Spinner Record Set In Gulf

AUSTIN--A Corpus Christi man now holds the record for the largest spinner shark caught in Texas.

He is Norman J. Bateman, president of the Port Isabel Tarpon Club and past president of the Corpus Christi Shark Association. The spinner weighed 100 pounds and measured 6 feet 3 3/4 inches from nose to tail end and 34 inches around the girth.

Bateman used 80-pound dacron line with a 10/0 hook to catch the shark, which was lured to the hook with a lady fish.

Bateman was drift fishing two miles northeast of Port Isabel when he hooked the big fish. It took him approximately 20 minutes to boat the shark.

County Actions

Aransas County Commissioners recently have acted on the following matters:

Judge John D. Wendell reported to the Court that he had contacted M.W.Cochran in regard to securing air easements for the Airport Project. Cochran agreed to do this work for $200.00. Said amount was agreeable with the Court.

Chas. Schindler requested that the county build a 50 x 60 foot hangar at the airport. Request denied.

The City requested that the following street work be done: Rebuilding and Resurfacing State Street, North Magnolia Street from Linden Street to Cherry St.; North Street from Ann St. to Live Oak St.; Eloise Drive from Young St. to Ann St.

Resurfacing Only

No. Austin Street from Liberty to Alamito Street; No. Magnolia from Liberty to Alamito St.; Cornwall Street from Bronte to Austin Street, Bay Avenue from Picton Lane to Percival Avenue.

The Court unanimously agreed to do this work at the price given the City in letter of November 6, 1969.

The Rockport Firemen's Auxiliary is sponsoring a benefit dance June 17 at Lillian's Danceland from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Adolph Hofner will provide the music. Tickets are $3.00 per person and may be purchased from members of the auxiliary.

Transfer Of Voter Registration

Voters of Aransas County who are either registered in an erroneous precinct or who have moved from one precinct to another after registering should make application to Margaret Weber, Tax Assessor, for a transfer of their voter registration certificate.

Under the statute, that person should make application in writing for the change, present their voter registration certificate for the change, and have the corrected certificate returned to them from the Tax Office.

The action may be taken by mail, but it is much simpler to present the certificate in person at the Tax Office and have the change effectuated immediately.

This action should also be taken at least 6 days before an election, since the statute further states that the person cannot vote in the new precinct before the fifth day following the transfer.

Stroot Ends 1,800 Mile Cruise In Chinese Junk

After thousands of miles of travel from a Hong Kong shipyard where it was built five years ago, the Chinese junk, Yu Wong Too, finally arrived at its permanent home port of Rockport Wednesday, May 31.

It sailed into Rockport harbor about 4 p.m. with Bob Stroot, owner and captain, at the helm after an 1,800-mile cruise from St. Louis, Mo., by way of the Mississippi river and the Intracoastal Waterway. The trip, which took 17 days, was made without incident other than 1 loosened propeller shaft which was repaired in Port Arthur.

During the river portion of the trip, the junk's three red nylon sails were not used because of the Mississippi's treacherous currents and its winding course which sometimes doubles back on itself in the course of a few miles. The ship's 72-horsepower diesel auxiliary motor provided motive power during this part of the cruise. However, once the Intracoastal Waterway was reached, both motor and sails were used.

Stroot admitted that navigating a ship on the winding Mississippi river was a challenging experience, even for someone who has operated boats on Gulf coast waters for years. He pointed out that some of the river tows included as many as 30 barges pushed by powerful tugs which generated dangerous wakes.

Generally, the Yu Wong Too moved only during daylight hours, in part because of heavy river traffic and lack of familiarity with river channels made night travel hazardous, according to Stroot. At night the ship was tied up at yacht clubs or marinas, although it spent one night moored to a riverbank willow tree, he added.

The cruising junk aroused great interest at river ports where it stopped overnight, and in many places members of the crew were entertained or they entertained visitors aboard the unusual craft.

At Helena, Ark., the crew was given a key to the city, in this instance the key to a new automobile which was put at their disposal. Later in the evening, the voyagers were guests at dinner in one of the city's finest residences, according to Stroot.

Everywhere there were newspaper stories and pictures of the Yu Wong Too, inspired in part by the distribution of literature about Rockport and the Coastal Bend area, as well as factual material on the junk itself.

"Hundreds, perhaps thousands of people along the Mississippi river learned for the first time about the resort and recreational facilities abailable in Rockport and the Texas coastal area. We felt this was an important aspect of our cruise," Stroot said.

"On the other hand, the thing that impressed us most on the trip was the warm hospitality we encountered everywhere. I have, of course, heard about Southern hospitality, but this was my first opportunity to experience it first hand. It was delightful," he added.

Throughout the cruise, which started in St. Louis May 15 former Air Force associates of Stroot, who is a retired lieutenant colonel, served as crew members for varying lengths of time. They included Col. David Langdon, Lackland Air Force Base; Col. Charles Jones, Enterprise, Oregon; Harold Benson and Dean Daniels, both of Sioux City, Ia., Sam Coester, New Orleans, and Col. Zeb Vance, Washington, D.C. Vance was the only crew member who served throughout the trip.

For the last day of the cruise, two of Stroot's children, Barbara, age 12, and John, age 15, together with John's schoolmate, Don Oliver, age 15, boarded the Yu Wong Too the night before at Port O'Connor. Both boys helped handle the ship, taking turns at the helm, while Barbara assisted in the galley. Also on board the last day were John Coats and David H. Crooks.

When the Yu Wong Too arrived off Rockport it was met in Aransas Bay by Bob Hill's shrimp boat, Seascape, with press representatives and photographers aboard. A crowd of friends and well-wishers greeted the voyagers in Rockport Harbor where it will be berthed. Stroot said the Yu Wong Too will be used as a family pleasure boat.

Those involved in the project, as well as representatives of the press and wives were entertained at a reception and dinner at the Sandollar Motel Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Radcliff of the resort motel as hosts.

STROOT'S CHINESE JUNK ARRIVES — With red sails flying in the sunset, Bob Stroot's Chinese junk comes into view in Aransas Bay just before entering Rockport Harbor. This picture, made by John Kinsey, was taken from aboard Bob Hill's shrimp boat, Seascape.

The project was a success and the units will be installed this summer.

Mayor Walter S. Falk, Jr., will be guest speaker at the Aransas County Woman's Club, June 13 at 10 a.m. at the Woman's Club building.

