The Scurry County Fair had another successful exhibition and attendance again was surprising.

The fair got a bad break on the weather for its opening day, as the first real brisk norther of the season blew in Thursday. However, there were people on hand throughout the opening day. In fact, officials of the Scurry County Heart Association were surprised when over 100 persons stopped by the Heart Association booth Thursday evening to have their blood pressure checked. The local association conducted the hypertension clinic at its booth for all three days, checking blood pressures on Thursday and Friday evening and during both day and evening hours on Saturday. Several hundred persons participated.

Darrell Royal, the University of Texas Athletic Director and Head Football Coach, didn't have much public comment to make when three of his players were hurt at an Austin eating establishment a couple of weeks ago. However, reports from Austin say he is unhappy whenever anyone refers to the incident as a "fight."

There was no fight to it—the football players were simply attacked by a bunch of hoodlums, Royal is reported to have said.

Cameras, television and the still variety, make the work of game officials an exacting science these days. Up to now, there has been a reluctance to spotlight officiating errors, but an umpire's decision in a World Series has been put in the national spotlight, andno less authority than Bud Wilkinson has pointed out some football calls that "could have gone either way" after scrutinizing them on instant replay.

There wasn't any photographic evidence, but Snyder football fans are still wondering what happened on a decision in the game at Sweetwater last Friday night. It apparently had no bearing on the outcome of the game, and Snyder had plenty of chances to win it later on and didn't, but it was a strange event, nevertheless. One of the officials threw a flag and signalled an infraction against Sweetwater. The referee stepped off yardage against Snyder. The official who threw the flag then ran to the referee and gestured that the infraction was against Sweetwater, rather than Snyder. But the penalty against Snyder still was allowed to stand.–WACIL McNAIR.

Nixon Heads Back On Campaign Trail

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, heading back to the campaign trail in earnest, has joined Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in voicing kind words for the Conservative who hopes to unseat New York's Republican Sen. Charles E. Goodell.

Nixon, however, stopped short of endorsing the Conservative party candidate, James L. Buckley.

When greeted by nearly 1,000 Buckley partisans during a brief stop late Monday at the Westchester County, N.Y., Airport, Nixon was asked, "Are you for Mr. Buckley?"

"I appreciate the fact he's for me," Nixon replied.

Goodell, whom Agnew has called a "radical-liberal" and a party renegade, puffed happily at his pipe as he greeted GOP Senate Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, Republican Senate Whip Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, Senate Party Policy Chairman Gordon Allott of Colorado, six liberal GOP senators and several other well-wishers.

The affair was at New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's opulent Washington home. Rockefeller, who has said he will do all he can to help Goodell's fight against Democratic Rep. Richard L. Ottinger and Buckley, did not attend.

"I think Charlie's a great Republican," said Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts. "We're going to do everything we can for him."

Others at the affair were Sens. Mark Hatfield of Oregon, Jacob K. Javits of New York, William B. Saxbe of Ohio, Ted Stevens of Alaska and Marlow W. Cook of Kentucky, and Undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare John G. Veneman.

Cutback Plans Mapped

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command began mapping plans today for a new 40,000-man troop cutback announced by President Nixon despite reports of a North Vietnamese buildup in Laos.

The U.S. Strategic Air Command sent its entire active Pacific fleet of B52 bombers over Laos for the fifth consecutive day in efforts to check a North Vietnamese supply push down the Ho Chi Minh trail to Canbodia and South Vietnam.

Nixon announced Monday in Hartford, Conn., that the authorized American troop level in Vietnam would be reduced to 344,000 by Dec. 31. Under plans previously announced, this is tc drop another 60,000 men—to 284,000—by next May 1.

Peak American strength in Vietnam was 543,400 in April 1969, and the total is now less than 384,000. Nixon's withdrawal program began in June 1969.

Sources in Saigon said some American units are already positioned for withdrawal from the battlefield. The next units to leave Vietnam are expected to include the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment, the 25th Infantry Division and the 1st and 5th Regiments of the 1st Marine Division. The 7th Marine Regiment of the 1st Division already has been withdrawn.

In the war, about 30 of the giant B52 bombers pounded the Ho Chi Minh trail. There have been no B52 raids flown in South Vietnam since last Saturday and none in Cambodia since last Thursday.

Volunteer Force Effort Pledged

by FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland, who has been cool to the Nixon administration's plan for an all-volunteer Army, today pledged to expend every effort to achieve such a force.

But the Army Chief of Staff warned the American people that "even money will not do the job" of switching from a draft-based Army to an all-volunteer force unless the country rallies in full support and critics stop downgrading the Army.

"We cannot attract the kind of soldier we need into an organization denigrated by some, directly attacked by others, and half-heartedly supported by many," Westmoreland said.

"This country cannot have it both ways."

The Army's top general chose the convention of the Association of the United States Army to voice his commitment to an "all-out effort in working toward a zero draft—a volunteer force."

This "all-out" phrase was used Monday by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird in disclosing he had ordered the Armed Services to take immediate steps in preparation for ending reliance on the draft by mid-1973.

In a prepared speech for the Army Association, Westmoreland outlined a number of steps already taken to make Army life more attractive to young men, including orders aimed at eliminating "make work" practices in training.

"We are reviewing all our policies and administrative procedures. Nothing is considered sacrosanct except where military order and discipline ... are jeopardized. In this, we cannot and will not yield."

However, the former U.S. commander in Viewnam acknowledged that young men who are or will become soldiers and junior officers have attitudes differing from older officers and non-commissioned officers.

"Their values and attitudes need not necessarily be endorsed by Army leadership, yet we must recognize that they do exist."

Guard Strike Causes Concern

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—An undeclared strike by members of the U.N. guard force aroused concern today for the safety of world leaders arriving for the 25th anniversary of the United Nations.

Sixty-nine of the 230 guards at U.N. headquarters called in sick Monday to back up demands for more pay and more favorable promotion procedures. Sixteen of the 29 U.N. telephone operators also called in sick, raising the threat of communications difficulties.

Secretary-General U Thant was reported "very much concerned" over the work boycott because of the impending arrival of some 45 chiefs of state or government for the birthday ceremonies starting Wednesday.

Cooper Rites Set

Funeral service has been set for 3 p.m. Wednesday at the First United Methodist Church for Rondall E. Cooper, 46.

Mr. Cooper, principal of Lamar Junior High School, died at about 7:20 a.m. Monday when his car crashed into a bridge abutment near Merkel on Interstate 20. The car burned at the scene.

Snyder Public Schools will dismiss classes Wednesday at 2 p.m. so that faculty and staff members, as well as pupils, may attend the funeral services. The school buses will run at 2 p.m., school officials said.

The Rev. Wallace Kirby will officiate at the funeral service. Burial will be in Hillside Memorial Gardens, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Absentee Vote Period Begins

Voters who will be away on election day may cast ballots at the county clerk's office at the courthouse.

However, the absentee voting period is of even more significance to voters who have moved from one precinct to another, or have moved into Scurry County since they registered to vote.

Those who have moved from one precinct to another within the county must get their voting credentials changed at the county tax office before Oct. 29.

Voters who have moved into Scurry County within the past six months, but who have lived in Texas a year and are registered to vote in other counties, may cast "limited ballots" (voting only on state and national offices) during the absentee voting period. This also must be done at rhe county clerk's office.

UF Report Session Set

A report session for the Scurry County United Fund Campaign has been set for 10 a.m. Thursday at the campaign headquarters in city hall.

All team captains are being urged to collect reports from their workers and submit team reports at the Thursday morning session. This will be the second report session in the current United Fund Campaign. The first report meeting accounted for slightly over $7,500. The campaign goal this year is $42,442.44 to support nine participating service agencies.

To Establish Relations

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada and Red China have reached agreement to establish diplomatic relations, Foreign Secretary Mitchell Sharp announced today.

In a statement to the House of Commons, Sharp said Canada recognizes the government in Peking as the sole legal government of China.

Up to now, Canada—like the United States and other nations—recognized the Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa as the legal Chinese government.

Sharp said Canada and Red China will exchange ambassadors within six months.

Canada and the Peking Chinese have been negotiating the agreement for 20 months in Stockholm, Sweden.

Ambassador Yu-chu Hsueh of Nationalist China said his goodbys at Ottawa airport. He had planned to leave Canada before the government's announcement but his flight was delayed. He said he was distressed by Canada's decision.

About 100 members of Ottawa's Chinese community, many carrying Chinese Nationalist flags, were at the airport to say goodby. Hsueh was the fourth Chinese Nationalist ambassador to Ottawa since 1946.

