Blast Kills Miners

GLACE BAY, Nova Scotia (AP)-An explosion rooked a coal mine in this Cape Breton town early today, killing at least 10 miners and injuring six others, the mine operator reported. It said no one was trapped in the mine.

The blast occurred while an estimated 150 men were working the night shift. The mine is operated by the Cape Breton Development Corp., a government corporation that runs the coal mines in Nova Scotia's Cape Breton region.

To Export Oil Again

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)-Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary government took action to reclaim $21 billion it says Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, his family and friends took out of the country. It also announced today it will resume oil exports within 15 days.

Blumenthal Arrives

PEKING (AP)-Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal has arrived in China for talks that were planned to center on U.S-Chinese economic relations but now will deal with war and peace in the Far East as well.

In an interview during the flight, Blumenthal said the invasion of Vietnam should not interfere with the development of good relations between the United States and China.

The SDN Column

We came across this story about the fellow whose riding lawnmower broke down and he worked fruitlessly on it for two hours trying to get it going again.

A neighbor appeared on the scene with a complete kit of tools. In 20 minutes he had the mower functioning as it should. After thanking the neighbor, the man asked, "What do you make with such a fine set of tools?"

"Mostly friends," was the reply.

Neverlessless, we feel that we should remind that the tools alone are not sufficient.

Back in the days of "hot type" here at the SDN, we had a machinist who took considerable pride in his dexterity in the manipulation of tools. The only trouble was: he didn't know when to put them away. We remember the day when a balky Linotype machine seemed to be operating perfectly at last. It was almost a time for celebration. The machinist stood beside the old Linotype with pride glowing in his eyes---for a few minutes, that is.

Then he grew restless. He would listen to the machine as it turned out type, line after line. And he looked closely at some of the complicated mechanism that was visible from the outside.

Finally, he could stand it no longer. He whipped out a screwdriver and approached the machine.

"What are you going to do?" the operator asked.

"I'm going to see if I can find out what's making this machine run so smoothly," said the machinist.

He never did, and it never did again.

The following "Beatitudes of a Leader" are attributed to an unknown author:

Blessed is the leader who has not sought high places, but has been drafted into service because of his ability and willingness to serve.

Blessed is the leader who knows where he is going, why he is going and how to get there.

Blessed is the leader who knows no discouragement, who presents no alibi.

Blessed is the leader who knows how to lead with humility and without being dictatorial.

Blessed is the leader who seeks the best for those he serves.

Blessed is the leader who leads for the good of the most concerned and not for the personal gratification of his own ideas.

Blessed is the leader who develops leaders while leading.

Blessed is the leader who marches with the group, interprets correctly the signs on the pathway to success.

Blessed is the leader who has his head in the clouds, but keeps his feet on the ground.

Blessed is the leader who considers leadership an opportunity for service.

Legislators, Clements At Odds...

Don't Spend Your Tax Relief Funds Yet

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)—Don't start spending your share of Gov. Bill Clements' $1 billion tax relief proposal yet.

Clements is a long way from convincing legislators they should take dollars from schools and state services and hand them to property owners.

He has placed normally tight-fisted legislators in the unaccustomed position of defending proposals to spend more money and of telling Texans their taxes are relatively light.

"I don't enjoy spending, but it is not good economy to reduce spending when you already are at an inadequate spending level," said conservative Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Jones said most Texans' state and local taxes are the lowest in the nation.

Clements also might not have reckoned with legislators' interest - politically motivated in some cases, but nonetheless real - in raising teacher pay.

Thus, Clements drew no cheers when he presented a budget with a $1 billion surplus and no cost-of-living raise for teachers.

"I think the teachers have had an increased cost of living like everybody else," said House Speaker Bill Clayton, who favors a 5.1 percent annual increase for teachers at a two-year cost of $314 million.

ARTIST AND CREATION---Artist Mike McCormack stands beside an angelic stained glass creation at his 25th St. shop. The angel is in a modern, contemporary style. Some people, however, prefer traditional and antique designs. It is all a matter of personal taste, he said. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

As Art Medium...

Stained Glass Favored Because It Emits Light

By JOHN LONG

Mike McCormack prefers the medium of stained glass to other art forms because it "emits light, it glows."

"You can do anything in stained glass that you can do in painting, but this stuff emits light, it glows," said McCormack, who also cited the "illuminating effect" of the medium.

McCormack, 26, operates the Art Glass Studio at 2706 25th St. He got into stained glass after first doing commercial glass work.

McCormack prefers to work by commission and inspiration rather than confine himself to an 8-to-5 job. He estimates he has turned out about 250 stained glass pieces in the five years he has been in the business.

Most of his work - he estimates about 75 percent - has been purchased by young couples beginning to settle down. The remainder of his work has been church-related.

"Most of my designs come from my customers. They come in and tell me what they want and I go from there," he explained. Most of his customers, he noted, prefer flowers and flowery designs.

He said he will sell one piece, have someone else

Thundershowers Move Over Area

Thundershowers moved across the Snyder area Saturday morning, bringing .32 inch of moisture to the official gauge at the city water plant for the 24 hour period ending at 7 a.m. Except for snow and ice, it was the most moisture to fall here since the first of the year. Intermittent drizzle continued Saturday morning.

Hospital To Get New Phone System

A new telephone system for D.M. Cogdell Memorial Hospital was approved at a luncheon meeting Friday of the hospital's board of managers.

Hospital Administrator Cy Miller noted that the switchboard of the present telephone system in use at the hospital is 16 years old. The alternative to tying a comparable system into it, he said, would be to install a new system.

The new system approved by the board is a touchtone system which will replace the old rotary-type dial system now used. Its cost is a base-rate expense of $2,095 per month for the first 36 months and $837 per month thereafter. That will include, Miller said, both the old section of the hospital as well as the new section still under construction. The present system costs $945 per month.

Also approved at the meeting Friday was the administrator's report which showed net worth and liabilities of the hospital to be $3,163,864 as of Jan. 31.

Board member Sam Cross was sworn in to another two-year term at the start of the meeting. Cross was absent last month when the other board members were routinely sworn in.

School Board Briefed On 1979 Tax Situation

Snyder School Trustees were briefed on the school district's tax outlook for 1979 at a special meeting Friday and then authorized the tax assessor-collector to design a new rendition form for personal property.

Although there still is some uncertainty due to possible legislative action in Austin, the tax assessor-collector, Ray Peveler, said that some decisions should be made so that notices can go out to taxpayers in the near future. These notices, among other things, will include forms for claiming homestead exemptions. Each homestead is allowed an exemption up to $5,000 on the market value of the property.

The school district has lost about 45 percent of its values since 1976, Peveler said, due to a decline in oil values.

The big issue now is personal property renditions. Heretofore these have mostly been on a volunteer basis, but now those who have been rendering and paying on substantial amounts are insisting that it be mandatory for all as provided by law. School districts and other local taxing agencies throughout the state have traditionally followed a varied pattern where personal property assessments are concerned. But pressures are building state-wide for a more uniform system. Also, many agencies now find that they need the additional revenue.

Snyder School District market values have declined from about $2 billion in 1976 to $1.14 billion this year. Local values will be required to take up some of the slack that has developed because of the decline in oil values. Thus, local values which were about $5 million in 1976 will be about $16¼ million this year. After deducting the exemptions for homesteads, extra exemptions for the elderly and disabled veterans a tax rate of around 92.2 cents for operations is expected to be required. This will yield nearly $6 million, based on an assessment ratio of 60 percent of market value, which already has been approved by the board.

Trustees are due to look over the new rendition forms at the regular March meeting and possibly make some other decisions at that time.

The proposal to prepare new rendition forms was made after Peveler told the board that he needed some direction on procedures for assessing personal property. Jerry Rice made the motion to prepare the new forms, and it drew a second from Bill Clayton. Vera McSpadden joined them in voting for it, while Ted Crenwelge and Bill Voss opposed it.

Q--Why does Snyder not have a city recreational director?

