Water rate changes among city council topics this evening

Snyder city council will consider proposed water and sewer rate changes and a request for a water tap outside the city limits at its regular meeting today.

The council meets at 6:30 p.m. at City Hall.

Council members will consider city sewer and water rates proposed by Parkhill, Smith and Cooper in conjunction with the new wastewater treatment plant to be built by the city.

The proposed charges would include a $5.60 base rate for each customer, plus $1.60 per 1,000 gallons of water usage.

Chevron USA is requesting water service for Wesley Dabney, due to contamination found in the water supply on his property west of the city.

At a recent workshop session, council member Jack Greene stated that there is a possibility that the property could not be served by the Union-Fluvanna water system due to the fact that the two services overlap.

A similar request from J.W. Edmondson was recently refused by the council.

Other agenda items to be discussed at the meeting include a request to transfer rights to the Round Top Acres water system from Parks-Walker Land and Livestock company to Farm Credit Bank of Texas.

The city entered a contract with Parks-Walker to provide water to Round Top Acres in 1983. Under terms of the contract, the city must approve any change in ownership of the system.

The council will consider bids received for the purchase of water lines for a project that will replace some 14,300 linear feet of inadequate or deteriorating line throughout the city.

Areas where lines will be replaced include the Belmont Addition in north Snyder, North Towle Addition south and west of the high school, Blankenship Addition in the 2600-2700 block of Avenue Y, and the Colonial Hill Addition in the 2500-2600 block of 31st Street.

Council members will consider (see COUNCIL, page 8)

Jury hands down six indictments

Six indictments, including one for robbery, were handed down by a Scurry County grand jury in 132nd District Court Monday.

Twenty-four-year-old Pamela Yvette James of 3205 Ave. K was indicted on two counts, one for robbery and a second for forgery by making.

James is charged with the April 21 robbery of the local Anthony's store. According to reports, Anthony's employees had watched the woman and suspected her of shoplifting. When she attempted to leave the store, she was confronted and the police were called.

Before the police arrived, the suspect attempted to flee, striking and scratching an employee of the store. The suspect managed to get free and get into a vehicle, which was pulled over by police shortly after the incident.

Bond for the charge was set at $10,000.

James was also indicted on April 14 charges of forgery by making, with bond set at $3,000.

Bruce Wayland Elder, 31, of 1908 Coleman No. 3 is being held on $5,000 bond after being indicted for the April 11 burglary of Midwestern Vacuum on the Clairemont Highway. Cash in the amount of $25 and other items were reported stolen.

Forty-year-old Ruben Gil Bacerra of Duncanville was indicted on charges of felony driving while intoxicated and is being held on $2,000 bond.

The grand jury indicted two other subjects, who have not been arrested at this time.

Sales tax rebates up

Sales tax rebates were up for the month of April in most area cities, including Snyder.

The City of Snyder received $64,910.48, up 3.61 percent from the $62,650.17 received in April of 1991.

Abilene, Andrews, Big Spring, Colorado City, Lamesa, Post, Roby, Rotan, Roscoe, San Angelo and Sweetwater also noted increases in sales tax rebates compared to a year ago.

Scurry County received $42,999.40, up 7.44 percent from the $40,021.27 taken in a year ago.

Year-to-date totals for Snyder show a total of $298,552.88, up 2.05 percent from the $292,569.04 received the first four months of 1991.

Scurry County marked an 8.85 percent increase compared to the first four months of 1991, from $186,596.40 to $203,106.95 received since the beginning of 1992.

April payments include taxes collected on February sales and reported in March by business filing monthly tax returns. Merchants send the taxes to the state comptroller's office with their tax returns. The state keeps its share and returns to cities, counties and other taxing entities their portion of the local sales tax.

A list of area cities and rebates for April follows:

—Abilene received $1,147,597.28, up 6.08 percent from the $1,081,872.46 received during the same month one year ago. The year-to-date total of $5,618,213.69 is up 4.42 percent.

—Andrews received $62,458.18, up 18.06 percent from the $52,905.72 received during the same month one year ago. The year-to-date total of $243,447.90 is up 2.19 percent.

—Big Spring received $209,624, up 12.55 percent from the $186,255.32 received in April of 1991. The year-to-date total of $1,020,632.66 is up 11.36 percent.

—Colorado City received $23,325.50, up .80 percent from the $23,140.50 received one year ago. The year-to-date total of $125,719.52 is up 7.81 percent.

National Anxiety 4th sale grosses $116,000

The top selling lot went to Oregon as Monday's National Anxiety 4th Hereford sale brought buyers from a wide area to Scurry County Ag Annex.

High Country Herefords of Culver, Ore. paid $2,200 for "PPF L1 Markette 9023," a two-year-old cow with a bull calf. The seller was Pied Piper Farms of Hamlin.

Dr. John Oman of Ericksdahl placed the cattle prior to the "Spring Fling Female Sale."

Some 108 lots brought $116,610 at the auction, averaging $1,073. Volume buyers included Smoky Bend Ranch of Mullin, L.C. Martin of Crowley, Atwood Ranches out of Weatherford, Frying Pan Ranch from Colorado City and the Hurd Ranch of Fredericksburg.

Stanley Stout of Linwood, Kan. was the auctioneer.

Forty-five pairs averaged $1,380. Thirty-four bred heifers averaged $984.

In addition, 12 bred cows averaged $890 and 17 open heifers averaged $700.

Helping spot the bidders were Jim Boyd of the American Hereford Association and Journal, Jack Chastain of the Texas Hereford Association and Phil Stoll of the Weekly Livestock Reporter.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Strong opinions are so often based on so few facts."

The high school journalism teacher told us that newspapers were written at the junior high level, so we assume that's what attracted us to the business.

Since we had successfuly completed junior high, news writing must be simple. What we found out however, is that reporters often have to deal with circumlocution. The dictionary defines that as the "use of unnecessarily large number of words to express an idea."

For example:

Pulchritude appears in the epidermis only--Beauty is only skin deep.

On the alternate side of the enclosure the herbage is always more verdan--The grass is always greener on the other side of the fence.

A plethora of Chefs De Cuisine impairs the bouillon--Too many cooks spoil the soup.

To preserve the smallest monetary coin is tantamount to laboring for it--A penny saved is a penny earned.

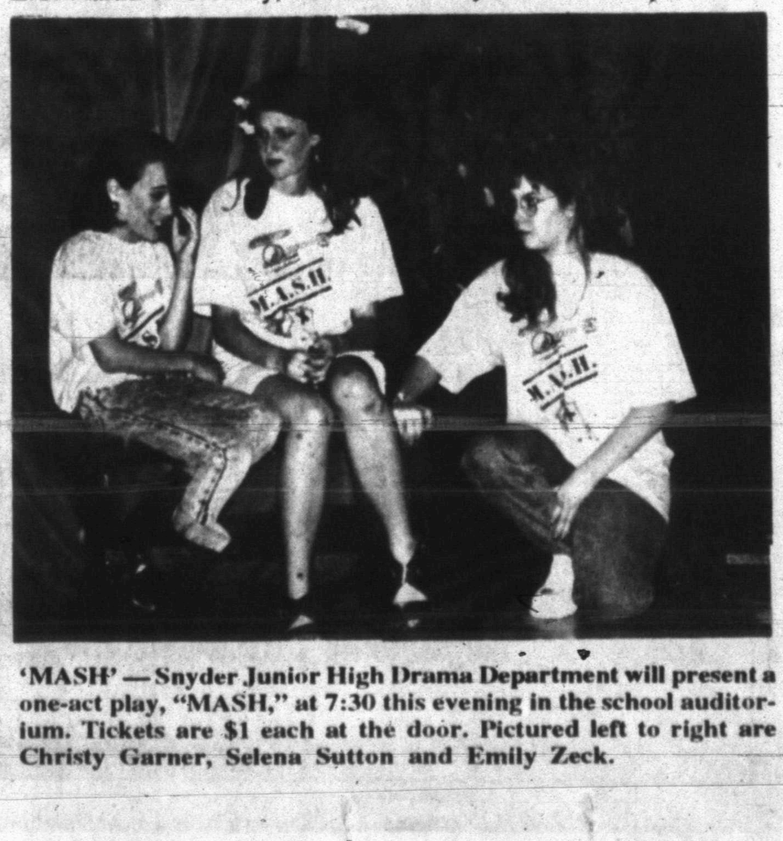

A single decayed edible fruit can contaminate the remaining fruit in the wooden cylindrical vessel--A rotten apple can spoil the whole barrel.

It is impossible to disseminate to a superannuated carnivorous domesticated animal of the Canidae family, knowledge of unprecedented stratagem or maneuvers--You can't teach an old dog new tricks.

