CROWE AND JUDGE CLASH AS TRIAL ENDS

Coolidge Returns to Official Duties To-day

VERY FEW MAJOR PROBLEMS FACE HIM OFFICIALLY

SAYS WILL STICK TO DESK WITH NO PLAN FOR CAMPAIGN

By United News.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Coolidge returns to the White House Friday to face political rather than governmental problems. He has said he has no plans for participating in the campaign and that he will stick to his desk and attend to government business. But a survey of the situation reveals no governmental problem worthy of engaging presidential attention. Foreign problems—debt funding and the projected armament conference await the final decision of Germany as to the Dawes plan and the starting of the rehabilitation machinery proposed therein.

Domestically, there is nothing of consequence on the fire, even the problem of major appointments is cleaned up with the selection of ambassadors to Japan and Mexico. All that remains for the president to do is to sign commissions and other routine papers and to adjust minor difficulties between various departmental officials who are always quarreling over some petty matter and running to the president.

But on the whole there is nothing important to come before the president so far as the working machinery of the government is concerned. Later the president will want to formulate policies for his December message to congress but obviously that will wait until after election. Also he is said to appoint his agricultural commission but that presents no serious problem.

So he is free, relatively speaking to get into the campaign and accept, if he cares to, the challenge of Senator Wheeler, the independent vice presidential candidate who on Thursday made it known that in his Boston Labor Day speech he intends to open up on Coolidge and challenge the president to go out and show himself to the country.

Republican strategy has, up to now, contemplated Coolidge working at his desk and ignoring politics while Dawes romps around the country hitting right and left supplying the pep, salesmanship, and personality for the ticket.

The strategy of Davis and La Follette, of course, is to build fires under Coolidge and try to smoke him out. But Coolidge shows no indication to be smoked. Thus far he has proven to be the perfect asbestos candidate.

Democrats feel that Davis has made headway since he denounced the Klan at Seattle.

"I feel that Mr. Coolidge is absolutely stopped right now," Clem Shaver, democratic national committeeman said here Thursday. He has good reports from his scouts and confidential men out in the country, he said. Davis is about to make a 20 day swing as far west as Denver beginning Labor Day.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR FERGUSON CELEBRATION

20,000 DEMOCRATS EXPECTED AT "FORGET IT" RALLY IN TEMPLE FRIDAY

By United News.
TEMPLE, Aug. 28.—Temple tonight put the finishing touches on plans for the huge rally here tomorrow night to ratify the nomination of Mrs. Miriam "Ma" Ferguson for governor by the democrats. Twenty thousand democrats are expected to gather from all parts of the state in a great jubilee in honor of "Ma's" election.

Messages have been flooding the Ferguson home since plans for the rally were announced, stating that delegations were planning to come. Some will arrive by special trains.

"Ma" herself will address the voters in a personal message of thanks for their support. She will be introduced by former Governor James E. Ferguson, her husband.

Mrs. Ferguson is not expected to sound any notes as to her plans for running the state. It is believed she will ignore all requests for statements as to her position until after the state convention next Tuesday.

"Ma" did, however, let it be known Thursday that she will inaugurate a policy of broader participation by women in the affairs of state.

She feels that her nomination in a large part was brought about by the women's vote in the recent election and that she is honored to grant some recognition to them.

Both "Ma" and "Pa" Ferguson are going to attend the convention in Austin Tuesday. The Ferguson forces will hold a caucus Monday to decide upon a chairman for the meeting. No indication has been made as to whom they might have in mind.

DIRECTOR FOR FAIR PAGEANT HERE IS NAMED

At a meeting in the county Court room yesterday afternoon of the General Pageant Committee for Lubbock, an executive committee was selected, a Director for Episode 1, which will be staged by Lubbock, was appointed, and many other details worked out in preparation to make this Pageant of the Magic Fleece, King Cotton, the biggest thing ever staged in this section.

The General Pageant Committee, consisting of one representative from every civic, social and economic organization in Lubbock, was called to order by manager Davis, chief of the Fair Association, who outlined the steps leading up to the decision to stage the Pageant and who stated the purpose of the meeting was to organize to carry on the work.

He turned the meeting over to E. E. Overstreet, field director for the Cotton Association in this district, who told of his organization's interest in the Pageant, and who introduced Mrs. W. G. Lomax of Waxahachie who directed the pageant at Waxahachie on July 3rd this year when 800 people took part in the same Pageant which was seen by 12,000 people.

After Mrs. Lomax had outlined the Pageant itself and made suggestions as to the organization the meeting proceeded to business by electing the following Executive Committee: Douglas Pounds, Chairman; Mrs. W. W. Baugh, Vice-Chairman; F. O. Kelly, Secretary; Mrs. W. H. Meador, Member; Mrs. E. L. Robertson, Member.

The Executive Committee held a lengthy meeting after the adjournment of the general committee and worked out a number of details. The first thing that will be done will be to make visits to four other communities and invite each to take an episode.

After this is arranged the big work of putting the Pageant together will be started under the direction of Mrs. Lomax who will be assisted by dozens of others who are already interested and enthusiastic about the event.

JUDGE ORDERS PLEA STRICHEN FROM RECORDS

DATE FOR SENTENCE OF CONFESED SLAYERS FIXED SEPT. 10

By United News.
CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Stormy scenes marked the end Thursday of the sensational hearing to determine whether mitigating circumstances attended the murder of 15 year old Robert Franks by Nathan F. Leopold and Richard Loeb.

In the closing moments of his demand that the two youthful slayers should go to the gallows, State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe launched into a remarkable series of statements to which Justice Caverly took exception. This precipitated a clash between the prosecutor and the judge and finally Caverly, highly incensed, reprimanded Crowe and ordered his remarks stricken from the court record.

Caverly then read a prepared statement in which he declared that no delay whatever had attended the hearing of the case and he then fixed the day for sentence as Sept. 10, at 9:30 o'clock in the morning. That will be a fateful day for the two rich men's sons who confessed abducting and killing the son of a friend and neighbor and then threw themselves on the mercy of the court. Justice Caverly at that time will announce whether the defendants shall hang or go to prison. He has disclosed no intimation as to what his sentence will be. For thirty two court days the hearing had gone on before crowds that surpassed any ever before gathered to witness a trial in Chicago. Frequently during the hearing police reserves had to be called out and on one occasion, the day Clarence Darrow, chief defense counsel, started his closing address, a series of riots started during which mounted police charged into the crowd outside the courthouse building. What started the clash between Justice Caverly and Crowe was comment by the prosecutor upon the testimony of Detective Sergeant Gortland that Leopold had told him that he felt he and Loeb could beat the gallows, if there were no jury and if the case should get before a friendly judge.

"I know whether your honor believes that testimony or not," Crowe said.

"But I want to tell you, if you have observed these two defendants during the trial, if you have observed the conduct of their attorneys and their families, you are honorable exception, and that is the old man who sits in sackcloth and ashes and who is entitled to the sympathy of everybody—old Mr. Leopold—with that one honorable exception, everybody connected with the defense in this case has laughed and sneered and jeered and if the defendant, Leopold Jr., did not say that he would plead guilty before a friendly judge, his actions demonstrate that he thinks he has got one."

Justice Caverly suddenly sat erect. He stared at Crowe as if he could not believe what he heard.

Red-faced and angered, Caverly exclaimed:

"The court will order stricken from the record the closing remarks of the states attorney as being cowardly and dastardly assault upon the integrity of this court."

The Justice's pronouncement created a sensation in the courtroom and once more, as in many previous exciting sessions confusion broke out. It seemed as if most of the spectators started to talk at the same time.

"It was not so intended," Crowe retorted.

"And it could not be used for any purpose except to incite a mob and to try and intimidate this court. It will be stricken from the record," Justice Caverly fairly shouted.

"If your honor please, the states attorney had no such intention," Crowe persisted.

"We will go on," Caverly ordered. But Crowe would not be denied.

"I merely wanted to put my per-

CHAMBER COMMERCE DIRECTORS TO CELEBRATE LAYING OF TECH COLLEGE CORNERSTONE NOV. 11

A very spirited meeting of the board of directors of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce was held at the chamber of commerce office in the courthouse Monday morning at nine o'clock.

Upon recommendation of Dr. P. W. Horn, president of the Texas Technological College, who had informed the directors of the feasibility of celebrating the laying of the corner stone of the college on Armistice Day, November 11th, the directors went into a thorough discussion of the matter and unanimously agreed that a celebration to rival that given after the location of the college should be given on this occasion. Elaborate plans for the celebration will be worked out in the future by a committee from the chamber of commerce and every individual in Lubbock will be given an opportunity to help make this one of the greatest events in the history of Lubbock from a standpoint of anticipating those who will gather here from all parts of Texas. Dr. P. W. Horn, who has gone to Fort Worth to attend the meeting of the board of directors of the college was informed of the action taken by the directors by telegram.

