Texaco launches counterattack

HOUSTON (AP) — Texaco Inc. launched another counterattack today before a Texas appeals court to overturn a jury's verdict that it pay oil industry rival Pennzoil Co. $10.53 billion for wrongfully interfering with a planned Pennzoil-Getty Oil Co. merger.

"There's not a shred of evidence in the record to say that Texaco knew (of any contract between Pennzoil and Getty)," Richard Keaton said in arguments before the 1st Court of Appeals. "There was no contract and Texaco had no knowledge even if there was."

Keaton also insisted that Getty representatives encouraged Texaco.

"There are no agreements, there are no contracts. You are free to come in and we want you to come in. If you want to make an offer, come in now," he said Getty officials told Texaco.

A Houston jury in November found Texaco wrongfully interfered in the planned Pennzoil-Getty merger in 1984 and ordered the third-largest oil company to pay the $10.53 billion.

Heat wave continues

By The Associated Press

A 40-year-old man has died of heatstroke in Dallas as record high temperatures continued across much of Texas.

The Dallas County Medical Examiner's office said the man, who was not identified pending notification of relatives, was found unconnscious earlier this week beside a road in northwest Dallas.

A spokesman for the Medical Examiner's Office said alcohol intoxication was listed as a secondary cause of the man's death.

The man died Tuesday, but authorities did not determine the cause of death until Wednesday, authorities said.

At least 30 Texas cities recorded highs above the 100-degree mark Wednesday, pushing the use of electricity and water to higher levels, too.

Forecasters had little hope for sun-scorched Texans as they say it will be at least Sunday or Monday before a cool front reaches the state with enough power to drop temperatures by even a few degrees.

Wichita Falls, at 110 degrees Wednesday, tied a record set in 1980 for the same date and registered the state's high.

Houston's 101 degrees broke that city's record of 99 degrees in 1980, as did Dallas-Fort Worth with its 106-degree reading and its sixth day in a row over 100 degrees.

Beaumont was not as hot — 99 degrees — but that was enough to break a high mark set more than 20 years ago in 1962.

Waco, Presidio and Laredo recorded 107 degrees.

Marfa, with a chilly 56 degrees Wednesday morning, topped out at 99, according to the National Weather Service.

No rain had been reported around the state, and only a few paltry showers fell tauntingly off the lower coast.

Even nightfall failed to bring relief. Temperatures remained in the 90s Wednesday night.

A stubborn high pressure center hovering above the area is responsible for the heat wave.

Jobless percent increases to 12.5 here during June

The number of persons employed in Scurry County dropped by 239 jobs during June — pushing the unemployment level here to 12.5 percent.

According to figures released Thursday by the Texas Employment Commission, the total number of persons employed plunged from 9,201 in May to 8,962 for June — a loss of 239 jobs.

It marked also the fourth month in a row that unemployemnt has been on the steady rise in Scurry County, beginning last February as layoffs in the oilpatch began along with dramatic drops in the price of oil.

In January, the number of persons said employed was listed at 9,570 — marking a 608 loss in jobs since the first of the year.

The current figures indicate some 1,272 persons are listed as unemployed — a classificaton which indicates they are persons "actively seeking jobs."

Unemployment for Scurry County at the beginning of 1986 was set at 6 percent — half the percentage now reported.

The same unemployment figures for the five other counties served through the Sweetwater-based regional TEC office include:

—Nolan County: 13.7 percent unemployment with 7,045 individuals said employed and 1,122 unemployed, comprising a total labor force of 8,167 persons.

—Mitchell County: 15.3 percent unemployment with 3,644 individuals said employed and 660 unemployed, comprising a total

100 degree run locally

Wednesday marked the seventh day Snyder sweltered under 100-plus degree readings.

The highest temperature of the seven-day streak was recorded Wednesday as the mercury rose to 102.

The run began last Thursday with a 100 degree reading. It has gone to a top of 101 every other day.

College orientation set for Women's Program

An orientation session for the Women's Program at Western Texas College is slated for 6:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 14, at the Senior Center. The purpose of the meeting is to acquaint newcomers to the program said Pat Blakely, director.

The Women's Program, which was founded last school year, provides funds for tuition and child care for needy women. It offers women an opportunity to earn college credit for a psychology course which emphasizes family living. No high school diploma is necesary, Blakely said.

Dan Osborne will again teach the course. Within the context of the class, job counseling and testing will be offered. The purpose of the testing etc. is to discover particular skills that could be developed with further education.

The class will start after Labor Day and will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:30-11 a.m.

With the economy as it is, Blakely said that women might be interested in the course as a means of developing job skills.

For more information call Blakely at 573-0907.

CHURCH WORK BEGINS — A new building for the Hermleigh Church of Christ began to take shape this week as church members and volunteer workers began erecting a new steel frame at the old site. The church was destroyed by fire July 1. Pictured tightening bolts on the church's southwest corner are David Lovelady and Bill Forbes — both volunteer members of a group representing Colonial Hill Baptist Church. (SDN Staff Photo)

Cotton plan not expected to affect here

A government program paying inventory protection payments for 1985 or earlier cotton not previously included in government commodity programs is to begin effective midnight Thursday--but local ASCS officials say it is doubtful few or any Scurry County cotton farmers will be eligible.

Cotton which is not eligible includes that currently under price support loan programs administered through ASCS or owned by its related Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC).

According to Joe Hefner, local ASCS director, the Food Security Act of 1985 authorizes the CCC to make inventory protection payments to holders of 1985 or Less than one-half percent of the American public controls 38 percent of the nation's wealth, according to a congressional study.

The "super rich" is said to include about 420,000 households with an average net worth of $8.9 million. The study didn't say, but we doubt that they worry about the recent rise in the price of coffee.

Families considered to be "very rich" make up the second half of the top one percent. Assets are said to be up to $2.5 million. "Rich" families have assets ranging from $206,000 to $1.4 million.

The bottom category, which includes 90 percent of us, controls about 38 percent of the nation's wealth. If equity in a family home is eliminated, the percent of the nation's assets is reduced to just under 17 percent.

On the other hand, if personal residences are excluded from the net worth of the super rich, that elite group still controls more than 45 percent of the wealth in this country.

We're not real sure why congress spent time and money on such stuff. We guess it must have something to do with the reason there are several millionaires in congress--they don't run their own affairs like they do the nation's.

Senators are said to receive thousands of dollars for making speeches. There's no indication how much Americans would pay to keep them quiet.

It has been repeated recently that what this country needs is another Harry Truman in the White House.

That reminded us of a story about Truman when he was first elected to the Senate from Missouri. He was greeted by one of his colleagues who offered this advice:

"Don't be hesistant about speaking. It's true that for the first few months you'll be wondering how you ever got here. But after that, you'll be wondering how the rest of us ever got here."

Walkathon scheduled by SCOOP

The annual SCOOP Walk-a-thon will be held this Saturday at the Trinity United Methodist Church. The event will get underway at 9 a.m. All proceeds will go towards the operations of Friendship Home, a foster home for girls.

Prizes will be awarded in two divisions. Prizes for those under 12 include first place, a dirt bike from Kmart; second place, a flying turtle from Stuf 'n Such; and third place, a Heman radio headset.

Prizes for those 12 and over include first place, 10 speed bike; second place, Polaroid 600 Instant Camera; and third place, am/fm radio headset.

Entry blanks are available at

Ask Us

Q. — Why doesn't the city mow all vacant lots and charge the property owner?

A. — City officals say a lack of manpower is the main reason. When complaints are received about overgrown vacant lots, the city begins proceedings to make the property owner mow his own lot.

In Brief

Won't attend

AUSTIN (AP) — About half a million Texans will not be represented in the state Senate during the upcoming special legislative session because their senator became a lobbyist without knowing a session would be called.

Sen. Ed Howard, D-Texarkana, said Wednesday he could not participate because it might raise "questions of impropriety or conflict of interest."

Howard said he would participate only if needed for procedural purposes, such as establishing a quorum.

The senator resigned April 13 to become an Austin lobbyist for the law firm of Jenkens, Hutchison and Gilchrist. But, due to the Texas Constitution, Howard remains in office until his successor takes over.

A special election is set for Aug. 9, three days after the crucial special legislative session begins. If a runoff is needed, the session could end before Howard is replaced.

Farmers aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of Americans, including many from cities, are volunteering money, hay and moral support to drought-stricken farmers in the Southeast by calling the Agriculture Department's toll-free hotline, officials say.

"It's amazing," said John McClung, USDA's director of information. "Most calls now are about hay, from people who want to give hay or want to arrange transportation for it. Some city people want to give money, but we've had to tell them there's no way we can accept it. We refer them to the states."

The hotline was announced last week and went into operation last Friday. There were about 750 calls that day, many inquiring about the aid programs described by Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Lyng.