Board Predicts Insurance Cut

The State Board of Insurance will meet July 24 for its annual hearing on auto insurance rates, and Chairman Larry Teaver thinks a reduction is in order.

A 2.8 per cent increase approved last year was blocked by a presidential wage-price freeze. Rates have been in effect since Jan. 1, 1971, when a 14 per cent boost was approved. There has been no reduction since a fractional cut in 1967.

Teaver said profits from underwriting nationally are at an all-time high, as are investment profits of auto insurance companies. He plans to submit a "personal injury protection" proposal to the Board as a substitute for no-fault auto insurance. The Teaver recommendation includes liberalized medical benefits on a no-fault basis, income replacement and life insurance instead of uninsured motorists and medical payments coverage.

Conceivably, Teaver could be out of a job before the July hearing. The Legislature convenes in special session June 14, and Teaver's appointment to the Board is pending in the Senate.

DRAFT PLANS TOLD --About 400 men from Texas are expected to be inducted into military service during the month of July, although no quota yet has been assigned the state.

State Selective Service Headquarters has announced that young men with lottery numbers of 50 or lower in the year's first priority selection group will get their induction orders next month.

Those with numbers of 90 or lower may get pre-induction physical examinations during July.

Col. Melvin Glantz, state director of Selective Service, said 30 days' notice is planned for all induction orders.

Principal Griffith and Wife Move to Mathis

Albert R. Griffith, Jr., and his wife, Billy, who between them have put in a total of 36 years of school administrative and teaching service in the local school system, have accepted educational positions at Mathis, effective Aug. 1.

Griff, as he is called by his many friends here, will become principal of the Mathis Junior High School.

His wife, Billy (that's the correct spelling), will teach the sixth grade at the Mathis Intermediate School.

Griffith came here 21 years ago as principal of the Junior High and Elementary School. In 1955 the Junior High and the Elementary School were set up as separate institutions, with a new principal assigned to Junior High and Griffith remaining as principal of the Elementary School.

During the 21 years he has served here, Griff estimates that more than 2,600 students have gone through Rockport Elementary School. Many of the boys and girls now attending the school are the sons and daughters of young people who started their education under the direction of Griffith.

Mrs. Griffith has been a teacher at Fulton Elementary School here for 15 years. The last seven years, she taught the fourth grade after teaching the sixth grade for eight years. She figures that she has had the privilege of teaching between 400 and 500 children during those 15 years.

Both Griffith and his wife graduated from Sam Houston State University. Griff got his bachelor's degree in 1948 and his master's degree in 1949. Billy received her B.B.A. degree in 1949. Griffith taught two years at Hamshire, Texas and then came to Rockport.

Griff is a deacon at First Presbyterian Church, member of the Masonic Lodge and has been active in the Red Cross and many educational organizations. Billy is a member of First Presbyterian Church, Business and Professional Women's Club and has been active in numerous educational organizations.

They have four daughters, Mrs. Sally Bagley, 22, of Corpus Christi; Mrs. Susan Revels, 21, of Ingleside; Miss Lucy Katherine Griffith, 17, who just graduated from high school; and Miss Mary Albert Griffith, 16, a high school junior; and one granddaughter, Carol Lee Revels of Ingleside.

As for leaving Rockport, Griff said, "It has been a privilege and a pleasure for Billy and me to have contributed, if even in a small way, to the educational development of hundreds of children here.

"We will miss Rockport and our friends but at the same time we are looking forward to new challenges and opportunities to be of service in education."

Economic Stabilization Questions and Answers

Internal Revenue Service

A: No. Increases to employees earning less than $1.90 an hour are excluded from the general wage and salary standard until their pay is brought up to the $1.90 per hour level.

Q: When calculating wage and salary adjustments should employers include all fringe benefits in the compensation base?

A: Yes. In its policy decision on fringe exemptions, the Pay Board decided that the base used in calculating percentages of allowable wage and salary increases should include the cost of fringe benefits excluded by the recent amendments to the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970, as well as other wages and salaries. This principle applies in determining allowable percentages for all purposes and is effective both retroactively and prospectively.

Q: Does IRS have the power to subpoena a business's books and records in connection with the enforcement of the Economic Stabilization program?

A: Yes. The recently amended Economic Stabilization Act of 1970 and subsequent delegation orders issued under the Act give the IRS the power to sign and issue subpoenas for the production of relevant books, papers and other documents in connection with the stabilization program. If an individual refuses to obey such a subpoena, the IRS may ask the Justice Department to seek the aid of the U. S. District Courts to compel the individual to appear and produce the documents.

Q: I live in a four-plex. My landlord, who lives in one of these units, has notified me that, when my six-month lease ends two months from now, my rent will be increased by 10%. Can he do this?

A: Yes. The Cost of Living Council has recently exempted the following three categories of rental property from the Economic Stabilization controls:

1. Apartment units renting for $500 a month or more,

2. Owner-occupied dwellings of four or less units having longer than month-to-month rental agreement, and

3. Single-family rental dwellings rented for longer than month-to-month periods where the landlord owns four units or less.

Q: My lease will not expire until June 1, Can my landlord increase my rent before that date?

A: No. Rentals under lease cannot be increased until the lease expires or comes up for renewal.

Q: When I renewed my six-month lease last November, my landlord increased my rent because of the ten percent rule in effect before December 29. Does my landlord have to roll back the increase?

A: No. Where because of the old rent rules in effect before December 29, a landlord raised rent on a lease longer than a month, he does not have to roll back the increase.

Q: Where can I get forms to report wage and salary increases to the Pay Board?

A: Forms PB-1 and PB-2 may be picked up at the local Service and Compliance Centers of the Internal Revenue Service. Instructions for filling out these forms are contained within the forms.

Q: How does a consumer use a retailer's base price to determine if there has been a price violation?

A: You should compare the current price of an item with the base price, i.e., the amount charged during the freeze period. If there has been an increase, you may want to ask the manager to explain to you why the price of the product has increased. You may be satisfied from his explanation that the increase is permissible, because increases are permitted to reflect manufacturer's and other costs. However, if you are not satisfied with his explanation, call your local Internal Revenue Service office.

A: Yes, as long as the book is prominently displayed.

Q: What constitutes a "department" as far as retail posting regulations are concerned.

A: A department is the organizational unit customarily treated by the seller as a department.

Q: Are small retailers subject to the Price Commission's posting requirements?

A: Retailers with sales of less than $100,000 are not subject to price controls, including Price Commission posting requirements.