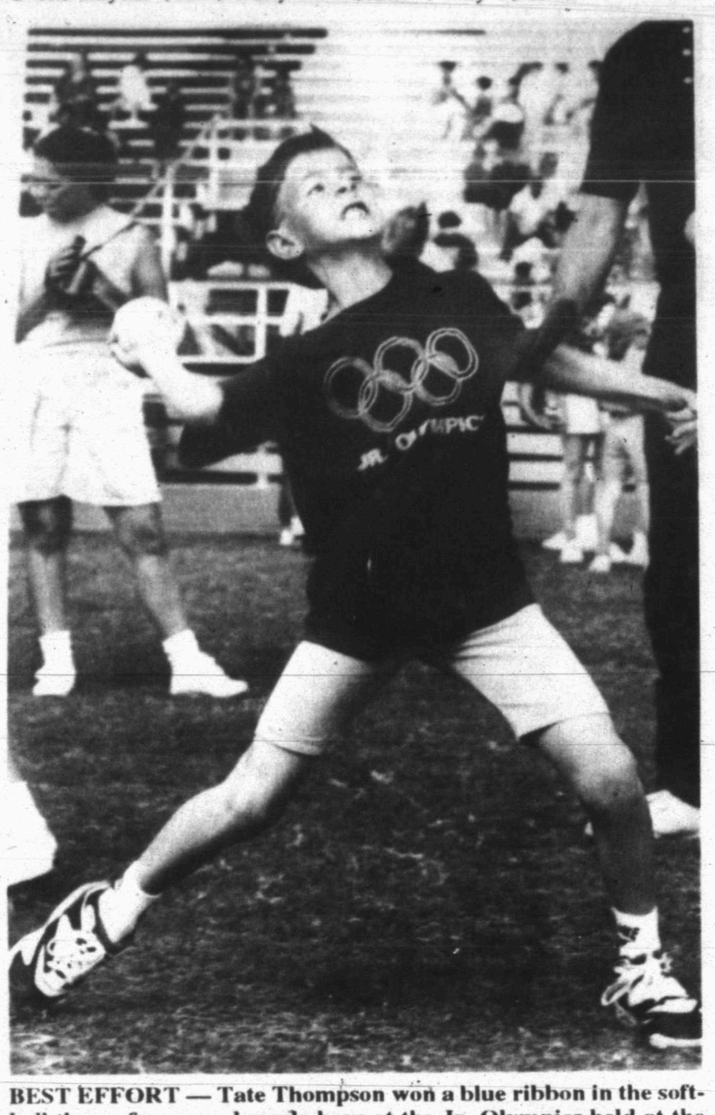

Who counts, ere fractured the shell, his bipedal gallinaceous, is apt to find calculations utterly fallacious--You shouldn't count your chickens before they hatch.

Residents of abodes with primarily vitreous transparencey should refrain from hurling mineralite projectiles--He who lives in a glass house should not throw stones.

Every device is equitable in ardent affection as well as in a state of violence between two or more nations--All's fair in love and war.

Retailers are gearing up for lottery

AUSTIN (AP) — Retailers gearing up to sell lottery tickets say they don't know what to expect when the Texas lottery starts, but many of their customers are anxious for the games to begin.

"It's mind-boggling," Donald Wesselman, the owner of an Austin convenience store, said Monday. "I don't know whether it's going to swamp the rest of the business."

Retailers statewide started training sessions aimed at making sure everything runs smoothly when the instant game, scratch-off tickets go on sale at 6 a.m. May 29.

But lottery operator GTECH Corp. stumbled at the start by giving the retailers incorrect information about where the state share of lottery revenue will go.

At several of the training sessions, GTECH representatives said the revenue will be earmarked for specific purposes, such as education and human services.

In fact, proceeds from the lottery are not designated for any specific purpose. The funds will go into the state's general-purpose revenue fund. State lawmakers decide how those funds are spent.

State lottery officials told GTECH to stop giving out the wrong information.

"GTECH's job is to run the lottery, and not talk about state fiscal matters," said Andy Welch, a spokesman for State Comptroller John Sharp.

At the training sessions, GTECH representatives urged retailers to prominently display lottery signs and the ticket machine. GTECH also urged retailers to train their employees to ask customers, "Would you like to play the lottery today?"

Most purchase decisions are made on an impulse inside a store, GTECH said.

Billionaire urges changes in education

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Potential presidential candidate Ross Perot says bright business people must get involved in public schools to help America regain its competitive edge.

"This is the single greatest legacy, I believe, you can give your children," Perot told the Association for Investment Management and Research on Monday. American children should receive a "classic education" and be taught to adapt to a changing world, he said.

The Dallas billionaire said only 6 percent of 11th-graders can do a simple interest calculation, and that in a worldwide algebra test ranking, the United States finished 14th out of 15, beating only Thailand.

Twenty-five percent of college seniors questioned in Dallas said they didn't know the name of the country on Texas' southern border, Perot said.

He advocated early childhood development centers to give children a good start in life.

"Our only choice is to reach out to them at a very early age," Perot said, adding that most children develop their self-image by the age of 2. He said the cost would be insignificant compared with the cost of welfare and prison space for adults.

Before the education speech, Perot defended remarks he made Sunday on NBC-TV. He said he was not criticizing President Bush when he said he would have responded differently to rioting in Los Angeles.

"I said we all have different styles. So, I'm not criticizing his style at all," Perot told reporters.

Perot had said if he were president he would have flown immediately to Los Angeles and ordered federal charges filed involving four white policemen acquitted in the beating of black motorist Rodney King.

Perot said Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley has done the right thing in choosing former Olympic head and baseball commissioner Peter Ueberroth to oversee reconstruction after last week's violence.

On other subjects, Perot said:

—He is not opposed to "fair free trade," but said a North American free trade agreement should be phased in carefully so that large numbers of American jobs are not lost.

—Petition drives in support of his independent candidacy are going well.

Perot said he still may run for president even if he is not on the ballot in all 50 states. He cited a U.S. News and World Report article last month about reported plans by Republicans to try to keep Perot off the ballot in New York.

"If something crooked and corrupt like that took place even in spite of the best efforts of (my) world-class volunteers, I certainly would not pull back because somebody did something improper," he said.

Former Death Row inmate exemplifies system's loophole

AUSTIN (AP) — The tangled case of a former death row inmate, arrested Monday for questioning in cases involving nine women, exposed a 20-year-old crack in the Texas criminal justice system.

"I think that all of us feel that the system has failed because of the tragic loss of life," said Raven Kazen, spokeswoman for the Texas Pardons and Parole Division.

Kenneth Allen McDuff had been sentenced to death in 1968 for the 1966 murders of three teenagers in Tarrant County.

But his sentence was commuted to life when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in 1972 that the death penalty, as then applied, was unconstitutional.

His death sentence commuted, McDuff became eligible for parole in 1976 and won release in 1989.

Last month, he was implicated by a Belton man in the abduction of Colleen Reed, an Austin woman last seen Dec. 29, 1991, at a carwash. Alva Hank Worley told authorities he and McDuff kidnapped Miss Reed.

Authorities already were looking for McDuff in the March 1 disappearance of Melissa Northrup, 22, a Waco woman taken from a convenience store. Her body was found last month.

Across Texas, crime victims and others had voiced outrage that a man who once was on death row could have been freed and the subject of another manhunt.

"People can argue about whether the death penalty deters crime. It would seem to me that it would've deterred (these)," said Tony Hargrove of People Against Violent Crime.

The Supreme Court's 1972 ruling against the death penalty commuted the sentences of Texas' 127 death row inmates to "life" terms, with parole eligibility after serving 20 years.

By 1976, McDuff had served enough actual time, combined with the "good time" he earned, to become eligible for parole. He received his first hearing before a three-member review board that year, with two favorable votes needed for release.

He didn't get any.

"They (the parole board) are aware of what he did, that he originally received the death penalty," Ms. Kazen said.

Three years after his first hearing, McDuff received a single vote for release. He got one vote five more times before receiving two votes in November 1989. Then, after 17 rejections, McDuff was paroled.

"It was not an easy decision. It was the best that could be made at that time," said former board member Chris Mealy, one of two who voted for release.

McDuff wasn't out long. In 1990, his parole was revoked for allegedly making terroristic threats. He was imprisoned for a few months before parole then was reinstated, Ms. Kazen said.

"Something happened to McDuff from the time he was released until the time he decided to commit new crimes," Mealy said.

"For that, we all are responsible. It is society's responsibility to take some ownership for that," Mealy said. "Unfortunately, no one will take that other than (to) point fingers at the parole board."

The parole board has the task of trying to control a state prison system filled to capacity by releasing selected convicts.

The problem it faces is: Who gets out?

Parole board records show that 59,884 cases were reviewed in 1991.

Of those, 43,905 inmates were approved for release and 41,330 actually were freed. Another 6,111 inmates completed their sentences.

McDuff wasn't the only one of the 127 inmates on death row in 1972 to be freed, Ms. Kazen said.

As of April 1991, 109 of those prisoners were still alive, 53 were in prison, 50 had been paroled, four files were lost and two had jumped parole, Ms. Kazen said.

