolver and then, procuring a rifle and another revolver, started to terrorize the neighborhood. He had been released from the insane ward at city hospital, a year ago.

SCRIBES WEAR BADGES

They Need High Hats as Protection Against French Police

PARIS, June 28.—(AP)—Parisian newspaper reporters may wear high hats when covering assignments where trouble is likely to rise. Not as a matter of protection, but of identification.

Instances of reporters being injured in street frays have grown quite common, not due to the police growing more ferocious but because they are unable to distinguish between rioters and reporters. French news writers are beginning to appear on the scene of manifestations rather than remaining behind police lines and waiting for the news to reach them—as once was the custom.

CHARTER SPECIAL TRAIN

I'M THE GINK

I'm the modern mother ginkette. I go right ahead and do as I please in spite of my children. I don't object to their seeing me smoke cigarettes, take a cocktail or let them hear me laugh at a risque story. I have no time for old-fashioned ideas. Children are a kind of bother anyway. Of course they will probably grow up into useless things. If they accomplish anything it will be because they do it themselves. I don't help.

Two Widely Scattered Homes Profit Monday By Milk and Ice Fund

A small girl whose father is at work in Oklahoma, lying pain-wracked and suffering from the effects of a bad case of blood poisoning; and an aged man, sheltered only by a tent and known that his days are numbered because of a malignant cancer eating at his head—

Such were two cases in Wichita Falls Monday in which the Record News milk and ice fund brought relief and a little cheer where it was badly needed. Both cases were called to the attention of Mrs. Kathleen Gorsline, secretary of the Municipal Welfare board, who is handling the fund this year, and after an investigation she found that both were in as great need, perhaps, as any one.

The girl went to bed several days ago when blood poisoning set in from a blistered heel. One limb, hot, swollen and red, needed an ice-pack constantly. Monday the ice supply at the house dwindled out and no funds were available with which to purchase more. The case was called to Mrs. Gorsline's attention and the needed commodity was supplied in a short time.

And with it went a supply of milk; for this, the doctors have said, is one of the best things possible to build up the blood stream and perhaps have amputation of the infected limb.

On the other side of town the other case was found. It involved an aged couple whose only home is a much-patched tent. The man has but a short time to live, physicians have said, but while he does, his faithful wife is working as she can in an effort to keep some semblance of a home together. The man, in addition to his other infirmities, is deaf.

In that hot, unattractive environment, he is eking out a meagre existence at best, but Monday the whole world was made a little brighter when the milk and ice fund was called into play to give him some nourishing drinks and some cooling ice.

These are just two examples of what the fund can do and has done.

THELMA MORGAN WEDS VISCOUNT

Daughter of U. S. Diplomat Quits Movies For Titled Life.

LONDON, June 29.—(AP)—Viscount Furness, wealthy ship builder, and his 22-year-old American bride, the former Mrs. Thelma Morgan Converse of New York, were on their honeymoon today. They fooled all except a few of their friends yesterday by going off quietly and getting married.

Lady Furness is the daughter of Harry Hays Morgan, American consul general at Buenos Aires, and a twin sister of Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt of New York. Another sister is Mrs. Benjamin Thaw Jr., of Pittsburgh.

Viscount Furness is 43 years old and chairman of Furness, Withy & Company, Ltd., ship owners. He has interests in various industrial concerns. His first wife died in 1921.

The bride obtained a divorce in April, 1925, at Los Angeles from James V. Converse of New York, grandson of the late Theodore N. Vail, telephone magnate. They were married in Washington in 1922.

Mrs. Converse appeared in the movies when estranged from her husband and started her own producing company. A year or so ago Richard Bennett, actor, considered himself engaged to her, but she denied the actor's announcement.

'Bootleg' Opera Meets Wrath Of Chicago Company

CHICAGO, June 28.—(AP)—The Chicago Civic Opera company has opened a campaign on "bootleggers of opera," in an effort to "clean house of those who advertise without warrant some pseudo-connection with the opera.

The move was designed "to protect a 15-year investment of $20,000,000 in reputation" of the opera company. Bonafide artists of the organization, opera officials said, can not afford to accept the recital engagements arranged by quack managers for these contenders and hence the music loving public throughout the country is being defrauded by mediocre talent disguised as "prima donnas of the Chicago opera."

Two brief opera seasons, advertised to include most of the leading personnel of the Chicago company were found last winter while the real ensemble was on tour in a far different locality.

Leap From Train Kills Texas Woman

FORT WORTH, June 28.—(AP) Mrs. Emma Elrod, 58, Sherman, who leaped from a speeding Sunshine special train of the Texas and Pacific railway near Ranger Sunday afternoon, died at 3:05 a. m. Monday at a hospital here. A fracture at the base of the skull resulted in death, attendants said.

Mrs. Elrod, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. J. R. Malone of Los Angeles, was en route to the latter's home. She had only recently survived an attack of pneumonia.

The train, which was traveling 40 miles an hour at the time, was stopped immediately and passengers ran back and found Mrs. Elrod unconscious. She was treated at a Ranger hospital and then brought back. The body was forwarded to Sherman for burial.

Knife Wielders Keep Police Busy

SAN ANTONIO, June 28.—(AP) Cold steel which replaced the spurting of revolvers has sent officers on the trail of "knife bandits" who Sunday night attacked four persons, two of whom were slashed when they resisted attempts to be robbed.

Barlow "Bones" Irvin, former Texas A. & M. football star was cut several times by another knife wielder whom he captured and took to police headquarters where he is held, suspected of attempting to rob the Irvin home. Bandits in each of the three other attacks police believe to be members of the new school of stickup men who have discarded the pistol for the more silent and just as deadly knife.

Naked Feminine Body Is Praised

PARIS, June 28.—(AP)—"Nothing in the world is more artistic than a naked feminine body," said Lee Schubert, the New York theatrical manager, to a reporter of the Paris edition of the New York Herald-Tribune, when asked concerning Flo Ziegfeld's campaign for modesty on the stage.

"The world has no objection to nudity in sculpture or painting," said Mr. Schubert, "so why object to it behind the footlights?" Nudity is on the stage to stay, I believe."

Al Woods, another New York producer questioned Mr. Ziegfeld's ideas, said "I don't believe he will keep up this pose very long."

SECOND LOVE

by MALCOLM DUARY

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY EUGENE MacLEAN

John Parrish has left his rich young wife, Audrey, because of her persistent references to his dependence upon her. Marcie Allen, young, lovely, comes to stay with Audrey when Marcie is ordered out of her father's house because of her too-advanced views. Harry Morton, Audrey's father, hurries home from Europe to find that Marcie has been making love to Parrish. At once, however, she tries to vamp Morton, who laughs at her. As the last chapter ends, Marcie vanishes, leaving a note for Morton that if she can't interest him one way, she'll try another.

NO WOO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXX.

Morton was still pondering over the situation when Audrey came downstairs.

"Look what I found!" She held out to him a square of letter paper.

"Dearest Audrey," it said. "I've run away. You've been a dear to let me stay at your house, and if I ever can repay you, I will. Love—Marcie."

"The little nut!" laughed Audrey. "She's out looking for more excitement." After a pause, she added: "I don't see, though, why she ran away when you're here."

"Thanks for the implied compliment," her father said. "Have you any idea where she went?"

"Not the faintest."

He rubbed his chin. "I thought she ought to go away," he said, "but I wish I knew where she's gone."

At luncheon, he listened absentmindedly to Audrey as she wondered about Marcie. As soon as he had eaten, he called his daughter's car, and started down town. Audrey laid down to sleep.

It was about 4 o'clock when she was aroused by a tap at her door.

"Come in!" she called, sleepily.

Morton entered. Audrey sat up in bed, and tucked back the strands of hair that had fallen over her face.

"How much money did John give Marcie last night?" he asked, abruptly.

The girl blinked, and frowned in an effort to regain her waking consciousness. "Let's see. She had a share of stock, and John sold it for her. It was about $1200, I think. Why?"

"She needs a guardian, and I'm going to hunt for her and offer my services," he said.

Audrey smiled mischievously. "Are you warming up to Marcie?"

Morton gave a quick negative shake of his head. "She ought to be spanked," he said. "Since she was driving her car, I suppose she hasn't gone far. The reason I asked how much money she had, was this—I was wondering what sort of place she'd go to."

"An expensive one," observed Audrey, sagely. "She like nice things."

Morton ran his fingers through his hair, thoughtfully.

"Listen," he said, after a time, "If I'm gone a few days, don't worry. I'll be back."

"With Marcie?" she asked. "She'd love that!"

"Don't know," Morton said, as he stooped and kissed her. "But I'll know more when I return than I know now."

The noontime crowds were hurrying out to lunch in Dallas the following day.

A yellow roadster pulled up to a hotel, and Marcie Allen wearily climbed out. Once after another she passed to the waiting doorman her suitcases and bags, from the compartment at the rear of the car. Each piece of baggage bore the initials: "A. P."

"Take 'em inside and I'll be back in a minute," she directed, as she drove the machine away.

When the car was safely stored in a neighboring garage, she returned to the hotel. Taking the pen, she began to write her name on the register. She had written the letter "M" when the clerk interrupted her.

"What priced room would you desire, madam?" he said.

She hesitated, and as she did so, her eye fell upon the hea pof bags and suitcases, each with its initials: "A. P."

There was a startled glint in her eye. Turning back to the register, she finished the line that she had begun with "M"—"Mrs. Audrey Parrish," she wrote, and added a triumphant little curlicue at the end.

"A large room, high up where it won't be noisy," she told the clerk.

With two bellboys following her with Audrey's bags, she went up the elevator, to the corner room that had been assigned her. She gave a dollar to each of the boys. Their activities, following this donation, kept them in the room for some time, adjusting shades, turning on lights, studying draughts and promising to send a maid with more towels.

When they were gone, she called the information clerk, by telephone.

"A gentleman may come inquiring for Miss Marcie Allen," she said. "Please tell him that Miss Allen is up here with me."

She stood a moment, her finger to her lips, thinking, after she hung up the receiver. Then she locked the door, and hurriedly removing her clothes, stepped into the bathtub. It was a sketchy bath she took, dipping a towel into the water as it ran from the faucet, and soaping herself, rincing off the lather with the cloth.

She dressed again as hastily, in a dress that providentially had not become wrinkled in the suitcase. Combing her hair with nervous strokes, she viewed the effect in the mirror, nodded with satisfaction, and putting on her hat, went to the elevator.

