

Berlin Reds Impose More Restrictions On Worker Traffic

By LOYAL GOULD
BERLIN (AP) — The Communists imposed new restrictions today on East Germans who work in the Western sectors of this divided city. The United States, Britain and France fired off notes asking the Soviet commandant in Berlin to put an end to all such measures.

The three Western military commandants in the city sent identical letters to Col. Andrei I. Solovyev, commander of Soviet troops in the city, saying all such measures worsen the atmosphere in Berlin and warning against this.

They said the actions taken against persons crossing the border to work in the West include denial of certain facilities to the children of such workers, special financial penalties and eviction from their homes. Additionally, West Berlin officials said special identity cards are being issued by Red police to East German residents of nearby East German towns holding jobs in West Berlin. The cards bar the holders from Berlin.

This will force them to give up their jobs. The Reds earlier gave such restrictive cards only to persons suspected of planning to escape.

The three commandants denounced actions against the commuters as a violation of agreements between the Soviet Union and the West and objectionable on humanitarian grounds.

Information Bureau West, a private West Berlin intelligence agency, reported another Communist pinprick designed to hinder travel into the Berlin area.

It said prices for travel permits used by West Berliners to visit East Germany had been boosted to $1.25 from 75 cents.

The protest note was directed against those and other measures. It was delivered to Col. Andrei I. Solovyev, the Soviet commandant, and would normally be signed by Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, his American counterpart.

The British, French and American sectors of Berlin are each under the command of a general. The chairmanship rotates among them from month to month. This month, Gen. Watson is in the chair.

His protest was reported to have the approval of Maj. Gen. Sir Rohan Delacombe of Britain and Maj. Gen. Jean Lacomme of France.

It would also be normal for such a protest to be made only on instructions from Washington, London and Paris.

A spokesman for West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt said he had not asked for any action by the commandants.

Washington (AP)—Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon left for the Inter-American Economic and Social Conference at Punta del Este, Uruguay, today, pledging a "warm, sympathetic, and ready response" to the problem of Latin America.

His first stop will be Brasilia where he will meet with President Janio Quadros of Brazil Friday before continuing to Montevideo, Uruguay.

In a statement at the airport, Dillon said "as we leave for Punta del Este, we are very conscious of our heavy responsibility."

Dillon said he expects to find "a firm determination among the other delegations to attack the basic causes of social injustice in their countries, and to apply intensified energies and resources to their own social and economic development."

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy signed today a bill to authorize spending an extra billion dollars on missiles, ships and planes to bolster the armed service in the face of Soviet threat against Berlin.

The Senate prepared to act on an expanded $1 billion defense money bill including Kennedy's request for an extra $3.5 billion—some of it for items in the newly passed authorization bill. Passage appeared certain, with leaders of both parties endorsing the added funds.

Kennedy acted with rare speed in signing the authorization measure. He penned his name on the bill less than 24 hours after the House rushed it to him by a unanimous 403-0 vote.

Soviets Reply To Notes Of July 17

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko today handed notes on the Berlin situation to envoys of Britain, France, West Germany and the United States.

The notes reply to those the Western powers delivered on July 17, saying the lives of millions are being endangered by Soviet threats to West Berlin.

The Soviet replies were not immediately made public.

One source said he expected the Moscow press to publish them Friday.

Khrushchev Agrees Talks Are Possible

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev today agreed with Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani that East-West negotiations to settle the explosive Berlin crisis are "opportune and possible."

An Italian announcement on two days of talks by the two heads of government over a Kremlin conference table said Fanfani, in urging negotiations, made it clear he spoke for all the Western Allies.

"It would be dangerous to believe that the solution of present difficulties can come from unilateral action," the spokesman quoted Fanfani as saying.

Fanfani said Western moves following Khrushchev's announcement that he would sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany should not be mistaken for aggressive intentions.

"Finally, the will to negotiate must not be mistaken for weakness," he added.

Honbert Bianchi, head of the Italian government press department, issued a statement after the last meeting between Khrushchev and Fanfani. The statement said:

"With this idea that negotiations are opportune and possible, Mr. Khrushchev also agreed."

Khrushchev and Fanfani parted after an Italian Embassy luncheon during which Khrushchev restated the Soviet position on the German question.

As the Italian spokesman brief newsmen, Tass was reiterating Khrushchev's warning that a peace treaty would be signed with East Germany by the end of the year unless there is a "coordinated solution" of the question.

It stressed this portion of Khrushchev's talk at the luncheon table with Fanfani today.

"During the luncheon," Khrushchev told Fanfani that the Soviet Union could be compared with a caterpillar lying peacefully on the ground.

It can be touched and nothing happens, but if you rub it the wrong way it curls up and reacts violently, Khrushchev said.

The only amendments adopted were offered by Sen. Wardlaw Lane, Center, sponsor of the bill. One changed an exemption in the 2 per cent sales tax for outer wearing apparel costing less than $10 to apply only to cotton, twill, poplin, denim and chambray materials.

Defeated amendments included one by Gonzalez to limit the sales tax to 2 years, one to exempt all clothing under $10, one to increase the gas production tax from 7 to 8 per cent if the dedicated reserves tax provision in the bill is found to be unconstitutional, one to make the 2 per cent sales tax apply to liquor, beer and wine in addition to the present sales taxes on those items.

Shortly after midnight several senators renegotiated with the congressional conferees and passed a $360 million sales tax package.