A--Snyder does not have a city recreation department. Recreation activities here traditionally have depended in a large measure on volunteers in the Little League, Boys' Club and other programs, with all local agencies contributing to special summer programs. This has worked well in Snyder and in fact the programs here are known to be broader in scope than some professionally staffed programs. City officials say that tax relief steps, prompted by citizen interest, especially in California where "Proposition 13" was voted, have resulted in scaling down or eliminating expenditures for recreational activities.

A WHISTLE TO TOOT---Not everyone has his own steam whistle to toot, but Art Roberts does. After taking the whistle down about two years ago, Roberts decided about three weeks ago to put it back up. He blows it as the whim arises. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

Roberts Revives Steam Whistle

Although not a modern-day Gabriel, Art Roberts has a horn to blow, and blow it he does, sporadically. Its shrill whistle can be heard across town.

The horn is really a 30-year-old steam whistle mounted atop Joe Graham Cleaners, 2417 College Ave. It is powered by the steam produced by one of the plant's boilers.

There was a time when whistles were part and parcel of life in small towns, and Roberts remembers the day. A native of Sweetwater, Roberts grew up listening to a yard whistle at the Santa Fe Railroad depot.

"You could set your watch by them," he recalls. "The railroad people did it right."

Roberts and his father-in-law, Joe Graham, the founder of the dry cleaners he now owns and manages, also tried to blow the whistle every day at 8 a.m. and noon, but they were not consistent. Some days they were early, some days they were late. After a while, Roberts remembers, they quit trying altogether.

The steam whistle was first mounted atop the building back in 1949. Roberts remembers it as his father-in-law's idea. The whistle was taken down a couple of years ago, then put back up about three weeks ago.

"I had some work to do and just put it up," Roberts said. He admitted he would like to blow the whistle on a regular schedule, but doubts if he will ever get around to it. "It's hard to add another deadline to yourself," he explained.

As it is now, he toots the whistle as the whim arises, which is sporadically throughout the day.

He likes the whistle, though. "Wouldn't you like it if you had the only steam whistle in town?" Roberts said.

answer must be right

Rocky would have been proud of his fellow Republicans.

Grand Old Party members currently in office convened recently to draft the party's platform for 1980 and exercised an axiom of the late Nelson A. Rockefeller: In pointing out the problem, point to a solution that will work.

Republicans had no trouble pinpointing the sorest troublespot of the current administration, but it also offered some constructive advice that could solve two problems at once.

The Democrats' worst dilemma is how to curb spending without cutting services - how to achieve the balanced budget everyone wants without losing friends.

The Republicans' answer is a constitutional amendment which would limit federal spending to X-amount. Under such amendment, the President and Congress wouldn't have to worry about balancing friends as well as finances - they could blame the Constitution for an empty pocketbook.

What GOP officials really solved, though, was the problem of holding the nation's second constitutional convention.

Already passed by 26 state legislatures, a constitutional convention is the only other concrete proposal to force the federal government into fiscal responsibility.

What it might also force the federal government into perplexes the rational mind more than does irresponsible spending.

Simply, this is no more reasonable a time in the U.S. than it was when the first constitutional convention was held. Remember? Delegates met only to amend the Articles of Confederation, but ended up reweaving the basic fabric of the nation. They gave us the world's strongest declaration of freedom, but we have no guarantee that present leaders would preserve that trust. We have considerable reason to suspect that they would not.

Today's issues are complex beyond our founding fathers' wildest vision - if Thomas Jefferson ever fantasized about how to control computer crime, he didn't write about it. And the complexity, to say nothing of the vast number of issues, has led to the practice of situational ethics, as opposed to strict adherence to constitutional principles.

What this means is that members of each special interest group want to pass laws regulating the behavior of others while protecting their own right to do pretty much as they please.

Only the National Security Agency's systems analyst could begin to calculate how many hundreds of these self-interest groups would descend on a constitutional convention, "innocently" held to curb rampant federal waste.

Equally important is that all of these people are mad about something, and like the crazy broadcaster "Network," ready to take to the streets shouting they "aren't going to take it anymore." That's hardly a healthy mood in which to rewrite the document controlling what you may say and do to whom when.

Readers angry about crude sex in Hustler might join forces with those outraged by profanity in literature course textbooks. Out the window with so-called pornography would go Chaucer for bedroom scenes, Shakespeare for undeleted expletives and freedom of the press.

Cult leaders, anxious that Congress wants to examine their records to prevent another Jonestown mass suicide, might band with religious school administrators who see no reason to demonstrate whether or not their students are capable of reading and writing. We would retain separation of church and state, but with a self-defined church controlling the state.

Take the U.S. Constitution liberty by liberty; think about how special interest groups, through the elected officials they control, might change each liberty and ask whether you would risk an opportunity for revision.

Maybe if there were more Nelson Rockefellers who understand that defining a problem without presenting a workable solution just creates another problem, we wouldn't cringe at the notion of Constitutional Convention II. It is not sufficient, he was fond of saying, to merely detect the problem or to pose an answer. The answer must be right.

earth a motor?

Why does the Earth turn?

Assorted scientists have asked the question for generations and they have left it unanswered.

Perhaps, if we could figure out what makes the Earth turn we could harness its energy for other uses.

A medical doctor in Evansville, Ind., R. J. Noveroske, thinks he knows and it can't cost us anything to hear him out.

The Indiana State Medical Assn. was sufficiently impressed with his treatise that it was republished in the official journal of that association.

And all of us, however skeptical, have to be impressed at least with the audacity of any visionary who presumes to define what makes the world turn.

In essence, Dr. Noveroske is convinced that the planet Earth is a "gigantic electric motor."

An electric motor, of course, consists of a rotor with its internal magnetic field surrounded by an external magnetic field, the one responding in rhythm to the other.

Evidence? Well, we know that the Earth has a magnetic core with North and South poles and that there is a strong field of particulate radiation around the Earth--the Van Allen belt.

This belt of concentrations of electrons and protons trapped by the Earth's magnetic field is shaped and reshaped as the Earth moves around the sun.

So, if the action-reaction cycle is what causes the Earth to turn like the rotor of a motor, the Sun is the ultimate source of the turning power.

Understandable, when you and I are accustomed to A.C. electric motors turning at 3,600 revolutions a minute, it is difficult for us to think of anything which turns only once every 24 hours as "a motor."

But when you consider the torque necessary to turn such a huge mass, it is impressive that we on the surface of the "rotor" are moving through space--on the surface of the spinning sphere the circumference of which is about 24,000 miles. While standing still, we are moving 1,000 miles an hour!

Shouldn't that blow your hair!

Physicists and astronomers have long held to the Elzasser Theory that planet Earth is a generator, that it rotates in a frictionless environment on nothing more than momentum.

But that widely held theory has led no place as far as harnessing environmental electricity is concerned.

Now here comes a Hoosier medical doctor daring to advance the "revolutionary" theory that the Earth, instead of a generator, is a motor.

And this intriguing theory crosses my desk at the same time that I hear from electrical engineers who have measured unexplained induced "current" in the Alaska pipeline. An interesting if insignificant footnote: In Polish the name "Noveroske" literally means "man who goes backward".

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Middle age starts the day you become more interested in how long your car will last than in how fast it will go."

It's been 10 years since we graduated from college, and our return visits to the campus at Texas Tech have been limited to a hand full of football games.

We were aware of the many changes taking place in the physical plant, but not really conscious of the millions spent on new facilities.

We returned to the campus last week as a member of a panel during Mass Communications week. All the panel members were former students and we each marveled at the changes that were made in what was then the journalism department and now what is called Mass Communications.

In just 10 years, that department has more faculty members than we had students in 1968. There were other things that impressed us and one was the appearance of the students.

We did watch one impromtu soap box speech in the student union building. It had to do with Black Awareness Week, and that was a refreshing change from the demonstrations against Vietnam that we remember.

But some things never change. College students then and college students now still gather around the available televisions at noon--and they watch Bob and Lisa on As The World Turns."

Ralph Nader ideas are not necessarily new. Back in 1908 farmers--fearing motorists planning to tool along New England country roads, needed several accessories like paint, tarpaulins, bells, revolvers, bombs, rockets and Roman candels.