The USDA phones also were staffed on Saturday, when about 300 calls were received. There were 500 on Monday and 300 on Tuesday.

Block bridge

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (AP) — Dozens of people blocked a bridge linking Texas and Mexico and business leaders called for an indefinite work stoppage to protest alleged election fraud by the ruling party.

Grand jury investigates judge

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A federal grand jury in Dallas is investigating allegations that District Judge Tom Cave has traded favorable rulings to women probationers in exchange for sex, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

Cave, 56, a judge in Tarrant County since 1975, strongly denied the allegations in a written statement given to the newspaper Wednesday.

Cave presided at the first trial of Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis, who was accused in the slayings at his Fort Worth mansion. That trial ended in a mistrial. Davis was later found innocent at a trial in Amarillo.

The judge did acknowledge that he is dating and soon plans to marry a 33-year-old former prostitute who has previously appeared in his court on a felony drug charge.

Cave denied that he has done anything illegal or improper and blamed the investigation on criminals in Tarrant County who "apparently influenced" Police Chief Thomas Windham and Captain Jerry Blaisdell of the Fort Worth Police Department to begin an investigation.

Windham and Blaisdell refused comment on the matter Wednesday.

Saying that the "criminal element" in Tarrant County would like to see him removed from the bench because he has sent many of them to jail, Cave said, "I am the target of a conspiracy."

"I have not violated any laws nor will I do so," he told the Star-Telegram.

The investigation centers on Cave and his girlfriend, Rachel Perez Tallent of San Antonio, and several other women probationers who have appeared in his court since 1981, the newspaper reported.

FBI agents have questioned several current and former court officials in Cave's court if they had seen Cave offer Tallent or any other female defendants in his court, preferential treatment in exchange for sex, the officials told the newspaper.

Two of the officials who asked for anonymity because they feared for their jobs told the newspaper that they told the FBI they knew of no improprieties between Cave and Tallent or any other female defendants on probation in Cave's court.

District Court Judge Joe Drago III, who served as chief prosecutor in Cave's court in 1980, said he was interviewed by FBI agents for more than hour earlier this month.

Drago said he told the FBI he witnessed no wrongdoing of any sort in Cave's court.

Tallent could not be reached for comment. Ronald Aultman, her attorney, declined comment until he became more familiar with the case.

Two federal officials also declined comment and would neither confirm nor deny any facts about the investigation. They were Richard Stephens, an assistant U.S. attorney in Dallas, and Jimmy Tallant, chief of the criminal division in the U.S. Attorney's Office in Fort Worth.

Several current and former court officials from Cave's court were scheduled to appear before the federal grand jury in Dallas today, the newspaper reported, based on grand jury subpoenas obtained by the Star-Telegram.

The records of Tallent's criminal case before Cave in 1983 were also subpoenaed, the newspaper said.

Tallent was given five years probation on a felony charge for possession of cocaine on Aug. 22, 1983, court records show. She had earlier been conviction on a misdemeanor prostitution and drug possession charges.

On March 5, 1984, she appeared again before Cave on charges she violated her probation by failing to report to her probation officer and failing to pay restitution, court records show.

Cave ruled against revoking her probation and sending her to prison after hearing evidence on the charges, according to court records.

An important issue in the federal investigation, the newspaper reported, is whether Cave was dating her at the time she appeared before him or whether he offered leniency to her or other female defendants in exchange for sex.

"It's no secret that I have been dating Rachel Tallent for a year or more," Cave told the newspaper Wednesday. "I love her. We are engaged and we plan to be married. But I was not dating her before that hearing."

Court records show that Tallent's probation was dismissed Dec. 12, 1985, at a time when Tallent was dating Cave. But the records show that Cave ordered the case transferred to Drago's court where it was dismissed.

Young Mother's Discipline Provokes Shoppers' Disgust

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday while grocery shopping, I witnessed a young mother screaming at her son to hurry up and choose between a Twinkie and a Ding Dong. The child was so frightened he couldn't decide. Instead of waiting, she grabbed him by his hair and whipped his head back! He started crying and fell to the floor. She reached down, pulled the little fellow to his feet, then slapped him as hard as she could and whipped his head back again. Needless to say, the child ended up with nothing.

I noticed that four or five other shoppers had witnessed this cruel scene and appeared as disgusted as I was.

Why didn't one of us do something? A part of me said, "Stay out of it — it's none of your business," and another part of me said, "That woman is abusing that child; you should intervene."

What should I have done?

WITNESS IN HUNTINGTON BEACH

DEAR WITNESS: It would have been appropriate to have quietly approached the young mother and in a very kind and non-judgmental way expressed concern for her: "You must be very tired, impatient and under a lot of pressure to have overreacted as you did. Please discuss this with your physician instead of taking it out on the little fellow."

DEAR ABBY: I need to know something about homosexuals, and I can't ask anyone I know for fear of exposing my husband.

We have been married for 25 years, and in all that time I have never suspected him of homosexual behavior. I've suspected a couple of his friends, but never him.

My husband has had ulcerative proctitis for the last 20 years. Yesterday I mentioned this to my friend and she said, "Oh, that's a homosexual disease." This left me very upset and suspicious of my husband, and I need some answers before this totally destroys my marriage.

Please ask your medical experts if ulcerative proctitis is a homosexual disease.

NAGGING DOUBTS

DEAR NAGGING: I consulted Dr. William C. Bernstein, senior consultant in colon and rectal surgery at the University of Minnesota Hospitals, and he assured me that ulcerative proctitis is NOT a homosexual disease.

For further reassurance, you should discuss the matter of your husband's physical condition with his physician. And questions concerning your husband's sexual activities should be addressed to your husband.

DEAR ABBY: "Afraid to Love" (age 15) asked when she'd know she was ready to go to bed with her boyfriend. He was 16, and had been pressuring her.

You replied: "You will be ready when you are so sure you will not have to ask anyone."

My answer would have been: "You'll know you are ready to go to bed together when you can openly discuss what methods of birth control you will use, and what action you will take, should you become pregnant." Sign me ...

TWENTY-FIVE AND STILL NOT READY

DEAR TWENTY-FIVE: Thank you. Your answer was better than mine.

Cruise liner leaving

LITTLE STIRRUP CAY, Bahamas (AP) — The sooty but seaworthy Emerald Seas steamed toward Florida today with 970 passengers after a shipboard fire that sent 15 other passengers and two crewmembers to Miami hospitals.

The injured passengers were airlifted to Miami by U.S. Coast Guard helicopters while their shipmates spent a few hours on this Bahamian island, which is owned by Eastern Cruise Lines, operator of the ship.

All the passengers were evacuated from the Emerald Seas when a smoky fire sparked storeroom explosions Wednesday morning just after the 623-foot liner anchored off this tiny island.

The fire aborted the planned four-day cruise and company officials said passengers would be offered a 50 percent refund or a free pass for a future cruise.

Dive shedding new light on causes of Titanic's doom

WASHINGTON (AP) — The second and final visit to the Titanic by a team of undersea explorers has shed new light on what doomed the grand liner as well as the macabre, deep-sea ravagers who dined at its grave.

Researcher Robert Ballard, who discovered the Titanic in the North Atlantic last Sept. 1, said its collision with an iceberg in April of 1912 did not create a huge gash in the hull — as many, including himself, had long supposed. Instead, he said, the 12-inch-thick plates on the hull simply popped their rivets and buckled enough to spring a fatal leak.

Ballard said the comprehensive photographic exploration of the wreck in 12 dives earlier this month showed "absolutely no evidence" of a gash, estimated in some historical accounts as 300 feet long.

His team, from the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution in Woods Hole, Mass., took more than 57,000 still photos and 50 hours of videotapes. One series of pictures will result in a complete mosaic of the shipwreck, a project scheduled for completion within six weeks.

Ballard met reporters Wednesday at the National Geographic Society headquarters, where Navy Secretary John Lehman commended the Woods Hole team and conferred upon Ballard the title of "Bottom Gun," a title dreamed up in the wake of the hit movie "Top Gun."

The explorer said the fact that the stern of the liner was found 600 meters away from the bow section shows that the ship broke apart not when it hit bottom, 12,500 feet from the surface, but on the way down.

College paper needs more subscriptions

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The University of Texas at Arlington's student publications department is trying to sell enough subscriptions to continue publishing the campus newspaper, The Shorthorn, four times a week.

Unless The Shorthorn is able to sign up a large number of new paying readers, the department will be forced to cut back to one or two publications a week, officials said this week.

Rising production costs, cuts in work-study funds and frozen student fees have created a budget crunch after 10 years of four issues a week, said Dorthy Estes, student publications director.

This week letters were sent to faculty, staff and business and community leaders outlining the problems. The letters request subscriptions or one-time tax-deductible donations to help the newspaper with its funding.