Retailers with annual revenues of $100,000 or more but less than $200,000 do not have to post signs listing the base prices. However, these retailers are still required to post a sign announcing the availability of base price information and make such information available upon request. They are also still subject to monitoring and spot checking by the Internal Revenue Service and must make available to the IRS documentation of base prices if requested.

Generally, retailers with sales of $200,000 or more must fully comply with the posting requirements.

Q: Are restaurants treated as retailers or service organizations under the Economic Stabilization Program?

A: A restaurant is considered a service organization. This means that restaurants are not subject to Price Commission base price posting requirements as are the large retailers.

Q: Should I contact the IRS with questions about Phase Two dividend guidelines?

A: No. Persons with questions concerning dividends should contact their local Department of Commerce field office.

Q: What are the rules employers should follow in making payments of retroactive pay in accordance with the recent amendments to the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970?

A: In general, where increases were called for in employment agreements, or practices that were agreed to or were in effect before the freeze was imposed on August 15, 1971, but were prevented from being paid because of the freeze, retroactive payment of salaries and wages, including fringe benefits, of no more than seven percent is permitted.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

We hear and read so much about sex as the only thing important in making a good marriage that I think the news media and television both, are giving young people false information and I think it is time for people who know better to speak out.

Marriage stands a much better chance of lasting and being successful if two people are congenial--if they like the same things and if their attitudes on basic honesty and consideration for other people are in agreement.

This doesn't mean that they should agree on everything--variety is the spice of life and good arguments without anger pep up a marriage.

I believe that one of the most important factors in a good marriage is the ability of two people to communicate with one another. The people who enjoy talking together will usually find the home an attractive place to be. Be interested in what the other person is doing and know enough about it to discuss it. If you can't do this be a good listener and questioner.

Sex has its place but making a home a refuge of contentment for busy people in this era of confusion is a great factor in the success of any marriage.

Wife--Va.

Answer:

I agree with you that the couple who can communicate with each other--who talk things out instead of repressing their hurts and differences--will have a more lasting marriage than those who fail to do so.

Louisa.

The Kinsey Report

This is a warning to M.W. Cochran. I'm going to beat the heck out of you in the annual golf tournament at Live Oak Country Club.

They call this the men's championship tournament, but for those not familiar with the details, it should be explained that they have a championship flight, first flight, second flight, etc., all the way down to the seventh flight.

And I hate to admit it but in the seventh flight they put the poorest players, and that's where Cochran and I are.

Now Cochran has been around a bit longer than I have, which means that he has had more years to play golf and practice, so really he should spot me a few strokes.

But I don't need any strokes to beat that old scoundrel. If I can't beat him in a gentlemanly way, I'll clear my throat real loud just when he's about to hit the ball.

The only thing I'm worried about is that there will be such a large gallery following this match--plus TV coverage and newspaper photographers--that I'll not be able to concentrate and shoot my usual stellar game.

There is no difference between a groundhog and a woodchuck. In America, this member of the marmot family is called by either name.

Know the Weather

Are anticyclones dangerous? Do they occur often, and where are they most frequent?

Anticyclones are not dangerous. Actually, an anticyclone is highly desirable, and most people enjoy the accompanying weather. They are nothing but the opposites to cyclones, or low pressure systems, and are our high pressure systems.

High pressure systems occur all year around in all areas of the United States, however, they are more common in fall and early winter in most parts of the country. The anticyclone moves eastward at a faster rate of speed than does the cyclone. The winds inside a cyclone are often of greater velocity.

Anticyclone winds circulate in a clockwise direction in this hemisphere while those in a cyclone rotate counter-clockwise.

LANDMARK near Readstown, Wis., is a strange rock formation of particular interest to geologists. It is cited as proof that the last great glacier to grind south —30,000 years ago—bypassed this area. Otherwise, the lime and sandstone formation would have been pulverized. Patty Stilwell, 11, and Nicki Maurer, 5, are the sightseers.

WEEKLY RECIPE

Sarah Anne Sheridan

Rice is an excellent extender for meat dishes while the price of good meats is a problem for the family budget. A salad and dessert will compliment this main meat dish.

Rice Meat Loaf

1 medium onion chopped
1 c cooked rice
1 lb. ground ham
1 lb. ground veal
2 beaten eggs
1½ c milk
Dash of pepper
1 t salt
½ t garlic salt

Topping

1/3 c brown sugar
¼ c vinegar
½ T dry mustard

Mix onion, rice, ham and veal together. Beat eggs into milk; add to meat. Add pepper, salt and garlic salt. This makes a soft mixture. Pour into a well greased loaf pan and pat down so the top is even. Combine the brown sugar, vinegar and mustard. Pour over the top of loaf and bake 1½ hours in an oven 250 degrees.

First World War Ushered In Era Of Air Power And Great Aces

(Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of exclusive articles based on the newly-published book, "Fighter Tactics and Strategy, 1914-18" (Harper and Row) by Edward H. Sims.)

In the First World War aircraft were initially looked upon by military leaders in all countries as observation platforms which could be flown over enemy territory to report enemy movement, disposition and supply.

In those first days in 1914 pilots seldom fired at each other. The fact is they usually didn't have anything to shoot with. But some did and the British had already ordered guns to be installed in some of their two seaters at the beginning of the war. Some pilots took aloft rifles, shotguns or pistols and had a go at the enemy. But few aircraft were brought down in this manner.

In 1915 a French pilot used a machine gun firing through the propeller blades to terrorize the German Air Force. It was a crude device; the bullets were supposedly deflected from the whirling propeller blades by special metal attached thereto. But eventually the bullets chopped off the prop, and when one day the Frenchman was forced to land behind the German lines the secret was out.

The Germans called on the Dutchman, Anthony Fokker, to provide the answer to that threat and he designed a gun which would fire through a whirling propeller only when the blades were out of the path of the bullets. This scientifically-designed aircraft quickly cleared the skies of Allied planes and gave the German Air Force ascendancy.

But, of course, the Allies also eventually designed such a gear and as soon as both sides were using machine guns firing straight ahead through the propeller, air war began to be costly and dangerous. Until then most aircraft were two seaters but the "scout"--as it was then called--soon became the key to control of the skies.

The scout of 1914-18 was the pursuit plane of the twenties and thirties and early forties and is known as the fighter today. Being small, piloted by one person, and designed for air-to-air combat, not bombing, it has been the principle weapon which the nations used to gain air superiority and supremacy.