In a guide for motorists that year, the Farmers' Anti-Auto Protective Society published five broad rules.

(1) Autos must be seasonably painted so they will merge with the pastoral ensemble and not be startling. They must be green in the spring, golden in the autumn and white in winter.

(2) On discovering an approaching team of horses, the automobilist must stop off-side and cover his machine with a tarpaulin painted to correspond with the scenery.

(3) In case a horse will not pass an auto, notwithstanding the scenic tarpaulin, the automobilist will take the machine apart as rapidly as possible and conceal the parts in the grass.

(4) On approaching a corner where he cannot command a view of the road ahead, the automobilist must stop not less than 100 yards from the turn, toot his horn, ring a bell, fire a revolver, hallo and send up three bombs at intervals of five minutes.

(6) The speed limit on country roads this year will be secret, and the penalty for violation will be $10 for every mile an offender is going in excess of it.

WASHINGTON (NEA)— Naive parents and altruistic teachers may define "education" as the process of intellectually preparing young people for their years of maturity: but the professionals know better.

"Education," boasts John Ryor, president of the Washington-based National Education Association (NEA) "is one of the nation's largest businesses."

"Education" also is a single-minded special interest group, worried about the loss of teaching jobs because of a declining school-age population and the threats to school financing from increasingly parsimonious taxpayers.

In this city, "education" is the tie that binds dozens of influential organizations and individuals affiliated with one of the country's most powerful lobbying operations.

"Education" has friends in the White House and on Capitol Hill - many of them recipients of the more than $5 million doled out by NEA in the 1974, 1976 and 1978 political campaigns.

Not entirely by coincidence, President Carter has proposed and Congress is likely to approve a scheme to give "education" its own cabinet-level federal department, with more jobs, money and political influence than ever before.

Carter, the first presidential candidate ever endorsed by NEA, agreed during the 1976 campaign to support that organization's efforts to gain independence for the educational functions within the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

Throughout the campaign year, the president's rationale for the change invariably focused on governmental efficiency. Virtually every time the education lobby pressed him for a renewed commitment, Carter referred to the change in the context of reducing from 1,900 to 200 the number of federal departments and agencies.

That approach made sense because educational functions now are widely scattered throughout the federal bureaucracy. Some examples:

The Agriculture Department runs school lunch programs, the Interior Department provides schooling for Indians, the Defense Department coordinates the instruction of children of troops stationed overseas and the Labor Department runs programs to educate the children of migrant farm laborers.

In his Department of Education proposal sent to Congress last year, Carter called for consolidation of many of those programs. But that approach was scuttled because of widespread bureaucratic and political opposition.

As a result, this year's revised proposals involves little more than an upgrading of the HEW's Office of Education. Most of the approximately 200 additional educational programs administered by more than 40 other departments, agencies and bureaus will remain uncoordinated.

The reorganization plan also was widely touted as a means of reducing HEW's mission and budget, thus making that huge, unwieldy department more manageable and efficient.

But the "E" in HEW accounts for less than 8 percent of the department's $184 million annual budget.

What will the change produce? Its principal result will be the creation of a massive new federal department with an annual budget of $13.5 billion, an amount larger than the current yearly budget of five existing departments - State, Justice, Commerce, Interior and Energy.

There also will be a staff of more than 16,000 - more people than live in Windsor Locks, Conn.; Belle Glade, Fla.; Centralia, Ill.; Bluefield, W. Va., or Carson City, Nev.

That includes 15 new "executive level" positions created for a secretary, four assistant secretaries and 10 assorted other chieftains. There yearly salaries for "executive level" posts currently range from $47,500 to $66,000.

If the undistinguished performance of the Office of Education in recent years is a reliable indicator, there is one task the new department probably will not accomplish: Improving the education of the millions of young people who annually pass through the country's schools.

We are indebted to British writer Jock Milton and Popular Bridge for today's hand. It appeared in an article entitled "The Little Folk".

East takes his ace of clubs and leads a low heart to dummy's queen. A diamond is led from dummy. East rises with the ace, cashes his ace of spades and gets off lead with a diamond which you, South, have to win.

Now you cash ace and king of hearts and throw East in with the jack. East is forced to give dummy the rest of the tricks.

All very pretty, but if East has been unkind enough to throw his jack of hearts and hang on to the five spot, you do cash five heart tricks to add to the one in diamonds. Now you must play clubs. You can score two club tricks, but that will still leave you one short.

Before congratulating East on his magnificent play, you might go back and do a little thinking of your own.

You were dealt the deuce of hearts. When the first heart was led you could have played the seven and kept that little fellow. Then it wouldn't have done East any good to throw the jack of hearts. You could still throw him in with the deuce.

Paulk, Jordan Pledge Vows In Ceremony

Becky Charlene Paulk and Keith William Jordan were joined in marriage in a double ring ceremony in the chapel of the First Baptist Church Saturday, Feb. 10 at 3 p.m. Rev. Carl Smith, assistant pastor performed the cremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Paulk and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil T. Jordan, all of Snyder.

The couple exchanged vows before an archway of huckleberry greenery, white and blue carnations and blue satin bows. Two seven-branch candelabra with cathedral candles, huckleberry greenery and blue satin bows complimented the altar area. A promise candle was spotlighted behind the archway. The bridal aisle was marked with hurricane candles entwined with white and blue ribbon.

Cheryl Burk sang "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied by Barbara Tune, pianist. Additional music selections were "Nadias Theme," "Evergreen," and "We've Only Just Begun."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a formal gown of sata-sheer featuring a Queen Ann neckline enhanced with pearled peau d' ange lace. Lace was repeated on the Victorian sleeve cuffs and on the bottom of the semi-flow skirt flowing into a train. Her bandeau lace hat, touched with pearls, held the walking length veil edged with lace matching the gown.

She carried a cascade of blue and white carnations with baby's breath atop a white Bible. The streamers were tied in love knots.

In keeping with tradition, the bride wore pennies minted in the years of the couple's births in her shoe for something old. Something borrowed was a pair of opal earrings from Kathy Merritt, bridesmaid, that matched her necklace, a gift from the groom. Something blue was her garter.

The bride presented her mother with a red rose as she approached the altar. She gave the groom's mother a red rose following the vows.

The groom's mother was attired in a floor length beige gown with floral printed organza cape.

The bride's mother was attired in a baby blue waltz length gown featuring a square neckline and puffed sleeves.

MR. AND MRS. KEITH JORDAN

Beverly Paulk, the bride's sister, was maid of honor and Kathy Merritt was bridesmaid. Ms. Merritt is the bride's cousin. They wore formal length baby blue satin gowns with white blouses that featured a ruffled neckline and long bishop sleeves. Each wore a blue flower with streamers in her hair.

The groom's father was best man. Groomsman was Larry Bagwell of Abilene and ushers were Alan Floyd and Terry Love. Bill Paulk of Lamesa, nephew of the bride, lighted candles.

Male attendants were dressed in light blue tuxedos.

A reception honoring the couple was held in the garden room following the ceremony. Licia Harber registered guests.

The serving table was covered with a white crocheted bedspread made by the bride's grandmother, Bertha Turner, which was laid over a baby blue cloth. The three tiered wedding cake was decorated with sapphire blue roses and topped with blue wedding bells. The cake and fruit punch was served from a crystal punch bowl by Christy Paulk and Joan Paulk, sisters-in-law of the bride.

The groom's table was covered with a light blue over a dark blue cloth and was centered with light blue flowers. German chocolate cake and coffee were served by Janice Holladay and Fran Harless, sisters of the groom.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at the Spanish Inn.

A graduate of Snyder High School and WTC, the bride is employed at Dennis Printing Co. The groom, a Snyder High graduate, is employed by Arrow Construction Co.

This Bread Even Looks Like Mushroom

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Homemade mushroom bread is a delight to look at as well as to taste. It makes an edible conversation piece when you are entertaining.

Since bread baking is quite popular, the mushroom bread will be easy for those who regularly turn out loaves at home. It starts with a basic bread recipe with added wheat germ, unsulphured molasses, brown sugar and fresh mushrooms.