The 20-10 vote of approval came at 1:18 a.m., just five minutes after Sen. Henry Gonzalez, S. and Anthon ended an eight-hour marathon monologue against the measure.

The bill HB20 goes to the House where it is expected representatives will refuse the Senate version and ask for a joint compromise committee. The Senate voted to return at 3 p.m. today.

The House met this morning to continue arguments over two so-called economy measures designed to save the state $6 million the next two years.

Gonzalez, who is an announced candidate for Congress as a successor to U. S. Rep. Paul Kilday, began his filibuster at 3:15 p.m. on his amendment that would have removed the principal revenue raising feature of the tax bill—a 2 per cent sales tax. At first he said he would talk only to midnight. Later he told members to go to bed as he planned to talk until breakfast today.

He said the bill would be passed by the House today.

GUNFIRE HALTS HIJACKED PLANE

BULLETIN
EL PASO (AP) — Hijackers who grabbed control of a jet airliner today, terrorized passengers and crew and announced they were taking the plane to Cuba, surrendered at 10:35 a.m. MST.

Authorities took 12 persons off the Continental Airlines plane.

All the 12 were handcuffed, apparently to hold them while officers sorted the hijackers from the hostage passengers and crewmen.

By BILL RICHARDSON
EL PASO, TEX. (AP)—Gunnmen hijacked a Continental Airlines jet today, forced it to land at El Paso to refuel, then were prevented by gunfire from taking off for Cuba.

Seven hours after the $5 million Boeing 707 landed at International Airport trucks, baggage trailers, ambulances and armed officers still surrounded the plane to prevent its departure. Nearby Ft. Bliss had been advised that at mid-morning no Army troops were at the airport.

There were 67 passengers and a crew of six aboard the flight which originated in Houston, Tex. and was en route to Los Angeles.

All but six crewmen and four passengers were released. None of them was injured when officers shot out 10 tires as the plane attempted to taxi and take off.

Mrs. Adelia Wyong of San Antonio, Tex., a passenger, said that after the airliner left Phoenix, Ariz., the gunmen announced they were taking the plane and flying straight to Havana, but would land at El Paso for fuel.

She said a pregnant woman sitting behind her became hysterical and this apparently led to the decision to release all the passengers.

By RONNER TINER
As told to the Houston Chronicle by Ronner Tiner, Houston (AP)—

El Paso (AP)—We were airborne and I was sleeping when the voice of the pilot woke me up. He said the plane had been hijacked.

At first I thought this was a bad dream.

Then the pilot said over the intercom:

"We're headed for Havana, Cuba."

We were just about 5 minutes out of El Paso at that time.

The pilot's words shocked me very much. Most of the men passengers stayed calm. However, the women were jittery and talking loudly.

The next thing I knew the plane had landed at El Paso.

I guess the pilot talked the bandits out of flying to Cuba by telling them he was low on fuel.

The authorities said four men hijacked the plane.

I saw only one gunman. He was just a boy, about 18. He didn't look like a Cuban.

He carried a big .45 automatic. I understand the other man was his father. He must have stayed in the cabin with the pilot because I never saw him.

The pilot kept telling the passengers not to try anything. Otherwise, he said, someone might get hurt.

No one tried anything. I guess that was the wise thing.

I'm sure that pilot talked them out of going to Cuba.

Once they landed, they started bargaining for a smaller plane. After they freed most of us, I saw the big Continental jet taxi down the runway like it was going to take off again.

That's when the Border Patrol, FBI and police shot the plane all up. I mean they shot the tires and the fuel tanks. That plane couldn't go anywhere anymore.

Last thing I heard was that they were bargaining for a DC-7B, a 4-engine plane in exchange for the big jet.

The gunman said he had command of the jet and the hostages.

We're all waiting for an American Air Line plane that is supposed to be given to them.

Just now we're waiting for the plane to get here.

Names of the four hostages were not immediately learned.

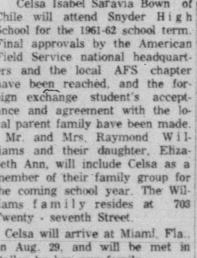

Continental Airlines said four men boarded the plane at Los Angeles but one passenger, C. J. Gerker, Phoenix, said two of them got on the jet when it stopped in that Arizona city. He said he sat next to one of them.

There was almost immediate speculation, based on Gerker's description of his seat mate, that some of the four might be American adventurers. Gerker said his fellow passenger was young, blond and spoke with no accent.

In Austin, the headquarters of the Texas Department of Public Safety said it had a message from Highway Patrol Sgt. Robert Grimmer that he had established there are only two gunmen in the

Chilean Girl Coming To SHS As Foreign Exchange Student

CELISA BOWN

Celsa Isabel Saravia Bown of Chile will attend Snyder High School for the 1961-62 school term.

Final approvals by the American Field Service national headquarters and the local AFS chapter have been reached, and the foreign exchange student's acceptance and agreement with the local parent family have been made.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Williams and their daughter, Elizabeth Ann, will include Celsa as a member of their family group for the coming school year. The Williams family resides at 703 Twenty-seventh Street.

Celsa will arrive at Miami, Fla., on Aug. 29, and will be met in Dallas by her new family.

This will be Snyder High School's third year to be associated with the foreign exchange student program.

Celsa will be the first girl to participate in the local AFS program. She will also be the first student from a Latin American country to attend classes here.