A simultaneous announcement was made in Peking and broadcast by the official New China News Agency.

The broadcast said that on the touchy problem of Formosa, also called Taiwan, Communist China said it "reaffirms that Taiwan is an inalienable part" of its territory and "the Canadian government takes note of this position."

Canada had been considering whether to seek relations with mainland China since the 1950s, but no action was taken until bilateral talks began in Stockholm in February 1969, a month after Foreign Minister Mitchell Sharp announced the Canadian intentions.

Nationalist China's acting foreign minister James Shen told his parliament in Taipai an announcement of agreement between Ottawa and Peking was imminent. He said Chiang Kai-shek's regime would break relations with Canada within 24 hours of the announcement.

Agreement was not reached easily. Ottawa balked at the Communists' insistence that Canada recognize Red China's claim to Formosa, the home of the Nationalist government. Diplomatic recognition usually doesn't specify national boundaries, and Canada was known to consider such a stipulation a dangerous precedent.

But Sharp has held throughout to a one-China policy, and observers speculated that the issue was resolved by a Canadian pledge to vote next month for a resolution in the U.N. General Assembly to seat the Communist regime instead of Nationalist China in the United Nations. Trudeau's government has said its vote on the question would depend on the outcome of the Stockholm talks.

Even with a switch by Ottawa, however, the resolution is expected to be rejected again.

The Canadian initiative was launched in January 1969 over the strong objections of the Nixon administration.

"Women's Lib" Act Modified

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate modified today a proposed constitutional amendment on equal rights. The change would make it clear that women would be exempt from the draft.

Backers of the proposed amendment who had sought to prevent any change in it at all, predicted the unexpected 36 to 33 vote would kill the whole proposal.

"It is never going to see the light of day," declared Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chief sponsor of what is frequently referred to as the "women's lib" amendment.

"In my opinion, any amendment would kill it," Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said before the session began.

Approved was an amendment by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., spokesman for a group of opponents that included Southerners, Republicans and such liberal Democrats as Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

The Ervin anendment actually makes two other important changes in the five-line proposal passed by the House overwhelmingly last summer.

It also would make the amendment effective two years after ratification by three-fourths of the states and would nullify it altogether if such ratification was not completed within seven years.

Regardless of the outcome on this vote, Ervin said he would block final action unless and until the Senate accepts language stating "this article shall not deprive the United States or any state of the legislative right to extend to female persons any right or protections sanctioned by the 5th and 14th Amendments to the Constitution."

An amendment by Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., was voted down Monday. It would have tacked onto the equal rights proposal another constitutional amendment sanctioning freedom-of-choice school desegregation plans.

B. L. Kent Dies Monday

Nasser Named His Successor

By ROY ESSOYAN
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser named his successor shortly before he died, but his nominee is under house arrest because he is unacceptable to the Soviet Union, reliable diplomatic [illegible] [illegible].

The sources said Nasser's handpicked choice to lead Egypt was Zakaria Mohieddin, a [illegible] [illegible] who [illegible] embarrassed his chief by opposing the growing Soviet penetration of Egypt.

Nasser reportedly expressed his last wish to Information Minister Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, one of his closest friends, who was at his bedside when the president died of heart failure Sept. 28. The information reached the foreign diplomats from some of Heikal's associates.

The Arab Socialist Union, Egypt's only political party, nominated Vice President Anwar Sadat to succeed Nasser, and he will be elected Thursday in a nationwide referendum in which he is the only candidate. But there are indications a power struggle is continuing behind the scenes, with Heikal's own position threatened because he insisted that Nasser's preference for Mohieddin be honored.

The diplomats said Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, when he came to Cairo for Nasser's funeral, told the Egyptian leaders the Soviet government would have no confidence in a government headed by Mohieddin.

The Russians are believed to favor Air Marshal Ali Sabry, a prominent figure in the reported power struggle and an old rival of Mohieddin. They both served as prime minister and also as vice president.

Mohieddin was in the inner circle of Nasser's 1952 revolution against King Farouk. Nasser publicly designated him to succeed to the presidency when he announced his resignation in the first hours of defeat in June 1967. Nasser later withdrew his resignation under popular pressure, and Mohieddin faded into the background.

Heikal, long-time editor of the semi-official newspaper Al Ahram and Nasser's mouthpiece for many years, tried to convince the other Egyptian leaders to honor Nasser's last wish despite the Soviet veto of Mohieddin, the informants said.

Heikal reportedly ran into stiff opposition, notably Sabry and Sadat, who pointed out that Egypt could not afford to offend its only source for the huge arsenal required for war with Israel.

Some sources said Heikal, acting as a kind of spokesman for the absent Mohieddin, argued in vain in the inner councils for a more liberal political system, including freedom of expression, release of political prisoners and genuinely free and open elections.

The informants said security officials made a quick survey throughout Egypt after Nasser died and found that a substantial majority of the people [illegible] [illegible] to succeed Nasser, even without knowing that he was Nasser's [illegible].

The diplomatic sources say Mohieddin is confined to a comfortable gray stucco villa in one of Cairo's best residential areas.

Anticrime Bill Goes To Nixon

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has sent to the White House a tough anticrime bill designed to curtail campus bombings and shield businesses and unions from an underworld takeover.

The bill gives the FBI authority to investigate bombings at institutions receiving federal aid —including most colleges—and provides the death penalty for fatal bombings.

The Senate completed legislative action on the measure Monday, sending it to President Nixon by voice vote.

A person convicted of using money from organized crime to acquire or establish a business engaged in interstate commerce could be fined up to $25,000 and imprisoned up to 20 years.

The bill authorizes an extra 25-year sentence for a person found to be a habitual or professional criminal.

Designated as federal crimes for the first time are large-scale illicit gambling and bribery of local officials in connection with gambling activities.

The measure swept through the Senate after less than 30 minutes' debate. Basically the same bill, without the antibombing provisions, passed the Senate last January.

The House, reacting to a series of bombings in several cities, added the provisions and passed the bill last week.

Extensive civil liberty safeguards tacked on by a House Judiciary subcommittee were scrapped before final approval.

While no votes against the bill were heard in the Senate, Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., commented, "After a very brief look, I am sure that some of these provisions will be held unconstitutional."

Cooper referred to provisions dealing with prosecution immunity for witnesses, electronic surveillance and the extra 25-year sentence for those deemed professional criminals.

Lonsdale Is Dead

MOSCOW (AP) — Gordon Lonsdale, the Soviet master spy released by the British for one of their own agents in 1964, is dead, Russian informants reported today.

They said he died Friday of a heart attack while picking mushrooms near Moscow.

Lonsdale was 46 years old.

In 1961 he was caught by British intelligence agents and sentenced to 25 years in prison as head of a spy ring filching secrets from the Portland submarine base in Britain.

Lonsdale was handed over to Soviet authorities after serving less than four years of his sentence in exchange for British businessman Greville Wynne, whom the Russians were holding as an accomplice of Oleg Penkovsky, a Russian accused of spying against the Soviet Union. Penkovsky was executed by a firing squad in 1963.

Prison Terms Assessed Pair

Charles W. Harding and Ronnie Lee Fletcher both pleaded guilty in county court yesterday to charges of theft over $50. They received two-year prison terms.

They stole a car from a soldier last August after the soldier gave them a ride. The soldier, enroute to Fort Hood, was tied up, but he managed to free himself.

Claims Settled

AUSTIN (AP) — Dist. Judge Herman Jones says a tentative agreement has been reached for settlement of claims against the estate of University of Texas sniper Charles Whitman.

Some 30 persons claim damages against the estate of Whitman, who was killed by police after he shot 14 persons to death and wounded 30 others on the campus Aug. 1, 1966. He also stabbed his wife and mother to death.

The estate's administrator has set its value at about $40,000.

Oilman Says Price Hike Essential

DALLAS (AP) — A leading Texas oil man said today "substantial and immediate price increases are essential if investors are to be lured back into the "risky business of hunting for oil and gas."

The "tragic alternative," said Kenneth E. Montague of Houston, is further liquidation of vital Texas crude and natural gas reserves.

The remarks by Montague Echoing an unusually comprehensive statement by his colleagues, were contained in a keynote speech prepared for delivery at the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association's 51st convention.

Montague, president of the association, the state's largest and oldest petroleum body, pursued a somewhat forceful policy line taken Monday by the association's executive committee.

The committee asserted that Texas oil wells are now producing at near capacity, reserves are declining, "economic obstacles" must be removed and only a swift, significant price increase will encourage new exploration.