The paper needs to sell 2,000 subscriptions by Aug. 15 to maintain its Monday through Thursday publication schedule during the 1986-87 school year, officials said.

According to the National Committee for Adoption, most infant adoptions today are arranged through the child's natural parents with the help of a lawyer, doctor, clergyman or some other third party. These "independent" adoptions rose from 11,000 in 1975 to 15,743 in 1982, according to the committee's most recent statistics. By contrast, adoptions through private agencies decreased from 18,100 in 1975 to 14,549 in 1982.

"Sacrifices" deals with deliberately taking a penalty rather than allowing the opponents to play a makable game or slam contract. At rubber bridge, sacrifice bids become too expensive since only occasionally will you set the opposing contract. At tournament bridge, well-judged sacrifices are worthwhile. The above deal highlights the "advance" save — a high sacrifice bid, made before the opponents can get to their best contract.

When South opened with a weak two-spade bid, North was certain that East-West could make at least four hearts. When West passed, North jumped right to four spades. East might have smelled a rat, but taking action was just too dangerous. And the same was true when the bidding got back to West. So South played four spades, not even doubled, and gave up only 100 points, when East-West could have made five hearts or six clubs.

An advance save does not always net such an incredible result, but once in a while it will work when the opponents' high cards are evenly distributed so that neither opponent realizes his pocket is being picked.

Hypochondriacs look for trouble

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — How can you tell if you're a hypochondriac?

DEAR READER — Hypochondriasis is a medical condition in which a person exhibits a recurring, abnormal concern about his or her physical health, despite rational evidence that there is no disease or illness present. Most hypochondriacs are perfectly normal adults, who simply seem to worry excessively about themselves.

There is no single test to diagnose hypochondriasis. It is an emotional difficulty that is revealed by excluding physical causes. A problem may arise because, in severe cases, the distorted mind/body relation can be so strong that actual disease may develop.

Ordinarily, we all worry to one degree or another about our health. Hypochondriacs raise this worry to the state of an art. Every imagined symptom becomes cause for alarm. If a person shows chronic, excessive concerns — and a reasonable medical evaluation has shown no physical abnormalities — hypochondriasis may have to be considered. Then, psychotherapy is the treatment of choice.

I should add that some patients with unusual or untypical diseases may not be diagnosed for months or years. In these situations, doctors might incorrectly tend to blame the symptoms on emotional instability or neurosis. By contrast, the hypochondriac is fundamentally healthy; he or she just worries inappropriately.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have had operations to repair tears in my retinas, and I am getting more "floaters" all the time. I'm very active physically (running, tennis, weightlifting). What is causing the floaters and what is the prognosis?

DEAR READER — Floaters are spots that appear to drift in the line of vision. Most floaters are caused by small deposits within the jelly-like interior of the eyeball. Sometimes floaters can be the product of bleeding into this interior. Therefore, floaters can be a serious indication of continued bleeding after a retinal tear. Check with your ophthalmologist to see if physical activity, particularly weightlifting, could be contributing to your problem.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is it safe to use nicotine gum to stop smoking? Could long-term use be detrimental?

DEAR READER — Nicotine gum is often a useful way for smokers to satisfy their nicotine habit while they are in the process of stopping smoking. To my knowledge, short-term use of this gum is not harmful. I am not aware of any studies documenting a danger from chronic use of nicotine gum; however, I advise patients to limit their use of the gum to a few days. I believe that continued use of nicotine gum is unwise, because the long-term consequences of it haven't been studied.

DEAR DR. GOTT — About twice a year my navel gets red, sore and has a discharge. I keep it clean. What is the cause?

DEAR READER — The probable cause of your repeated navel dermatitis is yeast infection. This can be documented if your doctor obtains a scraping and culture of the area when it is inflamed. Periodic use of anti-yeast cream may alleviate your symptoms.

Energy woes hurting banks

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. predicts a record number of bank failures this year, largely because of economic pains in the Southwest. Most will be small banks, but some major energy belt financial institutions are restructuring. This story is another in a continuing series examining how the oil slide has touched lives and fortunes.

By Scott McCartney
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Instead of lollipops and toasters, First City Bancorp. of Texas decided it had to offer some unusual gifts to entice wealthy depositors, gifts like Arabian colts, Porsche automobiles and single-engine Cessna aircraft.

Bankers don't normally offer such toys of the rich, but then these are not normal times for oil patch bankers, who have seen losses mount as the oil and real estate depression ripples through the local economies and rocks the foundations of financial institutions.

Already a slew of small banks have failed, including five Louisiana thrifts that were closed in a single Friday. On July 14, First National Bank & Trust of Oklahoma City, one of that state's oldest and largest financial institutions, was closed — the second largest U.S. bank failure ever.

Some other big ones are clearly struggling under pressure from regulators and creditors.

First City, one of Texas' largest bank holding companies, lost $232.4 million in the first quarter this year because it set aside $275 million to cover potential loan losses. The $232.4 million shortfall was nearly double the amount First City earned in 1984 and 1985.

And while bank officials say the cash — about $280 million — raised by last fall's elaborate gift offering wasn't vital, it did help.

"It was a very nice addition to the deposit base," said First City spokesman John Jamison, adding, "It was clearly not a desperation move." To receive a horse, Porsche or plane, a depositor had to put $1 million in First City.

Of the 10 largest banks in Texas and Oklahoma, six posted losses in the first quarter and four saw their earnings drop between 30 percent and 86 percent. And results for the second quarter, which ended June 30, have been just as bleak.

InterFirst Corp. of Dallas, the state's third-largest, suffered a giant $281.1 million loss in the second quarter because of fears that a big chunk of energy and real estate loans won't ever be repaid.

Besides InterFirst's loss in the second quarter, five of the top seven Texas banking firms reported that their earnings plummeted, between 40 percent and 94 percent, over the same period of 1985.

First City reported a 3 percent earnings gain in the second quarter, but analysts questioned how it was accomplished. The company charged off $126.6 million in bad loans, but dipped into its reserves for $107.9 million of that so that it could report a profit for the quarter of $15.1 million.

"They have substantially reduced their cushion," said Sandra J. Flannigan, an analyst with Paine Webber Inc. in Houston.

And the woes haven't been confined to Texas and Oklahoma. A second quarter loss of $640 million by San Francisco-based BankAmerica, the nation's second largest bank holding company, was blamed in part on the oil depression.

When oil was selling for $30 a barrel, most banks made loans only to customers who could make payments even if oil dropped to $20 or $25. The price was not expected to go below that. But now, with the price around $12, energy patch institutions have been forced to boost their loan loss reserves, recognizing that many customers won't be able to make payments.

That has resulted in the river of red ink.

MCorp of Dallas posted a $119.9 million loss for the first three months of the year, and a 40 percent drop in second-quarter results. BancOklahoma Corp. of Tulsa, Oklahoma's second-largest banking firm, lost $44.1 million in the first quarter and $50.3 million in the second. Texas American Bank of Fort Worth has lost more than $21 million for the first six months this year. And Banks of MidAmerica, Oklahoma's largest bank company, lost $34.8 million in six months.

At Texas Commerce Bank in Houston, first-quarter profits of $20.6 million were 30 percent lower than last year, and second-quarter profits of $10.5 million were 66 percent lower.

The same was true at other well-established holding companies. RepublicBank Corp. in Dallas, Texas' largest banking firm, saw first-quarter earnings fall 34 percent, second-quarter 84 percent. Houston-based Allied Bancshares' earnings were off nearly 54 percent for the first quarter, 64 percent for the second.

The banks' problems not only stem from loans made to energy businesses, but also to real estate projects, retail operations and scores of other businesses.

Automatic spending cuts may be restored

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is trying to bring new discipline to Congress' lagging deficit-cutting program by restoring automatic spending cuts to the Gramm-Rudman law.

The Senate voted 63-36 Wednesday to revive the cuts by changing the mechanism that the Supreme Court struck down this month.

The court said the original scheme violated the Constitution's separation-of-powers doctrine because the comptroller general — an officer of Congress — would have ordered the executive branch's spending cuts.

Gramm-Rudman requires Congress and the president to keep next year's deficit below $144 billion. But few steps toward the goal have been taken — in part, lawmakers say, because the Supreme Court removed the threat of the across-the-board cuts.

The new plan gives the comptroller's job to the president's budget director with tight constraints on how he would carry it out. Congress would reserve for itself the right to dictate the economic estimates that would be the basis for the cuts.

Restoring automatic cuts would "commit ourselves once again to balance the budget, to make the hard choices," said Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas.

Preliminary economic projections for fiscal 1987 were included in the amendment, although Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., the budget committee chairman, said they would be updated before final passage by Congress.

Based on information provided by the Congressional Budget Office and the president's Office of Management and Budget, the legislation envisions 3.5 percent average growth for the economy for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, with continued low inflation and an average three-year Treasury bill rate of 6.2 percent.