The chamber of commerce did not take any action on the State Parks program locally as a committee headed by M. M. Dupre is giving that matter all consideration possible.

The proposition of arranging for needed office space in the City Hall was discussed and the one large room that will be given over to the chamber of commerce will be divided and a private office arranged if present plans are carried out.

It was decided that inasmuch as local merchants will stock with plain white felt hats to be used by Lubbock boosters on trade trips, boosters excursions, etc., that this hat be adopted as the standard headwear for all such occasions.

The matter of cooperating with the state highway department in furnishing the department housing for its increase shipments of machinery and equipment was again considered and the committee appointed to look after this feature of the program of work was instructed to get in touch with highway department officials and take immediate action in the matter.

L. H. Simpson Has Spent Fifteen Years in Lubbock

L. H. Simpson, of Simpson's Electric Shop, is one of the old timers of Lubbock, and even in it has been quite a number of years since he arrived here he still remembers the incidents surrounding his first day in Lubbock.

Mr. Simpson was in the Avalanche office at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and stated that exactly fifteen years from that day-hour and minute he arrived in Lubbock.

Simpson shipped his household goods, trunk, etc., from Hico to Plainview and made the trip overland from Plainview to Lubbock. The Hay Davidson Feed Store was the first place he stopped after reaching Lubbock, and Hay's usual good salesmanship had a part to play in their meeting as he was the first businessman of Lubbock to make a sale to the "feller from east Texas."

Mr. Simpson said that while Lubbock has made a great many changes during those fifteen years, there are still a few of the men he met here shortly after arriving in Lubbock, and named among them Ed Lowrey, Louie Shropshire, Dr. Hall, and others who have played conspicuous parts in the development of Lubbock and the plains.

Mr. Simpson entered the transfer business here shortly after reaching Lubbock, which business he followed until 1920 when he went into the electrical wiring and supply business, which has engaged his attention since that time.

Simpson remembers the days of prosperity and of drought on the plains, yet retains that uncompromising faith in the possibilities of West Texas and is today one of the most persistent boosters for this section to be found in Lubbock. After all, the men who established their homes and their businesses in Lubbock during the early days when most of this section was given over

Weak Nervous

"I was weak and nervous and run-down," writes Mrs. Edith Sellers, of 466 N. 21st St., East St. Louis, Ill. "I couldn't sleep nights, I was restless. I felt tired and not in condition to do my work. I would have such pains in my stomach that I was afraid I would get down in bed. My mother came to see me and suggested that I use

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

I felt better after my first bottle. I had a better appetite. It seemed to strengthen and build me up. I am so glad to recommend Cardui for what it did for me. I haven't needed any medicine since I took Cardui, and I am feeling fine."

Nervousness, restlessness, sleeplessness—these symptoms so often are the result of a weak, run-down condition, and may develop more seriously if not treated in time.

If you are nervous and run-down, or suffering from some womanly weakness, take Cardui.

FORD DEALERS BUILDING HOME ON AVENUE I THAT WILL BE DOUBLE CAPACITY OF PRESENT BUILDING

D. N. Leaverton, local building contractor, has started construction work on the Lubbock Auto Company building at the corner of 8th and Avenue I, for George Benson and Sam C. Arnold. Brick, steel and concrete will be used in the structure.

This building when completed will be 104 by 125 feet, giving double floor space of the building that is now occupied by that company, which is the authorized Ford sales and service dealers of this city.

The building is pushing the business district of Lubbock to the north a great deal and after the company has been located there other retail distributors will perhaps become interested in that section of the city.

The Lubbock Auto Company is one of the leading Ford agencies of Texas, having ranked far ahead in number of sales of all agencies in cities that compare in size with Lubbock, and in a great many instances made larger sales than the agencies in among the largest cities of the state.

J. M. Bradley, owner of the building that is located at the corner of Main and Avenue J which is now occupied by the Lubbock Auto Company stated that he has not leased it to any other firm as yet and does not know for what use it will be placed when vacated by that company.

The new home of the Ford dealers will be equipped with the most modern machinery and equipment in the mechanical department, while the office will be beautifully furnished and the parts department will be conducted in the same efficient manner in which it is now being handled only additional steel bins and other equipment will perhaps be added.

The show room will be much larger than that now in use, and with ample plate glass show windows at the front, will give ample display to the cars carried in stock.

It is seldom the case that the Lubbock Auto Company has its show rooms filled with cars, however, as through the fall season and at other periods when business is good their orders far exceed the number of cars available.

"GIRL SHY" PROVES THE VERSATILITY OF LLOYD

Seen as Bashful Small Town Boy in His Latest Comedy

Variety is the spice of life, and it is also the secret of success in making good motion pictures. Many stars fall into a rut because they insist upon making the same line of pictures and using the same kinds of characterizations. They never change because they feel the public is used to seeing them in a certain type of picture.

Such is not the case, however, with Harold Lloyd, whose latest feature Pathé-comedy, "Girl Shy," will be seen today at the Lindbergh theatre. Harold has fortunately discovered that "mixing them up a bit" is the secret of success. He has never made two comedies, even remotely alike, considering his big hits, "Dr. Jack," "Safety Last," "Why Worry?" and now "Girl Shy." He has jumped from small town situations to a South American revolution, from portraying a doctor to a ribbon thief. Now in the latest, he has again striven for something different from anything he has ever made. He is seen in "Girl Shy" in an entirely novel characterization, as a bashful small town boy who is an apprentice to his uncle a tailor. He makes a secret study of girls, although not a very accurate one, and the more he studies them, the more he fears them.

He has tried in "Girl Shy" to present a character who will instantly win the sympathy of his audience through his humanness. A really dramatic story has been built around this central figure of the boy and nothing has been sacrificed to make the picture true to life in every small detail. And it is attention to detail that helps largely to make the Lindbergh Pathé-comedies the big hits that they are.

The cast of "Girl Shy" includes Jobyna Ralston, who plays opposite Lloyd. She made a big hit in her initial appearance with the comedian in "Why Worry?" which resulted in her being signed by

WOMEN FOILED TRAIN, 130 CARS, CONLEY BROS. RETURN FROM NEW YORK

International News Service.
SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 28.—Two women were heroines in the eyes of the police department today when Mrs. John Mahon wounded one of the most persistent house burglars in the city, as he attempted to force open the screen over one of the windows in her home, resulting in his capture soon afterwards. She fired twice at him as he was attempting to force the screen.

Miss Clarabell Stiller, twenty-one, a pretty nurse, through her mental alertness brought about the arrest of four men who beat Sam Marques, twenty-one, unconscious, and robbed him of $200. After beating the man almost to death they brought him to the hospital incenseless where the nurse immediately called the police department and then stalled the bandits in conversation until officers arrived.

WILSON BUILDING BE FORMALLY OPEN SOON

Ira Wilson, owner and manager of the Wilson Abstract Company, has announced that an elaborate program will be worked out for the formal opening of that building just as soon as it has been completed.

The Wilson Abstract Company plant will perhaps be moved into the building during the first few days of September, but it will perhaps be the middle of the month before all features of the building have been completed when the opening can be held.

Already rental contracts have been signed for many of the office spaces in this splendid building, which is said to be the most modern home in the state for an abstract plant.

Contractor Gelin, who is building the structure, stated Thursday morning that while every effort is being made to complete it by the first, it is a physical impossibility and work may be continued well into September.

The building has many attractive and expensive features not to be found in the average building, and Mr. Wilson deserves the commendation of his fellow businessmen of Lubbock on this improvement to Lubbock that adds so much to the appearance of the business district.

Campaign Funds Are Slow to The Third Party Drive

By United News.
CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—LaFollette-Wheeler campaign managers are considerably agitated over the slowness with which contributions have been coming into the campaign war coffers.

The proposed slogan "a day's pay of a million workers to the campaign fund" as yet remains only a slogan. John M. Nelson, chairman of the campaign convention revealed Wednesday in discussing campaign plans and the efforts to put speakers in the field.

"So far, contributions have not indicated they constituted anything like a percentage of the total that was expected," Nelson said. "I believe it is because of procrastination rather than a lack of intent on the part of the expected contributors."

"As nearly as we have been able to diagnose people are waiting for some special form on which to make their pledges and to accompany contributions. We have been slow in getting out any such forms and in the meanwhile we certainly hope prospective contributors will not wait for them, but will send their contributions along in any form."