The committee called for the removal of "excessive taxation" of the industry, attacked "uncertain import and leasing policies," urged abolishment of the federal price ceilings on natural gas and opposed what it called unrealisitic state and federal environmental policies.

Montague, president of General Crude Oil Co., said the industry has suffered a "miserable" year of trauma, urmil and reverses on a variety of fronts.

"Our taxes went up with the cut in depletion rates," he said.

"We produced more oil, refined more products, set sales records, and saw profits go down. Exploratory drilling is off and our reserves of oil and gas are dwindling."

While Texas oil is selling in record quantities, primary reserves have dipped to their lowest points since 1949, he said. Gas reserves, he added, are now the lowest since 1956.

As this nation faces the prospects of a shortage in energy fuels, there is considerable specualtion as to what price levels will be needed to reverse," he said.

Ben-Gurion Blames Nasser

NEW YORK (AP) — David Ben-Gurion, 84-year-old retired first premier of Israel, says the late President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt was mainly responsible for the Middle East crisis.

In an interview filmed in Israel in connection with a movie about his life, Ben-Gurion said before Nasser's death:

"I believe he at one time had the capacity, the vision and the means to improve his people's condition and to stop this futile merry-go-round of war.

"Nasser, I think, had everything but that one essential quality known colloquially as intestinal fortitude, or guts."

Surgeon Claims Aspirin Harmful

CHICAGO (AP) — A surgeon-researcher says aspirin is a health hazard and should be sold only by prescription along with all other potent drugs.

Dr. Rene Menguy, professor of surgery at the University of Chicago, said Monday it has long been known that aspirin can cause internal bleeding and sometimes death, yet it continues to be sold over the counter.

Menguy told a press conference at the clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons there are no statistics on aspirin-related fatalities, but that he would guess there are 1,000 a year.

About 20 million pounds of the drug are used each year in the United States.

Menguy and a colleague, Dr. Adele Mae Gottschalk, reported results of a study they made on the effects of aspirin on the stomachs of rats.

They said aspirin reduces the protective mucous secretion in the stomach which allows acid to penetrate its walls.

Menguy, who has been studying the effects of aspirin for 10 years, said physicians and the public do not always realize that aspirin can cause massive, sometimes lethal, internal bleeding.

He estimated that one out of every seven or eight patients who report to hospitals complaining of internal bleeding have the problem as a result of taking aspirin, although tens of thousands of people take the drug with no trouble.

Menguy said the person who takes aspirin only occasionally, as he does himself, is less likely to develop serious bleeding problems than the chronic user, who takes four to six tablets a day over a long period.

Aspirin users, particularly women, may develop gastric ulcers, he said.

Aspirin should never be taken on an empty stomach, he said, and the worst time to take it is when suffering from a hangover, because alcohol increases the damaging effect.

Quebec Opens Negotiations

MONTREAL (AP) — The Quebec government opened negotiations during the night with the kidnapers of a British diplomat and a provincial cabinet minister as hundreds of armed combat troops joined police in guarding politicians, diplomats and other prominent persons in Ottawa.

Robert Lemieux, a long-haired lawyer awaiting trial on a charge of obstructing justice, was representing the Quebec Liberation Front—the FLQ—which kidnaped British Trade Commissioner James Richard Cross Oct. 5 and abducted Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte Saturday.

The two men met in the downtown police station where Lemieux had been held since Sunday in connection with the investigation into the kidnapings. After midnight Justice Minister Jerome Choquette announced that Lemieux was being paroled, apparently to expedite the negotiations for the release of Cross and Laporte, but several hours later the FLQ representative was still being held.

Lemieux is an advocate of Quebec's separation from Canada and has frequently defended terrorist members of the FLQ in court. The FLQ's aim is separation of the French-speaking vince from the rest of Canada and its establishment as an independent state.

The FLQ cell that kidnaped Cross says it will free the Briton if the government releases 23 men convicted or awaiting trial for political terrorism, and if the police call off their investigation into the kidnapings.

The cell that abducted Laporte has made the same demands plus four others: $500,000 in ransom, the name and picture of an alleged informer against the FLQ, publication of FLQ propaganda, and reinstatement of all truck drivers who lost their jobs when the city took over mail deliveries in Montreal.

The kidnapers have warned repeatedly that they will kill their hostages unless the government meets their demands. One FLQ communique Monday said that "we are setting no deadlines. However, if you show evident bad faith, we will return to action."

The first big break in the kidnaping case came Monday when both cells released communiques authorizing Lemieux to act as their representative. Previously the kidnapers had refused government offers to negotiate through intermediaries.

One communique was accompanied by a hand-written note from Cross, who thanked Provincial Premier Robert Bourassa for arranging the negotiations and "saving my life and that of Mr. Laporte."

Young Moderns: City Girl Recalls Summer On Farm

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Cultural exchange programs between young folk in the United States and foreign countries has been very successful in acquanting youth with neighbors overseas.

A great idea too might be an exchange program for city and country youths—east and west, north and south.

City teen-agers might go to farms where they could rise early to help milk cows, feed chickens and learn about animal husbandry. Farm youths might live in the big cities, working at city jobs or volunteering in social welfare work.

A city girl who lived and worked on a farm a few years ago, advises that it was an unforgettable experience. She learned "what work really means, and how there can be satisfaction in it," she told her friends. At home, she had rebelled at boiling eggs, making toast or even loading the dishwasher. But, when she was on the farm, she often fried two dozen eggs at breakfast and got a lot of satisfaction "making the chores come out even," so there was time for everyone to enjoy relaxation.

"I really didn't understand how much effort goes into putting a glass of milk on the table—feeding cows to getting the milk to market," she said.

She learned a great deal about values from her experiences with the farm family, she says. She learned hard work paid off and that achievement may be realized in the simplest tasks.

"There was so much enjoyment in simple things ... watching the cat smack his lips when the cow was being milked ... being afraid of a tough Rhode Island red rooster, who was really out to get me, I was convinced, and with those horrible spurs he wore ... pretending that we were having a real rodeo and inviting the neighbors to watch us ride ... a funny horse who would act as if he wanted a drink from a water hole and then throw you into the drink..."

Here are other things that made farm life a great experience for this city girl:

She learned to bake a pie and says the utter satisfaction of taking a rhubarb pie out of the oven, putting it on the table and having people praise your culinary achievement was overwhelming (she has been a pie baker ever since—and she makes her own crust).

She fell in love with the land, and she is sure she never noticed it before in her world of tall buildings and concrete. She learned to drive a tractor and to appreciate the creatures of nature—horses, mules, cows, other dumb beasts. "They had personality," she says.

Recreation can be inexpensive. They had fun sitting on the farm porch and listening to the sounds of the tractor, and the lowing of cattle while children played cowboys and indians in the hay loft using bales of hay as forts.

A moving picture was a great event and they would plan it for a week. And on Sunday, they would go to church services in "dress-up clothes," sit on the porch drinking lemonade or they would listen to records. Their tremendous Sunday dinner was unforgettable for its richly churned butter, homemade preserves, and every kind of farm-grown vegetable.

She began to think about her own city family when the farm family would ask her to describe them, and suddenly they became more important to her.

"I saw them in a new light. I began to understand that they too had commitments in their different way of life. They were trying to do their job as they saw it, just as the farm family was doing. You begin to see that each person has a role to fulfill so that he can find inner peace, and that we can serve humanity in many ways...."

Garden Club Plans Show

The Twlight Garden Club met Thursday night at the Martha Ann Woman's Club to review the schedule for the flower show that will be held on Oct. 31.

A demonstration of various arrangements were made to illustrate the different divisions of the artistic arrangements that will be entered in the show.

This is the regular flower show held each year by the club.

Martha Moore was hostess to twelve members and one guest.

The officers of the Twilight Garden Club were hostesses for a tea given at the Martha Ann Woman's Club to introduce Mrs. Robert Knott of Midland, who is a representative of Flower Preservations Inc.

Mrs. Knott gave a very interesting and informative demonstration on preserving flowers in Oolitic Flower Desiccant. This preservative was discovered in Great Salt Lake. It consists of small, round individual grains composed of carbon coated brine shrimp eggs. Being round, they do not bruise the delicate texture of the flower.

Preserved flowers have many interesting uses. They can be used very successfully in arrangements for the home, flower shows, paper weights, shadow-boxes and embedded in plastic.

Williams To Stay In Asia

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — American dramatist Tennessee Williams says he plans to stay in Asia "until I have a play in production."