Because its role was thus decisive (bombers were too easily shot down if used in air space controlled by enemy scouts) the great scout pilots soon became national heroes. There was Albert Ball, Edward Mannock, Billy Bishop and others from the R.A.F., Rene Fonck and George Guynemer of the French Air Force and, later, several American aces of note, Eddie Rickenbaker and Frank Luke, among them.

Generally speaking, the Germans employed a defensive strategy in World War I and the British an offensive one. In retrospect, it seems the German strategy was best. That may be why the German Air Force produced the greatest ace of the war, Baron Manfred von Richtofen and many other high scorers, and lost far fewer planes.

This Summer, Live It Up — With Fish

AUSTIN -- Put a touch of the exotic in your summer menus. Even if this isn't your year to travel, you can still enjoy the flavor of other lands. With fish that's especially easy, says the Seafood Marketing Division of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

An extra bonus is that this kind of gourmet fare doesn't add inches to the waistline. And, since fish is one of the most nutritious foods, you can eat it in good health.

These south- of-the border and trans-Pacific recipes won't detain you long in the kitchen, either.

REDFISH MEXICALI

2 lbs. redfish fillets, or other fresh fish fillets
2 Tbsp. salad oil
2 Tbsp. soy sauce
2 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 Tsp. paprika
1/2 tsp. chili powder
1/2 tsp. garlic powder
dash liquid hot pepper sauce

Place fillets in a single layer, skin side down, on a well-greased broil-and-serve platter, 16 x 10 inches. Combine remaining ingredients. Pour sauce over fillets. Broil about four inches from source of heat for 10-15 minutes, or until fillets flake easily when tested with a fork. Baste once during broiling, with sauce in pan. Garnish with lemon wedges. Makes six servings.

BROILED CATFISH HAWAIIAN

2 lbs. catfish fillets or other fish fillets, fresh or frozen
1/2 cup pineapple juice
1/4 cup steak sauce
1 tsp. salt
Dash pepper

Skin fillets and cut into serving-size portions. Place fish in a single layer in a shallow baking dish. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over fish. Let stand for 30 minutes, turning once. Remove fish, reserving sauce for basting. Place fish on a well-greased broiler pan. Broil about four inches from source of heat for four to six minutes. Turn carefully and brush with sauce. Broil four to six minutes longer or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Serves six. (This recipe has approximately 80 calories in each serving.)

Draft Board News

Three 18 year-olds from here registered with the draft board at Sinton during the month of May. They are Patrick O. McLead, Peter T. Ehrlich, and Richard L. Valdez.

TROPHY WALL of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Barta of Blue River, Wis., shows off their specialty—fishheads. Their prize exhibit was an 18-pound head of a 57.5-pound catfish, but somebody made off with it.

Marine News

Gunnery Sergeant Dave Hellums, the local Marine Corps Recruiter, announced that the Marine Corps will pay a $1,500 bonus for men who enlist in the Marine Corps for a period of 4 years and select the Combat Arms field as their occupational field. The bonus will be paid upon completion of their 12 week boot camp in San Diego, Calif.

The Marine Corps also has a limited number of 2 year enlistment options available.

Interested persons may obtain additional information by calling the Marine Corps Recruiting office in Corpus Christi, Texas at 882-6822 collect.

Hunters Pay Own Way With License Fees, Taxes

AUSTIN--Hunters and fishermen in the U.S. spent more than $256 million last year for licenses, tags, permits and stamps, and most of the money went toward research and development of game and fish management practices.

In addition to the money for licenses, sportsmen also added $47.8 million to fish and wildlife coffers by paying taxes on arms and ammunition and on certain fishing tackle items.

The money from the taxes is apportioned to the states for their fish and wildlife programs.

Local A&I Students Make Good Grades

Three local youths earned places on the Dean's List and three made the Honor Roll at Texas A&I University during the fall semester.

On the Dean's List were Arno Ehrlich, Pamela Griffis and Heather Miller.

Placed on the Honor Roll were Pamela Ballard, Mary Jackson, Nancy Smith and Eva Zbranek.

To make the Dean's List a student must compile a grade point average of 3.65 for all work for a semester, with a minimum of 15 semester hours completed. (An "A" counts 4.0; a "B", 3.0). Honor Roll requirements include a 3.5 grade point average, with a minimum of 12 semester hours completed.

Life Preservers Could Save Lives

AUSTIN -- Accidents, by nature, happen when you are not suspecting them.

So it's not surprising to learn from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department that at least half of the recreational drowning victims in the U.S. last year had no intention of going into the water. As a result, they did not have a life preserver available.

More than 2,800 of these "surprise" victims either slipped, tripped or fell into the water or were aboard when their boat sank.

The moral, says the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, is to take the simple precaution of wearing a life preserver around water, especially if you can't swim.

The life preserver is more than just a good idea if you are aboard a boat -- it's the law. Every boat, including canoes, rafts, sailboats and kayaks, must have one Coast Guard approved lifesaving device for everyone on board. In motorboats 26 feet long and under children 12 years old and younger must wear a vest-type life preserver when the boat is underway.

FISH ONLY IMPORTANT TO JOANNE

By JOANNE GORDON
Of the World Staff

Last weekend, Troy and I were with some Oklahoma City and Tulsa newspaper people at Sea-Gun Sports Inn, Rockport, Tex.

We had a wonderful time. We got to go fishing in Aransas, Copano and San Antonio bays off the Gulf of Mexico, and I caught the biggest fish.

It was 23 feet long and weighed 300 pounds. Oh, all right, it was 23 inches long and weighed 3 1/2 pounds.

I had never been fishing before in my life, not even in a creek.

The captain of the charter boat, Jim Karow, handed me a rod with a reel on it and told me to watch a little cork at the end of the line. When it went under, that meant there was something on the line.

I watched the cork and all of a sudden it went under.

"Strike!" Jim yelled.

I looked around. Strike what? "I think I have a fish," I said.

" Reel !" Jim shouted. "Reel!"

"Which way does it turn?" I asked. He motioned which way and I reeled in a big fish Jim said was a gafftop.

My next strike (that's what they say when you get a fish on the line) was a 3 1/4 pound sheepshead and then I caught a few trout.

My prize for the biggest fish was a five-pound box of freshly caught shrimp.

Naturally, I was very proud of my skill as a fisherman (fish-Ms?) and I told a friend of mine, Willie Peters, about it. The next day, she said to another friend, Frances York, "Frances, get Joanne to tell you about her fish."

