NEUTRALITY BILL PASSED IN SENATE AND SENT TO HOUSE

Half-Dozen Vote In Opposition To Measure

AMENDMENT OUT

Enforcement of Act By President Upheld

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP) — The Senate passed the Pittman neutrality bill Wednesday and sent it to the House.

The vote was 62 to 6.

All major attempts to amend the legislation were brushed aside by the big Democratic majority.

The Senate turned down 48 - 24 an amendment by Senator Vandenberg, Republican of Michigan, to take away discretionary power from the President to decide what commodities could be carried to belligerents on American ships.

It also rejected an amendment by Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, to make the so-called "cash and carry" plan discretionary instead of mandatory.

The permanent neutrality bill offered by Chairman Pittman, Democrat of Nevada, of the Foreign Relations Committee, would abandon America's traditional policy and adopt instead a program for keeping out of trouble on the high seas.

Despite the controversy over the measure it was passed by the Senate after only three days debate. There was little opposition except from those who insisted America should ship her goods wherever she chose, regardless of danger.

The bill would extend the present mandatory embargo on arms shipments; prohibit American travel on belligerent ships; outlaw shipments of American owned goods to belligerents; and permit the President to determine what trade American ships could carry to warring nations.

The six Senators who voted against the bill were: Austin, Vermont, Borah, Idaho; Bridges, New Hampshire; Gerry, Rhode Island; Johnson, California, and Lodge Massachusetts.

Just before the Senate voted, Senator Johnson, California said the measure would establish a "scuttle and run" policy which would not keep America out of war.

DENTIST ADMITS MURDER OF COED WITH CHLOROFORM

Had Been Questioned After Arrest In Richmond

RICHMOND, Va. Mar. 4. (AP) — Sheriff J. Mason Smith of Albemarle county announced on arriving here last night with Dr. R. G. Miller of Charlottesville, that the dentist had confessed to the chloroform murder of 18-year-old Cleo Sprouse.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. Mar. 4. (AP)—Police charged Dr. R. G. Miller, Charlottesville dentist last night with the murder of 18-year-old Cleo Sprouse, whose chloroformed body was found Tuesday on the edge of the University of Virginia campus.

Commonwealth's Attorney W. O. Fife said the warrant was issued after four hours and 45 minutes of questioning the 53-year-old dentist.

Dr. Miller was taken to the Henrico county (Richmond) jail while a milling throng pressed against police lines guarding his departure.

Fife said Dr. Miller was sent to Richmond "not because we fear violence to him, but because we are handicapped in our investigation. "It will be several days," he said, "before we know the result of analyses made on certain apparel, bits of cotton and other articles found on the body."

Borrowed Car

Fife said a car Dr. Miller admitted borrowing Monday afternoon, "reeked of chloroform" and contained fragments of medical cotton when it was returned to its owner. He reported Dr. Miller borrowed the machine from Hubert Carver, a salesman, with the understanding he would return it in an hour.

Carver told police at the hearing last night that Dr. Miller took his machine at 4 p. m., and did not return it until four hours later.

Earlier today the chloroform can found with the girl's body at the university cemetery, beside which the body was discovered, was sent to the federal bureau of investigation at Washington for examination for possible fingerprints.

Dr. Miller is married and the father of a son and a daughter.

Littleton W. Wood, Charlottesville city attorney, led the questioning while crowd's grew so great about the city hall a portion of the front portico collapse, though no one was injured.

Dr. Miller had reported to police earlier today the chloroform can found upturned on the girl's face was similar to one missing from his office after he treated the girl February 19.

The dentist said he had "stepped out of the office for a moment, leaving the girl in the chair," on that occasion, and as he returned saw his patient closing the door of th cabinet where the chloroform was kept.

Beneficent Rains Soak State Today Saving Production In Arid Regions

Girl Strikers Satirize 5 and 10 Heiress

Between counters loaded with 10-cent merchandise, girl employes of the main Woolworth 5-and-10 store in Detroit romped and sang songs which gaily satirized Countess von Haugwitz-Reventlow, the former Barbara Hutton, Woolworth heiress and formerly "the richest girl in the world." Five of the strikers are pictured here. Meantime, the strike leaders threatened to extend the "sitdown" throughout the entire Woolworth system, demanded more pay, shorter hours. The 150 girls in this Detroit store, and a dozen in another, ate at the store's fountains, slept on mattresses dragged into the aisles.

COMMITTEE FOR INSANE ASYLUM IN WEST TEXAS

Nearly Million Would Be Needed for The First Units

AUSTIN. Mar. 4. (AP)— A bill to establish a new insane hospital in West Texas received an unanimous favorable report yesterday from the house appropriation committee.

The proposal, by Reps. J. Doyle Settle of Lubbock and Howard C. Davison of Rotan, would appropriate $817,000 for the first units, which would care for 540 patients. The board would detetrmine the location. Lubbock, Sweetwater, San Angelo and Big Spring and Midland are among the sites which have been mentioned.

