Truman After Ellis Arnall For U.S. Post

By DREW PEARSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—President Truman is attempting to draft Gov. Ellis Arnall of Georgia to become Solicitor General of the United States. He has also selected Undersecretary of War Patterson to fill the Owen D. Roberts vacancy on the Supreme court.

Unless there is a last minute hitch, Patterson's name will go to the Senate almost immediately, together with a list of other important judicial appointments.

Governor Arnall's name probably will not go to the Senate immediately, however, due to the fact that he has not given the White House a definite answer as to whether he is willing to leave the governorship of Georgia.

Of Top Importance

Arnall's proferred appointment is considered one of the most important Truman has made, due to the fact that the Georgia governor led the fight in the Chicago convention last year for Henry Wallace and against Truman. Arnall not only campaigned through the South, but voted the Georgia delegation solidly for Wallace and made one of the most aggressive fights on the convention floor for Wallace.

However, Arnall's spectacular showing before the U. S. Supreme court in arguing the Georgia railroad case attracted Truman's attention, and he is anxious to get the most outstanding man possible to fill the important post of Solicitor General, whose job it is to plead all Justice department cases before the Supreme court.

In winning his railroad case before the Supreme court last year, the Georgia governor pioneered new law by getting the court to recognize for the first time in history that a state can appear before the Supreme court as a trial court without going up through the lower courts.

War Department Politics

Truman's expected appointment of Undersecretary of War Patterson to the Supreme court, according to White House insiders is being made to permit the appointment of a new Secretary of War.

Henry L. Stimson's resignation as Secretary of War will be accepted shortly and Truman does not want to promote Patterson to be Secretary of War, due to the inefficiencies the Truman committee found in the Undersecretary of War's offiee. As a palliative to Patterson, however, he will get a coveted place on the highest bench.

Some senatorial opposition to Patterson's appointment is expected on two grounds. One is that he as a Felix Frankfurter man, having been recommended to Stimson as Undersecretary of War by Frankfurter.

The second point is the fact that

President Proposes 21-Point Program

HST Would Smooth Way For Greatest Prosperity Era In History Of U. S.

By TOM REEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—President Truman offered to Congress today a 21-point program designed to smooth the way for the greatest era of "high prosperity" in American history.

In a 16,000-word message which clerks read to the legislators, the President declared that if the government met the problems of peace courageously, it will help usher in "the greatest peace-time industrial activity we have ever seen."

Among other things the President proposed:

Continued Controls

Continued wartime controls until all fear of inflation is dispelled; limited tax relief; an increase in the 40-cent minimum wage; higher social security benefits; vest power, highway, flood control and reclamation projects; 3,000 new airports; a boom in housing; doubled salaries for senators and representatives; stockpiling of strategic war materials and orderly disposal of surplus war materials.

There was no over-all estimate of the cost of the program, although it obviously would amount to billions.

Reaction in Congress ran all the way from hearty approval by the President's supporters to some Republican comment that "it's the same old New Deal dressed up in new clothing."

Mr. Truman praised the legislators' contribution to the war effort.

Addition Due Soon

Moreover, Mr. Truman said, he'll have an addition to the program soon. It will urge a national health plan with "adequate" medical care for all, expanded education and social security phases.

Here is President Truman's legislative program, as presented to Congress today, in capsule form:

1. Jobless pay—federal supplements to extend state payments to a maximum of $25 a week for 26 weeks.

2. Minimum wages—"substantially increasing" the present 40 cent hourly rate which the President called "obsolete."

3. Wartime controls—extension of second war powers act, expiring Dec. 31, as a measure to combat inflation and speed peacetime expansion.

4. Government reorganization—(all continuing power to rearrange the administrative set-up subject to congressional veto.

5. Employment — passage of the so-called "full employment" bill

6. FEPC—permanent status for

89 Yanks On Death March Are Set Free

By ROBERT MYERS
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Friday, Sept. 7 — One thousand two hundred Allied prisoners of war—including 89 Americans who underwent the Death March on Bataan—were liberated Wednesday and Thursday from Formosa by the U. S. Seventh Fleet, the Navy announced today.

Others liberated included British veterans who survived the evacuation from Dunkerque only to be caught in defeat at Singapore and undergo the horrors of Japanese imprisonment.

Virtually every libaree had been forced to labor under sickening conditions. Many bore pitiful scars of beatings at the hands of Japanese soldiers.

139 Too Ill To Move

One hundred thirty-nine were in such a deplorable state they could not be evacuated in the first groups.

The rescue began at dawn Wednesday (Tuesday U. S. date) when Rear Adm. Dixwell Ketcham, from his flagship, the escort carrier Block Island, sent planes in parade formation over the battered island, at one time among Japan's most heavily fortified and secret bases.

Messages were dropped to the Japanese commander to send harbor pilots out to meet the destroyer-escorts T. J. Gary and Kretchmer, under Cmdr. G. H. Johnson, which were standing off Port Kiirun.

As the ships entered the port—filled with hulks of destroyed shipping—they were covered by air patrols from the Carriers Block Island and Santee.

Blunt Instructions

Marine Col. A. D. Cooley, Santa Barbara, Calif., gave blunt instructions to the Japanese when they came aboard.

A few days previously, a single Avenger torpedo plane, piloted by Marine Capt. Dick Johnson, Williamsport, Ind., landed unheralded at Matsuyama airfield on the outskirts of Talisoku, bearing Marine Maj. Peter Folger, San Francisco. The major sought the locations and critical needs of prisoner of war camps clustered around the Formosan city.

Frightened Japanese drove Folger in a car to the camps.

Within a short time, swarms of planes from carriers dropped more than 10,000 pounds of supplies.

A railroad train, runnnig between Twihoku and Kiirun, was commandeered by Folger. The prisoners, who had taken over the camps after the Aug. 15 truce, piled joyously on the train. At the port, they rushed aboard the Block Island and Santee, where they were given uniforms and were fed.

One man's face was misshapen because of a broken jaw inflicted by Japanese guards. The prisoner said a Japanese officer left him tied to a stake after the beating.

They told of dozens dying of malnutrition. Some still alive may die despite medical aid.

Troops To Move Into Tokyo's Ruins Today

War Criminal Lists Mount

(By The Associated Press)

INCENSE was burned on the stomachs of prostrate prisoners of war by vicious Japanese guards, an American officer revealed yesterday (Thursday) as Col. Alva Carpenter announced at Manila that several thousand Japanese have been named in 1,000 atrocity cases already prepared for trial.

Colonel Carpenter, head of the war crimes branch of General MacArthur's staff, said some of the Japanese atrocities were "masterpieces of hideousness."

In Three Categories

He said the crimes were in three categories—those against peace by persons who planned the war; violations of the rules of war, including slaughter of hostages and mistreatment of prisoners, and crimes against humanity, covering slave labor, deportation of civilians and rape

Sarpenter did not say when the trials would be held, but stated Tokyo probably would be the scene.

"Our depositions and photographic evidence are so complete that I don't think we will need witnesses in most cases,' he commented.

Meanwhile headquarters of the Eighth Army in Yokohama announced that about one-fourth of the 32,500 prisoners in Japan's home islands had been liberated.

Brutal Treatment

Lt. Nerman Churchill of Toledo, O., who had visited the camps to arrange release of the prisoners, told of brutal mistreatment by Japanese guards.

The Japanese had accused the prisoners, Churchill related; of stealing Red Cross packages which were intended for the prisoners.

"I saw 20 men with ugly scars made by the Japs by burning incense on their fists as they held their arms out before them. If they dropped the incense they were badly beaten.

"Three prisoners were placed on their backs and held down by guards standing on their arms and legs while incense was burned on their stomachs."

Associated Press Correspondent Hamilton Faron, with the Third Fleet in Tokyo bay, reported Admiral Halsey disclosed that more than 2,800 Allied prisoners were on the verge of starvation on western Honshu island before planes began dropping food to them.

In San Francisco, Maj. Gen. Albert N. Jones arrived home and Heart Attack Fatal To Admiral McCain

(By The Associated Press)

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 6. — Vice Adm. John Sidney McCain, who won a flier's wings at 50 and went from a Washington desk job to shape fame with Adm. Marc A. Mitscher as the world's greatest carrier task force strategists, died tonight—from exhaustion caused by combat duty.

McCain, 61, had lived just long enough to see Japan surrender—but he was not convinced that the Nipponese war lords would be as docile as they appeared outwardly.

"They are not half licked," he said only two days ago enroute home from witnessing the surrender signing aboard the USS Missouri in Tokyo bay. "I don't like the look in their eyes."

McCain arrived only yesterday. He was scheduled to go to Washington after a short rest and a visit with his wife. He was full of postwar plans—and a carrier advocate to the last.

"Give me enough fast carriers and let me run them and you can have the atom bomb," said the commander of famous Task Force 38.

Earlier today a Navy physician reported the admiral was worn out from the strain of the past four months' activities directing his task force, and that he was

First Cavalry Sparks Drive

(By The Associated Press)

YOKOHAMA, Friday, Sept. 7—General MacArthur at the head of 15,000 troops will unfurl the American flag over the ruins of Tokyo tomorrow (Friday, U. S. time) signalling a swift occupation of Japan.

Within a week thereafter U. S. soldiers will stand guard in the railway city of Sendai, 190 miles north of the capital, and a week later will be swarming over Honshu's west coast and northernmost shores.

Patrols Poke In Rubble

Combat patrols yesterday began poking through the rubble that air onslaughts left of once-great Tokyo, which only a few weeks ago the Japanese were prepared to defend to the death with 20 divisions.

They were from the vanguards of the proud First Cavalry Division, veterans of the Southwest Pacific, first to enter Manila, and now to be granted the honor of being the first into Tokyo.

The Allied supreme commander will raise over his new quarters in Tokyo the American flag that flew over Washington's capitol that day of Pearl Harbor and which hasflown in triumps over Rome and Berlin.

All over Japan's now-exploded "co-prosperity sphere" her arrogant armies were surrendering and by mid-October, MacArthur estimated, 7,000,000 Japanese soldiers will be disarmed.

Half In Home Islands

At least 3,000,000 of these [illegible] in the home islands, now marked for occupation by 300,000 to 400,000 American troops. The Pacific Air force and units of the strategic air forces also will be based in Japan.

A Japanese naval party was due to board a waiting American warship today off the northern coast of the main home island of Honshu to arrange for the surrender Sunday of the [illegible] naval base to Vice Adm. Frank Fletcher's U. S. Ninth Fleet.

A big convoy of American troops was ready to land in southern Korea, where preliminary airborne detachments were preparing the way on the coast 25 miles west of Seoul (Keijo), the capital.

Tokyo newspapers reported that the long-subdued Koreans were in revolt, and the estimated 360,000 Japanese troops garrisoning the country were pictured as eagerly-awaiting the arrival of the Americans.

Army Sets Up New Plans For Officer Personnel Discharge

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—(U.P.)—The Army will release approximately 600,000 of its 800,000 officers by next July 1 under a new point system for commissioned personnel, the War department announced today.

Points will be allowed for length of service, overseas duty, combat awards and parenthood, the same as for enlisted men, and will be computed as of Sept. 2, 1945, V-J day.

New Critical Scores

Effective immediately, the War department said, critical scores will be: colonels, lieutenant colonels and majors, 100; captains, 1st and 2nd lieutenants, 85; warrant and flight officers, 80; nurses, 65; WAC officers of all grades, 44; physical therapists and dieticians, 41.

The Army estimated that application of these critical scores would make about 200,000 officers eligible for discharge. The critical scores will be lowered progressively to accomplish the demobilization of about 600,000 officers for all reasons by next July.

The War department has directed all theaters and commands that officers qualified for discharge under the new schedules are to be reported for separation within 60 days.

All Army Services Involved

The new point system applies to all arms and services within the Army. However, in addition, officers with lower scores may be released for the convenience of the government where there are no suitable assignmnts for them.

This meant that the Army Air forces will continue its recently-announced special point plan for the discharge of officers with lower point scores than those announced today.

Under the air force plan officers are eligible for discharge if they have the following point scores: flight officers 36; second lieutenant 42; first lieutenant 58; captains and higher grades 70.

Meanwhile four senators said they would seek to end induction of teen-aged youths if Congress passes a law continuing the draft.

Nine Airfields Ordered Closed

FORT WORTH, Sept. 6. (U.P.)—The Army Air Forces Training command announced today it will discontinue operations at nine airfields and one gunnery range in widely-scattered parts of the United States on or before Sept. 30.

Three of the installations to be discontinued are in Texas. Other states affected are Oklahoma, Ohio, Florida, Kansas, New Mexico, Arizona and Virginia—where one field or air base in each state is being discontinued.

Gen. Barton K. Yount, commanding officer of the training command with national headquarters at Fort Worth, said final disposition of the installations will be directed by the War department and headquarters of the Army Air force.

Officers at training command headquarters said they had no information as to future plans for the ten instllations.

It was the first major cutback of air force training since Pearl Harbor.

Those To Be Closed

Here are the fields and bases at which training will be discontinued:

Pampa Army Air field, Texas, an advanced two-engine pilot school.

Laughlin field, Del Rio, Tex., a specialized two - engine pilot school, B-26 and A-26.

Frederick Army air field, Oklahoma, a specialized two-engine pilot school and Ardmore, Okla., Army Air field.

Liberal Army Air field, Kansas, a specialized four-engine pilot school for B-24 pilots.

Three Suspects In Morton Robbery Held At Carlsbad

MORTON, Sept. 6. (Special)—Three men were arrested at Carlsbad, N. M., at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon as suspects in the $17,692 robbery of the First State bank of Morton, Cochran County Sheriff Mac W. Hancock said tonight.

The sheriff said he will take eyewitnesses to, the robbery to Carlsbad tomorrow to attempt identification of the men.

The trio was driving a green Ford with a California license when arrested, Hancock reported.

Ages "Range Around 25"

Arrest was made by Carlsbad officers.

The men's ages "range around 25," Hancock said he was informed.

Victims of the holdup had described the two men who came into the bank as older, but Hancok observed a misjudgement of the gunmen's ages was not unlikely in such a situation. The man who stayed at the wheel of the robbery car was judged to be about 24.

An officer of the Lea county sheriff's department told Hancock he believed the men were former soldiers.

The sheriff said general description of one of the suspects fitted that of one of the robbers.

Several Tips Received

Since the robbery several "tips" have come to Hancock, by telephone and telegraph, which may prove productive, he said.

Meanwhile, Hancock had called off the search for Thursday night to give sleepy and tired peace officers a much-needed rest. He and other officers agreed that the fugitives had temporarily slipped away.

Officers considered it likely that the hold-up men had a second car located somewhere in the sprasely-settled country west or southwest of Bledsoe, about 25 miles from Morton.

Wide Area Combed

Searching units made up of county officers, FBI agents, Texas Rangers and army and private fliers had comberd a wide area, radiating at Bledsoe, near the Texas-New Mexico line, all Wednesday afternoon and night and up to yesterday afternoon.

The bandit car, a red Pontiac convertible coupe that had been stolen from Ray Carpenter of 1106-B Seventeenth in Lubbock Tuesday night, was recovered by Norvell Redwine, Texas ranger, Dep. Sheriff Tom Cannon and J. R. Whitmire, Texas highway patrolman, all of Lubbock, and Carl Rogers of the Levelland police department. It was found near Morton.

The bandit car last had been seen with three men in it about 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the stock gate at the Bledsoe school,

Japs Chilled To Kamikaze Raids

By SGT. BERNIE MILLIGAN

(Distributed By The Associated Press)

YOKOSUKA NAVAL AIR STATION, Aug. 30. (Delayed)—Japanese kamikaze suicide bombing attacks upon American shipping slackened in the closing stages of the war because of the empire's inability to promote volunteers for the "dive to death" missions.

This disclosure was made today by Hagime Onishi, 32-year-old Japanese seaplane pilot, who stayed behind to greet American Marines as they stepped ashore at this base.

Soon Lost Appeal

Onishi, who was educated at Renssaeler Polytechnic institute in Troy, N. Y., said the "divine wind," which is the English interpretation of kamikaze, lost its appeal to the Japanese fliers after an initial outburst of spiritual and patriotic ferver.

Shortly before the war came to an end it was necessary, Onishi said, to draft men and boys for the job of piloting a bomb into the side of an American ship.

The Japanese pilot told how the practice flights were made with practice bombs but the planes could not land at a speed of less than 150 miles per hour and scores of the draftees were killed.

DALLAS, Sept. 6. (AP) — The War Production board today announced approval of more than $1,000,000 in construction projects in Texas.

The projects included:

Probe Of Pearl Harbor Assured

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6. (AP) — A congressional investigation of the Pearl Harbor calamity became assured today.

President Truman put his influence behind it and the Senate immediately and unanimously adopted a resolution for an inquiry by a joint Senate-House committee of 10.