Celsa is 17 years old. In her autobiography she gave this information concerning herself and her activities: "In our school, the scholar programs are divided in three branches: biology, letters and mathematics. I belong to the mathematics branch because I plan to be a member of an Agronomy faculty in a university later, which requires special knowledge of mathematics, since it includes some branches of engineering."

"In my school, there are several student institutions. The students may attend them according to their particular preferences or aptitudes. I belong to the Chess club, and in preceding years I have belonged to the Singing club, Household Arts, Dance, Music and Sports clubs. I was also president of the Student Council of my course during the last period. At present, I am cooperating in the activities of my course through the Moral Newspaper committee."

As for her plans for the future, Celsa said, "After my return from the United States, I expect to continue my studies and to obtain my Bachelor Degree at the end of the sixth academic year, in order to enter the Faculty of Agronomy in the University of Chile."

Her reasons for wishing to come to the U. S. are given as follows: "I am interested in learning the English language correctly, since it will be very useful to me at the university. I would like to also participate in the family life of the North American people; to know its customs and its feelings, and at the same time, to give them information about our own way of living. I would like to meet North American families and to be their friend, and to help them understand better anything connected with my country. I would like to see how the young students are in North America, and to know their spirit. It is my desire to describe to them by country, its snowed mountains, its lakes, its natural forests, its culture and its democracy. I should like to express how grateful we are for the generous help of the North American people in our recent misfortune in the South of Chile."

Much care is taken in placing foreign exchange students in homes. Celsa comes from a family of four. Her family includes her father, Gustavo Saravia, her mother, Rebecca Bown, and brother, Fernando, who is four years her senior. Her adopted family for the coming year, besides Mr. and Mrs. Williams and their 16-year-old daughter, includes a son, Fred, who is at present stationed with the U. S. Marines at Santa Ana, Calif.

The Williams family has resided in Snyder for the past 15 years. Williams is manager of the Burton-Lingo Lumber company, and has been associated with this company for the past 30 years. Mrs. Williams, a registered nurse, has served as a school nurse in the Snyder Public Schools for 13 years. She will serve the Senior High school, Lincoln school, and Central Elementary this coming school year. Prior to the time Mrs. Williams began her school work, she served as superintendent of nurses for a two-year period at the old Snyder General Hospital. Elizabeth Ann will be a junior at SHS this year.

The Williams' son, Fred, expects to receive a 30-day leave from the Marines early in September and plans to spend this time with his family here. Following his leave, he will serve a 12-month tour overseas, and has been assigned to duty in Japan. Fred is a graduate of the Snyder High School and has received three years of college training. Two years of this college work was received after he entered the U. S. Marine Corps training.

The local AFS chapter will be expected to send $650 to the AFS national headquarters scholarship fund soon, as its participating contribution. This amount is required following final acceptance of a foreign exchange student. Mrs. M. H. Roe, president of the local chapter, said, "Now that final arrangements are complete and Snyder will receive a foreign exchange student for this coming school year, we will be expected to make our contribution to national. It is therefore, important that all church groups, civic organizations, social clubs and individuals who wish to be associated with this community-wide program get their contributions to Joe F. Cargile, chapter finance member."

Contributions should be mailed to Cargile at Post Office Box 909, Snyder, or may be given to him at the West Texas State bank. Mrs. Roe also pointed out that local groups wishing to have the foreign exchange student as a guest during the coming year should contact Mrs. H. C. Lowry. It is important that a calendar for these engagements be prepared in advance so that dates for various appearances of the student do not conflict. This information must be cleared through J. M. Kayser, the high school liaison member of the local chapter. Kayser will coordinate these outside activities with the student's school work and school activities, so as not to disrupt the student's school year.

Mrs. Lowry may be contacted by telephone, HI 5-3927, or at her residence, 2208 Fort - Second Street.

16 AMERICANS KILLED Divers Locate Bus In Depths Of Lake

HERGISWIL, Switzerland (AP)—Divers groping through the chilly depths of Lake Lucerne today located the tourist bus that plunged off a rain-slick road after colliding with a truck and carried 16 American vacationers to death.

One of the 22 survivors described the accident as "the noise, the jerk and a crash—all too quick."

Fifteen bodies, by police count, were in the bus when it was located at a depth of about 165 feet off shore, a special electronic equipment. It lay more than 60 feet offshore, having slid off a ledge after its first plunge.

The bus, carrying 35 American passengers and a staff of three Europeans, collided with the truck-trailer Wednesday and crashed through the railing where the highway is carved out of an almost sheer rock cliff rising from the water.

In the few minutes before the vehicle slid to the bottom, 19 passengers and the three crew members were thrown out through the windows.

All but two of the survivors were kept overnight in hospitals. Doctors said nearly all would be released in a few days.

"The bus was filled with water in a matter of seconds," said Stanley M. Smith, 34, of Kansas City, Mo. "We hardly even knew we were in the water."

In the next hospital bed, Charles Krepps, 65, a research analyst from Los Angeles, described the horror-filled moment when the bus plunged into the lake.

The bus turned over on its side before we hit the water and it seemed to me it was still turning when I put my feet out and gave myself a shove to the surface."

Krepps and Smith fought their way through a window in the forward part of the bus. They said the rear door wouldn't open. Most of those who died apparently were seated toward the rear.