Williams, who arrived last Friday, said he would live in an apartment or house in Bangkok, Hong Kong or Singapore.

Commenting on reports that he is seriously ill, Williams pointed to the left side of his chest and said "I have a swelling here," but declared: "I've never felt better in my life."

The Midi Is A Flop; Pants Are Best-Seller For Fall

By ANN HENCKEN
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The midcalf-skirt—the midi—is a flop so far this fall. Mrs. America just isn't buying it.

At this point the second big fall buying month, September, has come and gone. Stores are stocked with up to 95 per cent of their fall merchandise. But some retailers are still waiting for the action—still as confused as their balking customers.

"If it's going to be a good season, it will be a good late season," says one.

An important Dallas retailer said, "The midi is failing to dominate the market ... We're not happy with the way sales have gone. On the balance, the midi influence was overly touted as a sales getter. This gives it an odd market distinction from other trends.

"You hear that it took four years for short skirts to come in. But they had strong customer reaction in the beginning," he said, adding that even his high-priced clothes are selling just below the knee.

"The most spectacular failure has been the midi coat. The trend has just not materialized," he says.

But while the midi seems to have flopped, there has been a trend toward longer hemlines, a sort of compromise between the mini and the midcalf.

Women's resistance to the midcalf skirt hit some retailers this summer. Their test numbers of midis never sold well enough to warrant large reorders. Stores in Miami, Atlanta and Portland are stocked with only about 10 per cent midcalf lengths for fall. Some have sold as little as 2½ per cent of these.

The J.C. Penney Co., a large mass market retailer, stayed away from the midcalf lengths for fall, except in token numbers. Even these haven't sold well.

"We have very few serious midcalf skirts. And until we see action in them, we won't reorder," says a spokesman, reporting a mysterious run in junior petite sizes, designed for girls 5-feet-1 and under—an indication that taller women are looking for shorter skirts.

At New York's Women's Haberdashers, a made-to-order boutique with prices starting at $155, a grim-looking hemline thermometer registers 79.4 per cent of sales for short skirts, two inches above the knee. The rest is split between at-the-knee and just below.

Even at the couture level, customers in many cities are having their doubts.

"At couture, we're selling well short of the midi," is a typical comment—from a Texas store spokesman.

Some designers are retracing their steps. Ceil Chapman showed midi lengths for fall, but she's moving up to two inches below the knee for her resort-spring collection. At David Crystal, hemlines remain at midknee for resort-spring—one half inch longer than for fall.

"The midi is finished," says a spokesman. "We don't feel the midi will be any part of the market."

At the California Fashion Creators spring previews recently, a retailer commented, "Retail-wise, the midi is dead. It was dead before it hit the stores."

However, if the midi has failed to capture the market, the midi propaganda leveled at consumers has made an impact. It has helped send pants sales zooming. Pants—called "the great cop-out" by midi enthusiasts—are best-sellers across the country. At some stores, pants account for as much as 65 per cent of what was previously the dress business.

The midi push has forced mini wearers to think twice about exposing so much thigh. Longer skirts are selling. The volume length is around the knee, longer than the mini but shorter than the midi. In better dresses, skirts are selling as long as two inches below the knee. Younger customers in junior departments are buying ankle-length skirts and coats along with their pants and minis.

A Massachusetts retailer says, "The main thing is—longer lengths are selling. Just because something isn't a success doesn't mean it's a failure. Minis? We can't give them away."

For all the promotion from the fashion industry since last spring, there's one big thing wrong with the midi: many American women—and men—think it's ugly. Men's comments range from caveman grunts of disapproval to lively, unprintable harangues. Also, some observers believe the women's liberation movement helped set the mood for this midi revolt and has encouraged women to think twice about following any fashion dictates.

Some women vented their wrath against the midi by joining antimidi organizations like FADD (Fight Against Dictating Designers) and POOFF (Preservation of our Femininity and Finances). Such groups revved up last spring to protest the longer skirts. They picketed. They sent out petitions. They sponsored "hem-cutting" ceremonies and Ban-the-Midi marches. They've lasted the summer, and they're digging in this fall to continue the battle.

At New York's Bonwit Teller, a store strongly committed to longer lengths, President William Fine is all smiles.

"There are seven inches of choice for women—from just below the knee to the ankle. We have no control over it. Longer lengths are selling all over the country. It's not an issue. It's become a fun thing here," he says.

Some fashion executives say Mrs. America has been slow to pick up the midi because there are designers who haven't learned to handle the midi look.

"I don't think some of the clothes are made right for the midi. When they are, they're selling," is the word from Boston.

"The midi isn't a fad except that some manufacturers and designers are tasteless, weak-willed and mentally-deficient enough not to design it right," says designer Donald Brooks. He and other couture designers like Oscar de la Renta plan to plunge ahead with midcalf skirts and longer for spring.

"Longer clothes are here. That's a fact," said designer Helen Bass. "Mrs. Average America is going to take her clothes down inch by inch just as she took them up."

Cancer Society Successful

Board members of the Scurry County Unit of the American Cancer Society wish to express their deepest gratitude to those who contributed in any way to the success of the educational booth at the Scurry County Fair.

The organization encouraged a new method of distributing educational literature furnished by the American Cancer Society. As each pamphlet was passed out the one receiving it was asked to register. The purpose of the registration was two-fold. First, to determine the amount of educational material reaching the public and second, to estimate the outreach of the Scurry County Fair.

A total of 1,078 persons registered. Of these twenty-two counties outside of Scurry, nine states, and two foreign countries, Mexico and the Philippines were enumerated.

The outreach was outstanding.

As far west as San Diego, California, as far east as Greensboro, North Carolina, as for south as Miami Beach, Florida and Mexico City, D.F., Mexico.

The unit was also elated that approximately 300 Spanish pamphlets were distributed to the Mexican-American population of the county. This was the first time in the seventeen year history of the organization that it was able to serve our Mexican American friends so efficiently.

Darrell Sims and the Fair Board are to be commended, not only for a most successful county fair, but also in the publicity given it through the far outreach.

Mutual Funds Change Helped Market Activity

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The record-breaking surge in stock market volume during the past few weeks reflects a marked change in the attitudes of some mutual funds, which account for a growing percentage of activity.

During the final full week of September, volume reached a record high of 83,422,450 shares on the New York Stock Exchange. That record survived just two weeks before it was broken on volume of 84.1 million shares.

There is little question that institutional traders provided much of the action, as revealed by big block statistics.

Included in the old, one-week record were about 470 blocks of 10,000 shares or more, and last week's new high included about the same number. Big blocks accounted for 13,342,900 shares last week, which once was a fair week's activity from all sources of trading.

Accompanying this rise is a steady reduction in the cash position of mutual funds, indicating that much of the surge in volume is coming from that source.

Earlier this year the funds maintained record amounts of cash as they, too, shied away from a market that was proving costly to all investors.

Moreover, they expected a rash of redemptions because of their poor performance, and needed cash with which to honor requests. Their average cash position, therefore, rose to 12 per cent or more of assets,

The rush to redeem has not developed as anticipated—which isn't to say that it never will. Through August, at any rate, redemptions were falling, which is a departure from precedent.

Mutual fund officials note that in previous years when a market recovery was under way, many customers cashed in their funds, the enticement being the rising per share value and the sense of relief on being able to dispose of holdings at prices higher than a few weeks or a few months earlier.

That the same pattern appears to be delayed this year has given encouragement to portfolio managers. Maybe, they are saying, those big reserves of cash aren't necessary.

Market analysts now believe that the cash position of mutual funds will continue to dip during the autumn as more and more funds decide they can put their money into stocks instead of in more liquid assets.

Cash reserves were more than 11 per cent in August, but some industry officials wouldn't be at all surprised to find during the next week or so that September's reserves fell to around 10 per cent.

Another reason for the activity appears to be portfolio cleaning by new managers of performance-minded funds, trusts, insurance companies and the like.

QUESTION: Why does a golfer shout "Fore!" and what does it mean?

* * *

ANSWER: Do you play paganica? Probably not — but you may have experimented with golf, the modern game which developed from paganica, a game played about 1100 A.D. by the ancient Romans when occupying Scotland. Bent sticks and a feather stuffed leather-ball were used. The object of modern golf is for the player to strike the golf ball with his clubs so that it drops into a set of little cups, each situated on a small, clipped area called a green. The player who sinks his ball into the cup on the last green with the fewest number of strokes from the start wins. After sinking his ball on a green, the player drives it toward the next green as far as he possibly can. Since golf balls are hard, they might injure a person who stood in the way. Consequently, golfers are very careful to warn onlookers when they are about to drive. They call "Fore!" which comes from the word forward, or to the front. Their call means: "Watch out, everyone in front of the range of my ball!"