Form your own baking pans for the mushroom effect from empty coffee or fruit-juice cans, aluminum foil and cardboard.

The dough from the following recipe weighs almost five pounds and makes several loaves. You can create a few large mushroom loaves or numerous small, individual ones by varying the size of the container.

This bread is delicious with salads, cold cuts and cheeses.

MUSHROOM BREAD

- 1 pound fresh mushrooms
- 5 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
- 1 cup finely chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons light brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon salt
- ¾ teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1 tablespoon unsulphured molasses
- 2 cups milk, scalded
- 1 egg
- 2 packages dry active yeast
- ½ cup warm water
- 6 cups unsifted all-

Rinse, pat dry and finely chop mushrooms. (Makes about 2½ cups.) Set aside. In a large skillet, melt 3 tablespoons of the butter. Add mushrooms and onion. Saute for 5 minutes. Set aside.

In a large mixing bowl, combine remaining 2 tablespoons butter with sugar, salt, black pepper and molasses. Add scalded milk. Stir until butter is melted. Cool. Beat in egg.

Dissolve yeast in water. Stir into milk mixture. Add 4 cups of the flour and beat thoroughly. Add mushroom mixture, remaining 2¼ cups of flour and wheat germ. Blend.

Turn out onto a floured board. Knead until elastic. Place in a buttered bowl. Turn dough so that buttered side is up. Cover lightly with plastic wrap. Let rise in a warm place until doubled in size.

Meanwhile, prepare pans for shaping mushroom bread. Use 3 1-pound coffee cans, 2 1-pound, 12-ounce cans from tomatoes or fruit, 12 8-ounce tomato-sauce cans or 14 6-ounce metal juice cans. Cans should be empty and thoroughly washed.

Cut out a circle from heavy cardboard measuring 2 inches wider than the can opening. Trace the can opening in the center of the cardboard circle. Cut out and remove. Cover cardboard with aluminum foil. Place around edge of can on opened side. Grease can and foil.

Punch down dough. Fill cans about ¾ full with dough. Cover lightly with plastic wrap.

Let rise in a warm place until dough rises over top of can and begins to rest on cardboard lip to form the shape of a mushroom. Smooth and shape the dough with buttered fingers.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Mix egg yolk and milk. Brush over tops of breads. Bake until browned and breads sound hollow when tapped, 35 to 45 minutes for large breads, 25 to 30 minutes for smaller breads.

Let breads cool in their cans for 10 minutes. Then continue cooling on wire racks. (Breads may be shaped and baked in 2 9-by-5-by-3-inch loaf pans following preceding directions.) Makes about 4¾ pounds of shaped breads.

HEARTY mushroom bread gets its shape from cans.

IS 'PARENTING' EVER FINISHED?

When do parents quit being parents is a hard question and one of the greatest jolts parents have in a lifetime is to relaize that their "baby" is an adult thinking about schooling, career, marriage or leaving home.

Rather than leaving the parent role entirely, most parents merely change roles in parenting.

In the early stages of marriage, pre-parenting--getting ready for a child--is the major issue.

During the first years of a child's life, parents guide his development, and the child is totally dependent on his parents to fulfill his needs.

As children mature and become more independent, parents leave the "doing" stage and enter a supporting role--if the child flounders, the parent is still there to help pick up the pieces.

When the child reaches adulthood, parent and child are almost equal to dependent and independent roles. The parent supports the child at times, and then sometimes the child must lend support to parents.

And then with aging parents and adult children, roles are reversed. The adult child assumes responsibility and a supporting role for aged parents in almost all families.

When children mature and begin to leave the "nest," parents are concerned and wonder. "Will my child be successful?" "Will he forget us?" "What will happen to us when we get old?" "Will we always be important to him?"

Most newly established families break away from parents abruptly. They experience total independence for the first time, and this is a hard, lonely period for many newlyweds. Freedom from parental control and obligations sounds better than it feels.

A married couple becomes a separate new family unit. New traditions, activities and loyalties are natural consequences of a new union. This doesn't mean that parents are forgotten--it means that in most cases the couple doubles the number of parents to which they are closely allied and share their time with more people.

A parent is a parent through all his life. Just because a child is no longer under the same roof with his parents doesn't mean the parent role stops. It just means parents need to 'catch their breaths' from parenting so they will be ready for grandparenting.

Twenty-three million Americans -- one out of every 10 -- experiences a fear of flying, reports Dorthy Taylor, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"I THINK I FINALLY PIGGERED IT OUT... LIFE IS JUST ONE DARNED RE-RUN AFTER ANOTHER."

WHO AND WHEN--The Scurry County Museum has recently received this photograph and would like to hear from anyone who might be able to identify the place and-or people shown. The peculiar stance of several of the men and boys in the picture indicates they were acting out something everybody at the gathering would understand -- or was it just a spur of the moment gesture that swept the crowd? The group appears to have been neatly dressed, perhaps for an end of school or Sunday school picnic. Persons who would like to see the original photograph are invited to visit the museum, located on the Western Texas College campus, and hopefully the scene can be identified.

Gallery Of Music Moves

The store formerly known as Cross Keys has been purchased and is now a part of Gallery of Music, Inc., said Roy Bartels, the firm's president and a former Snyderite. It celebrated its grand opening in its new location this weekend.

Gallery of Music is now located in Varsity Square Shopping Center and is open from 10 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, and from 1 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. The store is closed Sunday and Monday.

The main items sold by Gallery of Music, said Bartels, are Steinway, Sohmer, and Wurlitzer pianos and Allen, Hammond, and Wurlitzer organs.

"It's already proven to be well worth the trouble of moving," said Bartels of the new store. "I think the location is going to greatly improve our visibility to the public."

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Diabetic tendencies?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently I had a blackout spell. I had been on a 1200-calorie-a-day diet to lose weight. I am 34 years old, a female and am 80 pounds overweight. In the past I have had spells of sweating and then the shakes and weakness. I found that sweets calmed me and even prevented the shakes or headaches. I reported these symptoms to my doctor and he took a blood fasting test and after three hours the sugar dropped to 60.

My mother is a diabetic and I have had a baby that weighed over 10 pounds.

I have been told to eat three high-protein meals and two protein snacks daily. I've been told not to leave my place of work without having my snack, because this could result in my blacking out.

My doctor believes I will eventually be a diabetic. Does this always occur, or could my low blood sugar be caused from something else? Can I stop these spells? Certain tasks I perform at work will bring on a spell, even if I have eaten a snack.

The 1200-calorie diet doesn't seem to be enough as I have these spells more frequently when I am on such a diet.

I can't seem to get much information on low blood sugar. Do you have anything you could send me? Also, can I take protein supplements in place of the snack?

DEAR READER — When you say you blacked out, to me that means you fainted. There are many reasons for fainting and I have no idea why you actually did. The sweating, shakes and weakness could be associated with a low blood glucose level or from the formation of excess adrenaline associated with anxiety. A low blood sugar causes an excess formation of adrenaline but so will anxiety.

Your blood sugar test that you reported here isn't sufficient to make a diagnosis of low blood sugar. A level of 60 commonly occurs in healthy people with no symptoms. To test for low blood sugar responses, it often requires taking blood samples as long as four to six hours after ingesting the glucose water.

The diagnosis of low blood sugar is correctly made only when the low blood sugar is identified by actual testing at the same time that the symptoms occur. The diagnosis is strengthened if the symptoms are promptly relieved then by giving glucose in the vein.

It's true that at least certain forms of diabetes have a tendency to be inherited — that also implies that not all instances are on a hereditary basis. It's also true that women who have large babies are more apt to be diabetics in the future.

None of this means that you will definitely become a diabetic. It is also true that individuals who have low blood sugar, because of a faulty insulin release mechanism, sometimes progress to diabetes. That's probably what your doctor is thinking about in your case.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-9, Low Blood Sugar: Hypoglycemia. It will give you more details about low blood sugar and what to do about it and answer questions I can't answer here. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Carter Smiles At Smiling Portrait

ATLANTA (AP) — President Carter smiled when he saw his smiling portrait. He likes it, he says, because it's not all teeth.