As she stepped out into the lobby, she cast a hasty glance over the crowd of moving figures. Then she walked to the far side, keeping close to the wall, carefully inspecting the men who sat reading the early editions of the afternoon papers. Halting for a moment, she turned and strolled back again.

There was a disappointment in her face as she finally sank into a chair, from which she could see the desk.

She fidgeted as she sat. From habit,

"Are you warming up to Marcie?" Audrey asked, mischeviously.

she let her eyes smile at the men who looked at her, as they passed, but once, when one of them stopped and said: "Hello!" she frowned. He waited uncertainly for a moment, and went on. Marcie arose and bought a newspaper.

One o'clock came, and 1:30. Marcie was swinging her foot, impatiently, and tapping on the arms of her chair.

Looking at her wrist watch, she arose and went to the desk.

"Has anybody inquired for me—Mrs. Parrish?" she asked. "Or for my friend, Miss Marcie Allen?"

The clerk told her there had been no callers, and she turned to the dining room. She ate hungrily glancing occasionally at the timepiece on her wrist. When she has finished, she gave a dollar to the waiter, and hurried back to the lobby.

Again the clerk told her there had been no inquiries.

She stood, her brow contracted, and then found another seat. In this she remained, while 3 o'clock came, and 4.

"Why, Marcie Allen!" The voice caused her to start violently. A young woman ran up to her, and grasped her hands.

"What on earth are you doing in Dallas? I'm so glad to see you!"

Marcie accepted the other's kiss, and returned it without warmth.

"I'm just on my way through with friends," she said. "I'm waiting for them now to come and get me."

"But to stay over—we'll have such fun! Come to my house!"

"Can't do it, dear—I'm so sorry," Marcie lied. "My friends are in a terrible hurry to go on. Isn't automobile travel tiring?"

"I like it," declared the other. "But we can sit here and talk until your friends come."

She sat down, and pulled Marcie beside her. The latter looked uneasily around the lobby.

"I'd better go to the washroom and fix my hair," she began.

"You look fine!" said her friend. "You don't need your hair fixed. Now tell me all about what you've been doing."

Marcie sat distressfully, her hands limp in her lap. "I—well, I haven't been doing anything much," she said.

"Like fun you havn't!" the other girl cried. "You're always up to something! Come on—tell me."

Marcie wriggled, and bit her lip. However, she went on, agreeably enough. "My father threw me out of the house," she said.

"How horribly exciting! What for?"

"Because I gave him a line on women's rights," Marcie said, smiling a little.

"How gorgeous! And where did you go?"

Marcie looked around the lobby again. "I went to stay with friends—with these people I'm waiting for," she replied.

"And isn't your father furious?"

"I suppose so—I kicked him on the chins and locked him in a room."

"You blessed old bolshevik! And Marcie did not reply. Her eyes were fixed on a man who was walking toward the desk. He stopped, as if in doubt, and turned his head for a moment, so she could see his face.

It was John Parrish.

GOOD IS BACK IN TEXAS JAIL

Escaped Prisoner Declares Ross Will Never Be Retaken Alive.

FORT WORTH, June 28.—(AP) Milt Good, convicted with Tom Ross of the slaying of H. L. Robertson and W. D. Allison, field inspectors of the southwestern cattle raisers association, was in Tarrant county jail here Monday following his arrest at Antelero, Okla., Saturday which ended a period of liberty dating from his escape with Ross last November.

Good declared he was on his way to Texas to surrender voluntarily when arrested, but that he was not ready to give up when captured.

"I just got careless and walked into a bear-trap," he said.

Good did not believe, however, that Ross would be retaken as easily. "I know what will happen if a "law" ever sticks a gun into the Ross shirt front. There'll be a gun fight and one or the "other" will get killed," he asserted. "Ross won't go back alive."

Although he gave his captors some reason to believe Ross and he had been in the southwestern part of Canada, Good was careful not to give the least clue to his partner's present whereabouts, nor to those of Clarence Whalen and George Arlington, who escaped with them. The latter two were sent up from Dallas on conviction of highway robbery.

Good was brought here by Ranger Captain Tom Hickman and Tad Moses of the cattle raisers association. He will be questioned here in an effort to locate the three other escapes and then be taken to Huntsville.

Martin Durkin Hears Evidence Of Agent's Death

CHICAGO, June 28.—(AP)—Martin Durkin, sheik bandit and gunman on trial for murder, listened unmoved today, while Lee W. Porter enacted before a jury the slaying of Edwin Shanhan, federal agent. Porter owned the garage in which the shooting occurred and witnessed it.

Durkin, pale and freshly shaven, frequently suppressed a yawn as the witness testified. The court room was filled to the halls with an audience largely composed of women.

Because of a fear that Durkin may attempt to escape as he has often done by shooting his way out, an extra guard is watching over him during the trial.

Transplanting Of Glands Scored

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.—(AP) Rejuvenation by gland transplanting was characterized by Dr. Maxmillian Ker, Chicago, in addressing the annual convention of the American Institute of Homeopathy as a "blot on the exploiting forces of medical science." He asserted that there was no such thing as rejuvenation, except by the restoration of bodily functions by proper precautions, the avoidance of infections and over indulgences, "and the return thereby to physical normalcy."

"This," he declared, "is all that can be hoped for under any circumstances despite the various reports concerning millionaires who have undergone operations for treatment for rejuvenation."

REFUSES BODY TO WIDOW

REDDITCH, Eng.—Coroner Ince refused to award to Mrs. May Matthews the body she claimed as that of her husband, declaring her identification had not been substantiated

MEN AND WOMEN USE SILPH TO REDUCE

It Chews Like Gum

"I have taken off 18 lbs. of excess fat with SILPH and feel like a new man." Signed W. H. M., Brooklyn.

No Dangerous Drugs—Guaranteed Harmless!

Why shouldn't men as well as the fair sex care to have a normal figure? There is an old saying, "Nobody likes a FAT man." Who knows better than the one overburdened with excess weight that this is true.

A man's appearance means much to his social success or in business—Wives should encourage their husbands to reduce if they see the threatening signs of a double chin—a bulging stomach coming on—A trim, well proportioned figure is an asset that no man can afford to scoff at. Excess weight is recognized to be dangerous by insurance companies and physicians—If a man is overburdened by fat he cannot enjoy perfect health and he is in constant danger of a sudden death.

It should now be easy and pleasant for anyone to reduce—SILPH is used by thousands of people—It comes in form of a pleasant, refreshing chewing gum—two or three pieces of SILPH a day generally gives most satisfactory results.

Beware of Cheaper Imitations

Silph is the name of the original and genuine gum which is used in New York by most beautiful actresses and dancers to keep trim and slender. It is the only one we personally guarantee to be safe and harmless.

Prof. Budlong states, "I have lost 25 lbs. with SILPH and have been relieved from high blood pressure from which I suffered greatly."

SILPH sells at all good drug or dept. stores for 50c a box. If your druggist is out of it send direct to the SILPH CO., 9 W. 60th St., N.Y.C.

On sale at Smith's, Tenth Street Drug or Central Drug or Jim Cassell.

The FUTURE

What Does It Promise for North Texas?

In which direction does the greatest future for North Texas lie? How shall this great section develop its resources to bring most progress and prosperity in the years to come? The answer is industry. North Texas should make every effort to bring factories, mills and plants of every kind here, for that is the next line of development to insure a brilliant future.

The agriculture of North Texas is at present well developed and promises to go forward with the years. Its needs are well taken care of now and in the future.

With this agriculture, however, North Texas needs the productiveness and income that manufacturing and industries will bring. Every agent should be working to make this a more ideal location for these plants and mills.

The Lone Star Gas Company is co-operating with cities of North Texas along this line, making the future of this section its own concern. A bounteous supply of natural gas, recognized by manufacturers as one of the cheapest, most efficient and safest fuels, has been provided to take care of industrial needs, and provisions have been made by the company to keep the supply far ahead of needs.

With its wealth of natural resources and raw materials, its agreeable climate, mid-continent location, shipping facilities and this supply of cheap, reliable natural gas, North Texas has much to offer manufacturers and industries. It should work to get them here, for in that direction lies the greatest future.

LEAHY LOSES COURT BATTLE

Judge Declines to Reduce Bond or Dismiss Charges Of Conspiracy.

BEEVILLE, Texas, June 28.—(AP)—Another episode took place Monday in the puzzling Ramsey case when H. J. Lehy of Wathis lost his habeas corpus proceedings of 36th district court, but the disappearance of Dr. J. A. Ramsey, remained unsolved at the close of rather a listless day. Judge T. M. Cox after a 15-minute recess shortly before noon, overruled a motion to dismiss the charge of conspiracy to murder, filed in justice court at Sinton several days ago.

Previously late Saturday, Judge Cox had denied a motion to dismiss the charge of murder. On these charges, and another of conspiracy to swindle, Leahy unsuccessfully to convince the court that the murder conspiracy charge should not stand in view of the charge of murder. He set forth that the several charges tended to roll up a huge total in bonds and were unfair. In overruling the contention, Judge Cox said that if he had fixed bond in the first place, he would have set it at the present total whether or not there were other charges than that of murder.

Between several recesses Monday afternoon Leahy's counsel to show in asking roluction in bond, that the applicant was unable to obtain more than $2,500 toward his freedom. Delays were frequent and Sid B. Malone, district attorney, criticized the applicant for not having witnesses present on time.

The merry-making continued until late in the evening, when a bountiful supply of ice cream and cakes of all kinds were served the guests. The guests departed at a late hour, wishing the honoree many more happy birthdays.

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS

There was a large attendance at the Men's Bible class of the First Methodist church Sunday morning, at which time several features of entertainment were provided. Mr. Morgan Hall rendered a vocal solo accompanied by Miss Letrice Wofford at the piano, and for an encore, Miss Wofford and Mr. Hall gave a duet. Master Sullivan Stinnett rendered two violin solos. H. C. Hill conducted an interesting devotional service, followed by a prayer by Rev. C. J. Fender. E. A. McKelvey the teacher of the class gave a fine thirty minute lecture on the lesson, which was concluded with a prayer. Miss Letrice Wofford will provide the program for next Sunday, which will include several solos and piano numbers. Interest in the class seems to be increasing during the summer months.

Edith Wilmans Is For Press Liberty And Less Legislation

DALLAS, June 28.—(AP)—Freedom of the press and the right of the individual to choose his own religion and his own doctor without guidance from the commonwealth are parts of the public platform as well as the private convictions of Mrs. Edith E. Wilmans, former legislator, candidate for governor.