Of the 53 in prison, 18 had been released on parole and seen it revoked, either for a new offense or because they didn't report to parole officers. Of the 50 others, several had been paroled, reimprisoned and reparoled, Ms. Kazen said.

"It was a law that made him (McDuff) parole eligible. The fact this person became parole eligible was a law and still is in Texas," Ms. Kazen said.

Rep. Parker McCollough, D-Georgetown, has begun a campaign to ask the Pardons and Parole Division to stop early releases and pardons until the Texas Penal Code can be tightened next year.

One intermediate step — less than the death penalty but tougher than a life term — could be life sentences without possibility of parole.

"That's really the direction we're moving," said Sheldon Eklund-Olson, who has written four books on punishment policy and teaches at the University of Texas.

"(McDuff's case) is another very good example of how the politics of punishment are really shaped by a single, dramatic story," Eklund-Olson said.

DEAR DR. GOTT: With so many questions being raised about breast implants, it is important that women have every opportunity to receive the most accurate information about their implants.

There is a new International Breast Implant Registry that doesn't provide medical advice but offers women the option to participate in scientific research aimed at answering our current questions. By doing so, their physicians will be contacted about important product information, as announced by the manufacturer or the FDA.

Further, participants will receive a semi-annual report on implants. Women can register by calling 1-800-892-9211. All names are held strictly confidential.

DEAR READER: I was not previously aware of this resource. Thank you for writing.

To provide further information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Breast Cancer and Disorders." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My wife has been plagued with boils in the groin area, buttocks and underarms. One doctor removed 10 glands from the groin, others have had special remedies that didn't work. Antibiotics have been successful but because of the constant return of boils, it's been unadvisable to take them on a continuing basis. Is there any hope?

DEAR READER: Your wife is probably suffering from repeated staph infections. These bacteria are common inhabitants of the skin and easily enter the pores, where they cause infection that eventually turns into abscesses. This is called furunculosis.

The condition is more common in diabetics and in people with immune deficiencies. However, otherwise healthy individuals may also develop recurrent boils. In my experience, the most effective way of preventing this unpleasant problem is to pay special attention to the skin. Here's what I suggest your wife do:

- Bathe daily with a bacteriocidal soap, such as Dial.
- Avoid undergarments of synthetic material. Use only cotton and launder frequently.
- Do not use anti-perspirants. The aluminum salts in these products may block pores, trapping bacteria.
- See a dermatologist for further advice.

Group calls for boycott of PepsiCo

AUSTIN (AP) — A soft-drink giant that advertises on Channel One, a classroom television program that includes commercials, is the target of a boycott by a Humble group opposing the program.

More than 900 chapters of Citizens for Excellence in Education around the country will be asked to boycott PepsiCo Inc. in a newsletter that goes out June 1, said Kathi Hudson, vice president of the group.

Ms. Hudson describes Citizens for Excellence in Education as a group of parents working to help improve the moral and academic quality of public schools.

Humble Area Citizens for Excellence in Education said it will boycott not only Pepsi soft drink products, but PepsiCo's Frito-Lay, Inc. division; and Taco Bell, Pizza Hut, and Kentucky Fried Chicken, in the holding company's restaurant division.

The soft drinks and pizza are advertised on Channel One, said David Jarrard, a spokesman for Whittle Communications, which offers the program.

"We hope that they'll pull out (as an advertiser), and maybe Channel One will pull out of our schools," said Teri Wotipka of the Humble group.

Singularity is a clue

By Phillip Alder

Sherlock Holmes once said, "You mentioned your name as if I should recognize it, but beyond the obvious facts that you are a bachelor, a solicitor, a Freemason, and an asthmatic, I know nothing whatever about you."

At the bridge table, after a first glimpse at the cards, you can rarely discern quite as much as that about the opponents' hands. But even one clue may be enough to point the way to solving the problem of how to bring home your contract.

Cover the East-West cards and plan the play in four spades. West leads the diamond king: four, 10, three. He continues with the diamond ace: seven, queen, six. When West leads a third diamond, East ruffs and you overruff. You draw trumps, West having a doubleton. You then play off dummy's A-K of hearts, but West discards a diamond on the second round. How do you continue?

Your opening weak two-bid showed a good six-card suit and some 6-10 high-card points.

You were hoping for a 3-3 heart break so that you could obtain a discard for your club queen. West's singleton heart put paid to that idea. Now it looks as though you will need the club finesse to succeed. But is the finesse likely to win? West overcalled at the three-level vulnerable. Surely he has the club king to justify his bid.

However, you aren't without resource. If West has the club king, you can make the hand by playing a club to your ace and exiting with the club queen. West wins and must return a minor-suit card, allowing you to ruff in the dummy and discard your heart loser from hand.

National piano guild auditions in local church

Piano pupils from classes of Lynn Bethel, Donna Ryan, Barbara Mott and Barbara Tune have registered as candidates for membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians, sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, Teacher Division of The American College of Musicians, of which their teacher is a member.

This group of young piano hobbyists will play in the auditions at the parlor of First Baptist Church and strive for pledges, local, district, state, national or even international honors which the mother organization will confer. These winners are in accordance to the number of standard baroque, classic romantic and modern pieces chosen from the masters of pianoforte literature each student can creditably perform in the presence of an imported examiner of note.

From coast to coast, over 117,967 enthusiastic piano pupils of the nations will participate in their annual event being held in 840 music centers of the country.

Beginning at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene in 1929, national headquarters are still maintained in Texas where rules and regulations are available upon request, free of charge, at Piano Guild, Box 1807, Austin, 78767-1807.

Adjudicator for the auditions here, which began Monday, is Janice Bowen of Canyon. Prior to her private piano studio in Canyon, since 1980, she has had studios in Lubbock and Nacogdoches.

A graduate of Hardin-Simmons, she received her master of music from Texas Tech with a major in organ.

She has studied in workshops annually with a number of pedagogy specialists.

In addition to piano classes, since 1985, she had taught Kindermusik classes for preschoolers through the continuing education department at West Texas State University.

Ms. Bowen is active as a church musician and in the Amarillo Music Teachers' Assn. She holds national certification through the TMTA and the national association.

The local judging will continue through May 7.

Hair and drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Law enforcement officers may soon have a new weapon in their efforts to pinpoint illegal drug users — human hair samples.

According to government scientists, the examination of hair samples may join urinalyses as a method of establishing reliable drug abuse evidence.

Researchers say studies have shown that after use, drugs can be detected in hair, giving law enforcers a promising approach for detecting long-term drug abuse and spanning months instead of the few days urine methods allow.

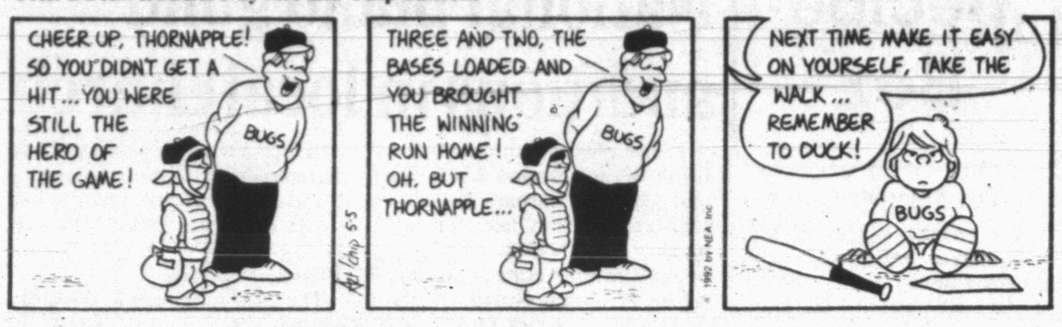

The research is being conducted at the National Institute of Standards and Technology, an agency of the Commerce Department's Technology Administration.

Teaff to step down as BU grid coach

WACO, Texas (AP) — Sometime next November, perhaps in January if Baylor gets to the Cotton Bowl, Grant Teaff will say goodbye to coaching.

It will be an emotional parting for the dean of Southwest Conference football coaches. Just talking about it Monday brought tears to his eyes.

"All I've ever wanted to do since I was 13 was be a coach," Teaff said, tears welling in his eyes. "I thought I'd coach until I was 70.

"But now I have to put behind my own personal feelings. It will be hard. It will be the hardest thing I've ever had to do."

Teaff, 59, bowed to the wishes of school president Herbert Reynolds to become the school's athletic director, replacing the retiring Bill Menefee.

The school has a policy of splitting the two jobs.

Teaff, a Snyder native, had wanted both. Baylor said no.

But Reynolds gave Teaff one concession: He could have both jobs for one year.

"I was hoping somebody would walk through the door that the administration would want for A.D.," Teaff said. "But president Reynolds said he needed me. So, I've pushed aside how much I love the game of football. I'm excited about it. I won't be a cure-all but I think I can do some good. Being athletic director and head football coach really is too big a job for one person."