BRIDAL SHOWER—Mrs. Bud Morgan, the former Lynne Caperton, daughter of Mrs. Cleo Caperton, 3742 Highland Drive, was complimented with a bridal shower Tuesday evening at the First Baptist Church. The bride's chosen colors of pink and white were carried out in the table settings, refreshments and floral arrangements. Hostesses were Millie Rains, Opal Maroney, Floy De Shazo, Gladys Shaw, Vera Hall, Hazel Hill and Cora Lee Hedges. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan were married July 16 in a civil ceremony. They are at home at 1908 Coleman, Apt. 4. Pictured above from left are: Mrs. Caperton, mother of the bride, the honoree, Mrs. J. C. Mogan, mother of the groom, and Mrs. Sterling Taylor, grandmother of the groom.

How To Marry Rich

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK — What bait do you need to hook a millionaire?

NEW YORK — What bait do you need to hook a millionaire?

Money, says Lee Morgan, modern marriage maker.

Lacking that, your only alternative is an academy-award-winning act of indifference to it.

The bankrolled bachelor, who never wants to be appreciated for his talented wallet, suspects the motives of the poor working girl.

And only the most accomplished actress can keep from betraying herself.

That well-heeled gent who finds himself a little peroxide cutie from the chorus line, and the American heiress who eagerly shares her checkbook with a noble but needy European are just widely publicized exceptions to the rule, she claims.

The diminutive, dark-haired cupid of Manhattan says that rich men are always much more at ease with ladies having similar bank accounts and backgrounds.

Blooming Love

Miss Morgan has been gathering evidence to support these arguments during five busy years of directing a scientific introduction service here. By means of psychological tests, interviews and courtship counseling, she sets the wedding bells to ringing from two to three times each week.

Among the 9,000 marriage-minded men and women she has counseled, most have better than average incomes, many are tax collectors' delights.

One such was a millionaire widower who had been happily married. "I'd like to share my wealth with some nice, poor girl," he told Miss Morgan in seeking a second wife.

"But his interests were not compatible with the career girls we introduced him to," sighs the 30-year-old former social worker. "We could have told him that. We finally introduced him to some nice, wealthy woman. He fell in love with her of course, and married her."

Willing Candidate

The Have-Nots usually think they are a good bargain at any price, and will adjust beautifully to having all the money they want. But neither is the case, according to Miss Morgan's records.

"I am a handsome young man of near-genius intellect. But I am not able to work hard because of a back injury. Therefore am willing to marry a well-to-do woman despite her age," she writes from a recent letter.

After a tactful reply, the latter was filed among the unmarriedables. (Miss Morgan and her three counselors often urge such persons found to be emotionally unsuitable to connubial bliss to seek psychiatric help.)

But how about a quickie marriage with a little alimony to salve the wounds of parting?

The misery involved is hardly worth it, Miss Morgan insists. It reminds her of a client who had married a rich man, lived a life of embarrassment, inferiority and rebellion against the dignity and tradition of her husband's world. She's now looking for a man whose background matches her own.

Don't let that "Miss" Morgan fool you. At New York University while getting her masters in sociology, she didn't need any tests to tell her that Eric Russ Ph. D. in human relations, was the right husband for her.

Successful Try

Her interest in the plight of lonely people, and his experiences as a marriage counselor later led them to a six-month experiment with the scientific introduction service. Their services were in such demand and their work so satisfying that they're still going strong. Miss Morgan serving as the director. Fees cover introductions, with no additional charge for wedding bells.

Don't assume, either, that homely old maids and bachelors, dull men come to their busy office as a last resort.

"We have really beautiful girls, actresses, nobility, airline stewardesses — girls tired of running around in circles during the wrong kind of men," says Miss Morgan.

"Many of our men are in 'Who's Who.' They run the gamut of professions. 'Save me from contrived dinners by well-meaning friends,' they tell me."

She also saves them from fortune-hunters.

Faded Art Chapter Is Reviewed

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK — Half a century has put into odd perspective one of the offshoots of Cubism in art. It was called Futurism; it flowered in Italy between 1910 and 1915, and now its importance has withered to a faded chapter in history.

Americans who want to look back over this movement have an opportunity to see 130 paintings, drawings, sculptures, watercolors and collages assembled by the Museum of Modern Art. About half these works are from Italian collectors and never have been seen outside Italy.

The exhibit will be in New York until Sept. 12, at the Detroit Institute of Arts from Oct. 18 through Dec. 19 and at the Los Angeles County Museum from Jan. 14 through Feb. 19.

It has been 50 years since the first important Futurist show was held in Milan. A manifesto on the aims of the movement, written by the poet-dramatist Marinetti, was published in 1909. Hindsight shows it was a curious forecast of Fascism. For Marinetti's text called for the burning of libraries and the flooding of museums, extolled "aggressive movement... the double — quick step... fist-cuffs and glorified war."

(At the time, Mussolini was 26 years old, and still to be heard from.)

The five artists who signed a similar manifesto in 1910 were Umberto Boccioni, Giacomo Balla, Carlo D. Carra, Luigi Russolo and Gino Severini. All five are well represented in this show, with their followers.

Boccioni was at the heart of the movement, and his "The City Rises" was the first important Futurist painting. In it you'll see one of the basic ideas of the whole school — "lines of force."

These painters revelled in speed and tried to capture it on canvas. Instead of breaking objects into structural form, as the Cubists did, they conceived moving objects as creating force, lines, and painted these lines so they converge on the spectator.

In "The City Rises" Boccioni has depicted wildly charging horses and men, exaggerating their movements with swirling lines.