Six members will be Democrats and four from minority parties. The resolution instructs that they report by Jan. 3.

In the House, the resolution bumped into an agreement that no legislative matters should come up during the day. This required a delay there at least until Monday.

Equal Representation

House Republicans today approved generally of the Senate resolution but insisted on equal party representation on the investigating committee.

In the Senate, it was a case of the Democrats grabbing a ball the Republicans were maneuvering to advance.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) had a resolution for an investigation ready to offer.

But majority leader Barkley of Kentucky always is the first member recognized when the Senate convenes and he ran away with the play.

Army's Surplus Sales Ire Vets

DALLAS, Sept. 6. (AP)—The Dallas News said today that a storm of protest by veterans is in the making over the handling of surplus property sales.

This is the situation, the newspaper says:

With more than 1,000 applications for trucks on file with the Smaller War Plants corporation in Dallas, the Department of Commerce has placed on sale to dealers 2,905 surplus Army trucks.

Veterans charge they were not given opportunity to exercise their legal preference, through SWPC to purchase the trucks before they were put on the open market.

Try To Stop Sale

Two veterans organizations at El Paso tried to stop a sale of 517 Army trucks to dealers at Fort Bliss, Wednesday. The sale went off as scheduled. Pat Hargrove, commander of Borderland Chapter No. 10, Disabled American Veterans, at El Paso, sent a telegram to M. H. Wells, deputy chief of the SWPC surplus property division in Washington, protesting the sale. Thomas D. Kane, state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, wired a protest to Maury Maverick SWPC chairman.

Records at the Dallas district office of SWPC show that eight veterans who have purchased trucks and paid their money as long ago as Aug. 2, have not received them because the necessary documents for obtaining delivery have not come from the Department of Commerce.

Solons Unhappy When Starving Europeans Refuse U.S. Foods

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—Starving Europeans who turnup their noses at American sweet potatoes aroused the ire of southern congressmen today.

In an attempt to dispose of a $5,000,000 surplus of the crop, they met at the call of Senator Overton (D-La). Representatives of the United Nations Rehabilitation and Relief administration, the Army Quartermasters corps and other federal agencies were summoned to tell the congressmen what all the trouble is about.

It was more than the southerners could take when executive Louis Swenson of the relief setup told them the folks in Europe just wouldn't eat some American foodstuffs, no matter how hungry they were. They hadn't been sent sweet potatoes, Swenson explained, because of a belief they would be wasted.

"I never heard of such a thing," indignantly stormed dignified Senator Overton.

"The aristocracy of France settled in Louisiana and ate them. It occurs to me the French and the Italians over there can be taught to like them if they're hungry."

Rep. Larcade of Louisiana agreed. He pointed out that American soldiers over the world had been forced to eat a lot of things they probably didn't like.

After two hours discussion, no immediate solution of the sweet-potato surplus was reached. The federal agents agreed to get together to see if something could be worked out, and they are to report back at noon Monday.

Thirty U. S. Cities Are Planning To Build Municipal Auditoriums

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles being written in connection with the current tour of Southern and Southwestern cities by Lubbock's Civic Center committee.)

By C. W. RATLIFF
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Thirty cities in the United States are planning construction of municipal auditoriums as their No. 1 post-war project, according to the records of the International Association of Auditorium Managers, W. A. McSlravy, secretary, says.

"Public auditoriums serve many useful purposes and if well managed are profitable in the end," McElravy told members of Lubbock's civic center committee in his office at the gigantic Memphis auditorium this afternoon. "This does not mean that they always pay operating expenses. The indirect return is more important than any small profit which could be realized from renting the building.

"The primary purpose of an auditorium is to provide facilities for events which otherwise could not be attracted to your city," McElravy continued. The practical effect is to advertise your city as a place where meetings, conventions, expositions, cultural affairs and sporting events can be held in a large way.

Good Will Angle Stressed

"These attract visitors and, if these visitors receive a good impression from large, well-managed gatherings and adequate accommodations, the city will win. There will be benefits from publicity and good will and in the contributions to the commercial, social and cultural life of the community beside the profit on the money spent by the visitors.

"The auditorium not only provides certain entertainment in itself, with its accommodations for conventions, meetings, concerts, opera and sporting events: it also changes the atmosphere of a city by the influence of large crowds which otherwise would never visit the place," McElravy, who has been managing director of the Memphis building since it opened 21 years ago, pointed out.

"If the city has been the scene of a series of events which have attracted visitors by the thousands, the life of the place is more inspiring," he continued. "There is more to talk about, the people are more interested in things going on outside and the visitor, even though he may be a strang-

Don't Miss "The Arkansas Story," Coming Sunday!

Over in Arkansas, the people are doing something so simple and so practical that it is making "big news."

Arkansawyers "are taking what they have, where they are—and making it pay dividends"—they are augmenting their agricultural economy with industry and chemurgy.

McCARTY

The Avalanche-Journal and the Amarillo Globe-News sent John McCarty to Arkansas to view first hand the astounding goings-on there—to get "The Arkansas Story." Mr. McCarty, assistant publisher of the Amarillo papers, is Plains-reared and educated; knows the Northwest Texas from "a" to "izzard;" has ranged the entire area since before the railroads came to Lubbock. He got the story and learned that what Arkansawyers are doing, residents of the South Plains and Panhandle can do, too.

His "Arkansas Story will appear in both The Avalanche-Journal and Globe-News on Sunday. Watch for it!

Adoption of the Arkansas Plan in Northwest Texas will put money in the pockets of our people.

Marine Vets Say Vicious Japs Must Be Ruled With Iron Hand

OFF JAPAN, Aug. 29. (Delayed) (AP)—Fourth Marine regiment officers, who saw their buddies die in savage jungle fighting and found the mutilated bodies of troops and civilians, declared today that the Japanese must be ruled with an unfaltering iron hand.

"We must crush them so thoroughly they cant come back in future years," said Lt. Marvin C. Plock, Lincoln, Neb., in an interview.

"They are the most vicious people I ever encountered and they will scheme for new power. Unless we oust the war lords the peace doesn't make sense.'

Second Lt. John L. Hart of Carriers Mills, Ill., said he disliked the Japanese attitude that they were going to get off easier than Germany because they surrendered without an invasion.

"They'd better learn they are licked and we are the boss," Hart said.

"Even though the Japs surrendered I don't trust them and feel we must be constantly alert,' declared 2nd Lt. Bill Morey of Frontenac, Kas.

First Lt. David D. Duncan, Kansas City, Mo., a combat photographer, warned "We must beware of Jap soft soap.

"I have photographed mutilated Australian Navy men killed when they were captured," Duncan commented grimly. "I have seen airmen who have been tied to trees and bayoneted. I saw beheaded civilians who were not even involved in the war. The Japs have no mercy coming."

Bitter Story Of Sadistic Abuse By Japs Told By Freed General

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6. (AP)—A graphic, bitter story of sadistic abuse of American prisoners by the Japanese, including the slapping and beating of Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, was told by Maj. Gen. Albert N. Jones, on his arrival home.

Surrounded by his family, the general told his story quietly.

Captured on the west side of Bataan April 11, 1942, he and his troops took part in the "Death March" to Camp O'Donnel where they were 'turned over to the devil."

The general saw his men die by the hundreds for lack of water, medicine and food. "The air was stifling with the stench of the dead.'

Moved To Formosa

In August he was transferred to Krenkow, Formosa, to Camp Starvation ,where he stayed until June, 1943.

"It was the camp for high ranking officers. It was the camp where the Nips slapped and beat Skinny Wainwright and Percival (British general). We worked and starved. We were stripped in parade. We were slapped in public. We were forced to pray three times a day to the emperor. We were made to bow to Jap privates and Jap civilians.

"There was no food. There was nothing . . . all we did day and night was to write recipes. We dreamed of food. We knew nothing of what was going on . . . nothing."

"We were transferred to Takeo. We were forced to work in the cane fields. Our next camp was Cheng Chai Tung in Manchuria. It wasn't so bad. Then we were transferred to a camp in Mukden.

"The treatment was a reversion to such sadism as we had never known before. We were starved out. The men were sick. They had worms and were too starved to be treated. Some were beaten. Some were killed.

"Just before we got to the camp the Americans bombed it, thinking it was an aircraft plant. The Nips had given them false information. Nineteen prisoners were killed and scores wounded.

"On August 17—my wifes birthday—the Russians busted in. The interpreter bowed and said, 'Gentlemen, you are free.'"

Wainwright Stepped Up To Full General

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6. (U.P.)—The Senate today wrapped up the fourth silver star which signifies the rank of full general as a homecoming present for Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, hero of Bataan and Corregidor.

Wainwright will arrive here Monday for a welcoming reception by President Truman, Congress and the War department.

His promotion to full general was approved by the Senate today, 24 hours after President Truman submitted the nomination.

The plane trip to the nation's capital will be the last leg of Wainwright's journey home after more than three years as a Japanese prisoner.

Accompanying Wainwright will be Brig. Gen. Lewis C. Beebe, Faribault, Minn.; Lt. Col. J. R. Pugh, Washington, D C.; Maj. Thomas Dooley, McKinney, Tex., and T/Sgt. Hubert Carroll, Paris, Tex.

Salvation Army Man Proves Good Sleuth

HOUSTON, Sept. 6. (U.P.)—Maj. Hugo Bloomburg was wondering today if, after 24 years with the Salvation Army, whether he was in the wrong outfit.

Yesterday Maj. Bloomburg was sorting scrap collected by the Salvation Army, and he discovered a live hand grenade and a bottle of nitroglycerine.

The grenade was turned over to the San Jacinto ordnance depot. Maj. Bloomburg carefully poured the nitro in the back yard.

HST Asks Repeal Of Johnson Act

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6. (U.P.)—President Truman today called for repeal of the Johnson act in order to restore private lending abroad and eliminate the current governmental monopoly of international credit.

The Johnson act, enacted in the 1930s under sponsorship of the late Sen. Hiram Johnson, (R-Calif.) prohibits private loans by American organizations to nations who defaulted on their World War I debt. All nations except Finland defaulted.

In his message to Congress, the President said:

"Private loans on a sane basis are an essential adjunct to the operation of the export-import and international bank operations."

Obligations Not Cancelled

The President also reiterated that the United States does not expect lend-lease recipients to pay in dollars for "the overwhelming portion" of lend-lease obligations they have incurred

"But this loes not mean that all lend-lease obligations are to be cancelled," he said. "We shall seek under the procedure prescribed in the lend-lease act and in subsequent agreements with other governments to achieve settlements of our wartime lend-lease relations which will permit generally a sound world-wide economy and will contribute to international peace and our own national security."

Mr. Truman again justified his order terminating lend-lease deliveries on V-J day, asserting that "it was always understood that it would come to an end at that time."

To Aid Nations

But he stated that it was this country's intention to give all reasonable aid to war-torn countries in getting back on their feet.

He recommended that Congress immediately appropriate the remaining $550,000,000 granted by it for U. S. participation in the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration and for "prompt examination and consideration" of a new UNRRA request for $1,350,000,000 in additional funds from this country. He pledged fullest use possible of lend-lease goods and surplus military goods to meet UNRRA needs.

Finally the President foresaw the need for additional interim lending power to insure a rapid and successful transition to peacetime world trade. He evidently was thinking of requests from China and expected requests from Russia and other countris, in addition to the $3,000,000,000 to $4,000,000,000 Britain needs within a few months.

Conversations Begin

"Appropriate recommendations will be made to the Congress on this matter when we have completed the exploratory conversations already begun with our associates," he said.

The most important conversations begin next Monday with a special British mission which is coming here to discuss postwar transitional economic problems.

The transitional financial arrangements need to get Britain back on her econmic feet lie somewhere between an outright American grant of money and a hard-driven banker's loan at normal interest rates.

C Of C In Quandary Over Technicality On First '45 Bale

Lubbock Chamber of Commerce officials were presented with a ticklish problem yesterday as they tried to determine who was entitled to the Chambers $50 award as grower of the first bale of Lubbock county cotton ginned this season.

Complication No. 1 occurred when Ernest Exum, a tenant on the J. E. Vickers farm, route No. 3, Lubbock, presented his affidavit to the chamber, stating that his bale was ginned at the West Texas Gin Co. Wednesday at 4 p. m. An official at the gin company had telephoned the Chamber Wednesday that the bale had been ginned at 4:15.

The second complication arose from the fact that a part of the farm, owned by Judge C. Smith, Slaton grower, who also claimed the distinction of growing the first bale ginned, was located in Lynn county. The Campbell Gin Co. of Slaton, which on Tuesday reported that Smiths cotton had been ginned at 4:10 p. m., and Smith have as yet presented no affidavits to the chamber.

Smith, however said some of his cotton-growing land is in Lynn county, although approximately 75 per cent of his land is in Lubbock county. According to the chamber rules, the prize goes to the grower whose cotton is grown, baled and sold in Lubbock county. The technicality, arising from the fact that part of Smith's cotton may have been grown in Lynn instead of Lubbock county, may disqualify him. He was winner of the same prize, however, two years ago.

A special committee of the chamber will review the claims of the two growers before making a decision as to whom is winnner, chamber officials explained.

U. S. Confidence In Russia Is Showing A Sharp Rise

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—Public confidence in Russia has increased sharply in recent weeks, a surve of opinion across the nation finds.

One fact which may come as a surprise to Marshal Stalin is that a far greater proportion of business and professional people express confidence in Russia than is the case among U. S. workers, at the present time.

GALLUP

Throughout the nation as a whole the survey finds that public confidence in Russia's intentions is back to just about where it was in March of this year, when it had reached a record high point, as revealed in surveys by the Institute.

The number who today say they think Russia can be trusted to cooperate with us after the war adds up to a clear majority not only in the nation as a whole but also in every principal section of the country.

Obviously Russia's entry into the war against Japan has erased much of the public skepticism engendered by the United Nations Conference at San Francisco, and friction in the Balkans.

Chiang Support Helpful

Moreover, the interviewing as reported today was completed before the news that the Soviet decided to support Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was made public. It is reasonable to assume that this latest Russian gesture will bolster American public confidence to an even greater extent than that already prevailing.

The question asked of voters in all parts of the country is the same as that used in similar surveys made earlier:

"Do you think Russia can be trusted to cooperate with us after the war?"

Sentiment today:

YES	54%
NO	30
UNDECIDED	16

The trend table below shows the sharp drop which public confidence took on the heels of the United Nations conference and emphasizes the sensitive nature of public opinion in this country where Soviet Russia is concerned.

	Yes	No	Undec.
March, 1942	53%	32%	22%
Nov., 1943	47	37	26
July, 1944	47	36	17
Dec., 1944	47	35	18
March, 1945	55	31	14
June, 1945	45	38	17
TODAY	54	30	16

Here is a table showing the contrast of sentiment between business and professional people and manual workers, and other white collar workers and farmers.

By Occupations

	Yes	No	Undec.
Prof. and Bus. people	64%	25%	11%
White Collar Workers	62	30	8
Farmers	49	32	20
Manual Workers	48	33	19

However, it should be emphasized that these people do not feel the way they do because they are workers, or because they are professional and business people. Undoubtedly a more fundamental factor is education. The more education a man has, the more he is inclined to trust Russia. This is shown in the vote on the question by education:

By Education

	Yes	No	Undec.
Attended College	71%	23%	6%
Attended High schl.	58	31	11
Attended Gram. Schl.	47	32	21

Every study done by the Institute on this question has found women less inclined to trust Russia than men. For example, today, while 59 per cent of the men say they think Russia can be trusted to cooperate with us, only 46 per cent of the women say they think so.

Commercial forests in the United States cover 460,000,000 acres. Of these, 202,096,000 acres are owned by private industrial operators, 138,812,000 acres by farmers and the remainder is publicly owned.

Houston Reconversion Bright Spot And Most Of State Not Badly Hurt

HOUSTON, Sept. 6 (AP)—Industry's smooth reconversion here from war to peace has made this immediate area the number one bright spot in the nation, and labor conditions throughout the state are good with the exception of Dallas, Claude E. Belk, of Austin, state War Manpower commission director, said today.

Dallas was given as the worst spot in the state both in the matter of unemployment and preparation to absorb dislocated war workers. Fort Worth was badly affected by the layoff of some 10,000 war workers, mostly women aircraft employes.

Cushioned At Amarillo

Amarillo had a heavy layoff in ordnance employes, but the unemployment problem was cushioned to a large edgree by the fact that it was an extreme shortage area before the war ended, and the oil, carbon black and zinc smelter industries which have continued.

El Paso, Abilene, Austin, and Brownsville, he said, have been labor surplus areas all through the war, and the number of war contracts in these cities were small. Cancellation did not change the local conditions.

In the Waco area, the Blue Bonnet Ordnance works shut down, but 80 per cent of the workers were farmers who went back to the farm, he said. The tire plant of the General Tire and Rubber company, as well as canvas goods and garment factories changed over to civilian work.