REVIVAL CAMPAIGN ATTENDANCE IS GROWING DAILY

Although it was raining steadily and many were kept away, evangelist Owen preached a wonderful sermon on "The Peace of God" in the revival at the Church of the Nazarene Wednesday evening. He likened a weary, troubled, disappointed, sinful heart to the troubled sea; restless, uneasy, rolling, lashing, no peace, no calm. Then he scripturally pictured the peace the rest, the calm assurance God gives.

The congregation was deeply moved. Several left the church in tears.

At the close of the service Mrs. Owen pathetically and touchingly sang "Blessed Jesus."

THE DISSATISFACTION OF THE PAVING PROGRAM

There seems to be a general note of dissatisfaction among the property owners as to the paving plans, and on account of that there is no co-operative working plan in effect today. It is making the matter of paving very unsatisfactory to the contractor, and at the same time it is not rendering that good effect upon the appearance of the city. We find that some are signing the contracts and some are not, and where the signing is not effected there is a gap in the paving plan, and all up and down the streets we find this condition, and the paving will be an absolute mess, and very unsatisfactory to those who drive over it, and there is no possibility of ever making a pretty street in this way, and will be like jumping hurdles in some parts of the town and the streets will be little better than they are now, but still the city and the people who own property in Lubbock will be out enough money to sink a battleship.

It appears that there should be something done to get the people together on the general plan, and have a more harmonious campaign of building. As a result of the dissatisfaction of the plans, much of the work is tied up, and the building of a long string of paving on Broadway will be delayed indefinitely if the matter is not straightened out very soon. The property owners are not satisfied on any street that paving contracts have been let, and while it is impossible to please everybody, and there will always be some fellow who will not agree, still there is something very wrong when seventy-five to ninety per cent of the people are opposed to the plans, and are not willing to accept them, and in that way are retarding the progress of something that we have needed so long.

We are sure that the committee and the City Commission have done what they considered the very best thing for the town, and there is a very great percentage of the people who are paying for the paving believe that they are not doing the proper thing, and hence the commission is not getting the hearty support of the people that they usually do in matters of this kind in Lubbock.

We believe that the people on the streets where the most of the expense is entailed should come to an understanding about the matter and get the work under way in full force and without having to skip about and pave a strip and leave a strip. Most of us would prefer that we have no paving at all if it cannot be done right, and when we say right we speak the sentiment of at least ninety per cent of the people who are paying the big end of the paving plan.

Lubbock cannot afford to get torn up, and divided on a matter of importance like the paving of our streets, and for that reason even at this stage of the game we feel that there should be a general understanding about the paving. Every technical, legal point should be investigated before a lot of money is expended, and lost to the people of the community. It has even been suggested that if the paving is put out in the middle of the street and a curb is built out to it, that the part of the street that is between the original property line and the new curb line ceases to be used as a street and the title to that strip of land reverts back to the original owners. Whether this is true or not we are not able to say. We are not a lawyer, and have little knowledge of the law in this respect, but if such is the case, then we should certainly not proceed in this way and jeopardize the title to property and tangle things up when it could be easily avoided by doing some other way.

The Avalanche does not want to throw any blocks in the way of the wheels of progress, but we certainly are interested in the affairs of the city and would like to see the program of paving be carried on smoothly and satisfactorily, but we are anxious that do not do anything that we will be sorry for, and which may prove extremely expensive in the end.

We do not believe in being penny wise and pound foolish, neither do we believe it economy to spread the paint too thin or so that it will not stand up under years of development and growth, such as this city is bound to endure.

We should build the foundation for a large city, and not be forced to tear out the foundation in years to come because of its inability to hold up the wall of a mighty structure such as Lubbock shall build in years to come.

Build wisely, and be glad in the future.

THE HOME AFFAIRS FOR THE PRESIDENTIAL ISSUES THIS YEAR.

As a usual thing and especially during the past few years, the Presidential candidates have gone into the foreign countries and dug up issues for the campaign, but this year it is different. Home affairs are of great enough interest to interest the people, and furnishes enough dope for medicine for the campaign this year, and hence the three leading candidates for the presidency this year are giving their attention to the things that the people of America are demanding in their own home land.

Believing that the people of this nation are more interested in the price of bread to the back driver of Omaha than they are about the League of Nations World Court, each of the candidates are setting forth their ideas and remedies for conditions in this country, and endeavoring to set up a plan whereby prosperity will abound on the American continent, and the people of this country can all make a living and make lots of money without work, and the fellow that seemingly has the best solution for this will no doubt be the fellow that the majority of the people will be tempted to support and will vote for when the time comes. Each of the three candidates have expressed themselves freely on matters of vital importance to the people of this country, and we find that they have expressed themselves in a way that the common ordinary voter can understand and for that reason their campaign is going to prove more interesting and the people are going to come nearer voting their feelings in the matter this year than possibly ever before.

The new party that is being led by La Follette is attracting quite a bit of attention and the Republicans we believe are more fearful of the third party man who stuffed off from their ranks and took a big following with him than any of the others, and it is a problem of the Republican leaders just how to handle the situation and keep this man, who is a fighter, and who has a lot of good practical ideas besides being a radical, and many of us think unpatriotic notions, from making too great inroads on the GOP voting strength. However, they all express themselves and we find them talking about plain everyday things. President Coolidge believes in a reduction of taxes and a reformation of taxation and he shall continue his efforts in that direction. He says the finances of the nation have been managed with a genius and success unmatched since the days of Hamilton.

Davis contends that the Mellon tax bill was a measure to favor the few, and Democratic initiative is responsible for the present law.

La Follette denounces the Mellon tax plan as a device to relieve multi-millionaires at the expense of other taxpayers, and favors a taxation policy providing for immediate reductions upon moderate incomes.

As to tariff Coolidge says by means of a protective tariff we have saved agriculture, labor and industry from the menace of having their home market destroyed through the dumping on it of a flood of foreign products.

While Davis contends the exorbitant rates of the present tariff law must be wiped out, and in their place must be written a statute designed primarily to raise revenue for the support of the government and framed on a truly competitive basis.

La Follette favors drastic reduction of the exorbitant duties on manufactured products as provided in the Fordney-McCumber tariff legislation.

Coolidge says he wants agriculture and industry on a sound basis of prosperity and equality, and proposes to appoint a committee to investigate and report to congress in December that may help to secure this result which we all desire.

Davis promises that in times when general and widespread distress has overtaken him (the farmer) every power which the government enjoys under the constitution shall be exerted in his aid.

La Follette favors prohibiting of gambling by speculators and profiteers in agricultural products; reconstruction of the Federal Reserve and Federal Farm Loan Systems; calling of a special session of congress to pass relief legislation; reduction of freight rates to pre-war levels.

Coolidge says the Republican rule has raised the wage-earner to higher standards than he ever occupied before anywhere in the world.

Davis is quoted as saying that the right of labor to an adequate wage, the right to organize to obtain it and to bargain for it collectively must not be impaired either by injunction of by any other device.

La Follette favors abolition of the use of injunctions in labor disputes and declares for complete protection of the rights of farmers and workers to organize and bargain collectively.

Coolidge favors the American system of individual enterprise and is opposed to any general extension of government ownership and control of railroads.

Davis claims it quite as important to the railroads that the farmer should prosper as it is to the farmer that the railroads should be adequately paid for the service they render.

La Follette favors repeal of the Esch-Cummings railroad rates upon the basis of actual prudent investment and cost of service.

FREAK VOTING QUALIFICATIONS

There is a wide difference of opinion in the various States regarding the proper qualifications for voters.

In twenty States there is a literacy test for voters. The standard is somewhat elastic. In New York a citizen must be able to read fifty words from the Constitution and write legibly in English ten words from the passage read. Several States demand that the prospective voter must be able to read the Constitution and write his or her own name.

Others do not require that a man should be able to read the Constitution but that he should be able to explain it—a rather difficult task. In some States again the requirements are very general, mainly stating that a man must read and write, while still others a voter satisfies the literacy standards if he can write a single line or his own name.

A few States require a voter to have employment at election time. South Carolina demands that a voter must be paying taxes on $300 or more property. A good moral character of good behavior is required in some States. Several deny the ballot to paupers. Many States, if their laws were enforced, would take away the vote of any one betting on the election results.

The election laws are far more diversified and ambiguous than divorce laws, and in the matter of electing a president of the United States, it would seem that the same rules should apply in every State.

California has made the study of the United States constitution compulsory in all its public schools. It would be well for every state to include such a course in its system of education. If the constitution was better understood people would appreciate the fundamentals, liberties and greatness of the American system of government, on the rights of the individual, and there would be fewer socialists and radicals.