Settle pointed out that none of the five hospitals already established was farther west than Wichita Falls. He said 33.8 percent of the area of Texas could be better served by the proposed new institution.

Members of the board of control added their endorsement to the bill. They said the present legislature should provide space for 1380 more insane persons and there was no possibility of any of the existing institutions not being filled. A new hospital in West Texas would result in a considerable saving to many counties in the expense of transporting insane, they asserted.

The board members recommended that the new institutions be built up gradually to the size of the other hospitals.

MOST OF STATE IS VISITED BY RAIN OF SOME DEGREE

Precipitation Is To Continue, Weather Bureau Says

.16 OF INCH HERE

Showers Put Stop To Clouds of Dust Over City

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Beneficial rains soaked Texas today, brightening grain crop forecasts, and virtually saving production in regions where aridity had created serious conditions.

Precipitation served to clear skies of dust in portions of West Texas. Continued cloudy skies are promised with additional rains in the greater part of the state.

Midland residents gained relief from a sand storm that blew up early last night when rain started falling here about midnight.

Total precipitation in the city reached .16 of one inch, most of it falling after seven o'clock this morning. The rain was not heavy at any time during the night, varying from a mist to a heavy sprinkle. The fall was somewhat heavier at one time this morning. At the airport, 10 miles west of town, the total fall was .10.

Reports from over this area indicate the showers that fell here were general. A report from Crane said that approximately .10 of an inch had fallen there. From Odessa came a report that light showers had fallen. The rain extended north almost all the way to Hobbs but was not heavy enough to gauge there.

CAR OWNERS URGED TO BUY NEW PLATES

20 Per Cent Penalty To Be Imposed After April 1

Importance of paying for new car license plates was stressed today by officials of the tax collector's office when they announced a penalty of 20 percent would be placed on all owners purchasing the plates after April 1.

Fewer than 200 plates have been sold in the county out of the 3500 awarded by state officials. It will be almost impossible for employes of the local office to get rid of that many in the limited amount of time remaining.

After April 1 car owners not having the new plates will be assessed the 20 per cent penalty unless they swear to an affadavit that the car has not been driven since that time. All cars to be driven must have the new tags.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4—The administration's wage and hour program will be given to congress in about a month. A large pile of recommendations for "new NRA" legislation has accumulated at the White House and Roosevelt has asked a special group of advisers to study them and help formulate a program.

Although details remain to be worked out, it is reasonably safe to predict the main administrtaion bill will cover wages and hours exclusively, and will contain no provisions as to trade practices or any other phase of business regulation.

A federal board is planned to handle the establishment of maximum hours and minimum wages in American industries.

Present indications are that provisions of the bill will give that task to the National Labor Relations Board.

* * *

Two Plans Studied

Among plans being studied by the president's advisers are Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney's federal corporation licensing bill, a program worked out by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, and a proposal for a remodeled NRA, backed by Donald Richberg and Assistant Secretary Ernest G. Draper.

Chief of the advising group is John G. Winant, former Republican governor of New Hampshire, former assistant director of the International Labor Office, and, until recently, chairman of the Social Security Board. Roosevelt chose Winant because he wanted a nonpartisan of distinction who wasn't connected with any of the various factions lined up behind various plans.

The other members are Assistant Atty.-Gen. Robert H. Jackson, in charge of anti-trust legislation; General Counsel Ben Cohen of the National Power Policy Commission, and author of the New York minimum wage law; and Thomas G. Corcoran of RFC, Roosevelt's handy man and ace trouble-shooter.

The four will make a secret report to the president, upon which he is expected to base a message to Congress and some concrete proposals.

* * *

Conscience Bothered Him

The story of Winant's resignation from the Social Security chairmanship is almost a fairy story. He insisted on quitting because his conscience bothered him, although originally he had left a $25,000 job with the I. L. O. at Geneva to come here.

Winant privately insisted he did not belong in the chairmanship—because he was a Republican. He had repudiated his party during the campaign and gone on the stump for the Social Security Act after Governor Landon attacked it. But he kept insisting to Roosevelt: "I won't pretend to be a Democrat when I'm not."

No such sensitive conscience as Winant's has been seen here since the days of Grover Cleveland.

Just Wanted Silence

Congressman Maury Maverick of Texas, opening an address to the House:

"Mr. Chairman, usually when I get on this floor I am all steamed up, but I feel rather relaxed today, and anyone who wishes to sleep or rest during my address may do so. But I shall appreciate it if the gentlemen who are talking loudly will go outside, so that the rest can sleep if they wish. That is only parliamentary courtesy."

Apology for McGrady

The General Motors Company sent one of its highest officials to make a personal apology to Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady following revelation by the LaFollette committee that McGrady had been spied upon by Pinkerton operatives hired by the corporation. It happened while he was trying to mediate a strike at Toledo.