The portrait, painted by artist Robert Templeton of Woodbury, Conn., was unveiled Tuesday at the state Capitol.

Carter, often characterized by his toothy smile, praised the portrait, commissioned to hang in the state Senate where he served from 1963 to 1967. Private donation paid the $4,500 cost of the painting, which shows Carter seated at a desk.

"You don't know how nice it is to see a portrait of you that isn't 80 percent teeth," Carter commented.

Caucus Set For TSTA Delegates

Area educators who will be official delegates to the 1979 convention of the Texas State Teachers Association will hold a planning caucus at 6 p.m. Tuesday, March 6 at the Starlight Inn in Abilene.

Ned Underwood of Snyder, president of TSTA District XIV, will preside. Underwood, a driver education teacher at Snyder High School, will be assisted by other district leaders and TSTA staff members.

Eligible for one voting delegate for each 75 TSTA members, District XIV is expected to have about 36 delegates. There are 15 local associations in the district, which covers 11 counties.

The delegates will receive a briefing on 19 proposed amendments to the TSTA constitution, resolutions, committee reports, and other business to be discussed by the 1,655-member state house of delegates at the March 22-24 convention.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson of Chicago, nationally known champion of civil and human rights, will be keynote speaker. The convention will launch a year-long observance of TSTA's 100th birthday anniversary.

The association originated with a meeting of 40 teachers at Mexia on June 28, 1880.

Elderly Man In The Magic Circle

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Municipal Judge Leonard Hughes Jr. scanned the traffic ticket of an elderly man recently and said, "You're in the magic circle. No fine, just the points."

With that, the man who directed out the main door of the courtroom, penalty points having been assessed against his license but his wallet no lighter.

The "magic circle"?

"Yea," Hughes explained during a recess. "I don't fine anyone over 65. Not after all they've done for the community."

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

February 25, 1979

This coming year you should fare very well in work or projects that permit you to use your creative and imaginative talents. Seek markets requiring your skills.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A situation may arise today similar to one that previously caused you a problem. Profit from your past experience. Don't repeat the mistake. Learn more about yourself by sending for your copy of the all-new Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your judgment may be a trifle faulty today, so guard against drawing hasty conclusions. Take a second, or even a third, look if necessary.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Companions or associates will become easily angered today if you behave dictatorially. Lead by example, not by pressure tactics.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your attitude could make tasks you dislike even far more difficult today. Keep a cool head if you want the production line to run smoothly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Treat the property of others today with the same respect you'd wish for yours. Being careless with another's possessions spells serious trouble.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your mate may be a trifle difficult to get along with today, so just to be safe give him or her the kid glove treatment. You'll be glad you did.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be safety-conscious today if you're working with tools you're not too familiar with. Read instructions carefully before you throw any switches.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Steer clear of situations today where a gamble is involved. You may be lucky at first but it doesn't appear as though your good fortune will hold up.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Loved ones or those in your charge may put your patience to the test today. Hang loose if you do something rash you'll later regret it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Think carefully before you speak today, or you may blurt something out that will be extremely difficult to retract, causing yourself needless embarrassment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In hopes of getting a bargain today you could end up outsmarting yourself. Recall this if you run into a sharp horse trader who has something you want.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be wary of being susceptible today to the influence of someone who has gotten you into a tight spot before. Don't be afraid to say "no" if necessary.

COGDELL MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

Dr. L. N. Roberts advises the closing of his Snyder office effective March 12, 1979

YOU'RE WHAT?—"I'm going to have a baby!" says Edith Lambert, and the members of her family greet the announcement with marked surprise. The family is made up of (left to right) Edith's son-in-law, Charlie (Robby Moore), her daughter, Kate (Debbie Busciglio), and her husband, Harry (John Hopkins). The anticipation of the blessed event sets off a chain of laughter for the audience although the family sometimes feels everything is going downhill at a rapid clip.

YOU'LL PAY!—Mayor Crane (Tex Hopkins) pours threats on the hapless Harry Lambert and his son-in-law Charlie because of an unwelcome "special award" the pair left on the mayor's front porch in a pre-dawn visit. Harry and Charlie, obviously tipsy, seem not to understand the mayor's outrage. They are much more concerned about the turn of events in their own household since it has become known that "It's Never Too Late" for a tiny baby to upset a whole way of life.

Dinner Theatre Opening Friday

"It's Never Too Late" is set to open Friday night as the dinner theatre production of the Western Texas College drama department.

The show promises an abundance of laughs for the audiences and advance ticket sales have already resulted in sell outs for opening night and the show on March 9.

Tickets for the remaining performances on March 3-4 and 10-11 may be purchased at Snyder Drug, West Texas State Bank or the Fine Arts Division office. Admission price is $8, which includes dinner and the show.

Curtain time will be 8 p.m. on March 2-3 and 9-10. Dinner will be served starting at 6:30 p.m. preceding those performances. On Sundays, dinner will be served at 12:30 p.m. and curtain time will be 2 p.m. Dinner will be in the Student Center cafeteria and all performances will be in the nearby Fine Arts Theatre.

Dinner music will be provided by Melvin Branch, assistant professor of art at WTC. A reception in the lobby of the Fine Arts Building is planned following each performance so the audience may meet the members of the cast.

Information about tickets may be obtained by calling the Fine Arts Division office at the college [illegible], extension 234.

Korean Art

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An exhibition of 54 Korean works of art will be shown at the Asian Art Museum May 1 through Sept. 30.

The show is titled "5,000 Years of Korean Art" and it will include gold crowns, gold and jade jewelry, ceramics, stoneware, Buddhist sculptures, 8th-century architectural elements and humorous genre paintings."

RELAXING—Grace Kimbrough (Janice Posey) and Edith Lambert (Marca Parham) share a few friendly moments away from the pressures of running their neighboring households. Although Edith acknowledges that her husband, Harry, is hard headed, she emphasizes his good qualities, and Grace finds these very few. Grace's husband, Dr. James Kimbrough (Rick Mantooth) is also the Lambert's family physician. Other family friends completing the cast for "Never Too Late" are the neighborhood policemen, played by Darrell Hayes, and Mr. Foley, played by David Galvan.

The worst famine in history, which caused the deaths of an estimated 20 million persons, hit Russia from 1914 to 1924.

Capitol Trip Planned

BY WESLEY KRUGER

HERMLEIGH — Thirty students and four sponsors will visit the State Capitol this week. They will leave Friday, March 2, at 8:30 a.m. and return the following Sunday at noon.

While in Austin, the group will stay at the Stephen F. Austin Hotel, according to Tommy Riley, one of the sponsors. Riley commented that he thinks the trip will be both educational and fun. Tentative plans include touring the capitol building where the students will attend a session in the House of Representatives and the Senate.

Tours of the governor's mansion, Lyndon B. Johnson Library, and University of Texas campus are included on the agenda. Some students plan to attend the boys state basketball tournament held at the special events center on the University campus.

Riley explained that every two years students from the High School travel to Austin to observe the state legislature. Two years ago, a group of students toured the capitol and were recognized in the House chamber by Rep. Mike Ezzell and in the Senate chamber by Sen. Ray Farabee.

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Peel and Mrs. Riley will accompany Riley as sponsors on the trip.

Scurryly Speaking...

Dugouts Were Practical In County's Early Days

By INA FARGASON

(Note: In 1975, the Snyder Daily News ran a monthly columg called "Scurryly Speaking" which was written by members of the Scurry County Historical Survey Committee. Prior to that "Scurryly Speaking" was a newsletter of the Committe, and was sent to subscribers. With this issue a monthly article by the committee is resumed to keep the public informed of historical events pertaining to the county.)