East Texas Situation

Throughout East Texas the war's ends made little change in the employment situation except Texarkana, where two ordnance plants employed mostly negro men and women from Texas and Arkansas closed. There are no jobs for them and they are filing claims for unemployment benefits, he said, and going back to the farm.

The Beaumont, Port Arthur, Orange area ranks next to Houston, he said, as a bright spot in the state. Port Arthur was unaffected by the war's end because refineries there cut over to civilian production. Beaumont, which has the Pennsylvania Shipbuilding company, iron works and the Magnolia Petroleum company refinery, has felt no great pinch, and such cutbacks as there have been at Orange have been absorbed in the nylon factory there.

San Antonio and Corpus

San Antonio had little war industry. The huge volume of civilian workers at Army installations are being released gradually as the Army work tapers off, he said.

Corpus Christi has shown no appreciable change in its unemployment load. The naval base there has made no reductions, while its major industries switched over to civilian production with little labor dislocations.

Texas Getting Back To Normal; Papers Carry Varied News

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Peace, it's wonderful!

Hardly skipping a beat, Texans have turned from killing Japs to killing time.

The same energy used in waging war is now turned to lesser things, to wit:

In Temple, "Barking dogs bring protests from sleepy citizens" the Temple Telegram says in a headline. Dogs, says the paper, have taken over the nights and hundreds of residents have protested to the police department. Police Chief Mackey McDonald worriedly explains that he's on the spot—he can't just go around slaying pet poodles, urges people to tie them up at night and he'll take care of the strays.

Wants Time Changed

Fort Worth wants to do something about eliminating war time. Congressman Lanham said "Standard time fits in with the economy of this section better" and gave his support to a movement to set clocks up one hour.

The Bryan police radio station KPBR will now announce the correct time every hour, on the hour.

Down in Harlingen, the Rio Grande Flying club is organized. Pilots from all air fields of the lower Rio Grande valley have been invited to join and stimulate aviation in the area. Between 75 and 100 planes were expected at the first meeting Aug. 26.

Sailplaning Is Booming

H. Mewhinney, rationing editor of the Houston Post, admitted that "we may find few occasions hencefort to write this department."

At Camp Bowie, two buildings were offered for sale.

Sailplaning zoomed as a sport in Dallas.

Wichita Falls had its attention diverted from black markets to green markets. A group of juveniles operated the business—selling green watermelons they had taken from the farm of W. F. Ernst near the Wichita river. He estimated 17 acres had been cleared of melons in two or three weeks.

The Valley Morning Star, Harlingen, devoted quite a bit of space to a piano. It was an antique grand piano estimated to be 320 years old. It is owned by Mr. and Mrs. W. D. McWilliams of San Benito, and was made in London.

Texas, in short is getting back to normal.

Shorter Work Week In Use At LAAF

A 40-hour work week has begun for civilian personnel at Lubbock Army Air field in keeping with federal directives recently issued for all government employees throughout the nation.

The new and shorter work week became effective last week with employees for th most part now being entitled to one day off each week under the plan of a five-day, eight-hour day work week.

Officials at the field emphasized in making the announcement that this does not mean that a surplus of civilian workers made the move possible. Instead civilian workers are still badly needed at the AAF instructors school to keep the intensive training program under way.

No Immediate Changes

Col. Howell M. Estes, jr., commanding officer, emphasized again that no immediate changes were planned at LAAF and that its mission of training ATC pilots for the vital job of helping speed the redeployment and demobilization of men in the Pacific was being continued at full force.

ians will be given an opportunity to take jobs with Army installations.

An added incentive for taking a position at the west base, it was pointed out, is the recent federal pay act which increased the pay of all civilian junior employees. And although the work week has been slightly shortened the workers are still earning about the same amount of pay as they did during the war.

Under new regulations only those persons who have previously worked for the Civil Service or discharged veterans are eligible to make application for jobs at present the field has need of several supervisors in choice jobs with numerous other positions open. Civilian personnel officials at LAAF said that job vacancies existed in positions from $960 per annum to $3,960 per annum.

MORE JAPS HELD

LONDON, Sept. 6. (U.P) — The Soviet communique reported tonight that 18,000 more Japanese including Gen. Jamada Otodza, commander in chief of the Kwantung Army, have been taken prisoner.

More than 200 hospital ships were used by the belligerents in World War 1.

Top Belgian Award Given Eisenhower

BRUSSELS, Sept 6. (AP)—Belgium today gave Gen. Eisenhower her highest honor—the Grand Cordon of the Order of Leopold.

Defense Minister Leo Mundeleer, representing the regent Prince Charles who is ill, placed the dark red ribbon around the American soldier's shoulders at the royal palace and told him: "You are no longer a citizen of the United States. You are a citizen of the world."

Eisenhower's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, received Belgium's Grand Cross of the Order of the Crown.

Before the general entered his car outside the station two young Belgian girls rushed up and kissed him on both cheeks. A crowd of several thousand outside the station shouted "vive Eisenhower."

Re-Check Made In Grass Fight

Lubbock county Johnson grass committeemen have said "if every farmer in Lubbock county would spend one half-day, say Saturday morning, with some type of plow equipment working ditches and fields there would be little or no grass left in the county by the end of the day.

As Johnson grass eradication week nears its finish a recheck of back-sloping of "bar' ditches and roads has been made by H. P. Read, special assistant to the county agent, and it is revealed that Commissioner Vol Farris, Precinct 4, has worked over 300 miles of roads in his area. Each of the other commissioners has accomplished about 120 miles, or more, back sloping.

Jason Gordon, county agent, and Virgil Rowland have been spending every effort to obtain the chemical, atlacide, to aid in the eradication movement. Their success is as yet undetermined, but prospects for a very limited amount are not unforeseeable, Gordon said.

Atlacide Used

Atlacide has been used to a limited degree in parts of the county and maximum success, under sectional conditions, has been reported by Read.

C. E. Lily, farming about three-fourths mile south of Slaton, had a small supply last year and by use of an ordinary 4-gallon spray had very successful results.

He made the proper mixture, as directed by the company producing the chemical, using 1 pound of atlacide to one gallon of water. This mixture covers approximately 100 square feet, Read said. He was careful to get a thorough saturation on the grass.

Kill Near 100 Per Cent

This mixture was applied about Sept. 1, when the grass was blooming and about to make a head, and almost a 100 per cent kill was reported by Lily. First results were discouraging but as the chemical soaked in and reached the roots of the grass, it was rotted out. It was also used on grass that was not seeded out, about knee high, but not even 50 per cent was killed.

Lily stresses that the grass should be sprayed around heading time, and says that all of the farmers in his neighborhood are doing very good work in the grass eradication movement.

Among his neighbors who are fighting a winning battle against the pesty weed are E. E. Wilson, who is digging his as it appears; George Vickers, who is spraying with fuel oil; and E. R. Legg, also spraying with oil.

Atlacide Supply Limited

North of Lubbock, about two miles on the College avenue road, H. L. McCauley reports experience last year with atlacide, although he said he was unable to get all he needed. He applied the chemical as Lily did, but a rain followed immediately after spraying and washed off much of the spray. Even with these obstacles McCauley still had a 50 per cent kill.

He also reported that many farmers in McLennan county, in the heart of the "Johnson grass country," were using the chemical around ditches and road sides with effective results.

Johnson grass eradication week ends Saturday. It is stressed by the county committee and the commissioners of the county. Read has reported very active cooperation on the part of farmers with plowing and hoeing.

MASS MEETING

SINCE the Jap surrender, the proposed clubhouse for Lubbock women seems likely to become a reality much sooner than those who had feared the war might continue for several years last spring, when the project was first mentioned.

Committees have been active and the board of directors has met at stated intervals since the club season closed for the summer. Findings will be presented this afternoon at a mass meeting of charter members and participating clubs at 3 oclock in St. John's Methodist church.

First public appearance of Miss Beverly Vaughn, new violin teacher, will be made this afternoon at the program.

Mrs. A. W. Young, chairman of the board of directors, says the meeting will not be more than an hour's duration if the women gather on time.

CHRONIC HEADACHES

ALMOST eight million Americans are victims of migrainous or "sick" headaches. Doctors say persons who are subject to these attacks are apt to be tense, nervous, worrisome or overly-conscientious. Causes of these headaches seem to range from infected teeth to food allergies, but there is no one single factor influential in all cases.

Research shows that attacks frequently are brought on by overwork, fatigue, loss of sleep, worry or excitement. A sufferer from sick headaches, therefore, should be constantly on guard for warning signals. He sheuld avoid overtiredness ,anger, worry, excitement and over-indulgence.

A pleasant environment plus a general health routine will keep him in good condition and lessen the danger of frequent attacks. He must have adequate outdoor exercise, regular habits, regular meals, regular hours of sound sleep and he must learn how to relax, come what may.

We are thoroughly sold on this relaxing idea. When one is feeling fatigued, nervous or tense, stretching out on a bed and completing relaxing for a while is a wonderful tonic.

POOR SUFFERERS

VICTIMS of hay fever have been having an especially bad time lately, or so it seems to us. The days, mighty warm for September ,are contributive to their discomfort and even as the victims look forward to frost, which will bring relief, they are busy avoiding promise of that time—the marigolds and other yellow and "deadly" blossoms.

SPICY NEWS!

AMERICA'S pepper shakers may begin to fill up again with the real article within nine months, according to the American Spice Trade association. The Netherlands Indies will ship as soon as possible such greatly needed spices as black and white pepper, cinnamon, nutmeg, mace and China expects to ship us ginger, sesame seed and mustard seed.

The acute shortage of spices from the Netherlands Indies during the war was responsibe for the appearance on the market of the synthetic spices.

Overtime Work For Women Taboo Again

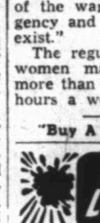

AUSTIN, Sept 6. (U.P.)—State Labor Commissioner Leonard Carlton today notified more than 300 Texas industries their permits to employ women a maximum of 60 hours a week are now cancelled and they must not work them more than 54 hours a week.

Carlton said a special law which permitted the wartime 60-hour week now is void. He said the law was enacted for duration of the war only and the "emergency and necessity no longer exist."

The regular state law provides women may not be employed more than nine hours a day or 54 hours a week.

Nine 'Steps To Reconversion' Are Outlined And Offered To Congress

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (AP) — Nine "steps to reconversion" were outlined to President Truman by the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion today. The President, in turn, transmitted them to Congress.

Director John W. Snyder, in a 1,000 word report entitled "the transition: phase one," said "our entire economy will feel the stress of the transition."

"Every business has its own particular problem," he asserted, "but for the country as a whole, there are certain steps which it is clear we must take." They follow:

Must Cancel Contracts

"1. Contracts must be cancelled to release factories, facilities, and manpower.

"2. Contracts must be settled promptly to wind up war financing and to place operating funds in the hands of business.

"3. Plants must be cleared of government-owned machinery and inventories.

"4. Manpower must be released both from war work and from the armed services.

"5. Business personnel offices and government employment agencies must operate to bring jobs and job hunters quickly together. Adequate benefits must be provided during the unavoidable period of unemployment.

"6. Controls on many materials must be released so that they can find their way quickly into peacetime uses.

Scarce Materials

"7. Disrupting scrambles for scarce materials and components must be prevented and for this reason some controls must still be maintained temporarily. Production of these scarce items must be pushed.

"8. The forces of deflation and inflation, both of which will be present during this difficult switch-over period, must be checked by a firm policy of economic stabilization.

"9. Production of peacetime goods and services must be started up again in private plants and in surplus plants disposed of by the government. In cases where plants are already in production, they must be expanded for new and bigger peacetime markets."

Thirteen out of every twenty American high school students expect to leave their home towns and live elsewhere, after they have completed their education.

Jack Teagarden And Orchestra At LAAF

Jack Teagarden, king of the blues trombone, and his nationally known orchestra opened a three-day engagement at Lubbock Army Air field last night when they played for enlisted men and guests at the post gym.

A formal dance for LAAF student officers and guests will be held from 9 to 12:30 tonight at the officers club. The band will play for permanent party officers of LAAF from 9 to 12:30 Saturday night in the post gym.

Featured vocalist is Sally Lang and the Jack Teagarden trombone choir presents special arrangements.

Coming direct to Lubbock from a successful engagement on the West Coast and scheduled appearances at other AAF installations in the Southwest, Teagarden and his orchestra were booked here for a longer engagement than at other fields.

One of the oldest and most widely known orchestras in the nation, Teagarden and his musicians have played for large night clubs, theaters, national hook-up radio programs and appeared in movies. He is best remembered for his performance in "Birth of the Blues," the movie that featured Bing Crosby, Mary Martin and the blues music of Teagarden.

B-29s Erase Toyama In One Incendiary Raid A Month Ago

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

TOYAMA, Sept. 6.—This is the one Japanese city which the 20th Air Force claimed to have wiped out completely. The job was done with just one incendiary raid.

The B-29s rained Toyama a month ago, and the subsequent photographic reconnaissance indicated the urban area of approximately two square miles was 99.5 per cent erased.

That was an accurate estimate. The entire city is one brown ashy smear.

Only hulks of a few concrete buildings remain.

Lives, Industry Lost

The Japanese say that many of the 127,000 population died in the raid. Thousands of homeless crowd the scattered suburbs and villages for miles around.

The guide who flew here with us from Tokyo was an American-educated engineer from Texas who said he was unaware that surrounding Toyama within two to four miles were Japan's largest alumnium plant, the fourth most important ballbearing plant, chemical industries, steel mills, radar instrument factories, magnesium plants, sulphur works and an iron refining plant, also Japan's sixth largest chemical fixation plant, rayon and pulp mills and other industries.

Production Halted

Although many of those plants remained unbombed because the B-29s had not gotten around to them when the war ended, the razing of Toyama effectively halted their production.

The guide, Thomas Kato, 31, said he was born in Austin, Tex., and was graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1936. He moved to Tokyo a year later as an engineer in a steel mill. He was exempt from the draft because of his work, although the mill was partly destroyed in a raid.

"When Japan attacked Pearl Harbor I figured we were getting into a hell of a mess and it was a bad step to take," he said. "I still think so."

PRAGUE MAYOR DIES

PRAGUE, Sept. 6. (AP)—The mayor of Prague under German rule was sentenced today to hang. His brief trial was in the same court room where German masters of Czechoslovakia once sentenced hundreds to death. (The Prague radio, heard in London, said the sentence was carried out immediately).

DDT May Soon Be On Market

DDT, the wonder insecticide used extensively by the U. S. Army may soon be available for civilian consumption in local stores, according to Everett J. Wilgus, manager of the South Plains Drug and Sundry house.

Wilgus has received notification from the chemical company in Philadelphia that produces the DDT that he may expect a shipment in the near future, although no specified shipping date was given.

First thought will be given to dairymen, farmers and cattlemen in civilian consumption, but Wilgus said enough of the insecticide will be available by next spring for household and other uses.

Comes In Four Forms

The DDT will come in four forms, a dust and spray for agriculture uses; a dust or spray for household uses; and a garden insecticide, using an oil or water base.

Wilgus said the chemical would kill insects over a sibeable area, and remain effective for as much as a month. He said the DDT was due to be used on a wide scale here by farmers and stockmen. The local drug merchant quoted the company bulletin as warning civilians that a great deal was yet to be learned about the safe use of DDT.

Principal use of DDT in the past has been by the Army in combating insect-infested jungles and swampy areas where American soldiers were fighting. It has been proved during the war as one of the greatest discoveries of the time, according to scientific reports.

Some of Lubbocks public schools have been dusted recently with DDT and more work of this nature is expected.

Jap Labor Unions Start Reorganizing

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 6. (AP)—Japanese labor unions, outlawed 14 years ago, already have begun reorganizing, Tokyohiko Kagawa, widely-known Christian Labor leader and social worker, declared today.

Kagawa, a slight, energetic man was arrested five times for his labor activities and for opposing the war against China. He recently was appointed one of five "intellectuals," to whom Premier PrinceHigashi-Kuni entrusted the job of revamping Japanese culture into modern ways

For the past two years the Japanese radio made use of Kagawa's name in connection with propaganda against the United States.

Kagawa said he resigned as a Christian minister in 1940, because of police pressure but asserted there still were 300,000 Protestants and 200,000 Catholics in Japan.

Tigers Rally To Gain Even Break With New York Yanks

NEW YORK, Sept. 6. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers came within two innings of blowing a crucial doubleheader — as well as two games of their non-too-robust American League lead—to the Yankees today, but rallied enough in the nightcap to squeak through with a last-minute split.

The Yanks put on their heaviest home-run show of the campaign to drop the roof in on the Bengals 14-5 in the opener as a crowd of 43,534—among them 5,826 servicemen—registered the proper glee over four circuit smashes and assorted other hits the New Yorkers sprayed around the landscape. But in the nightcap, the Tigers caught up with Bill Zuber's "tuba ball" in the seventh and eighth frames to register a 5-2 decision and cash in on Les Mueller's three-hit elbowing.