My Lai Funds Are Raised

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — A group of businessmen says it plans to raise up to $100,000 for the legal defense of soldiers charged with the massacre of Vietnamese civilians at My Lai.

Five businessmen had lunch at the exclusive Friars Club Monday with one of the accused, Capt. Ernest Medina, a spokesman said.

Walter Dilbeck, a real estate man from Indiana, would not identify the other four or say how much money was raised. But he said of them, "Believe me, they're worth millions and millions."

He said he plans a meeting with up to 60 Friars Club members.

"It shouldn't take more than $100,000," he told newsmen. "But we're as much interested in moral support for these boys and making sure all the facts are brought out as we are in getting the money."

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

Conclusion Jumping With Hal

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Women are five times as likely to steal hotel towels on their first honeymoon as on any later one.

There are more ladies who can make a meringue than there are men who can spell it correctly.

You are more likely to be struck by lightning if you stand under an oak tree during a storm than if you take shelter under an elm.

If, when you reach for the key to your front door, you invariably find it in the same pocket, you are in a worse rut than you realize and need some kind of change to pep up your life.

A young husband who divorces a wayward wife is more likely to be forgiven by his mother-in-law than by his father-in-law. Few papas can face up to the realization that the little darling who used to climb into their laps has turned out to be a tramp.

No matter how much they charge for a nickel cup of coffee, it still tastes like 4 cents.

You can usually tell a man's age pretty well by the number of medicines he keeps in the drawer of his office desk. If they take up more than one drawer, he is either a hypochondriac or overdue for retirement.

What is the one sure way for a man to determine how he stands with a girl? Perhaps by the number of times she uses his first name. Whenever a girl is indifferent toward a fellow, she addresses him impersonally. But when she has an affectionate feeling for him—whether she quite realizes it herself or not—she cannot keep his name from her tongue. The sound of it is like a bell in her mouth that rings an echo in her heart.

Nothing makes a guy feel more superior than winning money from a minister during a poker game. He is superbly confident then that he has heaven on his side.

No matter how much a man has been around there are always limits to his experience. For example, twice in my life I have shaken hands with guys who had tapeworms but, so far as I know, I have never met anyone who has seen Timbuktu, ridden on a dog sled, or watched an elephant being born.

Men who have hangovers regularly rarely shave with either an electric or an old-fashioned straight-edged razor.

The conversation of people who habitually talk to themselves is usually so dull they can't even catch their own attention.

Halloween still comes only once a year. The problem is how to keep from feeling like you're living it every one of the other 364 days.

Alexander Filipov Signs Contract

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Alexander Filipov, a dancer who defected from the Soviet Union in what he said was a search for artistic freedom, has signed a one-year contract with the Pittsburgh Ballet Theater.

A countrywoman, Natalya Makarova, who defected last month, announced over the weekend in London she was joining the American Ballet Theater.

Filipov told newsmen Monday:

"I asked for political asylun because I am completely opposed to the constant repression of human values which exists in the Soviet Union."

He said a factor in his decision was Lucia Tristao, a "beautiful Brazilian ballerina" he met while on tour in South America in June.

'Horns, Irish Gaining

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Thanks to record scoring sprees against long-time rivals, Texas and Notre Dame are closing in on Ohio State in the latest Associated Press college football poll announced today.

The top-ranked Buckeyes, who led a week ago by 103 points, received 20 first-place votes and 731 points from a panel of 40 sports writers and broadcasters following a 29-0 victory over Michigan State.

But Texas pulled down 13 first-place votes and 712 points in the wake of a 41-9 rout of Oklahoma and Notre Dame received four No. 1 votes—its first of the season—after battering Army 51-10. The 41 and 51 points were the most ever scored by Texas and Notre Dame in the respective series.

While the Buckeyes, Longhorns and Irish held on to their 1-2-3 spots, there was a shake-up elsewhere in the Top Ten. Southern California dropped from fourth to 11th after losing to Stanford 24-14 and the Trojans were replaced by Mississippi, which beat Georgia 31-21 and climbed one position. Nebraska and Michigan each moved up one spot to fifth and sixth, respectively, the Cornhuskers defeating Missouri 21-7 and the Wolverines blanking Purdue 29-0.

Ole Miss, Nebraska and Michigan each received one first-place vote.

Rounding out the Top Ten were Air Force and Auburn, each up one spot; Stanford, up from 12th, and Arkansas, 10th from the second week in a row.

Trailing Southern Cal in the Second Ten were Arizona State, up two; Colorado, up four; Tennessee, up six; Louisiana State, up four; Georgia Tech, down three; Texas Tech; Missouri, down two, with Houston and UCLA, down five, tied for 19th. Texas Tech and Houston replaced West Virginia and North Carolina in the Second Ten.

Clay Says He's Ready

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Muhammad Ali snarled and declared his boxing comeback "ain't gonna be spoiled by no Great White Hope."

Ali was wrapping up Miami Beach training for his Oct. 26 bout with Jerry Quarry. At 215, he weighs the same as when he last boxed against Zora Folley in 1967.

"It's almost impossible for a man like Quarry to catch me when I'm moving like I am now," he said, rubbing his flat belly. "Don't forget, he ain't never fought the fastest heavyweight in history."

Ali finished in Miami Beach today. His contingent will shift to Atlanta on Wednesday for final tuneups after six weeks of rugged gym work and predawn running on a Miami Beach golf course.

"Look at the scales, man, it's 215 and a half," said the deposed champion. "Remember when I showed up here weighing 230? I lost the only 15 pounds that didn't count."

"I can't do like Jack Johnson," he said, "coming up against the Great White Hope and losing. That just can't happen. As long as I can dance, Quarry ain't gonna catch me.

"Quarry can't dance for long. Long as I can dance, ain't nobody gonna catch me."

Concerning Johnson, Ali was probably referring to the 1915 title bout the Negro boxer lost to white boxer Jess Willard. The fight in Havana finally went to Willard on a 26th round knockout.

I'm looking forward to facing those newspaper guys the morning after," Ali said. "You know, the experts . . . the ones who say a man can't come back after three years."

No Nevado No Race

ELMONT, N.Y. (AP) — Peter M. Howe was all set to saddle the Montpelier Farm's Nevado for the sixth race at Belmont Park but when he got to the paddock his horse wasn't around. The grooms had neglected to bring Nevado out of the barn for the race.

Money wagered on Nevado, the favorite, was refunded.

Umpires Ask For Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Al Salerno and Bill Valentine, former major league baseball umpires, asked the Supreme Court Monday for a hearing on their claim they were fired for attempting to organize a union.

The pair appealed the dismissal of their triple-damage suit against Joe Cronin, president of the American League, and Bowie Kuhn, baseball commissioner.

Salerno and Valentine were fired in September 1968 and baseball officials said the reason was the alleged incompetence of the pair.

They filed suit in federal district court claiming the only reason for the action was because they had attempted to organize American League umpires for collective bargaining.

The original complaint was dismissed and the district court's action was upheld last summer by a federal circuit court.

Booster Club Meets Tonight

The Tiger Booster Club will meet at 8 p.m. today in the high school cafeteria to see films of last week's contest with Sweetwater and hear scouting reports on this week's opponent—Brownfield, according to an announcement by Mickey Nunley, president.

All members were urged to attend.

Houston Plans Net Tourney

HOUSTON (AP) — A $45,000 pro tennis tournament will be held here next year in connection with the World Tennis Tour, promoter Hugh Sweeney said Monday.

The tournament, known as the Houston International Tennis Championships, will be held Nov. 8-14 in 1971 at the University of Houston's 11,000 seat Hofheinz Pavilion, usually used for basketball.

Sweeney said 32 of the world's top men tennis players, all members of Lamar Hunt's tennis tour, will compete in the tournament which will pay $10,000 to the winner with a total of $38,000 in single's prizes and $7,000 in doubles.

Hunt, of Dallas, one of the founders of the American Football league and owner of the Kansas City Chiefs, will stage 30 tournaments next year, and Houston will be the last regular one, Steve Fryar, associate director of the tour said.

"If a player loses every singles and doubles match he receives a minimum of $12,000, plus air fare," Fryar said. "If he wins every match on our circuit he'll collect $293,000. Somewhere there are going to be some rich players walking around."

The field which will compete here includes contract pros Arthur Asche, Pancho Gonzales, Rod Laver, Tony Roche, John Newcombe, Ken Rosewall, and just about every other top player. Only two ranked players, Cliff Richey and Clark Graebner, are still registered players outside the contract ranks.