"I caught it at Rockport, Tex.," I began.

"I've fished there often," Frances said. "We used to live near there."

"Then you can tell me," I said eagerly. "What's a gafftop?"

"Not very much," Frances said.

"Oh?" I said stiffly, "how about a sheepshead?"

"That's not very much either," Frances said.

I have only one thing to say. Well!

We never harbor ill feelings against individuals who disagree with our views, although we often regret that so many people can be wrong.

Great Aces Seldom Went In For Colorful Dogfights Of Films

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series of exclusive articles based on the newly-published book, "Fighter Tactics and Strategy, 1914-18" (Harper and Row) by Edward H. Sims.)

One of the surprising things one finds in interviewing the greatest fliers of the century (fighter pilots) is that most of the best didn't believe the colorful dogfight of fiction and films was a desirable or sensible tactic of battle in the air.

The great Baron Richthofen never plunged recklessly into dogfights but watched carefully for a situation in which he had the advantage and then went for his foe. That is how he scored 80 victories before being hit by ground fire while chasing another aircraft too low over Allied lines.

The highest-scoring ace of the Second World War, Erich Hartmann, was also a German. He achieved the almost unbelievable record of 352 aircraft destroyed, practically all Russians. Hartmann, however, was another careful aerial tactician. He had a rugged beginning and soon learned to wait for the right moment and circumstances before engaging. In this way he methodically shot down one or two Russians per day--usually. And he was satisfied with this. He never tried to down them all in one day.

The great American ace, General J. C. Meyer, Vice Chief of Staff as Fighter Tactics and Strategy, 1914-70, is published, says he avoided the dogfight because it was excessively risky and one could never be sure what might happen. Meyer, like German aces Richthofen and Hartmann, waited for the right circumstances and then attacked aggressively.

Perhaps the classic American example of cool tactics, used to destroy a large number of enemy aircraft, was that of Captain David McCampbell, U.S.N., who once shot down nine Zeroes and damaged two others on one mission. By diving from superior height in his firing pass, then using excess speed to regain the altitude advantage (out of range), he accomplished such a feat. McCampbell says the head-on firing pass was avoided, generally, because it wasn't a pass in which one pilot enjoyed superior position or tactics.

By the time of the Korean war, the old-style dogfight was thought a thing of the past but it was still possible, only speeds were faster and the turning ratio greater. But most of the kills in this war were accomplished by automatic missiles. American pilots, by the way, racked up a lopsided score of 8 to 10 enemy aircraft destroyed to every U.S. loss.

Interestingly, that one-sided margin has not been achieved in the Vietnam air war. There communist pilots have good aircraft and their tactics are better. It has been something of an even war in the air. In fact, some think the enemy pilots in MIG 23's have an edge in performance over U.S. pilots in F-4's and F-105's. Again, most of the kills are accomplished by homing missiles.

1972 Big Year For GI Home Loans

Forecasts that 1972 would be a big year for G.I. home loans were borne out during the first three months as 1971 first quarter records were topped by 123 percent.

A.A. HUNTER, VA Regional Director, reported that the Veterans Administration guaranteed 91,200 loans during January, February and March of this year compared to 40,900 during the same period last year.

Loans during March reached 33,100 which was 13 percent over February 1972 and 129 percent over March 1971.

Applications for loans continued to come in at a brisk pace during the quarter as did requests for VA appraisals of homes. Requests leveled off for certificates of eligibility to buy homes with VA guaranteed loans.

Applications received during the first three months totaled 89,800 for a 43 percent increase, and the March figure of 36,000 was 34 percent up from February and 22 percent over March 1971.

Appraisal requests for the quarter at 173,500 were up 18 percent over last year, and the March figure of 69,700 was 22 percent up from February and six percent over March 1971.

Requests for eligibility certificates, at 208,800 were only a six percent increase over the first quarter of 1971, March with 83,700 requests, was up 27 percent over February but down three percent from March a year ago.

A favorable climate for G.I. home loans is expected to continue because administration steps to hold the interest rate for these loans at seven percent continue to be successful. It reached 8.5 percent in December 1970.

Those eligible for G.I. home loans include: all veterans and eligible widows of World War II, Korean Conflict, Post Korean Conflict, Vietnam Era; and wives of servicemen officially listed as missing in action for more than 90 days; and servicemen who have served on active duty for at least 181 days.

Information on G.I. home loans is available from VA offices and from representatives of local veterans' service organizations.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Bertram S. Brown, M.D.
Director
National Institute of Mental Health

FAMILY ILLNESS

The impact on families which suffered a mental illness years ago and families in which a spouse is presently ill will be studied by a scientist who pioneered in the first systematic research of this kind.

A grant from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare's National Institute of Mental Health has been awarded to the researcher, Dr. John A. Clausen of the University of California at Berkeley, to initiate a four-year project which will follow up and extend his earlier work.

Three groups of families in which either a husband or a wife has been hospitalized for a serious mental illness will be studied.

One group consists of families in which one spouse was hospitalized for mental illness some 10 to 15 years ago. In the current followup, it is hoped to learn how many families are still intact, how well the former mental patients have adjusted, and how the family adapted over the long run to the mental illness.

The second study will involve two groups: one on the east coast and another on the west coast.

The families on the west coast include some which figured in previous studies employing Dr. Clausen's techniques.

He believes that by studying the new patients and the impact of their illness on their families he will be able to assess what changes, if any, have taken place in the past several years in light of the modernization and wider availability of mental health services.

Dr. Clausen hopes to determine how these changes have influenced the process of identifying mental illness and family adaptation to mental illness.

One change he has observed is that persons hospitalized now are more severely ill than were patients hospitalized prior to the 1950's when drugs were introduced for the treatment of mental illness.

His new studies will include some patients who are hospitalized and some who are receiving outpatient treatment today, but who might have been hospitalized years ago for mental illness.

THEY ALSO SERVE who stand and wait and every Little League field has its share of eager substitutes.

BASEBALL * * *

By Pete Fritchie

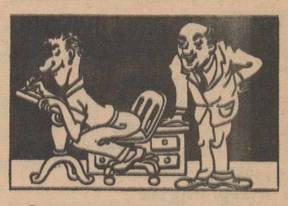

Washington, D. C. -- The big surprise in the American League east is the Cleveland Indians, who think they're contenders. Whether their new ace, Gaylord Perry, is throwing with grease or not, he and other good pitchers are making the Indians tough.