The G. M. offical told McGrady the company hadn't known anything about that item of espionage.

Crime Picture Puzzle

Shadow Cities Attributed To Many Wrong Guesses

PIERRE, S. D. (U.P.) — Historical "quirks of fate" have relegated numerous South Dakota communities—once facing brilliant futures—to the legion of the West's "Ghost cities."

Every mining region is dotted with the scattered remains of what once were roaring camps of wealth and possibilities—mush-room towns that disappeared as quickly as they came once ore veins were exhausted.

Then there are "shadow" towns that owe their status to a misjudgment as to the course of railroad, or to the removal of the county seat to some other location.

One of the most striking examples of towns that "died overnight" is old Minnesela, eight miles southeast of Belle Fourche, which was a flourshing village before Belle Fourche was born.

When a railroad company planned to hold a sale of lots at the forks of the Belle Fourche River, Minnesela residents showered officials with reasons why their town was destined to become a "second Chicago." But the railroad won out and Minneselans accepted the inevitable and moved to the new location—all except one man. He took over the hotel, converted it into a farmhouse and remained at old Minnesela until his died last year.

Midland People Visit GM Show In Big Spring Wed.

A story of evolution in industry is interestingly and conclusively shown in an almost unbelievable manner in the gigantic General Motors Parade of Progress Exposition which closed a two day stand in Big Spring last night, many citizens of Midland viewing the marvelous attraction in the neighboring city.

The large and impressive motorized caravan, which consists of some 23 monsterous truck or van units and about 20 stock cars, passed through Midland enroute to El Paso, shortly after 1 o'clock today, the motorcade being scheduled to spend the night in Pecos. The units and cars travel about 200 feet apart making a 10 mile parade. The exposition will open in El Paso on Saturday evening.

The moving research exhibits that proved most popular at the Chicago World's Fair have been collected for this "circus of science" and to them new wonders have been added. The old and the new in industry and transportation are shown very clearly by comparison, miniature exhibits serving this purpose. Dioramas show animated street scenes of 1900 and of 1937, each with typical vehicles. The old and the modern in kitchens and living rooms are also on display as are many other things in which great and rapid strides of advancement have been made. Modern power plants generate power for the entire exhibit. A giant tent on the set will seat 1,500 people with a 3,000 person turnover per hour. Motion pictures are shown in the large tent, a complete projection room on wheels being included in the exposition. A 1902 model Oldsmobile is also on display.

The Parade of Progress is strictly educational from every standpoint, and was declared exceptionally interesting and worthwhile by the large crowds who saw the free show in Big Spring.

Over 12,000 people were reported to have visited the Parade of Progress yesterday.

The exposition has a personnel of 60 men, each branch of General Motors being represented by well trained experts who are masters in their individual fields. The exposition will continue on to California, returning through this section in the fall.

W. B. Simpson and Bill Collyns, vice president and manager, respectively, of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, attended a party given in honor of the personnel of the General Motors Parade of Progress at the Big Spring Country Club Wednesday evening as the guests of Lawrence M. Corcoran, chief of the exposition's publicity department. Following a delightful buffet supper and entertaining floor show, the two local men were escorted through the Parade of Progress Exposition by J. P. Dever, technical director, J. J. Bogan, Fisher Body representative, Bob Wagner, construction foreman, and Harrison Warner.

KNOTLESS WOOD MAY BE GROWN

MADISON, Wis. (U.P.) — From a two-year study of 10,000 wood knots Benson H. Paul, U. S. forest products laboratory scientist learned how to produce knotless lumber.

Paul, an associate of Arthur Koehler, wood expert called as a witness in the Hauptmann trial, has studied trees from the forests of Wisconsin, North Carolina, Florida, and Mississippi for the last 15 years. He can look at a tree's knots and determine immediately its value as lumber.

Since knotless lumber is of far greater value than knotty lumber Paul went to work to discover how to develop knot-free trees.

In releasing the results of his studies, Paul pointed out that side branches on tree trunks are responsible for knots on a log. Natural pruning of side branches is a snail's progress brought about by the limbs dying from exclusion of sunlight, he said.

"The decayed branches drop to the ground, leaving irreguar stubs that often cling to the tree for 50 or 100 years before they are enclosed by new growth layers as a fence post in drifting sand," Paul explained.

It is these broken branches that appear as knots when the trees are cut up for lumber.

To escape knot formation Paul recommended early pruning of forest trees. That makes the pruning scars smaller and restricts them to the center of the tree. Branches, he said, always should be removed with a saw rather than an ax. A smoother cut close to the trunk permits immediate formation of clear lumber, according to silviculturist's report.