It took five hours and a quarter to get through a generally sloppily - played afternoon of the national pastime which left the parties of the first and second part here still 5½ games apart.

Two venerable gentlemen, Rufus the Red Ruffing and Jim Tobin, made their appearance at the start of the opening tilt, but neither stayed long. Tobin gave way to three more flippers before it was over, and the Tiger twirlers gave 15 walks and 13 hits to Yankee batsmen.

Zimmermans double and Bill Jurges' infield smash were combined in the fourth for the run that cost Borowy his shutout.

Sale of season tickets for Texas Techs home football games has been rather brisk this week, announced Morley Jennings, Tech athletic director, Thursday night.

The sale of tickets will continue until Sept. 21, the eve of the opening grid game here on the five-game home schedule of the Red Raiders. The seasons opener here will be Sept. 22 with Southwestern.

The remaining games on the home schedule will include: Tulsa on Oct 13, Baylor on Oct. 20, West Texas State Teachers on Oct. 27, and Texas Christian on Nov. 10. The first four are night games, and the Horned Frogs battle is an afternoon homecoming attraction.

Reserve seats are priced at $2.40, including federal tax, and box seats are $3, including federal tax, values of $12 and $15, respectively. By buying season tickets, the reserve seats may be purchased for $9 and box seats for 12, a savings of $3 on season tickets.

Fans are urged to buy their tickets as early as possible, and while there is still a fine selection of seats available.

While ticket sales are being pushed, Coaches Del Morgan and Polk Robison continue to step up the tempo of workouts on the football field as the Red Raiders whip into shape for the rugged schedule ahead of them.

Westerners Show Up Well In Scrimmage

With the opening football game only a week away, the Lubbock Westerners turned on the steam Thursday afternoon at Chapman field, and gave the railbirds a real treat with a lengthy session of head knocking that showed the fans some plain and fancy offensive play.

Coaches Dixie White and George Philbrick were starting to test the high geared offensive machinery, and found that it needs a little more oil on certain cogs, but was running smoothly up and down Chapman field as the ball carriers roamed far, wide and handsome, and almost at will.

Offensive Is Stressed

It was strictly offensive, and the same squad kept the ball all the way. The offensive was run in two shifts, with very little difference showing up in either lineup. The first team had a little more polish, and did a little better ball handling, but the second team showed lots of form.

On the first team, George Brewer was snaking through for many nice gains. Team Captain Charles Presley was showing worlds of power in the backfield, and Arthur Rampy was looking good on several runs. Brewer was showing up fine on the pass pitching department, with Kenneth Cawthron and Gerald Davis doing some nice pass catching.

Don Austin Standout

But—the boy who stood out like a sore thumb was little Don "Spec" Austin, little halfback from the Cowhands, who was spinning, twisting, driving and outrunning the defenders all afternoon. Austin showed all concerned that the first string backfield is far from a settled question without his consent.

Stoney Wall, running from his new position as blocking back on the second string club, was showing plenty of fire in his play, and showed that he would be ready to give another veteran, John Paul Jones, a stiff battle for this position.

Lanham Looks Good

John Lanham, another outstanding contender for a backfield berth, was showing up mighty well, and was a close contender for the day's top honors with Austin, Brewer and Presley for the ball carrying honors. But the second stringers marred their showing with many fumbles.

The Westerners were running off the established single wingback formation most of the time, but many of the fancy runs came off the tricky T formation, which is rather new around the Westerner field. The backs were showing plenty of class at both styles.

The first string linemen were showing up well on the offense, but were never given the chance to show their wares on defensive play. The linemen were showing plenty in the way of opening holes through which the Westerner backs were going for their lengthy gains.

From a defensive picture, the boys who stood out in Thursday's rough scrimmage were Orlando Moyers, big tackle, Joe Wofford, backing up the line, and Jimmy Fewell, 201 pound guard, who just reported to the squad Wednesday. These three boys were causing more than their share of the woe to the wild romping Westerner backs.

Forward Wall Chief Worry At Ohio State

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 6. (AP)—Line up a line and the Bucks will be tough to handle is the general opinion in this hotbed of football where Ohio State university came up with an unbeaten and untied team a year ago.

The Bucks were rated the strongest all-civilian team in the nation last fall and won the Big Ten championship.

All of the coaches, from Head Mentor Carroll Widdoes down, admit the forward wall is the biggest problem and Line Coach Ernie Godfrey even calls his task this year "the toughest job I've faced in 17 years of coaching."

It isn't that the boys aren't trying or that there is a lack of material, it's just that unless all of the "ifs" in the picture turn out well, it will be a predominantly freshman crew in the front line.

The biggest "if," of course, is the physical condition of All-American Guard Bill Hackett. Still not fully recovered from a head injury suffered in an automobile accident, Hackett won't know for another two weeks whether he can play this fall. Another "if" is whether Thornton Dixon, Navy dental trainee, can regain his form of 1940 and 1941 and step into a tackle berth. Still another is the status of Jack Roe, reserve center of 1942, who is slated to be discharged from the Army soon.

The bright side of the picture is the backfield. Gone, of course, is All-America and Heisman award winner Les Horvath but ready to step into his shoes is Paul Sarringhaus a star of Ohio States 1942 National championship team, and recently discharged from the Army.

MEETING CALLED

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 6. (AP)—The Southwestern Conference executive committee today called a special meeting of the full conference for Sept. 28 to consider special legislation to permit ex-servicemen to participate in athletics at the school of their choice.

"Jug" And Ben Tied For Lead

DALLAS, Sept. 6. (AP)—Bantam Ben Hogan battled influenza and par and took both to a cleaning today as he edged in with a four-under 68 to tie broad shouldered Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Sanford, Me., for the first-round lead in the Dallas $10,000 Open golf tournament.

Hogan, the Texan who now gets his mail at Hershey(Pa., was under a physician's care last night and there was doubt he would even start the 72-hole stroke play tourney, but little Ben, his fever gone and "the shakes out of my system," strode out with a 34 and in with the same figures to be one of a dozen to trim par.

Jug Blows No. 18

McSpaden, the gum - chewing pro who hasn't won a tournament in more than a year, was six under going into the final 18 but his tee shot landed in the rough behind a tree, his swing trying to get out hit the tree branches and cost him a stroke and he ended up with a big six on the par-four hole.

"I played 17 good holes and had a chance but blew it on the last one," moaned McSpaden.

Three other professionals were a stroke back—Leonard Dodson of San Francisco, 32-37—69; Jimmie Hines of Chicago, 36-33—69, and Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., 35-34—69.

Byron Nelson of Toledo, the torrid Texan who has won 14 tournaments and over $50,000 this year and top favorite in the Dallas event, slipped to an even par 72 with "the worst putting I have ever done."

Nelson's Putter Cold

Nelson three - putted three greens on the first nine where he was two over but sank a 20-footer for an eagle on No. 10 to draw back even with par. He came on in that way, sinking a 25-footer for a birdie on 17 but missing a three-footer that would have meant another birdie on 18.

Tied at 70 were Slammin' Sammy Snead of Hot Springs, Va.; Gib Sellers of Hot Springs, Ark., and Jimmie Gauntt of Oklahoma City.

Only among the 71 shooters was an amateur able to break in. He was Dick Martin of Dallas, tied with Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y., Ed Furgol of Utica, N. Y., daLeland Gibson of Randolph Field, Texas.

Nelson and amateur Jack Tinnin of Galveston were tied at 72.

Spring Training Said Big Help For Players

NEW YORK, Sept. 6. (AP)—There is nothing the matter with the returning serviceman-ball player that a spring training trip won't cure.

That is the opinion of Hank Greenberg, slugging outfielder of the American league leading Detroit Tigers, highest salaried performre in baseball since Babe Ruth, and foremost returning war veteran.

"You may call spring training ballyhoo junkets and unnecessary," said the former Army captain today, "but they do add 50 per cent to your precision timing. That's the thing a ball player finds toughest to regain after a long absence from diamond activity."

Old Fourth Marines From Bataan Greeted By New Buddies In Japan

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

YOKOHAMA NAVAL BASE, Sept. 6—To the sound of rolling drums and blaring bugles on the ground of this fallen bastion of Japanese naval might, the reorganized Fourth Marine regiment today welcomed back its own—the straggling survivors of the famous old Fourth Marines who won the corps glory by their famous stand at Bataan and Corregidor.

It was a stirring reunion without parallel in American military annals.

All Fourth Marine survivors of the Philippine "Alamo" who have been freed from Japanese prison camps and were physically in condition were invited, and some 123 attended.

Shortage of Shoes

They looked thin but fit in newly issued dungarees. Because of a shortage of shoes many wore canvas sneakers and fabric split-toed shoes they purchased from Jap civilians.

And they were given a heroes' homecoming in the best American style.

They gorged on steaks, tomatoes, potatoes, coffee and oranges while a strolling Marine band played the jazz tunes for them. They reviewed a guardmount in their honor. Then they drove back in trucks to ships waiting to convoy them swiftly to their homeland.

Their hosts were officers and men of the new Fourth Marines, reactivated in January, 1944, to carry on the name of the old Fourth—the now legendary "China Regiment" which protected American interests in the Far East from 1927 to 1941 and caught the first full impact of the Japs on the Philippines where they fought until all men were killed, wounded or ordered to surrender.

Huge Sign of Welcome

As they drove up to this base and alighted from trucks they were met by a huge sign reading: "Welcome, old Fourth."

They quickly lined up three deep in parade formation on a sun-baked drill field bordered by old fashioned Japanese wooden naval barracks. They stood shoulders squared, for it took more than an enemy prison camp to shake the Marine discipline of these men.

The band struck up the Marine corps hymn, and as the familiar strains of "From the Halls of Montezuma to the Shores of Tripoli" rang across the field one returned prisoner—a tough-looking Leatherneck with a face like a bulldog's—began to sob openly.

Tears streamed down the cheeks of half a dozen more, and those who weren't weeping were swallowing hard. It was a long time since these men—most of them professional troops—had heard the song they lived by.

Greeted By Clement

Then Brig. Gen. William T. Clement of Richmond, Va., who commanded the Marine task force which led the amphibious invasion of Japan, stepped forward to greet them. Clement, tall dark-eyed 51-year-old officer, was a veteran of Corregidor, too.

"I don't know what to say," said Clement, quietly. "I was out there with you. I got away. You didn't. You are the guys who took the hard knocks of this war. We are proud to welcome you back and anything we've got it yours."

"Thank you, sir!" called several Marines, and they headed for steak dinners sizzling in a mess hall.

A newly landed Leatherneck, passing by the line of freed Marines recognized his brother, still wearing the faded old-style type of widebrimmed hat issued him at San Diego. They clapped each other on the back joyously.

Felt He Was Still Alive

"I had a pretty good idea you were still alive—knowing you as I do," grinned the younger brother, a newcomer to the corps.

The former prisoners then reviewed a parade in their honor and saluted the Fourth's new regimental colors as they were flown for the first time. The old flag of the regiment was destroyed on Corregidor May 1, 1942, just a few days before the remaining garrison surrendered.

Several estimated about 1,200 of their regiment were taken prisoner but said that many lost their lives on convoys en route to Japan and other hundreds died of starvation, overwork and disease in prison camps.

Warning By Colonel

When the beer was flowing freely the colonel in charge of the group announced:

"Boys, you've got to be back on those trucks by 1500 or, and I tell you the truth, I just don't know how the hell we'll ever get you back to the states."

That did the trick. Every Marine was aboard the trucks on schedule, but as the convoy pulled away one veteran Leatherneck remarked:

"Hell, I don't want to go back home. I want to stay with the Marines and just as soon as I get to the United States I'm going to ask for a transfer back to the Fourth regiment. I've been in the Marines since I was 17 and it's the easiest life I know."

He was tough as ever, even after two years and four months on Japanese rations.

Important Features Stressed

"Several important features have a considerable effect on the cost and it is well to consider these features in the beginning," the jovial showman declared. "I congratulate your city and you gentlemen for your interest in making a trip of the sort you are on. Everywhere you go, you're bound to get ideas which may be correlated to fit the needs of your community.

"Size of the building is important and it should be large enough to attract gatherings which cannot be accommodated in the average city so that the building can be a real inducement, not only to the promoters of various events but to your public as well. It seems that 5,000 to 6,000 seating capacity is large enough to be economically successful in a city of 100,000 to 200,000 and of course, your town won't need to build that large."

Questioned about the location, McElravy said: "The building should be within convenient walking distance from hotels and traffic centers. It would be a mistake to give up a central location in order to get more space at a comparatively low cost.

Management Is Important

"The practical plan of financing and operating a public auditorium is to sell city bond and to appoint a commission empowered to construct and operate the building. The commission should employ a good manager to carry out operating details. Care in the selection of a good manager is essential to success. Fortunately, there are now a number of experienced operating men who can qualify for managerial positions."

Lubbock's plan to establish such a project will be watched by more people on the outside than the average persons thinks," McElravy said. Other cities will be asking for Lubbock's plans and visitors will come there to view the building during its construction so that features may be duplicated and mistakes avoided in the building of their own enterprise.

Among Planned Projects

Included in the cities planning similar projects are: Milwaukee, Seattle, Miami, Fla., Duluth, Minn., Indianapolis, Niles, Neb., Waukeegan, Ill., San Diego, Calif., Vicksburg, Miss., Minot, N. D., Wenatchee, Wash., Oodge City, Kas., Pontiac, Mich., Grand Island, Neb., Piqua, O., Boise, Idaho, Mason City, Ia., Fond du Lac, Wisc., Amsterdam, N. Y., Fort Wayne, Ind., Scotts Bluff, Neb., Columbus, O., Spokane, Walla Walla, Wash., Akron, O., Nashville, Knoxville and Omaha, Neb.

"Remember this," McElravy cautioned us, "it isn't what you make on your enterprise; it's what you put into your city and the idea of profit or loss must be included in the overall picture of your town as a whole.

"Good luck, and I hope you get your people to build a structure which will make your town the center of entertainment and cultural activities for the vast territory you have out there in West Texas."

News Briefs

Two cases of house prowling were reported to police Thursday night. At the residence of Porter James, 1211 Sixteenth, a thief took a toy bank containing $4 to $5 and a necklace and bracelet. Mrs. A. A. Webb, 1213 Ave. N, said someone took a billfold containing 25 cents and pictures from her house.

Police car patrolmen J. O. Tinsley and Gilbert Newton received cheerful cooperation when they went to see a lady about her chickens which a neighbor woman had complained was destroying gardens. The policemen penciled this report: "The lady said she would kill her chickens — tonight — and have chicken and dumplings."

Two forged checks, one for $25 and the other for $18, were presented by two persons Thursday afternoon at Piggly Wiggly No. 4, at Nineteenth and Ave. A, police were informed. Officers launched an investigation.

Sheriff's Deputies Frank Mitchell and J. A. Wright planned to leave early today for Austin and Waco to deliver two persons adjudged insane, an ex-soldier and a Mexican woman.

The spokesman declared that out of more than 8,000 trucks, termed surplus by the Army, the Department of Commerce had picked out 2,000 of the best for listing in the September surplus catalogue for veterans.

Watchman's Money Returned Before He Knew Of Loss

HOUSTON, Sept. 6. (UP)—As far as Norman McVey, 55-year-old Houston night watchman is concerned, it was all a bad dream.

McVey was rudely awakened from a deep sleep on a bench outside a cafe early today by a detective who asked:

"Lose any money?" McVey reached for his wallet and it was gone. The detective handed it to him with $18 still intact.

Then the watchman learned that while he slept, a 16-year-old boy had "lifted" his wallet.

Later, cruising detectives saw the youth, recognized him as a "problem child" of the crime prevention bureau.

Under questioning, the boy admitted robbing McVey, and he turned the money over to the detectives, who returned it to McVey, with the admonition not to sleep again on a bench.

Adm. McCain Dies

Saturday to accept a position in the Veterans administration, di-administration, directing affairs for naval veterans.

McCain was born at Teoc in Corrall county, Mississippi. He spent one year at the University of Mississippi, before entering the United States Naval academy, from which he graduated in 1906.

During the first World War, he was on duty abroad the old Cruiser San Diego, escorting convoys. Later as Lt. Commander, he was transferred to the bureau of navigation.

He stepped up gradually through the ranks, and on Sept. 22, was made chief of the bureau of aeronautics, then later deputy chief of naval operations for war.

The 61year-old McCain, a hard hitting fighter, decided at 50 that he wanted his naval wings and a year later had earned them.

Succeeds Mitscher

McCain, who teamed with Admiral Halsey as commander of the Third Fleet's carrier Task Force 38, went from a desk job directly into hot flattop action. After a few weeks with the brilliant Adm. Marc A. Mitscher as an observer of Carrier Task Force 58's so successful tactics (405 Japanese planes destroyed on June 20, 1943) off the Marianas, McCain took over.