Baylor interviewed 19 athletic director candidates.

Baylor was 8-4 last year and Teaff's overall mark in 20 years for the Bears is 121-100-6.

Baylor has a 79-71-4 league record under Teaff and won SWC championships in 1974 and 1980.

"We're grateful to Grant for the 20 years he gave us as head coach," Reynolds said. "I can remember back in 1969, 1970 and 1971 when we were 3-28.

"If we got a first down it was something to cheer about."

Then Teaff, who was coaching for Angelo State, replaced Bill Beall.

"I've always had a strong desire to coach and teach young people," Teaff said.

Teaff reached the heights of emotional persuasion before the Texas game in 1974 when he ate a worm to inspire his team before the Bears upset the Longhorns.

His inspirational book, "I Believe" was a big seller.

The hard-driving Teaff was responsible for Baylor upgrading its athletic facilities with a big facelifting of the football stadium.

"The sky is the limit here at Baylor," Teaff said. "We have the capability at Baylor to be as good as anyone."

Teaff's first duty will be to hire an associate athletic director and a head basketball coach. Baylor recently fired basketball coach Gene Iba.

Then Teaff must get an idea of who he wants to hire as his successor.

"I'm not going to let anything distract from us having a great season," he said. "I'm not going to get involved in any speculation about a new football coach.

"Hopefully, we can have someone hired in December. But it may be later. We have a good recruiting network with the Texas high school football coaches and we should be OK there."

When Teaff coaches his final game against Texas next November, he will have become the second longest football coach in tenure in SWC history, second only to Jess Neely who was at Rice 27 seasons.

"I guess that's something," Teaff said.

Snyder hosts Tors in key 2-4A clash

The Snyder Tigers, while not in the District 2-4A baseball playoff chase, will, at least, have a little to say about who wins the 1992 title when Lamesa visits Moffett Field for today's 7 p.m. regular-season finale.

Lamesa and Frenship, both holding 7-2 loop records and both having clinched the district's playoff spots, will vie for the top seeding in the upcoming Class 4A playoffs in a pair of key games today.

Other than the Snyder-Lamesa matchup, Frenship will visit Lubbock Dunbar.

Besides the chance to drop long-time rival Lamesa from the top of the standings, Snyder is in search of its baseball program's 800th win.

Earlier this week, Snyder coach Albert Lewis captured his 300th victory as head coach.

The latest win for SHS was a 10-8 come-from-behind affair at Lubbock Estacado Saturday.

Freshman Reagan Key allowed two runs, two hits, walked three and struck out five in five innings to guide the Tigers out of a 6-1 hole.

The Snyder offense, led by lead-off hitter Bryan Crawford, who reached base five times against the Matadors, exploded for seven sixth-inning runs and completed its first-ever season sweep of Estacado.

Senior David Patrick will start for the Tigers from the hill today. Fellow upperclassman Chad Fox will be available for relief duty.

WHS visits Ira Bulldogs

The Ira Bulldogs will attempt to get back on the winning track today when they host Westbrook in a District 3-A baseball contest in Ira.

Dedication ceremonies for the IHS baseball diamond are scheduled to precede the first pitch of today's 4:30 p.m. contest.

The 'Dogs are 6-4 in their inaugural baseball season, 1-1 since opening loop play, and are coming off an 11-1 three-hit loss to Loraine on Friday.

Westbrook, which played Loraine in an early afternoon matchup Friday, lost to the LHS Bulldogs, 8-3, in its last outing.

Loraine currently owns first place in the league standings with a 3-0 mark.

Ira's 1-1 slate is second followed by Westbrook at 1-2 and Wilson's 0-2.

In today's other game, Wilson, 0-9 on the year, travels to Loraine.

Hoiles rips grand slam to lead O's past Texas

BALTIMORE (AP) — Chris Hoiles hit a grand slam to cap a five-run seventh inning as Baltimore won its sixth straight overall and ninth straight in Camden Yards, beating the Rangers 8-5 Monday. The Orioles' 17-8 start is their best since 1970.

Reliever Alan Mills (2-0) was the winner, pitching five scoreless innings. With the score tied 3-all, Terry Mathews (1-3) walked Devereaux and hit Cal Ripken with a pitch, and Tim Hulett hit a go-ahead single off Floyd Bannister. Todd Burns walked Randy Milligan and Hoiles hit his seventh home run.

Saberhagen stops Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — New York's Bret Saberhagen should want to pitch against the Houston Astros every time he takes the mound.

But he doesn't.

He pitched a six-hitter over eight innings, struck out nine and finally gave up a run to Houston, as the Mets beat the Astros 5-1 Monday night and made it six victories in seven games.

The Astros have scored four runs in four games against the Mets this season, all losses. They've struck out 43 times. The Astros have scored two runs in their last 29 innings.

Jazz ousts L.A. from playoffs

by The Associated Press

For the Utah Jazz, the success of 40 victories in 44 home games was more than enough to balance the disappointment of four first-round playoff losses in six years.

"I know how we are in this building. And I knew we'd do it," said Jeff Malone, who scored 25 points as Utah rallied from a 15-point deficit for a 98-89 victory over the Los Angeles Clippers. It gave the Jazz a 3-2 series triumph Monday night.

For the Boston Celtics, 11 consecutive victories was more than enough to balance one poor performance against the Cleveland Cavaliers.

Robert Parish bounced back with 27 points as the Celtics beat Cleveland 104-98, tying their Eastern Conference semifinal series 1-1.

"He answered every question after he played bad," Kevin McHale said. "He answered questions about being too old. He answered questions about Brad Daugherty being too good for him. Today, he played well and he'll let others do the talking."

Parish sank 13 of 18 shots while helping limit Daugherty to 22 points on 7-for-15 shooting. Daugherty scored only two points in the fourth quarter.

"This was a vintage Boston Celtic win," Cleveland's John Battle said. "They put you away very quietly. They were very cool, calm and collected. They shot the ball extremely well, and our intensity went up and down because of it."

Bulldogs schedule sports banquet

The 1992 Ira High School Sports Banquet is scheduled for May 14 in the IHS cafeteria.

Tickets for the dinner, which will be catered by the Ira FHA girls, are priced at $6 and will be available this week only at the school library.

The banquet will honor athletes in football, basketball, track, golf and baseball.

Youth baseball results

JUNIOR TEENAGE LEAGUE
Buffs 13, Dodgers 8

Extra-bases turned out to be one of the keys to victory Monday as the defending league champion Buffs, led by triples from Greg McAden, Jeremy House, winning pitcher Matt Parker and Trent Owens, downed the Dodgers.

In addition, Curt Rinehart and Timmy Humphrey doubled, John Clinkinbeard hammered two singles and Wayne Braziel, McAden, House and Gene Pollard each singled for the Buffs.

The Dodgers managed just four hits, a double apiece by Patrick Cumbie and Chris Mitchell, and two base hits by losing pitcher Jeff Hobbs.

LITTLE LEAGUE
Yankees 16, Giants 10

The Yankees scored eight runs in the bottom of the fourth inning Monday to take a come-from-behind win in Little League action.

The Yanks, now 4-1, were led by James Shields' single and triple, a pair of two-baggers and a single from Tyrel Sterling, Clay Berryman's three hits and a single each from Casey Doyle and John Border.

Andy Parker paced the Giants with two hits, one for an extra base, and Scott Coward added a double.

Indians 27, Rangers 5

The Indians scored 14 second-inning runs and added 11 in the fourth to coast past the Rangers Monday night.

Winning pitcher Tommy Fields allowed just two hits and contributed a homer and a double to the Tribe's offense.

Johnny Pena knocked a triple and twin singles, Toby Delce had four hits, including a double, Paul O'Connor and Eric Pesina each notched a two-sacker and a single and Banks Alexander rapped a hit.

Ray Jasso tripled and Ben Boyd singled for the Rangers.

FARM LEAGUE
Indians 13, Rangers 10

A six-run burst in the fifth inning Monday led the Indians past the Rangers in Farm League competition.

Winning pitcher Tommy Gordon scattered six hits and slapped a single for the Tribe. Casey Jones tripled, Josh Hudgins hammered two doubles and a single, Billy Burleson lifted two singles and Stevie Gordon, Matt Hammond and John Ortegon were credited with a base hit apiece.

Sean Duncan ripped a three-bagger for the Rangers followed by Timothy Erwin's double and single, two hits by Bebos Martinez and a single each from losing pitcher David Thames and Scott Simons.

Yankees 15, Giants 3

The Yankees downed the Giants Monday behind winning pitcher Britt Taylor and a home run, a double and a single by Cory Chesser.

Matt Preston punched a triple and a double, Mark Rangel belted three hits including one for an extra base, Jacob R. (no last name listed) rapped a double and a single, and Scott Higby managed a double for the Yanks.

In addition, Clay Preston laced two singles while teammates Roman Martinez, and Taylor each singled once.