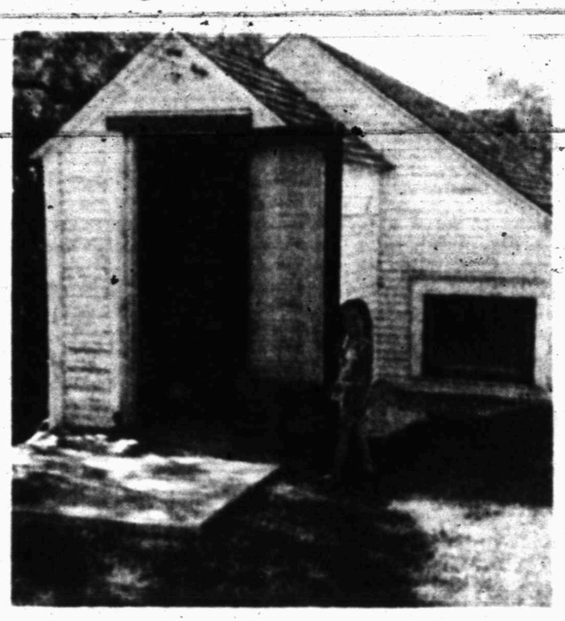
"Scurryly Speaking," the monthly newsletter of Scurry County Historical Commission is back again. You may remember that the organization was called Scurry County Historical Survey Committee and its program was R.A.M.P.S. Each letter represented a phase of the work: Recording, Appreciation, Marking, Preservation and Surveying. The program is the same, only the name is changed. The word "Commission" in the organization's title is an adequate change, for every citizen should consider himself commissioned to enter the role of preserving Scurry County History. If you have items or stories of historical interest, let us hear from you. You may write us at 4103 Avondale, Snyder, Texas, 79549.

At this time the SCHC is concentrating on pioneer homes-- dugouts and half-dugouts. There are many "indentions" in the county that are positive evidence that they are the remains of dugouts and some of them are unique. However, it is believed that only one half-dugout in Scurry County is still intact. Residents of this county owe their gratitude to Myrtle Harrell for the preservation of this beautiful pioneer abode. It is located on the Harrell ranch, three miles northwest of Camp Springs. It was dug by W.W. (Uncle Billy) Nelson. It is not known just what year the 16 x 40 foot dugout was built, but certainly it is in the elite class. Most dugouts were considerably smaller. Its eight-foot walls plastered to four feet up from the floor and above the cement the walls were covered with ship-lap, whether originally or later is not known. A rock-faced fireplace was built in the north end. The floor was covered with red burlap and the spacious room was partitioned with curtains. Closets and cupboards were built in the corners. The Nelsons were not compelled to cook on the fireplace, they had a range cook stove with a reservoir and a high warmer.



LAST OF ITS KIND--This half-dugout at the Charles Harrell Home, three miles northwest of Camp Springs, is believed to be the only remaining one in Scurry County.

The most unique aspect of this pioneer home and its relation to Scurry County history is the fact that in this dugout was the birth of the first child, after the organization of the county in 1884. The child of Mr. and Mrs. W.W. Nelson was named Ida Mae. She became the late Mrs. C.L. Ezell of El Paso. Also from this dugout came the first sheriff of Scurry County, Uncle Billy Nelson.

Charles J. Harrell bought the W.W. Nelson ranch in 1922 and lived there several years. Although the Harrells never lived in the dugout, Myrtle Harrell says, "Mama loved that dugout."

Myrtle said her mother didn't like the wind, and on windy days she was afraid to build a fire in the big cookstove in the house for fear a spark might escape from the flue and start a fire.

"So on windy days" says Myrtle, "we went to the dugout and Mama cooked at the fireplace." Her face brightened as she said, "We baked potatoes and roasted eggs in the hot ashes" and her sister Fay added, "And fried sausage."

After the Harrell family moved from the ranch, the dugout became in need of repair. When the house was being remodeled, Myrtle requested that the dugout also be repaired but the request met with objection because "We don't have the money for that. We will just have to fill it up," she was told. But a responsive chord of love for that old dugout was touched and Myrtle replied, "Oh, no you won't. I'll do it myself!" And she did.

The dugout has been kept in good condition all these years and recently Myrtle had had that four feet above the concrete faced with rough boards and strips and says, "And it is just beautiful!"

And it is beautiful and is an asset to Scurry County's visible history.

Police Pass Out Gas Caps

GORHAM, N.H. (AP)— Police are offering free gas caps to residents of this northern New Hampshire town. But the caps will be given only to drivers who were victimized by two Gorham youths who decided to hold a gas cap collecting contest.

The boys wanted to see who could acquire more gas caps from cars parked on several side streets, Police Chief David Dupont said Wednesday.

Dupont said the youths collected about 50 caps Tuesday before police received a tip that led them to the home of one of the boys. A box full of gas caps was found and the youths were arrested, police said.

How To Watch Eclipse Safely

The American Association of Opthalmology has warned that the only absolutely safe method for watching Monday's eclipse of the Sun is by using the pinhole method. This involves using two pieces of white cardboard with a pinhole in the top cardboard which projects and focuses the solar image on the second cardboard.

Sunglasses, smoked glass or photographic film is absolutely safe, the association warns. They may eliminate glare, but they do not block infrared rays which cause damaging burns.

The eclipse, which will be total in a small area of the United States, will be about 65 percent in this area.

Fluvanna Youth On TSTI Honor Roll

it, and often sell another like it. The replica, however, is never an exact duplicate.

"Every window I build is a limited edition to the person who buys it," said McCormack. Each is unique.

The most intricate stained glass creation he has worked on was 22-by-32 inches and contained 316 separate pieces of glass. A bolder project is still on the drawing board. If it comes to pass, it will be a 4-by-6 feet construction featuring 581 separate pieces.

His works are often hung inside houses, and often in the bedroom. Some couples prefer an antique style while others prefer a more modern style, he said. It is all a matter of individual taste.

His own taste, if he were working on a design for himself, would be a type of fantasy landscape. "like a garden scene, but prettier than any garden ever built," he said.

McCormack orders his glass and lead from firms dealing in those supplies. With the materials to work with, he builds what his customers want.

"I'd rather build a window for someone than for sale," he said, noting that he and the person who commissions the work often become friends.

McCormack prefers the handcrafted item to the object that is mass produced by factories.

"Craftmanship to me," he said, "is skill."

City Firemen Called Twice

Shut Up, She Explained

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have written an open letter to my husband's boss. Because I'm sure many other wives could have written it, I hope you will print it in your column.

Dear Mr. Boss:

I want to protest a very irritating habit you have: calling my husband at home at all hours and on weekends to discuss business with him.

If it were urgent, I wouldn't mind, but it is obvious that you only want to hear yourself think out loud and need my husband as a sounding board. (This was very flattering to him — at first. Then he found out that you do the same thing with your other employees.)

I work, too, and when we get home, we look forward to having a quiet dinner and a relaxing evening together or with friends. But we hardly get settled in before you phone from the office or your car, and proceed to tie my husband up for half an hour to an hour.

You have interrupted bridge games, important discussions, and intruded on too many other things to mention here. You have called just as we were leaving for a social engagement, causing us to be embarrassingly late many times.

You are known to be a workaholic. Evenings and holidays are all the same to you. Just because your work is your whole life, don't assume that your employees have nothing else in their lives but their jobs.

My husband is conscientious and no clock watcher, but his time at home is his own, and you have no right to expect him to be on call for business conversations 24 hours a day.

I have asked my husband to talk to you — man to man — but he's afraid you might fire him, and that would be a hardship for our family at this time.

I'm not signing my name, but if this applies to you, please change your ways. You are fair and generous and kind, and if it weren't for this one fault, you would be a terrific boss.

THE WIFE OF YOUR EMPLOYEE

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago I wrote to you about the man I had been living with for five years. He had been separated from his wife eight years, but they were never divorced. I kept hoping he would get a divorce so we could be married, but he found one excuse after another.

You told me you doubted if he would ever divorce his wife. Well, Abby, you were right. He never did. But as it turned out, a divorce wasn't necessary because she died two years ago.

Abby, I have been living with this man nine years, and there is no reason why he can't marry me now.

My problem is that he is still finding excuses. I have been a wife to him in every way all these years and I want the security that goes with being a legal wife.

I am 43 and he is 52. Please tell me what to do.