His carrier force routed the imperial Navy's carrier forces in a great naval battle between the Philippines and Formosa last October, drove the Japanese air force from the Philippines, then swept into the China sea for a series of heavy strikes along the China coast despite foul weather.

Given a short rest, McCain returned to the Pacific last spring—in time for the heavy summer raids which helped knock Japan out of the war.

Took Heavy Npi Toll

From last spring, utnil the Aug. 15 truce, McCain's task force destroyed or damaged 6,000 Japanese warplanes and sank or damaged 2,000,000 tons of Japanese shipping, including nearly 100 warships ranging from battleships down.

McCain came to be almost as bitter against the Japanese as was his superior at sea, Halsey, whose strategy was "kill Japs, kill Japs and kill more Japs."

Only two days ago, in an interview at Honolulu enroute home from the surrender signing in Tokyo bay, McCain said:

"Japan's war lords are not half licked yet." They are "going to take a lot more killing in the future.

Don't Like Look In Eye

"I don't like the look in their eyes," the peppery admiral said of the Japanese who signed the surrender document, and of the other Japanese who were aboard the Missouri for the signing.

"They were just measuring us—just like you measure a man when you're going to hit him the next minute. They don't know they're licked yet. They don't know we are better men than they are."

Under McCain, Task Force 38 developed possibly the world's best photographic reconnaissance teams, said one of his chief aides, Capt. John S. Thach, himself a Navy Cross wearer. That photo reconnaissance work helped McCain's carrier pilots set the war's one-day record — 424 Japanese planes destroyed or damaged on Aug. 13—only two days before the truce.

Need Tougher Women

McCain, never lacking in a sense of humor, last July said "the Japanese men would have been better fighters if they had tougher women at home." He said the American male might come home bragging about his day's work, but that his wife's "get into the kitchen and help with the dishes" quickly deflated him.

But the Japanese were "braggarts without brakes," McCain said. They have no one to convince them of their unimportance. When we puncture their balloon, it's too much for them."

The Navy Cross and Distinguished Service Medal with clusters were among McCain's awards.

Reconstruction

18. Lend-lease and postwar reconstruction—repeal of the Johnson act forbidding private loans to defaulting countries; another $1,900,000,000 for UNRRA.

19. Congressional pay — a "straight, out and out" salary increase, from $10,000 to $20,000 as a 'first step toward a decent salary scale for all federal government employes."

20. Ships—early legislation for sale at home and abroad of the unneeded portion of the great American merchant fleet.

21. Stockpiling — provision for accumulation of strategic materials which this country does not produce in needed quantities so that the costly lessons of World War II will not be repeated.

Arnall, Patterson

Patterson's most ardent supporter is the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which has been clamoring for weeks for his appointment. This is not expected to sit well with some senators.

Holtzoff To Be Opposed

Another judicial appointment headed for possible trouble is that of Alexander Holtzoff to be U. S. judge in the District of Columbia. Holtzoff is credited with being the author of the Supreme court packing plan which created such a storm in the Senate and finally was defeated. Long a lawyer in the Justice department, Holzoff is reported to have sold Attorney General Homer Cummings on the Supreme court plan, who in turn sold it to Roosevelt without consultation with the rest of the cabinet.

Attorney General Biddle, a defender of civil liberties, clashed with Holtzoff over the latter's policies against civil liberties and he was relegated to the background. New Attorney Generay Tom Clark, however, has elevated Holzoff to an important job in his outer office and now is promoting him to the U. S. District court to the place where which was to have gone to Judge Nathan Margold, recently defeated for confirmation.

The Justice department's plan is to put another Jew in Margold's proposed place in order to offset apy idea of racial discrimination.

Convinced Of Need

It was the sort of preable that could have led up to a conclusion that no further inquiry was needed and the Senate sat attentive.

"I am convinced," he said, 'that a further searching inquiry should be made under the authority and by direction of the Congress."

The Kentuckian announced his resolution and offered this clincher for any doubting Democrats:

"I may say that I offer this resolution with the full knowledge and approval of the President of the United States, and I express the earnest hope, which he shares, that the two houses may promptly agree to it, that the investigation may proceed forthwith, and that the Congress and the country may expect a full report within the time designated."

STOCKS BOOM SHARPLY

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—The stock market took the President's message in stride today with leading industrials and utilities hitting peaks for the past eight years and rails rallying at the last.

Transfers of 1,380,000 shares compared with 980,000 the day before and were the largest since Aug. 27.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite rose .8 of a point to 68.4, a top since May 8, 1937. The industrial average achieved a high since Aug. 31, 1937 and the utilities reached their best level since March 20, 1937. The rails, while up .9 of a point, still were about five points under their 1945 peak.

Coca Cola jumped 11½ points to 166½ on restricted sales, partly in response to talk of a split-up for this "blue-chip."

Prominent in the plus column were U. S. Steel, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, American Telephone, Electric Power and Light, American Smelting, American Can, duPont, General Electric, Dow Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Santa Fe and Southern Pacific.

Declines were suffered by Graham-Paige, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Boeing, Westinghouse and Texas Co.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—Cotton futures soared 85 cents to $1.50 a bale today in one of the most active sessions in a month.

Heavy short covering and new buying, particularly in the new crop months, came from many directions and followed closely the publication of President Truman's message to Congress. The message recommended additional measures to carry out commodity price support programs as well as a substantial increase in the 40 cent minimum wage in the fair labor standards act.

Jones told how Wainwright, British General Percival and others were stripped in parade, slapped in public, forced to pray three times a day to the emperor, and made to bow to Japanese privates and civilians.

Liberated Marine and civilian prisoners from Wake island related how the Japanese victors had bayoneted to death all wounded prisoners, then banqueted the survivors for two weeks in futile efforts to obtain military information.

After the feasting was over, the baffled Japanese shipped the prisoners off to camps.

American officers said that when the tide of military fortunes turned the official bearing of the Japanese softened.

but 2 miles southwest of Bledsoe it later was abandoned.

Sheriff Hancock said he believed that only one man was in the car when it was abandoned.

"Several cars filled with officers were traveling down the road," he said. "The bandit driver must have seen them and run off the road, switched off his lights and run.

Found Only One Track

"Redwine saw the glint of the car as we passed it. We stopped and he found one track—only one.

"The theory is that the bandits, all three of them, doubled back after they had been seen at the Bledsoe school, two of them leaving the robbery car sometime before we found it abandoned.

"We started tracking when daylight broke, but we couldn't pick up any signs in the shinnery brush.

"The bandit had an advantage over us; there had been a shrower during the night and the wind blew up brisk. That would have the effect of shifting sand and otherwise helping disguise footprints.

Plane Cruised Area

"He must have holed up. Lt. Van D. Chowson, (29-year-old El Pasoan and assistant operations officer of Lubbock Army Air field) cruised all over this country, at about 140 miles an hour in an AT-6. He could see 50 miles away and flew down to take a look at everything suspicious. A S/Sgt. Genger flew with him today and Wednesday. I surely appreciate that help and that from the private pilots who entered the search, not to mention all the officers who came from all directions."

Thirty-five or 40 men were in the early Thursday tracking, the sheriff said.

Officers ventured tonight that an automobile found abandoned Wednesday night near Springlake and theft of a pick-up at Levelland probably had no connection with the getaway. The car found near Springlake, which witnesses said was abandoned by three men, was established as one stolen at 8 o'clock Wednesday night in Amarillo.

American planes were ferrying 80,000 Chinese troops to the east coast, Shanghai and Nanking.

In Manila, the head of MacArthur's war crimes branch announced that several thousand Japanese had been named in 1,000 atrocity cases now ready for trial.

8,000 Liberated

It was estimated by the U. S. Eighth Army headquarters here that 8,000 of the 32,500 war prisoners held in Japan now had been liberated.

A party of American experts arrived here to make a study of the devastation wrought in Hiroshima by the atomic bomb.

A general headquarters spokesman said he did not know whether the British and Chinese would help occupy Japan, and he was unaware whether the Russians even asked to participate.

Domei said the first troops would enter Tokyo at 6 a. m. Saturday, (4 p. m. Friday, central war time).

Headquarters said the dismounted cavalrymen will occupy at the outset 40 of Tokyo's 200 square miles, where Japanese police will be stationed to keep an eye on the populace.

Other Units On Way

With nearly 32,000 troops of the 11th Airborne and First Cavalry divisions already in the Tokyo-Yokohama area, other units either were on the way or ready to come until the occupation forces reach a strength of 18 combat divisions.

The 27th division will go to the west coast port of Naiigata, 160 miles northwest of Tokyo.

The 81st division and the Ninth corps are expected to land about Sept. 17 for the occupation of Aomori, a port of 100,000 population on the northern tip of Honshu.

The 77th division, arriving some time later, will occupy the northernmost island of Hokkaido.

Sixth Lands On Kyushu

Units of the 32nd division of the U. S. Sixth Army already have landed on the southern home island of Kyushu, and more will follow. The Seventh division has been marked for the occupation of Korea.

The First and 27th divisions were expected to arrive here some time today, the Ninth and 14th corps are expected Sept. 17, and the 38th division and the 158th cmobat team will land some time later.

The American occupation troops also will include service personnel, and air and naval forces, headquarters said.

"Scare Stories" Untrue

Prisoners Soon Will Come Home

IN the past few days a dozen sets of Lubbock parents have received notification by the War department that their sons had been liberated from Japanese prison camps.

All Lubbock joins in wishing these men of "The Lost Battallion" and other captured groups a speedy return home.

Many of them, like the four members of General Doolittle's brave crew, who became captives of the Japanese following that first bombing of Tokyo, April 18, 1942, had been given up as dead.

The four Doolittle fliers, including Lt. Robert L. Hite of Earth, near Muleshoe, had been immortalized in a motion picture portraying them as the victims of Jap brutality.

Japanese propagandists, apparently hoping to intimidate other fliers from bombing the Japanese homeland, had led us to believe that the Doolittle fliers had been beheaded. The late President Roosevelt disclosed the shocking report given out by the Nipponese.

But while this story of the fliers being beheaded is now partly disproved by the rescue of four of them from Jap prisons, the full story of Japanese barbarity is yet to come to light. The cruel, inhuman treatment of our men will not aid Japan's hope of a soft peace.

Devastation From The Air

A CAREFUL study of Japanese ruins, following Japan's surrender, has disclosed that the devastation caused by our aerial bombing was much greater than earlier had been reported by military observers.

In fact, it is now the general opinion of military experts that Japan was very nearly knocked out of the war, even before the atomic bomb fell on Hiroshima or the Russian army attacked in Manchuria.

Great as were the achievements of the Navy and the armed forces as they tightened the iron-loop around the throat of Japan, the defeat of the Nipponese was primarily a victory for air power.

For the first time in history, a strong nation, with undefeated armies in the field, was forced to surrender without being invaded. Thus, in defeating Japan, the United States wrote a new page in the history of military science.

Not only can airplanes sink a battleship, as Gen. Billy Mitchell contended. They can crush a nation.

Turkey For Our Tables!

WHILE wild turkeys are on the decline in Texas, the domestic crop in the state this year is expected to total 4,701,000 birds, or 25 per cent more than last year, according to a report just made public by the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

To the city dweller, this will likely mean more and slightly cheaper turkey for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

To the farmer who raises turkeys it may mean a lower price than what he got last year, but since meat is still scarce in all of the larger cities, especially those distant from the cattle country, there is reason to believe that the prices will hold up fairly well.

If you are interested in figures, you will be pleased to learn that this year's Texas turkey crop is 16.5 per cent above the five-year average. The statisticians also calculate that 4.9 per cent of the state's turkeys will be sold before November 1.

The turkey crop for the whole United States is estimated at 44,150,000 birds or 22 per cent above last year's crop which set a record. Favorable growing conditions are credited with producing the record-breaking crop.

But while domestic turkeys have thrived, the wild turkeys have declined until the annual kill in Texas is now less than 3,500. Twenty years ago, 15,000 were being killed annually.

Maybe, Texans don't have as much time to hunt wild turkeys as they used to in the more carefree days before the war. Anyway, it looks like turkey for Thanksgiving.

The man who willed a woman $500 for a kiss she gave him 50 years ago didn't place such a high value on it, after all. At 6 per cent interest, compounded annually, the kiss figures $22.26. (We worker mighty hard for this paragraph, and we'd appreciate it if you'd make a special effort to enjoy it.)

"Woman Suddenly Recovers Voice Lost Three Years Ago."—Headline. We sympathize with the family and friends of a woman who is three years behind with her talking.

If you feel that you must lie, tell a short and plain lie and stop at that. You cannot enlarge upon a lie without mixing a little truth with it.

The car sang with speed now as his new foot bore down on the accelerator. He wanted to go faster, to get away forever from Drumhead Hill. The road topped the divide before Brock brought the car to a stop.

"Well . . ." Moya said and he turned toward her soft laughter. "It's like old times." Suddenly she slid her body over against him. They were knee to knee, shoulder to shoulder. Her head was up and back, her eyes dark, expectant, her mouth waiting. Her arms reached up as his went around her, and drew his face down. He kissed her with a sort of fierce abandon, as if with every kiss he would burn from memory the things he wanted to forget.

"Darling!" Moya laughed and there was triumph in it. "You haven't changed a bit. But I knew you hadn't; not really."

"You're the only one who did know it then."

"Am I, my sweet? Kiss me again. I think Ive been terribly patient with you, taking all in all."

* * *

Hildreth said, "Thayer, what is the matter? You're going all to eyes. No job's worth it. You did intend giving it up."

"I know. And then when Mr. Tipton came down with meningitis. . . . I've been in the department the longest. And somehow assurance that things would continue without loss of momentum was tied up with his getting well." Thayer lifted her shoulders with a deep breath. "So—I said I'd stay." Momentarily her eyes met Hildreth's. "Now I'm glad. It's—it's become important to me, too."

"What do you mean, Thayer?" Her voice was low, tight. "Well—I'm making good at something."

Hildreth's sharp gaze bored into her. "Surely things are better between you and Brock."

Thayer said slowly, "In the beginning there were two against me: Mrs. Kittridge and Moya. Two convinced that my marriage to Brock was a mistake."

"And now?"

"Now there are three."

"I can't believe that, Thayer. That boy loves you."

"Does he? The first day he came home wearing his artificial leg he slipped in front of me. He looked at me as if he hated me."

"Oh, I know, child; he's young and foolish—and proud."

"So am I proud, Aunt Hildreth." Abruptly Thayer rose. "I must go."

"Don't go. Talk to me, Thayer. You need someone . . ."

"No—no, I can't talk. I've got to work things out myself." Then she swung suddenly to the older woman. "You see, I knew the other Brock, Aunt Hildreth. That's why I haven't quit. I'm working at the plant—to give Mr. Tipton a chance: I'm sticking here—to give Brock his. His mother loves him, Mona loves him; all right, but it isn't the kind of love that will make him want to stand up and fight back at Life again." Her hands clinched tightly. "It's important that Brock be that sort of person again. He's—got to be. It's important. . . ."

"Thayer . . ."

The girl's voice broke suddenly. "Don't keep me. I've got to go." She was down the steps before Hildreth could speak. She did not look back. Tears were blinding her eyes. "It's important," she whispered to herself chokingly. "It's—important."

* * *

The big Kittridge house seemed deserted and still as Thayer let herself in. Ahead of her the stairs showed their polished treads. To climb them seemed suddenly too great an exertion. In a little while maybe. Wearily she turned and went through the French doors to the terrace.

Then she stopped, like someone held motionless in the cobweb of a dream. Two figures were standing in close embrace. Dazed, Thayer saw the upreaching of Moya's face, the arms about Brock's neck with which she strained him to her.

Some awareness of an intruding presence touched them. For an instant the scene wa sa tableau, then they drew apart, stood facing her. There was neither guilt nor fear in Moya's face; Brock's was blank, washed of all expression.

Moya spoke first. "Well, Thayer, after all, pretenses are foolish. And you've really known all along, I guess."

"Known that from the day Brock came home you were determined to get back what you'd lost? Yes, I've know nthat, Moya. That you'd try it on the basis of old-time friendship; yes, I knew that. I knew, too, that I couldn't compete with you on those terms."

"Gould you on any terms, Thayer?" Cool and triumphant, the voice.

"I thought so. Because you see, Moya, the Brock I knew was not the one you knew at all. You loved a boy; I loved a man. And so I wanted from him the things that a man can give."

"Well, if you think . . . " Boya interrupted.