Justin Rosson led the Giants with a double and a single. Thomas Rinehart, Hadley Vineyard and Manuel Gonzales were good for a hit apiece.

Braves 15, Rangers 14

In Sunday's SDN the Rangers were incorrectly listed as winners over the Braves in a Friday Farm League game. The final should have read, Braves 15, Rangers 14.

8-9 YEAR-OLD LEAGUE
Braves 6, Giants 3

The Braves moved to 4-1 on the 8-9 Year-Old season Monday as Craig Forbes tripled and smacked a single, Chance James doubled and singled and Chris McLeod drilled a two bagger.

Jarod Boyd knocked two singles while Shay Franks, Jon Medrano, Arthur Garza, Tommy Hull, Nathan Hines, Cody Wright, Zac Billingsley and Brodie Pierce got one apiece.

Wes Martin topped the offensive charts for the 1-4 Giants with his double and single. Justin Englert doubled, Bryson Jenkins popped two hits, and J.J. Vasquez, Jason Williams, Martin Villareal, Mark Fields and Miguel Lopez each singled.

Cardinals 8, White Sox 8

The 1-3 Cardinals didn't upset the unbeaten White Sox Monday, but they did score three in the top of the fifth to get the tie.

Dustin Wood slammed a dinger and a single, Adam Lucero and R.J. Hernandez each contributed a double and a single, Brandon Cox ripped a two sacker, Damen Wood laced three hits and Brooks Nunley and Zack Burns each singled twice for the Cards.

Also, Diego Hernandez, Charles Kerry, Chris Hill, Marcus Barboza and Rocky Glover each belted a hit.

The White Sox top hitter was Paddy Vantine who knocked one out of the park and tossed in a single for good measure. Britt Sharrock hammered three hits, one for an extra base, Shawn Childs knocked three base hits, Miguel Infante, Stephen Ortegon, Blake White, James Villareal and Cliff Beights each had two and Matthew Grimmett, Shade Everton and Josh Arnold bumped one apiece.

Quiet day for police

Snyder police enjoyed a relatively quiet Monday, handling routine calls.

At 6:15 p.m., officers were informed that some juveniles were setting off fireworks behind Stanfield Elementary. Officers took the juveniles to the police department, where they were released to their parents. The fireworks were seized by police.

No arrests were made Monday.

FD responds to two fires

Snyder Fire Department responded to two vehicle fires during the past 24 hours.

At 11:10 p.m. Monday, firefighters were called to a transport truck fire on Highway 84, two miles east of Snyder. Damage to the truck, owned by Latco Transport of Groesbeck, was confined to hydraulic brakes and one wheel.

At 7:58 a.m. today, firemen responded to a pickup fire 12 miles west of the city. Heavy damage was sustained to a pickup owned by the Diamond M Ranch.

Fire officials said the fire started in the engine compartment.

Few exceptions noted

ROUND ROCK, Texas (AP) — Charlie Johnson makes few exceptions to the men-only policy at his watering hole.

"We allow a man and his wife to come in here, or a man and his girlfriend if we think they're the right kind of people. What we don't allow is single women looking for pickups," said Johnson, 68.

"The kind of customers I have, I'd have a fight every 30 minutes if I let women in," he said.

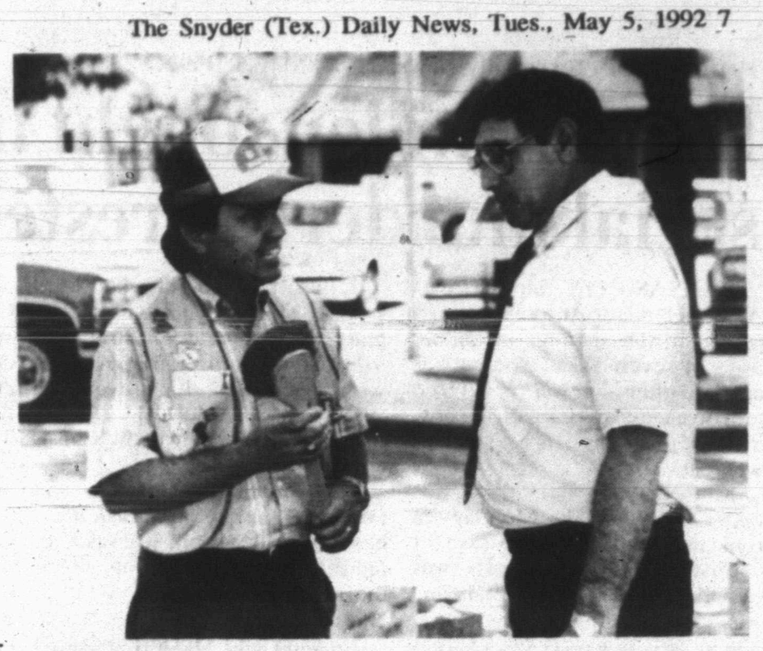

Bar legend has it that the men-only policy began in 1947, after a destructive fracas that was attributed to the presence of women.

Willie Pribble, Austin district supervisor for the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission, said liquor license-holders are allowed to have gender-specific policies as long as they don't constitute illegal discrimination.

"I don't think men-only or women-only is a violation of state or federal discrimination laws," Pribble said. "The only time we can take action is after the civil-rights folks have filed for discrimination."

Hannah Riddering, spokeswoman for the Austin chapter of the National Organization for Women, said, "It doesn't sound like the kind of place I would want to go even if they'd let me in."

Ms. Riddering said she isn't opposed to gender-specific admission, the Austin American-Statesman reported Monday. However, she said, "The problem is that women are allowed in there only if they are somebody's property."

Terry Anderson describes horrors of life in captivity

By Walter Mears
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Annual meetings are not, ordinarily, emotional settings. This one was different. Terry Anderson was home.

So the 1992 annual meeting of The Associated Press was like none before it, an hour in the compelling company of the American hostage held longest in Beirut.

With his reporter's precision, in quiet understatement, Anderson told of the rigors and horrors of his captivity. Asked how he'd survived six years and nine months of it, he began his answer with a question.

"How does anybody survive anything?

" We all find it in ourselves to do what we have to do... People are capable of doing an awful lot when they have no choice and I had no choice ... Courage is when you have choices."

Anderson, the AP chief Middle East correspondent, was kidnapped in Beirut on March 16, 1985, and released last Dec. 4. His appearance at the AP annual meeting on Monday was his first public account of the ordeal since the hectic days just after his release.

For more than four months, he'd been recovering and vacationing on the island of Antigua with his fiancee, Madeleine Bassile, and their daughter, born while he was captive.

An AP man for 17 of his 44 years, Anderson had returned to the embrace of his colleagues in his first days of freedom, but briefly, flying then to his private retreat in the Caribbean.

Now he was back, to speak and soon to write of what happened to him. Beneath the soaring arches and stained glass windows of a Park Avenue church, he answered conversational questions asked him by AP President Louis D. Boccardi.

Does he hate the Shi'ite Moslem extremists who seized him and held him in chains?

"I have no room for it, I have no time for it. My hating them, feeling bitter toward them, is not going to hurt them an ounce. It's only going to hurt me and I'm not going to do that."

Still, there was satisfaction in his release with no bargain or barter. "I am very happy to say that I don't think my captors got anything out of it," Anderson said.

The AP meeting was held at St. Bartholomew's Church so that there would be room for all the publishers, editors and guests who crowded every pew. It was opening day of the American Newspaper Publishers Association convention at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, a block away.

The site fit, too.

Anderson spoke of the strength his Roman Catholic faith had given him in captivity, of reading the Bible, perhaps 50 times over. "I think I know it pretty well by now..."

And in scores of churches over the long years of imprisonment, there had been services, prayers and petitions for his freedom, on all six anniversaries of Anderson's kidnapping, and on each of his birthdays in bondage.

Then again, being in church may have toned down the language when Boccardi asked Anderson to describe his first thoughts after being seized at gunpoint.

"Can I paraphrase them?" Anderson asked.

"In deference to our meeting site, you'd better," Boccardi said.

"I knew that I was in deep trouble," Anderson understated.

He told of being pushed down, hard, to the floor of an automobile, shrouded in a blanket. "The man in the front seat leaned over the back and said, 'Don't worry, it's political.' "

Often, he said, his captors had told him he'd go home soon. "I never believed it."

Anderson told of being chained hand and foot to a cot for the first 31/2 weeks; of being wrapped in plastic tape, head to foot like a mummy, when the hostages were taken from one location to another.

He thought of suicide, he said, but rejected the idea. He saw no opportunity for escape, at least none "worth the things I'd have to do," which would have included killing at least one guard. He told of locking his own leg irons when the guards forgot, lest they blame him and punished him.

Anderson said he and the other hostages with whom he was held fantasized about a strike force that would sweep in and free them, but knew that couldn't happen, and actually feared the prospect. "The drill was if anybody came in the door, we were dead."