The OMB and CBO plan to release their updated economic forecasts in the next two weeks, and then on Aug. 20 will release their formal deficit projections under Gramm-Rudman. The comptroller general would still review those reports, but hand over to OMB the final certification of the required spending cuts.

Gramm-Rudman requires that the cuts be ordered if the final report projects a deficit exceeding the target by more than $10 billion.

'Tax reform' may mean tax increase for one in four

WASHINGTON (AP) — For more than 24 million couples and individuals — about one of every four who file returns — "tax reform" will mean a tax increase next year.

That's the latest estimate of the Joint Committee on Taxation, whose figures also show 70 million-plus taxpayers can expect to keep more money as a result of the tax-overhaul plan making its way through Congress. About 10 million would see no change.

The committee staff estimates that efforts to protect middle-income families from a temporary tax increase in 1987 would penalize more than 2 million taxpayers with incomes under $30,000 a year.

The new figures are based on an analysis of the sweeping tax-overhaul plan passed by the Senate. Congressional negotiators are using the Senate bill as a model as they try to write a compromise between it and the version passed by the House.

Either bill would repeal or reduce several deductions and slash tax rates significantly. But the rate cuts would come six months after the deductions were taken away. So, taxpayers would lose their deductions for all of 1987 but would pay current tax rates for half the year and the new, lower rates for the last six months.

That would mean a temporary tax increase even for those who, under the bill, would get a tax cut starting in 1988.

Most of the impact of delaying the rate cut to July 1 would fall on couples and individuals with incomes between $30,000 and $50,000 — taxpayers who vote in large numbers and, therefore, are a special concern of members of Congress.

A solution being considered by negotiators would advance the rate cut to Jan. 1. That would reduce from 11.8 million to 8.2 million the number of tax returns in the $30,000-to-$75,000 class facing a tax increase.

But it would raise from 12.4 million to 14.6 million the number of couples and individuals with income under $30,000 whose taxes would go up. The chief reason is that while the present 50 percent maximum tax rate would be slashed to 27 percent for most upper-income people and 32.4 percent for others, the present minimum rate of 11 percent would rise to 15 percent.

Regardless of when the rate reductions take effect, the analysis shows, the new tax system would mean a tax increase in 1987 for about 25 million couples and individuals, compared with what they are paying this year.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Because of your indecisiveness, you may lack the drive that's necessary to accomplish meaningful goals today. Be single-minded.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your judgement on a serious matter may be blinded by the glare of unwarranted optimism today. Step back in the shade and re-evaluate things.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) At a social gathering today, a member of the opposite sex may flirt with you. Be careful not to read more into it than what's intended.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's a possibility today that you might put yourself in a position where you've promised the same thing to two different people. Be mindful of your commitments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your artistic taste might not be up to par today, so be careful what you decide to paint or redecorate. You could create a permanent eyesore.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It won't prove wise today to treat too lavishly certain people you are trying to win over. They might end up resenting being bought.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you have a matter that you would like to conclude, try to wrap it up today. Time isn't your ally, so don't leave it hanging.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you embellish your tales today in order to impress co-workers or subordinates, you're not apt to be believed. Keep your facts straight.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There could be a powerful streak of extravagance in you today that might cause you to waste your money. Get a grip on your purse.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's essential today that you be very explicit about your targets. If you lack method and purpose, you could muddle up things that now are running smoothly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There is a very thin line today between healthy optimism and purely wishful thinking. Be careful you don't step over it.

Plane bomber sentenced

AUSTIN (AP) — Albert Lee Thielman, portrayed by his lawyer as a cocaine victim, has been given a 40-year prison sentence for placing a bomb on a commercial flight that carried his wife and three children.

The San Marcos man pleaded guilty June 10 to two charges stemming from a blast that damaged an Oct. 30 American Airlines flight from Austin to Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport.

The bomb went off after the plane landed, and there were no injuries. The airplane suffered $1,200 in damages, U.S. District Judge James Nowlin said during the Wednesday sentencing.

Court records showed Thielman, who faced financial ruin as a result of gambling, drugs and an extra-marital affair, had purchased more than $2 million worth of insurance on his wife and three children.

An FBI agent's affidavit said the bomb had been placed in Mary Thielman's luggage by her husband.

Nowlin ordered two 20-year sentences, to be served consecutively, on each of the two charges — placing a destructive device on an aircraft and causing damage to an aircraft.

It was the maximum prison term allowed for the convictions.

Thielman, 34, had no comment when asked by Nowlin if he had anything to say. But defense lawyer Rip Collins told the judge, "I think Albert Thielman is one more testimonial to the tragic end result of drug abuse, specifically cocaine abuse."

Collins acknowledged that the crime was of a "heinous nature," but asked Nowlin to take the drug problem into account in assessing the sentence. After the sentencing, Collins said Thielman had expected to get the maximum sentence.

Assistant U.S. Attorney James DeAtley told Nowlin, "This was a cold, calculated plan to murder his wife and three minor children to receive life insurance benefits of $2.65 million.

"He was going to cause the murder of 147 innocent people on that airplane," DeAtley said.

Two Snyder teams fall in UGSA tourney play

MONAHANS -- Snyder's Division I and Division II All-Star teams lost their first games at the United Girls Softball Association Tournament here Wednesday evening.

Snyder's Division I club fell to Mt. Vernon 20-10. The score of Snyder's Division II club, which lost to Big Spring, was unavailable.

Both teams are scheduled to play three games today in the tournament, which features a round-robin format before the finals.

Division I was to play Monahans at 8 a.m. and Clyde at 12:30 p.m. The Snyder All-Stars finish up the day by playing Lovington, N.M. at 7 p.m.

Snyder's Division II club was to test Lovington, N.M. at 8 this morning and Breckenridge at 11. The girls play their final game today at 5:30 p.m. against Hawley.

The tournament continues its round-robin on Friday with the best two teams in each division advancing to Saturday's championship. The championship series will be best two-of-three.

Friday, Snyder's Division I team plays Sweetwater at 11 a.m. and Big Spring at 7 p.m.

The Division II squad plays Monahans at 8 a.m., Mt. Vernon at 11 a.m. and Lake View of San Angelo at 7 p.m.

Alpine blanks Snyder, 3-0 in Junior Teen Tournament

GAINESVILLE -- After playing rat-a-tat-tat for four straight games, the Buffs' bats suddenly went silent here Wednesday afternoon.

Credit the turnaround to Rene Rivera, whose one-hit, 10-strikeout pitching blanked the Buffs and led Alpine to a 3-0 victory in second-round action of the Junior Teenage League State Tournament.

Snyder will have to rally up through the loser's bracket to remain alive in the double-elimination tournament. The Buffs were to play hometown Gainesville at 10 this morning. The winner will advance to play again at 8 o'clock tonight.

In other games played Wednesday, Gainesville eliminated Athens 8-6, Hillsboro rapped Eastland 15-9 and Caldwell knocked off Port Lavaca. Eastland and Caldwell were to meet at 12:30 this afternoon with the winner advancing to tonight's 8 o'clock game.

The only two undefeated teams left, Alpine and Hillsboro, play at 5:30 p.m.

Alpine scored its first run in the second inning when Geromi Trudeau walked, went to third on a single and came in on a ground out. In the third inning, Abel Losoya doubled, took third on a ground out and scored on a fielder's choice. Alpine wrapped up the scoring in the sixth when Sammy Villareal reached on a error, stole second, and scored on a single from Trudeau.

Shane McCarter went the distance for Snyder and took the loss, despite never giving up more than one hit an inning. He dished out six altogether.

Willie Garcia got Snyder's only hit, a single in the first inning.

Snyder also put runners on the bases in the third, fifth, sixth and seventh innings. All were left stranded as Rivera ended each of those innings with a strikeout.

Snyder was without one of its top pitchers and key leaders, Joey Felan, who injured a leg while sliding into second base in Tuesday's game with Caldwell. Felan was doubtful for action today.

All-Star girls defeat Clyde; full schedule staged today

MONAHANS -- Snyder's Division IV All-Stars defeated Clyde 13-9 to win their opening game of the Class "A" United Girls Softball Association Tournament here Wednesday.

The All-Stars were scheduled back on the field at 8 this morning to play Big Spring. They were to play Brownwood at 12:30 p.m. and will take on Sweetwater at 7 p.m. as the four-day tournament continues.

Friday's schedule pits the All-Stars against Andrews at 11 a.m. and Mt. Vernon at 7 p.m.

The top two teams emerging from the round-robin format will advance to a best-of-three playoff series for the tournament championship.

Teri Sue Henry and Lisa Rosas combined to pitch a three-hitter against Clyde on Wednesday. Henry took the win and was relieved by Rosas in the third inning.