Pap Gets His Ace

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Tom Paprocki, retired Associated Press sports cartoonist after 42 years on the job, scored his first hole-in-one after 40 years of effort.

Pap got his ace on the 168-yard 8th hole at the Atlantic City Country Club while tuning up for the Sonny Fraser Memorial tournament.

Pap used a 5 iron and was in a foursome with Vernon Hinton, Walter McCluskey and John Eccles.

Orioles Favored 5-1

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — That made-to-order World Series match between Cincinnati's big bats and Baltimore's big three was two games overdue today as the Reds tried to battle back from a lost weekend.

The Reds, backed gainst the ropes after 4-3 and 6-5 losses to the streaking Orioles at Cincinnati, sent rugged right-hander Tony Cloninger to the dike in the nationally-televised (NBC-TV) third game of the best-of-7 set.

But the Orioles, riding a 16-game winning streak which has carried over from the regular season, were 5-1 favorites to capture the Series prize denied them last October by the New York Mets.

And the oddsmakers made them a 2-3 pick to win today behind left-hander Dave McNally, whose 24 victories tops Baltimore's trio of 20-gane winners.

No team ever has won the Series after losing the first two games at home.

Jim Palmer, who won 20 during the season and another in the Orioles' American League playoff sweep over Minnesota, checked the Reds on five hits in the Series opener last Saturday and beat them with last-out relief help from Pete Richert.

But Mike Cuellar, a 24-game winner, was a quick knockout victim Sunday before the Orioles came from behind for the second time.

And the vaunted power of the Big Red Machine failed to ignite in either game after building early leads of 3-0 and 4-0.

Instead, the first two contests showcased the Orioles' unheralded bullpen corps and their matchless third baseman, Brooks Robinson.

Richert saved Palmer's victory with one pitch, stranding the tying run on first base. Then Tom Phoebus, Moe Drabowsky, Marcelino Lopez and Dick Hall combined Sunday to still the Cincinnati thunder for the final 6 2-3 innings.

Whoever said their relief pitching wasn't very good was reading the wrong scouting report," said the Reds' Pete Rose.

Orioles Manager Earl Weaver's relief crew had been singled out as the one possible weak link on a marvelously balanced club which swept to 108 victories in regular season play, the last 11 of them in succession.

On paper, the Baltimore firemen appeared overmatched by their counterparts on the Reds. The Orioles recorded 31 saves during the season, 13 of them by Richert.

Cincinnati's Wayne Granger had 35 himself, teammate Clay Carroll added 16 and youngsters Don Gullett and Milt Wilcox were compared favorably with the Orioles' veterans despite their inexperience.

But Wilcox was hit hard during a decisive five-run Baltimore burst in the fifth inning of Sunday's game. And Granger hadn't thrown a pitch going into today's gane.

"Our bullpen is underestimated," said Orioles slugger Frank Robinson. "They only had 31 saves, but our starters had 60 complete games."

The Reds' figures were virtually reversed, with 32 complete games and 60 saves.

"Earl didn't have to go to the bullpen that often," Frank added. "And he used all his relievers. Nobody got an awful lot of work because he spread it out. But they all came through."

"Weaver has been manipulating those pitchers and so far he's played all his cards right," said Cincinnati's Johnny Bench. "We've scored early, but we haven't been able to do anything after that even though we've had guys in position to score."

Reds Manager Sparky Anderson had another theory about his club's failure to mount a sustained attack thus far. "It's because of Robinson," he said. "Brooks has beaten us in two ball games by himself.

"If you fellows voting for that car they give the Series hero want my advice, you might as well give him the keys. Right now, he's in the driver's seat."

Brooks Robinson made a sensational play deep behind the bag in the opener and then hit the tie-breaking home run. In the second game, he came up with three more defensive gems.

"He can play third base with a pair of pliers," Rose marveled as the Reds worked out Monday at Memorial Stadium. Then the Cincinnati star laid down a perfect bunt a few feet up the third base line.

"Brooks would have thrown you out by two steps on that one," Bench cracked. "Hell," exclaimed teammate Tony Perez. "He would have caught it on a fly."

Last week, the local teams broke even with three wins against three victories.

Old Pros Defeat San Diego 22-20

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Green Bay's Packers still must go with the old pros in their bid for resurgence into National Football League prominence.

As they won their third straight at the expense of a plucky but winless San Diego Charger club Monday night, 22-20, the Packers could thank 33-year-old Willie Wood and 36-year-old Bart Starr.

"The way I feel now, I could play another 20 years," declared Wood after intercepting a pass from young Marty Domres at the Chargers' 24 and running it back to the 13.

That defensive gem set up a 14-yard field goal by Dale Livingston, his third three-pointer of the night, and the one that provided the victory.

After a 6-6 first half that saw four field goals, the Packers surged back in the third quarter, scoring on Starr passes of four yards to Jack Clancy and two yards to John Hilton.

With a 19-6 lead, Coach Phil Bengston took Starr out, explaining later, "His shoulder was bothering him."

Don Horn took over at quarterback only to run into quick trouble. Pete Barnes intercepted his pass at the Charger 22 and returned to the 36.

With Domres, the second-year pro from Columbia, taking over at quarterback from starter John Hadl, the Chargers charged. Domres shot a short, swing pass to rookie Dave Smith on a play gaining 42 to the Packer 22. Jeff Queen lost two and then Domres pitched out to tight end Willie Frazier on a reverse. Frazier raced for the touchdown. Virtually the same play had set up an earlier field goal.

Two minutes and 15 seconds later, Queen scored from the one following a Horn fumble at the 10.

About that time Bengston was asking Starr if he could throw.

"When he said he could, I put him back in," explained the coach.

Controversy had centered on the Charger quarterback situation before the game. With Hadl in General Manager Sid Gillman's doghouse, it wasn't decided until late whether he or Domres would start.

John worked three quarters and later commented on reports he might be peddled to another NFL club. "I don't know if this trade talk had any effect on the team. It's not as easy to concentrate with this hanging over your head."

Livingston's other field goals were from 16 and 27 yards in the first half that ended 6-6 as Mike Mercer was accurate from 16 and 29.

What provided the Chargers' their short-lived one-point advantage was a Livingston point-after-touchdown try blocked by Tom Williams.

Defensive end Lionel Aldridge added to Hadl's woes. He sacked the quarterback four of the six times he was thrown behind the line.

Heady Home Run

DENVER (AP) — Tom Grieve, outfielder for the Denver Bears, hit what old timers call the strangest home run ever seen in Mile High Stadium. Rightfielder Jim Nettles of Evansville Leaped high for a long shot off Grieve's bat. The ball struck Nettles on the head and bounced into the right field stands.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bob Stevens, veteran baseball writer for the San Francisco Chronicle, was elected president of the Baseball Writers Association of America at its annual meeting Monday night.

Jack Lang of the Long Island Press was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

FOLLOWING MEXICO ACCIDENT

Texan Praises Senator Brooks For Release

PASADENA, Tex. (AP) — A Pasadena man is home now, after spending 10 weeks in a Mexican jail, the victim of his failure to pay Mexican auto insurance.

Narcisco Hernandez arrived from Mexico by bus Sunday, home to his wife and five children, after what all started as a family vacation.

Ended was a 10-week imprisonment that cost his family about $4,000. Also ended was an international ordeal that involved state Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena and ultimately Gov. Preston Smith and the State of Texas.

At home, the 28-year-old cement worker talked about those 20 weeks.

He was held in Aguasclaientes jail in connection with a headon auto crash on July 26 in which the driver of the other car died. Hernandez was not held responsible for the death, but was told he would have to pay $1,600 to cover the damages.

He didn't have that much money, nor did he have Mexican auto insurance, and under Mexican law he was imprisoned until the payment was made.

The evening of July 26 he was placed in the Aguascalientes city jail. He described the conditions there as "horrible" with no bathroom. "Only a barrel."

His wife, Martha, 27, returned to Pasadena to try and raise the $1,600. She started selling home-made tamales and was aided by contributions from interested individuals and business concerns in Pasadena and nearby Houston.

Hernandez was transferred several days later to a state prison, after paying officials 100 pesos, he said.

There, another American prisoner, he said, taught him how to make jewelry boxes so he could sell them and buy food.

Prison food was distributed three times daily according to inmate seniority and Hernandez said, "If no food was left, you didn't eat."

There were no beds in the prison, only a cracked and chipped concrete floor. "I slept on a blanket loaned to me by another prisoner," he said.