In a statement from her headquarters here today, Mrs. Wilmans declared herself in favor of a change in the libel suit to permit newspapers to print the truth without deleting obvious facts as often is necessary now.

"The only restriction in printing the truth," Mrs. Wilmans said, "should be that it is without malice."

"Fewer laws and better laws," is Mrs. Wilman's campaign motto, one she will elaborate on in a speech at Waxahachie Wednesday. She is to speak at the Getzendaner auditorium at 10 a. m.

How to make the picnic a complete success

ONE of the main objects of a picnic is to escape the heat. How much better we can do that if the foods and drinks are kept deliciously cold.

There are various devices for doing this—running board ice chests, ice baskets, etc. Or, with a little experimenting, a way can easily be provided with home utensils.

Have an extra piece of ice for reserve—well wrapped—in a boiler or large kettle.

Ice has many important uses besides cooling the home refrigerator.

No substitute can possibly provide all the convenience and pleasures of having ice.

CROP OUTLOOK IN TEXAS GOOD

Commissioner of Agriculture Sees Bright Prospects for Farmer.

AUSTIN, June 28.—(AP)—Splendid crops and crop prospects were reported today by George B. Terrell, commissioner of agriculture, upon his return from a two week's automobile trip through 50 counties of central, west and northwest Texas.

"It is a pleasure for me to travel over the state when I can see good crops, as I have recently seen, and find the people in such fine spirits, he said. "I traveled from Austin through the central part of the state, almost to the northern boundary, covering most of the counties in the Plains, and some in western Texas—in all about 50 counties, and I never saw better crops in my life."

"The oat crop is the best I ever saw, and wheat in both the north and south plains country is simply fine. The kaffir and maize crops are splendid, and corn and cotton above an average. This is one time that Texas will be able to feed herself.

"The cotton crop bids fair to be larger than last crops, and all grain crops will be larger. Cotton picking is in progress in the lower Rio Grande valley and the first bale has been sold and cotton planting is just finished in the plains country."

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

June 29, 1925

Peter Paul is more than a unique character. He puzzled the senator and he made Reed very raw. He admitted that he backed the Pepper-Fisher combination, but he did not attempt in the lesat to influence the detecives and the policemen of the smokey city. He did not know there were dives in Pittsburgh. He had never heard of existence of dives in Pittsburgh. He did not know the difference between a club and a saloon.

He was not a drinking man, hence he did not visit clubs or saloons and could not find one even for a friend who had a thirst or who was ambitious to see the night life of the smokey city. Then the senator from Missouri hit Peter Paul Walsh between the eyes by reading the following letter, which bore the signature of the man who had been named for two saints. Peter Paul never blinked an eye. He never lost his poise. He never betrayed the slightest emotion. He showed no outward sign that his feelings had been ruffled by the reading of the letter. This is the way the letter issued by Peter Paul to his hundreds of detectives and policemen read:

"With reference to the attached list of employes under your command, you will instruct them that we expect a large majority in their respective districts for the Pepper-Fisher ticket tomorrow. You will also instruct them to bring you a list of the returns cast in their districts on Wednesday, May 19, showing the number of votes cast for all candidates."

This Peter Paul Walsh's letter was addressed to the chief of the detective force of the city of Pittsburg. The next in command of the police department who happens to be Peter Paul Walsh, the superintendent of the entire department. Peter Paul admitted that the signature was his own. He saw nothing unusual about it. It was not a hint that the detectives and policemen should get busy to push along the cause and bring about the lection of the Pepper-Fisher combination.

Peter Paul said that all there was to the communication was an instruction to the police officers to turn in the list of voters cast for all candidates in their districts. Peter Paul never showed the least sign of anger. He bluffed Senator Reed of Missouri and the men who can bluff Reed of Missouri is an extraordinary person. Thus it is that the superintendent of the police department in the great city of Pittsburgh stepped ou of the witness chair a model of his kind.

Pittsburg is without vice. Pittsburg is without saloons or clubs. Pittsburgh is the city where all the employes of the machine are free men and are permitted to vote as their conscience dictates without outside interference. Pittsburgh is the sinless city. Pittsburgh is a stainless city. Pittsburg is a model city and Pittsburg, the republican citadel of Western Pennsylvania, rolled up the majority that elected John S. Fisher governor and rolled up a majority almost as great as that that did not elect George Wharton Pepper senator.

Peter Paul Walsh isn't a dummy. Peter Paul Walsh may be a figurehead. Peter Paul Walsh stands when he is hitched. Peter Paul Walsh knows the higher ups. Peter Paul Walsh knows the lower downs. Peter Paul Walsh must be the pride of Pittsburgh. He carried two saintly handles to his name, he never drinks hard liquor, when he speaks his detectives and police officers jump and his instructions were carried out to the letter by the men who recognize their master's voice.

HALF SHOW PRICES

THE PHILADELPHIA EVENING Bulletin suggests that "a half price admission to the half-show now in readiness at the sesqui-centennial, to continue during the period of preparation would be good advertising and promotion policy." But would not this convey the impression that the show will not be ready until it is about to end, thus causing the postponement of visits until autumn?

TOO MANY COOKS

AS has been remarked previously, Wichita Falls has dilly-dallied long enough on the proposition of a municipal auditorium. It has realized for a number of years that this is one thing it should have but well meaning citizens with numberless suggestions for this thing and that thing have unwittingly but effectually blocked any definite action.

Judge Britain spoke gospel truth at the business council the other day when he said the time had come to quit trying to hook up the auditorium with this organization and that club. As he said, if Wichita Falls wants a municipal auditorium it had better get busy and build it on a municipal basis.

Since the city's successful fight for the 1927 convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce and the consequent agitation for a new auditorium, these suggestions of community centers, community or civic enterprises have bobbed up again. The proponents of all of them doubtless mean well; and perhaps some of these suggestions are more than passingly practical. But in the light of past experience here and elsewhere, it is only reasonable to believe that a municipal auditorium will become an assured thing when the city takes free reign and begins to build it.

The quickest and most certain way all lies through the bond issue channel, with the city administration assuming responsibility for the project and being held responsible for its completion and use. Suggestions from the chamber of commerce and other sources, of course, are needed. They ought to be given but when the preliminary plans begin to include a proposition designed to gratify this club and appease another, delays are inevitable that will smother the whole thing.

No one questions now but that Wichita Falls is in dire need of a municipal auditorium. The imposing array of conventions scheduled here for the next 12 months establishes this fact beyond preadventure of doubt. The city should have had it several years ago, but further procrastination will be inexcusable.

FARM RELIEF BILL SMASHED

AND it came to pass that the McNary plan for farm relief, equalization tax included, went to its defeat in the senate by a vote of 39 to 45. Senator Morris Sheppard voted against it. Senator Earl B. Mayfield voted for the plan. Southern senators from the cotton states joined hands with republican senators from the eastern states to let the life blood out of the McNary scheme of farm relief.

Senator W. A. Borah of Idaho voted to kill it. Borah follows his own flag. He has convictions and he never surrenders his convictions.

Now where will the republican administration go from here. All the corn belt republicans backed the McNary plan. All the wheatgrowing republicans backed the McNary plan. Colonel Smith Wildman Brookhart backed the McNary plan. It was a victory for the administration, and southen democrats assisted in making it possible for the administration to win.

Secretary Mellon, who opposed the McNary bill tooth and toe nail, has a choice selection of new scalps hanging from his belt. Now the cooperative organizations of farmers will do their level best to put over the cooperative plan before the adjournment of the congress.

This plan has the backing of the administration. It has the backing of many powerful senators. Under which flag will the cotton state senators flock? It is a safe bet that Senators Sheppard and Mayfield will be found on the same side of the fense this time.

WHY NOT TOBACCO AND SNUFF

THERE is a man Humphries, way out in the west, who is a candidate for the job now held by Old Man Marrs. At least he is known to many as Old Man Marrs since the official voice of the governor of Texas thus referred to the state superintendent in a political speech out in the land of the open spaces.

Candidate Humphries has a platform. He would place a tax on all cigarets and cigars sold for the benefit of the school fund.

Why not tax on plug tobacco? Why not a tax on home twist? Why not a tax on pipe smokers as well as cigaret and cigar smokers, and why not a tax on the snuff bought and used by the dippers of Texas?

Why this rank discrimination? Why give special privilege to the man who chews, to the man who hits the pipe, to the woman who hits the snuff? And this man is running for office as a democrat.

High Spots in the Life of Little Stanley

THE WHISTLENAIL HANDICAP

—By Meigs O. Frost—

They call him "Eddie" now, in stable and paddock and weighing-in room. It isn't an abbreviation for Edward. It is short for Edison—though his name isn't Edison, at that.

He is one hundred and five pounds of steel wire. He has legs that grip the ribs of a thoroughbred as though they were glued to the satiny hide. He has arms that hold the strength of a grown man to handle the rough ones that fight for their heads; he has hands of touch as delicate as a violinist's for those that must be gentled and coaxed.

This is the story of the complicated tissue of events and personalities that made Sandy MacGriffin known as "Eddie" from the track at Hamilton—which is in Canada where even sportsmen have a reserve that may be accounted for by their climate, clear to the track at Tia Juana—which is in Mexico where people have no reserve at all.

It is indeed for Thomas A. Edison the world's electrical wizard, that the name was given. Yet curiously enough there was neither kilowatt nor ohm nor ampere in the final track episode from which Sandy MacGriffin emerged newly christened.

There was just a tin whistle and a wire nail.

Behind them, of course, were other forces. There was, for example, the honest disgust of Robert Ballister Sanford. There was the blazing wrath of Sandy MacGriffin himself. There was the cynical smile of Doc Dowling, sporting editor. There was the suave crookedness of Alexis Garcia and his group of benchmen. And there was the seething rage of Mose Feinblatt, bookmaker, known to the sporting world as Honest Jack Ryan, whose daughter greatly desired a certain chummy roadster.

A tin whistle and a wire nail.

Comparatively innocent in themselves, these two objects, yet they not only gave a jockey a new name, but were the reason why those rich in the lure of the New Orleans track never refer to the Creole Handicap of a certain year by its official name. To such it will always be the Whistlenail Handicap.

At the time these events befell, some years ago, there was a group of men in control of the racing plant at New Orleans, of whom it was said that they reposed in special beds of corkscrew design, for the greater ease and comfort of a natural posture while sleeping.