Shelly Hayes, Jill Roemisch and Teri Billington each slapped a double and a single for Snyder. Brenda Zajicek punched three singles and Rosas knocked a home run. Hitting a single each for the All-Stars were Henry and Nita Hernandez.

Renee Gambel rocked a home run for Clyde. Christy Hedden and April Dean added a double each. Jill Howle was the losing pitcher.

Rangers try to stay in hunt; nip Orioles 5-3 in 11 innings

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Tradition is that if the Texas Rangers haven't collapsed by the All-Star break, they waste no time in doing so after returning from the mid-season respite.

Don Slaught and Pete Incaviglia say it isn't going to be that way this year. Both went out of their way Wednesday night to prove it.

Slaught hit a two-run homer in the bottom of the 11th inning to give the Rangers a 5-3 win over the Baltimore Orioles. Incaviglia hit a three-run homer in the fifth to account for the Rangers' other runs.

The victory, the Rangers' fifth in seven games after starting the second stanza of the season with a seven-game losing streak that knocked them out of first place, kept Texas within three games of division-leading California in the American League West.

Slaught said the Rangers' back-to-back wins over the Orioles in extra innings would provide a boost as the team hits the road. The Rangers won 6-5 in 12 innings Tuesday night.

"This is the toughest part of the season - the middle of the season," Slaught said. "We've bounced back and we're on our way."

Slaught, whose 11th homer set a new club record for home runs in one year by a catcher, hit the game-winner came after Steve Buechele singled off Nate Snell, 2-1.

Jeff Russell, 2-1, the fourth Ranger pitcher, picked up the victory.

Incaviglia hit a three-run homer, his 17th, after Scott Fletcher was hit by a pitch and Pete O'Brien drew a walk from Mike Boddicker as Texas took a 3-0 lead in the fifth.

"This team is starting to gell," said Incaviglia. "Everybody's real tight. We're starting to feel like we can beat people."

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver, whose club remains 4½ games behind division-leading Boston in the AL East, gave Arlington Stadium, rather than the Incaviglia, credit for his homer.

"(Boddicker) only gave up one hit that inning and 16 feet shorter and he would have had a shutout," Weaver said. "If we would have been playing in Detroit, Baltimore or New York, he would have had a shutout. But in Texas it's a three-run homer.

"This loss just shows me that I am one or two players short," he said. "I make a couple of moves and I'm out of ammunition."

Texas starter Jose Guzman surrendered only two hits through six innings, but was chased in the seventh when Cal Ripken led off with his 16th homer and Jim Traber singled. Reliever Mitch Williams then hit pinch-hitter Tom Dodd and walked Rick Dempsey on four pitches to load the bases.

Williams then got Jackie Gutierrez to fly out to end the inning.

But Williams started the eighth by hitting hitters Juan Beniquez and Fred Lynn back to back. He then gave up an RBI double to John Shelby and a sacrifice fly to Traber to tie the score.

Whitson keys Padres

by The Associated Press

Ed Whitson heard something he hasn't heard for quite a while - a standing ovation. And Graig Nettles saw something he hasn't seen for quite a while - his batted ball going over the fence.

The two rare occurrences added up to a 9-3 victory for the San Diego Padres over the Cincinnati Reds Wednesday night.

"I've been a long time waiting for something like that," said Whitson after gaining his first victory since rejoining the Padres July 9 in a trade with the New York Yankees.

Nettles, meanwhile, broke out of a 2-for-18 slump with a pair of homers, his first since June 19.

In other National League action, it was Montreal 3, Pittsburgh 2; St. Louis 6, Philadelphia 3; Houston 4, Atlanta 2; Chicago 4, New York 3, and Los Angeles 4, San Francisco 2.

Padres 9, Reds 3

After hitting a three-run homer in the third, Nettles capped the Padres' scoring with a two-run shot in the eighth. The homers gave him 14 for the season and 382 for his career, tying him with Frank Howard for 24th on the all-time list.

Whitson, 1-2, allowed six hits, struck out three and walked five in 7 2-3 innings.

Whitson won 14 games with the 1984 National League Champion Padres, but was signed by the Yankees the following year as a free agent. He was a frequent target of booing Yankee fans during his two years in New York.

Expos 3, Pirates 2

Andre Dawson scored from third on a wild pitch for the Expos' second run in the seventh inning, carrying Montreal over Pittsburgh.

Jay Tibbs, 5-6, who hadn't won a game since June 10, claimed the victory.

Cardinals 6, Phillies 3

Curt Ford and Terry Pendleton each singled home a run in the fifth and reliever Todd Worrell earned his 21st save with a sparkling relief performance as St. Louis defeated Philadelphia.

Worrell worked out of a tough situation in the seventh, getting Mike Schmidt and Von Hayes with the bases loaded, to preserve Bob Forsch's 10th win in 16 decisions. Forsch pitched six innings, giving up nine hits.

Astros 4, Braves 2

Rookie left-hander Jim Deshaies held Atlanta to four hits in 8 2-3 innings and Glenn Davis hit a solo homer, leading Houston over the Braves.

Dodgers 4, Giants 2

Bob Welch and Tom Niedenfuer combined on a six-hitter and Mike Scioscia's squeeze bunt capped a three-run first inning as Los Angeles defeated San Francisco, completing a three-game sweep of the slumping Giants.

Welch, 5-9, retired 18 of the first 19 batters and allowed four hits over seven innings while striking out eight. Niedenfuer pitched the final two innings for his sixth save.

Davis' 23rd homer tied him with Cincinnati's Dave Parker for the National League lead.

Cubs 4, Mets 3

Ron Cey drove in three runs with a bases-loaded double in the first and Dennis Eckersley and two relievers combined on a seven-hitter as Chicago defeated New York in a rain-delayed game.

Sid Fernandez, 12-4, suffered his second straight defeat after seven wins in a row, despite striking out a season-high 11.

Olympic Festival roundup

HOUSTON (AP) - They're not exactly household names in Houston, or in their own sport. They are, however, the cream of this nation's amateur hockey players and they are at the U.S. Olympic Festival because it's the place to be on the road to Calgary.

Players such as Mike Wolak, Clark Donatelli and Mike Kelfer are considered likely 1988 Olympians, when the United States teams hopes to stage a repeat of the Miracle of Lake Placid. The Festival is a major step along that path.

On Wednesday, the hockey competition began at the most successful Festival ever. The South, despite having three players out of the lineup, edged the West 4-3 and the North staged a stunning rally from a 5-1 deficit to tie the East 5-5.

U.S. Olympic Committee officials said a record 251,196 tickets were sold through Monday. Revenues from ticket sales have reached $2 million, easily passing the $1.3 million high set in Indianapolis in 1982. The $2 million figure doesn't include most of the revenue from Monday and Tuesday's events.

With gymnastics, track and field and the basketball championship round still to come, organizers are confident of reaching their break-even mark of 350,000 tickets sold.

At Sam Houston Coliseum, the hockey began with Kelfer of the North scoring only 13 seconds from the final buzzer to produce the 5-5 tie. The Boston University center climaxed a furious rally with his second goal of the game on a 30-foot slapshot after goalie Rich Burchill of New Hampshire was removed for an extra skater.

In the nightcap, Harvard teammates Lance McDonald and Jerry Pawloski scored the first two goals to put the South ahead to stay, despite a decimated lineup, caused by injuries and the death of a player's girlfriend.

The South routed the North 9-0 for the baseball gold as Mark Smith of Houston and Clay Howell of Austin, Texas, combined on a two-hitter. Donald Loupe of Morgan City, La., knocked in three runs with two hits.

The national champion Hi-Ho Brakettes, representing the East, won the women's softball title with a 1-0, nine-inning victory over the West on a night when the South's Michele Granger threw a no-hitter in the bronze medal game.

Liz O'Connor's infield single scored Dot Richardson, who had singled to left, stolen second and moved to third on a wild pitch by Lori Stoll. The East finished 6-1 in the tournament and got a three-hit pitching performance from Kathy Arendsen, who struck out 11 to up her seasonal record to 16-0.

The men's gold medal went to the North 3-2 when Steve Newell's bases-loaded single capped a three-run seventh inning against the South.

Earlier, Granger, of Placentia, Calif., pitched the second no-hitter of the Festival and struck out 12 to lead the South to the bronze medal with a 2-0 win over the North. Granger, 16, who helped the United States to the world championship in January, joined Mary Lou Ramm of the West as the only no-hit pitchers here. Granger walked two in upping her Festival record to 3-1. She struck out 56 batters, five short of the Festival record, and allowed only 10 hits.

Favorites Greg Louganis and Michele Mitchell grabbed the leads after the preliminaries in 3-meter springboard diving.

Louganis received two perfect 10s and had 724.53 points to 697.32 for Mark Bradshaw of Springfield, Ore..