In a recent series against Detroit, the Indians won the first two games 2-1, and in the second they got only two hits. That's the way pennant winners win games. But, of course, it's not yet likely the Indians will win a pennant, though it also isn't impossible.

What is good for baseball is that Cleveland again has a competitive team. The city was rumored about to lose its franchise in the American League, like Washington, and this year's team play may do more to keep it in Cleveland than anything else. Fans love a winner and if the Indians don't completely collapse, the season should be a successful one for the club's new management.

Baltimore and Detroit were supposed to steal the thunder in this division of American League play and few thought the Indians would ever be on top of the division. There they were for much of May.

Meanwhile, the San Francisco Giants, who obtained its franchise in the American Sam McDowell for Gaylord Perry, aren't going anywhere, though Sam is pitching well. The Giants, of course, won their division race last year.

One way to get around not knowing the answer is to be too busy to answer questions.

High Percentage Of Older People Receive Benefits

Four out of five Americans who are over age 65 now receive social security checks, according to H.M. Cleveland, District Manager of the Social Security Administration in Corpus Christi. This compares with only one beneficiary out of six persons over 65 receiving payments 20 years ago.

Further, in 1952, only 12 million people were over 65; today 20 million have reached that age. The number of retired social security beneficiaries has jumped from two million to almost 17 million during that same period.

Not only has there been a rapid increase in the number of persons receiving retirement insurance payments but the average amount to retired persons went up from $50 to $131 a month, Cleveland says.

A recent study of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare shows that older people prefer to live on their own when they have enough income, Cleveland's report shows. The higher income of today enables four out of five couples with one member over 65 to live apart from relatives. This compares to only two of three in 1952.

Nine out of ten older people are eligible for social security benefits. Some of those who are eligible to receive payments do not actually receive them because they continue working where their earnings are too high to permit payment at this time. Social security payments represent 34 percent of the income of persons over age 65.

MIRACLES DO Happen

By MICKEY CASTERLINE

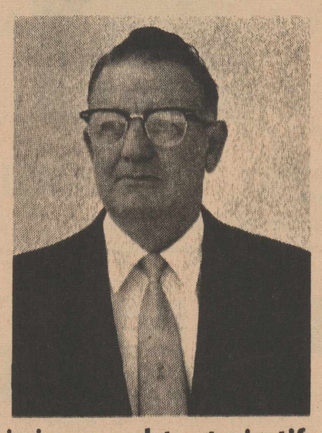

Did you know that . . .

The symbol of Nazism, the Swastika, was an ancient Indian good luck symbol before Hitler put the evil eye on it? . . .That brown-eyed people are said to be emotional, stubborn and possessed of strong drives for food and sleep; blue-eyed folks are claimed to be ambitious, logical and opinionated; green and hazel eyes fall varyingly between these extremes . . .that Mozart wrote over 700 compositions. He started at age 3 and at age 7 he was skilled on the violin, harpsichord, and organ.

Busy homemakers with blue, brown, green or hazel eyes will find more leisure time to enjoy Mozart, jazz, or their favorite TV program with a Miracle Water water refiner around. Dishes, glassware, pots and pans are easier to clean and dry sparkling without towel wiping. That's just one way a Miracle Water water refiner saves you time. For more information about increased leisure time, call: 729-6468.

I will do my best as your commissioner and try to justify your confidence inme.

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

Nixon In Moscow-
1959 Avenged-
The Triumph-
Effect on November-

Washington, D. C. -- The inside story on the President's Moscow trip is that it avenged his 1959 visit as Vice President, when he suffered frustration and defeat. The real story of the 1959 visit has never been fully known among the American people. At the time, Nixon's few, defensive blunt words were played up by the American press.

But Nikita Khrushchev, then the Soviet leader actually bullied Nixon about, and in addition, the Russians blocked Nixon's effort to reach the minds of the people. They had promised Nixon television time for a speech before he left Washington in 1959--and he got it.

But to the dismay of U.S. correspondents on that trip (including a representative from this newspaper) the Russian television studio failed to provide a translation of the speech into Russian. Thus most Russians who heard the Vice President couldn't understand what he was saying. The Communists had complied technically with their promise but not in spirit.

At the legendary kitchen debate between Khrushchev and Nixon and at their joint appearance on television, Nixon was very much on the receiving end verbally. In fact, many American reporters became so irritated by the constant badgering and bullying of Khrushchev they longed for Nixon to take the gloves off and reply equally bluntly.

But U.S. diplomats feared this was what the Russians wanted. Nixon was urged to keep his calm and not lose his temper. He took much as a result, and wasn't as effective in reaching the Russian people as he had hoped to be. Interestingly, Leonid Brezhnev, now the top Russian, was beside Khrushchev on all the important 1959 occasions.

Thus both Nixon and Brezhnev had seen and experienced the Khrushchev bulldozer treatment and Nixon's handicapped efforts to stand up for America in 1959. Nixon was determined not to allow this to happen again this time and his experience thirteen years earlier helped him avoid the pitfalls.

In addition, Nixon offered Soviet leaders solid agreements in vital areas in the best interests of the peoples of both countries, including a trade agreement. Both sides made concessions to reach a nuclear arms limitation agreement, Nixon actually standing firm in Moscow on several key points until the Russians, at the last hour, gave in.

The 1972 Moscow trip enhances the Nixon image as President. How much it will help him in November's election is hard to predict but it can be said it will be an asset, and that the disappointment and failure of 1959 has been avenged.

The voters of Aransas County are to be commended for exercising their right to vote in the Democratic Primaries. On May 6th, 2771 persons voted in the first primary. On June 3rd, 1933 persons cast ballots in the second primary. Likewise to be commended were the 23 election officials working at the polls to see that each voter could exercise his or her right with as little delay as possible.

But the voters and citizens of the community should know of the efforts of at least 6 other persons working diligently and tirelessly to assure the community of an efficiently run and honestly maintained election. Those persons are the Democratic Precinct Chairmen who, with the County Chairman, constitute the executive committee. They are:

Historical Data Is Resumed

Following is a continuation of the minutes of meetings of the Civic Improvement League, an organization founded by a group of ladies here in 1909:

There was a large and encouraging attendance of the Civic League members July 7th 1910.

The minutes were read and approved with the correction--the union meeting conducted by Dr. Lumpkin at the pavilion was held in the afternoon instead of forenoon.

The secretary reported that a conference over the phone with Mrs. Whitthead resulted in postponing the business session of the Farmers Institute, and in dispensing with a 4th of July celebration at the pavilion as had been partially agreed upon. The farmers were too busy to stop even for a single day to participate in any festivities.