Finally, after the money was raised, along with some $2,400 in other legal fees, Hernandez said, and after Brooks came to Aguascalientes as a personal representative of Gov. Smith, Hernandez was released.

"I advise everyone (traveling to Mexico) to go by plane or bus, but don't drive because I'd still be there if it wasn't for Sen. Brooks," he said.

Conferees Approve 'No-Knock'

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate conferees have approved a bill that shifts the emphasis of criminal penalties from drug users to professional traffickers in narcotics.

The measure also contains controversial legislation that would give police authority to carry out so-called "no knock" raids after convincing a judge such raids would be the only means to avoid destruction of suspected narcotics.

Casual distribution and use of marijuana would be treated as a misdemeanor under the revised legislation. A first offense of possession could be dealt with by a judge by probation, parole or dismissal of charges.

The conference approved stiffer penalties for professional narcotics peddlers, though the death penalty and life imprisonment were eliminated from the possible sentences.

The bill approved spending $26 million for treatment and rehabilitation programs and called for an in-depth study of the effects of marijuana.

Additionally, strict controls would be imposed on the distribution of previously unregulated drugs including tranquilizers, pep pills and sleeping pills.

Rejected was a Senate plan to put all federal narcotics treatment and education programs under a U.S. Health Institute.

The bill was sent to floors of both the House and Senate for approval.

TAX ANSWERS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — Both of my children are having orthodontic work done and I'm going to have a big medical expense deduction for this year. Is there anyway to get some kind of tax credit for this now to help me pay some of the bills?

A — Yes, you may be able to have your employer reduce your income tax withholding based on the larger itemized deductions you expect. Instructions for making this change are given in Schedule A, Form W-4. Ask your employer for a copy.

The Tax Reform Act of 1969 allows you to claim additional withholding allowances for large estimated deductions even when they exceed what you claimed last year. Until this change in the law, taxpayers were limited too the total claimed the previous year.

Q — The tickets I bought for a theater benefit list an amount I may deduct as a charitable contribution that is much less than what I paid. Why?

A — The law limits the charitable deduction to the difference between what would normally be paid for the tickets and what you actually paid. The amount listed as deductible on your tickets reflects this.

Be sure to save the tickets or other information that will establish this tax deduction. Since the full amount is not deductible, a check or receipt showing what you paid for the tickets needs to be supplemented by additional information. The deductible amount remains unchanged even if the tickets are not used.

Q — I'm collecting Social Security benefits in addition to my company pension. Is any of this taxable?

A — Social Security benefits are not taxable. However, your company pension will be taxable in whole or in part depending on how much you contributed to its cost.

If the plan is of a type where your contribution is recovered within the first three years, the pension is tax-free until your cost is recovered. After that, the full pension is taxable. Another provision you should check is the retirement income credit. It allows a taxpayer to reduce his income tax by up to 15 percent of his retirement income when certain conditions are met.

Details on these provisions are given in IRS Publication 524, Retirement Income and Retirement Income Credit. Send a postcard to your District Director for a free copy.

Q — Can my son claim a withholding exemption for himself on his job if I still claim him?

A — Yes, your son may take an exemption for himself even though you are still entitled to claim him. If he is not aware of it, you should tell your son that it may be possible for him to avoid having income tax withheld from his wages. If he had no tax liability last year and expects his earnings to be less than $1725 this year, he should file Form W-4E with his employer to accomplish this.

Q — I sold some farmland at a sizeable profit. Can I reduce my taxes by using income averaging?

A — Yes, capital gains are eligible for averaging. There are now provisions on both capital gains and averaging so check with either your local County Agent or IRS office if you have any questions about them when you file your return next year.

KPFT Faces Extinction

HOUSTON (AP) — Pacifica Radio, bombed off the air twice here in five months, is facing extinction, Manager Larry Lee said.

"It will take a miracle if we're ever to go on the air again," Lee said Monday night. "The station has no place to go back on the air from."

Pacifica Foundation, which operates KPFT-FM here and stations in Berkeley, Calif., Los Angeles and New York, is a non-commercial listener-sponsored station which offers free air time to all groups, some of which apparently aroused the ire of someone here.

The station's rural transmitter was destroyed by a bomb May 12 and was off the air 20 days. Then Oct. 3 another bomb hit the transmitter, again knocking it off. Lee blames "right-wingers."

Lee said the station's insurance will be cancelled in a few days, forcing the station either to pay $30,000 due on equipment or see it repossessed.

Spread graham crackers with peanut butter; top each cracker with a marshmallow and broil. Serve to small fry with lemonade.

Should they approve daughter's marriage?

By Abigail Van Buren

(c) 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, Jane, has fallen in love with the son of friends of ours. Steve is a fine young man and we are very fond of him. He has finished school and has a good job with a sound future and could easily support Jane now. Not in luxury, but with all the necessities. They have asked for our permission to marry—but they want to marry right now!

Jane has another year of school and we want her to graduate first. In fact, her father insists upon it. Jane says if we give her our blessings to marry now, she promises to finish school after she's married. She has always been an obedient and sensible girl, but she says if we don't give them permission to marry, they will elope.

So far I am on my husband's side. Steve's parents are with the kids and so are many of our friends. They say we are being unreasonable. What do you think?

JANE'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: You don't say how old "the kids" are. If the "school" Steve has finished is college, and Jane has one more year before she, too, is a college graduate, I think you're being unreasonable.

If it's "high school," I think you're being blackmailed.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please settle something? If a person wants to visit you, and she knows that her dog doesn't get along with your dog, shouldn't she leave her dog home?

Frisky [my dog] and Gertrude [my friend's dog] nearly had a bloody battle once at my place because they hate the sight of each other, so my friend called up and said she was bringing Gertrude over so I should lock up Frisky. Well, I did, but Frisky knew they were here and he cried and carried on the whole time.

I told my friend that next time she wants to visit me, she should leave Gertrude home. My friend says that since she is the guest and I am the hostess, I should defer to her wishes. How would you handle this? I really like this person, but I don't care for her dog.

FRISKY'S MISTRESS

DEAR MISTRESS: The next time your friend wants to get together, tell her to stay home and lock up Gertrude, because you are coming to visit her and you are bringing Frisky.

DEAR ABBY: The girl who was concerned because her fiance used a coin purse had good reason to be concerned. From years of experience and observation, I have discovered that men who carry their change in a change purse are cheap, cheap, cheap! And you may quote me.

R. M. IN PORTLAND, ORE.

DEAR ABBY: I grew up with the notion that a man who carried a change purse looked like a penny-pinching miser. But after 15 years of mending torn pockets in my husband's otherwise good trousers, I decided that maybe a coin purse wouldn't be such a bad idea, so I bought one, and he carries it.

I'll admit I am still slightly hung up on my original notion, and I'm always a little uncomfortable when he uses his change purse in public. Then I say to myself, "What do I care what a stranger I'll never see again thinks about our habits as long as they're not illegal or inconsiderate?" And I go home and read or watch TV instead of patching torn pockets.

To be perfectly honest, one of my husband's biggest faults is that he's too extravagant.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SICK OF HYPOCHONDRIACS": Yes, you saw it in my column, but it was not original. It was written by Ella Wheeler Wilcox, and it went like this:

"Talk health. The dreary, neverending tale of mortal maladies is worn and stale; you cannot charm or interest or please by harping on that minor chord, disease. Say that you are well, or all is well with you. And God shall hear your words and make them true."

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Frank Sinatra Jr. Named In Suit

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Frank Sinatra Jr. has been named in a paternity suit filed by Carol Sue Edmondston of Las Vegas.

Her petition in District Court Monday said Sinatra was the father of her son Victor, born last April in Chicago, and asked that he be ordered to pay birth expenses and support of the boy until the infant is 21.

"This is impossible," Sinatra said. "There are no grounds for such an allegation."

Sinatra, like his father a singer, is appearing at the Frontier Hotel.

Soldier In Fair Condition

SEOUL (AP) — An American soldier who was badly beaten by North Koreans at the Panmunjom truce village was reported in fair condition today and is expected to recover, a U.S. military spokesman said.

He was Pfc. Glen A. Vinderslev of Chokio, Minn., and the Army said he suffered a depressed skull fracture from blows with shovels.

Six other Americans were injured, one seriously, in the 10-minute lelee, and a Swiss lieutenant who rescued Vinderslev received minor wounds. The identities of the other Americans were withheld.