Dean Courting Black Eye If He Is Planning on Directing Owen's Work

'I'm Pretty Tough Myself,' Rookie Warns Dizzy

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Mar. 4 —Dizzy Dean couldn't get along with Virgil Davis. The Great One was aboard Bruise Ogrodowski a good share of the time last season. A fine second guesser is o' Diz.

But Dean is likely to be caught by a youngster this trip who will shoot it back as fast as the former cotton picker dishes it out.

"From what I understand, I may have a little battle on my hands with Dizzy," says Arnold (Mickey) Owen, brilliant catcher prospect of the St. Louis Cardinals. "I'll get along with Dizzy if he attends to his pitching, and doesn't try to tell me how to catch. Dean may be the great Dean fellow to himself, but he'll never give me instructions in a ball game.

"If he attempts to, there'll be a good, old-fashioned scuffling match back in the clubhouse, and you may rest assured that I'll come out on top.

"I've learned a lot in the last two seasons, and the first thing is not to let any of the big shots run over the kids. I'll get along with Dizzy if he minds his own business.

"I know all about pitching and catching. All you have to do is pick on your batter's weakness, and pour it on in that spot. Give them the old No. 2—the curve, and slow up on fence-busters who dig their spikes in the dirt around the plate."

Owen, a right-handed hitter of fine speed, turned in an average of .336 with Columbus last term. He appears to have everything including intelligence and a rifle arm.

Arnold (Mickey) Owen . . . rookie catcher of the St. Louis Cardinals who will pitch words right back at Dizzy Dean.

LACK OF SIZE NO HANDICAP

Owen yet hasn't had an opportunity to show Frank Frisch what he can do at the Red Birds' new camp here. But he advises the old Fordham Flash not to worry because he is not one of those 6-foot, 200-pounders.

The Los Angeles kid appears capable of taking care of himself in any company. He's a handsome chap who comes in at 165 pounds, despite a lack of height. He's big enough, and all hands are inclined to believe that he is good enough.

"If Frisch thinks I'm a tenderfoot, too small to hold a big league job, let him bring out some of those big guys, and I'll guarantee to put them on their backs in five minutes or walk back to California," beams Owen, who will be 20 on April 4.

Owen boxed and wrestled, put the shot farther than any other kid, and played baseball and football for Washington High School of Los Angeles. He already has told Frisch that all the old Flash has to do is manage the Cardinals and he'll look after the catching.

Pepper Martin is Owen's idol, which is just another indication that he is a true Cardinal. Owen already talks of wearing a world series diamond ring.

Mickey says he owes everything to his mother, the American Legion, and Charley Barrett, daddy of baseball scouts. It was the patient Barrett, so accurate in his judgment of players, that kept the youth in the red-blazered organization.

SELF-CONFIDENT CRACK LANDED OWEN IN MAJORS

Owen recounts how, while playing with an American Legion team in Los Angeles, he remarked that they'd see him in the majors before long. The crack actually landed him his chance, for who hapened to be standing around listening but a man named Johnny Angel.

"I didn't know much about Johnny except that he happened to take a great interest in our club" recites Owen. "I saw him at every game that I played with a semi-pro team in 1934. I didn't suspect anything about Johnny, but here's what happened. He was a close friend of Barrett, and the one who told Barrett to give me an opportunity to make good with the Cardinals.

"That winter Angel came around to our house and told me he had placed me with Houston.

"They took a lot of wind out of me at Houston when I reported for training in the spring of 1935. Fred Ankenman, president of the club, took a good look at me and let me go without asking any questions.

"I hung around Houston for a couple of days, and who should drop in but Barrett. He told me not to worry about it because he had seen hundeds and hundreds of players get the same release slip.

"Charley bundled me into his automobile and took me to Springfield, Mo., where I was born, and told George Payne, manager of the Western Association team there, that I was the new first-string catcher.

"And I hadn't caught a professional ball game in my life.

"I'M PRETTY TOUGH MYSELF," SAYS OWEN

"I haven't forgotten Barrett's words of encouragement when the Cardinals sent me to Columbus in 1936. He took me aside one night and told me that the American Association wasn't a bit different from the Western Association, and that in two years he'd have me with the Cardinals.

"Out in California, I read about the Gas-House Gang stuff of the Cardinals. That's right down my alley, because I'm a pretty tough kid myself. I picked the name of 'Mickey' after the Gas-House Gang. I didn't think that 'Arnold' was the right name for a fellow who would be palling around with Pepper Martin."

Barrett beat himself to the punch by one year in the case of Mickey Owen. The young man caught the all-star game in the Western Association in 1935 and the all-star game in the American Association in 1936. Looking at him and talking to him, you wouldn't be surprised if he caught for the National League All-Stars in July.

The Cardinals certainly do come up with them.

IMPROVED USE OF DUST BOWL LAND IS ADVISED TO COMBAT LOSS OF CROPS

MANHATTAN, Kas. March 4. (U.P.) —Wheat growers in the southwestern areas ravaged by recurring dust storms will have to readjust their farming practices to make the most efficient use of precipitation, agricultural authorities here say.