For the game that some call the Sport of Kings, and others know to have been the sport of gentlemen over a long period of years since the Little Eohippus first tasted Kentucky's blue grass and thereby became a thoroughbred—that game has evolved a queer breed. A breed of varminous instincts—that spawns and grows and thrives more or less precariously on the fringes of the game.

Of this breed, by every instinct, was Alexis Garcia. Through divers squirmings, racing stock proxies, and the influence of a political machine that believed in his claim to control a formidable block of votes in a certain back ward, he was in the year of the Whistlenail Handicap bearing the official title of track superintendent at the New Orleans track. The post carried a salary of two hundred dollars a month.

True, it was difficult to reconcile two hundred dollars a month with Alexis Garcia's mode of living—with the custom-built, imported automobile in which he rode out to the track to his work of bossing a gang of dirt rolling, dirt raking, grass cutting laborers. It did not jibe, either, with the roll of yellowbacks he carried habitually; or with his holdings in city real estate.

Nor, for that matter, with the three books he financed at the track or his downtown pool-room where the members of the Busy Bee Social club could see the odds posted and make their bets. Only members could enjoy that privilege; but membership was limited only to the New Orleans city directory's list of names and such visitors as came to town.

It might be considered unfair, at that, to list those track handbooks and that downtown pool-room as among the Garcia assets. Nobody but his lawyer and the police and the hundreds who placed their bets there with sufficient regularity to be known as regular customers really knew that they were his.

However, the post of track superintendent at New Orleans carried something far more tangiable than two hundred dollars a month—mere chicken feed—for Alexis Garcia. It carried control and personal supervision of many matters inside the track enclosure—and the entree to all things therein. A notable asset, indeed, to the Breed of the Fringe! A paradise of which one might vainly dream for years.

Distinctly not of this breed, however, was Sandy MacGriffin, jockey; or Robert Ballister Sanborn, for whom he rode. Sanborn's modest string of horses trailed the circuit as many other modest stables trailed. They won their share of purses, now and then. They lost their share. The Sanborn stock farm up in the Bayou Sara country of Louisiana bred honest horses and raced them honestly.

They were good horses, true blue as the Sanborn racing colors themselves. The silks that Sandy MacGriffin wore were dark blue barred with silver. He was proud of those colors. Dark blue morocco leather with silver trimmings likewise was the color of the collar on the neck of Heather Blazing Star, familiarly known as Jock, the prize Scottie that traveled where Sandy MacGriffin traveled and that was the pick of the Sanborn kennels, barring Robert Ballister Sanborn's personal dog. Rather like a family was that Sanborn stable on its travels. And the year of the Whistlenail Handicap, that stable contained some horses so very good that there were splendid sales in sight before the season closed.

In Robert Ballister Sanborn's room at a downtown hotel in New Orleans—not the garish, gilded, onyx-pillared-lobby one that the Breed of the Fringe affected—the owner of the Sanborn stable and his jockey sat in the evening of a racing day.

It had been a succession of racing days, that meet, that had seemed fairly ordinary to the racing public, barring the upset of a couple of favorites. But, to those who know the game from the inside, there had been queer symptoms. They had been very queer, those symptoms, on that particular day.

"Sandy," said the owner, "there's dirty work at the crossroads."

"I'll say there is," assented the little jockey.

"Something smells like old Roquefort about Bunga Boy losing in the third today."

"Ah!" grinned Sandy. "So you spotted it, too?"

"What's the low-down on it?" asked the practical minded Sanborn. He raced as he bred, honestly; but he was no fool. Crooks and their ways at the tracks were old news to him.

"Of course you noticed that Frankie Curran was up?"

Yes, Sanborn had noted Bunga Boy's new rider. But he had not known why Joe Devine, the horse's owner, had changed riders.

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

Why Sheik and Vamp Home-Wreckers Are Fifty Per Cent Guilty—Why Indulged Sons Are Seldom Worthy Of Their Self-Made Fathers—The Difference Between Old Maid and Bachelor.

Dear Miss Dix—Is there a man-made law to punish "the woman in the case?" We know there is a God-made law that will surely be enforced hereafter, but why can a woman with the subtlety of a serpent and the allurements of youth step in and take a husband from the wife, the father from his little children, the son from a mother, rob the man of his honor and his respectability, and go unpunished?

T. D. U.

Answer:

We have a law that permits the aggrieved husband or wife to sue the home-wrecker and demand a monetary consideration for the alienation of the affections of the errant spouse.

You can hardly pick up a paper in which you do not read of some man who is demanding forty or fifty or a hundred thousand dollars as the price of his wife's love, which some other man has stolen away from him, or of some woman who is not suing some woman for a large sum for having purloined her husband's affections from her.

It is a grotesque and sordid thing to assess the damage in breaking up a home in dollars and cents; to try to heal a hurt with a poultice of greenbacks. But so far it seems to be the only method we have been able to devise for punishing those who commit the most dastardly and the most terrible of all crimes.

For the sheik and the vamp are worse than thieves and murderers. Those who rob a woman of her husband and little children of their father have taken from them something infinitely more valuable than gold or jewels. Those who slay a woman's faith and love have done something far worse to her than if they had killed her body.

But there never can be any man-made law that can deal adequately with such criminals, because home-wrecking is always an inside job. The love thief has an accomplice. There is always the husband or wife who was accessory before the crime. They, at least, opened the window and left the door unlocked.

To save his face, every man whose wife is unfaithful to him pretends that he was the helpless victim of some man who captured her and bore her shrieking away from him. Every woman salves her vanity by trying to believe that her husband is the helpless victim of some siren who, by some black magic, won him away from her and his children and made him forget his honor and his duty.

But this is never true. The really virtuous woman who loves her husband is as safe from Lotharios as if she were locked up in a steel vault. Every wife who goes astray meets the seducer at least half way, and the fault is no more his than hers.

So also with men. The world is full of adventurers seeknig as their prey married men with fat pocketbooks; but no man need be captured by one of these pirates unless he desires to.

No man need surrender to them if he is willing to flee from danger or put up a fight against them.

Undoubtedly the woman who uses her youth and beauty to win a man away from his wife and children and who ruthlessly breaks up his home in order to gratify her own desire for what he can give her deserves to be punished. But so does the poor, weak, miserable creature who lets himself be flattered and cajoled into forgetting the vows he made at the altar.

He turns traitor to his own flesh and blood commits a sin greater than that of the woman, because he had his obligations to his wife and children, and she had none.

Lyrics of Life

SWEEPING

If I didn't sweep, if I didn't dust,
If I didn't work like a woman must,
Wouldn't this house be awful, though!
You know how it is with men, and so
I take my pan and I take my broom
And I sweep the hall and living-room,
And the closet, too, that my dad was in,
And everywhere else my dad has been.

I take my broom and I take my pan
That my mother bought from the 10 cent man
And where there is sweeping for her to do,
Whatever she sweeps, I sweep it, too.
My father laughs, and he says, "My dear,
There's certainly plenty of sweeping here."
But whenever a house or a flat you see
With a man around, then there has to be.
When I get big, and I have a flat,
A dog, a husband, and all of that,
I'm going to have a husband then
Who isn't like all of the rest of the men.
My mother has raised my father wrong;
He'll put his things where his things belong,
He'll pick things up when he lets them fall,
And my little girl needn't sweep at all.

OUTGROWING THEMSELVES

Strange stories are told of many molluscs or shells. One of the most beautiful of all shells, the lovely white Angel's Wing, digs itself into a hole in the sand. Once inside the hole it slowly grows and grows until so large that it is larger than its hole like a toy ship in a glass bottle.

Now what do you know about that?

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE
CANCER

Today's planetary aspects are distinctly and definitely adverse until noon. They then assume an entirely different character and become very favorable and, later in the day, there will be sensed stimulating vibrations. Nothing that savors of any fresh departure should be attempted during the morning, as the signs only indicate failure. Routine work only should occupy your attention, and care should be taken to overcome the tendency that will be felt to be quarrelsome and captious. In the afternoon, anything that means constructive effort or beneficial change can be prosecuted with energy and confidence. In the evening, the atmosphere and conditions will induce a feeling of responsiveness that should inure to the benefit of all lovers, if proper advantage be taken of it.

Children born today will suffer from one or two serious ailments during their infancy. They will, however, possess exceptional recuperative powers, and be thereby enabled to throw off the effects of a sickness that would militate against the development of others not so vigorously resilient. The signs denote that these children will quickly grow out of their weaknesses and attain, at an early age, physical normaley. Their dispositions will be tractable, and they will be easy to manage and to control. They will be fired with ambition and will show great interest in their studies. They will, also, be unselfish and very considerate of the convenience and comfort of others. They, promise, however, to lack personality.

If today is your birthday, you possess exceptional strength of character and are forceful and determined. You, however, are not stubborn or pig-headed, and are always willing to heed the advice and counsel of others, especially if they are intimately associated with you. You, although not slow in making up your mind, are deliberate and very rarely speak or act without thought. Your judgment is invariably sound, and you also possess a very clear, and far-seieng vision. You are rather secretive, and not very talkative. When you do talk, you generally say something that is worthy of attention. Your passions are deep-seated, and your anger is violent when you give way to it. This, however, does not very often happen as, in spite of your other characteristics, you are usually gentle and kind. You are capable of a great affection and never know real happiness or pleasure unless you have someone on whom you can bestow the love that animates you.

The Fun Shop

Remembering the fun, Folks, let's all do our share

ALAS FOR THE COUNTRY LASS!
The Editor in Reply.

Dear Nan:
Your letter is received.
I note you dwell on cooking,
But tell me naught about your size
Or if you are good looking.
Apparently you still believe
You'll win a man's affections
If only you can fill him up
With cookies and confections.

I'm very fond of tasty things:
Your talents are appealing.
If you're as good as you make out
My fate you would be sealing.
I know myself—I'd overeat
And very soon be ailing,
And on the heavenly altitudes
Be permaturely sailing.

I'm nothing if not gallant,
So I must say "No," kiddo;
'Twould be unfair to marry you
And then make you a widow.
We'll let things be just as they are
You still remain Nan Irving,
And I'll eat in restaurants,
Despite the stuff they're serving!

I had just finished reading "Peter Pan" to my two boys.

The elder, looking very pensive and poetic remarked, "I wish that I could be like Peter Pan, and never grow up."