JAMES B. REYNOLDS DIRECTOR OF REPUBLICAN WASHINGTON BUREAU SAYS COOLIDGE WILL SWEEP WEST

By RAYMOND CLAPPER.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Coolidge will sweep the west, James B. Reynolds director of the Washington bureau of the republican national committee and one of the president's most trusted political scouts reports after a trip out in the grass roots section.

"LaFollette" the optimistic Mr. Reynolds echoed pleasantly, not even the mention of the independent candidate putting in the ear to ear smile.

"He's nothing to worry about at all."

Here is Reynolds' argument: "The only states which LaFollette has the slightest chance of carrying at this time where the democratic party is virtually non-existent." Reynolds explained, "This condition prevails in Wisconsin, North Dakota, and in Minnesota. In Montana where LaFollette claims to be strong, there is a democratic organization there the presence of Wheeler on the LaFollette ticket complicates the situation. Outside of these four states, LaFollette's chances are nil."

Reynolds has prepared an estimate of the political situation in the middle west based upon his own observation and confidential reports from Coolidge workers. He summarized the situation in various states as follows:

"Coolidge and Dawes will sweep New York and carry the state by a tremendous majority. The lead was there privately conceded to the republicans as far as the national ticket is concerned."

"In Indiana and Ohio, present conditions are good for republicans success."

From Nebraska are coming the most encouraging reports of increased republican strength. According to present indications Coolidge and Dawes will carry the state.

"In Oklahoma at this time the republicans have a fifty-fifty chance."

"Minnesota republicans are confident that they will be able to carry their state for the national ticket."

"In Wisconsin, the most significant recent development is the organization of an independent state committee which will conduct the campaign for Coolidge and Dawes. It presages a real fight for Wisconsin."

Chicago headquarters are swamped with requests for speaking engagements by General Dawes, Reynolds says.

Meanwhile, there is talk of sending Secretary of State Hughes out on the stump to reply to the attacks on the administration's foreign policy being made by Davis. At the state department it was said that Hughes has no speaking engagements other than one to address the delegates of the American Mission claims commission, Sept. 30th.

U. S. FLIERS ARE AWAITING FAIR WEATHER

By OTIS PEARBODY SWIFT
ABOARD U. S. S. RICHMOND
Via Longview, Tex.—With their last hop over the water to the American continent already postponed until Friday on account of bad weather, the American world fliers may be delayed further by a storm which is reported to be rolling up over the route they must travel from Iqviut, Greenland to Indian Harbor, Labrador.

Lieut. Lowell Smith and Eric Nelsen, who had expected to get away from Iqviut Thursday have decided they cannot start until Friday at the earliest. It is raining now in Iqviut and reports reaching the Richmond tell of a storm which is racing off the Maine coast and moving northward in the direction of the path to Indian Harbor.

The airmen also have been handicapped at Iqviut by insufficient facilities with which to repair their planes and change their motors, although this work is now progressing satisfactorily.

Plans for negotiation the 572 mile span to Labrador provide that the fliers will land in a nameless circular cove on Ice Tickle Island, which lies three miles west of Indian harbor. The Richmond, which anchored in Ice Tickle harbor at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning has experienced in the past 24 hours the kind of weather which the fliers may expect—namely, spots of clear horizon which alternates with patches of fog.

During the night the Richmond passed a large sized iceberg close to the ship. Due to the Arctic currents, icebergs are frequent along this coast, and it is realized among the officers of the navy patrol that the forthcoming leg of the world flight holds multiple dangers.

During the hop from Iqviut, the Richmond's station will be at sea, 25 miles off Indian harbor.

Correspondence courses in radio reception and transmission are offered by the engineering extension department of the Pennsylvania State College. More students have enrolled in the radio course than in any other of the correspondence courses offered by the department.

TENTATIVE PLAN FOR BOOSTER TRIPS ARE MADE

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is snapping into it in preparation for the Annual Trade Trips advertising the Panhandle South Plains Fair and if the support and co-operation of our citizenship is just half as hearty as the work of the Juniors, we are going to see some wonderfully fine trips out of Lubbock in the next three or four weeks.

President Dickinson of the Juniors has appeared before a membership meeting of the Retail Merchants Association and of the Rotary Club and put it up to them straight to say whether or not they wanted the trade trips, and if they did would the heads of the business go on the trips.

At both of these meetings the response has been unanimous that the trade trips were wanted and that the merchants, business and professional men would go.

At both meetings a number of representative business, professional men spoke in favor of the trips, bringing out the advantages to be gained by the individuals making the trips, the advertising that will result for Lubbock and the fair, and that the citizens of our neighboring towns are expecting us to visit their again this year.

The Trade Trip Committee of the Junior Chamber, consisting of Roy Starmer, Chairman and Curtis Kew, Owen McWhorter, Lewis Price and T. E. Buckner, members, met yesterday morning and planned a tentative schedule of trips and routes which will be placed before a general membership meeting of the organization, which will be held this afternoon at two o'clock.

Every member of the Junior Chamber is urged to be present at this meeting.

THE FIGHTER

Well, it may be the game is lost and it may be that hope is gone, But there is left a round of play, and there is time for keeping on; Keep on until the whistle blows, good fortune yet may come our way, A fighter sometimes turns the tide, a quitter never saves the day.

The odds are all against us now, but let's go fighting to defeat, And should we snatch the prize away the victory were doubly sweet; There still is time for pluck and grit, we may not win and yet we may, Sometimes a fighter turns the tide, a quitter never saves the day.

The game is lost? Not so, until the whistle blows and all is done, While still there lives a fighter's chance let us be fighters every one; We'll be defeated if we must, but in the battle let us stay; The brave heart struggles to the end, the quitter throws his chance away.

'Tis no disgrace to lose a bout if we go down as fighting men; If we keep trying to the last fortune may smile on us again; And there is still a round to play, Sometimes the fighter turns the tide, the quitter never saves the game.

TEXAS SHOULD HAVE DRINKING CUP LAW

PORT ARTHUR, Aug. 28.—Texas is one of the two states in the union which has passed laws against the common drinking cup, according to a digest prepared by the general health bureau.

Four states have failed to write specific laws on their text books, but two of these have guarded against disease danger on railroad trains by adopting the standard railway sanitary code against the "goblet of death."

Provisions for better health service for Indians was made by the Congress in recent appropriation bills when an addition of $30,000 was made to the general appropriation for preserving health and for medical treatment, and a tuberculosis sanitarium was established for the Chippewa Indians of Minnesota. Nurses in the Indian service now receive $1,500 a year, with quarters, light, and fuel.

GENSBURG OF LUBBOCK AND ELDER OF AMARILLO MEET TODAY IN FINAL FOR SINGLES CHAMPIONSHIP WEST TEXAS

Not to be outdone in their almost frantic efforts to complete play in the second annual open tournament being sponsored here by the Lubbock Tennis Association, entrants for singles play in the meet drove steadily on through a light drizzle during the entire program of the morning, and for an hour or two in the afternoon Thursday, until about 3 o'clock old sol peeped through the heavy mists with a glorious smile, and drove away the threatening weather, allowing the tournament to proceed uninterrupted.

The contest for singles championship was brought to the final round, but on account of the lateness of the hour, and the fatigued condition of the final round contestants, who already had been through several hot setts, it was decided that finals would be postponed until this morning. In this round Gensburg, local lad will meet Elder, Amarillo champ. Gensburg, the only hope of Lubbock, successfully negotiated four rounds Thursday, and is the only local man who made any showing toward a win of final honors. Williams, Feltz, and McCrummen all met defeat in the first round, Kimbro, went into the second round on a default by Matney, of Canyon, who failed to appear, but was driven to cover in the third round by Cox, of Waco, who beat him 6-2, 4-6, 6-2.

Finishing the match which was started Wednesday, but was rained out, Gensburg took two straight sets over Feltz Thursday morning, Feltz having taken the big end of the former day. The count was 3-6, 6-3, 6-3.

In the next round Gensburg met Bill Bush, Amarillo, who was the odd man in the drawing. He won two straight sets 6-0, 6-1.

In the afternoon program Gensburg met and defeated Ehmman, Waco who had previously eliminated Jack Bush, Amarillo. As was Gensburg's apparent custom he dropped the first set to Ehmman 1-6, but came back for two straight sets 6-2, 6-2, but the score is no just criterion of the battle which ensued in this round, for some of the best tennis displayed during the tournament was shown here. Both men were masters of their strokes, and were equally as easy with the back stroke as the forward. In the final round of the afternoon Gensburg defeated Floyd, Plainview, who had advanced to semi-finals by just playing only one set, assisted by a default by Canyon, who failed to appear. In this round, Gensburg again dropped the first 4-6, but by masterly strokes and placement, took the next two sets 6-1, 6-2, thus going into the finals.