Mr. Clivingers report on past work was to the effect that the pagoda was still an airy dream but would materialize in the near future. Mr. Rooke had requested that the lumber, posts, etc, be placed in the park and he would begin work the very first day he was disengaged. Consequently the material had been delivered as desired.

Mrs. Woopers reported that Mrs. McCown had paid $7.00 rent for studio.

A discussion then followed as to the probability of losing the manager of the pavilion--no rent having been paid for same for month beginning June 10. No particular blame was attached to him as all were aware the usefulness of the floor had been destroyed for dancing, thus removing one of his chief means of revenue. Ladies gowns were ruined by contact with the oiled floors so that even the moving picture shows had not been patronized, and other attractions failed completely. The loss of the electric light plant made it necessary to substitute other means of lighting the building--an expense which the League did not care to assume under present circumstances.

The corresponding secretary, Mrs. Bailey, was requested to write Mr. Wersion, the owner of the building, the condition of affairs and the inability as well as disinclination to pay rent on the pavilion from June 1st, not having had value received.

Mrs. Bailey suggested that the League suspend all further action until Mr. Wersion was heard from. A motion to that effect was carried.

Mrs. Wearwill suggested that a committee be appointed to appear before the City Council and remoustrate on the offensive odors arising on the bay front. It was reported that Mrs. Christian was in danger of losing all her business because of it, and strangers fled in disgust and fear of disease.

A motion by Mrs. Bailey to appear in a body before the City Council was carried.

$1.70 was paid in dues to Mrs. Bracht and turned over to Mrs. Hoopes to be placed in bank--the treasurer being absent.

Mrs. Friend was present as one of our new members, and Mrs. R. W. McVea a welcome visitor.

The meeting adjourned at the usual hour.

Gertrude B. Grewe,
Rec. Sec'y.

The Civic League held a regular meeting July 14th,1910.

The minutes were read and approved. The president requested the words "red settlers" expunged from the minutes of June 30th.

A letter from Mr. Henion was read which stated he was ready and willing to put the pavilion floor in good order--in fact would be in the city soon to give his personal supervision.

Mr. Hoopes had drawn up a petition to be presented to the City Council, asking for relief from the intolerable oders on the bay front. A motion was made and carried that the petition be circulated in the business district that everyone interested might sign, and that the same be read before the Council at the next meeting.

One dollar in dues was paid by Miss Laura Bracht.

Gertrude B. Grieve

There was no meeting of the Civic League July 21 so many of the members were either out of town or unable to attend. On July 28 a regular meeting was held at the home of the secretary.

The minutes were read and approved.

Mrs. Hoopes reported that Mr. Henion had come down from San Antonio, inspected the pavilion, and hired men to give it a vigorous cleaning. There was a decided improvement, and Mr. Henion had again departed with a satisfied air, having accomplished the purpose for which he came.

The petition which had been read before the League, relative to the offensive odor on the bay front, had been signed by over 70 citizens, some of whom wanted to sign two or three times. The petition was then presented and read before the City Council who granted a respectful hearing. After much discussion it was decided that a sea wall was the only permanent relief and the members promised to call a meeting of the property owners and urge the necessity of taking some action in the near future. Mr. Bracht was acting president of the Council in the absence of Mr. Johnson, was quite in favor of some immediate relief as he realized that business was injured and summer visitors driven away by the intolerable stench. A subsequent conversation with Mr. Johnson foreshadowed some delay as Mr. Sorenson was away and would not return for two months.

Mrs. Hoopes further stated that an accomplished reader was in town seeking an engagement at the pavilion. The lady, Miss Gilbert, on hearing of our run of bad luck had offered to divide receipts with us and not require the usual guarantee. As there was no means of lighting the pavilion there was no action taken.

Letters from the manager of the Wood Sisters were read in which he stated that he wished to make booking for Feb. 9, 10, 11, 1911 in Rockport. Contracts were forwarded by his Texas representative in Dallas. On motion it was decided to write asking for more time to consider in view of the fact that "our manager was dead."

A letter was also read from Billy Ellwood, representative of the International Theatrical Exchange, Shreveport, La. Mr. Ellwood also wishes to make bookings.

These letters were referred to the corresponding secretary with the instructions to write the theatrical exchange and inquire if a live, up-to-date manager could not be sent us and present the attractive features of our pavilion so brightly as truth and conscience would warrant.

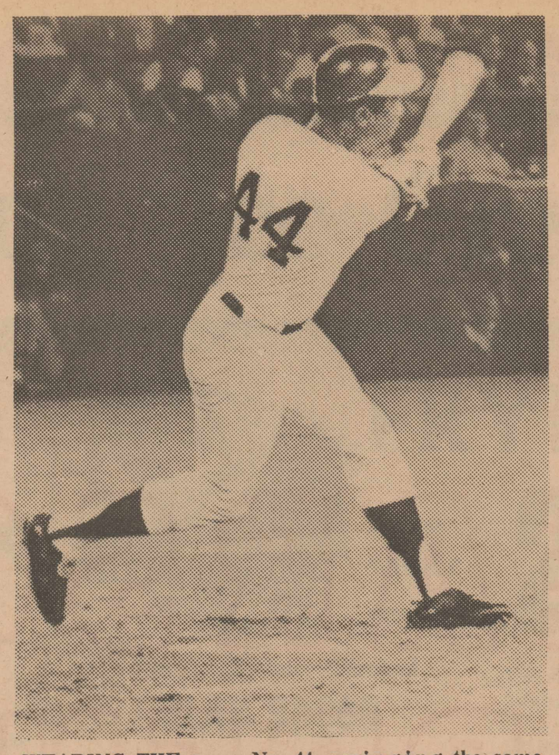

A motion was read and carried that a carpenter be hired to build the pagoda in the beach park at once. The committee, Dr. Bailey and S. A. Clevinger, were authorized to let out the contract.

The president reported that she had sold the city scrip of $50.00 to Mr. Chas. Johnson for $42.00.

Miss Dorothea Taylor, on the unanimous request of the League, gave an interesting report of her late visit to the Pres. Encampment at Kerrville. So attractively did she present the entertaining qualities of a stunt party that the League members were seized with an overwhelming desire to go and do likewise. The president appointed as committee, Miss Dorothea Taylor, Miss Minna Trend and Miss A. L. Bracht to arrange for a stunt party in the pavilion as soon as the new lighting plant was installed.