My younger son, who has suffered much at the hands of his big brother, replied with much feeling, "I wish you would, too. And then when I grow up I'll sock you in the nose."

BORROWED PLUMAGE

About once in so often I hear one which has the double merit of being good and being true. I personally vouch for the authenticity of the offering which follows:

I know a Kentucky lawyer, a brilliant man, who outgrew the small town where he was reared and where he began the practice of his profession. An offer came to him to go to Chicago and become the attorney for a big lumber concern. He went, taking his family with him.

Always he had lived comfortably but in a simple fashion as was befitting his original environment. But he felt the position he now occupied called for more display than formerly. So he rented a large house and installed a staff of servants, including a colored butler. On his first day of service the butler came to his new master for instructions.

"Mister Blank," he asked in his most butlerfied manner, "does you desire me to wear my full dress suit ever' night at dinner?"

"Well, no," said the Kentuckian, "on nights when we have company I'd like for you to lend it to me."

Ranch Boy Killed By Bucking Bronc

SAN ANGELO, Texas, June 28.—(AP)—Benny Epler, 17, was killed on the J. W. Henderson ranch in Crockett county yesterday when a bucking bronco threw him. With two other boys, Al Hodges and Rowland Blair, he was taming the horses.

Blair's horse had fallen with him and when Hodges rushed to Blair's assistance leaving Epler to himself, the latter was killed. His neck was broken. He was the son of Z. H. Epler, foreman of the ranch.

Woman Arrested As Theft Suspect

DALLAS, June 28.—(AP)—Police are holding two men and a woman trying to learn whether they robbed an Atlantic & Pacific tea company store with a pistol Saturday night. Somebody did it and got $50 while the manager, L. P. Pinkerson and his son held their hands in the air.

The police think they may learn also from the trio something about the Oak Cliff bank robbery of June 2, since when the perpetrators have been missing.

COUCH BLANKS SPUDDERS, 1-0

Veteran Bob Allows Two Hits, Hodge Gives Up Quintet.

The Spudders dropped the opener at San Antonio yesterday, 1 to 0. Shovel Hodge hurled a superb game for the Wichita Falls team, being touched for five hits and one run. The lone tally was scored in the first inning. Thereafter, Hodge was never in appreciable danger.

The Spudder bat pile lay dormant before the slow ball tosses of the veteran right hander, Bob Couchman. The ordinarily lusty swinging Wichita Falls outfit found Couchman for exactly two hits, no more, no less.

Washburn got the first Spudder hit, coming up after there were two out in the second round with a single to center. DeFate, next at bat, flied out. The other safe clout combed from Couchman's delivery came in the ninth when Lapan led off with a single to center. But Pete was forced at second by Hodge. Metzler forced Hodge and Turgeon walked. Williams, batting for Jenkins bounded out to short.

Two of the San Antonio safeties came in the first frame, therefore the run. Flashkamper outfooted a bunt to third and absconded with second on Gonzales' third strike. Najo followed with a single to left, scoring Flash.

The effectiveness of the two pitchers is displayed in the fact that Wichita Falls failed to score and yet had only three men left on base while San Antonio spiked the dish once and left five runners stranded. Couchman walked one; Hodge passed three.

The two teams are scheduled for a double header this afternoon in Santone, result of that game that was rained out Sunday.

PADDY JERKS KNEE

Paddy Martin, the pudgy portsider, has bumped into another tough break. The Spudder flinger dislocated a knee out at the park. He had just completed a comparatively heavy workout and perched himself on one of Jabez Gardner's chairs to rest when he thought of something else he wanted to do in a hurry. Jumping up suddenly he unwound one of the old knee ligaments.

Lester White and Freddy Boone put in a rousing work session yesterday afternoon without any casualty

Waco Ball Plant Destroyed by Fire

WACO, June 28.—(AP)—The grand stand at Katy park, home of the Waco Cubs, was destroyed by fire here shortly after nine o'clock Monday night. No arrangements have yet been made as to where the scheduled Fort Worth-Waco game will be played tomorrow.

While official confirmations was lacking reports Monday night after the fire were that measures would immediately be taken to rebuild the grandstand. It is thought, however, that the game between the Cats and Cubs scheduled for Tuesday will be played in Waco either at the Caroll field diamond, which has been offered by Baylor university authorities, headed by Jim Crowe, or at Katy park.

WASHINGTON 8 DEFEATS NAVY

Huskies Cop Thrilling Race From Middies By Length.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 28.—(AP)—In as throbbing, spectacular a battle of speed and brawn as any seas have ever witnessed, the University of Washington's stalwart oarsmen this evening wrested the intercollegiate varsity championship, most coveted crown of the rowing world, from the naval academy's gallant crew.

The huskies from the northwest won by a scant quarter of a length, about a dozen feet, after standing off a thrilling challenge by the midshipmen in the last mile, a challenge that threatened several times to overhaul the far westerners in the nerve-wracking struggle between these intersectional rivals.

Washington led all the way but never had more than a half-length of open water advantage and needed all of its early margin to hold off the spirited closing rush of the sailors.

Close to 80,000 spectators looked on from ships, shore and observation trains cars as Washington and the navy battled it out in a race that brought to a climax the greatest intercollegiate rowing spectacle of all time.

The Huskies and the Midshipmen had been expected to fight it out as they have done four times in the last five years but few were prepared for the thrills that they packed into their struggle today—an epic of oarsmanship that overshadowed all other events of a brilliant and picturesque regatta.

Outclassed by these two super-crews, the remaining six contenders in the record-breaking field of eight varsity starters staged a secondary battle of their own for positions.

The end of their see-saw struggle down the Hudson found a surprising Syracuse crew, six lengths back of the navy but leading five other rivals after giving even the Middies and Huskies a bit of a battle for the first half of the race. Trailing the Orange of Syracuse came Pennsylvania, Columbia, California, Wisconsin and Cornell in that order but so closely bunched that only four and one-fifth seconds approximately one boat length, separated all.

DUKE WINS IN THREE ROUNDS

Maywood Fails in Try For Comeback, Losing On Technical KO.

By BLONDY CROSS

The veteran Ray Maywood's comeback gestures proved both futile and sad last night in the feature bout of the American Legion weekly cauliflower show.

The youthful Duke Tramel, Fort Worth welter, won via the technical kayo route in three rounds over the battle-scarred warrior, already relegated to the "has been" class, but who nonetheless endeavored to return to the ring game Monday night after more than a year's absence from its hard knocks and cruel jolts.

It was one of the poorest cards the legion has ever put on. It was staged before the largest fistic gathering of the season to date.

Pug Humphries of Lawton won a referee's decision in six rounds over Jack Doss, Lampasas welter. It was a fair fight, no more. Doss carried the mill to his opponent in five of the six frames but was outscored by counter punches and aggressive infighting.

A scheduled three-round bout between Howard Carr, 110-pounder, and Dale Bolin, 118-pounder, both of Wichita Falls was halted in two rounds. It should never have been started. The lads put on a powder puff exhibition.

Sailor Murphy was given a draw with the lighter Mickey Savage in a comparatively slow four-rounder. Savage was at a disadvantage in weight, reach and ruggedness.

Sailor Hilliard, Burk welter, outpointed Spike Flanagan, Wichita Falls southpaw, in a three-rounder, the best fight of the night. Hilliard led almost solely with a right. Strangely, he got away with it on the portsider who usually sinks stiff punches to the liver with a flailing left when an opponent shoots th right. But Spike was beat to the punch.

Curley Robertson and Battling Joe, a couple of pewees, opened with a three-rounder, the verdict going to Curley.

LAWYER DEFENDS WIFE AND ASSUMES THE BLAME

CHICAGO.—M. C. Lorrin, an attorney, appeared in court to defend his wife, summoned for violating the parking ordinance and also for driving an automobile without license. "The fact is," said attorney Lorrin, "that Mrs. Lorrin handed her expired license to her husband and asked him to see to its renewal. The husband is entirely to blame." Whereupon the court imposed fines totaling $30 upon Mrs. Lorrin and asked Attorney Lorrin to convey to the husband its regrets that he had been remiss.

no doubt about it, P. A. is great makin's

THE instant you open a tidy red tin or a toppy red bag of Prince Albert and get a whiff of that real tobacco, you know you are in for some grand cigarette-sessions. Yes, indeed. You take out a makin's paper and proceed to roll a cigarette that's a sure-fire winner.

Because P. A. is crimp-cut and doesn't flutter all around, it rolls easier. It burns better for the same reason. And then the big thrill . . . that glorious taste! No other home-rolled cigarette can hold a candle to that. Cool. Sweet. Fragrant. Every inch a smoke!

Morning to midnight, you'll roll 'em and smoke 'em. Because every wonderful puff invites another. Your taste just never wearies of this mild, mellow tobacco—good old P. A. Try this better cigarette tobacco today. It will be a smoke-experience, for a fact.

If you have a pipe and want to see how much pleasure it can deliver, tamp a load of Prince Albert into the bowl. Men who thought they were all set on a smoke-program have followed this formula and have become converts overnight. No other tobacco is like this, Men.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins and toppy red bags. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

KAPLAN KAYOES BOBBY GARCIA

Featherweight Champion Successfully Defends Crown.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 28.—(AP)—Louis (Kid) Kaplan of Meriden, Conn., world's featherweight champion successfully defended his title by scoring a knockout over Bobby Garcia of Baltimore in the tenth round of a 15-round match in the Hartford velodrome tonight.

The fight will go down as a technical knockout as the referee stepped in and stopped it after Garcia had taken a count of nine after 54 seconds of fighting in the tenth round.

The challenger was down seven times before the referee stopped the fight. In the eighth he wilted three times for counts of six, six and two.

Meyer Cohen, rugged Holyoke, Mass., welterweight, outpointed Lew Tendler, veteran Philadelphia portsider in the ten-round semi-final match. The fight was a hectic struggle with Meyer's right hand beating Tendler's left in a furious exchange of punches. The victor weighed 146, Tendler 145 3-4.

Eddie Lord of Meridan, Conn., a stable mate of Louis (Kid) Kaplan, won the referee's verdict over Johnny Leonard of Allentown, Pa., Garcia's stable mate, in an eight round preliminary. Lord won by a wide margin beating the keystone boxer in every round except the seventh. Lord weighed 128; Leonard 125.

Fight By Rounds

ROUND ONE—They clinched as they met in the center of the ring, and at close quarters both punched to the body. The champion lifted over a weak left to the head and Garcia countered with a feeble right to the head. Kaplan sunk his right to the ribs and Garcia danced away. Garcia doubled the champion with a short right hook to the body and the champion turned his challenger halfway around with a right hook to the chin as the bell rang.