In the other division of the singles Elder, of Amarillo, apparently easily advanced to the semi-finals. In the first round he defeated McCrummen, local man in two straight sets, but only after a hard struggle. The count was 10-8, 6-3. In the second round he won easily from Eastlinger, Waco two straight sets 6-0, 6-1. Eastlinger had advanced on a default by Cox, San Angelo, who came another pretty match of the afternoon's program when

TILDEN TAKES FINAL SHOT AT TENNIS AUTHORITIES

By United News
NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Having announced his retirement from competitive tennis, Wm. T. Tilden, the champion who is defending the title in the present tournament at Forest Hills, takes a farewell shot at the authorities who rule the game in one chapter of a book on tennis which was published Thursday.

Tilden admits that the fact that he is champion has been of real financial value to him, but says commercialization of sport is necessary in this age because of over organization and the public's demand for the best.

"The amateur cannot meet the present demands of the public unless he is a millionaire," Tilden writes. "However, the abolition of the amateur rule would mean the collapse of athletic competition."

Tilden says his writings on the game for which he is highly paid and to which the United States Lawn Tennis Association objected on the ground of commercialism, are really done for the sake of the little kids in the wide open spaces.

"How are our young stars of the future to learn the game if this rule forbidding players to write is enforced?" he asks. The game may not be seriously handicapped in New York, Boston and Philadelphia, because the boys and girls of those cities have a chance to witness the champions in action. But what of other sections of the country?"

SENATORS AGAIN ON PINNACLE BY WIN OVER YANKS

By United News

The explosion in the eighth inning of the Yanks-Senators ball game at the Yankee stadium blew the Yankees out of the lead at a time of the game when it was expected to be blown out of the lead. The Senators lead by a barely perceptible margin in the matter of points but the points do not give the clearest idea of the standing. The relative number of games played and games lost are what count most. The Senators have played three games more than the New York club and they have lost only one more than the Yanks. The tumult in the eighth inning scored eight runs for the Senators and gave them a conquest, 11 to 6.

Babe Ruth got two home runs, his 41st and 42nd but he will have to slap homers at the incredible rate of one for every two games or better in order to equal his old record of 59 in one season. A couple of weeks ago he had hopes of passing the old record.

The other games in the American league had no bearing on the pennant business. The Red Sox beat the Athletics twice in Boston, 6 to 3, and 8 to 7. The Indians and White Sox split two games in Cleveland.

In the first game, Sherry Smith the old Brooklyn pitcher shut out the White Sox 7 to 0. The White Sox won the other in ten innings, 7 to 6.

In the National League, the Giants and Dodgers were idle. As the Pirates, in second place, lost to the Reds in Pittsburgh 5 to 4, the Dodgers occupying third place found themselves slightly closer to second place. On the other hand, the Cubs, in fourth place, made a real advance on the Dodgers. The Cubs beat the Cards twice in Chicago, 5 to 2, and 8 to 3.

Boston and Philadelphia played the first game in Philadelphia if any one cares. The Phils won both, 1 to 0, and 9 to 3.

Kid Harris walloped a moaning grounder at Joe Dugan, the Yanks third baseman who muffed it allowing Russ to score the second run of the inning and refilling the bases.

The game went to pieces. Huggins emitted more cries of alarm and Sam Jones went into pitch. The next play was a force-out but the Senators were parading up to the plate, smashing the ball and running around and around the diamond wildly and they scored six more runs after two men were out.

The Senators now lead the league by two points and they have Walter Johnson and Geo. Morgridge to send against the Yanks before the series ends, whereas Waite Hoyt is the only New York pitcher who deserves full confidence. There are less than thirty chances to be played, and the Senators may take a lead in this series which will last until the end of the season.

SENATORS UNDER LEADERSHIP YOUNGEST MANAGER IN MAJORS REGAIN LEAD FROM YANKS AND THREATEN TO COP PENNANT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The Washington Ball club, the Bill Bryan of the big leagues which has run for high office in the American loop about twenty times and has never won anything yet, landed in New York and all over the Yanks Thursday afternoon in the first game of the series which is likely to nominate one club or the other for this year's world series. The Senators smashed the incumbent but ageing champions, 11 to 6, and rose to the top of the league in a game of ball that ran along in the routine way until the eighth inning and then went raving crazy.

Young Buckle Harris, a back-lot strategist from the coal belt of Pennsylvania is manager of the Washington team at the tender age of 27, the youngest manager in all the records of the big leagues and the most successful in the history of the capital guard. He is the only one who ever raised the teams average above second place or the team's morale above the knee caps at any date beyond the fourth of July and not content with the sun and stars, the kid is reaching out for the moon.

Along with subordinates who take orders from the kid are Walter Johnson who has pitched before presidents from Martin Van Buren to Calvin Coolidge, and Nick Altrock, another elderly athlete who speaks of Chauncey M. Depew as a kid with a great future.

When Buckle was called down to Washington last winter by Clark Griffith who owns the team and informed that he had been selected as manager for the season of 1924, Harris probably wondered why Griffith had it in for him. In the past, the managers of the Washington teams had been allowed about as much authority as a doorman on the clubhouse gate and much briefer tenure of office. Anyway, the kid took the job and here he is, pop-eyed with amazement, wondering when he is going to fall out of bed and wake up.

Out of consideration for the accounting department Harris decided to save Walter Johnson until about Saturday when the prehistoric noise can be used to lure a full attendance to the Yankee stadium. He had to select some one else for Thursday's game so he took Zachary, a left hander who had been largely responsible for the success of the club to date.

After two homers in succession, one by Babe Ruth, and one by Bob Meusel, the kid churning into the remoteness of the bleachers, in the fourth inning, the kid changed his mind about Zachary and called in a right hander named Russell.

In their next turn at bat, the Senators tied the score at 3 and 3. But at the end of the seventh inning, the count was 6 to 3 in the Yanks favor, and it seemed as though in a direct clash to decide the championship, the Senators for all their eagerness and ambition, were not quite equal to the technical skill, the confidence and the battling vehemence of the champions who are or and ambitious any more but somewhat bored. Then came the eighth inning and the panic.

Bluege singled and Ruel the catcher, rapped out a double. Miller Huggins of the Yanks, a man of little faith, began to run around the Yanks dugout, screaming "flee for your lives, the dam has busted and other cries of terror. Herb Pennock who had been pitching for the Yanks, took to his heels and Gaston replaced him. The next hitter was Roger Peckinpaugh, who used to be the Yanks own shortstop. He hit to Everett Scott, the man who took his job and two shakes of world series money which Peckinpaugh would have received if he had not been sent away, and Scott tossed him out at first, but Bluege scored. Then McNeely the new boy from the coast league hit a single and the bases were full, one run was in and only one was out.

Kid Harris walloped a moaning grounder at Joe Dugan, the Yanks third baseman who muffed it allowing Russ to score the second run of the inning and refilling the bases.

The game went to pieces. Huggins emitted more cries of alarm and Sam Jones went into pitch. The next play was a force-out but the Senators were parading up to the plate, smashing the ball and running around and around the diamond wildly and they scored six more runs after two men were out.

TILDEN ADVANCES TO FOURTH ROUND BY EASY WIN

By United News
NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Wm. T. Tilden, playing h for his fifth consecutive championship in the men's tournament at Forest Hills, snatched to the fourth round Thursday by defeating Lucien Williams, former intercollegiate champion as though Williams were some novice who had never seen a racket until he stepped on the court to meet the master of them all.

The score was 6-0, 6-2, 6-1. Tilden plays Jack Wright, of Canada in Friday's match it appears that Wright, one of the vanishing groups of foreign challengers, will take his departure and his whipping simultaneously.

Little Bill Johnston, of California, who has held the championship is ranked next to Tilden among the Americans also went to the fourth round. He set aside Wray Brown of St. Louis 6-4, 6-1, 6-1. Brian L. C. Norton, the temperamental South African, found conditions to his liking and the referee consented to beat Walter Westbrook, another ex-college star.

George Lott, Jr., of Chicago, the junior national champion, who has been a surprisingly sturdy entrant in major company won still another match and was the first player to reach the fifth round.

He beat Alfred H. Chapin, of Springfield, Mass., the player who surpassed and astonished himself by defeating Jacques Brugnon, of the French Davis cup team during Wednesday's play. Lott's score over Chapin was 6-4, 7-5, 16-14. And the pair took nearly two hours of exhausting combat to decide the issue.

AMERICA TO BE HOST TO MOST PRIZED HUMAN POSSESSION OF BRITISH EMPIRE WHEN PRINCE OF WALES LANDS HERE

BY CHARLES McCANN

LONDON, Aug. 28.—New York when it greets the Prince of Wales on his arrival Friday will take into its care the most prized human possession of the British empire.