The meeting adjourned with the star of hope rising in the east.

Know the Weather

What is the greatest danger from lightning to swimmers?

Since lightning does strike water, contrary to some people's belief, swimming is dangerous when lightning is observed, especially if it is seen to the west. But swimmers killed by lightning are usually not burned, they are paralyzed.

So, artificial respiration is as important for lightning-struck swimmers as it is for drowning victims.

Lightning strikes boats and automobiles, but all-metal cars (apart from convertibles are safe havens. Boats near land are safer than boats far out to sea. Boats or ships with tall masts are most likely to be struck.

Swimming or bathing is never permissible during lightning storms.

If you're old enough to want your own telephone, you're old enough to want your own typewriter.

There comes a time in your life when all of a sudden privacy really counts.

You need to be alone. In your own place.

With your own things.

You want your conversations with your friends to be just that—not a family gathering.

We understand.

Which brings us to your own typewriter.

Your own typewriter says you're getting serious (and better be left alone).

After all, when people hear the tappety-tap of a typewriter they figure you're into something important and automatically steer away from you.

Besides, when your own typewriter is sitting there, it has a way (a neater way than anyone else) of reminding you of the work you have to do.

And somehow you'll find yourself doing it.

And doing it faster—because with say, an electric portable, even a beginner can get to type twice as fast as writing by hand.

Other things can happen too. Like spelling can improve. Because a typed word that's misspelled looks misspelled, and just asks to be corrected.

You'll find your creative thoughts won't slip away from you, because a typewriter really listens to you—actually accepts every idea as fast as it comes up.

And then a little miracle called Organization can occur. When that happens, you can get a feeling of confidence you won't believe.

So drop a hint or two about wanting your own typewriter.

The mere act of asking says something about where your head's at.

Which could even go a long way toward getting you that telephone.

At the very least, your own extension.

Just remember when you're asking, who reminded you to ask.

All such calls must be authorized by Aransas County Emergency Corps officials, Sheriff's Department or County Judge John D. Wendell.

Internal Revenue News

The launching of a program to insure that owners of large trucks, truck-tractors and buses are complying with Federal Highway Use Tax laws was announced today by R. L. Phinney, District Director of Internal Revenue for southern Texas.

Lists of registered truck and bus owners will be compared with Federal Highway Use Tax returns to assure that returns are being filed and that all taxable vehicles are being correctly reported, Phinney said.

Revenue collected by the Federal Government from the Highway Use Tax is returned to other states to help pay the costs of the interstate highway system now under construction.

The tax is imposed on certain trucks, truck tractors, and buses that use the public highways. The amount of tax depends on a combination of the number of axles and weights of the vehicles. Generally, the tax applies to single unit trucks weighing 13,000 pounds or more and truck-tractors weighing 5,500 pounds or more, Phinney stated.

The Highway Use Tax year runs from July 1 through the following June 30. Owners of trucks in use on public highways during July, the IRS said, have to file a return by August 31. Returns also are required for vehicles first used on public highways after July.

Phinney said that increasing numbers of farmers are becoming subject to the tax because of the growing use of larger vehicles in the agricultural industry.

IRS Publication 349, "Federal Use Tax on Trucks, Truck-Tractors and Buses," furnishes detailed information and may be obtained free by mail or in person from all IRS offices.

Palo Duro Canyon Is Quite Spectacular

CANYON--When famed cattle baron Charles Goodnight brought his herd over a little rise in the Texas Panhandle in the 1870s, he almost had a stampede on his hands.

The cattle were suddenly confronted by Palo Duro Canyon, and they panicked. In fact, the mules pulling the chuck wagon were so frightened that they nearly dumped the entire wagon, cook and all, into the 1,000-foot canyon.

Palo Duro Canyon, located 12 miles east of the City of Canyon, is indeed a spectacular site to behold after crossing mile after mile of the monotonous rolling plains of the Texas Panhandle.

The canyon is 120 miles long and is 40 miles wide at its mouth. Because of the canyon's breathtaking scenery and its colorful history, more than 15,000 acres of it have been made into a state park.

The canyon has been in the making for 90 million years through the action of wind and water on rock. At least four geologic ages or eras are exposed by the canyon's eroded formations.

Palo Duro, a Spanish term meaning "hard wood," refers to the canyon's supply of strong cedar (juniper) brush from which the Indians made their arrows.

Probably the first European to visit Palo Duro Canyon was Francisco Vasques de Coronado, who is generally believed to have been in the canyon in 1541.

The canyon was one of the last strongholds of the warlike Great Plains Indians until after 1874 when General Ranald MacKenzie defeated a large force of marauding Comanche Indians in the canyon, making it safe for permanent Anglo-American settlement.

The first rancher in Palo Duro Canyon was Goodnight, who, in partnership with John Adair of England, started the first cattle ranch in the canyon as well as the first ranch in the Texas Panhandle, the famous JA Ranch which is still in operation in part of the canyon.

The extraordinary terrain of the canyon is reason enough to visit Palo Duro Canyon State Park. It is, after all, a geological wonder.

But there is also a man-made attraction which has drawn visitors from all over the world. It is the outdoor stage production "TEXAS," a musical drama depicting the early settlement of the canyon area.

"TEXAS" is held in an outdoor amphitheater of natural stone. It is a drama of man's struggle with the elements while trying to settle the untamed portions of central and northern Texas. Since its beginning in 1961, success of the drama has been as spectacular as the country and history on which the story is based.

Pulitzer Prize winner Paul Green wrote the script, and the music was scored by Hollywood composer Isaac Van Grove. Some of the cast are students, some are housewives and many of the feature performers have professional backgrounds.

Lights playing against rugged canyon walls and special sound effects are used to heighten the drama's excitement. On stage a panorama of Panhandle history unfolds as settlers, cowboys and Indians play out the day-to-day conflicts of that colorful era.

A prairie fire rages and the settlers struggle against searing winds, dust storms and blizzards. Simple pleasures, such as hoedowns and "plum pickens," brighten the hard existence.

"TEXAS" is beginning its 12th year at the amphitheater. Performances this year begin June 22 and run every day except Sunday through Aug. 26.

Storm's Distance

You can tell how far away a thunderstorm is by watching the jagged streak of lightning, then counting off seconds until the thunder noise reaches you. Thunder travels one mile in five seconds. If it takes 15 seconds for the noise to reach you, you know the storm is three miles away.