Mitchell, of Scottsdale, Ariz., owned a narrow lead over Wendy Lucero of Aurora, Colo., despite a ninth dive she called "stupid." The 1984 Olympic silver medalist on the platform and defending champion in springboard and platform had 512.49 points to 512.40 for Lucero.

The top two finishers in the diving at The Woodlands qualify for the U.S. team for next month's World Championships in Madrid.

USFL plans various courses of appeal

NEW YORK (AP) - The USFL, which had hoped for, and expected, a financial bonanza from a jury, is trying to get quick relief from the courts rather than depend on the long and tedious appeal process.

"Obviously, time is not one of our great luxuries," Harvey Meyerson, the league's lead attorney, said Wednesday, outlining four possible legal courses the USFL will follow in its appeal of the jury's decision to award $1 - trebled to $3 - rather than the $1.69 billion the league had sought in its antitrust suit against the NFL.

Myerson and USFL Commissioner Harry Usher assailed what they saw as the contradiction between the finding of the six jurors, who ruled that the NFL monopolized pro football in violation of antitrust laws, and the award of just that single dollar, although Judge Peter K. Leisure's 155-page charge specifically told the jurors they could do just that.

Myerson said his alternatives included:

- A request for a new trial solely on the damages issue, probably with a new jury. He said that is the avenue he personally favors based on the allegations by Miriam Sanchez, a juror who said outside the courtroom that she favored substantial damages but agreed on the nominal dollar assuming that Leisure could award more.

- A request for a new trial on all issues.

- A request that Leisure throw out the jury's finding on damages and make his own determination, called a "judgment in lieu of verdict."

- A direct plea to the Second Circuit Court of Appeals, the next highest court.

Myerson also said he would seek an injunction from Leisure although he hadn't decided on its form. The jurors, who found the NFL in violation on only one of nine counts, found no liability on the charge of monopolizing television, making it unlikely that Leisure would grant any USFL demand to remove the older league from one of the three television networks.

Still, the USFL felt that more damages should have been awarded on the one count.

"The jury found that the NFL violated the antitrust laws and injured us," said Usher, who made the rounds of the morning television shows to plead his league's case. "That's what the jury found unanimously. For the NFL to crow after being found guilty of violating the law and then go out and crow about having won - God help this country."

USFL owners will meet Monday in New York to decide on the league's future. Opinion on that subject seemed to be mixed. Training camps are due to open Aug. 14 for the league's first fall season, schedule to begin a month later.

"As of right now we're going ahead with plans to start practice," said Bugsy Engelberg, general manager of the Orlando Renegades. "We're kind of on hold, but we haven't changed any plans as yet."

However, Steven Ross, owner of the Baltimore Stars, said: "Certainly without a TV contract, there's no chance of survival."

Cowboys, Bears 'spy' on each other; workouts said to be going well now

LONDON (AP) - The Super Bowl champion Chicago Bears and the Dallas Cowboys openly spied on each other as they began serious preparations Wednesday for their exhibition game Sunday in the "American Bowl" at Wembley stadium.

Both NFL teams arrived within five minutes of each other at the National Sports Centre, south of the British capital, and the Bears were assigned a field hockey pitch at the back of the indoor complex while the Cowboys used the infield at the running track.

They were within 150 yards of each other, and the temptation to see what the other was doing during the two-hour workouts was too much to resist.

A Bears' coach wandered to the Cowboys area for a peek, and it wasn't too long before a Cowboys' aide strolled over to see what was happening on the field hockey pitch.

For the Bears, everything appears to be going well. "Everything is fine," said head Coach Mike Ditka. "I think the guys are enjoying it, I don't see too much of that jet-lag that everybody is talking about. I think they are doing OK."

"We've had two good practices - today was fine. We got a lot done, that's important, just to keep getting things done, to keep improving."

Ditka was philosophical about his team having to uproot their camp from Wisconsin and travel to London for a week.

"We're here now. We just have to make the adjustment now and that hasn't proved a problem. We are going to make the adjustment and I think we've done as good as you can expect at this point," said Ditka, who is on his first trip to England.

He said he has enjoyed what he has seen - and who he has met - so far. "I've enjoyed meeting the people. I didn't know what to expect. But the people have been very friendly,' said the Bears' coach.

"What I like too is the fact that they are very interested in football. They might not know a lot about it but they want to learn. That makes it exciting."

Cowboys' Coach Tom Landry spent most of the time during his team's workout Wednesday standing at the center of the field, watching the defense work at one end and the offense at the other.

Football tilt slated for kickoff tonight

HOUSTON (AP) - South Coach Lynn Etheredge of Tomball has the weapons to make tonight's Texas High School Coaches Association All-Star football game a high-scoring game.

But those weapons could misfire from lack of enough preparation time.

"I can see now why these games have been low scoring," Etheredge said. "It's so hard to get an offense in in four days. The defenses are always superior to the offenses early in the season and that is accentuated for this game."

Etheredge would like to entertain the crowd with a pass-catch display from quarterback Lance Pavlas of Tomball and reciever Percy Waddle of Columbus, both headed for Texas A&M this fall.

"We hope to get the ball to Percy deep," Etheredge said. "But he's a threat no matter what the range of pass. That speed is hard to beat. We can make it fun if he can catch a few passes."

Waddle, 6-2, 175, of Columbus is a two-time Class 3A 400 meters champion and ran a leg on a junior world record 1600-meter relay team.

Pavlas led Etheredge's Tomball team to the state Class 4A title game the past two years, making Etheredge's job easier for the All-Star game.

"It means that I don't have to coach the most important position on the team, it saves a lot of time," Etheredge said.

High-scoring games are rare in the annual all-star clash, however. The North won last year's game in Dallas 14-7 to increase its lead to 28-19-4 in the series. The South won the 1984 game in Houston 27-7 but the last rout was a 65-0 South victory in 1971.

North Coach Marty Criswell of Denison will start Mineral Wells quarterback Sean Fisher, who passed for 4,600 yards in his schoolboy career.

South looks inside to win game, 74-71

HOUSTON (AP) - Coach Roy Garcia of Mission says his South team's 74-71 victory over the North in the Texas High School Coaches Association All-Star basketball game was an inside job.

"Our inside play was the difference in the game," said Garcia. "When their big men went out with fouls, ours took over the game."

Roderick Brown helped the South's cause until he fouled out late in the game, and Calvin Tillis was impressive enough to earn most valuable player honors for the Rebels.

North Coach George Byerly said his team suffered when Steve Miles of Dallas Samuell fouled out in the game in the crucial fourth quarter.

"It hurt us when our guys had to leave the game," Byerly said. "It forced us to move players around and do things that we hadn't covered in practice."

The South led by 10 points late in the third quarter, but the North rallied to take a 62-59 lead in the closing minutes.

But the South finally extended its series lead to 22-20 when Mike Howse of Corpus Christi Miller hit a layup with 42 seconds to play and Michael Hobbs of Clear Lake, a last-minute addition to the South squad, hit two free throws in the final 14 seconds to secure the victory.

Jerry Mason of Lamesa, who scored 17 points, was named the most valuable player for the North squad and Calvin Tillis of Grapeland earned the honor for the South.

After losing the lead, the South regained the advantage for good with 1:21 to play on a basket by Brown, representing Alief Hastings.

The South took a 36-29 halftime lead and built a 10-point margin at 54-44 with 2:50 to go in the third quarter.

The South rallied from a 62-59 deficit with 7:14 to play and regained the lead on a basket by Robert Barley of Brookshire Royal and five straight free throws.

The North played the game without Roderick Hampson of Dallas Kimball and Billy Ray Smith of South Garland, who were dismissed from the team for disciplinary reasons.

Healthy baby born to mother in coma

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — A brain-dead woman kept on life-support systems for 7½ weeks until her pregnancy neared term was disconnected and died shortly after giving birth, hospital officials said.

The baby, named Michele Odette Poole, was delivered Wednesday by Caesarean section at Kaiser Permanente Hospital here and was "raring to go," hospital officials said.

The baby's father, Derrick Poole, fiance of 34-year-old Marie Odette Henderson, fought a legal battle with Ms. Henderson's parents, Edna and Otis Henderson of Detroit, who wanted to disconnect their daughter's life-support systems.

Poole, 31, obtained a court order to keep the life-support system connected, eventually reaching an agreement with her parents to keep her alive until the baby was born. He also was granted custody.

Ms. Henderson was six months pregnant when she collapsed June 4 because of a stroke caused by a golf ball-size brain tumor. She was declared legally dead three days later.

Dr. Stephen Fernbach, director of the neonatal intensive care unit at Kaiser, said the child is doing well and probably will be ready to leave the hospital in seven to 10 days.

"She was more mature and more vigorous than I expected. She's a real pretty baby," said Fernbach. "She was more active than many normal deliveries. She was raring to go."