Workers at the Kansas experiment station and state extension workers have been recommending changes for many years, including:

Use of sandy soils more exclusively for row crops; greater development of strip farming where it is practical; increased summer fallowing; increased production and conservation of feed crops, and reseeding of range land with native and tame grasses and legumes.

"The long-time effect of these practices would be to make the Southwest a more reliable wheat-producing area," according to Dean H. Umberger, Kansas State College extension director.

Some Land Only For Grass

"Certain areas will have to be returned to grass, because they are unsuited to profitable farming and because adjoining areas must be protected, and also because there is no profitable market for crops that might be produced on them."

An increase in the number of tenant-operated farms during recent years and the large percentage of farms operated by non-residents," he reported. "In four counties, non-residents own an average of almost 60 per cent of the land. Programs that will increase the percentage of farmers who own and live on the land they operate will also improve the use of that land."

Million Fund Asked

The federal government is helping to fight the soil-blowing menace with payments to farmers for listing of their land. A sub-committee of the Great Plains regional advisory committee which is studying means of combating erosion has asked the federal government for a $1,000,000 emergency fund to help pay for the work.

Resettlement administration workers have criticized the agriculture department's system of bounty payments to farmers for production as contributing "to land misuse rather than in aiding better farming methods."

"The AAA has subsidized production of wheat on land where wheat should not be produced," Rogers Stewart, Resettlement Administrator coordinator for Kansas, said. "Many of the farmers have spent their time farming the government instead of farming their land."

Last spring 1,814,870 acres in 42 western Kansas counties were listed to stop soil drifting at a cost of $360,428, providing protection for 3,000,000 acres of land. During the fall 311,006 acres in 27 counties were listed at a cost of $20,340.

Volunteer Body Helps

Volunteer wind erosion committees are formed in the counties to which funds are allocated. They determine where listing is necessary, set the rates of payment and approve applications for payments when the work is done.

Similar steps are being taken in the Oklahoma and Texas Panhandle to halt the dust menace.

Umberger reported agricultural planning committees of farmers in 39 western Kansas counties have recommended that 435,000 acres of crop land be returned to grass by 1938 and that additional land should be taken out of production in later years.

Suggestions have been made by some southwestern authorities that the federal government to buy up eroded land and develop it to overcome blowing dust.

Fluffy Wool Woven From Banana Skins

MANCHESTER, Eng. (U.P.) — Manchestetr, home of Great Britain's textile industry, has gone one better than Italy and Germany in the evolution of artificial wool and has dicovered how to produce "wool" from banana skins.

Germany came first with "wool" from wood, followed by Italy with "wool" from milk, but Lancashire is planning "wool" from banana skins rescued from the dustbin. At the Victoria Mill, in the Droylsden district of Manchester, a yarn has just been produced in part from the fiber of banana skin, and has been woven successfully into a length of dress material.

"Experiments have been proceeding for years," said a director of the firm. "Our aim has been to discover a synthetic wool which would be warm and fluffy and which could be used, mixed with artificial silk, in the production of silk-like high-class dress goods.

INCREASED ENROLLMENT IS MAJOR PROBLEM AT UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS

AUSTIN, Texas. March 4 —Increased enrollment is the major problem at the University of Texas, it was pointed out by Dr. H. Y. Benedict, president, in the greetings which he sent to all ex-students today, to be read at all "Texas Ex" banquets throughout the country. Approximately one hundred gatherings were held within the state, and some score of metropolitan centers of other states, according to the local headquarters of the Ex-Students Association.

"Despite the fact that September 1 to September 1 is the fiscal year of the state, the March 2 banquets are so important that they make March 2 to March 2 the real year of the university," Dr. Benedict said.

"The increasing number of students at the university is the most important and pressing fact with the institution. There is not money enough to take care of them and even the totality of new buildings is insufficient. In the last three years the student body has increased 2,500, in the last ten years it has increased, 4,000, and the money available for running expenses has remained practically the same at it was ten years ago. The university is now tenth in size in the United States, the Summer School third in size. Various classes are bulging out of the windows and the requests for additional instructors and paper graders are so numerous that saying 'No' to them keeps the poor President of the university in a state of nervous prostration.

"Except for this sad situation and a few others, everything is lovely. The Museum and dormitories and Main Building are being finished, the legislature is in session, the coeds are as attractive as ever, the size of the next biennial appropriation is yet in doubt, the number of bustees is normal, spring athletes are getting ready to spring.

"The university, in short, exhibits that usual mixture of fortune and misfortune that characterizes human affairs. It is not perfect, but it is trying to be better and its future is secure. I continue to be a sore of nearby pessimist and long distance optimist.