ROUND TWO—The kid hit to the face with both hands and then straightened his challenger from a crouch with a short right uppercut. Garcia drove to the head and they wrestled to the ropes. The champion staggered Garcia with a driving right to the body. At close quarters they pumped to the body with honors even. They both took one on the chin and clinched. They were wrestling at the bell.

ROUND FOUR—The champion slipped over his right uppercut again and rushed Garcia to the ropes. Garcia landed two wild lefts to the head. The champion missed a left lead and almost floored the referee. Garcia ducked just in time to meet a well-timed uppercut. Garcia slowed the champion with a knifing left to the jaw and put over another left to the same spot but the bell interrupted a follow.

ROUND FIVE—Kaplan stepped in with his left to the head and jarred Garcia with a straight right to the jaw. Kaplan landed a hard left to the body, and Garcia missed with his right. The champion started a furious offensive with both hands and brought blood to the challenger's nose. Garcia dropped his head and met Kaplan's left flush to the face. The one-two punch to the head forced Garcia to clinch and the bell rang before they could be parted.

ROUND SIX—Kaplan landed with both gloves to the head. Garcia countered weakly to the body. Another right uppercut sent Garcia's head back. Still another, landing in Garcia's mid section, forced him to give ground and Kaplan chased him to the ropes. They were dancing for an opening at the bell.

ROUND SEVEN—They clinched and Garcia landed both hands hard to the body. Garcia flashed his right to the head and bounced Kaplan to the ropes. The champion drove a nasty right to the head which brought fresh blood from Garcia's nose. Garcia staggered Kaplan with a right to the face, but Kaplan tore in and punished him to the body. The bell found them punching away at close quarters.

ROUND EIGHT—Kaplan punished Garcia with both gloves to the body. He staggered the challenger to his knees with a stiff right uppercut, but Garcia came back with a right to the jaw. Garcia staggered Kaplan with a left to the [illegible]. A short left hook sent Garcia [illegible] canvas for six. Another left hook [illegible] the body sent him down for another count of six. When he got to his feet Kaplan charged in and drove a right uppercut to the chin which sent Garcia to the canvas for a count of two just as the bell rang.

ROUND NINE—Kaplan rushed out of his corner and floored Garcia with another right to the chin. The challenger took six and came up. A left to the head sent Garcia down for five. The champion charged again and with both gloves flying sent Garcia down again, but he came up at the count of three. Garcia grabbed the ropes and endeavored to hang onto the champion but Kaplan pushed him away and charged again. Garcia was apparently out on his feet but he hung on in a desperate attempt to stem the tide which was slowly overpowering him. The bell found Garcia very weak.

ROUND TEN—Kaplan rushed out of his corner and met Garcia as he was coming out. They clinched then Kaplan stepped in and measured his challenger and drove a terrific right to the body which stretched the challenger horizontial for a count of nine. He staggered to his feet and reeled around unsteadily and the referee stepped in and stopped the match and raised Kaplan's hand in token of victory.

Suzanne Drops Out Of Wimbledon Meet

WIMBLEDON, England, June 28.—(AP) Suzanne Lenglen, incomparable on the tennis court and six-time Wimbledon champion, has withdrawn from the women's singles in the golden jubilee tournament which might have given her a seventh crown.

Beset by ills, which in the opinion of her medical attendants make it inadvisable for her to play, she announced early today that she would not appear on the singles court and she is probably out of the tournament altogether.

The American contingent today suffered a severe loss when Mrs. L. A. Godfree, the former Kitty McKane, British star, eliminated Miss Elizabeth Ryan in the third round of the women's singles in a match which went the limit, despite Miss Ryan's obvious weakness due to recent illness. The score was 1-6, 6-4, 6-0.

In four other matches, however, Americans won. Howard Kinsey came through as a semi-finalist by defeating P. D. B. Spence, South Africa, 6-3, 6-8, 3-6, 6-3.

Vincent Richards and Howard Kinsey advanced to the fourth round by disposing of S. W. Robb and B. Meyer, 6-4, 6-0, 6-3.

Mrs. Molla Mallory and D. M. Greig in the mixed doubles defeated Mme. Mathieu and Jacques Brugnon in a full length match, 6-2, 5-7, 6-1.

WOMAN A HIGH PRIESTESS WITH 50 MALE DISCIPLES

TRIESTE.—A strange sect of religious devotees has been discovered living in the mountains about thirty miles from here. The head of the organization is a woman, the only one of her sex in the colony. The other members are fifty men, whom she calls her "disciples," while they in turn designate her as the "High Priestess." When the colony was found, the authorities planned to drive it from the neighborhood, but thus far they have been unable to establish that any laws have been broken.

Top 'O Morn Stuff

By "Blondy" Cross

Motto: "RAZZ THE RAZZERS"

Two games in Santone today.

Tough on Shovel yesterday. A pitcher who gives up one run and five hits ought to win every time he throws. But when the opposing flinger allows only a pair of bingles and no runs—well, who's fault is it?

* * *

Don't blame it on the manager. All he can do is ask 'em to hit. And if Bob Couchman's lanquid twisters have too much stuff on 'em it isn't anybody else's fault. Brainard can't make 'em hit.

Evidently still pop-eyed over that pair of biff encounters the Sports and Spudders pulled at the Gardner pavilion more than a month ago when Tarleton's tossers copped contest number two, 26 to 11, in seven stanzas, a ball bug out Electra way penned a missive yesterday asking what is the largest score ever made in a Texas league game. Also asked, "Is it a fact Wichita Falls in 1922 set up a consecutive win record by copping 25 straight, including the game Snipe Conley and the Texas league stole over that creosote charge?".

In 1911, an Austin team led by Dale Gear, now Western prex, won 27 straight games, incidently grabbed the Texas league pennant. During this race, Austin beat San Antonio one afternoon by a 44-0 score. Both marks still stand. Along about 1913 Austin made another kind of record, losing 31 consecutive games. Fred Brainard, Boss Spudder today, was a member of that club. Fred has played on both winners and losers, jumping from Austin hop by hop to the Giants, later to Jack Dunn's champion Baltimore Orioles.

JACK A BRAVE "CHAMP"

There will be no wrestling match this week at the arena. Jack Reynolds, the Indiana welter who claims the world's championship and is backed in his assumption by the Wrestling News although Matty Matsuda has defeated him on four occasions, refuses to meet the Jap here, according to Matchmaker Ross who says he has endeavored consistently to get Reynolds on the mat again with the Jap. Jack worked in Amarillo Friday night, but refused to perform in Wichita Falls this week with Matsuda, declaring the gate receipts would not be worth his while, said Ross. That's one way to dodge a match with a better man!

VERY FORTUNATE

Boxing and wrestling in Wichita Falls the past year or so, barring just a few rather poor punch programs put on by the legion, have been of a high caliber. One cannot expect every card to be first class, although the promoters have tried to make them so. But on the whole, the grapple boys and face frescoers have given Wichita Falls a better brand of this two types of athletic entertainment than has been registered in any other city of the southwest. Perhaps one of the reasons the two sports have been of such a good grade is because most of the city officials are sports lovers and close students of botht games. In Frank Quiesser, the police commissioner; George Hodgins, chief of police, and Fred Smith, the sheriff, you have three sportsmen par excellence. These officials, true sports lovers who stand up for clean athletics first and always, have given their unstinted co-operation in keeping both wrestling and boxing on a high plane.

They're quite a combination. Quiesser is a greater wrestling fan than he is boxing enthusiast. Hodgins apparently splits his interest 50-50. Smith seems to enjoy the leather pushers just a bit more than the flying mare boys, but gets a kick all right, all right out of the catch-catch exponents. Incidently, the life of boxing in Wichita Falls rests in the hands of these men.

DUTCH STILL A COMIC

Dutch Mantell, the joke wrestler who is making Amarillo his headquarters, continues to pop off in that sector about all the great things HE'S going to accomplish. Dutch is a brilliant speaker. He should trade his wrestling trunks for a chautauqua lecturer's swallow tail coat. The irrepressible Dutchman has proved a source for large merriment many months now and instead of simmering down is becoming more laughable each day.

* * *

His latest?

A line of gab dished up to a gullible Amarillo sports writer and carried in one of the Panhandle's Sunday newspapers.

Dutch, as usual, would have you believe somebody has "done him wrong," and, as usual, is going to get "even with somebody."

* * *

The item in part:

Dutch Mantell is going a gunning for a sports writer and a promoter in Wichita Falls.

"Furthermore, he is after John McIntosh, El Paso promoter, who according to the hard-socking Dutchman is attempting to double cross him into severe humiliation.

"Thursday night, Mantell was supposed to have wrestled Yaqui Joe in Wichita Falls. He was booked for the match, he says, by Promoter A. B. Ross and not notified he was on the card until a day before the bout.

"'I refuse to wrestle anyone unless my permission is asked,' said Mantell. 'Ross and McIntosh in connection with the Jap had been training the Indian for me and expected to find me unprepared and thus slip over a victory in Wichita Falls. They had other stuff to pull on me also including a squadron of police.

"'Barnum was right in most instances, but not in this case. I will wrestle Yaqui Joe in Amarillo or any other place besides Wichita Falls.'

"A Wichita Falls sports writer called Mantell yellow for failing to show up for the match. He said many uncomplimentary things about the Dutchman."

THAT'S JUST TOO BAD

Everybody picks on Dutch, poor old fellow. How my heart DOES go out to this flagrantly mistreated bimbo. But Dutch is far wrong; Barnum is right in his case, too. And the Duke of Luxembourg displays all the elements of a saffron streak when he oppenly declares he won't meet Yaqui Joe in Wichita Falls. Incidently, no squadron of police as yet has been near Dutch in this city except a protection for the funny little monkey man from possible attack by irate customers who very often do not appreciate the tactics he uses on the mat.

* * *

Dutch Mantell nearly blinded Yaqui Joe several months ago by foully gouging him in the eyes. If McIntosh and Matty Matsuda have coached the Indian for a comeback attempt against the orang outang person that surely could not be labeled a "double cross" maneuver or anything similar to such. Fact of the matter is, Dutch has his back to the wall, figuratively, and is trying to cry his way out.