In the end, as his captors prepared to release him, their leaders told him they were sorry but insisted his captivity had been necessary. Anderson said he replied that it had not.

"They told me that I was welcome in Beirut, that I'd be perfectly safe," Anderson said.

"You're not going back," Boccardi said.

Anderson's next stop is a Thurday night dinner at the Freedom Forum, in Arlington, Va., just outside Washington, to receive its first Free Spirit Award — and $245,500. That's $100 for each of the 2,455 days he was held hostage.

Anderson has accepted a fellowship at the forum's Media Studies Center at Columbia University, and will spend the next year there, writing a book to be published in the fall of 1993.

He said he's made no decisions about his future beyond that. "We have a year to think about it," he said.

Anderson paused before adding, to Boccardi, on the prospect of returning to his AP career, "You've made the best offer so far."

Paroled killer sought in possible serial murders arrested Monday

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A former death row inmate suspected in the slayings or abductions of seven Texas women was arrested after a viewer recognized him on a television detective show and tipped police to his whereabouts.

Kenneth Allen McDuff, 46, was taken into custody Monday en route to a landfill to dump trash for a private waste hauler. He was turned over to U.S. marshals and was scheduled for arraignment today on two Waco, Texas, charges — distribution of LSD and being a felon in possession of a firearm.

"Kansas City Police arrested him based on a tip received in connection with the broadcast of America's Most Wanted last Friday night," said William Dempsey, public affairs officer for the U.S. Marshal's Service in Washington, D.C. "That (tip) was pursued and he was arrested."

McDuff had been sought since disappearing days before a March 9 arrest warrant was issued by his parole officer in Texas.

Police said several of his victims were believed to be prostitutes.

Sgt. J.D. Johnson of the Kansas City Police Department said he first heard about McDuff on Sunday from a source who had seen a profile of him on the TV show. The source told him McDuff resembled a man named Richard Fowler who worked for a local trash hauler.

Johnson said he checked local records Monday and found police had arrested Fowler on April 10 in a decoy prostitution sting. A check with Waco authorities revealed a fingerprint for McDuff in Texas matched one for Fowler in Kansas City.

The source told Johnson that Fowler would be on a trash truck heading to the south Kansas City landfill Monday afternoon, so authorities planted a state commercial inspection truck on the route.

Johnson said McDuff appeared ready to run when the truck was flagged down but decided to cooperate when he saw the officers.

"We had the guy out of the truck, in handcuffs and on his way in less than 60 seconds. Everything was just perfect," Johnson said.

He initially denied he was McDuff but later admitted his identity, Johnson said.

U.S. Marshal Larry Joiner said he did not know how long McDuff had been in Kansas City or why he was there.

City police and three federal agencies — the marshal's service, the Drug Enforcement Administration and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms — participated in the investigation, Joiner said.

"It's an example of law enforcement agencies working together. It proves the value of programs such as 'America's Most Wanted,'" he said.

Also Monday, the McLennan County Sheriff's Department in Waco, Texas, issued a warrant charging McDuff with killing Valencia Joshua, 22. Her body was found March 15, buried behind the Texas State Technical Institute campus where McDuff lived, Deputy Richard Stroup said.

McDuff had been sentenced to death in 1968 for the 1966 murders of three teen-agers in Tarrant County in Texas. But his sentence was commuted to life when the U.S. Supreme Court found in 1972 that the death penalty, as then applied, was unconstitutional. He was paroled in 1989.

In July 1990, McDuff was wanted for making terroristic threats. His parole was revoked, and he returned to prison that September although he was cleared of the charge. On Dec. 18, 1990, he was paroled for a second time.

He had been living in a dormitory at TSTI before disappearing in March.

McDuff also has been implicated in the abduction of Colleen Reed, 28, who vanished Dec. 29 from an Austin, Texas, carwash.

McDuff also was wanted for questioning about a 22-year-old Waco convenience store clerk whose bound body was found floating April 26 in a gravel pit in southeast Dallas County in Texas. Melissa Ann Northrup had been missing since March 1.

Mike Tyson faces disciplinary hearing

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Boxer Mike Tyson was placed in a special cell and faces a disciplinary hearing after threatening a member of the staff at the prison where he is serving a rape sentence, authorities said today.

Tyson was placed in a segregation cell at the Indiana Youth Center west of Indianapolis and will remain there at least until the hearing later this week, a terse statement from the Indiana Department of Correction said.

Tyson was removed from the general prison population after the incident occurred about 10 p.m. Monday, said the statement. It was signed by corrections department spokesman Kevin Moore and read by a prison guard.

"This action was taken as a result of an alleged threat against a staff member," said the statement. "Tyson has been segregated in a single cell pending the outcome of a disciplinary hearing to be held later in the week."

The statement provided no other details about the incident.

The incident was revealed by a prisoner, James Bell Yager, who called The Associated Press and said Tyson had threatened to "whup" a guard he had a dispute with and eight other guards. He said the dispute began when the guard told Tyson to keep moving when Tyson stopped to shake hands with another prisoner.

Yager, who has criticized prison officials for what he alleges is preferential treatment of Tyson, did not indicate whether he personally witnessed the incident.

While confirming a threat had been made, the prison officials refused to say whether it was indeed a guard or guards who had been threatened. In the past, they have said that Yager's statements about Tyson have not always been accurate.

The former heavyweight champion was sentenced to six years in prison for the rape of a Miss Black America contestant in his hotel room last July. His case is under appeal.

New study questions mammograms

BOSTON (AP) — A highly controversial study found women in their 40s who got annual mammograms were more likely to die of breast cancer than those who had only physical exams, but the finding could have been a matter of chance, a researcher said today.

Dr. Sam Shapiro of Johns Hopkins University, an adviser to the study, said he reviewed data from the large Canadian study two weeks ago as its authors prepared their findings for publication.

"There was a differential in that direction," he said, referring to higher mortality among screened women. "It was not statistically significant."

He declined to reveal how much higher the death rate was among the women getting mammograms. Last month, the magazine Diagnostic Imaging cited "unconfirmed reports" that the study showed women in their 40s who got annual mammograms were 50 percent more likely to die of breast cancer than women who did not.

Findings of studies such as these are not considered to be statistically meaningful if there is more than a 5 percent chance that they occurred by chance.

The Canadian study has been the subject of rumors and speculation for months, in part because it challenges one of the most fervently held beliefs of radiologists: Mammograms prevent cancer deaths. Many have called the study flawed and worry it will scare women away from the breast X-rays.

Critics say the notion that mammograms increase the risk of breast cancer soon after they are given does not make sense. Radiation exposure from mammograms is extremely low, and radiation takes many years to cause cancer.

The Canadian researchers speculated that the squeezing of the breast in the mammography machine might force cancer cells from tiny tumors into the bloodstream, speeding their spread.

But Dr. Daniel Kopans, director of breast imaging at Massachusetts General Hospital, countered that such squeezing would clamp blood vessels shut, having just the opposite effect on cells.

He and others said that for some reason, women with advanced but undetected breast cancers were more likely to get mammograms than physical exams, and that could account for the higher death risk.

LA: shots fired, no injuries as dusk-to-dawn curfew lifted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles' nightlife revived under the gaze of thousands of rifle-toting troops as the mayor lifted the dusk-to-dawn curfew imposed at the height of the nation's bloodiest riots since the Civil War.

Shots were fired at National Guard troops from a car at a South Central intersection and at a mall in suburban Culver City early today. No one was hurt and troops did not return fire, said Marine Warrant Officer Hartman Slate.

"The troops hear shots occasionally, but unless the rounds are nearby they don't report it anymore," Slate said. "This has been an incredibly boring night — which is great."

"I feel good about today and I hope that all of us can sense that feeling that things are coming back into line again," Mayor Tom Bradley said Monday.

On Monday night, motorists cruised Sunset Boulevard, past the open-for-business Coconut Teaszer and Rainbow Club nightclubs and the Laugh Factory. Spago's was filled with diners, and the Rage club was jammed, music blaring.

Theater marquees were lit and pedestrian and street traffic was close to its weeknight normal in the Westwood district, which was struck by looting last week.

The sense of normalcy was constricted by the 7,100 National Guardsmen, Marines and police on patrol.

Los Angeles' curfew was imposed Thursday, a day after riots erupted with the acquittals of four white policemen in the videotaped beating of black motorist Rodney King. Curfews remained in effect in Long Beach and Signal Hill.

The three days of rioting left 55 people dead, nearly 2,400 injured and more than 12,000 arrested. Damage was put at $717 million. Fires destroyed or heavily damaged more than 5,500 buildings in Los Angeles County.

It was the nation's bloodiest unrest since the 1863 Civil War draft riots in New York City killed about 1,000 people.

Few people were out on the streets Monday night in hardest-hit South Central Los Angeles. In some areas, entire blocks were silent, stores and gas stations were closed or boarded up, and many street lights were out.