South Korean sources said an American guarding South Korean civilians working in the armistice negotiating room tried to stop a North Korean security officer from taking pictures of the workers. The North Korean pulled the armband off the American, and a fight started.

Because of the attack, Maj. Gen. Felix M. Rogers of the U.S. Air Force, the U.N. Command member of the Korean military armistice commission, cancelled a meeting of the commission scheduled for today. He accused the North Koreans of an "unprovoked, violent attack."

The U.N. Command said more than 30 North Korean guards and civilian workers set upon the American guards with shovels, clubs and rocks. It said the Koreans isolated the soldier most seriously wounded and beat him on the head with shovels as he lay on the ground.

North Korea charged that "U.S. imperialist aggressor army rascals" were responsible for the fight. The North Korean news agency claimed that more than 30 "army rascals carrying iron bars" attacked North Korean security personnel.

VETERAN DUNNED — Mr. and Mrs. William T. Richardson examine a letter from the U. S. Army which dunned the Vietnam veteran for $1,167 for overpayment of military pay, the result of government error. Richardson lost both legs to combat injuries. He's employed at a Springfield electric firm and has two children. Efforts are being made to cancel Richardson's liability for the government overpayment. (AP Wirephoto)

WITH HARD WORDS ON LAW AND ORDER

Agnew Campaigns For Candidates In Southwest

By EDMOND LEBRETON
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "When young people denounce what they believe to be our obsession with the material things in life, that's a sign of progress."

That was Vice President Spiro T. Agnew speaking Monday night in Amarillo, Tex., the same Agnew who three days earlier compared violent student radicals with the Brown Shirts of Nazi Germany.

As he campaigns for Republican candidates in the South and Southwest, with hard words about law and order, and against what he calls the permissiveness of radical liberals in high places, Agnew repeatedly is working into his tough speeches phrases and paragraphs designed to show he does not want to be understood as indescriminately condemning whole groups.

He has found ways to say that he understands the motives of disaffected young people, well meaning persons attracted to the Black Panthers, Spanish-speaking Americans pushing for more opportunity. He has even singled out some Democrats in Congress for kind words and has said that he is encouraged by better presentation of conservative view points in the national news media,

For the most part, Agnew has tried to put these points across by off-the-cuff insertions in his prepared speeches or remarks at hurried news conferences.

But Monday he undertook—in the unlikely setting of a largely Republican community in the Panhandle-to deliver a philosophical discussion of the relation between dissent and material progress in America.

His general theme:

"The hidden clause of malaise in America is the success of the American system ...

"When a man who has had nothing, gets something, his natural impulse is not to be humbly thankful, but to want more —that's human nature."

Accordingly, Agnew argued, when black Americans and Spanish-speaking Americans get a glimpse of opportunity, they press ahead for more.

Some, but not all, middle class youngsters, he continued never having had to question whether the good things of life would be there for them, shock their parents when "they scoff at the values of the previous generations as they hold out their hands for the keys of the car."

Agnew, who has a teen-aged daughter at home as well as two married children, said "We neglected to transmit something important, during the time we were succeeding in offering our fellow Americans and our children new hope and new freedom ... a respect for the system itself that has produced this enormous change for the better,"

In Phoenix, Ariz., last Friday, Agnew spoke of a "young moral majority" who want to bring about progress peacefully. He tried to arrange a joint appearance with some of the young people who were demonstrating non-violently for peace across the street from his hotel.

The effort broke down in confusion among security agents and to some extent among the young people themselves.

In Tulsa, Okla., on the same day, Agnew said some people who sympathize with the Black Panthers are "concerned citizens who want to do something in the community" and have been taken in by such Panther undertakings as breakfasts for poor children. Agnew said these were also propaganda exercises.

"There are other ways that people in the black community who wish to bring about the changes, who wish to advocate the assistance that is so needed, can operate," he said.

Agnew has not said exactly what he is trying to accomplish by the increasingly evident counterpoint in his speeches. He did tell his Amarillo audience—in another impromptu insertion —that he likes to keep his critics off balance.

Charles Gives Man Directions

MBUA, Fiji (AP) — "Go to hell," said Charles, Prince of Wales.

He was talking to an official who suggested Monday that he cut short a ride in a boat following a fishing expedition and get ready for an official dinner. The prince is here for Fijian independence ceremonies.

Charles, 21, the heir apparent to the British throne, helped bail out the boat when it shipped rough seas. It returned to shore at dusk.

TO LIMIT CAMPAIGN SPENDING

Nixon Vetoes Bill

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has vetoed a bill to limit campaign spending on radio and television, calling it "worse than no answer to the problem" of soaring political costs.

Democratic sponsors of the measure pledged an effort to override the veto, immediately or after the Nov. 3 election recess. But one of them, Sen. Philip A. Hart of Michigan, said it will be "very tough" to muster the necessary two-thirds vote. Hart was one of the bill's original sponsors.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., the assistant GOP leader, said flatly the veto will be sustained.

"The bill deserved to be vetoed," Griffin said.

But Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., and another prime sponsor of the legislation, said Nixon had blocked "a major effort to stem the spiraling cost of campaigning for public office via the electronic media.

"The American people will be the losers unless Congress overrides the veto," he said.

The bill would limit spending on campaign broadcasting to seven cents for each vote cast for the office involved in the previous election, or $20,000, whichever was higher.

Its terms would cover candidates for president, vice president, senator, representative, governor and lieutenant governor.

Nixon's veto message, issued Monday while the President was appearing in Stamford and Hartford, Conn., on a barely disguised campaign mission, said the bill fell short of its laudable goals and "threatens to make matters worse.

"The problem with campaign spending is not radio and television; the problem is spending," Nixon said. "This bill plugs only one hole in a sieve."

"Until we take this step, we'll never know how to tighten up the loopholes," Hart countered.

Nixon said the bill actually would force more campaign spending, by leading candidates to switch from radio and television campaigning to more expensive techniques of reaching the voter.

He noted there would be no restriction on campaign advertising in newspapers, magazines, pamphlets and material mailed out by candidates.

Nixon said a broadcasting limit would provide "an immeasurable advantage" to an incumbent, or a well-known nominee, facing a less publicized challenger.

The bill also would require broadcast stations to sell political time at no more than the lowest commercial rate, and would suspend equal-time regulations, opening the way for radio and television debates between top candidates for president and vice president.

Democrats insist Republican opposition stems from the fact GOP campaigners have more money to spend.

Nicholas Johnson, a member of the Federal Communications Commission, said the veto represented "a sad and tragic day for those who had hoped for some limitation on the power of money to dominate our politics and our government."

Law Firm Withdraws From Case

By RICHARD BEENE
associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A Mexican - American third party's bid for the Nov. 3 ballot appeared defeated today after a law firm carried its fight to state and federal courts said it is withdrawing from the case.

The Raza Unida Party had until noon today to file a petition in federal court here to keep the case alive in its attempt to get on the ballot in three Southwest Texas counties.

San Antonio lawyer Jesse Gamez said he would discuss the matter with the newly organized party's founder, Jose Angel Gutierrez of Crystal City, to determine the next step.

The Raza Unida Party fielded a total of 16 candidates for local offices such as county judge and peace justice in Zavala, Dimmit and La Salle counties. All in Southwest Texas and all largely Mexican - American.

A long, complex court battle began when officials of the counties refused to place the party on the Nov. 3 ballot. Orders to print the ballots without the Raza Unida candidates were issued several days ago in each of the three counties.

Sex Barrier Falls at Cafe

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — After 73 years the lunch time sex barrier at Schroeder's Cafe has fallen.

Faced by a civil rights suit from the American Civil Liberties Union, owner Max Kniesche, 82, said Monday the luncheon period from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. would no longer be for men only.

The law suit was filed on behalf of Carol Weintraub, director of the Civil Liberties Union's Northern California chapter, who commented:

"I'm not doing this because of women's liberation. I'm doing this because I feel people should be judged individually and for themselves. It so happens I like German food—which Schroeder's is noted for."

New Cold Front Aims At Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Skies cleared over all but extreme Southeast and East Texas today as a new cold front took aim on the state.

Thunderstorms soaked portions of Central Texas and showers fell over eastern sections Monday. A severe thunderstorm warning was in effect for a time in Travis, Caldwell, Bastrop, Lee and Fayette counties.

But by early today, most skies were clear with temperatures ranging from the 40s over the Panhandle to the 60s along the Gulf Coast and eastern sections of the state.

A weak high pressure ridge centered over the eastern portion of the state early today accompanied by widespread fog that cut visibility to less than one mile in many areas from Wichita Falls - Cottula line eastward.