Part of the prince's popularity is due to his job of understudy to the king, and to the fact that he is scheduled some day to be, as Edward VIII, ruler of the British Empire.

The rest is due entirely to himself. Nearly every one who meets or even sees him likes him. He is prince enough to seem to be enjoying himself even when he is unrelenting earnestness or making after-dinner speeches, and is human enough to take enjoyment in about the same sort of things that would appeal to the ordinary person. His popularity is not detracted from by the fact that when he falls from a horse he hits the ground as hard as any one else, or that when hit in the eye by a squash ball, his eye turns black and his face goes into half mourning for a week.

Great Britain first awoke to the fact that the prince was going to be an ordinary boy, and man when he was quite young. He was with his grandmother Queen Victoria, at Windsor castle. The queen was a stickler for etiquette, and when young David, his name among members of the royal family—began to cut up at dinner, he was banished under the table. Everybody forgot all about it until he emerged stark naked before the shocked queen and a startled cabinet minister with whom she was conferring.

As he grew up, the prince received in addition to an ordinary education, practical training both as a sailor and soldier and when the war broke out he was a second lieutenant in the grenadier guards. It was during the war that he attained his real popularity. He had picked up a useful vocabulary of cuss words, and in the army he found his first real chance to use it. He endeared himself to every one and by his persistence in running into danger made his presence in any particular sector dreaded by those who felt themselves responsible for his safety. For a time he was put on ordinary regimental duty so that at least he could be kept track of. Once he complained of the restrictions placed upon him, declaring that he had plenty of brothers to take his place if he were killed. Field Marshal Kitchener told him bluntly that he was not so much worried about getting killed as about his getting taken prisoner. The war over, the prince began learning at first hand about the British Empire and making himself known to his fellow citizens throughout the world. He has visited since then every corner of the world, and on one tour alone travelled 46,000 miles.

In making this, his third visit to Canada, and his second to the United States since the war, the prince is paying a compliment to North America for he leads a fairly busy life.

Besides being a rancher in Canada, he is a farmer and horse breeder at home, as well as an unrelenting, cornerstone lawyer, after dinner speaker and chief scout of Wales. Probably the prince will not have time to indulge in much sport in the United States, except for a few practice polo games. But he goes in enthusiastically for hunting, and steeple chasing, as well as polo.

He is reckless but not an exceptionally good horseman in this country of horsemen. He is better than the average, but he falls frequently because of a fatal defect—that he rides by balance instead of gripping a horse's flanks with his legs. As for the indoor sports, the prince can hold his own. He is at home in a cabaret or a ball room. Since his last visit to the United States he has matured somewhat, but still not look his 30 years. And he is still very much single.

SHOWLESS SUNDAY THREATENED AT HOUSTON

By United News.

HOUSTON, Aug. 28.—"A movie war" which blazed out in full force here today threatens to leave Houston "showless" on Sundays.

Will Horenitz, manager of the Southern Enterprises, through their parent corporation, the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, is trying to "freeze him out" by refusing to sell him second run pictures after his contract expires within a few weeks.

The Southern Enterprises operates 36 picture shows here. Horenitz declared he would file a suit against the Lasky company alleging "trust practices" and would attempt to close every picture show in Texas on Sunday in his fight to keep in business.

Southern Enterprises officials here are silent.

ROUND-UP USED IN FILMING OF FAMOUS NOVEL

By United News.

HOUSTON, Aug. 28.—Possibility the last great longhorn cattle round up in the history of the west was on today at the Bassett-Bakely ranch, 27 miles from Houston.

Four thousand head of rangy Texas steers were started out for the movie town of "Abilene, Kansas" a few miles away, in connection with the filming of Emerson Hume's famous novel, "North of 36."

Movie cowboys circled around the huge herd, chuck wagons creaked behind panting oxen, a cloud of dust rose, and a last chapter was written in the immortal epic of the old trail drivers.

JUDGE WADE SPEAKS ON LABOR DAY PROGRAM

The committee in charge of the speaking program for the Labor Day Celebration here next Monday announced last night that they had secured Judge Wade of Rockwall, Texas, as their out of town speaker, and that he would speak on the subject, "Why Organized Labor is Organized."

The committee also announced that they would have one or two highly paid speakers from Lubbock on their program and that every one could rest assured that this part of the program would be in keeping with the entire program for the day. Judge Wade has quite a reputation all over Texas as a speaker of note and his standing among the legal profession is of the very highest. There is no doubt but that he will bring a message that should be heard by every man, woman and child interested in the future progress and development of this section.

The public generally is invited to hear Judge Wade and the others who will appear on this part of the program and learn first hand just what organized labor stands for and then why and wherefore of Labor Day and its celebration.

The speaking program will start at ten thirty Monday morning following the parade and band concert and will be from the band stand on the court house lawn.

WHEELER TRIAL DATE SET ON OPENING CAMPAIGN DAY

By United Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—In the setting of the date for the arraignment of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, at Sen. J. J. Mann's of the LaFollette-Wheeler campaign see an indication that the department of justice is to be used as an adjunct of the republican national committee in the presidential campaign.

Although Senator Wheeler has been demanding a trial ever since last May, it was only later he had announced the opening of his speaking campaign in Boston on Labor Day that he was notified he would be arraigned that very date, John M. Nelson, chairman of the LaFollette-Wheeler campaign declared Wednesday.

Indicted in Montana, for alleged misuse of his official position, Senator Wheeler was exonerated by the United States senate after an investigation last winter, but he has never actually been tried in his home state. The indictment was returned at the time Senator Wheeler was leading an investigation of the department of justice.

Chairman Nelson stated that reports from Montana informed him that agents of the republican national committee, the department of justice, and the copper interests "are moving heaven and earth" to make a case which will not have to be dismissed for lack of evidence.

A Page of Special Interest to the Farmers

Articles and Local News About South Plains Farmers; Prepared by Welton Winn, a Practical Farmer

OUR VISIT TO THE EMERY FARM

On the 21st we had the privilege of visiting the Eugene Emery farm northeast of the city. Mr. Emery has an ideal farm and is an up-to-date farmer. He practices diversification in his farm operations. His crops are well cultivated and were standing the drought unusually well for this dry time. Mr. Emery had 25 acres in maize and he had the best headed maize we have seen. The reason is clear. Mr. Emery plants two rows and then skips one row, but cultivates the missing row just the same as the other rows. Mr. Emery tells us that with that system of planting and cultivating he always makes more maize than 25 plant every row. This goes our system a little better. We have found that to plant alternating rows of corn or maize or any of the sorghum grains and plant the rows some thicker and cultivate the land all alike we have always made better corn and other crops mentioned than to plant all the rows in such crops. In corn growing this is all the safe plan to follow and we made these tests for 25 years. There was more and better formed heads of maize on this crop of Mr. Emery's than any we have seen in the whole county. Mr. Emery has 120 acres of land rented out for cotton, and 30 acres planted in cotton of his home crop, which is clean and looks green and fine.

We saw another cotton crop near Mr. Emery's that was about the largest cotton we have seen. It belongs to a Mr. Will Haney, whom we did not see, but we can say for the gentleman that he is a real cotton farmer.

Mr. Emery has a very fine orchard and has all kinds of fruit. Some fine apples, peaches, pears and plums. He was not entering his orchard as was Mr. Haney, but it was clean of weeds and everything else that would in the least take out any moisture from the trees and fruit.

We asked if it would not pay to water the orchard. He said that it would, but he was too busy to look after it as he should. His place reminded us of our farm and ranch where we usually tackled too much to do justice to all the things needing attention at times, but we think this is not the best idea though we have at times practiced it ourselves.

We found a nice little walnut tree in Mr. Emery's orchard and asked about it. He says it came up there about three years ago. He did not plant it, or know how it came to be planted there, but this three year old tree has quite a nice lot of walnuts on it now, which is proof that walnuts will do well on these Plains. Mr. Emery says he has never watered that tree at all and it is making a rapid growth. He asked our opinion about trying to move it into his yard. We suggested that it might cause it to die and as it had seemed to plant itself there we would let it remain where it was and plant more near the yard. We suggested that he plant out some pecan trees this fall and take time to water them until they got started and he would have some real shade and soon have an abundance of fine nuts as well. Mr. Emery seemed glad to know that pecans will grow here on the Plains and we feel sure he will join with many others who will plant pecans this fall. We spoke of the long life of the tree and as well as their beauty and usefulness. We also explained the two theories of planting them and from the interest Mr. Emery took in our talk we feel sure that he will plant quite a lot of pecans this fall.