HUSBAND COMES BACK TO PAWN HER WEDDING RING

CHICAGO.—When Roy A. Harris deserted his wife in 1924 he told her he was "never coming back." But he returned a year later and stayed in her home for a few days. He left again after he had taken Mrs. Harris' wedding ring and pawned it. As he departed he told her he had bought a presen for another woman with the money he go tfrom the pawnbroker. Despite this she waited seven months for him to come back again, then brought suit for divorce, which was granted. The court declared her "a very patient woman."

TALE OF A DOG THAT DIED TOO LATE TO SAVE MONEY

PORTH, Wales.—Thomas Bailey is a thrifty soul, so when he decided that his 14-year-old dog was on its last legs he thought to save money by not getting a new license for the animal. True to expectations, the dog died, but aBiley was nevertheless summoned to court for failing to get a license. He proved that the dog had been unable to stand for several weeks, but the court held that since the animal had not died until the day following the date set for new licenses Bailey would have to pay for a license and also the costs of the court proceedings.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 28.—(AP)—The cotton market was quite a narrow affair today mainly owing to the near approach of the government crop report due Friday morning. Such trading as developed was mainly in the way of evening up of accounts in advance of the report although prices were influenced to slightly lower levels by prospects for more favorable weather in the belt. After opening five points down in response to less favorable cables than due, the market experienced a brief rally of a point or two on rather liberal rain fall over Sunday but soon turned easier on liquidation in advance of the bureau report and on better weather prospects, prices at the lowest showing losses of 15 to 17 points. The market made a moderate rally of five to seven points right after mid-session but later eased off again practically to the early low points. July was supported by some covering by belated shorts in that option and during the afternoon traded nine points above Saturday's close. The close was at or near the lowest, showing net losses of 15 points on active new crop months. July closed four points net up on a bid.

With Liverpool coming in lower than due first trades showed losses of five points but prices rallied slightly during the opening call to 16.37 for October and 16.26 for December. These remained the high points for the day.

Later the market gradually eased off on realising and liquidation until October traded down to 16.23 December to 16.15, or 15 to 17 points down from the close of Saturday. The market fluctuated narrowly during the afternoon and closed practically at the lows. Exports for the day totalled 15,916 bales.

NEW ORLEANS, June 28.—(AP)—Cotton futures closed steady at net 15 points down.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 28.—(AP)—The cotton market was quiet and somewhat irregular today but on the whole appeared to be influenced by a favorable view of weather and crop advices. After selling up to 16.71 early, October declined to 16.60 and closed at 16.62, the general market closing easy, net unchanged to 13 points lower.

The market opened steady at an advance of five points on July but generally one to four points lower. Initial offerings were quickly absorbed by buying which appeared to be based on continued complaints of insect activity in the south. Active months sold two to seven points net higher in early trading. July advancing to 18.25 and December to 16.65.

Demand was less active than recently, however, suggesting the speculative short interest had been well covered on the rallies of last week and the market turned easier on the clearing weather reported in the southwest and hope that it would spread over the eastern belt tonight or tomorrow. Clear warm weather following recent rains would be considered very favorable for the development of the plant but the official forecast was for further showers in the eastern belt sections and selling on the prospect of clearing later probably was restricted by reiterated complaints of insects.

July sold off to 18.13 and December to 16.54 in the early afternoon net declines of about five to nine points. Later fluctuations were irregular but the close was within a point or two of the lowest on the new crop positions which showed net losses of seven to 13 points for the day.

Three more private crop reports were issued. One estimated the condition 76.5, the acreage planted 47,300,000 and the indicated yield 15,100,000 bales. Another made the condition 76.5 and pointed to a decrease of 2½ per cent in acreage, but gave the acreage 47,060 and the crop with an average growing season 15,217,000.

Exports for the day 15,916, making 7,824,194 so far this season. Port receipts 9,104; U. S. port stocks 711,854.

APPROVES SENTENCE

Financial

NEW YORK, June 28.—(AP)—Stiffer call money rates foreshadowing a heavy demand for funds in connection with month-end dividend and interest requirements, curtailed activity in the stock market today but failed to halt the upward movement of prices. Trading was colorless until the final hour when a last-minute spurt accounted for most of the day's gains. Total sales fell below a million shares.

In view of the forthcoming mid-year settlements the rise in call money to five per cent the highest level since the first of June, was considered a natural development and it failed to dampen bullish enthusiasm in a selected list of rails and popular industrials. Elsewhere, however, a more cautious attitude was adopted and the main body of stocks drifted aimlessly.

The most impressive feature of the day's trading was the sustained investment demand for the rail shares. Buying interest was quickened by another series of excellent earnings reports for May with the prospect of still further improvement with the beginning of the crop moving season. The price average of 20 representative issues reached the highest mark in several years, with individual gains of one to 2½ points recorded by Atlantic Coast Line, Atchison, Baltimore and Ohio, New York, Chicago and St. Louis, Chesapeake and Ohio, Chicago and Great Western preferred, Norfolk and Western and Perre Marquette, several of which reached new peaks.

Price movements in the industrial section lacked uniformity, with the oils giving the best exhibition of group strength. Amerada was strengthened by reports that the company planned to expand through the acquisition of other important producers while General Petroleum, Union Oil of California and General Asphalt worked moderately higher.

Narrow fluctuations in the motor shares reflected existing uncertainty over the immediate sales outlook. General Motors, after marking time most of the day spurted ahead at the close to 143⅞, a net gain of 2⅜ while sympathetic advances of two to four points took place in Fisher Body and DuPont. Short covering held Hudson firm in the face of an unsatisfactory earnings report and Willis Overland was strengthened by the favorable response to the introduction of new low priced models. U. S. Rubber, Fisk and other tire issues were under presure.

Speculative operations in most of the industrials and specialties were on the constructive side, but little progress was recorded. U. S. Steel rose fractionally to above 138 and gains of one to 2⅜ points were registered by U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, American Locomotive, Pullman, Baldwin, Allied Chemical and American Smelting, Fox Film and Coca Cola.

Trading in foreign exchanges was extremely dull. Demand sterling held firm at $4.86¼ and French francs hovered around 2.90 cents. No changes of importance took place in the other continental currencies.

In line with the hardening tendency of call money, time funds were less freely offered but the rates for all maturities as well as for commercial paper were unchanged.

NEW YORK MONEY

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, June 28.—(AP)— The flod of Texas wheat hit the Fort Worth market Saturday with 80 cars received here. As a consequence, and in sympathy with contract values, both wheat and oat prices showed heavy revisions downward Monday. Exporters lowered their basis on wheat and demand for that grain was weak. Offerings were very heavy all over the southwest. Corn was steady to higher here.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, June 28.—(AP)—With receipts of new wheat in the southwest rapidly increasing, and with prospects of continued heavy marketing, wheat values underwent a material fresh setback today. For the first time, July delivery of wheat went to a discount under September. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled ¼ to 2⅛c net lower, corn showing ⅛ to ½c gain, oats ⅝ to ¾c off, and provisions unchanged to 40c down.

Corn advanced owing largely to less favorable reports concerning the crop outlook. Demand for oats was lacking and prices droped to a new low price record for the season. Provisions were affected by forecasts of an increased supply of pigs in the corn belt.

Quakes Destroy Italian Village

ROME, June 28.—(AP)—The village of Arkhangelo was wiped out and several other towns on the Island of Rhodes were seriously damaged in Saturday's eathquake which was felt throughout the Mediterranean basin between Asia Minor, southern Italy and north Africa.

As far as is known only one person was killed. Several were injured. Greater loss of life was prevented by the flight of the panic-stricken population as soon as the first intimation of the approach of the dreaded earth tremor was felt.

VIRGINIA COAL MINERS STRIKE

Officials Order Walkout To Commence On July 5.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., June 28.—(AP)—A third call for a general strike of northern West Virginia coal miners effective July 5, was issued here today by Van A. Bittner, international representative of the United Mine Workers of America.

The union leader asked "every miner in northern West Virginia not under contract" to join with the miners' union in a "fight for independence."

The strike call said that at the instance of men working in non-union mines the union had conducted extensive campaign of organization and that "the great majority of the men working in the non-union mines where the operators abrogated their wage agreement with the United Mine Workers" are now members of the union.

On April 1, and October 26, 1925, strike calls were issued by Bittner in the northern West Virginia field and for more than a year strike headquarters have been maintained here.

ABBATOIR LAW IS UNDER FIRE

Butchers & Meat Handlers Of City Assail Ordinance

The city's abbatoir ordinances with its provisions for slaughtering and care of meat for sale within the city limits came under fire at Monday night's meeting of the city council. Discussion that at times amounted to an animated cross fire between councilmen and representatives of the city's meat and butcher trade developed almost immediately following the request from the butchers that the ordinance be so amended as to elminate the cooling system included at present in the specifications.

It was pointed out that elimination of the cooling and refrigeration system would place installation of abbatoir facilities within the reach of a number of meat sellers of the city. The charge was made that the present ordinance worked a hardship on the meat trade as a whole.

The matter was taken under consideration by the council and will be discussed further at a later meeting.

Woman, Taking Her Husband's Body Home for Burial, Aids a Girl Who Turned Judas After Offering Help

Transient Enroute from California to East Texas Victimized in City, Then She Turns to Help One Who Took Advantage of Her.

"Not all the good ones are dead," says Lyle Donough, city traffic captain.

He tells the story of a woman on her way to east Texas from California, taking with her the body of her husband who had died back west somewhere and wanted to be buried at the place he called home. She had in her pocketbook $45.50 in money, and tagging along with her two hungry youngsters of eight and ten.

At Amarillo, lonely, she had made friends with a young woman of 24 or so who told her she was going to Olney and who offered to help her as far as Wichita Falls.

It was only a little while yesterday noon after bidding the "friend" good-bye that she discovered someone had taken the $45.50 from her bag. She called the city hall and furnished police with a description of the girl, who was arrested and the money recovered shortly after.

"Why?" she asked the girl. "I had to have money to get to Olney," she was told.

Her complaint might have sent the young woman to jail to answer charges of theft. But instead of complaining she took from her purse, once more replenished, money sufficient to get the young woman to Olney and put her up there for a day or so until she could get work.

Then she went on her way to east Texas, leaving a thoroughly admiring police traffic captain.

Four Members of Family Are Slain At Florida Home

TAMPA, Fla., June 28.—(AP)—Four members of the Rowell family were killed in their home here today, their heads crushed with an axe which was found nearby. Three were dead when found and the fourth, Lena Rowell, 16, died before she could explain the attack.