The Futurists used their ideas in many pictures of dynamic, moving objects. Balla painted "Abstract Speed — Wake of Speeding Automobile," and several other examples in this show are concerned with the forceful presentation of trains, bicycles, birds and even soccer players.

The school's concern with motion led them to experiment with repetitive lines and images, resembling a series of exposures on a single film. If you've ever seen Duchamp's celebrated "Nude Descending a Staircase" you'll recall the slashing lines that represent the woman's progress down the stairs. Duchamp was not a Futurist, but his painting is a good example of one of their ideas.

And what became of these aggressively radical Italians? Boccioni and most of his friends turned to more conventional means of expression about 1915, and the movement fell apart.

Shirtboards Have Variety Of Uses

Many homemakers are in the habit of throwing away the shirtboards from their husbands' freshly laundered shirts, without realizing that they can be very useful in the home. Here are some hints on how to make use of these versatile shirtboards.

Homemakers will find shirtboards convenient when preparing food for the family. Fruits or vegetables for salads can be cut or peeled without mess on these boards. Besides making a nice cutting surface, the board absorbs juices lost in cutting, and makes a sturdy wrapping when folded around the peeling for disposal.

Shirtboards are stiff enough to hold newspapers when no dust pan is available and, if you're building a home, save those shirtboards to pick up wood shavings, plaster, as well as dirt and mud tracked into the house.

Another variety of uses occurs when there is painting to be done in the home. When painting windows the shirtboard can be held over the glass so it will receive the excess paint. Boards can also be used as guides or straight edges and as "sawtooth boards" under paint cans.

Shirtboards can be used under potted plants to protect the painted or varnished window sill, on newly scrubbed or waxed floors to prevent tracks or scuff marks, as picture backing when mounting photographs or paintings, or as protection from sleet or snow when held in place by the windshield wiper on the family car.

Shirtboards will come in handy on days when you'd like to keep the children quietly busy in the house. The children can use them for coloring, making puzzles and stencils, or for building houses or boats.

Do try adding fresh spinach leaves to the usual mixed greens when you are making a tossed salad. They make for pleasantly different flavor.

BLACKBEARD STRIKES AGAIN

Soothsayers Have Field Day With Khrushchev's Program

BY RICHARD STARNES

Ordained soothsayers, resident in and licensed demonologists from Whitehall to Foggy Bottom are hard at it again — this time trying to make sense out of Chairman Khrushchev's program for the Communist party of the Soviet Union.

In the time-honored tradition of such matters, the Russian leader's policy pronouncement is being put to a number of uses its author never had in mind. The teletypes had scarcely stopped chattering, for example, when the new Soviet manifesto was being used as a good to spur adoption of the President's hotly disputed long-term foreign aid program.

It is doubtful the nimble gentlemen who used it thus had even read it, but the first rule of expertise in such matters is to file an opinion while the subject is still exciting public interest. As a rule of thumb it is always wise to assume that a politician's instant wisdom in such matters is a wholly self-serving or (if entirely worthless, the Hon. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Senate Majority Leader, must bear the major responsibility for conducting the President's programs through Congress. He reacted in a fashion that would have wringing cries of delight from Pavlov himself.

"(Khrushchev's program) could be helpful in bringing home to the American people and their representatives what serious strains we are in," He made it clear he thought Khrushchev's statement now insured passage of the long-term foreign aid measure, but he added that it also gave new urgency to adoption of the President's domestic program.

It may or may not do all these things, of course. But it is doubtful anyone is competent to judge what it does on the basis of cursory examination. The genuine experts who are even now weighing every muted phrasing and every noisy bombast in Khrushchev's statement operate in a totally different atmosphere. Theirs is a job of differential diagnosis, and in many ways they approach it as a skilled internist approaches an ailing patient.

They will, for example, look for changes in Khrushchev's words, just as a physician looks for departures from the norm in studying X-rays. Again, just as it is done in the healing arts, the experts will try to guess what morbid processes have caused the changes they observe.

Divination of the real meaning in Khrushchev's program will be aided by a number of constant factors. The most important of these is the fact that politicians all over the world speak in a sort of lingua franca, no matter what their mother tongue happens to be. This jargon has been perfected over the ages, principally as a tool for deluding the taxpaying hirsut, and the genuine experts will apply what they know of it in an attempt to decode Mr. K's effusion.

Young reporters, good ones anyway, quickly learn two immutable laws of politics. Until these laws are learned, nothing can be understood in ward or world politics. After they are mastered, however, one has the key that unlocks most of the secrets of power.

Law One is usually expressed in the Western world as follows: "A politician's first duty is to get himself re-elected." In totalitarian governments, survival in power replaces re-election, but the basic law is unchanged.

Law Two is more complex, but it is the bedrock upon which all organized political life rests: "It is infinitely more desirable to keep control of a losing organization, than to lose control of a winning one." Any machine politician is philosophical about losing an occasional election, but all fight with murderous fury when their control of the organization is threatened.

I think we will find that Mr. K is motivated by the same forces that affect our home-grown politicians, that he speaks in the same strange tongues they use, and that his real objectives can generally be discerned with equal ease. I am presently studying such X-rays as are available, a chore which requires a great deal of reading, and I expect to report on such changes as I discover.

He Took A Dare And Was Electrocuted

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — William Patrick Toomey, 22, climbed a utility pole on a dare early today and was electrocuted, police reported.

Police said three teenagers, including Toomey's brother, saw Toomey climb to the top of the pole and stand on the crossarm in his bare feet. The boys had been drinking, police said.