Thayer went on as if she had not spoken. "You're satisfied with the little, Moya. You and Brock's mother. I'm not; I never shall be. This isn't the Brock I knew. If there were no more to it than that, you could have him—and welcome. I wouldn't want what you've got now. This is today: it's tomorrow that I want. For that other Brock is there—under all that sympathy you've weakened him with. To me he's worth fighting for. Once maybe I wouldn't have had the courage for such a fight, but I have now. So you see, Moya, I'm not stepping aside. I'm fighting to the last ditch, not for the Brock you think you've won, but for the man I married."

Tenants Of Rented Houses To Get Aid

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (U.P.)—The Office of Price administration acted today to protect tenants against having their rented houses suddenly sold out from under them.

Beginning Sept. 15 OPA will require a minimum waiting period of six months before a purchaser can evict a tenant and move into his house. The waiting period is now three months.

The longer waiting period will be enforced in all rent control areas except where the OPA area rent director decides that three months is adequate. It will not apply if the buyer of the house is a former serviceman.

Filipino Puppet Ruler Is Found In Japan

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 6. (AP)—Jose Laurel, who was president of the Japanese puppet government in the Philippines, was quoted today by CBS Correspondent Felix Bustos as saying "if our people decide I was guilty of disloyalty and treason I am ready to be shot."

Bustos said he had located Laurel at Nara, near the ancient city of Kyoto, where he set up a refugee government after a perilous journey to Japan last June.

'If the commonwealth government contemplates to try leading leaders of the Philippines who participated in the republic for their acts,' Buston quoted Laurel in an interview, "I submit that they be spared that responsibility and try me instead, first and solely."

Buston said he described the destruction of Manila to Laurel, who bowed his head. Tears came to Laurel's eyes as he said:

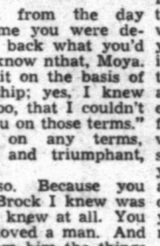

"Yamashita (Japanese general in the Philippines) fooled me. When he asked me to leave Manila for Baguio he assured me he wouldn't defend Manila."

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

"YOUR CHILD, from One to Six," is a publication issued by the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor, which every parent should read and memorize.

Tell your children the truth, admonishes the book. Be frank with them. "What children really want to feel is that their parents can be relied upon," the book insists.

BRANDEIS

You'll be asked many questions about birth and death. Answer these questions with frankness.

Death frightens children. "Children have been terrified at the thought of waking up to find themselves imprisoned in a box deep in the ground after they have been told that dying is just going to sleep.

"On the other hand, telling them that they will go up into heaven leaves them frightened at the prospect of separation from their parents."

The answer the booklet recommends is "to tell the children frankly that they are not at all likely to die, that nowadays children are given such good care that they need not worry about dying."

* * *

This matter of telling children the truth about the workings of nature has been a problem to parents since immemorial.

Fortunately there isn't so much of a tendency any longer to fool yougsters who eventually must find out the truth.

Isn't it much better for parents to initiate their boys and girls tactfully and gently into the facts of life than to let them find out in devious and harmful ways?

A married couple I know well just went through this very experience.

They have a boy age seven and a girl age nine.

When they came home from play the girl informed her parents that there had been an argument about how human beings come into the world.

"Everybody had a different explanation," she said.

"And it all sounded very foolish," chimed in the little boy.

* * *

HUSBAND and wife went into a huddle and decided that it would be best to tell them the truth.

So, after supper, the mother explained to both the boy and the girl as gently and as delicately as she could how children are born.

The two youngsters listened attentively and earnestly.

And, after it was all over, they quickly forgot about the whole matter and talked about something else.

That was the sensible thing to do.

Children are clean. The hypocrisy and evil-mindedness of adults has not tainted them as yet.

They are not afraid of the truth and there are no double meanings to them.

Be frank with your children. Guide them straight and they'll walk straight

Byrnes Plans Reorganization

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

SECRETARY James F. Byrnes's foreknowledge of the pertinent portions of the Army Pearl Harbor board's report explains his decision to reorganize the State department from attic to cellar. The military court's findings, in their essence, revealed that there had been almost no cooperation between our top-ranking diplomats and our Army-Navy leaders.

The Rocsevelt administration, with its denunciations of the "aggressors" and demands that they be 'quarantined," made war with Japan, also Germany, an inevitability. Other moves, such as the destroyer-bases deal and the enactment of lend-lease, virtually transformed the supposedly neutral United States into an Ally of England when she fought alone against the Axis.

Henry Stimson's appointment as Secretary of War only a few weeks after he urged that the U. S. open its ports and Navy yards to wounded British warships was another indication of our deep sympathy for bereft Britain.

TUCKER

FDR was not responsible for this policy so aptly described as "talking big but carrying a small stick." Mr. Stimson, himself, as Herbert Hoover's Secretary of State, inaugurated the belligerent program of not recognizing the conquest of territory seized by force. He first antagonized Tokyo, and at a time when this country was even less prepared for war than it was on December 7, 1941.

Mr. Byrnes means to profit by these mistakes. He will establish close and permanent liaison with our Army-Navy experts as well as with topnotch economists in the Commerce and Treasury departments. He will not indulge in moral or material embargoes on foreign powers until he has been assured by the men who ought to know that they can implement his policies with economic and military might.

In view of the fact that the United States has emerged from the conflict with the most powerful Army, Navy and Air Force in the World, Mr. Byrnes's fears may seem academic. Nevertheless, he is taking no chances on geeting too far in front of the world parade.

* * *

SAVINGS: Although individual and corporate savings during the last five years have been estimated at the tremendous total of 250 billion dollars, confidential surveys by the nation's three great labor organizations indicate that their members have not laid up large amounts for a possible rainy day.

Indeed, the lack of nest eggs in the form of cash or government securities will be cited as evidence of the need of pay raises and Federal subsidies for the unemployed in the reconversion period.

Workers in the steel industry, according to a CIO study, have put aside an average of slightly more than $300. It is understood that AFL members have banked only about twice as much, possibly $600. For obvious reasons John L. Lewis's United Mine Workers occupy the most favorable position. It is figured that their average is about $750.

* * *

LEGISLATION: In some exceptional instances thrifty employes may have saved more than these estimates, either by investing in government issues or reducing their debt burdens. But the figures given above are believed to represent the surplus of the average worker.

The CIO-ers and William Green's followers did not accumulate as much as the miners, according to comparative surveys. Whereas the diggers remained at home and kept on mining in the same old places, factory men had to incur the expense of moving to distant cities. Living costs in all the great manufacturing centers increased, and they were the victims. In the large cities, too, there were more temptations to spend money on amusement and recreation.

All these factors will be advanced by organized labor's representatives on Capitol Hill as reasons for prompt expansion of the Social Security system, passage of the Full Employment bill and legislation providing $25 a week for the jobless for six months or even a year.

* * *

CALM: President Truman's calm, quiet and practical manner of handling world and domestic problems is given credit for the ease with which the United States is passing from a difficult war period into a normal state of peace. Although Washington feels the effect of his easygoing ways most vividly, returning members of Congress and visiting businessmen note a similar reaction throughout the country.

Even during the days of the German and Japanese capitulations, the birth of the atomic bomb, our actual invasion of Japan and the Pearl Harbor revelations, the Chief Executive took things in his stride. He did not indulge in heroics or hysterics.

When world affairs were most tense, Press Secretary Charles G. Ross would stroll into the White House press room and announce. "We are closing up shop for the night, and there will be no news until 9 o'clock in the morning." There were no midnight alarms, as there were in so many other administrations.

Inasmuch as members of the cabinet and Congress usually pattern after "the boss," the President's matter-of-fact personality has permeated the government. Even Harold Ickes, now that his position seems secure for a while, has piped down.

Although the comparison cannot be carried too far, the atmosphere on the north bank of the Potomac is somehow reminiscent of the "good old days" of Calvin Coolidge, who never missed his afternoon nap and nightly glass of warm milk through booms and busts.

TEXAS
By Gordon Shearer

AUSTIN.—Have you walked into a store lately, asked the clerk for a pack of cigarettes and received this reply:

"Why sure, would you like two, or possibly, a carton?"

It may not be happening every place yet, but that sort of thing is spreading and it's not just post-war courtesy.

Truth if the matter is there are more civilian cigarettes available to civilians, thanks to diligence of the state comptroller's department and cooperation of the army.

Despite a shortage of about 30 per cent below normal in cigarettes supplies to civilians during the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, the state tax revenue dropped but nine per cent. Pretty good, isn't it?

For that mater cigarette tax revenues during August will total about $1,350,000. This is a record for such receipts in a single month, while at one time during the year the income was down to about $825,000.

Receipts for the fiscal year will total about $12,200,000, estimates H. A. Smith, head of the cigarette tax division under State Comptroller George Sheppard. Despite the ups and downs of rationing, this is the second highest income on record. The top was $13,380,612 for the fiscal period of Sept, 1, 1943, to Aug. 31, 1944.

Since beginning of the war, cigarette tax receipts have really boomed. Back in 1940-41 the tax amounted to $8,178,696. The next year it bounced to $9,739,075. And in 1943-44 it took a big jump to $12,025,423.

"An elephant will travel day and night for hundreds of miles to reach the place where he is going to die."—Nature note. That's another difference between us and an elephant. If we knew where we were going to die, we'd travel in the opposite direction.

A mathematician asks, "If 5 and 6 were 20, how much would 2 and 2 be?" We don't know. If a yardstick were three gallons long, how much would a cabbage weigh?

"If you will quit eating before you have enough, you'll always have an appetite," asserts a physician. Yes, but isn't continual hunger too steep a price to pay for an appetite?

Stokes Would Substitute Action For Words

Our Back Yard Needs Attention

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — In the flush of victory our leaders have spoken some fine words about the extension of democracy and its ideal among the oppressed peoples of our former enemies.

We hope they mean what they say.

We hope they mean it enough to apply it also among the people of our own country.

For example, Secretary of State Byrnes, in telling of plans to educate the Japanese people to democratic principles, said:

STOKES

"We shall take such steps as may be necessary to encourage democratic reforms among classes, the peasants and industrial workers, so that they may have a voice in their government."

Mr. Byrnes is from South Carolina and served its people for many years in Congress. South Carolina still imposes a poll tax as a requirment for voting in primary elections which are the real elections in the one-party system in the South. Six other Southern state require payment of poll taxes as a prerequisite for the ballot. This acts as a deterrent on voting among low income groups, both white and black.

* * *

Self-Inspection Urged

But an even more effective ban against voting by negroes is the so-called "white primary" which operates, in one form or another, in South Carolina and other Southern states, despite its outlaw by decision of the U. S. Supreme court in the Texas case. Other subterfuges are always devised. Supreme court decisions to the contrary notwithstanding.

Does Mr. Byrnes include the people of South Carolina in his advocacy of "democratic reforms among the submerged classes" to the end that "they may have a voice in their government?"

Is is not about time to take a look at ourselves?

* * *

FORMER Secretary of State Cordell Hull, in a V-J Day statement, appealed for all nations to assume "the vital task of restoring, and raising to higher levels than ever before, the standards of political, moral, social and economic conduct of nations and individuals."

In his native Tennessee, which Mr. Hull represented so long in Congress, a poll tax is imposed as a requirment for voting. The state legislature, representing the people, repealed the tax. But the State Supreme court, by a 3 to 2 decision, nullified this legislative act.

Boss Ed Crump of Memphis, who gave poll tax repeal lip service, was influential in filling a Supreme court vacancy with an appointee who cast the deciding vote.

* * *

MacArthur's Words Recalled

A fine example of what can be done was George's recent repeal of her poll tax under the courageous leadership of Gov. Ellis Arnall.

General MacArthur, in his eloquent V-J speech concluded:

"And so, my fellow countrymen, today I report to you that your sons and daughters have served you well and faithfully with the calm, deliberate, determined fighting and sailor based upon a traspirit of the American soldier dition of historical trait, as against the fanaticism of an enemy supported only by mythological fiction. Their spiritual strength and power has brought us through to victory.

"They are homeward bound—take care of them."

* * *

GENERAL MACARTHUR perhaps still can remember an occasion of quite a few years ago when, as Chief of Staff, he was ordered by President Hoover to remove from Washington the so-called bonus army made up of veterans of the first World War. They came here and encamped to try to get Congress to pass a bonus bill. It was altogether a sorry spectacle as we who saw it recall.

What they needed was jobs—not a temporary cash hand-out, or bayonets, or the scourage of fire that destroyed the rude shacks they had fashioned for themselves out of old boxes on Anacostia Flats.

President Truman, in his V-J Day address, said:

"American can build for itself a future of employment and security.'

We hope they mean what they say.

Railroad, Oil Plants Returned To Owners

WASHINGTON, Sept 6. (AP)—The Toledo, Peoria and Western railroad is being returned to its owners after several years of government operation, Stabilization Director William H. Davis announced today.

Operation of the railroad was taken over by the Office of Defense Transportation following a labor dispute.

Davis also announced he had approved the return of these privately-owned plants, which had been seized and operated by the government "to prevent loss of production essential to the war effort:"

Texas company, Port Arthur, Texas; Pure Oil company, Dawes, W. Va., and Humble Oil & Refining company, Ingleside, Tex., which had been operated by the Petroleum Administration for War.

Kurusu Of Sneak Fame, 'Hurt' At America's Pearl Harbor Blame

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—Japans special "peave envoy" at the time of Pearl Harbor, Saburo Kurusu, says he didn't know that the sneak attack was being cooked up at the time. He is also "hurt" that Americans put part of the blame on him.

WHITE

This is reported by Frederick B. Opper, an American Broadcasting company reporter who hunted Kurusu up at his summer home in Karuizana where he found the retired diplomat apparently anxious to talk.

Kurusu is certainly entitled to his just share of the benefit of the doubt, although he does concede to Opper that "of course the Japanese government had many plans to cover many possibilities, just as your government has."

Sticks Up For Tojo

Kurusu appears to stick up for General Hideki Tojo, the Japanese premier who is generally credited with master-minding the Pearl Harbor strategy.

When Opper asked him if Tojo didnt use him and Admiral Nomura as a peace front to cover the attack, Kurusu replied that "I don't think that's quite fair to Genera Tojo. I know from speaking to him before he left Tokyo that he wanted peace."

(Opper isn't one by the way, to be taken in. He rotted for many weeks in the infamous Japanese bridge house jail in Shanghai before he was repatriated in 1942.)

The Japanese militarists (including Tojo) would have been too happy to keep their loot and not fight anybody Who wouldn't.

Conquest Appeasement

For ten years, ever since they saw their aggressive policy in Manchuria was bringing them into direct conflict with Western powers, their whole policy was one of appeasing those powers to avoid open war, meanwhile moving cautiously to take still more of China and southeast Asia into their economic and political sphere.

If Kurusu believed Tojo as he says he did, he may have mistaken a greedy determination to have the cake and eat it, too, for a genuine interest in world peace.

But I can think of no important Japanese diplomat who ever clearly acknowledged the guilt of his country, or who ever initiated any negotiations to give up conquests gained by military aggression.

WLB Office Alarmed At Wage Reductions

DALLAS, Sept. 6. (U.P.)—The increasing frequency of instances in which the three southwestern states of Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana in lowering wages and salaries in violation of the 1942 wage stabilization act is being "viewed with alarm,' the Eighth Regional War Labor board, through its information director, Thomas H. McKee, said today.

The board said that until the national WLB in Washington approved a reduction of wages, they will demand full compliance of this phase of its program and undertake to stop any flagrant and unauthorized wage reductions.

If it should be necessary to correct "gross inequities" or if it would aid in effective transition to peacetime economy, McKee pointed out that the board then may authorize a wage reduction.

"To those who wilfully disregard it," the announcement added, "we pledge our best effort to bring them to justice."

McKee also pointed out that the WLB was "partially responsible" for the success or failure of the country's effort to reconvert to peacetime operation.

The WLB added that it would "throw its full enforcement effort against the mounting tide of unauthorized wage reductions."

DALLAS, Sept. 6. (U.P.)—The war may be over, but the rapid pace it kept is still with us, thinks Miss Betty Pierce, of this city.

She took a cab at the union bus terminal. Before she could settle back in the seat and tell the driver to pick up her suitcase, swish—they had left the terminal.

They also hurried back, but not in time to find any clothing in her suitcase.

Thieves Go In For Assembly Line Plan

DALLAS, Sept 6. (U.P.) — The burglars who entered R. W. Powers' used-car lot can set up an assembly line—if they can find a motor or two.

Powers reported the thieves stole twelve new auto wheels, a jack, seven new inner tubes, a dozen generators and starters, some used tires and a radio to while away their working hours.

U.S. Casualties Set At 1,070,452

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (U.P.)—U. S. combat casualties of World war II were computed at 1,070,452 today.

This was a drop of 547 from the total computed a week ago. Navy casualties totals increased by 150 during the week, but Army totals were reduced by 697 due to readjustments in the missing category.

It was the second consecutive week the Army figure has dropped instead of increasing.

The total included 256,996 dead, 651,261 wounded, 38,923 missing and 127,272 prisoners of war.