Intersections remained blocked off, and National Guardsmen patrolled, especially around police stations.

Several newspapers reported today that police retreated from rioters at the start of the unrest last Wednesday, giving the mob free reign.

The Los Angeles Daily News said an elite police SWAT team was ordered to retreat from the intersection where the riot began, only minutes before a truck driver was savagely beaten there.

And the Los Angeles Times reported that before the rioting started, at least 20 patrol officers backed down in a confrontation with perhaps 50 gang members near that same intersection.

Top police officials, including Chief Daryl Gates, declined to comment on the reports. But Lt. Paul Pesqueira, an aide to the commander of the South Bureau, said officers withdrew to avoid antagonizing the crowds.

"I think the position we had initially was that maybe if police weren't visible, then they couldn't be targets," Pesqueira said.

The mayor demanded an explanation for the slow police response to the uprising. Gates was attending a fund-raiser as the unrest spread, and some trouble spots went unpatrolled for hours.

"When the chips were down, the emperor had no clothes," said City Councilman Zev Yaroslavsky. "I don't understand why two hours could go by while on citywide TV we're watching a guy getting beat up, many people getting beat up, and seeing no police in the area."

Gates didn't return a call Monday, but on Sunday he said he regretted attending the fund-raiser.

Hundreds of thousands of children returned to classes Monday, the commuter freeway crunch resumed and workers disappeared into skyscrapers.

Postal service resumed, and buses and trains also were running. Los Angeles International Airport was running near normal, although night flights approached from over the ocean to avoid the risk of gunfire.

Residents whose neighborhood markets were gutted formed long lines for bags of donated groceries.

Brown proposes arts festival

NEW YORK (AP) — James Brown wants to hold an arts festival here this summer to "make people feel good" and keep the peace after the Rodney King verdict.

The Godfather of Soul met with Mayor David Dinkins on Monday after calling to congratulate him for keeping New York relatively peaceful while Los Angeles and other cities erupted in violence after the verdict.

"You would think it would come out a lot worse here. It makes me feel good and proud," said Brown, whose signature song is "I Got Your (I Feel Good)."

The specifics of the arts festival are being worked out by Brown and the mayor's office.

"Instead of making savage beasts, we'll save the soul of humanity," the 59-year-old singer said.

Brown got out of prison a year ago after serving two years for leading police on a car chase.

Uniform planting date key to keeping check on boll weevil damage

The 12th Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) sign up will be June 15 through June 26. Producers who are interested in placing eligible land in the 10-year grass program must submit a bid during this two week period.

The rains have not only been good for grass but also for weeds. All CRP particpants are reminded of their responsibility to control weeds on CRP acreages. We will be visiting every CRP farm in the county during the year to ensure that control measures are being carried out.

The final normal planting dates for grain sorghum and cotton in Scurry County is June 20th. You are not prohibited from planting after this date; however payment yield reductions could apply on late planted crops. You will be required to replant any failed acreage back to the crop, through the final planting date, if you want payment of history credit.

There have been some changes affecting ACR and Paid CU eligibility and requirements for 1992. There are no cover crop requirements for 1992. To be eligible for ACR or CU for pay, the area must hve been devoted to a small grain, row crop, or other annually planted crop, or designated for ACR or CU for pay in 1 of the last 5 years.

The land designated for ACR and CU for pay must also meet the minimum size and width requirements of 5.0 acres in size and average at least 1.0 chain (66 feet) wide. The exceptions are those cases where the farm's requirement is less than 5 acres or the last plot needed to complete the requirement is less than 5 acres. Whole fields of less than 5 acres are also acceptable but it must be a whole field.

Area from terrace top to terrace top do not meet the definition of a field. A four row skip in an established uniform skip row pattern is acceptable as ACR or CU for pay.

CU for pay acreage can also be in blank rows such as 2x1 or 2x2 in cotton. Contiguous and noncontiguous strips, including end rows that are at least 33 feet wide and are required by a conservation plan, are also eligible for ACR ad CU for pay. If a conservation plan is not required, then the 33 foot wide strips must be planted to a perennial cover.

The final date to place 1991 crop cotton or sorghum in the CCC loan is June 1. This will also be the final date to request Loan Deficiency Payments or OPO payments on 1991 crop cotton.

If excess ACR is a result of a producer certifying more acreage than is required, the excess acreage cannot be revised or reclaimed for other uses. Producers must understand that any acreage certified as ACR must remain ACR for the duration of the crop year.

James F. Lesser
Extension Entomologist,
Lubbock

The 1992 cotton season is upon us and planting fever is running pretty high across the country. Warm temperatures, good underground moisture and the memory of last year's late crop are providing all the encouragement farmers need to plant early.

But wait! What about the boll weevil situation? Weevils are emerging from their long winter rest in very high numbers and entomologists across the Rolling Plains area are predicting higher numbers of weevils in cotton fields this year than we've seen since 1989.

Traps monitored by Julian Jones the week of April 20-24 were catching over five times more weevils this year compared to last year. This trend was continuing into the second week of trapping. While these weevils won't survive to lay eggs in squares, their high numbers do indicate the magnitude of the potential problem we are going to face later on.

Survival of weevils during the winter of 1990-91 was actually higher than this past winter, because of the better food supply late in the growing season. But more weevils went into overwintering habitat at the end of the 1991 season than did the previous year. This means that we should have 2-3 times more overwintered weevils in our cotton this year.

The good news may be that the poorer food supply last year may cause weevils to emerge earlier than last season. The bad news is that historically when high numbers of weevils overwinter, there are often two peaks of emergence.

The first and largest occurs at the usual time during the last week of May to the first week of June. The second smaller peak often occurs mid to late June. This second peak could be a real problem.

The suggested planting date for weevil management in Scurry County is set for May 15. Fields planted on or after this date will not have squares of sufficient size for weevils to develop in until after peak overwintered weevil emergence has occurred.

If you farm in an area that historically has weevil infestations during problem years, adherence to this planting date is strongly recommended. I believe this year's potential weevil problems are real enough to have considerable weight in making planting date decisions.

Dryland cotton producers cannot afford to get into a protracted insecticide control effort against weevils. The margin for profitability just isn't there.

The Uniform Delayed Planting Date is a tool that often will prevent the need or at least minimize the need for later insecticide applications. There probably still will be some instances this year where overwintered weevil control will be necessary and will pay. This management topic will be discussed at a later date.

Ask working parents about their jobs, and you'll get a good, long answer. Ask them about their children, and you'll get a rhapsody. Ask them about their marriage relationships, and you'll probably get a long, blank stare. The dual impasse of work and parenthood often leaves intimate relationships at the bottom of a long list of family responsibilities.

Most couples agree that there's no way your sexual life will remain spontaneous and regular once you've had kids. Work, community life, religious activities and extended family responsibilities are but a few of the factors that create fatigue or lessen opportunities for intimacy.

David Olson, a family specialist at the University of Minnesota, says that it's important to find quality time with kids, but it's more important to the family as a whole to find quality time with your partner. He found that the couples who identified their marriage relationship as a top priority were the couples who were best able to cope with the normal stresses they encountered.

The good news about intimacy, work and parenthood is that it can all be done. But it can't be done without thought, effort, love and mutual effort. A good sense of humor helps, too.

Don't trim trees now

COLLEGE STATION — Unkempt tree limbs may be unsightly since leaves have popped out but experts warn that trimming now could cut into tree health.

"If you're tempted to prune now, don't," said Dr. Jerral Johnson, Texas Agricultural Extension Service plant pathologist. "A lot of oak wilt disease can be prevented if the trees aren't wounded."

Oak wilt, first confirmed on Texas trees in 1964, is a fungal disease that can race through Spanish, blackjack or live oak groves in root systems or by sap-feeding beetles. Infected trees may die in three weeks to six months.

Johnson said oak wilt has been found in 44 Texas counties — most recently in Midland County. He said up to 95 percent of the disease's spread can be traced to root systems of infected trees. But in areas like Midland where oaks are not as prevalent, the disease has spread from infected firewood trees with open wounds such as pruning cuts.

"All firewood that comes from an infected part of the state should be covered with clear plastic," Johnson recommended. "That causes the area under the plastic to heat which kills both the fungus and the beetles that transport the spores."

Dairyman to head state beef council

A dairyman will head the state beef council in the nation's largest cattle producing state during 1992-93.

Calvin Buchanan of Decatur, who represents Texas dairy interests on the 13-member Texas Beef Industry Countil board, was elected Texas BIC president April 22 in Fort Worth. The Texas BIC is one of 44 state beef councils that administer the $1 per head beef checkoff in their respective states.

Buchanan succeeds S.M. True Jr., of Plainview, who will remain on the board's executive committee.

The board also elected Lucille Sterling of Colorado City president elect, and Harlan Huffman of McGregor secretary-treasurer. Sterling represents Texas CattleWomen and Huffman represents the Texas Farm Bureau.