Toomey leaned against a wire carrying 4,000 volts and was electrocuted. Another wire on the crossarm apparently grounded him, police theorized.

It took 45 minutes to free Toomey. The crossarm had to be cut in two, police said.

Well, Back In The Good Ole Days

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Let's have another look back at the calmer times when people could go to sleep without worrying over whether the next morning they'd have to face a fresh world crisis. Sometimes it's a blessing to have these days to recall. It's a compensation for growing older.

So, count yourself among the lucky ones if you can still remember when—

Anybody who bought a $10,000 house was considered well-to-do.

If you got a $50 weekly salary, that was the amount they put in your pay envelope. There were no such things as deductions.

When you went to the store for a gallon of coal oil, the grocer always stuck a raw potato on the spout to keep the can from leaking.

Babe Ruth earned almost as much for knocking 60 home runs in a year as many 16-year-old kids now get for signing as bonus players.

If you gave a child a penny, he didn't look up and ask, "What's it good for?"

It was regarded as a national disaster when movie stars Doug Fairbanks and Mary Pickford got a divorce.

You stopped on a running board before entering an automobile, and there was no such thing as a gasoline tax.

Ministers denounced the rumble seat as the greatest threat to the morals of the younger generation.

You could impress the neighbors with a $200 funeral.

A fountain pen was advertised as a lifetime investment.

The most popular indoor hobby in America was making home brew in the basement.

A draft was a breeze that seeped through a window—not an order issued from Washington.

A good pool player had a wider circle of admirers than a fellow who beat par on a golf course, and any man over 20 who still played tennis was put down as a sissy.

A wife was judged by the skill with which she could darn her husband's socks.

There was only one wonder drug—aspirin—and nobody had heard of a virus.

If you were sick, the doctor came to see you; you didn't have to go see him.

Only mothers and old folks used rocking chairs.

Teen-agers took orders instead of giving them—and usually asked permission before using the telephone.

The best way to have security in your old age was to raise a family of 10 kids.

That Red Light Is Not Wanted

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Highway Commission is going to remove a stop light that led to a State Supreme Court appeal.

The commission directed Highway Department lawyers Wednesday to start action to have the traffic signal on Highway 62 at Alpena taken down.

Highway Director F. R. Oliver said, the department had tried previously to get the light removed but without success.

The light came into prominence recently when Ray Garrison of Alpena appealed a $10 fine to the State Supreme Court. He contended the light, which he was fined for running, was illegally placed.

Junior Editors Quiz on VITAMINS

QUESTION: How are vitamin pills made?

ANSWER: Vitamins are substances found in foods, especially such foods as vegetables, grains, fruit, certain kinds of meat, fish oil, and milk. They do not nourish you because they themselves are not food. They are combinations of chemicals and are very necessary for us to eat because they act on our bodies in a number of helpful ways. Some keep our eyes in good shape; others prevent us from having diseases. Doctors know how much vitamins work in our bodies, so they prescribe vitamin pills when they find a special need for them. To make vitamin pills, the manufacturer must have "raw materials," that is, substances which have the vitamins in them. In some cases vegetables, fish oil and so on provide the raw materials, but in most cases chemicals are put together to produce the vitamins, which is called "synthesizing" it. Pills are made in very complicated ways; sometimes 300 steps are used. When a round pill is made, it is rolled into shape, but many pills are tablet shaped and these are compressed inside a tube with little metal punches which work in and out.

FOR YOU TO DO: In this day when we are so protein and vitamin conscious it is interesting to know that there is one food that contains all the vitamins and is rich in protein and fat. Guess which one. We'll give you a hint: In China and Japan this food provides nearly all the protein and fat in the diet of the poorer people.

Blabbermouth Sun Aids Scientists

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer
BLAKESBURG, Va. (AP)—Science is cashing in on the fact that the sun has turned out to be a radio broadcasting blabbermouth, one of the world's foremost radio astronomers says.

Dr. Joseph L. Pawsey of the Radio Physics Laboratory, Sydney, Australia, said the star that supports life on earth—and also is responsible for terrestrial troubles like communications blackouts and the vagaries of weather—is yielding more and more of their secrets by means of radio waves generated within her hot, gaseous body.

These radio waves, he told a conference of American and Canadian space scientists Wednesday, are detectable on the earth 93 million miles away by giant antennas and other sensitive instruments located in various parts of the world. By studying them, the scientists can make deductions about the characteristics of solar areas through which the waves have passed enroute to the earth.

He said the sun is constantly broadcasting some kind of radio waves, but really goes to town during periods of violence on the solar sphere—such as during the times of sunspot activity or when great "prominences" and "flares" shoot like fiery fingers thousands of miles into space.

Flares are the things which send great clouds of hydrogen gas shooting towards the earth at speeds up to 1,000 miles a second, contributing to the magnetic disturbances which sometimes bedevil the radio and other communications on earth. Flares also contribute to spewing out intense bursts of ultraviolet light and X-rays, which may play a role in making the earth's water. And they also figure some in the generation of solar cosmic rays.

Dr. Pawsey told the conference that studies of radio waves emitted by the sun at such times of violence are helping build up a better understanding of the mechanism of flares—and understanding which might lead to better means of forecasting their occurrence.

He also said the techniques of solar radio astronomy—now only 19 years old as a science—have provided researchers with very powerful new methods of determining the structure of the atmosphere.