Army Total Drops

The Army total of 922,587 included 27,976 missing, a decrease of about 3,500 in this category during the past week. Most of these were transferred to other casualty categories, but a few who had been reported missing turned out not to be casualties of any kind.

The casualty table:

	Army	Navy	Total
Killed	303,279	53,617	256,996
Wounded	571,589	72,672	651,261
Missing	27,976	10,947	38,923
Prisoners	119,643	3,629	123,272
Total	922,587	147,856	1,070,452

Of the Army wounded, 358,880 have returned to duty. Of the Army prisoners, 97,773 have been liberated.

Japs Join Chorus On News Suppression

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6. (AP)—Premier Prince Naruhiko Higashi Kuni today added his official voice—said Domei—to the Japanese chorus complaining of Japan's past policy of "don't let the people know."

The premier said the people, fed a steady diet of optimism by government an dmilitarists, "probably were unable to make out what it was all about," when surrender came suddenly, the Domei broadcast reported.

Warsaw Butcher Reported Taken

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6 — Bob Brumby said in a Mutual broadcast from Tokyo today that the "butcher of Warsaw," hulking Joseph Albert Meisinger, has been captured by five Americans who traveled 65 miles into unoccupied Japan on a tip that the Nazi was living among 100 German militarists in refuge.

Brumby said that acting on secret information from an undisclosed source the five Yanks journeyed to a hotel in the Japanese interior, at lunch with two Germans and learned that Meisinger was living in a room below.

Brumby quoted Captains Adolph Gessler of Philadelphia and Theodore Holwitz of Milwaukee as saying they and three other Americans, whose names were not given, were warned that Meisinger was heaviny armed and dangerous. The other Germans in the colony were afraid of him, the Americans were told.

After lunch, the broadcast related, the Americans sent a note to Meisinger asking him to surrender. They suggested it would be better for him to surrender to Americans than to Russians.

In a short time Meisinger appeared before the Americans.

The broadcast said Meisinger would be taken to Yokohama in American custody.

Meisinger was accused of slaying of 100,000 Jews in Warsaw between 1939 and 1941, wher he went to Japan.

England Fights Black Markets In Silk Stockings, Other Articles

By ARTHUR GUNDERSON
United Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 6. — Black markets in silk stockings, cameras, rings, watches and other jewelry were flourishing today in London, where they have sprung up since the end of the war.

Customs estimated that 100,000 pairs of silk stockings were entering the black market every week brought in by merchant seamen from the United States. In the famous east end side street, Petticoat Lane, the street market is thronged with buyers and sellers of cameras and jewelry which undoubtedly came from Germany.

Other Articles Flood Market

Thousands of lipsticks, combs, face powders and fountain pens also are flooding the market.

The racket is costing the country thousands of pounds in customs and purchase tax, which admittedly is high. Merchant seamen and crews of the Queen ships have ready markets available for anything they bring back from the United States. In the last two trips of the Queen Mary, members of her crew have been arrested for attempting to smuggle goods into England.

On the last trip Fireman Jack Richards was caught with 1,097 silver necklaces which he said he had bought for $400 in New York. Richards was sent to prison for four months for trying to evade customs payment, as the crown asked for the stiffest penalty possible in trying to stamp out the practice.

Another Is Smarter

But one seaman who set up "shop" in busy Regent street and sold silk stockings at $8 a pair was smarter than Richards. He finally was picked up by police for investigation and truthfully declared he had paid duty on the goods, was a member of merchant ship's crew and acting within his rights. He was, too. The police had to let him go.

Authorities have an entirely different problem in attempting to stamp out street trading in Petticoat Lane. They know most of the goods come from Germany but have no way of convicting the sellers, who are principally servicemen. The servicemen sell to racketeers who then double and triple the price.

Continental Racket

Another variation of the black market is the "continental racket" in cigarets. Men on leave go into tobacconists in civilian clothes and order large quantities of cigarets sent to themselves at a unit on the continent, which civilians are allowed to do. When they get back to their unit, they pick up the cigarets and sell them for high prices. Cigarets sent to the armed forces are duty free.

The board of trade and service department are collaborating to stop the racket, but a shortage of all tobaccos may end it before official action does.

More Pay For Less Work Urged By CIO

FORT WORTH, Sept. 6. (AP)—The Oil Workers International Union (CIO) went on record today as being ready to fight for a postwar program of 52 hours pay for 40 or less hours work.

O. A Knight, president of the union, stated flatly that the union would not willingly accede to the offers made by various oil companies that the work week of oil workers be cut back from 48 hours to 36 without a resultant loss of pay to union members.

He said: "A heavy responsibility rest upon the leaders of the industry to cut the work week back to the normal 36 hours as rapidly as possible to create work for tens of thousands of employes coming back from the armed services.

"In order to preserve purchasing power, wages must be maintained as hours are cut. The oil companies enter the reconversion period with enormous financial reserves, an assured market and few of the headaches that characterize other industries which mobilized for war.

"The union is prepared to fight for a program of 52-40, the maintenance of purchasing power of 52 hours' pay for the 40 hour week or less."

Food From Home For Overseas

Even though the war is over many services men will spend Christmas abroad and it is time to begin preparing their Christmas packages Miss Clara Pratt, County Home Demonstration Agent is reminding relatives and friends. "Food from home" is the first thought that most servicemen have when asked what they would like to have in their Christmas packages. It is important that the food sent be such that will get to them in good condition and will be safe to eat.

Canned food is best to send. Reports from servicemen indicate that food not sealed in cans was usually molded, infested with insects, soaked in oil or water, or dried out and old. Foods ordinarily canned are better than unusual foods. When sending food it is best to send a variety of things unless he has asked for one specific food. Plan a menu on this order; 1 can chicken, 1 cranberry sauce, one of nuts and one of fruit cake. Or send cheese, pickles and crackers.

Fruit cakes were among the most popular items sent last year. It is one of the most desirable products. Honey is a good sugar substitute in fruit cakes because it helps to keep them moist as well as adds sweetness. Steam, seal and process the fruitcake in the pressure cooked for best results.

Many women reported successfully sending plain butter cakes, applesauce cakes, spice cakes, prune - nut and banana nut cakes and others. This seems to be the best procedure; bake the cake in the can, allowing 1-3 to ½ the space in the can for rising, seal while hot and process at 7 lbs. pressure for 10 minutes. This method will prevent mold and allow the cake to have nicer texture and crust than if it were steamed and then processed as for fruit cake.

Fruit-nut cookies, ice box cookies, sugar, cookies and butterscotch cookies were the most popular types sent overseas Generally speaking, thick, rather soft cookies made with dried fruits take less sugar and travel with less breakage than brittle snaps and crumbly butter cookies. The lower the fat content the longer the cookies stay fresh. All cookies, as soon as cool, should be wrapped in waxed paper and packed in clean dry cans and sealed.

You may bring your cans to 1320 Ave Q the Home Demonstration Agent's office to seal.

Apple Sauce Sake

2 cups sugar
3 cups flour
1 cup butter
3 large apples (grated)
1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup chopped dates
1 cup chopped raisins
4 eggs
1 heaping teaspoon soda
½ cup cold water
1 teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves, and all spice.

Cream butter and sugar. Add unbeaten eggs and cream thoroughly. Add cold water and let stand while mixing other ingredients. Peel apples and grate or cut fine. Chop nuts, dates and raisins and roll in flour to which a small pinch of baking powder is added. Sift spices and soda several times with flour. Add flour to fat mixture. Then add nuts and dried fruit. Add apples. Allow ½ to 1-3 of can for headspace for rising. Bake at 350 degrees until done, seal while hot and process at 7 lbs. pressure 10 minutes.

Holiday Fruit Cookies

½ cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg
1¾ cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
¼ cup thick sour milk or juice from maraschino cherries
¾ cup broken nut meats
¾ cup marachino cherries
¾ cup dates.

Cream shortening, add sugar gradually and cream well. Add the well beaten egg. Sift measured flour, salt and soda together. Add the broken nuts and fruits with last addition of the flour. Drop by teaspoon on greased cookie sheet, bake 10 to 15 minutes at 400 degrees F. Raisins, citron, or candied pineapple may be substituted for cherries or dates. Line No. 2 can with wax paper. After cooling wrap each cookies with wax paper and pack in cans.

Honey Is Splendid Sugar Substitute

While sugar remains a rather scarce commodity, continue to satisfy the family's sweet tooth by making cookies and cake with honey. Here are two suggestions:

Honey Icebox Cookies

2½ cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup chopped walnut meats
1 egg, well beaten
½ cup sugar
1-4 teaspoon almond extract
½ cup honey
3-4 cup melted shortening

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and cinnamon, and sift again. Add nuts. Combine egg, sugar, flavoring, honey, and shortening; add to flour-nut mixture, mixing well. Shape in rolls, 1½ inches in diameter, and roll each in waxed paper. Chill overnight ,or until firm enough to slice. Cut in 1-8 inch slices; bake on ungreased baking sheet in hot over (400° F.) for ten minutes.

Honey Nut Cake

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
2-3 cup shortening
½ cup sugar
½ cup honey
3 eggs
1 cup finely cut nut meats
1-4 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, and cream thoroughly; then add honey in thirds, beating well after each addition. Add 1-4 of flour and beat until smooth and well blended. Beat eggs until thick enough to pile up in bowl; add to cake mixture and beat well. Add nuts. Add remaining flour in thirds, alternately with milk in halves, beating very well after each addition. Add vanilla. Bake in greased 9-inch tube pan in slow oven (325° F.) 1 hour and 5 minutes, or until done, or in a 9x5x3-inch loaf pan for 1 hour and 25 minutes, or until done.

Metal bits that find their way into vacuum cleaners may cut the belt or nick or bend the fan blades.

Pork and lamb liver are as valuable nutritionally as calf and beef liver.

Young liver should be broiled or stueed only long enough to take away the red color.

Meat Loaf

4 cups Kellogg's Corn Flakes
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup water or milk
2 teaspoons salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1¼ pounds ground beef
¼ pound ground pork or sausage.

Crush Corn Flakes; add other ingredients; mix thoroughly. Pack lightly in loaf pan. Bake in moderately hot oven (425 degrees, F) 50-60 minutes. Eight serving.

Corn Fritters

8 ears corn
2 eggs
¼ cup milk
1 teaspoon salt

Grate corn from the ears. Separate eggs. Beat yoks with milk and add corn. Beat whites separately and fold into corn mixture. Add salt. Drop by the large tablespoonful onto a hot, greased griddle and fry until crisp and golden brown on both sides.

Here's the best method of making succotash so that you don't over-cook the corn.

Succotash

2-3 ears corn
2 pound lima beans
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
Salt and pepper.

Scrape corn kernels from the ears. Shell lima beans and cook 15 minutes in boiling salted water. Drain. Combine with milk, seasonings and corn. Simmer about ten minutes, or until corn is cooked. Add butter or margarine.

A little chopped chive or onion put into cooked spinach gives a new flavor. Add when spinach is ready for the table.

To use leftover cereal, chill in a mold, slice and saute in a little bacon fat.

Fold pillow slips, towels and handkerchiefs as you iron and save time.

Cheese should be gently melted as too much heat will make it stringy and leathery.

A five per cent solution of carbolic acid and water will disinfect rubber articles.

Hot water used to rinse rice after cooking will remove loose starch and separate the grains of cooked rice better.

Estates In Russian-Occupied Germany Are Being Broken Up

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, Sept 6.—A decree published in all Berlin newspapers today breaks up large landed estates in Saxony in Russian-occupied Germany, one of the first great west European experiments in Communist land reform.

Available evidence is that the same distribution already has taken place in sections of Germany ceded permanently to Russia, notably the eastern part of East Prussia, although secrecy shrouds that part of the country.

Todays decree is drastic. It provides for the expropriation of all "real estate with all buildings thereon, live and dead inventory and other agricultural wealth irrespective of size of estate" which belonged to war criminals, those responsible for the war, Nazi leaders, active defenders of the Nazi party and its subdivisions, leading persons of the Hitler state, members of the government during the Nazi regime and members of the Reichstag during the Nazi regime.

It further decrees the general expropriation of the "entire feudal Junker land and landed estates of more than 100 hectares (247 acres)," together with all the wealth of the land.

Exempted are the possessions of convents and church institutions, experiment stations, city administrations and farm cooperatives.

Farmers to whom parts of the former big estates are to be awarded must pay a "sum equal to the value of one year's income" on a 10 to 20 year installment plan. Comprehensive government machinery for putting the decree into effect is provided.

Ft. Worth To Be Site Of C Of C Convention

FORT WORTH, Sept. 6 (AP) — Directors and the program committee of the Texas Chamber of Commerce Managers association in session here today selected Fort Worth as the site for the association's general convention.

E. S. Holliday, association president, of Galveston, said a definite date for the convention had not been chosen but that it will probably be held early in November.

Anniversary Service Set By Church Here

The twenty-first anniversary will be observed by the Central Baptist church, organized here Dec. 9, 1924, with a special service Sunday, Co-Pastors Jeff D. and Jack Welch have announced.

Because the first steps toward organizing the church were taken in September, Sunday has been selected as the "Home-Coming Day" of the church, and the Sunday program will also mark the beginning of the fifteenth year of Co-Pastor Jeff D. Welch's pastorate. It is the fortieth church revival and the fourth year of Co-Pastor Jack Welch's service as pastor.

The church, the second Baptist church, to be organized in Lubbock has received about 2,000 persons into its membership since its establishment here, officials of the church reported. The present membership is approximately 1,200. The church is located at 1311 Eighteenth street.

Andrews Man Among Cruiser Survivors

CALCUTTA, Sept. 2 (Delayed) (AP)—The Navy released today a partial list of U. S. Cruiser Houston survivors, who were flown to Calcutta from Rangoon after their liberation from a Japanese prison camp. Included were:

F/1c James R. Fitzgerald (3601290) Box 171, Andrews, Tex.

In 1928 Egypt declined the offer of John D. Rockefeller, jr., of $10,000,000 to help establish a museum for her antiquities.

Four Solons Opposed To Teen-Age Draft

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (AP) — Four Senators—two Republicans and two Democrats—said today they will seek to end the drafting of 18 and 19 year olds if Congress passes a law continuing the draft.

They are Chairman Elbert D. Thomas, D., Utah, of the military affairs committee and Sens. Pat McCarran, D., Nev., Warren R. Austin, R., Vt., and Homer Ferguson, R., Mich.

Thomas, who plans to introduce today his bill to increase enlistment inducements but continue drafting men 18-25, said he will seek to amend his bill to end the teen-age draft.

Many Senators still oppose any continuation of the draft at all. Thomas himself said he thought it could be stopped soon after the improved voluntary system was put in operation.

SURRENDER SWORDS

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 6 (AP) — General MacArthur today ordered the surrendered swords of Gen. Tomoquki Yamashita and Vice Adm. Okochi, commander of the Japanese imperial army and navy forces in the Philippines, sent to the U. S. military and Naval academies.

New Record Set In 'Pickling' At SPAAF

A peak of 32 airplanes "pickled" in one day was the new field record set at South Plains Army Air field Saturday. The record until then had been 22 planes processed through the pickling center in one day.

As a reward for their efforts, more than 50 per cent of the field's personnel was given the remainder of the day off Saturday when the last of the 32 planes had been processed at 3 p. m., and were given weekend passes by Maj. Loyd E. Arnold, commanding officer.

Enlistments Sought By Navy Recruiters

Local U. S. Navy recruiters, 2nd floor of the postoffice building, are opening an all out drive for voluntary enlistments, stressing the regular Navy, among men between the ages of 17 and 30, recently made eligible by presidential directive.

This lifts the ban against voluntary enlistments in the draft age group.

This recruiting drive is designed to speed demobilization of men with long war service and will reduce the Navy's calls through Selective Service.

The the bars raised permitting the armed services to reach into the draft age group for voluntary enlistments Chief H. A. Lambert, local recruiter, is endeavoring to triple his recruiting figures in the coming months.

Men who have not been in uniform as well as those recently discharged through the Army and Navy demobilization plan, are sought. Lambert announced that such further service is solely a matter of voluntary action on the part of those who want to follow the Navy as a peacetime career.

AP Writer Views Hiroshima; Heart Of City Said Smashed

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

HIROSHIMA, Japan, Sept. 6, (AP)—Street cars rattle along the streets where not a single building stands. A few deadpan civilians peddle slowly through the rubble.

Block after block contains only a thin covering of rusting tin, a few stones and some broken blicks. The twisted frames of less than a dozen buildings stand forlornly alone in the midst of ruin that was once touted as Japan's most modernized city.

That was the Hiroshima I saw today with the first American post-war visitors to the world's first target of the atomic bomb.

For its size, no city in the world was so completely wiped out by bombs as was this war-swollen metropolis of 400,000, whose heart was smashed completely by a single application of atomic power. The buildings, once the most modern of the Japanese empire, were simply smashed—not split apart as from an ordinary demolition raid — but leveled to the ground.