Police could find no cause for the crime and a coroner's jury that was called adjourned until Wednesday. Neighbors told of hearing a commotion and loud voices in the house about 1 a. m., but apparently nobody investigated at the time.

Rotary Probably Won The Game, But If It Didn't, It Ought To

		Runs	Hits	Errors
ROTARY	025	05	12	Some Yes
KIWANIS	001	24	7	???? Lord Yes

Briefly, and in condensed form, the above represents the technical results of Monday afternoon's titantic struggle at Spudder park when the Rotary Decrepits and the Kiwanis Insipids rangled in what was advertised as a baseball game. Cold figures can give the runs, they can give an approximation of the hits and a supposition about the errors. But neither facts, figures, adjectives or explitives can describe what really transpired.

For the benefit of those who put their money on the Kiwanians, it is announced that Rotary probably won the game. The score at the end of the fifth inning was 12 to 7, and at that juncture the scorers quit and left the park. A couple of more frantic stanzas were run off, but the relative standing probably wasn't altered to any extent. If one side scored 8 or 10 runs the other one did too—or should have. Anyhow, what's the difference?

The Strike Out King

Whatever else it revealed, the battle established rather clearly who the Wichita Falls strike-out king is. It's Horrace Robbins, he of lean and wiry hearing won the title hands down when he toed the platter in the third. Three Rotary kinsmen were on the paths and the score by that time hadn't mounted to such a point as to preclude the necessity of further tallies. The mighty Robbins glared defiantly at Elkins who was on the mound for Kiwanis.

The first one was wide.

"Rawl one." Umps Tanner announced.

The next was over and Robbins drove it high, wide and handsome, only it traveled the wrong way and hit the top of the grandstand for a perfect foul.

The next he fouled, too. Then came another "bawl," and finally another one sailed down the groove.

Robbins swung with murderous intent. He churned up the air and missed the pill a foot. Three Rotarians, their faces darkening, turned from the paths and limped for the field, while a groan that echoed and re-echoed from the fence and score board went up from the Rotary bench. Thus did Robbins win his epaulets.

There were others, however, who contributed just as brilliant performance. Jim Gant, for example.

Hooks a glove

Jim hooked a glove somewhere along in the fourth inning and planted himself on third for the Kiwanis club. Rotary was at bat and got a man on first by virtue of some miscue or other. Then a Rotarian drove a warm one down the third base line. Jim leaped and sprawled, got his glove in the way of the bounding horsehide—and by some miracle it stuck.

So far so good, but more was coming. With the ball in his hand Jim trotted contentedly to third, stepped on the bag and with a "look-what-done" grin of satisfaction, tossed the ball back to the pitcher's box. The Rotarian on first ambled gleefully to second; the batter dittoed him to first and the rest of the Kiwanians turned on Jim with an attitude in which mayhem was the dominant note.

All the fighting wasn't done on the diamond. The spectators, for example, were treated to the spectacle of the city's mayor engaging in rigorous warfare on first base line with bats, fists and what have you included as ammunition. Marquis of Packing House rules prevailed. The mayor, who happens to be a Rotarian, wandered too close to the Kiwanis stronghold, made a dirty crack about Kiwanians in general and straightway got ganged. From out the welter of fists, bats and heels, the mayor finally emerged triumphant, holding two burly adversaries by the scuff of the neck and cackeling wildly. Later he went to play second for the Rotarians. He "went," that is. No one said he played.

Frank Qiesser, as a ball player, is a good politician. The burly bum had part of his armed constabulary on the Kiwanis bench and on at least three occasions when violence threatened, riot guns and muskets were hauled out. On another occasion the cops came out with a stretcher which they eventually used to haul their obstreperous boss back to safety with. Incidentally, Queisser really stopped a ball in the third inning and managed to get on the paths a couple of times after he tried to hit.

Wilburn a Star.

Turning to the other side, the game developed a couple of real stars. Wilburn, who held down third for the Rotarians, made some notable stops and throws. Hanlin, the Rotary mankman, displayed marked although somewhat rusty ability; while his battery mate, Slim Kellogg, hurled in style for Rotary all the way through and usually had things about his own way.

The Kiwanians trotted out a trio of pitchers, Patton, Praxton and Sanderford all taking a turn with the latter most effective.

Whatever the result, the game brought in a good return of cash to the coffers of the Kiwanis club day nursery fund, and after all, that was what it wanted to do. A fair-sized crowd was on hand. All proceeds go to cut down the club indebtedness on the day nursery building fund which the Kiwanians sponsored.

C-C DIRECTORS CALLED TO MEET

Important Session to Be Held Thursday Afternoon.

An important meeting of directors of the chamber of commerce has been called for Thursday afternoon when the question of the city water distribution system and that of the municipal auditorium will be taken up. J. C. Mytinger, president of the chamber of commerce, who has been in the north and east for some time on an extensive busines trip, will have returned by Thursday.

The water question has been hanging fire since adverse sentiment regarding a proposed bond issue resulted in a delay on this. After once indorsing the bond issue, the chamber of commerce later recommended that the city postpone its election and have some further surveys made before any definite steps were taken. This question will be discussed at the meeting Thursday, it was indicated yesterday.

Definite action is expected to come regarding the auditorium question. With the successful fight of Wichita Falls for the 1927 convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce and the consequent need of some place to care for the crowd, it is expected that the chamber of commerce directors will take speedy steps to make suitable recommendations to the city council.

CITY SCHOOLS ARE REPAIRED

Work of Renovation Goes On Daily at All Buildings Here.

Work of renovating old buildings and construction of new ones for the public school system of Wichita Falls is going on daily, according to Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of public schools. Redressing blackboards, sandpapering and varnishing desks, oiling floors and other work is going on in the schools.

The white wooden structure which has been on the Alamo school grounds, serving as the cafeteria, has been removed to the grounds at San Jacinto school, it was said. The space it occupied at the Alamo ground will be used for the building of the new cafeteria and auditorium, the approximate cost of which is $22,000.

First Class Cafeteria.

The cafeteria will be made into a first-class affair for the San Jacinto school which has been without a cafeteria. It will remain on the San Jacinto grounds until an addition is built to that school, Dr. Cantwell said.

Prospects are bright for the new junior high school building on Polk street, and construction work is advancing rapidly. The new building is being erected at a cost of $225,000 and will be one of the handsome new buildings of the city when completed.

Walls are already up on the Benjamin Franklin school in the Hamilton-Martin addition, and the work will be pushed to completion. This building will cost $65,000. A $14,000 addition totaling four rooms is being put on the Carrigan school. It is expected that the new buildings will be ready early next fall and the additions completed by the opening of schools September 13.

Kiwianans Hear Patriotic Address

Observance of the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence was featured by the Kiwanis club in the noon luncheon Monday when a patriotic program was given with Dr. Floyd Allan Bash, minister of the First Christian church, giving the principal address, "The Heritage of Americans."

"We cannot celebrate this one hundred and fiftieth anniversary without going back to the doctrine which our forefathers had, the prayer, faith, vision and indominatable courage which prompted the Declaration of Independence," he said.

"What is America?" he asked, and answered his question that America is not the land bounded on the east by the Atlantic, on the west by the Pacific, the north by Canada, the south by the Gulf of Mexico, but "the real America is the temple of the soul.

"They came here, those first pioneers, the Pilgrim fathers the sons and daughters of God."

Inspect Valley

Members of the irrigation district boards made an extensive tour of inspection Monday through the irrigation valley and over a section of land on which surveys have been made for new canals.

The trip, it was explained, was simply one in which the directors familiarized themselves with the new territory.

Endeavers In Monday Meeting

A mass meeting of the Christian Endeavor Societies of the city was held Monday night at the Floral Heights Presbyterian church.

Business of the association was brought before the members. The Rev. Dan Greider of the First Presbyterian church gave the principal talk of the evening.

Miss Emma Lee Scott, district president, gave a report on the Christian Endeavor convention held recently at San Antonio with around 52 delegates from Wichita Falls attending.

DR. JOHNSON IS CALLED HOME

Mother of Local Pastor Is Critically Ill In Mississippi.

Dr. Walter J. Johnson, pastor of the First Methodist church, received word Monday afternoon that his mother, Mrs. J. M. Johnson of Lexington, Miss., is critically ill. Later messages were received last night saying that her condition was slightly improved, but little hope was held for her recovery. Dr. Johnson expects to leave today for Mississippi. His mother is 87 years old.

CANDIDATES TO DEBATE TONIGHT

Political Guns to Boom In Rally at Park; Talks Short.

A joint debate of campaign issues by Joe B. Carrigan and Ben P. Allred, candidates for the office of district attorney, with principal speeches of the two limited to 15 minutes and rebuttal speeches to five minutes, will be a feature of tonight's all candidate speaking rally to be held at Bellvue parq. All candidates whose names appear on the ballot for the July democratic primary will be given a chance to speak at the rally, it is announced by H. J. Bruce, democratic chairman. So far as is known, however, there will be no other actual debates.

Time of the rally has been moved up from 8 o'clock to 7:30, it is announced by Mr. Bruce.

Every effort will be made to keep speeches as brief as possible, with the time length graded according to the importance of the office, he stated Monday. So far as is known neither of the three gubernatorial candidates will have representatives to speak for them at the meeting. Judge B. D. Sartin will make a short address in the interest of his candidacy for congress from this district.

Wichitan Leaves to Study Pecan Growth In Florida

The valley of the Wichita River will be the most prolific pecan country in the United States, in the opinion of Mort C. Clark, pecan grower of this country, who will leave this week for an extended tour of inspection of pecan orchards in Florida, Georgia, the Pecos valley in New Mexico and the Imperial valley in California. He is going to study the culture of these nuts with a view toward improving his orchard.

Daring the winter Mr. Clark put in 120 acres in paper shell pecans a few miles north of the city and during the coming winter will plant budded trees on 250 acres more.

"With the soil and water for irrigation made possible by Lake Kemp, the whole valley will produce thousands and thousands of dollars in big pecans," he said Monday. "The pecan tree is native in Texas and there is no reason why cultivation of selected and budded trees cannot add untold wealth to this already prosperous valley.

"Pecan trees will add $150 to the value of each acre annually for ten to fifteen years," he declared.

CHARGES FILED

Charges of negligent homicide were filed Monday in the county courts naming Love Grant, negro, held in connection with an accident on the Iowa Park road on June 19, as a result of which W. T. Chappell died at the general hospital Monday morning.