"The optimism is based on the belief that the Texas Exes will continue to care for the university. The only real wealth of a state university is the continuing support of the people it serves. Your affection for the university is worth far more than its lands. Oil fields become exhausted, investments become worthless, but the group of Texas Exes is immortal.

"Strengthening local friendships, strengthening the ties that bind you to the university, renewing your youth, reviving memories of college days, rejoicing in the progress of the university, resolving to help the university to a finer life and broader service, resolving to do the same for yourself and family and friends and country, may your 1937 banquets be without a flaw."

New "Un-Named" Auto Station to Be Open Friday

Opening of the "Un-named" service station at the corner of Wall and Colorado streets, is scheduled for Friday, as announced in advertisements of today's paper. The new establishment, with Fred Wemple, proprietor, and Dick Whitson, manager, is a Magnolia Petroleum Co. station, located on the former public library site, and is of ultra-moden architecture, design and arrangement.

A contest is being conducted by the new station to secure a name, with cash prizes to be awarded.

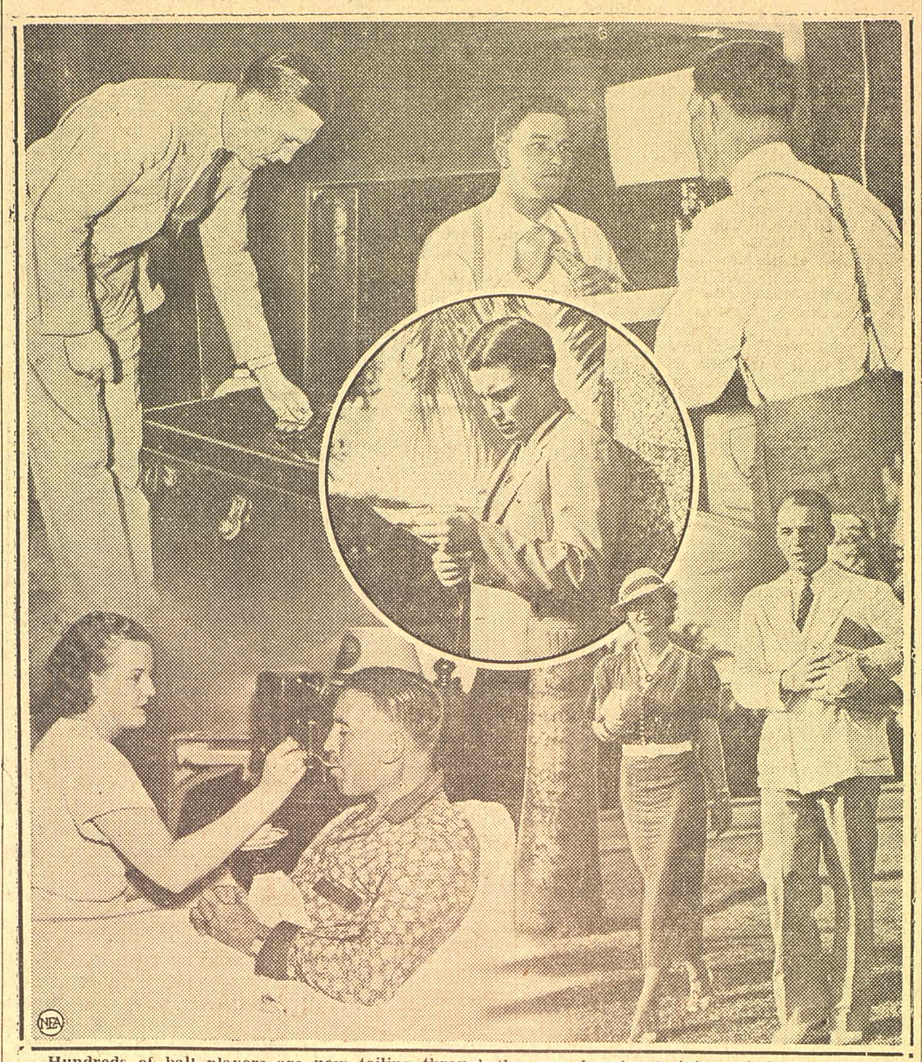

Although operated separately from the Ever-Ready Auto Service, established by Wemple in 1923, the two concerns will have books and credit accounts handled through the same office, to facilitate service.

Of modernistic architecture, the new station building is finished in white and trimmed with black structural glass, curved about the rounder portions of the attractive front. Equipment for the various branches of automobile service is entirely new and of types proven in larger establishments over the nation.

An "open house" will be held Friday, at which time visitors are invited to inspect the new business.

England has a shortage of schoolmasters ,having only one to every 50 boys, while there is a schoolmistress to every 25 girls.