By contrast, Bremen, Hamburg and Berlin seem almost untouched.

Of the few recognizable pieces of buildings still standing, only one remains of possible service. In it Hiroshima's banks have set up counters and there several hundred Japanese waited to do business.

The Japanese newspapermen who had visited the city shortly after the leveling told me that the residents of Hiroshima 'hate you and think you the most fiendish, cruel people on earth."

Hirokuni Dadai, chief of the Police Prefecture, told us we might be attacked, but we were not. Pedestrians and cyclists stared blankly but docilely as our party wandered for two hours through the ruins, photographing and staring in awe at the damage done by a single bomb.

Death Toll Passes 53,000

Dadai, who was the first to telephone the news of the atomic bombing to Toyko on Aug. 6 and then assisted in aiding the wounded ,said "we expect the death toll to pass 80,000."

The death toll now has mounted past 53,000, with many only slightly wounded dying from no apparent cause.

The death toll of Hiroshima was so great, the Japanese newsmen explained, because the lone B-29 carrying the world's most lethal load caught the people completely by surprise. Accustomed to seeing 100-plane raids and larger, they paid scant attention to the lone bomber. An air raid warning was sounded but was followed by an all clear signal, so that most people were outside.

U.S. Evacuation Plans Expedited

PARIS, Sept. 6. (U.P.)—Brig. Gen. George S. Eyster, deputy assistant chief of staff of U. S. forces in the European theater, said today that "every soldier who has 70 points or over will be out of the European theater before Christmas."

He said this applies to all troops who held 62 points on V-E day, under a new ruling which added eight points to the totals held by European theater troops at that time.

Eyster said in a press conference that 1,500,000 officers and men were scheduled to clear the theater by Dec. 31, by which time "redeployment as such will be completed."

Exodus To Star

All enlisted men with 85 points, and WACs with 45 points, by the new computation, will have left the theater by the enl of October, he said.

Terming the redeployment "the greatest mass movement of men ever attempted in war or peace," Eyster disclosed that 410,000 will be shipped during September, about 300,000 during October, and 600,000 during November and December

"At the beginning of next year, there will be 700,000 American soldier left in Europe, of whom about 400,000 will be the occupation army in Germany," Eyster said. "By that time, redeployment as such will be completed."

Occupation Faces Others

He said the point score for occupation troops had not yet been determined but that it was "a good bet that any man with 45 points or less will be in the army of occupation." The remaining 300,000 will be retained as a "close-out force" to catalogue and dispose of surplus property brought in and carried by the expeditionary force. Eyster said this operation was scheduled to take until July but the greater part of the force will have been sent home before then.

Transportation corps authorities said that ships and planes for carrying 427,000 troops home will be available. Their announcement said ships will be available to take 406,000 troops by way of Le Havre, Antwerp and Marseille and that the air transport command is scheduled to fly 21,000.

Hirohito Ready To Quit June 22 When He Lost Confidence In Army

By THOMAS J. O'DONNELL
Baltimore Sun Papers War Writer
Distributed By Associated Press

TOKYO, Sept. 6—The emperor of Japan decided as early as June 22 to surrender to the Allies, long before the atom bomb was used and the Russians entered the war, I was informd today by Ito Hasgawa, foreign service manager of the Domei news agency, who played some little part in the subsequent proceedings.

Hasegawa, who spent five years in London up to December, 1941, said the emperor decided to call it quits after having lost all confidence in the Japanese Army.

Defense Plans Differ

While the Japanese Navy staked all its remaining strength in the defense of Okinawa, Hasegawa said, the Army did not. The Army's strategy was to wait until the Americans actually invaded the homeland.

It was the experience of the Japanese Army, he continued, that the Americans concentrated all their strength at one place, and the Japanese Army expected to be able to have a superiortiy of three to one in numbers, enough, in the opinion of the Japanese Army leaders, to offset the American superiority in weapons.

The emperor failed to see the optimism of the Army and on June 22 held a secret conference with certain cabinet ministers and elder statesmen and decided then and there to sue for peace.

Russia Didn't Reply

The first step, Hasegawa said, was an approach by the then foreign minister of Japan to the Russian government with an offer to send one of Japan's most important officials to Russia to ask for Soviet mediation. The Russian government gave no reply, the Domei official said.

The imperial Japanese government, Hasegawa said, would willingly have surrendered at that time, with only two important reservations; first, that the emperor must not be deposed, and, second, that there be no occupation of Japan proper.

Later, on July 11, Ambassador Sato met with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov and renewed the proposal for peace, Hasegawa said.

Premier Stalin took the idea to Potsdam, he continued, and the result was the three-power declaration.

Jap Press Takes Over

Three days after the Potsdam declaration, he said, the Japanese prime minister held a press conference at which he evaded questions about it, with the result that the Japanese press, he said, reported on its own initiative that the Japanese government would ignore the declaration.

Stalin took advantage of this, Hasegawa continued, to declare war, saying that the Japanese request for mediation had been nullified.

On August 9, the Domei official says, the Japanese cabinet, which did not yet know of the request for mediation which had been made to Russia, met from 2 o'clock in the afternoon to 10:30 at night.

Lengthy Explanation

A full explanation of the mediation proposal to the cabinet ministers took up much of the meeting time, Hasegawa said.

At noon the next day, Aug. 10, there was a conference in which the participants included the emperor, some of the cabinet ministers, the elder statesmen and military leaders. There was a heated argument in the presence of the emperor, which is something unprecedented in the annals of the Japanese government, according to the Domei official.

The last word was given by the emperor, who told the leaders not to worry about the occupation. Instructions were sent to the Japanese ministers at Stockholm and Bern, accepting the Potsdam declaration with "the understanding that it would not comprise any infringement of the prerogatives of the emperor."

Reply Handed Swiss

While the Japanes egovernment was "keenly waiting" for a reply, Hasegawa said, Domei received news that Secretary of State Byrnes had given a reply to Swiss officials in Washington.

After reading the first report of Secretary Byrne's statement, Hasegawa said, the military leaders declared they would not accept it because it gave the impression the Allied supreme commander actually would rule Japan.

Later in the same day, Aug. 12, the cabinet met again and the general feeling was against acceptance.

Another Stormy Session

On Aug. 13, after meeting again for several hours, the cabinet decided to ask the emperor to make the decision. The emperor called a meeting for noon of Aug. 14 of the cabinet heads and the military chiefs, and again there was a stormy session.

Again, the emperor gave the final word.

"He (the emperor) said he did not take the decision for peace lightly, but after carefully considering the strength of the United States and the Allies and the national strength of Japan, he concluded that continuing the war would only mean the annihilation of his beloved people and the dynasty of Japan. Therefore he was prepared to do anything for peace," according to Hasegawa.

"All those present wept loudly."

Zoo Officials Get Off To Bad Start

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 6. (AP)—City zoo officials feel that somehow they're getting off on the wrong foot for the coming winter rainy season.

A fire pumper was rushed in recently when the zoo basement flooded. The noise disturbed the monkeys They screeched.

The screeching set the bears and lions to growling and roaring. Then a water main broke in the central building.

At the height of the excitement a macaw, jabbering frantically in the uproar, dropped dead.

He Sends Check In Lieu Of Celebration

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6. (AP)—The Treasury received a $50 check from a man in Knoxville, Tenn. with this note:

"I choose to celebrate victory in this way in lieu of throwing a big party and getting drunk.'

He explained it was a "free-will donation" for use "in meeting the expense of operation of the government, or payment on the national debt."

More Restrictions Are Lifted By WPB

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6. (AP) — The War Production board today removed import controls from about 40 materials.

Among the materials from which import controls were removed today were sheep and lamb leather, except vegetable tanned, and wool.

Cotton Harvest Wage Ceilings Are Favored

ERNON, Sept. 6. (AP)—Members of the Texas U. S. Department of Agriculture wage board announced today they would recommend that ceiling price wages be placed on cotton picking and pulling in 39 cotton producing counties of the state.

The announcement came after a hearing of farmers representing 17 northwest Texas counties here. The official farmer vote in favor of the measure was 56 to 4. At a hearing of 17 western counties in Sweetwater Monday, farmers voted 84 to 4 in favor of a ceiling wage.

D. A. Davis, executive officer of the board, said that ceiling wages to be recommended to the secretary of agriculture will be $2 per hundred pounds for picking and $1.25 per hundred pounds for snapping and pulling.

The Office of Price administration will be requested to hold crew leaders wages at a maximum of 25 cents per hundred pounds of cotton hauled to gin for distances up to 15 miles and not more than 30 cents for more than 15 miles.

The ceiling wages will not be effective until approved by the secretary of agriculture and the OPA. Approval is not anticipated for 10 days, Adams said. Administration of wage ceilings in individual counties will be handled by advisory boards appointed by farmers and assisted by field men from the state USDA board.

Five-Year Expansion By Industry Most Fantastic In World History

By ARTHUR EDSON
(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—The expansion of U. S. industry in the past five years has been the most fantastic in the history of the world.

But this story has a darker side: Not all of the wartime growth can be used in peacetime.

That's what the War Production board said today.

The report said:

1. Industrial capacity — the ability to make things—increased by at least 40 per cent. Twenty-five billion dollars were invested in new plants and equipment.

Much Usel For War

But a good part of that capacity was created to make war things that can't be used in peace.

2. This country is used to giant production strides. But no other five years produced as those five did.

The nation's output expands on an average of about 4 percent a year, going as high as 8 to 12 percent in boom years. Prodded by this war, the volume of output increased a record 15 percent a year

3. Raw materials production went up 60 percent.

4. The number of persons available for civilian jobs or military service increased 20 per cent. Even though the armed services seemingly gobbled up everyone in sight, 7,500,000 persons were added to the labor market.

5. Profits soared. After paying increased taxes, profits for the five year period ballooned 120 per cent. Net working capital doubled.

6. Nearly every industry expanded. Exceptions: Printing and publishing (hamstrung by a news print shortage), wearing apparel and shoes.

Yet much of the increase was due to the tremendous output of munitions

Not Easily Converted

This mean that the greatest expansion was in a field which probably can not be converted easily to peacetime production.

Furthermore, WPB points out that the number of workers available has been greatly increased. Not only that, but each worker is more efficient.

"To what extent we make the war-induced increases in facilities, employment and output permanently a part of our economic equipment will depend on how the problems of reconversion and of postwar reconstruction are handled," WPB sum up.

Women On Okinawa Gain New Respect In Emancipation Battle

By ROBBIN COONS
(By The Associated Press)

OKINAWA, Sept. 5. — It could be that here on Okinawa, last great battleground of the war, the Oriental woman has begun her battle for emancipation.

The common women of Okinawa have shown no signs of desiring greater freedom. For the most par, their lives have been those of beasts of burden and childbearers. They have been proficient at both.

It is no unusual sight around the civilian villages under military government to see native women, old-looking, frail and tiny, in shirts and mompei (trousers), balancing heavy timbers on their heads treading surely through mud or dust in their bare feet. The fields are full of them, harvesting or planting. The women keep house, cook, and mind the baby, too.

The men, of course, worked too, and apparently accepted their women in the dual role of servant and wife without qualms. But since the Americans came, with all their projects such as roads and airfields requiring as much labor as could be supplied, the Okinawa men are regarding their women with new interest.

The women work better, are steadier at their jobs, need less guiding and direction, than the men. They therefore receive more parise from their new bosses, and the Okinawa men, hearing this, are beginning to look with wonder. The women naturally are enjoying it.

Where this trend, if such it is, toward a position of greater dignity for women on Okinawa will lead is of course pure speculation. Whether it could possibly carry over, under American influence, to tradition-bound Japan is also a moot question. But Okinawa women—some at least—are getting to see American picture magazines.

Could be that their Japanese cousins, under similar influence, some day will emerge enough to tell bushido-minded, war-loving friend husband where to get off, and thus be an influence for peace.

Davis Outlines Plans For Postwar Lubbock

A. B. Davis, manager of the chamber of commerce, answered questions of civic minded persons concerning Lubbock's future growth when he addressed the Kiwanis club at their weekly Thursday luncheon in the Lubbock hotel.

"Predictions that this city's population will reach 100,000 in 10 years have been based on factual trends," Davis said Citing figures released in 1940 and 1945 on building permits, postal receipts, and population, Davis pointed out that increases seen were not the result of a large war industry or military camp near Lubbock.

"Lubbock will suffer no economic illnesses because we will be unaffected by military cutbacks."

Prospects for growth outlined by Davis included a new population and wealth from surrounding oil fields, and 5,000,000 acres of fertile soil yet untilled. Oil and agriculture alone will cause the trade territory population to triple or quadruple itself, he said.

To meet problems of growth, Davis suggested that something would have to be done about the housing situation that an auditorium, warehouses, office buildings, and hotel space would have to be provided.

"It Up To You"

"It's up to you to see that Lubbock has a new library, administration building, municipal improvements, adequate water supply lighting and disposal system," Davis said.

"These are a few of the things that must be provided to meet Lubbock's future growth," he concluded.

Luncheon guests were Cpl. E. K. Henderson, Walter Davis, Dr. R. C. Goodwin, and B. M. Parker of Dallas. New members introduced were Jess C. Levens, and Dr. Waldo S. Glock.

DeWitt Landis, first vice president, presided.

Try Hot Water Plus If Stomach Pains You After Eating--

Thousands of unfortunate people suffer from so-called dyspepsia, acid indigestion, food fermentation, sour stomach, acid stomach, flatulence, gas pains and other stomach distress brought on by excess acid.

If these people would try drinking slowly after each meal half a glass of real hot water containing a spoonful of Neutracid, they can usually get blessed relief from distress within a very few minutes.

Neutracid will quickly help to neutralize this excess acid, and thus help more rapid digestion. You get quick relief from the acute distress and discomfort.

Eisenhower Welcomed To City Of Brussels

BRUSSELS, Sept. 6 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower arrived by train in Brussels today to receive the freedom of the city and met a rousing welcome.

He inspected a Belgian guard of honor lined up on the platform at the Gare Du Midi. With him was Col. John Sherman, chief of the U. S. Mission to Belgium. Later he was received by Burgomaster Hanse of Saint Gilles.

Before the general entered his car outside the station two young Belgian girls rushed up and kissed on both cheeks. A crowd of several thousand outside the station shouted "vive Eisenhower."

Later in the day he was to attend a ceremony at the royal palace, and receive the Grand Cordon of the Order of Leopold from Regent Prince Charles. At a city hall ceremony he was to be made a freeman of the city of Brussels and receive a sword of honor from the Burgomaster.

Romanian Premier To Ignore Protests

BUCHAREST, Sept. 4 (Delayed) (U.P.)—Premier Petre Groza said today that he will ignore American and British protests over the composition of his government.

Since the protests were not delivered officially in writing to his government, Groza said in a two-hour interview, he intends neither to act on nor worry about them.

Groza said he had heard that the American protest was delivered verbally by a subordinate of the head of the American military mission to Bucharest to a subordinate in the Romanian foreign office.

"Another verbal note was delivered to the king, apparently by Britain," he said. "According to the Romanian constitution, the king does not govern, but rules."

(The United States and Britain both have made known they will not recognize the present Romanian government on grounds that it is dominated by Communists.)

On the other hand, Groza said, Russia formally recognized his government in official notes countersigned by Foreign Secretary V. M. Molotov.

Quisling Professes To Be A Patriot

OSLO, Sept. 6 (AP)—The man whose name the world has made synonymous with "traitor" stood up today in the court that is trying him for his life, and said with vigor and bitterness:

"I am Quisling the patriot."

His voice shaking with emotion, Vidkun Quisling declared:

"I have worked 40 years to help this country and sacrificed everything, and now I stand here as a traitor.

"The names Bjornson and Ibsen (two of Norway's greatest) are of the same family as mine, so there is no dirty water in my veins. The name Quisling does not mean what people seem to think now: It has an old Norse meaning—the one who is an offshoot of a royal family."

Earlier, his defense attorney, Henrik Bergh, had urged full acquittal or "the mildest sort of treatment" for Quisling.

Texas Flag Flying Over Philippine Town

TEMPLE, Sept. 6 (AP)—Over the city hall of an unnamed Philippine town, a Texas flag is now flying.

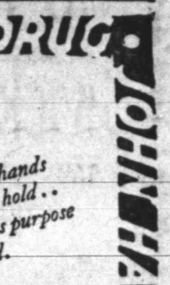

The Lone Star flag was presented to the mayor of the town by Staff Sgt. Bill Durham, former Temple Telegram farm editor. Durham carried the flag through 40 months of Pacific campaigning. It was given him on request in 1942 by the Temple chapter of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas.

The mayor of the Philippine town said he was honored to receive the Texas flag, now flying alongside the United States and Philippine flags on the city hall.