After the baby's birth, and the death of Ms. Henderson, Poole said Wednesday, "Knowing Odette, and how bad she wanted to have this baby, maybe it was God's will that today was the time for her — the time to take the baby."

Michele was delivered by Dr. Donald Dyson, chief of perinatology at Kaiser Permanente Hospital. She weighed 4 pounds, 5 ounces and was 16½ inches long.

Dyson said only 5 percent of all brain-dead people survive more than two weeks on life support, adding that he had read about only five cases of babies being delivered to brain-dead mothers.

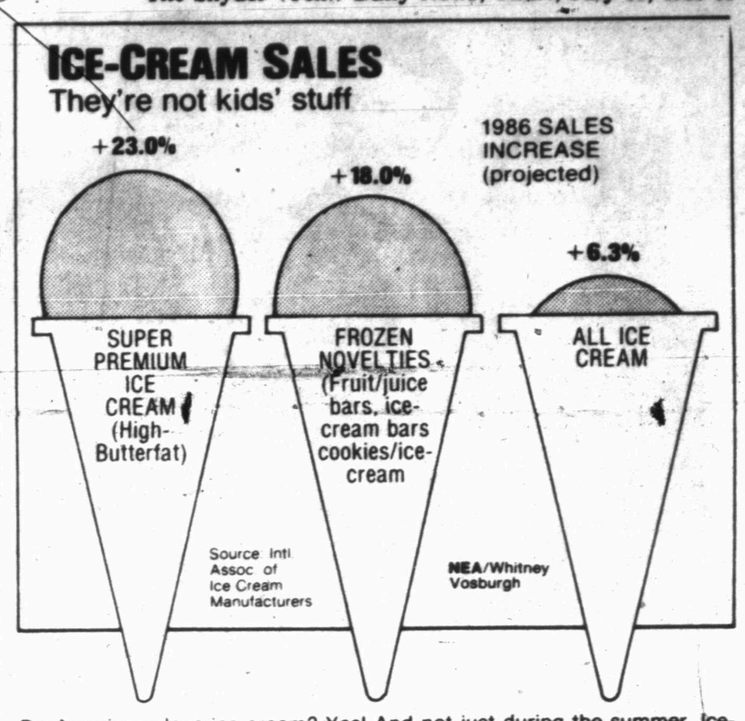
"I'm very happy about the outcome for Michele, but I'm still grieving a little bit (for Ms. Henderson)," Poole said later at a news conference. "Michele's birth today makes things a little easier."

Poole said his daughter had a full head of hair and was wearing a pink T-shirt that said, "I was born at Kaiser, Santa Clara."

"When I looked into her eyes, I could see the extension from Odette into her. Michele looked like a carbon copy of Odette," Poole said.

Poole said he hoped his fight would inspire other fathers faced with the same difficult decision.

"If I can go to my grave saying I have Michele here on earth and I can reach out and touch somebody by doing all this, then my job was served well here," Poole said.



Do Americans love ice cream? Yes! And not just during the summer. Ice-cream sales this year are expected to total about $8.5 billion. Increasingly popular with adults, premium ice-creams and frozen novelties are booming.

Commission says Marcos orchestrated 26 acquittals

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A special commission today said ousted President Ferdinand E. Marcos orchestrated last year's acquittal of 26 men charged in the assassination of his rival, Benigno Aquino.

The panel of three retired jurists recommended that the trial be reopened, saying it was "abundantly clear" Marcos not only told prosecutors and judges how to conduct the trial, but also made sure his orders were obeyed.

In its report to the Supreme Court, the commission accused the prosecution of suppressing evidence and said "witnesses were harassed, cajoled, perjured or threatened" to ensure the acquittal of former armed forces chief Gen. Fabian C. Ver, 24 other soldiers and a civilian.

The commission said the December trial was "stage-managed from Malacanang (presidential palace) and performed by willing dramatis personae as well as by recalcitrant ones whipped into line by the omnipresent influence of an authoritarian ruler."

The commission, appointed by the Supreme Court, asked the high court to declare a mistrial. The Supreme Court ordered defense lawyers to voice any objections to the panel's findings within 10 days.

Aquino, an opposition leader during Marcos' 20-year rule, was gunned down at Manila's airport on Aug. 21, 1983, the day he returned to the Philippines after three years of voluntary exile in the United States.

The commission cited the stationing in the courtroom of soldiers disguised as court sheriffs, and a television camera bearing a presidential seal that was installed inside the courtroom and which monitored every minute of the proceedings.

The commission castigated the prosecution for not presenting as evidence sworn statements by six Philippine-based U.S. Air Force men on how the Philippine air force scrambled jet fighters as the plane bearing Aquino approached the Philippines.

Bullocks reaffirms budget estimate

AUSTIN (AP) — Although some officials reportedly question it, the $3.5 billion state budget deficit estimate stands, says Comptroller Bob Bullock.

"If anyone in state government wants to question the estimate, then they ought to call them a committee and get with it," Bullock said.

Bullock extended the challenge to "any members of the press or former members of my office," saying his record for accuracy over the past 10 years is unquestioned.

Bullock's comments followed news reports Wednesday that said some comptroller's office staff members and others had differing opinions on the size of the deficit, which has sparked a special legislative session beginning Aug. 6.

The state's slumping economy and the oil price drop have caused government revenues to fall well short of the $37.1 billion budgeted by the Legislature for the 1986 and 1987 fiscal years.

Obituaries

Alvis Sturdivant

Services for Alvis E. "Bula" Sturdivant, 72, of Snyder will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at Bell-Cypert-Seale Chapel with the Rev. Sam Parker officiating. Burial will follow in Hillside Memorial Gardens.

He died at 8:05 a.m. Thursday at Hendrix Medical Center in Abilene. He was born June 29, 1914 in Borden County and had lived in Scurry County for 52 years.

He was a 32nd degree Mason, a Shriner, a World War II veteran having served in the Army-Air Force, and an employee of Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Co. for 35 years.

He married Melva Jean Voss June 27, 1937 in Scurry County. She survives.

He is survived by five brothers, Alton of Clyde, John of Missouri, Harold of California, Ira and Lonny, both of New Mexico; two sisters, Della Beach of Odessa and Frances Cox of Kirtland, N. M.; and numerous nieces and nephews.

Parking lot wreck occurs

A single minor traffic accident was reported in Snyder Wednesday.

Involved in the 4:53 p.m. mishap on the parking lot of Furr's Supermarket was a 1980 Oldsmobile driven by Catalina Tavarez Orosco of 1511 College Ave. It struck a parked 1982 Chevrolet owned by Roger Gail Cloe of 2800 Ave. Q.

8 arrested here

Police logged eight misdemeanor arrests Wednesday.

One man was jailed for driving while intoxicated and two for being intoxicated on a premises licensed to sell alcohol.

One man was arrested for public intoxication and one other for disorderly conduct.

Traffic violations acounted for three arrests with one subject jailed for driving on a suspended license and two "instantered" for having no driver's licenses or liability insurance.

ACU student slates recital

ABILENE–Steven Fisher, a senior music major at Abilene Christian University, will present his senior vocal recital Saturday.

Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Fisher of Snyder, will perform at 2 p.m. in the Roxie Neal Recital Hall at ACU.

The program will include art songs by Donaudy, Mozart and Schubert, as well as selections by Faure and Debussy. A group of three songs from the song cycle titled "Biblical Songs" by Dvork also will be performed.

The recital is free and open to the public. A reception is planned afterwards.

prior upland cotton in "free stocks."

These payments can be make effective 12:01 a.m. Aug. 1.

But the requirement that cotton under price support loan or owned by CCC is not eligible will likely exclude most if not all Scurry County farmers, he said.

Payments that might be made could go as high as $150 a bale, Hefner said.

"The only farmers who might be eligible here are someone who didn't put last year's cotton in the loan program and who still own it themselves."

Farmers facing economic ruin

By The Associated Press

Southern farmers face economic ruin from the region's record drought, which could hurt industry and governmental budgets if it continues, experts warn.

Hay shipments to feed starving livestock were continuing today from around the nation, including tons from the 700-acre farm of Jimmy Cagney's widow.

The drought, which extends from southern Pennsylvania to northern Florida, has cost farmers more than $2.3 billion, and an accompanying heat wave this month has contributed to 62 deaths in the South and Midwest.

"Basically, I don't know of any commodity in agriculture, whether it be honeybees or catfish, that is exempt from the drought situation," said Bob Nash, president of the 162,000-member Georgia Farm Bureau.

Maryland officials said Wednesday that 10 percent of the state's 18,000 farmers face ruin with no crops to pay off debts.

There "just isn't any hope for a lot of farmers," said Wayne A. Cawley Jr., Maryland's secretary of agriculture. "I advise them to quit while they're ahead."

Weather forecasters say no long-term relief is in sight from the drought, and that the heat wave from the Southern Plains to the Southeast should continue for days.