Buchanan operates a 600-head Jersey dairy operation near Decatur. He has been a member of the southern region board of Associated Milk Producers, Inc., for seven years, and is presently second vice president of AMPI's Texas division. He also serves on the southern region board's quality control and transportation committees. He was appointed to the Beef Board in 1986. He has also served as a director of the Meat Board.

Sterling and her husband, J.M., run a commercial cattle operation in Mitchell, Borden, Scurry and Howard counties. She is past secretary of American National CattleWomen and past president of Texas CattleWomen. She also serves on the operating committee of the Beef Board and serves as chairman of its foreign marketing committee.

McGregor rancher Harlan Huffman operates cow-calf and stocker cattle in Coryell and McClennan counties. He is the state director on the Texas Farm Bureau board representing 15 counties in Central Texas. He also serves on the Meat Board's public relations committee and is its appointee to the National Cattlemen's Association's PR committee.

The Texas BIC board's executive committee will include the three officeers, Past President S.M. True Jr. and Don Jobes Jr. of Houston. Jobes serves on the Texas BIC board representing the Purebred Alliance of Texas. He also is a vice president of the Houston Livestock Show.

The Texas BIC board also seated three new directors. Hilmar Moore of Richmond and Chaunce Thompson Jr. of Breckenridge will serve as representatives of Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association (TSCRA), They replace James B. Owen of Tyler, whose Texas BIC term expired, and Jim Eller of Bryan, who resigned. Also named to the board was Bob Nunley of Sabinal representing the Independent Cattlemen's Association (ICA). Nunley replaces Roy Wheeler of Pleasanton whose term also expired.

Superior varieties of tomatoes are being offered now

LUBBOCK — Wind tolerant, "fireproof" tomato varieties are what West Texas tomato gardeners pray for, and this year those prayers have been partly answered, says a vegetable specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Three superior new tomato varieties — Spitfire, Surefire and Santiago — which proved their merits in extension service tests here the last two years, are commercially available this season.

The new varieties were tested in Lubbock County Extension demonstrations in 1990 and 1991 as FMX-157, GS-12 and NVH 4465. "Now that these new introductions have names, and seed is available to plant growers at nurseries and greenhouses, gardeners can be encouraged to plant them," said Dr. Roland Roberts, Extension Service vegetable specialist.

"Concentrated fruit set, early maturity, heat-tolerant ability to set fruit, thick-walled small juicy fruit, good leaf cover to prevent fruit sunburn, and disease resistance are traits you will see in Surefire and Spitfire," says Roberts.

Community leaders urge justice at TSU rally

HOUSTON (AP) — Houstonians should use the Los Angeles riots and Rodney King verdict as a springboard for addressing underlying social inequities, speakers at a "rally for justice" have said.

"There are solutions that we can do right now. What's happening in Los Angeles should motivate us," said chemist James Garland, 33, one of up to 3,000 people who attended the two-hour rally Monday night at a Texas Southern University arena.

"We need to reinvest in our communities," he said.

Community leaders deplored the acquittal of four white police officers in King's videotaped beating and urged a push for a more equitable justice system.

"It seems to me that the Rodney King case can have a meaning far beyond itself, that it can be a watershed time for us to look at our society and see what can we do to make life better, what can we do to make life fairer," Mayor Bob Lanier said.

Al Green, president of Houston's chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, called for the abolition of single-race juries. The NAACP distributed voter registration cards to the crowd.

"The truth is, even though the verdict in the Rodney King case may have been legal, it was wrong," Green said. "The laws of morality dictate that what was done to Rodney King was wrong."

The mostly black audience at the meeting was peaceful, except for an incident in which a man was hustled out by security guards when he accused Lanier of condemning violence while Houston police commit acts of brutality.

"Yes, it is right to rebel against this bloody system," yelled Travis Morales, who said he is a supporter of the Revolutionary Communist Party.

However, Morales later returned to the rally and said he was not arrested.

Green and others also cited Houston police brutality in the deaths of Ida Lee Delaney and Byron Gillum, both black, who were killed in separate police shootings within weeks in the fall of 1989.

"When we allow that injustice in this place to go unchecked, we are a party to the perpetrators of injustice in other parts of the country," Green said.

Capt. Jarrel Caldwell, of the Harris County Constable Precinct 7 office, called King's beating unwarranted and "a disgrace to every law enforcement officer across this country."

"What you observed was a group of renegade officers with no morals who had absolutely nothing on their mind other than causing harm to an individual," Caldwell said. "Please don't take that as what law enforcement is all about."

The crowd gave its most enthusiastic support to Robert Muhamad, a Houston leader of the Nation of Islam, who said the unrest in Los Angeles had roots that began in centuries of slavery.

Clever Verse Can't Be Stretched Into a Limerick

By Abigail Van Buren

1992 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: "Ollie in Orlando" sent you an amusing verse that he described as a limerick. I quote:

"Heartbeats stay at a normal rate
"When one beds down with a legal mate
"But roosting in another's nest
"May lead to cardiac arrest."

Abby, it is amusing, but it is not a limerick. For your information, a limerick is a five-line humorous verse in which the first, second and fifth lines rhyme with each other — and the third and fourth lines also rhyme with each other. The third and fourth lines are always shorter, as they contain fewer metric feet than the other lines.

Any verse that does not follow that pattern, however clever it may be, is simply not a limerick; it is a verse.

FRANK IN OREGON

DEAR FRANK: Frankly, even though I have appreciated limericks for a very long time, I paid little attention to their construction. However, after a little research, I gathered a few interesting facts about limericks.

The limerick was named for the city of Limerick in Ireland, which is the third-largest city in the Republic of Ireland. (Only Dublin and Cork are larger.) No one knows who originated the limerick, but in 1846, Edward Lear (no relation to Norman) popularized limericks in the book he published titled "A Book of Nonsense." The following is a typical limerick by Edward Lear:

There was a lady of Wilts,
Who walked up to Scotland on stilts;
When they said it is shocking
To show so much stocking
She answered, "Then what about kilts?"

DEAR ABBY: So you appreciate limericks? I do, too. Here's one that my best friend sent to me back in 1922:

There was a young man from Amazon
Who put nighties of his gramazon
The reason was that
He was too fat
To get his own pajamazon.

DEAR ABBY: This is my favorite limerick:

There was a young don from Trinity
Who solved the square root of infinity
While counting the digits
He was seized by the figits
Dropped science and took up divinity.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SINGLES AGE 40 AND OVER: Don't panic — get "You Can't Hurry Love" by Laurie Levin and Laura Golden Bellotti, published by Dutton. It's a wonderfully reassuring book filled with case histories of those who found love after 40. It's funny, it's honest and it's helpful.

Governor says government abdicated its responsibility

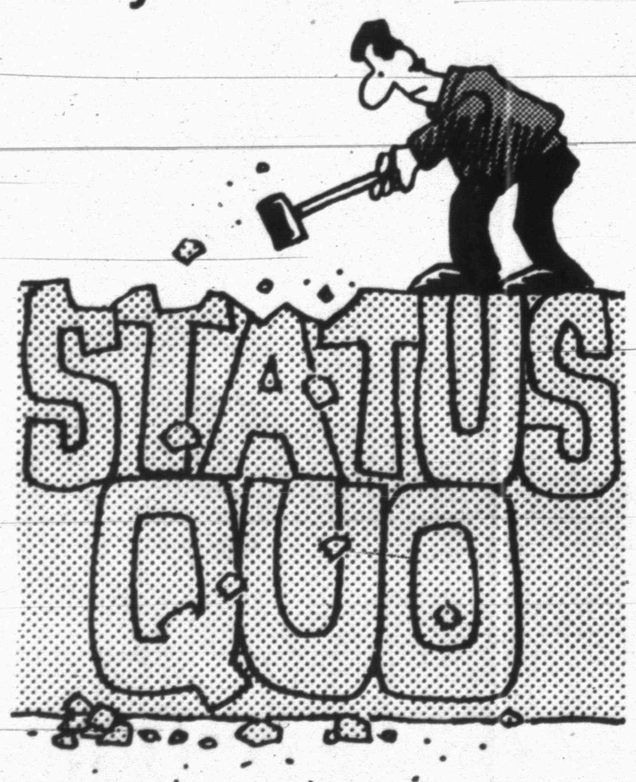

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards discussed the racial violence in Los Angeles with Texas religious leaders and says the federal government has "abdicated its responsibility," so state officials must show the way.

"We are going to begin here in Texas to try to develop an agenda that we think can be emulated at the federal level," Richards said. "We don't see the leadership that's necessary coming from that level."

Richards and the clergy on Monday voiced the fear that violence could erupt in Texas. As in Los Angeles, Richards said, such an outburst would catch Texas cities off guard.

"We think the city of Los Angeles was unprepared for the crisis that took place there — and we think that cities of Texas will be equally unprepared because we have not built a basis of brotherhood and dialogue with the communities that must be built," she said.