The conference Pawsey addressed is jointly sponsored by Virginia Polytechnic Institute, the National Science Foundation and the Langley (Va.) Research Center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

It might provide an additional hazard for certain types of manned space flight missions, Dr. Chapman said. The civilian space agency is planning special satellite experiments, with super-sensitive equipment, to hunt down the still elusive belt.

Chapman is now doing research at the high altitude laboratory of the University of Colorado.

No More A Traffic Problem Here

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—"Nodist" looks like a new word.

The crudely lettered sign, with an arrow pointing to the right, is slowing traffic to almost a snail's pace along Harbor View Road here.

Richard Steele, 15, and Harry Muller, 16, said they had placed the sign after cars began to whiz through the area at excessive speeds.

"A lot of people are interested in things like that," opined Richard, and now the 35 miles-per-hour speed limit is generally observed by drivers looking for the non-existent nudist campers.

The two boys decided to make a little survey of how the "speed trap" works.

"We watched about 200 cars last night and this morning," they said Wednesday, "and it's our consensus that more men than women slowed up to look at the sign."

"Yes, sir, judge," Brown replied. "You'll write no more bad checks?"

"No sir, but judge, would you mind keeping me in jail until Friday?"

"Why?" asked the judge in surprise.

"There's a few things I'd like to take care of before getting out."

"Like what?"

"Well, to tell the truth, judge, I'd like to avoid temptation until Friday."

East Germany Known By Variety Of Names

By JOHN BAUSMAN
BERLIN (AP)—The country known abroad as East Germany has a variety of names. But no German calls it East Germany.

East Germany's Communists call their country the German Democratic Republic—or GDR. Or Democratic Germany. They regard it as an independent German state, worthy of recognition as such.

Turkeys In Midsummer Spotlight

Weekly Food Review
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Turkeys jumped into midsummer popularity among weekend specialists offered by supermarkets and neighborhood stores this week.

They are featured by chains in widely scattered cities and are bringing the lowest prices since 1942. Live weight prices in July were down 16 per cent from a year ago.

Frying chickens and ducks were on the bargain list in some stores. However, beef continued to be the heaviest advertised item among the specials. Prices are low and the supply is heavy.

Featured cuts are round, rib and chuck pot roasts and round and rib steaks.

Pork chops are being pushed in some areas. Prices are down 6 to 30 cents a pound from last week. Fish specials are generally limited to swordfish, smelts and colossal shrimp.

Egg prices down as much as 6 cents a dozen from last week. The Agriculture Department reported supplies of vegetables for the fresh market, excluding melons, will be somewhat smaller this summer than a year ago due to adverse weather in growing areas. However, unusually heavy supplies have driven down the price of potatoes.

Best vegetable buys are beets, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, Chinese cabbage, corn, cucumbers, lettuce, squash, tomatoes, and Eastern potatoes.

Among good buys are beans, carrots, greens, spinach, eggplant, endive, escarole, green onions, radishes, parsley, field peas, peppers, okra and California potatoes.

Best buys among fruits are cantaloupes, watermelons, cherries and lemons.

On the good-buy list are plums, pears, apples, large avocados, blueberries, honeydew melons, mangoes, peaches, grapes, apricots and California oranges.

There is another West German term for East Germany—"Middle Germany." This is based on the theory that beyond "Middle Germany" lies an East Germany made up of those eastern parts of prewar Germany now assigned to Poland and the Soviet Union.

Whatever you call it, East Germany is the smaller segment of divided Germany. With an area of 41,700 square miles, it is less than a third the size of West Germany's 143,200 square miles. Its 17 million population compares with 52 million for West Germany.

The country's boundaries—from the Baltic Sea on the north to Czechoslovakia on the south, from the Oder-Neisse border with Poland on the east to the Iron Curtain border with West Germany—were drawn at the allied conference at Potsdam in 1945, right after World War II. At that time East Germany was set up as the Soviet zone of occupation.

The Soviet occupiers ruled with a strong hand. They dismantled factories and tore up railroad tracks as reparations to be shipped off to the Soviet Union.

Early local elections in the Soviet zone showed the majority of voters opposed to the Communist-run Socialist Unity party. But with Soviet backing, the party gained control of the zone's political life and became its governing party when the German Democratic Republic was proclaimed on Oct. 7, 1949.

This was the Soviet answer to the establishment of the Federal Republic of West Germany by France, the United States and Great Britain a month earlier.

By that time the break between the Soviet Union and its war allies was fully recognized. Efforts to cooperate in Berlin had long since collapsed and the city had separate governments for the East and West sectors. There had also been the allied airlift, lasting nearly a year, to break the Soviet blockade of Berlin and foil that first attempt to force the allies out of the city.

East Germany, impoverished by stern reparations demands, was now called on to build itself up as a flourishing Soviet satellite. A heavy industrialization program left little production for consumers. Farms were collectivized and private firms and tradesmen were squeezed. For four years the East Germans submitted to their fate except for nearly 200,000 who escaped to the West each year.

Then on June 16, 1953, building workers in East Berlin demonstrated against heavy work requirements and poor food supplies.

The next day, June 17, popular uprisings broke out in East Berlin and other major cities. The people demanded free elections, food and an end to tyranny. The Soviets proclaimed martial law and brought in tanks and troops to stop the rioting. Leaders of the uprising were arrested and executed.

The June 17 revolt was short-lived and brutally suppressed. It got no support from the West. No other has broken out so far.