Mr. Emery has one of the finest Jacks we have seen in a long time, and is raising some fine mules which should be raised on every farm. We will not likely see the "muleless age" any time soon and we think that it is cheaper to raise good mules than it will be to raise cotton and to buy mules. We practiced this plan as long as we farmed, or for the last 25 years, and we feel sure no one will go wrong who begins now to raise some real good mules. The common kind, like other scrubs, will not pay for their raising.

TEXAS HAS A SHORT FEED CROP

We herewith submit a clipping from the Progressive Farmer which should be read and studied by every Lubbock County farmer.

We also call attention to the editorial of Farm & Ranch, which appears in another place in this issue. These articles are timely, and should be read by all the farmers of Texas.

We are glad to see these two high authorities speak out what we have been urging during the time of our connection with this paper. And, we say again that to grow first of all, all the feed needed for the stock on the farms with some to spare is the only safe rule to follow and more should be planted than would likely supply the home demand, so that if a short crop should come each farm would have its own supply without having to buy feed. And, we want to say further that where we have found farmers who always follow this plan we have found that for the last 25 years that such farms have always been in the best shape financially of any other class of farmers. To raise cotton to buy feed needed on the farm is a delusion. However high cotton may be selling, so we must get away from that idea if we expect to maintain to the point of independence every farmer should enjoy.

This is one of the reasons we are calling the farmers institute for the 30th. We want to discuss all these things and get the experience of the best and most successful farmers in the county on these important points. So we again urge on all farmers to come in Saturday, the 30th, and let's have a good old-fashioned experience meeting where we will all be benefited and get better acquainted and get better acquainted. Tell your neighbors if any of them do not read the Avalanche to come in and get the benefit of this meeting.

One of the very important subjects we want to discuss is the importance of growing some wheat, oats and rye. Also some winter barley. This is the only way we can now overcome the short feed crop of this season. We have found that crops to be of great help along this line for at least 25 years. When the Government makes a five-year test it is considered good but with a five year comparison it takes that as good evidence to establish its rule of comparisons. Then why can't farmers take the experience of 25 years that can be absolutely established for a guide in their operations.

We have many good things in store for those who attend the institute. So again we urge all to attend. Remember the date—Saturday, the 30th.

Texas has a short feed crop. The production of corn is estimated at 17,600,000 bushels less than that of last year, while the grain sorghum crop shows an estimated increase of 8,600,000 bushels. In other words, the increased production of grain sorghum does not make good the corn shortage. The tame hay crop falls short of that of last year by about 275,000 tons. Generally, the yield of fall oats was good, but the spring crop, which this year constituted one-half the total, was light, and no more oats were produced this year than last. Feed is going to be scarce and high-priced long before the next crop is made. Not only is true of Texas, but it is reasonable to expect feed to be scarce in other sections, for there is a short feed crop in the Corn Belt. With feed high priced in the Corn Belt, it is going to be distressingly so by the time it is shipped into Texas. Under the circumstances, it behooves the state, especially Central and East Texas, to plant a large acreage of grain crops this fall in order to avoid the necessity of heavy grain feeding, and then when the time comes, plant those grain crops which will produce feed at the earliest possible date.

THIS IS A GOOD WORLD TO LIVE IN!

Some times when we feel down and out and everything seems "agin" us something happens to cheer us up, even when politics are all wrong. A case in point: The other day we came in home, somewhat tired and found a nice watermelon in a good cool place. We asked where that melon was from, and who had bought it? We were told that it was sent up to us with no explanation. We thought we would enjoy one fine melon. However, our lady said it must have been sent by mistake, and that we had better not cut the melon. We thought that we were justified in realizing on such a mistake as that, but after some argument we had to give way to what seemed a fair argument, but we did so very reluctantly.

Next day we called on the grocer who had delivered the melon to know how this mistake had happened, and to our delight we found that our old neighbor and good farmer W. B. Thorp had sent us the melon.

To say that we appreciated it would be no wise expression of our gratitude for the melon. We will use the phrase of the boy in his grand mother's her birthday. He said: "I hope you will live to see the end of your days." She thanked him, but said she could hardly hope for that in the health she was in. But Mr. Thorp being in good health, we are sure he will live to see the end of his days. At any rate, we hope this for him, together with all the good things of farm life. And if he should ever decide to play another such prank on us again we will try to be charitable enough to stand it without complaint.

It is not so bad after all to an agricultural editor and get out among the farmers and see the fine crops growing and enjoy the pure air, etc. We feel sorry for the por city editor who stay day in and day out over their desks hunting news items and arranging editorials, being talked to and about, cussed and disrespected, loved and hated, praised and defamed, lied to and lied about. So we think the way of the newspaper editor is hard and we have no desire to aspire to his exalted position. We think he deserves the sympathy of all right minded people and the prayers of the religiously inclined in his endeavor to serve his country and mold public opinion as they are all said to do. We feel like the boy who wished good things for his grandmother. We hope they will live to see the end of their days.

The Glorious Rains And Some of Their Possible Benefits

With the rains of the last few days and that of last night we have many reasons to be thankful. We too often do as did the Lepers that were healed. They all rejoiced, but only one turned back to give thanks to the great healer.

Now we wonder how many will deep down in their hearts give thanks to the giver of all the good things so bountifully bestowed on us. The greatest of all possible is the rain and sunshine which he says he sends on the evil and the good and on the just and the unjust.

With these splendid rains we hope there will be a good attendance at the farmers' institute next Saturday, the 30th.

There is but one way we can overcome the feed shortage of this year and that is by planting some wheat, rye or oats for early fall grazing. We will have men with us Saturday who can give much instruction along this line. Now is the time to get busy. Your cotton land can be planted to these grain crops now and be ready for grazing by the time the cotton is gathered. All these points will be discussed at the meeting. The question of co-operative seed buying will be discussed by the County Demonstration Agent. We hope to make this a very important and profitable day for all who attend. So we again urge on all farmers in the county who can to attend that meeting. Whosoever will let him come.

OUR TRIP TO THE MONROE COMMUNITY

On Thursday of last week we visited the farm of Mr. R. H. Haney near Monroe. We have wanted to visit that part of the country for some time and this was our first opportunity. We found Mr. Haney at home and took a visit over his farm. Mr. Haney now only has a quarter section and thinks smaller farms are the best for the country. Mr. Haney has 25 acres in cotton and 25 acres in feed. He has his land rented out and gives his time to his garden and orchard which are both rather small for the Plains country, but one thing we noticed was that he had some of the finest fruit and truck in the country. Mr. Haney's crop was in fine shape. Only a few scattering weeds and they were being taken out that day. Most of the land was first planted to cotton, but when the party failed to secure a stand on part of the land it was then planted to feed (maize) on July 1st. This crop was fine, very green and growing off nicely and showed no sign of dry weather, as the land was clear of all weeds.

In Mr. Haney's orchard we found something new again. He had planted his peach and apple trees some 8 or 10 years ago. When he planted them he planted them about 1-2 feet in the ground which was up about the first limbs left on the young trees by the nursery, and he has never trimmed a limb off since. His trees had always been sure bearers and is now laden with fine peaches and apples, and the limbs or lower ones, are lying right on the ground, fruit and all, so we found something new under the sun up there. Mr. Haney keeps every weed and other things out of his orchard the whole orchard being as clean as the best yard. He irrigates most all of his trees and has all the fruit he needs and much to spare each year. He says it is wonderful how little land is needed to raise all a family needs to live on when it is irrigated and properly cultivated.

Mr. Haney's garden was the wonder of all. He had flowers and all kinds of vegetables such as peas, beans, cucumbers, tomatoes, etc. His tomatoes were the greatest wonder we have seen. He had only a place 12 by 50 feet. They were so heavily fruited that the vines were all lying flat on the ground. We suggested that he had them too thick. He smiled and said that he had tried to get them well spaced. He had his rows four feet apart and then planted three and one-half feet in the rows. He had planted 48 plants on the plat and only two had died. They had been using them for some time and it looked to us that there was a wagon load ripe on the patch. We tried to approximate the amount the vines, we think, were six inches deep on the land. We have never seen as much fruit on tomato vines in all our travels. Mr. Haney gave us the name of the variety but it has slipped our memory, but we advise anyone wanting to grow tomatoes to see Mr. Haney and get the variety as he ordered them from some grower in the state and he can tell you how to grow them for profit.

Mr. Haney had almost everything we had ever seen growing in that garden. He had melons and cantaloupes growing near his orchard. He has various kinds of peaches. He has six trees of good quality that ripen one each month beginning in May and finishing in October. So he has peaches during the entire season. He says that fewer trees given better attention will solve the fruit problem of the Plains. He thinks we can almost make the Plains like the Garden of Eden in the way of fruit growing.