Slaving Through Training Grind

Hundreds of ball players are now toiling through the annual spring training grind. Here are some of the unfortunate peons of the New York Giants' firm slaving away at Havana, Cuba. Outfielder Joe Moore, upper left, is reaching into the strong-box for money—presumably he plans on Havana good time after hours. Outfielder Mel Ott, upper right, is saying, "Wait for me, Joe," as he straightens his tie. Pitcher Clyde Castleman, inset, has a ,homesick look reading a letter from home. Poor Clyde probably misses the whistle of wintry winds. Shortstop Dick Bartell, lower left, has a touch of grippe, but isn't worried with charming Mrs. Bartell playing nurse. And, lower right, we see Pitcher and Mrs. Hal Schumacher coming back from a shopping tour. The poor slaveys. . . .

VOLCANO PERIL MAY BE ENDED

HILO, Hawaii. Mar. 4. (U.P.) — Threat of destruction to the Hawaiian Islands' second largest city by lava flows from Mauna Loa may be ended by man-made barricades to divert the molten rock into harmless areas.

Although careful to point out such a flow may never come near Hilo, Dr. T. A. Jagger, volcanologist at Hawaii National Park, has recommended construction of barricades costing $800,000 to safe-guard the city.

No Need for Menace

"The shadow of the lava menace is as removable as the shadow of malaria," Dr. Jagger said. "It merely never occurred to anyone to remove it—remove the lava threat and watch Hilo go ahead by leaps and bounds."

Dr. Jagger explained the north rift of Mauna Loa in the Hilo direction now is open and ready for possible action. Most recent flows have not threatened the city.

"We now in 1937 find ourselves with the island structure broken wide open for a succession of lava flows historically similar to the series in 1852-81, which ended progressively closer to Hilo," Dr. Jagger said.

Three Defenses Mapped

Recommendations for the protective embankments provide for construction of three lines of defense One would be high up the slopes of Mauna Loa, in the "source belt" where the lava breaks from rifts in the mountain.

The second would be an intermediate line designed to protect Hilo's water supply if the first line should fail. The final barricade, called by Dr. Jagger the "Hindenburg line," would be a causeway seven miles long and 18 feet high immediately above Hilo and the Hilo harbor.

All the defenses would be constructed of lava rock. Their purpose would be to direct the flow away from dangerous areas rather than to halt it, which virtually would be impossible.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, lumbago, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffinessunder theeyes, headachesand dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Income Tax In A Nutshell

YOUR INCOME TAX NO. 17 CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Section 117 of the Revenue Act of 1936 deals with the manner or method of taking into account in computing net income gains and losses from the sale or exchange of capital assets as computed and recognized under sections 111, 112, and 113.

Section 117 (a) provides that in the case of a taxpayer other than a corporation only the following percentages of the gain or loss recognized up the sale or exchange of a capital asset shall be taken into account in computing net income: 100 percent if the capital asset has been held for not more than 1 year; 80 percent if the capital asset has been held for more than 1 year but not for more than 2 years; 60 percent if the capital asset has been held for more than 2 years but not for more than 5 years; 40 percent if the capital asset has been held for more than 5 years but not for more than 10 years; 30 percent if the capital asset has been held for more than 10 years.

Section 117 (b) defines capital assets as property held by the taxpayer (whether or not connected with his trade or business), but does not include stock in trade of the taxpayer or other property of a kind which would properly be included in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year, or property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of his trade or business. In this definition the length of time the asset was held by the taxpayer is disregarded.

Section 117 (c) provides the rules for determining the period for which a capital asset has been held. These provisions are in general to the effect that, where property is acquired in an exchange and the property so acquired retains the old basis on which to compute gain or loss or where property is acquired from another persons and the property retains the same basis on which to compute gain or loss as it had in the hands of the person from which it was so acquired, the period for which the property disposed of in the exchange of the period during which the property was held by such former owner is also to be included in determining the period for which the property is held for the purpose of section 117 (a).

Section 117 (d) provides a very important limitation affecting all taxpayers (including corporations, except with respect to banks and trust companies), that is, that losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets shall be allowed only to the extent of $2,000 plus the gains from such sales or exchanges.

Section 117 (e) provides that gains or losses from "short sales" of property, and gains or losses attributable to the failure to exercise privileges or options to buy or sell property, shall be considered as gains or losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets. In the former the percentage of the gain or loss to be taken into account shall be computed according to the period for which the property delivered was held. In the latter the gains and losses shall be considered as arising from sales or exchanges of capital assets held for 1 year or less.

Section 117 (f) provides that amounts received upon the retirement of corporate bonds and similar evidences of corporate indebtedness, with interest coupons or in registered form, shall be considered as amounts received in exchange therefor, thus giving to any gain or loss thereby resulting to the holder the status of capital gain or loss, as the case may be.

Demonstration Is Given by Mrs. Jones

To begin her interior home improvement demonstration, Mrs. L. M. Jones, Valley View bedroom demonstrator, has under construction a closet in the boy's bedroom.