LIVING A LIE

DEAR LIVING: The laws in some states provide material security for women in your position. See a lawyer. I have no crystal ball, but if it's marriage you want, don't count on him.

DEAR ABBY: I think the people who write to you are either weirdos or just plain stupid.

MIKE IN MISSOULA

DEAR MIKE: Which are you?

Do you hate to write letters of condolences, congratulations, and thanks. It's not difficult when you let Abby guide you in her booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Townsend are the parents of a 6 lb. 8 oz. baby boy. John Curtis was born at 3:39 a.m. Tuesday in Malone-Hogan Hospital in Big Spring. Grandparents are Estelle Lee and Robert Lee of Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Townsend of Oklahoma. He joins a 2½ year-old brother, Craig, at the Townsend's 412 29th St. home.

Cats Faring Well At Meet

FORT STOCKTON--Snyder High School took a third place standing after an afternoon of field events had been completed in the annual Commanche Relays being held here.

The Tigers, a young team this year, were behind leader Fort Stockton and second place Sweetwater.

Competition in the meet was to have begun again Saturday morning at 9 a.m. with the pole vault competition. Running finals were to begin at 1 p.m.

Thomas Selmon, a junior, netted a blue ribbon in the broad jump with a distance of 21-11 ¾.

Sophomore Keith McClain placed fourth in the high jump with an effort of 5-8, while teammate Don Chandler tied for fifth with a try of 5-6.

In other field events, Morris Anderson and Tommy Peek placed fifth in respective events. Anderson hurled the shot 49-7, while Peek threw the discus 132 feet.

Snyder was expected to do well in the pole vault with Dale Jenkins and Chandler in the action. Jenkins vaulted 14-6 in the regional meet last year.

Snyder fared well in the running prelims, qualifying for Saturday's finals with some of the fastest and second fastest times.

McClain took the speediest time in the 300 intermediate hurdles with a 41.6 and made the finals of the 110 meter high hurdles with a 16.1 effort.

The youngster is expected to do well in both. His time in the high hurdles was good enough to qualify despite, "hitting a hurdle and stopping dead in his tracks," according to Coach Winfred Shipp. Jenkins and Chandler each qualified (fourth and fifth) with equal times of 43.3.

Junior Lloyd Benson crossed the line first in the 400 meter run with a time of 51.6. Rudy Garza also qualified with a 53.5. Teammate Migeul Ortegon missed making the finals by one-tenth of a second.

Finally, senior Ronnie Collins was second fastest in the 100 meter dash with an effort of 11.2. Collins came up with a cramp after the run and was not able to qualify in the 200 meter run. However, the word Friday evening was that he would be in fine shape for the 100-finals on Saturday.

Snyder could expect its toughest competition to come from Fort Stockton and San Angelo Lake View for the finals. Sweetwater, second after the field events, was not expected to do well in the running

New Coaches Ponder Future Of NY Giants

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP)--Ray Perkins and George Young have known only success in their football careers. Unless they can quickly turn things around with the New York Giants, they will be in for a rude shock.

"I know how to win," said Perkins, the Giants new head coach. "I've gone through one losing season in my life and I don't like to lose."

Perkins, 37, is the youngest coach in the National Football League. He will team with Young, the team's new 48-year-old general manager, and try to turn the Giants around.

"I have the authority on all trades and draft choices," Young said, "but everything will be discussed with the head coach. Tim and Well will be made aware of everything, too.

"We're going to work together on this thing. This is not a medieval papacy. We can't departmentalize, this has to be a cooperative," he added.

Young has never been a general manager before. Ditto Perkins as a head coach. But Young has been associated with Don Shula most of the last decade while Perkins has learned under respected coaches like Don McCafferty, Chuck Fairbanks, Don Coryell as well as Shula.

Young and Perkins are old friends from their days in Baltimore together and despite Young's denial, that played a part in his selection. They feel they can work together and there is a lot of work to be done. The giants were 6-10 in 1978 and haven't made the playoffs in 15 years.

Ford Builds A Better KC; Slams 21 Points, 27 Assists

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)--Like the wronged wife, Phil Ford was the last to find out.

"Twenty-one assists?" he asked in a burst of laughter. "Is that right? I had no idea I was having that kind of game."

Kansas City's rookie phenomenon scored 22 points and distributed 21 assists, one short of the franchise record, Friday night in leading the Kings to a 121-112 pasting of the Phoenix Suns.

The triumph was Kansas City's 14th straight on its home court.

The assist record of 22 was accomplished twice in the 1960s by Oscar Robertson and by Ford Wednesday night against Milwaukee.

Wednesday night, the Kings tried to set up Ford for assists as he neared the record. Ford said Friday he wanted no more of that.

Otis Birdsong was the main beneficiary of Ford's ball handling wizardry, scoring 31 points, and Scott Wedman had 25 before fouling out in the fourth period.

In the other NBA games, the San Diego Clippers trimmed the Philadelphia 76ers 117-116, the Indiana Pacers edged the Golden State Warriors 96-94, the Los Angeles Lakers bested the Boston Celtics 113-114, the Washington Bullets blasted the Seattle SuperSonics 132-110, the New Jersey Nets defeated the Portland Trail Blazers 110-99, and the New Orleans Jazz beat the Chicago Bulls 111-102.

Clippers 117, 76ers 116

Kermit Washington's 3-point play with 35 seconds remaining sparked San Diego to its first victory over Philadelphia in four tries this season. His lay-up and an ensuing free throw gave the Clippers a 117-114 before Philadelphia's Eric Money hit a short jump shot for the game's final points. The 76ers' Darryl Dawkins missed a 15-foot shot at the buzzer.

Pacers 96, Warriors 94

Ricky Sobers scored a game high 24 points, 18 points in the second half, as Indiana squeaked past Golden State to record its first victory ever on the Warriors' home court.

Golden State, which lost for the sixth time in its last eight home games, got 19 points from Clifford Ray.

Lakers 113, Celtics 104

Los Angeles went on a 2-8 tear midway through the third quarter to take the lead for good and go on to down Boston.

Jamaal Wilkes had 24 points for the Lakers, and ageless Lou Hudson had 22.

Chris Ford made 12 of his 19 field goal attempts and scored 29 points for Boston, which had a commanding 52-37 edge in rebounds but was unable to convert.

Bullets 132, SuperSonics 110

Elvin Hayes scored 32 points, 12 of them in the third quarter, as Washington pulverized Seattle. The SuperSonics, who have lost six of their last seven road games, got 16 points from Paul Silas.

Phillies Deal Full Hand With Cubs

PHILADELPHIA (AP)--The Philadelphia Phillies and Chicago Cubs have completed an eight-player deal featuring Chicago second baseman Manny Trillo and Philadelphia outfielder Jerry Martin and reserve catcher Barry Foote.

The Phillies sent Martin, Foote, second baseman Ted Sizemore and young right-handers Henry Mack and Derek Botelho to the Cubs Friday for Trillo, outfielder Greg Gross and reserve catcher Dave Rader.

Mack, 20, had a 15-4 record and a 2.79 ERA at Peninsula last year and led the Carolina League in strikeouts. He was the holdup in comsummating the trade, which actually was initiated last December at the winter baseball meetings in Orlando, Fla.

The Phillies recalled that they once sent a young rookie pitcher named Ferguson Jenkins to the Cubs, and he turned out to be one of the best pitchers in baseball. Thus, they hesitated at throwing Mack into the trade.

Botelho, 22, was the Phillies' No. 2 selection in the January 1976 draft. Last season with Reading in Class AA, he posted a 15-7 record with a 3.54 ERA, with 103 strikeouts.

The Phillies, however, wanted Trillo because they lost confidence in Sizemore, who suffered a triple fracture of the glove hand last summer and had problems swinging the bat. Sizemore, who will be 34 in April, hit .219.

Trillo, 29, considered one of the best second basemen in the National League, hit .261.

Tilghman Cards Hole In One

Ken Tilghman, a guest of John Risenhoover, hit a hole in one at Snyder Country Club Golf Course Friday afternoon.