He also has a small plat of ever-bearing strawberries that have been bearing since early in the spring. He had just gathered them the day before we were there, but we were not too late for them as the good wife had them in abundance in any form we had ever seen them used except possibly in Brandy.

It is simply wonderful how much berries can be grown on a very small place if watered here the Plains. Again we say great are the Plains. We had a very pleasant day at the Haney home which is model in every way and the best part of it was that we were invited to return.

This we will surely do. On this farm was some very fine chickens, but we won't mention this until our next visit. We sincerely wish that all the homes in Lubbock county were up to the standard of the Haney home. They read the Avalanche and congratulated us on the farm page and other good things in the paper. They have read the paper many years before we knew about it.

Miss Lalla Boone who has been teaching in the Fort Sam Houston Normal returned to Lubbock Saturday to visit home folks.

COTTON SAMPLES, TARE, LOSS IN WEIGHT

A correct system of sampling, whereby a true type of the bale of cotton may be obtained, uniformly in arriving at the amount of tare; correct weights are all fundamental to a proper marketing program.

When our cotton crop in reality becomes an article of merchandise and is put on the market to meet actual, and not imaginary demands, these matters will have been solved, but such a program must have the co-operation of the producer, the banker and the spinner.

The matter of obtaining a proper sample of the bale of cotton—that is a sample that must be recognized as a true type of the bale—has been a very perplexing piece of effort.

Any one at all familiar with the system used 'the square box' in packing cotton knows that the sample drawn from the bottom of the bale is seldom ever a representative sample of the whole bale. Low grade cotton showing up on either top or bottom of the bale usually determines the price to be paid for the entire package. Spinners, and we mean large numbers of them, agree that the most favorable sample that can be drawn is a sample drawn during the ginning process, however, a law providing for such a manner of sampling was enacted and, after it had been operative in the state for several years, it was amended, by Legislative Act, after it was found that many ginners and many of the cotton trade also some producers objected to the system. The most outstanding feature of the objections, however, came from those who said the buyer at all times had the right to thoroughly examine the bale of cotton in order that he might definitely know what he was buying. Where cotton is ginned and packed in accordance with statutes relating to the cotton ginning industry, one sample, properly drawn, should be, and could be made, all sufficient for the sale of the bale. In fact where the law is entirely complied with by the ginner, and it is entirely reasonable that it should be obeyed one sampling, done in a proper manner, will be all sufficient, and especially is this true in Texas.

Just why this should be true in Texas it must be kept in mind that the moisture content of the Texas cotton is below the average or natural point, hence there is very little occasion for a loss in weight, more often there would be a gain.

The average bale of Texas cotton carries only about five per cent moisture, whereas the natural or average moisture content is around seven and one-half to eight per cent, consequently where cotton moves from the interior, when the ginner has done his full duty in the operation of ginning and packing, there will be a slight gain in weight, where the sampler's hand has not been too free.

The question of sampling, taking care of the tare, which is always figured in the price to be paid, this being about six per cent, and the question of loss in weight, are matters which should be entirely controlled by those who make the industry possible.

Over taring is being practiced in some places in Texas and this Department is going to watch carefully in an effort to determine the cause and also the point or points.

If a six per cent for tare is deducted in the price paid for the cotton the producer of cotton who is having his bale packed and wrapped with but eighteen to twenty-two pounds of tare is experiencing a tremendous loss and it is our opinion that the cotton buying trade should

LUBBOCK WILL BE REPRESENTED BANQUET STUDENTS AND FORMER STUDENTS A. & M. AMARILLO SAT.

Ray C. Mowery, instructor of vocational agriculture in the Lubbock High School and a graduate of A. & M. College of Texas, will head a delegation of more than thirty five students of the college on a trip to Amarillo Saturday evening, August 30th, to attend the annual banquet of the students and ex-students of the college to be held there.

The banquet program will be concluded before nine o'clock after which time the Aggies will attend a dance to be given for them and the present and former students of A. & M. who will also meet at Amarillo on that evening at their annual banquet.

School loyalty has not been forgotten by the more than forty students and former students of A. & M. who live in the immediate vicinity of Lubbock.

C. E. Maegen, president of the Security State Bank & Trust Company and a former student of A. & M. will attend the banquet, providing he can make arrangements to be away from his work and from the duties as foreman of the Lubbock County Grand Jury which is now in session, according to statements made by a member of the committee making arrangements for the trip.

Former students of the college are to be found in several successful business institutions of Lubbock, the Peters and Haynes architect office being supplied by two graduates, but as to whether or not they can make arrangements to attend the banquet has not been stated. They are busy with the present building program now on throughout the plains and while they are interested in the ex-students organization, it is not certain that they can attend the banquet.

Ed. Gaines, of the Agricultural Experiment Station, Glenn Hunt, Carlisle Tubbs, Everett Bean and Copas Bowen are among those who will attend the banquet.

"Mule" Davis, who will coach the Lubbock High School football team this year will be among those from here to attend the students' banquet. Seniors Jennings, also well known here, contemplates attending. J. T. L. Mullican and Clifford L. Bryan, of the Bryan-Mullican Company, are among the young businessmen who will attend the banquet. Bryan is working energetically in the interest of getting as many of the students from here to attend as possible, and it is a compliment to their school loyalty that both members of the firm of Bryan and Mullican attend the banquet.

PRINCE OF WALES LOSES IN TUG-O-WAR CONTEST

By United News.

ON BOARD THE BERENGARIA, Aug. 28.—There were shakings of feminine heads and sighs of disappointment Wednesday as this ship's passengers gathered for dinner. The Prince of Wales team had lost at tug o' war. Scores of passengers gathered on deck in the afternoon to witness the event. But the prince's team composed largely of members of his party really did not have a chance against the American college athletes who formed the opposition. Fighting pluckily over every inch of polished deck, Wales' pullers were drawn across the dead line in short order. The Prince after a light round of training for the tug, spent most of the day inspecting the ship with the captain. He was much interested in the huge boat's machinery.

Visiting the operating room the prince asked the doctor when the last operation was performed there and was told one was made two months ago. The royal visitor promptly placed his hand on a wooden section of the door.

"I'm touching wood," he said, "I hope there will be none this time."

H. R. H. showed his knowledge of mechanics when he was taking into the printing shop where the ship's daily newspaper is prepared. He went at once to the linotype machine and fully demonstrated to his companions how it worked.

By United News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—Nine of California's eleven congressmen have been returned to their posts, it was indicated Wednesday as returns from Tuesday's primary continued to flow in. Lawrence J. Flaherty, labor leader was victor in the fifth district by a sweeping majority.

Henry L. Carter had apparently captured the republican nomination from James H. McLafferty and will have no opposition in the November general elections, there being no democratic nominee.

Despite indications to the contrary, Governor Richardson is still confident of the success of his "economy" policies. Reports from all parts of the state tend to show that the anti-Richardson faction will have control of the legislature.

DIXON LEADING FOR GOVERNOR IN MONTANA

BUTTE, Montana, Aug. 27.—Governor Joseph M. Dixon forged into the lead in the republican race for the gubernatorial nomination on the basis of returns late Wednesday from Tuesday's primaries.

The count showed Dixon with 12,427 votes to 11,178 for Lee Dennis. This represented returns from about 25 per cent of the precincts in the state.

In the race for republican nomination for senator, Franklin B. Linderman was leading with 9,706 votes to 8,946 for attorney general W. D. Rankin.

RAIN RECEIVED HERE, CROPS GOOD

One and forty seven one hundredths inches of rain has been received here this week, according to a government report made at the Agricultural Experiment Station this morning which is located east of the city limits.

While the weather is still threatening and old timers refuse to make any predictions as to when the present inclement spell will give way to August sun, if indeed the remainder of this month is not spent in cloudy weather, enough rain has been received throughout the cotton growing districts of the plains to insure a bigger crop perhaps than was ever grown in this territory.

Rains at Amarillo, Clovis and as far as Post City to the east have been heavy, with farms in some places between Abernathy and Plainview somewhat damaged by flood waters. According to reports brought to Lubbock by farmers from that vicinity One half inch rain has been received at Tahoka, Brownfield and Seagraves, reports received here show, and speaking of the plains generally instances of crop destruction by rain have been few in number as compared with the thousands of acres of young cotton that will continue growth and produce much heavier yields as a result of these rains.

Farmers of Lubbock county are pleased with the prospects for a great crop, and while some of them are eager for dry weather when they may go into their fields to harvest ripened grain crops, the anticipation of bale to the acre cotton has dispelled all dissatisfaction that might have resulted from the slight damage done the matured feed crops.