But the continued stream of refugees, totaling more than 2.5 million since 1949, has been a constant reminder of the regime's unpopularity.

The Communists talk about raising the standard of living. In 1954, East German party chief Walter Ulbricht predicted his country would overtake West Germany by 1961.

There has been some improvement. But by 1961 his country was no match for West Germany. It rationed potatoes and butter. Its towns were shabby and cities like East Berlin and Dresden were still marred by acres of ruins. They compared poorly with the abundantly supplied, extensively rebuilt cities of bustling and prosperous West Germany.

For its size, East Germany has outpaced West Germany in numbers of men under arms. Its army, estimated by Western experts at 110,000 men, is proportionally about equal to West Germany's 300,000. In addition the East Germans have 40,000 to 50,000 heavily militarized border guards and 30,000 "security alert" police. There are also 78,000 civil policemen of less military value and some 300,000 men in militia units or "fighting groups" organized in offices and factories.

Can a regime, clearly unpopular with a large part of its population, count on these forces in a showdown with the West?

Western experts find this hard to assess. Certainly there would be some substantial defection, especially if the people were to defy the Communists openly.

But the Germans have a tradition of military discipline and a hard core of Communist militants might be able to hold some organizations together.

Then too, the six East German divisions would be fighting beside 22 Soviet divisions. Closely tied to Soviet operations, the East Germans might find little choice but to go along or be crushed by a watchful Soviet ally.

Tim Dennis, band director at Lamar Junior High School, is author of an article which appeared in "Down Beat," a music trade magazine, which was distributed to over 11,000 persons attending the NAMM convention in Chicago, as well as the trade journal's regular subscribers.

Dennis' article was on the subject of arranging music for school stage bands, a topic in which he is well versed since he has arranged music for the state champion Snyder High School Stage Band for several years.

In his article, Dennis cited the rapid growth in number and quality of high school stage bands in recent years and some of the problems confronting the directors in obtaining suitable materials.

He pointed out differences between arranging music for professional groups and school musicians. Some of these problems, such as range, he said, are not so great as they were because school musicians are becoming attuned to modern chords and clusters.

The important thing is to see that the directors of school stage bands have sufficient challenging material at their disposal, Dennis concluded.

West Germany has spent more than $500 million during the last 10 years on road improvements and new road construction.

Women Are Political Minded In Alabama
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—State Democratic officials learned the hard way that there are more Alabama women interested in politics than they thought.

The women's division of the party's campaign steering committee planned a luncheon here, stating since it was vacation time for some and canning time for others, not more than 50 would come.

But committee officers found themselves in a stew when more than 200 reservations were made. The hotel where the luncheon was planned couldn't handle that many.

So the luncheon was moved to another hotel, and plans are now being made for 250 women to attend the event Aug. 5.

Intra-State Bus Fares Going Up

AUSTIN, (AP)—Fares for intra-state bus travel in Texas are going up.

The Railroad Commission approved Wednesday a general five per cent increase. Passenger fares were last hiked in 1958.

Company representatives told the commission expenses are going up faster than revenue.

Expenses increased 8.9 per cent in 1960 over 1959, they said, while revenue increased only 4.6 per cent.

Other hikes approved were a 10 per cent increase for Texas Bus Lines operating between Galveston-Beaumont and Port Arthur-High Island, and a 10 per cent increase for Texas Electric Bus Lines.

The increases will become effective no later than Sept. 1.

Vatican City Mayor Dies Of Pneumonia

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Nicola Cardinal Canali, for 22 years the mayor of Vatican City, died today of bronchial pneumonia and circulatory complications.

He was 87.

Cardinal Canali's death came four days after the sudden death of another Italian cardinal, Domenico Tardini, the Roman Catholic Church's secretary of state. The two deaths reduced the membership of the College of Cardinals to 82.

Cardinal Canali had long suffered from a circulatory condition. He was stricken with pneumonia late last week and doctors gave up hope for his survival Saturday. His life ebbed away slowly as he lay in a coma under an oxygen tent.

Cardinal Canali, a jovial, round-faced prelate, had been president of the pontifical commission for the state of Vatican City since shortly after Pope Pius XII created the commission in 1959. The post was similar to that of a municipal mayor.

Wage Hike Okayed For Bell Workers

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Communication Workers of America won wage increases of $1.50 to $3 a week today for 46,000 employees of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in Texas, Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma and Illinois.

Negotiators agreed at 1:45 a.m. after weeks of talks. Raises are retroactive to July 30 under a three-year contract which is a year old. It provided for median increases on wage rates each year.

The company agreed to upgrade wage scales in 16 cities, including Ardmore and Miami, Okla., Lubbock, Rockport, Abilene, Bay City, Tomball and Vernon, Tex.

J. R. Peterson, the company's vice president for personnel, estimated the increases will cost it $6.3 million a year. He said the company hopes to offset the added cost by increasing efficiency and does not plan at present to seek higher rates.

At its smaller operating points, wage rates for operators will increase from $60 to $66 a week and for craftsmen from $101.50 to $104.50 a week. In its largest cities, the rates for operators will go from $75 to $77 and for craftsmen from $125 to $128.

Do you need any more warning on communist intentions than these words of Khrushchev? Would you believe his offers of peace after such aggressions as Hungary, Formosa, Berlin, Viet Nam, Cuba, Laos and the Congo? Did you know that Russia has compulsory Civil Defense and could possibly win any conflict now on the basis of having more survivors in their shelter program? Think about it!