Tilghman carded the ace on the 183-yard No. 3 hole, using a five iron.

It was his first hole in one.

WTC Duo Tries SPC Monday

LEVELLAND--Western Texas College basketball teams are scheduled in a double header here Monday, beginning at 6 p.m.

The Dusters will kick off the evening's fare, followed by a Westerner-South Plains tilt.

Coach Joe Cushing's Duster need a victory here to keep pace with Odessa. The WTC girls are a half-game back from the loop leader with an 8-2 conference record. Odessa is 9-2 and will host Frank Phillips on Monday.

The Westerners, under direction of Coach Nolan Richardson, come into Monday's game with a league leading 14-2 record and have already notched a fifth consecutive WJCAC championship.

South Plains girls are 3-7 while the boys are 8-8.

Astros To Begin Workouts Thursday

HOUSTON (AP)--Cesar Cedeno is scared, the pitching staff is determined and Bob Watson is still an Astro as the Houston Astros converge on Cocoa, Fla. this week to begin another quest for the National League playoffs.

The Astros, who never have never made the playoffs, dipped to a fifth place finish in the NL Western Division last year despite batting third in the league and J.R. Richard's record 303 strikeouts.

Houston's season was marred by an inconsistent pitching staff and the loss of Cedeno for 112 games following knee surgery but ever-optimistic President-General Manager Tal Smith sees brighter days ahead.

"We didn't always have a major league lineup on the field last year," Smith said. "But with the return of Cedeno and our improvement up the middle, it could be a different story this year."

The 1979 Astros story starts unfolding Tuesday when the full team will join pitchers and catchers in workouts.

Meeting Set For Legal Secretaries

A noon meeting will be held Wednesday at the Smorgesbord Restaurant to discuss the possibility of forming a Legal Secretaries Association.

The National Association of Legal Secretaries (International), whose motto is "Professionalism plus Education equals Excellence," is a nonprofit, nonsectarian, nonpartisan and nonunion organization formed to further the legal secretary's knowledge of the law and to uphold its honor and dignity; to stimulate a high order of business and professional attainment, and to create a high standard of ethics among its members.

The association fosters training programs for young people desiring to become legal secretaries, as well as courses for advanced legal secretaries. Social activities among its members are also encouraged, in addition to regular monthly meetings.

Persons engaged in work of a legal nature are eligible to join this group and are urged to attend this meeting. Reservations may be made by calling Sue Sewell at the office of Tom Chorn, 573-9368.

Four Mishaps Are Reported

A criminal mischief complaint and four traffic accidents have been investigated by city police.

The criminal mischief complaint was made by Roy Bailey who told officers someone threw a rock, cracking the glass on the front door of Snyder Glass and Mirror. The incident is alleged to have occurred between 6 p.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. Friday.

Friday's first traffic mishap was in the 1300 block of 24th St. at 8:23 a.m. It involved, reports show, a 1975 Chevrolet driven by Lloyd Merritt, the city animal warden, and a 1969 Dodge driven by Carley Delbert Tidwell.

The second collision was at the intersection of Huffman Ave. and the Old Lubbock Highway at 5:41 p.m. There, a 1974 GMC driven by Charles M. Hollaway was in collision with a 1974 Chevrolet driven by Tommy E. Daves of Ira.

The next traffic accident was at the intersection of Clairemont Road and Highway 84 bypass. It took place at 6:35 p.m. Friday and involved a 1975 Chevrolet driven by Terry Nolan Clark and a 1978 Mazda driven by Renee Ann Boyd of Amarillo.

The final mishap took place at 3605 Houston at 12:43 a.m. Saturday. Involved in it were a parked 1956 Chevrolet owned by Charles Taylor and a 1975 Ford driven by James Mitchell Butler.

Minor damage was reported in all the traffic accidents.

Conference On Family Violence Set

A conference on Family violence will be held in Lubbock on March 2-3 at the First Christian Church. This two-day conference will be from 8:30 a.m. on Friday until 3:15 p.m. and then on Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon. Cost and materials will be $5.

The conference, open to the public, will focus on the impact of family violence on the individual, family and the community.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation reports that a wife is beaten by her husband every 30 seconds and approximately 40 percent of all marriages will experience at least one violent incident.

Organizers of the conference are hopeful some answers will emerge at the event and that the sessions can help people become aware of the indicators of violence, of the ways we can help and the ways all of us can respond.

Snyder members of the local chapter of Eagle Forum will be represented and all interested parties are encouraged to attend.

No Demons Or Talking Dogs Says Son Of Sam

By RICHARD PIENCIAK
Associated Press Writer

ATTICA, N.Y. (AP) — For months he stalked a terrified city as the Son of Sam, the .44-caliber killer, eager to satisfy the bloodthirsty desires of his demanding demons and talking dogs.

Now, 1½ years after the last of his brutal attacks in which he killed six persons and wounded seven, a calm, coherent, smiling and polite David Berkowitz says he made it all up.

"I've let people step on me just once too often and now I've had enough. It's time for the truth to come out - not a story about demons, talking dogs and legions of satan's henchmen," Berkowitz said Thursday in his first prison interview. He said it was also his last interview.

He said the demon story was invented by his "wild imagination so as to find some form of justification for my criminal acts against society."

Berkowitz said he has no substitute reason for the killings, but he added that he no longer has the urge to kill. "Whatever it is has left me. I've mellowed," he said.

Berkowitz said he granted the 66-minute interview to The Associated Press, The New York Times and Newsday after reading with displeasure an AP story concerning a book-movie deal about his life being put together by McGraw-Hill Inc.

The 25-year-old curly haired killer - inmate number 78-A-1976 - said he wanted people to know the truth behind his claim he was commanded to kill by demons who spoke to him through a neighbor's dog. He said people might be discouraged from buying the book or watching the movie once they learned he had lied.

The interview in a small meeting room on the grounds of the New York State Correctional Facility at Attica was casual. Hands were shaken and a microphone was clipped to Berkowitz's gray corduroy shirt to record his remarks, then the confessed killer explained to the reporters why he had called the meeting.

Berkowitz said the book deal sounded as though "greedy vultures" - including his former lawyers and a court-appointed conservator who arranged the publishing pact - were out to make money at the expense of the familes of his victims.

WEED CONTROL IN DORMANT LAWNS

A robust weed population in dormant bermudagrass or St. Augustinegrass lawns is not only unsightly but can delay recovery of turfgrasses for several months.

Clover, chickweek, henbit and dandelions are common weed problems in lawns during winter and early spring months.

Homeowners can take several steps to control winter weeds in lawns.

Application of a preemergence herbicide such as Dacthal or Balan in October will prevent many winter weed problems. However, if you missed that opportunity, there are other methods to keep winter weeds in check.

Close mowing following periods of mild temperatures in February and March will greatly improve the appearance of a weedy lawn and will promote early recovery of turfgrasses. However, mowing will not eliminate the weeds. Systemic herbicides (chemical weed killers) such as Wipeout (Greenlight), Weed B-Gon, (Ortho) and Systemic Weed Control (Ferti-lome) will successfully control most broadleaf weed problems if used according to label instructions. Two applications of these materials about 14 days apart may be required for complete control of broadleaf weeds.

Systemic herbicides can be applied with a two-gallon pressure sprayer or a hose-end sprayer. Use care to apply materials uniformly at the recommended dosage when temperatures are above 60 degrees F.

If herbicides are applied properly, broadleaf weeds will begin to shrivel a few days after the first treatment and will turn brown after the second treatment. Close mowing several weeks after the second treatment should remove all traces of the broadleaf weeds and should promote recovery of desirable grasses.

Dacthal and Balan may be used in the early spring to control annual weeds and some grasses if applied before seed germination. In our area applications should be made prior to March 15. These chemicals may be applied up to April 1, but effectiveness will lessened.

Homeowners should be especially careful of products containing a combination of fertilizer and herbicide. These are usually refered to as "weed and seed" products. Many of the herbicides used in these products can cause damage to desirable trees and shrubs if application is made too closely. Follow directions exactly when applying weed and seed products.