After this is completed it will be papered and Mrs. Jones will have a closet in the boys' bedroom and at no expense.

STORIES IN STAMPS

BY I. S. KLEIN

Naval Leader of The Civil War

DAVID GLASGOW FARRAGUT was 9 years old in 1810, when he entered the U. S. Navy as midshipman. From then on to his death in 1870, he was in active service, and although a native of Tennessee, he made his greatest mark as commander of the Union naval forces in the Mississippi and the Gulf of Mexico.

Placed in command of the West Gulf blockading squadron during the Civil War, Farragut risked the fire of two forts commanding New Orleans. Sailing through a flotilla of fire rafts, he destroyed a Confederate fleet of 15 ships, and captured the city. In 1864, he braved the fire of two forts on Mobile Bay and destroyed the enemy fleet harbored there. Made rear admiral in 1862, he became vice admiral in 1864, and admiral two years later, by express provision of Congress.

His portrait appears with that of Admiral David D. Porter on the new 3-cent navy stamp.

Light Is Cast On Punctures by Study

LONDON. (U.P.) — An exhaustive inquiry into the causes and cures of automobile tire punctures has just been concluded in Great Britain by 1,000 road patrols.

The investigation confirmed largely to the main roads of the country, was organized by the Automobile Association after it had received many complaints that modern methods of road surfacing, combined with the higher braking power and quicker acceleration possessed by cars, shorten the life of the best tires by several thousand miles.

An analysis of the return shows that three-quarters of the punctures that came under the notice of the observers were in rear ties, and that of the number two-thirds were in tires on the near-side rear wheel.

The explanation was simple. Any loose material on a roadway is scattered by passing cars to the edge of the highway, and the small flints and stone dressing lie there ready to embed themselves in the tires of cars that follow. The rear tires, being on the driving wheels, are more prone to suffer first; and the near-side tires are those which come into contact with the most generous share of sharp points. The remedy suggestetd by an A. A. official is more careful road surfacing and systematic road cleansing, with more attention to the sides.

BILL CARR, OLYMPIC ACE, IS PEDDLING INSURANCE

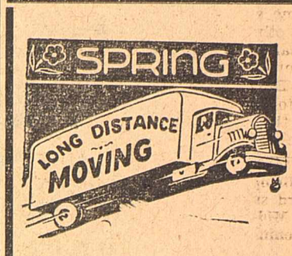

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 4—Bill Carr, 400-meter champion of the 1932 Olympic Games, is selling insurance here.

Carr's track career was halted abruptly when both of his ankles were broken in an automobile accident. The injuries left him with a slight limp.

Carole Lombard says:
"Advised by my singing coach, I changed to Luckies"

"In my new picture 'Swing High, Swing Low' I sing a song for the first time since I have been on the screen. To do this, I spent months taking singing lessons. And with this added strain, my throat was not in good shape. My singing coach suggested that when choosing cigarettes, I select a light smoke. And so I changed to Luckies. Since then I've found that a light smoke and my throat get along together just fine."

Carole Lombard

CURRENTLY STARRING IN PARAMOUNT PICTURES' "SWING HIGH, SWING LOW"

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Miss Lombard verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

Beware The Cough
From a common cold
That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies; such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Wild Cherry and Menthol, but also has fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go get a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

High Praise Given Midland Schools By State Official Here

Miss Nell Parmley, state supervisor of music, visited the Midland schools Wednesday morning and Thursday morning of this week, checking both the public school music and the band music, and was very enthusiastic over the work which is being done in both departments. Miss Parmley made a thorough inspection of all the music of the Midland system, having the high school chorus and choral reading work Wednesday and Thursday mornings, the high school band for thirty minutes on Thursday morning, two groups at the junior high school, the rhythm band and assembly chorus at north elementary school, two groups at south elementary school, the colored school, and two groups in the Mexican school. She was very complimentary of the work which is being done by Mrs. De Lo Douglas, Miss Jessie Scott Price, Miss Geraldine Dabney, and Miss Frances Gillett, stating among other things that it was her opinion that the Midland schools were the best in the state in music.

Asks for Midland Plan

Miss Parmley is preparing the state bulletin on music, and asked the Midland superintendent for an outline of the "Midland Plan" to be placed in the state music bulletin, expressing the hope that all schools could emulate the example of Midland in its music program. She also stated that she had received some excellent suggestions from M. A. Armstrong, band director of the high school, which she hoped to incorporate in her bulletin. Miss Parmley is a wonderful singer, and favored the high school and the junior high school with several selections singing some of them without accompaniment. Miss Parmley spoke of the program given by the Midland high school at the Texas Centennial last fall, stating that she had heard more favorable comment on it than she had on any other centennial school program.

Miss Parley left Midland to attend the section of the Texas State Teachers' Association which meets in Alpine March 5 and 6.