Record highs were reached Wednesday in more than 20 cities, including Mobile, Ala., where the 99-degree reading broke a 103-year-old record by one degree, and Tulsa, Okla., where the high soared to 110.

Houston's 101 degrees made Wednesday the fourth straight day of record heat, and the 107-degree reading in Springfield, Mo., broke the daily record for the fifth time in six days.

The heat sent scores of people in Dallas, New Orleans and Baton Rouge, La., to seek treatment Wednesday, and hospital officials said many victims were elderly or poor.

"The sad part is we've seen a lot of old people who are scared to go outside," said Dr. Jim Hogan in the emergency room at New Orleans' Charity Hospital, where more than a dozen heat victims were treated. "Instead, they'll stay in and close their windows, shut their doors and just sit without any air conditioning."

Agencies in Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Tennessee have offered help with fans or air-conditioned shelters.

Help for farmers in the drought belt also was on the way.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture declared 39 South Carolina counties as disaster areas, clearing the way for low-interest loans.

In Washington, the House Agriculture Committee on Wednesday approved a bill that would send free grain to the hardest-hit parts, liberalize disaster payments to farmers and get the government to pick up half the cost for buying feed for qualifying livestock producers.

"This is everything we can do short of making it rain, which only the good Lord can do," said Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Texas, committee chairman.

But Rep. Charles Hatcher and others said low-interest loans would be of little use to many farmers. "My farmers probably wouldn't even apply for new loans, because they can't even service the loans they already have," the Georgia Democrat said.

Crews in Kentucky have loaded more than 2,600 tons of hay onto a train that will start rolling to North Carolina on Saturday.

Cagney's widow, Frances, donated 1,000 bales of hay from her New York farm on Wednesday for farmers in Tennessee and Georgia. "This is something Jimmy would have wanted to do," she said. "Cattle are dying everywhere in the South."

Trial concludes

The divorce trial of Darryl and Tracy Boone which began Monday in 132nd District Court concluded just before 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Jurors were given the case to deliberate around 4:15 p.m. and eventually granted custody of both children of the marriage to the father.

Local photographer wins top recognition recently

During the week of July 12-16 local photographer, Harley Bynum, attended the International Convention of the Professional Photographers of America held in Anaheim, Calif.

Bynum was recognized at the awards banquet when he received the Degree of Photographic Craftsman. The degree is conferred by the Professional Photographers of America in recognition of achieving the highest standards of professional performance in the photographic profession.

Bynum had two photographs chosen as national award winning prints and were selected for display at the 95th International Exposition of Professional Photography. There were more than 6,000 entries submitted to the PPA for critique by qualified professional juries. The winning photographic works constitute the largest exhibit of its kind in the world, gathered at one time under one roof.

One of Bynum's photographs was chosen to be permanently retained by the PPA for the Traveling Loan Collection and will be on exhibit at all PPA exhibits across the nation from now on.

Lutheran minister charged with murdering his wife

MONAHANS, Texas (AP) — A newly ordained Lutheran minister who told police his wife committed suicide less than two weeks after the family moved to Texas has been charged with first-degree murder in the case, authorities said.

Rev. Joseph Loduca Jr., 31, was denied bond after his arraignment Wednesday before Ward County Peace Justice L.A. Wester.

Loduca was accused of murder in the asphyxiation death of his wife, Mary Loduca, 32, whose body was found in her bedroom in the West Texas town of Monahans on July 12.

The Loducas and their three children had moved to Monahans on July 1 from St. Louis, where he had been ordained as a minister in May after attending Concordia Seminary. Loduca had been installed as pastor of the St. Paul Lutheran Church of Monahans.

Mrs. Loduca's body was found with a plastic trash bag pulled tightly over her head, authorities said. No suicide note was found.

Monahans Police Chief David Mills said he arrested Loduca Tuesday night on a warrant issued by Peace Justice Sue Mullins. Mills said the arrest followed a 2½-week investigation prompted by what he called inconsistencies and discrepancies in a statement by Loduca.

"He said he returned home about 3:30 p.m. July 12 and found his wife in bed with a plastic trash bag over her head," Mills said. An autopsy by the Southwestern Institute of Forensic Sciences in Dallas determined Mrs. Loduca died of asphyxia, Mills said.

"The suspect made a detailed statement Tuesday afternoon," Mills said. He declined to elaborate on the statements.

Authorities told the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that one of Loduca's children said he had heard his mother screaming the day of her death. Police said the child's statement led to the charge against Loduca, the Post-Dispatch reported.

Capt. James Humphreys of the Clayton Police Department in suburban St. Louis, where the Loducas lived before moving, said Loduca had a good reputation among church officials, but that he changed when he was alone with his family.

"He was a dictator and a disciplinarian," Humphreys said.

Illegal aliens have many ways to sneak into U. S.

IMPERIAL BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Many illegal aliens sneak into the United States on foot. Others come by limousine.

The U.S. Border Patrol says smuggling aliens has become a lucrative business. Entrepreneurs use sports cars and Cadillacs with secret compartments, and trucks laden with caskets.

So far this year, 1,912 vehicles used to smuggle aliens into the country have been seized in the San Diego area, compared with 1,503 confiscated in all of 1985.

"This is never going to be as profitable as narcotics, just simply due to the volume, but it's a lot safer than narcotics," said Brian McClatchie, a Border Patrol agent responsible for keeping track of hundreds of cases a month in which smugglers' vehicles are seized.

A recent case involved a 1985 Lincoln stretch limousine, luxuriously transporting nine undocumented aliens.

"This is probably the height of sublime in smuggling," McClatchie said. "We've just never seen anything like this before. They were just watching TV and enjoying themselves in the back seat drinking cold soda pops.

"The smuggler had a little more class than most, I guess you could say."

The aliens were charged $350 to $450 each for the ride across the border, McClatchie said, adding that the limo was confiscated and converted for use by the Secret Service.

In another case, operators of a casket manufacturing company used their truck to ferry undocumented aliens.

"They were not in the caskets. They were in between and on top of them and covered with blankets," McClatchie said. "It was probably one of the more unusual cases we've encountered."

The casket truck, which sits at the Border Patrol's impound lot on a Navy base in this southern San Diego County city, will be destroyed unless a federal agency claims it, officials said.

Almost any vehicle can be used for smuggling. Secret compartments built into cars and trucks hold from one to a dozen people.

On a tour of the lot, McClatchie pointed out some vehicles so cleverly altered that even a trained eye would have trouble locating the compartment.

Theraputic foster care...

SCOOP joins pilot program

SCOOP's Friendship Home was granted a provisional theraputic license, effective May 17, according to director Olivia Rogers.

The theraputic foster home concept is a pilot project launched by the Texas Department of Human Resources in January, 1986. The experimental project is specifically designed to help children who are victims of abuse. It includes specialized training for houseparents, increased state support, and a team of professionals, social workers, psychiatrists and therapists who provide specialized care to the children, and who closely monitor each child's progress.

Department of Human Service staff members were interested in SCOOP's participation in the pilot program because of SCOOP's effective program and since Friendship Home is the only independent foster home in this area to be funded through community support.

SCOOP will continue to take children who are victims of abuse and/or neglect and who have been removed from their families by the courts for their safety and are now in the custody of the state.

Currently, there are three girls living at Friendship Home. Two are from local counties. SCOOP welcomes volunteers to work with the girls. If interested, call the office at 573-5323, Tuesday through Thursday. Office hours are 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

SCOOP seeks donations for annual garage sale

SCOOP will hold its annual garage sale at the fire station on El Paso Street from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on August 16 and 17.

All donations of household items will be appreciated. SCOOP officials say, "Remember one person's 'junk' is another person's treasure."

SCOOP office hours are from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Solons may consider discipline bill

AUSTIN (AP) — The chairman of the House Education Committee says Gov. Mark White indicates he may allow the upcoming special legislative session to consider a bill to toughen school discipline.

"I want to open the call to the discipline bill that we passed last year in the House. He was receptive to it," Rep. Bill Haley, D-Center, after a 20-minute meeting with White on Wednesday.

White has summoned lawmakers to Austin on Aug. 6 for a 30-day session to balance the state budget, which faces a $3.5 billion deficit.

Retirees' benefits restored

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal bankruptcy judge restored health and life insurance benefits to 66,000 retirees whose payments were cut off when LTV Corp. filed for protection under federal bankruptcy law.

Bankruptcy Court Judge Burton R. Lifland said Wednesday that LTV could spend $70 million over the next six months to cover all its company-paid benefits, including Blue Cross-Blue Shield, said LTV Senior Vice President Julian Scheer.

As part of the ruling, the United Steelworkers of America agreed to halt a strike called Saturday over the issue at the company's steel plant in East Chicago, Ind., said Scheer.

LTV applied to the court seeking approval for the payments.
